The Byrhodes reunion was held at Fort Wayne Sunday and Roy and George Kinsey with their families were there from St. Joe.

Mr. George Koch of Walkerville, Mich., is here to attend the Koch reunion and visit his brother, Martin, a few days. Mr. Koch reports a severe drought in Michigan. He makes The News a visit each time he comes to Indiana, and we are always glad to see our readers from a distance.

Carl, M. Hart, 58, Hicksville, Ohio, Democratic leader, banker and merchant died at Hicksville hospital last Wednesday morning following an operation for appendicitis. Mr. Hart was for four years the county treasurer of Defiance county and later served four years as a deputy in the same office. In 1918 he entered the shoe business at Hicksville. He was a director in the First National bank at Hicksville, secretary of the Defiance County Fair Association for many years and at the time of his death was president of the organization.

DR. C. R. BAUMGARTNER

Veterinarian

Spencerville, Ind.

PHONES: 282--283.

Russel R. Reidenour

ATTORNEY

Auburn, Ind.

Here is one thing we can all do for home town progress; People are coming in here a good deal for the summer to visit friends. We all meet more or less of them. As we meet them, let us show a particularly cordial spirit. Let us show personal interest in them and offer to show them interesting things in our home town, and so forth. Say Riverside cemetery, the one beauty spot, and the new community gymnasium. We can make them feel that their presence here is welcomed and that we would like to see more of them. Then when they leave, they carry away the impression that our town is a place of cordial and hearty people, who have a warm and friendly welcome to strangers. It helps a city to have people leave it with that idea.

A PERMANENT INCOME FROM THIS YEAR'S CROPS:

THAT hard-won crop money will bring in added returns twice a year if you deposit it in a Savings Account with us. Here it will be protected by all our resources and expenditures, will be available whenever you need it, and will earn 4 per cent compounded interest.

CITY NATIONAL BANK

AUBURN, IND.

"Member Federal Reserve System"

AUGUST

L 91 0510

SPENCERVILLE

Rubber bands at News office.

Dr. Baumgartner was a week end guest at the Curie cottage at Hamilton Lake.

Samuel Betz of Springfield Center, was a Saturday guest at the Joel Betz home.

Miss Vera Reed has accepted a position with Mrs. John Armstrong at Auburn.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Dean were Sunday evening supper guests in the B. F. Markle home.

Mrs. Herman Reasoner was taken ill very suddenly last week. A nurse is in attendance.

Forest Beams has accepted a position as teacher and basket ball coach at Mark Center school.

Mrs. Emma Keyes was at Fort Wayne, Friday attending a meeting of the Congenial Dinner Club.

Mrs. Carl Hatch and children of Fort Wayne, who have been visiting Mrs. Hazel Steward, returned home Tuesday.

Dr. Beal of Fort Wayne was recently called in consultation with Dr. Shook for Mrs. Harvey Beam who is seriously ill.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Randall of Auburn, Monday, a daughter. Mrs. Randall will be remembered as Miss Aillеen Allen.

The Webb families of this place attended the Webb reunion which was held on Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Killians at Hicksville.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Beams and family spent Sunday at Blue Lake with Mr. and Mrs. Robert Beams, who are spending the summer there.

Mrs. Clyde Rectenwall and son, Warren, have returned home after spending some time at Hamilton Lake with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Silberg.

Mr. and Mrs. Gene Bouserman of Harlan, Mr. and Mrs. Kelly and George Keiffer of Fort Wayne, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Jason Keyes.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Crans and daughter, Mrs. Mary Valmer of Fort Wayne, William Hannen of California and Enos Hannen, were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Joel Betz.

Those that left Monday morning for Four H Club Camp, near North Milford, with Prof. A. J. Smith in charge, were, Ada Bowser, Virginia Goldsmith, Leo Spitler, Victor McCrory, Kenneth Northrup, Charles Rhoades and Walter Dwyer.

About sixty old friends and neighbors gathered at the home of Mrs. Emila Gloyd and family in their yearly reunion. Pot luck dinner was served followed by ice cream and cake. The afternoon was spent in talking over old times.

Ten members of the Amaryllis Health Club of this place entered the health contest at Auburn last week. Those that won prizes were Gladys Agler first in DeKalb county and Spencer township, Virginia Goldsmith, second in county and township and Esther Lake fifth in township.

On Monday evening many from this place attended the Chautauqua at Newville. Clinton Webb, a former resident of this place, accompanist, with a chorus of thirty male voices, from Camden, Mich., was the main attraction of the evening. Little Miss Elnore Cupp of Fort Wayne, was another attraction of interest to our folks, being the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Cupp, the former another Spencerville boy. She appeared on the program in a number of readings which were excellent and were received by the audience with hearty applause.

NOTICE OF FINAL SETTLEMENT OF ESTATE.

Cause No. 3062 . . . .

Notice Is Hereby Given to all persons interested in the estate of George W. Tustison deceased, to appear in the DeKalb Circuit Court, held at Auburn, Indiana, on the 10th day of September, 1927 and show cause, if any, why my Final Settlement Accounts with the estate of said decedent should not be approved; and said heirs and all others interested, are notified to then and there make proof of heirship or claim and receive their distributive shares.

Witness, my name, this 13th day of August, 1927.

LOIS A. TUSTISON,
Administrator.

Walter W. Ferris, Atty. 33t3.

CHRIST FOR ALL—ALL FOR CHRIST

The Word of God

Thy word is a lamp unto my feet, and a light unto my path.—Psalm 119: 105.

HOW TO GET ON:—Ask, and it shall be given you; seek, and ye shall find. Matthew 7: 7.

PRAYER:—Teach us, Lord, to ask great things from thee, and to be diligent and definite seekers. Then thou wilt make our way prosperous.

Wisecracks of the Road

Play safe and go slow.

Carelessness is a "grave" fault.

Don't think a train has passed just because you see its tracks.

No safety device has yet been invented to take the place of the one just above the door.

There is no romance in courting disaster.

The place of the knocker is outside the door.

Nature made the only moonshine fit to use.

The rest of your days depend on the rest of your nights.

Be it ever so beautiful, there's no place worse than an ambulance.

Stick to your safeguards and you'll stick around.

Playing safe beats playing a harp.

People who knock—like motors—need adjusting.

Many accidents are caused by sending the body out to work and the mind out to play.

The engine may "die" many times; the driver dies but once.

A locomotive has the right of way and can generally prove it.

ANNOUNCE TEACHERS FOR SCHOOL TERM

According to nnouncement made today by Trustee, O. K. Shull, the following teachers have been employed for the year:

Robert W. Simms, Everton, Ind., principal and vocational.

Glen D. McClellan, Bloomington, assistant principal.

Mrs. Ima Miser, domestic science and music.

Miss Ruby Shultz, Waterloo, Latin and history.

Miss Mary R. Smith, Danville, typewriting, mathematics and science.

Miss Cleota Morr, 5-6 grades.

Miss Bessie Rupp, 3-4 grades.

Miss Madeline Nicholls, 1-2 grades.

Educational

"It is a fact," says Paw Hoptoad, "that I am having my daughter instructed in many old-fashioned things. For instance, the art of conversation—over the telephone."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Banked on Longevity

Australians pride themselves on longevity, a dentist in Sidney discovered when he offered a patient, eighty years old, a guarantee for five years on a set of false teeth. The patient, however, refused to permit the dentist to start to work on him until he had received a ten-year guarantee.

With the Churches

ST. JOE M. P. CHURCH

Mrs. Hattie Widney, Supt.
Sunday School, 9:30 A. M.

CONCORD M. P. CHURCH

George Johnson, Supt.
Sunday school 9:30 A. M.
Christian Endeavor 7 P. M.
J. F. McKnight, Pastor.

LUTHERAN CHURCH NOTES

Derwood Ridgway, Supt.
Sunday school, 9:30.

CHURCH OF CHRIST

Ed Storer, Supt.

St. Joe

Bible School, 9:30 A. M.
Morning worship, 10:30.

NEWVILLE, Sun Time

Bible School, 10:00 A. M.
Evening Service, 7:30.
R. S. Aldrich, Pastor.

Methodist Episcopal Church Spencerville

Sunday School, 9:00 A. M.—ohn Koch, Superintendent.

Epworth League, 6:00 P. M. Marguerite Koch, President.

Sunday School, Church and Epworth League are our Sunday activities.

You know our workers, if you do not come and get acquainted with them.

We have a new parsonage to dedicate soon. Fuller announcement soon.

Our young people came home from the Epworth Forest Institute with twenty-four certificates signifying their atendance at the classes every forenoon of the week.

The pastor reports a great inspiration from the Camp meeting and also from the Preachers' classes at the Institute.

Get your vacation privileges over and be prepareed to accept your place in the church's program of worth while service soon.

What kind of a world would this world be if every person were just like me?

LINDBERGH DID NOT WISH

Young men the world over have, with mingled feelings, read of the achievement of the youthful Charles Lindbergh. Admiration and pride in the glory of his feat has been most generously given by all—still what young man is there who has not "wished" that the opportunity had been his—and that he could have "zoomed" through to such everlasting glory?

The now "Colonel Lindbergh" MADE his opportunity. An unknown air-mail pilot, he SAVED part of his earnings. When the hour arrived he had $2,000 saved to offer on the altar of sincerity—and obtain the support of young businmen of St. Louis. He was the largest individual contributor to the fund which made the flight possible.

Lindbergh did not WISH—He SAVED

COME IN AND TALK IT OVER

Farmers' & Merchants State Bank
Spencerville, Ind.

for Economical Transportation

CHEVROLET

Consistent Progress and Proved Design - have resulted in the most Amazing Quality in Chevrolet History!

—at these Low Prices!

The COACH $595

The Touring or Roadster	$525
The Coupe	$625
The 4-Door Sedan	$695
The Sport Cabriolet	$715
The Landau	$745
The Imperial Landau	$780
½-Ton Truck (Chassis Only)	$395
1-Ton Truck (Chassis Only)	$495

All prices f. o. b. Flint, Michigan

Check Chevrolet Delivered Prices

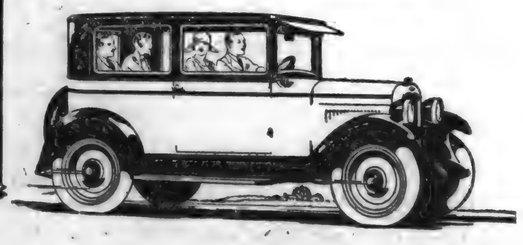
They include the lowest handling and financing charges available.

Today's Chevrolet embodies the most amazing quality in Chevrolet history—the result of 14 years of consistent development and improvement.

In carrying out this policy, the Chevrolet Motor Company has profited immeasurably from its close association with the General Motors Corporation.

The General Motors Research Laboratories—
—the General Motors Proving Ground—
—the General Motors engineering staff—
—the vast General Motors resources—
—all have been constantly utilized in making Chevrolet the world's finest low-priced automobile!

Come to our showroom and see today's Chevrolet!



FURNISH SALES and SERVICE

RALPH E. FURNISH, Proprietor SPENCERVILLE, IND.

QUALITY AT LOW COST

The palmist has no use for the man who is afraid to show his hand.

REAL ESTATE NEWS

ST. JOE

Chas. A. and Pearl Cochran to Claude E. and Leona Mason, pt. lot 5, block 4, O. P., $1.

Chas. A. and Pearl Cochran to Henry and Lettie Anderson, .20 acre sec. 15, $1.

CONCORD

Frank R. Bowman, administrator, to Rebecca Wyatt, 40.25 acres sec. 2, $1,600.

John C. Armstrong, sheriff, to Henry and Bessie Shroyer, 62.50 acres sec. 3, $1,753.38.

C. M. and Zo T. Brown to Samuel J. Kiser, 40 acres sec. 5, $1.

John and Letha Sechler to Hollis and Grace Dilley, 20 acres sec. 14, $2,000.

SPENCER

Emma E. and Jason Keyes to Wm. F. and Florence J. Rhoades, 21.25 acres sec. 28, $1.

Mary C. Comesky to Ralph Eugene Furnish, 15 rods, 4½ ft. by 8 rods, sec. 28, $1.

WILL BATTLE CORN BORER THIS FALL

New regulations for the control of the European corn borer were adopted at a corn borer conference at Toledo, Ohio, in July, which will probably go into effect about the first of September. The new regulations differ very little from the spring clean-up rules except that regions with less than one per cent infestation will probably be given more latitude in cleaning up the corn stalks. The spring clean-up was reported to be 95 per cent effective, but infestation from the few remaining borers has already spread into three more Indiana counties. With clean-up regulations going into effect on September 1st, farmers will be able to harvest their corn in such a manner that the "peak load" spring campaign will not again be necessary.

SUNDAY SCHOOL REPORTS

The following is the report of Sunday schools in this vicinity for last Sunday, according to information sent The News by representatives of the schools reported.

Lutheran	86	$6.52
Coburn's Corners	71	$6.28
Newville U. B.	220	$12.00
Spencerville M. E.	60	$3.68
Lutheran	59	$2.82

In Society

A very pretty wedding was at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Beams of Spencerville, Indiana, Wednesday, August 10th, at high noon, when their dughter, Florence Rebecca, became the bride of Mr. William L. Peck, son of Dr. and Mrs. W. Peck, of Anderson, Indiana.

The ceremony took place beneath an archway of ferns, in the center of which hung a wedding bell. Rev. A. K. Mumma, pastor of the Lutheran church of Harlan, read the single ring ceremony. The bride was given in marriage by her father.

Preceding the ceremony Miss Doris Beams, sister of the bride, sang, "O Promise Me," accompanied at the piano by Miss Beatrice Peck, sister of the groom. Wagner's Lohengrin wedding march was played by Miss Doris Beams.

The bride was attired in a lovely flowered chiffon gown in pastel shades over white satin. She wore a head band of silver and carried a shower bouquet of butterfly roses.

Following the ceremony, an elaborate three-course dinner was served.

Later the couple left for a three weeks wedding trip to Lake Katherine, Wisconsin. For traveling the bride wore black bengaline with gold embroidered georgette trim. Her hat, footwear and other accessories were of corresponding tan. Mr. and Mrs. Peck will be at home in Anderson fter September 1st.

Mrs. Peck is a graduate of the Spencerville high school. She attended Ball Teachers College, at Muncie, and is a member of the Sigma Beta sorority of that institution. She has taught school for the past two years.

Mr. Peck is a graduate of the Frankton high school. He received his A. B. degree from Indiana University in 1924, where he is a member of the Sigma Pi fraternity and also Gamma Eta Gamma, a legal fraternity. Mr. Peck has been a member of the staff of the Anderson high school for the past two years, where he is football coach and also teaches history.

The following guests were present: Dr. and Mrs. Peck and daughters Beatrice and Mary Vivian and son, Erle, of Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Klopfenstein of Grabill, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Beams and baby of Detroit, Mich., and Mrs. Rebecca Beams of Spencerville.

Dr. E. T. Julian
M. D.
St. JOE

9:30 to 11:30 each forenoon at Dr. C. R. Price office.

National Sportsman MAGAZINE

is crammed full of Hunting, Fishing, Camping and Trapping stories and pictures, valuable information about guns, rifles, revolvers, fishing tackle, camp outfits, best places to go for fish and game, and a thousand and one helpful hints for sportsmen. National Sportsman tells you what to do when lost in the woods, how to cook your grub, how to build camps and blinds, how to train your hunting dog, how to preserve your trophies, how to start a gun club, how to build a rifle range.

Only 15 cents.
Get your copy to-day of
ST. JOE NEWS

AUGUST

L 913 U511

Kilauea Volcano Performs for the Tourists

Tourists in Hawaii are having a chance to see a great volcano in action, for the Halemaumau pit of Kilauea is spouting fiery lava and clouds of smoke. The photograph shows an active conelet near the vast north wall of the crater.

Captain Courtney's Atlantic Flight Plane

The Dornier-Napier plane Whale ready for the flight across the Atlantic from Ireland by Captain Courtney, English aviator.

European Boy Scouts at International Camp

Here are some of the 3,000 boy scouts, from almost every country in Europe, enjoying a hearty meal at the international camp in Skanson, near Stockholm, Sweden.

Motor Ship Battered by Ice Floes

The motor ship A. B. Carpenter is shown in the ice on her way to Nome, Alaska, a trip from which she recently returned seriously battered by the heavy floes. The Carpenter was in the ice from May 18 to June 15, on which date she reached Nome, more than two weeks late.

Fireflies for a Princess

The two bowls in which are 1,000 fireflies captured by the Juvenile Red Cross society of Gifu, a city of central Japan, and presented to Princess Shigeko Teru, daughter of the emperor.

CZAR OF JAZZ

There are film czars and baseball czars and now we have a jass czar. He is Julian T. Abeles, head of the National Association of Orchestra Directors. The function of the association is to uplift and protect jass.

PREMIER OF CHINA

Pan Fu, the new premier of the Nationalist government of China, who is making an effort to settle the all-important financial problems.

MANY FURNISHINGS MADE OF COTTON

Same Effects Gained as From Costly Materials.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Many of the effects gained by using silk or wool upholstery and curtain materials can be had from less expensive cotton fabrics. For instance, the living-room and dining-room may be large rooms, with heavy, formal furniture. Dignified, rich-looking draperies are needed, and dark, substantial upholstery. Cotton velour, velveteen, cotton damask, and corduroy are suitable fabrics for either upholstery or curtains. To relieve the monotony of single-toned fabrics, a number of figured cotton materials with dignified patterns and subdued colors are available at moderate prices.

For the simple living-room denim comes in small fancy weaves and new interesting patterns. It is made especially for furniture coverings and door draperies. Monk's cloth is another heavy, durable, inexpensive drapery fabric with an interesting basket weave. It may be considered for couch covers, portieres, and also for bedspreads for boys' rooms or for the sleeping porch. For use at large windows it may be decorated with bright colored wool embroidery. Cretonne window curtains may be used to relieve rooms having plain denim or monk's cloth upholstery or portieres.

Ginghams, printed zephyrs or percales, Japanese crepe, cotton suitings, and unbleached muslin are among the best materials for window curtains in the various service rooms—kitchen, bathroom, breakfast nook, sun room, or in halls. These fabrics launder well and are not ordinarily injured by rain, dust, or kitchen fumes, says the United States Department of Agriculture. Cotton fabrics are used almost universally in bedrooms and in the nursery for window curtains and door draperies, as well as for spreads, box covers, bureau scarfs, and furniture slips. In addition to cretonnes, there is a wide range of choice among the dress goods. For bedroom curtains, flowered and colored cotton prints vie with tissue ginghams, plain and checked ginghams, dotted swiss, dimity, and batistes. The practical wearing qualities and attractive appearance of the cotton fabrics available this year make them desirable for innumerable household purposes.

Cheese Dressing Helps Flavor of Fruit Salads

Instead of serving cream or neufchatel cheese in balls or blocks as an accessory to salads, a dressing may be made using the cheese as the foundation. It is particularly good with fruit salads, especially if whipped cream is added to it at serving time. The bureau of home economics has originated the following recipe:

1 cake neufchatel or cream cheese
¼ cupful salad oil
3 to 4 tablespoonfuls lemon juice
¼ teaspoonful salt
Tabasco sauce, onion juice a bit of garlic or grated horseradish for seasoning.

Mash up the cheese, add the oil, and beat with a dover egg beater until thoroughly mixed. Add the other ingredients and continue to beat until the mixture is smooth and creamy. Use this dressing in the same way as mayonnaise or any other salad dressing.

Veal Needs Slow Cooking to Insure Tenderness

Veal cutlet should be served well done, not rare like mature beef. When tender and of good quality it resembles chicken in flavor. Veal contains less fat and a larger proportion of connective tissue than many other meats, and hence needs slow cooking at not too high temperature for a rather long time. Veal also lacks the pronounced flavor of beef, so it is usually seasoned a little more highly in cooking. For the cutlets, one large slice cut across the leg corresponding to what will in an older animal be the "round" or round steak may be used. Or satisfactory cutlets may be had from the sections that correspond to shoulder, chuck, and rump in beef. Any piece for cutlets should be cut about three-fourths of an inch thick if cut any thinner it is likely to dry out in cooking. Remove any skin and cut the meat into pieces of convenient size for serving. Season with lemon and onion juice and worcestershire sauce, if desired, before cooking. Dip in flour and then cook in shallow fat until a crust is formed on both sides. With tender meat, cover and cook slowly until done. If the meat is inclined to be tough the method of cooking must be modified so as to insure tenderness. This can be done easily and satisfactorily by adding hot water and simmering the meat slowly. A rich gravy will then be developed which is served with the meat at the last. Season with salt and pepper.

Another way of cooking veal cutlet prepared and seasoned as we have described, accomplishes much the same end. Dip the cutlet in a thick egg batter instead of flour and fry it in either shallow or deep fat. Take the pieces of cutlet out when brown and put them in a baking dish, or in one of the fireless cooker utensils. Make a gravy by adding flour and hot water to the fat and pour it over the cutlet. If the fireless cooker is to be used the stone should now be hot. Continue cooking either in a low oven or in the fireless cooker until done.

Plums Canned Whole or in the Form of a Sauce

Plums may be canned whole or in the form of sauce. Spices may be added to some for variety. In any case plums for canning should be gathered just as they are commencing to ripen. After they are washed, if you are canning them whole, prick each plum to help prevent the skin from bursting. Fill into jars and cover with boiling medium sirup. This is made by boiling together one cupful of sugar and two cupfuls of water for a few minutes.

Process quart and pint glass jars for 20 minutes in boiling water and tin cans for 15 minutes. If plum sauce has been prepared by cooking the plums with sugar to taste until the sugar has dissolved, it is filled boiling hot into the containers, and processed for 5 minutes in the water-bath canner. The pits and skins may be strained out of the sauce or not, as desired.

The water-bath canner, which is used for plums canned either way, may be a wash boiler or any vessel with a tight-fitting cover and deep enough for the jars to be completely immersed during processing. It should be equipped with a rack or false bottom to allow water to circulate freely around the jars. The time is counted from the moment the water in the canner begins actively boiling.

IMPROVE UNSATISFACTORY FARM KITCHEN

View of Kitchen in Montgomery County, Va., Done Over Under Supervision of Home Demonstration Agent—Note Proper Drain Boards Added to New Sink in New Position.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

What can be done by way of improving an unsatisfactory farm kitchen at small expense is well illustrated in the case of a home in Montgomery county, Va. Although this kitchen had two good-sized windows, the iron sink was set back in a dark corner. It had no drain boards, in fact, no place within reach on which to place anything handled at the sink. As a result, the large table on one side, which was used for the family meals, was often in disorder because of dishes and other articles likely to be needed at the next meal. A shelf for lamps was built across the middle of one window, disfiguring it and obscuring the view. No curtains or shades softened the glare from the windows on hot mornings. The entire kitchen was unattractive to look at and uncomfortable to work in.

The owner entered a county kitchen improvement contest, organized by the home demonstration agent, who is part of the extension force co-operatively directed by the state agricultural college and the United States Department of Agriculture. Whatever was done to bring about a change in the kitchen was kept as inexpensive as possible. The chief investment was in the new porcelain sink. The lower part of one of the windows was boarded up and the sink was placed against it so as to provide good light. Closets were built by the man of the house below the drain boards on each side of the sink for storing kitchen utensils. The final touches included two pairs of simple washable curtains at the windows and a set of attractive doilies for the table. The kitchen became a charming and convenient room.

FAMOUS MINING STRIKES

By THOMAS E. STEWARD

California Gulch

MANY a wagon that bore westward in the summer of 1859 bearing the legend, "Pike's Peak or Bust," was to be soon homeward bound the next year with the first brave slogan wiped out, and in its place the single word, "Busted."

But some of those who failed of success in that rush were of sterner stuff. They pressed on across the Colorado range and found gold-bearing gravel in South Park.

In the spring of 1860 some of these dauntless prospectors worked their way across the second range into the headwaters of the Arkansas river, from which many millions of dollars' worth of placer gold was destined to be washed.

No sooner had the first parties worked their way into this rich territory than gold strikes were reported in what was known as California Gulch. Slater, Currier, Rafferty, Stevens and Tabor were names among the earliest of those who found the coveted treasure.

The most astounding thing about the California Gulch strikes was the rapidity with which the news spread. Although the region was one of the wildest into which prospectors had yet ventured and almost no one had even traveled through the region prior to the strikes of 1860, seventy prospectors poured into the gulch within a few days after word of the discovery had gone out. By July 10,000 persons were in the camp, according to the estimate of S. F. Emmons, geologist in charge of the United States geological survey in 1885, who studied the history of the place. It was said that $2,000,000 worth of placer gold was taken out the first summer, though Emmons considered this an exaggeration.

The characteristics of a mining camp based on placer gold rather than on the more substantial "rock in place" type of diggings, which is to say, the true lode or vein, soon manifested themselves in California Gulch. Once the richest yield of the placer cradles had been extracted the population began to diminish swiftly. In three or four years' time, only hundreds remained where there had been thousands. Kellogg and other prospectors of the restless type sought newer fields. Tabor, settling down to the business of running the only store in the place, thereby put himself in the way of fortune, for it was a grubstake from that store that led to the discovery of the Fryer hill deposits in which was later to be Leadville.

Homestake and the Black Hills

THAT the rich gold deposits of the Black Hills in South Dakota should have remained practically untouched until after 1880 was due chiefly to the jealousy with which the Sioux Indians kept whites off the mammoth reservation that had been given them by the government under the treaty of 1858. This treaty guaranteed the Sioux against the encroachment of white men.

Stories of Black Hills gold originated in the tales told by a Belgian priest, Father De Smet, who lived with the Sioux in the first half of the Nineteenth century and reported many finds of nuggets.

In 1874 the government sent General Custer to make a military reconnoissance of the region, and he took with him Prof. N. H. Winchell, a famous geologist of the University of Minnesota, who later played a big part in the discovery of Minnesota's iron deposits. Gold was discovered by this party, and as a result of their reports a party of miners who thought themselves strong enough to fight off the Sioux, established themselves in a blockade on French creek. The government, however, lived up to its treaty and brought them out. But news of the gold strike had spread and the invasion of the Indian reservation now seemed inevitable.

In 1875 the government sent another party to prospect the Black Hills under strong military escort. This expedition confined its attentions chiefly to the southern part of the hills because of the dense forests that made the more northern areas practically inaccessible. It did not even reach the region of the Homestake mine. One of the geologists found abundant gold in the Whitewood and Deadwood gulches and described them as "the best place in the hills for a poor miner."

Much of the gold district of the northern Black Hills has been referred to as the "Homestake" without discrimination between a number of properties of which that particular mine is one. The Homestake and the Old Abe deposit, nearby, are said to have been located in 1876 by two French boys, Moses and Frederick Manuel. The Homestake property passed into the hands of a group of well known mining capitalists, among them J. B. Haggin and George Hearst, the father of William Randolph Hearst. The son is still a prominent owner in the property and its profits helped support his papers in their early days.

This mine is celebrated among geologists as one that has always been made to pay although the ore on which it is based is not of a particularly rich variety. The splendid technical skill with which operations have been carried on, however, has made it famous for its profits.

(©, 1927, Western Newspaper Union.)

AUGUST

L 91 4512

The GREEN CLOAK

By YORKE DAVIS

WNU Service. Copyright, 1936

CHAPTER I

—1—

Doctor McAlister has often told me that I take life seriously because I am young. That may or may not be the reason, but I am convinced that I know the reason why he takes it so light-heartedly. It is not because he is old, but because he has already won from life all the reward he wants. In his own department of science—applied psychology—he has achieved about as high a place as it is possible for a man to reach. In this field his reputation does not have to lower its colors to any other in the world; and if in his periods of relaxation he chooses to be frivolous, no one can afford frivolity any better than he. I suppose that the very idea of frivolity used in connection with Prof. Ronald McAlister's name would make most people laugh because of the grotesque unfitness of it; and the people who know him only as a gaunt, gray old bachelor, with a rugged, homely, deeply lined Scotch face and a big rough voice, would be right to laugh.

But I am more an adopted son of his than a mere assistant, and after spending the daily number of hours in his laboratory, watching him work his miracles, I see his great mind relax, and find that he is just a boy, more of a boy than ever I was in my life.

He likes the daily papers—the yellower they are, the better; and he devours a perfectly incredible number of detective stories, good and bad. His delight over a good one is almost pathetic.

So when I read the headlines in the morning papers that day, I knew perfectly well that when work was over and we met at our special little table in a corner of the brilliant dining room of The Meredith, I should be regaled with a thrilling and enthusiastic account of the Oak Ridge murder.

It was easy indeed to prefigure the whole scene. Similar ones had been enacted so many times before. I didn't altogether relish the prospect, for I hate to see people smiling and nodding behind my old chief's back, people who, intellectually or socially, or in any other way, aren't fit to tie his shoes. He doesn't mind their smiles, and the light-hearted emptiness of their lives has a mysterious sort of attraction for him.

And when I see him across our little table, his twinkling gray eyes glowing with excitement, his long ungainly arms and expressive hands working away in enthusiastic gesticulation, his big voice booming out the story of some sensational crime, I can't really wonder that a good many people nod and wink and giggle.

The thing I did wonder at sometimes was, that Wilkins, the obsequious, omnipresent, invaluable headwaiter, contrived to preserve his respectful mask of professional imperturbability.

I had a sneaking fondness for Wilkins, based upon the fact that he at least did not underrate Doctor McAlister. Tonight, for instance, it was Wilkins himself whom I saw conducting him down the long lane of tables, to the corner of the room where we always sat.

"Tell our man what to bring us, Wilkins," he said, waving away the menu which that irreproachable functionary offered him. "You know what we want to eat, better than we do."

Then he turned to me, "Well, have you read about it?"

"The Oak Ridge murder?" I asked smiling. "No, I've waited to get the account of it from you."

"You really haven't read a word of it?" he asked.

"Not a word. I know that Oak Ridge is one of our more remote and less fashionable suburbs, and that there has been a murder there within the past forty-eight hours. Beyond that, my ignorance is complete."

"Youth! Youth!" cried the doctor in mock dismay. "What is it coming to? Fancy being under thirty and waiting all day for such a story as that, rather than read an account of it in bad English. Well, you shall have the story now from the beginning—Wait a bit, though. Wilkins—"

The head-waiter looked up from a low-voiced discussion of the menu with the man who had special charge of our table. "Yes, sir."

"Has Ashton come in yet?"

"Not yet, sir, but he should be here before long. He's seldom later than this, sir."

"Serve for three at this table, then," said the doctor, "and when Ashton comes in, ask him to dine with us"; then, turning to me, "There are some points which the newspapers don't cover that he'll be likely to know about."

Ashton, I may say, was a rising young assistant in the district attorney's office, and I will add that he worked at the detection and prosecution of crime, con amore; it was not upon his salary that he lived at The Meredith.

The doctor leaned his elbows on the table and pointed a long finger at me. "Now, in the first place, all we know of Henry Morgan begins three years ago."

"Was Henry Morgan the name of the man who was murdered?" I asked.

"Yes—yes, at least it's the name he went by during the last three years of his life, which he spent at Oak Ridge. He got off the train there one morning with a hand bag and a check for a small steamer trunk, both well-worn and both unmarked with any initial. He went straight to the real estate office of one James McCloskey and said he wanted to rent a house.

"McCloskey took him house-hunting, and, much to that gentleman's surprise, the only place in town that took Morgan's fancy was a large, dilapidated old house in one of its remoter quarters. The old place was in a state of considerable disrepair, and it contained a lot of rattle-trap furniture which the owner had never moved away. McCloskey had confessed that he had never expected to find a tenant for it. The question of repairs didn't seem to interest Mr. Morgan much, a patch or two in the roof and new lights of glass in the broken windows comprising all he asked for.

"When McCloskey asked him what family he had and when he expected them to arrive, Mr. Morgan answered that he had no family and intended to live alone. He did, in fact, live alone, without even the service of a housekeeper, for a number of months, but finally engaged a respectable old woman, who lived in straightened circumstances not very far away, to come every day and cook his meals and keep his house in order. He let her in every morning in time to get breakfast, and she went away every night about seven o'clock, after washing up the supper dishes.

"Half an Hour Later Some Passers-by Saw Him Striding Up and Down His Rickety Old Veranda."

"There, you have, practically, the story of his life in Oak Ridge, up to two nights ago. Two nights ago the old woman got supper for him for the last time, and went home as usual about seven o'clock. Half an hour later some passers-by saw him striding up and down his rickety old veranda, smoking a pipe. Yesterday morning when his housekeeper knocked at the kitchen door, there was no answer. Then she went around to the front of the house and rang the bell, also without result. She walked back a little way up the lawn and saw that one of the windows in a sort of study he had on the third floor was open.

"Well, it seems that she told various people about her fears that all was not well with her employer, but you know what a town of that description is like. There aren't any police. Most of the men in the place commute to town on the early trains, and with one thing and another, it was ten o'clock, or so, before the house was forcibly broken open.

"The investigators found nothing disturbed either on the first floor or on the second, but in the old gentleman's study, a finished-off room in the attic, with a couple of dormer windows, they found him dead in his chair. He was leaning back in a queer, unnatural attitude, and when they looked more closely, they found that he had been strangled with a catgut string from an old violin of his. An A string," he went on, with rising voice and finger that gesticulated only about six inches from my nose—"an A string that had been deliberately removed from the fiddle and slipped in a noose around his neck, while he sat there in his chair, and drawn taut. What do you say to that, eh?"

"I don't see why they call it murder," said I. "Why isn't suicide the more likely explanation?"

"Oh, wise young judge," he mocked. "For just this reason, my boy; that the end of the string wasn't fastened to anything. He couldn't have committed suicide in that way, unless he could reach around after he was dead and untie the knot behind the back of his neck. No, it's murder, and I should be inclined to say a singularly pure example of it."

"There's no connection whatever with his past?" I inquired. "Didn't McCloskey ask for any references at the time Morgan rented the house?"

"He says he did on that first day, and Mr. Morgan assured him that there would be no difficulty on that score; he would present his references in a day or two. As a matter of fact, he never did, but as he paid a quarter's rent in advance, and as he signed an indeterminate lease of a house which the agent never expected to get off his hands, McCloskey didn't like to press the matter. He used furniture that he found in the house, and never brought in any effects of his own, beyond what came with him on the first day, in his hand bag and his little trunk. He never got any letters from out of town, and apparently never sent off any. What his business was, if he had any, no one ever knew."

"You say that nothing on the first or on the second floor had been disturbed. That would dispose of the theory of robbery."

"The whole appearance of the house and its condition would contradict the theory of any ordinary robbery," the doctor said. "No one would break into that dilapidated old structure for such a purpose, unless he had knowledge of some secret and unusual sort of treasure there. But to my mind, the manner of killing disposes even of that alternative. The house is situated in a lonely spot, remote from all other habitation. If a robber had found himself in a position where he was obliged to kill, he could have risked a pistol shot, and he couldn't have garroted his victim without taking him unawares. No, I believe it to be a case of murder, pure and simple—murder committed for its own sake and not the by-product of some other result. And these cases, you know, are rather rare—"

"Here comes Mr. Ashton now, sir," said Wilkins from where he stood not far away. "I'll have dinner served at once, sir."

Both the doctor and I like Ashton, and he often dines with us, even when there is no particular excuse, such as was offered by the Oak Ridge murder, for doing so.

He is a burly, confident, quick-tempered, generous-minded young chap of about thirty, and if he keeps on as he has begun, he will some day acquire a reputation as one of the greatest prosecutors in the country.

He was not in evening dress tonight, and he dropped into his chair at our table with the air of one who has put in a trying day.

"Confound these suburban trains," he said. "I just spent the better part of an hour in one coming in from Oak Ridge."

"Ha!" cried the doctor, with an air of the most intense satisfaction. "Then you're just the man I want to see. Did you turn up anything at the afternoon session of the inquest? The account in the evening papers leaves off at noon."

Ashton laughed. "You'll not get a word out of me about that murder, until after the fish. If you attempt to I shall call on Wilkins here for help. However," he added seriously, "I do want to talk about this case with you, for I think it not unlikely that you may be able to help us."

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

Curious Old Custom of Literary Giants

Lipogrammatic works, the product of the early Greek authors, are those books in which one letter of the alphabet is omitted throughout the volume. Tryphiodorus, when writing his Odyssey, had not an "a" in his first book, nor a "b" in his second. In so doing he was but copying the Lipogrammatic Iliad of Nestor.

Athenaeus writes of an ode by Pindar in which the latter purposely omitted the letter "s," thereby leading us to surmise that this little hoax was one of the literary fashions of the day. A Persian poet once read to the celebrated Jami one of his own compositions with the letter Alif consistently omitted throughout. Jami, who did not care for the sonnet, sarcastically made the following recommendation: "You can do a better thing yet, take away all the letters from every word you have written."

Although the Greeks originated this ingenious literary device, its use was by no means exclusive with them. Lope de Vega, the celebrated Spanish dramatic poet of the thirteenth century, Gregorio Leti, and at a much later day Lord North of the court of James I all employed this literary device and produced Lipogrammatic books.—Market for Exchange.

Train Speed Cuts Static

Static decreases and radio-station strength increases with and in proportion to acceleration in the train's speed, experiments with a receiver have shown, according to Popular Mechanics Magazine. A steel bridge with no superstructure helped to increase the volume of the reception, while one with a superstructure decreased it.

Build House for Comfort

Gambling rooms may be romantic to look upon, but the romance caused by inconvenience and lack of comfort soon fades. Not only should a house be big enough and not too big, but its rooms need to be related to each other so as to save steps and lessen labor.

Improved Uniform International

Sunday School Lesson

(By REV. P. B. FITZWATER, D.D., Dean, Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.) (©, 1931, Western Newspaper Union.)

Lesson for August 21

GOD'S PROMISE TO DAVID

LESSON TEXT—1 Chron., chapter 17.

GOLDEN TEXT—Thy throne, O God, is forever and ever a sceptre of righteousness as the sceptre of thy kingdom.

PRIMARY TOPIC—God's Promise to David.

JUNIOR TOPIC—How God Rewarded David.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—How God Gives Us the Better Things.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—God's Great Promises.

I. David Desires to Build a House for God (vv. 1, 2).

Having subdued all his enemies David sat down in his new and beautiful house to meditate. While thus musing, he is led to see the incongruity of dwelling in a house of cedar while the Lord's place was so common. A truly devout soul cannot be content to dwell in personal ease and luxury while the Lord's work is neglected. David's proposition met with Nathan's approval, but the next day he came with definite instructions from the Lord regarding it.

II. David's Desire Denied (vv. 3-8).

While fully appreciating David's motive, the Lord disapproved his plan. The rejection of his plan was not because of his nonappreciation of David for He had taken him from the lowest walks of life and elevated him to the highest place among men. He assured him also that the cause would not suffer because of this change of plan. Two reasons may be assigned for God's prohibition of David's plan.

1. David was a man of war (I Chron. 22:8; 28:3).

Since the kingdom of God is to be a peaceful kingdom, it was not fitting that a man of war should build the capital city. This was not a reproach of David for being a man of war. The enemies of the Lord must of necessity be put down. No peace or rest could be to God's people till the enemies were subdued. It showed rather, that David had done his work and that the time had now come for another to take it up.

2. The time and circumstances were not fully ripe.

God's house should be a great house therefore it would require a man's best energies to build it. The nation's treasury was no doubt much depleted by the wars. Since much money would be required, ample time was necessary to enable the people to accumulate funds.

III. The Lord Pledged Himself to Do More Than David Proposed (vv. 9-15).

1. David was to have a great name (v. 8).

David's name has gone down in history as one of the great men of the earth. It was a long way from herding his father's sheep to the throne of this great nation.

2. Israel to be established in a central place (v. 9).

The nation was not again to be moved away, nor to be wasted by the children of wickedness.

3. He was to enjoy God's continued favor and help (v. 10).

All his enemies were to be subdued.

4. Perpetuation of the kingdom in David's line (vv. 11-14).

(1) "Build thee a house."

This means a granting unto him of a posterity, a family line. David proposed to build a temple as a place in which to worship God. God purposed to establish the kingdom in David's line. This was to be perpetuated in David's seed after him.

(2) "Establish his throne" (v. 12).

This means the placing of him in a position of royal authority.

(3) The kingdom was to be perpetual (vv. 13, 14).

He was to be settled in his kingdom forever. Disobedience to God would be visited with chastisement (II Sam. 7:15), but the covenants were not to be abrogated. Chastisement has followed, but David's seed is destined to occupy the throne (Luke 1:31-33; Acts 15:14-17).

IV. David's Worship (vv. 16-27).

In his actual worship, note:

1. His humility (vv. 16-18).

Those who really worship God approach Him with great humility.

2. His praise (vv. 19, 20).

Out of a heart of gratitude he praised God for His faithfulness and grace.

3. His gratitude (vv. 21, 22).

He had an appreciation of God's fidelity and expressed his gratitude to Him for it.

4. His petition (vv. 23-27).

All praise and expressions of gratitude but lead up to the offering of definite petitions to God.

Peace of the Heart

Thou art the true peace of the heart; Thou art its only rest; out of Thee all things are full of trouble and unrest. In this peace that is in Thee, the one chiefest eternal good, I will lay down and sleep.—Thomas a Kempis.

Unselfishness

Unselfishness is a crown that scintillates glory long after the wearer has gone to his eternal reward.—Baptist Record.

What's the Answer?

Questions No. 12

1—What crew won the Harvard-Yale two-mile rowing race in 1926?

2—What states were originally colonized by the Spanish?

3—What army surgeon became secretary of war; in whose cabinet?

4—How does the beach get its sand?

5—How deep is the deepest part of the ocean?

6—What was the origin in the theater of the Astor place riot, which resulted in the death of 26 people; in what city and what year did it occur?

7—Where is the group of islands which is the unsubmerged portion of a mountain system?

8—What great American novelist became a permanent resident of England?

9—Who said, when he heard of the battle of Bunker hill: "The liberties of the country are safe!"?

10—Are common stocks of corporations ever redeemed?

11—What novelist is considered the founder of the American school of realism?

12—Who was the leading pitcher in the American league in 1926?

13—What are "fighting fish"?

14—What was the "Flying Dutchman"?

15—Who patented the first revolver, and when?

16—When was the Panama canal opened?

17—What genius of the Renaissance was painter, sculptor, architect, scientist, engineer, mechanician and musician?

18—Where are situated the thousands of small lakes formed by the Laurentian glacier?

19—Who said: "Let me die in my old American uniform, in which I fought my battles. God forgive me for ever having put on any other"?

20—What are the three leading sources of national income of the United States?

Answers No. 11

1—Capt. Robert Gray, 1792.

2—Three; Harrison, Taylor, Harding.

3—Plants.

4—The ability or capacity to perform work.

5—Great Heart cleared the bar at 8 feet ½ inch.

6—Antonin Dvorak, in his "New World" symphony.

7—The Nile.

8—"Endymion" by John Keats.

9—John Sherman.

10—In America, yes; in England, no.

11—Major Pitcairn, before the battle of Lexington.

12—The United States.

13—The average human heart weighs nine and one-half ounces.

14—An instrument for detecting the presence of an electric current or measuring its strength.

15—New York, New Jersey.

16—Three: Lincoln, Garfield, McKinley.

17—Stravinski.

18—Hudson bay.

19—"The Faery Queene."

20—The five-day week.

Nonshrinkable Wool Supplied by Ovibos

The musk-ox—scientifically, the ovibos—is one of the interesting animals of the Arctic region. It is something like a cow and something like a sheep, but is not a cross, though the name, ovibos, means a sheep-cow. It seems to be a relic of an animal that lived in the Stone age, when the hairy rhinoceros and the mammoth were common, writes the travel editor of the Pathfinder Magazine. It feeds on grass herbs, moss and the shoots of trees. Not only is its meat very good to eat and the hide good for leather, but the wool from its coat is softer than cashmere and it has the advantage over all other wool that it will not shrink. One can smell the ovibos when it is still a quarter of a mile away, and this gives it its popular name of musk-ox. But the musky smell does not taint the meat if the butchering is carefully done.

Stopped Traffic for Duck

Traffic on a busy main road near Bourne, England, was held up for ten minutes while a duck laid an egg. A policeman had halted automobiles when the duck started to waddle across the road. Halfway over she sat down. After she had laid the egg she continued her journey. The egg was salvaged and the procession of halted cars proceeded.

Milk Without Cream

A cow that possessed "a perfectly adjusted separator" has been reported by a correspondent to the Sydney Bulletin. "She gave a lot of milk and her calves were the fattest and biggest in the herd, but for household purposes her milk was useless," according to the correspondent. "The milk could be run through a separator without a drop of cream appearing either in the dish or in the interior of the machine. By no method of milking could she be enticed to give any cream."

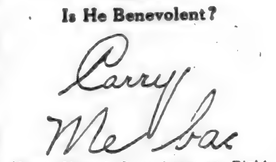
Know Your Sweetheart by His Handwriting

By EDNA PURDY WALSH

Editor, Character Reading Magazine.

(Copyright.)

Is He Benevolent?



Heart Shaped C, y Loop on Right, m Largest at Right, Benevolence.

There seems to always be room in the street car for "one more." And the writing of the man or woman who has a heart for the other fellow is made up of letters that are wide through the middle from left to right. The capital D is abnormally wide and shows room for many.

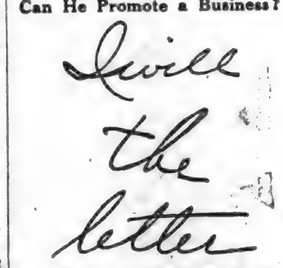
The last part of the letter m shows that the heart of the writer is with humanity. He is far away from himself—the first part of the letter—interested in the "brotherhood of man" principle.

If his writing is large and he makes a capital C with a loop at the start resembling a heart without the letter, then you will find that this writer will go out of his way to help another and will not ask remuneration for it. In fact, he will give so much time to others that you may find him threadbare, along in years.

Wide spaces will be found between the words when one is benevolent and the writing may be found to slant far toward the left.

This type of writer always has a great deal of hope and their t bars will invariably point upward.

Can He Promote a Business?

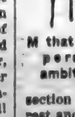


In the business world we find two distinctly different types, each a success in his way. One is the promoter who bubbles over with ideas, always commanding others to "do it this way," but never doing it; then his opposite, the man who puts the details together and concentrates on the many little things that go to make the big success that the promoter has conceived and started.

This writer, the promoter type, writes as you would expect to hear him speak—loudly. The letters of the words are big. Much space is taken. Sometimes little is said. The appearance of rushing water is seen in the writing, which in reality is the writer's rushing mind. His ideas come quick and fast. He hurries in his writing for fear he will forget. Many dashes are seen; large loops; underscoring; t bars heavy and long; here and there loops will be missing; many i dots are absent; wide margins. Various sizes of letters and t bars, indicating versatility. Pressure, showing nerve energy is seen, too. Forceful writing of one who believes in himself.

A Lesson On Self Esteem

Much of one's character may be known by the simple letter M. This is made up of three parts or furnishes three separate keys for reading the writer.



M that lacks personal ambition.

When the first part of the M is made exceptionally high, we may be sure that the writer is self-concerned. He has yet to learn himself and then take up with others. If this section of the letter is lower than the rest and the other two parts are equal, then the writer does not think enough of himself and does not take it to heart when he fails.

This trait will be accentuated if the t bar is made far to the left.

Frequently we find this writer making the lines of writing down hill, a trait of discouragement. His writing will look very uneven and not clean and pleasing. This is due to his moodiness.

If you find, upon reading this, that your writing shows similar traits, practice, when you write again, and hold your mind on the opposite as you write the opposite form of letter and you will build the constructive trait in your character.

Note.—Do not make final judgment until other signs in writing are studied.

Outsize in Bookworms

The accustomed serenity of the Durban public library was disturbed recently by the discovery of a giant python curled up in a corner below a case containing the Encyclopedia Britannica. How the reptile got in is a mystery. No harm was done, however, the intruder allowing itself to be transferred to a sack without protest. It was 10 feet long and 9 inches in girth.

AUGUST

L 915 4513

Let's APPRECIATE Our Business Men

Our business men are the foundation of this community. Without them this would be a dead place, indeed. To appreciate what they mean to us we have only to think of the deserted picture our business street presents when all the stores are closed. On a holiday when there is no celebration in town, for instance.

This paper believes better understanding of our business interests and what they mean to us should be had by our citizens. That we do not have all this understanding is to be deplored. When we do have it we will be a better, bigger, more prosperous community. And we are going to have it, for this paper is going to make it clear.

In this space each week, henceforth, this paper is going to have an article of about this length devoted to the business activities of our community. It will be short, snappy and to the point. It will be an "Ad-itorial." An ad for greater appreciation of our business men. Which will mean, in the end, a better community spirit and more prosperity and happiness for us all.

Ginnivan Dramatic Co.

will be in BUTLER, one week

Commencing MONDAY night Aug. 22

All new plays and feature vaudeville-32 people-Band-Orchestra

Free band concert each night o n street at 7:00. Curtain 8:15. Prices 10-35c.

NEW $1 BILL WILL BE CIRCULATED IN FEBRUARY

Reduced To Two-Thirds Size Of Those Now In Use

Washington, August 15.—Uncle Sam's new one-dollar bill is to be only two-thirds the size of the present one but the bureau of printing and engraving has found its production involves almost as much effort as changing the model of a Ford car.

The treasury department authorized the new-sized currency several months ago. Work on the engravings was started immediately. The bureau hopes to start printing November 1. After the presses once start running the new bills can be turned out at the rate of 2,000,000 a day.

However, the new issue will not go into circulation immediately as a two months' supply must be run off and placed in the treasury reserve. It will probably be late in February before any of the odd-sized bills find their way into the cash registration of the nation.

Americans have been known as easy spenders, but to the bureau of printing and engraving they are also regarded as hard spenders for they wear out approximately 1,500,000 dollar bills every day. For this reason a large supply of $1 bills must be kept on hand for replacements, it was explained.

Production of the new bills will not require any change in the presses but it does require a new sealing and numbering machine. The original engraving is being made by bureau craftsmen on soft steel. This will be hardened in the shape of a cylinder. Impressions from the master plate will be made on a larger flat plate of soft steel, which will be hardened and used for the actual printing.

Half of the bureau's 5,000 workers will be employed in producing the new bill, officials estimate. Dollar bills constitute approximately 80 per cent of the bureau's currency production.

Last year the bureau turned out 458,135,000 bills of the dollar denomination. The novelty of the new sized bill is expected to increase the demand to approximately 600,000,000 a year.

The new bills will probably be placed in circulation as fast as the old bills can be redeemed at the treasury after the two months' reserve supply has been printed.

Officials believe it will take nearly a year to recall the major portion of the old bills. No special order will be issued for the change in bills, but as fast as the old ones are presented to the treasury they will be replaced with the new sized currency.

Too Much Haste

Spiritually, no less than physically, we tend to be in too great a hurry, and are too fond of smooth, comfortable "runs." We are impatient of "inconvenience and delay" in reaching the goal of our material ambitions—yes, and too often also in the attainment. —Exchange.

About That Vacation

Do you work all the time?

Is your nose constantly on the grindstone?

Are you so harnessed to your job that you never get away for a little vacation?

Remember, it was all work and no play that made Jack a dull boy. You can take that vacation if you plan for it hard enough. Even the nickles and dimes you scatter around every week would help out more than you think, if saved and allowed to accumulate. Try starting a savings account at our Bank and see what it will do for you.

CONFIDENCE IS WHAT COUNTS.

The St. Joe Valley Bank, A STATE BANK

NOTICE TO TAXPAYERS OF TAX LEVIES

In the matter of determining the tax rates for certain purposes by Concord Township, DeKalb County, Indiana.

Before the Township Advisory Board.

Notice is hereby given the taxpayers of said Township above named, that the proper legal officers of said municipality at their regular meeting place, on the 6th day of September, 1927, will consider the following budget:

Budget Classification for Townships

TOWNSHIP FUND

Salary of Trustee	$ 600
Office Rent	60
Trustee's expense—
(a) Traveling	115
(b) Telephones and telegrams	10
Records, Legal Publications and Office Supplies	150
Public Ditches (assessments against Township)	500
Pay of Advisory Board	15
Payment of loans	100
Examination of records	20
Miscellaneous—	80
1. Legal service	25
2. Cemeteries	15
Total Township Fund	$1 690

Estimate of Township Funds To Be Raised

Estimated expenditures as above, $1,690.

Working balance at end of year to meet necessary expenditures until receipts of revenue from taxation, none.

Total, $1,690.

Amount necessary to be raised by taxation, $1,690.

ROAD FUND

Labor, $2,700.

Road, tools and machines $50.

Bridges and culverts, $100.

Gravel, stone and road material, $2,000.

Miscellaneous, $100.

Total Road Fund, $4,950.

Estimate of Road Fund To Be Raised

Estimate of expenditures, as above, $4,950.

Working balance at end of year to meet necessary expenditures until receipts of revenue from taxation, $450.

Total, $5,400.

Balance at end of this year, $250.

Total deductions, $250.

Amount necessary to be raised by taxation, $4,950.

SPECIAL SCHOOL FUND

Repair of buildings and paint, $200.

School furniture and supplies, $200.

Fuel for school houses, $1,200.

Special School Fund debt, $1,400.

Payment of interest, $686.

Insurance, $150.

Transportation, $2,650.

Teachers' Institutes, $350.

Janitor service, $1,100.

Miscellaneous—

1. Janitor's supplies, $100.
2. Light and power, $700.
3. Repair of equipment, $100.

Total special School Fund, $8,786.

Estimate Of Special School Fund To Be Raised

Estimate of expenditures as above, $8,786.

Working balance at end of year to meet necessary expenditures until receipts of revenue from taxation, $3,000.

Total, $11,786.

Balance at end of this year, $3,000.

Total deductions, $3,000.

Amount necessary to be raised by taxation, $8,786.

BOND FUND

Payment of bonds, $2,500.

Payment of interest, $1,600.

Total Bond Fund, $4,100.

Estimate of Bond Fund To Be Raised

Estimate of expenditures, as above, $4,100.

Working balance at end of year to meet necessary expenditures until receipts of revenue from taxation, $400.

Total, $4,500.

Balance at end of this year, $400.

Total deductions, $400.

Amount necessary to be raised by taxation, $4,100.

LIBRARY FUND

Books, binding and periodicals, $100.

Supplies, postage, express, freight, $20.

Total Library Fund, $120.

Estimate of Library Fund To Be Raised

Estimate of expenditures, as above, $120.

Working balance at end of year to meet necessary expenditures until receipts of revenue from taxation, $50.

Total, $170.

Balance at end of this year, $50.

Total deductions, $50.

Amount necessary to be raised by taxation, $120.

TUITION FUND

Pay of teachers, $7,250.

Total Tuition Fund, $7,250.

Estimate Of Tuition Fund To Be Raised

Estimate of expenditures as above, $7,250.

Working balance at end of year to meet necessary expenditures until receipts of revenue from taxation, $4,000.

Total, $11,250.

Balance at end of this year, $4,000.

Total deductions, $4,000.

Amount necessary to be raised by taxation, $7,250.

POOR FUND

To Reimburse County, $100.

Estimate Of Poor Fund To Be Raised

Estimate of expenditures as above, $ 100.

Working balance at end of year to meet necessary expenditures until receipts of revenue from taxation, $50.

Total, $150.

Balance at end of this year, $50.

Total deductions, $50.

Amount necessary to be raised by taxation, $100.

Proposed Levies

Net taxable property, $2,178,633.

Number of taxable polls, 133.

Township Fund—Levy on property, 8 cents; amount to be raised, $1,690.

Road Fund—Levy on property, 30 cents; amount to be raised $4,950.

Special School Fund—Levy on polls, $1.00; levy on property, 40 cents; amount to be raised, $8,786.

Bond Fund—Levy on property, 19 cents; amount to be raised, $4,100.

Library Fund—Levy on property, ½%; amount to be raised, $120.

Tuition Fund—Levy on polls, $1.00; levy on property, 33 cents; amount to be raised, $7,250.

Poor Fund—Levy on property, ½%; amount to be raised, $100.

Comparative Statement Of The Taxes Collected And To Be Raised

Shows Amounts Collected Last Three Years

Township Fund—Collected 1925 levy, -1,390.00; collected 1926 levy, $940.00; collected 1927 levy, $665.00; to be collected 1928 levy, $1,690.00.

Road Fund—Collected 1925 levy, $3,850.00; collected 1926 levy, $3,750.00; collected 1927 levy, $2,700.00; to be collected 1928 levy, $4,950.00.

Special School Fund—Collected 1925 levy, $9,200.00; collected 1926 levy, $9,825.00; collected 1927 levy, $9,050.00; to be collected 1928 levy, $8,786.00.

Bond Fund—Collected 1925 levy, $1,635.00; collected 1927 levy, $5,322.00; to be collected 1928 levy, $4,100.00.

Library Fund—Collected 1925 levy, $237.00; collected 1927 levy, $110.00; to be collected 1928 levy, $120.

Tuition Fund—Collected 1925 levy, $8,300.00; collected 1926 levy $9,200.00; collected 1927 levy, $9,500.00; to be collected 1928 levy, $7,250.00.

Poor Fund—To be collected 1928 levy, $100.00.

Total—Collected 1925 levy, $24,612;.00 collected 1926 levy, $23,715.00; collected 1927 levy, $27,347.00; to be collected 1928 levy, $26,996.00.

Taxpayers appearing shall have a right to be heard thereon. After the tax levies have been determined, ten or more taxpayers, feeling themselves aggrieved by such levies, may appeal to the State Board of Tax Commissioners for further and final action thereon, by filing a petition therefor with the County Auditor not later than the fourth Monday of September, and theState Board will fix a date of hearing in this County.

Dated August 15, 1927,

O. K. SHULL,

Trustee Concord Township.

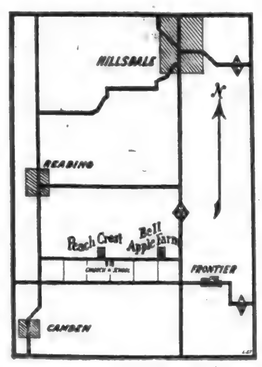
ANOTHER CHURCH BODY ASKS PARDON FOR SHUMAKER

Marion, Ind., Aug. 15.—A resolution in suport of the Rev. E. S. Shumaker, Anti-Saloon League superintendent of the Supreme court, and which also complimented the two judges who dissented from the opinion, was adopted by the state conference of the Methodist Protestant Church here tonight. The resolution petitioned Governor Ed Jackson to grant Shumaker a pardon and a copy of it will be sent to the Governor.

"We believe Sabbath desecration, dancing, card playing, trashy literature and the picture show are a nuisance to all spiritual life, we register our convictions against them," the resolution said. The conference assures the Rev. Shumaker of its profound sympathy and confidence in him and rejoices in the courageous stand of Judge Gemill and Judge Martin."

PEACH CREST

P. O. and Phone Camden, Mich.



ORDER CANNING PEACHES NOW

We notify you when to come for them. Its mutual. Yoy know where your peaches are coming from, and we know our market. If not ordered, we must pick a little greener, and have them in a safe stage of maturity for merchants and truckers to handle.

DEWEYS NOW. Carmen (white) and St. John next. Then South Havens, Elberta, New Prolific, Kalamazoo, Champion and Lemon Free.

W. S. PULLEN & SONS

The resolution also declared that Arthur L. Gilliom, attorney general, "has proved disappointing in the high office entrusted to him."

Numerous other denominational groupes have passed similar resolutions and sixty pastors offered themselves as substitutes to serve the sentence. That shows how public sentiment is.

KNISELY REUNION AT FAIR GROUNDS

The second reunion of the Knisely family was held on the Hicksville fair grounds, Sunday, August 14th, with 132 relatives and friends present. After a bountiful dinner a short program was given. A unanimous vote was taken to retain the same officers another year. They are as follows:

J. S. Knisely, Edon, Ohio, president; S. S. Knisely, Sandusky, Ohio, vice president; Nona B. Pearson, Antwerp, secretary.

Those who were not able to be present were S. S. Knisely and family of Sandusky, O., Mr. and Mrs. Fred Papenfus, Fostoria, O., and Mrs. Lydia Soule, Rising Sun, Ohio.

One marriage, four births and three deaths were reported. The next reunion will be held at the same place August 12, 1928.

Nona B. Pearson, Secy.

Daily papers at News office and magazines galore.

The Sunday Chicago Herald and Examiner now on sale at News office. 4tf.

PHONE 290

Stanley P. Nelson Monuments

Opposite Woodlawn and Roselawn Cemeteries

AUBURN, IND.

COBURN REUNION HELD LAST SUNDAY

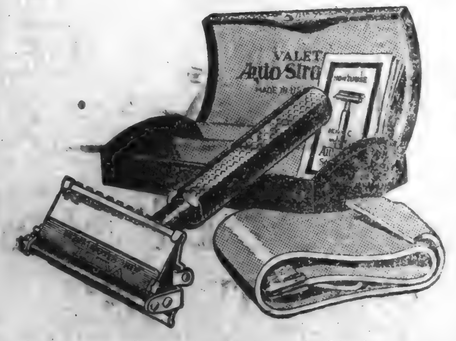
The twelfth annual reunion of the Coburn family was held Sunday, August 14th at the Alton community grove, two miles east of St. Joe.

Nearly 250 members were present. A basket dinner was served at the noon hour and later a program of songs and reading of the history of the Coburn family. Estell Coburn, of Hicksville, Ohio, president, presided during the program and business session when the following officers for the ensuing year were elected:

President, Victor Dermott; vice president, JohnCoburn; secretaries Mark Murphy and Lena Meek; treasurer, Forest Dermott.

The reunion will be held next year the second Sunday in August at the same place. Those from a distance were from California, Vermont, Tennessee, Alabama and Michigan.

Safety Razors FREE



We have 150 Auto Strop Safety Razors that we are giving away free, one to each new subscriber paid a year in advance or to any subscriber who pays one year in advance. This offer only good while the supply lasts. Call quick and get yours.

THE ST. JOE NEWS

Week after week—fifty-two of them—it will bring into your home all the local news of people and events, and all the worth-knowing high spots from the wide world outside. Feature stories, new pictures and cartoons. The value to you and every member of the family is great—but the cost is practically nothing.

$1.50 a YEAR. 6 months 75c.

AUGUST

L 915 0514

We want your NEWS ITEMS and appreciate your calling—We can't get all the items of interest unless you do h e l p Phone in and give your news.

ST. JOE NEWS.

This week in THE NEWS are many good offers—Read them thy're interesting. Keep up with trend of business in St. Joe—READ THE ADS.

VOL.. XLI. ST. JOE, DeKALB COUNTY, INDIANA, THURSDAY, AUGUST 25, 1927 NUMBER 34

GRABILL BANK TO RE-OPEN SOON

Prospects are that the Grabill State bank will again resume operation in about thirty days.

There will be no loss to depositors or stockholders in the bank and the institution will resume without change in its board of directors, it was announced.

The committee which conferred with Barr, the bank examiner, was comprised of B. E. Disler, A. Neuenschwander, Jerry Klopfenstein and Harry Schwartz. The Harlan State bank, which has been acting as receiver, will continue to handle the affairs of the Grabill bank until the re-opening, which is expected to take place in about thirty days. Frozen assets were declared to be the reason for the suspension of business.

Business men of Grabill have signified their intention of supporting the bank and after the resumption of business it is expected to be in a prosperous condition.

FAREWELL PARTY AND DINNER SUNDAY

Class No. 4 of the Lutheran Sunday School gave a dinner on Sunday in the church basement honoring their teacher, John Sechler and his family, who are soon leaving for their new home at Kendallville. A social hour and and short program were enjoyed following the dinner. As a little memorial of friendship the class gave their teacher a beautiful pearl-handled knife, and wished him success and health as he moved to his new home.

NEW AND TESTED RECIPES FOR LADIES OF THE NEWS

LEMON FROSTING

1 cup sugar
¼ cup water
¼ cup lemon juice
2 stiffly beaten egg whites

Boil sugar, water and lemon juice without stiring until syrup spins a permanent thread. Remove from heat and let stand while beating egg whites. Pour syrup slowly over beaten egg-whites, beating until frosting is stiff enough to spread.

CARD OF THANKS

We hereby express our sincere thanks and appreciation to the neighbors and friends for their sympathy and helpfulness during the death of our Mother.

Mrs. Adrian Miller,
Mrs. Lillie Boger,
Aaron, Mamie and Ross Bair.

HOME COMING FOR ST. JOE, SEPTEMBER 3

In all probability there will be no event in DeKalb county this summer that will eclipse the Home Coming at St. Joe, on Saturday, These Home Comings have been growing in interest on each occasion.

More and more people are looking forward to a visit to the old home town, and this year is not going to be any exception to the rule.

This week four hundred postal cards were sent out to remind people to arrange their vacation for this big "love feast."

People who have lived in any immediate vicinity of St. Joe can claim an invitation and are asked to come, bring their families and friends.

The following gives you an idea of the program for the day, but next week will bring the program in full detail:—

Band—9:00 o'clock.
Ball Game—10:00 o'clock.
Band—1 o'clock.
Solo—Joe Woodcox, 1:30 o'clock.
Speech—Rev. J. N. Scholes, 1:40.
Parade—2:30.
Sports—3:30.
Horse Shoe—4:30.
Band—7:30.
Piano Selections, Albert Numbers, Radio Artist, 7:30.
Miss Kilpatrick, Fancy Dancing, 8:00 oclock.
Parnell String Band, WOWO Artists, Floyd Saylor, Director, 8:20 o'clock.
Dance—10:00 o'clock.

MAN COMES TO LIFE, WIFE DIES OF SHOCK

Perry C. Thomas, 74, a farmer, was pronounced dead by a physician in Findlay, after a year's illness. Mrs. Thomas, 67, standing by the bedside, screamed at the doctor's words.

The sound roused Thomas, who opened his eyes and attempted to rise.

Seeing her husband apparently returning to life, Mrs. Thomas collapsed and died shortly thereafter of heart disease.

The undertaker, who had been sommoned to care for Thomas' body, moved instead, the body of his wife.

Three hours later, Thomas died.

WIDNEY REUNION HELD LAST THURSDAY

The eighth annual reunion of the Widney family was held at Eckhart Park, on Thursday, August 18th. A social hour, basket dinner and program were enjoyed by nearly sixty persons who were present to make the day a joyous one in spite of the rainy weather.

Those present from a distance were Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Potter, son and daughter and Mrs. Hiram Reasoner, of Zion, Illinois, Mr. and Mrs. Lyman Widney of Melrose Park, Ill., and Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Brotherton, Jasper Brotherton and Mrs. Marie Tilton all of Delphos, Ohio.

INCREASE TO BE MADE IN TAX LEVY

Reduction In Value Of Farm Land In DeKalb County To Force Rate Of Taxation Higher

The county tax levy, including the gravel road fund, will be increased 5 cents on the $100 valuation by the county council when it holds its annual meeting September 6, if the budget submited by the county officials is approved.

The increase proposed is due to the 15 per cent reduction in the taxable valuation of farm lands ordered by the state board of tax commissioners. This cut reduces the average value per acre from $60.90 to $50.76, exclusive of improvements, and the total cut is $2,046,416.

The total levy was reduced last year from 40 to 38 cents. The proposed levy for 1928 is 43 cents. This would be divided as follows: county fund, 24 cents; county gravel road repair fund, 15 cents; and county unit road bond fund and interest, 4 cents.

It is estimated that $105,438.25 is needed for the county fund in 1928, as compared with $94,923.25 this year. The increase is made necessary by the general election, which is estimated to cost the county $12,000.

The amount estimated to be needed for the gravel road repair fund in 1928 is $60,000, as compared with $56,000 this year. The levy is to be increased from 13 to 15 cents, if the recommendation of the county officials is followed. However, the estimated cost of gravel road maintenance per mile will be reduced from $275 to $255, Byron Platt, county highway superintendent, predicts. He states that this is due to the use of modern equipment and he points out that by the end of this year the county's tractor and grader, in use for three seasons, will be paid for from the rent received for use from township trustees and road contractors.

The gravel road repair levy has remained at 13 cents since the county road mileage was 150. The number of miles maintained by the county was 254 at the beginning of 1927 and this will be increased to 321 by the first of 1928.

The State Board of Accounts field examiners working in this county this winter stated that there were more road projects in DeKalb county than any in which they had worked. This has caused much additional work for the county commissioners, surveyor, auditor and highway superintendent.

The new budget provides for the payment directly from the county treasury of the county surveyor and the members of his staff, in compliance with the 1927 acts of the legislature. The county will be reimbursed from the assessments for projects handled by the county surveyor.

CHAIN GARAGES TO OPERATE IN INDIANA

Chicago, Ill., Aug. 24.—Announcement was made today that 48 towns in Indiana have been selected as locations for units of a nation-wide chain of grages now being esablished throughout the United States.

These cities were selected, it was stated, after a survey of highways and the average flow of inter-city and inter-state automobile traffic throughout the state.

According to an estimate made by 862 automobile associations, 1927 is expected to set record figures for motoring, it being estimated that 40,000,000 people will be out on the highways—for business and pleasure—in 10,000,000 cars. This traffic movement and its steady growth each year is responsible, it is said, for the establishment of a country-wide chain of bonded garages rendering a nationally standardized insured attomotive service.

"In locations where satisfactory chain affiliations can not be made with established local garages", said Mr. J. M. Cohtes, general manager of the chain company, "our plan includes the building of super-service stations for motorists' needs."

The chain of bonded garages is already operating more than 200 units in 14 states, and the additional locations are said to be included in the 1927 expansion program of the chain company.

BUTLER YOUNG MAN DIES

Robert Eldon of Butler, age 35, died Saturday afternoon at 5:45, from heart trouble. He was taken sick suddenly Saturday morning at 11 o'clock in the dry goods store which he and his father operated. Mr. Eldon went to the home of a neighbor to lay down for a rest because Mrs. Eldon was visiting in Kendallville. Mrs. Eldon was notified when her husband's condition became serious, arriving in Butler shortly after his death. Funeral was held from the home Tuesday afternoon. He is known here, at one time having the Dodge Automobile Agency and he placed a number of cars in this community.

GETS JUDGEMENT FOR PAY

A judgment of $1,425 was entered in the DeKalb circuit court Monday in the suit of Oscar Burnier of Auburn, against George H. Horrell. The case was dismissed by the plaintiff as against Herman Reasoner. Richard W. Sharpless is attorney for the plaintiff and Horrell defaulted. The plaintiff said he was employed by Reasoner and Horrell to sell foxes, his pay to be $25 a week and $75 for each pair of foxes sold; that he worked twenty-five weeks and sold twenty-five pairs of foxes, but was paid only $590.

SMALL WRECK ON WABASH

A small wreck occurred on the Wabash Saturday morning, when a south bound freight was entering the switch, a number of cars refused to follow the engine and went down main track, two of which were loaded with coal. The Montpelier wrecker was called before any move could be made to allow the B. & O. to operate, hence No. 5 and a number of freights were held up. What caused the trouble has not been determined.

LAUNCHES INTO BUSINESS

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Sailer spent from Thursday until Saturday with their son, Ray and wife at Elkhart, who brought them home and remaned over Sunday. They all spent the day in the Don Keller home. Ray is entering into business for himself on September first, having purchased a grocery on the Lincoln Highway west, just out of the city.

WALKER FARM IS SOLD

The administrator's sale of the Milo Walker 20 acre farm was held Monday by E. R. Kinsey at the farm, and Mrs. Bernice Wilder bid $1,175. While the buildings are nothing extra, the location is fine with gravel road on two sides, and church across the road.

BISHOP PROPERTY SOLD

Frank Curie has contracted for the purchase of the M. T. Bishop property, from the heirs at $1,600. The papers will be made out and possession given September 10th.

NOTICE OF ADMINISTRATION

No. 3216

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN, That the undersigned has been appointed by the Judge of the DeKalb Circuit Court, of the State of Indiana, Administrator, with the will annexed of the Estate of Kate A. Leighty deceased, late of said County.

Said Estate is supposed to be solvent.

JOHN R. LEIGHTY, Adm.
With Will Annexed.

August 19, 1927.
C. M. Brown, Atty 34t3.

Marvin Poper and family took Sunday dinner with Mrs. Poper's brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Lafe Bailey at Auburn.

S. S. Widney spent the past week in the Marion Smith home at Auburn, attending the Widney reunion on Thursday at Eckhart Park.

THREE REUNIONS SCHEDULED FOR NEXT SUNDAY

The second reunion of the Milliman family will be held at Altons Grove, one and one-half mile east of St. Joe. Frank Milliman, president and Marguerite Hurcules, secretary.

The ninth annual reunion of the Volkert family will be held at Riverside Park, Antwerp, Ohio. Charles Volkert, is president, and Froda Volkert, secretary.

The eleventh gathering of the Shull family will be held at Lakeside Park, Fort Wayne. President, Willis Enenger, Mrs. Doris Stuck, secretary.

NEW PUMPING STATION AT ST. JOE RIVER

Mr. Philips, superintendent of construction of pumping stations on B. & O. railroad, is here about to commence the construction of a new water station near St. Joe river. The plant will be electric throughout and of the latest type. The water will be chemically treated. A tank and pen stalk will be erected for the taking of water by the trains.

You can get transfer paper at News office in large or small sheets.

OPTOMETRY—ITS VALUE TO THE PUBLIC

By Ed W. Hicks, Optometrist and Optician

An ethical Optometrist does not feature the price of his service?

No, he is not able to do so even if he had the desire, which he has not.

Then an Optometrical service has no definite, fixed value before the nature of the service required is determined by an examination?

No, until the examination is completed no idea of the nature of the service required can be known even to the Optometrist. For that reason he cannot quote prices in advance.

(To be continued.)

ED. W. HICKS
AUBURN
"OUR SPECIALTY — COMFORTABLE VISION"

Buy COAL Now

Do not wait until cold weather when it will be higher, and if the strike continues, SCARCER.

LUMBER--CEMENT--PAINT ROOFING AND SHINGLES

FIGURE WITH US ON YOUR BUILDING MATERIAL.
WE HAVE A FULL LINE AT OUR LUMBER YARD

Bring Your Wheat to Us

WE ARE PAYING HIGHEST MARKET PRICES

NATHAN Grain Co.
St. Joe's New Lumber Yard
Call By Phone for Prices — Bert Jackson, Mgr.

Old Fences Made New At Slight Expense

IT DOESN'T take much time nowadays to keep fence lines stock-tight and in good repair. Not if you use these quick driven Red Top Steel Posts.

You can drive 20 or 30 Red Tops in an hour. And the fencing is attached in a jiffy so that it will never pull away. This means that you can get a lot of fence repaired even in odd moments.

It's pretty risky business letting fence lines go hang while waiting for a time when work is slack to put them in shape. The damage to stock or crops that can come from just one weak spot may be larger than the entire expense of keeping the fences in good shape. An ounce of prevention is certainly worth while here.

Keep a small stock of Red Tops on hand and get one of these One-Man Drivers. Then when you see a wood post going bad simply drive a Red Top alongside, take out the wood post and fasten the fencing to the steel post. These Red Tops will stop any farm critter you've got on your place.

We personally guarantee Red Tops and we are authorized to make adjustments promptly. Red Tops are not an experiment. They are a proved success and have been giving a good account of themselves in thousands of farm fence lines.

We picked the Red Top line because we believe it is the best value. That's the way we try to buy all lines of goods. We expect our business to grow on the basis of giving you a full dollar's worth for every dollar you spend. Come in and see us when you're in town. Get our prices on posts and the other materials you're needing. Prices are mighty reasonable now on posts and other special items.

Red Top
GUARANTEED
Double Strength Studded Tee Steel Fence Posts

Spencerville Lumber & Supply Co.
SPENCERVILLE, IND.

Alumninum Ware Preserving Kettles

In our window you will see displayed a new assortment of preserving kettles all measured off on the side and plainly marked for the convenience of the housewife. It is considered the most handy and accureate measuring device that can be used in such work, saving considerable of extra work. You will appreciate them when you look in our window and note the sizes.

6 Quart Kettle Sells For..... $ .79c.
8 Quart Kettle Sells For..... .89c.
10 Quart Kettle Sells For..... 1.19c
12 Quart Sells For..... 1.39c

"KIP"

Kills Insects, Pests, Ants, Lice, Roaches, Mosquitoes, Bed Bugs, Moths, 1 can and Spray at..... 85c

SPORTING GOODS

This is the season of the year when sporting goods are in demand and we have stocked up so as to be able to meet the demands. Here are some of the GOODS we are showing:

BASE BALLS—TENNIS BALLS—GLOVES
RACKET—FISHING TACKLE AND GUNS

Porch Swings at - $3.50 Up

E. R. KINSEY, Hardware Furniture

AUGUST

L 915 U515

Army Band Is Going to Tour the Country

The United States Army band, organized by Gen. John J. Pershing when he was chief of staff, and now rated as one of the best military bands in the world, will tour the country this fall, giving concerts at a number of the principal cities. The band is shown above, playing in Washington; and inset is its leader, Capt. William J. Stannard.

"Old Glory" Ready for Flight to Rome

The plane Old Glory at Hasbrouck Heights, N. J., ready for its flight to Rome with Lloyd Bertaud and J. D. Hill as pilots.

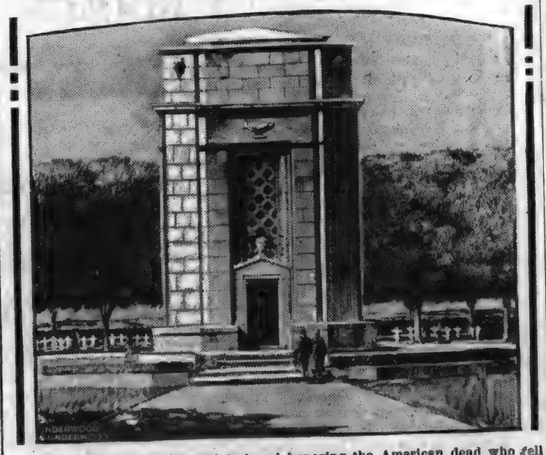
MISS PHILADELPHIA

Kathleen Coyle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Coyle, who has been chosen as "Miss Philadelphia" for the 1927 Pageant of Beauty at Atlantic City.

ANOTHER TENNIS STAR

Photograph shows Miss Helen Jacobs of Berkeley, Calif., in action against Helen Wills, also of Berkeley.

American Chapel for Flanders Field



This design for a memorial chapel honoring the American dead who fell at Flanders field, near Waereghem, Belgium, by Paul P. Cret of Philadelphia, has been accepted by the American battle monuments commission headed by General Pershing.

Savage Hawk Attacks a Policeman

Patrolman James Dooley of Revere, Mass., nearly had his eyes scratched out when this four-foot hen-hawk which he is holding swooped down on his head and started to dig in. Bare-handed he fought the bird until a timely shot from Patrolman Rizzo's revolver ended the hawk's life.

A Bright Idea

Office Boy—A life insurance salesman to see you, sir.

The Boss—Tell him I'll see him as soon as I've taken my tuberculosis medicine.

More Ammunition

Gypsy—You want to know about your future husband, beautiful lady?

Visitor—No, I want to know something about the past of my present husband for future use!

S'All Right

Guest—I told you to call me at seven! What's the idea of pounding at my door at five?

Bell Hop—I'm just nailing it up, sir, until you pay your hotel bill!

Not So Slow

First Girl—Can't you drive that auto yet? Why, Jack has been giving you lessons for over a month!

Second Girl—Yes, I know—but he hasn't proposed yet.

Grain Marketed by Coöperation

Shows Greatest Development in Farmers' Elevators in Western States.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Co-operative marketing of grain in the United States shows its greatest development, from the standpoint of the volume of business handled, in farmers' co-operative elevators, of which there are more than 3,300 listed with the United States Department of Agriculture. Most of them appeared in the Middle Western states. Farmers' elevators are most numerous, in Illinois, Iowa, Kansas, Nebraska, North Dakota, Minnesota, South Dakota, Ohio and Missouri. There are a few co-operative warehouses in eastern Washington which receive and market grain. Some attempts have been made by farm organizations to form federations of local elevators, but on the whole these attempts have not been successful.

Organize Wheat Pools.

A total of 16 wheat pools have been organized since 1920, but only 9 of these were active in 1925. The first association was formed in Washington and a second association was formed in Idaho in 1920. Organizations were set up in Oregon, Montana, Oklahoma and Kansas the following year. In 1922 the Arizona, California, Colorado, Nebraska, North Dakota and Texas associations were organized. South Dakota and Minnesota did not organize until 1923, and the most recently organized association, that of the Central states soft wheat growers, began operating in 1924.

The wheat pools quite generally utilize the facilities of the farmers' elevators in receiving and forwarding grain to market. Several of the associations lease or own terminal facilities for the handling of grain, while certain of the pools are now considering, or have already organized, subsidiaries for the acquisition and operation of country elevators.

Organize Sales Agencies.

A number of attempts to organize co-operative sales agencies have been unsuccessful, but in spite of this other associations organized for the same purpose have been successful. There are at the present time at least four central selling agencies operating on our principal grain markets, as well as several sales agencies which serve only certain of the wheat pools.

The total volume of business handled by all co-operative grain marketing associations in 1925 was $750,000,000, transacted for 520,000 members.

Some Species of Hawks Beneficial to Farmers

Not all hawks are harmful, in the sense that they are supposed to be; that is, in catching chickens and song birds and quail. The biological survey of the United States Department of Agriculture points out that there are a number of different species of hawks, and the food habits of all are not the same. Some prey almost entirely upon small mammals, such as mice, ground squirrels, and rabbits, whereas the food of others consists chiefly of birds. The latter are the species that are responsible for the bad reputation of all hawks. The bird eaters should be killed at every opportunity, but it is equally important that the others be spared, for they do a great deal of good in destroying small-animal pests of the farmer. The bird-eating hawks include the Cooper hawk and the sharp-shinned hawk, and these species prefer to capture their prey by swift, fierce darts from the concealment of thick foliage. Most of the other hawks are beneficial to the farmer.

Agricultural Items

The only good corn borer is a dead one.

• • •

A barn owl makes a valuable mouse catcher.

• • •

Sharp tools save power, power costs money, hence—?

• • •

Send for experiment station bulletins on fertilizers and soils. They will help your garden.

• • •

The crop that suffers most for proper cultivation is the crop of country boys and girls.

• • •

Competition may be the life of trade, but co-operation will certainly add vigor to the life of farming.

• • •

Wool should be stored in a clean, dry place until it is sold. It should never be stored in a basement.

• • •

The farmer who has no more live stock than a chicken on the farm should have a permanent pasture.

• • •

Sweet clover may be sown alone in the fall like alfalfa. If sown in wheat it should not be seeded until spring.

• • •

Discouraged farmers have this consoling encouragement: When you are at the bottom of the grade the only way you can look is up.

• • •

If wire fences are grounded to permanent moisture every five or ten rods the danger of stock being killed while near the fence during a thunderstorm is materially decreased.

Discarded Mower Is Easily Put in Shape

Little Time and Money Will Put Machine in Order.

Many times an old mower is discarded as worn out when a little time and money spent in replacing worn parts and adjusting the machine would put it in first-class shape again, it is pointed out by R. I. Shawl of the farm mechanics department, college of agriculture, University of Illinois. Mower troubles can be classed under three main heads, namely: heavy draft, side draft and uneven or ragged stubble.

Heavy draft is caused from lack of lubrication, dull sickle, wear and side draft due to improper adjustment of the cutter bar parts. The cutter bar with the sickle and other cutting parts is the chief source of trouble. Side draft is due to a dragging back on the cutter bar of the uncut hay or grass and insufficient tension on the supporting spring to the cutter bar. A dull sickle in a properly adjusted cutter bar will not give side draft.

"In adjusting the cutter bar parts see that the guards are all in line. A hammer may be used to drive the guards back in line. The ledger plates must be held in place tightly and the edges must be sharp. The clips must hold the sickle sections down against the ledger plate so that the cutting will be done without chewing the stalks. The sickle sections should always center in the guards at the end of each stroke.

"Sickle breaking is a trouble experienced in some mowers and is usually due to the worn condition of the wearing plates, clips and guides that hold the sickle head in place. Adjustments for taking up this wear are provided on all mowers."

Efficient and Uniform Toxicity Made for Rats

According to results of experiments conducted jointly by the bureaus of biological survey and chemistry of the United States Department of Agriculture, a powder can be made from dried red-squill bulbs which has an efficient and uniform toxicity for rats, but at the same time apparently does not unduly endanger human beings or domestic animals.

The use of powdered red squill for the destruction of rats is comparatively recent in this country, although the poison has been in limited use in Europe for centuries. It has never come into popular use, however, even there, because of its tendency to vary greatly in potency. Several of the factors influencing its toxicity have been developed during the course of the present investigation. Officials of the Department of Agriculture anticipate that these experiments will be of material assistance in the production of a uniform and stable squill product. This poison should greatly benefit the poultrymen and farmers generally who hesitate to use some of the commercial rat poisons on account of the attending danger to live stock.

Best Time to Make Hay From Red Clover Crop

The time to make hay from sweet clover is either the year after it is sown or the same fall it is sown. The best hay is obtained the same fall. Ordinarily it should be cut in September. It can be cut as late as October 1, if the weather at that time is suitable for curing the hay. The crop need not be cut any higher than any other hay crop.

In the late summer, the sweet clover plants form numerous large buds at the crowns which produce the next year's crop, and after these buds are well formed the sweet clover is ready for the winter, and taking off the season's growth does not injure it.

The second season, sweet clover must be cut high to keep from killing it. Two or three green leaves and branches should be left on the stubble. A thin stand of plants can be cut lower than a thick stand.

Farmers Being Urged to Cast Vote for Alfalfa

John Brown, agricultural agent in Owen county, Kentucky, taking advantage of the open political season, is urging farmers to cast their votes for Mr. Al Falfa. He says that if Mr. Al Falfa is elected he promises to do many things of real benefit to agriculture. Some of his promises follow:

"1. If elected I promise to put more dollars in the pockets of farmers.

"2. I will see to it that we have better luck with sheep, because we will have better feed.

"3. I promise to gather nitrogen from the air and store it in the soil, thereby building up fertility."

And he will make good. Vote for him.

Destroy Cutworms by Use of Poison and Plowing

The Iowa station reports that farmers have successfully controlled cutworm and army-worm invasions by broadcasting a poison mash with an endgate seeder. This mash is easily prepared from the following formula: Wheat bran, 20 to 25 pounds; paris green or sodium fluoride, 1 pound; cheap molasses, 2 pounds, and water, 2 gallons. Early fall plowing of grass and pasture land hits the worms in their weakest spot, however, as it destroys a large part of the available food supply for late fall and early spring feeding.

What's the Answer?

Questions No. 13

1—Who used the pen name George Eliot?

2—What was the longest game in the American league?

3—How many secretaries of state became Presidents and who were they?

4—What state was named for a king of England of the House of Stuart and who was he?

5—What is biology?

6—In what branch of painting, besides portraits, was Thomas Gainsborough celebrated?

7—What is the name of the largest lake in Russia?

8—What country is the turkey a native of and how many species are there?

9—How many letters are there in the French alphabet?

10—Where in the Bible does this verse occur: "And he set the sea on right side of the east end, over against the south"?

11—Which of Tolstoy's novels deals with Russia's wars with Napoleon I?

12—What is record and who made it for one mile walking?

13—Who was the last President elected by the Whig party?

14—What Confederate general led a raid into Ohio during the Civil war?

15—What is chemistry?

16—What master among composers wrote many of his greatest works after becoming almost totally deaf?

17—What country has the greatest irregularity in outline?

18—What is a tulip and how many species are there of it?

19—Where is the Basque language spoken?

20—Where is the word "show" spelled "shew"?

Answers No. 12

1—Harvard.

2—California, Florida.

3—Dr. William Eustis in James Madison's administration.

4—By the washing up of particles of rock broken away by the action of water.

5—The deepest spot in the Atlantic is 27,366 feet; in the Pacific it is 30,000 feet.

6—Jealousy between the adherents of the tragedians, William Charles Macready and Edwin Forrest, on the occasion of the visit of the former to New York city in 1849.

7—West Indies.

8—Henry James.

9—George Washington.

10—Only when the companies cease business.

11—William Dean Howells.

12—Grove of the Athletics.

13—A native fish of the southeast of Asia, remarkable for its pugnacious propensities.

14—A phantom ship said to be seen in stormy weather off the Cape of Good Hope, and thought to forebode ill luck.

15—Samuel Colt, 1836

16—January 1, 1915.

17—Leonardo da Vinci.

18—Northern United States and Canada.

19—Benedict Arnold.

20—Manufacturing, agriculture and mercantile business.

Effect of Sanitation on Literary Manners

Literary manners have altered, not only as a result of the enlargement of the audience—though that was bound to have an important effect on literature—but as a result of changes in the manners and customs of everyday life.

The increase of privacy, the improvement of sanitation, the growing custom of cleanliness both of habits and of the body, and the abolition of many gross usages, have resulted in making many things that once were the comic contretemps of ordinary life seem now merely offensive irrelevancies.

Probably improved sanitation has had more influence on literary manners than anyone yet suspects.

You will notice that what its enemies call prudery is most general in countries in which sanitation has made the greatest progress.

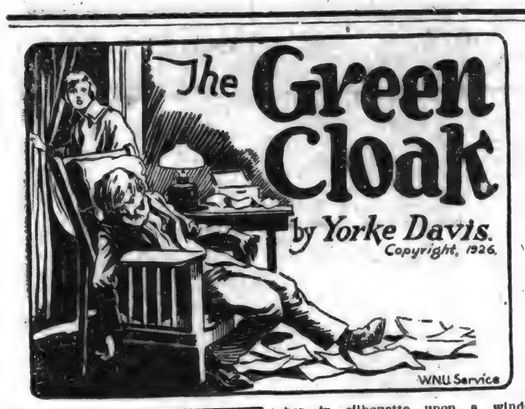
If Rabelais were to return as an Englishman or an American today, he would probably find himself blushing like a Victorian girl at having made some of his own jokes. This is not to belittle the jokes of Rabelais, but merely to recognize that the manners and convictions that were the natural soil of many of those jokes no longer exist today.—Robert Lynd in the Atlantic Monthly.

Coin Bank Idea Old

The use of coin banks as thrift inculcators can be traced back far beyond the Christian era. Probably the oldest coin bank is that found by Count de Prorok and now in possession of the National City bank. This savings utensil, which is in the form of a closed urn of baked clay with a slit in the top, was found in the ruins of Utica, an ancient Phoenician city on the African coast near Carthage. It is believed to be at least 2,500 years old.

AUGUST

L 913 0516



STORY FROM THE START

Dr. Ronald McAlister, famous in his special work,—applied psychology—employs his leisure time in the elucidation of crime mysteries. As the narrative opens he is interested in the murder, in the small town of Oak Ridge, of a recluse, Henry Morgan. With a young friend, who tells the story, and Ashton, assistant district attorney, who is working on the case, he outlines the tragedy while at dinner in The Meredith hotel.

CHAPTER II

—2—

No one could deny my old chief a sense of humor, but his possession of it did not always prevent him from taking literally a remark intended to be jocular. He waited in perfect silence until Ashton laid down his fish fork and took his first sip of coffee. Then he pounced upon him like a cat.

"So you want my help, do you? Well, I'm glad of that. I'm glad that at last there's a district attorney's office in this country advanced enough to use applied psychology in the detection of crime. I'm at your service absolutely, Phelps, here, and I will do all we can for you. But you must tell us all about the case first."

Ashton laughed. "I'm sorry to disappoint you, but the fact is that when I spoke of wanting your help, I was not thinking of you as a psychologist, but as a New Zealander."

Doctor McAlister frowned.

"What has my being a New Zealander to do with it?"

"Why," said Ashton, "we found some bundles of old newspapers and various other odds-and-ends which seemed to point to Morgan having lived at one time in Wellington, and knowing that you had spent all the early years of your life in those parts, it occurred to me that you might have some connection there which would assist us in tracing him."

"Of course," growled the doctor, "I'll do anything I can for you."

Partly to appease him and partly because the subject was running strongly in his own mind, Ashton talked about little else than the Oak Ridge mystery during all the while we sat at dinner.

"The papers will make a great sensation tomorrow morning," he said, "of the testimony at the inquest of a young man named Harvey. I wish we might have got hold of him before that fool of a coroner did. His testimony sounded like a choice selection of pages from the 'Old Sleuth,' and I am inclined to think that it has just about as much relation to fact. I left Mallory—he's one of the detectives in our office—out in Oak Ridge to keep an eye on him. He's to bring him down to the office in the morning. Until I have questioned hm pretty thoroughly, I sha'n't know whether to believe a word of his tale, or not. Mallory seems half inclined to think that the boy has some active connection with the crime, but that I disbelieve utterly."

"Tell us about him," said the doctor.

"Why, he's a young fellow well known there in town. His parents are eminently pious and respectable, but Willie enjoys the reputation of being a little fast. He's one of these imitation college boys, very well pleased with himself and quite a lady-killer, I judge, from the snickers that went round the room when he testified that he had gone out to call on a young lady and had not found her at home.

"I am telling you all that because it throws something of a light on his testimony. He swore that as he passed the house about nine o'clock, he noticed a light in the upper windows. The shades were down, he said, and in silhouette on one of them he could see old Morgan leaning back in a chair in an unnatural attitude, and with something queer-looking around his throat. That would be interesting enough, and may be true, but hear what he piles onto it. He says he saw the shadow of another figure on the shade, the figure of a woman, who was leaning over Morgan and making strange gestures in the air."

"Well," said the doctor, "may not that be true, too?"

"He might have made us think so if he had stopped there," said Ashton, "but his subsequent testimony made it perfectly clear that he was lying. He told the coroner that after watching that lighted window shade for a few moments, he had walked away and gone straight home, and that was all he knew about it. Then the coroner questioned him more closely as to the appearance of the woman. He described her very fully. He said she was young, pretty, dark, and that she wore a green cloak with a high turned-up collar; and yet, mind you, he had [illegible] that he had only seen her in silhouette upon a window shade.

"That thick-witted deputy coroner seemed to find nothing extraordinary in this description, and did not ask him how he could distinguish black hair from blond, or a green cloak from a yellow by its shadow. And not one of his precious jurors inquired about it, either. So his testimony went entirely unchallenged. Of course I could have spoken up, but I was only too glad to let the thing go until tomorrow morning, when I shall have the young man to myself."

I could see by the wrinkles about the doctor's eyes that his good humor was returning. "So it's perfectly clear to you, is it," he asked, "that this young man, according to his lights, wasn't telling the exact truth? You rail at the coroner and his jury, you people who walk in darkness and might see a great light and won't. Haven't you any category in your mind at all between truth and lies? Don't you allow for any margin of illusion?"

"Illusion!" Ashton snorted. "Do you really believe that a man could testify as Harvey did, in perfectly good faith? Do you believe a sane man's mind could play him a trick like that? What was there to give him illusions?"

"Association," said Doctor McAlister bluntly. "The profile he saw in silhouette was associated, in his mind, with some woman with black hair, and the high-collared cloak connected itself in his mind with some cloak of the same shape that he had previously seen, which happened to be green in color. Consequently, he thought of the woman whose shadow he saw upon the shade as a black-haired woman with a green cloak."

It was clear to me that Ashton had been impressed with the reasonableness of Doctor McAlister's explanations, and yet he was unwilling to admit to himself that the impression had been made. Before he could think of any comment that would be sufficiently noncommittal, Doctor McAlister changed the subject.

"You've searched the house pretty thoroughly, I suppose," he said. "Have you found anything besides that vaguely suggested connection with New Zealand that places your man at all? Have you any indication how he passed the time? What sort of books he read, if he read at all, or what he did to amuse himself?"

"He had one queer hobby," said Ashton, "and that was geography. He had literally hundreds of maps, large scale maps of the whole of the southern Pacific."

I saw my chief's eyes light up at that, and waited, with a good deal of interest, for what he meant to say to this rather unpromising looking clew. But just then we were interrupted.

Wilkins came up and bent over his chair. "Doctor Reinhardt has telephoned to you, sir," he said. "Shall I put an instrument on the table?"

"Thank you, Wilkins. Yes, I'll talk with Doctor Reinhardt right here."

A moment later a portable telephone was set down beside the doctor's coffee cup. When he had hung up the receiver, and motioned to a waiter to take the telephone away, he turned to me—

"Reinhardt says he's got a queer case out at St. Martin's. He wants me to come out, posthaste, and have a look at it. You'll go with me, won't you? From what he says, it may prove interesting."

I nodded assent, and we both rose from the table.

"You'll excuse us, won't you?" said Doctor McAlister to Ashton. "Look me up in the morning and I'll give you those addresses."

Ashton rose, too. "I suppose you wouldn't care to take me over to the hospital with you?" he hasarded.

My chief looked a little surprised, and, perhaps, for an instantaneous moment, he hesitated; but then he said heartily: "Why, we'd be glad to have you come. Reinhardt won't object, I'm sure, only I'm afraid you may find us rather dull company when we get going on our hobbies."

"I'll go with you as far as the hospital, anyway," Ashton said. "I'd like your company, and, if possible, I'd like to get this confounded murder out of my head for an hour or two. And if you find you don't want a layman about when it comes to examining the patient, why I can wait outside."

It had occurred to me when Ashton expressed his wish to forget the Oak Ridge murder for an hour or two, that he was choosing his company badly in offering to go out to the hospital with us, but I soon found I was mistaken. My chief seemed as little anxious as his guest to discuss the subject that was in all our minds. But it was the late Henry Morgan who provided us with a topic of conversation after all. The suggestion that he might have lived in New Zealand set the doctor off in reminiscence about his own early days spent in that part of the world.

"That was a great country for a boy to spend his childhood in," he said presently, "at least in the days when I was a youngster. That was during the gold rush, you know. They were finding it everywhere. And a wild lot of men they were. And if we had gold hunters ashore, we had pirates, and famous ones, too, afloat. Why, I myself saw Bully Franklin once."

"Was he a pirate?" Ashton inquired politely, but with no great interest.

"Was he a pirate! Well, what does fame amount to? He was a pirate that a British cruiser once spent a whole year looking for, tramping up and down the Pacific on the wildest goose chase that ever a cruiser led."

I was rather glad to get the doctor to talking of something besides the murder, so I pushed along on this topic. "I suppose he got what was coming to him, at last," I remarked.

"Well, I don't know; not poetic justice, certainly. Nothing like what his crimes called for. He was killed as the result of a love affair of his. He made love to a Maori girl that one of his men was interested in, and it's said the fellow bashed his head with a tiller one night as he was coming aboard, up over the side. His crew went all to pieces after that. The authorities got hold of most of them and hanged them in short order."

"How did you happen to see him?" I asked. "I should think a pirate would be rather a difficult man to come to close quarters with."

"Let's see," he answered reflectively. "It was when we were living at Hokitika. My father was manager of a branch of the Union bank there. Franklin put into the harbor and came ashore. I was only a lad then, and a good deal disappointed that he hadn't a long black mustache and a pair of pistols in his belt. He probably had the pistols somewhere, but they didn't show, and he was mild looking enough."

Then he turned suddenly to Ashton. "How old a man did you say this Morgan was?"

"A man apparently about sixty."

"Well, if he was out in that part of the world when I was, he was old enough to have had a rather lively time."

Our cab pulled up at the door to the hospital just then, and we found Doctor Reinhardt waiting for us in the office.

"I don't know whether it is a case that will interest you, or not," he said, "but it's rather curious. She was picked up for drunk, half frozen, out of the gutter by a patrolman. He rang up the wagon and they took her to the police station, but the desk sergeant disagreed with the diagnosis, and sent her here. Gilbert was on duty when they brought her in, about two o'clock this morning, and he thought it was concussion of the brain. For myself, I don't believe it. I'd say, to look at her, that she's normally asleep, except that we can't wake her. She's queer looking; pretty, in a sort of outlandish way. When I last looked at her she was mumbling the queerest gibberish you ever heard. I've got a nodding acquaintance with most of the languages that come in here, but I never heard anything that sounded at all like this."

"Come along," said Doctor McAlister; "I'd like to take a look at her."

Doctor Reinhardt made no objection to Ashton's accompanying us, so together we followed him into the long white ward. The girl we found lying upon the narrow cot, beside which we stopped, justified his description of her. She was not at all a beauty, according to our standards, but the thought came to me that in some far-off corner of the world where standards were different, she might have been accounted so, possibly in a supreme degree.

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

Nickel Pinchers Not Exponents of Thrift

I have never known a stingy person who was nice, who was one of those persons the thought of whom makes your heart expand with warmth and affection. I am not inveighing against those who are sensibly economical and thrifty. When a man or woman says: "No, I can't afford that. It's only a dollar, but a dollar is important to me," that is all right. The quality of being unashamed transfigures almost anything into something all right, even charming.

But a stingy person tries to pretend that the expense is nothing; that isn't what interests him. Oh, no! Yet his worry over the slipping away of nickels is so intense in him that it makes your flesh creep. When there is a restaurant check to be paid, when you invite a tightwad to have a soda with you, click, click, you intuitively feel the cerebrations going on in his anxious brain as to which of you will have to give up the masuma for the indulgence.

"I don't want to embarrass them by taking them to the Ritz," the very rich girl rationalizes her economy, "so I will just take them down to that interesting little place under the elevated, with the sawdust on the floor."

"I don't want persons to get to care for me only for my money," says the very rich snob, who as often as not is the richest debutante of the season. So she always makes it a point to "go Dutch."—Elizabeth Barbour in the Saturday Evening Post.

Too Bad

Flora—I don't believe that scandal about Mrs. Gayleigh.

Fanny—Then why did you tell me about it?

Flora—I was in hope that you could confirm it.

ALL THINGS END

(© by D. J. Walsh.)

ELSIE BOYD wiped dishes with an occasional glance at the heavy snowstorm which was enshrouding everything in a wintry fleece. Upon a day like this her mother was always worse. Mrs. Boyd was the kind of sick woman whose system demands sunshine quite as much as medicine. Knowing this, Elsie had not dared tell her that something had gone wrong with the furnace, that the grocer had presented his bill and that she had found a damp spot on the bedroom ceiling where the roof had sprung a leak before a mild rain had turned into the present snowstorm.

To Elsie, washing dishes, these things mattered terribly. Moreover, it was left for her to find a remedy for the pressing necessities that threatened them. It was winter, their income was just half big enough. Elsie could not leave home because she had to look after her mother. There were no boarders to be had or even roomers. It all seemed discouraging enough. Besides—

"Elsie!" called a voice from the downstairs bedroom.

"Yes, mother!" Elsie dropped the glass pitcher she was polishing and entered the room.

Her mother lay bolstered up with pillows. She didn't look to be a vitally sick woman; a nervous one, perhaps, but not one near death.

"I've just been thinking," Mrs. Boyd said to her daughter, who leaned on the footboard of the old-fashioned bed, "Mrs. Scott told me something yesterday. I don't know as I ought to tell you. I thought maybe I wouldn't at first, but you ought to know."

"Well, what is it, mother?" Elsie gripped the footboard, but her wide gray eyes did not waver before her mother's dark puzzling gaze.

"Francis Hurd is going with Julia Scott—you didn't know it, did you?"

"Why, yes." Elsie answered carefully. "I've known it a good while. He hasn't been here in a long time, you know, mother."

"I thought he hadn't, but, of course, I didn't know. What was the matter? For my part, I'm glad it's all ended. I didn't see how I was going to let you get married with my health the state it's in. I need you to take care of me, Elsie."

Elsie drew a long breath. Without replying she did some little soothing things about the bed and passed out of the room. But instead of returning to her dishwashing she flung a shawl about her and ran out of doors, out into the storm. The touch of chill snowflakes cooled her burning cheeks, their enveloping softness soothed her.

A sound drew her attention from herself. It came from the foot of the garden. It resembled a child's voice.

The brook! Where the children waded in summer and skated in winter. She ran toward it as fast as she could go.

The fence across the back of the garden did not stop her, nor the steep bank that jutted out over the brook. She could not see for the storm, but she called cheerily, "I'm coming! I'm coming!"

How could she grope her way to the place where an accident might have happened, especially as the childish voice had ceased? Oh, if she could but brush away the opaque veil of snow!

Something scampered to her feet barking. A little dog! He ran away from her, still barking, urging her to follow. He led her to the spot where rain and snow had rotted the icy covering of the brook. There in a deep hole where he had broken through was a small boy, exhausted, ready to let go of the drooping branch that kept his head above water.

She pulled him out all sodden as he was, stripped the shawl from her own shoulders and wrapped him in it. She ran all the way back to the house. The little dog followed, the anxious bark becoming a note of joy at the rescue.

In the warm kitchen Elsie slipped the child's clothing from his body, wrapped him in a warm blanket, placed him close to the oven door and gave him a hot, stimulating drink. Even then she did not recognise the little fellow. He told her his name but it did not convey any meaning to her. She had never heard it before. Neither had her mother. Fright and exposure and a peculiar impediment in his speech made it impossible for him to express anything further than his name.

Noon came. The little boy, looking like a tiny Indian in his blanket, began to show signs of wakening interest in his dog, in Elsie, in the food that she prepared for him.

"You better go over to Mrs. Scott's and see if she's heard of a boy being lost," Mrs. Boyd suggested.

But Elsie shrank from going to the Scots.

"I'll go down to the grocery and inquire there," she said.

She put on her hat and coat and again entered the storm. At the corner grocery she found a group of men about the little coal stove talking excitedly.

"You haven't heard whether they have found the Wells boy yet, have you, Elsie?" old Mr. Stern asked.

"The Wells boy?" Elsie stared at the old man.

"Yes, Mary Wells' boy. Francis Hurd has got the police looking everywhere. His sister is going crazy, they say, unless they hear something before long. She thinks the child fell into East creek. They couldn't keep him away from it. Probably that's where he is—Hey! What's up?"

But Elsie had gone. Down the street she sped until she came to the dingy office which had Francis Hurd's name on the window. She could see him within at the telephone. There was a man with him.

As she opened the door he turned his fine grave face upon her.

"Elsie—"

"I've got him, Francis!" In her excitement she forgot everything but her mission. "He's all right. Only he called himself Bob Bell, so I did not know."

Francis Hurd smiled. Without doubt the strain had been very great.

"That is Robert, all right. He can't say W and he prefers to be called Bob. All right, Ben. You can call in your rescuing party. I'll telephone his mother. Then I'll go home with you, Elsie, and recover my nephew."

He told her more about it as they walked through the storm together. His mother wasn't well and his sister had come on to stay with her for a few days, bringing four-year-old Robert. Mrs. Wells lived in a city apartment and the glassy brook had fascinated Robert. He had stolen away with his little dog. They had been searching for hours. But for Elsie he would not have been found alive.

Robert pranced into his uncle's arms from the rocking chair trailing his blanket behind him. As Francis held him close he looked over the sunny towseled head at Elsie.

Mrs. Wells was very grateful to Elsie. She sent her a beautiful gift of a fur neckpiece and made her come to dinner. She had never seen the girl before, for the Hurds were newcomers in the town, and she was charmed with Elsie's gentle, beauty and sweet personality.

"Mother isn't going to be here long," she told her brother. "I am sorry to have to tell you, dear, but it is a fact we must both face. And you'll need a wife in this house, because I can't be running down constantly to look after you. If you are wise you will stop letting Julia Scott make trouble between you and Elsie."

Francis flushed.

"Elsie—Elsie is so difficult. She never acted as if she cared whether I went to see her or not—"

"Of course she wouldn't. She is a nice, modest girl. Yet all the time she might be breaking her heart over you."

"I'll find out if what you say is true," declared Francis.

The night Elsie told her mother she was going to marry Francis Hurd Mrs. Boyd sat upright.

"Well, I see what I've got to do," she said. "I've got to get out of this bed."

Fly Sting That Broke Iron Nerve of "K. of K."

This Lord Kitchener story is told by John G. Millias in "Far Away Up the Nile."

One of Kitchener's A. D. C.'s on a trip up the Nile had dared to utter a piercing yell when stung by the vicious seroot fly, and Kitchener told him that a soldier ought to be ashamed of himself for making such a fuss. The youth retired in silence, but out of the Sabbath-like calm there presently broke a scream and roar that could be heard in Khartum.

People from all parts of the ship thought murder was being committed and rushed in to find the commander in chief dancing round the saloon and knocking over the chairs and tables in his agony. For days the wounded chief nursed his swollen arm; but it was noticeable that the subject of seroot flies was barred, and in his uninjured hand he carried a powerful "slapstick."

Tactful Guest

A Park avenue hostess, who gave a dinner for a friend who had lost his entire family in the sinking of an ocean liner, asked all her guests to avoid the subject of boats and water travel. One of the guests happened to be an Englishman who had just arrived in New York, and when the situation was explained to him he naturally agreed to refrain from commenting on his sea trip. After dinner the hostess inquired if any one had asked him about his crossing. "Yes," he admitted, "but I gave them the impression I flew over."—New York Evening World.

Gray Wolves Vanquished

Depredations of the large gray wolf are believed to be almost at an end in the West because of the unremitting activities of the United States biological survey and other agencies against them, says Popular Mechanics Magazine. In New Mexico, only eight were caught last year and thirty-one the preceding year. Arizona reports that no wolves are now known to be within the borders of that state. A constant patrol is kept along the international boundary to prevent invasions by timber wolves and mountain lions from Mexico.

Two Good Reasons

A ten-year-old girl, in learning to shop, was told by her mother to return two pairs of shoes to the shoe store, the mother having taken them out on approval. The little miss, wishing to make some excuse for not buying either pair, when the clerk approached her, stammered and said:

"Please, sir, I do not want either pair. One is too little and the other is too small."

Improved Uniform International

Sunday School Lesson

(By REV. F. B. FITZWATER, D.D., Dean, Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.)
(©, 1927, Western Newspaper Union.)

Lesson for August 28

NATHAN LEADS DAVID TO REPENTANCE

LESSON TEXT—II Sam. 11:1; 12:23.

GOLDEN TEXT—A broken and contrite heart, O God, thou will not despise.

PRIMARY TOPIC—God Shows David His Sin.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Nathan Calls David to Repentance.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Confessing and Forsaking Sin.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Repentance: What It Is, and What It Does.

I. David's Crimes (II Sam. 11).

1. Adultery (vv. 4, 5).

He by his kingly authority brought Bathsheba, the beautiful wife of Uriah, one of his brave soldiers, into his harem.

2. Murder (vv. 14-18).

David sought to cover up his shameful act of adultery with Bathsheba by calling Uriah from the field of battle and giving him a furlough at home with his wife. (He first gave him honorable recognition by sending a portion of meat from the royal table—v. 8.) Uriah's high sense of military duty and propriety would not allow him to do this.

Failing in this, David corrupted him by making him drunk, with the expectation that Uriah would thus go home. When these schemes would not work he resorted to the terrible crime of exposing Uriah to the most dangerous place in the battle where he would surely be killed.

II. Contributing Factors in David's Fall.

1. Idleness (11:1).

It was the king's responsibility to go forth with his army to battle. David tarried at Jerusalem because of indolence or self-indulgence.

2. He looked upon a beautiful woman (11:2).

As he was lounging in idleness, this temptation was too great for him. He yielded to his lustful impulse and sent his servants to bring the woman to him. This action on the part of David is absolutely inexcusable. David had the power to turn from this sin and thus escape temptation.

III. David Rebuked by Nathan, the Prophet (12:1-12).

What David had done displeased the Lord (11:27). What he had done gratified his own carnal lust, but the serious thing is that it displeased the Lord. Because David was God's own, God could not let the matter rest. He therefore sent Nathan, His prophet, to him.

1. The parable of the ewe lamb (vv. 1-6).

Among the Jews it was customary to have pet lambs which were brought up with the children of the family and therefore regarded with tender affection. Nathan pictures before David a poor man whose sole possession consisted of one such lamb, and a rich neighbor when entertaining a guest had appropriated unto himself this lamb instead of drawing upon his numerous flock. This so aroused David's anger that he declared that the rich man should restore fourfold, and in addition forfeit his life. Nathan declared: "Thou art the man." In spite of David's awful sin, he had burning indignation against the wrongdoer.

2. Sentence of judgment (vv. 7-12).

Perhaps no history records an indictment so terrible as this one.

(1) He recounted unto David God's peculiar favor (vv. 7, 8).

God had taken him from the sheepcote and lifted him to the throne, made him king over all Israel. He had delivered him from Saul's murderous plots and he had inherited Saul's royal possessions.

(2) David's shameful treatment of God's law (v. 9).

He pointed out that he had violated both tables of the law by worshiping the God of passion and had practiced covetousness, robbery, lying and murder.

(3) The awful judgment pronounced (vv. 10-12).

The prophet declared that the sword should never depart from David's house. He had used the sword to slay Uriah. God in His retributive justice permitted the sword to remain in David's house.

IV. David's Confession (vv. 13-23).

The confession of sin was so real to David that he declared that it had been committed against God (Ps. 51:4). He now was made fully conscious of his broken condition. He realized what it meant to be without innocence. Though he confessed his sin, as recorded in Psalm 32, and God forgave him, he had to suffer its consequence. "Whatsoever a man soweth that shall he also reap."

The Coward

To die in order to avoid the pains of poverty, love, or anything that is disagreeable is not the role of a brave man, but of a coward. For it is cowardice to shun the misfortunes and trials of life, not undergoing death because it is honorable, but to escape evil.—Aristotle.

Prayer, a Golden Key

Prayer is a golden key which should open the morning and lock up the evening.—Bishop Hopkins.

AUGUST

L 915 U517

GET AWAY

like an arrow from a bow

Buick for 1928 gets away in traffic like an arrow from a bow!

Watch the Buicks next time you drive downtown. See how easily they step out in front when the signal changes. And note how they give other cars the slip in the friendly rivalry of traffic.

You cannot say you know the full meaning of "performance" until you've driven a Buick for 1928.

BUICK MOTOR COMPANY, FLINT, MICH.
Division of General Motors Corporation

BUICK for 1928

Buick Sales and Service

Auburn, Indiana

WHEN BETTER AUTOMOBILES ARE BUILT, BUICK WILL BUILD 'EM

Local Briefs

Mrs. Alice Copp is assisting in the Zonker store this week.

Lost:—Auto crank between St. Joe and Concord. Finder return to F. A. Jenkins. 34t1p.

Mrs. Emma Gibford of Auburn, was a Tuesday evening supper guest in the J. H. Leighty home.

Have your glasses fitted by Benj. F. Griest, Eyesight Specialist, Office in American Bldg., Hicksville, Ohio. 28tf.

The W. C. T. U. will meet Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Lora Leighty. Topic, "Americanization."

Rev. J. F. McKnight is home again following a week at Annual Conference and a week at Winona Lake, where he attended the Convention of the World League against Alcoholism. His announcement appears in this issue stating schedule of services.

Of the two hundred and seven enrolled at Camp Potawotami at Blackman Lake, last week, DeKalb county heads the list with the largest enrollment of the four counties represented. Seventy-eight boys, girls and leaders from DeKalb county attended the camp. Allen county follows second with an enrollment of seventy, Steuben, third, with forty-one and Noble, fourth, with eighteen.

Some of the farmers are plowing for wheat.

Paul Hadsell arrived home from his school at Muncie, Saturday.

Oh yes, the St. Joe Mill is running. You can get Flour, Bran and Middlings. 34t1.

Watch for Curie's A-C. Dayton Radio Ad next week. Most perfect 1-dial set made. 34t1.

Dr. and Mrs. C. R. Price were in attendance at the Dill reunion, held at North Manchester, last Sunday.

Mrs. A. D. Brunson is quite poorly at her home north of town, and has been confined to her bed for the past three weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Pierce of near Muncie, visited their daughter, Mrs. J. F. McKnight and family Monday and Tuesday. Mr. and Mrs. Pierce are touring to the Pacific coast.

Hicksville business men have asked the B. & O. railroad to construct a train shed over the waiting platform at the depot in that city for east bound passenger traffic.

Polly is the 43-year-old pet of Mrs. Rose Bowers, of East Cleveland, and is far from old-fashioned, in spite of his years. He has learned to talk over the telephone and recognizes the voices of Mrs. Bowers friends. If conversation lags, Polly breaks in with "good-bye," "I'm in a hurry," or "that's enough."

Miss Florence Kagey, of Warsaw, was a guest of Mrs. Lena Meek Sunday.

Oh yes, the St. Joe Mill is running. You can get Flour, Bran and Middlings. 34t1.

Daily local freight service has been resumed on the Wabash, commencing Monday, between Fort Wayne and Toledo.

Miss Eloise Draggoo spent from Friday until Sunday at Willard, Ohio and Cedar Point, visiting Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Hull.

Mr. and Mrs. Dio Dermott, daughter, Betty and son, Evans, of Constantine, Mich., were guests of Stephen Brown and wife and other relatives a few days the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. John Wineland and Mr. and Mrs. Derwood Ridgway and family attended the Walter reunion held at the home of W. P. Walter and wife at Fort Wayne, Sunday.

John Huntsman, 74 years, died at his home one-half mile south of Mount Pleasant, Tuesday forenoon. Funeral will be held Thursday afternoon at 2 c'clock from the home. E. R. Kinsey has charge of the body.

Messrs Lloyd Draggoo and O. B. Draggoo left Tuesday for a ten day trip to visit their brother, Will. They will also visit New York, Atlantic City, Philadelphia, Baltimore and various other eastern cities.

The rural schools of DeKalb county, according to an announcement by Clarence Green, county superintendent of schools, Friday, will open Monday and Tuesday, September 5 and 6. Some of the trustees have decided on Labor Day and a number on the day following.

A note from Rev. Otis Jones of Elkhart, states that he has been returned to his work for another year, and that last year was one of the best of his ministry. Rev. Jones was pastor of the M. P. Church here before going to Elkhart. He further says in his letter, "Give everyone our best."

Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Kimes and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Wells of Ft. Wayne, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Finzer and family and Dr. Fanning and family of Butler, were Sunday guests of Harvey Kimes and Miss Minnie Thompson. Mrs. Victoria Fribly of Detroit, is here for a couple of weeks visit with her sister, Miss Thompson.

A heart attack caused the death of Dr. Irven O. Buchtel, a prominent Auburn physician, Thursday night at 10:30 o'clock. Although Dr. Buchtel has been in failing health for nearly three years, he had been bedfast for less than two weeks. He had been a practicing physician in Auburn for 37 years. Funeral was held Monday with burial at Ligonier, where he was born August 6, 1862.

George Kees of Chicago spent Sunday with his family.

Mrs. C. A. Woodcox and baby, spent Saturday night and Sunday with Garrett relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. George Haifley of Detroit, Mich., are here guests of their mother, Mrs. Harriett Haifley.

Miss Lodema Winn, of Hicksville, visited her cousin, Miss Priscilla Borthwick the latter part of last week.

Mrs. Roy Kinsey is visiting at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Chas. Waterbeck and family at Willard, Ohio.

Vernon and Vance Woodcox and their families, were over Sunday guests of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Woodcox.

Wilbur Yeiser began work Monday morning with the Ohio Power Company Construction gang, working out of Hicksville.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Hull and Mrs. Lora Leighty, took Sunday dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Quance at Fort Wayne, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Leighty of Washington, were home a few days last week looking after legal matters and also things at the farm.

Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Hursh are in Detroit this week visiting relatives. Mrs Melba Wyatt is working in the store during their absence.

Mr. Frank Moses and family of Fort Wayne and Mr. and Mrs. Earl Derrow of Auburn, were Sunday guests in the Roy Kinsey home.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Randall, son Harry and children, were Sunday guests at Loon Lake, of Biglow Ramp. The occasion being his birthday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Betz and Sol Shearer and daughter, Mrs. Sadie Bruce, of Auburn, spent Sunday with Harry Bruce and family at Kendallville.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Sinclair of Auburn and Mr. and Mrs. Sylvanus Afehart of Kansas, were Tuesday guests in the Wm. Pepple and E. R. Kinsey homes.

Bowser & Reed Tin Shop moved to residence in St. Joe. Repairing promptly done. See us for all roofing, spouting and general tin work. Phone 3-1. 31t3.

Mrs. Loretta Hull, Mrs. Belle Barney and Mrs. Pauline Jordan, attended a chicken supper at Leo, Saturday evening, given by the Star lodge at that place.

Mr. and Mrs. Fay Reichelderfer and son of Dayton, Ohio and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Reichelderfer of Fort Wayne, spent Thursday evening with Mr. and Mrs. John Betz.

Mrs. Frank Akins, Mrs. Lillian Buckingham, Mrs. Wm. Randall and grandson, Harry, and Mrs. Belle Barney, were at Auburn Monday on a shopping and business trip.

Carl Thomas, who taught school here last year, moved Monday to Garrett, where he teaches this term. Mr. K. E. Fling and wife have moved into the Renner house, vacated by Mr. Thomas.

Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Yeiser and family of South Whitley, were guests over Saturday night and Sunday at the home of Wilbur Yeiser and family and attended the Newville Chautauqua an Sunday.

Because of the illness of Miss Charlotte Miller of Spencerville, she was compelled to postpone her violin recital, and she now announces for Harlan on the 30th and Spencerville on Friday, September 2nd.

Dr. Noble and two daughters, Carrie and Belle, of Fort Wayne, spent Saturday in the Harvey Kimes home. Mr. Jack Stroud and little son, Jack, of Detroit, Mich., were weekend guests in the same home.

Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Bowman of Chicago and Mrs. Helen Benninghoff and two sons of Fort Wayne, were in town Monday on business. Mrs. Bowman will remain with her daughter until after the Home Coming, while Mr. Bowman returned to his work Tuesday.

R. J. Smith met with a serious accident Thursday afternoon while cutting oats with a binder on the Nora Grube farm south of Gypsy Hill, east of Butler. He was using a three-mule hitch. One of the mules had been lagging behind, and not having a whip he got off the machine to urge the animal along. As he did so and the mule saw him coming it gave a lunge, with the result that the reel of the machine caught Smith and he was thrown against the cutter bar receiving a deep, ugly, gaping wound below the hip, cutting off a muscle. It is said that the wound was three inches deep or more.

Mrs. Chas. Koch is visiting her son and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Koch in Fort Wayne.

Mrs. Emma Gibford of Auburn, spent a few days this week with her brother, D. D. Burley.

"The Fair Worth While"

The Williams County Fair

Montpelier, Ohio

September 13 to 17, 1927

2 NIGHTS Thursday and Friday 2 NIGHTS

FREE ACTS

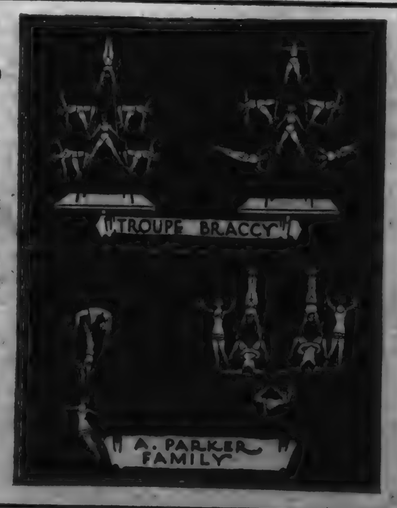
Tom Sanger & Co., Trick and Comedy Bicycle Riding

3 Musical Misses, Novelty Saxophone Act

Vera Spriggs & Co., Novelty Iron Jaw Act

The Famous Parker Family, Gymnasts

Kurtzo & Kurtzo, Aerialists



Gordon's Display of Fireworks

Large Exhibits

Big Racing Program

Beautiful Grounds

Base Ball Games 3 Days. Wednesday Judging in All Departments
Thursday, Everybody's Day. Friday, Children's Day
Saturday, Soldiers' Day

J. M. Hodson, President A. G. Hause, Secretary

Save $10

by ordering your SUNBEAM CABINET HEATER during

Sunbeam Saving Season

August 1st. to 31st.

Order your Sunbeam Cabinet Heater before August 31st, instead of waiting until a few weeks later—and save $10.00. Make a down payment of $5.00 and receive, in accordance with the Sunbeam Saving Season offer now in effect, a credit of $15.00. Start paying the balance, when your Sunbeam is installed.

The Sunbeam thoroughly heats the home with 5 to 7 rooms, but requires no basement. Only a heater constructed like the Sunbeam with a cast iron heating unit of the furnace type; an 84 pound fire-pot; one joint above fire bed; an inner casing that doubles the heating surface, can give this result. For the heating capacity, economy, efficiency and long life of a cabinet heater depend on these parts, which you do not see. Everyone can afford Sunbeam whole-home warmth. Sunbeam prices are now the lowest in Sunbeam history.

Regular Sunbeam Prices, $90, $100, $110

Sunbeam Saving Season, $80, $90, $100

WILLIAM CURIE

ST. JOE, INDIANA

Hardware RADIO Implements

MARKET PRICE—PLUS!

GETTING INTEREST ON YOUR CROP MONEY IS AS GOOD AS SELLING THE CROP AT A PREMIUM.

OUR CERTIFICATES OF DEPOSIT DRAW INTEREST FROM THE DATE OF DEPOSIT—AND ARE ALWAYS WORTH FULL FACE VALUE.

CITY NATIONAL BANK
AUBURN, IND.

"Member Federal Reserve System"

AUGUST

L 91 U518

Russel R. Reidenour
ATTORNEY
Auburn, Ind.

SPENCERVILLE

Rubber bands at News office.

The Silberg reunion was held at the home of Mary Jane Silberg, Sunday.

Harvie Kimes has returned from Northern Michigan, where he spent a week fishing.

The Ladies Aid Society of the Methodist church will be entertained on Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Gertrude Wasson.

Mrs. Mervilla Gloyd and daughter and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Gloyd and baby, were guests several days this week of Mrs. Emila Gloyd and family.

The Koch reunion was held on Sunday at the Community Hall. The new officers elected are:—Chas. Koch, president and John Koch, seretary-treasurer.

The Home Bureau Club and friends will meet on Friday evening and listen to the Indiana poet in the court house assembly room at Auburn at 8 o'clock.

Mrs. Herman Reasoner, who has been taking radium treatments at the Dr. Bonell M. Souder hospital in Auburn, returned to her home Saturday night much improved.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Vallieu received announcement of the arrival of two granddaughters within twenty-four hours. One born to Mr. and rMs. Harold Vallieu, Monday the 22nd and one born to Mr. and Mrs. L. V. Myers, Tuesday the 23rd. Mrs. Myers will be remembered as Fannie Vallieu.

Dorthy and Max Markle were recent visitors in the J. C. Vallieu home.

Delos White, wife and children of Auburn, Sundayed at the Mrs. Nancy Chaney home.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rhoades and daughter, Miss Doris, visited relatives at this place Sunday.

Miss Marjorie Hollabaugh left on Tuesday morning to attend college at Battle Creek, Michigan.

Arrangements are being made to dedicate the new Methodist parsonage on Sunday, September 4th.

Mrs. Ed Shutt and daughter, Mrs. Goldie Hipkens and children, were recent guests in the Joel Betz home.

Miss Virginia Goldsmith is in Fort Wayne visiting her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Deitrick.

W. L. Vallieu and daughter, Gene Louise, were supper guests recently of Mrs. Ella Hughes and son, Oral.

Miss Helen Furnish left Sunday for a week's visit in the home of her uncle, David Furnish and family at Detroit, Michigan.

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Washler, Emmett Armstrong and wife of near Rehoboth, were Sunday guests of Ray Farver and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Reichelderfer of Fort Wayne and Fay Reichelderfer, wife and son of Dayton, O., were Tuesday guests in the Joel Betz home.

Clay McNamara and wife of Fort Wayne and Mrs. James Neusbaum of Huntertown, were Sunday guests in the Thomas McNamara home.

Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Markle and family, Eck Hursh, wife and children, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Dean and Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Dean, attended the Oberholtzer reunion at Eckhart Park, Auburn, on Sunday.

The Boger family reunion was held on Thursday at the home of John Shifter at Harlan. The new officers elected are: President, John Shifter; vice president, Al Boger, Harlan; secretary, Mrs. Claude Hafner, Spencerville; treasurer, Clyde Boger, Hicksville; entertainment, Ettie Dunbul, Frank Emerich and Frank Moor.

Mrs. Ruby Krafft very pleasantly entertained the Young Ladies Social Club at her home on Thursday evening. Prizes were won by Miss Gaylon Markle, Mrs. Bernice Wilder and Miss Ida Reed. The new members were the Misses Garnet Beams and Ida Reed. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Lehr Wilder and the husbands and friends are invited to be present.

Oh yes, the St. Joe Mill is running. You can get Flour, Bran and Middlings. 34t1.

Mrs. Gertrude Markle of Fort Wayne, spent the weekend with relatives here.

Del Reed, wife and children, were Sunday dinner guests of Wm. Reed and family.

Isobelle Furnish of Detroit, spent several days last week in the R. E. Furnish home.

William Allen, wife and children, spent Sunday with Raymond Randall and family at Auburn.

The electric chair has something to do with checking criminals, but the proper place to start is the high chair.

Farver's Canning Kitchen at Spencerville will operate on Wednesday and Thursday each week until further notice. 31tf.

Mrs. Ada Berry and granddaughter, Florence Steward, were weekend guests in the Carl Hatch home in Fort Wayne. Mrs. Hazel Steward and son, Ercil, were Sunday guests in the same home.

The sixth annual reunion of the Goldsmith family will be held Labor Day, September 5th, in the basement of the Methodist church at Leo. Solomon Koble is president and Pearl Goldsmith, secretary of the reunion organization.

Cases against twelve defendants were dismissed by Judge Endicott, Monday, among them was that of Wm. Lake of Spencerville, a school teacher, was tried in June on a charge of assault and battery on a son of Dr. B. O. Shook, but the jury disagreed, voting 6 to 6. Capt. Springer decided it would be useless to hold another trial.

The Gloyd family reunion was held on Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Iven C. Bowser of near Huntertown. There were 99 members of the family present and two guests. The new officers are as follows: President, Iven C. Bowser; vice president, Otis Gloyd, Robinson Chapel; secretary, Mrs. Alice Goff, Fort Wayne; treasurer, R. U. Bowser, Spencerville; music, Mrs. Ethel Bowser, Spencerville; assistant, Mrs. Arvilla Gloyd; memorial, Miss Estella Gloyd; birth, Mrs. Paul Noe; marriage, Mrs. Ethel Badica and Mrs. Maggie Dennis; entertainment, Mrs. Pearl Gladback, Mrs. Arvilla Gloyd, Mrs. Edith Fitch and Mrs. Maggie Dennis. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Fitch of New Erie. Those attending from here were Mrs. Emila Gloyd and family, R. U. Bowser, wife and children and Mr. and Mrs. James Reed.

DR. C. R. BAUMGARTNER
Veterinarian
Spencerville, Ind.
PHONES: 282--283.

LINDBERGH
DID NOT WISH

Young men the world over have, with mingled feelings, read of the achievement of the youthful Charles Lindbergh. Admiration and pride in the glory of his feat has been most generously given by all—still what young man is there who has not "wished" that the opportunity had been his—and that he could have "zoomed" through to such everlasting glory?

The now "Colonel Lindbergh" MADE his opportunity. An unknown air-mail pilot, he SAVED part of his earnings. When the hour arrived he had $2,000 saved to offer on the altar of sincerity—and obtain the support of young business men of St. Louis. He was the largest individual contributor to the fund which made the flight possible.

Lindbergh did not WISH—He SAVED

COME IN AND TALK IT OVER

Farmers' & Merchants State Bank
Spencerville, Ind.

With the Churches

ST. JOE M. P. CHURCH

Mrs. Hattie Widney, Supt.
Sunday School, 9:30 A. M.
Preaching service, 7:30.
Subject: "The Congress of the World League Against Alcoholism."

CONCORD M. P. CHURCH

George Johnson, Supt.
Sunday school 9:30 A. M.
Preaching service, 10:30.
Christian Endeavor 7 P. M.
J. F. McKnight, Pastor.

LUTHERAN CHURCH NOTES

Derwood Ridgway, Supt.
Sunday school. 9:30.

CHURCH OF CHRIST

Ed Storer, Supt.
St. Joe
Bible School, 9:30 A. M.
Morning worship, 10:30.
NEWVILLE, Sun Time
Bible School, 10:00 A. M.
Evening Service, 7:30.
R. S. Aldrich, Pastor.

Methodist Episcopal Church Spencerville

Sunday School, 9:00 A. M.—ohn Koch, Superintendent.
Epworth League, 6:00 P. M.
Marguerite Koch, President.
Sunday School, Church and Epworth League are our Sunday activities.
Rally Day in the Sunday School the first Sunday in October. Get ready to rally.
Second quarterly conference and dedication of the new parsonage on Sunday, September 4th. Dr. W. W. Wiant will be the morning speaker. Basket dinner and afternbon program with open house at parsonage.

Coburn's Corners

The R. H. C. will meet Thursday with Mrs. Mark Murphy.

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Trostel of Willard, Ohio, spent several days with his parents and brother.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Gee and family attended the Steman reunion at the Hicksville fair ground, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Elsy Keener and son, Leroy, are spending several days visiting in and near Shelby, Ohio.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Maxwell attended the Oberholtzer family reunion at Eckhart Park in Auburn, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Abner Trostel attended the Sewell reunion at Hamilton Lake, Sunday, and also the Spanish American Soldiers' meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Curie and Mary, Ruth and Junior and Mrs. Jennie Sechler, were Sunday evening guests of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Curie.

Mr. Floyd Gee of Conneaut, O., and Mr. and Mrs. Foster Gee and family of St. Joe, were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Laney Gee.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Curie spent Wednesday and Thursday and Mr. and Mrs. Laney Gee spent Thursday of last week visiting Arkansas relatives at Lone Tree Point, Lake James.

Marshall Houser, wife and four children of south of Fort Wayne, and C. G. Shilling, wife and four children, spent Sunday at E. W. Beaber's home. Fern Ward returned with the Housers'.

Fred and Clyde Hart, accompanied by their families, Mr. and Mrs. Karl Hart and Mrs. Alice Hart, were in attendance at the Hootman reunion at Wooster, O., also visiting friends from Tuesday until Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Miller of Peru, motored to Niagara Falls last week. They were accompanied as far as Ashtabula and Conneaut, Ohio by Mr. and Mrs. I. S. Hadsell of Hicksville and Mrs. Ophelia Headley of Newville, who visited relatives there.

BACHMANN

Marie Cecelia Bachmann, widow of John Bachmann, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Isabelle Baltzil, 1631 Columbia Ave., Fort Wayne, on August 19, 1927, of an acute heart attack. Aged 66 years, 1 month and 25 days. Surviving are four children, Mary Zimmerman of Leo, Indiana; Mrs. Isabelle Baltzli, Alfred and Robert Bachmann of Fort Wayne; six grandchildren, one great grandchild, also two brothers who still live in her native land of France.

The Bachmann family came to America in 1913 moving to Spencerville where they resided until October 1926, when they moved to Fort Wayne to be cared for by their children. The father and husband having died in January, 1927.

Funeral services were held Sunday afternoon at the Lutheran church at Spencerville, with the Rev. R. S. Brown, officiating, and brial in the White City Cemetery.

SUNDAY SCHOOL REPORTS

The following is the report of Sunday schools in this vicinity for last Sunday, according to information sent The News by representatives of the schools reported.

Christian	99	$5.82
Spencerville M. E.	81	$4.47
Lutheran	63	$3.67

PAYS FOR DEATH OF BOY

The Hicksville fair association has settled with Mrs. Harry Gillispie for the death of her son, who was accidently killed by a bullet deflected from a shooting gallery at the fair two years ago, by payment of $950. Commissioners of Defiance county appropriated the money.

NOTICE OF FINAL SETTLEMENT OF ESTATE.

Cause No. 3062 . . . .

Notice Is Hereby Given to all persons interested in the estate of George W. Tustison deceased, to appear in the DeKalb Circuit Court, held at Auburn, Indiana, on the 10th day of September, 1927 and show cause, if any, why my Final Settlement Accounts with the estate of said decedent should not be approved; and said heirs and all others interested, are notified to then and there make proof of heirship or claim and receive their distributive shares.

Witness, my name, this 13th day of August, 1927.

LOIS A. TUSTISON,
Administrator.
Walter W. Ferris, Atty. 33t3.

JUBILEE FAIR!
1877--HICKSVILLE, OHIO--1927
September 13-14-15-15

Fifty years ago this Fair was started at Hicksville, Ohio, and has been in operation every year since.

Music, Fireworks, Trotting, Pacing, Running Races, Cattle, Horses, Sheep, Swine, Poultry, Agricultural and Horticultural Displays.

This is the FIFTIETH FAIR
COME!

September 13-14-15-16, 1927

AUGUST

L 915 0519

S. ST. JOE, INDIANA

NOW LEADS SWEATER STYLE; FUR MODES FOR AUTUMN WEAR

SWEATER smartness is interpreted through simplicity. The close-knitted cardigan leads for the school-girl, or for the debutante. On golf links, tennis courts, on avenue or boulevard, the cardigan proclaims its popularity.

The cardigan model in the picture is typical of the mode. The original for this illustration is in the new and favored pea-green tone and its accompanying skirt is also in shades of green.

Now that these tailored looking sweaters and plaited skirts have become as much a favorite for street as for sports wear, many are choosing them in such shades as parchment, beige, sand and kindred tones. For golf and tennis and general country club wear; the soft pastel shades are best liked.

For the late summer wear a keen wholehearted endorsement is being given to pink for sweater costumes. The sweaters are extremely lightweight and in most instances a cardigan is worn over a round-necked slip-on which matches it. All white is a close competitor to pink. Skirts are either of pink flannel with sweater accompaniment or of white plaited crepe de chine.

The new fall models emphasize lovely heather mixtures. They also introduce a considerable use of angora. The very latest is for a jumper, close knitted, with matching cardigan styled of fine angora jersey.

Among the interesting styles, which claim early attention for autumn is the four-piece tweed-and-knitted costume. Its practicality is at once apparent, provided as it is with a slip-over sweater, a cardigan and a matching short knitted scarf, the skirt of tweed and plaited.

A novelty included in fall showings is a sweater with stitch and coloring to resemble reptile skin.

Sure to attract the interest of the college girl is the sweater which has tiny candy stripes in two tones.

As to daring originality, modern peltry is establishing a record. No one, after surveying advance autumn styles, can ever rightfully accuse the furrier as lacking in imagination.

Calfskin transformed into coats of compelling beauty, lambskin shaved until it is as supple as velvet, zebra stripes and leopard spots conjured into artful design, inlays of contrasting furs, pelts dyed with baffling camouflage, thus does a master cunning manipulate fashionable furs.

As an example of true artistry in peltry there's this remarkable coat which pretty Barbara Kent of film fame is wearing in the accompanying picture. Tan pony with red leather trimmings, could a handsomer combination be devised? Well, no newspaper portrait can do this coat justice, its coloring is too vibrant to be told in printer's ink. This is only one of countless just such swagger effects as the autumn modes are now introducing.

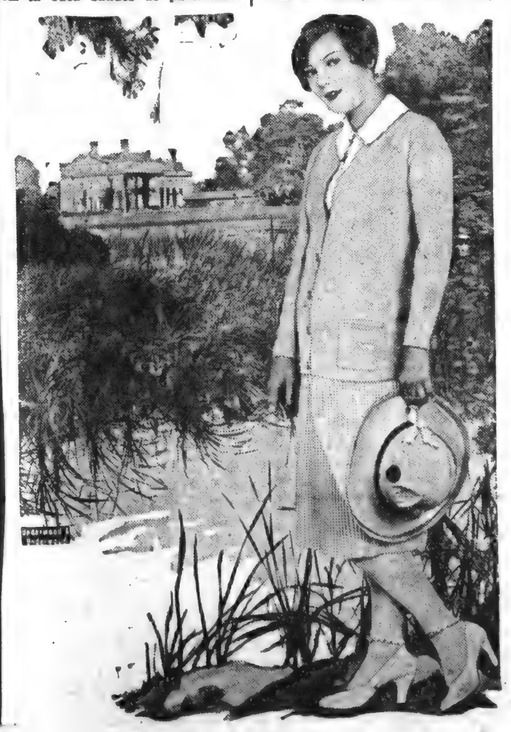
A startling effect is achieved in a white caracul splotched with great dabs of black. This same is collared and cuffed with showy white fox. With white kid footwear, white felt hat, and a white leather gardenia cuddled in the fur, the ensemble spells enchantment.

Then there are the new fanciful two-toned effects. Tan caracul made up with godets of a darker shade, is highlighted in the new fashions. Beige flat furs with black caracul will be outstanding this fall.

When the football season starts in it will be worth the price of admission, just to get a close-up view of the ravishing coats which will grace the scene.

JULIA BOTTOMLEY.

(©, 1927, by Western Newspaper Union.)



A Close Knitted Cardigan.

A Swagger Fur Coat.

Here's the place where flies and disease germs breed

but it's easy and inexpensive to get rid of them this proven way

Flies and disease germs breed and live in filth. And flies carry the disease germs—especially those of typhoid fever—wherever they go, contaminating even the food you eat.

Physicians and health authorities everywhere recommend this simple method of getting rid of these deadly flies and germs: Simply sprinkle a can of pure, high-test Lewis' Lye—nothing else—into your outside toilet twice a week. It kills disease germs instantly and absolutely prevents flies from breeding. Also removes objectionable odors and destroys rats.

Use pure Lewis' Lye this way regularly, especially during the summer and fall—and get your neighbors to use it. Remember, that a single case of typhoid—even if it should not result fatally—will cost more than thousands of cans of Lewis' Lye.

Lewis' Lye is sold by reliable grocers. If you are unable to secure it from your nearest grocer, take no chances with substitutes, send us a postoffice money order for $1.80 and we will send you by express a dozen cans—a three months' supply.

In any case, send us your name on a post card and we will mail you our book—"The Truth About a Lye"—containing hundreds of uses for lye and valuable recipes. Also our booklet on the prevention of Hog Cholera, and a free sample of our new cleanser and water-softener—Pensal.

PENNSYLVANIA SALT MFG. CO.
Dept. 133
Philadelphia, Pennsylvania

You can't be sure of success unless you use

LEWIS' LYE

Send for FREE Books

Rare

"Pa, what is a rare volume?" asked Clarence.

"It is a book that comes back after you have loaned it," replied Pa.—Vancouver Province.

Australian Film Made

Australia has just produced its first superfilm. It is entitled "For the Term of His Natural Life," and was made by an organization which controls 42 theaters in that country.

Old Bank Note

The oldest note at present in the possession o the Bank of England is dated December 19, 1699, and is for £555.

Diplomatic

Grocer—"What do you think of these eggs?" Customer—"Too small for their age."

His Very Own

"Isn't it dangerous to go so fast?"

"I should say not! I've paid my last installment on this bus!"

A cordial, warm shake of the hand takes my heart.—N. P. Willis.

A child early understands psychology, but it has no name for it.

Green's August Flower

is a mild laxative, and has been in use for sixty years for the relief of constipation, indigestion and similar stomach disorders. A trial will convince you of its merit. 30c and 60c bottles. At all druggists. G. G. Green, Inc., Woodbury, N. J.

CARBUNCLES

Carboil draws out the core and gives quick relief.

CARBOIL

GENEROUS 50¢ BOX

At All Druggists — Money-back Guarantee

Callouses

Quick, safe, sure relief from painful callouses on the feet.

At all drug and shoe stores

Dr Scholl's Zino-pads

Put one on—the pain is gone

Hanford's Balsam of Myrrh

For Cuts, Burns, Bruises, Sores

Money back for first bottle if not suited. All dealers.

British under Burgoyne, was celebrated with a pageant at Mohawk Acres, near Rome, N. Y., and the site of the battle was dedicated and presented to the state of New York. The photograph shows General Gansevoort and staff riding into the fort after the British had withdrawn.

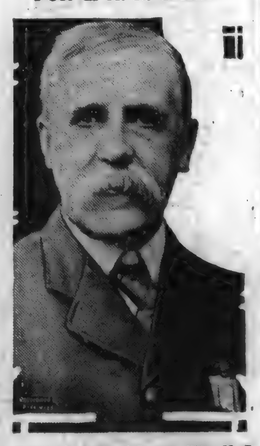
Bride of 72 Not Flustered

Rev. M. R. Guice performing the wedding ceremony uniting Mrs. Elizabeth Hartman Taylor, seventy-two, and James C. Angus, eighty-two, of New York. The wedding was held at the home of Mrs. Catherine Goodher in Philadelphia, the hostess also acting as witness. It was the culmination of a romance that started fifty years ago in New York. Mrs. Taylor wasn't a bit flustered during the ceremony, although Mr. Angus was somewhat excited.

American Horse Marines in China

This is the Paul Revere troop of the United States marine corps of the American legation at Peking. The duty of these men is to warn the foreign residents living in the Chinese city of approaching danger.

FOR G. A. R. CHIEF



Frank O. Cole of Jersey City, N. J., who is strongly supported for election as commander in chief of the Grand Army of the Republic at the national encampment in Grand Rapids, Mich., in September. He has long been prominent in the veterans' organization, and has a gallant war record, enlisting in the Thirtieth Massachusetts infantry, October 4, 1861, when but fifteen years of age.

SEEKS FORMER POST

J. C. W. Beckham, who has just won the Democratic nomination for governor of Kentucky after a bitter primary fight in which he assailed betting in the home of the famous Louisville derby. Beckham has previously served a term as governor, and also as United States senator.

AUGUST

L 915 U520

Modernize your home with OAK Floors

Reduce housework. Make your home more beautiful, more valuable for rental or sale. Write for free literature.

OAK FLOORING BUREAU
1293 Builders' Building CHICAGO

Snowy White Clothes WITHOUT RUBBING

N-R-G (Energy) Laundry Tablets wash clothes spotlessly clean in ten minutes without rubbing. Clean everything like magic; cut soap bill in half. Remove ink, fruit stains, blood, rust, perspiration and all stains instantly.

Guaranteed Not to Injure the Hands or the Finest Fabric

Amazing results when N-R-G is used in the washing machine, either electric or hand driven. No blueing required. For sale at your grocer's. 15c per package. Valuable coupon with every package. Only four required for Silver Teaspoon. 25-year guarantee. Over 200 other premiums.

THE N-R-G PRODUCTS CO., CHICAGO, ILL.

England's Rich Coal Field

One of the richest coal fields in the world, estimated to contain 23,000,000,000 tons, has been discovered near Hull, England. It is a continuation of an exhausted vein and extends 40 miles to the coast.

Children's handkerchiefs often look hopeless when they come to the laundry. Wash with good soap, rinse in water blued with Russ Bleaching Blue. —Adv.

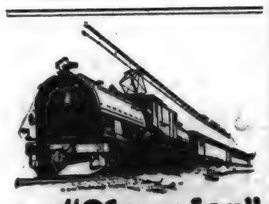
He's So Natural

Fair playgoer, to friend examining poster of famous actor—Whose Hamlet do you like best, dear?

Friend—Oh, Shakespeare's, by all means.—Montreal Family Herald.

Little to Remember

The thought that where there is a railroad track a train may be approaching is so simple that it ought to be in the mind of every one who drives an automobile.—Albany Journal.



The "Olympian"
70 Hours from Chicago to Puget Sound

If you are going to the Pacific Northwest this summer, be sure to go at least one way on the "Olympian," over the electrified Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul.

This is the route over which you will see and enjoy the most, including two full days of grandest mountain scenery.

The "Olympian" carries complete equipment for the traveler's comfort and convenience, including Observation Club Car, Sleeping Cars, Dining Car — and Open Observation Cars. Every car runs on roller bearings.

Write, phone or call on our nearest Travel Bureau for full details and help in planning your trip

C. M. & St. P. Ry.
800 Transportation Bldg. Detroit
937 Union Trust Bldg. Cleveland
717 Merch. Bank Bldg. Indianapolis

The MILWAUKEE Road

Ugly Pimples

Nature's warning—help nature clear your complexion and paint red roses in your pale, sallow cheeks. Fruity wonderful results follow thorough colon cleansing. Take NR—Nature's Remedy—to regulate and strengthen your eliminative organs. Then watch the transformation. Try NR instead of mere laxatives.

Mild, safe, purely vegetable—

NR TO-NIGHT
TOMORROW ALRIGHT

At Druggists—only 25c

W. N. U., FORT WAYNE, NO. 34–1927.

Foolish to Boast of Great Descent

"Tracing one's ancestry is a rank fallacy," declares Albert Payson Terhune, who has just completed a year's study of genealogical research for the American Magazine and is now attacking the growing fad.

"In the first place few people realize that perhaps millions of ancestors, good and bad, have intervened between themselves and the illustrious person from whom they claim to have descended," he says in summing up his studies. "Secondly, several million other people, if they took the trouble, could boast of the same lineage. Thirdly, boasting of a great ancestor is a confession of inferiority if the descendant has not lived up to the repute of his forebear.

"The most common ancestral claim," says Mr. Terhune, illustrating the weakness of the average case, "is relationship to William the Conqueror. Simple arithmetic shows these facts:

"Science allows about thirty-three years to each generation, which shows that there have been 26 or more generations between a person living today and William the Conqueror, who was in his prime in 1066.

"The descendant had two parents, four grandparents, eight great-grandparents and so on. Continuing to double 26 times, it will show about forty million ancestors since 1066. So the descendant would have only a forty-millionth of the Conqueror's blood.

"In all Great Britain and France in 1066 there were not 40,000,000 people, so if anyone has had 40,000,000 ancestors since that date, he is certainly descended from William. Also he is descended from almost every robber and homicide and mendicant and genius and celebrity who happened to be alive in the Conqueror's time and earlier.

"The common fallacy is the result of tracing one particular line and ignoring a thousand other branches of a family. I know of one New Englander who succeeded in tracing his ancestry directly to Adam with just as much accuracy as many have traced theirs back to Charlemagne or other historical figures.

"Another barrier to effective genealogical research is the old-time system of family names adopted from residence or occupation. Thus John Hill, who lives on a hill, and John Church, who lived by the church, may have been the closest relatives, yet their descendants go off on wide tangents in tracing two families."

It is far better, says Mr. Terhune, to decree: "I had no ancestors to boast of, but you can bet my descendants are going to have."

CHILDREN CRY FOR "CASTORIA"

Especially Prepared for Infants and Children of All Ages

Mother! Fletcher's Castoria has been in use for over 30 years to relieve babies and children of Constipation, Flatulency, Wind Colic and Diarrhea; allaying Feverishness arising therefrom, and, by regulating the Stomach and Bowels, aids the assimilation of Food; giving natural sleep without opiates.

The genuine bears signature of

Chas. H. Fletcher.

Earliest Lifeboat

In 1785 Lionel Lukin, a coachmaker of an inland town near London, put afloat on the Thames a Norway yawl which he had fitted with water-tight compartments, a heavy iron keel and other essentials in buoyancy and stability, which are the cardinal and requisite features of the lifeboat of today.

How learned many a man would be if he knew all that is in his own books!—Schoenbauer.

Ye Gods! Another Atrocity

Flyosan still killing flies and mosquitoes by the millions

ARE you still fighting flies and mosquitoes by swatting them one at a time? Or do you use Flyosan—original and best liquid spray (non-poisonous)—which wipes them out by the wholesale?

Mosquitoes and the common house-fly, the deadliest pests that invade the home, are loaded with millions of disease germs.

"Breathing" them centers these deadly germs into the air which you and your family breathe.

Flyosan floats through your rooms. It destroys all these germs as well as all the flies and mosquitoes which carry them.

Here is the right insecticide for each insect:

FLYOSAN, Liquid Spray—kills flies and mosquitoes.

PETERMAN'S ANT FOOD—exterminates ants.

PETERMAN'S DISCOVERY, Liquid—exterminates bed-bugs.

PETERMAN'S ROACH FOOD—exterminates that cockroach army.

PETERMAN'S MOTH FOOD—protects against moths.

You must have a specific insecticide for each insect. No single insecticide will exterminate them all. We have had nearly 50 years' experience. We know that is true.

Peterman's has the right insecticide for each insect. On sale wherever drugs are sold.

Peterman's
200 Fifth Ave., N. Y. C.

KNOWLEDGE OF FITTING FOR HOME SEWER

Careful Fitting Insures Satisfaction in One's Sewing.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Care in fitting a garment, whether homemade or ready-made, helps to determine its appearance and the way it wears. Badly fitted clothing pulls and gives at the wrong points and is a source of continual dissatisfaction. Much time may be wasted trying to remedy the trouble. A well-fitted, appropriate, becoming suit or dress will give its wearer a look of distinction and trimness.

Commercial patterns are planned for ideal figures, and must almost always be altered to fit the individual user. The bureau of home economics believes, therefore, that a knowledge of fitting is fundamental for the home sewer, and has prepared directions by which time and material may be saved when adapting commercial patterns or ready-made clothing to the individual.

Advantage of Dress Form.

The dress form is an advantage in making dresses, especially for the woman who must do her own fitting. She can study the lines best suited to her figure, regulate the length of the skirt and other parts accurately, and determine most of the changes that may be necessary. The final test of the fit of a costume should be made while sitting. It should be perfectly comfortable and no unsightly wrinkles should develop in this position.

In the illustration may be especially noted the tape that marks the so-called waistline from which the length of the coat and skirt may be measured. This is lowered or raised according to the dictates of fashion or to suit the individual figure. As it is a horizontal line it should not be placed so as to divide the garment into two equal parts. The length of the coat and skirt will be determined by style as well as by the height, weight and figure of the individual.

Freedom of Movement.

A well-fitted garment allows freedom of movement without being too large, and is free from unnecessary wrinkles and folds. The general style of the garment determines whether the fitting should be snug, easy, or loose. Garments fitted moderately loose are best suited to large figures, for tightness emphasizes the curves and makes the figure appear larger. Make any garment too loose rather than too snug. Allow for shrinkage of the fabric when it is cleaned. Under-arm seams and center front and back threads of any garment are always perpendicular to the floor. The skirt hangs straight without swinging to the front or to the back. When fitting a garment try the seams in different positions, especially those of the shoulder. Study the figure to find the position which will emphasize the best features and conceal those which are not so good. Put the attention on fitting the figure rather than on keeping the lines of the pattern.

GINGHAMS FOR EVERYDAY WEAR

Material Is Satisfactory for School and House.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Gingham is an old-fashioned cotton fabric, but the women of a generation ago did not know gingham in the ten or more varieties to be found on the counters of the department store today. The bureau of home economics of the United States Department of Agriculture explains that the common characteristic of all types of gingham is that the yarns are dyed before weaving, or the cotton is dyed before the yarns are spun. This helps to insure fastness of color and produce a fiber dyed throughout. Ginghams come in plain colors, in plaids, checks, stripes, and with novelty figures.

French, Scotch, and zephyr ginghams are fine, soft-finished, lightweight materials. They are most satisfactory for school dresses and house dresses, and in the very warm months are used for daytime wear on the street. Pajamas are also being made of these soft ginghams this year. Apron checks are usually coarser and more stiff, with the character pattern. Chambray is a plain-colored gingham having a white filling.

Tissue ginghams are thinner and more transparent than ordinary ginghams. For this reason they are suitable for afternoon dresses and are often made up attractively with organdie. They are especially popular this spring. Many tissue ginghams have heavy cords, stripes, or checks, or even embroidered designs in them. These usually wear well, but before purchasing any corded material one should be sure to study the fabric carefully to see whether the cords are firmly held in.

Ginghams with large checks about an inch square are new this year. They come in many lovely colors, and among other uses, make excellent summer curtains, in combination with covers for the backs and sides of upholstered chairs.

Left-Overs Are Planned in Advance for Purpose

The only kind of left-overs a good manager has are those planned in advance for a definite purpose, and prepared at one cooking to save fuel. For example, a roast of meat is naturally depended upon in part for cold cooked meat for the next day; part of the cooked vegetables may be preserved for a soup or a salad, if carefully kept. Waste due to spoilage is so unnecessary that it is almost unpardonable. There is a Farmers' Bulletin, 1874-F, on the care of food in the home, which gives many suggestions for protecting foods in special ways to insure their good quality and safe keeping.

Unusual Sandwiches Are Always Gladly Received

Sandwiches that are "different" are always received with enthusiasm, both by those who are obliged to carry lunches in this form more or less regularly, and by those who seldom eat them except at a picnic or social gathering. Dainty thin sandwiches that are neither too filling nor too cloyingly sweet are appreciated for afternoon tea or for party refreshments, because they do not spoil the appetite for the next meal. Some of the best sandwich spreads for such purposes are made by combining simple materials like parsley, watercress, green peppers, or grated orange peel with butter, the bureau of home economics of the United States Department of Agriculture suggests. These sandwiches are tasty and also attractive in color. The work of spreading the bread is reduced one-half. Butter and filling are combined, and if the mixture is spread thickly on one slice of bread the upper slice does not need spreading. This is a special advantage in preparing large quantities of sandwiches.

When the sandwich material is one of the raw vegetables, it should be finely minced by running it through a food chopper, using the nut knife. Cream the butter at room temperature, but do not allow it to melt, because that changes both the flavor and consistency. Mix equal parts of butter and chopped vegetable and add seasoning—salt, pepper, tabasco, and a few drops of lemon. Some especially good combinations are: watercress, green peppers, parsley with lemon juice, red cabbage with horseradish, which prevents the cabbage from changing color.

A good fruit butter for filling is made by using grated orange rind as the flavoring with a small amount of orange juice.

Fruit Sundaes at Home Particularly Pleasing

French vanilla ice cream is particularly good as a foundation for any sort of fruit "sundae" made at home, with crushed fresh fruit such as strawberries, raspberries, and fresh blackberries. To make French vanilla ice cream, the United States Department of Agriculture gives the recipe below:

1 quart milk	¾ cupfuls sugar
½ pint double cream	¼ teaspoonful salt
4 eggs	1½ teaspoonfuls vanilla

Prepare as for custard by pouring some of the heated milk into the lightly beaten eggs and then cooking the milk and eggs with the sugar and salt in a double boiler until the custard coats the spoon. Cool, add the double cream, and vanilla, mix well, and freeze.

For the freezing mixture use 1 part of salt to 4 or 6 parts of ice. Turn the crank slowly during freezing.

"Red Tape" Hampering Business in Poland

Like most governments of countries in economic difficulties, the Polish government has tried to improve matters by a network of regulations and prohibitions. Goods can still only be imported with a license and until lately it was very hard to send money out of the country. Such regulations, if applied at all by a not too well co-ordinated or experienced administration, must apparently affect the small as well as the great.

When the London Daily News correspondent was sent a pipe as a birthday present, which had probably cost $1 or so, to receive it he had first to trudge off to the ministry of trade and industry for a special import license. One lady wanted to send 25 cents in currency to cover postage of a parcel to a friend in England. She asked a post office official how to do this and he is said to have replied, gravely and politely: "First, madame, you must have the permission of the minister of finance."

"BAYER ASPIRIN" PROVED SAFE

Take without Fear as Told in "Bayer" Package

BAYER

Does not affect the Heart

Unless you see the "Bayer Cross" on package or on tablets you are not getting the genuine Bayer Aspirin proved safe by millions and prescribed by physicians over twenty-five years for

Colds	Headache
Neuritis	Lumbago
Toothache	Rheumatism
Neuralgia	Pain, Pain

Each unbroken "Bayer" package contains proven directions. Handy boxes of twelve tablets cost few cents. Druggists also sell bottles of 24 and 100.

Might Spare a Few

It is said that never was there a gentler critic than Doctor McClintock of Dickinson college. One day a young orator presented his speech for Doctor McClintock's approval. He evidently did not anticipate adverse criticism.

He received it, nevertheless, given in the doctor's gentle, humorous way, which never could offend.

"It's a good speech," he said, "but there is, perhaps, a little too much of a certain sort of rhetoric. For instance, I find two midnight owls, two midnight wolves, three American eagles and four unfurled banners. It seems to me the supply exceeds the demand."

The charm of a bathroom is its spotlessness. By the use of Russ Bleaching Blue all cloths and towels retain their whiteness until worn out.—Adv.

Trains Vacuum-Cleaned

Using the principle employed by some garages in this country for quick cleaning of automobiles, a railway in France has installed large vacuum tunnels for its cars. All that is necessary is to pull a train through an archway lined with brushes and vacuum cleaning attachments, which are operated automatically, and the cars are thoroughly cleaned and polished when they emerge.

Not Product of Panama

Panama hats are not made in Panama, as popularly supposed. They are manufactured almost exclusively in Ecuador and Peru. The misnomer arose from the fact that such hats were introduced to the world through the Isthmus of Panama.—Pathfinder Magazine.

YOUNG WOMEN MAY KEEP WELL

By Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Here is Proof

St. Paul, Minn.—"Here is a little advice I would like to have you put in the papers," Mrs. Jack Lorberter of 704 Dellwood Place wrote to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Company. "If young women want to keep their health and strength for the next thirty years of their lives, it is best to start in right now and take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I have tried the Compound myself and received fine results from its use." In describing her condition before taking the Compound, she writes, "I was afraid in my own house in broad daylight, I used to lock the doors and pull down the shades so that nobody could see me." One day a booklet advertising the Vegetable Compound was left on her porch and she read it through. In so doing, she found a letter from a woman whose condition was similar to her own. "I bought Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound," Mrs. Lorberter continued, "and have had fine results. My condition made me a burden to my husband. Now I ask him, 'How is housekeeping?' and he says, 'It is just like being in Heaven!'" Are you on the Sunlit Road to Better Health?

Keep Stomach and Bowels Right

By giving baby the harmless, purely vegetable, infants' and children's regulator.

MRS. WINSLOW'S SYRUP

brings astonishing, gratifying results in making baby's stomach digest food and bowels move as they should at teething time. Guaranteed free from narcotics, opiates, alcohol and all harmful ingredients. Safe and satisfactory.

At All Druggists

HAY-FEVER -ASTHMA

RELIEF GUARANTEED!

Why Suffer? TRY RAZ-MAH. You must get Quick, Positive and Extended Relief or your money Refunded. No smoke—No spray—No bother—No Habit-Forming Drugs. Just swallow a small Capsule. Thousands of users endorse RAZ-MAH. Try it—you risk nothing. Ask your druggist for $1.00 box or write us for GENEROUS FREE TRIAL. RAZ-MAH CO., 221 W. Congress St., Detroit, Mich.

In the Red Box RAZ-MAH with the Orange Band

SKIN BLEACH

Results wonderful and sure. One complete box of KREMOLA will convince the most skeptical. Also cures Eczema. Price $1.25. Ask your dealer. Beauty Booklet FREE. Dr. C. H. Berry Co., Dept. 23, 2509 Michigan Ave. Chicago.

RHEUMATISM

For 35 Years

TRUSLER'S RHEUMATIC TABLETS

HAVE GIVEN RELIEF

All Druggists. Two Sizes, 50c and $1.00.
Trusler Remedy Co. Cincinnati, O.

CLEAN OFF A BOG SPAVIN

Or thoroughpin promptly with Absorbine. It is penetrating but does not blister nor remove the hair. You can work the horse at the same time. $2.50 at druggists, or postpaid. Describe your case for special instructions. Write for valuable horse book 4-S free.

A user writes: "Had one horse with bog spavin on both hind legs. One bottle Absorbine cleaned them off. Horse now going sound and well."

ABSORBINE

TRADE MARK REG. U.S. PAT. OFF.

W. F. YOUNG, Inc., 310 Lyman Bldg., Springfield, Mass.

Case of Nerve

"Don't worry," said the dentist. "I always give my patients—ah—something to—ah—quiet their nerves."

"Then what was that fellow in there yelling for?" demanded the skeptical sufferer.

"More!"—American Legion Weekly.

Riches may be concealed in the small town, but not poverty.

A good intention clothes itself with sudden power.—Emerson.

Pa Buzz has a hot breakfast

FLIT spray clears your home of flies and mosquitoes. It also kills bed bugs, roaches, ants, and their eggs. Fatal to insects but harmless to mankind. Will not stain. Get Flit today.

FLIT

DESTROYS
Flies Mosquitoes Moths
Ants Bed Bugs Roaches

AUGUST

L 91[illegible] U521

Lowest PRICES In History

AT THIS

GREAT TIRE SALE

Firestone

GUM DIPPED TIRES

31 32

$6.95

Other Sizes Priced Low

$4.75

Buys a coupon good for $5.00 in trade on Gas, Oil and all Accessories.

Bargains in Accessories

$9.50

Buys a Coupon good for $10 in trade on Gas, Oil and all Accessories.

Trade in your Old Tires---Liberal allowance made for them on a new set of Gum-Dipped Tires. History's lowest Tire Prices-Get your Requirements for balance of year at Great Savings.

Auburn THACHERS' Garrett

NOTICE TO TAXPAYERS OF TAX LEVIES

In the matter of determining the tax rates for certain purposes by Spencer Township, DeKalb County, Indiana.

Before the Township Advisory Board.

Notice is hereby given the taxpayers of said Township above named, that the proper legal officers of said municipality at their regular meeting place, on the 6th day of September, 1927, will consider the following budget:

Budget Classification for Townships

TOWNSHIP FUND

Salary of Trustee	$ 600
Office Rent	60
Trustee's expense—
(a) Traveling	125
Records and advertising	100
Public Ditches (assessments against Township)	150
Pay of Advisory Board	15
Examination of records	40
Miscellaneous—	75
Total Township Fund	$1 165

Estimate of Township Funds To Be Raised

Estimated expenditures as above, $1,165.00.

Working balance at end of year to meet necessary expenditures until receipts of revenue from taxation, $1,991.00.

Total, $3,156.00.

Balance at end of this year $1,991.00.

Total deductions, $1,991.00.

Amount necessary to be raised by taxation, $1,165.00.

ROAD FUND

Labor, $3,500.00.

Road tools and machines, $200.00.

Bridges and culverts, $400.00.

Gravel, stone and road material, $1,600.00.

Miscellaneous, $100.00.

Total Road Fund, $5,800.00.

Estimate of Road Fund To Be Raised

Estimate of expenditures, as above, $5,800.00.

Working balance at end of year to meet necessary expenditures until receipts of revenue from taxation, $1,700.00.

Total, $7,500.00.

Balance at end of this year, $1,700.00.

Total deductions, $1,700.00.

Amount necessary to be raised by taxation, $5,800.00.

SPECIAL SCHOOL FUND

Repair of buildings and care of grounds, $200.00.

Repair of other equipment, $300.00.

School furniture and equipment, $200.00.

School supplies, $500.00.

Janitor's supplies, $150.00.

Fuel for schools, $500.00.

School transfers, $400.00.

Pay of teachers institute $260.00.

Janitor services, $450.00.

Transportation of children, $1,400.

Miscellaneous, $200.00.

Total special School Fund, $3,560.00.

Estimate Of Special School Fund To Be Raised

Estimate of expenditures as above, $3,560.00.

Working balance at end of year to meet necessary expenditures until receipts of revenue from taxation, $3,089.00.

Total, $6,649.00.

Balance at end of this year, $3,089.00.

Total deductions, $3,089.00.

Amount necessary to be raised by taxation, $3,560.00.

TUITION FUND

Pay of teachers, $9,980.00.

Total Tuition Fund, $9,980.00.

Estimate Of Tuition Fund To Be Raised

Estimate of expenditures as above, $9,980.00.

Working balance at end of year to meet necessary expenditures until receipts of revenue from taxation, $4,537.00.

Total, $13,517.00.

Revenue not derived from taxation, $2,740.00.

Balance at end of this year, $4,537.00.

Total deductions, $6,277.00.

Amount necessary to be raised by taxation, $7,240.00.

Estimate Of Poor Fund To Be Raised

Estimate of expenditures as above, $125.00.

Amount necessary to be raised by taxation, $125.00.

LIBRARY FUND

Library, $200.00.

Total Library Fund, $200.00.

Amount necessary to be raised by taxation, $200.00.

Proposed Levies

Net taxable property $1,448,458.50.

Number of taxable polls, 124.

Township Fund—Levy on property, 7 cents; amount to be raised, $1,165.00.

Road Fund—Levy on polls, 75 cents; levy on property, 40 cents; amount to be raised, $5,800.00.

Special School Fund—Levy on polls, 50 cents; levy on property, 30 cents; amount to be raised, $3,560.00.

Tuition Fund—Levy on polls, 75 cents; levy on property, 50 cents; amount to be raised, $7,240.

Poor Fund—Levy on property, 1 cent; amount to be raised, $125.

Library Fund—Levy on property, 2 cents; amount to be raised, $200.00.

Total levy on polls, $2.00; total levy on property, $1.30; total amount to be raised, $18,080.00.

Comparative Statement Of The Taxes Collected And To Be Collected

Shows Amounts Collected Last Three Years

Township Fund—Collected 1924 levy, $1,175.00; collected 1925 levy, vy, $1,070.00; collected 1926 levy, $1,070.00; to be collected this 1927 levy, $1,165.00.

Road Fund—Collected 1924 levy, $5,200.00; collected 1925 levy, $6,600.00; collected 1926 levy $6,400.00; to be collected this 1927 levy, $5,800.00.

Special School Fund—Collected 1924 levy, $3,860.00; collected 1925 levy, $5,200.00; collected 1926 levy, $8,730.00; to be collected this 1927 levy, $3,560.00.

Tuition Fund—Collected 1924 levy, $6,500.00; collected 1925 levy, $5,000.00; collected 1926 levy, $9,300.00; to be collected this 1927 levy, $7,240.00.

Poor Fund—collected 1926 levy, $640.00; to be collected this 1927 levy, $125.00.

Library Fund—To be collected this 1927 levy, $200.00.

Total—Collected 1924 levy, $16,685.00; total collected 1925 levy, $17,870.00; total collected 1926 levy, $26,140.00; total to be collected this 1927 levy, $18,090.00.

Taxpayers appearing shall have a right to be heard thereon. After the tax levies have been determined, ten or more taxpayers, feeling themselves aggrieved by such levies, may appeal to the State Board of Tax Commissioners for further and final action thereon, by filing a petition therefor with the County Auditor not later than the fourth Monday of September, and theState Board will fix a date of hearing in this County.

Dated August 22, 1927.

W. G. ERICK,
Trustee Spencer Township.

Adhesive Currency

Old Si Chestnut says: "This country doesn't need a more elastic currency. Adhesive currency is the real need."

And old Si is more than half right. In other words we need money that will stick to us, for money is a very elusive commodity. There is only one really safe way to hold it. Put it in a reliable Bank like ours, a Bank that has the confidence of its depositors. Keep it there until there is a chance to invest it safely.

CONFIDENCE IS WHAT COUNTS.

The St. Joe Valley Bank, A STATE BANK

CHRIST FOR ALL—ALL FOR CHRIST

The Word of God

GREAT POWER FROM GOD:—Behold, I give unto you power to tread on serpents and scorpions, and over all the power of an enemy; and nothing shall by any means hurt you. Luke 10: 19.

PRAYER:—O Lord, Most High, we seek to dwell in the secret place where no evil thing can befall us.

LOCAL NEWS ITEMS

We order McCall of Pictorial patterns. Phone number wanted to The News. 29tf.

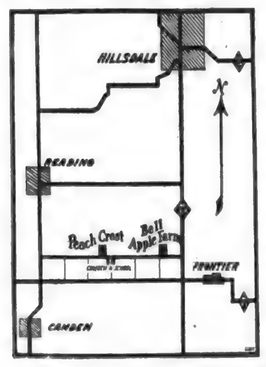
Mrs. Howard Borthwick and daughter attended the funeral of the formers uncle, J. W. Wynn at Defiance, Tuesday.

Who can remember when we used to get quite a shock seeing a girl on the stage wearing pink tights. With the new style of nude shade of hose these days, we hardly bat an eye.

What this country needs is a good lively, smoothly operating deporting machine. No anarchists who are active in poisoning public opinion, causing unlawful disturbances and trying to wreck the United States government or any of its businesses should be allowed to remain in this country. They should be deported at once. A good stiff policy would be wholesome.

A kite, a ball of string and a boy and imagination carries us back to a fairyland of boyhood and kite flying days. Flying kites and dressing dolls are companion plays of childhood; wrecked fortunes and broken hearts are twin tragedies of life. The lesson of a fortune lost may become the introduction to another victory, and the heart made sad today sings a softer melody to the joys of tomorrow. Childhood kites and bubbles grow to aeroplanes and balloons in manhood.

PEACH CREST P. O. and Phone Camden, Mich.



ORDER CANNING PEACHES NOW Its Cooperation.

You drop us a post card stating what variety you prefer. We drop you a card when they are just right for you to come for them. Cool weather makes them ripen slowly. Deweys most gone. Carmen (white) about the 25th, followed by St. John and South Haven, Elberta, New Prolific, Kalamazoo, Champion (white) and Lemon Free. Only tree ripened fruit can be of highest quality. Visitors Welcome.

W. S. PULLEN & SONS

Home Bureau Activities

The ladies Home Bureau heid their August meeting last Friday at the home of Mrs. Harvey Lindley. The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Pluma Hamilton and several club songs were sung, after which the committee, consisting of the hostess, Mrs. Stella Layman, Mrs. Gladys Hull, Mrs Mary Krise and Mrs. Marie Draggoo, entertained the club with a reading by Mrs. Draggoo and a contest which all enjoyed. Mrs. Ethel Campbell being the winner of the contest for which she was awarded a vase and flower by the committee. The topic "How should a housewife's recreation be spent," was discussed in the form of a round table. Sixteen members responded to roll call with humorous stories.

The committee, assisted by Mrs. Gertrude Borthwick, project leader, served luncheon consisting of two of the dishes for special occasions which were made at the last county project meeting, outrigger salad and roll sandwiches, beside these, white and gold cake and iced tea were served.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. George Simanton at which time the remaining dishes for special occasions will be served, which are: ribbon sandwiches, sandwich slices, shrimp delight and plum pudding. A good attendance is desired.

SERIOUS WHEAT THREATS LOSE AGAINST FERTILIZER

Two threats against the winter wheat crop of 1928 must be reckoned with this year as in years gone past. These are the Hessian fly and winter-killing. Of these two dangers winter is probably the more serious in this county, but both stand as possible causes of loss to wheat growers.

The fly of course is best controlled by delayed seeding until the "fly free" date, which in this section is usually about September 15th, or later. This leaves only a short growing season for the wheat to make heavy root development and top growth, and, unless the winter be unusually favorable loses in stand are likely to occur. These losses may be low as 10 or 15 per cent or they may make it necessary to plow up the field and put in other crops. This costs much in seed, labor and power.

The part that fertilizer plays in meeting these two dangers is very important. By having a ready supply of available plant foods, the wheat seedling finds itself in the most favorable condition for rapid growth of leaves and development of a heavy, spreading root system.

A heavy root system and good top growth enable the wheat field to catch and hold more snow, reduce the rapid changes from freezing to thawing, and resist "heaving" of the roots.

It is still too early to know just how dangerous the fly will be this year. Indications are that it will be greater in many places, as summer surveys by entomologists in some sections show an infestation of 21 per cent of the straws, compared to 9 per cent last summer.

Paper and envelopes News office.

Dr. E. T. Julian M. D. St. JOE

9:30 to 11:30 each forenoon at Dr. C. R. Price office.

PHONE 290

Stanley P. Nelson Monuments

Opposite Woodlawn and Roselawn Cemeteries

AUBURN, IND.

Headquarters for all SCHOOL GOODS

TABLETS — PENCILS — PENS — ETC.

ONLY ELEVEN MORE DAYS UNTIL SCHOOL COMMENCES—WE ARE SHOWING THE LARGEST ASSORTMENT OF SCHOOL SUPPLIES EVER SHOWN IN ST. JOE

FREE GOODS WILL BE GIVEN WITH EVERY PURCHASE OF SCHOOL SUPPLIES AMOUNTING TO

25 Cents and More

SPECIAL PRICES ON WEARING APPAREL for children

NICE ASSORTMENT OF GIRLS DRESSES AT EACH ONLY ..... 99 cents

BIG SUPPLY OF SHOES, STOCKINGS AND BLOOMERS AT ..... Special Prices

FOR THE BOYS WE HAVE A NICE LINE OF SHOES, STOCKINGS, CAPS, OVERALLS AND PANTS

NICE ASSORTMENT OF BOYS SHIRTS AT EACH ..... 69 cents

Watch for our ad in next weeks paper—then follow the Crowd—THERE IS A REASON

ZONKER STORE

L 915 0522

SEPTEMBER

SEPTEMBER

L 91 0523

We want your NEWS ITEMS and appreciate your calling—We can't get all the items of interest unless you do help Phone in and give your news.

ST. JOE NEWS.

This week in THE NEWS are many good offers—Read them thy're interesting. Keep up with trend of business in St. Joe—READ THE ADS.

VOL. XLI. ST. JOE, DeKALB COUNTY, INDIANA, THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 1, 1927 NUMBER 35

HOME COMING

THE GOOD OF HOME-COMING

"WHAT'SA goods home-coming?"

That isn't Latin, or Japanese, or any foreign language, but plain American; and it means:

"What's the good of home-coming?"

It was Young Grouch who said it. (For the grouch is not always old, by any means.)

What's the good of home-coming? A good deal of good, to a good many people!

It does a lot of good to the man and woman who come home, no matter from whence they come.

To remember and to be remembered—to cherish and be cherished—that is about the greatest joy in life.

To find we are not forgotten—ourselves to recall old places and old faces—that is life's keenest pleasure.

It warms the heart—and when the heart warms it expands.

It's great to see a hand stretched out for something besides your money.

It gets you to reaching out for something besides money, too.

It gets you to recalling quiet pleasures with a glow, and old friends with affection.

One great thing about friendship is that it increases self-respect.

For, to have friends, you must be worthy of them.

You may get wealth by luck—
Position by pull—
Even health by good fortune—
But you must earn your friends.
The old friends were your first friends.

You had less then, perhaps, of wealth and knowledge—but you won friends.

You must have been a pretty fair sort of man or woman, or boy or girl.

You kept them—even through separation—and you must have been a fair sort of person to do that.

Why, you have come home to find out what a fine fellow you really are!

And home-coming is a good thing for those old friends as well.

It gives them joy to know you care enough about the old friends and the community to come back.

It makes them want to be worthy of your faith and friendship.

It makes them proud of the old town, and the country 'round about.

It gives them joy to be remembered—and remember.

When you come back they no longer feel any regret that they never went away.

They know that a place that is good enough to come back to is good enough to stay in.

Whatever the world is, or any part of it, this proves that the old home town is best of all.

They feel that they have kept the faith.

When you come here is the old town—
And the old friends—
The old streets, the old trees—
The old sky and grass—
Waiting to welcome you.
They have kept the light burning in the window—
The flame glowing on the altar of friendship—
Until the prodigal returned.
Blessed are the faithful!

Its a good thing for the town.

Towns are like people—they ought to put on their best clothes now and then—

To clean up the back yards, and hang out the flag—

To clip the lawn and paint the porch.

After you get away you will tell others what a good town the old town is—

How surprised you were at its growth and enterprise—

Its shaded streets and well-kept homes.

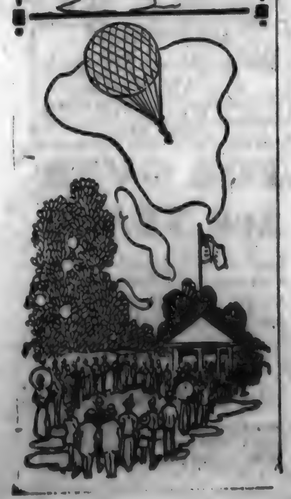
The old home town will be an inspiration—

And you will be an advertisement.

Perhaps you will even decide to stay!

Whats the good of home-coming?

A good deal of good, to a good many people!



MONSTROUS LOCOMOTIVES PASS THRU ST. JOE

The B. & O. has been transporting some giant locomotives during the past few weeks. They were built by the American Locomotive Co., Dunkirk, N. Y., and were enroute to Denver, Colo., where they will be used for mountain service on the Denver & Rio Grande Western railroad.

Some idea of the size of these monstrous engines can be realized from the following facts: The engines are 121 feet long, coupler to coupler; carry 18,000 gallons of water each; 30 tons of coal each; have fire boxes 25 feet long; standard stoker feeder, which feeds coal from tender to fire boxes, and use 240 pounds of steam under working pressure.

Each engine has 16 drive wheels, 8 on each side and the tender 12 wheels, 6 on each side of the Pullman truck type. The engines are equipped with a super-heater water system, in fact are modern in every detail and built for economy. They are of the single Malle type and each weighs 468 tons. The engines are in charge of A. T. Fraser, of Dunkirk, N. Y.

NEW NUMBER PLATES FOR 1928 ON WAY

Instead of white numbers on a black field, the color combination for the 1927 automobile license plates, the ones for 1928 will be white figures upon a maroon background.

The size of the new plates will be different from the ones this year. They will be four inches shorter and an inch and a half wider. "Indiana—1928" will extend clear across the bottom of the plate instead of an abbreviation at the end as at present.

The number of plates received at the Auburn branch in 1927 was 5,100 of which about 5,000 have been sold to date. Seven hundred and fifty truck plates have been sold.

The exact date upon which the new plates will be placed on sale has not been learned; but it is thought the instructions will specify about December 15th.

WHO USES THE BOYS SHARE?

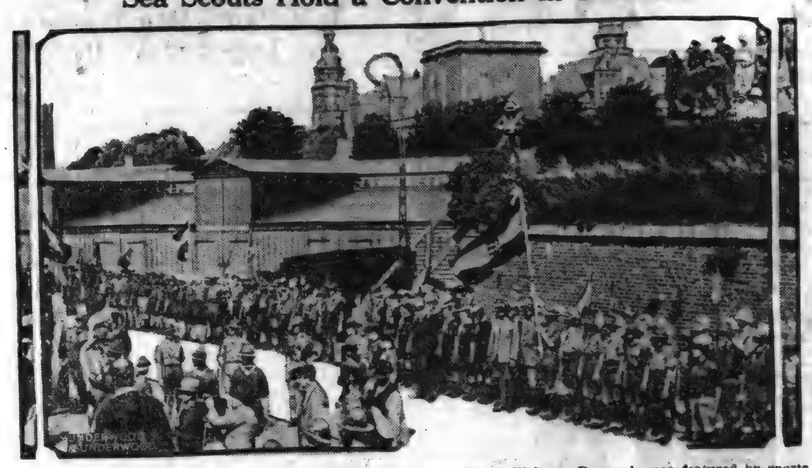
Apparently without consideration for the tender feelings of small boys, the commerce department announces results of a soap census disclosing that the United States makes abount 30 pounds of soap a year for every man, woman and child. Only about three pounds per capita is toilet soap applicable to necks and ears of small boys, however. The census, covering the year 1925, disclosed 272 soap factories, more than 15,000 employes and a total production value of $282,000,000 for the year.

ALL KINDS OF SPORTS, BAND CONCERT
MEET YOUR OLD ACQUAINTANCES HERE
4th. Annual
St. Joe
HOME-COMING
SEPTEMBER
3rd.
FREE!
FREE BALL GAME, FREE ATTRACTIONS
GIGANTIC PARADE, DANCE, SPEECH

SEPTEMBER

L 91 524

Sea Scouts Hold a Convention in Denmark



The annual meeting of the International Order of Sea Scouts at Elsinore, Denmark, was featured by sports and tournaments, with a parade as one of the chief attractions. Photograph shows the sea scouts being reviewed.

Huge Raft of Timber on the Pacific Coast

Huge cigar-like raft consisting of six million feet of timber, which was towed 1,000 miles from Washington to San Diego, Calif. Approximately eighty rafts have been towed the length of the Pacific coast in 25 years, and each raft approximately as huge as this one.

MISS CHICAGO

Miss Myrtle Christine Valsted, seventeen years old, was selected as Miss Chicago to attend the Atlantic City beauty pageant, after the original first choice was found to be disqualified by marriage.

ACCUSED OF MURDER

Mrs. Mary B. Waite, stewardess on the steamship American Trader, who is accused of pouring carbolic acid into the mouth of her sweetheart, Lewis Fisher, engineer on the vessel, causing his death. She was arrested when the ship reached England and was returned to the United States for trial.

Australian Beauty Is Welcomed

Selected as the height of pulchritude in the antipodes, "Miss Australia," in the person of Miss Phyllis von Alwyn, arrived in San Francisco on the Matson liner Sierra. "Miss San Francisco" and "Miss Southern California," who welcomed her, are shown with her in this photograph.

Crash of Hawaiian Flight Entry

The crash of the plane "El Encanto," piloted by Norman Goddard and K. S. Hawkins, who escaped injury. This plane was second to take off in the Dole prize flight from Oakland, Calif., to Honolulu. The picture was transmitted by telephone.

METAL-TRIM IN LATEST GOWNS; NOVEL SWEATERS FOR FALL WEAR

"TWINKLE, twinkle little star, how I wonder what you are"—that's the way one feels about it at sight of some of autumn's new frocks, which are starred with either little gold or silver nailheads, or else with tiny repeat motifs done symmetrically upon blouse, or perhaps sleeves or pocket or some other equally as strategic trimming point.

Undoubtedly metal, especially touches of gold, have entered into the fall style scheme with renewed emphasis, and in such unique ways one experiences a thrill at every turn. Black frocks with gleamings of gold are being especially exploited.

Among unique trimming effects are metal stitched plaits, so maneuvered that the gilt forms a sparkling outline along the lengthwise edge of each plait. Cluster stitching done with gold or silver thread is also handsomely applied. A frock of black velvet, the new sheer kind, interprets the metal trim with scalloped edges accomplished with silver buttonhole stitch.

Comes from Paris a striking novelty—a tin-trimmed frock. In actual appearance not as sensational as it sounds, as this picture of a newly arrived model attests. The tin is so processed as to be lightweight and supple. Then it is riveted over varicolored silk, giving it an extremely beautiful effect. Pockets and a plastron collar of this tin novelty are very effectively disposed on the dress here shown.

Not only in a trimming way, but in the weave of many new fall fabrics, metallic effect asserts itself. Metal cloth also of exceeding sheer type strikes an entirely new note, its suppleness yielding gracefully to plaiting, which accounts for the new plaited metal cloth skirts included in early fall showings. It is said also that the two-piece dress with velvet skirt topped with a metal fabric blouse promises an important vogue, especially for afternoon bridge party wear.

Many French imports for fall stress the presence of fancy metal belts. These are evidence of the trend to elaborate effects for this fall. Some of these are fine mesh belts.

Gold leather is also being worked into belts in many fascinating ways.

There's every reason why sweaters are about as important a subject as one can discuss in connection with autumn's incoming modes. Increasing note of popularity which knitted apparel is registering—one "reason why" for sweaters. Cool autumn days at hand when sweaters are an essential for comfort—reason number two. Back-to-school movement, which calls for sweaters for all ages, college sports season, where sweaters will be present many hundred strong in the throng rooting for their hero, and so it goes, these many contributing causes to sweater prestige.

The Latest Mode From Paris.

Striking color animates the new sweaters and somehow one cannot get away from the feeling that "tricky" designs or patternings have much to do with achieving these novel color effects which prevail throughout sweater styling. Per example, note how the stripes encircling the sweater shown first in this group are broken up into a medley of sections, dropping one color to take up another. This produces a most unusual color effect and many of the new stripings are just that way.

Speaking of stripes, they are very much in evidence in the sweater realm. Candy-striped sweaters are outstanding in the newer models. The sweater in the foreground in this group is typical of this trend to stripes.

Another new departure is the repeat motif patterning, being the symmetrical positioning of the figure, which in the case of the sweater shown to the right at the top, looks very much like a star—not a five-pointed one. Come to think of it, this is rather a patriotic group of sweaters, if displaying the stars and stripes gives evidence.

The various necklines displayed in this trio of sweaters also enlighten as to fashion's trend—and the long snug sleeves, do not forget to get a mental impression of them also.

Some Fall Sweaters.

JULIA BOTTOMLEY.

(©, 1927, by Western Newspaper Union.)

TWO WOMEN FOUND HELP

Their Sickness Banished by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Mrs. Nina Matteson, Box 206, Oxford, N. Y., writes—"If it had not been for your medicine, I could not have done my work as it should have been done. Mother told me of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I had read in different papers what it had done for different women. She wanted me to try it, so my husband got me one bottle at first; then I took two others. Now I am feeling quite strong again."

Mrs. Ernest Tanguay of Adams, Mass., says she was ill for four years and could not sleep nights or go out on the street. She read about the Vegetable Compound and decided to try it. After taking eight bottles she was able to do all her work and go anywhere and is quite herself again.

This dependable Vegetable Compound is a household word in thousands of homes. The fourth generation is now learning the merit of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

For more than half a century, this reliable medicine has been used by women with very satisfactory results. If the Vegetable Compound has helped other women, why shouldn't it help you?

K-R-O
Kills Rats Only

Kill rats wholesale

Get rid of them safely. Here's a new sure way. K-R-O, a fine non-poisonous powder, kills 'em off in a hurry. Made from squill bulbs, the new safe way urged by government experts.

Safe for poultry and pets

Actual tests proved that it killed rats and mice every time but other animals and poultry were not injured by the largest doses. Think what that means to farmers and merchants.

Not a poison

Use K-R-O freely. Place it around your home, your barn, your granary or farmyard. Contains no arsenic, phosphorus or barium-carbonate. At your druggist 75c. Large size (4 times as much) $2.00. Or sent direct from us postpaid if he cannot supply you. Satisfaction guaranteed.

K-R-O CO., Springfield, Ohio

BOILS
There's quick, positive, relief in
CARBOIL
GENEROUS 50¢ BOX.
At All Druggists — Money-back Guarantee

A Needed Accessory

Car Salesman—This car has all the latest attachments. This, for instance, is the trouble light.

Binks—Humph! That doesn't interest me.

Car Salesman—Oh, you'll use it often.—Pathfinder.

Russ Bleaching Blue is the finest product of its kind in the world. Every woman who has used it knows this statement to be true.—Adv.

Striking

She—Don't you think their wedding presents a striking display?

He—They certainly would have if the eleven parlor clocks had all been going.

Headache?

Instead of dangerous heart depressants take safe, mild and purely vegetable NATURE'S REMEDY and get rid of the bowel poisons that cause the trouble. Nothing like NR for biliousness, sick headaches, and constipation. Acts pleasantly. Never gripes.

Make the test tonight—

NR TO-NIGHT
TOMORROW ALRIGHT

At Druggists—only 25c

PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM
Removes Dandruff—Stops Hair Falling
Restores Color and Beauty to Gray and Faded Hair
60c. and $1.00 at Druggists.
Hiscox Chem. Wks. Patchogue, N. Y.

FLORESTON SHAMPOO—Ideal for use in connection with Parker's Hair Balsam. Makes the hair soft and fluffy. 50 cents by mail or at druggists. Hiscox Chemical Works, Patchogue, N. Y.

HANFORD'S
Balsam of Myrrh
For Piles, Corns Bunions, Chilblains, etc.
All dealers are authorized to refund your money for the first bottle if not suited.

FOR OVER 200 YEARS

haarlem oil has been a world-wide remedy for kidney, liver and bladder disorders, rheumatism, lumbago and uric acid conditions.

GOLD MEDAL
HAARLEM OIL
CAPSULES

correct internal troubles, stimulate vital organs. Three sizes. All druggists. Insist on the original genuine GOLD MEDAL.

SEPTEMBER

L 91 0525

THE SURE CURE FOR FIDGETITIS

(©, by D. J. Walsh.)

MRS. FRISBY was old, elegant and petulant. She lived alone with her servants in a big house set on a wide-sweeping lawn which was as smooth as a carpet and perfectly kept by Old Pete, her gardener. She had flowers in great abundance and a luxurious limousine was housed in a garage quite in keeping with all the rest of her property. Mrs. Frisby was seventy and when she went forth to call on the few persons she considered worthy of her notice she was clothed in the richest of black satin and wore diamonds of such size that she fairly dazzled the eye. She was to all appearances austere and haughty, a woman with a heart of ice. She never allowed any one to take liberties with her and she granted favors and interviews much as a queen might. She was not generous and to the people and children who lived near her she was a perfect bugaboo, for if a child or dog happened to stray on her premises it was driven away and made to feel it had committed a great crime. Everybody, even the few on whom she looked with favor, stood in awe of her.

In all her life there had been only three persons who had discovered that she had a heart, one an early sweetheart who left her for her friend, the second old Hannah, her ancient handmaiden, and she knew "Miss Caroline" as she called her mistress, "like a book," and the third was young Doctor Dent.

Doctor Dent had been called in an emergency to attend Mrs. Frisby one day when her old family doctor had been away. Mrs. Frisby was, she said, a victim of nerves, but when Doctor Dent had taken her temperature, looked at her tongue and felt her pulse he had told her that she was not a victim of nerves but she had a bad case of fidgetitis. To the old woman, fed up on Doctor Crosby's sympathetic diagnosis, the thought of a new symptom was really refreshing, and she continued to employ the young doctor, never suspecting that he had found nothing the matter with her but ennui. When he had said fidgetitis and told her she was a fidgetarian he thought she would see the joke at once, but she had not and quite reveled in the new complaint. This new interest lasted until winter came and the snow piled up and made it impossible for her to get out in the car and then she really did get so nervous and dissatisfied with everything that she lost her appetite and began to sleep badly. Finally she developed a headache and remained in her room and then she took to her bed. She refused to see any one and when some of her acquaintances and relatives heard of her indisposition they sent flowers and books, but she hated flowers in her room and she had dozens of books and magazines that she had never opened.

Poor Hannah was at her wits' end. She offered to put cold compresses on her mistress' head and brought a bottle of Mrs. Frisby's favorite lavender smelling salts, but when she only broke down and cried and said she guessed she was homesick this frightened old Hannah so badly that she sent a hurry call for Doctor Dent and he came, as he laughingly told Mrs. Frisby, "on two wheels." When he had talked a few moments he told her if he had had time he certainly would have brought her an aluminum ring with a glass setting as big as a bean. At this she laughed. Before he went away he said he was going to send her a cure. It would arrive the next morning promptly at nine o'clock, and as it was a peculiar remedy and must be delivered directly into her hands she would have to be downstairs when it was delivered. And then he went away, and so busy was Mrs. Frisby in speculating over what the cure could be that before she realized it her headache was gone and when Hannah appeared bearing a tray upon which a dainty supper reposed she fell to and ate with a relish.

The next morning Mrs. Frisby came down to breakfast. She ate hurriedly and as soon as possible returned to the big window in the living room which commanded a view of the street. Promptly at nine a car drove up and a man got out with something wrapped in a blanket in his arms. Mrs. Frisby gasped in horror. A moment later the maid ushered the man into Mrs. Frisby's presence.

The man came forward and without a word set the bundle on the rug at the old woman's feet. He then removed the blanket and there stood revealed the funniest crooked-legged wrinkled-faced Boston bull puppy that was ever seen.

"A dog!" fairly shrieked Mrs. Frisby. "I hate dogs!"

"Oh, but you won't this one, ma'am," said the man. "He's only six weeks old. He comes from a long line of blue ribbon winners. He's more intelligent than a—a child. He will make a fine pal. I have written directions as to his diet and care and I think that's all. Good morning," and before the old woman could frame a protest the man was gone.

Left alone with a dog! She, Caroline Frisby, who hated dogs. She would ring the bell for Hannah and she would order the dog sent back at once. As she rose from her chair and started for the door the puppy, whose idea of the world to date was that it was full of love, warmth, milk and dog biscuits, mistook her intention and, staggering forward on his crooked legs, began to yip and growl and cavort and finally in a perfect ecstasy of joy rolled over on his fiat back right under her feet.

Mrs. Frisby attempted to shove him out of her way with her foot, but the dog caught hold of the toe of her shoe and began worrying it. In order to get rid of him she stooped down and attempted to grab him by the collar, but the puppy, seeing a hand approaching, leaped up and kissed it with his warm moist little tongue. The old woman drew back her hand, but she stood looking with fascinated gaze into the friendly bright eyes of the little dog. Why, after all, dogs were not so bad—not this one at least. Maybe she would wait a bit before calling Hannah—there was plenty of time. It would do no harm to watch the creature a moment, and she went back to her seat by the window.

An hour later when Hannah came into the room, followed by Doctor Dent, they found Mrs. Frisby sitting by the fireplace with the puppy in her lap. Her jeweled hand was gently stroking the little fellow's warm body and he was sleeping. She looked up with a smile when she caught the astonished look on old Hannah's face, and the amused eyes of the young doctor.

"I see my cure has worked," said Doctor Dent, as she came to stand by her side.

"I think it has," answered Mrs. Frisby soberly. "But what if it hadn't?"

"I had one more thing to try," he said.

"I was going to bring my sweetheart. She is a sure cure for fidgetitis."

"Who is she, doctor?" asked Mrs. Frisby.

"Julia Markham—"

"Julia Markham!" fairly cried the old woman. "Why, she is my grandniece—did you know it?"

"Not until after we were engaged," said the doctor.

"Well," said Mrs. Frisby thoughtfully, "I promised Julia's mother I would make a home for that girl, but I never have. I have always thought I hated young things—"

"But do you?" asked Doctor Dent.

"Not now," answered the old woman. "And if Julia has had sense enough to get engaged to a fine young fellow like you, why, maybe it would be a good thing all the way round for her and you and I to live under this roof together."

"And the dog?" asked the doctor with a smile.

"And Brownie, of course," answered Mrs. Frisby firmly.

Make Use of Firewood in Wedding Proposal

A wooing custom on the island of Formosa was explained by Mr. E. H. de Bunsen, H. M. consular service, Japan, to the Royal Geographical society.

"Marriage among the Tsalisen Paiwans," he said, "is a matter of individual choice, and not of family arrangement. The proposal can come from either party, but it is usually the man who makes it.

"The manner of wooing is peculiar. After taking steps to acquaint the woman, through a third party, what his intentions are the suitor takes a bundle of firewood by night and leaves it outside the door of the house where she lives. If the bundle is taken inside the house, it is a sign that he may continue his suit; if left 'in situ' it is an indication that his advances are rejected."

Eventually, if all goes well, he is one evening invited to enter, and such an invitation is held to constitute a binding engagement.

For reckoning small amounts firewood also passes for value in Formosa.

Aesthetics

Two aesthetes were in a drug store eating lunch. (We don't know where they got the price.)

"That is the most exquisite pinkish glow I have seen in many a day," remarked one.

"Yes," agreed the other. "It is like the evening sun against fleecy clouds."

"And the white bread makes such a perfect background. Notice the delicate shading."

"And there is just enough of it to blend. Not overdone. I detest glaring colors."

"Yes—I believe I could eat another ham sandwich."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Worshipers of Baal

Baal, the god of the ancient Canaanites and Phoenicians, to whom children used to be sacrificed, is still worshiped by the Nuba blacks, who live on the granite mountains of the Dar Nuba, or land of the Nubas, in the far south of the Sudan, just above the equatorial swamps.

In Kordofan, north of Dar Nuba, Mr. Fife found men with 12-foot spears riding on bulls, and he was told that the Messeria Arabs of Dar Homr, in southwestern Kordofan, employ bull cavalry against the Dinka tribes.

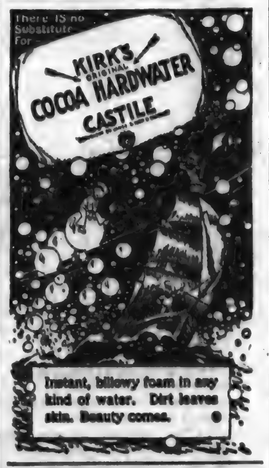
Bible Mention of Silk

Silk is undoubtedly mentioned once in the Bible namely, in Rev. 18:12, where it is mentioned among the treatments of the typical Babylon. It is, however, probable that the texture was known to the Hebrews from the time that their commercial relations were extended by Solomon.

Remodel with OAK floors

Make every room like new at slight expense. Oak Floors are permanent, beautiful, easy to keep clean. Write for complete free literature.

OAK FLOORING BUREAU CHICAGO
1393 Builders' Building



HAY-FEVER AND SUMMER ASTHMA
ALLEVIATE YOUR ATTACK

Just take two small RAZ-MAH capsules and experience the immediate relief that you have always hoped for. RAZ-MAH will not harm the heart or other organs, and contains no habit forming drugs. Many hundreds of people now use and endorse RAZ-MAH. Prove it in your own case. For The Generous Free Trial write Raz-Mah Co., 220 W. Congress St., Detroit, Mich. or ask your druggist for the $1 box. Relief guaranteed or your money refunded. —RAZ-MAH is in a Red Box with an Orange Band—

The Source

Friend (admiringly)—Where did you get your amazing knowledge of social and economic subjects?

Host (proudly)—From my daughter's graduation essay, my boy.

Shakespeare's Writing Tells of Fatal Worry

None of Shakespeare's works in the poet's own handwriting are now in existence, but there are in existence books which belonged to Shakespeare and in which he wrote. These two conclusions have been reached by Dr. Samuel A. Tannenbaum, Shakespearean authority. Doctor Tannenbaum has made a close scrutiny of the six indubitable specimens of Shakespeare's handwriting; the three signatures in the will in Somerset house and on the three documents, one on each at Guildhall, British museum, and public record office. He demonstrates that the poet's handwriting shows characteristics that belong to sufferers from angina pectoris, and that the poet died of this disease, brought on, probably, by domestic worries, his younger daughter having married a man unworthy of her.

Truth About the Petrel

For centuries mariners believed that the petrel never approached land, and that it laid its egg at sea and carried it about under one wing until it hatched. Not long ago, however, a party of explorers found a small petrel laying its egg under the soft soil of an isle of the Cape Verde archipelago, instead of carrying it around under its wing. The Cape Verde isle of Cima, which is uninhabited, is covered with the tiny bones of millions of petrels, which in ages past have come there to die.

One Way Only

"You say you were present when this man and his wife were engaged in a very violent quarrel?" inquired the magistrate of the witness.

"Yes, your honor," replied the man on the stand.

"What was he saying?"

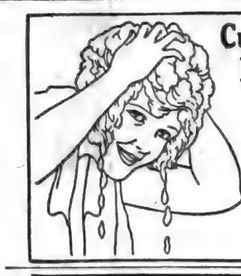
"He wasn't saying anything, your honor."—American Legion Monthly.

Every department of housekeeping needs Russ Bleaching Blue. Equally good for kitchen towels, table linen, sheets and pillowcases, etc.—Adv.

Time Off

A Nottingham typist was observed by her employer to powder her nose fifteen times in one hour. The explanation that she was making up for lost time was not accepted.—Eve.

Your dog cares nothing for your reputation. You suit him, regardless.



Cuticura Soap Shampoos Keep the Scalp Healthy

Regular Shampoos with a suds of Cuticura Soap and hot water, preceded by light applications of Cuticura Ointment, are most effective. They do much to cleanse the scalp of dandruff, allay irritation, stimulate circulation and promote the healthy condition necessary to a luxuriant growth of hair.

Soap 25c. Ointment 25 and 50c. Talcum 25c. Sold everywhere. Sample each free. Address: "Cuticura Laboratories, Dept. 25, Malden, Mass."
Cuticura Shaving Stick 25c.

Uncle Buzz is bored by visitors

FLIT spray clears your home of mosquitoes and flies. It also kills bed bugs, roaches, ants, and their eggs. Fatal to insects but harmless to mankind. Will not stain. Get Flit today.

FLIT
DESTROYS
Flies Mosquitoes Moths
Ants Bed Bugs Roaches
"The yellow can with the black band"

MAGIC STRANGE FLASH CLEANS AND HAS CLEANER
FLASH
Cleans All Hands
Factory agents or territory salesmen wanted. Write today. Flash Chemical Co., Cambridge, Mass.

Years of Discretion

"How old are you?" asked Farmer Corntossel.

"Twenty-one," answered his boy, Josh.

"Old enough to vote!"

"Yes, dad. But I haven't any more idea than you about which way I ought to toss the ballot."

Ambitious Woman Wanted to Introduce Priscilla Dress Fabrics, Dry Goods, Handkerchiefs, etc. Easy work. Good pay. Fitzcharles, Co., 86 Fitzcharles Building, Trenton, N. J.

Will Finance Installment Accounts, all kinds installations, painting of houses, machinery, furniture, etc., for reliable concerns, $25,000 up. Richard Roth, 150 Broadway, N. Y.

W. N. U., FORT WAYNE, NO 35-1927.

A Mental Strain

"I'm thinking of a trip to Europe."

"Really, old man, you can't afford that. You're not accustomed to that sort of thing."

"I merely said I was thinking of it. I can afford to think, can't I?"

"No; that's what I mean. You're not accustomed to thinking."

FACTS
—AND THE OPEN MIND

THE MOST important element in business success—and the most difficult—is to be sure that you have all the facts before you act.

TO GET them all, from every possible source, is the first objective in General Motors. The Research Laboratories contribute some. These are nuggets, left in the crucible, after hundreds of ideas that looked good have been burned away. The Proving Ground contributes others. Dealers contribute. The public contributes. Every department contributes. Through the whole organization runs a spirit of inquiry and of rigid insistence on proof.

OUT OF such thinking come the new models announced from time to time by Chevrolet, Pontiac, Oldsmobile, Oakland, Buick, LaSalle, Cadillac—all with Fisher Bodies. And by Frigidaire. Each new model is a tested step forward. Nothing goes into it as a result of habit or guess or pride of opinion.

Nothing counts but hard-won facts, gathered and used with an open mind.

Chevrolet
Pontiac
Oldsmobile
Oakland
Buick
LaSalle
Cadillac
Fisher Bodies
General Motors Trucks
FRIGIDAIRE
The electric refrigerator

GENERAL MOTORS
"A car for every purse and purpose"

SEPTEMBER

L 91 11526

AUCTION SALE

SPENCERVILLE, INDIANA

THURSDAY AND FRIDAY Sept. 1-2

From 1 to 5 p. m. and 6:30 to 10 p. m. Each Afternoon and Evening

THE ENTIRE STOCK OF MERCHANDISE LOCATED IN THE BEAMS BUILDING, FORMERLY OWNED BY D. COOLIDGE.

Consisting of

Shoes, Rubbers, Hose, Dry Goods, Shirts Sweaters, Crockery, also a few articles in Hardware and a Large Stock Groceries

Good chance to fit out the Children for School Wear.

Come and get it at your own price, everything to be sold regardless of price.

Rhodenbaugh & McNamara, Auctioneers

Local Briefs

For Sale: —A good horse. See Joseph Koch.

Dr. and Mrs. C. R. Price, were Sunday guests of friends at Lake James.

Mrs. Hollis Dilley and son leave today for Chicago where they will spend the winter with Mr. Dilley.

A man's head is like his pocketbook—it's not the outside appearance but what it contains that counts.

Have your glasses fitted by Benj. F. Griest, Eyesight Specialist, Office in American Bldg., Hicksville, Ohio. 28tf.

Foraker Ferrell and his partner, Mr. Walker, both of West Salem, Ohio, drove through Monday expecting to attend the funeral of John Tustison, but because of it not being until Tuesday, they were compelled to return home Monday evening, on account of their business.

Paper and envelopes News office.

For Sale:—2 lots with good house, barn, fruit and well. See Mrs. Harriett Haifley. 35t1p.

Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Lawrence, of Chicago, called on friends in St. Joe Monday afternoon.

Closing Out Sale of all Electrical Supplies, at Bargain Prices while they last. S. S. Widney. 35t1.

Twelve-year-old Beatrice Gibbs died in a hospital at Lansing, Michigan, Thursday, the forty-fifth victim of the dynamiting of the consolidated school in Bath last May.

George Haifley and family are visiting a few days this week with his sister, Mrs. David Amstutz and family near Harlan. He expects to return to his work at Detroit the first of next week.

The school house road is being wonderfully improved by gravel. Teams are busy trying to complete the job before school begins. Another good improvement is the new cement walk that approaches the new gym.

"The Fair Worth While"

The Williams County Fair

Montpelier, Ohio

September 13 to 17, 1927

2 NIGHTS Thursday and Friday 2 NIGHTS

FREE ACTS

Tom Sanger & Co., Trick and Comedy Bicycle Riding

3 Musical Misses Novelty Saxophone Act

Vera Spriggs & Co. Novelty Iron Jaw Act

The Famous Parker Family Gymnasts

Kurtzo & Kurtzo Acrialists

Gordon's Display of Fireworks

Large Exhibits

Big Racing Program

Beautiful Grounds

Base Ball Games 8 Days. Wednesday Judging in All Departments

Thursday, Everybody's Day. Friday, Children's Day

Saturday, Soldiers' Day

J. M. Hodson, President A. G. Hause, Secretary

NOTICE TO TAXPAYERS OF TAX LEVIES

In the Matter of Determining the Tax Rates for Certain Purposes by Concord Township, DeKalb County, Ind.

Before the Township Advisory Board.

Notice is hegeby given the taxpayers of said Township above named, that the proper legal officers of said municipality at their regular meeting place, on the 6th day of September, 1927, will consider the following budget:

Budget Classification for Townships

TOWNSHIP FUND

Salary of Trustee, $600.00.
Office Rent, $60.00.
Trustee's expense—
a. Traveling, $115.00.
b. Telephones and Telegrams, $10.00.
Records, Legal Publications and Office Supplies, $150.00.
Public Ditches (assessments against Township), $500.00.
Pay of Advisory Board, $15.00.
Payment of loans, $100.00.
Examination of records, $20.00.
Miscellaneous, $30.00.
Legal service, $25.00.
Cemeteries, $15.00.
Total Township Fund, $1,690.00.

Estimate of Township Funds to be Raised

Estimated expenditures as above, $1,690.00.
Working balance at end of year to meet necessary expenditures until receipts of revenue from taxation, none.
Total $1,690.00.
Amount necessary to be raised by taxation, $1,690.00.

ROAD FUND

Labor, $2,700.00.
Road tools and machines, $50.00.
Bridges and culverts, $100.00.
Gravel, stone, and road material, $2,000.00.
Miscellaneous, $100.00.
Total Road Fund, $4,950.

Estimate of Road Fund to be Raised

Estimate of expenditures, as above, $4,950.00.
Working balance at end of year to meet necessary expenditures until receipts of revenue from taxation, $450.00.
Total, $5,400.00.
Less estimated revenue and balance—
Balance at end of this year, $450.00.
Total deductions, $250.00.
Amount necessary to be raised by taxation, $4,950.00.

SPECIAL SCHOOL FUND

Repair of buildings and paint, $200.00.
School furniture and supplies, $200.00.
Fuel for school houses, $1,200.00.
Special School Fund debt, $1,400.00.
Payment of interest, $636.00.
Insurance, $150.00.
Transportation, $2,650.00.
Teachers' Institutes, $250.00.
Janitor service, $1,100.00.
Miscellaneous—
Janitors Supplies, $100.00.
Light and Power, $700.00.
Repair of Equipment, $100.00.
Total Special School Fund, $8,786.00.

Estimate of Special School Fund to be Raised

Estimate of expenditures, as above, $8,786.00.
Working balance at end of year to meet necessary expenditures until receipts of revenue from taxation, $3,000.00.
Total, $11,786.00.
Less estimated revenue and balance—
Balance at end of this year, $3,000.00.
Total deductions, $3,000.00.
Amount necessary to be raised by taxation, $8,786.00.

BOND FUND

Payment of bonds, $2,500.00.
Payment of interest, $1,600.00.
Total Bond Fund, $4,100.

Estimate of Bond Fund to be Raised

Estimate of expenditures, as above, $4,100.00.
Working balance at end of year to meet necessary expenditures until receipts of revenue from taxation, $400.00.
Total, $4,500.00.
Less estimated revenue and balance—
Balance at end of this year, $400.00.
Total deductions, $400.00.
Amount necessary to be raised by taxation, $4,100.00.

LIBRARY FUND

Books, binding and periodicals, $100.00.
Supplies, postage, express, freight, $20.00.
Total Library Fund, $120.00.

Estimate of Library Fund to be Raised

Estimate of expenditures, as above, $120.00.
Working balance at end of year to meet necessary expenditures until receipts of revenue from taxation, $50.00.
Total, $170.00.
Less estimated revenue and balance—
Balance at end of this year, $50.00.
Total deductions, $50.00.
Amount necessary to be raised by taxation, $120.00.

TUITION FUND

Pay of teachers, $7,250.00.
Total Tuition Fund, $7,250.00.

Estimate of Tuition Fund to be Raised

Estimate of expenditures, as above, $7,250.00.
Working balance at end of year to meet necessary expenditures until receipts of revenue from taxation, $4,000.00.
Total, $11,250.00.
Less estimated revenue and balance—
Balance at end of this year, $4,000.00.
Total deductions, $4,000.00.
Amount necessary to be raised by taxation, $7,250.00.

POOR FUND

To reimburse County, $100.00.

Estimate of Poor Fund to be Raised

Estimate of expenditures, as above, $100.00.
Working balance at end of year to meet necessary expenditures until receipts of revenue from taxation, $50.00.
Total, $150.00.
Less estimated revenue and balance—
Balance at end of this year, $50.00.
Total deductions, $50.00.
Amount necessary to be raised by taxation, $100.00.

Proposed Levies

Net taxable property, $2,178,683.00.
Number of taxable polls, 185.
Township Fund—Levy on property, 8c; amount to be raised, $1,690.00.
Road Fund—Levy on property, 30c; amount to be raised, $4,950.00.
Special School Fund—Levy on polls, $1.00; levy on property, 40c; amount to be raised, $8,786.00.
Bond Fund—Levy on property, 18c; amount to be raised, $4,100.00.
Library Fund—Levy on property, 1-2c; amount to be raised, $120.00.
Tuition Fund—Levy on polls, $1.00; levy on property, 33c; amount to be raised, $7,250.00.
Poor Fund—Levy on property, 1-2c; amount to be raised, $100.00.
Total—Levy on polls, $2.00; levy on property, $1.31; amount to be raised, $26,996.00.

Comparative Statement of the Taxes Collected and to be Collected

Shows Amounts Collected Last Three Years

Township Fund—Collected 1925 levy, $1,390.00; collected 1926 levy, $940.00; collected 1927 levy, $665.00; to be collected 1928 levy, $1,690.00.
Road Fund—Collected 1925 levy, $3,850.00; collected 1926 levy, $3,750.00; collected 1927 levy, $2,700.00; to be collected 1928 levy, $4,950.00.
Special School Fund—Collected 1925 levy, $9,200.00; collected 1926 levy, $9,825.00; collected 1927 levy, $09,050.00; to be collected 1928 levy, $8,786.00.
Bond Fund—Collected 1925 levy, $1,635.00; collected 1927 levy, $5,322; to be collected 1928 levy, $4,100.00.
Library Fund—Collected 1925 levy, $237.00; collected 1927 levy, $110.00; to be collected 1928 levy, $120.00.
Tuition Fund—Collected 1925 levy, $8,300.00; collected 1926 levy, $9,200.00; collected 1927 levy, $9,500.00; to be collected 1928 levy, $7,250.00.
Poor Fund—To be collected 1928 levy, $100.00.
Total—Collected 1925 levy, $24,612.00; collected 1926 levy, $23,715.00; collected 1927 levy, $27,347.00; to be collected 1928 levy, $26,996.00.

Taxpayers appearing shall have a right to be heard thereon. After the tax levies have been determined, ten or more taxpayers, feeling themselves aggrieved by such levies, may appeal to the State Board of Tax Commissioners for further and final action thereon, by filing a petition therefor with the County Auditor not later than the fourth Monday of September, and the State Board will fix a date of hearing in this County.

Dated Aug. 15, 1927.

O. K. SHULL,
Trustee Concord Twp.

WHEAT GROWER WANTS A FEW CHEAP BUSHELS

There are almost "57" ways of saying that it pays to fertilize winter wheat in Dekalb County.

One man says he can't grow wheat without it; another fertilizes wheat partly to insure a stand of clover; here's one who fertilizes to prevent winter-killing; and another to lower his cost of production; and still another finds that he gets $3 back for each dollar invested in fertilizer, and so on.

A little different way of telling an old story was expressed by one grower who, when asked why he used fertilized wheat, said, "Just this: to grow a few cheap bushels."

"I figure that, one year with another, the bushels I can get without fertilizer cost about what I get for them on the market—I just about break even on that part of the crop. But the extra bushels I get from the fertilizer are 'cheap bushels.'.

"Now, take my crop this year. I got around 9 bushels more wheat to the acre by fertilizing. Those 9 bushels cost me only $2.75 for fertilizer, or about 30 cents each, plus a few cents for twine, extra work, and threshing. Each bushel of the 9 will make me about $1.00 clear profit."

"It's easier for me to figure my profits from fertilizer when I do like that," he said.

Try this method of figuring with your own crop and see whether you are growing from 8 to 9 bushels extra at a cost of from 30 cents to 40 cents.

WE WELCOME

YOU

AND MAY YOUR VISIT IN ST. JOE

Home-Coming Day

BE AN ENJOYABLE ONE

WILLIAM CURIE

ST. JOE, INDIANA

Hardware RADIO Implements

43 Years In Business Here

LOOKING TOWARD WINTER FOR HOUSEWIFE

There are two "peaks" to the canning season in this country, in the early spring and along about this time of year. Busy days are here for the housewives, and many of them are making the most of it. Gardens and orchards are now unloading their harvest of foodstuff, and with beans and tomatoes, pears, apples and plums to be had in fairly generous quantities there is no reason for any family going hungry during the long winter days now fast approaching.

True, the summer canning season is losing some of its prestige in the eyes of the younger set, for it is now possible to buy at the store nearly everything in the fruit and vegetable line already canned. It is not like it was when mother was a girl. But, even with the modern ways of doing things—making a meal off of store-bought canned goods—local women are preparing for well-stocked larders thru the winter. Early apples are finding their way to the kettles and come forth in the form of sauces and butters. Plum jelly and plum butter is also being stored away to later on add zest to the breakfast table.

Reports from various parts of the country indicate that the fruit crop has really turned out better than forecasted along in the spring. And while the corn crop is short of normal, it is also not to be sneezed at. Taken all in all, we have approached the fall season with the country as a whole in far better shape than we have seen it at various times in the past, and we seem to have about as little cause for complaint now as we have had for a good many years.

LOOK OUT NOW, HOGAN

Hogan had just been appointed superintendent of the state asylum. The morning he took charge he saw an old friend, Clncy, among the inmates. Clancy's surprise was almost as great as the superintendent's as he called out, "Well, Hogan, wot'rr ye doin' here?"

"O'im the neew superintendent," said Hogan.

"Ah," said Clancy with a smile, "they'll take that out of ye quick enough. When I first came here I ws Napoleon Boneparte, and look t me now!"

YOU ALWAYS KNOW

how much money you have if you invest in our Certificates of deposit--for, unlike many other investments, they are always worth their full face value.

ISSUED ANYTIME, IN FULL AMOUNT, WITH LIBERAL INTEREST FROM DATE OF DEPOSIT.

CITY NATIONAL BANK AUBURN, IND.

"Member Federal Reserve System"

SEPTEMBER

L 91 U527

Russel R. Reidenour
ATTORNEY
Auburn, Ind.

DR. C. R. BAUMGARTNER
Veterinarian
Spencerville, Ind.
PHONES: 282--283.

SPENCERVILLE

Rubber bands at News office.

Many from this place are attending teachers' institute at Auburn this week.

Robert Muhn, of Auburn, took supper Sunday evening with his uncle, B. F. Markle and family.

Mrs. Mary Gosline, of Detroit, Mich., and Mrs. Newton Henderson, spent Saturday with Mr. and Mrs. Jason Keyes.

Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Markle and family were Sunday afternoon guests in the Matilda Oberholtzer home near Harlan.

Mrs. Greeley Wearley and grandson, Fred Steward, returned home Sunday after spending a week in the home of her son and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Ort Wearley at Toledo, Ohio.

Two real estate changes have been made in Spencer Township as follows: Bernice Myers et al. to John Timmerman, lot 52, Shutt & Henderson's add., Spencerville, $175. Charles Bishop et al. to John Timmerman, und. ¾ same description, $525.

The Steward family held their third reunion at Eckhart Park, Auburn. There were about sixty present. Those atending from here were: Mrs. Hazel Steward and children, Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Walter and family, Mrs. Cora Steward and daughter, Miss Arminta, Earnest Steward, wife and son. The new officers are: John George, president, Auburn; Frank Steward, vice president, Garrett, Mrs. Grace Sheffer, secretary and treasurer, St. Joe.

Envelopes at News office.

Jacob Baltz is still quite poorly.

Mrs. Mandy Bowman was a Saturday guest of Mrs. Nancy Chaney.

Farver's Canning Kitchen at Spencerville will operate on Wednesday and Thursday each week until further notice. 31tf.

Mrs. Mary Reed and children and Mrs. Clarette Wolf, of South Bend, spent last week visiting friends at this place.

Margaret Louise and Dorothy Baurer of Fort Wayne, are visiting their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McNamara.

Miss Franc Allen returned home Sunday after spending a week visiting her sister, Mrs. Raymond Randall and family at Auburn.

Mr. and Mrs. Beeks Erick and son, William, returned home last week after spending a week with Mr. and Mrs. Heilman at Elkhart.

Mrs. Nancy Chaney entertained for supper Tuesday evening, Mrs. Molly Sanders of St. Joe and Mrs. Carrie Smith of Evanston, Illinois.

Mrs. Gust. Hafner and son, Robert, spent several days last week at the lake the guest of her sister, Mrs. Otis Goeltzenleuchtner and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Chapman and family spent Sunday with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Eb Chapman at Fort Wayne. Eb Chapman left Monday for Florida.

On Fridal evening, September 2nd, Miss Charlotte Miller and pupils, will give a violin recital at the Lutheran church. There will be a special number of six violins by advanced pupils, Helen Hursh, Doris Rhoades, Doris Beams, Charlotte Miller, Floyd Werner and Ercil Steward.

Mrs. Golden High and Mrs. Minnie High celebrated their birthday anniversaries at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred High Sunday. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Cal Brown and family of Fort Wayne, Mrs. Laura Baltz of Hicksville and Mrs. Hullie Rummell of Oklahoma City, Okla.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Beery entertained at their home on Sunday the following guests: Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Beery and son, of St. Paul, Minn., Harley Beery wife and sons, Walter and Howard of Fort Wayne, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Beery, Herman Schafer, wife and children, Louis and Leota of Springfield Center. The afternoon guests at the same home were: Mr. and Mrs. Martin House, of Monroeville, John Horn and Gerry Horn of Huntington, Mrs. Lizzie Myers, of Auburn, Rufus Jerce and wife, of Harlan and Louis Markle, wife and Roger Markle of Wise's Corners.

Writing tablets at News office.

The school bus drivers for this year are Raymond Rhoads, east route and Walter Tyndall, west.

Paul J. Knaak, of Chicago, returned home Monday after spending a week with his brother and family.

Mesdames Lucy and Rebecca Beams attended the Wyatt reunion which was held at Eckhart Park, Auburn, on Sunday.

Rev. S. D. Steffey and daughter, Miss Lillian, of Deer Creek, were Monday and over night guests of friends here and at St. Joe.

Rev. Rodinger, of near St. Louis, will be installed as pastor of the Lutheran church on next Sunday morning. The family will arrive next week.

The Epworth League of the M. E. Church, will attend the Booth Festival at Fort Wayne on Labor Day and are asking for canned fruit and vegetables.

Mrs. Catherine Pflaumer is quite poorly at the home of her son, Edward, south of town. For four weeks she has been confined to her bed. Old age is about the only cause of her illness.

Mr. and Mrs. Joel Betz attended the Betz reunion which was held on Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Betz near Springfield Center church. There were eighty members present. The new officers are: President, Emett Armstrong, Rehoboth; vice president, Emmett Betz; secretary-treasurer, Walter Horn.

The Young Ladies Social Club, husbands and friends, were entertained on Thursday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lehr Wilder, east of town. Those winning prizes were: Miss Bina Zimmerman, Mrs. Ellen Hart and Carl Carpenter. The guests were Mr. and Mrs. Carl Carpenter, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Wise, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Hart, Miss Freda Volkert, Carl Hart, Mr. Roush, Don Kimes, James Reed and Joseph Koch.

LINDBERGH
DID NOT WISH

Young men the world over have, with mingled feelings, read of the achievement of the youthful Charles Lindbergh. Admiration and pride in the glory of his feat has been most generously given by all—still what young man is there who has not "wished" that the opportunity had been his—and that he could have "zoomed" through to such everlasting glory?

The now "Colonel Lindbergh" MADE his opportunity. An unknown air-mail pilot, he SAVED part of his earnings. When the hour arrived he had $2,000 saved to offer on the altar of sincerity—and obtain the support of young business of St. Louis. He was the largest individual contributer to the fund which made the flight possible.

Lindbergh did not WISH—He SAVED

COME IN AND TALK IT OVER

Farmers' & Merchants State Bank
Spencerville, Ind.

With the Churches

ST. JOE M. P. CHURCH

Mrs. Hattie Widney, Supt.
Sunday School, 9:30 A. M.
Preaching service, 10:30.

CONCORD M. P. CHURCH

George Johnson, Supt.
Sunday school 9:30 A. M.
Christian Endeavor, 6:30.
Preaching service, 7:30.
J. F. McKnight, Pastor.

LUTHERAN CHURCH NOTES

Derwood Ridgway, Supt.
Sunday school. 9:30.

CHURCH OF CHRIST

Ed Storer, Supt.
St. Joe
Bible School, 9:30 A. M.
Morning worship, 10:30.
NEWVILLE, Sun Time
Bible School, 10:00 A. M.
Evening Service, 7:30.
R. S. Aldrich, Pastor.

Methodist Episcopal Church Spencerville

Sunday School, 9:00 A. M.—ohn Koch, Superintendent.
Epworth League, 6:00 P. M. Marguerite Koch, President.

On September 4th, is to be the Second Quarterly Conference. Dr. W. W. Wiant will be the preacher in the morning service.

The Scipio Sunday School is to be present at Spencerville for the morning school and worship, after which Dr. Wiant will dedicate the new parsonage

Pot luck dinner at noon and an informal meeting afterwards.

NOTES ON SERVICE

Text: Isa. 12: 13. "Therefore with joy shall ye draw water out of the wells of salvation."

There is an inherent joy in the christian religion to which many people are strangers.

Many christians do not know how to draw on their religion for the needed help. When sickness or calamity comes to them they are not able to say with Isiah, "God is my salvation; I will trust and not be afraid."

You who have not made God your salvation will meet a day when your soul is empty and your heart hungry. You will feel for all of those things that you are trusting in now only to find they have disappeared. Only those who have made God their salvation have a sufficient base on which to trust and not be afraid.

An Extra Suit or Overcoat for $1

3200 suits, topcoats and winter overcoats, staple—dark, medium and light colors—correct models. Hart, Schaffner & Marx, Michaels Stern, Fashion Park and Style Clothes.

You may buy either two suits, two topcoats, two overcoats, a suit and a topcoat, a suit and an overcoat or a topcoat and an overcoat—select any combination you wish—pay the regular price for one—the extra suit, topcoat or overcoat costs you just $1.

If you don't need two garments yourself, bring a friend and divide the cost.

An extra $20 to $65 Garment, $1
2 $20 Garments $21
2 $40 Garments $41
2 $60 Garments $61

PATTERSON-FLETCHER CO.
Wayne at Harrison — Fort Wayne

Coburn's Corners

Fred Gee and family are moving to Auburn this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Curie spent Sunday with the former's parents.

The Ladies Aid will meet with Mrs. Roscoe Conine Thursday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Abner Trostel visited relatives in Roann several days last week.

Mr. and Mrs. William Sommers are helping care for the latter's father, Mr. Jacob Baltz of Spencerville, who has been ill for some time.

Mrs. Lehr Wilder entertained the Spencerville Bunco Club and several guests Thursday evening. From all reports, the evening was a very enjoyable one.

Carl Hart, William Lake, Mrs. Lehr Wilder and Mrs. Chas. Curie are attending the Defiance County Teacher's Institute this week prior to teaching in the Hicksville schools this winter.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hart, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Hart, Mr. and Mrs. Wilmot Coburn, Mr. Ella Wilmot, Mr. and Mrs. Laney Gee, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Washler, Mrs. Fred Donley, Mr. and Mrs. Alvah Perry, Mr. and Mrs. Claud Mahon, Rev. and Mrs. J. N. Scholes and son, Scott, and Mrs. Alice Hart represented Coburn's Corners at the yearly meeting at Auburn, Sunday.

NOTICE OF FINAL SETTLEMENT OF ESTATE.

Cause No. 3062 . . . .

Notice Is Hereby Given to all persons interested in the estate of George W. Tustison deceased, to appear in the DeKalb Circuit Court, held at Auburn, Indiana, on the 10th day of September, 1927 and show cause, if any, why my Final Settlement Accounts with the estate of said decedent should not be approved; and said heirs and all others interested, are notified to then and there make proof of heirship or claim and receive their distributive shares.

Witness, my name, this 13th day of August, 1927.

LOIS A. TUSTISON,
Administrator.
Walter W. Ferris, Atty. 33t3.

NOTICE OF ADMINISTRATION

No. 3216

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN, That the undersigned has been appointed by the Judge of the DeKalb Circuit Court, of the State of Indiana, Administrator, with the will annexed of the Estate of Kate A. Leighty deceased, late of said County.

Said Estate is supposed to be solvent.

JOHN R. LEIGHTY, Adm.
With Will Annexed.
August 19, 1927.
C. M. Brown, Atty 34t3.

EMBARRASSING

Robert was feeling for his small change as the offering was about to be taken.

"Gosh," he ramarked to his best girl in the pew with him, 'I've not a cent—changed my pants."

She (hurriedly scanning the complex interior of her purse and finding nothing:) "I'm in the same predicament."

It sometimes happens that the man who dubs his house his castle has the most in his eye.

NOTICE

Notice is hereby given that on September 3, 1927, I will receive sealed bids for the janitor work for Spencerville school house, for nine months, work beginning Tuesday, September 6th. The bids are to state price per month. All bids must be in my office at the Spencerville Bank, at 4 o'clock, P. M., Saturday, September 3, 1927.

W. G. ERICK, Trustee.

PATTERSON-FLETCHER CO START THEIR SALE OF AN EXTRA SUIT FOR $1.00

Now Until Saturday Night

For several years Patterson-Fletcher Company, Wayne at Harrison Streets, Fort Wayne, have held an unusual sale of "an extra suit of overcoat" for $1.00. This sale usually lasts only a few days, but during that time an exceedingly large number of suits and overcoats are sold. It is not unusual for them to sell as many as 4,000 suits and overcoats in five or six days.

The Men's Wear, a Clothing Trade Paper, in commenting on this sale has said this is one of the most remarkable events held in the United States. More suits are sold in a single day at Patterson-Fletcher Company than are sold in two days by any other store in a town of 100,000. The magnitude of Patterson-Fletcher's extra suit for $1.00 sale can better be realized by knowing that during this event last year, suits were sold in 189 cities and towns outside of Fort Wayne, and in many of Ft. Wayne's adjoining towns, 7[illegible] or more suits were sold per town. This year's extra suit for a $1.00 sale should surpass all previous records, for the greatest quantity of garments ever placed on sale will go into a five days' selling.

It is estimated that more than 3,200 suits, overcoats and topcoats will be on sale.

NEW AND TESTED RECIPES FOR LADIES OF THE NEWS

PEACH WHIP

Dissolve a package of lemon or orange flavored gelatin in one-half pint of boiling water. When cold and still liquid add half pint of peach juice and whip. Then fold in one cup whipped cream and one cup crushed and sweetened peaches from which the juice has been drained, and mold.

DECREE AND $2,000 FOR AUBURN WIFE

Mrs. Ida May Herrick Complained That Her Husband Neglected Her

A divorce and $2,000 alimony were awarded Mrs. Ida May Herrick of Auburn, in the DeKalb circuit court Monday.

Mrs. Herrick complained that her husband, Melvin J. Herrick, neglected her, staying away from home and associating with other women; that he told her he did not care for her, but liked other women better. The couple were married in June, 1913, and separated last June. They had no children.

In addition to the alimony, Mrs. Herick was given the household goods owned by the parties. The defendant was represented by Attorney W. W. Ketcham, but no resistance was offered to the petition for a divorce and the financial settlement was agreed upon. The plaintiff's attorneys are Stump & McClintock.

It's Fence Building Time—Right Now!

THE season has nothing to do with fence building—if you know how. Why wait to do that needed fence work, when you can do it now so quickly and easily.

How? Come in and let us show and tell you all about the RED TOP Steel Post—a post one man with no other help than the RED TOP One Man Driver, can drive straight and true through the hardest sunbaked or frozen soil—and drive 200 to 300 a day, too.

With RED TOPS you can do a week's fencing job in one day—any time in the year.

And when you get the RED TOP post job done—it's done, because they outlast 4 or 5 ordinary posts and hold the fence

Red Top
Steel Fence Posts

in steady security through many years of service. They get all the possible service out of a fence that is in it.

We try to serve our farmer friends with only the most reliable merchandise; that's why we handle RED TOPS. They are the pioneer steel post. Their quality has always been of the same high standard; the material from which they are made is tough, springy, railroad rail steel that never varies and gives most years of useful life to the post. That's why so many thousands of RED TOPS are still giving the same steady service after many years in fence lines all over the country. Let us show you why it costs less in the long run to use RED TOPS.

Spencerville Lumber & Supply Co.
SPENCERVILLE, IND.

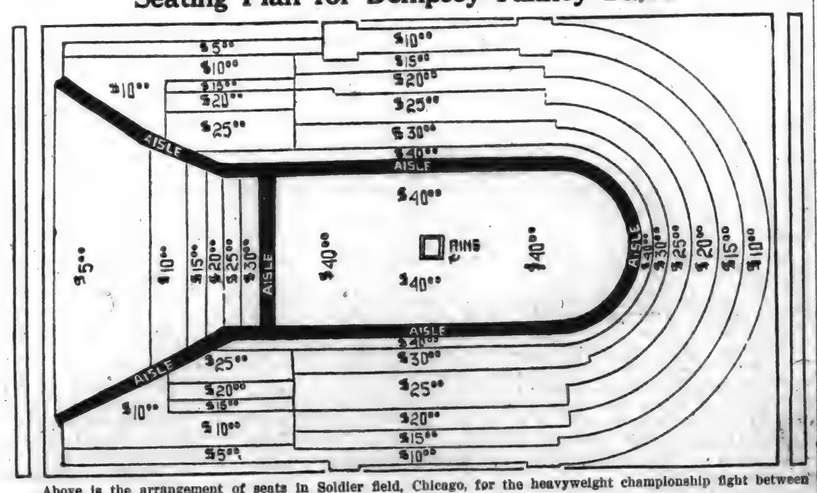
SEPTEMBER

L 91 0528

Winners of the Air Race to Honolulu

The "Air derby" from Oakland, Calif., to Honolulu was won by the plane Woolaroc of which Art Goebel (right) was pilot and Lieut. William Davis, U. S. N., was navigator.

Seating Plan for Dempsey-Tunney Battle



Above is the arrangement of seats in Soldier field, Chicago, for the heavyweight championship fight between Tunney and Dempsey. The prices in each section are indicated.

Moore to Wed Former Mrs. Caruso

Mrs. Dorothy Caruso Ingram, widow of the noted operatic tenor, and former American Ambassador to Spain Alexander P. Moore, pictured at Lido, where their engagement was announced. Mrs. Ingram was recently divorced from her second husband.

Little Boat to Cross the Atlantic

Edward Tierney and Dick Hayman of England in their twelve-foot boat, in which they expect to cross the Atlantic in 80 days. The craft is 5 feet deep, draws 2 feet of water and is built somewhat like a baby submarine.

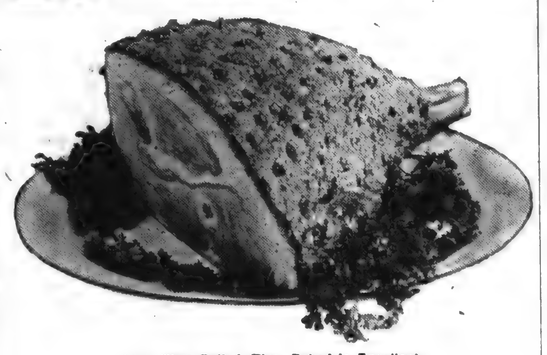
MISS EDNA B. RUBY

Miss Edna Browning Ruby of Lafayette, Ind., who was voted the most outstanding woman of the country in business and the professions, by delegates to a recent convention held at Oakland, Calif.

KELLOGG'S NEW AID

Nelson T. Johnson, who has just been appointed assistant secretary of state. He has been serving as chief of the far eastern division of the department.

REDUCE COOKING DURING SUMMER MONTHS



Ham First Boiled, Then Baked is Excellent.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

One of the food problems in summer time is to dispense with as much cooking as possible and nevertheless give the family plenty of variety. With so many kinds of fresh vegetables obtainable in abundance at this season it is easy enough to have variety in vegetables. As most of the vitamin-rich kinds should be cooked the shortest possible time or stewed raw, as in salad, the chief problem is how to have the meats the family likes without monotony or overheating the kitchen.

Ham is of course a standby in summer time, because after it has once been cooked it may be served sliced cold, or quickly heated up in a number of different ways. Here are several ham menus suggested by the bureau of home economics for use in warm weather.

Several Ham Menus.

1. Ham, boiled and baked; scalloped or baked potatoes; swiss chard; blackberry ice.

2. Cold sliced ham; potato salad; sliced tomatoes; raspberries and cream.

3. Ham omelet; corn on the cob; string beans; peach shortcake.

4. Ham hash; New Zealand spinach; tomato, cucumber and cress salad; watermelon.

Baked or scalloped potatoes are suggested for the first menu because the oven will be in use for browning the ham. On the other days all necessary cooking can be done in half an hour or less. Fruit and green vegetables are used at each meal.

To prepare the ham for the first dinner: Wash it thoroughly and trim off any mold or loose pieces. Soak overnight if the ham is unusually dry. Otherwise, put directly into cold water with a teaspoonful and a half of pickling spice, three slices each of carrot and onion, a stalk of celery, half a teaspoonful of celery salt, a sprig of parsley, and a quarter of a cupful of strong vinegar. Bring to a boil and cook slowly until it is tender when pierced with a long-tined fork. For an old ham, five or more hours' cooking may be necessary. The meat will be somewhat shrunk from the bones, but the ham should not be overcooked or it will be difficult to carve nicely. If it is to be served as cold boiled ham, let it cool in the water in which it was cooked.

To Bake Ham.

To bake the ham remove the skin, then cover the surface with a paste made in the following proportion: One cupful of brown sugar, one cupful of fine soft bread crumbs, one teaspoonful of mustard, and enough cider or vinegar to hold the paste together. Stick the ham all over with whole long-stemmed cloves and bake in a hot oven so that the crust forms quickly. Then reduce the temperature of the oven and baste with a mixture of ham liquor and cider or vinegar until the ham is evenly browned.

BACK YARD HINTS FOR WASH DAYS

Good Policy to Hang Out Clothes Soon as Rinsed.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Many women do not seem to know that it is good policy to hang out clothes as fast as a tubful is rinsed and put through the wringer. They wait until the whole washing is done, thus losing valuable morning sunshine and crowding the lines. Often the colored pieces, which ought not to stand while wet, are left in the basket until a place can be made for them.

If you are using a washing machine, the first lot can be hung out while the next tubful is in the machine, thus releasing some of the lines by the time the last tubful is ready. If you do not have a machine, letting the second tubful of clothes soak in the water while the first is being hung out makes them easier to wash, and the change in work will prevent you from getting too tired, working at the tubs.

Galvanized wire clotheslines have the advantage of permanence. They are easy to clean with a damp cloth and are useful for all but thin materials. They must be looked over for rust spots from time to time. Many homemakers have in addition to a permanent wire line for general use a rope line to put up on wash day. Boiling a new rope for a few minutes in soapy water softens it and lengthens its life.

There is no best way of putting up a clothesline. Available space and personal preference will determine to a large extent whether to string the clothesline from posts or buildings, or on a stationary or revolving drier, or on a pulley line which makes it possible to hang clothes without leaving the house or porch. Reels are a convenience in stringing and storing lines and may be easily made at home.

Some provision must be made for indoor drying during bad weather. A good kind of drier for the small home is a wooden frame equipped with rope and pulleys so that it can be pulled up to the ceiling.

The old-fashioned wooden clothespin is cheap and serviceable for general use, provided it is made of sound, smooth wood. Spring clothespins are usually of better quality, although the metal wire is likely to corrode and may break. A basket for clothespins with wire hooks can be pushed along the line and much time saved when hanging clothes; or one of the various kinds of clothespin aprons may be preferred. A clothes bag similarly equipped with hooks for the line can be used to hold the clothes as they are removed after drying. A small stool which keeps the hamper at a convenient height also prevents tiresome stooping. A child's wagon can be used for the same purpose if available. It saves lifting the filled basket.

The United States Department of Agriculture has recently issued a bulletin on home laundering, Farmers' Bulletin 1497-F, in which many additional suggestions will be found for making laundry work easier. It is free while the supply lasts.

FLOATING ISLAND CUSTARD DESSERT

Secret Is to Drop Egg Whites by Spoonfuls.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Among the many ways in which custard may be used for dessert there is none nicer than old-fashioned "floating island," when it is carefully made. It should have a rich, creamy, smooth custard, and delicate "islands" of egg white floating on top. The secret of success which you must know in making this dessert is that the egg whites must be dropped by spoonfuls on the hot milk for a few minutes, until they are thoroughly set, before the yolks are added to make the custard. Complete directions for making floating island are given by the bureau of home economics:

Floating Island.

1 quart milk
5 or 6 egg yolks
½ cup sugar
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla

Put the milk into a double boiler with the sugar and salt. When this mixture is hot, drop the stiffly beaten sweetened egg whites on the surface by spoonfuls, and let these "islands" cook for a few minutes until thoroughly set. Then skim them off and put aside until the custard is made. Beat the egg yolks lightly, and pour slowly into them some of the hot milk. Pour back into the double boiler and stir constantly until the custard coats the spoon. Remove at once and place the pan in a bowl of cold water, stirring until cool. Add the vanilla, or other flavoring if preferred. Chill and serve in individual glasses or dishes.

Floating Island.

Would Be Pie-Maker

At some stage in her housekeeping experience every woman privately longs to be considered a good pie-maker. She may not admit it, but she welcomes a chance to exhibit her art. She will find one in this menu, for the dessert is fruit pie, rhubarb, blackberry, huckleberry—whatever fruit is in season. One little hint about this: When making any juicy fruit pies, prebake the undercrust till it begins to color up to prevent its being soggy. Then fill with thick, sweetened stewed fruit, put the top crust on, and bake as usual.

What's the Answer?

Questions No. 14

1—What is the high standing jump record?

2—Who invented the sewing machine and when?

3—What vice president was later tried for treason?

4—What is geology?

5—With what three remarkable roles are the name and fame of Mrs. Fiske principally associated?

6—Which is the highest mountain in Great Britain?

7—What legends are the subject of Tennyson's "Idylls of the King"?

8—What is the umbrella bird and what is its most conspicuous ornament?

9—Is this statement correct: "I expect that you have eyestrain"?

10—What is the third verse in Chap. 1 of the Book of Job?

11—What European sea coast is known as "cote sauvage"?

12—What is the record for the national collegiate run of 100 yards?

13—When was Labor day made a legal national holiday?

14—What President later became a member of the house of representatives?

15—Where are emeralds found?

16—What English author, essayist and lecturer was most famous as an art critic?

17—What are the "Biglow Papers"?

18—What is vanilla, what its uses and where grown?

19—Which is correct, "would rather" or "had rather"?

20—What is a psalm?

Answers No. 13

1—Mary Ann Evans.

2—Philadelphia defeated Boston 4-3 in a 24-inning game September 1, 1906.

3—Six; Jefferson, Madison, Monroe, John Quincy Adams, Van Buren, Buchanan.

4—Carolina, for Charles II.

5—That branch of knowledge that treats on the science of life.

6—Landscape painting.

7—Ladoga.

8—It is a native of North America and there are but two species, the Yucatan and Central American.

9—Twenty-five.

10—II Chronicles; Chap. 4, v. 10.

11—"War and Peace."

12—G. H. Goulding of Canada walked it in 6 min. 25.8 sec.

13—Millard Fillmore.

14—Gen. John H. Morgan.

15—That branch of science that deals with the properties of different kinds of matter.

16—Beethoven.

17—Scotland.

18—It is a genus of early blooming plants belonging to the lily family and there are about forty-five species.

19—By the people inhabiting the western Pyrenees.

20—In the Bible.

Shakespeare Held as Leader of New Art

The masterpieces of one art were produced at its birth. The theater was a new institution in the social life of Shakespeare's youth, and the first playhouse built in England was not a dozen years old when the great poet arrived in London. The Middle ages had gratified its love of mimicry by miracle plays, which developed into moralities and interludes. The middle of the Sixteenth century Latin and Greek plays were crudely imitated in English, but of poetic, literary, romantic, intellectual drama England knew practically nothing until Shakespeare was of age.

"Here," it seems he must have said, "is a land just discovered—I shall be the leader of its exploration." A young man of twenty-two, burdened with a wife and three children, he had left his home in his native town about 1586 to seek his fortune in the great city. He had few friends and no money. Though his ambition was to be an actor and to write his own plays he sought and won a job as call-boy at one of the newly founded theaters and was only after some delay promoted to humble duties on the stage itself. He tried his hand at the revision of an old play, and the manager, recognizing the youth's gift, aided him on his climb. But for seven or eight years he worked in obscurity and it was not until his "Romeo and Juliet" was produced that he was hailed as the prophet of a new world of art.—Kansas City Star.

The Horse in History

Domestic breeds of horses existed in Europe from prehistoric times. The first mention of the British horse occurs in "Caesar." Though used extensively in warfare and other pursuits, agriculture seems to have been the first use to which horses were put. The earliest suggestion that horses were used in agriculture is derived from a piece of Bayeux tapestry where the horse is represented as drawing a harrow.—Washington Star.

SEPTEMBER

L 915 W529

The Green Cloak

By YORKE DAVIS

WNU Service. Copyright, 1926

STORY FROM THE START

Dr. Ronald McAlister, famous in his special work,—applied psychology—employs his leisure time in the elucidation of crime mysteries. As the narrative opens he is interested with Assistant District Attorney Ashton in the murder, in the small town of Oak Ridge, of a recluse, Henry Morban. The murdered man, his papers reveal, had been in New Zealand, where Doctor McAlister had lived in his youth. Will Harvey has testified he saw a woman wearing a green cloak in the Morgan home the night of the murder. Doctor Reinhardt, friend of McAlister, telephones he has a queer case in his hospital and invites McAlister to see the patient.

CHAPTER II—Continued

—3—

Her skin was very dark, a brownish-olive, her hair blue-black, very abundant and wavy, and the surrounding white of pillowcase, sheet and nightdress set off the richness and depth of her coloring to the greatest advantage.

Where the quality in her face lay that gave it that strange, weird, unearthly look, even now in quiet slumber, I could not decide. The features were bold, rather than fine; the brows and lashes very heavy, and the nose broad at the base, the lips full and rather wide, though not protruding, the cheek-bones high and prominent.

But this analysis left me no wiser than before; it failed utterly to account for that strange different look her face wore. There was no negro blood in her veins, even in a remote stage of dilution. The fact was as obvious as it was that she was not a Caucasian.

"There will be no trouble about identifying her," Doctor Reinhardt remarked, and I agreed with him, thinking that he referred to the strange quality of distinction I had noted about her face. But it was evident, the next moment, that he had some more definite mark in mind, for he took up one of the passive hands that lay upon the coverlid and started to strip back the sleeve of her nightdress. But the movement was arrested by an imperative gesture from Doctor McAlister.

Looking up at him, for the first time since we had stopped beside the girl's bed, I saw that his eyes were shining with an unaccountable excitement. He bent down over the pillow, his ear not six inches away from the half-parted lips. Then we saw that the lips were moving, and, in the suddenly enforced silence, caught the sound of a queer, droning chant. It only lasted a minute. Then, with the sudden, lazy motion of one deep asleep, she turned on her side, cuddled her cheek on her palm, and the chant died out in a sigh.

Doctor McAlister straightened up suddenly, walked away three or four paces, then wheeled and came back. Ashton and I watched him curiously.

"You started to show me her arm," he said to Doctor Reinhardt. "Is there a mark there?"

With a nod, he pulled up the sleeve and showed us, high on the forearm, a queer little bit of tattooing in red and blue. "I know something of tattooing," he said, "but that mark and the way it's executed puzzle me as much as her language does."

Doctor McAlister merely nodded. He had understood the language; I would almost have taken my oath to that, from the expression his face wore as he bent over her, listening. I wondered if he understood the mark, too.

"You say you've been trying to wake her, and haven't succeeded?"

"Yes, and I confess I'm puzzled, because there's nothing trancelike about her pulse or her respiration."

Doctor McAlister made an examination on his own account, but it was very swift, and I should have called it perfunctory, yet it was clear enough that this queer patient had, only a moment before, excited his keenest interest. But he did one thing which I think must have surprised Doctor Reinhardt as much as it did Ashton and me. He turned back the bed clothes and examined, rather minutely, the girl's feet.

"Well, I'm much obliged to you for bringing me out for a look at her," he said to Doctor Reinhardt, as he straightened up and prepared to leave the ward. "She's been that way, you say, ever since she was brought in?"

"Yes."

"She's in a hypnotic or subjective condition of some sort. I'd be very glad if you'd keep me informed, over the 'phone, concerning her condition. If there's any radical change, I'd like to come out and see her again.

"If you don't mind my suggesting it, I believe it would be a good thing to take her out of the ward and put her in a private room where she could be under constant supervision. If she says anything, in any intelligible language, it might be well to make a note of it."

With that and a brief word of good night, he strode away, and Ashton and I followed him, he looking completely mystified, and I feeling scarcely less so. We drove back to The Meredith with hardly a word, but as we crossed the lobby on our way to the elevators, Doctor McAlister paused.

"Ashton," he said, "I will be glad to help you all I can—I mean in the matter of tracing Morgan's New Zealand connections. But I'm going to ask a favor of you. Give Phelps and me here a chance to make a little investigation of this case on our own account."

"Any thing you like," said Ashton heartily. "Go out to Oak Ridge and hunt about all you like. I'll even turn my impressionable Mr. Harvey over to you after I've finished with him tomorrow morning, though I can't guarantee there'll be much left of him."

We went up in the elevator together, and my chief, with a nod, indicated that he wanted me to come to his sitting room.

When the door was closed behind us, he filled his pipe and began striding, slowly, up and down the room. But he stopped before me at last, and with a preliminary "Hump," and a grasp of a muscular hand upon my shoulder he said:

He Bent Down Over the Pillow, His Ear Not Six Inches Away From the Half-Parted Lips.

"I suppose some people would call that a coincidence."

"Some connection, you mean, between the woman Will Harvey testified he saw and the one we saw lying there in the hospital?"

"Morgan lived in New Zealand, didn't he? And Ashton says he had maps, vast numbers of maps of the southern Pacific—large scale maps of the groups of islands that are scattered all through it. It's fair to suppose, then, that he had some reason for interest in those far-off South Sea islands."

"The girl!" I exclaimed. "The girl in the hospital!—Did you mean that she comes from that part of the world? From one of those islands in the South seas?"

"The mark on her arm is enough to prove that," he answered.

He paused there, but I knew that was not all.

"That queer mumbled song of hers?" I hasarded.

He took another turn across the room before he answered that question. "Yes, I understood it," he said at last. "That song, as you call it, was an old Maori death chant."

Doctor McAlister had resumed his thoughtful patrol of the room. "Of course," he said half under his breath, "it may be a coincidence, just that and nothing more."

"No," said I. "No, I can't believe that. There must be some stronger connection than mere chance, between the murdered body of that man in the house out at Oak Ridge and the death chant of that girl at whose bedside we stood tonight. It must be more than chance."

But my chief turned upon me sharply. "Don't make the mistake of thinking that," he said. "There is no greater source of error in the world than the belief that unlikely things can't happen. They happen every day, coincidences, against which the chances are a thousand to one. Still," he paused in his stride and plowed his hands through his thick gray hair—"still, to put it conservatively, it's vastly more likely than not that there is a connection; that this girl has some place in that unknown past of his, which he thought he had sponged out so completely."

"Well," said I, "if she was any place at all, isn't it altogether likely that she is the person who committed the murder? And if that's so—well, what are we going to do about it? Tell Ashton?"

He wheeled round at that and smote a near-by door panel with his great fist. "No, by thunder, no! Not that. Not, at least, until we've solved this mystery for ourselves; until we are sure we understand it. And I mean by that," he went on, looking at me fixedly, "I mean a good deal more than merely proving she was the woman whom Will Harvey swore he saw in silhouette upon the shade; until we've proved more than that it was her hands that pulled taut the catgut string around the old man's neck."

"What more than that," I asked unsteadily, "can you hope to prove, or want to prove?"

"This," he said, stopping before me and looking straight into my face; "this. That it was her will which directed the hands, and not her soul that was responsible for the crime."

"You mean?" I gasped with sudden half-perception of his meaning, "that there may be another will concerned in the business?"

"Exactly that," he answered. "I mean that judging from that girl's condition tonight, it may very well be that the real murderer of that old man was no nearer to the house in Oak Ridge the night the murder was committed than we are now."

CHAPTER III

The next day Doctor McAlister and I each packed a handbag with enough to keep us going for two or three days, and about noon set out for Oak Ridge. The weather had been fine and rather mild for November, but shortly after our return from the hospital the night before, the wind had whipped round into the north. By morning it had developed into a lusty gale, which drove the fine stinging rain and sleet slantwise, down from a leaden sky. By the time we were ready to start, the rain was already turning to snow.

We rode in the half-filled smoking car, and hardly exchanged a word, until after we had pulled out from a tiny suburban station and the brakeman, opening the door amid a hail of cinders, had cried out: "Oak Ridge next." Then Doctor McAlister, who sat facing me, leaned forward.

"Our friend Ashton has a considerable power of vivid description," he said. "Unless I'm altogether mistaken, the young man who is setting three seats behind you, on the other side of the aisle, is the witness of whom he told us yesterday. I felt tolerably sure of it when my eye first lighted on him. He's going to get off at Oak Ridge, and I think that settles it. One small town could hardly boast another like him."

"How do you know he's going to get off at Oak Ridge?" I asked.

"He straightened up a little in his seat and began to readjust his necktie when the brakeman called the name of the town."

When I had made a pretext for changing over and sitting with the doctor, I quite agreed with his identification. There, to the life, was the young man whom Ashton had described to us. I thought I could see traces upon him of the grilling to which Ashton must have subjected him this morning. His eyes were sullen, his color unstable and his hands fidgety. I was half-inclined to think there might be something in the theory of Mallory, the detective, after all.

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

President in Power in Troublous Times

James Buchanan, as fifteenth President of the United States, occupied the White House when the questions of slavery and states rights were dangerously fermenting. His administration, from 1857 to 1861, saw the prelude to the Civil war.

Buchanan was born April 23, 1791. As a Pennsylvanian he disapproved of slavery, but being a strict constitutionalist and a Democrat, he held to official convictions. He publicly denied the right of secession, and refused to treat South Carolina representatives as foreign delegates.

His chief difficulty was an unsympathetic congress.

The Dred Scott decision and John Brown's raid on Harper's Ferry so stirred the nation during his administration that those events somewhat submerged his diplomatic accomplishments of settling the question of British dominion in Central America and by stopping Great Britain's "right of search" on American ships. The first Atlantic cable was laid in Buchanan's administration.

Before he died, June 1, 1868, Buchanan wrote his own vindication of his administrative policies.—Exchange.

So That's What It Was

A German biologist says the orang-outang can sing, and we fancy we must have heard it over the radio recently.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Improved Uniform International

Sunday School Lesson

(By REV. P. B. FITZWATER, D.D., Dean, Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.)
(©, 1927, Western Newspaper Union.)

Lesson for September 4

SOLOMON'S WISE CHOICE

LESSON TEXT—I Kings 3:4-15.

GOLDEN TEXT—Happy is the man who findeth wisdom and the man that getteth understanding.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Solomon's Wise Choice.

JUNIOR TOPIC—A Young Man's Wise Choice.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Choosing Things Worth While.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Best Things in Life.

Following the death of David, Solomon was anointed king (I Kings 1:5-40). David had failed to show the people who should be king after him (v. 20). Though an old man, he is stirred into action by the combined appeals of Bathsheba and Nathan. He immediately sent for the faithful three—Zadok, Nathan and Benaiah, and commanded them to anoint Solomon king

I. God's Gracious Offer (vv. 4, 5). Solomon made a lavish sacrifice to the Lord. The magnitude of the offering shows that he had strong impulses toward God and that he was unwilling to hold anything back from God. Following the sacrifice, the Lord made to him this gracious offer. This offer was not on the basis that the Lord cared for the number of animals, but the attitude of the man's heart toward him. "Ask what I shall give thee," placed very wide possibilities before the king. God, as it were, signed blank checks and turned them over to Solomon to fill in any amount that his heart desired. This was not a reckless act on the part of God, for He foreknew what was in Solomon's heart to ask. This offer to Solomon is no exceptional one, for opportunities equally limitless are placed before us. God is saying to every one of His children, "Ask and it shall be given you." The matter with its limitations is placed before us in John 15:7. "If ye abide in Me and My words abide in you, ye shall ask what ye will, and it shall be done unto you." These unlimited offers are open to those who abide in Christ and let His words abide in them.

II. Solomon's Wise Choice (vv. 6-9). The Lord's gracious offer brought the king face to face with the responsibility of making a choice. There was no middle course open to him. God deals with all His children in such a way that a choice must be made by them. Solomon was keenly aware of the difficulty and responsibility of his position. David was a great king. For a young man to take up the work of an illustrious father and push it to completion is a most difficult task. Comparatively few ever succeed. Besides this, he had to deal with the disturbing elements which had been set in motion by the usurper, Adonijah. Being made to shoulder so great a responsibility so suddenly, brought him to keenly feel his insufficiency. In his reply to God he pleaded that his being king was not of his own choice but an act of God's loving kindness. He argued that, since God had made him king, He was bound to qualify him to fill the place. All who have been called of God to fill positions of honor and trust can surely exercise that same boldness of faith. When called to positions of honor and trust we should humbly present ourselves before God for help. To feel ourselves unworthy and unfit for great and responsible work and to cast ourselves upon God for help is not cowardice, but a good sign that we shall not fail at the critical moment. Solomon's object in asking for wisdom was not for display but for the good of others.

III. God's Unstinted Gift (vv. 10-15). Solomon's speech pleased the Lord. God gave him more than he asked. Because he put wisdom first, God saw that he could be trusted with material good also. Christ saw the same thing when He said, "Seek ye first the kingdom of God, and His righteousness; and all these things shall be added unto you" (Matt. 6:33). He who puts God and spiritual things first in time and importance can be trusted with temporal things. That which God promised him above what he asked was riches, honor and length of days. All who feel the lack of wisdom can go to God with confidence (Jas. 1:5). God blessed Solomon with a singularly comprehensive mind (I Kings 4:29-34). He was a botanist, zoologist, architect, poet and moral philosopher.

Christian Life

"The perfection of the Christian life is to lose sight of oneself completely and to make everything of Christ."

No Man His Own Master

No man is his own master; he is either governed by Christ or governed by Satan.—Echoes.

God Is Faithful

God is faithful, and He can never allow anyone to be empty in His blessed presence.—Echoes.

Humility

Humility is to make a right estimate of one's self.—Spurgeon.

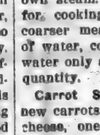
The KITCHEN CABINET

(©, 1927, by Western Newspaper Union.)

Cheerfulness and content are great beautifiers, and are famous preservers of good looks.—Barnaby Rudge.

SEASONABLE SUGGESTIONS

After the chicken has been served for a meal, set it into the ice chest (what remains) carefully minced and in a day or two serve a chop suey thus: Take a cupful or more of celery, one or two onions sliced, fry for five minutes in three tablespoonfuls of vegetable oil. Then add the chicken, bean sprouts if at hand, or cooked string beans add to the flavor; cover and simmer for an hour and serve with hot seasoned boiled rice. Add a tablespoonful or two of chop suey sauce over the mixture and the rice before serving.



Macaroni With Meat.—When there is a piece or two of steak left from dinner, put it through the meat grinder and add it to a cupful or two of hot cooked macaroni well seasoned with butter and shredded onion. Place in a baking dish, cover with buttered crumbs and brown in a hot oven. Serve hot from the baking dish.

Pepper Lilies.—Cut sweet peppers into petal-shaped points, removing the seeds and fiber. Fill with a ball of seasoned cheese and season with bits of the chopped pepper. Rice the yolks of hard-cooked eggs after seasoning and sprinkle lightly on top of the cheese. Press the pepper petals gently to the side of the ball and serve on a curled leaf of lettuce.

Food for the Family.

If there is one article of food more than another which needs careful cooking it is vegetables. Very often the vegetables prepared by the ordinary cook are a byword for all that is tasteless and unappetizing. The mineral salts and vitamines which are needed in the body to operate the machinery properly are largely thrown down the kitchen sink when draining the vegetables. Boiling any vegetable in water is not the best way of cooking, for its nutriment is wasted in the water in which it is cooked. Cooking in heavy dishes without water or with very little, cooking in their own steam will insure serving all the nutriment in the dish.

When cooking spinach, the so-called "broom of the blood," it should never be cooked in water other than that which clings to the leaves after being washed. When cooking other foods with only the water left from washing, the dish must be heavy enough and tight enough to avoid evaporation. Meats, too, are so much more flavorful and appetizing if cooked in their own steam. A scotch kettle is ideal for cooking stews, pot roasts and coarser meats. Add a tablespoonful of water, cover tightly and add more water only as it is needed in the same quantity.

Carrot Salad.—Take three fresh, new carrots, one cupful of dry cottage cheese, one tablespoonful of minced parsley, shredded lettuce or cabbage, two tablespoonfuls of lemon juice, four of olive oil, one-half teaspoonful of salt and paprika. Wash and grate the carrots, combine with the parsley and cheese. When thoroughly blended, add the lemon juice and oil and beat well. The mixture should be stiff enough to hold its shape. Season and mold into tiny carrots; garnish with a sprig of parsley and serve on lettuce.

Irish Stew.—Cut into serving sized pieces enough mutton to serve the family, leaving a little of the fat. Season well, add six good-sized onions, two pounds of peeled potatoes and three carrots cut into slices. Add a bunch of parsley, savory or other combination liked. Place in a casserole with one cupful of good broth and bake until the vegetables are very tender.

Egg a la Bechamel.—Cook four eggs in the shell until hard. Drop them in cold water and shell. Cut them into halves. Butter a baking dish, add the eggs with one-half cupful of cream, pepper and salt to taste with a dusting of powdered mace. Bake in a hot oven ten minutes.

Chicken Chop Suey.—Cut up into small pieces any leftover cooked chicken, add it to a cupful or more of celery, one onion finely minced and three or four tablespoonfuls of oil. When well heated add the water from string beans, with a cupful of the beans, or if not at hand add green peas. Cook until the vegetables are done, add a spoonful of soy sauce and serve with hot seasoned rice which has been seasoned with soy sauce.

Nellie Maxwell

Post Grows Beets

Tall corn is not the only thing that grows in Iowa. The Corwith (Iowa) post of the American Legion grows beets. A final report on last season's activities showed that the post earned nearly five hundred dollars from its beet field. The post rented 13.61 acres of land and put the tract into beets, harvesting a crop which brought $1,169.96. Virtually all the labor was hired but after deducting wages, cost of seed, fertilizer and land rental, the post had a profit of $476.59.

Current Wit and Humor

TESTING THEM

"Tell the janitor to put up notices that no book agents are to be admitted to the building," said the publisher.

"But you have just advertised for agents to sell our new work," protested the secretary.

"Of course I want to try the applicants out. If a man could be stopped by a little thing like that, what good would he be to us?"

NOT PROOF

She—I answered you in the negative didn't I?

He—But, the negative is not the proof.

Hard Luck

De Mar will never run again,
For which he may be pardoned;
An amateur he will remain
Because his arteries hardened.

Juvenile Logic

"Eat the crusts, darling," said the mother, "and your bones will grow and you'll be a strong girl."

The child thought it over as she obediently munched the crust, then looking up she said: "Mummy, why doesn't grandpa chew his plate so his teeth will grow out again?"

The Pool Shark

"I want to enlist in the tanks," announced the applicant at the recruiting station.

"Why so keen about the tanks?" asked the sergeant in charge.

"Oh," said the applicant modestly "I'm a pretty good swimmer."—American Legion Weekly.

On Good Behavior

Magistrate (to prisoner)—How long is it since you appeared in a police court before?

Prisoner—Twenty years, your worship.

Magistrate—And where were you all that time?

Prisoner—In prison.

THE LONG ARM

"And George put his arm around me at least a half dozen times."

"When did George develop octopus-tentacles, my dear?"

Dull Life

Jack Rolf would watch no golf,
His wife would watch no baseball;
And so betwixt the two of them
They had no sport at all.

Reducing

"Is your physician helping you to reduce?"

"I think so," answered Miss Cayenne. "I fancy both father and myself have grown thinner worrying over his bills."—Washington Star.

Something Different

"I suppose you want to marry a girl as near like your mother as possible."

"No, I'm going to marry an old-fashioned girl."

The Summing Up

Mrs. O'Grouch—John, doesn't it seem to you that I am on my feet a little too much?

Mr. O'Grouch—Well, I wouldn't want to be too positive as to that, but it seems to me that you are on your ear a little too much, Jane.

The Reason

He—But you said your father is anxious to get you off his hands.

She—Yes, but that's why he won't let me marry you.

SEPTEMBER

L 91 0530

GENGNAGEL & SON

Formerly

Steward Elevator & Coal Yards

DEALERS IN

Grain, Seed, Feed, Hay, Salt and Coal

ALSO

Have Complete Line of FERTILIZER ON HAND

PHONE No. 81

SPENCERVILLE, INDIANA

LOCAL NEWS ITEMS

Miss Beatrice Woodcox is visiting relatives at Columbus, Ohio.

Charles Caster, of Wheaton, Illinois, has been hired as secretary of the Auburn Y. M. C. A. and takes up his task today.

Geraldine Thornton returned home Saturday evening after four weeks visit with relatives at Elkhart, Indiana and Battle Creek, Michigan.

Lucile Wiler had her tonsils removed last Thursday at Auburn. She is getting along fine.

Representatives of the state conservation commission have taken more than 400 gar and about 90 dog fish from the water at Hamilton Lake. The fish and game department of the commission is making an effort to rid lakes in northeastern Indiana of these undesirable fish.

Paper and envelopes News office.

Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Bayman and family, of New Haven, were in town Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. Carrie Smith, of Evanston, Illinois, is here the guest of her sister, Mrs. Wilson Sanders, for a couple of weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Quance and children, of Auburn, were Saturday evening supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Leighty. Monday, Mrs. Quance and two sons were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Hull.

His first wife was married once. His second wife was married twice. His third wife was married thrice. His fourth wife was to be married for the fourth time. This was the story told by Harry M. Norton, sixty-one, Sacremento, Cal., when he applied for a marriage license in company with his bride-to-be, Virginia Hutton, fifty-six also of Sacremento.

Our office force has been making requests and petitions for nigh on to two years that we have our windows cleaned, and growing tired of being bothered so much about it, some of these days we're going to have 'em cleaned and we won't have any pity if they have to wear green goggles the rest of the summer, for the job is going to cost us about a dollar and six-bits.

Several petitions siged by members of churches in Warsaw. Mentone and Etna Green, have been presented to the Warsaw city council asking that no chance games be permitted to operate at Warsaw dnring the annual Kosciusco county fair. Prevention of suggestive shows or exhibitions also were asked. Whether this will change the plans of the entertainment committee of the fair association is not known.

Carl Carpenter is driving a new whippet six.

Homer Woodcox, of Columbus, Ohio, is home for an indefinite stay.

Mrs. Grover Curie and Mrs. Callie Ridgway, were at Fort Wayne, Saturday.

For Sale:—Chester White Sow and 4 pigs. Phone 9214 Auburn. Martin Peters. 35t1p.

Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Rhoades and daughter, Miss Doris, of Fort Wayne, were supper guests in the F. Buchanan home Saturday evening.

Guy Dill, of Pierceton, Indiana, was a guest last week in the C. R. Price home. Clifford and Lawrence Dill, were also guests from Thursday until Saturday.

The Rev. A. A. Irelan and family, who have been at Garrett the past year, have moved to Fort Wayne and are residing at 508 Buchanan street. They expect to make their permanent home at Fort Wayne. The Rev. Irelan did not accept a charge at the recent conference of the Methodist Protestant church.

Clyde Johnson of Kendallville, was fined $1 and costs and sentenced to the penal farm for 180 days when he pleaded guilty in the DeKalb circuit court Saturday morning to a charge of stealing chickens. Johnson was first in court Monday, August 22. It was said that he helped Thomas Charters and Daniel Wilson, also of Kendallville, steal a flock of chickens belonging to Louis Trasster of Fairfield Township. He denied helping to take the chickens, but said he went along with Charters when the latter took them to Fort Wayne to dispose of them. The court took his case under advisement.

Tomlinson Beauty Salon

Hilda Stokes, Operator

Get the "Permanent Marcel"

A Beautiful "HORSE SHOE" with short part, the "SWIRL," "FAN" and "COMB BACK."

A STEAM SET IS THE BEST FOR YOUR PERMANENT

HAIR CUTTING ANY STYLE SHOWN ON CHART

CHAMPOOING — MANICURING — ETC.

CALL PHONE 96 BUTLER, IND.

Writing tablets at News office.

Miss Ruth Smith, of Auburn, was an over Sunday guest of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sechler. She accompanied S. S. Widney home Saturday morning, who visited in her home at Auburn for a week.

Mrs. John Maurer and daughter, Helen, of Union City Mich., and Mrs. James Maurer, of Coldwater, Mich., were guests of their father, D. D. Burley, several days last week. They returned home Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Sturgis and family, of Cincinnatti, Ohio, were over Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. F. Buchanan. They also visited Butler and Fort Wayne relatives, leaving for home on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Glen Bowen and children, of Fort Wayne, were Sunday guests of S. S. Widney.

Mrs. Marion Smith and son, Harry, of Auburn, called at the S. S. Widney home Monday afternoon.

Just follow the printed cutting line on McCall's printed patterns. Phone the number to News office and let them order it for you. You save by doing so. 35tf.

Miss Hilda Koch, of South Bend, spent a short time here Saturday, returning to South Bend accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Roy Koch, who spent until Monday visiting relatives. Mrs. Fred Elson accompanied them as far as Mishawaka and visited her sister Miss Leatha Coyle.

PAINT

Supplies

A FULL LINE BRUSHES AND THE FAMOUS

Hoosier Paint

NATHAN GRAIN CO.

DEALERS IN

LUMBER

Coal of all kind, Paint, Oils, Brushes, Feeds and Seeds of every kind

St. JOE, INDIANA

BERT JACKSON, Mgr. Coal and Lumber Dept. SAM KEESLER, Mgr. Grain Dept.

GRAIN DEPARTMENT

We are always in the market for your GRAIN and always try and PAY the HIGHEST MARKET PRICE FOR THE SAME.

We sell all kinds of FEEDS, ALSO CARRY TANKAGE AND MEAT SCRAPS

COAL

HARD COAL

Just unloaded a car of Chestnut Coal direct into customers bins, but if you are needing some for the winter, phone us your order, and we will fill your bin from the next car, which will be in shortly.

Come and Call on

St. Joe's New Lumber Yd.

Do you realize we have given St. Joe something it long has needed. Full line of

LUMBER

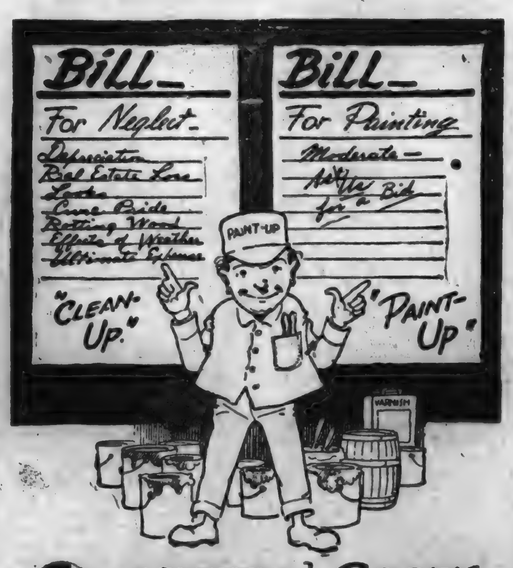
A CARLOAD OF HIGHEST GRADE

5x Wood SHINGLES

UNLOADING NOW AT YARDS

Also a shipment of ASPHALT SHINGLES on the way.

PLACE YOUR ODRER NOW



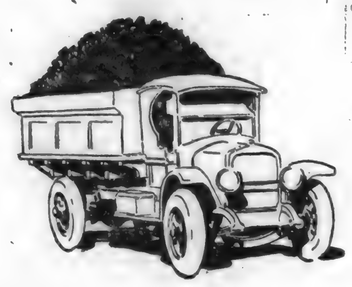
COUNTING the COST!

It has to be done.

Better do it now, and get the work started, before you are up against bigger repair bills for carpenters and tinners, etc.

BUY

Hoosier Paints



Soft coal facts:

We advise purchase of all grades of Soft Coal as early as you can. The strike is now on, and COAL may be hard to get later on -- BUY NOW. Buy of us and buy Quality Coals.

CEMENT

IN CARLOADS IS THE WAY WE BUY IT—BUY OF US.

LIME AND PLASTER ON HAND ALSO WOOD LATH

IF WE HAVE NOT GOT WHAT YOU WANT, ASK FOR IT, BECAUSE WE CAN GET IT.

SEPTEMBER

L 91 0531

We want your NEWS ITEMS and appreciate your calling—We can't get all the items of interest unless you do help Phone in and give your news.

ST. JOE NEWS.

This week in THE NEWS are many good offers—Read them thy're interesting. Keep up with trend of business in St. Joe—READ THE ADS.

VOL. XLI. ST. JOE, DeKALB COUNTY, INDIANA, THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 1, 1927 NUMBER 35

FLOWER DISPLAY AS HOME-COMING FEATURE

The Flower Show will be an attraction that you will want to see. The flower committee, Mrs. Harry Kees, chairman, Mrs. Fred Hart, Mrs. Glen Cole, Mrs. Lloyd Draggoo and Mrs. Frank Scholes, asks the cooperation of all who grow flowers to make this a fine show. All are urged to send flowers.

They will be placed by 10 o'clock A. M. Mr. F. L. Tombow, the florist from Butler, will be the judge. A first and second premium of 50 and 25 cents each will be given the best flowers in Gladioli, Dahlias, Asters and Mixed Flowers.

Be sure to visit the flower show.

TWO HARLAN BOYS ARRESTED TUESDAY

Justice F. H. Miller, of Harlan, had two cases Tuesday in which he assessed a fine of $17.50 in each case. Game Wardens Leighty and Fox were sent into Harlan neighborhood by the state department to investigate a case, wherein they found a racoon in possession of C. C. Lengacher and Arch Coffee and these men were taken to the justice court for illegal possession of fur bearing animals in closed season, found guilty and the above fine assessed.

NEW RESTAURANT TO OPEN THIS WEEK

Fred High, of Spencerville, who bears a reputation as a culinary artist, is about to open a restaurant in St. Joe. having contracted for the I. O. O. F. rooms, recently vacated by the postoffice. He is remodeling completely and putting in A-1 condition, ready for the opening some time the later part of this week.

Mrs. Harry Randall, of Chicago, is here visiting relatives for the week.

Homecoming

ISSUES CHALLENGE

August 30, 1927.

To-wit:

By agreement, Elgin Curie and I, Lloyd Curie, are to play a five (5) set match of tennis sometime within the first two (2) weeks of September, 1927, the loser of said tennis match to be married (also by agreement) within the next six (6) months.

Lloyd Curie.
Elgin Curie.

Witnessed by Coxie and Paul E. Curie.

AUTO AND HORSE COLLIDE THURSDAY EVE

The first accident for about a year, occurred Thursday evening at the Lutheran church corner about 7:30, when Robert Coburn, who drives the Staman milk route collided with Prof. Simms. Robert was delivering milk with his horse and buggy and was crossing the street, north, when Prof. Simms, headed east, struck the horse, knocking it down and breaking its left front leg. The animal was shot shortly afterwards. It was an unavoidable accident.

MONROE REUNION HELD AT CONCORD

The officers for the Monroe reunion for next year, elected at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ira Bone at Concord last Sunday, are as folows:—Ira Bone, president; S. A. Rickett, vice president; Warren Keen, of Fort Wayne, secretary and treasurer. The next meeting to be held at the home of Eugene Watson at Grand Rapids, the last Sunday in August. Mrs. Genetta Provines, Chester Keen and Gene Watson compose the program committee for the occasion. Those present last Sunday were:—Mr. and Mrs. John Keen of Corunna; Chester and Warren Keen, Clayton Wyatt and Dr. Stametz of Ft. Wayne; George Anderson, Will Brown, Ella Blaney, Ella and Paul Baker, F. Boger, Jesse Proines and their families of Auburn; Mrs. Ray Hennesy and daughter of Avilla; Dell Draggoo, James Erwin, S. A. Rickett, M. H. Andress, Wm. Keeler, Verne Monroe, F. M. Monroe, Mrs. Catherine Rickett, Mrs. Libbie Wasson, with their families; Gladys Derthick and two daughters of Bryan and Eugene Webster of Butler.

GREAT ENGINEERING FEAT

For the past few months, a number of experienced bridge men have been located at St. Joe, working on a new modern river bridge for the B. & O., and now their work is nearing completion as far as making the change of the old bridge for the new.

The feat of changing the two bridges without stopping of trains will be made Thursday, about 11:30 or just following train No. 7 passing. A crowd of spectators will be present to witness this event

H. C. HATHAWAY SERIOUSLY INJURED

Auburn Game Warden Was Helping Raise Bridge Along Highway When Jack Slipped

Henry C. Hathaway, a deputy warden for the Indiana Conservation comission, is bedfast at his residence at 701 South Jackson street from injuries which he received Wednesday afternoon eight miles north of Columbia City, while assisting workmen in the repair of a bridge.

Mr. Hathaway suffered several broken ribs and injuries to his right side and hip. He was brought to his home Wednesday night in an ambulance and Thursday was under the influence of hypodermics. His condition Thursday was not considered as serious as it was at the time he was brought home.

Mr. Hathaway, who was at Loon Lake near Columbia City netting undesirable fish, had finished his mid-day meal and was going along the road which led past a bridge which had sunken and which was being raised. Workmen were lifting the bridge with a jack when Mr. Hathaway offered to help.

He was on the end of a lever when suddenly the jack slipped. Mr. Hathaway was thrown in the air about six feet, alighting on the stone road on his back and right side, crushing his ribs and otherwise injuring him.

The injury Wednesday was the second serious one which Mr. Hathaway has suffered in the past two years. About two years ago while engaged in his work as game warden in Steuben county he was shot by a man on whom papers were about to be served for violation of the game law. The shot went through the lobe of one of his ears barely missing a vital spot near the temple.

TRAINING SCHOOL FOR SUNDAY SCHOOL WORKERS

Will Be Held In Auburn From November 7 to 11

A Training School for Sunday School workers, will be held in Auburn, November 7th to 11th. This Training School will be for the use and is available to every Sunday School worker in DeKalb county, and as those who participate, and who take the final examination, will receive teacher's training credit, the county officers are confident that every school in the county will avail themselves of the opportunity to have their workers receive this intensive course.

Miss Young of the state force, will represent this body, as well as having charge of the teaching in the primary and junior divisions. The county expects to have at least three other teachers who will have charge of the Young People's and Adult and Administrative divisions. These teachers must be accredited by the state and be thoroughly competent.

Each evening there will be two hours of intensive work and at the end of the five evenings an examination will be given and credits awarded. A small fee will be required of those taking the work, or from the schools sending their workers, so that the expenses of the school may be cared for. As further arrangements are perfected by the committee in charge, the public will be made acquainted with the plans, through the press.

As training of religious work in the local schools seems to be the solution to many of the problems of the church, the county council deems it necessary to put on a county institute and to study the courses that are most needed. Pastors and superintendents should begin now to have their church and school in this class.

Leighty's Home-Coming Specials
For This Week Only

SPECIAL PRICE ON BULK COFFEE, lb 24c

5 POUNDS GRANULATED SUGAR, for 31c

WITH EACH POUND OF PERFECT COFFEE
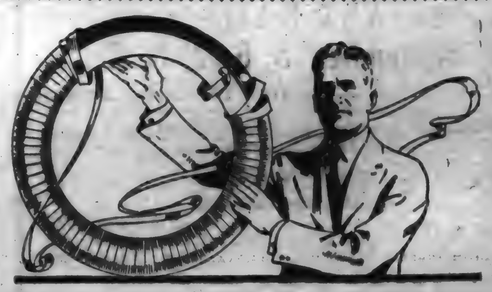
WILL BE GIVEN ONE PACKAGE OF PERFECT MACARONI

ONE PACKAGE OF CHEF COFFEE WILL BE GIVEN FREE TO EACH LADY WHO ENTERS OUR STORE ON SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 3rd, AND REGISTERS HER NAME AND ADDRESS.

PLENTY OF FRESH FRUIT



YOU BE THE JUDGE

WE HAVE IN OUR TIRE SHOP A LINE OF TIRES THAT WE CAN RECOMMEND TO ANY USER BECAUSE WE HAVE HANDLED THEM FOR YEARS AND KNOW THEIR VALUE.

Here Are a Few of The PRICES:-

Best Balloons, 29x4.40	$12.00
Secondary Balloon, 29x4.40	$ 9.50
Unguaranteed Balloon, 29x4.40	$ 7.00
Best, 30x3½	$12.00
Secondary, 30x3½	$ 9.50
Unguaranteed, 30x3½	$ 6.00

WE HANDLE FISK—AJAX—GOODYEAR AND GOODRICH, ALL SIZES AND GUARANTEED.

WE INSTALL FREE OF CHARGE

R. E. FURNISH, Spencerville

Official Home-Coming Program

ROY WADE, Official Announcer.

9:30 Band Concert.
Registration of Home Comers.
10:00 Base Ball Game, Free.
1:00 Band Concert.
1:30 Address, Rev. J. N. Scholes.
2:30 Parade, starting at M. P. Church.
Best Motor Driven Car—$5.00.
Best Horse Drawn Float—$5.00.
Best Fantastic—$5.00.
Best Decorated Bicycle—$2.00.
Best Decorated Pony—$2.00.
Best Decorated Horse and Rider—$2.00.
WALTER BAKER, Parade Formation.

SPORTS, Commencing at 3:30
Boxing Contest—$2.00.
Shoe Race—$1.00.
Wheelbarrow Polo—$4.00.
Centipede Race—$1.00.
Girls' Race—$1.00.
Horse Shoe Game—$4.00.

Visit the flower exhibit on Lutheran Church lawn. Prizes:—First, 50 cents; Second, 25 cents in each of the following varieties:—Gladioli, Dahlia, Aster and Mixed Flowers.

EVENING PROGRAM
7:30 Band Concert by Community Welfare Band.
Piano Selections, Albert Numbers, Radio Artist.
8:00 Miss Kilpatrick Fancy Dancing.
8:20 Parnell String Band, WOWO Artists, Floyd Saylor, Director.
10:00 Dance.

NEW
High's Restaurant
ST. JOE
Nuff Sed--

WELCOME!
TO OUR
Home-Coming
0
Make our store your headpuarters while in town and leave your wraps.
E. R. KINSEY, Hardware Furniture

SEPTEMBER

L 915 V532

ONLY 4 MORE DAYS

until school starts. Be sure and see our big assortment of school supplies before you buy. Free goods will be given with every purchase of 25c. and over

Go where the croud goes, there is a reason
These prices good until Tuesday, Sept. 6

MATCHES
6 Boxes for.....19c.

SOAP
P r G, 10 Bars....34c.
Palmolive, 4 Bars..25c.

CHIPSO
Large Size .....19c.

CERTO
Bottle .....29c.

Can Rubbers
3 Dozen.....25c.

PAROWAX
Pound .....12c.

Jell Glasses
Dozen .....39c.

VINEGAR
Gallon .....29c.

SALT
IODIZED, Box....10c.

CRACKERS
Fresh PW,lb...12½c.

SUGAR
10 lb. Cane .....61c.
Franklin 4X per lb .....12c.

PEACHES
Packed in Syrup 5 cans $1.15
Unsweetened 5 cans .....95c.

PINEAPPLE
Regular No. 2½ size cans whole or broken slices .....25c.

BRAN FLAKES
Kellogg's 3 for .....25c.

CORN FLAKES
Post Toasties or Kellogg's 2 for ....25c.

COFFEE
Free deal on our 39 and 44 cent coffee. When you have saved 15 containers you can get a 4-quart heavy white enameled sauce pan free.

Zonker's Store
St. Joe, Ind.

SHOES
For .Childrens .School Wear as low as....98c.

DRESSES
LARGE Assortment Childs size 3 to 6, Girls size 6 to 14; Womens' size 34 to 46, going at..
99 Cents

SPECIAL
Low price on Childrens Saockings and Bloomers

PANTS
Large assortment of Boys Short and Long Pants as low as....98c.

SHIRTS
Special Lot of Boys Shirts at.....69c.

SILK HOSE
Regular 75c. value, a large assortment of colors .....49c.

Rain COATS
Red-Greenn-Blue
Children's $3.75
Women's $3.75

NOTICE TO TAXPAYERS OF TAX LEVIES

In the matter of determining the tax rates for certain purposes by Spencer Township, DeKalb County, Indiana.

Before the Township Advisory Board.

Notice is hereby given the taxpayers of said Township above named, that the proper legal officers of said municipality at their regular meeting place, on the 6th day of September, 1927, will consider the following budget:

Budget Classification for Townships

TOWNSHIP FUND

Salary of Trustee	$ 600
Office Rent	60
Trustee's expense—
(a) Traveling	125
Records and advertising	100
Public Ditches (assessments against Township)	150
Pay of Advisory Board	15
Examination of records	40
Miscellaneous—	75
Total Township Fund	$1 165

Estimate of Township Funds To Be Raised

Estimated expenditures as above, $1,165.00.
Working balance at end of year to meet necessary expenditures until receipts of revenue from taxation, $1,991.00.
Total, $3,156.00.
Balance at end of this year $1,991.00.
Total deductions, $1,991.00.
Amount necessary to be raised by taxation, $1,165.00.

ROAD FUND

Labor, $3,500.00.
Road tools and machines, $200.00.
Bridges and culverts, $400.00.
Gravel, stone and road material, $1,600.00.
Miscellaneous, $100.00.
Total Road Fund, $5,800.00.

Estimate of Road Fund To Be Raised

Estimate of expenditures, as above, $5,800.00.
Working balance at end of year to meet necessary expenditures until receipts of revenue from taxation, $1,700.00.
Total, $7,500.00.
Balance at end of this year, $1,700.00.
Total deductions, $1,700.00.
Amount necessary to be raised by taxation, $5,800.00.

SPECIAL SCHOOL FUND

Repair of buildings and care of grounds, $200.00.
Repair of other equipment, $300.00.
School furniture and equipment, $200.00.
School supplies, $500.00.
Janitor's supplies, $150.00.
Fuel for schools, $500.00.
School transfers, $400.00.
Pay of teachers institute $260.00.
Janitor services, $450.00.
Transportation of children, $1,400.
Miscellaneous, $200.00.
Total special School Fund, $3,560.00.

Estimate Of Special School Fund To Be Raised

Estimate of expenditures as above, $3,560.00.
Working balance at end of year to meet necessary expenditures until receipts of revenue from taxation, $3,089.00.
Total, $6,649.00.
Balance at end of this year, $3,089.00.
Total deductions, $3,089.00.
Amount necessary to be raised by taxation, $3,560.00.

TUITION FUND

Pay of teachers, $9,980.00.
Total Tuition Fund, $9,980.00.

Estimate Of Tuition Fund To Be Raised

Estimate of expenditures as above, $9,980.00.
Working balance at end of year to meet necessary expenditures until receipts of revenue from taxation, $4,537.00.
Total, $13,517.00.
Revenue not derived from taxation, $2,740.00.
Balance at end of this year, $4,537.00.
Total deductions, $6,277.00.
Amount necessary to be raised by taxation, $7,240.00.

Estimate Of Poor Fund To Be Raised

Estimate of expenditures as above, $125.00.
Amount necessary to be raised by taxation, $125.00.

LIBRARY FUND

Library, $200.00.
Total Library Fund, $200.00.
Amount necessary to be raised by taxation, $200.00.

Proposed Levies

Net taxable property $1,448,458.50.
Number of taxable polls, 124.

Township Fund—Levy on property, 7 cents; amount to be raised, $1,165.00.

Road Fund—Levy on polls, 75 cents; levy on property, 40 cents; amount to be raised, $5,800.00.

Special School Fund—Levy on polls, 50 cents; levy on property, 30 cents; amount to be raised, $3,560.00.

Tuition Fund—Levy on polls, 75 cents; levy on property, 50 cents; amount to be raised, $7,240.

Poor Fund—Levy on property, 1 cent; amount to be raised, $125.

Library Fund—Levy on property, 2 cents; amount to be raised, $200.00.

Total levy on polls, $2.00; total levy on property, $1.30; total amount to be raised, $18,080.00.

Comparative Statement Of The Taxes Collected And To Be Collected

Shows Amounts Collected Last Three Years

Township Fund—Collected 1924 levy, $1,175.00; collected 1925 levy, vy, $1,070.00; collected 1926 levy, $1,070.00; to be collected this 1927 levy, $1,165.00.

Road Fund—Collected 1924 levy, $5,200.00; collected 1925 levy, $6,600.00; collected 1926 levy $6,400.00; to be collected this 1927 levy, $5,800.00.

Special School Fund—Collected 1924 levy, $3,860.00; collected 1925 levy, $5,200.00; collected 1926 levy, $8,730.00; to be collected this 1927 levy, $3,560.00.

Tuition Fund—Collected 1924 levy, $6,500.00; collected 1925 levy, $5,000.00; collected 1926 levy, $9,300.00; to be collected this 1927 levy, $7,240.00.

Poor Fund—collected 1926 levy, $640.00; to be collected this 1927 levy, $125.00.

Library Fund—To be collected this 1927 levy, $200.00.

Total—Collected 1924 levy, $16,685.00; total collected 1925 levy, $17,870.00; total collected 1926 levy, $26,140.00; total to be collected this 1927 levy, $18,090.00.

Taxpayers appearing shall have a right to be heard thereon. After the tax levies have been determined, ten or more taxpayers, feeling themselves aggrieved by such levies, may appeal to the State Board of Tax Commissioners for further and final action thereon, by filing a petition therefor with the County Auditor not later than the fourth Monday of September, and theState Board will fix a date of hearing in this County.

Dated August 22, 1927.

W. G. ERICK,
Trustee Spencer Township.

Adhesive Currency

Old Si Chestnut says: "This country doesn't need a more elastic currency. Adhesive currency is the real need."

And old Si is more than half right. In other words we need money that will stick to us, for money is a very elusive commodity. There is only one really safe way to hold it. Put it in a reliable Bank like ours, a Bank that has the confidence of its depositors. Keep it there until there is a chance to invest it safely.

CONFIDENCE IS WHAT COUNTS.

The St. Joe Valley Bank, A STATE BANK

LIFE OF FORMER ST. JOE BOY

John Tustison, son of Nelson and Susan A. Tustison, was born in Concord Township, Indiana, June 19, 1878 and departed this life August 26, 1927, at the age of 49 years, 2 months and 7 days.

He died at Appleton, Wisconsin. His death was caused by heart trouble.

He received his early education in the public school of St. Joe, Indiana. At the ageof 17 he began to work with Mr. Curtis Craun, photographer at that time of St. Joe. This vocation he followed till the timeof his death. Being in business for himself at St. Joe and Butler, Indiana and then working as a photographer at various places. For the past six years his studio was at Appleton, Wisconsin.

He was united in marriage to Jeanette Lellier, January 28, 1912, at Duluth, Minn. To this union one daughter was born.

He was one of four children, a brother, George W., having died in infancy, January 2, 1887. His mother also preceded him in death, passing away July 10, 1913.

He leaves to mourn his departure, his wife, Mrs. Jeanette Tustison, his daughter, Deloris Jeanette Tustison, of Appleton, Wis., his father, Nelson Tustison, one brother, Frank and one sister, Mrs. J. E. Ulm, all living near St. Joe, Indiana, one foster brother, Foraker Ferrell, of West Salem, Ohio, also many relatives and a host of friends.

He was a member of the Loyal Order of the Moose.

He passed into the Great Beyond and his loved ones alone can realize the terrible loss of loving companion and father, son and brother. May they have grace to submit to His righteous will and say, "The Lord gave and the Lord has taken away, blessed be the name of the Lord."

The services were held from the home of his father, and were in charge of Rev. J. F. McKnight. E. R. Kinsey, funeral director. Burial in Riverside Cemetery.

PHONE 290

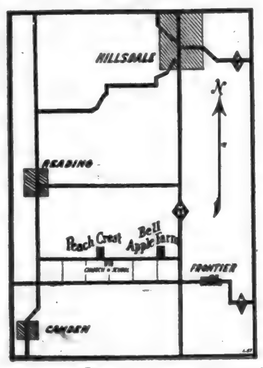
Stanley P. Nelson Monuments

Opposite Woodlawn and Roselawn Cemeteries

AUBURN, IND.

PEACH CREST

P. O. and Phone Camden, Mich.



ORDERS NEVER CAME SO FAST

We think our crop warrants accepting others. To be sure of peaches drop us a card. South Haven and Yellow St. John ripe now. Elberta, New Prolific, Kalamazoo, Champion, (white) and Lemon Free-stone in order named. TREE RIPENED FRUIT IS BEST. Full bushels are satisfaction. Baskets exchanged or new baskets for 15 cents. Every one who canned SOUTH HAVEN pleased and ordering again.

W. S. PULLEN & SONS

Shells First Megaphones

Primitive men in Europe blew conch shells as improvised megaphones in signaling to and directing their armies, just as do cheer leaders at football games today. Alexander the Great furnished his army plentifully with megaphones and communicated with his far-away regiments by floating objects on rivers.

His Understanding

A certain Sunday school teacher exhausted every means within her power to give the children an understanding of the pillar of cloud and fire that guided the children of Israel. In one instance, however, her labor was in vain. A small boy electrified the family when arriving home by giving the astounding information that a caterpillar went before the people and showed them where to go.

Dr. E. T. Julian
M. D.
St. JOE

9:30 to 11:30 each forenoon at Dr. C. R. Price office.

Perfect Comfort

The steering column is adjustable to suit your individual convenience

Buick for 1928 is extremely thoughtful of your comfort. One indication of this consideration is Buick's new steering column, which may be adjusted to the most comfortable position for women, as well as men.

Buick for 1928 pleases women because it is easier to drive—because it is more comfortable to ride in—because it is the style-leader among motor cars. That's why you see so many Buicks at fashionable gatherings, and on the smartest boulevards.

BUICK MOTOR COMPANY, FLINT, MICHIGAN
Division of General Motors Corporation

BUICK for 1928

Buick Sales & Service
Auburn, Ind.

When Better Automobiles are Built, Buick Will Build Them.

VanWert County Fair
AND RACES
September 5, 6, 7, 8, 9

FIVE BIG DAYS — — — — FOUR DELIGHTFUL NIGHTS

Attractions and Fire Works in Front of Grand Stand, Beginning at 7:00 o'clock each evening

SPEED PROGRAM

Tuesday, September 6th

2:14 Trot	Purse $ 350
2:20 Pace	Purse 350
Pace for Two Year Old Colts	Purse 200

Wednesday, September 7th

Free for All Pace	Purse $ 350
2:20 Trot	Purse 350
Pace for Three Year Olds and Under	Purse 300
2:16 Trot	Purse 350

Thursday, September 8th

2:18 Trot	Purse $ 350
2:18 Pace	Purse 350
2:24 Trot	Purse 350
2:16 Pace	Purse 350

Friday, September 9th

2:11 Trot	Purse $ 350
2:24 Pace	Purse 350
Trot, for Three Year Olds and Under	Purse 300
Trot, for Two Year Old Colts	Purse 200

Entrance fee $10. This is added to the purse and raced for by the horsemen.

JAMES MOLLENKOPF, President, Convoy, Ohio.
W. A. MARKER, Secretary, Van Wert, Ohio.

SEPTEMBER

L 915 4533

GAS OIL

ST. JOE

Filling Station

BUY YOUR TIRES NOW

While the price is LOW

TIRES BATTERIES

Real Gas and Real Service

are two of the things our Station can be proud of—and our business shows that the people appreciate it also.

SPECIAL

ON CYLINDER OIL IN 5 GALLON LOTS

R. E. FURNISH

SPENCERVILLE

GAS — OILS — GREASES

LOCAL NEWS ITEMS

Writing tablets at News office.

Chas. Freeburn, of Auburn, was in town the first of the week.

For Sale:—Hard Coal Burner. S. D. Gee. 35t1.

Let George Do It—What? Clean your clothes. J. C. Hull and L. B. Meek, St. Joe Agents.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Burley, of Brook, Ind., came Saturday evening and visited until Sunday with relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Hursh returned home Monday from their visit with relatives in Detroit, Michigan.

Iona Woodcox fell from an apple tree at the Leighty orchard a few days ago, spraining his ankle, confining him to his home.

Mrs. G. H. Hodgson and daughter, Miss Vera, are at Dorste, O., visiting Mrs. Hodgson's sister until Thursday of this week.

Miss Gladys Grimm has returned from in Ohio, to stay with her brother, Howard and family, and attend school here this year.

Dean Kees, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Kees, was operated on Monday at Auburn for diseased tonsils. He stood the operation fine and was brought home in the evening by his grandmother, Mrs. Nan Lysher.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Haifley and family, Mr. and Mrs. George Haifley and daughter, June, of Detroit, Mrs. Harriett Haifley and son, Milton and Mrs. Kate Patee of St. Joe, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. James Dorsey near Edgerton.

The funeral of Mrs. Matilda Foltz, of Fort Wayne, was held last Thursday from the home of her daughter, Mrs. Clayton Bell, with burial at Leipsic, Ohio. The lady was an aunt of Mrs. J. P. Buckingham and J. E. Foltz and the families both attended the funeral.

W. H. Randall

Tubular Well Works
Baker Wind Mills
Pumps, Well Supplies
Etc

-ALSO AGENT FOR-

Red Jacket "SO EASY TO FIX" Pumps

BELL PHONE NO. 15

ST. JOE IND.

NOW Operating!

The St. Joe Grist Mill has been thoroughly overhauled, and is now operating in full capacity, making OUR DAILY BREAD FLOUR and also in the GRINDING OF FEEDS.

You can buy at our mill now Bran, Middlings the best that can be made—from soft winter wheat.

ST. JOE MILLING COMPANY

It is almost as difficult to hide a cough as it is to hide love.

Even in the "fatherland" they invariably speak the "mother tongue."

The price of liberty is eternal vigilance—and it is always payable in advance.

Let George Do It—What? Clean your clothes. J. C. Hull and L. B. Meek, St. Joe Agents.

Clarence Woodcox and family moved Monday from the Filley home into the Bills property.

Miss Pearl Rigg of Auburn was a Saturday night and Sunday guest of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Yeiser.

Closing Out Sale of All Electrical Supplies, at Bargain Prices while they last. S. S. Widney. 35t1.

Mr. and Mrs. D. I. Gillingham, of Hicksville, were supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Kees, Monday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. John Betz were in attendance at their family reunion held at the Emmett Betz home, near Scipio.

Let George Do It—What? Clean your clothes. J. C. Hull and L. B. Meek, St. Joe Agents.

Fred Quance of Auburn is spending the week in the F. B. Leighty home and assisting in the News office.

In order to forecast the weather with a reasonable degree of accuracy all you have to do is predict anything you don't expect.

Bowser & Reed Tin Shop moved to residence in St. Joe. Repairing promptly done. See us for all roofing, spouting and general tin work. Phone 3-1. 31t3.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Sturgis, daughter, Melba and son, Jimmie, of Cincinnati, Ohio, Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Rhoades and daughter, Doris, of Fort Wayne, were Saturday and Sunday guests of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. Buchanan.

Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Monroe, were at Auburn, Monday.

Mrs. Ima Epler and children have returned to their home here after spending the summer with her husband in Chicago. Charles Epler, a brother of Mr. Epler, accompanied them home and will attend school here.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Pontius, of Elkhart, were super guests in the John Wineland home Monday. Also Mary and Arthur Wineland, of Elkhart, and Mrs. Ernest Steward and son, William, of Spencerville. On Monday they spent the day at Spencerville and Tuesday at Auburn and Garrett, returning home Wednesday.

Joe Woodcox was called to Chicago last Saturday to join a concert band which is playing a circuit of State Fairs. This week they are in Milwaukee, Wisconsin, next week in Tulsa, Oklahoma, and their itinerary will include Dallas, Fort Worth, Shreeveport, La., and will end about Thanksgiving time at Burmingham, Alabama. Joe plays tenor saxophone.

GARRETT MAN DIES

Henry S. Dills, head of the Creek Club Bait Co., of Garrett, died Sunday morning at the Garrett hospital. Mr. Dills had been in ill health more than a year, resulting from a nervous breakdown. He spent several weeks at the Battle Creek sanitarium and in February he and Mrs. Dills went to Florida, where they remained until April. In June they returned to Battle Creek, Mr. Dills resuming treatment at the sanitarium. Three weeks later they went to their sottage at Hamilton lake and he was afterward constantly under the care of a trained nurse. worse and on August 19 he was removed to Garrett hospital.

Church Notes

Special announcement for services at Lutheran church are made for St. Joe, morning at 10:30, and Spencerville at 7:30 in the evening.

OH YES! OH YES!

The St. Joe Mill is now operating. You can get Flour, Bran and Middlings. 35t1.

The firm who supplies my coffee has been blending and buying coffee for fifty-three years. They know how. No wonder my coffees are delighting my friends. We buy small lots shipped frequently. We grind the coffee the day you buy it. We keep it in a sanitary case. These things mean satisfaction to you.

ZONKER'S STORE, St. Joe.

"The Best In Used Cars"

It is quite natural that, by handling a car which has been so favorably recognized and accepted by the public as the CHRYSLER, we have better cars traded in to us than would otherwise be expected. Kindly compare the list below with those you have seen elsewhere, and when ready to buy, drop in and learn why we use the caption "The best in used cars."

1—Chrysler 50 Coach 1927 Model, fully equipped, looks and runs like new.
1—Essex 6, 1926 Coach repainted, fully equipped, A-1 condition throughout.
1—Overland 6, 1925 Standard Sedan, practically like new.
1—Studebaker Special 6, 4 passenger Coupe 1923 Model, in good condition.
1—Overland 91 Standard Sedan, 1926, fine condition.
1—Ford 1926 Tudor Sedan, new tires etc. Like new,
1—Ford 1925 Coupe, repainted, good tires, etc.
1—Chevrolet Sedan 1924, A-1 condition throughout, recently repainted.
1—Chevrolet Sedan 1923, good tires and other extras.
1—Chevrolet Coupe 1923, new balloon tires, in good condition.
1—Buick Coupe 1924 Model, A-1 condition.
1—Dodge Coupe 1920, good running condition, cheap.
2—Dodge Tourings 1921, good running order.
6—Tourings, suitable for "fishing hacks" or converting into light trucks, including Star, Overland, Chevrolet, Ford, Dodge and Buick.

Open Evenings - Liberal Terms

Where "CHRYSLERS" Are Sold and Serviced

CAMPBELL-HOLBEN SALES CO.

East 7th. Street AUBURN IND.

WITH A POINT

The less wit a man has the more others may appreciate it.

Love makes the world go around and sometimes keeps it square.

A stubborn fountain pen often interrupts a man's flow of thoughts.

"What to Wear" is the title of a new book. A companion volume entitled "How to Procure It" would fill a long-felt want.

BREEZY CRACKS

It's a good bet that all bookmakers do not work in binderies.

A startling bit of information: History is a thing of the past.

The only place some people make an impression is in the snow.

A slaughter house is like the letter E because it's the end of cattle.

The majority of us haven't even an umbrella to put away for the rainy day.

Contrary to popular belief, Sing Sing is the home of jail birds, not humming birds.

If you think it pains a miser to give away money, watch a man paying his weekly alimony.

Pedestrians have the right of way, and, insisting upon said right, get it with the help of an ambulance.

Don't talk about your past; it may be used against you in the future. If you don't believe this, get married.

When an employee fails to laugh at one of the boss's old jokes, it's a sure sign he's looking for another job.

EDITORIAL TROUBLES

"I'm sorry I haven't a typewriter."

"Hope you don't mind my writing on both sides of the paper."

"This is a true happening. I know, because I witnessed it myself."

"Elsie Stevens told me she met you once, so I am sending you this."

"My little boy, is only eight years old and I thought this was rather cute."

"If you can't accept my story, I wish you would write me and tell me exactly what's wrong with it."

"And could you send me a copy of the issue with the funny movie story in it? I think it was some time in 1922—or 1921. I inclose stamp."

GEMS OF THOUGHT

The most worthy crown is a good reputation.

One may be better than his reputation, but never better than his principles.—Latena.

Victory may be honorable to the arms, but shameful to the counsels of the nation.—Bolingbroke.

Is not he imprudent who, seeing the tide making toward him apace, will sleep till the sea overwhelms him.—Tillotson.

Daily papers at News office and magazines galore.

THE OPENING OF School

Finds Our Store

Headquarters For School Books and all School Supplies

Free Book Covers with each Purchase

Geddes Drug Store

The Rexall Store

BUTLER, INDIANA

Wedding Rings

We Carry the Finest and Best Line of Wedding Rings. Call and Look Our Stock Over.

OUR WHITE GOLD RINGS STAY WHITE

We also have a fine selection of Groom's Rings. They are beautiful and attractive. Men want them.

Ladies who have been married fifteen, thirty or more years, why tell everyone your age by the style of ring you wear? Exchange your old rings for the new and be always young.

SEE YOUR JEWELER

JAMES G. DIEHL

JEWELER

NORTH SIDE HOTEL BUTLER. BUTLER, INDIANA.

Ercil Steward, of Spencerville, is the Bets restaurant this week.

If you want anything done well, do it yourself. Always laugh at your own jokes.

Miss Mary Philpott, of McClure, Ohio, was a week-end guest in the F. M. Thornton home.

The man who boasts of his ignorance has reached the ultimate.

O. D. Baker, wife, and daughter, were guests in the Mahlon Baker home at Auburn, Sunday.

Let George Do It—What? Clean your clothes. J. C. Hull and L. B. Meek, St. Joe Agents.

SEPTEMBER

L 915

0534

ON TO SCHOOL IS THE CRY TODAY

With summer vacations drawing to a close, with this week pupils of our schools and their parents should turn their minds to the important business of continuing youth's education.

The recent flight of Lindbergh is an inspiring example of seeing the task through. Just as Lindy turned his plane east and set out for Paris, so must the student turn his thoughts toward our educational institutions with the determination, "On to school."

We should employ as much determination, zeal and thoroughness in continuing this great adventure as Lindy did in his flight to France. The happy partnership of Lindy and his plane, which he termed "we," finds parallel in our partnership with our "Spirit of America" with the "Spirit of St. Louis."

Lindbergh did not make his trip primarily for gain but for accomplishment. However, the former proved a valuable by-product. Let us follow his example, and, as he did; continue our flight in education for the good of the nation and the cause of progress, as well as for the returns to youth. Though the impulse is unselfish its fruits are substantial, for out of such enterprises springs the inspiration that generates creative power. A hundred plans in aviation are maturing because of Lindy's signal achievement. A thousand advantages accrue from the achievements of education.

Pupil no less than aviator must follow through to attain success. Lindy did not stop with the acclaim of the world ringing in his ears. He had just begun his start on a constructive career. He had finished but one lap of the race. The same application can be made to commencement and promotion in our schools, these are but steps to a higher service.

Parents are reminded that Lindbergh's backers had no guarantee of any returns. Loyalty and admiration for the spirit of this youth and the cause he championed inspired them to make any necessary sacrifices. This should be the attitude of parents and taxpayers who appreciate that education is the foundation for life.

It is timely, then, right now, when school days are just ahead, to turn our eyes toward our schools, also toward our boys and girls called on for an important decision, and sound the slogan, "On to School."

SUNDAY SCHOOL REPORTS

The following is the report of Sunday schools in this vicinity for last Sunday, according to information sent The News by representatives of the schools reported.

Spencerville M. E. ..... 71—$4.07
Lutheran ..... 55—$2.96

Both Guesses Wrong

A mother and daughter were listening to a band concert in the park. "What's this they're playing, Mary?" said the mother. "It sounds to me like Wagner." "No," remarked Mary, "I don't think it's Wagner. I think it's Mozart. I'll just go and see." On her return from the bandstand, she said: "We were both wrong. It says 'Refrain From Spitting.'"

It's up to a man to sit down and contemplate a standing offer.

OPTOMETRY—ITS VALUE TO THE PUBLIC

By Ed W. Hicks, Optometrist and Optician

The Optometrist is always striving to make his services of the greatest benefit to the largest number of people?

Yes, as he recognizes that by rendering the highest possible service to the largest number of people he increases his success.

In this series of articles will anything be printed to cause people who need an eye service to realize the fact?

Yes, beginning with the next article many facts regarding eye defects will be printed. YOUR condition is sure to be dealt with and valuable advice given with which you should be familiar.

(To be continued.)

ED. W. HICKS
AUBURN
"OUR SPECIALTY — COMFORTABLE VISION"

"50,000 miles -Engine expense Nothing"

—From one of thousands of satisfied Willys-Knight owners.

The engine improves with use

Performance records are making sales records! Throughout the country Willys-Knight is winning acclaim for its efficiency, safety, economy and carefree operation.

The Knight Engine—Better with every mile. The only type of engine that grows smoother, quieter, more powerful the longer you drive.

7-Bearing Crankshaft—To eliminate vibration.

Skinner Rectifier—Keeps your oil alive and energetic. Prevents dilution and contamination.

4-Wheel Brakes—For maximum driving safety. Positive, mechanical, quick-acting.

Beiflex Shackles—Keep your chassis lastingly quiet. No squeaks, greasing or adjustment.

8 Timken Bearings in Front Axle—Most fine cars have but four. You steer the Willys-Knight without conscious effort.

Narrow Body Pillars at Windshield—For greater vision. When all other cars are so equipped, accidents will be minimized.

Adjustable Front Seat—Made to fit you, no matter what your height or weight.

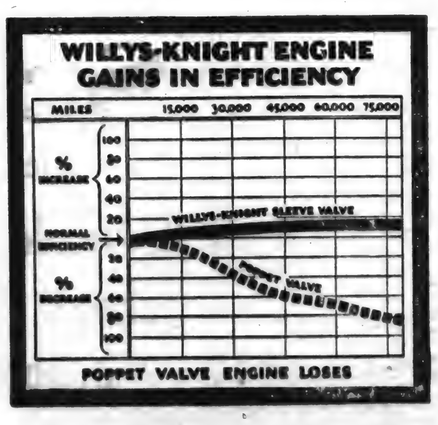
Light Control at Steering Wheel—Right at your finger tips. Lights dimmed without removing your hand from wheel.

Watson Stabilators. Air Cleaner. Thermostatic temperature control. Finest quality upholstery and interior fittings.

"70" Willys-Knight Six, $1295 to $1495. Willys-Knight Great Six, $1850 to $2850. Prices f. o. b. factory and specifications subject to change without notice.



WILLYS KNIGHT

LINCOLN SALES & SERVICE Spencerville & Butler.

HOME EDUCATION

"The Child's First School is the Family"—Froebel.
Issued by the National Kindergarten Association

CHILDREN AND RELATIVES

Pauline Herr Thomas

"I don't believe you like your Uncle Jack as much as you do me," said the grown-up tease.

"Yes, I do, too!" said Polly.

"Your Uncle Jack isn't half as nice as I am," persisted the tease.

"Well, I guess we must like our uncles," declared Polly.

This little lady was trying to make the best of a difficult situation. She may have been fond of Uncle Jack, though it sounds doubtful. She was under the impression she had to like relatives; she had been taught that way.

Now Polly was being circumspect, quite grown up in fact, but children are not all like Polly, and it is only the very exceptional that will stick to a thing under pressure when the sole guiding principle is "must." Of course, it is absurd to force children where affection is concerned. We all have decided preferences ourselves. Changes in opinion as well as preference must come from conviction. So that this matter of children and relatives becomes a distinct problem to mothers.

"Must we go to Grandma Black's today? Oh! I wish it was Grandma Hoyle's. I like her better," said Betty, who was more childlike than Polly, and therefore, less discreet.

Whereupon, Betty's mother went to great lengths to tell her that it was rude to say such things, and that she must learn to like both grandmas the same. All of which had no weight with Betty, because her opinion remained precisely the same. She, moreover, became less and less well behaved whenever she went to see the less favored grandma.

Whenever general greetings were in order my little girl drew away from Auntie Sue. I confess I urged her to "kiss Auntie" in order to spare the latter's feelings, with always the same result—embarrassment on the part of myself and Auntie and rebellion on the part of Jeanne.

One day I decided to look into the reason for the child's apparent dislike. I asked her why she did not want to kiss Auntie when she went to her house.

"Well, Mother, Auntie Sue never smiles at me like the other aunties," was her reply.

I took her on my knee and recalled to her a favorite grown up of hers who smiles a great deal and another one who seldom smiles.

"You like them both, you know, but one doesn't seem to smile at you much and one does," I explained. "Now, I'll tell you what the real difference is and why you like them both. One smiles with her eyes and heart and the other only with her heart. Our Father has not given us all faces that smile a great deal, but if you learn to know Auntie Sue as well as you know these others, perhaps you'll find that her heart smiles very much indeed."

I have never once urged her to "kiss Auntie," but she has done so, and I feel that she is learning not to dislike her. These we have learned to tolerate, we may yet learn to love.

It seems to me that even what appears such a small thing as Baby's preference for one auntie over another may be used toward character building, if Mother will approach it in a thoughtful way.

OH YES! OH YES!

The St. Joe Mill is now operating. You can get Flour, Bran and Middlings. 35t1.

Nearby and Yonder

By T. T. MAXEY

WNU Service

The Veiled Prophet

IT LONG has been the custom of some of our southern cities to have an annual jollification in the shape of a mystical parade or carnival. In 1878 a band of good fellows in the city of St. Louis, who loved and missed these good times, laid the plans for an organization by virtue of which the Veiled Prophet has mysteriously appeared, usually on Tuesday evening of the first week in October, annually ever since.

The prophet and his followers are unknown, but they have been so enthusiastically received that the steady growth of the importance of the event has kept pace with the great progress of the city.

No one knows from whence the prophet comes or whither he disappears. At the appointed time, preceded by the blaring of trumpets, he slips into the city and appears gayly arrayed on a brilliantly decorated float, surrounded by his followers, and followed by a number of floats depicting some historic event parades the principal streets—the whole constituting a pageant of splendor the like of which is seldom witnessed.

No expense is spared in the preparation of this celebration, which is free—for the good people of the city and surrounding territory who care to come and witness this spectacle.

The parade is usually followed by a grand ball. The lady whom the prophet selects to lead the grand march is made queen of the ball and accorded marked social distinction.

The ball of 1887 was graced by the presence of President and Mrs. Grover Cleveland.

(©, 1927, Western Newspaper Union.)

St. Joe Home-Coming Sept. 3

A special invitation is extended to you and your friends to attend the Fourth Annual Home-Coming Day, to be held at ST. JOE, INDIANA, on SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 3, 1927.

Every effort is being made by the committee in charge to furnish a program that will please and highly entertain the old and young. Don't fail to come, there will be something doing all the time, from morning till late at night.

Don't miss the Big Feature of the day—THE BIG STREET PARADE.

HOME-COMING COMMITTEE.

JUBILEE FAIR!

HICKSVILLE, OHIO

September 13-14-15-16

The Hicksville Fair is the Red Letter Event in Northwestern Ohio. The Association has prepared an elaborate entertainment for the patrons of this 50th Fair.

FOUR DAYS and TWO NIGHTS

Three Balloon Ascensions

WITH PARACHUTE DROP

RUBE COMEDIANS! SPLENDID BANDS!

SEPTEMBER

L 915 U535

We want your NEWS ITEMS and appreciate your calling—We can't get all the items of interest unless you do help Phone in and give your news.

ST. JOE NEWS.

This week in THE NEWS are many good offers—Read them thy're interesting. Keep up with trend of business in St. Joe—READ THE ADS.

VOL. XLI. ST. JOE, DeKALB COUNTY, INDIANA, THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 8, 1927 NUMBER 36

BIG CROWD AT ST. JOE HOME-COMING

Fair weather greeted the Home-coming officials and visitors on last Saturday, when St. Joe staged her fourth home-coming event.

When the registration committee closed their books, it was revealed that 760 persons registered, and anyone having previous experience on anything of this character know that it is hard to get the majority of folks to register, hence a possible two thousand or more were on the streets during the day. A great many were here, who made their first attendance and were glad they came.

As we asked in The News last week, "What's the good of a home-coming?" can now be answered by more than the editor. It sure was a great gathering to a great many people.

The forenoon was taken up mostly in completing arrangements and erecting of concessions and registering. The band then led the crowd to the ball diamonds where Spencerville and St. Joe played a game resulting in a victory for the visitors of 9 to 3.

Rev. J. N. Scholes made an excellent address from the steps of the Lutheran church just before the parade.

Promptly on schedule time the parade started from the M. P. Church corners, headed by Roy Maxwell carrying the flag. The band came next followed by floats representing St. Joe Volunteer Fire Department; E. R. Kinsey; Lutheran Sunday School; St. Joe Milling Co.; Leighty's Grocery; Standard Oil Co.; St. Joe Valley Bank; Concord Township High School; Kenneth Meek, Atwater Kent Radio; Auburn Automobile Co.; R. E. Furnish, Chevrolet; Henly Shoe Shop; Miss Vera Hodgson; Buick Motor Sales, Auburn; Geraldine Thornton, Clayton Baker, Jimmie Monroe and Milford Cook, decorated bicycles; Sousa's Jazz Band, composed of youngsters dressed clownish; Jane Keesler and Romaine Curie came next leading their dogs decorated; Three horse back riders; St. Joe News; Pony and buggy, Alice and Billy Baker; Ira Bone, chariot, K. of P. Lodge; K. of P. truck; Zonker's Store; Walter Baker's Store; J. C. Hull; Concord boys with a fantastic outfit; Concord Sunday School.

The judges awarded prizes as follows:

Best motor driven float, $5.00, Lutheran Sunday School.

Best horse drawn float, $5.00, Concord Sunday School.

Best fantastic, $5.00, Sousa's Jazz Band.

Best decorated bicycle, $2.00, Geraldine Thornton.

Best decorated pony, $2.00 ,Alice Baker.

Best decorated horse and rider, $2.00, Chas. Gibbons.

The sport committee reports the winners as follows:

Boxing contest, Williams, $2.00.

Shoe Race, Chapman, $2.00.

Wheelbarrow Polo, Herbert Curie and Vernon Woodcox, Howard Beams and Hollis Akins, $4.00.

Centipede Race, Chapman, $1.00.

Girls' Race, Beatrice Storer, $1.00.

Horse Shoe Game, DuWayne Kinsey and Claire Coburn, $4.00.

The evening crowd was exceptionally large and appreciated the program given from the platform near the Lutheran church as follows:

Band concert by Community Welfare Band.

Piano Selections, Albert Numbers, Radio Artist.

Miss Kilpatrick, Fancy Dancing.

Parnell String Band, WOWO Artists, Floyd Saylor, Director.

LIST OF EXHIBITORS TO FLOWER SHOW

No. 1, Mrs. Chas. Brattain.
No. 2, Mrs. Sadie Coburn.
No. 3, Mrs. Ralph Sechler.
No. 4, Mrs. Jennie Sechler.
No. 5, Mrs. Craig Sheffer.
No. 6, Mrs. Chas. Woodcox.
No. 7, Mrs. Harry Kees.
No. 8, Mrs. Saxe Hadsell.
No. 9, Mrs. Fred Leighty.
No. 10, Mrs. Frank Sechler.
No. 11, Mrs. Frank Scholes.
No 12, Mrs. Meade Baker.
No. 13, Mrs. Dell Draggoo.
No. 14, Mrs. Ira Bone.
No 15, Clay Coburn.
No 16, Mrs. Wilbur Yeiser.
No 17, Mrs. H. M. Widney.
No. 18, Clyde Hart.
No. 19, Mrs. C. R. Price.
No. 20, Mrs. William Curie.
No. 21, Mrs. Frank Tustison.
No. 22, Mrs. J. P. Buckingham.
No. 23, Mrs. Robert Nichols.
No. 24, Mrs. Elza Kinsey.
No. 25, Margaret Hamilton.
No. 26, Mrs. B. S. Sheffer.
No. 27, Mrs. Wm. Randall.
No. 28, Mrs. Glen Cole.
No. 29, Mrs. Israel Layman.
No. 30, Mrs. Iona Woodcox.
No. 31, Mrs. Lloyd Draggoo.
No. 32, Mrs. Frank Akins.
No. 33, Miss Marie Goldsmith.
No. 34, Mrs. Grover Curie.
No. 35, Miss Anna Ellen Ryan.

These contributors made from one to thirteen entries each. Mrs. H. M. Widney had thirteen entries on dahlias.

The Wyatt Flower Gardens made a fine display but as they were commercial growers did not compete for a prize.

Those winning prizes were: First on Gladioli, Mrs. Fred Leighty; second on gladioli, Mrs. Robert Nichols; First on Asters, Clay Coburn; second on asters, Mrs. Frank Sechler; First and second on Dahlias, Mrs. H. M. Widney; First on Mixed Flowers, Mrs. Saxe Hadsell; second on mixed flowers, Mrs. Grover Curie.

Mr. F. L. Tombow, the Florist of Butler, was the judge of flowers and donated a first and second prize extra. The winners to receive free at his Flower Store $1.00 for first and 5 cents for second prize, in trade. Clyde Hart winning first and Mrs. Delora Curie, second prize.

The finance committee makes the following report of funds solicited from individuals, amounting to $130.

$5.00 Contributors

St. Joe Valley Bank.
L. B. Meek, Barber.
Keesler Service Station.
Ed Leighty, Grocery.
Cochran's Restaurant.
E. R. Kinsey, Hardware.
W. G. Harman, Meat Market.
Silberg's Garage, Spencerville.
St. Joe News.
John Betz, Restaurant.
Earl Smith, Operator.
Wm. Curie, Hardware.
Ray Reasoner, Orchardist.
Fred High, Restaurant.
Dr. C. R. Price, Dentist.
St. Joe Telephone Co.

$3.00 Contributors

C. B. Jackson.
Walter Baker.
Wm. Randall.

$2.00 Contributors

J. P. Buckingham.
Zonker's Store.
J. C. Hull.
Herbert Curie.
Meade Baker.
Ora Baker.
Derwood Ridgway.
Donald Kinsey.
Ralph Sechler.
E. N. Miser.
F. R. Bowman.

$1.00 Contributors

Chas. Koch.
Willard Hurni.
F. M. Monroe.
Grover Curie.
A. D. Goodwin.
George Swineford.
Frank Meese.
Clark Scholes.
Elgin Curie.

EXECUTIVE CHAIRMAN EXPRESSES THANKS

I want to thank each chairman and their helpers and all others who had a part in helping to make the St. Joe Home-Coming a success.

Cooperation is what makes any movement a sucess and we had cooperation on every hand, so again I thank you all.

E. R. Kinsey, Chairman.

CHANGE BRIDGES IN RECORD BREAKING TIME

Possibly two hundred people witnessed the changing of bridges at the St. Joe river on the B. & O. Thursday at about 11:30, just following the passing of train No. 7.

When the signal was given to apply the steam, the bridges moved into their places without a murmur, not a squeaking or creaking noise was heard, showing that the preparations had been made with great care, and within 6¾ minutes the entire job was completed and trains were permitted to pass on the new structure.

Some of the officials of the railroad and the construction company were present to witness the change. Now that this is done work will be centered on the removing of the old bridge and loading into cars for shipment. While not all of the work men will remain here to do this cleaning up, yet most of the machinery will be used in this finishing job.

Possibly the success of this job is due to the efficiency of foreman, George Davis and L. H. Carbaugh, together with the superintendent of construction, Frank Yost.

The bridge was moved 33 feet, 6½ inches, within the above stated time with one stop. Two car loads of rails were used to make the track for the rollers.

During the time consumed for this job not a person was injured, which again shows the efficiency of the laborers.

Approximately $1,000 per week was paid as wages.

The new track is 10 inches higher than the old, allowing for a fill, er than th old, allowing for a fill, cutting the grade west.

The new bridge weighs 1,020 tons and the old bridges 780 tons.

Ole Nelon, engineer of the hoist, proved himself an artist at his profession, as he took the smallest hoist and performed this task of moving without any difficulty whatever, having plenty of power to spare.

Painters are at work on the new bridge.

BARN FALLS ON WILLIAM STAMAN, JR.

Another accident of Thursday was that of Wm. Staman, when he was severely jammed and bruised beneath a barn frame when it fell on him at the E. R. Kinsey residence. Bill had bought the barn was tearing it down and moving it to his farm across the track.

Bill is confined to his bed and is quite sore although no bones are broken. As luck would have it Bill fell near the cement step which kept the frame from crushing him.

E. R. Kinsey and others were helping at the time.

AT OLD HOMESTEAD

S. S. Widney, is taking a vacation by moving to the old Widney homestead north of town for a short time, or at least until he makes a complete survey of the old farm and where he will recall his boyhood days, but he will not be permitted to re-anact any of the pranks of those days. "Dick" will be home over Sundays.

It spoils a favor if you are asked to return it.

LOSES TEAM BY DISC RUNAWAY

Clarence Hart was compelled to kill a team of horses last Thursday following a runaway, while hitched to a disc. Two sheep killing dogs had entered his field, he had his daughter hold the team while he shot at them. Three shots were made and he killed one dog and this possibly excited the team. Clarence then continued his work, finally stopping to let the team rest he started to bury the dog. They started to run north, and as they went the disc would strike their heels, cutting one horses foot about half away and breaking the other ones leg. Both animals were killed immediately. The loss is considerable.

TOWN ELECTION THIS FALL

A notice of election will soon be issued by the town board, asking that the citizens meet in caucus and nominate officers for the town of St. Joe as follows:

Ward 1—Tom Abel, present trustee.

Ward 2—Harry Kees, present trustee.

Clerk—Dr. Sheffer now serving.

Treasurer—Mrs. Mae Miser now serving.

Rubber bands at News office.

ENROLLMENT OF CONCORD TOWNSHIP CONSOLIDATED SCHOOL

Primary, Miss Madeline Nichols, 46.
Third and Fourth, Miss Bessie Rupp, 43.
Fifth and Sixth, Miss Cleota Morr, 38.
Junior High, 54.
Senior High, 28.
Total Enrollment, 209.

LEAVE TUESDAY FOR SCHOOL TERM

Two of St. Joe's young ladies, 1926 graduates, are now away at school, namely: Miss Martha Miser and Miss Margaret Goodwin, who left Tuesday for Indianapolis to take a course in Primary teaching at the Madam Blaker school. They expect to take a year, then teach and follow with the second year's course Both these young ladies have the best wishes of their St. Joe friends.

CARD OF THANKS

We desire to thank the many friends and neighbors for the kind acts and words of sympathy in the death of our son and brother, John Tustison, also for the beautiful floral offerings.

Mr. Nelson Tustison
Mrs. John Uim.
Mr. Frank Tustison.

Buy COAL Now

Do not wait until cold weather when it will be higher, and if the strike continues, SCARCER.

LUMBER--CEMENT--PAINT ROOFING AND SHINGLES

FIGURE WITH US ON YOUR BUILDING MATERIAL.

WE HAVE A FULL LINE AT OUR LUMBER YARD

Bring Your Wheat to Us

WE ARE PAYING HIGHEST MARKET PRICES

NATHAN Grain Co.

St. Joe's New Lumber Yard

Call By Phone for Prices — Bert Jackson, Mgr.

Why Red Top Fence Posts Hold the Lead

The fastest selling steel fence post in this locality is the Red Top. The Red Top has won this leadership through its performance in the fence line. It is a time tested post and is guaranteed by the factory and also by us.

Here are some of the features that have made the Red Top so popular:

1. Studded Reinforcing Rib Runs Full Length of Post

The Red Top is reinforced from point to top with a sturdy studded rib of steel. The studs furnish an ingenious method of attaching fence wire without the necessity of weakening the post by punching staple slots. The Red Top is guaranteed not to break in the fence line and to outlast the heaviest galvanized fencing made.

2. Fasteners Lock the Wire to the Post

The Red Top patented Handy Fastener keeps the fence wire from being pushed or pulled away from the post. The correctly spaced post studs keep the wire from slipping up or down. Nothing skimpy about this fastener—it is made heavy for strength and its long leg wraps all the way around the stem of the post.

3. The Aluminum Finish Adds to Life of Post

The Aluminum Metallic finish is baked on every Red Top and becomes an integral part of the post. This weather protective coating lengthens the life of Red Top, makes your fence lines attractive and keeps them looking that way.

4. Anchor Plate Attached Without Weakening Post

Two post studs, a part of the post itself, lock the anchor plate everlastingly to the Red Top. It is guaranteed not to come off or become loosened. The anchor plate is attached without one hole being punched in the post to weaken it and soft steel rivets or clamps also become unnecessary.

Come in and let us show you this improved Red Top; also the One Man Post Driver. Prices are very reasonable on posts just now and we recommend early buying.

Red Top GUARANTEED Steel Fence Posts

Spencerville Lumber & Supply Co.

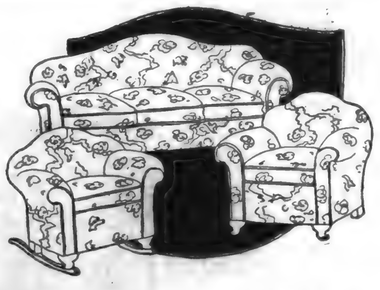
SPENCERVILLE, IND.

NEW

High's Restaurant

ST. JOE

Fred Knows How!



Overstuffed Furniture

is all the go now and we have a number of suites in stock for inspection. Fall is coming, it's time to make it comfortable and cosy for the winter.

E. R. KINSEY, Hardware Furniture

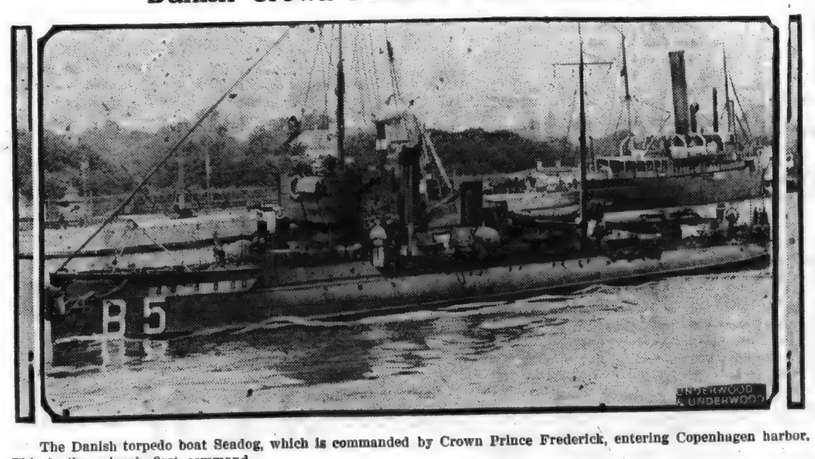
SEPTEMBER

L 915 U536

Atlantic City Hostess and Her Court

When the selected beauties of the nation gather at Atlantic City for the annual pageant and contest, their hostess will be "Miss Atlantic City," who is shown above with the ladies of her court.

Danish Crown Prince's First Command



The Danish torpedo boat Seadog, which is commanded by Crown Prince Frederick, entering Copenhagen harbor. This is the prince's first command.

CAN'T STOP SAMMY

"Sammy," official mascot of the Dollar Round-the-World liner President Adams and self-appointed protector of the vessel's master, Capt. W. A. Ross, has started from San Francisco on his second circumnavigation of the globe with his port foreleg encased in splints as the result of a playful 65-foot dive down the ship's hold at New York. Sammy had just had the splints removed from his starboard hind leg following the recovery of the member after a speeding rickshaw had fractured it at Kobe. Our picture shows him with Captain Ross.

CALIFORNIA STAR

The photograph shows a close-up of Helen Jacobs, California tennis star, who is expected to give Miss Helen Wills much opposition in the coming U. S. national tennis tournament.

Grain Raised Near Arctic Circle

Scene in Alaska 2,800 miles north of Seattle, which city has been receiving the territory's first agricultural exports. This grain was raised north of Fairbanks, only a short distance south of the Arctic circle.

Planning to Fly Around the World

William Brock (left), former air mail pilot, and Edward F. Schlee (right), Detroit business man, are planning an airplane flight around the world, hoping to break all records for circling the globe. Mr. Schlee is financing the venture, and will be a passenger in the plane.

Trusted His Sense of Humor

Fiancee—Robert, mother asked me to object to the use of the word "obey" in the ceremony.

He—And what did you tell her?

Fiancee—I said I'd let it stand. I told her you could take a joke as well as any man.

Chance for Error

Amateur Sailor—I say Harry, we're two days overdue. Why do you suppose we've not sighted land?

Companion—Can't imagine, except possibly that ever since the compass fell overboard I've been steering by the barometer.

VELVET HATS REIGN IN FALL; LEATHER COAT FOR MOTORING

HAVE you ever felt the urge to own a hat that you could pull on your head in any sort of a way and have it becoming? Well, many of the little new crushable velvet shapes, so smart for early autumn wear, are just that way—the sort one can just slambang on the head and feel that it is all right.

And here is just such a hat arrived from the atelier of Madame Agnes, the well-known Parisian creator. North, East, West, South, coming or going, it is all the same to this little hat. It can be worn with debonair smartness and ease, any way you put it. See for yourself, for the picture shows it below in this group worn in three different ways.

Your mood changes, you want a different bonnet: very well, you simply turn it around to please. Being fashioned half-in-half of Yale and gobelin velvet this works out beautifully. By the way, colors are used so often this season in two and more tones of the same. Dark gray with silver, browns of varying degree, and the smartest combination at the moment is beige with black. Beige is immensely popular for fall.

But to continue about this accommodating little hat, if the vagabond spirit gets you, pull one of its cute brimlets down on the side and dent the crown as shown in the lower left corner of this group.

Change your mood—around the hat goes with the wider part of the brim turned up, and you have an exceedingly smart looking cloche with the crown, folded slightly down the back, fitting the head snugly, the dark-toned velvet to the face, as shown to the right.

Another mood—you want a different bonnet. Turn it all way round, as per center view. Pull the crown down on one side with the littlest rim in front. Almost forgot to mention that being made of softest silk velvet, this hat will roll up so that you can pack it away in the corner of your weekend case.

The other two hats exploit the idea of self-trim. One uses smocking for decoration, the other employs an appliqué of handmade velvet flowers designed in several colors which blend with the hat itself.

Fortunate is she whose privilege it is to go a-la vacationing, not only from the pleasure standpoint, but from the clothes phase as well. Choosing an autumn vacation wardrobe is quite inspirational, considering that everybody is in the mood of things new, with fall style exhibits vying with each other as to which can display the more beautiful apparel. One has the satisfaction, too, of knowing that clothes bought now will be timely even after return from the vacation jaunt.

Of course no up-to-date woman is going to be contented to start on a motoring trip without providing herself with one of the new stunning leather coats which are so enlivening to the autumn landscape. They're thrilling when it comes to "looks" and as to service, well, every one with a far-seeing eye to practicality should own a leather coat.

The imported models are very alluring. They have that indefinable something in niceties of detail and coloring which proclaim their foreign origin, and the higher-grade shops all carry them. The original of the one in the picture is a marvel of fine coloring, being of violet leather trimmed with snakeskin. It is topped with a hat of leather in the same tone.

However, blacks, browns, wine shades and greens prevail both in foreign and domestic models. These coats are in the main confined to regulation straight smart lines with patch pockets, belts and with wool linings in sports effects. Copies of imported models are very attractively priced.

So much for the motor-travel coat. As to the hiker, the skater and every outdoor enthusiast who must have freedom of limbs, the short leather types are of greater appeal. Linings in these are sometimes wool and sometimes sateen, according to their price.

Now that the football season is nigh, leather coats are taking on an irresistible lure for college girl and debutante, and you may be sure that they will make their appearance most colorfully in great numbers.

Leather lumber jackets with knitted bands are popular with the younger set, also for juniors and children.

JULIA BOTTOMLEY.

Some Fall Millinery.

For Hiking or Motoring.

(©, 1927, by Western Newspaper Union.)

POULTRY

DUCKS GAIN WELL WITH GOOD FEED

With good rations and proper methods of feeding, ducks will weigh six or seven pounds when they are twelve weeks old, according to the State College of Agriculture at Ithaca, N. Y., which says that ducks should be fed four times a day for the first two weeks, and after that, three times a day.

When they are fed three times a day, the last feed at night should be large enough so that some will be left for them to eat during the night. This should not be so large, however, but that they will eat it all before feeding time the next morning.

A ration good for the first three days consists of 30 pounds of shredded wheat waste or ground wheat, 20 pounds of wheat bran, 10 pounds of corn meal, 9 pounds of meat scraps, 9 pounds of sand, and 9 pounds of condensed buttermilk.

From the third day to the end of the second week a ration consisting of 20 pounds of wheat bran, 10 pounds of corn meal, 4½ pounds of meat scrap, 3 pounds of sand, 3 pounds of buttermilk and 1½ pounds of alfalfa meal is recommended.

After the second week a ration of 50 pounds of wheat bran, 100 pounds of corn meal, 20 pounds of alfalfa meal, 20 pounds of meat scrap, 25 pounds of low-grade flour, and 21½ pounds of sand gives good results.

For the first two weeks, the ration should be mixed with buttermilk, but after that water may be used. The mixture should always be fed moist and enough flour should be added to make it stick together. A good rule to follow is to moisten it so that when a handful is squeezed together it will break into small lumps when dropped on the ground.

Pick Breeders in Late Summer From Yearlings

Vigor is the first thing to keep in mind in selecting breeding stock. The active hens, those up early and to bed late, are the best layers. Too many trap nests have been used during the past two or three years. It is not of much use to trap nest unless the pedigreed hatching is followed. Good selection is better for most poultry men.

Select the breeders in late summer from the flock of yearlings. Pick out the good layers and dispose of the poor ones. The first indication is color of shanks. The yellow fades out first in the ear lobes after a hen begins to lay, then in the beak and last from the shanks. This is more noticeable in White Leghorns than in the American breeds. Hens with bright yellow shanks and beaks in August are poor layers.

The second point to go by is the molting. Throw out the early molters and keep those that molt late.

The third indication of laying is the width between the pelvic bones. Thin and pliable bones indicate a good producer. Capacity is indicated by the distance between the pelvic and breast bone. In a heavy layer they may be three to four inches apart. The skin indicates quality the same as in a dairy cow.

Poultry Items

Keep young stock free from parasites.

• • •

Give young chicks plenty of sunshine and green feed.

• • •

Fresh eggs won't stay fresh long. This is especially true of the fertile egg.

• • •

Getting rid of the surplus male birds early helps, as the pullets do better without them.

• • •

In selecting hens pick those that have capacity for feed. The little short, dumpy kind of a hen cannot consume enough feed to make her a profitable layer.

• • •

Fresh land used for poultry runs will reduce losses from internal parasites of the chicks.

• • •

If chickens eat a lot of feed and still do not lay, it is time to look at the ration and find out what is lacking

• • •

Where there are too many male birds in the flock, there may be some injury to the hens, known as torn backs. Such birds are not sick, but only injured.

• • •

Growing chicks in close confinement is an efficient way to control intestinal parasites. Sanitation pays.

• • •

Mature hens have a tendency to become too fat. It is much better to keep pullets separate from older hens.

• • •

Chicks of the second brood should be placed in a thoroughly disinfected brooder. Early hatches are not so subject to diseases and parasitic troubles which exact such a toll from unproperly cared for later hatches.

SEPTEMBER

L 915 U537

The Green Cloak

By YORKE DAVIS

WNU Service.
Copyright, 1926

STORY FROM THE START

Dr. Ronald McAlister, famous in his special work,—applied psychology—employs his leisure time in the elucidation of crime mysteries. As the narrative opens he is interested with Assistant District Attorney Ashton in the murder, in the small town of Oak Ridge, of a recluse, Henry Morgan. The murdered man, his papers reveal, had been in New Zealand, where Doctor McAlister had lived in his youth. Will Harvey has testified he saw a woman wearing a green cloak in the Morgan home the night of the murder. Doctor Reinhardt, friend of McAlister, telephones he has a queer case in his hospital and invites McAlister to see the patient. Doctor Reinhardt's patient proves to be a young woman, who in unconsciousness mutters in a language Reinhart does not understand. McAlister sees a possible connection between the murdered New Zealander and the girl.

CHAPTER III—Continued

Evidently Doctor McAlister had no share in this idea, for he lost interest in the young man the moment he was satisfied his identification of him had been correct. When the train stopped at Oak Ridge and we followed William Harvey out of the car, the doctor did not cast a single glance after his retreating figure.

By rare good fortune we found an auto pulled up beside the station platform waiting for the train, a flapping, dilapidated, mud-stained, ramshackle affair, with a driver to match.

After a moment or two of canny bargaining on the doctor's part, we found ourselves jolting along over a frozen, rutty road toward our destination.

"There's the house," said the driver at last. "But you're pretty late for the funeral, if that's what you've come for. It must be about over by this time."

Neither of us had thought of the funeral, and the sight of a hearse and a single car, waiting there in the wind-swept road, gave us, with our errand, a rather disagreeable sense of incongruity. That feeling was heightened when, leaving our bags in the hall, we were shown by the undertaker into a large, dim front parlor.

Here we saw death in its most conventional form. A little group of people sitting in rows in little folding chairs, a minister reading the service, a quartette from the village choir ready to sing another hymn when he should have done.

When, at the end of the service, the customary opportunity was offered for a last look at the body which lay there in its black casket, my companion rose and, nodding to me to follow him, took his place in the little procession that was filing round the coffin.

I could not do it; that act, somehow, seemed to put the crowning touch upon our intrusion.

"Oh, I know how you felt about it," said my chief when the service was over, the people gone and we were left alone in the old house—alone, that is, with the addition of Mallory. "I'm glad I haven't to go through it again, though I'm glad I did, even at some violence to what they call our better instincts. I wouldn't have missed my look into that face for a good deal."

"You didn't recognize" I cried. "He isn't anyone you knew, long ago, out there in New Zealand!"

"Not individually," said the doctor with a smile at my sudden excitement, at the sudden recession of those "better instincts" of mine. "Not individually, though that I might have was well within the possibilities. But he belongs to a type that I knew all too well. Did it ever occur to you to wonder why it is that full gray beards and spectacles are always regarded as infallible indications of benevolent respectability? But there's a scar beneath that gray beard that was not come by in any peaceful occupation; and even without it, the whole construction of the skull and jaw, the facial angle, the shape of the ears, all proclaim him a rough customer—the sort of man who might well have a past that he was vainly trying to escape from. No, upon the whole, I am glad that Ashton left us free to work out this problem without holding us responsible to him for our results."

Our conversation was interrupted there by the appearance of Mallory at the doctor's elbow. It was rather amusing to watch his face as he read the note from Ashton that the doctor handed him. It was easy to see, from his suppressed smile of contemptuous amusement, that the district attorney had represented us as a couple of harmless cranks who might safely be permitted to amuse themselves upon the scene of crime as they chose.

"All right," he said, folding up the [illegible] inserting it into his pocket. "Make yourselves at home. Do you plan to spend the night here?"

"Two or three nights, perhaps," said the doctor. "We want to do a little looking about."

"Well," said Mallory, with jocular sarcasm, "if you find the secret of the old man's past, or meet up with that mysterious woman that one of the witnesses testified about at the inquest, why, let me know."

"You mean to spend the night here yourself, don't you?" I asked.

"Well, part of it, perhaps. I've got some looking about to do. But you needn't mind me. I've got a key and can let myself in at any time."

An hour later, after a bountiful but vilely cooked meal at a little restaurant near the railway station, we returned to the house and began our investigation in earnest.

The first room, of course, to attract our attention was the room where the murder took place, the study on the third floor. Across one end of the room ran a rude set of homemade shelves occupied, perhaps, by two or three hundred nondescript volumes. A very large, much-littered desk stood in the middle of the larger part of the room, while in the alcove was a high deal table of the sort used by draughtsmen. A stool stood before it, and a swivel chair in front of the desk.

In one of the numerous corners of the room was an immense hamper, which seemed to have served the purpose of a waste-paper basket. The detectives had evidently examined the contents of it in their search for a clue to the murdered man's identity, but had not thought the contents worth preserving. There was a litter of small scraps about it, and that was all. A rusty oil stove completed the tale of the furniture.

I Was Holding One of Them Out in My Hands and Poring Over It.

And then there were his maps. They were curiously disposed for a man who made a habit of geography. They lay about the floor in great rolls. The one or two I looked at, after my preliminary glance about the apartment, were of recent date and bore the stamp of the British board of trade.

I was holding one of them out in my hands and poring over it, wondering rather idly, what possible interest this group of tiny coral reefs could have had for a man who lived as Henry Morgan had lived, here in this village of Oak Ridge, when a sharp exclamation from Doctor McAlister drew my attention away from it.

He was standing close beside a big green-shaded lamp and bending over something which he had just taken from the top drawer of the desk. I shivered a little when I saw what it was, saw that it was a violin string.

The expression of the doctor's face, as he turned toward me, betrayed both indignation and excitement. "The prosecution of crime still goes on the basis that telling the truth is an easy thing to do; that a man does tell the truth, unless he means to lie. The man who came up here and found the body of Henry Morgan testified that he had been strangled by a noose. They thought it was true, because strangulation by a noose is the only kind they ever heard of. But look at this."

He held it out to me, and, my repugnance forgotten, I took it in hand. Instead of one knot, the string contained two, one near the end, the other about fifteen inches away. They were tied just alike, and were knots of the fixed-loop variety, very like a bowline.

"If there were only a knot at the end," said the doctor, "the rest of the string could have been drawn through it to form a noose; but, of course with this second knot of equal size that becomes impossible. The man was strangled, not by a noose at all, but by a tourniquet—a little stick—a lead pencil perhaps—run through the two loops and twisted.

"Look here!" he cried the next moment, with rising excitement. "Here's the rest of the instrument."

He held out for my inspection a long straight-stemmed briar pipe, and I was able to see, just at the base of the bowl, a shiny, circular indentation. The ghastly clearness of the demonstration of the murderer's method sickened me a little, and I dropped the pipe rather quickly.

My chief was pacing up and down the room, talking to himself. "I never believed in that noose—not really believed in it."

"You are undoubtedly right about it," said I, "but is the discovery important? Does it make any real difference?"

"That depends on the point of view," said he. "To the late Henry Morgan, I suppose it made no difference at all. To an ethnologist, it makes all the difference in the world. The Caucasian uses the noose. With him it has been the instrument of execution, of murder and of suicide from time immemorial. But there are other races that never heard of it. The aborigines in my part of the world never did. With them it was always this." He caught up the string as he spoke, and jerked it taut in both hands. "It's the instrument of ceremonial murder. They used to send widows out of the world this way, until the British government put a stop to that etiquette."

Then, and only then, did I realize the importance of the discovery. "And the girl at the hospital?" I questioned. "Would those two loops be familiar to her?"

He nodded gravely. "I'll tell you this," said he, "I'm glad I'm under no obligation to report to Ashton until I'm ready."

Then he did a characteristic thing. He put the thing back in the drawer where he had found it, closed the drawer, straightened up, with a shrug of his broad shoulders, and said, in obviously good faith: "Come, let's begin."

Rather to my surprise, the doctor made straight for the waste-paper basket, growled a little at the "fools" who had emptied it, and patiently gathered together the few scraps that were left, some clinging in the interstices of the basket, some littered about the floor outside.

As I bent over to help him, he held out an irregular bit of thick white paper for my inspection. "He was a queer geographer, sure enough," was his comment. "He tore up his maps. This is part of one. There's a fact which might well have struck previous investigators as curious, but apparently did not. If he tore them up, it was because he was through with them. And if he could get through with them so that he could be sure he wouldn't want them any more, it was because they were meant to serve him some single, definite purpose. When they had so served it, or had failed to serve it, then he destroyed them to get them out of the way. That's logical, isn't it?"

"Absolutely, so far as I can see."

Presently he carried another scrap over to the draughting table, scrutinized its bare surface rather minutely, and then offered this second morsel of paper for my inspection.

"Well, that's one thing he did with his maps. He pinned them down on this table of his with thumb-tacks."

He pulled open a little drawer in the table, took out first some pencils, rulers and compasses, and finally a rectangular contrivance made of wooden rods, with flexible joints at the corners.

"Do you know what this is?" he asked. For a wonder I did, and he did not. That was a situation which arose but rarely.

"It's a pantograph," said I. "It's used for copying on an enlarged or reduced scale. You can set the scale to anything you like."

"That's what it means, then," said the doctor, turning away from the table, with a nod of satisfaction. "He spread his maps out here, and when they weren't on a large enough scale to suit him, he drew them up bigger, and then tore them up. No, that won't do. There's some intervening process. He needed those charts on a larger scale than he could get, and he enlarged them until they suited that unknown purpose of his. But of that purpose itself, we've found no trace. We may never find a trace, but if he's left a clew to it anywhere, I think we may hope to find it.

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

Kindness to Animals Trait of Portuguese

The Portuguese are the only Latin nation that is kind to animals. For hundreds of years noble Arabian steeds were raised here and the Portuguese rider sits well in the saddle by second nature.

The donkeys here are smaller than in other Latin countries, and the largest beast of burden is the ox. In Portugal this creature is a strong, red, well-cared for animal, with wide-spreading horns. The streets are full of yokes of oxen pulling carts with solid wheels bound fast to their axles. Since the axle is ungreased, a frightful squeaking announces the approach of these wagons, which can be heard a mile away.

Oxen are particularly common in northern Portugal, where the yokes themselves are made of beautifully carved hardwood decorated with many colors. The wheels of these wagons, bearing tremendous burdens, clatter on the streets of Oporto.

I have never seen a driver maltreat his animals. In the country the cowherds guide their flocks with enormous bamboo staffs.—Roda Roda in Uhu, Berlin (Living Age).

South as Political Unit

The expression "Solid South" was first used by Col. John S. Mosby in a letter to the New York Herald advocating the election of Rutherford B. Hayes in 1876, according to Liberty.

Children of civilized races have probably always had rickets, says a child specialist.

THE KITCHEN CABINET

(©, 1927, by Western Newspaper Union.)

"Come, let us rest awhile,
Where placid lakes and tumbling streams
Surpass by far the land of dreams
And nature wears a smile."

FOODS WE LIKE

While spinach is plentiful can some with a few carrots and a stalk or two of celery for each can. This combination is especially recommended for the children. An onion may be added for flavor. Start while the children are young to teach them to like and enjoy all foods.

Baked Spinach.—Wash two pounds of spinach and cook with the water that clings to the leaves. Drain when tender, chop and add two hard-cooked egg yolks well mashed, season with salt and pepper, dot with bits of butter or cubes of salt pork. Beat three eggs slightly, add four tablespoonfuls of milk, three-fourths of cupful of grated cheese, the chopped egg whites, one-fourth teaspoonful of mustard, a few dashes of paprika. Pour into a mold and bake until the custard sets. Serve hot.

Cucumbers With Sour Cream.—Those who enjoy a cucumber without crispness will like this dish: Slice the cucumber after peeling and drop into salt water until wilted. Rinse and drain and dry on a cloth. Season with salt and pepper and serve with sour cream poured over them.

Stuffed Peppers.—Parboil shapely green peppers, cut off the stem ends and scoop out the seeds and white pulp before parboiling. Fill the shells with seasoned crumbs, sausage or any chopped cold meat. If meat is not desired use nuts finely chopped. Bake until well done, basting with butter and water. Serve on toast.

Molded Salmon.—Take two cupfuls of cold boiled salmon or a can of salmon, one tablespoonful of lemon juice, one egg yolk, two teaspoonfuls of sugar, one tablespoonful of flour, one teaspoonful of salt, paprika and mustard to taste, two tablespoonfuls of melted butter, two-thirds of a cupful of milk, one-fourth cupful of vinegar, one tablespoonful of gelatin softened in one-fourth cupful of cold water. Mix the dry ingredients, add the butter and milk and vinegar. Cook in a double boiler, stirring until the mixture thickens. Add the gelatin, then the salmon, mix well and pour into molds. Serve on a bed of lettuce with any desired dressing.

Seasonable Dishes.

Those who cannot eat meat or are on a restricted diet will enjoy:

Nut Cutlets.—Take one cupful of crumbs, one-fourth cupful of finely chopped almonds or walnuts, a little onion or chives with salt and pepper to taste. Scald one cupful of milk with four tablespoonfuls of butter, add the bread crumbs and cook until thick. When cool add the nuts, a little minced parsley, shape into cutlets, fry in deep fat after rolling in egg and crumbs. Serve with tomato sauce.

Stuffed Onions.—Take a cupful or less of finely ground cooked ham, add to twice as much bread crumbs, season with salt and pepper and moisten with cream. Cook large onions until partly cooked, scoop out the centers and fill with the above mixture. Place in a deep baking dish and baste with butter and water. A few minutes before serving dot the top of each with freshly buttered crumbs and brown well before serving. They may be browned quickly by putting them under the gas flame for a few minutes.

Beefsteak a la Henritte.—Wipe a porterhouse steak, cut one and one-half inches in thickness. Broil eight minutes, turning frequently. Pour one-half of the following sauce on the platter, lay in it the steak, cover with the remaining sauce, garnish with parsley and grated horseradish.

Sauce Henritte.—Wash one-half cupful of butter and divide into three parts. Put one piece into a saucepan with the yolks of three eggs slightly beaten and mixed with one-half tablespoonful of lemon juice and one tablespoonful of water. Set the saucepan into a larger one of hot water, place over the fire and stir constantly until the butter is melted. Add a second piece of butter, and when well melted, the third; then add two tablespoonfuls of tomato puree, one of worcestershire sauce and one-half of minced parsley, with salt and cayenne to season. The sauce to be properly made should be smooth and of the consistency of boiled custard. The tomato puree is prepared by cooking down a cupful of tomato until thick, then put through a sieve.

Nellie Maxwell

Post Interested in Bands

With the hope of encouraging the development of band musicians in the high schools, the band of the Becker-Chapman post of the American Legion of Waterloo, Iowa, has presented three loving cups to the winning bands in a high school contest held there recently.

Posts Form Athletic Club

An athletic club has been formed by the American Legion posts of Seattle, Wash., to sponsor outdoor sports.

THE WHOLE STORY

(© by D. J. Welsh.)

NELL KEATOR sat on the porch embroidering a pair of blue rompers for Cassie, her sister's three-year-old daughter. It had been a busy day. It had begun at six o'clock when she had arisen and prepared an early breakfast in order that her sister May, and her husband might get an early start on their day's outing. May's husband was a young and popular doctor and his holidays were all too few, and as for May, who was the mother of two small children, this day which was to be spent in the open meant much. Nell was glad that she had happened to come for her summer visit just in time for May to have this outing. The children were interesting and Nell taking it all in all had had a wonderful day with them. Cassie had behaved like a little old woman, but Richard, who was one and a half, had been a perfect whirlwind and now at three o'clock in the afternoon when Nell had them both tucked safely away for their afternoon naps, she felt a sense of freedom she had not experienced before that day.

"Well," thought Nell, "there is something to say in favor of being unmarried even if one is only an old maid school teacher, and there is also much to say in favor of being married. I wonder which had the best of it, May or I? Surely May has long hours and much hard work and responsibility with her two babies and house, while I have shorter hours and the responsibility of many children. I only have them for a short time each day, but still just as I begin to love and become interested in them they are passed on to some one else and I soon lose all track of them. It is like beginning many continued stories and only being allowed to read a chapter or two." At this juncture she was aroused from her reverie by the sound of brakes being applied and looking up she saw a big maroon car stopping at the curb. No sooner had the car come to a standstill than out of it stepped a personable looking man with graying hair and the trim, healthy, well-groomed look of an intelligent clean-lived gentleman. He came up the walk and straight toward Nell with an air of expecting a welcome.

"Good afternoon!" he began in a most agreeable voice. "Is Frank—ah—Doctor Pell at home?"

Nell had arisen with her work in her hand.

"No, he isn't—" She had got that far when Richard awakened with a howl, Richard, who usually awakened refreshed and smiling upon the world. Richard who seldom cried, but when he did had such good lungs and vocal cords that his father, who being a doctor thought he ought to know, declared he was intended for grand opera. He began with a shriek which was repeated crescendo even after Nell, throwing aside her work, ran to see whatever could be the matter. Of course, his cries aroused Cassie and she immediately began to cry in sympathy. Whatever should she do with two howling babies and a strange man standing waiting an answer to his inquiry concerning her brother-in-law? Hastily putting Richard into his carriage and gathering Cassie over her shoulder, she hurried back to the porch, saying as she went in a soothing tone meant only to reach the ears of the children: "There, there." But while Cassie soon ceased crying, Richard cried on louder and louder.

Without doubt this was something more than a tantrum. The baby kicked his legs, screwed up his face and turned almost black in the face. Nell glanced at the strange man who had stood, a polite spectator, all this time.

"Please sit down," she said. "I am afraid it is colic. I—I shall have to give him some peppermint."

She carried the baby indoors, while the strange man looked after her with less curiosity than admiration, for Nell's cheeks were glowing red with annoyance and apprehension and she was the personification of perfect motherhood. After ten minutes she reappeared with Richard, flushed but serene and comforted, to find the visitor with Cassie sitting on his lap poring over the pages of a magazine and he seemed wholely engrossed with the things she was telling him about the pictures.

"We are all right now," Nell announced cheerfully, as she sat down with Richard in her lap.

"You seem to have a perfect way with children," the visitor said. He smiled at Richard and Richard, usually shy with strangers, smiled back at him.

"I trust a great deal to peppermint," Nell replied. She was wondering who the man was when he introduced himself.

"My name is Marvel. Stewart Marvel. I am an old friend of Frank's. We were classmates at Harvard. Perhaps you have heard him mention me?"

But Nell had not and murmured something to that effect.

"I have been wanting to see him for a long time and, today, happening to be in this vicinity, I took the liberty of calling. Shall he be away long?"

"I expect them back at six o'clock tonight," Nell said. "He has gone for a day's outing with my sister to Burnwood."

"Your sister?" the man murmured.

"Yes. May—Mrs. Pell accompanied him."

"Indeed!" the man said, and a change came over his face.

"Then you are not Mrs. Pell?" he said.

"Oh, no! I am Mrs. Pell's sister. I am staying with her for a few weeks, and in her absence today looking after the babies." There was a brief, embarrassing silence which Nell broke by hurrying on. "I am a teacher of language—"

But something in the man's eyes arrested anything further she might have said.

At six that evening when May and Frank came, they found Nell and Stewart Marvel just putting the finishing touches to the dinner table.

Nell had simply had to invite him to stay and meet Frank and May, and he had not only insisted upon helping care for the children, but in actually helping her prepare the meal.

Great was Frank's joy at sight of his old friend, and a jolly meal followed after which Stewart Marvel insisted upon May's resting while he and Nell washed the dishes. After the dishes were finished the card table was brought out and a merry game followed.

At seven next morning May came into Nell's room.

"Frank wants to know what you've done to bewitch his old friend. Did you know that he was a rich widower with three wonderful children? That he had vowed he could never marry again, but that he is staying over for a day or two? He just telephoned Frank from the hotel, that he had decided to stay in town a few days, and if convenient he would be up to see us this morning. If that doesn't mean business I don't know what does."

And May was right. Stewart Marvel, having stumbled inadvertently into Nell's life, soon announced his intention of staying there forever.

As for Nell, the wife of Stewart Marvel and the beloved mother of his three children who adore her, no happier woman can be found in all the land. For now she can have the whole story of children's lives and not just a bit-and-miss chapter.

Says Shark Will Not Attack Living Person

Another student of deep-sea life adds his opinion to the many others that there is no such thing as a man-eating shark. This opinion is given by Mack Sennett, the movie producer, whose hobby for years has been the study of submarine life, and who writes in an article in Liberty:

"Many scientists maintain stoutly that the man-eating shark is merely a legend; that no shark was ever known to attack a living man. Although I hate to go swimming down there off the coast of Lower California, where the water swarms with sharks, in order to prove it, our experiments seem to bear out this theory. From everything we have been able to see, sharks don't get dietetically interested in anything until it is dead or crippled. I have never seen one offer to attack a free, live tuna; but as soon as the tuna is hooked on the line and shows by his struggles that he is out of action, he becomes a swift victim.

"Sharks often travel in pairs, no doubt mates," Sennett continues. "But when one mate becomes hurt or dies, the loving spouse at once eats him or her, as the case may be."

Heavenly Highways

More real money than there is in the world today has been paid for smooth highways and steel rails in order that Americans may swiftly glide over their lands in upholstered automobiles and luxurious pullmans. Everybody is on wheels and the call for good roads has been imperative. But if the next generation is to be a flying one there may be less thought of this road-making. There are not likely to be any boulevard stops in the high heavens. There will be occasional collisions, but when a flyer can go over or under another birdman as easily as to the right or left, the need for a fender is not so manifest. There will be an open highway—and fewer dubious deals with contractors.

Early Telegraphing

S. F. B. Morse sent the first message over his telegraph line from Washington to Baltimore in 1844. Within the next two or three years telegraph companies and telegraph lines sprang up everywhere in the United States. In 1846 the Lake Erie Telegraph company was organized. Soon afterward it had a line in operation between Buffalo and Cleveland, and by 1850 had completed lines to Toledo and Detroit, Pittsburgh, Akron and a number of other points in northern Ohio.

Yes, Indeed

The questions in the newspaper were being read out by the eldest daughter and the other members of the family were doing their best to answer them. "Who was it said: 'Never say die?'" she propounded.

"Methuselah," shouted seven-year-old Robert, confidently.

Pure Motives

The cook was worried.

"Gosh," he growled. "I wish I was bothered by kleptomania."

"Why?" inquired his friend.

"Then I wouldn't be takin' stuff off guys all the time just because I want the jack."—American Legion Monthly.

SEPTEMBER

L 915 L538

Public Sale at the late residence of M. T. Bishop, in ST. JOE, IND. on Sat, Sept. 10

Commencing at 1: 00 o'clock, the following property:

Some Antique Furniture and Dishes, side board, dining table and 10 chairs, 6 rockers, Sewing chair, Morris chair, 3 kitchen chairs, Library table, Walnut stand, Couch, Combination book case, Sewing machine, Oak bed room suite, 3 bedsteads, mattress, springs, Commode, Cabinet, Range, Oil range, Oil heater, Cooking utensils, Garden tools, Lawn mower, Buck saw, Wheelbarrow, Curtain stretchers, 8-day clock, Pictures, Axminster rug 9x12 and 9x16, 26 yard Brussells carpet, 16 yards Engrain carpet, Glass ware, dishes, Sewing table, Churn, Tubs, Wringer, Boiler, Wash bench, Fruit cupboard, Galloway robe and many other articles.

F. R. Bowman, Clerk. Rhodenbaugh & McNamara, Aucts.

Local Briefs

Chas. Tustison, of Defiance spent Saturday and Sunday in the Frank and Joe Scholes homes.

Miss Janice Ridgway is clerking in the Leighty Grocery mornings and evenings.

A total of 3,340 sparrows, 797 rats, 485 mice, 169 pigeons, 22 woodchucks, 2 weasels, 17 crows and 3 owls were caught as the result of a pest hunt staged by the East Keyser Community Club some few days ago. A contest was staged similar to the one at St. Joe each year and the losers put up a feed to the winners.

OPTOMETRY—ITS VALUE TO THE PUBLIC

By Ed W. Hicks, Optometrist and Optician

Errors of vision prevent progress at school?

Yes, the brightest child, if he has an error of vision, will not succeed as he might.

What percentage of children are in need of eye service?

About 25 percent.

How was this estimate arrived at?

By the examining of thousands of school children's eyes.

(To be continued.)

ED. W. HICKS
AUBURN
"OUR SPECIALTY — COMFORTABLE VISION"

Have your glasses fitted by Benj. F. Griest, Eyesight Specialist, Office in American Bldg., Hicksville, Ohio. 28tf.

The hack drivers for this term of school are: Harry Smith, Ella Wilmot, Marion Jennings, Jay Penland and Simeon Nicholls.

The J. H. Leighty residence is being painted a snow white. Makes a fine appearance with the neatly trimmed yard. An ideal country home.

J. J. Drury, wife and daughter, Beulah, Frank Sprudle, wife and son, Chester and A. J. Sprudle, all of Sidney, Ohio, spent from Saturday until Monday with Henry Shroyer and wife, north of town.

Glen Wineland has returned to Auburn Junction and is holding down second trick at the tower. Last week he and his daughter, Patrice made a trip through the east and visited many points of interest.

The First National bank of Butler, in a complaint filed in the DeKalb circuit court, says Bert and Charles Reasoner have failed to pay a note of $190 executed Mar. 1, 1927, and due in ninety days. A judgment of $250 is asked.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Herrick and family of Fort Wayne and Mr. and Mrs Orange Herrick, visited Chas. Thomas and family at Reading, Michigan, over Labor Day. They visited Peach Crest farm while there, and stated that the peaches were very fine.

Chas. Quance, J. O. Quance and families of Fort Wayne, Wm. Quance and family of Auburn, J. C. Hull and F. B. Leighty and their wives were Sunday and Monday guests of M. A. Hull and wife, of near Helena, Ohio. The Quance family also visited Mrs. Hazol Thomas and family at Genoa, a sister of Mrs. J. O. Quance.

Writing tablets at News office.

Practice may not make a lawyer perfect, but enough of it may make him rich.

For the first time, Fred Thornton sat up Saturday afternoon to witness the parade. He is improving nicely.

Marion Ernest, wife and son Wilber of Auburn, were Sunday guests of Stephen Brown and wife west of town.

Mr. and Mrs. John Draggoo of near Reading, Mich., were Saturday night and Sunday guests of L. J. Draggoo and family.

Fred Reichelderfer and wife, of Fort Wayne, spent Saturday and Sunday with John Betz and wife also attending the home-coming.

Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Stull and Mrs. J. F. Keller, of Fort Wayne and Mr. and Mrs. Zay Sailer, spent from Friday until Monday at Silver Lake.

Bowser & Reed Tin Shop moved to residence in St. Joe. Repairing promptly done. See us for all roofing, spouting and general tin work. Phone 3-1. 31t3.

A town election will be held at Albion in November. A "Citizen's" ticket has been nominated and it is understood that the opposition will name candidates on a "People's" ticket.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Towsley and daughter, Harridtt, and friend, Lee Schrader, of Elkhart, were Sunday and Monday guests of Mr. and Mrs. William Pepple. Mrs. Susan Sherwood, daughter and two children were Monday guests.

Mrs. Wm. Cheek and children, Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Perry and baby, Mrs. Sam Openlander, Mr. M. E. Leighty, Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Leighty of Chicago. Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hull, Charles Miser and Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Draggoo were Saturday dinner and supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Leighty.

The Society of Psychic Wisdom and Truth is the name given to a new Garrett organization that has been incorporated under the laws of the state of Indiana. The organization has no capital and its purposes are set out to be to organize spiritualists into societies for the purpose of education in the theory and practice of the religion of spiritualism, together with the promotion and preservation thereof. The incorporators are Daisy McGuire, Blosom Siders, Ida Pyatt, Henry Caulkins, Thurman Siders, Charles Walker and Dell Campbell.

Paper and envelopes News office.

Robert Morr left Monday to begin teaching school at Yoder, Indiana.

When a man has occasion to defend his actions he admits his weakness.

Miss Irma Tustison of Hicksville, spent a part of last week and over Sunday in the Frank Scholes home.

Mr. and Mrs. Allen Haller and baby, of South Bend, were over Labor Day guests of their parents, O. K. Shull and family.

Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Leighty of Chicago and Mr. and Mrs. Ed Leighty, spent Sunday at Hamilton Lake with Mrs. Mary Bowman.

Mr. and Mrs. John Hutson, of South Bend, were week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Thornton. Mrs. Hutson is a sister of Mr. Thornton.

Joe Shull is home this week from Chicago University, where he has been taking special training this summer. He will return to Columbia City for school next Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Derwood Ridgway attended the Frisinger reunion at North Liberty, Sunday, going on to Hobart and Chicago to visit relatives for the balance of the week.

The divorce suit of Florence A. Walter against George T. Walter, filed in the DeKalb circuit court July 15, has been dismissed by the plaintiff. A charge of cruelty was made in complaint.

Joe Woodcox is home a few days this week from Milwaukee, where he became a member of a concert band and is playing at state fairs. Joe goes this week to Tulsa, Oklahoma for next week's engagement.

Mrs. H. C. Borthwick and children are now residents of Defiance, moving Sunday. The daughter, Miss Priscilla, was given a scholarship in the Defiance college and she started to school this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Koch, of Fort Wanye, were Saturday evening guests of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Koch. On Sunday they visited Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Koch, who are spending a few days at Lake James.

Mrs. Guy Kilpatrick and daughter, Margaret, of Fort Wayne, were guests of Dr. and Mrs. Price for the past week. Wm. Hart and wife were Saturday and Sunday guests. Also David Dill, of North Manchester, is here for the week.

Property involved in the suit of the St. Joe Valley Bank vs. George H. Horell will be sold at auction on September 21 by Sheriff John Armstrong, on order of the DeKalb circuit court. The sale will be held at the George Noirot farm near Corunna.

Mr. and Mrs. John Wineland had as Saturday guests, P. W. Walter, wife and daughter, Kathryn, of Ft. Wayne, Mrs. Edna Matson, Spokane, Wash., A. R. Cole, wife and daughter, Fairie, of Garrett, C. H. Bishop, wife and children and Mr. Myron Henderson of Cleveland, Ohio, Mahlon Baker and wife and Mrs. S. Hendricks of Auburn.

Miss Myrtle Cowgill of Grangeville, Idaho, the newly appointed county visiting nurse who will succeed Mrs. William Wild, who resigned shortly following her marriage in July, has taken up her duties in DeKalb county. Miss Cowgill comes well qualified, having graduated from Columbia University, New York City, with a Bachelor of Science degree.

Figures showng a total gasoline tax collection in the state during August of $1,052,812.68, are contained in the monthly report on gas tax collections submitted by A. N. Bobbitt, collector, to Lewis S. Bowman, state auditor. This is an increase of $105,626.84 over the tax collected in August last year. In his report Mr. Bobbitt points out that Indiana motorists spent approximately $6,250,000 for gasoline during the month of July, including the state tax. A total of 35,092,756 gallons of gasoline were sold in the state during July, which is an increase of 3,493,044 gallons over the same month of last year.

Wilmer McIntosh, the twelve year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Ford McIntosh of Waterloo, is improving from the injuries received when he fell thirty feet from the outer limb of a big tree in the Booser woods, southeast of Waterloo, a week ago. He suffered several fractured ribs and a dislocated vertabrae. Accompanied by Harold Griffin, the boys went to the woods and were climbing out on the limbs doing trapeze stunts when Wilmer lost his hold and fell to the ground. A physician was called immediately for the boy who remained unconscious for an hour and a half. He was taken to his home where he has been bedfast since.

Daily papers at News office and magazines galore.

A new bus is making the Fort Wayne-Butler schedule.

Grady Woodcox is treating his house to a new coat of paint.

The rising generation ought to patronize aviation schools.

After a younger man has made his first ringing speech he should buy the ring.

When the yellow streak begins to work out of some people they have a fit of the blues.

The M. P. Aid Society meets Thursday afternoon at the home of Rev. J. F. McKnight with a pot luck supper at 5:30:

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Timmerman, of Toledo, called on their grandmother, Mrs. Mary Timmerman, Monday afternoon.

George Wilson and family and Miss Elsie Pifer, of Mooresville, spent Sunday with Charles Morr and family. Wm. Morr and wife, of Auburn, were afternoon callers.

Herman Brown, wife and two children, of Auburn, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. F. Buchanan. On Saturday Florence Smith, of Garrett, made them a short call.

Miss Dorothy George has resigned her position in the sales department of the McBride company store and has taken one with the Economy Cleaning company, owned by her father, J. N. George.—Star.

We appreciate the fact that people are taking a greater interest in The News, and wish to thank those who are mindful of the fact that we need their local items. Will you please continue to give us your items?

Mr. nd Mrs. Elmer Hart and two children, of Greenfield, Ohio, spent Saturday in St. Joe visiting relatives and attending the home-coming. On Sunday they left for Lima to visit Mrs. Hart's sister, Mrs. Irma Chambers and family before returning home.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Hough and son, Paul Wm., of Mishawaka, Miss Freeda Romack, of Winchester, spent over Sunday and Labor Day with Mr. and Mrs. Saxe Hadsell and son, Paul. They had as callers Sunday afternoon, Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Wilmot of Fort Wayne, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Kimes and son, Robert, Mr. and Mrs. Kinner and son, Mr. and Mrs. Don Ramsey and son, Dean, Mrs. Cornelia Hadsell, also Mrs. John Driver, who is staying with her daughter for a while.

WARDEN FILES AFFIDAVIT

Upon an affidavit signed by B. L. Fox, a game warden, Earl Mullett and Clark Platt appeared in the DeKalb circuit court Friday to answer a charge of unlawfully using dynamite in Cedar creek on August 20. The young men, by their attorneys, Attkinson & Husselman, pleaded not guilty and filed $200 bond, with Byron Platt as surety. Witnesses for the state whose names are endorsed on the affidavit are Marvin Shroh, Oscar Rufner and Wm. Dunn.

Protect Your Eyes-Thep are Priceless.

All the necessities of life have a money value—except HEALTH AND HAPPINESS. You can purchase fine clothes, but HEALTH is beyond the pale of the dollar. Health is in your reach only by CONSERVATION and wisdom. Your vision, good eyesight, can be saved for later years by CARE NOW. Let us tell you how.

Benj. F. Griest
Eyesight Specialists
Office American Building
HICKSVILLE, OHIO

In office every day, also Wednesday and Saturday nights.

All notary work can be promptly cared for at News office. Call and see us.

For Sale:—Next Friday, tomatoes by the bushel at the patch, $1.25. Clyde Hart. 36t1p.

R. W. Brodbeck and family of Huntington, were here Saturday guests of Rev. J. F. McKnight and family.

Mrs. Leora Thayer and Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Jackson, of Hicksville, were guests of Dr. and Mrs. B. S. Sheffer, Saturday.

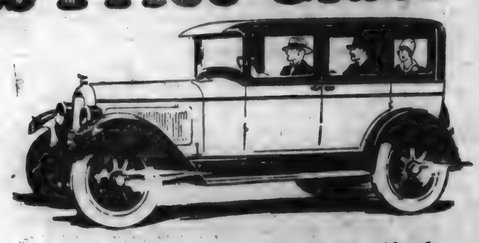
Rev. Howard Morgan, Presbyterian pastor of Auburn, has tendered his resignation to accept a call at Lexington, Ky., after three years successful pastorate.

A daughter was born to Mrs. Travis Martin, better known as Juanita Kinsey Mrs. Martin has been staying with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Knsey for the past few months, while her husband is in Chicago.

Homer Jackson, of Cleveland, spent from Friday until Monday afternoon with his parents at Hicksville and his brother-in-law, Paul Furnish and family, who live on the Jackson farm west of Coletown. Homer was in town Monday a short time before leaving for Ohio.

One hundred and forty-four teachers registered during the week of the institute which came to a close at Auburn Saturday afternoon. The last day was devoted to making arrangements for the regular monthly institutes and the extension courses which will continue until the close of the rural schools in the spring. Those who attended from this section were:—St. Joe—Madeline Nichols, Bessie Rupp, Minnie Walker, Glen Hart, Gladys Kline, Mary Moore, Cleota Morr, Ima Miser, Robert Sims. Spencerille—Ethel Pfaumer, Garnet Beams, A. J. Smith, Lehr Wilder, Bina Zimmerman, Ida Reed, Grace Houk, Ruth Miller, C. L. Whitacre. Newville—Ross Abel.

Most Active Six in its Price Class



—and the lowest priced Six with 4-wheel brakes

A modern car for modern traffic. And the lowest priced Six with 4-wheel brakes. For liveliness—pickup, speed, power—there's nothing like the Whippet Six at the price.

Exceptional power in proportion to weight. Wide range of flexibility. Watch it on hills—then watch other cars.

Throttle it down to 5 miles an hour and it accelerates to 25 from 10% to 23% faster than its nearest competitor.

Narrow front pillars—for greater visibility—another vital safety factor.

Low gravity center—pioneered in the Whippet, now universally approved.

Full pressure lubrication system—as on the costliest cars.

Check these features—and try to match them at the price: Oversize tires; Snubbers; Easier Steering; Adjustable steering wheel. Six beautiful body types.

Superior Quality New Low Prices

Coach	$795
Touring	765
Roadster	825
Coupe	795
Sedan	875
Landau	925

Prices and specifications subject to change without notice. Prices f. o. b. factory. Willys-Overland, Inc., Toledo, Ohio

Whippet Six

Lincoln Sales & Service, Spencerville Butler

Safe Deposit

To be SAFE, an object first must ESCAPE danger, says Webster.

If your valuables and personal papers are deposited in our safe deposit vault, they will be SAFE in the dictionary sense of the word, for they will have escaped the danger that constantly lurks where protection is less complete.

A small fee will assure YOUR valuables this safety in a Safe Deposit Box reserved for your exclusive use. And insured against burglary to the extent of $500,000.

CITY NATIONAL BANK
AUBURN, IND.

"Member Federal Reserve System"

SEPTEMBER

L 915 U539

Russel R. Reidenour
ATTORNEY
Auburn, Ind.

DR. C. R. BAUMGARTNER
Veterinarian
Spencerville, Ind.
PHONES: 282--283.

SPENCERVILLE

Rubber bands at News office.

Mrs. Martin Hull was a Sunday guest in the John Shutt home.

Vernie Reed, wife and children, of South Bend, are visiting their parents and families a few days.

Mrs. William Hart and Mrs. Whitiker, of Fort Wayne, were recent guests of the Jason Keyes home.

Samuel Stever and wife of South Scipio, were Monday guests of their daughter, Mrs. Chas. Hahn and family.

Farver's Canning Kitchen at Spencerville will operate on Wednesday and Thursday each week until further notice. 31tf.

Rev. Roy S. Brown, wife and children, Ada Bowser and Margaret Koch, attended the Booth Festival at Forrest Park, Fort Wayne, Monday.

Otis Koch, wife and children, of Fort Wayne, are spending a few days at the home of the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Koch, east of town.

Mr. and Mrs. William Peck, of Anderson, were guests last week at the Frank Beams home. Mr. and Mrs. Henry Beams and baby of Detroit, were week-end guests in the same home.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hahn and daughters, Clarice, Dora and Esther, and Earl Hodges, were Sunday dinner guests of Mrs. Hahn's sister and family of Cecil, Ohio. They also attended the annual Home-coming at that place in the afternoon.

Envelopes at News office.

School opened on Tuesday morning with a good attendance.

Women and opportunity like to make calls when you are out.

R. U Bowser and wife attended the funeral of Mr. Bowser's uncle, Frank Bowser of Fort Wayne on Thursday.

Coburn's Corners

Mr. and Mrs. Willis Beaber attended the Houser reunion at Kendallville Park, Sunday.

Mrs. Abner Trostel was called to Roann on account of the illness of her sister, Mrs. Love.

Mrs. Inez Hadsell, Mrs. Pluma Hamilton and daughter, Margaret, were at Fort Wayne last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Claud Laub and family, spent Sunday with Mrs. Laub's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Blaker of Butler.

Mr. and Mrs. John Milliman and children, Harold and Edna, of Wabash, spent Labor Day in the Wilfis Beaber home.

A number of the neighbohood met at W W. Wilder's Sunday evening for a social evening and home made ice cream and cake.

The True Seekers class of the Coburn's Corners Sunday School were entertained Monday evening at the Wm. Hamilton home at a wiener roast. A party that's always enjoyed by the young folks.

MARRIAGE AND DIVORCE FOR COUNTY AND STATE

In DeKalb county marriages and divorces were both on an increase figures disclosed this fact as compiled by the Department of Commerce of Washington. In 1925 there were 153 marriages and in 1926 there were 236. In 1925 there were 31 divorces and in 1926 there were 40.

During the year 1926 there were 7,690 divorces granted in the state, as compared with 7,463 in 1925, representing an increase of 227, or 3 per cent. There were 77 marriages annulled in 1926, this being the first year for which statistics of annulments have been collected.

The estimated population of the state of Indiana on July 1, 1926, was 3,124,000 and on July 1, 1925, 3,095,000. On the basis of these estimates, the number of marriages per 1,000 of the population was 12.9 in 1926, as against 11.9 in 1925; and the number of divorces per 1,000 of the population was 2.46 in 1926, as against 2.41 in 1925.

LINDBERGH
DID NOT WISH

Young men the world over have, with mingled feelings, read of the achievement of the youthful Charles Lindbergh. Admiration and pride in the glory of his feat has been most generously given by all—still what young man is there who has not "wished" that the opportunity had been his—and that he could have "zoomed" through to such everlasting glory?

The now "Colonel Lindbergh" MADE his opportunity. An unknown air-mail pilot, he SAVED part of his earnings. When the hour arrived he had $2,000 saved to offer on the altar of sincerity—and obtain the support of young business men of St. Louis. He was the largest individual contributor to the fund which made the flight possible.

Lindbergh did not WISH—He SAVED

COME IN AND TALK IT OVER

Farmers' & Merchants State Bank
Spencerville, Ind.

With the Churches

ST. JOE M. P. CHURCH

Mrs. Hattie Widney, Supt.
Sunday School, 9:30 A. M.
Preaching service, 7:30.

CONCORD M. P. CHURCH

George Johnson, Supt.
Sunday school 9:30 A. M.
Preaching service, 10:30.
Christian Endeavor, 6:30.
J. F. McKnight, Pastor.

LUTHERAN CHURCH NOTES

Derwood Ridgway, Supt.
Sunday school, 9:30.
Preaching, 10:30.
Spencerville, evening, 7:30.

CHURCH OF CHRIST

Ed Storer, Supt.
St. Joe
Bible School, 9:30 A. M.
Preaching, 7:30 P. M.
NEWVILLE, Sun Time
Bible School, 10:00 A. M.
Sermon, 11:00 A. M.
R. S. Aldrich, Pastor.

Methodist Episcopal Church Spencerville

Sunday School, 9:00 A. M.—ohn Koch, Superintendent.
Epworth League, 6:00 P. M.
Marguerite Koch, President.

NOTES ON SERVICE

In our evening worship we shall join with the Lutheran Church and together with them welcome their new Pastor and his family into our community.

At the Sunday School hour the Scipio Church people were present at Spencerville for a joint study of the lesson. At 10:30 they were addressed by the Rev. W. W. Wiant, District Superintendent from Fort Wayne. The theme of the morning was "Great Souls in the Making," based on the story of Elijah. He said, "A great soul is true and loyal to God and is often times traveling a lonely road so far as people are concerned. But when a man is lonely from being true to God, he has God's angels ministering to his spirit."

He continued, "A great soul is not only engaged in a good work but has in training another to continue the same like Elijah did with Elisha."

At noon the people gathered at the parsonage for a pot luck dinner, after which the second quarterly conference was held in the shade of the new parsonage. Then a dedication service was held and the new parsonage home was fully inspected.

Roy S. Brown, Pastor.

NOTICE OF ADMINISTRATION

No. 3216

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN, That the undersigned has been appointed by the Judge of the DeKalb Circuit Court, of the State of Indiana, Administrator, with the will annexed of the Estate of Kate A. Leighty deceased, late of said County.

Said Estate is supposed to be solvent.

JOHN R. LEIGHTY, Adm.
With Will Annexed.

August 19, 1927.
C. M. Brown, Atty 34t3.

JACKSON-TIMMERMAN FAMILIES MEET

A most enjoyable day was spent Sunday, by the members of the Jackson and Timmerman families and their relatives at the country home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Jackson at Concord. Sixty-nine members were present to enjoy the big dinner and social good time. The big surprise of the day was the presence of Grandma Timmerman, who is 88 years old and has not walked for nearly two years.

The reunion will be held at the same place on the same date next year with Ford Jackson, president; John Timmerman, vice president and Flossie Hall, secretary and treasurer.

WHAT SOME OF OUR READERS SAY!

Sandusky, Ohio.
September 2, 1927.

Fred B. Leighty,
St. Joe, Indiana.
Dear Editor and Friends:

I, as well as my entire family sincerely regret that it is not possible for us to attend the annual home-coming at St. Joe this year. On account of our home undergoing elaborate remodeling and other business duties we have been pretty well tied up for some time. In fact we had to turn down the Knisely reunion on that account.

I am enclosing check for subscription to The News for 1927-28.

Give our regards to all of the old friends you might nappen to see, and believe us as ever,

Very sincerely yours,
S. S. Knisely and family.

Public Sales

Two Public Sales are billed for this week. Next Friday afternoon at 1 o'clock Wm. Sommers, living 3¼ miles north and½ mile east of Coburntown will sell his stock consisting of horse, cow, sheep, hogs, machinery and some household goods. They expect to go to Spencerville and care for Jacob Baltz. Then on Saturday at 1 o'clock in St. Joe at the M. T. Bishop residence, all the household goods will be disposed of by Rhodenbaugh and McNamara, auctioneers.

Nearby and Yonder

By T. T. MAXEY

WNU Service

Silver Spring

IN CERTAIN sections of Florida there is an underground layer of limestone. Beneath this rock-sheet a number of rivers, of whose presence there is no surface indication, busily work their way toward the sea.

Breaks or other openings in this stratum of stone enable some of these streams to burst through and come to the surface, which they do with a suddenness that is astonishing, in the form of great fountains or springs—producing a strange spectacle as unusual in character as it is beautiful to behold.

Perhaps the most prominent of these springs is Silver spring—in Marion county, a few miles from the town of Ocala—the basin of which is several acres in extent.

The water contains sufficient lime to settle any substance which might be carried in solution and is so perfectly clear that the bottom—80 feet down in one place—is distinctly visible.

Seen in any light at any time of day or year, this great basin of bubbling, crystal-clear water is a fascinating sight. It is seen to best advantage, however, when a slight breeze whips the surface into a succession of dancing ripples and the sunshine illumines those ripples, investing them with all the colors of the rainbow. The sight thus produced is one of rare and enchanting beauty.

The overflow of this spring is carried off by a stream which flows into the Ocklawaha river—a tropical stream which meanders through tangled, vine-hung growths to join the greater St. Johns river.

(©, 1927, Western Newspaper Union.)

BARBS

Love doesn't always want to find the way.

If you believe what he tells you, you're in love.

Accountants and dietitians keep figures straight.

The faster you travel, the sooner age catches you.

Chiffon hose at least give you a run for your money.

Firemen have easy lives; they can park by water plugs.

Dust we are and to dust we shall return, but that doesn't keep us from throwing a little mud once in a while.

A woman may smile at a jury if she pleases, a New York judge rules. To be sure, judge, and why not even let her laugh?—Detroit News.

RADIO PROVERBS

A license in time saves a fine.

Penny wise, but ten bob foolish.

Many hands make the set cease to work.

One transformer doesn't make a super-set.

It's the oscillating worm that gets the bird.

A valve in the hand is worth two in the shop.

It's a wise set that knows its own components.

Don't count on your batteries before they are charged.

One touch of oscillation makes the whole world sin.

It is sometimes easier to step into another man's shoes than it is to walk in them.

CHEVROLET
for Economical Transportation

Announcing
The Imperial Landau
at a New Low Price

now only $745
formerly $780

A great public demand has made possible a price reduction on the beautiful Imperial Landau.

You owe it to yourself to see this masterpiece of craftsmanship and value—to see how it combines all the advantages of Chevrolet's advanced engineering with a specially designed body by Fisher of such superb beauty and distinction that you are amazed and delighted to find a car of this type priced so low.

The Touring or Roadster	$525
The Coach	$595
The Coupe	$625
The 4-Door Sedan	$695
The Sport Cabriolet	$715
½-Ton Truck (Chassis only)	$395
1-Ton Truck (Chassis only)	$495

All prices f. o. b. Flint, Michigan

Furnish Sales & Service

QUALITY AT LOW COST

POULTRY RAISERS' FIELD DAY

A large number of men and women from DeKalb County, interested in poultry, will attend the annual northeastern Indiana poultry field day to be held Thursday, September 22, at the farm of Perry Gandy, nine miles west of Fort Wayne and one mile east of the Whitley County line. The farm is situated on the Illinois paved road. Plans for the day are being arranged by the poultry extension staff of Purdue University in co-operation with the county agricultural agents of northeastern counties. Nearly 100 persons attended the field day program last year and more are expected this time.

The meeting will be an all day affair. The morning will be given over to the inspection of the farms which consists of 130 acres. Guides posted about the place will give complete information about feeding and equipment. In the afternoon, A. G. Phillips, formerly head of the Purdue Poultry Department and now connected with a Fort Wayne concern, will speak on "Plugging the Holes in Farm Poultry Business." Paul G. Riley of the Purdue Poultry extension staff, will speak on "Feeding for Fall and Winter Eggs," and Ed Griffing of Purdue will discuss "Selecting and Breeding for Egg Production." Prof. C. W. Carrick, head of the Purdue Poultry staff, will speak on "Status of all Mash System of Breeding Poultry," and Prof. E. L. Dakan, Ohio State University poultry chief, will speak on "The Future Outlook for the Poultry Business.'

GIVEN A BUILDING LOT

Mrs. R. R. Sims, wife of Prof. Sims, who recently moved to St. Joe from Connersville, Indiana, received a letter from the Venice Gardens (Ohio) Developement Co., Monday, stating that she had been given a lot in the new addition to the Ohio town, as the result of a drawing which took place at the John Robinson circus at her home town last July 18th. Tickets were given during the two performances and only one person would be the recipient of the gift. Mrs. Sims is elated over her gift and they will drive this week end and make an inspection of the property.

PERMITS WILL BE ISSUED CHILDREN DRIVING

Parents in the rural districts who plan to have children between the ages of fourteen and sixteen drive automobiles to school should get applications at the secretary of state's office now.

The 1927 statute now provides that children of the ages mentioned, residing outside cities of the first or second class, may get permits to drive to and from school by the "shortest possible route." Sixteen is the regular minimum age for drivers.

Applications must be filled out by the child, signed by the parents and school superintendent and sent in to Secretary of State Frederick H. Shortemeier. A permit card will be issued and must be carried by the driver.

A feeling of superiority is about all the satisfaction some people get out of being good.

BUICK
for 1928

When Buick improves upon Buick—the standard for the year is set

Buick for 1928 introduces a higher standard of beauty and luxury than the world has ever known. Buick interiors are as modish as exquisite drawing-rooms—as harmoniously colored—and as comfortable. Buick's new Fisher bodies are low-swung without any loss of head-room or road-clearance.

And so, down to the smallest detail of construction, wherever refinements could be made, Buick has made them. Again Buick has improved upon Buick. Again the standard for the year is set.

BUICK MOTOR COMPANY
FLINT, MICHIGAN
Division of General Motors Corporation

Sedans	$1195 to $1995
Coupes	$1195 to $1850
Sport Models	$1195 to $1525

All prices are f. o. b. Flint, Mich., government tax to be added. The G. M. A. C. time payment plan, the most desirable, is available.

VALVE-IN-HEAD Buick MOTOR CARS

WHEN BETTER AUTOMOBILES ARE BUILT, BUICK WILL BUILD THEM

Buick Sales & Service
Auburn, Ind.

SEPTEMBER

L 915 U540

President Talking to His "Brothers," the Sioux

Ten thousand Sioux Indians at the Pine Ridge reservation listening to an address by President Coolidge, who told his "brothers" that their problems would be looked after by the government.

Neah Bay Indians Are Fond of Whale Blubber

At Neah bay on the extreme northwestern corner of the state of Washington live some Indians that are as near to being primitive as any on the continent. Recently a whale was stranded there and the whole group of Indians rushed out to cut off strips of blubber, which they consider a great delicacy.

Alligator Is Guard for a Jeweler

Bozo is an eight-year-old from the Florida Everglades, now on duty in the jewelry store of Walter Anderson, Chicago. "Bozo has been protecting my jewelry for the past two years," Mr. Anderson explained. When anyone appears around the jewelry case, or at the sight of a pistol, he is ready for battle.

CONVENTION CHIEF

Bowman Elder of Indianapolis, national chairman of the France convention committee of the American Legion, upon whose shoulders has rested the responsibility for the arrangements for the Second A. E. F. movement to Paris.

Political Foes of Cosgrave

President Cosgrave's government of the Irish Free State is threatened by a combination of opposition groups. Left is Thomas Johnson, Labor leader, who might succeed to the presidency. Right is Capt. William Redmond, head of the group known as Redmondites.

FROM ARGENTINA

A typical Argentine beauty is Anna Magdalena Avellaneda, granddaughter of the late President of the Argentine republic, who has been visiting in Washington.

Improved Uniform International

Sunday School 'Lesson'

(By REV. P. H. FITZWATER, D.D., Dean, Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.)
(©, 1927, Western Newspaper Union.)

Lesson for September 11

SOLOMON DEDICATES THE TEMPLE

LESSON TEXT—I Kings, chapter 8.

GOLDEN TEXT—I was glad when they said unto me, let us go into the house of the Lord.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Worshiping in God's House.

JUNIOR TOPIC—A Young Man's Love for God's House.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Love for God's House.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Value of God's House to a Community.

The first task of Solomon after his coronation was the building of the temple, a privilege which was denied to his father, David. In his preparation for this task he secured wood from King Hiram of Tyre, stones for the foundations from the Phoenicians, skilled workmen also from King Hiram. It was located on Mount Moriah (II Chron. 3:1). The suitableness of this place was due to the fact that the Lord had appeared here to Abraham. Its dimensions were 90 feet long, 30 feet wide, and 45 feet high. It contained the brazen altar, the laver, the golden candlesticks and cherubim. The dedication of the temple was arranged to take place at an auspicious time. The dedicatory services consisted of:

I. Bringing Up the Ark (vv. 1-11).

The ark of the covenant was typical of Jesus Christ. God dwells among men through Jesus Christ (John 1:14). The ark was God's holy dwelling place. This, therefore, must be brought up first and placed in the temple. For the manifestation of the divine presence was the real dedication. When the house of God was to be dedicated the king arranged for a representative gathering of the people, consisting of the elders, princes and heads of the tribes. There were many great men present, but only the priests, God's appointed ministers, moved the ark. The fatal experience of Uzzah in David's time was doubtless clear in their minds. Solomon profited by the blunder of his father. Connected with this service was a very great sacrifice, one in keeping with the occasion. The ark with the two tablets of stone under the mercy seat shows God manifesting Himself to His people on the ground of a law perfectly kept and since atoned for by the shedding of blood. At the completion of the sacrifice, the temple was filled with the glory of the Lord.

II. Solomon's Address to the People (vv. 12-21).

He points out to the people that God had chosen David to be king, yet for certain reasons He would not allow him to build the temple, promising that his son should do the work. Now that the work was done, the temple was built and the ark of the covenant was in its place, they could be assured that God had raised him up in the room of his father.

III. Solomon's Dedicatory Prayer (vv. 22-53).

The ark having now been placed in the most holy place, and the address to the people being ended, the king pours out his soul to God in prayer. In this prayer Solomon gratefully acknowledges God's goodness in the past, giving glory to Him, and pleads that His promise to his father be verified (vv. 22-26); he prays that God's eyes might be continually open toward the temple which He had now taken possession of (vv. 27-33); so that (1) in case of contention between parties He would judge between them (vv. 31, 32); (2) in case of being smitten by the enemy, even though they had sinned, upon confession of the same, God would forgive and restore (vv. 33, 34); (3) in case of famine as chastisement for sin, upon confession and prayer before the temple, God would forgive and send rain (vv. 35, 36); (4) in case of pestilence and sickness, if they pray to God toward the temple, God should hear and forgive (vv. 37-40); (5) in case of the coming of the foreigner who comes at the news of God's greatness, and prays toward Jerusalem, his prayers should be heard (vv. 41-43); (6) in case of going out to battle, their cause should be maintained (vv. 44, 45); (7) in case of being in captivity because of sin, God should hear their prayers and restore (vv. 46-53).

IV. Solomon Blesses the People (vv. 54-61).

On the strength of the covenant promises, he invokes His presence always with them to keep them faithful, and exhorts the people to have their hearts perfect before God, walking in His commandments and statutes.

V. Solomon and the People Offer Sacrifices of Thanksgiving (vv. 62-66).

Ideals Like Stars

Ideals are like stars; you will not succeed in touching them with your hands; but, like the seafaring man on the desert of waters, you choose them as your guides, and, following them, you reach your destiny.—Exchange.

Charming Human Beings

It is always good to know, if only in passing, charming human beings. It refreshes one like flowers and woods and clear brooks.—George Eliot.

What's the Answer?

Questions No. 15

1—What is the name of the highest peak of the Pyrenees?

2—Who was the winning running horse of 1926?

3—What was the first steamship to cross the Atlantic and when?

4—When was the first census taken?

5—What is copra?

6—What composer and master of the pianoforte created the form known as the symphonic poem and wove into it the folk songs and dances of his nation?

7—Who was called "The Good Gray Poet"?

8—Of what country is the Raphia palm a native and where does it grow?

9—What is the meaning of "innocuous desuetude"?

10—In what chapter of Proverbs is this verse: "It is an honour for a man to cease from strife; but every fool will be meddling"?

11—What range of hills is called the backbone of England?

12—Who was the winner of the New York-Port Chester marathon?

13—In whose administration were the alien and sedition laws passed?

14—What President served two terms with an interval of another administration in between?

15—Who was the first to make an airplane flight to the North pole?

16—What movie comedian in America, prior to Charlie Chaplin, achieved celebrity for his acrobatic clowning?

17—Where did Bret Harte die?

18—Where are Gobies found and on what do they live?

19—Why is the sentence "This is the best of the two" incorrect?

20—What is the remainder of the 5th verse, 37th chapter of Isaiah, which reads: "So the servants of King Hezekiah came—"?

Answers No. 14

1—L. Goehring made it in 1912 by jumping 5 ft. 5¾ in.

2—Elias Howe, 1846.

3—Aaron Burr.

4—The science that treats of the history of the earth and its life.

5—Becky Sharp, Tess of the d'Urbervilles and Leah Kleschna.

6—Ben Nevis.

7—The Legends of King Arthur and his Round Table.

8—A tropical bird of South America whose most conspicuous ornament is a high rounded crest of slender feathers drooping forward over the end of the bill.

9—No; the word used should be "suspect."

10—"And there were born unto him seven sons and three daughters."

11—Brittany, in France.

12—Locke of Nebraska made it in 9 9-10 sec.

13—1894.

14—John Quincy Adams.

15—In Colombia, South America.

16—John Ruskin.

17—Two series of humorous satirical poems and articles written by James Russell Lowell during the Mexican and Civil wars.

18—It is a genus of orchids, of commercial value as the source of an extract widely used in flavoring chocolate, ice cream, etc., and is native to North and South America.

19—The latter. The former is affected by some would be purists, without justification.

20—A sacred song.

Witty Retort That Put End to Heckling

The late Rev. S. S. Henshaw, primitive Methodist minister, will long be remembered in Sheffield, says an English periodical. In earlier days he was an active radical, and did much to help the parliamentary candidates of his party. A little man, he had a cutting wit. On one occasion, at election time, his candidate was being badly heckled by a giant publican, who had come to smash the Liberals. The member found him a difficult customer. At last the little preacher plucked his sleeve and whispered: "Let me deal with him." Advancing to the front of the platform, he asked blandly: "Now, sir, what is it you want?" The burly publican, thumbs in the armholes of his waistcoat, eyed him scornfully for a few moments, and then growled: "Thee! Why, man, I could ate thee!" "I dare say you could," flashed back Mr. Henshaw, smiling; "but if you did, you would have more brains in your stomach than you have ever had in your head." There was no further trouble.

Famous Richmonds

Richmond is the name of three well-known places. Richmond, in Yorkshire, England, is noted for its fine Norman castle, now used as barracks. It is a place of great natural beauty. Richmond, in Surrey, England, was formerly called Skene. The view over the Thames is celebrated. The capital of the state of Virginia, on the James river, is the city of Richmond. It was the capital of the Southern Confederacy during the Civil war.—Montreal Herald.

Load your old worn floors at slight expense. Write for free literature and directions.

OAK Floors

will modernize your home. Make it more valuable for rental or sale. Permanent, beautiful, economical, easy to keep clean.

OAK FLOORING BUREAU
1293 Builders' Building CHICAGO

Snowy White Clothes
WITHOUT RUBBING

N-R-G (Energy) Laundry Tablets wash clothes spotlessly clean in ten minutes without rubbing. Clean everything like magic; cut soap bill in half. Remove ink, fruit stains, blood, rust, perspiration and all stains instantly.

Guaranteed Not to Injure the Hands or the Finest Fabric

Amazing results when N-R-G is used in the washing machine, either electric or hand driven. No blueing required. For sale at your grocer's. 15c per package. Valuable coupon with every package. Only 1 cor required for Silver Teaspoon. 25-year guarantee. Over 200 other premiums.

THE N-R-G PRODUCTS CO., CHICAGO, ILL.

He Was Married, Too

Butcher—I've worked under the same boss for 20 years.

Butter and Egg Man—I can beat that—it's my silver wedding next week!—Progressive Grocer.

The war has made table linen very valuable. The use of Russ Bleaching Blue will add to its wearing qualities. Use it and see. All grocers.—Adv.

Less Congested

The Boss—Do you want to take your vacation this summer?

Bookkeeper—No, I want to take mine in the winter so I can get a seat on the observation platform.

Clean Frames

Picture frames should be wiped off each week when the thorough cleaning takes place. Fly-specked frames or glasses are inexcusable.

Comforting

Wife (to husband, after quarrel)—Isn't it nice to be friends again, even if it is only for a few minutes!

Some people say that they do as they please—but do they?

As We Grow Older

Proper Kidney Function Is More Than Ever Important.

AS we grow older, there is apt to be a gradual slowing up of bodily functions.

The kidneys are the blood filters. If their action becomes sluggish they do not thoroughly cleanse the blood of poisonous wastes. This tends to make one tired and achy, with often a nagging backache, drowsy headaches and dizziness. A common symptom of imperfect kidney action is scanty or burning excretions.

Elderly people recommend Doan's Pills. This tested diuretic is endorsed the country over. Ask your neighbor!

DOAN'S PILLS 68c
STIMULANT DIURETIC FOR KIDNEYS
Foster-Milburn Co. Mfg. Chem. Buffalo, N.Y.

How to Have Strength, Endurance and Courage

Many men and women will be happy to know that the secret of good health lies in a daily movement of the bowels.

The Kidneys, Liver and Bowels must be active, they must be stimulated to remove the poisons from the system.

If you suffer from Constipation, Sick Headache, Indigestion, Biliousness, Tired out and Achey feeling: CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS will help you. They are sugar coated, small, easy to swallow, and do not contain Calomel.

Druggists, 25c. & 75c. red pkgs.

"Cutting teeth is made easy"
MRS. WINSLOW'S SYRUP
The Infants' and Children's Regulator
At all druggists
Non-Narcotic, Non-Alcoholic

Oakland, Nebr., Feb. 12, 1926
Anglo-American Drug Co.,
Gentlemen:
I am more than glad to tell you of the experience and result obtained from your wonderful Baby Medicine. Our second baby is now seven months old and has never given us a moment's trouble. The first and only thing she has ever taken was Mrs. Winslow's Syrup. She has four teeth and is always smiling and playing. Cutting teeth is made easy by the use of Mrs. Winslow's Syrup. Most sincerely,
(Name on request)

ANGLO-AMERICAN DRUG CO.
215-217 Fulton Street, New York

SEPTEMBER

L 915 0541

WOMEN CAN NOW DO MORE

Because Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Keeps Them Well

Fifty years ago there were few occupations for women. Some taught school, some did housework, some found work to do at home and a few took up nursing.

Today there are very few occupations not open to women. Today they work in factories with hundreds of other women and girls. There are also women architects, lawyers, dentists, executives, and legislators. But all too often a woman wins her economic independence at the cost of her health.

Mrs. Elizabeth Chamberlain who works in the Unionall factory making overalls writes that she got "wonderful results" from taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Mrs. Chamberlain lives at 500 Monmouth St., Trenton, N. J. She recommends the Vegetable Compound to her friends in the factory and will gladly answer any letters she gets from women asking about it.

If Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has helped other women, why shouldn't it help you?

Insects damage crops of this country more than $2,000,000,000 a year.

The Prussian diet has voted $25,000 toward the expense of preparing for German participation in the next Olympic games.

INDIGESTION

If you are troubled with indigestion, dyspepsia, constipation or similar disorders

Green's August Flower

will help you. Has been used successfully for more than half a century. 30c and 90c bottles. At all druggists. G. G. Green, Inc., Woodbury, N. J.

Hanford's Balsam of Myrrh

For Wounds and Sores

Money back for first bottle if not suited. All dealers.

Ancient English Clock

The oldest clock in England is at Wells cathedral, where in 1394 the keeper of "la clokk" was paid 10s. a year.

Recompense injury with justice, and ankindness with kindness.—Confucius.

CORNS

Ends pain at once!

In one minute pain from corns is ended. Dr. Scholl's Zino-pads do this safely by removing the cause—pressing and rubbing of shoes. They are thin, medicated, antiseptic, healing. At all drug and shoe stores. Cost but a trifle.

Dr Scholl's Zino-pads

Put one on—the pain is gone!

HOLLINGER'S Celebrated TREATMENT

STOMACH TROUBLE, KIDNEY TROUBLE, GALLSTONES. Hundreds of testimonials prove its wonderful merits. Full eight-ounce bottle sent prepaid for $1.00. Hollinger Remedy Company, Elkhart, Ind.

Ambitious Woman Wanted to Introduce Priscilla Dress Fabrics, Dry Goods, Handkerchiefs, etc. Easy work. Good pay. Fitzcharles Co., 96 Fitzcharles Building, Trenton, N. J.

Agents—Make Big Money, putting up gold leaf sign letters for stores and office windows. No experience. Samp. and particulars free. Hasek's Sign Letter Works, Juneau, Wis.

COUNTY AGENTS WANTED—If you are in position to invest $100 in factory to use proposition for county, write for particulars. Box J, Sycamore, Ohio.

Everybody Loves Famous Salt Water Taffy! Delicious, pure, fresh! Send only one dollar for big 2 lb. package to J. S. CUDLIPP, 8824 Delaware Ave., Kenmore, N. Y.

W. N. U., FORT WAYNE, NO. 36-1927.

Minnesota Now Has Longest Concrete Road

The longest continuous stretch of concrete roadway in the world has just been completed between White Bear and Duluth, Minn. This pavement passes through 29 towns and villages over its 137-mile length.

Paving construction on this thoroughfare, State Trunk Highway No. 1, was begun in 1923. Highway authorities point out that the completed highway will save a great deal of money through low maintenance costs. Maintenance costs for gravel surfacing on this highway have been as much as $3,000 a mile, state highway records show.

The Minnesota pavement is two miles longer than the concrete pavement extending from Olympia to Vancouver, Wash. The third longest length of concrete rural pavement reaches from Kansas City to a point west of Columbia, Mo., a distance of 125 miles.

Faith

The Mississippi flood disaster led Robert Sharp, president emeritus of Tulane university, to say at a reception in Biloxi:

"We had too much faith in our levees. Our faith in those weak levees was as boundless as the religious faith of the little girls."

Professor Sharp shook his head and smiled sadly.

"'Is God watching me?' said the first little girl.

"'Yes, He is,' said the second.

"'Is He watching me now?'

"'Yes, He is.'

"'Oh, dear! Can He see me when I'm in the bathtub?'

"'Yes—but He wouldn't look.'"

Her Disappointment

"What's the matter, Bloadie?" asked Heloise, head waitress of the rapid fire restaurant. "What's been coming off?"

"I was never so flusticated in my life!" replied Blondie. "A fella came in just now and acted for all the world as if he was going to grab and kiss me. I says to him, just like this: 'Sir-r-r, you don't dare to kiss me!' and I had sized the dumbhead up exactly right—he didn't! He had St. Vitus dance; that was what was the matter with him."

Zulus Like Western Films

When it comes to moving pictures the Zulu likes the Wild Western variety, and the wilder the better. Next in line of favor is the American comedy. Educational films are tolerated, but society dramas are zero in his estimation, according to Arthur L. Adams of the American Board mission at Rhodesia, South Africa, where picture shows are given out of doors to entertain the thousands of natives who work in the diamond mines.

If you use Russ Bleaching Blue in your laundry, you will not be troubled by those tiny rust spots, often caused by inferior bluing. Try it and see.—Adv.

Extinguishing the Blaze

"You have no fire-fighting apparatus here," said a stranger in Ten Degrees. "How was the recent conflagration handled?"

"Well, when the lumber yard began to blaze the motor bus from Top Heavy came along," answered a citizen, "and the driver ordered the prominent citizens standing around to line up and spit tobacco juice on the flames. They done so, and put it out."

Traffic Law

"Why did you jump out of the way of that auto? You have the law on your side."

"I think only of one law in such cases—the law of self-preservation."—Pathfinder Magazine.

So It Seems

Wickham—Do you know anything about wave lengths?

Myers—Sure. Half the stations are on one and the other half are on the other two.

His Work

Housewife—What do you work at my poor man?

Tramp—At intervals, ma'am.

Some cooks manage to get fat while wasting away.

HOW TO PREPARE CHICKEN SALAD

Considered One of the Most Delicious of Dishes.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

"Again she ordered chicken salad," runs the somewhat threadbare joke told about the girl who never knew what to ask for when she was entertained in a restaurant. She needn't, however, have been embarrassed at her selection, for good chicken salad is one of the most delicious dishes ever put together by an accomplished chef, and choosing it merely indicated a discriminating taste. Many people, however, order chicken salad when away from home because they seldom have it on their own tables. It seems like an elaborate and difficult combination, and perhaps because it is frequently served at wedding and other receptions, seems like too expensive a dish to set before the family. As a matter of fact, chicken salad might be enjoyed much more often in our own homes if the homemaker, fortified by a good recipe, realized also that about one-half of the bulk of the salad is made up of celery.

The United States Department of Agriculture gives the recipe below:

Chicken Salad.

A fowl weighing 5 pounds or 2 smaller fowls	2 slices onion
3 bunches celery	Salt
1 cupful mild vinegar	Mayonnaise dressing
	Lettuce

Simmer the chicken until tender in a small quantity of water. When about half done, add a teaspoonful of salt. Let it cool in the broth. After the chicken is cold, remove the skin, strip the meat from the bones, and cut it into small pieces of even size. In the meantime allow a few slices of onion to soak in a cupful of mild vinegar to give it a slight onion flavor. Remove a cupful of chicken fat from the cold broth and mix with this vinegar. Pour this mixture over the chicken, adding more salt and vinegar if needed to season it well. Let this stand, or marinate, for several hours or over night. Cut the celery stalks and some of the tender leaves in small pieces and let it stand in a cold place until it is crisp. Mix enough thick, well-seasoned mayonnaise dressing with the chicken to coat the pieces well. Shortly before the salad is to be served, add the celery and more mayonnaise if needed. Add still more salt if needed.

COTTON MATERIAL FOR STREET WEAR

Can Easily Be Laundered at Home and Does Not Fade.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The printed cotton material of which the dress in the illustration is made is soft in texture and smooth in finish. It can be laundered easily at home, it does not run or fade, and it is inexpensive. The trimming materials used are also washable. The bureau of home economics points out that the design of the fabric, a navy blue and white print, is sufficiently conservative for street wear, and the style chosen is suited to a medium sized or stout figure. White bias binding and a white lawn vest give a smart finish and emphasize the up and down lines of the dress. A wide plait extends from the shoulder to the bottom of the skirt to give ample room for walking and sitting without increasing the apparent width of the skirt. An oval buckle finishes the belt and harmonizes with the large white pearl buttons and with the pattern of the material.

A Good Cotton Material for Street Wear.

FRUIT JUICES WELL SUITED FOR VINEGAR

Suitable Receptacles for Making Vinegar at Home.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Many fruit juices are well suited to vinegar making as they contain sugar in the proper proportion and other necessary or desirable substances, says the United States Department of Agriculture. Vinegar is the result of two distinct fermentation processes—an alcoholic fermentation followed by an acetic fermentation.

Apples are most commonly used in the United States, but vinegar of unexcelled quality can be made from grapes, and very acceptable vinegar is made from oranges, peaches, persimmons, pears, berries and watermelons. Vinegar made from red raspberries will retain indefinitely the odor and flavor of the fruit, which makes it desirable for flavoring foods and beverages.

Much Fruit Wasted.

Fruit enough to make all the year's supply of vinegar is wasted in many homes. Surplus or inferior grades of fruit not desired for immediate use for canning may often be turned into a useful product at a merely nominal cost. The best receptacles for making vinegar in the home are stone jars of three to six-gallon capacity. These should have straight sides and open tops and should be provided with covers. With most fruits used it is impossible to separate the juice from the pulp before the alcoholic fermentation has taken place, so a yeast inoculation is made in a mash of the fruit. The juice only may be used if it can be extracted easily. The following method, which calls for peaches, may be used, with slight variations, for any fruits:

Ripe fruit is selected. Overripe fruit may be used if decayed portions are removed. Enough peaches are used to fill a 4-gallon jar about two-thirds full after they have been cut in two and crushed with a potato masher. The stones need not be removed. Mix a cake of compressed yeast with a small portion of the juice and add it to the mash. Cover the jar with a double layer of cheesecloth to keep out insects, and a cover to exclude light. Stir the mash daily. In four to six days alcoholic fermentation will be complete.

Juice Is Separated.

The juice is then separated from the mash by straining it through a cheesecloth, or using a hand press at the last. Return the juice to the jar with a starter in the form of vinegar. Use one part of the vinegar to four parts of juice. Cover as before. Within a few days a thin coating or film will appear on the surface. This "mother of vinegar," which is composed almost entirely of acetic bacteria, is essential for a successful fermentation. Great care, therefore, should be taken not to cause it to fall by stirring or agitation.

During the acetic fermentation frequent tests should be made to determine the increase in acidity. As soon as this has reached its maximum, the vinegar is filtered and bottled. Canton flannel is a good material for filtering vinegar.

Strength of Vinegar.

The strength of the vinegar can be determined roughly by tasting. When vinegar reaches a point where it is comparable in taste to that of a good strong vinegar, it may be regarded as complete. For accurate results a vinegar tester, in which the strength of the vinegar is determined by the volume of gas given off when bicarbonate of soda (baking soda) is treated with a measured quantity of the vinegar to be tested, should be used. Farmers' Bulletin 1424 on "Making Vinegar in the Home and on the Farm" gives a full description of this apparatus.

Children Cry for

MOTHER:— Fletcher's Castoria is especially prepared to relieve Infants in arms and Children all ages of Constipation, Flatulency, Wind Colic and Diarrhea; allaying Feverishness arising therefrom, and, by regulating the Stomach and Bowels, aids the assimilation of Food; giving natural sleep.

To avoid imitations, always look for the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. Absolutely Harmless—No Opiates. Physicians everywhere recommend it.

Bandits Change Bus Routes

Marauding Bedouin bandits are interrupting auto bus service across the Syrian desert. Reports that they were active near Damascus caused the proprietors of the Beirut-Bagdad line to detour to Palmyra. Heavy snows in the Lebanon mountains caused another shift to the Beirut-Trippole-Homs-Palmyra-Rutbah-Beirut route, a much longer distance. With the melting of the snows the route will be changed again, but the Bedouins still keep the busses from direct travel between Damascus and Iraq. Many travelers fear to venture on the route.

State Birds

Two states have state birds—Florida, the mocking bird, and Missouri, the bluebird.

Cautious

Father—The man who marries my daughter will get a prize.

Suitor—May I see it, please?

Man vs. Woman

"Man is made of dust—women stir them up, and then settle them."

There are 74 individuals in the United States whose net annual income totaled $1,000,000 during the year 1924.

Wouldst thou subject all things to thyself?—Subject thyself to thy reason.—Seneca.

Repose and cheerfulness are the badge of the gentleman—repose in energy.—Emerson.

Jamaica is attempting to establish silkworm culture and is planting mulberry trees to feed the worms.

No man alive admires his wife's taste in neckties, but he always approves her choice of a husband.

Wise is the man who first ascertains what kind of advice his friends want—and then gives it to them.

Plans are being made at San Francisco to build a bridge two-thirds of a mile long across the Golden Gate.

Taxes were once paid in blocks of salt in China.

Nearly 9,000,000 tons of wheat were harvested in India this season.

Some act first, think afterward, and then repent forever.—C. Simmons.

Borrowing trouble is bad enough sending it to your neighbors is worse.

Failure to do good is failure indeed.

Placing Him

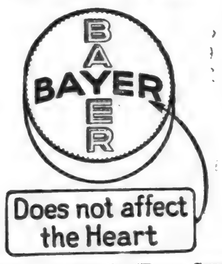
"I say, who was John Bunyan?"

"He was—er—ah—oh—he was an eminent specialist on foot troubles."

Toil and pleasure, in their natures opposite, are yet linked together in a kind of necessary connection.—Livy.

"BAYER ASPIRIN" PROVED SAFE

Take without Fear as Told in "Bayer" Package



Unless you see the "Bayer Cross" on package or on tablets you are not getting the genuine Bayer Aspirin proved safe by millions and prescribed by physicians over twenty-five years for

Colds	Headache
Neuritis	Lumbago
Toothache	Rheumatism
Neuralgia	Pain, Pain

Each unbroken "Bayer" package contains proven directions. Handy boxes of twelve tablets cost few cents. Druggists also sell bottles of 24 and 100.

Constipated?

Take NR—NATURE'S REMEDY—tonight. Your eliminative organs will be functioning

LAST STAND of the cockroach army

No use waving that white flag!

Peterman's will get him

EVERY cockroach in thousands of homes has been exterminated by Peterman's this season.

You must have a powder for roaches. Peterman's Roach Food is the right powder. It entices cockroaches from their nests.

They get just a little on their legs. Back to their nests they go—behind baseboards, under floors, where no spray could reach them.

Every cockroach they touch, their young, every egg is exterminated. Nothing is left but a little dry dust. No odor.

Here is the right insecticide for each insect:

PETERMAN'S ROACH FOOD—exterminates cockroaches.

PETERMAN'S ANT FOOD—exterminates ants.

PETERMAN'S DISCOVERY (Liquid)—exterminates bedbugs (used through spout on can).

FLYOSAN—kills flies and mosquitoes.

PETERMAN'S MOTH FOOD—protects against moths.

You must have a specific insecticide for each insect. No single insecticide will exterminate them all. We have had nearly 50 years' experience. We know that is true.

Peterman's has the right insecticide for each insect. On sale wherever drugs are sold.

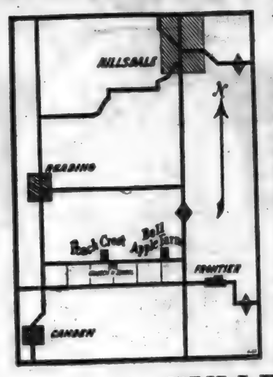
Peterman's 900 Fifth Ave., N. Y. C.

SEPTEMBER

L 915 U542

PEACH CREST

P. O. and Phone Camden, Mich.



TREE RIPENED PEACHES

must be placed quickly. Having orders our South Havens were distributed as fast as hot weather could ripen them. Champions (white) now. Elberta and New Prolific about the 20th. Lemon Free, Oct. 1st. Sales may be confined to filling orders.

We shall sell nursery stock and feel that we can offer expert advice concerning same to prospective growers whether for home or commercial orchards.

W. S. PULLEN & SONS

HOME EDUCATION

The Child's First School is the Family"—Froebel.
Issued by the National Kindergarten Association

THE TIMID CHILD

Mrs. Luther C. Smith

We all admire a boy who is brave and courageous—one who is not afraid of football or in fact of anything—but not all boys are naturally fearless. Sometimes this trait of character must be encouraged and cultivated.

I know a little boy who was naturally timid and shy—afraid of the dark, afraid to climb, afraid of certain boys, afraid to play the rough-and-tumble games that other children played. He would come home from kindergarten day after day, crying, and when questioned would say that the other boys had chased him. He often went around the block to avoid meeting some of them.

His mother realized that she must help him to cultivate courage if he were ever to be a self-reliant man. She taught him to defend himself when necessary. She told him not to begin a fight, especially with a child smaller than himself, but to stand up for himself when attacked. He learned this lesson slowly, but in a year's time could hold his own with the other boys, and, to his mother's regret, would sometimes even start a fight.

The fear of the dark she handled very carefully. When he was old enough to occupy a room of his own, for a time she allowed him to have a light in the hall near his room. Then sometimes she would turn out the light, and always when he called would turn it on again for a short time. One night he surprised her by saying that he guessed he didn't want a light any more.

As he grew older, she bought him roller-skates, then ice-skates, anything that required self-mastery and control of the muscles. Next came a base ball and bat, and finally, though she disliked the game, a football. At first he would play with the ball only by himself; then one or two other boys were allowed to play with him; soon he had a regular team. Of course, this brought a lot of noisy boys to the yard, endangered the windows and spoiled the lawn, but it was worth it all for it taught the boy valuable lessons, and he became almost fearless in the game and gloried in a black eye or a lame leg received while playing.

The first summer he went camping he was afraid of the water. His mother bought him a bathing suit and encouraged him to paddle along the shore. She never allowed the older children to frighten him or coax him beyond his depth. Gradually he came to like the water and though he has not yet ventured to swim he has an ambition to do so.

This mother encourages and praises her son when he performs any act of courage and graoually but surely he is developing into a self-reliant lad. Moreover, she teaches him that the truest courage is shown in doing a thing, when occasion demands, even though one is afraid. This, of course, really is the highest form of bravery.

SUNDAY SCHOOL REPORTS

The following is the report of Sunday schools in this vicinity for last Sunday, according to information sent The News by representatives of the schools reported.

Lutheran	70	$9.20
Spencerville M. E.	144	$8.86

BATHING BEAUTY CONTEST NOW ON

The Atlantic City Bathing Beauty Special passed through Fort Wayne Sunday on the Pennsylvania, carrying all the prize beauties from the west and mid-west states. Miss Hilda Koch boarded the special at Plymouth and was greeted by her parents at Fort Wayne

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 6.—The annual American fiesta, designed to crown the most beautiful girl in the country with the title of Miss America 1927 and incidentally boost the bathing business out of its September slump, was in full swing here tonight.

Seventy-four blonds and brunettes, each bearing the high hopes of some municipality, are actively in the contest.

With other beauties, totaling in all 103, the contestants piled giggling, breathless and excited from a special train earlier in the day and viewed the scene of what will be triumph for one of them.

They hailed from everywhere, drawn together by the possession of short under lips, long eyelashes and well-turned ankles. There are 9 secretaries and 1 stenographer, 1 art student, 1 telephone operator, 3 clerks, 1 accountant, 1 hairdresser, 2 who are actively taking up aviation, 1 milliner, 1 embryo newspaper reporter, 1 law student, 3 who are learning to be nurses, and 36 who aspire to fame either behind the footlights or in the movies.

The remainder seem to be studying for careers on the concert stage, and for all the young men hoping to capture a "Miss America" for household purposes face disappointment.

Each of the young ladies arrived with wardrobes representing the best their individual cities could produce. From "Miss Seattle" to "Miss New York" the home towns were no pikers, and porters worked long at the station separating piles of luggage.

The winner, who will have a real chance at fame and fortune, will not be selected until Saturday, after a series of parades, reviews and elimination contests in all kinds of outfits climaxed by the bathing costume review.

The formal events begin Wednesday, ushered in by a baby and juvenile review. On Thursday the beauty contestants will be put in five divisions and a committee of 15 artists will eliminte all but three in each division. One winner of each group will then be chosen durng the "bathers' revue" and from the remaining five but two will survive. "Miss America" will be announced after a secret ballot has been taken Saturday

Eddie Dowling, the actor, has been selected as "King Neptune" for the pageant and "Miss America" will have a nautical background in that spectacle in which 25,000 are to participate.

OBERHOLTZER REUNION

The thirtieth annual reunion of the Oberholtzer family was held at Eckhart Park, Auburn, on Sunday, August 21, 1927.

After the "Hello's" were all given the meeting was called to order by singing "Blest be the tie" after which all repeated the Lord's prayer.

Dinner was then announced and all responded willingly. Justice was certainly given the heavily laden table of good things. Dinner was served cafeteria style.

A social hour was then given, then the meeting was again called to order for the afternoon. The following program was given which of course was enjoyed by all.

Recitation, Dorothy Wappes; recitation, Eva Snyder; Duet, Valetta and Anna Oberholtzer; recitation, Dorothy Markle; recitation, Robert Snyder; musical selections were favored the crowd by the Misses Helen Hursh and Gaylon Markle. Mr. and Mrs. Paul Dean and Mr. Eugene Rousch; letters were then read from absent members. reports of last year's and this year's reunions were read and accepted and the following committee, Mrs. Mary James, Mrs. Bertie Hursh and James Oberholtzer nominated the following officers for the next year: President, Merritt Oberholtzer; vice president, H. C. Horn; sec.-treas., Gaylon Markle. It was then decided to hold the next reunion at the same place on the third Sunday in August, 1928. Having closed all business and social matters all joined in singing "God be with you."

The remainder of the P. M. was spent in social chat after which all departed to their various homes feeling the day was well spent.

A total of 104 were present at the reunion this year, let's make our number grow next year and all come prepared for a good time.

Among those present this year were: Mr. and Mrs. George Oberholtzer, Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Oberholtzer and family of Indianapolis; Mrs. John Hamby of Terre Haute; Mrs. Sadie Preston, Mr. Wappes and children of Avilla; Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Snyder, Clint Snyder and family, George Snyder and family of Albion; John Hursh, Miss Nellie Hursh, Robert Muhn, Miss Naomi Muhn of Auburn; Harmon Oberholtzer and family, H. C. Horn and family, Mrs Vilas Kappel and two daughters, Mr. and Mrs. E. M. James, Sherwood Hartzell and family, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Grubb, Mr. and Mrs. Dale Grubb, Carl Grubb and family and a Miss Myers and Eugene Rousch, Mr. and Mrs. George Doll and daughter of Fort Wayne; Mr. and Mrs. William Maxwell of St. Joe; Mr. and Mrs. Ben Soule, Kenneth Miller and family, B. F. Markle and family, Eck Hursh and family, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Dean, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Dean of Spencerville; Mr. and Mrs. James Oberholtzer and grandson, Mrs. Tillie Oberholtzer, Miss Millie Oberholtzer, Mr. and Mrs. Christ Shank and Miss Cozy Oberholtzer of Grabill, Chas. Stopher and family of Harlan; Mr. and Mrs. Martin Beery, Mrs. Zilpha Merrill, Herman Shaefer, also of Grabill.

MILLLIMAN REUNION HELD LAST SUNDAY

The second annual reunion of the Milliman family was held at the Coburntown Community building Sunday, with sixty-eight present. A basket dinner was served, followed by a social hour, after which the following program was given: Song; prayer; reading by Miss Lucile Smith; reading by Mrs. Meade Baker; music by Philip Smith; reading by Mrs. Marguerite Hercules; reading by Mrs. Cora Coburn; family history by Wallace Abel.

The following officers were re-elected: President, Frank Milliman; secretary-treasurer, Marguerite Hercules; program committee, Mr. and Mrs. Meade Baker. Mrs. Winifred Hart was appointed historian.

Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Glen Abel of Peru; Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Baker of Hicksville; Sam Springer and family, Jay Springer and family of Cedarville; Albert Penzin and family, Gladys McNabb and son, Mr. and Mrs. George Fulmer of Garrett; Mr. and Mrs. John Williams of Kendallville; Roscoe Coburn of Akron, Ohio; Mr. and Mrs. John Milliman, Mr. and Mrs. John Keaster of Auburn; Mr. and Mrs. Warren Coburn, Miss Lucile Smith, Mrs. Bessie Lake and son Mrs. Glen Lake, J. C Hart, Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Hercules, Millard Gruber and family of Fort Wayne; Fred Hart and family. P. F. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. F. Abel, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Milliman, Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Abel, Mrs. Mary Shuff, Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Conine, Marion Milliamn, Mr. and Mrs. Meade Baker, Blanche Tomlinson and family, Mr. and Mrs. Jay Hart and Glen Hart and family.

AMELIA BINGHAM DIES IN NEW YORK

Sorrow was manifested throughout Hicksville Friday over the passing of Amelia Bingham, the girl who was born and spent her childhood in the old hotel that now bears her name, and died a noted actress at her New York home Thursday at the age of 58.

Private services were to be held at her home in Riverside with a public service Saturday in the Little Church Around the Corner. Then her body was placed beside that of her husband, the late Lloyd Bingham, in Woodlawn cemetery.

She was the daughter of John and Maria Swilley, who kept the hotel for more than 25 years. She was graduated from Hicksville high school, and her father was putting her through Wesleyan university when an itinerant stock company lodged at his hostelry.

Lloyd Bingham was manager of the stock company. The pretty school girl took his advice which fitted in with her own desires, and disregarded sager wisdom in Hicksville, which did not. She joined the company. A year later she married Bingham.

THE OPENING OF School

Finds Our Store

Headquarters For School Books and all School Supplies

Free Book Covers with each Purchase

Geddes Drug Store

The Rexall Store

BUTLER, INDIANA

PROMISES TO CARE FOR HIS FAMILY

Sentence of Fred Donley to State Prison for One to Seven Years Suspended

Upon promise of Fred H. Donley to take care of his family properly in the future, a sentence of one to seven years in the state prison was suspended by Judge Endicott Friday.

Donley was arrested by Sheriff John Armstrong several days ago at Ligonier on complaint of his wife, May, who said that he had not been furnishing their four children the necessities of life.

Donley said that if he were given a chance he would do the right thing by his family in the future. Mrs. Donley and the children have been living at St. Joe with her parents while he was at Ligonier. Mrs. Donley was willing to accept his proposition if he would make a home for her and the children and live with them.

The court warned Donley that unless he supports his family in the future he will be sent to prison.

It's the wise worm that stays under cover and deprives the early bird of his breakfast.

PHONE 290

Stanley P. Nelson Monuments

Opposite Woodlawn and Roselawn Cemeteries

AUBURN, IND.

NOW Operating!

The St. Joe Grist Mill has been thoroughly overhauled, and is now operating in full capacity, making OUR DAILY BREAD FLOUR and also in the GRINDING OF FEEDS.

You can buy at our mill now Bran, Middlings the best that can be made from soft winter wheat.

ST. JOE MILLING COMPANY

Adhesive Currency

Old Si Chestnut says: "This country doesn't need a more elastic currency. Adhesive currency is the real need."

And old Si is more than half right. In other words we need money that will stick to us, for money is a very elusive commodity. There is only one really safe way to hold it. Put it in a reliable Bank like ours, a Bank that has the confidence of its depositors. Keep it there until there is a chance to invest it safely.

CONFIDENCE IS WHAT COUNTS.

The St. Joe Valley Bank, A STATE BANK

Dr. E. T. Julian

M. D.

St. JOE

9:30 to 11:30 each forenoon at Dr. C. R. Price office.

DEFIANCE COUNTY

FAIR

HICKSVILLE, OHIO

September 13-14-15-16

FOUR DAYS and TWO NIGHTS

50th Anniversary Jubilee

Next week, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Wednesday and Thursday Nights. Horse Races, Balloon Ascensions, St. Clair Trapeze Act, Smith & LaVour Rube Entertainers, Fine Agricultural and Live Stock Exhibits, and a Marvelous Array of Midway Attractions.

Music by Defiance, Farmer-Ney and Antwerp Bands

At the two night shows you will see a fine Moving Picture Program, and finest display of fireworks ever shown in Northwestern Ohio. Change of program each night.

Make Your Arrangements Now to Meet Your Friends and Acquaintances at Hicksville Next Week

SEPTEMBER

L 915 0543

We want your NEWS ITEMS and appreciate your calling—We can't get all the items of interest unless you do help Phone in and give your news.

ST. JOE NEWS.

This week in THE NEWS are many good offers—Read them thy're interesting. Keep up with trend of business in St. Joe—READ THE ADS.

VOL. XLI. ST. JOE, DeKALB COUNTY, INDIANA, THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 15, 1927 NUMBER 37

FAILS TO GET HIS SON, 8 YEARS OLD

Charles Epler, of St. Joe, has Failed to Show Any Interest in Boy During Most of Child's Life

The effort made by Emmet Epler of St. Joe, to secure possession of his eight year old son, Charles Franklin Epler, failed, Judge James S. Drake in the circuit court at Goshen holding Saturday that inasmuch as he had not shown any interest in the boy most of the child's life he was not entitled to his custody.

After the death of Charles' mother, when he was only a few months old, he was taken by an uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Pyle of Elkhart. Epler remarried two years after the death of his first wife and he claimed he then asked Mr. and Mrs. Pyle for the child, but that they refused his request unless he reimbursed them for the care of the boy. At the time he claims he did not have the money and did nothing further until last summer.

Charles was then visiting his mother's parents at Atwood, Ind., while Mrs. Pyle was in a hospital. Epler went to Atwood and took the boy to his own home at St. Joe. On September 3 Mr. and Mrs. Pyle went to St. Joe, found the boy on the street and took him to Elkhart with them without his father's knowledge. Epler, after a search, located the boy at the Pyle home, but Mr. and Mrs. Pyle refused to surrender him and habeas corpus proceedings in Epler's behalf were instituted by his attorney, H. W. Mounts of Garrett.

It was after a dozen witnesses were heard by the court that Judge Drake announced his decision denying the writ asked by Epler.

A few good misses in the chorus are apt to aid the opera in making a hit.

WANTED!

EXPERIENCED MEN FOR WINDING AND ENAMEL DEPARTMENT.

Dudlo Mfg. Co.

WALL STREET

FORT WAYNE, ... IND.

LIGHTS OUT

--0--

On account of changes to be made at Hicksville Sub-station, the current will be off Sunday morning, September 18th, from 8:00 A. M. to 11:00 A. M.

Indiana & Michigan Electric Co.

D. J. BLAIR, Superintendent.

PIG CLUB SHOW AT AUBURN, SATURDAY

Arrangements are now complete for the exhibit of the Boys' and Girls' Club pigs in Auburn on Saturday, September 17th. From all indications the exhibit will be larger with more quality than any other previous show. The classes will be about equally divided between the Chester Whites, Duroc Jerseys and Big Type Poland Chinas. In addition to the three breeding classes there will be a large entry in the fat barrow class. The fat barrow class is especially good as the boys show three barrows ready for market.

Prof. John W. Schwab, extension specialist from Purdue, will place all of the classes on Saturday forenoon. Mr. Schwab is a very competent swine judge and every breeder and feeder of hogs will find that it will pay to be at this show and see and hear Mr. Schwab make the places.

There will also be a few dairy calves on exhibit and perhaps the lamb club from Spencerville will exhibit. When interviewed Saturday forenoon Professor Smith of Spencerville was undecided whether or not the Spencerville boys would exhibit their lambs in Auburn on Saturday.

HENRY NELSON FOUND DEAD IN BED

Henry Nelson was found dead in bed at the old homestead on the Spencerville road, Wednesday morning about 6:30 o'clock.

He had retired as usual the evening before and seemed to be as well as usual.

When he did not get up and about in the morning as was his habit, an investigation found him dead in bed, a stroke of apoplexy being the probable cause of his death.

He was born in Tuscarawas county, this state, and when but a child six weeks old came with his parents to Hicksville and has been a resident ever since.

He was aged 74 years and the last of his family excepting the sister, Celia, he being the fourth brother to pass away in less than fourteen months. — Hicksville News-Tribune.

ELECTION NOTICE

On November 8, 1927, the citizens of St. Joe will meet at the regular voting place and elect two trustees, one for first ward and one for second ward, one clerk and one treasurer.

37t3 B. S. Sheffer, Clerk.

Rubber bands at News office.

Corunna plays ball here Sunday afternoon. The new St. Joe line-up has won the only two games they have played this season. Some record.

Mrs. Otto Carlson, wife of one of the bridgemen, who occupied the Mary Shuff residence all summer, has been reported as seriously injured in an automobile accident between Columbus and Dayton. She was in heavy traffic and signaled a slow-up, and in so doing her car run off the pavement, in turning back the car skided and turned over, catching her arm and breaking the bones so that it is thought her arm will have to be taken off. Her husband was on his way to Dayton when the news came of the accident. Mr. Carlson received a message Monday evening to come at once that she was dying.

NOTICE TO TAXPAYERS OF TAX LEVIES

In the matter of determining the tax rates for certain purposes by the Incorporate Town of St. Joe, DeKalb County, Indiana.

Notice is hereby given the taxpayers of said town above named, that the proper legal officers of said municipality at their regular meeting place, on the 3rd day of October, 1927, will consider the following budget:

Corporation fund, 10 cents on the one hundred dollars.

Light fund, 15 cents on the one hundred dollars.

Streets and alley fund, 25 cents on the one hundred dollars.

Head tax $1.50.

B. S. SHEFFER, Clerk.

MRS JOHN KOCH GIVEN BIRTHDAY SURPRISE

In honor of Mrs. John Koch's 69th birthday anniversary, a surprise party was planned by her husband, for Friday evening, and about twenty-five relatives and neighbors were present. Mr. and Mrs. Koch had retired when Mrs. Vera Rosenberry and her family arrived to make a call. Mrs. Koch was enjoying the baby when Mr. Koch opened the dining room door and in marched the friends. The surprise was complete. Ice cream, cake and wafers were enjoyed.

BAND CONCERT PROGRAM FOR SATURDAY EVENING

V. I. P. Cadets
A June Honey Moon
T. O. H. Band
Eulalia
The Bandman
The Air Mail
Gen. Funston
May Flower
Frills and Follies
The Marines.

TO PLACE REQUESTS FOR FISH IN RIVER

The Fish and Game Club will hold a meeting at the town hall next Monday evening and persons having ponds of sufficient size to care for fish can receive same from the Game Club by filing an application for same giving the desired information. All members are asked to be there.

SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION TO BE AT CONCORD

Concord Township Sunday School Convention has been called for Sunday, October 2nd., at Concord Church, with an all day meeting. Further announcements to appear later.

Parent-Teacher Association

The first P. T. A. meeting was held Tuesday evening, with a small crowd, due to the extreme hot weather. The program consisted of a violin solo by Dorothy Ginther; reading, Thelma Poper and a solo by Inez Kinsey. S. R. Esten, representing the Conservation Department of the State made an address on birds, fowls and trees. He came through the solicitation of County Superintendent Green, and is visiting the schools of the county. His talk was illustrated by slides.

CONCORD FAMILY ENTERTAINS REUNION

The eleventh annuad reunion of the Johnson-Draggoo families was held September 11, 1927, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Draggoo. The day was all you could ask for and 110 members of the two families met and enjoyed the day. A good basket dinner was enjoyed by all present.

After the dinner some time was spent in visiting and getting acquainted. At the business meeting Mrs. Ollie Stroh, of Waterloo, was elected president; Delbert Draggoo, of Concord, vice president; Lola Carper, of Auburn, secretary-treasurer. Following the business meeting a fine program was enjoyed. Then everyone enjoyed ice cream and cake.

The next reunion will be held the second Sunday in September, 1928, at the home of Henry Stroh 1¼ miles north-east of Waterloo.

Those from a distance who attended were:—Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Wise, Mrs. Mary Bartlett, Mr. and Mrs. John Johnson of Fort Wayne; Mr. and Mrs. James Draggoo, Angola; Mr. and Mrs. John Draggoo and family, Reading, Mich.; Mr. and Mrs. Edward M. Gifford, Terre Haute; Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Long, South Bend; Mr. and Mrs. Jefferson Hull, Centerville, Mich.; Mrs. Dora Biddle and Mr. and Mrs. Levi Schermerhone and family, Lagrange, Ind.; Mrs. Bertha Beach, Wolcottville, Ind.

NEW AND TESTED RECIPES FOR LADIES OF THE NEWS

FRUIT FRITTERS

2 oranges
1 cup flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
2 eggs
½ cup milk
1 tablespoon melted butter

Sift dry ingredients. Add eggs, milk and melted butter and stir until well mixed. Dip in orange sections. Fry in deep fat.

Sympathy is like blond hair; a lot of it isn't the real thing.

100 8 in 8 Coffee

Our Coffee is shipped to us direct from the roaster in small lots. That means it is always fresh. No chance to get stale, we buy it in bulk and keep it in a tight sanitary case.

So you get the most for your money.

ZONKER'S Store.

Buy COAL Now

Do not wait until cold weather when it will be higher, and if the strike continues, SCARCER.

LUMBER--CEMENT--PAINT ROOFING AND SHINGLES

FIGURE WITH US ON YOUR BUILDING MATERIAL.

WE HAVE A FULL LINE AT OUR LUMBER YARD

Bring Your Wheat to Us

WE ARE PAYING HIGHEST MARKET PRICES

NATHAN Grain Co.

St. Joe's New Lumber Yard

Call By Phone for Prices Bert Jackson, Mgr.

Meet 'em and Treat 'em

-:-AT-:-

High's Restaurant

ST. JOE

Hello 76

Why Red Top Fence Posts Hold the Lead

The fastest selling steel fence post in this locality is the Red Top. The Red Top has won this leadership through its performance in the fence line. It is a time tested post and is guaranteed by the factory and also by us.

Here are some of the features that have made the Red Top so popular:

1. Studded Reinforcing Rib Runs Full Length of Post

The Red Top is reinforced from point to top with a sturdy studded rib of steel. The studs furnish an ingenious method of attaching fence wire without the necessity of weakening the post by punching staple slots. The Red Top is guaranteed not to break in the fence line and to outlast the heaviest galvanized fencing made.

2. Fasteners Lock the Wire to the Post

The Red Top patented Handy Fastener keeps the fence wire from being pushed or pulled away from the post. The correctly spaced post studs keep the wire from slipping up or down. Nothing skimpy about this fastener—it is made heavy for strength and its long leg wraps all the way around the stem of the post.

3. The Aluminum Finish Adds to Life of Post

The Aluminum Metallic finish is baked on every Red Top and becomes an integral part of the post. This weather protective coating lengthens the life of Red Top, makes your fence lines attractive and keeps them looking that way.

4. Anchor Plate Attached Without Weakening Post

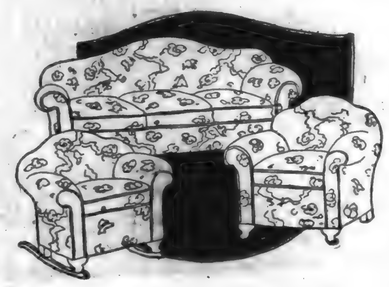
Two post studs, a part of the post itself, lock the anchor plate everlastingly to the Red Top. It is guaranteed not to come off or become loosened. The anchor plate is attached without one hole being punched in the post to weaken it and soft steel rivets or clamps also become unnecessary.

Come in and let us show you this improved Red Top; also the One Man Post Driver. Prices are very reasonable on posts just now and we recommend early buying.

Red Top GUARANTEED Steel Fence Posts

Spencerville Lumber & Supply Co.

SPENCERVILLE, IND.



Overstuffed Furniture

is all the go now and we have a number of suites in stock for inspection. Fall is coming, it's time to make it comfortable and cosy for the winter.

E. R. KINSEY, Hardware Furniture

SEPTEMBER

L 915 0544

Legionnaires Begin to Arrive in France

Here are some of the first members of the American Legion to arrive in France for the convention, photographed as they slaked their thirst in Cherbourg, where they landed. At the left is Capt. Helen Purviance of the Salvation army, the original "doughnut girl," who already has gone across to distribute doughnuts to the doughboys once more.

Funeral of Sacco and Vanzetti in Boston

Some of the many thousands of Sacco-Vanzetti sympathizers and mourners following the two hearses in the funeral procession to the Forest Hill crematory, Boston.

W. K. Vanderbilt and His New Wife

William K. Vanderbilt and Mrs. Rosamond Warburton, who were married in Paris. The groom's application to dispense with the ten days' notice demanded by the French law was denied by the authorities.

At the British War Maneuvers

Britain's new war machine, the mechanised force, had its first intensive field training on Salisbury plain recently. Photograph shows gas-masked members of the infantry passing through the gas area.

WITH BROKEN NECK

One year ago Merrill V. Beagle of Rosemont, Va., was taking a radio course when he had his neck broken in an automobile mishap. His neck was first encased in a plaster cast, and now is in a steel and leather body brace, which he has worn while completing his radio course. He has just been licensed by the government as a first class radio operator.

IN NICARAGUA

Brig. Gen. Frank R. McCoy, appointed by President Coolidge to supervise the Nicaraguan elections in 1928, has arrived in Managua, Nicaragua, where he was presented to President Diaz by Charles C. Eberhardt the American minister.

The Kitchen Cabinet

(©, 1927, by Western Newspaper Union.)

"I'm glad the stars are over me
And not beneath my feet,
Where I should trample on them
Like cobbles in the street.
I think it is a happy thing
That they were set so far;
It's best to have to look up high
When you would see a star!"

EVERYDAY FOODS

Almost everybody likes dumplings, but so many cooks complain about not being always sure of a light dumpling. Try these:

Farina Dumplings.—Take two cupfuls of milk and one cupful of boiling water. Put to cook in a double boiler with one cupful of farina, a teaspoonful of salt and cook until thick and smooth. Add two tablespoonfuls of butter and cool. When cooked add the yolks of two eggs, two tablespoonfuls of flour, and when well mixed fold in the whites of the eggs. Drop by spoonfuls into a shallow pan of salted water which has reached the boiling point. Keep the water just simmering while the dumplings are dropped in to keep them from falling to pieces. Boil covered for ten to twelve minutes, depending upon the size. Serve with chicken or any other kind of stew.

Veal Salad.—Cut one cupful of veal into dice, add three-fourths of a cupful of diced carrots cooked, one-fourth of a cupful of finely diced celery, one tablespoonful of minced onion, salt and paprika to taste. Mix all the ingredients, add boiled dressing to moisten, and arrange on lettuce; garnish with a spoonful of mayonnaise on each salad. Peas or other left-over vegetable may be used in place of the carrots.

Noodles cooked in boiling salted water and served covered with a cupful or more of browned buttered crumbs sprinkled over them make a nice change to serve as a vegetable in place of potatoes.

Filled Cake Pudding.—Make a plain butter cake and bake it in a deep basin. Cut off the bottom and scoop out the center of the cake, leaving a shell half an inch thick. Make a boiled custard of the yolks of the eggs left from the cake, add a few nuts and raisins and a cupful of cake crumbs. Fill the shell with the mixture, put on the cover and frost the top and the sides. Serve surrounded with whipped sweetened and flavored cream and garnish with cubes of jelly.

Helpful Hints.

If the feet are swollen, hot and sensitive as they are so apt to be when the housewife is much on her feet, bathe them in alcohol after giving them a good soaking in salt water.

The importance of well-fitting and comfortable shoes is vital. The habit of many women when the feet are tired and painful is to slip on old felt slippers. This is a most reprehensible habit as it only aggravates the trouble.

A heel should be large enough, even if high, to support the weight of the body.

Stockings should be long enough to avoid wrinkles and short enough to fit well and avoid joint trouble.

Many a backache, headache, fits of temper and bad nerves may be caused from poorly shod feet.

Change of shoes and hose twice daily helps the feet wonderfully. The shoes should be well aired and the hose perfectly dry before dressing the feet.

Use cold coffee or tea infusion for all kinds of ferns instead of water once a week, soaking the roots well.

Heat table salt very hot and fill the bottle; it will retain heat much longer than water, with no danger from leakage.

To keep a cake moist, cover with an icing while the cake is still warm; then put a jelly glass of water in the cake box. The air will be kept moist by the water and the cake will not dry. An apple is often used for this purpose.

To make a good temporary cement for any metal utensil, mix a little wood ashes with white of egg to make a thick paste. Put this over the hole and hold the utensil over the heat until the paste bakes.

Nitrate of soda is a good tonic for house plants that need it. Dissolve one teaspoonful in a quart of water and use it once a week to water the plants. This tonic will produce growth quickly in young healthy plants.

Mend a leak in a hot water bottle with adhesive tape.

Nellie Maxwell

Is Handshake Unhygienic?

In the storehouse of a coal mine near Dortmund there is a curious placard on the wall. It reads as follows:

"Gentlemen, commercial travelers and others coming here for business are requested to omit handshaking from their visits.

"Shaking hands is a waste of time is unhygienic, is often badly received, and will not have the slightest influence on the placing of orders from our firm."

What's the Answer?

Questions No. 16

1—What is the name of the highest peak in Canada?

2—Who was the leading jockey for 1926?

3—Who was the Union general at the battle of Gettysburg?

4—Who was Kit Carson's grandfather?

5—Where are diamonds found in the United States?

6—What celebrated English landscape artist, apostle of light and color, made upward of 400 paintings and 19,000 drawings?

7—Who is considered England's leading "pagan" story writer?

8—How long is the Ribber crab and where is it found?

9—What does a lawyer mean when he calls a statement "impertinent"?

10—What is the last line in the Lord's Prayer?

11—What great religious allegory was completed by its author while in prison?

12—Which is the loftiest peak in the United States, exclusive of Alaska?

13—What horse won the Futurity in 1926?

14—Who was known as the "Pathfinder?"

15—What great Revolutionary victory was won on Christmas night?

16—Where is the fly's sense of taste located?

17—What living violinist in America has been the teacher of Elman, Heifetz, Zimbalist, Seidel and other celebrated artists of the violin?

18—Where does the coco palm flourish best?

19—What is wrong with the phrase, "The man whom he said was there"?

20—When did Mary Baker Eddy discover what she termed Christ Science or Divine Laws of Life, Truth and Love, and name her discovery Christian Science?

Answers No. 15

1—Nethou.
2—Crusader, who won $141,583.
3—Savannah, 1819.
4—1790.
5—The dried meat of the coconut.
6—Liszt.
7—Walt Whitman.
8—Central Africa and does its best on the open shores of lakes and rivers.
9—Harmless state of disuse.
10—Chapter 20.
11—The Cheviots.
12—C. De Mar.
13—John Adams.
14—Grover Cleveland.
15—Commander R. E. Byrd, U. S. N.
16—Ben Turpin.
17—In Camberly, near London, England.
18—They occur in all seas, except the Arctic and Antarctic and are carnivorous in their habits.
19—Because with two the comparative is used, not the superlative.
20—To Isaiah.

Royal Wife Rebuked by Prince Consort

Albert, prince consort of Queen Victoria, filled a difficult, thankless office with tact and success, but was misunderstood and disliked by Englishmen of his generation almost without exception, according to a writer in the Kansas City Star. Brought from an insignificant German town and comparative poverty, at the age of twenty he found himself king in all but name of the most powerful country and wedded to a very trying wife.

In public the queen displayed adoration and a sentimental solicitude for him, in private she was petulant and exacting. But he bore his trials patiently and once in a while gave his wife a quiet and effective lesson. One evening while he was dining with the council of the Royal academy a messenger arrived from Victoria saying that she desired his presence at Buckingham palace. The prince merely nodded. Half an hour later a second messenger said the queen was waiting and required the prince to return at once. Again he merely nodded. In another thirty minutes arrived a peremptory order: "The queen commands your royal highness' immediate return." Cool and phlegmatic as ever, even under this final humiliation, the prince again dismissed the messenger with a nod. He remained with his hosts of the evening and, sleeping elsewhere, did not return to the palace that night.

Europe Saved at Chalons

A great horde of northeastern people was led into western Europe in the Fifth century by Attila, king of the Huns. For a time these semi-barbarians swept all before them, but finally they were met at Chalons, in eastern France, in the year 451 A. D., by the combined forces of the Romans and the Goths under Aetius and Theodoric. Attila sustained a crushing defeat, and central Europe was saved from the invaders.—New York Herald-Tribune.

THIS NURSE NOW HAS GOOD HEALTH

Praises Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

"I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for some time and I would not be without it in the house. As I am a children's nurse, I have to be on my feet a great deal and your medicine has helped me wonderfully. I was hardly able to do my housework when I began taking it, and now I am a strong and well woman, able to do all that and go out nursing besides. I have also used the Sanative Wash and found it beneficial."—Mrs. Gertrude L. Stewart, 103 Davis St., Greenfield, Mass.

Valuable for Weakness

"I have found Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a valuable medicine for weakness."—Mrs. J. A. Pietsch, Box 397, Lancaster, Pa.

Hundreds of letters like these are received by the Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass. Grateful women from Pennsylvania to Washington, from Texas to Illinois and from Rhode Island to Nebraska say that their health has improved since taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM
Removes Dandruff—Stops Hair Falling
Restores Color and Beauty to Gray and Faded Hair
60c. and $1.00 at Druggists.
Hiscox Chem. Wks. Patchogue, N. Y.

FLORESTON SHAMPOO—Ideal for use in connection with Parker's Hair Balsam. Makes the hair soft and fluffy. 50 cents by mail or at druggists. Hiscox Chemical Works, Patchogue, N. Y.

Heating Centralized

Steam for power, heating and electric generation is bought by New Yorkers to the extent of 7,000,000,000 pounds a year. Combustion engineers who made the survey call it prophetic of the time when householders will buy steam instead of running furnaces.

DIURETIC STIMULANT TO THE KIDNEYS
Standard for Generations.

Mrs. J. Earl, R. F. D. No. 3, Oneida, N. Y., writes as follows:
"I want to tell you how much good your Dodd's Pills did for my husband, who has been laid up with sciatica for sometime. He tried every medicine he heard tell of until he was finally persuaded to try Dodd's Pills. After taking two boxes he secured quick relief."
At all druggists, 60c per box, or The Dodd's Medicine Co., Inc., 700 Main St. Buffalo, N. Y.

The Wrath to Come

President Guth of Goucher college told at a tea in Baltimore an examination story with a moral.

"A student," he said, "took it easy through the year, and when examination time came he failed in all seven of his examinations.

"'Poor father!' he thought, 'and he so proud of me!'

"So the student hurried to the telegraph office and telegraphed to his sister:

"'Failed in all seven examinations. Prepare poor father.'

"His sister telegraphed back:

"'Father prepared. Prepare yourself.'"

For your daughter's sake, use Russ Bleaching Blue in the laundry. She will then have that dainty, well-groomed appearance that girls admire.—Adv.

Of Course

Sue—Is Madge well dressed?

Prue—No, she is—er—well—half dressed.

"BAYER ASPIRIN" PROVED SAFE

Take without Fear as Told in "Bayer" Package

BAYER

Does not affect the Heart

Unless you see the "Bayer Cross" on package or on tablets you are not getting the genuine Bayer Aspirin proved safe by millions and prescribed by physicians over twenty-five years for

Colds	Headache
Neuritis	Lumbago
Toothache	Rheumatism
Neuralgia	Pain, Pain

Each unbroken "Bayer" package contains proven directions. Handy boxes of twelve tablets cost few cents. Druggists also sell bottles of 24 and 100.

SEPTEMBER

L 915 0545

The GREEN CLOAK

By YORKE DAVIS

WNU Service. Copyright, 1936

STORY FROM THE START

Dr. Ronald McAlister, famous in his special work,—applied psychology—empoys his leisure time in the elucidation of crime mysteries. As the narrative opens he is interested with Assistant District Attorney Ashton in the murder, in the small town of Oak Ridge, of a recluse, Henry Morgan. The murdered man, his papers reveal, had been in New Zealand, where Doctor McAlister had lived in his youth. Will Harvey has testified he saw a woman wearing a green cloak in the Morgan home the night of the murder. Doctor Reinhardt, friend of McAlister, telephones he has a queer case in his hospital and invites McAlister to see the patient. The doctor sees a possible connection between the murdered New Zealander and the girl. McAlister and his friend go through Morgan's papers. An immense collection of maps interests them. The doctor finds a noose and a pipe, used as a tourniquet, the instrument of the killing.

CHAPTER III—Continued

—8—

"There must have been some standard, some test that he tried those coast lines by. When they did not fit it, he destroyed them. That test or standard may have existed solely in his memory. If not, if it was a thing committed to paper, then we can find it. Whatever it was, he must have been in the habit of referring to it constantly. In that case, I have no doubt that it's somewhere in this room. Take the lamp and hold it at the other end of the bookshelves—so. Now raise it so that the light will fall horizontally along the top shelf."

He had stationed himself at the opposite end from where I stood, and he sighted along the projecting edge of the shelf as I raised the lamp to the height he indicated.

"Try the next one," he said, "—so. And now the next. There; that'll do. We've got it, if I'm not mistaken."

He walked over toward my end of the case and pulled a book out of the third shelf.

"Our thanks are due to the old woman for not being too good a housekeeper," he observed in comment. "The dust on those books is evidence enough that he was not in the habit of reading them. But this one shows a clear track in and out of the shelf. There's no better hiding place for a sheet of paper than a book."

He balanced the book carefully in both hands, and then let it open where it would.

"Well," he said, "I think we've found it," for there between the two yellow pages was a bluish sheet of semi-transparent paper, folded.

He laid down the book and opened up the paper. It was a map, too, and as I looked at it closely, I saw that it was executed on a very large scale. It was a map of a very narrow-necked peninsula. The soundings in the sea all about it were indicated frequently. Over the surface of the land itself were various little numerals, which had their explanation in a legend in the corner. One had only to read a little way down this explanatory column to see with what minute care the map had been drawn, and on how large a scale. Such unimportant objects, from a geographer's point of view, as a granite bowlder or a blasted tree had their position indicated.

No, the purpose of that map-maker had not been purely geographical. So much was clear.

"It's a tracing, you see," Doctor McAlister observed. "He's got the original locked away somewhere, now. But, do you notice, there's nothing on the sheet, anywhere, to indicate in what part of the world this bit of land lies? There's no latitude or longitude indicated. We'll have to get the original to find that."

At that, the explanation of the whole mystery of this wilderness of maps flashed across my mind.

"No," I cried, "he hasn't got latitude or longitude on the original, either! He never knew, to the day of his death, any better than we know now, into what sea that little peninsula juts its head. That's what he spent the last three years of his life hunting for."

Doctor McAlister nodded gravely. "You are quite right," he said; "right beyond a doubt. There's no knowing what there is to be found on that bit of headland, but whatever it is, he wanted it badly."

It was natural that we should both fall silent just then, natural, too, that in our excitement over the discovery, our nerves were higher strung than usual. It had grown pretty late. There was a dead stillness within the house. The only sound, save the ticking of a clock, that came to our ears was the occasional moan of a gust of wind through the trees and around the corners of the house. So it was natural that we both started violently when a gust of wind blew open one of the windows, with a bang, and caused our lamp to flicker and then go out.

I laughed nervously, and wiped my forehead with the back of my hand. It was wet. Then I rose, or rather, started to rise, and spoke at the same time—began to speak, at any rate. What I had in mind to say was, that I would close the window if the doctor would relight the lamp.

But before I had said three words, the compelling grip of his muscular hand thrust me back into my chair, and my sentence trailed off into a sort of gasp.

So, for a moment, we sat breathless.

"Somebody's getting in," I whispered presently. "It must be Mallory."

"Mallory has a key," he retorted. "Listen—"

No, that was not Mallory. It was not anybody trying to get in, for somebody had already succeeded—somebody who was already making his way, with swift, almost incredibly stealthy steps, up the stairs from the second floor to the room where we were sitting.

We drew back into an obscure corner and stood close together, half-crouching, eyeing the door.

Presently we saw it opening. And then there emerged from its shadow a face we both knew—a face neither of us is ever likely to forget. The eyes in that face we had never seen before, for they had been closed the last time we looked at it. Now they were about all we could see. The black hair lost itself in the shadow which enveloped the doorway, and the olive-brown skin was itself a shadow. But the eyes—they burned with the flaming green intensity of a leopard's.

It Was a Cloak, a Green Cloak, and the Collar Was Cut High in the Back.

The doctor and I shrank back into our corner and waited, breathlessly, to see what she would do. The first thing was curious, and little to be expected. She closed behind her the door by which she had entered. Then, with brisk certainty, but with no noise at all, she moved toward the desk. That brought her a little nearer us.

She had got within arm's reach of the swivel chair, when suddenly, like a flash, all the motion of her body was arrested. Her attitude had something of the frozen alertness that one sees in a setter dog when he points game. We could see her face better now; it was turned squarely toward us. But, apparently, she did not see us. That was natural, for we were deep in the shadow. But she knew we were there. The next moment I perceived that she knew by virtue of the same sense that the setter uses. She had caught our scent. Her head went back a little, her nostrils dilated, and she seemed to be drawing in a deep breath.

I have no command of English to describe the suddenness and unexpectedness of the thing that happened then. She stood there before us, as I have said, like one frozen, so still was she. And then, with no preliminary motion whatever, no crouch, no visible gathering up of the forces for a spring, she flashed across the room toward the open window, like a dancing shadow. For just an instant I saw her etched in profile as she poised upon the sill. And then she was gone.

I had followed her to the window as swiftly as my clumsy, human motions would permit, and looked down, expecting to see her lying bruised and broken on the frozen ground. Instead of that, I saw the fleeting shadow of her moving swiftly across the snowy lawn toward the gate.

A moment later, bare-headed, bare-handed, I was running at top speed down the rough, frozen country road in the direction I had seen her take.

Before I had gone fifty yards, I heard other footsteps pounding along behind me, and a momentary fear that my old chief had been reckless enough to risk his bones in such a chase caused me to pause and turn back. It was not Doctor McAlister, however, but the detective, Mallory, and as he panted up alongside me, he said:

"I saw her coming down the rainpipe. She might almost as well have fallen, she came down so fast. What was she like? I don't suppose you got anything of a look at her, though."

"No," said I. "The wind had just blown out the lamp, and we were there in the dark when she came in."

"It doesn't matter," he said briefly, as we plowed along, side by side. "I'll know what she's like well enough when I come up with her. But there is no use in your keeping up the chase. I'll get her alone, never fear. Nothing that wears skirts can outrun me."

I was already half inclined to take his advice and turn back, for the pace was beginning to tell on me, when I tripped over something and fell headlong.

By the time I had picked myself up and shaken some of the loose snow out of my sleeves, he was already a hundred yards ahead down the road. I was about spent, so, regretfully, I turned back.

But for one moment I passed curiously to investigate the cause of my fall. It had been something soft, something that gave a little as my foot struck it, and then clung. It had been entirely covered by the snow, which had fallen out here in the country to a depth of nearly six inches.

I scuffled around in it with my feet until I found it. Then I stooped and picked it up. It must be a shawl or a blanket, I thought, as I shook the snow out of its folds and held it out in both hands. No, it was neither. It was a cloak; a green cloak, and the collar was cut high in the back.

I cast a glance over my shoulder. Mallory was already out of sight in the distance. I threw the cloak over my arm and trudged back to the house.

CHAPTER IV

Early the next morning Doctor McAlister and I took one of the trains upon which the male population of Oak Ridge habitually goes to town upon its several and various business. We had by no means exhausted the possibilities of discovery which still lay concealed, we felt sure, within that lonely old house where we had passed so strange a night; nor had we solved its mystery. But matters of more instant importance compelled us, for a while, to abandon it.

In the first place, we knew that, little as we liked the prospect, it was our clear duty to report to Ashton what we knew of the mysterious, wild creature who had escaped from the hospital and was now at large. By one means or another, she must be found as quickly as possible. She had already destroyed one life—of that we were practically sure—and until she was safely under restraint again, we could have no guaranty that she would not destroy others. To thwart that possibility, we must call in Ashton and the police, however little to our liking such a course might be.

We deferred our breakfast until our arrival in town, memories of the dinner we had had the night before making it easy to go hungry for a while. We were later getting in than we expected to be, for a combination of fog and freezing sleet delayed our train. Out of the car windows we could see as we crawled along, that the telegraph wires were already sagging under their white armor of ice. As soon as we got in, we drove straight to The Meredith.

In the restaurant we found Ashton himself, just sitting down to breakfast. He welcomed us with an eagerness that showed that he had already heard some report of our adventure of the night before.

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

Cats Alike Fond of Traveling and Home

The glare of limelight that recently beat upon Fluffy, the London Victoria station cat, who boards the 10:45 train to Dover every morning, lunches upon nice creamy milk at the buffet there, and returns to town by the afternoon train, is a reminder of a curious fact about cats; they are at once the greatest travelers and the greatest "home bodies" of all domesticated animals.

Other cats in England, and, indeed, in most countries, regularly journey long distances on trains, usually in the restaurant car, but sometimes with the train crew. As for seafaring cats, there must be hundreds of thousands of them, from North cape to the Horn, Southampton water to Nagasaki bay. Most liners carry quite a number; there are White Star vessels with five-and-twenty aboard. There was an amusing incident not long ago when one of the Adriatic's cats, that had failed to turn up when the ship sailed, reappeared for the next voyage with its tail proudly waving in the breeze and five little kittens trotting along behind.—Manchester Guardian.

Restless Ambition

As dogs in a wheel, or squirrels in a cage, ambitious men still climb and climb, with great labor and incessant anxiety, but never reach the top.—Burton.

Job for the Censor

"The weight of the earth," reads a magazine article, "is 6,997 followed by 18 naughts." A very naughty story—Farm and Fireside.

Improved Uniform International

Sunday School Lesson

(By REV. P. B. FITZWATER, D.D., Dean Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.)
(©, 1937, by Western Newspaper Union.)

Lesson for September 18

THE KINGDOM DIVIDED

LESSON TEXT—I Kings 12:1-24.

GOLDEN TEXT—Pride goeth before destruction, and a haughty spirit before a fall.

PRIMARY TOPIC—God Punishes a Foolish King.

JUNIOR TOPIC—God Punishes a Foolish King.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—The Folly of Pride.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—How to Prevent Divisions.

The movements leading up to the disruption of the kingdom had begun in Solomon's reign. He saw in Jeroboam the leader of insurrection and endeavored to kill him. Jeroboam fled to Egypt until Solomon's death (I Kings 11:40). Having been informed by the prophet Abijah that he was to have ten tribes over which to rule, as soon as he heard of Solomon's death he returned to be ready to take up his work.

I. The Demand of the People (vv. 1-4).

This was occasioned by the burden of excessive taxation and enforced labor, which was required by Solomon in order to build costly houses and temples for his heathen wives. The people were groaning under its weight. Upon the accession of the new king Rehoboam, the people, through their leader Jeroboam, came with the request that their burdens be made lighter, promising loyalty to him on the condition of lightened burdens.

II. Rehoboam's Foolish Decision (vv. 5-15.)

1. Rehoboam consulted with the old men (vv. 5-7). These were men of experience who had been Solomon's advisers. Being acquainted with the condition as imposed by Solomon, and knowing the temper of the people, they advised that the people's request be granted.

2. Rehoboam consulted the young men (vv. 8-11). These young men had grown up with him, possibly were his half-brothers, sons of Solomon's many wives. Being thus brought up in the luxury of the harem, they were ignorant of the legal right of the people. Therefore they advised that the burdens be increased,

3. Rehoboam followed the advice of the young men (vv. 12-15). At the appointed time he announced his purpose to the people. He even answered them roughly, asserting his purpose to increase their burdens and sorrows. He assumed that it was his right to rule and that it was the people's role to obey regardless of conditions.

III. The Revolt of the Ten Tribes (vv. 16-24).

Upon Rehoboam's announcement of his rash purpose all Israel cried out, "What portion have we in David? . . . to your tents, O Israel."

1. Rehoboam's attempt to collect tribute (vv. 18, 19). As he endeavored to collect tribute from the ten tribes, Adoram, his tribute gatherer, was stoned to death. So violent was the opposition on the part of the people that Rehoboam had to flee to Jerusalem to save his life.

2. Jeroboam made king over Israel (v. 20). They seem to have lost no time in selecting a head so as to be strong in their opposition to Rehoboam.

3. Rehoboam's attempt to compel the ten tribes to return to David (vv. 21-24).

To effect this, he assembled his army of 180,000 men. Through the prophecy of Shemaiah, which forbade them to go against their brethren, they were pursuaded to return.

IV. Jeroboam's Scheme to Unify the Ten Tribes (vv. 25-33).

1. He established calf worship (vv. 31-33).

(1) He built houses and high places (v. 31). This was against the direct command of God. God had directed His people to destroy the high places and to break down the idolatrous centers. So we see that Jeroboam, by the demands of his sinful heart, disobeyed God.

(3) He changed the day of the Feast of the Tabernacle (v. 32). The time of this feast was set by the Lord (Lev. 23:33, 34). Jeroboam argued that the change in the time would be better suited to their northern climate, but God, who made the climate, ordained the time of the feast. It was his business, therefore, to obey God.

(4) Jeroboam himself intrudes into the priest's office. The act of presumption on his part was the climax of his godless acts, all of which grew out of his wicked heart.

God Established Prayer

God has established prayer to communicate to His creatures the dignity of causality.—Pascal.

The Business of Life

The business of life is largely made up of minute affairs, requiring only judgment and diligence.—Beecher.

Be Not as Water

Be not as water which takes the tint of all colors.—Syriac.

CANNED TOMATOES ARE VALUABLE FRUIT

Use the Pressure Canner in Canning Tomatoes.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Canned tomatoes are not only valuable for their good flavor when stewed, scalloped, or used in soups, gravies and innumerable other dishes. It is also important to serve them frequently during the months when fresh vegetables are scarce, because, unlike many other garden products depended on for vitamines, cooking or canning tomatoes does not seem to affect their vitamine potency. The juice of canned tomatoes may be given to babies and little children when oranges are not available.

Tomatoes Easily Canned.

Make sure, therefore, of a supply of canned tomatoes if you have a garden surplus this summer. Tomatoes are easily canned by the water-bath method. A water-bath canner may be a wash boiler or any covered vessel of sufficient depth for the jars or cans to be completely immersed while processing, and equipped with a rack or false bottom. The pressure canner at 212 degrees F. may be used. The United States Department of Agriculture gives the following directions for canning tomatoes:

Use only clean, sound, fresh tomatoes, as soon as possible after picking. Scald and peel them. Pack them into jars or cans either whole or cut into pieces. Use some of the tomatoes to cook into tomato juice, which is poured hot over those in the jars. Add one teaspoonful of salt to each quart jar.

Arrange Paraphernalia.

Adjust rubbers, tops and springs on the jars, or seal tin cans and place in the canner. It should have a close-fitting cover. Process quart jars for 25 minutes, pint jars for 20 minutes and tin cans for 15 minutes, counting the time as soon as the water surrounding the jars begins to boil actively.

Label all jars or cans so that each lot can be identified. Keep them at room temperature for at least a week. Discard any showing signs of spoilage, and watch others of the same lot, to be sure that they are keeping.

FISH CHOWDER IS MOST HEALTHFUL

Supplies Mineral Needed to Keep Bodies Normal.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The need of variety in our bills-of-fare still exists, and the sea, as the saying goes, is as "full of good fish as ever came out of it." Moreover, fish, especially the salt-water kinds, both fresh and canned, are the best known source of iodine, a mineral that is needed to keep our bodies normal and healthy. It is a lack of iodine, for instance, in food and drinking water that leads to disturbance of the thyroid gland and one form of the disease known as goiter. Scientific workers have discovered that there is a goiter belt through the inland states where there is a deficiency of iodine in the soil and, consequently, in the drinking water and the vegetables grown in the soil, and where the people eat small quantities of fish and sea food. Therefore, there is a good health reason behind the fish dinner, and it is well to include one in the family menu regularly. Fish chowder is one of those one-dish dinners that will appeal to you as a housekeeper on days when you want to be out-of-doors gardening or indoors getting ahead with the summer sewing.

For fish chowder you will need the following ingredients: One and one-half pounds of fresh fish. Cod or haddock is the kind generally preferred for chowder, but any kind of fresh, dried, or canned fish will do if it has large flakes of meat and only a few bones which can be easily picked out before the fish is combined with the other ingredients. Or if you prefer, use a quart of clams or oysters when in season instead of the fish. In addition to the one and one-half pounds of fish, you will need: nine potatoes, peeled and cut in small pieces; one onion, sliced; two cupfuls carrots cut in pieces; one-fourth pound salt pork; three cupfuls milk; pepper. Now for the method of making. Cut the pork in small pieces and fry with the chopped onion for five minutes. Put pork, onions, carrots, and potatoes in a kettle and cover with boiling water. Cook until the vegetables are tender. Add the milk and the fish which has been removed from the bones and cut in small pieces. Cook until the fish is tender, or for about ten minutes. Chowder can be thickened with flour, but most people prefer to add crackers in imitation of the fishermen who always used pilot bread. For this quantity of chowder you will need about eight or nine good-sized crackers. Split them so that they will soak up the liquid evenly and not be soft on the outside and dry inside, and add them to the chowder a few minutes before serving.

Plan to have some sort of crisp bread with this dinner, such as toast or toasted crackers. As chowders ordinarily include both potatoes and crackers, no starchy vegetable is needed. The chowder must be served in a soup dish so it will be more convenient not to have a second vegetable with it but to serve one in the form of salad. A green pepper and cottage or cream cheese is easily made.

STUFFED CYMLING QUITE DELICIOUS

Dish Is Available Many Months in the Year.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

One of the nicest baked stuffed vegetables is stuffed cymling, which is available a good many months of the year. Any small portions of leftover may be added to the ingredients called for in the following recipe, which is supplied by the bureau of home economics:

Baked Stuffed Cymling.

1 large tender cymling	Salt and pepper
1½ cupfuls dry bread crumbs	½ cupful vegetable if desired, such as cooked peas, carrots, beans or celery
1 tablespoonful chopped onion
1 tablespoonful chopped green pepper	Crisped bacon or cubes of salt pork if desired
4 tablespoonfuls butter

Wash the cymling. Scoop out the pulp with a spoon, being careful not to break the outer skin. Cook the cymling shell until tender in boiling salted water. Remove and drain. While the shell is still warm, rub the inside with butter so the flavor will go through the vegetable. In the meantime, brown the onion and green pepper in the fat, add the bread crumbs, and stir until well mixed. Also cook the inside of the cymling until tender and dry, add it to the seasonings and bread crumbs. If any of the vegetables mentioned are used or the crisped bacon or salt pork, mix with the other ingredients. Place the mixture in the shell and cover the top with buttered crumbs. Bake in the oven until hot through and golden brown on top. Cut the slices and serve at once.

Stuffed Cymling.

Breast of Lamb Cooked With Spinach Stuffing

Among the less expensive cuts of meat available in most markets is breast of lamb. Because of the rib bones this presents some difficulty and waste in carving if simply baked as it comes, but if prepared in the following way, suggested by the bureau of home economics, it will be found delicious and economical:

Simmer a breast of lamb in enough salted water to cover until tender. Remove from the broth, slip the bones out at once, and allow the meat to cool. Meanwhile prepare the spinach stuffing. Spread out the breast of lamb, cover it with a thin layer of the stuffing, roll it, and tie at both ends with clean white string. Place the rolled meat in a baking pan, sprinkle lightly with flour, pour a cupful of the broth around it, and brown in a hot oven.

SEPTEMBER

L 915 U546

LOCAL ITEMS IN BRIEF.

Eunice Henly is on the sick list.

Dale Trostel spent Sunday at Garrett.

Eighteen car loads of old iron will be shipped from the river bridge. An average of three cars per day are leaving St. Joe.

Have your glasses fitted by Benj. F. Griest, Eyesight Specialist, Office in American Bldg., Hicksville, Ohio. 28tf.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Erlenbaugh, of Fort Wayne, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Buckingham.

The gravel road, from Henry Krabill's Corners north of town, north to the T. & C. pike has been completed.

See Dodge Bros. Motor Cars at the Kendallville Fair, the fastest Four in America. Full line of Sixes and Graham Bros. Trucks. C. C. HILKERT.

Frank Ferman, B. & O. extra operator, is here relieving Wm. Mossberger for a few days. "Bill" is on the sick list, trying to have the grip.

Bowser & Reed Tin Shop moved to residence in St. Joe. Repairing promptly done. See us for all roofing, spouting and general tin work. Phone 3-1. 31t3.

OPTOMETRY—ITS VALUE TO THE PUBLIC

By Ed W. Hicks, Optometrist and Optician

Should patients with astigmatism wear their glasses constantly?

Yes, if the error demands correction, it should be KEPT corrected.

An error of vision cannot be CURED?

No, it is merely corrected, and it is corrected ONLY when the glasses are worn.

Then glasses which correct astigmatism should be put on the first thing in the morning?

Yes, and removed the last thing at night.

(To be continued.)

ED. W. HICKS
AUBURN
"OUR SPECIALTY — COMFORTABLE VISION"

Writing tablets at News office.

Really it is too warm for children to go to school.

Chas. Cochran purchased a new Essex Coach, Tuesday.

All notary work can be promptly cared for at News office. Call and see us.

Mr. and Mrs. Alvy Place, of Fort Wayne, were Sunday guests of Mervin and Reed Place.

Mrs. G. M. Richter, of Chicago, arrived Monday evening for a week's visit in the F. M. Thornton home.

Mrs. Pauline Jordan entertained the Friendly Bible class of the M. P. Sunday School, at her home Monday evening.

Mrs. Belle Ridgway returned home Sunday after an extended visit with relatives at Hobart, South Bend and North Liberty, Indiana.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Schirer and son, Richard of Chattanooga, Tenn., and Mrs. Charles Bonebrake, of Bucyrus, Ohio, were over Monday night guests in the O. E. Ginther home.

Mrs. Mary Harrod and son, Jay, of Mansfield, Ohio, and daughter, Mrs. Ralph Darling, of Lucas, O., who attended the home-coming and visited in Michigan last week, were Friday guests in the Chas. Koch home.

The Ferrow Construction Co., who did the work at the B. & O. river bridge are completing their work and part of the equipment goes to Silver Creek, Ohio and Brownstown, Indiana, where they have other work.

Reports that children would not be permitted on the Williams County Fair Grounds at Montpelier, Ohio, because of Infantile Paralysis has been flatly denied by the Fair Board and County Health Commissioner. At present, there is not a single case of the disease in the whole county.

Robert Coburn, who is doing chores for W. J. Staman, went out to the barn Tuesday morning to feed the horses, he crawled up in the hay mow to throw down some hay, when two tramps were aroused from their slumber. Robert did not say good morning to them nor did he crawl down the ladder, he slid down, and when he got to the house he was all out of wind. Joe Hull came to the rescue, but the tramps had disappeared.

Miss Vera Hodgson started to school Monday.

For Sale:—Hard Coal Burner. S. D. Gee, St. Joe. 37t1.

Mrs. Reed Place is under the care of her physician.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Miser attended the Angola Fair last Friday afternoon.

Hollis Akins was absent from school a few days this week on account of sickness.

The Kain Brothers ditching machine was loaded here Monday and is being shipped to Toledo.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Brown an Warren of Butler, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Abner Trostel.

The R. H. C. met with Mrs. Marie Trostel, Thursday. The next meeting will be with Mrs. W. Wilder, September 22.

Henry Hathaway, of Auburn, who was injured near Columbia City a few weeks ago, when thrown by a bridge pry, is unable to be out of bed.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Kees were at Fort Wayne Sunday visiting their son, Leon and family. The grandson is quit sick with whooping cough.

Mr. and Mrs. James Edwards, of Albion, and Mr. and Mrs. B. V. Widney, of Columbia City, were supper guests of Mrs. Alice Copp, Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Lawson, of Logansport, and Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Lindley and family, were Sunday guests of their mother, Mrs. Virginia Lawson.

W. S. Pullen & Sons, of Camden, Michigan, writes The News as follows:—"Response to our advertising has been very gratifying, and we think we can scarcely say anything further in connection with this season's crop." And you can do the same if you have anything to sell.

All the scientific learning of twenty-five distinguished British surgeons, who came to Rochester to inspect the Mayo clinic on a tour of American medical centers, failed them when they were confronted with American sweet corn on the cob. On the diner of the train which brought the party to Rochester, sweet corn was a part of the menu, but they did not know how to eat it until the steward saw their plight and gave a clinical demonstration.

Spencerville M. E. .... 78—$5.70

Daily papers at News office and magazines galore.

For Sale:—A male sheep. Call Howard Shilling. 37t1.

A loan widow is one who has money out on interest.

Much of the charity that begins abroad never reaches home.

Lots of men who attend the races can't win even a little sympathy.

Philip Smith left Sunday, by motorcycle, for a two weeks' visit in Michigan.

Miss Ruth Leininger, of Weatherly, Pa., is here the guest of the B. E. Widney and Sechler families for the week.

The Home Bureau Club will meet with Mrs. Pearl Simanton, Friday, September 23rd, in place of September 16th, on account of the Hicksville Fair this week.

See Dodge Bros. Motor Cars at the Kendallville Fair, the fastest Four in America. Full line of Sixes and Graham Bros. Trucks. C. C. HILKERT.

Mrs. Fred High was called to Hicksville Saturday evening on account of the illness of her sister, Mrs. John Baltz. She is spending this week with her sister.

Mrs. Retta Hathaway and Chas. Bishop were in town Monday completing their sale matters and closing the M. T. Bishop estate. Chas. and family returned to Cleveland yesterday.

C. A. Woodcox has been awarded the contract for finishing the new Heinzerling home in Garrett This is comulimentary as his price exceeded the next high bid by a large margin.

Exactly at midnigt Sunday, Fort Wayne threw daylight savings into the discard and reverted to use of central standard time. That means clocks will have to be turned back one hour.

The corn borer captured another township in Indiana Saturday when federal scouts reported Bourbon township in Marshal county infested. This brings the total to 125 townships in 15 counties.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Draggoo and Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Baker, of Auburn and Mrs. Flossie Rhoades and daughter, Miss Doris, of Fort Wayne, were Sunday afternoon guests of Mr. and Mrs. F. Buchanan.

The Advent denomination has started the erection of a new church building in Hicksville, O. A portion of the foundation was put in two years ago for this structure and the work was then abandoned and now the church building proper will be rushed to completion.

Sergeant John Kane, in charge of the U. S. Army Recruiting Station at Fort Wayne, Indiana, received authority September 13, 1927 to accept first enlistments (recruits) for Infantry and Field Artillery to be assigned at Fort Benjamin Harrison, Indiana, for a period of one year.

Prosecuting Attorney William Gray Loehr has announced that a secret trial would be held in the cases of George Riley, aged 10 and his brother, Robert, aged 14, who are charged with placing poison in the well at the Mount Tabor school in Scott township in November of last year. No newspaper reporters nor the public will be permitted to hear the proceedings.

Rev. P. B. Roediger and family are now occupying the Lutheran parsonage at Spencerville, and he has entered upon his pastorate. At his Sunday morning service he announced that installation services would be held on September 25th, when he would officially have charge of the circuit. Rev. Roediger moved to Indiana from Logootee, Illinois.

Carrying out a threat that he made repeatedly about taking his own life, Charles Nelson, aged sixty-five, shot himself in the mouth late Friday afternoon with a .32 calibre revolver. Nelson lived east of Auburn on the Butler road about six and a half miles. While Mrs. Nelson was at work in the onion fields in the neighborhood her husband made careful preparations to end his life. He secured the rubber top of a Ford car, spread it upon the grass in the front yard and then, placing a dining chair at the edge of the ruber, set a mirror about 6x8 inches in size on the chair. He kneeled before the chair and as he looked into the mirror he fired one shot into his mouth. He was suffering from tuberculosis.

OF COURSE

"Are you in favor of capital punishment?"

"For ukelele players, yes."

NOW Operating!

The St. Joe Grist Mill has been thoroughly overhauled, and is now operating in full capacity, making OUR DAILY BREAD FLOUR and also in the GRINDING OF FEEDS.

You can buy at our mill now Bran, Middlings the best that can be made from soft winter wheat.

ST. JOE MILLING COMPANY

KEEPING A TOWN SNAPPY

No business man in any town should allow a newspaper published in his town to go without his name and business being mentioned somewhere in its columns. This applies to all kinds of business—general stores, dry goods, groceries, furniture dealers, manufacturing establishments, automobile dealers, mechanics, professional men, druggists, and, in fact, all classes of business men. This does not mean you should have a whole or half or even a quarter page ad in each issue of the paper, but your name and business should be mentioned, if you do not use more than a two line spacer. A stranger picking up a newspaper should be able to tell what business is represented in the town by looking at the business mention in the paper. This is the best possible town advertiser. The man who does not advertise his business does an injustice to himself and the town. The man who insists on sharing the business that comes to town but refuses to advertise his own is not a valuable addition to any town. The life and the snap of a town depends upon the wide awake liberal advertising men. It's the truth.

Beavers' Secret Methods

The beaver's dam is one of the natural wonders to almost every young mind, but even older minds haven't been able to discover what a beaver does to a log to keep it from floating when they get ready to build the dam. Some trappers say they paddle it in some way with their tails to make it stay at the bottom of the creek.

"Nimbly-Lofty"

Long poetry some cannot be friends withal; and indeed, it palls upon the reading. The wittiest poets have been all short and changing soon their subject, as Horace, Martial, Juvenal, Seneca and the two comedians. Poetry should be rather like a Coranto, short and nimbly-lofty, than a dull lesson of a day long.—Owen Feltham, in "Resolves," 1620.

MISS HILDA KOCH AND CHAPERONS ENROUTE TO CITY

New York and Washington Thrill Miss Indiana and Her Companions

By Dorothy J. Konold, South Bend News-Times Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 12. —Miss Indiana may go into vaudeville.

Miss Hilda Koch, who, as Miss Indiana, was "too small" to win the title Miss America at the Atlantic City beauy pageant last week, this week is in possession of several flattering offers of a stage career.

The little South Bend girl today is weighing the advantages and disadvantages of a stage career against those of a secretarial position.

Difficult to Decide

"It's difficult to decide," Hilda says. "Perhaps after I've been home and have had a talk with my folks and my friends, I'll know just what I wish to do."

Asked how she felt respecting the loss of the title Miss America, Miss Indiana said: "I realized as soon as I stood up on the stage with those tall, stately girls that my type was not in vogue this season. I'm happy to know a Mid-Western girl succeeded in winning the title.'

Visits New York

Hilda's visit to New York City, while brief, was crowded with sightseeing tours. The little South Bend girl completely forgot the Atlantic City beauty pageant as she was whisked up Riverside drive in an open automobile. She was wreathed in smiles as she dined atop the Pennsylvania.

After a visit to the capitol buildings and Mount Vernon today, Miss Indiana will entrain for South Bend, where she will arrive Tuesday.

Windowless Blocks Talked

Because windows are costly to include in office buildings and especially where they look out on inclosed courts prominent building architects are considering the proposal to build such buildings without windows on a plan for providing ventilation and light by modern means.

"My Fourth Willys-Knight -Engine Expense, Zero"

—From one of thousands of enthusiastic owners.

Exceptional performance—unequaled economy—carefree operation—readily explain the tremendously increasing sales of Willys-Knight cars.

The Knight Engine—Constantly gaining in quietness, power, economy. The only type that improves with use.

7-Bearing Crankshaft—Banishes vibration.

Skinner Rectifier—Absolutely prevents oil dilution.

4-Wheel Brakes—Positive, mechanical, quick-acting.

Bellflex Shackles—No chassis rattles or squeaks.

8 Timken Bearings in Front Axle—The only car so equipped. Steering without conscious effort.

Narrow Body Pillars at Windshield—If every car had this feature, accidents would be greatly reduced.

Adjustable Front Seat—For maximum driving comfort, regardless of your size or stature.

Light Control at Steering Wheel—Lights flicked dim or bright without removing your hand from wheel.

Watson Stabilators. Air cleaner. Thermostatic temperature control. Finest quality upholstery and interior fittings.

The engine improves with use

"70" Willys-Knight Six, $1295 to $1495. Willys-Knight Great Six, $1850 to $2850. Prices f. o. b. factory and specifications subject to change without notice.

WILLYS-KNIGHT

LINCOLN SALES & SERVICE, Spencerville and Butler.

An Invitation to the Friends of the BALTIMORE & OHIO

Come to Baltimore

September 24th to October 8th

CENTENARY EXHIBITION AND PAGEANT OF TRANSPORTATION CELEBRATING 100 YEARS OF RAILROADING

A miniature World's Fair covering more than 25 acres—a great pageant that presents thrill after thrill! See the rocking, creaking stage coach, the pioneers in their lumbering Conestoga Wagons; see tiny "Tom Thumb", the first American locomotive, puff valiantly by, followed by the curious "grasshoppers" and "camels" of later decades, through the progress of the years up to the majestic "President" engines that haul Baltimore & Ohio trains of today; and the huge, modern express locomotives of British and American Railroads.

Pageant will move daily except Sunday and Monday at 2.15 P. M. Ample room for 50,000 visitors. Grandstand seats 12,000.

Also many exhibits to fill an interesting day; music, entertainment, refreshment facilities.

NO ADMISSION CHARGE. For reserved seat tickets, write to The Centenary Director, Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, Baltimore, Md., and specify the day you want to come.

Exhibition open Weekdays 10 A.M. to 5 P.M. Sundays 2 P.M. to 5 P.M.

Special low round trip fare. Tickets sold September 23rd, 24th, 29th, 30th, October 3rd, 5th and 7th. Good going and returning on all regular trains. For details apply to any Baltimore & Ohio Ticket Agent.

Baltimore & Ohio

SEPTEMBER

L 915 U547

Russel R. Reidenour
ATTORNEY
Auburn, Ind.

DR. C. R. BAUMGARTNER
Veterinarian
Spencerville, Ind.
PHONES: 282--283.

SPENCERVILLE

Rubber bands at News office.

Emanuel Ulm, who has been ill for some time, is able to be around again.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Dean were Sunday guests in the B. F. Markle home.

Mr. and Mrs. George Beams attended the fair at Van Wert on Thursday.

Eck Hursh and family spent Sunday in the George Doll home at Fort Wayne.

A. J. Smith and family were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Ober of Auburn.

William Peck and wife, of Anderson, were week-end guests in the F. L. Beams home.

Farver's Canning Kitchen at Spencerville will operate on Wednesday and Thursday each week until further notice. 31tf.

Engle McNamara and wife, of Kendallville and Clay McNamara and wife, of Fort Wayne, were Sunday guests of their parents, Thomas McNamara and wife. Mr. McNamara still remains quite ill.

On Friday afternoon the C. C. Club was entertained at the home of Mrs. Georgia Jenkins. The club at this time elected their officers for a year as follows:—President, Mrs. Minta Rhodes; vice president, Mrs. Cleo Reed; secretary and treasurer, Mrs. Ethel Bowser; assistant, Mrs. Lucy Beams. Following the business hour contests were enjoyed, Mrs. Ethel Bowser winning a prize. Mrs. Lily Shull was a guest.

Envelopes at News office.

Rubber bands at News office.

Writing tablets at News office.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Tyndall attended the Angola Fair on Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip Chaney spent Sunday at the Milton Chaney home.

Miss Edith Squires, of Fort Wayne, was a guest at the Harvey Beam home last week.

Mrs. Anna Cupp and Mrs. Alice Zimmerman, are both quite ill and confined to their homes.

Roy I. Bowser, wife and daughter, of St. Joe, were Sunday dinner guests of James Reed and wife.

Jerry Markle and son, William, were Tuesday evening supper guests in the Frank Markle home.

Rev. and Mrs. Roy S. Brown and daughters were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Dorsey of Scipio.

The Annual Autumn Advance Campaign of the Methodist Church will be held at Hudson, September 16th.

A reception will be held at the Lutheran Church to welcome their new pastor, Rev. Roediger and family, who have recently come to this place.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Dunn and Richard Markle of Fort Wayne and Jerry Markle of this place, were Monday guests in the B. F. Markle home.

Mrs. Lana Shatto, of Ashley, Mrs. Earl Shatto, of Waterloo and Vada Cole, of Kalamazoo, were supper guests at the William Allen home, Tuesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Greeley Wearley, Mrs. LeAnna Steward and son, Fred, and William Markle, attended the State Fair at Indianapolis several days last week.

See Dodge Bros. Motor Cars at the Kendallville Fair, the fastest Four in America. Full line of Sixes and Graham Bros. Trucks. C. C. HILKERT.

Jay Olinger, president of the Auburn District, was present on Sunday evening and assisted in the Echo Meeting which was held Sunday evening at the M. E. Church by the Epworth League.

Mrs. Rilla Beam had the misfortune to fall down the cellar steps in the Harvey Beam home last week and brake her ankle. Mrs. Harvey Beam, with whom she was staying is still quite ill.

Sherman Meek, wife and children, Mrs. Rose of Scipio, Mrs. Peepper of Hicksville, A. J. Smith and family, the Methodist Parsonage Board, were entertained at the home of Rev. and Mrs. Brown recently. Ice cream and cake were served.

LINDBERGH
DID NOT WISH

Young men the world over have, with mingled feelings, read of the achievement of the youthful Charles Lindbergh. Admiration and pride in the glory of his feat has been most generously given by all—still what young man is there who has not "wished" that the opportunity had been his—and that he could have "zoomed" through to such everlasting glory?

The now "Colonel Lindbergh" MADE his opportunity. An unknown air-mail pilot, he SAVED part of his earnings. When the hour arrived he had $2,000 saved to offer on the altar of sincerity—and obtain the support of young business men of St. Louis. He was the largest individual contributor to the fund which made the flight possible.

Lindbergh did not WISH—He SAVED

COME IN AND TALK IT OVER

Farmers' & Merchants State Bank
Spencerville, Ind.

With the Churches

ST. JOE M. P. CHURCH

Mrs. Hattie Widney, Supt.
Sunday School, 9:30 A. M.
Preaching service, 10:30.

CONCORD M. P. CHURCH

George Johnson, Supt.
Sunday school 9:30 A. M.
Preaching service 7:00 o'clock.
Christian Endeavor, 6:30.
J. F. McKnight, Pastor.

LUTHERAN CHURCH NOTES

"They who would grow in grace must love the habitation of God's house. It is those that are planted in the courts of the Lord who shall flourish, and not those that are occasionally there."—John Angel James.

SPENCERVILLE

Sunday School, Mr. Ray Means, Superintendent, at 9:00 A. M.
Divine Service at 10:30 A. M.

ST. JOE

Sunday School, Mr. Derwood Ridgway, Superintendent, at 9:30 A. M.
Vesper Service at 7:30 P. M.
You are cordially invited to these meetings.
P. B. Roediger, Pastor.

CHRISTIAN CHURCH

"Mr. Man, your wife and children can't answer "present" for you in church nor in heaven."

ST. JOE

Ed Storer, Supt.
Bible School, 9:30 A. M.
Lord's Supper, 10:30 A. M.
Sermon, 11:00 A. M.
Next Sunday will be Family Sunday in the Bible School; every member of every family represented in the School is urged to be present.

NEWVILLE

Bible School, 10:00 A. M., sun time.
Lord's Supper, 11:00 A. M., sun time.
Sermon, 8:00 P. M., sun time.
R. S. Aldrich, Pastor.

Methodist Episcopal Church Spencerville

Sunday School, 9:00 A. M.—ohn Koch, Superintendent.
Epworth League, 6:00 P. M.
Marguerite Koch, President.

CONCORD

Mr. Wm. Potter, of Auburn, called on Dan Morr Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Webb and family were at George Johnson's Sunday.

Mrs. Ella Baker, of Auburn, spent Saturday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Baker.

Mrs. Tillie Shelton returned to her home in Pennsylvania after a week's visit with Concord relatives.

Miss Patrice Wineland and Miss Janice Ridgway, of St. Joe, attended the reunion at the Dell Draggoo home, Sunday.

GAME CLUB INFORMATION GIVEN OUT

As might be expected when new fish and game laws are enacted by the legislature considerable opposition has been registered with the Department relative to some of the changes and additions made by the legislature of 1927. Excepting only the law which did away with protection to the red or pine squirrel, little objection has been filed against law changes.

The one section of the new fish laws to which most objection has been made is in regard to the seven inch length limit on the yellow or ring perch. The Department has received numerous letters complaining about the same. The argument set forth in most of them are that it would have been far better to have established a bag limit on this species of fish rather than a length limit for the reason, they say, that thousands of under sized perch are being caught and returned to lakes as the law provides, but that most of them are injured so badly they die when released, and that persons ought to be allowed to keep such injured fish rather than be compelled to return them to the water for turtles to eat. In support of a bag limit rather than a length limit, they argue that if a person were limited to 25 perch per day, irrespective of size, and be required to quit fishing when that limit had been caught, it would save many undersized fish. As the law is at present it is stated that persons when fishing are catching and badly injuring a dozen or more undersized perch and bluegills before one of a lawful size is hooked. No one can gainsay that there is not much truth in the foregoing statements. It also looks bad to see a lot of injured and dead fish floating around in the lakes. One may judge from this that a bag limit perhaps is of greater importance than a length limit, but both are needed if full protection is to be given to valuable species, for without a length limit, any undersized game fish, if legally caught, might be used for live bait.

For example if there was no length limit on black bass, the fingerlings of such species could be used as bait in live bait fishing. The same holds good for yellow perch. Fishermen for years past have used small yellow perch in live bait fishing, bass, pickerel, wall-eyed pike and other game fish will bite on the same as on actual minnows. Perch can still be used but they now must be at least seven inches in length. The main object in placing a length limit on yellow perch was to get the fish up to a size and age at which they will spawn and reproduce themselves at least once. This is the important point that most folks overlook. Undoubtedly many small game fish that have been hooked later on die from injuries received, but if carefully handled, however, many will live, so there is that also in favor of returning undersized fish to the waters. Fewer small fish, especially bluegills, would be caught if persons used larger hooks. But notwithstanding all of this, in fishing for the different kinds of fish no one can tell what size or knd of fish he is going to catch, especially if fishing with worms. Even with live bait black bass, pickerel and wall-eyed pike of less than the legal size often swallow a large hook. The same holds good for the yellow or ring perch. Nevertheless use of the small hook should be discouraged, as it will be more apt to catch undersized game fish than a large one. Barbless hooks, if more generally used would help in preserving many of the fish that are killed in attempts to remove hooks with barbs.

Thousands of persons want to know what a silver bass and a red-eared sunfish look like. Both these species were given protection by a length limit, bag limit and close season under the new fish laws. An opportunity to see these fish alive will be open to the public at the State Fair, where the Fish and Game Division will again put on an exhibit. Some of the fish to be exhibited are already on hand at the Riverside Hatchery at Indianapolis. Others for the exhibit are now being collected. The State Fair will be held at Indianapolis, September 3rd to 10th. The building heretofore used by the Division will again be used this year, State Fair officials having promised to put the same in safe condition. The exhibit will consist of 52 tanks of fish and other aquatic animals.

The offer of the Department to furnish wild rice seed free to clubs and organizations last month met with little response, notwithstanding that this bullein is sent regularly to the secretary of every organized body of sportsmen in this state. There are now over 300 of them. Less than a dozen requests for the seed have been received. Although bids to furnish the seed have been submitted by dealers in Wisconsin and elsewhere, the order has not yet been placed. Believing that the matter has been overlooked, this Division will accept requests for seed up to and including September 5th, but not after that date.

One of the best methods of determining whether Indiana's resources of game and fish are holding up or declining is through the game warden service. In their weekly reports to the Department wardens are required to report on the prevalence of game they see also report relative to fishing conditions. The reports received seem to prove that small game is on the increase in the state. Quails and squirrels are reported by wardens as particularly numerous. rabbits also in some sections. Fishing in most of the streams in Indiana has not been good this year, due to frequent rains and high waters. For similar reasons it was also a poor year for the reproduction of bass and other game fish in streams. In the lakes fish spawned late, but the season was as good as the average.

Game wardens in July arrested 325 persons for violating fish and game laws. The convictions numbered 309. Four cases were dismissed; 12 cases remained to be tried. Fines and costs amounted to $7,770.35. As usual all the money paid in fines went to the credit of the school fund of the counties in which the arrests were made. The leading offenses were hunting or fishing without license, 125; taking undersized fish, 99; possession of illegal nets or seines, 48; killing squirrels close season, 10; using fish traps, 8; taking fish with the hands illegally, 7; exceeding bag limit on game fish and taking fur animals in close season, each 6, and dynamiting fish, 5.

The season on trout in this state closes on September 1st, and remains closed until April 1, 1928. The season on rails and gallinules (except coot) opens September 1st, and will close November 30th. The daily bag limit is 25, but not more than 15 of any one kind. On sora rails, however, the daily bag limit is 25. The open season for wild ducks, geese and brant, woodcock, Wilson or jacksnipe, and coot will open October 1st.

Love can neither be bought nor sold.

ALL The Rakish Lines of SUMMER IN THESE HATS

The Smart Hats this fall have all of the Rakish Lines which make for Style and they are to be had in such a wide variety of models that she who wears either a large or small hat most becomingly, can find here just the Hat she wants and at a Price she wishes to pay. They are to be had in Black or any of the Pleasing Autumn Tones.

ASHLEY HAT SHOP
AUBURN, IND.

CHEVROLET
for Economical Transportation

Only Chevrolet offers Bodies by Fisher at such low prices

The bodies that Fisher has built for today's enclosed Chevrolets are comparable, in every respect, to the coachwork of the world's finest automobiles!

No other car in the low price field offers bodies by Fisher, with all the comfort, charm and elegance that the Fisher name assures.

Come in—and make your own inspection of Chevrolet coachwork. Note the smartness of its Duco colors . . . the grace of its full-crown, one-piece fenders . . . deep, restful seats and the fashionable durable upholstery.

The COACH $595

The Touring or Roadster $525
The Coupe $625
The 4-Door Sedan $695
The Sport Cabriolet $715
The Imperial Landau $745
½-Ton Truck (Chassis Only) $395
1-Ton Truck (Chassis Only) $495
All prices f. o. b. Flint, Michigan.

FURNISH SALES AND SERVICE
Spencerville, Ind.

QUALITY AT LOW COST

BUICK for 1928

FIRST—Buick took vibration out of the engine

NOW—it has taken it out of the road

Now Buick for 1928 has followed with another great contribution to motoring comfort.

Buick has taken vibration out of the road by equipping every Buick with Hydraulic Shock Absorbers, front and rear—an added luxury that the savings of Buick volume have been able to supply.

Test this riding comfort for yourself. We will gladly put a Buick for 1928 at your disposal whenever you like.

Sedans . . $1195 to $1995
Coupes . . $1195 to $1850
Sport Models $1195 to $1525

All prices f. o. b. Flint, Mich., government tax to be added. The G. M. A. C. finance plan, the most desirable, is available.

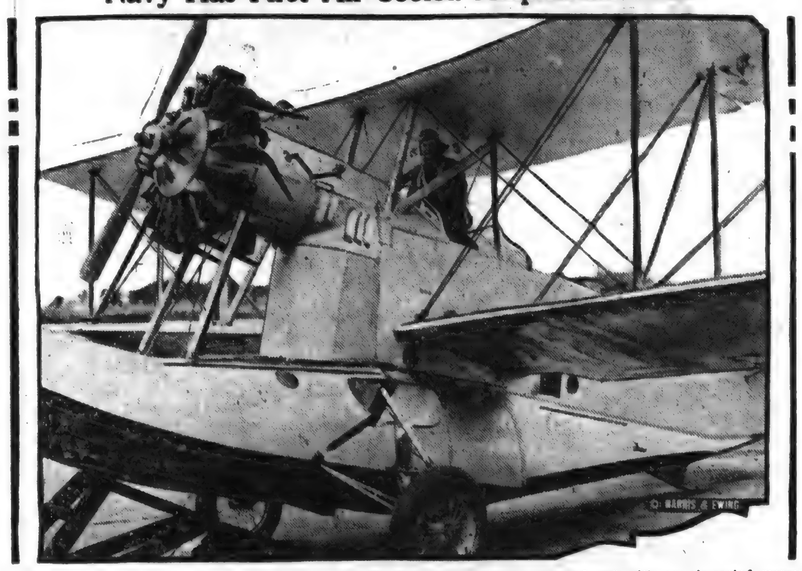
VALVE-IN-HEAD Buick MOTOR CARS

Buick Sales & Service
Auburn, Ind.

SEPTEMBER

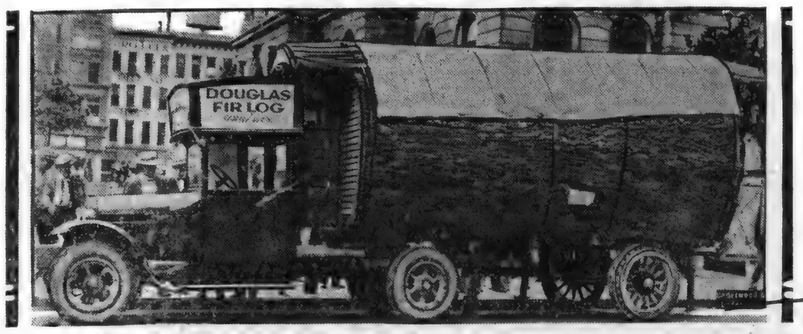
L 913 U548

Navy Has First Air-Cooled Amphibian Plane



What is believed by naval aviators to be the first amphibian plane ever equipped with an air-cooled motor has arrived at the naval air station in Washington, where it is being given a thorough test. This is in line with the new naval policy to develop amphibians to a point where they may be substituted for land planes now used on aircraft carriers at sea.

Here Is the Strangest of Homes on Wheels



E. A. Wade and wife, formerly of Illinois, are now touring the country in a unique home on wheels. A single log, cut from a fir tree in the state of Washington, has been hollowed and converted into a two-room apartment, 16 feet long and 9 feet high. Two folding beds and a kitchen are features of the interior. The log has been mounted on the chassis of a ton-and-a-half truck and trailer.

ACTIVE AT 108

Born of German parents near Warsaw in 1819, Mrs. Augusta Kutzner of St. Charles, Ill., likes to recall the time when she toiled daily in the fields of Poland. Now she splits all the kindling required for the kitchen stove and quite naturally glories in her strength.

LOWDEN MANAGER

Fred Starek, former director of the War Finance corporation, has been named preconvention manager for former Gov. Frank O. Lowden of Illinois.

Legion Will March Through This

The famous Arc de Triomphe, Place de l' Etoile, in the line of march of the American Legion through the French capital. The French government, wishing to accord a signal honor to the Legionnaires, will unchain one arch of the Arc de Triomphe to permit the veterans to march through in the big parade. This is the first time such permission has been granted.

Paul Revere's Descendant of Today

Paul Revere, the great-great-great-great-grandson of Paul Revere of Revolutionary war fame, as he appeared with his horse on Governors Island. Revere is now with D company, of the Sixteenth infantry. He is in training for a reserve officer.

WHEN FRIENDSHIP ENDS

(© by D. J. Walsh.)

THE girl's eyes had a look of eager expectancy in them. Every now and then she raised her head and looked out of the window, which was close to her bed. Eight feet below she could see life hurrying and scurrying on without her. But that did not trouble Mary Comstock at this particular moment. Surely, in a little while she would see Amy Dupont's vivid little face coming toward her. Of course, Amy would come. There was no doubt about that. She lived only a block away from the hospital, anyway. She wouldn't desert her chum now that she was ill; for had not Amy been her faithful friend ever since childhood? Had they not made a pledge to stick together no matter what happened True, Amy had been the chief cause of her unhappiness, but that was unintentional. It wasn't Amy's fault, only Mary's misfortune. If Amy came, her bright face would be with Mary for weeks afterward through the long, wakeful nights. Mary's quick ear detected a light step. That must be Amy now. She glanced up and her face fell a little in disappointment. It was only another nurse entering the ward.

It seemed as though she had known Amy all her life. They had gone through grammar school and high school together. There had not been an escapade, joy or sorrow that Mary had not shared with Amy. Mary chuckled a little as she thought of what fat, placid Mrs. Brown, a neighbor of theirs, had once said.

"I do declare, I never did see two girls stick to each other as much as Mary and Amy do. They like each other better than they do their own folks."

The girl saw herself and Amy at the age of eight walking home from school together, arm in arm. Amy suddenly paused and said:

"Let's be chums."

"All right," Mary agreed, and then she tore a piece off her blue hair ribbon and handed part of it to her companion. "Let's keep this always, cause blue means loyalty."

When they were both sixteen, Amy had the flu. Mary had gone to Amy's home and helped nurse her until she was well again. The following week, due to her exposure to the disease, Mary, too, had the flu. Somehow, Amy never did go to see her. Not that it was her fault. She was so popular that she did not have a minute to spare.

A few weeks later there was an incident at one of the many parties she and Amy had attended that stood out in her memory. Almost every man in their crowd had fallen a victim to Amy's charms. She was always surrounded by men. Never did she dance one dance straight through with one man. Always some one cut in. Mary at that particular moment was sitting in a corner talking with Jim Grahara. Dear, big handsome Jim, with his plans and dreams which he always confided to Mary. Her heart smote her as she thought of him. He was the only man who had not been attracted to Amy. Jim was recognized as Mary's private property, and no one ever intruded upon them. Mary and Jim, absorbed in each other, were a little startled to hear a wild, musical little laugh. There stood Amy in front of them, her black head thrown back, her eyes sparkling, her cheeks two burning spots of color, and her dimples flashing.

"Do come out into the garden, Jim," she urged. "The moonlight is just wonderful. I'm sure Mary won't mind." With that she pulled the reluctant Jim away from Mary's side, leaving Mary to sit in her remote corner fuming with rage. But somehow one could not be angry with Amy very long. Mary forgave her the very next day.

Next came the happiest period of Mary's life. She and Jim were engaged. The months of her engagement were deliriously happy ones for Mary. She was not only happy because of herself and Jim, but because of Amy's happiness as well. Amy was now married to Jerome Baxter, one of the wealthiest boys of the city.

A few days before Mary's wedding Amy came to her home with tears in her eyes.

"Please give Jim up for me, Mary dear. You can't possibly love him as much as I do."

"Give him up! Why, Amy, are you crazy? I—I can't give him up for anybody, not even for you. I love him—love him. Do you hear me? And, besides, you are a married woman. You owe some duty to your husband. Why, he worships you, Amy."

"But I love Jim. I don't love my husband. Anyhow, Jim told me that he loves me, not you. He said he couldn't break his word to you."

"That's a lie!" Mary flung out. "I can't, I won't believe it. It's not true. I won't give him up. I won't."

"All right," Amy retorted. "If you want to spoil his happiness as well as mine, go ahead." With that she left Mary sitting listlessly in a chair, pale and shaken.

That night she could not bring herself to return Jim's ring, but she treated him coldly. Troubled and mystified, Jim left the house earlier than usual. Two hours later he was found dead. When his car collided with another, with him was Amy. Somehow, miraculously enough, she had escaped injury. Mary in her wild frenzy of grief accused Amy of eloping with her sweetheart. But Amy explained the matter satisfactorily and forgave Mary for her bitter accusation.

"You dear goosie," Amy said. "Didn't you guess that day when I told you I loved Jim that it was only a little game. I love no one else but my husband. That evening Jerome was out on business. Feeling lonesome, I went to a 'movie.' On my way home I met Jim in his car. He asked me to take a ride with him, and then told me how cruelly you had treated him. Just when I was trying to explain to him that it was all a joke, that—that—dreadful accident occurred. Oh, it's too terrible to speak about!" Mary still remembered the two great tears that had rolled down Amy's cheeks.

"Poor, dear, little Amy. Always trying to help her, Mary, out and getting into trouble. Mary brushed a tear away from her eyes as she thought of these things. And dear Jim. The shock of his death and that of her parents shortly afterward had completely broken her health.

Suddenly, Mary heard a silvery little laugh. Ah, she knew Amy would not fail her, was she not her chum? It was Amy, sure enough. That gay little laugh was unmistakable. Mary glanced out of the window and found that Amy and her husband were standing just below it.

"Come," Jerome Baxter said to his wife, "let's go in and see your friend, Mary."

"Oh, I hate hospitals, and I can't stand sick persons, especially a sentimental little fool like Mary. Hurry back to the office, old dear. You must not waste too much time with your wife after giving her such an expensive lunch. I'm going home to get my beauty sleep so that I'll be nice and rosy for the cabaret party tonight."

The nurse in the hospital ward looked up from her work as a sob reached her ears.

Defoe Never Cut Out for Business Caree

Daniel Defoé, the author of "Robinson Crusoe," attempted to establish himself in the business world, but he failed miserably. When he was about thirty years old he failed for about $85,000, large sum for the period, but he afterward paid his creditors in full, although they had accepted a scaling down of their debts at the time of his failure. A few years later he embarked in business again as a tile maker, but this venture also proved unfortunate, and he lost $15,000. Thereafter he kept to writing, which was more suited to his genius, although his energy and his imagination might have made him a business leader if Seventeenth century conditions had been more like those of today. He got into serious trouble when he published his "Shortest Way With the Dissenters," which a good many respectable people indorsed because they were too stupid to realize that it was a satire at their expense. This made them furiously angry and Defoe had to go into hiding. Finally he surrendered and was sentenced to stand in the pillory and to be imprisoned. But the populace acclaimed him and turned what was meant to be his humiliation into an ovation. He finally won his release and established a paper issued three times a week, which he wrote from cover to cover. He was nearly sixty years old when he wrote the story of "Robinson Crusoe."—Kansas City Star.

New Treatment Gives Porosity to Concrete

"Ice concrete" is the name of a new porous and light building material recently invented in Finland. This new substance is made of cement and sand, like any other concrete, but it differs greatly from ordinary concrete in that it has been made extremely porous by mixing it with crushed ice and snow. Then the moisture is evaporated through heating. By this process the block or the brick is honeycombed evenly by tiny pores. No additional water in composition is needed since the water required is formed through the melting of the ice or snow.

The degree of porousness of this concrete can be accurately determined in advance by the quantity of ice or snow used. Consequently, the weight of the material is in direct relation to the number and the size of the pores. It is possible to use as much as from 50 to 90 per cent of ice or snow in the mixture, thus producing millions of minute pores throughout the material. In Finland, Sweden and Denmark numerous buildings have been erected, using ice concrete.—Scientific American.

Production of Gum Aided by Bacteria

There have been reported to the Royal Society of New South Wales the results of an investigation of the curious role played by bacteria in the formation of various vegetable gums.

The action of the bacteria appears to be more complex than might have been supposed. There are, for instance, two kinds of gum arabic—one soluble in water, the other insoluble—and the investigations of the New South Wales experts show that they are produced by two distinct kinds of bacteria. By the cultivation of suitable species of bacteria it is possible to augment the production of gum by certain trees. Under ordinary conditions some species of gum-making bacteria live and multiply without the production of an appreciable amount of gum, but the product is markedly increased by furnishing tannin to the micro-organisms.

Permanent value with OAK FLOORS

Your home will be more valuable for rental or sale with beautiful, permanent Oak floors. Write for free descriptive literature.

OAK FLOORING BUREAU
1268 Builders' Building CHICAGO

Ambitious Woman Wanted to introduce Priscilla Dress Fabrics, Dry Goods, Handkerchiefs, etc. Easy work. Good pay. Fitzcharles Co., 94 Fitzcharles Building, Trenton, N. J.

U. S. GOVT. STANDARD FLASH HOUSE AND HAND CLEANER

FLASH
Cleans All Hands
Factory agents or territory salesman wanted. Write today. Flash Chemical Co., Cambridge, Mass.

Country's Many Smiths

About one person in every one hundred in this country is a Smith. The last census found 1,304,300 Smiths in the United States. In other words, there are enough Smiths in the nation to replace the entire population of any one of these states: Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Rhode Island, Delaware, Florida, Oregon, Colorado, Utah and eight less populous Western states. The renowned Smiths occupy 17 pages in "Who's Who in America."—The Outlook.

Liquid Lenses Perfected

As substitutes for ordinary lenses, glass shells filled with liquid have been devised by a French inventor, who says that by his process an astronomical lens equal to the usual ground type that would cost $100,000 and require years to complete, may be made in a few weeks for $1,000. The fluid substance is inclosed between two hard surfaces, and the new lenses may be used in opera glasses, cameras and microscopes.

Russ Bleaching Blue should be used in every home. It makes clothes white as snow and never injures the fabric. All good grocers.—Adv.

Guard British Food Route

Imperialism has increased insect pests by clearing jungles and planting crops, thus upsetting nature's equilibrium. One-fifth of man's tropical harvests are eaten by insects, and as half the British empire is in the tropics, and Dominion farms are in the front line of attack, Britain has established an entomology bureau to discover parasites that can do more than cruisers to keep the food route guarded.

Relieved His Feelings

"Had a good lecture on Alaska, didn't we, Zeb?" asked one of Mr. Gorton's neighbors, meeting him the next morning. "To sit there by the radio peaceful as pie for two hours hearing him reel off the information was a grand rest for me, beat out with cranberrying as I be."

"It was a good enough talk," admitted Mr. Groton, grudgingly, "but it didn't rest me any to speak of. Having to sit stock still without a chance to get in a word for two mortal hours, I was pretty well worn out afterward. But I took the lantern out in the woodshed and by the time I'd split up a week's kindling I felt kind of rested and calmed down."—Kansas City Star.

You can't do the right thing the wrong way.

FOR OVER 200 YEARS

haarlem oil has been a world-wide remedy for kidney, liver and bladder disorders, rheumatism, lumbago and uric acid conditions.

GOLD MEDAL HAARLEM OIL

correct internal troubles, stimulate vital organs. Three sizes. All druggists. Insist on the original genuine GOLD MEDAL.

UGLY FRECKLES

Positively removed by Dr. C. H. Berry Co.'s Freckle Ointment. Your dealer or by mail 50c. Booklet Free. Dr. C. H. Berry Co. 2611 Mich. Ave. Chicago.

SEPTEMBER

L 915 0549

Your Kidneys
Must Function Properly for You to Be Well.

LATE hours, rich foods and stimulating drinks are all hard on our kidneys. If their action becomes sluggish, they do not thoroughly cleanse the blood of poisonous wastes.

Such impurities are apt to make one dull, tired and achy, with often a nagging backache, drowsy headaches and dizziness. A common warning of imperfect kidney action is scanty or burning excretions.

Thousands have learned the virtue of Doan's Pills, stimulant diuretic. 50,000 users have publicly recommended Doan's. Ask your neighbor!

DOAN'S PILLS 60c
STIMULANT DIURETIC TO THE KIDNEYS
Foster-Milburn Co. Mfg Chem. Buffalo, N.Y.

HANFORD'S
Balsam of Myrrh
A Healing Antiseptic
All dealers are authorized to refund your money for the first bottle if not suited.

Feel Dizzy?

Headachy, bilious, constipated? Take NR—NATURE'S REMEDY—tonight. This mild, safe, vegetable remedy will have you feeling fine by morning. You'll enjoy free, thorough bowel action without a sign of griping or discomfort.

Make the test tonight—

NR TO-NIGHT
TOMORROW ALRIGHT

At Druggists—only 25c

WHAT CAUSES BOILS.

Boils and carbuncles are the result of improper diet or infection of the skin. It is hard to determine the exact cause but CARBOIL will give quick relief. No expensive operation is necessary as one application of CARBOIL promptly stops the pain and continued use draws out the core. Get a generous 50c box from your druggist. Money back if not satisfied.
SPURLOCK-NEAL CO., NASHVILLE, TENN.

The Amateur Profession

A professional pugilist said the other day:

"I've got nothing against amateur sport. There's a lot of money in it.

"'What profession, son, do you desire to take up when you're a man?' a Los Angeles banker asked his little boy.

"'The profession of an amateur athlete,' the little boy answered."

Modern Wonders

"We live in an age of wonders," remarked the inventor who was not very successful.

"Yes," answered his discontented spouse, "wondering where the money went and where more is coming from."

Great labor is wasted unless wisely applied.

BABIES CRY FOR "CASTORIA"

Prepared Especially for Infants and Children of All Ages

Mother! Fletcher's Castoria has been in use for over 30 years as a pleasant, harmless substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Teething Drops and Soothing Syrups. Contains no narcotics. Proven directions are on each package. Physicians everywhere recommend it.

The genuine bears signature of

Chas. H. Fletcher.

No danger to children, stock or poultry. Use K-R-O freely in the home, barn or poultry house with absolute safety. Severe tests have proved that it kills rats and mice every time but other animals and poultry are not injured by the largest doses.

NOT A POISON

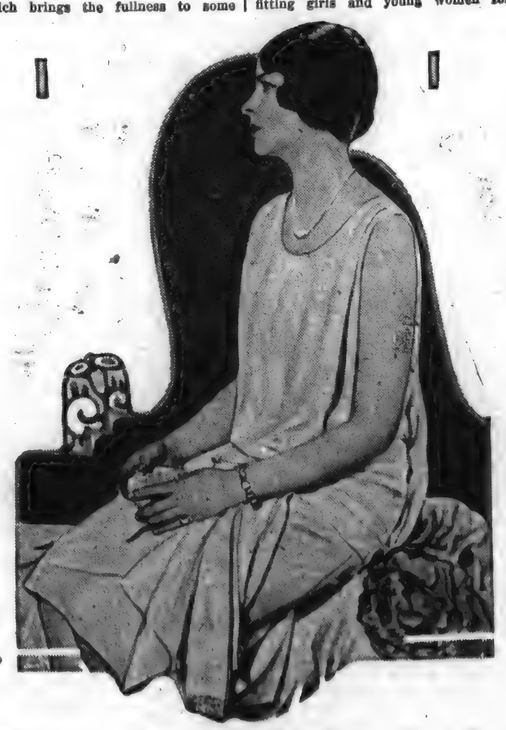
K-R-O is made of powdered squill—the new safe way urged by Government Experts. Does not contain arsenic, phosphorus, barium carbonate or any other deadly poison. At your druggist 75c. Large size (4 times as much) $2.00. Or sent direct from us postpaid if he cannot supply you. Satisfaction guaranteed.
K-R-O CO., Springfield, Ohio

K-R-O
KILLS-RATS-ONLY

"CLASSICS" IN EVENING GOWNS; SCHOOL FROCKS OF GINGHAM

CERTAIN types of evening gowns of present vogue are classics in dress the same as certain books and poems are classics in literature. The prestige of these sartorial "classics" rests solely upon the supremacy of fabric elegance and its artful draping, suggestions of frills or furbelows being strictly taboo.

Such are the lovely gowns which are "poems without words" created of either lustrous crepe satin or of sheer velvet. In their development the stylist concentrates on the theme of the snug hipline, with classic draping which brings the fullness to some strategic point at the side or front, at the same time accomplishing the graceful irregular hemline which Paris decrees.



Evening Gown of Classic Drape.

An exponent of the classic type is here pictured. It is made of heavy white crepe satin. As will be seen, it has the coveted snug hipline and it glories in the absence of "fuss and feathers."

For the daughter of the household who is "going away" to college or finishing school, the subject of party frocks is a vital one. Selection of an evening dress modeled after the style of the one illustrated will proclaim the discriminating taste of its wearer.

If not of satin, then choose velvet for the making of this frock, for a "velvet season" is surely upon us. The new velvets are marvelously textured, being supple and almost as sheer as chiffon. In fact they are variously called sheer velvet, transparent velvet, also georgette velvet.

Black velvet fashioned along youthful lines is the mode of the hour for the debutante and her younger sister. However, for those who are inclined to color, the new autumn satins and velvets are a revelation of color-beauty.

There is a whole range of leaf-browns brought out this season which are unusually attractive. There is a tendency toward wine tones, too, and many delightful shades of blue. Beige and green are also included in the list of favored colors.

An exception to the rule of no trimming for the fashionable classic—drape silk and velvet evening frock, is the presence of a sparkling rhinestone buckle or ornament, placed either at the girdle or at the hipline.

After all, the back-to-school movement is not without its compensations for the returning vacationist. New clothes, for instance! Think of the fascinating frocks and sweaters and coats and shoes 'n' everything ready "on demand" for the home-faring schoolgirl.

The vogue for cotton fabrics plays right into the scheme of suitably outfitting girls and young women for school and college. The winsome frock in the picture demonstrates the style possibilities of gingham.

It combines one-tone yellow gingham with a plaid related to it in coloring. The clever jacket of plain yellow counts for much in that it presents a natty appearance on the way to and from school. The one-piece frock minus the jacket is just the sort which becomingly enters into the environments of a class room.

Now that the stores are making it a point to show one-tone ginghams designed to complement the patterned ones, there is every incentive to give to them an ensemble styling.

Stunning effects are worked out by using two and three colors together of these one-tone ginghams. This may be accomplished in different ways. That is, several shades of the same color may be assembled, such as light blue, delft and navy together. A navy gingham plaited skirt, topped with a blouse striped like the new sweaters in several tones of blue, by sewing horizontal strips of the gingham together, would prove a source of delight to any schoolgirl aspiring to the most stylish.

Showing Possibilities of Gingham.

Another method is to combine contrasting colors, such as gray gingham with yellow or green or any bright shade. Insets and appliques of the color, with gray for the foundations, abound in opportunity for smart effects. Pipings of white or gay-colored gingham are also much in evidence.

JULIA BOTTOMLEY.

(©, 1927, Western Newspaper Union.)

POULTRY FACTS

SELECTING BEST BREEDING STOCK

In your poultry houses dampness brings on a train of troubles. Old cobwebby places, dust, dirt and darkness are good conditions to create and perpetuate the breeding of mites. These parasites are insects that get on the birds at night and take out the life blood, leaving nothing for the layer but anemia and inclination to disease. These insects kill little chicks, pull down the vigor of the laying and breeding stock and take away the profits that you counted on.

Close, stuffy houses bring about a train of troubles to the flock. Overflow of drinking water should get quick attention by providing right drainage. All birds seem to have an aptitude for drinking from every foul puddle they see. Drinking from such places is likely to bring on disease. All founts should be placed high enough to prevent droppings or litter being scratched in.

The founts should be filled two or three times daily during warm weather, for the sunlight destroys the life of the fluid, and if left long enough in such condition it is positively harmful to the birds drinking from it. All water should be placed in shade. If no trees or sheds are available, one can be made by nailing three sides of a box together, then adding a top to it. Such a contrivance should be high enough to allow the birds to drink freely when the fount is under the box.

Don't forget that moldy grain, mildewed bread, smutty corn, mildewed hay, for litter, sunburned or rotten potatoes, fermented mashes and pumpkin seeds are dangerous to the health of the flock. Unslaked lime, paint skins, nitrates of soda, salt in quantity, and vessels containing any disinfectants should be kept away from the poultry yard if you want to have health reign.

Prepare Chicken House for Fall and Winter

To prepare the poultry house for fall and winter and to keep it sanitary at all times, the following is recommended: Thoroughly clean the inside of the house removing all portable fixtures. Then spray the inside with a solution made as follows: five quarts cream lime (fresh burned lime slaked with hot water and covered while slaking), one pint of a good coaltar dip and one quart of kerosene. Dilute this mixture with an equal quantity of water and apply with a force pump or brush. The coal tar dip will kill all disease germs that it touches and the kerosene will rid the house of mites and lice.

Poultry Specialists Give Five Good Rules

Poultry specialists at Ohio State university give five rules for poultry men to follow, if they wish to raise a large percentage of their chicks. They are as follows:

Keep the brooder house clean and disinfected.

Move the brooder house as often as the grass around it is killed, so that it has no poultry on it for a year.

Provide plenty of clean, sweet litter.

Feed a good ration containing all nutritive essentials.

Raise chicks on range away from old stock to avoid disease and parasites.

Poultry Squibs

The well-fed, well-housed hen certainly knows her eggs.

• • •

Sanitation in the houses and runs aids in the control of certain diseases among poultry.

• • •

Nests under the dropping boards save space, but take light from the back part of the floor. They make it impossible to observe the fowls properly, are less sanitary and make it more difficult to gather the eggs.

• • •

Live poultry sometimes shrinks as much as 17 per cent in weight while in transit to market.

• • •

Egg income constitutes 82.4 per cent of the total cash income in the light breeds and 68.8 per cent in the heavy breeds.

• • •

Many people do a lot of figuring to show the increased profit that would come by breeding birds that are heavier producers but they fail to make any additional charge for feed.

• • •

Not only is oatmeal used for poults, but at all times during the growing period and for wintering.

• • •

The average poultry man usually makes more money by marketing his surplus males as broilers than as capons.

• • •

There is nothing that will thrive in hot weather any more than lice and mites. Don't let them get a start. Keep the brood coops well cleaned and sprayed with some good lice killer or disinfectant.

"What is my present car worth in trade?"

OCCASIONALLY you hear a car owner say: "I'm going to buy such and such a new car because the dealer has offered me the best deal on my present car."

But without understanding the economics of trade-in transactions, you cannot be sure that the largest allowance offered means the best deal for you.

These are basic facts:

1 Your present car has only one fundamental basis of value; i. e., what the dealer who accepts it in trade can get for it in the used car market.

2 Your present car has seemingly different values because competitive dealers are bidding to sell you a new car.

3 The largest allowance offered is not necessarily the best deal for you. Sometimes it is; sometimes it is not.

4 An excessive allowance may mean that you are paying an excessive price for the new car in comparison with its real value.

5 First judge the merits of the new car in comparison with its price, including all delivery and finance charges. Then weigh any difference in allowance offered on your present car.

Remember that when you trade-in your present car you are after all making a purchase, not a sale. You are simply applying your present car as a credit toward the purchase price of a new car.

GENERAL MOTORS

"A car for every purse and purpose"

CHEVROLET • PONTIAC • OLDSMOBILE • OAKLAND
BUICK • LaSALLE • CADILLAC • GENERAL MOTORS
TRUCKS • YELLOW CABS and COACHES
FRIGIDAIRE—The electric refrigerator

Judge's Job

Magistrate—How often have you been here before?

Prisoner—I thought you were scoring.

A good laugh is sunshine in a house.—Thackeray.

Not the Interesting Kind

Mabel—Can she keep a secret?

Jane—Yes; she's an awful bore.—Boston Transcript.

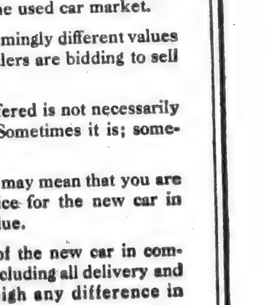
Men sometimes become wiser as they grow older, but they seldom become less foolish.

Dr. Caldwell's 3 Rules Keep You Healthy

Dr. Caldwell watched the results of constipation for 47 years, and believed that no matter how careful people are of their health, diet and exercise, constipation will occur from time to time regardless of how much one tries to avoid it. Of next importance, then, is how to treat it when it comes. Dr. Caldwell always was in favor of getting as close to nature as possible, hence his remedy for constipation, known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is a mild vegetable compound. It cannot harm the most delicate system and is not a habit forming preparation. Syrup Pepsin is pleasant-tasting, and youngsters love it. It does not gripe. Thousands of mothers have written us to that effect.

Dr. Caldwell did not approve of drastic physics and purges. He did not believe they were good for human beings to put into their system. In a practice of 47 years he never saw any reason for their use when a medicine like Syrup Pepsin will empty the bowels just as promptly, more cleanly and gently, without griping and harm to the system.

Keep free from constipation! It robs your strength, hardens your arteries and brings on premature old age. Do not let a day go by without a bowel movement. Do not sit and hope, but go to a druggist and get one of the generous bottles of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Take the proper dose that night and by morning you will feel like a different person. Use Syrup Pepsin for yourself and members of the family in constipation, biliousness, sour and crampy stomach, bad breath, no appetite, headaches, and to break up fevers and colds. Always have a bottle in the house, and observe these three rules of health: Keep the head cool, the feet warm, the bowels open.



W. B. Caldwell M.D.
AT AGE 82

We would be glad to have you prove at our expense how much Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin can mean to you and yours. Just write "Syrup Pepsin," Monticello, Illinois, and we will send you prepaid a FREE SAMPLE BOTTLE.

Fresh Youthful Skin Maintained by Cuticura

Daily use of Cuticura Soap, with touches of Cuticura Ointment when required, will do much to prevent pore-clogging, irritating rashes, roughness and other unwholesome conditions of the skin.

Soap 25c. Ointment 25 and 50. Talcum 25c. Sold everywhere. Sample each free. Address: "Cuticura Laboratories, Dept. 21, Malden, Mass."

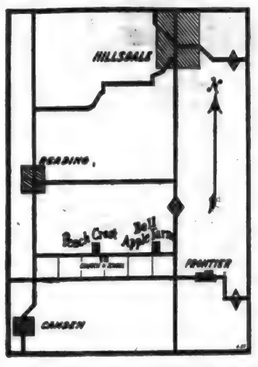
Cuticura Shaving Stick 25c.

SEPTEMBER

L 915 U550

PEACH CREST

P. O. and Phone Camden, Mich.



Our Elberta peaches are about all ordered. Kalamazoo, New Prolific and Elberta picking now.

Lemon Free and Banner, October third—right after the Hillsdale Fair.

The rich PEACH flavor, the juice you try to keep from getting away from you when eating a peach, is all gathered into the peach in the last hours of ripening. That's why T R E E RIPENED FRUIT IS BEST.

W. S. PULLEN & SONS

Those Healthful School Lunches

By Betty Barclay

So many school children are under-nourished that during the past few years some schools have been supplying milk and even lunches to their scholars.

Less than one-fourth out of a million school children examined by the health authorities of one of our large cities some time ago, were found to be fully nourished. Thousands were in actual need of a physician's care—due to malnutrition.

A healthful school lunch will go a long way toward remedying this, and where lunches are not served at school, the burden rests upon the mother at home.

Do not be content with wrapping a piece of "this" and a piece of "that" in paper, and calling it "good enough." True, there is not much time to prepare the school lunch, and you are worrying about clean dresses, tardiness and your own morning's work, but a very little thought may mean the difference between health and sickness one month hence.

Bread and meat are healthful, but they do not furnish all of the ingredients needed to make strong children with rosy cheeks.

Include milk in the lunch. If placed in a vacuum bottle, it will be cold at noon—and relished as a result.

Then, by all means see that fruit in some form is packed each day. Feature the orange as often as possible. Small oranges are inexpensive, yet the vitamins contained in one will go far toward warding off under-nourishment. Again, the minerals and salts will tend to balance the lunch.

Raw vegetables should be packed—in any form that the children relish. Few things are so healthful, or so inexpensive.

Whole-wheat bread should be used often. Rye or graham should also be featured. Use plain white bread as sparingly as convenient.

Peanut butter sandwiches; jelly on whole-wheat bread; a little dish of cold slaw; light whips, puddings or creams; all these make ideal lunch-box foods. The puddings and creams may be left-overs from the evening meal of the previous day.

Here are three inexpensive sample lunches. Try them and see how pleased the children will be. Continue with them, and other lunches balanced equally well, and note the result in the children's health. Each lunch is for a single serving:

FOR MONDAY

Jelly sandwich
Peanut butter sandwich
An orange
Large glass of milk
Two or three graham or oatmeal cookies.

FOR TUESDAY

Meat or fish sandwich
Marmalade sandwich
Celery or other green
Lemon gelatine (recipe below)
Milk.

FOR WEDNESDAY

Lettuce sandwich
A tomato—to be sliced at school and used with the lettuce sandwich
Egg sandwich
An apple, peach or orange
Milk.

If hot dishes are obtainable at school, suggest that the child add one each day to his cold lunch. A soup is excellent; cocoa may be purchased one day instead of taking milk from home; creamed vegetables are also good. Avoid tea and coffee. Drink milk, cocoa, grape juice, raspberry vinegar or lemonade instead. Drink plenty of pure cold water.

LEMON GELATINE

Enough for several servings
1 tablespoon granulated gelatine
2 tablespoons cold water
1½ cups boiling water
1 cup sugar
¼ cup lemon juice
Few grains salt.

Soak gelatine in cold water 5 minutes; add boiling water, sugar, salt and lemon juice. Turn into cold molds and chill. For lemon sponge, when jelly begins to stiffen, beat with egg-beater until light and frothy. For lemon snow, add to lemon sponge the stiffly-beaten whites of 2 eggs. A left-over dish of this from the evening meal makes an excellent school lunch dessert.

TO HOLDERS OF
SECOND LIBERTY LOAN 4¼ PER CENT BONDS.

EXCHANGE OFFERING OF NEW TREASURY NOTES

Second Liberty Loan bonds have been called for payment on November 15th next, and no interest will be paid after that date.

Notice is given of a new offering of United States Treasury notes, in exchange for Second Liberty Loan Converted 4¼ per cent bonds. The new notes will be dated September 15, 1927, and will bear interest from that date at the rate of 3¼ per cent. The notes will mature in five years but may be called for redemption after three years.

Interest on Second Liberty Loan Converted 4¼ per cent bonds surrendered and accepted in exchange will be paid to November 15, 1927. The price of the new issue of notes, is 100⅛. Holders surrendering Second Liberty Loan Converted 4¼ per cent bonds in exchange will receive, at the time of delivery of the new notes, interest on such Second Liberty Loan Converted 4¼ per cent bonds from May 15, 1927, to November 15, 1927, less the premium on the new notes issued.

Holders of Second Liberty Loan Converted 4¼ per cent bonds who desire to take advantage of this opportunity to obtain Treasury notes of the new issue, should arrange with their bank for such exchange at the earliest possible date, as this offer will remain open only for a limited period after September 15th.

Further information may be obtained from banks or trust companies, or from any Federal Reserve Bank.

A. W. MELLON,
Secretary of the Treasury.

Washington, D. C., September 6, 1927.

Those Youngsters

The boys and girls of today will soon be the men and women of tomorrow. As the twig is bent, so the tree will grow.

Wouldn't it be a fine thing to open a little account at our Bank in the name of each one of your children? The amount need not be large in order to cause them to take an interest in it, and to begin the saving habit and become familiar with modern business methods. We have many such accounts started by thoughtful parents.

CONFIDENCE IS WHAT COUNTS.

The St. Joe Valley Bank, A STATE BANK

CHRIST FOR ALL—ALL FOR CHRIST

The Word of God

They sweet is a lamp unto my feet, and a light unto my path.—Psalm 119: 105.

SPEAK THE GOOD WORD:—Heaviness in the heart of man maketh it stoop; but a good word maketh it glad. Proverbs 12: 25.

PRAYER:—O Lord may Thy spirit apply to us the redemption of Christ, then we shall have the merry heart that doeth good like a medicine.

DEMONSTRATIONS ON INCREASE OF CORN YIELD

The corn yields are going to be rather short this year due to seasonal and seed conditions. We cannot change the weather but we do have control over seed and soil fertility. With that in mind a series of corn field meetings have been arranged for September 26 and 27. Dr. Charles Gregory, one of the crop specialists from Purdue will personally conduct these field meetings and will demonstrate 3 separate practices that may be put into effect to increase the corn yield. The first thing that Dr. Gregory will show will be the new method of determining soil fertility; by a simple test which has been perfected we can tell whether or not a soil has plenty of nitrogen, phosporous, or potash in a given soil for efficient corn production. The next thing that Dr. Gregory will show will be the use of the rag doll in increasing the corn yield; by testing out all 100% and dividing the 100% into different grades we are able to increase the yield and quality of the corn, about ten bushel per acre. The third thing that will be demonstrated will be how to select disease free seed corn. Nothing pays quite so much dividend on DeKalb county farms as having the choice lot of seed corn to plant. Since it only requires 15 ears to plant an acre of corn every man should select plenty of seed corn for his own use every year. This corn is to be selected before the early frosts and put in a warm and well ventilated room for the disease free seed corn must be selected off of the standing stock and according to the directions that Dr. Gregory will make at these field meetings.

Value of a Dollar

There are three ways in which to find the value of a dollar; one is to find out what you have to give in order to get a dollar; the second is to spend it and see what you can get for a dollar; the third is to save it and see what you can do without and still keep the dollar.—International Confectioner.

Change to Fit the Times

Why not change the name of the cowcatcher to autocatcher? Trains hit fewer cows than automobiles. Does that mean automobiles have less sense than cows have?—Atchison Globe.

Cobbler a Philanthropist

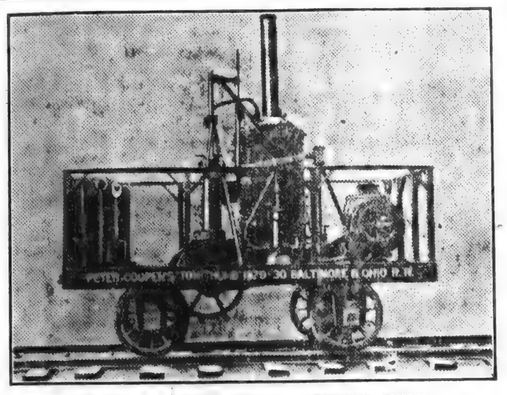
John Pounds is a name familiar to most Englishmen, but meaning little if anything to the average American. He won fame as a philanthropist by his self-denying acts in rescuing and training the poor youths and waifs of Portsmouth, though he depended on his occupation as cobbler for his own support.

If you would outshine your neighbors acquire a good reputation and then keep it polished.

Dr. E. T. Julian
M. D.
St. JOE

9:30 to 11:30 each forenoon at Dr. C. R. Price office.

THE CENTENARY EXHIBITION AND PAGEANT OF THE BALTIMORE AND OHIO RAILROAD SEPTEMBER 24 - OCTOBER 8 AT BALTIMORE, MD.



THE "TOM THUMB"—FIRST AMERICAN BUILT LOCOMOTIVE—1829.

"THE FAIR OF THE IRON HORSE," THE CENTENARY EXHIBITION AND PAGEANT OF THE BALTIMORE AND OHIO RAILROAD COMPANY, TO BE HELD IN A SUBURB OF BALTIMORE (HALETHORPE), MARYLAND, FROM SEPTEMBER 24TH TO OCTOBER 8TH, 1927, WILL BE A PUBLIC AFFAIR, TO WHICH EVERYBODY IS CORDIALLY INVITED.

There will be no admission charge of any kind or special invitation required.

The President, Directors and Officers of the Company extend a hearty general invitation to everyone.

The exposition will be open from ten o'clock in the morning until six o'clock in the evening. The Pageant will be held in the afternoon. There will be a grandstand for viewing this feature, in addition to ample standing room on the lawn.

Seats in the grandstand will be reserved free on application to the Centenary Director, Room 1204, Baltimore and Ohio General Offices, Baltimore, Maryland.

TRAFFIC BUILDING

Shows the Co-operative Activities of the Baltimore and Ohio.

In the Traffic Building, somewhat smaller than the Hall of Transportation, but just as beautiful, will be shown some of the co-operative activities of the railroad—the scientific location of industries, the development of geological resources and increasing the productivity of the soil by working with the farmers; "Safety First" and other kindred movements.

In the center will be located an elaborate model of the Locust Point grain elevator of the Baltimore and Ohio, one of the largest, most efficient and rapid grain handling plants in the world. Shipping of grain to vessels loading at eight different berths over a gallery system of 2,500 feet to the ance, showing in an elaborate and attractive manner the facilities offered by the Company to its employes to acquire their own homes and to secure other benefits through the Relief Department. This will be a unique exhibit containing many electrical attachments in connection with its various moving features. Its conception and design are most unusual.

Allied Services Building

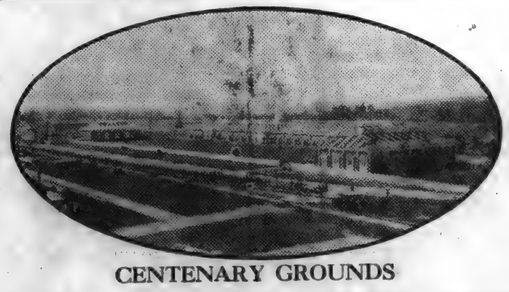
In another structure, the Allied Services Building, will be shown the principal associated services of railroads, including the telegraph, telephone, express, railway mail service, etc.

The Western Union Telegraph Company will furnish a display tracing the evolution of the telegraph from the crudest beginnings to the present. Among other interesting devices will be shown the original instrument by which the inventor, Prof. S. F. B. Morse, transmitted the first telegraph message in America "What Hath God Wrought" from Washington to Baltimore in 1844 over the wires along the Baltimore and Ohio's right-of-way. There will also be a cable transmission machine attached to the London cable, over which news can be sent to and from the English metropolis.

The American Telephone and Telegraph Company will furnish an exhibit demonstrating the important work of the train dispatcher, the "eyes of the railroad," who has control over every train running over the district assigned to him for surveillance. This display will also include a historic collection of telephones, showing the great advances made in this means of wire communication. The original switch-board used for the first time in the United States will be put in actual operation.

The Federal Post-Office Department has prepared an elaborate exhibit showing the close co-operation of the railroads in the rapid and efficient movement of the mails by rail.

Another section will be turned over to a reproduction of the steps in the growth of the express industry. This exhibit will be furnished by the American Railway Express Company.



CENTENARY GROUNDS

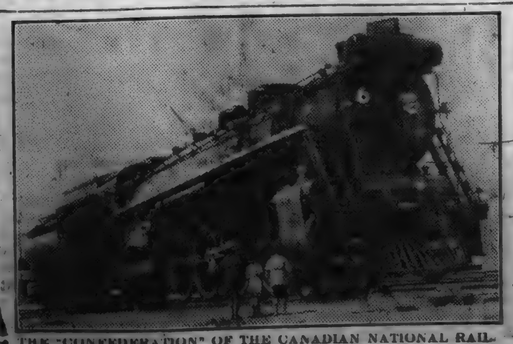
most distant berth, has been made at the rate of 150,000 bushels per hour, while the unloading of cars at the same time over the four automatic car dumpers has averaged eight minutes a car on each dumper, or a total of about 60,000 bushels of grain received per hour. The entire plant is operated by electricity.

By the north wall there will be exhibits showing the agricultural and industrial development of the Baltimore and Ohio, displaying some of the literature used to help farmers and industries to do better and more business.

Other spaces in the building will be devoted to the employes' magazine, freight and passenger department exhibits, including a detailed display of old and new tickets and time tables.

In this building will be seen an exhibit of unusual interest and import-

A number of the larger steamship companies co-operating with the railroad will furnish models of the most advanced types of their ocean giants. Among these will be: the "Aquitania" of the Cunard Line; the "Greater Detroit," of the Detroit and Cleveland Steamship Company; the "Majestic," of the International Mercantile Marine; the "Luckenbach," oil tank ship; the "Columbus," of the North German Lloyd lines; a model of Robert Fulton's first steamboat, the "Clermont," and of the "Hendrick Hudson," the last word in river steamboats, furnished by the Hudson River Day Line; the "Leviathan," of the United States Shipping Board and models from the Chesapeake Steamship Company, the Merchants and Miners Transportation Company, and the Baltimore Steam Packet Company.



THE "CONFEDERATION" OF THE CANADIAN NATIONAL RAILWAYS, THE LARGEST LOCOMOTIVE IN THE BRITISH EMPIRE.

Protect Your Eyes-They are Priceless.

All the necessities of life have a money value—except HEALTH AND HAPPINESS. You can purchase fine clothes, but HEALTH is beyond the pale of the dollar. Health is in your reach only by CONSERVATION and wisdom. Your vision, good eyesight, can be saved for later years by CARE NOW. Let us tell you how.

Benj. F. Griest

Eyesight Specialists
Office American Building
HICKSVILLE, OHIO

In office every day, also Wednesday and Saturday nights.

PHONE 290

Stanley P. Nelson Monuments

Opposite Woodlawn and Roselawn Cemeteries

AUBURN, IND.

Life's Limelights

By Brown Focht

"I HAD A FRIEND"

What is a friend?

A friend is one to whom we can go with an open heart, a heart which pleads for sympathy in trouble, and which cries for praise in triumph. A friend will answer the pleadings and cries, as only a friend can do.

He can criticise, and we welcome his criticism.

His commendation is not flattery, for a friend never flatters.

A friend knows you, knows the workings of your heart and mind, knows your hurts, knows your faults, knows your weaknesses and knows your virtues.

The good in your heart that other men pass by he sees and appreciates. The bad in you that other men exaggerates he belittles.

Charles Kingsley was asked what he considered the greatest reason for his wide sympathies. His answer was, "I had a friend."

Ah, there are few who recognize the value of friendship.

A friend can make or break a man.

Friendships have built empires; broken friendships have wrecked kingdoms.

In a sense, friendship is stronger than love, for while love does endure forever, love is not constant.

Love may dwell on the heights, but it may as quickly sink to the depths.

Friendship is always on the mountain top.

It stops to help those who have faltered on the rocks, but when we seek it we must always look upward.

In time of success, love is a brilliant scarlet; friendship is forever scarlet. It never varies.

Friendship asks no fees, and receives none.

It pays no premiums, and none are asked of it.

Friendship is like the air: it engulfs us. From it there is no removal.

It is like a medicine, a tonic which fills us with new life, when all hope seems lost.

It is a lighthouse which shows us the reefs and shoals. If we are stranded on those reefs and shoals, it provides us shelter and comfort.

Friend and friendship are magic words.

They mean as much, perhaps, as any words in our language. Yet they are too often misused.

Success—why? "I had a friend."

Ban on Animal Shrines

Animal shrines in Japan have been ordered destroyed as a detriment to progress. Thousands of the shrines, relics of former worship of foxes, snakes and other animals, exist, says the Dearborn Independent.

SEPTEMBER

L 915 J551

We want your NEWS ITEMS and appreciate your calling—We can't get all the items of interest unless you do help Phone in and give your news.

ST. JOE NEWS.

This week in THE NEWS are many good offers—Read them thy're interesting. Keep up with trend of business in St. Joe—READ THE ADS.

VOL. XLI. ST. JOE, DeKALB COUNTY, INDIANA, THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 22, 1927 NUMBER 38

TWO BARNS BURNED WITH TOTAL LOSSES

Lightning During Storm Saturday Night Burned Structures To The Ground

Fire caused from lightning during the storm Saturday night near midnight destroyed the tenant barn at the DeKalb county infirmary, including the contents.

The fire could be seen from Auburn, the bright glow against the sky leading many to believe that the large main barn, the finest in DeKalb county, located on the infirmary farm was burning.

In the smaller barn, a structure 45x86 feet were twelve tons of hay, straw and some machinery valued at $600. The loss on the barn and contents, estimated by Superintendent M. E. Leighty was $3,000 on the barn proper and $800 on the contents.

A call was sent to Garrett by some unknown person asking that the Garrett fire department come to Auburn to help fight a fire. When the department arrived and the true condition was made known the department returned home.

Mr. Leighty did not call the Auburn fire department because he realized that the local firemen could not save the building.

The insurance carried was $2,500 on the barn and $1,500 on the contents.

It is not likely that the barn will be rebuilt. It was an old building which was located on the land which was bought by the county from the Grogg estate.

Sunday morning at about three o'clock just when the storm was at its height, F. L. Milliman's barn was struck by lightning and burned with total loss. Mr. Milliman was awake and noticed it being so light that he arose, going to the south window and the entire barn was aflame. He hurried out, thinking his sheep might be in the basement, but was not able to enter for smoke. He ran for the Saylor home and met the boys coming. Other neighbors saw the blaze and came but there was not much to do but keep the adjacent buildings from catching on fire.

The barn was 32x42, setting on an 8-foot concrete wall, with tin roof and grounded at opposite corners. The building was insured for $1,100 with $300 on the contents.

The insurance adjuster stated that this is the first total loss the Mutual has had on buildings so well protected.

The hay crop was in the barn, of about 11 tons besides some tools and grain binder belonging to L. J. Likes, who did the harvesting.

A shed on the south was also burned. Mr. Milliman stated Tuesday that he will rebuild soon.

WILLIAM SHILLLING IN CUSTODY, FOUND INSANE

William Shilling, Age 74, Thinks Property is Being Taken Away From Him Wrongfully

William Shilling was ordered into the custody of the sheriff by Judge Endicott Tuesday afternoon as dangerous to the community and was ordered confined to the county jail until further proceedings.

Mr. Shilling is seventy-four years of age and lives near Spencerville. Lovina Shilling, a sister-in-law, filed an affidavit alleging that he is insane and asking his admission to the Richmond state hospital. She stated that he is extraordinarily nervous and excitable and has a violent temper. The present attack of insanity has come gradually. He has hallucinations that his property is being taken away from him wrongfully and he threatened those about him with violence. He demanded the privilege of carrying a gun.

Dr. Benjamin O. Shook of Spencerville, made an affidavit that Mr. Shilling is insane and the court appointed Drs. W. W. Swarts and F. M. Hines of Auburn, to examine him further.

The report of the examining board has been filed, each member reporting as follows:—

Dr. Hines stated that Mr. Shilling is physically well but poorly nourished from lack of assimilation. He is neryous, unstable, talkative, rambling in his talk, imagines his relatives are stealing his property, has hallucinations and threatens persons whom he imagines are persecuting him. He has senile insanity, in the opinion of Dr. Hines, causing mental derangement. The causes are abnormal physical changes in the brain and spinal cord.

Dr. Swarts reported that Mr. Shilling is suffering from transitory frenzy superinduced and aggrevated by the recent torrid heat wave, with illusions to get a gun from his sister in Ohio and other weapons, such as a harpoon, to fight his imaginary persecutors, with delusions to then flee by airplane to Australia.

CONVENTION PLANS ARE ANNOUNCED

The program of the Concord Township Sunday School Convention, to be held at the Concord Church, Sunday, October 2, will appear next week, according to Stanley Means, who has charge of the program.

The meeting will convene in the morning with a joint Sunday School, followed by a basket dinner and an afternoon and evening session.

The township officers will report their department activities as well as the county officers present, will be given an opportunity to talk on their work.

A big day is being planned

SOME TATER RAISER

So far reported this fall, D. D. Burley has all reports beaten for potato yield. He has dug 18 bushels of extra fine potatoes from a patch 36x60 approximately, a patch which he spaded at his leisure time, just merely to be able to keep it clean. Taking this small patch as a possibility, can you imagine how many spuds ought to have been raised in St. Joe on just small patches that were not cultivated?

NEW AND TESTED RECIPES FOR LADIES OF THE NEWS

BEEF LOAF

1 pound ground round steak
2 cups cold rice
1 chopped green pepper
¾ cup water
1 chopped onion
¼ teaspoon celery salt
¾ teaspoon sage
Salt, pepper.

Mix ingredients as given. Place in greased baking pan and dot with fat. Bake in a moderate oven and serve with tomato sauce or spaghetti.

JURORS SELECTED FOR COURT TERM

Two DeKalb County Women Among Those Drawn For Petit Jury

In preparation for the opening next Monday of the September term of the DeKalb circuit court, the jury drawing was held Monday by Jury CommissionersHerman L. Brown and Clyde E Hart and County Clerk, J. Harvey Knauer.

The result of the drawing follows:

GRAND JURY

Christ H. Fetters, Troy.
T. M. Long, Wilmington.
Archie Fretz, Richland.
Charles Rohrbaugh, Franklin.
S. A. Greenwalt, Wilmington.
Elmer Foote, Richland.

PETIT JURY

E. O. Little, Union.
Irving Ginther, Newville.
Frank Hohl, Smithfield.
Alfred D. Goodwin, Spencer.
Forest Beaty, Jackson.
J. A. Keester, Wilmington.
Mrs. Wm. Boger, Jackson.
Mrs. H. A. Gossett, Auburn.
Charles Reeder, Richland.
A. M. Kester, Smithfield.
A. O. Rosenberry, Wilmington.
C. B. Baumgartner, Grant.

TALESMEN

Ross Nelson, Wilmington.
Lester Elson, Jackson.
Charles Carnahan. Jackson.
Clyde J. Snyder, Wilmington.
Belle Barney, Concord.
T. A. Barton, Keyser.
Herman Diederick, Keyser.
M. H. Howey, Spencer.
Gertrude Bolinger, Smithfield.
Robert Higley, Wilmington.
John Pepple, Grant.
A. J. Custer, Keyser.
Frank Johnson, Concord.
Delbert Reed, Grant.
Newton J. Wallace, Fairfield.
Mrs. Ida Traxler, Newville.
Wm. C. Miller, Stafford.
Edward Baer, Auburn.
J. E. Weidler, Keyser.
Willard Clark, Jackson.
Charles L. Peters, Jackson.
John R. Muhn. Union.
Harry T. Smith, Newville.
Alvin Gushwa, Richland.

ST. JOE TO ENTERTAIN Y. P. COUNTY CONFERENCE

The executive committee of the Young People's Council of Religious Education of DeKalb county met Monday night at the residence of Miss Sadie Coy, to make plans for this year's county conference which will be held at St. Joe in the Lutheran Church November 19 and 20.

Arrangements are being made to have at least one hundred and fifty registrations this year. Last year at Waterloo there were eighty-five registrations.

Speakers secured for the convention are Esther I. Williams, secretary of the Altona, Pa., Y. W. C. A. and Charles R. Lizenby of Indianapolis, the Indiana young people's worker.

CAUCUS CALL FOR FRIDAY EVENING

Pursuant to a call of the town board for an election of town officials on November 8, it becomes necessary for a caucus, hence a call has been made for Friday evening at the Town Hall, at which time the Citizens and Independent tickets will be placed in the field.

The citizens caucus will be held at 7:00 o'clock followed by the Independents at 7:30.

Committee.

TO GO "BACK TO OLD REHOBOTH" FOR PROGRAM

Frank Carlton Nelson will be at Rehoboth Church next Sunday evening, September 25th and recite a number of his poems. Mr. Nelson was born and raised in Jackson Township and attended the Rehoboth Church, which inspired him to write the poem, "Back to Old Rehoboth."

The Christian Endeavor Society has arranged a special program which will include special music by Bessie Peters and Helen Peters Batdorf, Rehoboth Male Quartette and solos by the following young man, Paul Wright, Kenneth Ryan and Frank Miller.

Roscoe Bishop, president of the Society and leader for the evening, extends an invitation to the general public and a special invitation to all who are acquainted with Mr. Nelson.

Program to begin at 7:00 P. M.

RULES FOR SUNDAY SCHOOL TRAINING SCHOOL NOV. 7-11

Information coming to the county officers of DeKalb County Sunday School Association, from the state association, brings further information as to the rules under which the five-day Training School from November 7th to 11th, will be sponsored by the state association.

The county must be a unit in supporting the school. The County Ministerial Association must be back of it, and agree not to put on any special meetings during the school. There must not be less than one hundred pupils, and a fee shall be charged large enough to cover the expense of the school. The public are to buy their own text books.

As many of these schools have been carried on by other counties over the state, county officers feel that DeKalb county can make an unusual success of this one, as DeKalb is one of the best Sunday School counties in Indiana.

SPENCERVILLE BOYS PLACE IN PIG SHOW AT AUBURN

A Poland China Gilt belonging to Merl Dean Furnish, was placed at the top in a class of six gilts of the same breed at Auburn Saturday. Due to the fact that his record book was not quite as good as some others his place was reduced to third. This pig was purchased last spring from the herd of Merritt Sechler of St. Joe.

Leo Spitler placed fourth in the county with his Duroc Jersey and Howard Dermott placed fifth. Victor McCrory also exhibited a Poland China from Mr. Sechler's herd. Merwood Rhodes had the misfortune to have his pig stray away from him early in June. Other pig club boys who did not exhibit their pigs are Robert Madden and Frederick Laub.

The scores make the placings for Spencer Township as follows:—

Merl Dean Furnish, 1st., 83%.
Leo Spitler, 2nd., 73%.
Howard Dermott, 3rd., 64%.
Victor McCrory, 4th., 62%.

As a result of this show, Merl Dean Furnish will have his expenses paid to the Club Round-up at Purdue next May.

Spencerville Lamb Club Shows At Auburn

Following is the result of the Lamb Club Show at Auburn.

Curtis Northrup, 1st., 93%.
Albert Baltz, 2nd., 88%.
Edward Shilling, 3rd., 84%.
DeWayne Shilling, 4th., 65%.

Other Lamb Club members who did not exhibit are:—Dwight Koch and Virgil Kimes.

As a result of this show Curtis Northrup will have his way to the Club Round-up at Purdue paid next May.

Alvin J. Smith,
Club Leader.

LUTHERAN PASTOR GIVEN RECEPTION

The Spencerville congregation tendered their new pastor, Rev. P. B. Roediger and family, a reception last week in their church basement. A good sized crowd attended. Frank Baltz extended the words of welcome from the church, while Rev. Roy S. Brown of the M. E. congregation extended the welcome from his congregation and the vicinity at large, expressing a desire to co-operate in the new pastor's plans as far as possible. Rev. Roediger gave the response. A fine luncheon was served and a very liberal shower was given the pastor and family.

ELECTION NOTICE

On November 8, 1927, the citizens of St. Joe will meet at the regular voting place and elect two trustees, one for first ward and one for second ward, one clerk and one treasurer.

37t3 B. S. Sheffer, Clerk.

Writing tablets at News office.

H. M. Widney is in the Lutheran hospital being treated for gall stones, contemplating an operation in the future.

Bring Your Wheat to Us

WE ARE PAYING HIGHEST MARKET PRICES

NATHAN Grain Co.

St. Joe's New Lumber Yard

Call By Phone for Prices Bert Jackson, Mgr.

HIGH'S FOR PIES

PHONE 76-St. Joe

Why RED TOP Steel Posts Are Better

Check up on each of these points. Aren't they just the points you want in a fence post?

STARTING with RED TOP Posts and the RED TOP Driver this is what you alone can do:

Drive 200 to 300 posts a day through the hardest soil. This means you can get rid of all your fence work this Fall—repairs and everything.

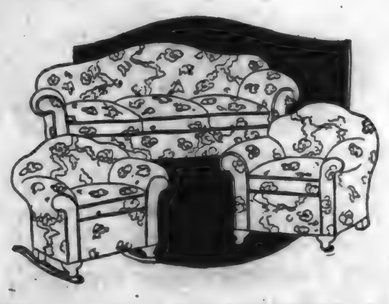
Red Top GUARANTEED Steel Fence Posts

YOU can even build that new fence you've been thinking about—do it quickly and what's more—be done with that fence job for many long years.

Come in and let us show you on an actual post the differences that sold us on RED TOPS and make us recommend them so strongly. Then, too, we can show you how doing a little fencing this Fall will turn waste into profit. It's a good idea—one that will repay the fencing cost in a couple of years and, after that, make extra profits for you.

Spencerville Lumber & Supply Co.

SPENCERVILLE, IND.



Overstuffed Furniture

is all the go now and we have a number of suites in stock for inspection. Fall is coming, it's time to make it comfortable and cosy for the winter.

E. R. KINSEY, Hardware Furniture

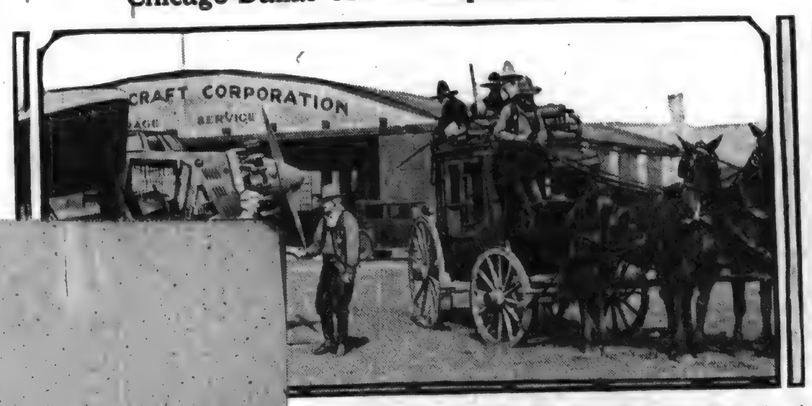
SEPTEMBER

L 915 U552

Scenes at Funeral of a Queen of Siam

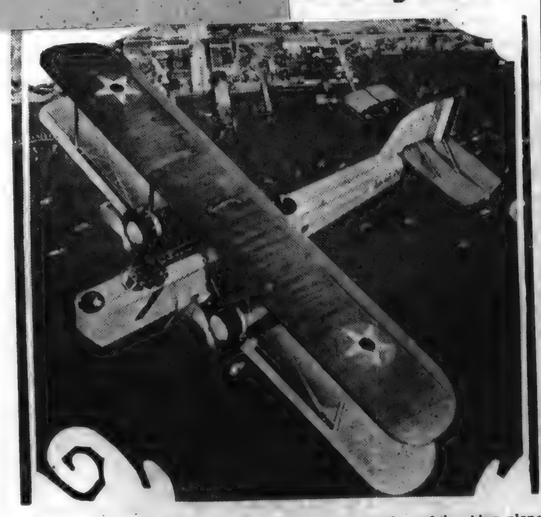
The funeral of Dowager Queen Sukhumal Marasri of Siam provided a number of spectacular scenes in Bangkok. Above are shown the great barges accompanying the remains along the Menam river. Below is the procession bearing the urn containing the body of the queen.

Chicago-Dallas Air Transportation Opens



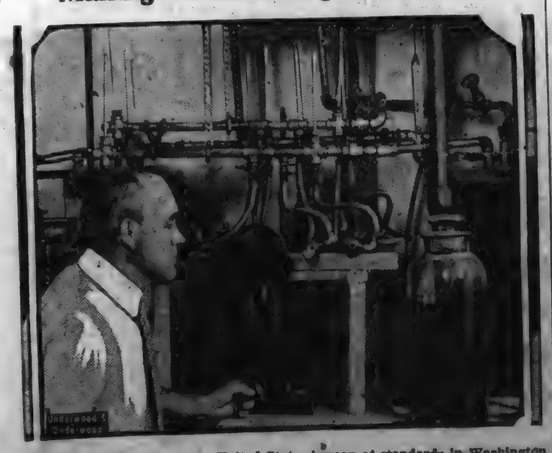
...between Chicago and Dallas, Texas, was inaugurated over the regular air ... southwest of the National Air Transport company took off from the Chi... ...h Ed Matucha, plane pilot, is shaking hands with the driver of the old... ...ne.

...Bombing Plane



Striking picture of the new naval Douglas torpedo and bombing plane now undergoing tests at naval air station at San Diego, Calif. The plane is equipped with two air-cooled motors, and has glass panels in the sides as well as in the floor, enabling flyers to aim bombs more accurately. Machine guns are located in rear cockpit.

Making Sweetest Sugar on Earth



Dr. R. J. Jackson of the United States bureau of standards in Washington is making the sweetest sugar on earth at the bureau's experimental plant. The product, called levulose, is made from artichokes on a semi-industrial scale in order to demonstrate methods. At the present time it has a market value of $115 per pound.

MARY TUMULTY TO WED

Pretty Mary Patricia Tumulty, daughter of Joseph P. Tumulty, former secretary to the late President Wilson, and Mrs. Tumulty, whose engagement to Robert F. Cahill of Washington, D. C., has been announced by her parents.

DEMPSEY'S COMEBACK

Jack Dempsey, shown in the photograph, will make a desperate struggle to regain the heavyweight championship title when he meets Champion Gene Tunney at Soldier field, Chicago, on September 22.

Physic if He's Sick

One day the new physics instructor came into our assembly room and said: "All those who expect to take any physics this year, come with me." Then he wondered why we laughed.—Boys' Life.

The Kitchen Cabinet

(©, 1927, Western Newspaper Union.)

I pray you with all earnestness to prove, and know within your hearts, that all things lovely and righteous and possible for those who believe in their responsibility and who determine that, for their part, they will make every day's work contribute to them.—John Ruskin.

EVERYDAY GOOD THINGS

It is quite necessary that more of our coarser grains should be used for food.

Corn Bread.—This is a recipe worth trying and each family, especially where there are growing children, should use much of the whole grain in breads and breakfast foods. Heat one pint of milk until boiling, add three-fourths of a cupful of corn meal—get the water-ground meal if possible, as the germ is left in it. Add one teaspoonful of salt, one tablespoonful of butter and cook on the top of the stove (for an hour) until smooth and thick, stirring often and cooking slowly after the first five minutes. Remove from the heat and cool. When cold stir in the yolks of four beaten eggs and the whites stiffly beaten. Bake in a buttered pan and serve from the pan. This quantity serves six.

Onions in Sour Cream.—Slice the large green onions in thin slices and pour over them some rich sour cream; season with salt and cayenne and serve. Sweet cream may be used, adding a bit of lemon juice or vinegar.

New Cabbage Salad.—Chop a hard head of cabbage very fine, adding one or two onions, depending upon the size. Slice into dice a good thick slice of salt pork and fry until well browned, pour the fat and bits of pork over the cabbage and add salt and pepper to season. Now heat a half cupful or less of vinegar in the frying pan and pour over while boiling hot. There should be only enough vinegar to moisten well.

Ripe Tomato and Pear Salad.—Cut small tomatoes into quarters and lay a quarter of a peeled and cored pear between each quarter. Arrange on lettuce and serve with a good French dressing.

Peach Dishes.

No fruit cellar is well stocked which has not plenty of canned peaches for use as fruit or in salads during the winter. All sorts of desserts steamed, baked or frozen may be made from this delightful fruit.

Peach Conserve.—Take five and one-half pounds of peaches and five pounds of sugar, two oranges and one pound each of walnuts and seeded raisins. Peel the peaches, remove the stones and cut into small pieces. Put the raisins and oranges (discarding the orange seeds) through a meat grinder. Cut the nut meats into coarse pieces. Stir all together and cook very slowly until of the consistency of jam, stirring often to keep from scorching. This makes about eighteen glasses. Cover with paraffin.

Peach Canapes.—Saute circular pieces of sponge cake in butter until delicately browned. Drain canned peaches, sprinkle with powdered sugar, a few drops of lemon juice and a slight grating of nutmeg. Melt one tablespoonful of butter, add the peaches and when well beaten serve on the cake.

Peach Crusts.—Roll puff or plain paste one-eighth of an inch in thickness, cut into two-inch squares and bake in a hot oven. Cool, press down the centers and arrange on each one-half of a canned peach, drained and heated in the oven. Sprinkle with powdered sugar and put orange juice, grape juice or jelly into each cavity.

Peach Tapioca.—Drain a can of peaches and sprinkle with sugar, let stand an hour; soak one cupful of tapioca one hour in cold water to cover; to the peach sirup add enough boiling water to make three cupfuls, heat to the boiling point, add the drained tapioca, a half teaspoonful of salt and one-half cupful of sugar. Cook until the tapioca is transparent. Line a mold with peaches and pour in the tapioca and bake thirty minutes. Cool slightly, turn out on a dish and serve with a custard sauce.

Baked Peaches.—Peel, cut into halves and remove the stones from six peaches. Place in a shallow pan. Fill each cavity with one teaspoonful of sugar, one-half teaspoonful of butter and a few drops of lemon juice and a grating of nutmeg. Cook twenty minutes on circular pieces of buttered toast.

Nellie Maxwell

Life's Call to Duty

Nobody has any right to find life uninteresting or unrewarding who sees within the sphere of his own activity a wrong he can help to remedy, or within himself an evil he can hope to overcome.

"Invisibility" a Myth

The bureau of standards says that there are invisible inks and stains, but a magnifying glass is not used to detect them. A colored glass is employed for this purpose.

ELEGANCE IN DAYTIME FROCKS; WASHABLE DRESSES FOR SCHOOL

ELEGANCE of the mode, elegance of the mode; the theme is being repeated over and over again in fashion's realm. One has only to see the sumptuous velvet and satin frocks in the autumn collection, some with lavish metal embellishment, to sense the significance of this "elegance of the mode" movement.

The particular "new" thing about all this elaboration and ornateness is that it is no respecter of the arbitrary line once drawn between what is to be restricted to evening and what is "good form" for daytime wear. Gold and silver now gleam on daylight frocks as confidently as on formal evening gowns. The newest innovation is the plaited skirt of metal cloth or, if one prefers, a plaited velvet skirt topped with a blouse of metal cloth.

Daytime Frock of Distinct Elegance.

There is very close competition between velvet and satin just now. Satin is not what it used to be, nor is velvet. They are infinitely handsomer this season than ever before. There is no costume so lovely or withal so generally wearable for all dressy occasions as the velvet or satin frocks of present-day inspiration.

So supple is the new transparent velvet, it shirrs and drapes and gathers like chiffon. The same may be said of the new satins; their suppleness yields to every intricate manipulation. Some of the most captivating velvet or satin daytime dresses have not an inch of any but self-trimming on them, and, scalloped, tiered, ruffled, tucked, plaited and draped as they are, they are taking the fashionable world by storm.

Contrasting the frock which "unadorned is adorned most," are the velvet and satin gowns for afternoon wear, which are enhanced with a touch of gold, and of which the model in the picture is a charming exponent. It is fashioned of brown velvet, with gold lace trimming. A hat of gold thread, embroidered in colors, is worn with this dress.

Yokes, vestees and cascades formed of cream lace or exquisite real lace, play their part in enhancing the velvet dress this season. Deep and fanciful lace cuffs are especially cited in the new modes.

Transparent black, navy, wine or beige velvet is also often made up with deep yokes extending under the arm, which are fashioned of flesh color or pale pink georgette. Often the georgette is greatly elaborated with embroidery or beads, sequins or spangles.

School clothes for the children is the thought uppermost in mothers' minds now that vacation writes "finis" across its calendar. Of course little daughter's wardrobe will include a skirt-and-sweater outfit, for this is quite the most popular utilitarian costume for youth as well as adult this autumn time.

Then, too, a jersey dress must be counted in. No school outfit is complete without a jersey frock or two. Besides, jersey is scoring new successes right along as a fabric of chic.

As to dresses that launder, there is no limit to the number needed—ask mother, she knows. For materials that make their appeal to better judgment because of their washability there is nothing superior to English prints, also ginghams.

It is in the making that these staple fabrics gain their distinction. A "first aid" to mothers in the beautifying their children's school clothes is smocking. The little girl in the picture, who looks as if she might be bidding her dolly good-by as she starts away to perhaps her "first day of school," is wearing a frock of very, very fine gingham, the yoke of which is entirely smocked in combination with French dot embroidery in blue mercerized thread.

Dainty in Fine Gingham.

Applique trimming is very effectively used on ginghams and linens. Clover leaves, daisies, "picture-book" figures and animals are cut of a one-tone gingham or sateen and then sewed on the figured material. A lovely little gingham frock has morning glories and leaves and vines trailing all over it.

Following the popular line of thought of using many colors together, clever jumpers are made of several colors of one-tone gingham sewed together in horizontal stripes. This is worn over a plaided gingham plaited skirt. These blouses can be made of tiny left-over remnants—which is a step toward economy.

JULIA BOTTOMLEY.

(©, 1927, Western Newspaper Union.)

SEPTEMBER

L 915 U553

Local Briefs

Rubber bands at News office.

Wm. Curie and son, Elgin, were at Hamilton Lake over Sunday.

The Rowe home north-east of town is quarantined for infantile paralysis.

"Millions now living will never die," may be all right, but if millions now living would never lie it would be a whole lot better.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Sailer and Mr. and Mrs. Don Keller and family, were guests of Ray Sailer and family at Elkhart last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Mossberger and Mr. and Mrs. D. C. McCann, were guests Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Goshen at Lake Wawasee.

Mr. and Mrs. John Willet and children, of Hicksville, and George Kinsey, of this place, spent Sunday at Lake George with Harry Kinsey and family.

Birth announcements were received here Saturday announcing the arrival of Richard Paul, weight 7½ pounds, in the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Kain at South Whitley, on Wednesday. Mrs. Kain will be remembered as Lilo h Yeiser.

Mrs. Travis Martin and baby arrived home from Auburn hospital Saturday and is spending this week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Kinsey. Mr. Martin was here over Sunday. Next Saturday she will go to Fremont and spend a week with Mr. Martin's parents.

Writing tablets at News office.

All notary work can be promptly cared for at News office. Call and see us.

Mrs. Grover Curie and Mrs. Sam Keesler, spent Saturday forenoon in Fort Wayne.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Reeder and children, of Auburn, were Sunday dinner guests in the George Bleeks home.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Quance, of Fort Wayne, spent Saturday night and Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Charles Murphy at Cocord.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Fellres, of Fort Wayne, were guests a few days last week at the Thayer Northrup home. Mrs. Feller and Mrs. Northrup called on Mrs. J. R. Shilling Friday afternoon.

St. Joe is to have an election this fall and to hear some folks talk, there has not been an official ever elected that knew his business, but they do. Just a hint. Be at the caucus Friday night at the town hall and tell them you want on the ticket.

The B. & O. is offering its employes free transportion to its centenary celebration at Baltimore, and some of the St. Joe men are going. The newspapers ought to be given free transportation also, as they are flooded with free advertising matter daily.

A pessimist keeps himself in a continual turmoil and blames other people for it. It accomplishes him nothing. It gives other people the blues. It throws a wet blanket over enthusiasm. He is detrimental to the community. Swallow your pessimessism, or spit it out.

Miss Phyllis Rickett, of Fort Wayne, was an over Sunday guest of St. Joe friends.

The delivery of a new Essex coach was made to J. C. Hull Monday by Cad Woodcox.

Have your glasses fitted by Benj. F. Griest, Eyesight Specialist, Office in American Bldg., Hicksville, Ohio. 28tf.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hursh were Sunday afternoon and luncheon guests of Mr. and Mrs. James VanZile at Auburn.

Get your furnace repaired now, avoid the rush when winter fires are started. Free inspection. Bowser & Reed. 38tf.

Mr. and Mrs. N. G. Bennett and children of McComb, Ohio, Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Fuller and Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Thornton and children of Battle Creek, were Sunday guests in the F. M. Thornton home.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Maurer of Cleveland, Ohio, are here for a week's visit with Roy and Scott Maurer and other relatives. Mrs. Maude Braithwait of Fort Wayne has been a guest of her brother, Scott, for the past week.

Mr. I. W. Decker, road contractor who has lived in St. Joe for the past year, is now working on 2½ miles of road near Hamilton. He stated that the grading was completed Tuesday and gravel hauling would be started at once.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Westfall and family are now residents of St. Joe, moving from the Curt Watt farm south of the Wabash railroad to the Wm. Curie residence, back of the F. P. Hart residence. Mr. Westfall is the distributor of the McNess products.

Tragedy Recipes:—Take one reckless, natural-born fool; two or three drinks of bad liquor; a fast, high-powered motor car; a hot mamma with baby lips. Soak the fool in liquor, place in car with cutie and let them go. After due time, remove from wreckage, place in saitn-lined black box, and garnish with flowers.

Huntington county is the new county reported infested with the European corn borer. The discovery was made by federal scouts who found the borer had advanced to Jackson township. The pest also was detected in Dallas Township, in Huntington county. The total of infested townships now stands 127, state entomologist Frank N. Wallace announced, and sixteen counties are affected.

Daily papers at News office and magazines galore.

Wid Williams is home from Fort Wayne for the winter.

A new Singer sewing machine was installed in the domestic science room at school Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Thayer Northrup and son, Curtis Argyl, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Northrup.

Staman's drug store at Auburn, is being remodeled into a modern business house. The room at corner of Main and Ninth street is an addition to the store.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Vosberg and Mr. and Mrs. James Conrod, of Hamilton, also Mr. and Mrs. Lester Baker, were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ora Baker.

O. E. Ginther has added another pure bred Guernsey heifer to his herd of cattle. He drove, Monday about thirty miles east of Celina, Ohio, and brought the animal home.

Abraham Culbertson, by his attorney, Howard S. Grimm, has filed a suit in the DeKalb circuit court against V. L. Steman and wife, alleging they owe $490.87 for corn, oats, potatoes, vinegar and rental of a pasture field owned in Concord township.

The American Trust company of Kokomo, with $100,000 capitalization and $100,000 surplus, was ordered closed Wednesday by State Banking Commissioner Luther F. Symons. "Injudicious loans" was given by Symons as the reason for the closing of the institution.

The smallest post office in the United States—in the volume of business handled—is at Chambers, Ga., and the largest at New York City. During the last fiscal year the Chambers post office did exactly $8.45 worth of business, while New York City had postal receipts of $72,699,907.

There were 28 deaths in DeKalb county during July as compared to 21 the same month of last year, a bulletin just issued by the Indiana state board of health shows. There have been 210 deaths to date in DeKalb county this year compared to 218 last year. Sixteen of the persons who died in the county during July were 65 or more years of age.

Six carloads of onions burned when a barn on the John L. Crothers farm, near Kendallville, was destroyed by fire Thursday. The fire started in the upper part of the barn which was packed with hay about 4:30 Thursday afternoon and soon after was a mass of flames. The loss is placed at $10,000. Mr. Crothers is a cousin of John Crothers of St. Joe.

Prevalence of infantile paralysis throughout the country was indicated by figures compiled by the United States Public Health Service showing that during the week ended Sep. 10, 560 new cases were reported. Massachusetts, with ninety-two cases, led, Ohio was second with eighty-five, while California was third with forty-nine. Vermont reported only one case.

Miss Hilda Koch, accompanied by her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Gill, of South Bend, was home over Saturday and Sunday. Her many friends here were pleased to see and visit with her. Since winning the title of "Miss Indiana" in a beauty pageant put on by the News-Times at South Bend, she has had some wonderful experiences, and now she is ready to again go to work. She is now employed by the paper who afforded her the pleasure of the past months, in the classified department.

The estate of Amelia Bingham has been valued at $100,000.

E. R. Kinsey has purchased the Mrs. Mary Terman residence.

G. M. Barney is working at Hicksville, where he is acting as express agent.

Arden Morr and wife, who have been in Detroit for the past year, moved back to Auburn for the winter.

Clark Scholes left Friday for Darlington, Ind., where he is working on the construction of a new school gym.

Ellis Getts and family of Hamilton, and Dr. and Mrs. J. E. Showalter of Waterloo, spent Sunday with Charles Morr and family. Mr. and Mrs. Sam Morr and daughter, Hilda, were afternoon callers.

Victor Brown is working at Butler as relief man for the I. & M. E. a few days and his wife and babys are here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Hart. They will return to South Bend when through with the work at Butler.

The Misses Margery Sucher and Dorothy Milliman of Butler, were Sunday dinner guests in the E. W. Beaber home, east of town. Evening callers were Miss Elma Weldey of Edgerton, Wm. Kulkey of Waterloo and Gerald Beaber of Butler.

Playing with matches caused the death of Germania Howe, 4, at Ft. Wayne, Monday and also two small children of Melvin Burns, Frankfort, ages 4 and 2, were burned to death the same day, in their play house in the yard. The third Burns child was burned severely but will recover.

Most schools in reporting their enrollment are showing increases for this year, over last. Angola a close neighbor has 519 scholars, 196 are in the high school, increase of 11; Goshen reports 2,035; Warsaw has 1,070, of which 356 are high school students and a gain of 118; Waterloo has 334 with a gain of 3; Garrett reports 296.

Wm. Randall had a finger nail jerked off Saturday while pulling a well near Grabill. Then on Monday his wife concluded she might as well be on the shelf so when calling at the Coburn home she tripped on a wire in the yard and fell for about seven feet before she stopped. She was bruised and jammed up but is about the house.

Our weather has everyone puzzled. Last week the mercury registered 95 and today, or since the rain Sunday morning, fire feels very comfortable. The school children are wearing their sweaters and the men go about with their hands in their pockets. While the cool nights are not the best for the corn crop, yet we like it better than 95 in the shade.

At the county convention of the W. C. T. U. held Wednesday afternoon in Eckhart Public Library in Auburn, officers to serve for the ensuing year were elected. Those chosen were as follows: President, Mrs. Eva Young of Auburn; vice president, Mrs. Lulu LaRue of Garrett; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Flossie Mavis of Auburn; recording secretary, Mrs. Mamie Koble of Garrett and treasurer, Mrs. Ella Dirrim of Auburn.

Fred E. Hart, who for seven consecutive years had won the grand prize of the agricultural hall at the Hicksville fair, dropped to fifth place with his display this year, and Carl Hart of Spencerville, came through for first money of $85. Mrs. Charles McCollough of Hicksville, again won second place for $60, and Lavon McCollough of Hicksville, who won fourth last year, came into third money. Clyde Hart of Spencerville, dropped from third to fourth position.

While his parents knew, yet his friends were surprised to learn of th marriage of Louis Wasson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wall Wasson, north-east of town. The event took place three weeks ago, when Miss Mary Ash of Forrest, Ohio, became Mrs. Wasson. They are making their home at Ashland, O., where he has work. On last Sunday thirty-two guests were present at the Wasson home and partook of a bountiful infare dinner. The young folks have the best wishes of their friends.

Results are what the people want, and the results of regulated private ownership are so satisfactory that 95.1 per cent of the electricity in the United States is produced under that system and only 4.9 per cent under public ownership, 33 per cent of municipal plants purchase energy from private companies and 1129 municipal plants have been closed, some of them junked. Public ownership has been tried and has failed; regulated private ownership has been justified by experience.

AS WINTER APPROACHES, HEED THIS ADVICE

Promote fire prevention and protect your property and family.

Last year over $1,000 worth of property was burned every minute and a life was lost every 35 minutes

Clean property seldom burns—do away with rubbish and junk.

Careless smokers burned $30,000,000 worth of property last year.

Keep matches in metal boxes where children cannot reach them and thus save their lives as well as property.

Don't keep ashes in wooden boxes or deposit them against wooden buildings or partitions.

Don't change your electric wiring without consulting a competent electrician.

Don't hang electric light cords on nails.

Be careful with electric flatirons.

Use metal protection under all stoves and protect woodwork where stoves or furnaces are close to walls.

Don't pass stove pipes through ceiling, roofs or wooden partitions without properly safe guarding them.

Have all flues cleaned, examined and repaired at least once a year.

Every open fireplace should have a screen.

Don't use gasoline or benzine to cleanse clothing near an open flame, light or fire. Use noninflammable cleaner.

Don't use kerosene, benzine or naptha in lighting fires or to quicken a slow fire.

Don't use liquid polishes near open lights. Many such compounds contain volatile inflammable oils.

Don't go into closets with lighted matches or candles.

Remember that there is always danger in the discarded cigarette and cigar stub.

A fire in St. Joe has not been known for over a year and we don't care for any, but nevertheless our people do become negligent and do foolish things. Let us play safe.

With the Churches

ST. JOE M. P. CHURCH

Mrs. Hattie Widney, Supt.
Sunday School, 9:30 A. M.
Preaching service 7:00 o'clock.

CONCORD M. P. CHURCH

George Johnson, Supt.
Sunday school 9:30 A. M.
Preaching service, 10:30.
Christian Endeavor, 6:30.
J. F. McKnight, Pastor.

EVANGELICAL LUTHERAN CHURCHES

Sunday, September 25, Installation Service in the St. Joe Church for the Spencerville and St. Joe congregations at 10:30 A. M. The Rev. Dr. Keck, President of Michigan Synod United Lutheran Church in America, officiating. Members and friends of both charges are invited to attend. No Vesper service in Spencerville instead a visit with the Springfield Lutheran congregation is planned where the seventy-fifth anniversary is observed in the three services, morning, afternoon and night. Dr. Keck will preach the sermon in the night session.

CHURCH OF CHRIST

"Beware of prejudices. The openminded man is young, no matter what year he was born."

ST. JOE
Ed Storer, Supt.
Bible School, 9:30 A. M.
Lord's Supper, 10:30 A. M.
Sermon, 7:30 P. M.
The theme for this sermon will be, "The Church." The public is kindly invited to attend these services.

NEWVILLE
Frank Lyons, Superintendent
Bible School, 10:00 A. M., sun time.
Lord's Supper, 11:00 A. M., sun time.
Sermon 11:15 A. M., Sun time.
R. S. Aldrich, Pastor.

Methodist Episcopal Church Spencerville

Sunday School, 9:00 A. M.—ohn Koch, Superintendent.
Epworth League, 6:00 P. M.
Marguerite Koch, President.

Naturally Not in Demand

"One reason dat nobody wants a monkey foh an ancestor," said Uncle Eben, "is dat no monkey ever left any property."—Washington Star.

NOW Operating!

The St. Joe Grist Mill has been thoroughly overhauled, and is now operating in full capacity, making OUR DAILY BREAD FLOUR and also in the GRINDING OF FEEDS.

You can buy at our mill now Bran, Middlings the best that can be made—from soft winter wheat.

ST. JOE MILLING COMPANY

NOW THE

Lowest Priced Six with 4-wheel Brakes

Most Active Six In Its Price Class

Modern—powerful—safe—beautiful—and active! That's the Whippet Six. The lowest priced Six with 4-wheel brakes.

Accelerates 10% to 23% faster from 5 to 25 miles per hour than its nearest competitor.

Most active Six at its price—requires less gear shifting.

Engine—exceptional power in proportion to weight, with a wide range of flexibility.

Low gravity center—gives you greater road stability and a feeling of greater safety.

Easy steering—roller pivot bearings help make the Whippet Six remarkably easy to handle.

Plus these features: Balloon Tires, Snubbers, Full pressure lubrication, Narrow body pows, Adjustable steering wheel.

Superior Quality New Low Prices

Coach	$795
Touring	765
Roadster	825
Coupe	795
Sedan	875
Landau	925

Prices and specifications subject to change without notice. Prices f. o. b. factory, Willys-Overland, Inc., Toledo, Ohio.

Whippet Six

LINCOLN SALES & SERVICE

OPTOMETRY—ITS VALUE TO THE PUBLIC

By Ed W. Hicks, Optometrist and Optician

What causes some persons to be distressed at the movies?

One reason is a sensitive condition of the eyes.

Can this be overcome?

Yes, science has produced a lense especially for this purpose.

Is it dark in color?

No, merely a tinted lense.

Can the Optometrist supply these?

Yes, with the patient's correction, if any, ground into them.

(To be continued.)

ED. W. HICKS
AUBURN
"OUR SPECIALTY — COMFORTABLE VISION"

SEPTEMBER

L 915 U554

STORY FROM THE START

Dr. Ronald McAlister, famous in his special work—applied psychology—employs his leisure time in the elucidation of crime mysteries. As the narrative opens he is interested with Assistant District Attorney Ashton in the murder, in the small town of Oak Ridge, of a recluse, Henry Morgan. The murdered man, his papers reveal, had been in New Zealand, where Doctor McAlister had lived in his youth. Will Harvey has testified he saw a woman wearing a green cloak in the Morgan home the night of the murder. Doctor Reinhardt, friend of McAlister, telephones he has a queer case in his hospital and invites McAlister to see the patient. Doctor Reinhardt's patient proves to be a young woman, who in unconsciousness mutters in a language Reinhardt does not understand. McAlister sees a possible connection between the murdered New Zealander and the girl. A carefully hidden map is discovered. A girl enters the house in the darkness and escapes, leaving a green cloak behind.

CHAPTER IV—Continued

—6—

"I was on the point of telephoning for you," he said, "but you've saved the precious hour or two by coming on your own account. Mallory reported to me here at six o'clock this morning, having come all the way from Oak Ridge on foot, and without getting the slightest trace of the mysterious woman who invaded the Morgan house last night. I confess that her appearance throws a different light on Harvey's testimony. And I think you'll agree that, in all probability, she is the criminal."

"I've no doubt myself," said Doctor McAlister, "that it was her hands that strangled old Morgan."

"Well, then, she's the criminal, isn't she?" said Ashton; and regarding the answer to this question as too obvious to be waited for, he went straight on. "The whole energies of the police and of all the detective force connected with our office will be bent toward finding her. What I want from you—from both of you, independently—is the most complete and careful description you can give of the physical appearance of the woman who entered Henry Morgan's study last night."

"You can describe her for yourself," said Doctor McAlister rather shortly. "You have a talent that way."

"What do you mean?"

"You've seen her. You've enjoyed a good look at her. She's the girl that Reinhardt sent for us to see at St. Michael's two nights ago."

Ashton stared in clear amazement, first at the doctor and then at me.

"You're sure?" he gasped.

"Perfectly," said I gravely.

For a moment he sat silent. Then he frowned.

"May I ask whether you had any suspicion, when we saw her there at the hospital, that she might prove to have some connection with this case?"

"Yes," said my chief bluntly; "it's your right to ask. I did suspect a connection between her and the Oak Ridge mystery. I recognized and understood the language in which she was chattering to herself. It's a language that, with minor variations, is spoken in all those islands in the South Pacific. The thing she was singing to herself was a death chant."

Ashton looked pretty grave at that. "I won't presume," he said, "to question your motive for your reticence with me the other night. Undoubtedly it seemed justifiable to you, but, as a result of it, a dangerous criminal is now at large. I admit it was not a result you could have foreseen, for I remember your recommendation that she be closely watched, and I have no doubt that with the clew you've just given me it won't be many hours before we find her. A strange creature like that, half-wild, chattering a language that no one can understand, cannot remain hidden very long. I can't understand, though," he went on, "the reason you gentlemen have for wishing to withhold from me your full confidence. You haven't given it to me yet. You've discovered something more that bears upon this case which I haven't heard of."

"We have," said the doctor, "and it was with the purpose of telling you about it that we came back to town this morning—that was part of our purpose, at any rate. Do you remember the green cloak which you so confidently declared to be nothing but a bit of fiction, born of Will Harvey's puerile vanity? Well, we've found that. A green cloak, with a high collar, just as Harvey described it."

Ashton eagerly demanded the details as to where and how the cloak was found, and these I supplied him with.

Then there was a little silence. His displeasure over our previous reticence was suddenly swallowed up in his interest in the revelations we made to him.

"That's one to Mallory, certainly," he said at last. "He was right and I was wrong."

"How do you make that out?" I questioned.

"Didn't I tell you that Mallory suspected Harvey of some active connection with the crime, and thought that he was lying to shield himself? The discovery of the cloak makes it evident that he was right. He knew who the actual criminal was, knows now, and was undoubtedly associated with her. He probably thought to save himself by giving us the clew that would lead to her detection. In his eagerness, he overreached himself and told too much, told more than he could possibly have seen, if his testimony as to how he saw it were true."

He broke off there with a short laugh. "But confess," he said, turning to my chief, "confess that this discovery of Phelps puts your theory of associative illusion completely out of court. Harvey testified to a black-haired woman in a green cloak, and denies that he saw more of her than her silhouette upon the shade. We know now that a black-haired woman in a green cloak was actually there, from which it follows that Harvey lied, knew that he lied. And to have lied thus about a matter which he knew to be vital and significant, he must have some powerful, and probably guilty, motive. I don't believe that you can get away from the logic of that."

"Your conclusion is probable," said my chief, "but it's not inevitable."

Ashton dismissed the denial with a mere tolerant shrug, and set it down to the obstinacy of old age.

"You brought the cloak to town with you, I suppose," he went on presently.

I nodded. "You'll want it, I presume?"

"Yes, he said. "It may prove a valuable bit of bait, not for the girl herself, of course, but possibly for one of her accomplices. I'll have Harvey arrested at once. Surveillance isn't good enough for him now; I want him in jail."

"You promised me a chance at Harvey after you got through with him. Do you remember?" said the doctor. "I hope you don't mean to withdraw it."

Ashton stared at him. "You still think you can beat up anything in that covert?" he asked incredulously. "Oh, well, I've no objection to your trying. I'll have him arrested at once and brought to town. Where do you want him? At your laboratory?"

"Yes," said the doctor. "When may we expect him? This afternoon, some time?"

"Yes," said Ashton. "Not later than four o'clock."

The doctor swallowed the last of his coffee, pushed back his chair, and rose to his great ungainly height.

"Now, let's have an understanding," said he. "I've given you, freely, all the information you've asked for. It comprises pretty much all the information you have which can be of any service to you in the solution of the mystery of this crime. That, of course, is partly due to luck. I believe that I can solve that mystery by my methods. I believe that with your methods you will fail. Phelps and I are going to set about trying to find that girl for ourselves, in our own way. If we find her, we will examine her in our own way; and we shan't tell you anything about it until our investigation is complete."

Ashton smiled. "Of course you know," said he, "that you are proposing something that, under my oath of office, I can't permit. If you find that girl—I don't think it very likely that you will, but if you do, I shall be obliged to take her away from you and put her in safe keeping. And the methods I'll use to determine her guilt or innocence will be my methods, and not yours."

The doctor laughed. "That's understood," he said. "You're welcome to take her wherever you can find her, in my laboratary, or anywhere else. But if you don't find her—"

"That's thin ice, Doctor McAlister," Ashton interrupted earnestly. "If you proceed with that express determination of yours, I may find it necessary, little as I'd like to, to have you watched, as persons suspected of compounding a felony."

"All right," said the doctor. "That's understood. Watch away all you like. But you'll still let me have a chance at Harvey?"

Ashton shrugged his shoulders with a vexation that was half-genuine, half-simulated. "You don't deserve it," he said, "but I've made a promise and I'll stick to it."

CHAPTER V

I fully expected that after the grilling he had received at the hands of the district attorney, Harvey would prove a recalcitrant and reluctant subject for the tests we wished to try upon him. He was nervous, it is true, and it took a good deal of reassuring of the most tactful sort, on Doctor McAlister's part, to get him quieted down into anything like a normal state of mind; but he was perfectly willing.

His first sight of the queer, mysterious-looking instruments which our big room contained did nothing to counteract that fear. To the eye of ignorance it must look like a torture chamber from the Inquisition, brought down to date.

My chief spent the better part of an hour taking the young man around and explaining the different instruments to him, and it was not long before young Harvey began to show an inclination to test himself by every electrical and mechanical piece of apparatus in the laboratory. He had forgotten the Oak Ridge mystery, forgotten Ashton, forgotten his recent arrest, forgotten, even, the detective who was waiting in the corridor outside.

He was ready at last for our real experiment. Nothing about Doctor McAlister's manner suggested that there was any difference, from our point of view, between the amusing things we had been doing and the test which he now proposed.

"I'm going to see how quickly you can think," he said. "You're to sit down in this chair, and Mr. Phelps here will read you a list of words. The instant he reads a word, you are to say, aloud, the word it makes you think of—say it just as quickly as you can. You've shown an unusually quick reaction time so far, but this is a better test than any of them. We hang up a pair of little telephones, so—one in front of you and one in front of Mr. Phelps. The moment he speaks a word it makes a little mark on that revolving cylinder. The moment you speak, a second mark is made. The cylinder turns round all the while, and the distance between the two marks shows how quickly or how slowly you think."

I ran my eye down the list which my chief had prepared, with a good deal of care, while we were waiting for them to bring Harvey to the laboratory. The first twelve words were what we call central, that is, they had no connection, so far as we know, with the crime, the mystery or the inquest. In telling us his association with them which he would probably do freely enough, our subject would establish his normal speed in this sort of mental operation.

But the thirteenth word was Loop, and the fourteenth was Pipe. The associations he should announce with those two words and the time he should take in pronouncing them would go far toward establishing a conviction in the doctor's mind and in mine as to whether Harvey had guilty knowledge of the means which had been employed for the old man's murder. If he had such guilty knowledge, if he had seen that ghastly tourniquet made, and twisted it taut himself, or had witnessed the operation, those two simple little words would almost infallibly recall it. The words that would flash into his mind might be violin, perhaps, or throat, or even, possibly, the plain black word murder.

If some such word as that, some damaging, suggestive word, should flash into his mind, one of two things would happen. He would either say it aloud, or he would stop himself from saying it, and deliberately think up another word which, to our ears, could have no sinister significance. But that latter course of action would betray him as certainly as the other, for thought takes time, and the fact that he had been obliged to stop to think would be remorselessly and exactly shown in the chronograph.

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

Killer Whale Has No Equal for Ferocity

The killer whale is the undisputed champion of the sea, declares Mack Sennett, who, as a hobby, has made an exhaustive study of marine life in Lower California seas. "If there is anything that can lick the killer whale, I have never heard of it," Sennett says. "Everything that swims the waters of the earth dreads the terrible killer whale.

"Strictly speaking," the writer explains, "it isn't a fish; it is an air-breathing mammal about 35 feet long. It has huge jaws and heavy fighting teeth. Its head suggests the head of a bulldog, as does its disposition. What makes it more terrible than other big sea monsters is its great speed. Nothing can escape it.

"The favorite dish of the killer whale is the succulent tongue of the real whale," the writer continues. "Its method of killing the whale is curious. When the big fellow comes up to breathe, the killer fastens its jaws on the whale's blowhole and does not let go. Finally, dying of suffocation, the whale thrusts out its great, agonized tongue. The killer nips this off and goes blithely on its way. It is a common sight to find a tongueless dead whale floating in the water."

Ancient Inland Sea

Zuyder Zee is a wide, shallow gulf of the North sea penetrating 60 miles into Holland, and formed in the year 1282 by an inroad of the sea which broke down the protecting sand dunes.

THE UNLOVED WIFE

(© by D. J. Walsh.)

MARGARET BINNER walked slowly home. She had been to the post office for the mail and had stepped into one or two stores to do some necessary shopping. She had met several persons whom she liked and knew and had paused for a word or two. But now she was going home, and home did not mean as much to her as it formerly had, because Margaret was drinking the bitterest cup which fate raises to the lips of wifehood; she had begun to suspect that her husband no longer loved her as he had once done. She had tried to blind her eyes to all the evidence in the case, but at last it had been made all too plain; she could no longer conceal the fact from herself and she suspected her friends could see as plainly as she that she was fast becoming an unloved wife. A great pity for herself welled up in her heart and tears smarted her eyes as the shame of it came to her. What should she do; would it be right to go on living with John when she was certain that he was perfectly indifferent to her?

Upon reaching home Margaret entered the house—she hardly thought of it as home now—and throwing aside her hat sank down upon the big davenport. She must try to think it all out—to plan, if possible, some course of action that would bring some sort of peace to her mind.

She and John had been married almost two years. He had been an ideal lover and husband up to within a few weeks, when suddenly he had seemed to change. He no longer proposed going to places and had no little surprise for her when he came home at night from the office. He always kissed her, it is true, when he came in and still seemed to enjoy the food she prepared for him, but he did not praise it as often as he had. He did not seem quite as gay either when he came in. And after the evening meal he would sink into a big easy chair, adjust the floor lamp at an angle to suit him and bury himself either in a newspaper or book. Now, that was another thing that gave proof that John did not care for her. He knew well enough that she hated to have him move that floor lamp. At first he had laughingly given in when she protested and called her his fussy little housekeeper, but now, without a word, he would calmly move the lamp and say nothing about it. Now, Margaret did not mind staying at home occasionally, but lately night after night John settled himself for the evening, and if she protested or suggested going out he would say he would much rather stay at home, and, finally, one night he told her if she found him dull to run along alone.

"Run along alone! What wife," thought Margaret bitterly, "if she had a proper pride, would air the fact to her friends that her husband no longer found joy in her society?" And then a horrible thought struck her. "Of course that was it. John was either ashamed to be seen with her or there was another woman!" The thought fairly brought her to her feet. She began pacing the long living room and then her eyes chanced to fall upon the mail she had brought from the post office. When the postmaster had handed it to her he had bundled it in a newspaper. At first Margaret had been too busy and too agitated even to think of mail, and when she came home she had thrown it upon the davenport at her side. In springing up just now she had scattered the mail all over the rug and now right there in plain view lay a big, creamy envelope. "Ah!" she thought. She grabbed up the letter with the feeling that at last "she" had written. She tore open the envelope with shaking fingers without glancing at the address. She was startled when she read:

"Dearest: I will arrive on the 2:40 this afternoon. I am taking this opportunity of spending a few days near you. I am on my way East and cannot go through Spencer without seeing you. Now, honey"—"honey, indeed!" thought Margaret—"don't let me spoil any of your plans, but just let me have every moment of your precious time you can manage to steal away from your—" Here the page turned, but the little red specks were floating so thick and fast before her eyes that Margaret could not go on for a moment and then she read—"steal away from your home. I know you are as much in love as ever, one with your constant nature could not change, but I must see and know it for myself. So good-by until 2:40 this afternoon. With love, hugs and kisses. From your cousin FANNY."

Cousin Fanny! And then Margaret picked up the discarded envelope and saw that it was directed to her and it was without doubt from her very own frivolous cousin Fanny. She had not seen Cousin Fanny since she and John were married and this was the first time she had heard from her in months and months. The relief and disappointment combined turned her almost faint. Well, she would just have to put aside her problem and do what she could to make Cousin Fanny enjoy the few days she would be in the house. It would never do for Margaret to let this romantic creature know that John no longer loved her. Perish the thought. She must put on a brave front.

At 2:30 Margaret was at the station with her little roadster to meet Cousin Fanny. She wore one of her prettiest dresses and she had so carefully powdered her nose and bathed her eyes made red by recent tears that Cousin Fanny, when she impulsively kissed her, said she had never seen Margaret looking happier or prettier. Poor Margaret was thankful that she had thus far been able to conceal her breaking heart. But how was she going to keep on smiling—"

That night when John came in, big, brusque, and found Cousin Fanny he was simply overjoyed.

"I'm so glad you've come, Fan," he said in his hearty way. "I am afraid it's been a little dull for Margaret here lately, but I've had so blamed much to do at the office that when I get home all I could think of was to sink into a chair and read. I tell you home is a great place to be in. It's like heaven to me to get home, have a good meal and be able to sit and smoke and think. I'll say, if every fellow had a wife like Margaret here the movies and theaters would soon have to go out of business. She makes me lazy, too, by feeding me. And, say, by the time I've eaten one of her good dinners—and believe me they taste good after that quick lunch I patronize at noon—I have no ambition to move. Some little cook I've got here, Fan, as you'll soon see. What have you got to eat tonight, Puss?" asked John as he put his arm about his wife and gave her a good hug. "I'm as hungry as a bear. Come on, Fan, let's see," and he led the way to the dining room.

Never in all her life had Margaret eaten such a good meal, never had she been so happy in all her life. She felt as if John had been restored to her, and when after dinner he seized the floor lamp and placed it behind his favorite chair and settled himself with his newspaper and pipe for a quiet evening she never even noticed that he had ruffled up a corner of the rug in his haste to get settled comfortably. Margaret suggested going out, but Cousin Fanny pleaded that she was tired and would rather stay in.

John forgot his paper long enough to growl over his shoulder:

"Say, girls, tomorrow afternoon I'll lay off and we'll all do the town. In the evening we'll take in a good show, too, if you say so," and then he relapsed into silence.

But for Margaret there was no silence, for within her heart was the singing as of a million birds.

Many Factors Unite to Shape Literature

A literature is the spiritual interpretation of an age. It is the expression and illumination of the sorrows, the conflicts, the burdens and the aspirations of one's own time. True literature shows us the eternal laws operating under common and fleeting forms of life around us. The literature is a pathfinder: it lights the road for all that is aspiring in our destiny.

A great literature is never an accident; it is as truly an evolution as is a tree. The literature of a nation is the outcome of its whole life. Its growth is determined by four mighty forces: Race, or heredity; environment, or physical and social conditions; epoch, or the spirit of the age; personality, or that which is fundamental in man's nature.

Each man is born with all the momentum of his race within him. We look big because we stand upon the shoulders of all the preceding generations. We are the fruit of the past and the seed of the future. Next, we come to environment, or the impress of nature and society upon literature. Climate, sky, soil and occupation—all these have acted upon generation after generation of Englishmen, until a distinct type of man has been produced. The spirit of the age is also another powerful factor in the shaping of a literature. As stone against stone, humanity and literature shapes, and is also shaped.

A great writer must have some message for the world—a great truth that is even higher than his own era. But the form which that message shall take depends chiefly upon his epoch. He cannot write with the large power of Shakespeare's time, because the language is not ready for him. Each age has its spirit and its possibilities.

But in the building of a literature there is a final, strange force beyond race environment, and epoch; it is the ineffaceable element of personality in man. What is called genius is the highest, keenest manifestation of personality. Genius remakes the society which evolves it. It not only expresses but intensifies the national type, and the eternal, that underlies all types. Genius becomes the golden key to the locked-up ideal of the multitude. Great literature is genius speaking its interpretation of the acts and aspirations of an age—of the meaning and the mystery of life.—Edwin Markham in the Smoker's Companion.

April Fool's Day

Brewer's Dictionary of Phrase and Fable suggests that as March 25 used to be New Year day, April 1 was its octave when its festivities culminated and ended. "It may be a relic of the Roman 'Cerealia' held at the beginning of April. The tale is that Proserpina was sporting in the Elysian meadows and had just filled her lap with daffodils, when Pluto carried her off to the lower world. Her mother, Ceres, heard the echo of her screams, and went in search of 'the voice'; but her search was a fool's errand; it was hunting the gowk, or looking for the echo of a scream."

Improved Uniform International

Sunday School Lesson

(By REV. P. B. FITZWATER, D.D., Dean Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.)
(©, 1927, by Western Newspaper Union.)

Lesson for September 25

REVIEW—THE EARLY KINGS OF ISRAEL

DEVOTIONAL READING—Ps. 105: 1-8.

GOLDEN TEXT—The Lord hath prepared His throne in the heavens; and His kingdom ruleth over all.

PRIMARY TOPIC—What We May Learn From Samuel, Saul, David and Solomon.

JUNIOR TOPIC — Teachings and Warnings From the Quarter's Lessons.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Lessons From Samuel, Saul and David.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Honoring God in Our Lives and in Our Land.

Though the lesson title for the quarter is "The Early Kings of Israel," the great character Samuel should be included. A good way to conduct the review would be to make a character study of the four outstanding persons of the quarter—Samuel, Saul, David and Solomon. Perhaps the most satisfactory method of review will be the summing up of the leading events and teachings of each lesson. The assignments should be made a week ahead, so that the members of the class may recite without hesitation. The following suggestions are offered:

Lesson for July 3.

Against the protest of Samuel the people demanded a king, in order that they might be like other nations. Saul, of the tribe of Benjamin, was given as best suited to fill the place.

Lesson for July 10.

Because of Samuel's exemplary life as a child, a judge and a ruler, he was able to challenge the people to show wherein he had ever defrauded or oppressed anyone. It is a fine thing when a man in public life can be vindicated against the charge of wrongdoing, either in public or in private.

Lesson for July 17.

Saul's failure brought great sorrow of heart to Samuel. The selection of David from Jesse's sons showed that God looks not on the outward appearance, but upon the heart. David's fidelity as a shepherd boy put him in line for promotion.

Lesson for July 24.

Because David was jealous for and trusted in God he was able to overcome Goliath, who had defied the living God.

Lesson for July 31.

The friendship of David and Jonathan has become immortalized in the world's thought. It was unique in that it occurred between two men of rival worldly interests. Jonathan, the crown prince, knew that God had chosen David, therefore he waived his natural rights.

Lesson for August 7.

David knew that God had rejected Saul and chosen himself to be king. Though relentlessly pursued by Saul, David spared the king because he was God's anointed.

Lesson for August 14.

When David was made king he desired to bring up the ark, the symbol of God's presence, to the center of the nation's life. Though his desire was worthy, he was not careful to do according to God's way. Doing a right thing in a wrong way is displeasing to God.

Lesson for August 21.

Though God did not permit David to build a house for Him, He did something better; He promised to build for David a house, that is, to establish for him a throne. God does more and better for us than we are able to ask or think.

Lesson for August 28.

Through neglected duty David fell into temptation and grievously sinned. By means of a parable Nathan the prophet convicted him of his sin. Upon confession to God forgiveness was granted.

Lesson for September 4.

Because Solomon chose wisdom in order to intelligently reign over the nation, God abundantly bestowed upon him wisdom and riches. God's blessings exceed our asking.

Lesson for September 11.

Solomon's first task after his coronation was building the temple, a privilege which was denied to David, his father. Because of Solomon's obedience God manifested His presence and thus made the temple holy.

Lesson for September 18.

Rehoboam's pride and arrogancy lost to himself the support of the major portion of the nation.

We Grow Strong or Weak

Great occasions do not make heroes or cowards; they simply unveil them. Silently, day by day, we grow strong or weak and at last some crisis shows what we have become.—Canon Westcott.

Have Christ in Your Heart

If a man have Christ in his heart, heaven before his eyes, and only as much of temporal blessing as is just needful to carry him safely through life, then pain and sorrow have little to shoot at.—William Burns.

The Cost and the Gain

Christ tells us to count the cost of discipleship, but he never asked us to count the gain. He knew we could not; there is no arithmetic to compute that.—W. L. Watkinson.

SEPTEMBER

L 915 0555

Russel R. Reidenour

ATTORNEY

Auburn, Ind.

DR. C. R. BAUMGARTNER
Veterinarian

Spencerville, Ind.

PHONES: 282--283.

SPENCERVILLE

Revival meeting is in progress in a tent on the Emanuel lot.

Rev. Burk, of Leo and Rev. R. S. Brown exchanged pulpits Sunday evening.

The Misses Vera Reed and Irma Agler were Sunday guests at the M. H. Howey home.

H. L. Vallieu of Fort Wayne, visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Vallieu, Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Baurer and children of Fort Wayne, spent Sunday with Thomas McNamara and wife.

Mr. and Mrs. Murray Erick and babe, of California, were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. William Erick.

Farver's Canning Kitchen at Spencerville will operate on Wednesday and Thursday each week until further notice. 31tf.

The Home Bureau Club met on Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Fred Randall in an all day meeting. Pot luck dinner was served.

Little Gene Louise Vallieu returned home Sunday after spending from Thursday on with her grandmother, Mrs. Ella Hughes.

Clyde Sowers and sons of Petosky, Mich., and Mrs. Malindy Holstead of Union City, Mich., were Saturday guests at the Joel Betz home.

Sherman Zimmerman and family who occupied the Frank Wertman residence, moved to Auburn Saturday, where Mr. Zimmerman has employment.

The Parent-Teacher Club held their first meeting this year at the school house on Friday night. The Community Orchestra furniahed music.

James McKinley and wife, Mr. and Mrs. William Allen and children and Vaughn Allen, wife and babe, spent Sunday at Crooked Lake visiting Delb. McKinley.

Mrs. Vern Wilmot and son, George, of Fort Wayne, were week end guests in the Donald Kimes home. George is working in the High Restaurant at St. Joe this week.

James Reed and wife and Miss Ada Bowser left Saturday to visit the B. L. Smith family in Michigan and Mr. and Mrs. Verna Reed and family and Mr. and Mrs. Chester Wolf of South Bend.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Vallieu had as guests Sunday, Mrs. Ella Hughes and son, Oral, of near Concord, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Haskins and daughter, Betty Lou, of Hicksville and Mr. and Mrs. L. V. Myers and daughter, Nancy Lou, of Fort Wayne.

Envelopes at News office.

William Erick, Clyde Rectenwall, R. U. Bowser and Beeks Erick spent Sunday in Chicago.

Miss Maggie Henderson has returned to her home from Fort Wayne greatly improved in health.

Mr. and Mrs. John Betz and Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Hursey of St. Joe and Mr. and Mrs. Joel Betz, were guests on Sunday at the Samuel Betz home.

LOW-CUTTING ATTACHMENTS

Low-cutting of corn early in the fall is one of the best means of controlling corn borer spread. To assist the farmer in seeing how easily it is to cut corn low a series of demonstrations have been arranged by the U. S. Department of Agriculture in co-operation with the County Agents in the various corn borer infested counties in Indiana. For these demonstrations three corn binders that have been equipped with the low-cutting attachments will be put in operation in each of the counties infested. The older counties and the counties that have practically every township infected will be allowed two demonstrations. The first demonstration in DeKalb County will be at the corn borer farm on Tuesday, September 27 at 1:30. Every farmer in the county is urged to atend this meeting and see how these attachments work. In addition to the demonstration there will be men present from the corn borer control division, a representative from the engineering section at Purdue and someone from the educational part of the corn borer work.

A three day tour is planned for week of October 10, for infested parts of Essex County, Canada and around Monroe and Toledo. Twelve cars from DeKalb will fill its quoto. Those wishing to go will notify County Agent.

HOG SHOWS ITS VALUE AGAIN IN BOOSTING FARM PROFITS

The hog again proved himself a highly dependable source of farm profits when the advance in the recent hog market carried prices to the highest point in four or five months and more than two dollars over the season's low point early in July. Just how dependable the hog is will be gleaned from an analysis of the hog situation just completed:—

"A hog is a profitable market place for skimmilk, alfalfa and corn. Hogs and hens fed skimmilk, a by-product of cream production, and home grown feeds round out a type of farm diversification which rarely fails to bring prosperity to the individual farmer and to the community.

"Hog production always is a highly dependable source of farm profit when the enterprise is well managed and a fairly uniform number of hogs is marketed from year to year. It is especially effective as a profit maker when carried on in connection with the production of cream or butterfat on farms adapted to produce a large acerage of corn. Such farms are likely to have a larger yield of corn than will be required for the number of milk cows and young cattle which can be carried on the legume hay and other rough feeds. On the average, this surplus can be marketed to the best advantage in the form of pork. In this combination the dairy furnishes skimmilk, which is the best possible supplement for growing pigs or for hogs in the fattening stage.

"While hog prices have declined sharply from the level prevailing a year ago producers can look forward with confidence to better prices early in 1928. Production was not greatly expanded, in spite of the highly favorable corn-hog ratio, so that drastic liquidation of herds should not be necessary to restore a higher price level. Market supplies by the summer of 1928 are likely to be smaller than this year. Domestic consumption promises to be well sustained and contraction of production abroad should lead to a better foreign demand by next summer.

"In the first seven months of the present year 26,524,000 hogs were slaughtered under federal inspection against 24,206,000 in the same period last year, an increase of 9.5 per cent. When the rise in corn forced many hogs to market last June, the slaughter was 25 per cent greater than a year previous. About half the increase in numbers has been offset by smaller average weights, but the quantity of product probably has exceeded the corresponding period last year by five per cent.

"After April 1928 receipts of hogs will depend primarily on the number of pigs raised this fall. Comprehensive observation observations indicate that there will be a substantial decrease. Present conditions suggest that the corn situation will result in marketing hogs at light weights next summer. Hog prices at that time should average considerably higher than they did in the summer just past."

Nearby and Yonder

By T. T. MAXEY

WNU Service

El Capitan

ASCENDING the rugged canyon of the Merced river to the lovely valley of the Yosemite in California, one comes upon a colossal hunk of granite—plain, stern, challenging, and of such staggering proportions as to cause suspicion concerning the correctness of his vision.

This is El Capitan—the word a probable derivation or corruption of the Indian name "Tu-tock-ah-nu-lah"—said to be the largest, loftiest, mightiest and most glorious rock in creation.

The significance of this statement is apparent when one understands that the almost-perpendicular face of this stupendous pile rises 3,600 feet, or nearly three-quarters of a mile, toward the blue sky above from the water in the tiny river at its base, while its two side walls have an area of between three and four hundred acres.

Opinion differs concerning its origin. Great floods rushing down the valley for long periods when the Sierra Nevada mountains were in the making may have scoured away the dirt and debris and left this immovable rock. Again, a glacier of untold size and age may have ground its way down this valley, destroying everything in its path save this indestructible giant. Or the bottom of the valley may have been sunk by an earthquake.

The impression which this monster rock makes upon one varies with the moods of the weather. A pale moonlight gives to it an almost ghostly outline of overwhelming immensity with a somewhat spooky personality.

(©, 1927, Western Newspaper Union.)

HOW TO CULL HENS TOLD IN 10 WORDS

The best point formulated in the last ten years on poultry culling can be expressed in ten words: Sell or eat hens that stop laying by October first. Hens that keep on laying up to that date are usually worth keeping in the flock on-other year.

The last week in September is a good time for the final summer culling. The amateur culler will usually find a poor producer betraying herself by sporting a yellow beak, vent and shanks, and very likely she will be molting. Hard working, good producing hens wear their plumage longer than poor producers. Slackers among the layers are usually wearing brand-new coats of plumage by October first. Hens whose bodies are still filled with yellow pigment will be found to have thick, hard abdomens, shrivelled up combs, and the pelvis bones will be close together. They are usually hardest to catch, too. Non-producers should be replaced with pullets that begin to lay on or about October first.

PROHIBITION PASSED ITS WORST STAGE

Arrests or intoxication in the United States which increased annually from 1920 until 1926, are now on the decline, and indications are that a "steady prohibition level" of law observance may soon be reached in the United States, according to Dr. Irving Fisher, professor of political economy at Yale University.

Simultaneously with publication of results of a survey in more than 1000 cities showing that one person less was arrested for intoxication in every 10,000 of the population during 1926 than in 1925. Dr. Fisher made public replies to a questionaire sent to police authorities of 320 cities relative to strictness in making arrests.

After reconciling the groups of answers Dr. Fisher says that an impartial statistician to whom he referred "the task of working out a probable picture of the strictness of police arrests for drunkenness before and after national prohibition," reported the percentage as "somewhere between 50 and 55 per cent before prohibition and between 70 and 75 per cent since prohibition."

"Of the bulk of cities reporting, 139 state the strictness is about the same since prohibition, and 171 report increased severity of arrests for drunkenness," he adds.

Dr. Fisher said the survey was undertaken in reply to critics of his book "Prohibition at Its Worst" who argued that by showing increased arrests for intoxication since national prohibition, he was defeating his own assertions that conditions have improved.

Calling attention to the fact that before prohibition the police rule covering the situation was that arrests for intoxication should be avoided "if the officer could in any way be assured that the vimtim of drink would reach home safely without disturbing the peace," Dr. Fisher continues:

"This police rule of laxity had generally public sanction. Secondly, drunkenness was not often regarded as in itself a misdemeanor or or as evidence that the law had been violated, as it has become so by local enactments since prohibition.

"I would prefer to err, if anything, on the conservative side in choosing from the range of figures given above a minimum ratio of arrests before and after prohibition. I have selected, therefore, the ratio of 55 per cent of arrests to cases of public drunkenness before prohibition, and 70 per cent for the last two years, stepping up the curve proportionately for the years intervening. I do this realizing that the ratios of 50 per cent and 75 per cent would be quite probable on the basis of returns."

Dr. Fisher's tabulation shows that the rate of arrests for each 10,000 of the population decreased from 192 in 1916 to 68 in 1920, then rose to 88 in 1921, to 116 in 1922, to 134 in 1923, to 137 in 1924, and reached a maximum of 140 in 1925. In 1926 they dropped to 139.

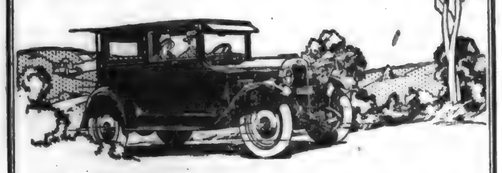
Dr. Fisher declares that "if this data be true cross section of conditions in America," then the movement of reaction has now spent itself.

"If so," he continues, "we have passed 'prohibition at its worst,' and may soon be able to settle down to a steady prohibition level."

for Economical Transportation

CHEVROLET

Amazing Performance!



The COACH $595

The Touring $525
or Roadster
The Coupe $625
The 4-Door Sedan $695
The Sport Cabriolet $715
The Imperial Landau $745
½-Ton Truck (Chassis only) $395
1-Ton Truck (Chassis only) $495
All prices f. o. b. Flint, Michigan

Learn for yourself the thrill of Chevrolet performance! Take the wheel of your favorite model and go wherever you like. Drive through the crowded traffic of city streets—and note the handling ease. Step on the gas on the open road and enjoy the swift sweep of the passing miles. Head for the steepest hill you know—and see how effortlessly the Chevrolet motor will carry you up. Here is performance truly amazing in a car priced so impressively low.

FURNISH SALES AND SERVICE
Spencerville, Ind.

QUALITY AT LOW COST

LINDBERGH DID NOT WISH

Young men the world over have, with mingled feelings, read of the achievement of the youthful Charles Lindbergh. Admiration and pride in the glory of his feat has been most generously given by all—still what young man is there who has not "wished" that the opportunity had been his—and that he could have "zoomed" through to such everlasting glory?

The now "Colonel Lindbergh" MADE his opportunity. An unknown air-mail pilot, he SAVED part of his earnings. When the hour arrived he had $2,000 saved to offer on the altar of sincerity—and obtain the support of young busimen of St. Louis. He was the largest individual contributor to the fund which made the flight possible.

Lindbergh did not WISH—He SAVED

COME IN AND TALK IT OVER

Farmers' & Merchants State Bank
Spencerville, Ind.

ALL The Rakish Lines of SUMMER IN THESE HATS

The Smart Hats this fall have all of the Rakish Lines which make for Style and they are to be had in such a wide variety of models that she who wears either a large or small hat most becomingly, can find here just the Hat she wants and at a Price she wishes to pay. They are to be had in Black or any of the Pleasing Autumn Tones.

ASHLEY HAT SHOP
AUBURN, IND.

Come to Baltimore

between Sept. 24th and Oct. 8th, 1927 and visit the

FAIR of the IRON HORSE

The Centenary Pageant & Exhibition Celebrating 100 years of Railroading

COME and bring the family—for this is an exposition such as has never been held before and one that may never be seen again. Historical, educational, vitally interesting to young and old.

It will prove an unforgetable visit—you will see scenes within the memory of scarcely a living man—there will be thrills aplenty. One hundred years of the American railroad—even back to the days of the stage coach. This dramatic pageant will move daily, except Sunday and Monday, at 2.15 P.M. Ample room for 50,000 visitors. Grandstand seats 12,000.

NO ADMISSION CHARGE. Reserved seat tickets may be had on application to The Centenary Director, Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, Baltimore, Maryland. Please specify the day you want to come.

Exhibition open weekdays 10 A.M. to 5 P.M. Sundays 2 P.M. to 5 P.M.

Special low round trip fare. Tickets sold September 23rd, 26th, 28th, 30th, October 3rd, 5th and 7th. Good going and returning on all regular trains. For details apply to any Baltimore & Ohio Ticket Agent.

Baltimore & Ohio

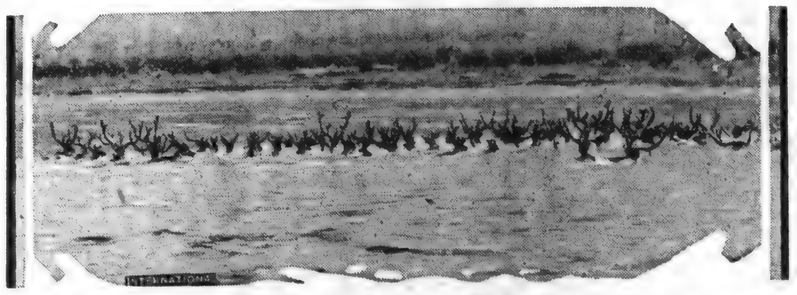
SEPTEMBER

L 915 U556

Princess Lost in Transatlantic Flight

Princess Lowenstein Wertheim and Capt. Leslie Hamilton in the monoplane St. Raphael which was lost in the attempt to fly from England to Canada. With them was Col. F. F. Minchin.

Caribou of the Yukon Make Periodic Swim



This remarkable photograph, just received from Alaska, shows a big herd of caribou, the monsters of the frozen north, making their periodic swim across the Yukon river as winter sets in.

MEXICAN JUSTICE

The justice administered in Mexico is evidently not as cruel a thing as it is usually represented. At least, not after seeing the judge and probation officer of the Mexico City Juvenile court, the only one in the country. Two pretty young ladies, who have been studying at Pomona college, Los Angeles, and for three weeks have been visiting the various suburban police departments, proved to be the judge and the probation officer. Judge Guadelupe Zuniga, on the right, is only twenty-five years of age, and Senorita Guadelupe Tosadas, on the left, the probation officer, is but twenty-eight years old.

YOUNG LIFE SAVER

Charles Capella, residing with his parents at Bristol, Pa., has saved six persons from drowning, and is only nine years old. The lad is an expert swimmer and spends much of his leisure time in this exercise.

Piano Prodigy at Five Years

Albin Wein of New York is only five years old, but can play on the piano anything he hears, though he knows no notes. Only a little candy is needed to start him playing.

India Has a Destructive Flood

Thousands of collapsed houses, several hundreds of thousands of persons rendered homeless, and considerable damage to cattle and crops is the appalling toll exacted by one of the worst floods India has suffered in years. Photograph shows Visvamitri station in Baroda state, inundated by the flood waters.

Help Wanted

The rich bachelor sighed. He spoke.

"Things are all sizes and sevens with me. I feel the great need of a woman in my home—one who could straighten out my tangled affairs and make life worth living again."

The girl looked at him expectantly.

"Yes," she said very softly.

"Do you know of any good able-bodied woman whom I could get to manage my house?" he concluded.

Competitive Generosity

Nowhere is competition greater than in generosity. The common practice of "keeping up with the Joneses," which is credited with making us do things we can't afford, is due not so much to mere display as to a very natural and reasonable desire to repay the Joneses with some of the kindnesses we have experienced at their hands. A favor asked is often an obligation acquired.—Exchange.

What's the Answer.....?

Questions No. 17

1—Who was the Venerable Bede?

2—What city is regarded as the greatest commercial center of Asia?

3—What is the most notable characteristic of the movie comedian, Buster Keaton?

4—Who was the leading pitcher in the American league in 1926?

5—What famous British spy was hanged by the Continental forces during the Revolution?

6—Who was the American commander of the U. S. S. Constitution in the battle with the British ship Guerriere?

7—Who invented the airbrake?

8—How many chambers are there in the human heart?

9—Is it correct to call the Olympic games an Olympiad?

10—What is God?

11—Why did Oliver Wendell Holmes write the poem "Old Ironsides"?

12—What South American country was the ancient kingdom of Quito?

13—What island is noted for its many colossal images and architectural ruins?

14—What great pianist of the day is also a statesman and has served as premier of his country?

15—What great caricaturist, working in colors, is remembered largely for his illustrations for the novels and sketches of Charles Dickens?

16—What horse won the Kentucky Derby in 1914 and what was his time?

17—What famous American warship was called "Old Ironsides"?

18—What President had been known as "Old Rough and Ready" in what war?

19—Who invented antiseptic surgery?

20—What does the sense of smell do to help many animals?

Answers No. 16

1—Mount Logan, in the Yukon.

2—Willie Munden with 171 firsts.

3—Gen. George Meade.

4—Daniel Boone.

5—In Arkansas.

6—Joseph Mallord William Turner.

7—Algernon Blackwood.

8—This land crab is often over a foot long and frequents coral islands in the Indian and Pacific oceans.

9—That it is not significantly related to the matter in hand.

10—For Thine is the kingdom, and the power, and the glory, forever.

11—"Pilgrim's Progress" by John Bunyan.

12—Mount Whitney, in California.

13—Scapa Flow.

14—Gen. John C. Fremont.

15—Battle of Trenton.

16—In the feet.

17—Leopold Auer.

18—On the islands in the Caribbean sea.

19—Instead of "whom" it should be "who," nominative case as subject of the verb "was."

20—In the year 1866.

Famous Painter Put Heart Into His Work

In many respects the career of Titian, the Venetian artist, is without parallel in the history of art. The span of his productive life is unprecedented. He lived to be ninety-nine years old and painted steadily for nearly seventy-five years. This noted painter apparently believed that no amount of inspiration or intuitive genius is a substitute for painstaking labor. A contemporary wrote of him: "He laid in his pictures with a mass of colors which served him as a ground-work for what he wanted to express. I myself have seen such powerful strokes swept in by him with solid pigment, sometimes with pure 'terra rossa' (red ocher)—and this served him for the half-tones—sometimes with a brush full of white lead; and with the same brush dipped in red, black or yellow he picked out the lights. In four strokes he had sketched in a remarkably beautiful figure. Then he laid the picture against the wall, and left it there, often for several months, without looking at it again, and when he wanted to work at it he examined it very critically as if it were his mortal enemy, in order to discover any possible faults. Then he took away a prominence here, set an arm straight there, and got a foot into the right position. So by degrees he brought his figures to the most perfect symmetry, and then he proceeded to do the same with the next picture."—Kansas City Star.

Novel Use for Hose

Sir James Crichton-Browne relates this anecdote of a colleague's absent-mindedness: He was standing by the bedside of a lady patient giving her copious and emphatic instructions as to what she ought to do, when to her dismay she saw him take her black silk stockings, which were lying on a chair beside the bed, and draw them on his hands and arms as gloves. He did not discover his mistake but walked off with the stockings.—Exchange.

A Few Little Smiles

SERVED HIM RIGHT

"Hello, Hayseed," said the facetious youth. "How's it for a lift to Centerville?" He jumped into the car without waiting for an answer. Twenty minutes passed.

"Quite a distance to Centerville, isn't it?"

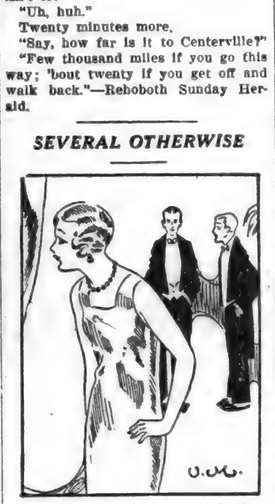
"Uh, huh."

Twenty minutes more.

"Say, how far is it to Centerville?"

"Few thousand miles if you go this way; 'bout twenty if you get off and walk back."—Rehoboth Sunday Herald.

SEVERAL OTHERWISE



"A beautiful and loving woman can bring down heaven."

"True—and I know several who can raise hades."

Whatever That Is

To have too little money, Bo,
I know, alack, is doggone tough,
And yet there is danger in too much,
So I'd like to have just enough.

The First Stage

"How did you burn your nose like that?"

"I thought I was lightin' a cigarette and I didn't have one in my mouth."

Can't Be Done

Teacher—Use the right verb in this sentence: "The toast was drank in silence."

Pupil—The toast was ate in silence.

Short One, Maybe

"That girl is wearing the last word in bathing suits."

"Well, if the police ever catch her, it will be a sentence."

A FINE PRICE

Mrs. Jones—Fine feathers don't make fine birds.

Jones—No, but they make a fine bill, when I have to pay for those you have on your hat.

The Flyer

The flyer sails above the earth,
Across the summer sky,
And shouts in accents fraught with mirth,
"Well, how is this for high?"

Explained

Hubby—Why is dinner late?

Wife—I prepared it by the clock you set when you came in last night.

Everybody Happy

Mr. Stayathome—How did you manage to see Paris in two days?

Mr. Gadabout—Well, my daughter visited the monuments and the museums, my wife the stores, and I the music halls and cafes.—Pathfinder

Open to Advice

"But surely you would not marry this woman just because of her money, would you?"

"Well, how else could I get it?"

Never Fails

"I had no idea," said Lisetta Nies to a friend, "that profanity was so rife until I drove a car."

"Do you hear much of it on the streets?" asked her friend.

"Yes. Nearly every time I bump into some one he swears shockingly."

Eddie's Ego

Eddie—I am paid for what I know, not for what I do.

Fannie—Don't you get any salary at all?

The Racer

When I'm burning up the miles—every cylinder working overtime at tremendous temperatures—there's at least one thing I know won't go wrong—and that's spark plugs. I insist on Champions!

Champion is the better spark plug because of its double-ribbed sillimanite core—its two-piece construction and its special analysis electrodes.

Champion X—for Fords 60¢
Champion—Cars other than Fords 75¢

CHAMPION
Spark Plugs
TOLEDO, OHIO

For your protection be sure the Champions you buy are in the original Champion cartons.

Eclipse in Ancient Clock

With exact fidelity a clock made nearly 350 years ago recorded the recent eclipse. The famous three-storied Strasbourg timepiece completed in 1589 by Isaac Habbercht, and now in the British museum, contains a dial representing the sun, and another the moon. The "moon" covered the "sun" at exactly eclipse time this year.

The worst thing about the fellow who knows it all is that he insists upon you knowing it too.

Look at the foundation of the ladder of fame before attempting to climb it.

Lay Oak over the old worn floors. Full directions for laying, nailing, and finishing on request.

OAK floors add value to your home

They tone up every room, and make the house modern. Economical, permanent, beautiful. Save housework. Write for free descriptive literature.

OAK FLOORING BUREAU
1793 Builders' Building CHICAGO

Snowy White Clothes
WITHOUT RUBBING

N-R-G (Energy) Laundry Tablets wash clothes spotlessly clean in ten minutes without rubbing. Clean everything like magic: cut soap bill in half. Remove ink, fruit stains, blood, rust, perspiration and all stains instantly.

Guaranteed Not to Injure the Hands or the Finest Fabric

Amazing results when N-R-G is used in the washing machine, either electric or hand driven. No blueing required. For sale at your grocer's, 10c per package. Valuable coupon with every package. Only four required for Silver Teaspoon. 25-year guarantee. Over 20 other premiums.

THE N-R-G PRODUCTS CO., CHICAGO, ILL.

FLASH
Cleans All Hands
Factory agents or territory salesmen wanted. Write Dept. Flash Chemical Co., Cambridge, Mass.

FLASH
HANDS AND HAND CLEANER

AGENTS Start Your Own Business—Soaps, Extracts, Perfumes, Toilet Goods, Spices, Medicines, Household Articles. $60 to $90 weekly. Write DORAY 6700 Glades Avenue, ST. LOUIS MO.

Agents making big money selling popular price clothing direct to consumer. Commissions advanced. Big bonuses. Large samples free. Brighton Tailoring, 640 Broadway, New York.

Son of Famous Father

Ferdinand Columbus, son of Christopher Columbus, was a great book lover and collector. His library is owned by the cathedral at Seville, Spain.

All the Way Back

"The Williamses come of very old stock." "Yes. Their family tree goes back to the time when they lived in it."—Kansas City Times.

"O Happy Day" sang the laundress as she hung the snowy wash on the line. It was a "happy day" because she used Russ Bleaching Blue.—Adv.

God gives sleep to the bad in order that the good may be undisturbed.—Saadi.

One may loaf stylishly or with an apologetic air. It's a matter of temperament.

Stomach Disorders are decidedly unpleasant
Green's August Flower
a gentle laxative, will act promptly in relief of stomach and bowel troubles and your freedom from pain and discomfort will make you feel that life is again worth living.
60c and 90c bottles. At all druggists.
G. G. Green, Inc., Woodbury, N. J.

Bunions
Quick relief from pain. Prevent shoe pressure.
At all drug and shoe stores
Dr Scholl's Zino-pads
Put one on—the pain is gone

SEPTEMBER

L 915

0557

Slowing Up?

You Can't Feel Well When Kidneys Act Sluggishly.

OVERWORK, worry and lack of rest, all put extra burdens on the kidneys. When the kidneys slow up, waste poisons remain in the blood and are apt to make one languid, tired and achy, with dull headaches, dizziness and often a nagging backache.

A common warning of imperfect kidney action is scanty or burning secretions. Doan's Pills assist the kidneys in their eliminative work. Are endorsed by users everywhere. Ask your neighbor!

DOAN'S PILLS 60c
STIMULANT DIURETIC TO THE KIDNEYS
Foster-Milburn Co. Mfg.Chem. Buffalo, N.Y.

Keep Stomach and Bowels Right
By giving baby the harmless, purely vegetable, infants' and children's regulator.

MRS. WINSLOW'S SYRUP

brings astonishing, gratifying results in making baby's stomach digest food and bowels move as they should at teething time. Guaranteed free from narcotics, opiates, alcohol and all harmful ingredients. Safe and satisfactory.

At All Druggists

CARBUNCLES
Carboil draws out the core and gives quick relief.
CARBOIL
GENEROUS 50¢ BOX
At All Druggists — Money-back Guarantee
BOLSKOW-HOLLIS CO. NASHVILLE, TENN.

For Old Sores
Hanford's Balsam of Myrrh
Money back for first bottle if not suited. All dealers.

Afterglow

"Dear," she gushed, "isn't this romantic?"

"What! That box of matches?"

"Yes, they were licensed the very year we got married."—American Legion Monthly.

The Other Possibility

Children—No, we're not twins.

Teacher—But if you are both six years old on the same day of the same year you must be twins.

Children—But, we're not! There's another one of us; we're triplets.

"BAYER ASPIRIN" PROVED SAFE

Take without Fear as Told in "Bayer" Package

BAYER

Does not affect the Heart

Unless you see the "Bayer Cross" on package or on tablets you are not getting the genuine Bayer Aspirin proved safe by millions and prescribed by physicians over twenty-five years for

Colds	Headache
Neuritis	Lumbago
Toothache	Rheumatism
Neuralgia	Pain, Pain

Each unbroken "Bayer" package contains proven directions. Handy boxes of twelve tablets cost few cents. Druggists also sell bottles of 24 and 100.

Getting Along

"How's things, John?"

"Getting along in years. My memor's failing."

"Heh?"

"Can't seem to remember my troubles as long as I uster."

Doing Well

"Lots of Americans abroad this summer." "Yeh, Europe can pay off her debts with picture post cards."

Bilious?

Take NR—NATURE'S REMEDY—tonight. You'll be "fit and fine" by morning—tongue clear, headache gone, appetite back, bowels acting pleasantly, bilious attack forgotten. For constipation, too, better than any mere laxative.

Safe, mild, purely vegetable!—

NR TO-NIGHT
TOMORROW BRIGHT

At Druggists—only 25c

APPROPRIATE CURTAINS FOR A CASEMENT

Casement Curtains Arranged to Draw.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Casement windows, either single or in groups, are picturesque and appropriate in both large and small houses. If well made they are charming and convenient, but they must be curtained so as not to interfere with their opening.

Curtain Material.

The material of which the casement curtains are made is the same as that used for any other windows in the room, unless some special effect is desired. In a hall or alcove a casement may sometimes be treated as an entirely separate decorative feature. If the living room has both casements and double sash windows the material chosen for curtains must be adapted to both types of window, and to the atmosphere of the living room, whether formal and dignified, or informally gay and cheerful. The bureau of home economics suggests that plain fabrics, such as poplin, pongee, habutai silk, rayon, silk and cotton mixtures, monk's cloth, heavy gauze, or casement cloth, are good. Richly patterned cretonnes suit some living rooms if the walls are plain.

If the casement opens out, there is less chance of the curtains being in the way of the sash. Draw curtains can be pulled back to the extreme edge of the window frame when the casement is opened. If glass curtains must be used they should be hung from the upper casing so that they remain inside the room when the casement is unfastened. Otherwise they would soon be spoiled by rain and outdoor air. Side draperies and draw curtains should end on a line with the apron or sill.

If Casement Opens In.

If the casement opens in, glass curtains may be shirred on rods at the top and bottom of the sash, or hung with rings from the top of it, so that they swing with the window. If a valance and side draperies are used with the opening-in casement, the valance must clear the top of the sash as it swings in. On the whole, draw curtains will be found best for casements. They are generally arranged in clusters of plaits on rings to be drawn back and forth on a solid rod by means of double cords passing over small pulleys. The illustration shows casement curtains of plain colored pongee for the living room.

WORK QUICKLY TO MAKE JELLY ROLL

One of Secrets of Baking Successful Cake.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Rapid work is one of the secrets of making a successful jelly roll. Any preferred recipe for sponge cake may be used. It should be baked in a thin sheet. The cake must be handled while warm, just out of the pan, or it will break when you try to roll it. Before taking the cake from the oven, spread a piece of waxed paper on the table. Sprinkle it with powdered sugar. Turn the cake out on this, upside down, and trim off the crusty edges on the sides. Spread quickly with jelly or preserves, and begin rolling at the side nearest you. When the cake is rolled up, roll the paper around it and tie it in place so the jelly roll will keep its shape. The United States Department of Agriculture will furnish you with a recipe for sponge cake.

Work Rapidly in Making a Jelly Roll.

Eat Fruit Every Day

At least one fruit in some form, either fresh, canned or dried, should be eaten every day.

APPLE BUTTER IS APPETIZING DISH

Can Be Made Either With or Without Cider.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

There are two ways of making apple butter—either with or without sweet cider. In making apple butter with cider the usual proportion is gallon for gallon, but from one-half to three-quarters of a gallon of cider to a gallon of peeled and sliced apples will give a rich product if the apples are good cookers. The butter must be watched carefully and stirred frequently to prevent scorching and sticking to the kettle. An enamelined or aluminum preserving kettle especially kept for cooking fruit is desirable, though not absolutely necessary. The cooking is continued until the cider and apples do not separate and the butter, when cold, is as thick as apple sauce. About a pound of either white or brown sugar to a gallon of butter is the usual proportion added when the cooking is about two-thirds done. More or less or not any sugar may be used, to suit the taste.

Spicing is a matter of taste. A good flavor will be obtained by adding half a teaspoonful each of ground cinnamon, cloves and allspice for each gallon of butter, when the cooking is finished. From two to four teaspoonfuls of vanilla extract per gallon improves the quality and adds to the "snappiness" of the butter.

Pack the apple butter boiling hot in sterilized containers, such as glass mason jars or stoneware jars. If the butter is to be kept a long time use jars with tight-fitting covers and sterilize them in a hot-water bath for five to fifteen minutes, according to size like other canned fruits.

Making French Dressing

For French, or oil and vinegar dressing, use these proportions and make any amount you need: Half teaspoonful of salt, a few grains of cayenne, paprika if desired, two tablespoonfuls of vinegar, six tablespoonfuls of oil. An old cookbook used to say that French dressing required "a spendthrift for oil, a miser for vinegar, and a madman to stir it up." At any rate, add vinegar sparingly and beat the ingredients together until they are well blended. If you have a cruet or other bottle with a tight stopper, you can keep French dressing on hand all the time, simply shaking the bottle vigorously when ready to use the dressing.

DAIRY FACTS

TUBERCULOSIS IS BEING ERADICATED

While more than one million dairy cattle, out of thirty million head tested for tuberculosis, have been destroyed, the industry is in better condition today than it was ten years ago when the campaign against the disease was inaugurated. Such was the opinion expressed by Dr. John R Mohler, chief of the bureau of animal industry, United States Department of Agriculture, at the recent Eastern States Tuberculosis conference.

Fear expressed by many people in the beginning that the campaign would turn the public taste against milk consumption has proved to be unfounded according to Doctor Mohler. On the other hand, he said, the annual consumption of milk in the United States has increased more than 49 quarts per capita since 1918. During 1926 the public consumed fifty-six billion pounds of milk and cream, an increase of two billion pounds over the quantity consumed in 1925.

Skepticism as to the outcome of the campaign has given way to a feeling of assured success. Today the subject of tuberculosis eradication is popular and there are few individuals connected with the dairy industry who have not expressed publicly or privately, their belief in the success of the campaign.

Although we have reached the point where we can look forward to the time when this disease will no longer be the cause of serious losses, Doctor Mohler said that it is necessary to maintain constant surveillance over the disease to keep it under control. Somewhat the same idea was expressed by Dr. J. A. Kiernan, in charge of federal-eradication work, when he said that "notwithstanding the fact that more than 50 per cent of the tuberculosis cattle have been eliminated, the work of finishing the task will require greater persistency, skill and organization than ever before."

"Our conception of the necessities for the future has in view," said Doctor Kiernan, "the complete control of the situation; that is, there should be some organization, state, county or municipality, engaged continuously in checking up on herds to see that they are free from the disease. It should not be necessary to maintain a large force of veterinarians, at great expense to the taxpayers, to travel from county to county, as has been done during the last ten years, but in every county there should be a sufficient number of practicing accredited veterinarians, and the territory should be divided so that each veterinarian would be able to tuberculin test all herds in his district each year."

High Scoring Butter Is Necessary for Success

The difference in price between high and low butter makes it imperative for co-operative creameries to produce a high scoring butter in order to make a success of their enterprise.

Good butter can never be made from poor cream. No matter how skillful the buttermaker may be, he can never expect to place high scoring butter on the market if he must churn cream which has been practically spoiled through careless handling.

It is not a difficult problem to keep cream clean and sweet. Cows should be clean and healthy and stabled in a well ventilated, well cared-for barn. The milk should be drawn into clean, scalded, dry pails. The small-top pails are best. The strainer cloths should be thoroughly boiled and dried. Then it is important that the separator parts be clean.

When cream handled with these precautions is placed in a clean, scalded, dry can and immediately cooled to 50 degrees F. or lower and kept that cold until delivered to the creamery, it will give the buttermaker a raw material from which he can easily make the grade of butter that has brought Minnesota its enviable reputation.—Harold Macy, dairy division, University of Minnesota.

Give Dairy Cows Plenty Water for Best Results

Dairy cows should be watered at least twice a day and best results are obtained when cows can have water at will. The higher the production the greater the benefit to be derived from frequent watering. A heavy producing cow requires from 75 to 150 pounds of water daily.

When it is not available, many successful dairymen have arranged some type of tank heater to remove the chill from the water, and they find that their cows drink more and produce more heavily.

Daily Gains for Calf

When properly fed, calves will make gains of one and a half or two pounds per day for the first four months. The purpose of feeding the dairy calf is to insure steady growth without fattening. The food should be nutritious, but not in concentrated form. Clover hay, corn stover, and silage without much corn in it, and a small amount of straw should constitute the roughage. Bran, barley and oats are excellent for the small allowance of grain it is to receive.

Standards of Living Highest in America

In one or two points there is a difference between actual conditions in the average American home and the general impression concerning them. On the whole a survey substantiates what had been generally believed. Bathtubs and sanitary plumbing are everywhere. Thirty-six towns from Maine to California have submitted to scrutiny. It is revealed that in villages, towns and cities standards of living are about equal, all being high. Americans are rightly proud of the physical comforts and conveniences put into almost every home by American mechanical ingenuity and American salesmanship. It is splendid to be able to keep clean easily, to talk to a relative a thousand miles away, to prepare a guaranteed pure-food meal in 15 minutes from sanitary cans, to motor, to keep a house dustless with an electric cleaner. But we may be missing some of the blessings of a more leisurely day, a writer in the New York Times comments. The pleasures of conversation about books, art, people or music are not catalogued. Perhaps they could not be made the subject of a scientific survey.

Ape Earns Living

G. P. Drinkel, a rubber planter in Sumatra, reports that he has an ape that earns its living. The pet can do all the work in the preparation of rubber, and Drinkel says that the climber is an energetic workman on the plantation every week day. His name is Sultan I. He is particularly efficient in washing an automobile, and serves dishes from the kitchen to the dining room. Sultan I is also a jockey and an accomplished musician, being able to take part in the local Javanese orchestra. For recreation he enjoys cycling and card playing. Drinkel has made a hobby of training orang-outangs, and he says that in the anthropoid family of the ape, the gorilla is the only one which refuses to be tamed.

Long Enough

The young man's patience was nearly worn to a frazzle. For nearly an hour he had stood on the corner waiting for her. Finally she came up.

"Oh, John," she began "I'm sorry I'm late, but do you mind waiting just a minute more until I can run in the store here?"

For a moment the faithful John only looked at her.

"Why, you don't really mind, do you, John?" the girl asked in surprise.

"No, I suppose not," he answered. "But I've been standing on this corner so long already, people think I'm a recruiting officer."

Many Uses for Prunes

Once a boarding house delight, the prune has worked itself to the top. It is now used in baking and in the manufacture of ice cream and candy. A fellowship in the food research, maintained at the University of California by the California Prune and Apricot Growers' association, used prune pulp as the basis for 19 different dishes.

Getting Along

"Plenty of hot weather ahead."

"Yeh. Still, Winnipeg is reporting frost."

Fresh, sweet, white, dainty clothes for baby, if you use Russ Bleaching Blue. Never streaks or injures them. All good grocers sell it.—Adv.

How to conceal the lack of a sense of humor, that is the question.

FARMER WOMAN IN OKLAHOMA

Praises Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Because It Gave Her Health and Strength

In a sunny pasture in Oklahoma, a herd of sleek cows was grazing. They made a pretty picture. But the thin woman in the blue checked apron sighed as she looked at them. She was tired of cows, tired of her tedious work in the dairy. She was tired of cooking for a houseful of boarders, besides caring for her own family. The burdens of life seemed too heavy for her failing health. She had lost confidence in herself.

One day she began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and her general health began to improve. She took it faithfully. Now she can do her work without any trouble, sleeps well and is no longer blue and timid.

This woman, Mrs. Cora Short, R. R. 9, Box 387, Oklahoma City, Okla., writes: "Everybody now says: 'Mrs. Short, what are you doing to yourself?' I weigh 125 and my weight before I took it was 115. I have taken seven bottles of the Vegetable Compound."

Other women who have to work hard and keep things going may find the road to better health as Mrs. Short did, through the faithful use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Ask your neighbor.

REDUCE PUFFED ANKLES

Absorbine reduces strained, puffy ankles, lymphangitis, poll evil, fistula, boils, swellings. Stops lameness and allays pain. Heals sores, cuts, bruises, boot chafes. Does not blister or remove hair. Horse can be worked while treated. At druggists, or $2.50 postpaid. Describe your case for special instructions. Horse book 5-S free.

Grateful user writes: "Have tried everything. After 3 applications of Absorbine, found swelling gone. Thank you for the wonderful results obtained. I will recommend Absorbine to my neighbors".

ABSORBINE
TRADE MARK REG. U. S. PAT. OFF.
W. F. YOUNG, Inc. 310 Lyman St., Springfield, Mass.

Deafness—Head Noises
RELIEVED BY
LEONARD EAR OIL
"Rub Back of Ears"
INSERT IN NOSTRILS
At All Druggists. Price $1
Folder about "DEAFNESS" on request.
A. O. LEONARD, INC., 70 FIFTH AVE., N. Y.

W. N. U., FORT WAYNE, NO. 38--1927.

Handicapped

A certain big-game hunter, who was contemplating a trip to Africa, called at a sporting goods store and bought a large quantity of cartridges.

"I usually deal with your head office," he remarked to the man in charge. "But I dare say you will be able to send these for me?"

"Certainly, sir."

"Well, I want them to go to Nigeria."

The other looked blank for a minute or so, then:

"I think you'd better give the order to our head office, sir," he ventured. "You see, we've only a small boy with a bicycle here."

From Ancient Coin

It is probable that the nickname "jack," applied to money, had its origin in the fact that there was such a coin, worth about a farthing.

A bulletin of information on the purchase of garden hose has been issued for home owners by the United States bureau of standards.

Children Cry for

Fletcher's CASTORIA

MOTHER:— Fletcher's Castoria is a pleasant, harmless Substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Teething Drops and Soothing Syrups, especially prepared for Infants in arms and Children all ages.

To avoid imitations, always look for the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher
Proven directions on each package. Physicians everywhere recommend it.

You Must Have Strength Endurance and Courage

Mr. W. B. Towner, New York, writes: "Never have I felt better in my life than since taking CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS. I find they keep my bowels active; headaches and indigestion never bother me now. I enjoy my sleep and get up refreshed, ready for a hard day's work."

Millions all over the world have found this doctor's prescription a relief for every day ailments. CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS, the purely vegetable laxative, are small, easy to swallow and move the bowels in a gentle manner free from pain. They are not habit forming and do not contain Calomel, Mercury or poisonous drugs.

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS in red packages, 25c. and 75c. Try them to-night—To-morrow refreshed—All druggists.

SEPTEMBER

L 915 U558

HOME EDUCATION

The Child's First School is the Family"—Froebel.
Issued by the National Kindergarten Association

THE UNFAIRNESS OF ADULTS

Lydia Lion Roberts

The six children were sitting quietly in their seats near the front of the hall, chatting amiably and waiting for the concert to begin. They had been there almost half an hour when a woman came down the aisle and stopped their row.

"Will you children please move over?" she said peremptorily.

The children looked up at her in surprise and then looked questioningly at one another.

"Move over so I can have this end seat," insisted the woman.

The children hesitated, but no one moved.

"Come, hurry!" It is almost time for the concert to begin," urged the woman. "I always have the end seat when I go anywhere, and I like this row best, so please move over."

"Aw, come on move over," a boy said, and he pushed the boy beside him. The other boys and girls followd his lead reluctantly moved over so that the woman got the end seat.

There were three other end seats vacant across the aisle which the woman could have chosen. That row of boys and girls had come to the hall more than half an hour early to get settled in the seats they wanted, while the woman came in at the last minute.

It wasn't that the change of seats made any great difference to the children, but it must have increased their resentment at the unfairness of those adults who do as they please regardless of courtesy, and who take advantage of their years to usurp the rights of those younger. If the children had been saucy or disrespectful, the woman would have been highly indignant; if they had refused to move over she would probably have gone to some one in authority and made trouble; yet it is to be doubted if she would have dared to make her last minute request for a special seat to a row of adults.

Adults have an important responsibility toward children which many hardly seem to realize. The adults whom the children admire and respect, the ones to whom they apply "game," "fair," "square," and other adjectives of approbation, the adults according to whom they pattern their little lives are not the kind who treat children inconsiderately. The people who have the most influence over the little folks are the ones whose innate sense of justice and fairness causes them to treat the child of five or more with the same courtesy and kindness that they would another adult or that they expect and desire themselves. After all, the Bible verse does not say, "Do unto other ADULTS ONLY as ye would that they should do unto you."

PHONE 290

Stanley P. Nelson Monuments

Opposite Woodlawn and Roselawn Cemeteries

AUBURN, IND.

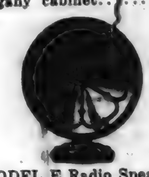
Dr. E. T. Julian
M. D.
St. JOE

9:30 to 11:30 each forenoon at Dr. C. R. Price office.

ATWATER KENT RADIO

MODEL 35, six-tube, ONE DIAL Receiver. Crystal-line-finished cabinet...$65

MODEL 30, six-tube, ONE DIAL Receiver. Solid mahogany cabinet.....$80



MODEL E Radio Speaker. Covers the entire range of musical tones, from lowest to highest register....$30

YOY
may buy an Atwater Kent instrument today
—any model—
with full assurance that it will be supremely satisfactory
for years—
and that radio offers nothing better.
Get the radio
you know is good,
from the dealer
who has won a place
in the community
by the simple rule of selling only sound merchandise to customers whose interests always come first.

Kenneth Meek
See Models on Display at KELLAR'S GARAGE, St. Joe

About Getting Married

The first thing of course, young man, is to find the girl—and the next, to gain her consent. And after that—

Well, there are a good many other things to consider, the most important of which is the matter of finances. There's where a little account at our Bank will come in handy. Better start now. It is fully as important as finding the girl, although you may not think so. At least a bank account will prove no handicap when it comes to buying the engagement ring, the wedding outfit or furnishing the nest.

CONFIDENCE IS WHAT COUNTS.

The St. Joe Valley Bank, A STATE BANK

DID'NT WANT PASTOR TO LEAVE

The Vandalia, (Ill.,) Leader, under date of August 25, has reached our sanctum and in scanning its pages we find an article relative to the new Lutheran pastor. Here it is:—

"Rev. P. B. Roediger will preach his farewell sermon next Sunday at the Lutheran church at Loogootee. Rev. Roediger and his family will in a short time move to Spencerville, Ind.

While stationed at Loogootee, Rev. Roediger has filled the pastorate at Loogootee and St. James, as well as rendering inestimable service outside his parishes. Some time ago the brethren at Spencerville appealed to him to come to that parish which is a larger field of labor and his parishoners, though reluctant to have him answer the call, were mindful of the splendid work accomplished at Loogootee and St. James, and in surrounding communities granted the wishes of the Indiana parish. Both congregations drafted resolutions in which they expressed their gratitude and appreciation for the inspiration always given in all sermons and discourses, the pleasant associations enjoyed under his leadership, and their good wishes and kindest regards as Rev. Roediger enters upon his new field of labor."

FERTILITY DEMONSTRATION FIELDS TO BE VISITED

The warm weather of last week has practically assured us that we will be able to make some very satisfactory field fertilizer tests at the field demonstration meetings that have been arranged for Monday and Tuesday, September 26 and 27. Dr. Gregory of the Botany department at Purdue University will be here at that time and will demonstrate the new fertilizer requirement test. By these tests it is possible to determine in the field whether or not you need more nitrogen, phosphoric acid, or potash for a satisfactory yield.

Every farmer is interested in increasing his corn yields and by supplying the proper kinds and amounts of fertilizer his corn yield can be increased. By attending one of these meetings he will learn how he can tell what fertilizer he needs the most of. By knowing what he needs he can buy his fertilizer for his particular fields and supply just what the plant needs.

To make it possible for every farmer to attend one of these meetings we have arranged to have the meetings in various parts of the county. The first meeting will be at the Frank Gfeller farm north of the Catholic Church on Monday, September 26th, at 9:30. The next meeting is scheduled for the Roy Shuman farm north of Waterloo on State Road 27 on Monday afternoon at 1:30. Tuesday morning at 9:30 all of the farmers of the south-east part of the county will meet at the Merritt Sechler farm north of the Widney Orchards near St. Joe. The last meeting will be at the corn borer farm on Tuesday afternoon at 1:30. This meeting will be held in connection with the low-cutting demonstration with the government corn borer control people.

Every farmer who is producing corn cannot afford to miss this fertilizer test. Dr. Gregory will also show how "disease free" seed corn can be satisfactorily selected before frost. This part of the program is especially seasonal as our corn crop is rather late and unless we make arrangements for our next year's seed corn now we will be liable to be disappointed in our next year's corn crop.

BUICK for 1928

One Glance tells the story

In Buick for 1928, everything you want to know about your car's performance—every indicator and dial—is before you, indirectly lighted under glass.

Buick today offers greater beauty, luxury, and comfort than ever before—greater speed and power with quicker getaway. See the car that surpasses all others in popularity—and in value.

BUICK MOTOR COMPANY
FLINT, MICHIGAN
Division of General Motors Corporation

Sedans $1195 to $1995
Coupes $1195 to $1850
Sport Models $1195 to $1525

All prices f. o. b. Flint, Mich., government tax to be added. The G. M. A. C. financing plan, the most desirable, is available.

WHEN BETTER AUTOMOBILES ARE BUILT, BUICK WILL BUILD THEM

Buick Sales & Service
Auburn, Ind.

SUNDAY SCHOOL REPORTS

The following is the report of Sunday schools in this vicinity for last Sunday, according to information sent The News by representatives of the schools reported.

M. P.	45	$2.71
Lutheran	70	$4.61
Rehoboth	86	$4.85
Spencerville M. E.	59	$5.12
Lutheran	73	$3.84

CHRIST FOR ALL—ALL FOR CHRIST
The Word of God

PRAYER ANSWERED: — I sought the Lord, and He heard me, and delivered me from all my fears. This poor man cried and the Lord heard him, and saved him out of all his troubles. Psalm 34: 4, 6.

PRAYER:—O Thou, who hearest prayer, to Thee we come. Do Thou suply our every need out of the riches in glory in Christ Jesus.

LOCAL ITEMS IN BRIEF.

Rubber bands at News office.

A family jar is never used in preserving peace.

Silence may be goldeu, but a good deal of speech is brasen.

The secret of popularity is always to remember what to forget.

The man who has no faith in human nature is not to be trusted.

Goshen may be without street car service as a result of the ruling handed down by Judge Thomas Slick in the federal court at South Bend granting R. R. Smith, receiver of the Chicago, South Bend & Northern Indiana Railway company, permission to discontinue service in Goshen. The receiver cited the constant decrease in revenue in Goshen for several years as the reason for the discontinuance. The council, however will oppose the court ruling as a clause in the franchise binds the company to operating street cars in the city as long as the traction cars operate over the city streets. Action will be taken Wednesday night at the council meeting.

SUCCESS RULES

An old almanac has the following "Alphabet of Success":

Attend carefully to details.

Be prompt in all things.

Consider well, then decide positively.

Dare to do right, fear to do wrong.

Endure trials patiently.

Fight life's battles bravely.

Go not into the society of the vicious.

Hold integrity sacred.

Injure not another's reputation.

Join hands only with the virtuous.

Keep your mind free from evil thoughts.

Lie not for any consideration.

Make few special acquaintances.

Never try to appear what you are not.

Observe good manners.

Pay your debts promptly.

Question not the word of a friend.

Respect the counsel of your parents.

Sacrifice money rather than principle.

Touch not, taste not, handle not intoxicating drink.

Use your leisure for improvement.

Venture not upon the threshold of wrong.

Watch carefully over your passions.

Extend to everyone a kindly greeting.

Yield not to discouragement.

Zealously labor for the right, and success is certain.

EVERYDAY CREED

I believe in human kindness.

I believe in the efficacy of soap.

I believe in the simple life of the home.

I believe in the hearty handshake, in hospitality, comradeship, friendship, love.

It is a good thing to have a creed and then live up to it. We commend the following:

I believe in fun and laughter, both as a tonic for the blues and as an outlet for high spirits.

I believe in the beauty of flowers, sunsets and mountains; in the music of birds and brooks.

I believe that there is a bright side to everything, and that we would be more aware of the good about us were our hearts more responsive to its touch.

I believe that work is the best panacea for most ills, especially those of the mind; and that fresh air, exercise and sleep are the best medicines for the body.

I believe that an ounce of frankness and explanation is worth a pound of repentance and forgiveness, and will often prevent heartache and bitter misunderstanding.—Exchange.

DAILY HELPS

Sunday—He that walteth upon the Lord shall want no manner of thing that is good.

Monday—God and man love the cheerful worker.

Tuesday—Whatsoever thy hand findeth to do, do it with thy might.

Wednesday—Make God your Partner in all you do, then must all be well done.

Thursday—In all thy ways acknowledge Him and He shall direct thy path.

Friday—The cross my Father hath given me, shall I not bear it?

Saturday—In all thy getting get understanding.

FOOD PROVERBS

"After cheese comes nothing."—Old Saying.

"Cheese breeds melancholy."—Ben Jonson.

"Apples, pears and nuts spoil the voice."—Old Saying.

"Brown bread and the Bible is good fare."—Puritan Proverb.

"Butter spoils no meat and moderation no cause."—Danish Proverb.

"Simple diet is best, for many dishes bring many diseases."—Pliny.

Life's Limelights

By Brown Focht

AIR MAIL

Considerable public opposition has been encountered by the announcement that all air mail service will shortly be operated by private companies.

At the close of 1926, there were fifteen air mail routes in operation in the United States. The service between New York and San Francisco was the only one operated by the government.

There seems to be little sound reason to oppose the placing of air mail under contract. The chief arguments used are that the government has the largest fleet of aircraft, and that commercial service is good training for army airmen.

On the other hand, it is highly improbable that when the air mail service expands, as it is bound to do, the government will be able to run it at a profit.

This was well demonstrated in government ownership of the railroads.

The chief business of a government is to GOVERN. It is beyond its scope to enter the commercial field.

It is natural that the opposition to the move should be especially strong at this particular time. Lindbergh, a former air mail pilot, is before the public eye. The air mail service developed him. But when he crossed the Atlantic he did so as an individual UNATTACHED.

It is a question as to whether it is the correct thing to sacrifice efficiency in order that the need for war pilots may be met.

There can be no doubt that private enterprises can carry on the air mail service with more efficiency than the government. There is bound to be competition, and efficiency comes only after competition.

In the case that the air mail service is operated directly by the government, there can be no competition, and consequently a minimum amount of efficiency.

The proposal to turn the service over to private concerns is the natural procedure, and if it is carried out, there is bound to be an improvement in the air mail service, in income as well as in expanded routes.

Exclusive release to St. Joe News.

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE HAS CONFERENCE WITH CONGRESSMAN HOGG

Special to St. Joe News. Washington, D. C., Sept. 19, 1927.—President Calvin Coolidge last Thursday had conference with Congressman David Hogg of the Twelfth District. The conference lasted more than twenty minutes, and afterwards when questionel by newspaper men, Mr. Hogg declined to state the nature of the matters discussed.

While in Washington Congressman Hogg also presented some appeals to the Veterans Bureau in the interest of World War veterans of the Twelfth District.

Storms Disturb Sun

Storms not unlike those that rage about the earth have been calculated to occur at different times around the sun. The surface of the sun is thought to be considerably disturbed by these storms, and a means of studying them by the eye instead of merely by photographs has been found.

Keeping Cut Flowers

Chemicals have little effect on the keeping qualities of flowers. Many of them are harmless, but none of them are of much value. Deep vases and bowls are better than the hollow types because they allow more water to come in contact with the stem and the lower foliage.

The Difference
Between the Cost of Good and Cheap Printing

is so slight that he who goes shopping from printer to printer to secure his printing at a few cents less than what it is really worth hardly ever makes day laborer wages at this unpleasant task.

If you want good work at prices that are right, get your job printing

At This Office

SEPTEMBER

L 915 U559

We want your NEWS ITEMS and appreciate your calling—We can't get all the items of interest unless you do help Phone in and give your news.

ST. JOE NEWS.

This week in THE NEWS are many good offers—Read them thy're interesting. Keep up with trend of business in St. Joe—READ THE ADS.

VOL. XLI. ST. JOE, DeKALB COUNTY, INDIANA, THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 29, 1927 NUMBER 39

LESTER CURIE WRITES— EXTRACTS FROM LETTER

In a letter to his parents, Lester Curie writes a few things that we are permitted to print that might prove of interest to many of our readers, as follows:—

"Our usual annual hot weather finally struck us ten days ago after passing us up all summr long.

"Next week Tulsa will have again the International Petroleum Exposition, which ranks in importance and size with anything in the world, and the Tulsa State Fair also holds forth.

"The oil industry is still trying to pro-rate the production of oil in the Seminole (Oklahoma) field and the Pecos (Texas) field. There is little activity outside these pools.

"Our Miss Tulsa copped third prize at Atlantic City. She was also awarded the trophy cup of Venus, which is usually givn to Miss Amrica. I did not think she had that much of a chance. She lives a block and a half from me and I see her several times a day. She has a twin sister, who, I think, is better looking. However, Tulsa has a beauty parade every day on its streets. It is often remarked by strangers in our midst that they have never seen lovelier girls, nor better dressed, any other place in their travels. This might sound like boasting, but that is one thing I have always tried to avoid doing. Am sorry Miss Hilda Koch was not of the type in vogue. From her picture, I formed the opinion she was rather attractive.

"Regret that I could not get away for the Home-Coming. Some of these years, I'll come."

Somebody is always getting in the way of the mon who is in the pursuit of happiness.

HIGH'S
Courtesy Quality
SERVICE
PHONE 76- St. Joe

We Buy CLOVER SEED!
Bring Your SEEDS to Us
WE WILL PAY YOU HIGHEST MARKET PRICES
NATHAN Grain Co.
St. Joe's New Lumber Yard
Call By Phone for Prices Bert Jackson, Mgr.

Repair Your Fence Lines this Fall

YOU know how hard it is to find time in the busy Spring to fix your fences. Most always you have to neglect something else to do it. That's all off now. Do all your fence work this Fall when you have the time. How? Why with the old reliable RED TOP Steel Fence Post. It takes all the time-wasting and difficulty out of this job and makes it easy for one man to do a big job of fence repairing or even build a lot of new fence in a day.

RED TOPS drive easily through the hardest soil just as fast as you can drive them. With the RED TOP One-Man-Driver, you alone, can drive 200 to 300 posts a day—any day in the year. That's why it's so easy to repair or build fence with RED TOP Posts.

Red Top Steel Fence Posts

Come in and let us show you the points about this RED TOP post. It's made of tough, springy railroad rail-steel—that's why it holds such a record for long service in the fence line.

Once you drive in a RED TOP alongside a rotting or broken wood post and attach the old fencing to it with the RED TOP handy fastener, that particular post is there for more years than the fence will last. Come in and see these money-saving posts.

Spencerville Lumber & Supply Co.
SPENCERVILLE, IND.

OBITUARY

Sarah Harriett Harter, daughter of Daniel and Sarah Reasoner, was born in Morrow County, Ohio, December 26, 1852. She with her parents changed their residence to DeKalb County, Indiana, near St. Joe in the year 1864.

On December 21, 1873 she was united in marriage to Franklin Engle, deceased. To this union was born three sons, Orva W., of Stevens Point, Wis., Lloyd B., deceased and Clarence D., of Hicksville, Ohio.

On December 27, 1890 she was united in marriage to James H. Harter, deceased. To this union was born one daughter, Mrs. Goldie Ginder of near Butler, Indiana.

She has been an invalid for the past ten years, the last three and one half years of her life being spent with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ginder. Thursday, September 22, 1927, she passed away. She is survived by two brothers, Silas and Chalmer Reasoner of St. Joe. Two sons and one daughter, fifteen grand children and nine great grand children. And many other relatives and friends.

No monument can be erected to this wife and Mother as appropriate as the one she built in the hearts of her loved ones and her friends, by her life so filled with unselfishness, sincerity and a hopefulness which made her a leader and a guide bringing success and victory out of seeming defeat.

Her motherhood rang with a trueness that will be remembered in the brightest and noblest places in the memory of her children. Her life was one of service to her family and friends and at the parting her children rise up and call her Blessed.

The funeral was conducted by E. R. Kinsey from St. Joe M. P. Church, Sunday afternoon at 2:30. Rev. Hubbart, former Newville pastor, officiating, assisted by Rev. J. F. McKnight of St. Joe. Burial in Riverside Cemetery.

CARD OF THANKS

In the many years of Mother's illness and affliction, the people of St. Joe were very kind to her, in her recent illness and death neighbors were eager to lend assistance and sympathy, all of which we apreciate.

Mrs. Frank Ginder,
Clarence Engle,
Orva Engle.

ANOTHER 'TATER RAISER HEARD FROM

In the window of The News office will be found a one-hill sample of Rural New York potatoes, raised by Basil Sheffer. The hill tips the scales at 6¼ pounds. The largest weighs one pound and two ounces. Basil is in the club work of the township and has ¼ acre of spuds out. He had dug Monday, 21 bushels from 8½ rows of his patch and in all he has 28 rows. Can you figure his yield at this rate of production?

NEW AND TESTED RECIPES FOR LADIES OF THE NEWS

BACON SUGGESTIONS

1. When making dressings for poultry add two or three slices of bacon cut into dice (use scissors.)
2. Use bacon cut into dice in making stuffings for baked dishes.
3. Add three slices of bacon, cut into dice, to each pound of meat when making Hamburg Loaf, Hamburg Steak or Spanish Roast.
4. Use two slices of bacon cooked and finely chopped as a savory addition to the filling for stuffed egg salad.
5. Use three slices of bacon, raw or leftover cooked, in the filling for stuffed tomatoes, stuffed peppers or stuffed eggs.

CONGRESSMAN HOGG AT AUBURN, OCTOBER 6

Congressman David Hogg is holding office days at the various County Seats and Cities of the District for the purpose of conveniently meeting folks who have official business to transact with him. On Thursday, October 6th, Mr. Hogg will be at the Court House at Auburn that those who wish to see him on official business need not go to Fort Wayne for that purpose.

But few people who go up in the air use an airship.

INSTALLATION OF THE LUTHERAN PASTOR

A impressive service was held Sunday morning at the Lutheran Church by Dr. Keck of Elkhart, President of the Northern Indiana and Michigan Synod.

A fine sermon was delivered on the theme of individual responsibility of church members and pastor for the upbuilding of a church and attendant satisfactory results.

After the sermon the ceremony of installation was conducted by Dr. Keck and the Rev. P. B. Roediger, late af Loogootee, Ill., was made the true and regular pastor of Spencerville and St. Joe Lutheran churches.

The musical part of the service was as follows:

Piano Voluntary by Mrs. Frank Curie.

Hymns by the congregation led by members of the St. Joe and Spencerville Lutheran choirs.

Duett, "Face to Face," by Prof. and Mrs. A. Goodman, from the Extension Division of the American College of Music, Kansas City, Mo.

A good sized crowd was present to enjoy the religious hour including a splended delegation of members from the Spencerville church.

CONCORD TOWNSHIP CONVENTION PROGRAM, SUNDAY, OCTOBER 2

9:30 Sunday School, Mr. George Johnson, Superintendent.
11:30 Basket Dinner.

Afternoon Session, 1:30

Song Service.
Devotional...Rev. J. F. McKnight
Song .....Congregation.
Number from Lutheran Sunday School.
Talk.....Rev. P. B. Roediger.
Discussion.
Number from St. Joe M. P. Sunday School.
Report of Secretary and Treasurer.
Report of Nominating Committee.
Number from Concord M. P. Sunday School.
Offering.
Announcements.
Song .....Congregation.
Benediction.

Evening Service, 7:30

Devotional...Rev. P. D. Roediger.
Violin Solo .....Donald Ramsey.
Talk .....Rev. J. F. McKnight.
Offering.
Song .....Congregation.
Benediction.

TWO TICKETS NOMINATED FOR TOWN ELECTION

Pursuant to the call of the Town Board for the election of town officials this fall, two caucuses were held during the past week, and placed in nomination the following tickets:—

CITIZEN'S TICKET

Councilman, Ward 1 — Sam Keesler.
Councilman, Ward 2—Fred B. Leighty.
Town Clerk.—Earl B. Smith.
Town Treasurer—John C. Hull.

INDEPENDENT TICKET

Councilman, Ward 1—Frank Curie.
Councilman, Ward 2—Harry H. Kees.
Town Clerk, —Derwood Ridgway.
Town Treasurer,— Frank Akins.

W. C. T. U. NEWS

The monthly meeting of the St. Joe W. C. T. U. will be held this week on Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the M. P. Church. The following program has been planned by the committee:

Opening Song.
Devotional .....Rev. Roediger.
Quartette, Mesdames Delora Curie, Blanch Leighty, Jennie Sechler, Rose Widney.
Address .....Rev. McKnight
Piano Solo .....Lora Leighty
Business.
Vocal Duet, ...Edith Cole, Cora Curie.
Benediction.

SUNDAY SCHOOL REPORTS

The following is the report of Sunday schools in this vicinity for last Sunday, according to information sent The News by representatives of the schools reported.

M. P.	44	$3.28
Coburntown	71	$8.78
Spencerville M. E.	69	$5.21
Lutheran	68	$3.48

LEIGHTY ORCHARD HAS FAIR CROP OF APPLES

The apple crop east of the Rocky Mountains will be very much smaller this year than usual.

The Agricultural Department now estimates that the commercial crop will be about 25,000,000 barrels for the entire United States, as compared with 39,000,000 last year, and most of the loss is in the territory east of the Rocky Mountains.

Not only will the total crop in this area be very small, but it will cull heavier than usual.

These conditions probably will cause prices on the general market to be very high during the winter months.

The earlier varieties which have already been marketed have brought prices higher than for several years. Some of the earlier winter and late fall varieties are now arriving at the central distributing points and meeting with ready sale at prices ruling high.

This orchard has for a number of years sold a considerable quantity of apples at the farm and expects a good trade this year, particularly in view of the fact that there will be practically none in any of the farm or home orchards, as the crop in the locality is almost a failure.

Their practice of taking orders in advance has proven a great convenience to their customers, who always feel sure of getting good fruit for their winter use if they are fortunate enough to have a cellar or other means of taking care of it. Only once in thirteen years have they been unable to supply everybody that had placed orders in advance, and in that case every customer got a fair proportion of what he had expected. Their crop this year will enable them to take care of their regular customers and have some to ship away. 39t1.

ELECTION NOTICE

On November 8, 1927, the citizens of St. Joe will meet at the regular voting place and elect two trustees, one for first ward and one for second ward, one clerk and one treasurer.

37t3 B. S. Sheffer, Clerk.

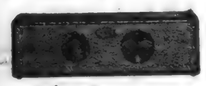
100% Coffee

ZONKER'S Store.

Atwater Kent RADIO

We can honestly recommend it. Its pure tone, ONE Dial operation and steadfast reliability are impossible to beat. Ask for a demonstration TODAY.

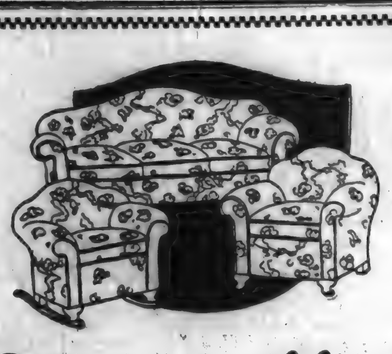
MODEL 35, six-tube, ONE DIAL Receiver. Crystalline-finished cabinet...$65



MODEL 30, six-tube, ONE DIAL Receiver. Solid mahogany cabinet.....$80

MODEL E Radio Speaker. Covers the entire range of musical tones, from lowest to highest register....$30

KENNETH MEEK



Overstuffed Furniture

is all the go now and we have a number of suites in stock for inspection. Fall is coming, it's time to make it comfortable and cosy for the winter.

E. R. KINSEY, Hardware Furniture

SEPTEMBER

L 915 U560

American Mothers Revive French Flame

Touching scenes were witnessed at the grave of France's Unknown Soldier in Paris when mothers of the American soldiers who fought in France revived the flame at the Arc de Triomphe. Mrs. Robinson, representing the mothers, is shown holding the reviving sword at the flame.

Reconditioned Battleship Texas Now Flag Ship

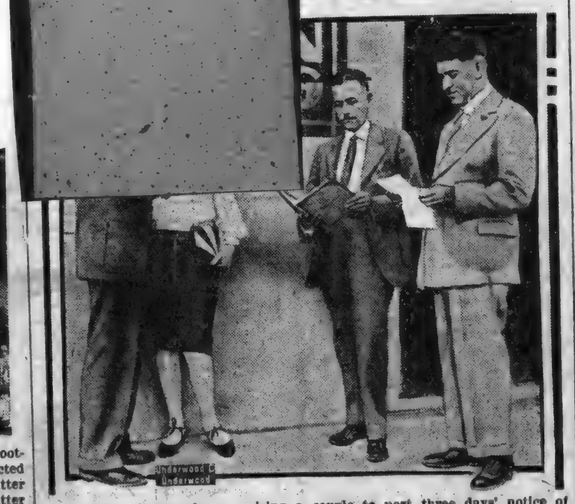
The United States battleship Tex... as flagship of the United States fleet, ... reconditioning, at a cost of more than ... fitted with blisters for protection ag... protection against bombs from the a... been altered to a tripod, resembling ... to the ordinary type.

...ew York, on her way to take her place ...st passed through a long process of ... a coal burner to an oil burner and ...th new deck armor to give additional ...ld foremast, of the "cage" type, has ...been converted from the "cage" type

COLUMN OF FRUIT

This photograph shows the 35-foot-high fruit column which was erected at the Fifty-fourth annual "Canstatter volksfest," held by the Canstatter Volksfest Verein of Philadelphia. The column contained three tons of fruit.

...s a Gretna Green



California's new law requiring a couple to post three days' notice of intention before receiving a license to marry has turned Tia Juana, Mexico, into a Gretna Green. The law there requires no notice whatever, and hundreds of couples have taken advantage of that fact. Judge Francisco Miranda is seen above joining a couple from San Diego.

WINS GRAND AMERICAN

Otto Newlin, formerly a baseball pitcher but now retired from the game, won the highest honors in trapshooting in the Grand American championship at Dayton, Ohio. What made Newlin's victory the more remarkable was the fact that he won after taking part in only one other Grand American handicap. He is a resident of Georgetown, Ill.

Warner Is Learning to Fly

Assistant Secretary of the Navy Warner has decided to try his wings and is now taking flying lessons at the Anacostia naval station near Washington. This photograph shows Mr. Warner in the cockpit of his training plane.

MEAT LOAF MOST ECONOMICAL DISH

Some of the Cheaper Cuts Can Be Utilized.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

If every dinner could be equally easy to prepare, tasty, different from the last one, inexpensive and popular with the family, we housekeepers would cease asking ourselves this eternal question. Meat loaf or roll is one of the most economical meat dishes you can serve. Some of the cheaper cuts can be used in making it and every bit that is not eaten hot is useful for serving cold in slices or for sandwich filling. Any lean meat may be used if gristle and skin are trimmed off. From one-fourth and one-fifth as much pork as beef is a good proportion. Too much pork makes an overrich, greasy loaf. Many homemakers prefer to have a fresh piece of meat cut off and put through the grinder under their direction, or some like to take it home and grind it themselves. A very good loaf may often be made at considerable saving per pound from the trimmings the butcher accumulates from the more expensive cuts. If the pork is not added to the beef a small amount of fresh suet should be put through the chopper with the meat.

So many different seasonings may be used in a meat loaf that it is difficult to give an exact recipe. Unless the family objects to the flavor, chopped or grated onion should be added to the meat. Thick cream sauce or brown gravy or eggs will be needed as a binder. Fine dry bread crumbs, or cracker meal also will help to hold it together. The flavor is greatly improved by combining canned tomatoes with the meat mixture or serving in a sauce over the loaf.

For your loaf you will need 2 pounds of ground beef; ½ pound of ground pork; 1 onion, grated; 1 cupful of thick cream sauce or gravy, or 2 eggs; 1 cupful dry bread crumbs, or cracker meal; 1 to 2 cupfuls canned tomato; salt and pepper to taste; dried celery tops, or other seasonings if desired. Mix all these ingredients together thoroughly. Shape the mixture into a loaf, laying a strip or two of salt pork or small pieces of suet on the top, and place it in a heavy baking pan. Cook in the oven for ½ to ¾ of an hour. Have the oven hot at first but reduce the temperature toward the end. If the sauce or gravy is used as the binder for the loaf make it with 3 tablespoonfuls of flour and 2 tablespoonfuls of butter or other fat to one cupful of liquid.

Chicken Loaf Appetizing When Served Hot or Cold

An old chicken may be simmered with seasonings until tender and then prepared in many different appetizing ways. One of the nicest ways to use it is to make a chicken loaf, which can be served hot or cold. The following recipe supplied by the United States Department of Agriculture requires two cupfuls of cooked chicken.

Chicken Loaf.

2 cupfuls finely cut cooked chicken	3 eggs
1 cupful fine bread crumbs	½ cupful mashed canned peas
1¼ tablespoonfuls butter or chicken fat	Salt
½ cupful milk	Paprika
	Onion and green pepper fried in butter or chicken fat

Heat the milk and moisten the crumbs with it and combine with the other ingredients, adding the beaten eggs last. Place the mixture in a greased baking dish or pan and bake in a moderate oven for one hour, or until firm and brown. Turn out on a platter and serve hot or cold. If served cold, garnish with sliced tomato.

CARE FOR FLOORS IMPORTANT TASK

Good-Sized Boy Can Do the Polishing.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

If you have a good-sized boy in your family enlist his help out of school hours to recondition the floors. If they have been varnished, they should be swept with a soft brush, a mop, or a broom covered with a cotton-flannel bag, and then rubbed with a cloth or mop slightly moistened with floor oil or kerosene. The oil gradually dries out of varnish after it has been applied to wood, and unless restored by an occasional rubbing with an oiled cloth, the varnish becomes exceedingly hard and brittle. Use only enough oil to moisten the cloth or mop.

In general, says the United States Department of Agriculture, varnished floors retain their color and luster better if no water is used on them, but if very dirty they may be wiped with a cloth or mop wrung out of warm soapy water, wiped dry at once, and polished with an oiled cloth or mop.

Enlist the Boy's Help With the Floors.

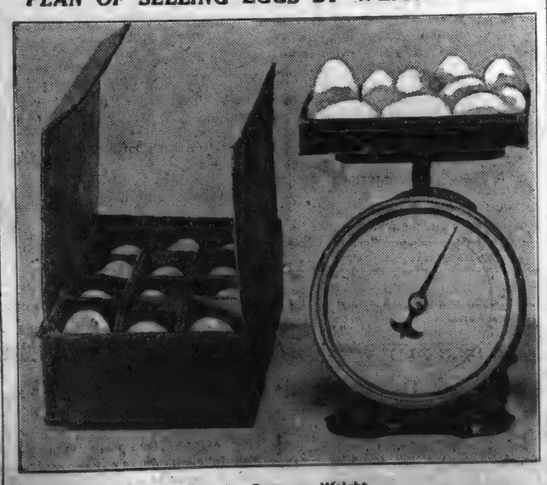
Waxed floors should be swept with a soft brush or mop entirely free from oil. Oil softens wax and should never be used on it any way. About once a week a waxed floor should be give a more thorough cleaning with a cloth wrung out of warm soapy water, or moistened with turpentine or gasoline. Occasionally after cleaning, the entire floor may be given a very thin coat of wax and polished with a weighted brush or woolen cloth.

Simple Cooked Dressing

If you have on hand some sour cream, you may prefer to make a cooked dressing. A good method is as follows: Beat an egg very light, and add to it quarter teaspoonful of mustard, half teaspoonful of salt, quarter teaspoonful of paprika pepper, half tablespoonful of sugar, quarter cupful of vin gar, and one cupful of sour cream. Mix well and cook in a double boiler, stirring constantly, until thick and smooth. If this dressing has any tendency to separate, strain it before cooling.

PLAN OF SELLING EGGS BY WEIGHT BEST



Eggs by Dozen or Weight.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Apples, potatoes, string beans and other products handled by the green grocer or fruit stand are now usually sold by weight instead of by count or measure, but for some reason the habit of handling eggs by the dozen still persists. As every housekeeper knows, there is the greatest difference in the size of eggs, even in the same box; and the most up-to-date cook books will call for "a cupful of egg whites" or, even better, so many ounces of egg white, rather than a specific number of eggs.

If women would generally weigh their eggs and persuade dealers that a dozen very small eggs are not worth as much as a dozen fine big ones, the custom of selling eggs by weight would soon become established. The United States Department of Agriculture favors this system of selling eggs as being fair to both buyer and seller. It would encourage the proper sorting and grading of eggs on the part of the producer, and the consumer who found her family satisfied with the little eggs could get them cheaper and leave the big ones for somebody else.

The KITCHEN CABINET

(©, 1927, Western Newspaper Union.)

"Of sweets we have garnered from life's golden cup
Shall not weary ones taste and little ones sup?
Why hoard up life's nectar our own cups to fill,
If one other heart we might comfort and thrill?"

SEASONABLE GOOD THINGS

A nice dish is the following which may be prepared and kept in the ice box:

Jellied Veal.—Cook a hock of veal, add one and one-half pounds of lean pork with a bay-leaf, pepper, onion, allspice and salt. When the meat is very tender, remove all pieces of bone and other indigestible portions and cut into small pieces. Reheat in enough liquid to fill the mold which is used. Add olives or sweet pepper cut into small pieces and pour into the mold. Slice and serve cold.

Luncheon Salad.—An excellent salad is prepared as follows: Take equal quantities of chopped hard cooked eggs and diced celery, mix with a good, well seasoned salad dressing and serve on lettuce.

Anchovey Salad.—Wash, skin and cut into halves lengthwise, six anchovies. Cut into dice, two boiled potatoes (chop fine), one pickled beet and one cucumber pickle. Put into a salad bowl one head of lettuce, add the potato and anchovies, the chopped pickle and spread over all three tablespoonfuls of boiled dressing. Garnish with a mound of chopped pickled beet placed in the center.

Potato Salad.—The best potato salad is made with potatoes cooked especially for the salad and seasoned before they have become perfectly cold. Potato salad served with the dressing covering the outside without any that has penetrated into the potato is unpalatable. Boil small potatoes in their jackets. Peel and cut into cubes as soon as cool enough to handle; add salt and seasonings of salt, cayenne and white pepper, onion juice or shredded onion, and either a cooked or mayonnaise dressing. The celery may be added at once, but cucumber is best added a short while before the salad is served, to avoid its losing its crispness. A handful of shredded almonds makes quite a stylish potato salad. A bit of good flavored tart apple, green pepper, and if one has fresh mustard, a little of that minced green is most acceptable.

Tripe cut into narrow strips, mixed with diced potato, celery, and a few chopped capers makes a fine salad most appetizing.

Peach Conserve.—Take five pounds of peaches, five pounds of sugar, two oranges, and one pound each of walnuts and raisins. Peel the peaches and remove the stones, then cut into pieces. Put the raisins through the chopper, add the nuts broken into bits. Stir in the sugar and cook slowly until of the consistency of jam, then ten minutes before taking off add the nuts. Stir often while cooking.

Tasty Good Things.

A cake which is good, easy to make and will keep for a week or two, is:

One Egg Plum Cake.—Cream one-half cupful of butter, add one cupful of sugar gradually, beat to a cream, add one cupful of milk gradually with one beaten egg and two cupfuls of flour that has been well blended with two teaspoonfuls of baking powder, ginger, salt and a little nutmeg, cinnamon and cloves; add one-half cupful of chopped raisins, putting them in in layers when the cake is poured into the pan. Bake in a moderate oven, testing with a toothpick before taking out.

With a steamed or boiled fish, serve:

Maitre d' Hotel Butter.—Beat to a cream four tablespoonfuls of butter, add gradually one tablespoonful each of vinegar and lemon juice, one-half teaspoonful of salt, one-fourth teaspoonful of pepper, one teaspoonful of minced parsley. Spread over the fish when serving.

Tomato Salad.—Peel small, even-sized tomatoes and chill in ice until about serving time. Cut into eighths or quarters without separating the sections, sprinkle with chopped onion and celery and a bit of cucumber. Garnish with a teaspoonful of highly seasoned mayonnaise. Serve on lettuce.

Almond Cake.—Take one-half cupful each of butter and sugar, one-half teaspoonful of cinnamon, one-fourth teaspoonful each of cloves and nutmeg, one-half of a lemon rind grated, two teaspoonfuls of orange juice, and two cupfuls of flour. Mix and bake in a slow oven.

Nellie Maxwell

Is Handshake Unhygienic?

In the storehouse of a coal mine near Dortmund there is a curious placard on the wall. It reads as follows:

"Gentlemen, commercial travelers and others coming here for business are requested to omit handshaking from their visits.

"Shaking hands is a waste of time, is unhygienic, is often badly received, and will not have the slightest influence on the placing of orders from our firm."

SEPTEMBER

L 915 V561

The Green Cloak

By YORKE DAVIS

WNU Service. Copyright, 1928

STORY FROM THE START

Dr. Ronald McAlister, famous in his special work—applied psychology—employs his leisure time in the elucidation of crime mysteries. As the narrative opens he is interested with Assistant District Attorney Ashton in the murder, in the small town of Oak Ridge, of a recluse, Henry Morgan. The murdered man, his papers reveal, had been in New Zealand, where Doctor McAlister had lived in his youth. Will Harvey has testified he saw a woman wearing a green cloak in the Morgan home the night of the murder. Doctor Reinhardt, friend of McAlister, telephones he has a queer case in his hospital and invites McAlister to see the patient. Doctor Reinhardt's patient proves to be a young woman, who in unconsciousness mutters in a language Reinhardt does not understand. McAlister sees a possible connection between the murdered New Zealander and the girl. A carefully hidden map is discovered. A girl enters the house in the darkness and escapes, leaving a green cloak behind. McAlister decides upon a psychological test of Harvey.

CHAPTER V—Continued

—7—

With a feeling of excitement which I found it hard to conceal, I began reading those first twelve neutral words. His answers came with flashlike rapidity. He was a good subject and he had entered fully into the spirit of the test. To my ear the interval between my word and his was about half a second. When I saw the record afterward, I found that it averaged a little less than that—about four-tenths.

The word Pen brought the obvious association, Ink. Snow called up Shovel; and Song, Theater. The twelfth word, Sign, called up the curious association, Woodland, which was to prove of interest and significance to us before the day was out. But I had no time to think about it then.

Without varying the interval, without varying the tone of my voice, or raising my eyes from the list I held in my hand, I pronounced the thirteenth word, Loops.

The answer came like a flash, and it was Automobile. I glanced up as he said it, and caught a faint smile of reminiscence on his lips. Loops in his mind were things to be looped, and the circus billboards supplied the association with automobile. The next word Pipe, brought the simple association, Tobacco. To my mind his unhesitating utterance of that word was as good a demonstration of his innocence of the crime itself as a completely established alibi would have been.

But we were only at the beginning of our experiment. Neither the doctor nor I believed him guilty. We both believed that, hidden in some corner of that mind of his, was a piece of unsuspected knowledge which would give us the key with which to unlock the heart of the mystery.

Three or four numbers down the list came another word, Map, which might have drawn a significant reply. The instantaneous association which it brought up, however, was Europe. After that came a succession of words, straight inventories of articles to be found in various rooms in the Morgan house, but they all drew blank. Never once was there a moment's hesitation.

So far our test proved, clearly and exhaustively, that, in his testimony at the inquest, our young man had meant to tell the truth. I was reminded of the doctor's words on the night of our return from the hospital, when he had warned me against falling into the error of thinking that the unlikely could not happen. His old theory of associative illusion, which had been made to look so fantastically improbable by our discovery of the cloak, was practically proven true in the very teeth of its improbability by this test of ours.

But who was the girl Harvey knew—the black-haired girl who wore a green cloak, with the collar cut high in the back? We were as far as ever from the answer to that question.

And so far as I could see none of his associates with the successive words in my list brought out anything of significance. Apparently we were drawing blank cover. At the same time, I was aware that something or other had made my chief extremely thoughtful. The way he was opening and shutting his hands and staring out of the window, the perplexed frown which knitted his brows, made it clear that there was only one link lacking in some chain of association of his own.

At last as I glanced at him in the half second interval between my word and Harvey's, I saw that he had got it; saw the sudden flare of excitement [illegible] his eyes and his two clenched hands come down softly on the arms of his chair.

The next moment the word Dance in my list brought the unexpected association Policeman from Harvey.

At that the doctor rose and interrupted the test. "I think, Phelps," he said, "that those negatives of yours must be done. I'll go on and read this other list to Mr. Harvey."

The errand he had proposed to me was purely fictitious and the sheet of paper he held in his hand was blank; so I interpreted his interruption as intended for the mere purpose of giving him a chance to catechise Harvey along some new line without causing him to suspect the reason for the change.

To give color to the excuse, I left the room for a few moments, but it will be easy to believe that I returned as soon as I plausibly could. I found Doctor McAlister pronouncing a succession of words rather more rapidly than I had read them from my list, and the young man's answer had quickened, too, so that to the ear they were almost instantaneous. The words were a list of the features of the human face. Ears was the first one I heard, and its association, instantly, Coral; probably a reference to earrings, I thought. Eyes produced the adjective Black. Lips, ludicrously enough, brought the involuntary admission, Kiss. And at that our subject went flaming red. His perturbation was made perfectly evident the next moment, when he waited four seconds after the word Hand, only to produce the rhymed association, Band. Nothing could have been clearer than that, being on his guard against making another involuntary admission, he had rejected whatever word had come first, and consciously and laboriously thought up another.

The next word Face, brought, as a rather quicker response, the adjective Nice. It did not occur to me at the time that this was a rhymed association also; that somebody he knew pronounced it "fice." But that the doctor's mind had jumped to this conclusion was made clear when, for his next word, he himself gave out the word English.

There Was a Scared Look in His Eyes, but, Besides That, He Was Evidently Extremely Angry.

This got an answer, but not the kind of answer we were expecting. Our witness jumped to his feet, knocking over the little telephone before him, as he did so. There was a scared look in his eyes, but besides that, he was evidently extremely angry.

"Now look here," he said, "what business is it of yours whether I go around with Jane Perkins, or not? She's a respectable girl; she's a lady. What right have you got sticking your noses into my affairs?"

For myself, I was too much astonished by the result of the doctor's experiment to say anything. For that matter, my chief might as well have been silent for any effect his words had in calming the subject of our test. He wouldn't sit down. He wouldn't answer questions. He was through with us completely. This he made quite clear as he struggled into his overcoat and clapped on his hat.

"Well," said I when we were left alone, "I don't mind admitting that I'm rather behind the procession. We've discovered Jane Perkins, but who she is, or what she is I don't know. And I certainly can't see what gave you the clew that led you up to her so directly."

"Do you remember his association with the word 'sign'? It was 'Woodland.'"

"Yes," said I. "It struck me as curious."

"It struck me as rather more than that," said the doctor, "because I had an echo of the same association myself, and I spent ten solid minutes trying to place it. I suppose my difficulty came from the fact that it took me so close to home."

"Woodland avenue you mean?" I questioned. That was the street The Meredith was on.

"Closer than that," he said. "Do you remember our own corner and the street sign that marks it? It was pulled around diagonally and bent into a most disreputable angle as a Halloween prank two weeks ago. So the association was a perfectly natural one to anyone who, during the past two weeks, has been in the habit of frequenting our part of the town."

"But," said I, "how did you infer the existence of Jane Perkins from that?"

"Of course, that was only the starting point," he answered. "His whole train of associations made it evident that he had been 'going around,' as he said, with somebody. The place in the social scale occupied by that somebody was pretty well determined by the neighborhood of the street sign. It's quite the smartest part of town for blocks and blocks all around there, and it would be preposterous to assume that Will Harvey calls at the front door of any house therenbouts. The young ladies who use the front doors of the imposing residences in our neighborhood don't go to the sort of dances that would call up the association 'policeman' in any young man's mind. At any rate, it seemed a reasonable inference to me that our young friend had been carrying on a harmless flirtation with some housemaid. The scene of this affair was so far away from his own home, Jane Perkins was so utterly disassociated in his own mind from anything pertaining to the Oak Ridge mystery, that his naive description of the black hair and the green cloak of the woman whose silhouette he saw upon the shade becomes possible."

"Well," said I thoughtfully, after a little silence, "it's perfectly evident that we've done Harvey a service, although he isn't grateful for it just now. We've cleared him, to our own satisfaction at least. We've found an English housemaid named Jane Perkins. She is, no doubt, the girl of whom the profile on the shade reminded him. The next thing to do is to look her up, discover, if possible, whether she happens to possess a green cloak, with that particular kind of collar. It's likely enough, I suppose. There are probably hundreds of garments like that being worn in the city this season. In the department stores they make what they call 'specials' of those things, and sell them in hundred lots, all exactly alike."

The more I thought over the situation, the deeper my perplexity grew. The test upon Harvey had utterly destroyed my hope that we could get from him any clew to the identity of the strange, wild creature we had seen in the hospital. Instead, it had led us to a trig, snug, undoubtedly respectable English housemaid named Jane Perkins; and leading us to her, it left us face to face with a coincidence, or, rather, a series of coincidences almost incredible.

"Well," I resumed with a sigh, "there are lots of young women with black hair, and I suppose a good many of them wear green cloaks. But that a girl should have a profile like that of the extraordinary creature we saw in the hospital and later in Morgan's study—a profile like that and the same colored hair and the same sort of cloak, and still obviously a different person altogether, is rather disconcerting. Ashton at least would laugh at us if we told him we believed it."

"Yes," said the doctor, "Ashton would laugh. He laughs rather too easily, that young man."

Then, for the first time I looked long and searchingly into my old chief's face. His eyes were bright with excitement, his cheeks flushed and his big, restless hands beating out a triumphant tattoo upon the table top. He did not look like a man whose plans and theories had gone awry.

"There's something," I said curiously, "that I don't see yet."

"You will soon," he assured me, "before another day is out, unless I'm mistaken. Have a little patience."

There came a sharp knock at the door just then, and as it swung open, we saw Ashton standing there.

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

Use of Green Foods Common in All Ages

Lettuce is one of the oldest vegetables known and was eaten fully 500 years before the Christian era. Aristotle praised it highly. Spinach was introduced into China from Persia about 100 B. C., but was new to Europe in the Sixteenth century. Botanically, one of the most interesting products of the garden is the cabbage family. Kale, brussels sprouts, savoy cabbage, red cabbage, collards, kohlrabi, cauliflower and broccoli are all varieties of one species. Carrots were eaten by the ancients, but they were not very popular. Watercress, growing naturally in all north temperate regions, has been eaten as a salad since the Greek and Roman ascendancy and has been cultivated since the Sixteenth century. Peas were used by ancient Egyptians and others, but were not common food in Europe until the Eighteenth century. It is believed they were grown in the earliest American settlements. Thomas Jefferson recorded the growing of tomatoes in Virginia in 1781, yet it is said than an Italian could not persuade the people of Salem, Mass., to taste them in 1802.—Kansas City Times.

Wrote Immortal Music

Franz Schubert has been called "The Man of a Thousand Melodies," although the Etude, in writing of this, says that it is "a libel upon his enormous fecundity, because he might better be termed the man of 22,000 melodies." It is probable that no other composer of history produced so many themes, many of which are immortal.

Ridicule is the test test of truth: it will not stick where it is not just. —Chesterfield

Know Your Sweetheart by His Handwriting

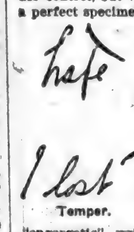
By EDNA PURDY WALSH

Editor, Character Reading Magazine.

(Copyright.)

That "Temper" of His

Temper, like love or any other great force is heaven when it is under control, but without control makes a perfect specimen of hell itself. Temper under control means a powerful dynamo which can be used to great spiritual ends, or great work needing force.



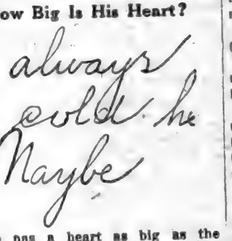
Temper.

It is temper which is full of short circuits that is dangerous. The tell-tale signs of the "stubborn" and "engergetic" writer indicate temper, but loss of temper is seen in loss of self-control. Couple these signs with t bars which fly off the handle in angular letters, and we see a writer who "flies off the handle" just as does his t bar.

People who are ready to get into arguments often make t bars which are inclined to slant downward.

If the t bar is heavier at the beginning than at the end temper may be quickly lost, but will not last long in the memory. If the t bar is heavier at the end than at the beginning, such a person will not show his temper so quickly, but will hold on to a grudge longer than the person who pens the other type of bar. The bar increasing toward the end in size shows tenacity of purpose. If the writer is of a high mental type he would not hold on to grudges, but would use his tenacity in his purpose of life—would transfer his "temper" energy to his work.

How Big Is His Heart?



"He has a heart as big as the world." You have often heard this said. The big-hearted person gives himself away in several ways through his writing and the simplest and most conspicuous sign is to be found in the capital C. Search for this letter and then turn it upside down. If the person is generous and very considerate of others, you will find a certain curl to this letter that will appear exactly in a heart form.

If the person has the interest of the multitude at heart, thus showing a lack of selfishness, you may look for the last part of the letter m to be higher than the other parts.

If the writing is large, without a mussy scrawled appearance, you will also find the writer who thinks first of the other fellow and then of himself. Writing that is very small indicates a vision that is limited. Thus the writer does not go very far away from home or himself in thought. This does not necessarily indicate that he is selfish, as he will, perhaps, lavish much on those who are close to him. But as a rule he does not go out of his way to find a place to bestow his attentions and help. Open a's and o's also speak of liberality.

Will He Hold a Grudge?

The forgive-and-forget person never writes the extra heavy, mussy looking writing. Extremely heavy down strokes and terminals, when made with closed letters that are often made open such as a's and o's, speak of one who will hold on to unkind thoughts and let memories of personal slights linger.

Squeezed Letters at End of Page.

Look especially for the letters that are squeezed. Space is often squandered between words but letters are crowded together.

Lines that run to the edge of the paper and words turned down along the margin show the sign of avarice and inclination to hold a grudge.

T bars will be sharp on either end and lower loops of letter f will be decidedly sharp. The i dot often appears wedge-shaped, wider at top and pointed at the bottom.

There are few flowing lines in the writing of one who goes about thinking of how to get even with others.

Note.—Do not make final judgment until other signs in writing are studied.

Exacting

To amuse his young son a North side father was requested to draw. After drawing an engine and cars the young hopeful wished something else. His father then drew a stick picture of a boy running. After gravely considering the picture the youngster remarked: "Put the meat on him, daddy."—Indianapolis News.

Effective Silence

Under some conditions a man can make more noise in the world by keeping his mouth shut than in any other way.

Improved Uniform International

Sunday School Lesson

(By REV. P. B. FITZWATER, D.D., Dean Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.)

(©, 1927, by Western Newspaper Union.)

Lesson for October 2

ELIJAH ON MOUNT CARMEL

LESSON TEXT—I Kings 18.

GOLDEN TEXT—Choose you this day whom ye will serve.

PRIMARY TOPIC—God Hears Elijah's Prayer.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Standing Alone for God.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Standing for God Against the Crowd.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Courage of Conviction.

I. Elijah's Message to Ahab (vv. 17, 18).

When Jezebel became the wife of King Ahab, she waged a savage warfare against God's prophets, killing all she could find, and thus seeking to abolish the true religion and set up idolatry instead. Elijah suddenly appeared, announcing the suspension of moisture (I Kings 17:1) as a judgment upon the people for their idolatry. He sounded three striking notes in his message:

1. "As the Lord God of Israel liveth." He knew that he represented the living God, therefore did not fear to come into the presence of the king.

2. "Before whom I stand." His standing before God indicated his constant readiness to go on His errands.

3. "There shall not be dew nor rain these years, but according to my word." This suspension of moisture continued for three and a half years, and rain came in answer to Elijah's prayer (Jas. 5:17).

II. A Challenge to Baal Worship (I Kings 18:17-46).

As soon as Elijah had delivered his message concerning the drought, he retired from the king's sight.

1. Elijah shows himself to Ahab (vv. 17, 18).

(1) Ahab's question (v. 17). His aim in this question was no doubt to intimidate Elijah.

(2) Elijah's answer (v. 18). He denied the charge and boldly declared that the calamity which had befallen the nation was caused by the idolatry of Ahab and his family.

2. The bold challenge (vv. 19-24).

(1) The people assemble (vv. 19, 20) At the urgent request of Elijah the king convened the people.

(2) The ringing call to decision (vv. 21-24). a. The question asked (v. 21). Many of the people had not wholly forsaken God. They attempted to worship both God and Baal. b. The silence of the people (v. 21). This may have been because of fear of the king or ignorance, for many were of the opinion that to be religious was the only thing necessary, irrespective of the being worshiped. c. The method of decision (vv. 22-24). Two sacrifices were to be provided, one to be offered to Baal, the other to God.

3. The test applied (vv. 25-39)

(1) Offering by the prophets of Baal (vv. 25-29). Elijah gave the prophets of Baal the first opportunity to prove whether Baal was a real God.

(2) The Offering by Elijah (vv. 30-39). a. The people invited near (v. 30). His object in inviting the people was to see clearly in order that they might grasp the genuineness of the test b. The altar repaired (vv. 30-32). Elijah took twelve stones, representing the united nation. c. The offering on the altar (vv. 33-35). After the bullock was in place he had four barrels of water three times emptied upon the sacrifice and the wood so as to fill the trench about the altar. So sure was Elijah that God's power was sufficient that he heaped difficulty upon difficulty. d. Elijah's prayer (vv. 36, 37) This was a model prayer. (a) It was based upon covenants (v. 36). All real prayer rests upon covenant relationships. (b) Its object was God's exaltation (v. 36). Elijah was jealous for God's glory, but the only thing that he asked for himself was to be known as God's servant. (c) It was for the salvation of the people (v. 37). e. The result (vv. 38, 39). (a) The fire of the Lord fell and consumed, not only the sacrifice, but the wood, stones and dust, even licking up the water in the trenches. (b) The people fell on their faces and confessed that the Lord was the God.

4. The execution of Baal's prophets (v. 40). Israel's government was a theocracy. God was their king. Idolatry was treason against the King. These false prophets were traitors to God and therefore should die.

5. Elijah vindicated (vv. 41-46). The proof that Elijah was God's prophet was incomplete until rain came.

III. Elijah Taken Up Into Heaven (II Kings 2:1-15).

Not only was the prophet vindicated in that the offering was consumed and rain came, but God took him to Himself when his work was done.

Faith of Our Fathers

"The church should be kept the source of spiritual life and power. Never before did the world so need emphasis upon the 'faith of our fathers living still.'"—Rev. B. Allen Read.

Saved From Doubt

At last Thomas was saved from doubt. What saved him? Love for Christ. He had anchored his soul to the Nazarene with a mighty and abiding love.—Vance.

What's the Answer?

Questions No. 18

1—What United States ship won a famous victory over what French warship and when?

2—What American leader in the Revolution was named the "Swamp Fox"?

3—Who invented the cotton gin?

4—What date did Charlie Robertson pitch his no-hit game against Detroit?

5—What actor, critical disputes notwithstanding, lives in the traditions of the stage and of theater-goers as the greatest America ever has produced?

6—What city of the British empire is known as the "Modern Athens"?

7—What great historical work had to be re-written because the manuscript was accidentally burned?

8—What are the most interesting and attractive of the ungulates of the Asiatic steppes?

9—Is this sentence correct English: "She could tell by the sound of the engine they were going slower"?

10—What is the meaning of "Lamb of God"?

11—What led Bryon to write "English Bards and Scotch Reviewers"?

12—Who was the American commander at the battle of Bennington?"

13—Who was the British governor of Virginia at the outbreak of the Revolution?

14—Who invented the phonograph?

15—Who is champion British woman golfer?

16—What modern French painter helped to found and has been the chief influence upon the impressionistic school?

17—What great pianist, an especial favorite in America, made his first visit to this country as an infant prodigy and had his tour interrupted by the Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Children?

18—What river is the largest Chinese waterway?

19—To what region is the mountain beaver restricted?

20—What is wrong with this sentence: "I like those sort of people"?

Answers No. 17

1—An English ecclesiastical historian of the Seventh and Eighth centuries.

2—Calcutta.

3—The fact that he never smiles.

4—Uhle of Cleveland.

5—Maj. John Andre.

6—Isaac Hull.

7—George Westinghouse.

8—Four, two auricles or receiving chambers and two ventricles or driving chambers.

9—No; an Olympiad was the period from one Olympian festival to the next.

10—God is incorporeal, divine, supreme, infinite Mind, Spirit, Soul, Principle, Life, Truth, Love.

11—To protest against the order for the scrapping of the frigate Constitution.

12—Ecuador.

13—Easter island.

14—Paderewski.

15—George Crulkshank.

16—Old Rosebud won it in 2:03 2-5.

17—Constitution.

18—Zachary Taylor, in the Mexican war.

19—Lord Lister.

20—Helps them to avoid enemies, find food, recognize kin and discover mates.

Matinees Looked Upon as Wrong Innovation

Matinees originated at Astley's theater, London, during the season of 1868. Then they really were as the name signifies, "morning performances" much to the horror of old-fashioned playgoers. The time was modified to afternoon but Thalia still was shocked.

Critics assailed the innovation with a vim. John Oxenford, stage reviewer for the London Times, declared "that afternoon performances will lower the place to the standards of a penny-gaff," but despite attacks the daylight performances prospered and in time became a recognized institution.

Astley's had been acquired in that year by Dion Boucicault, father of the actor of the same name, after resigning the management of the Winter garden in New York. He was a pioneer in the matter of more comfortable and attractive theaters, which in those days were mostly dingy, dirty, insanitary and ill-ventilated.—Exchange.

Chess Ancient Pastime

Chess is acknowledged as one of the world's oldest games, John de Vigney assigning its invention to a Babylonian philosopher, Xerxes. Others have attributed it to Chilo, one of the seven sages of Greece. Gibbon believed the Indians conceived the game, and that Persia perfected it. Earlier dates have been suggested, however, by the depiction of chess in the painting of the ancient Egyptians and the descriptions of it in the Chinese books of wisdom.

SEPTEMBER

L 915 U562

Local Briefs

Rubber bands at News office.

Confidence is seldom lost, but it is often sadly misplaced.

A number of ladies gathered at the Frank Curie home Tuesday afternoon and cold packed five bushels of tomatoes for use in the hot lunch at school this winter.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifton Northrup, Mrs. Crowfoot and little daughter, Mary Ata and Mr. Myron Hoyt and son, Ralph of Pearl, Mich., visited in the Hamilton and Northrup home Saturday and Sunday. Sunday they were all entertained at the W. H. Northrup home.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilber Perry of Fort Wayne, Mrs. Mae Brinker of Leo and Mrs. Walter Baker and three children of Concord called on Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Meese Sunday afternoon. Tuesday guests were Mr. and Mrs. Cal Hutton and little grandson, of near Auburn.

One of the largest crowds ever known at Rehobeth church assembled Sunday evening to hear the program given by Frank Carleton Nelson and the special program presented by the Christian Endeavor of Rehoboth church. A hearty welcome was extended to Mr. Nelson by the people of the community. A large number of the poems which Mr. Nelson recited were about the people of the community whom he knew as a boy when he lived there and attended Rehoboth church.

Writing tablets at News office.

A girl isn't necessarily timid because she jumps at a conclusion.

All notary work can be promptly cared for at News office. Call and see us.

For Sale:—5 six weeks old pigs. A. W. Littlefield, 1½ mile north of Wabash depot. 39t1p.

E. R. Kinsey attended the state board of health meeting Tuesday at Indianapolis, representing St. Joe. Mrs. Kinsey accompanied him.

Mrs. Mary Krise and Mrs. Pluma Hamilton attended the project leaders meeting at the McIntosh High School building at Auburn, Wednesday.

There are a number of ladies who prize the weekly recipes so much that they are cutting them out of The News and filing them in their card index boxes. We appreciate this and wish that more would do it.

Mr. and Mrs. Saxe Hadsell and son, Paul, spent Saturday and Sunday, returning home Monday, at Mishawaka visiting their daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Hough. Mrs. Hough and baby accompanied her parents home to spend the week.

Mrs. Eugene Wyatt west of Concord is in a critical condition following a second stroke of paralysis or apoplexy suffered Saturday morning. Mrs. Wyatt has been in poor health following her first stroke two years ago. No hope is held for her recovery and death is expected at any moment.

White lies are apt to leave black marks on a man's reputation.

Mr. Fred Decker, of Hamilton, transacted business in St. Joe, Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. James Malone, of Butler, spent the week end with Mrs. David Poper.

Every married woman thinks that all her husband's bachelor friends envy him.

Get your furnace repaired now, avoid the rush when winter fires are started. Free inspection. Bowser & Reed. 38tf.

Mr. and Mrs. Olen Rude, who have been occupying the Covey residence in Hamburg, moved Saturday to near Newville.

Mr. and Mrs. Waldo Rosenberry and baby and Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Andress, spent Sunday in Fort Wayne with Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Wyatt.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Keesler and daughter, Jane, Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Yeiser and family, were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Rigg at Auburn.

Mrs. Wm. Henly, Mrs. Grant Baltz and daughter, Mrs. G. R. Hodgson and daughter, Miss Vera, and Mrs Wm. Mossberger, were among the Fort Wayne shoppers, Saturday.

Twenty-four divorces were granted during the April term of the DeKalb circuit court, which ended Saturday. Twenty-one of these were to wives, only three being awarded to husbands.

A valuable milk cow was killed on the Wabash railroad Sunday morning for Ed Howey. He had just sold the calf on Saturday and she broke the fence. Ed lives on the old Ballard Bowen farm three miles north.

A public hearing will be held in Butler, starting at 9 o'clock a. m. on October 6 by the public service commission on the petition of the Indiana State Highway commission to close the Reynolds grade crossing over the New York Central tracks.

If your son or daughter is going away to school it would be a good plan to send them The News. We will send the paper for three, six or eight or nine months or any length of time you wish. The cost is small and will be appreciated by the youths who are away from home.

Many things may be preserved in alcohol, but law and order are not on the list.

Miss Ethel Pfaumer has purchased a Ford Coupe for driving to and from her school.

Have your glasses fitted by Benj. F. Griest, Eyesight Specialist, Office in American Bldg., Hicksville, Ohio. 28tf.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Springer attended the wedding of Luella Tesley and Paul Melcher of Yoder, Sunday

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Williams, of Fort Wayne, spent Sunday in the Wm. Henly and Wid Williams homes.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Miser spent over Sunday in Indianapolis with their daughter, Miss Martha, who is there in school.

Mr. and Mrs. Clint Reasoner, of Elkhart, were Sunday guests of Mrs. Anna Dilley, also attended the funeral of Mrs. Harriett Harter.

Mrs. Pearl Sherrick and daughter of Auburn and Mrs. Carrie Williams of Fort Wayne, spent yesterday with Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Henly.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Hull and baby and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hursh, took Sunday dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Robert Nicholls at Orangeville.

Russell Davis, wife and son, Robert, of Auburn were Sunday guests in the Stephen Brown home. Curt Watt and wife were also callers.

Mrs. Hattie Bowman of Grand Haven and Mr. and Mrs. Benedict of Grand Rapids, Mich., were guests in the Bowman home last week for several days.

Mrs. Hazel Miller, of Auburn, spent from Friday evening until Sunday evening with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Krabill, north of St. Joe. Mr. and Mrs. Murray Steel, also of Auburn were Sunday evening supper guests.

Among the guests in the home of Dr. C. R. Price and wife last week were: Mr. and Mrs. Monroe Dill and daughter, Monzell, Mrs. I. G. Kilpatrick and daughter, Margaret, of Fort Wayne; G. D. Dill, of Pierceton, Ind.; Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Sours of Huntington from Saturday until Tuesday this week and also Mrs. John Driver of LaGrange.

Rubber bands at News office.

For Sale:—A limited amount of cabbages for kraut. Call 7-1. 39t1.

Rink Opening, Thursday evening, Oct. 7, at Spencerville. A big time for everybody. 39t1.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Reed, of Green Springs, Ohio, called on S. S. Widney, Thursday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Quance, of Fort Wayne, were Saturday night and Sunday guests on F. B. Leighty and wife.

For Sale:—100 Buff Orpington pullets, April and May hatch, at 75c and $1.00. Phone 4431, Mrs. Jay Hart, Spencerville. 39t1.

Said an Irish physician of a patient, "If he lives till morning he may pull through; but if he doesn't there is no hope for him."

John Betz has a potato on display weighing one pound and eleven ounces, raised on his restaurant lot, and that's no lie either, for John Hull was present when the mammoth spud was turned out.

In the suit of Abraham Culbertson against the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Co., set for trial Oct. 14, a complaint is made that sparks from a locomotive caused a fire that damaged the plaintiff's land. He is asking for $215.

Victoria Fribley, a sister of Minnie Thompson, who had just returned to her home at Detroit, after a few weeks visit here, died very suddenly last Friday morning following an operation. The news was a great shock to her sister.

Mr. and Mrs. Cal Saylor, grandson, Marion and Mrs. Catherine Rickett of St. Joe, attended the funeral of William Wade at Meredian, Mich., last Thursday. Mr. Wade was at one time a resident of St. Joe. Mrs. Rickett on her return home visited her brother until Sunday.

The Fuller Remedy Co., are located on the town lot for a week, giving a show each night and selling their remedies. Wonderful crowds are attending and enjoying the free performances. Later: As we go to press the Fuller Company has moved, having sold their equipment to a company at Marion, Ohio.

Chas. Koch and wife were at Fort Wayne Tuesday the guests of Stanley Koch and wife, and in the afternoon called at the Lutheran hospital and visited H. M. Widney. He is looking fine and is in good spirits. As planned now he will undergo an operation Friday for gallstones. Rev. J. F. McKnight was an afternoon caller also.

The loss at the Huntertown elevator, destroyed by fire at an early hour Friday, has been placed at $39,000. The structure was located along the G. R. & I. tracks, just west of the Allen county fair grounds at Huntertown. All of the contents, including 7,000 bushels of wheat, 2,000 bushels of oats, 500 bushels of corn and valuable machinery were destroyed.

All records for freight loadings on American railroads for the January to June period were broken by the carriers durng the first 27 weeks of 1927, when the total reached the impressive figure of 25,326,726 cars. According to the figures furnished the Car Service Division of the American Railway Association by the carriers, this is an increase of 317,575 cars over the corresponding period of last year, and an increase of 998,236 over the same period of 1925. This record indicates the general prosperity of dry United States.

NOW Operating!

The St. Joe Grist Mill has been thoroughly overhauled, and is now operating in full capacity, making OUR DAILY BREAD FLOUR and also in the GRINDING OF FEEDS.

You can buy at our mill now Bran, Middlings the best that can be made--from soft winter wheat.

ST. JOE MILLING COMPANY

An Open Letter to the Editor

From the President of General Motors

LAST SPRING I wrote you that my belief in the country newspaper had led us in General Motors to decide to advertise our products together in the small-city press of the country.

The returns from the series of the messages recently published have justified that faith; and we shall continue to advertise in your community through your newspaper this fall.

It occurs to me, however, that some of your readers may be asking: "What is General Motors?" and "Why is General Motors?" These are fair questions and I should like to answer them as frankly as I can.

General Motors was organized some years ago on the theory that a group of large companies, working together, could render a better service than they could separately. In this we simply applied to industry a principle that is as old as civilization as regards the human family and human progress.

Original members of the General Motors family were Buick, Cadillac, Chevrolet, Oakland and Oldsmobile, together with the Delco-Light Company and other well-known companies manufacturing automotive equipment. By joining together their resources, we were able to establish great Research Laboratories, a 1245-acre Proving Ground and the GMAC Plan of credit purchase; to effect vast economies in purchase and manufacture and distribution; to assure and maintain the quality of every product in the General Motors family.

Has the General Motors family principle proved itself in practice?

The best answer, I think, is to compare the Chevrolet, Buick, Cadillac, Oldsmobile and Oakland of today with the models of five or ten years ago.

Then add Pontiac, a General Motors creation. Add LaSalle, another General Motors creation. And then consider how General Motors has developed these cars into a complete line, within which any family may find a suitable quality car at the price it plans to pay: "A Car for Every Purse and Purpose."

Another example is Frigidaire, the electric refrigerator. General Motors had the resources to spend millions to develop a satisfactory refrigerator, and then to apply to its manufacture the same processes which have increased the utility and lowered the cost of the automobile.

We believe that this record justifies General Motors as an economic institution. Its products are quality products, first of all. Their prices represent the economies of united effort passed on to the purchaser. In the last year one in each three automobiles chosen by the public has been a General Motors car. The service of Delco-Light electric plants has extended to more than a quarter million homes, while Frigidaire has become the world's largest selling convenience of its kind.

We believe also that the values now offered in the current General Motors products (which are listed below) prove anew that "many minds are better than one" and that a family of companies, working together, can produce results which are decidedly in the public interest and of increasing benefit to the individual family.

Very truly yours,

Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., President
General Motors Corporation

Detroit, September 23, 1927

GENERAL MOTORS

CHEVROLET · PONTIAC · OLDSMOBILE · OAKLAND · BUICK · LASALLE · CADILLAC

FRIGIDAIRE—The Electric Refrigerator · DELCO-LIGHT—Electric Plants

GMAC Plan of Time Payments

OPTOMETRY—ITS VALUE TO THE PUBLIC

By Ed W. Hicks, Optometrist and Optician

Can normal vision always be secured with glasses?

The Optometrist does not always desire to give normal vision. He is more interested in giving his patients comfortable vision.

Why do people have uncomfortable vision?

Because their eyes are strained as the result of an error of vision.

Then it is really eye strain that the use of glasses prevents?

Yes, eye strain is the cause of the discomfort.

(To be continued.)

ED. W. HICKS
AUBURN
"OUR SPECIALTY — COMFORTABLE VISION"

Two half-truths do not necessarily constitute the whole truth.

With the Churches

ST. JOE M. P. CHURCH

No services at St Joe Church, Concord Township Sunday School Convention at the Concord M. P. Church, Octobr 2nd.

J. F. McKnight, Pastor.

EVANGELICAL LUTHERAN CHURCHES

"They who would grow in grace must love the habitation of God's house. It is those that are planted in the courts of the Lord who shall flourish, and not those that are occasionally there."—John Angel James.

Communion Service in Spencerville at 10:30 A. M. "It becometh those that purpose to come to the Supper of our Lord Jesus Christ to prepare and diligently examine themselves. Holy Communion is instituted for the strengthening of those who humbly confess their sins and hunger and thirst after righteousness and holiness.

You are welcome to these services.

No evening service. We go to Township Sunday School Convention for afternoon and night service.

P. B. Roediger, Pastor.

CHURCH OF CHRIST

"Many people find the church cold because they insist on sitting in "Z" row. Come forward, brother!"

ST. JOE
Ed Storer, Supt.
Bible School, 9:30 A. M.
Lord's Supper, 10:45 A. M.
Sermon, 11:00 A. M.
Bible School is on the up grade; keep it climbing.

NEWVILLE
Frank Lyons, Superintendent
Bible School, 10:00 A. M., sun time.
Lord's Supper, 11:00 A. M., sun time.
Sermon, 8:00 P. M. sun time.
R. S. Aldrich, Pastor.

Methodist Episcopal Church Spencerville

Sunday School, 9:00 A. M.—John Koch, Superintendent.
Epworth League, 6:00 P. M. Marguerite Koch, President.
Rally Day in Sunday School.
Preaching Service 7:30 P. M. Rev. Leroy Huddleson will be the speaker.

September 25 was a busy day for the pastor, Rev. Roy S. Brown. He taught the men's class in Sunday School and followed with the preaching service. With his family, they went to Edwin Guthrie's for dinner where they met with A. J. Smith and family, E. Dell Nelson and wife, Lester Pierman and family, Herbert Tustison and family and Mr. Guthrie's father and brother from Michigan.

It was a birthday anniversary for Mr. Guthrie and some one of each of the other families.

At 3:00 P. M. Mr. Brown spoke at Barker's Chapel on the Ashley Charge and again at 7:30 at the Ashley church.

His subject in the exchange meetings was, "Training Our Youth in the Mind of Christ."

Roy S. Brown, Pastor.

CHRIST FOR ALL—ALL FOR CHRIST
The Word of God

GOD WILL GUIDE THEE:—Be ye not as the horse, or as the mule, which have no understanding: whose mouth must be held in with bit and bridle. I will instruct thee and teach thee in the way which thou shalt go. Psalm 32: 9-8.

PRAYER:—O Spirit of the living God, we need thy guidance, for the way is strange to us. Keep us from self will. Make us teachable and then show us the way to walk.

DEBTS

Customer: "I've brought that last pair of trousers to be reseated. You know I sit a lot."

Tailor: "Yes, and perhaps you've brought the bill to be receipted too. You know, I've stood a lot."

THE MASTER SEAMAN

Tearful Wife (to cause of disaster): "You t-t-told me you knew all about a boat."

Husband: "Well, so I do. For instance, this sharp edge we're sitting on is called the keel."

SEPTEMBER

L 915 U563

Russel R. Reidenour

ATTORNEY

Auburn, Ind.

DR. C. R. BAUMGARTNER
Veterinarian

Spencerville, Ind.

PHONES: 282--283.

SPENCERVILLE

Some men are afraid of nothing but danger.

Miss Ada Bowser is the new girl at the telephone office.

Emery Smith and wife spent Sunday at the William Allen home.

Paul Dean and wife were Sunday guests in the B. F. Markle home.

M. L. Spitler of Cedarville, was a Saturday guest in the Mrs. Hazel Steward home.

Rink Opening, Thursday evening, Oct. 7, at Spencerville. A big time for everybody. 39t1.

Miss Ada Bowser was a Saturday night guest of Miss Doris Rhoades of Fort Wayne.

Mr. and Mrs. Greog and children of Waterloo, spent Sunday with Vaughn Allen and family.

Jack Dunn and wife, of Fort Wayne, were Sunday afternoon guests in the Jerry Markle home.

The Ladies Aid of the Methodist Church will meet on Thursday afternoon with Mrs. Raymond Rhods.

Delos White and family and Mr. and Mrs. Gene Hensel, of Auburn, were Sunday guests of Mrs. Nancy Chaney.

Mertin Kimes and Miss Emily Kimes of Robinson Chapel, were Sunday dinner guests of Cal Hart and family.

In contemplatng what he has done for others the average man is apt to overlook what others have done f orhim.

Mrs. Minnie Kimes will act as hostess to the members of the Young Ladies Social Club on Friday evening.

Farver's Canning Kitchen at Spencerville will operate on Wednesday and Thursday each week until further notice. 31tf.

Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Rhoades and daughter, Miss Doris, of Fort Wayne, were Sunday guests of F. L. Beams and family.

Wm. Shilling, who was recently adjudged insane, was taken to Richmond state hospital Monday by Sheriff Armstrong.

Mr. and Mrs. Brinsley and Mr. and Mrs. Price of Fort Wayne, were Sunday evening callers at the Gust. Hafner home.

Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Squires and Mr. and Mrs. Tell Elson were Sunday afternoon guests in the Mrs. W. P. Steward home.

Charles Kimes and family, Mrs. Tressie Kelley and children and Mr. and Mrs. Alva Place of Fort Wayne, spent Sunday with Charles Brettian and family.

George Henderson, wife and daughter, Walter Beerbower, wife and baby, moved last week to Auburn where Messrs Henderson and Beerbower purchased a Meat Market.

The C. C. Club was very pleasantly entertained on Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Minta Rhodes. One new member was received into the club, Mrs. Tressie Kelley. Prizes were awarded to Mrs. Jennie Walter and Ethel Bowser. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Zelpha Steward.

The Home Bureau Club recently met at the home of Mrs. Fred Randall in an all day meeting. Several dishes were made by the project leaders which were greatly enjoyed. Also pot luck dinner was served. The officers for the year were elected as follows: President, Mrs. Clauda Hafner; Vice president, Mrs. Winnie Shook; Secretary, Mrs. Metta Furnish; Assistant secretary, Miss Gaylon Goldsmith; Treasurer, Mrs. Gertrude Wasson; entertainment committee, Mrs. Fred Randall, Mrs. Winnie Shook and Mrs. Beryl Brown.

Envelopes at News office.

Rink Opening, Thursday evening, Oct. 7, at Spencerville. A big time for everybody. 39t1.

Homer Bowser and wife of Xenia, Ohio, were recent guests of R. U. Bowser and family.

John Miller and wife and Mrs. Jane Knight, were dinner guests in the Jason Keyes home on Sunday. Harry Opdyke, wife and son of Montpelier, Ohio, and Mrs. Ethel Beggs and daughter, Marguerite, of Columbus, Ohio, were evening guests in the same home.

GREAT MODERN MOTION PICTURE

"THE TRANSGRESSOR"

A True and Timely Story: Interesting, absorbing, thrilling, vivid, appealing, dramatic.

Theme: It pays to be a good American; to obey and help maintain the law; to be loyal to the Constitution and the Flag.

5 Big Reels. Nearly a mile of film.

Every man, woman and child in America should see this, the greatest temperance picture of modern times.

Liberals on the subject of Prohibition especially invited.

No charge for admission—Come early—Don't be late and fail to get a seat or even to get in as others have done.

St. Joe High School, Monday, October 3, at 7:30 P. M.

THEN THE FUN BEGAN

"So this is a baby girl?" beamed the rector, as he walked around the baby show.

The proud father assented.

"And this other one—is it of th contrary sex?"

His wife's eye was on him, but with no thought of the wrath to come, the father replied blithely, "Yes, she's a girl, too."

MINISTERS HOLD MEETING IN AUBURN

Rev. G. F. Hubbartt, Pastor of Methodist Church, Re-elected President of County Ministerial Ass'n.

Rev. G. F. Hubbartt, pastor of the Auburn Methodist church, was re-elected president of the DeKalb County Ministerial Association at its meeting in Auburn Monday. Rev. P. B. Roediger of Spencerville, was named as vice president and Rev. E. C. Kunce of Waterloo, secretary and treasurer.

The first meeting of the year for the asosciation was held in the assembly room of the Eckhart Public Library in Auburn, the Rev. G. F. Hubbartt, the president, in the chair, and the Rev. E. C. Kunce of Waterloo at the secretary's table.

The president announced that the Rev. J. F. McKnight of St. Joe, would be in charge of the devotions with the Rev. A. Bramer new United Brethren minister of Newville, at the piano.

After the devotions the following new men in the county were introduced to the association: Charles Caster, Y. M. C. A. secretary of Auburn, Rev. J. Hubert Smith of the Church of Christ at Butler, Rev. O. B. Noren, St. Mark's Lutheran church of Auburn, Rev. V. B. Ratcliff of the Butler Center Methodist Protestant church and Rev. P. B. Roediger of the Lutheran church of Spencerville.

A committee from the DeKalb County Council of Religious Education was present to present the matter of a county training conference from November 7 to 11. Some ministers have planned evangelistic meetings for this date but the association voted to cooperate in this training week in so far as it does not interfere with local church plans. George Beugnot and Ward Jackman of Auburn and Fred Leighty of St. Joe and Mrs. Nora McDonald of Corunna represented the Sunday School workers. Miss Annise Harding in charge of the young people's work in the council spoke of the state conference in North Manchester October 14-16 and the county conference in St. Joe November 19 and 20.

Mr. Caster, the new Y. M. C. A. secretary in Auburn, addressed the ministers on his hopes for a county-wide work for his organization, and inviting the body to use the facilities of the "Y" building in Auburn whenever it desired to do so. He urged the co-operation of the clergy looking towards the state boys' conference in Lafayette November 25-27 and a like county conference for DeKalb county in February.

Announmement was made of the work of the Rev. B. F. Richter is doing in addressing gatherings in the interest of clean moving pictures. He has already spoken in Garrett and Waterloo and the churches of those places endorse his work.

A communication was received from the United Stewardship Council in regard to an interdenominational program of stewardship education. The matter was referred to the committee on program with the request that Dr. P. E. Zartmann of Winona Lake be invited to speak before the association in the near future on the plans for such campaign in the various communities of the county. To the same committee was given the authority to arrange for a joint meeting with the Steuben County Ministerial Association some time during the year. The latter is the outgrowth of the DeKalb association, as Dr. John Humphreys, pastor of the Congregational curch at Angola, after addressing the meeting in this county went back to Angola with the inspiration to organize the preachers in that section. The Steuben pastors obtained a copy of the constitution in this county and formed theirs from it with but few changes.

The president offered two changes in the constitution, one relating to the time of closing the year's programs, the other dealing with the time of electing officers annually. These will be voted on at the next meeting. The program committee to serve for the winter consists of the Revs. B. M. Bechdolt of Garrett, O. B. Noren of Auburn and J. H. Smith of Butler.

The speaker of the morning was Cyrus E. Gallatin of Garrett, B. & O. engineer and chairman of the grievance committee of the road representing the engineers and firemen. His theme was the need of religious backgrounds to produce a contented people. There were twenty-one preachers and laymen in attendance. The next meeting will be held the last Monday morning in October in Auburn. The Rev. V. B. Ratcliff pronounced the benediction.

HOME BUREAU CLUB ELECT THEIR OFFICERS

The Concord Township Home Bureau Club was entertained at the home of Mrs. Pearl Simanton, Friday afternoon, September 23rd. The hostess was assisted by the following committee: Mrs. Stella Hughes, Mrs. Cora Fetters, Mrs. Belle Means and Mrs. Vada Wyatt. Mrs. Fetters conducted a cake contest, Mrs. Millie Shull and Mrs. Anna Tustison receiving prizes. Mrs. Belle Means read a paper on "What the home can do for the school," which was fine. Then the election of officers which resulted as follows: President, Mrs. Pluma Hamiltion; Vice president, Mrs. Millie Shull; Secretary, Mrs. Cora Curie; Treasurer, Mrs. Mary Krise.

The project leaders gave their work they had received of Mrs. Beadle, of Purdue, on table setting, manners and derorations. The secretary's report was accepted and members responded at roll call with "My Hobby."

An invitation was accepted to visit the Perfection Biscuit Co., at Fort Wayne in the near future. Committees were named and arrangements made for guest night, October 21st.

Four new names were added to the roll which were Mrs. Opal Sims, Mrs. Daisy Woodcox, Mrs. Neva Jennings and Mrs. Harriett Johnson. There were thirty-two members present and eight guests who were, Mrs. Harriett Johnson, Mrs. Opal Sims, Mrs. Neva Jennings, Mrs. Corral Simanton, Mrs. Eva Miller, Mrs. Flora Simanton, Miss Eva Hughs and Mrs. Mary Sechler.

The committee served sandwich rolls and slices, shrimp salad, prune pudding and coffee.

DR. MINNICK CHANGES LOCATION

Bellflower, Mo.
9, 20, 1927.

Editor St. Joe News,

Dear Sir:—

I suppose you will be surprised to know that I am living here, landed last Wednesday. Good deal such looking country as it is from St. Joe north to LaOtto, Ind. Six hundred population. Good business as St. Joe. Ten miles to nearest town. Have everything here you have in your country in shape of crops and fruits. Very friendly and sociable people. Five churches and an extra good high school. Two rural routes out of here, out not as good roads as you have. I am alone in this territory and it looks good, doing well so far.

I would like to drop down in St, Joe for a day if I could, to see all.

All this time,
Respectfully,
H. R. Minnick, M. D.

Every newspaper editor quite frequently, in fact almost weekly, receives communications from well meaning folk for publication. The topics vary from political economy to religion. They are usually well written, accurately punctuated and legible and make we overworked pencil pushers long to hang it on the machine for the compositor, fall into a swivel chair and listen to the mats as they slide down the channel on their way to the mold. This would be an easy thing for us to do and we are persuaded that it is the course offering the least resistance and she goes through. Here's where the subscriber kicks. Not that the editor is a better writer than his correspondent but he from long experience knows better what his readers want. Some folk think the making of a newspaper is purely the filling of space. The editor must know what will interest the public and give it to them. A country newspaper could never succeed if it devoted its columns to the kind of matter carried by Review of Reviews and other high class magazines; neither would the magazines be a success were they to devote their space to chronicle local happenings. Both publications have there sphere. This one thing the two editors know or they will fail. It is for this reason that numerous articles of otherwise much merit never find their way to the composing room when submitted to your weekly newspaper. Our mission is to publish something that will interest the people of this locality and when we shall have done this, service has been rendered.

The Blue Bird says

A man was arrested in Idaho for selling whisky to the Indians. That man ought to know that selling whisky to Indians is illegal in this country.

One thing the bootleggers never have to worry about—a buyer's strike.

Study in American universities is not endangered so much by baseball as by high ball.

Uncle Sam's "melting pot" is not entirely a success. Scrambling the eggs doesn't help much if there is a bad one among the lot.

As soon as a farmer can afford to do so, he moves to the city. And as soon as he can afford it, he gets himself a country place.

Blessed are the peacemakers. They will never have to worry about unemployment.

Married folks have one advantage—two can give presents as cheaply as one.

The human brain is getting smaller, they say. Well, anyway, we have lots of folks willing to do our thinking and pass a law to enforce it.

Copyright 1927, John D. Fennell.

England's Ancient Clocks

Old clocks have been recorded every now and then, but England claims two clocks that are more than 400 years old. One at a church in Rye parish, erected in 1515, is still running with the original mechanism, while one in Berkshire that has been faithfully telling time for 400 years is still working, though recently parts had to be made in it.

Bird Named for Saint Peter

The bird petrel, says Time, is named for Saint Peter, who tried, through faith in Christ, to walk on the waters of Galilee. The petrels have webbed feet which they trail upon the sea's surface as they search for food, often actually "running" with assistance from their wings.

Rubber bands at News office.

We Do STATIONERY PRINTING on HAMMERMILL BOND

PHONE 290

Stanley P. Nelson Monuments

Opposite Woodlawn and Roselawn Cemeteries

AUBURN, IND.

Dr. E. T. Julian
M. D.
St. JOE

9:30 to 11:30 each forenoon at Dr. C. R. Price office.

CHEVROLET
The for Economical Transportation

World's Lowest Ton-Mile Cost for every line of business

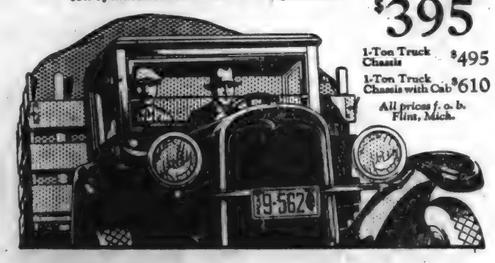
Whether you need a truck for fast, economical delivery over city streets or whether your problem is the transportation of ton-loads over all types of highways—
—we have a Chevrolet truck that will give you the world's lowest ton-mile cost*, plus a type of performance unequalled in a low-priced truck!
Here is ruggedness, strength and modern design which assure you the long-time, over-all operating efficiency that has made Chevrolet the world's most popular gear-shift truck!

*Ton-mile cost is the cost of transporting a ton of material one mile—or its equivalent.

½-Ton Truck Chassis $395
1-Ton Truck Chassis $495
1-Ton Truck Chassis with Cab $610
All prices f. o. b. Flint, Mich.



FURNISH TIRE & BATTERY SHOP, SPENCERVILLE, IND.

MONEY
Is Like the Water Of a RIVER

"Money is like the water of a river" a French historian has said. "If it suddenly floods, it devastates; divide it into a thousand channels where it circulates quietly and it brings life to every spot." Our present system of economic distribution, efficiently divides our national wealth into many channels. One of these channels is flowing into your purse. True, it may not be much more than a trickling stream, but it is there at your disposal.

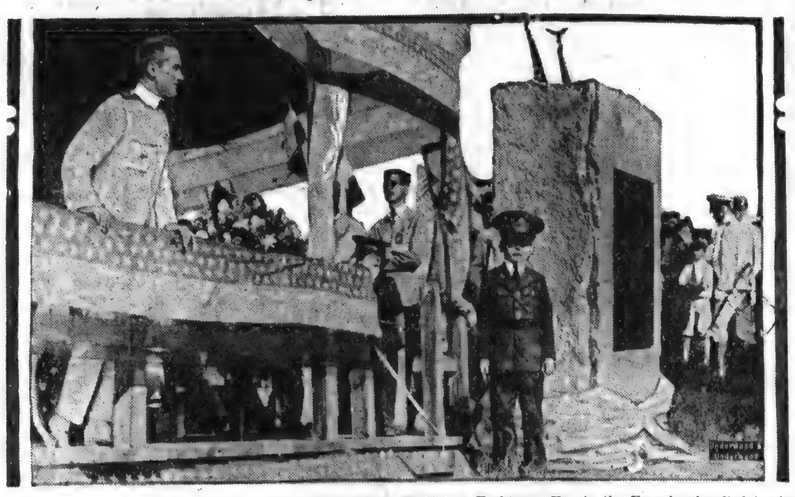
How are you handling it? Are you trying to irrigate a thousand acres with but enough to nourish one? Are you allowing it to dissipate itself in futile spending or are you utilizing its power for something really worth while? The members of the "Get Ahead Club" have built dams across their streams, and are controlling the flood gates in order to make every drop work. One outlet leads to a savings account. Some day it is going to be big enough to help its owner realize his most worthwhile dream. These people are getting ahead in the world.

Farmers' & Merchants State Bank
Spencerville, Ind.

SEPTEMBER

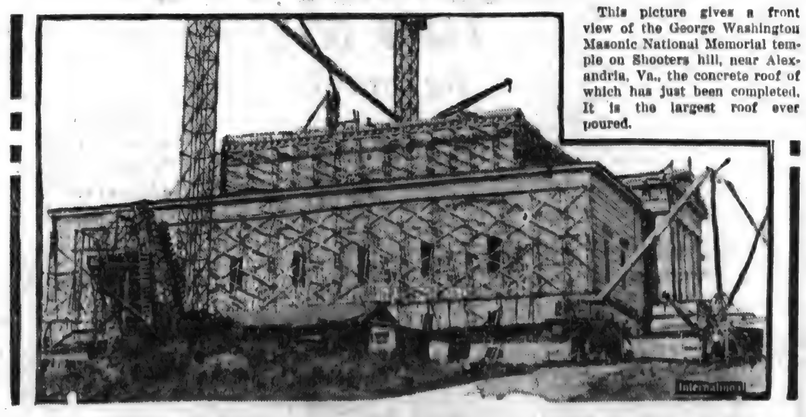
L 915 0564

Commander Byrd at Yorktown Ceremony



Many notables participated in the ceremony of unveiling a tablet at Yorktown, Va., to the French who died in the American Revolution. The picture shows Commander R. E. Byrd, famous aviator, addressing the gathering.

Progress on Washington's Masonic Memorial



This picture gives a front view of the George Washington Masonic National Memorial temple on Shooters hill, near Alexandria, Va., the concrete roof of which has just been completed. It is the largest roof ever poured.

Buys the Biggest Lump of Coal

Miss Betty Griffin, Kansas university coed, with the biggest single lump of coal ever brought up from a mining shaft. It was found to weigh in the neighborhood of 3,000 pounds, measuring 5 feet high and 4 feet wide. Miss Griffin bought it for her cottage in Lawrence, Kan.

Sending a Message to the President

Just before President Coolidge left the Black Hills he received a message by carrier pigeon from the boy scouts of Tacoma who had climbed to the summit of Mt. Ranier. Above the scouts are seen releasing the pigeon.

MAY BE JAP ENVOY

Katsuji Debuchi, now vice minister of foreign affairs in Japan, is expected to succeed Tsuneo Matsudaira as Japanese ambassador to the United States. According to reports Ambassador Matsudaira will go to London as Japan's envoy.

BEET SUGAR KING

Herr C. Bellowsky of Germany, managing director of the largest beet sugar seed producers in Europe, and noted authority on the beet sugar industry, who conferred with Secretary of Agriculture Jardine on the world situation in the beet sugar industry.

Unlucky Number

Visitor—Why are you here, my friend?

Prisoner—I'm the victim of the unlucky number 13.

"Indeed! How was that?"

"Twelve jurors and one judge."

Following a Clew

"Who is guilty of the crime?"

"We're not sure," answered Cactus Joe. "So we've put it square up to that general no-good Mesa Bill, to prove that it ain't him."

BOOST FOR DR. JIMMIE'S HOSPITAL

(© by D. J. Walsh.)

MRS. WAINWRIGHT MOSIER was having one of her spells, a fact telepathically communicated to all of her neighbors by the general air of gloom about the house and by the fact that her next-door neighbor, Mrs. Tom Parker, was hurrying her six children out to play in order that she might wait upon the invalid. Every one said it was a shame the way a wealthy woman like Mrs. Mosier imposed upon a poor creature like Mrs. Parker.

"This time it's serious, Carrie" moaned Mrs. Mosier on this special occasion from the depths of her lavender plush davenport. "Everything always comes to a climax with me. I've said it time and time again. Poor dear Wain understood and he warned me—" Mrs. Mosier sniffed audibly into a violet-scented handkerchief.

"Anything but a tumor, Carrie, anything but a tumor! It's what I've been dreading all these years and you know what one dreads is bound to come, Carrie."

"Don't you worry now, Miss' Mosier,"

"I wouldn't be half so frightened, Carrie, if I were in the city where I would get the proper medical care. If I should have to call a doctor in this little suburban town I know I'd just naturally pass away."

Her tragic tones had diminished to a whisper at the terrible thought. "If Wain were only here," rose in crescendo.

"Everybody says the new doctor, Jimmie Taylor, is a fine young fellow, Miss' Mosier."

"Any doctor who would let people call him Jimmie can't be of much account. Whoever heard of such a thing! I'm feeling worse, Carrie."

"Do let me make you a nice cup of tea."

"Tea'll only make it worse. Put your hand there on my stomach and see if you don't feel a terrible big lump."

Mrs. Parker felt obediently, placing a large wrinkled hand tenderly on the spot indicated. Suddenly over her thin, placid face there passed a look of alarm.

"You feel it, Carrie?" Mrs. Mosier's chin quivered and she ran her hands wildly through her carefully marcelled hair.

"I do, Miss' Mosier."

"Call that Jimmie doctor quick. I knew it would come, and here, of all places! To think I should have to be operated upon here by a know-nothing doctor! Oh, I don't dare to think!" frantically holding her side and her temples alternately. And then for the first time in her life, Mrs. Mosier fainted.

Dr. Jimmie Taylor arrived promptly in his built-over car in response to Mrs. Parker's tremulous call. With the assistance of Mrs. Parker, he got Mrs. Mosier safely into the car with him. When Mrs. Mosier whimpered that she would die if Mrs. Parker did not come, too, that kindly soul scrambled into the back seat. After a few wheezy coughs they were merrily on their way to the hospital—merrily so far as the doctor was concerned.

"Fix you up in no time!" said he, grinning.

Mrs. Mosier resented the grin, but since she must lean on some one, she felt a certain sense of security in a doctor's presence.

It was a well-known fact that Dr. Taylor's hospital was not run on a paying basis. The suburbanites preferred the city hospitals and specialists. Still Dr. Taylor was canny and full of hope. He knew that if he could persuade one of the social leaders in the little town to come as a patient to the hospital, the precedent would be all that would be necessary. But thus far his most enthusiastic cases had been charity cases. Today, as he sped toward the hospital with his wealthy charge, his heart was light. He would at least have a chance to prove his theory and his worth.

"Don't leave me for a minute, Carrie," Mrs. Mosier pleaded as they assisted her out of the car.

"But the children—" began Mrs. Parker.

"Don't you worry about them, my dear. You need a rest from your household as much as I need you near me. If I have to stay in the hospital, you're going to stay right here with me. Mrs. Sims would be only too glad to earn a little extra money taking care of them. I'll pay all the expenses and you'll get a well-deserved rest."

"I agree with Mrs. Mosier," the doctor interposed heartily. "You'll do good all around if you do as Mrs. Mosier says."

"Thank you, doctor," Mrs. Mosier said in a different tone from that she had used with him before, and for the first time she looked straight into his fine, sensitive eyes.

Mrs. Mosier went through her examination in a state of nervous excitement. All of her weak spots were relentlessly ferreted out and marked down imposingly on a chart. The doctor made no reply to her many questions. The cool, white-clad nurse was as enigmatic as a sphinx. However, after what seemed hours of torture and proddings to Mrs. Mosier, Dr. Jimmie Taylor helped her to a sitting posture, looked her straight in the eyes and told her that the soone she submitted to an operation th better. There was something abou this serious, young doctor that robbed her of all command. Wain would have liked him, she thought, as she meekly intrusted her hope for a earthly future into his slim, young hands.

Close upon the heels of the decision, the family counselor puffed up the steps to attend to the good lady's last will and testament, and no less a personage than the archbishop himself, who happened to be visiting in the suburb at the time, administered the last sacrament.

"She is completely anaesthetized, doctor," the nurse at Mrs. Mosier's head announced crisply as she held the limp hand and counted the slow pulse beat.

"Lift the mask," the doctor commanded in a sharp tone as he passed his hand for the second time indignantly over Mrs. Mosier's torso.

"Doctor!" the young nurse questioned in spite of her training, "are you quite all right?"

"Yes," he answered tersely to the two nurses and the hospital assistant who drew nearer. Then, pointing to the prostrate Mrs. Mosier, he added, "And so is she, See," he continued, his voice rising in spite of his efforts to control it, "this woman here was suffering from a nerve congestion in her abdomen and all she needed was the complete relaxation afforded by the ether to relieve it. Don't smile," he interposed sadly upon seeing their unsuppressed grins, "it is no smiling matter for this hospital. If it wasn't against my principles, I'd go ahead and operate anyway," and he chucked his instruments into their cases. "Take her back to her room and don't say a word of this to any one, yet." He then flung himself out of the room, almost falling over the trembling and speechless Mrs. Parker who had been waiting prayerfully in the hallway.

"It's all right," he flung back at her as she half ran down the corridor and disappeared through one of the many white doorways.

When Mrs. Mosier came from under the influence of the ether she was hardly prepared for the amazing revelation that Dr. Taylor made to her. The wonderstruck Carrie was scarcely less impressed as she sat down on the clean white hospital cot surrounded by bouquets of gorgeous flowers. Mrs. Mosier listened dumbly while Carrie confirmed the news. Finally the patient grasped the situation by the forelock.

"Does any one know of this, doctor?"

"No one except those present in the operating room and they have promised silence until they know your wishes," he replied deferentially, a gleam of hope breaking through his well-concealed despair.

Mrs. Wainwright Mosier was silent a moment, studying Carrie with almost maternal compassion; then her gaze wandered over the flowers, and lastly to the notes of consolation and cheer on the table beside the bed.

"I've never broken my word yet, doctor," she said impressively, the hint of a twinkle in her eyes, "And I'm too thankful in my good fortune to start in doing it now. There is no woman in this town who needs a rest as bad as Carrie, there," she raised her plump hand to silence a coming protest from Mrs. Parker. "Besides, I wouldn't want this joke on me to get out, so Carrie and I will stay here a couple of weeks and enjoy ourselves, if you don't mind. Nobody need ever know the difference. It will do your hospital good just to have people look at a patient like me. What do you say?"

"Amen," breathed Dr. Jimmie Taylor, and caught her outstretched hand warmly between his own.

Peaks That Dot Moon Gigantic in Height

Though the moon is only about one-quarter the diameter of the earth, its surface features are on a scale so grand as to dwarf much of our earth scenery.

Near the lunar south pole, for example, Professor Pickering pointed out the Liebnitz range of mountains. "By measuring the shadows cast by these peaks we find that some of them rise from 25,000 to 30,000 feet above the plain," he said.

The earth has Mount Everest as its highest peak, 29,141 feet altitude and the earth is several times larger than the moon. If our terrestrial mountains were proportioned to the same scale as the lunar heights we would have peaks rising from ten to fifteen miles above the sea.

On an even vaster scale are some of the volcanic craters which pit the moon.

"The crater Newton measures 143 miles in length by 60 miles in width," said Professor Pickering, "and is 24,000 feet deep. There are many lunar craters of more than 60 miles' diameter. The largest crater known on the earth, the Volcano Bay, in northern Japan, measures only 35 miles in diameter, but it is very exceptional, for the next largest terrestrial crater is but 15 miles across."—Prof. W. M. Pickering, quoted by George W. Gray in the American Magazine.

Getting Rid of Ants

To drive away these pests use ground cloves. Take a scant tablespoonful of ground cloves and wrap it in a piece of paper. Make several pieces like that and put two on each shelf and you will have no ants to bother.

MRS. BASSETT ALWAYS TIRED

Now in Good Health by Using Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Lansing, Michigan.—"I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound whenever I needed it. When I first used it I was so bad I could hardly walk across the room without crying. I was tired all the time. I think my trouble was coming on me for six months before I realized it. I read of your wonderful medicine in the paper, and * * * my husband bought me a bottle, and after the first few doses I felt better, so kept on taking it until I was well and strong. I take it at times when I feel tired and it helps me. I will always have a good word for your medicine and tell anyone what good it has done me. I recommended it to my neighbor for her girl, who is sixteen years old, and it was just what she needed. She is feeling fine now, and goes to school every day."—Mrs. E. F. Bassett, 216 South Hayford Avenue, Lansing, Michigan.

Do not continue to feel all run-down and half sick when Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is sold by druggists everywhere. It is a root and herb medicine and has been used by women for over fifty years.

FOR OVER 200 YEARS

haarlem oil has been a world-wide remedy for kidney, liver and bladder disorders, rheumatism, lumbago and uric acid conditions.

GOLD MEDAL HAARLEM OIL CAPSULES

correct internal troubles, stimulate vital organs. Three sizes. All druggists. Insist on the original genuine GOLD MEDAL.

A BEAUTIFUL COMPLEXION for only $1.25. Ask your dealer for KREMOLA or write Dr. C. H. Berry Co. Dept. W, Chicago.

World's Oldest Bush

According to Dr. Edgar T. Wherry of the Department of Agriculture, a box huckleberry bush in Perry county, Pa., is the oldest bush in the world. This remarkable bush is a mile and a quarter long and covers the entire side of a hill. Doctor Wherry estimates that it grows six inches a year. Taking that as a basis the plant must be something like 12,000 years old.

No Amateur

"Jack," she cooed as they sat on the beach in the moonlight, "have you ever been engaged before?"

"Why," he answered, "you don't think that this is my first vacation, do you?"

Much to Learn

Mrs. Fozzleton—Well, even the well-informed woman doesn't know it all, John.

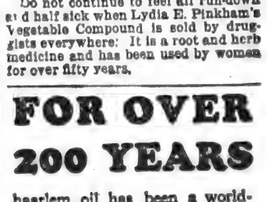
Mr. Fozzleton—Nope, she doesn't know when to be silent, Jane.—New Bedford Standard.

Resourceful Financier

"When I started out in the world I had but a dollar."

"What did you do with that?"

"Wired home for some more."



Feel Stiff and Achy?

TO feel constantly lame and achy is too often a sign of sluggish kidneys.

Sluggish action permits waste poisons to remain in the blood and is apt to make one languid, tired and achy, with dull headaches, dizziness and often a nagging backache. A common warning that the kidneys are not acting right is scanty or burning secretions.

Assist the kidneys at such times with Doan's Pills. Since 1885 Doan's have been winning friends the country over. Ask your neighbor!

DOAN'S PILLS 60c
STIMULANT DIURETIC FOR KIDNEYS
Foster-Milburn Co. Mfg. Chem. Buffalo, N.Y.

To Cool a Burn Use HANFORD'S Balsam of Myrrh
All druggists authorized to refund your money for the first bottle if not suited.

PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM
Removes Dandruff-Stops Hair Falling
Restores Color and Beauty to Gray and Faded Hair
60c. and $1.00 at Druggists.
Hiscox Chem. Wks. Patchogue, N. Y.

FLORESTON SHAMPOO—Ideal for use in connection with Parker's Hair Balsam. Makes the hair soft and fluffy. 50 cents by mail or at druggists. Hiscox Chemical Works, Patchogue, N. Y.

SEPTEMBER

L 915 U565

OAK floors are not expensive

Never need replacement, yet cost no more than temporary floor coverings. Add permanent value for rental or resale.

OAK FLOORING BUREAU
1208 Builders' Building CHICAGO

Has Frank Preference for Dirty-Faced Boys

Dirty-faced youths make excellent office boys when given a good scrubbing, the Westminster (London) juvenile employment advisory committee has concluded after numerous experiments.

Some employers prefer dirty-faced boys to begin with. One employer wrote to the committee: "I want an honest little tough with rather dirty knees and a soiled face and thorough understanding that life is a struggle and the devil take the hindmost. I prefer them (i. e., boys, not devils) to be short, sturdily built, either fair and dirty faced, or dark and red faced with just a suspicion of a cold in the head."

The advisory committee, commenting on the request for a "little tough," says: "All employers are not so easy to satisfy, by any means."

Chance for a Record

Star runners, out for a world's record, should try the 880-yard run. That is the suggestion of Dr. Earle R. Hadrick, a mathematician of the University of California, in Popular Science Monthly.

From carefully prepared charts based on the limit of human endurance, as now established, he concludes that the record of one minute and fifty-two seconds for the 880 is the one most likely to be improved in the near future. It might be lowered a full five seconds and still be consistent with some of the other records now existing.

Just say to your grocer Russ Bleaching Blue when buying bluing. You will be more than repaid by the results. Once tried always used.—Adv.

Improves the Bank Balance

"Have you made any improvements around the farm?" he was asked.

"Yes, sir," answered Farmer Hawbuck. "We've rechristened the old barn. We call it a garage now and make the summer boarders pay rent for it."—Boston Transcript.

Proved His Contention

"A man who can't express himself so that people can understand him is an idiot. Do you understand me?"

"No!"—Pathfinder Magazine.

Simple Matter

Teacher—How can you tell the approach of winter?

Pupil—It begins to get later earlier.

Healthy, Happy Babies

The best way to keep baby in crowing, contented health is Mrs. Winslow's Syrup. This safe, pleasant, effective remedy regulates the bowels and quickly overcomes diarrhoea, colic, flatulency, constipation, and teething troubles.

MRS. WINSLOW'S SYRUP

Mothers' and Children's Regulator is best for baby. Guaranteed free from narcotics, opiates, alcohol and all harmful ingredients. Open formula on every label.

At all Druggists

Write for free booklet of letters from grateful mothers.

Anglo-American Drug Co. 215-217 Fulton St. New York

BOILS
There's quick, positive relief in
CARBOIL
SEMPROVO SOD BOIL
At All Druggists—Moneyback Guarantee

COLORFUL VELVETEEN JACKET; ORNAMENTS FOR MILLINERY

Emphasizes Youthfulness.

ACCORDING to the prophecy of fashion seers every one youthful is going to wear colorful velveteen this season. It really is not practical, for is it according to the latest dictates of the mode, to plan a collegiate wardrobe these days without reckoning on velveteen for jackets and skirts.

First of all, in regard to the popular colors for velveteen, one has choice of very wonderful leaf browns, copper, amber and toast shades, also ravishing wine tones, likewise navy and black and green, the latter from light to dark. Then there is the new printed velveteen, which makes up so cleverly into the separate blouse.

Youthfulness, that so-much-to-be-desired quality in schoolgirl clothes, is stamped all over the coed outfit in the picture. It is really astonishing what miracles a little velveteen jacket like this one can perform in solving the "what to wear" problem of school-faring young women.

Here are several ways to make one velvet jacket do duty as part of many ensembles. Suppose, for instance, a complete little suit consisting of jacket and skirt of velveteen with a simple little matching sweater-blouse of jersey, plus a lingerie blouse or two, constitute the original purchase, and oh! do not forget to order a separate belt of the velveteen. Just think of the changes afforded in this initial investment.

Next, in buying the one-piece cloth dress which is inevitable in every school outfit, choose wool crepe and match or blend its color to that of the coat of one's velvet suit. Here is where the velvet belt plays its part. This cloth frock topped with the velvet jacket will achieve an ensemble costume, as will be seen in the illustration.

To further the wearableness of the velveteen jacket pose it over a two-piece knitted or jersey frock, the kind that are "all the rage," having a sweater blouse with a skirt of same either plaited or gathered so as to attain the fashionable full hemline. Of course a stitched matching velvet hat is a final touch of chic.

"And its only trimming was a handsome ornament"—time and time again will we be hearing these very words in regard to this hat or that, for ornaments are undoubtedly written prominently in the season's millinery horoscope.

When the ornament is a quality-kind, it is all-sufficient in the way of trimming on the luxurious little velvet hats which are registering in increasing numbers as the season progresses. Rhinestones are elaborately incrusted in buckles, bails and buttons. These complement the black velvet hat with dazzling splendor. Butterflies and beetles spread their jeweled wings on countless velvet toques, and for the skullcap, earring ornaments of pearl and rhinestones are in fashion.

There is a decided flair for buckles of every sort. Gorgeous rhinestone buckles are in the majority, these displaying unique design and artistry of workmanship. The latest novelty is the buckle set which includes one for the hat, another for the hand bag, and a third a pair for one's slippers, each attached to a tab of ribbon or kidskin.

Felt hats, too, are assigned their full quota of ornaments, stressing buckles on belts which are eyeleted with metal and display fancy slides in brass or in composition. Silver, steel and gold nailheads hold forth on brims and crown of the new felts in fascinating array.

The collection of hats in the illustration accent the use of ornaments. Handsome rhinestone arrow heads are thrust through the velvet side crown of the toque at the top of this group. The velvet and satin-colell hat to the left is enlivened with a pair of glittering rhinestone cuff-link ornaments. The familiar pearl earring pendants, more popular than ever, embellish the smart draped toque to the right. A huge novelty arrow effect simulating jade, tipped with rhinestones, trims the side of the simple but very chic toque below to the left. Nailheads are closely starred on the off-the-face brim of the felt hat.

JULIA BOTTOMLEY.

Effective Millinery Ornaments.

(©, 1927, Western Newspaper Union.)

DAIRY

BUTTER MAKING DURING WINTER

A number of important changes in the production of dairy products during the period from 1917 to 1925 have been noted by T. R. Pirtle, dairy market specialist of the United States Department of Agriculture. One of these changes of importance to the milk producer is the increase in creamery-butter production of 79.2 per cent during the period. Only 17.8 per cent of the total milk production of the United States was used in the manufacture of creamery butter in 1917, whereas, the amount was increased to 25.54 per cent in 1925.

In this connection it is interesting to note that the seasonal trend of creamery-butter production has varied during the period. If the year is divided into two parts, namely the feeding season (November to April, inclusive), and the grass season (May to October, inclusive), it appears that the trend has been toward an increased production of butter during the winter feeding season. In 1917 the proportion of creamery butter made in the feeding season was 36.1 per cent and in the grass season 63.9 per cent. In 1925 the production in the feeding season had increased to 39.9 per cent of the total output, leaving 60.1 per cent for the grass season.

These figures indicate that winter dairying for butter production is increasing. There was a sound reason for this change, says Mr. Pirtle. In Minnesota, for example, the average price of a balanced ration sufficient to produce a pound of butter in 1917, was 24.96 cents, and in 1925, 21.6 cents. The average price of 92 score butter in New York in 1917 was 42.7 cents per pound. In 1925 it was 45.3 cents. The feed cost had decreased 13.5 per cent while the price of butter increased 6.1 per cent for these two years.

Young Bulls Need Feed for Proper Development

Young bulls need to be liberally fed from birth until matured if they are to give the best results. Bulls that are stunted will not reach proper development and therefore will not be a good advertisement for people to look at when selecting breeding stock. In addition the bull will not give good results if he is lacking in vigor that comes through proper development.

For the first six months the ration which is given to bulls need not differ from the ration fed heifers. From that time bulls will usually need a larger grain ration than females as they spend more time looking around and less time eating. Unless bulls get a fairly liberal grain ration in connection with good roughages they will probably become stunted.

The time to save feed used for bulls is when they are matured. If mature bulls are fed a heavy grain ration they will become heavy, sluggish and inactive. Mature bulls should never be allowed to become fat. Some bulls will require more grain than others, but as a rule the grain feed will need to be limited to get best results.

Dehorning Young Calves by Using Caustic Potash

A safe way to handle caustic potash when dehorning small calves by this method is to insert the pencil in a small rubber tube.

The usual method is to rub the very tip of the horn buttons with a stick of moistened caustic, continually wetting and rubbing until the spots are raw. This is done best when the calf is from three to ten days old.

A dime's worth of caustic potash is enough to dehorn ten or fifteen calves. It should not be so wet that the liquid runs as this will burn the skin of the calf. With the rubber tubing for the protection of the person's fingers there will be no burns.

Dairy Squibs

Continue to feed grain to milking cows when turned out to pasture.

• • •

Since water is the cheapest milk producing feed we can find, can we not afford to give the cow plenty of it?

• • •

All dairy herd improvement due to better breeding tends to increase profits to the producer and to decrease costs to the consumer.

• • •

When you are feeding 20 pounds of alfalfa hay per day to a dairy cow she is getting as much digestible protein as if she were getting 18 pounds of bran.

• • •

No matter what pains are taken in clean milk production, there will always be some bacterial contamination.

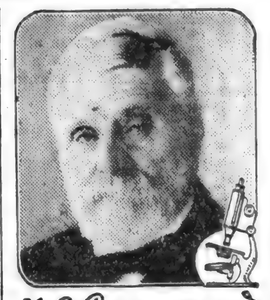
• • •

Salt is essential to all farm animals. See that salt licks are provided in the pastures where the animals can have access to it every day.

• • •

To maintain a good milk flow during the fall months extra feeding to green feed or grain, or both, should begin now or as soon as pastures begin to get short.

Old Folks Say Doctor Caldwell was Right



Dr. W. B. Caldwell M.D. AT AGE 83

The basis of treating sickness has not changed since Dr. Caldwell left Medical College in 1875, nor since he placed on the market the laxative prescription he had used in his practice, known to druggists and the public since 1892, as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

Then, the treatment of constipation, biliousness, headaches, mental depression, indigestion, sour stomach and other indispositions that result from constipation was entirely by means of simple vegetable laxatives, herbs and roots. These are still the basis of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which is a combination of senna and other mild laxative herbs, with pepsin.

The simpler the remedy for constipation, the safer for the child and for you, and the better for the general health of all. And as you can get results in a mild and safe way by using Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, why take chances with strong drugs?

A bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin will last a family several months, and all can use it. It is good for the baby because pleasant to the taste, gentle in action, and free from narcotics. In the proper dose, given in the directions, it is equally effective at all ages. Elderly people will find it especially ideal. All drug stores have the generous bottles.

We would be glad to have you prove at our expense how much Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin can mean to you and yours. Just write "Syrup Pepsin," Monticello, Illinois, and we will send you prepaid a FREE SAMPLE BOTTLE.

He Aimed to Please

A prosperous farmer who sold produce to the inhabitants of a neighboring community aroused the ire of one of his customers by failing to have some of the commodities that she wished to buy.

"Is that all you have?" exclaimed the woman, surveying the stock disdainfully.

"No, madam," replied the farmer, whose equanimity was being sorely tried, "I have a mortgage on your house that is overdue. I can bring it back on the way home."

Diminutive Babies

English parents are vying with one another for the honor of having the lightest weight baby. One entry from Paddington was a little girl who for three weeks was fed with milk from an eye-dropper. She has now graduated to spoon feeding. The child is the tenth in the family. From Christchurch, New Zealand, came a mother's claim that her fifteen-year-old daughter weighed 14½ ounces at birth and was also fed with an eye dropper.

Baked With Air and Dust

A French inventor's smoke consumer for kitchen ranges admits air, superheats it and, combining it with the coal gases and dust, causes them to burn.

For true blue, use Russ Bleaching Blue. Snowy-white clothes will be sure to result. Try it and you will always use it. All good grocers have it.—Adv.

Help for "Rickety" Babies

Dried milk that has been treated with ultra-violet light is the most practical of the irradiated foods that have been used to prevent rickets in babies, in the opinion of Dr. Alfred F. Hess, an authority on rickets. "It is the unanimous opinion that dried milk treated in this way prevents or cures infantile rickets and tetany," asserted Doctor Hess in a report to the American Medical association. "The specific gravity of the milk is maintained for a period of at least six weeks."

Painful News

Cecil B. De Mille recently took a party of Middle West clergymen out in his yacht. It so happened that the wife of one of the parsons was seeing the ocean for the first time, and also feeling the first qualms of approaching seasickness. Finally, she timidly approached Mr. De Mille and asked:

"Please, please tell me why this boat jumps so?"

"Well, ma'am," replied De Mille with a smile, "it's on a starboard tack."

Swifter Than Light

The velocity of electricity far exceeds that of light. Light travels at the rate of 186,400 miles a second, electricity, at the rate of 248,500 miles a second.

Why Not?

Teacher—And what did Newton do when the apple struck him on the head?

Pupil—He picked it up and ate it.

Back From the Beach

"Why, Dottie, you're all blistered."

"Oh, Tottie, how unromantic you are! I'm sunkissed."

Might Stop It

"I can spot a tailor-made suit every time."

"Why not use a napkin?"

Getting Off Easy

Mandy—Did yo' tell de ministah dat I don't want him to kiss me when he marries us?

Rufus—Yes, an' he done said in dat case he take jus' half de usual fee.

DIURETIC STIMULANT TO THE KIDNEYS

Standard for Generations.

Mrs. H. A. Brandt of Silverton, Oregon, writes us as follows: "I am writing to tell you that your Dodd's Pills and Diamond Dinner Pills saved my life. After standing my urine was almost half albumen and I was so weak and tired I could hardly move. After taking two boxes of Dodd's Pills and one of Diamond Dinner Pills I felt like a new woman."

At all druggists, 60c per box, or The Dodd's Medicine Co., Inc., 700 Main St., Buffalo, N. Y.

Feel Good

Most ailments start from poor elimination (constipation or semi-constipation). Intestinal poisons sap vitality, undermine health and make life miserable. Tonight try NR—Nature's Remedy—all-vegetable corrective—not just an ordinary laxative. See how NR will aid in restoring your appetite and rid you of that heavy, logy, peptess feeling. Mild, safe, purely vegetable—

NR TO-NIGHT
TOMORROW AS OFTEN

At Druggists—only 25c

This new powder kills rats and mice but nothing else

Get rid of rats without danger to your children, livestock, pets or poultry.

Think what this means to you!

K-R-O may be used freely in the home, barnor poultry house with absolute safety. Actual tests have proved that it kills rats and mice every time but other animals and poultry are not injured by the largest doses.

NOT A POISON

K-R-O does not contain arsenic, phosphorus or barium carbonate. Made of squill bulbs—the new safe way urged by government experts. At your druggist 75c. Large size (4 times as much) $2.00. Or sent direct from us postpaid if he cannot supply you. Satisfaction guaranteed.

K-R-O CO., Springfield, Ohio

$15 Daily Cash Commission Selling guaranteed bedspreads, window draperies and table damask. Write today for free sample outfit. Carolina Mills Company, Gaffney, S. C.

FREE DRESSES to Every Woman who will show our Samples! Excellent opportunity for spare time money making! Write quick! WESTERN DRESS MFG. CO., A-1834 North Ave. Chicago, Ill.

W. N. U., FORT WAYNE, NO. 39--1927.

The Holiday

Hubby—Hurrah! I'm going to have a holiday tomorrow.

Wife—Good! You can clean the cellar and the attic.

Business, Not Pleasure

"Shopping?"

"No, I haven't any time. I'm just buying a few things."

How we enjoy a man who has no tale of woe to tell!

An evil may be popular simply because it is under cover.

Disfiguring Blemishes Healed by Cuticura

Daily use of Cuticura Soap, assisted by Cuticura Ointment when required, not only soothes and heals unsightly and annoying blemishes and irritations on neck and face, but tends to prevent such conditions. Nothing purer, more economical or more satisfactory than these fragrant emollients.

Soap 25c. Ointment 25 and 50c. Talcum 25c. Sold everywhere. Samples free. Address: "Cuticura Laboratories, Dept. 22, Malden, Mass." Cuticura Shaving Stick 25c.

SEPTEMBER

L 915 U566

HOME EDUCATION

The Child's First School is the Family"—Froebel.
Issued by the National Kindergarten Association

PROBLEMS OF FINANCE
Irma Morris

"My little fellow gets an allowance out of which he saves money for gifts or toys," said a mother to me recently. He has six dollars in his bank. The other day, realizing I was worrying about money matters, as his daddy is in the hospital, Jimmy said, 'Take my money, Mother, please.' I don't know what to do about it," my friend continued. "Would you take it, if you were in my place?"

I told her that I thought it would be very unfair to refuse such a generous offer, as it would deprive her son of a real pleasure and furthermore would retard his growth Every talent grows by using it, and when generosity is denied, it atrophies. And why shouldn't we let even the little tots feel that they are members of a small democracy, the family, in which each can do his share?

"My little girl, who is nine, acts very differently," she continued. "She had saved twenty dollars which she had expected to spend on a birthday present for me. She was looking forward to buying me a new tea set. I needed money so badly that I asked her to lend me hers, which she did very reluctantly, and only after I solemnly promised her to return it before my birthday. It will be a great struggle to pay back the money now, but I feel I must keep my promise. Don't you agree with me?"

I advised her to have a confidential chat with her little daughter, explaining matters fully, and asking the child to release her from her promise. I told her she should try to make the child understand that giving a person a tea set when that person needed and wanted something else was really a selfish instead of unselfish thing to do. The child, I explained, should be helped to realize that when giving presents one ought always to have only the wants of the recipient in mind. But the affair would need very delicate and tender handling; the little girl had undoubtedly risen above many selfish desires in order to save twenty dollars from her small allowance for Mother's birthday present. The kind of selfishness now involved was new to her consideration and very subtle. Morever, a very big disappointment was bound up with it.

However, I feel sure that had some one else been concerned this mother would have had no hesitancy in fully explaining the situation to her child. It was only because she was the debtor that her sense of delicacy clouded her judgment. There is no reason why the little ones should not share the sorrows and privations as well as the joys of home. All should bear them courageously and intelligently. This child had the disposition to glory in the sacrifice if the matter were presented to her rightly.

Very often problems like the above concerning money matters arise in a home, and parents are in a quandary as to what attitude to assume. I believe they should always try to think the situation through impersonally and decide upon the course that will best promote the growth of the child's character. After all, that is the most important consideration for, of course, parents should never do anything that might stunt a child's moral development.

Invented Revolving Turret

The revolving turret for battleships was patented by Theodore Ruggles Timby, the inventor, on September 20, 1862. Ericsson used the model of this turret in building the Monitor, the first turret battleship of the world.

Compromise Condemned

Compromise is but the sacrifice of one right or good in the hope of obtaining another—too often ending in the loss of both.—Edwards.

Turn the key! and your Buick is Double Locked

No lock could be safer! One turn of the key locks both ignition and steering wheel. But merely turning off the ignition does not lock the wheel. You may shut off the engine and coast, if you like, and still have your car under perfect control.

And no lock could be more convenient! It is illuminated and located within easy reach, where the steering column meets the dash.

The Buick double-lock is an exclusive Buick feature—one of many important refinements which characterize Buick for 1928.

Sedans . . $1195 to $1995
Coupes . . $1195 to $1850
Sport Models $1195 to $1525

All prices f. o. b. Flint, Mich., government tax to be added. The G. M. A. C. financing plan, the most desirable, is available.

BUICK for 1928

WHEN BETTER AUTOMOBILES ARE BUILT, BUICK WILL BUILD THEM

Buick Sales & Service
Auburn, Ind.

About Getting Married

The first thing of course, young man, is to find the girl—and the next, to gain her consent. And after that—

Well, there are a good many other things to consider, the most important of which is the matter of finances. There's where a little account at our Bank will come in handy. Better start now. It is fully as important as finding the girl, although you may not think so. At least a bank account will prove no handicap when it comes to buying the engagement ring, the wedding outfit or furnishing the nest.

CONFIDENCE IS WHAT COUNTS.

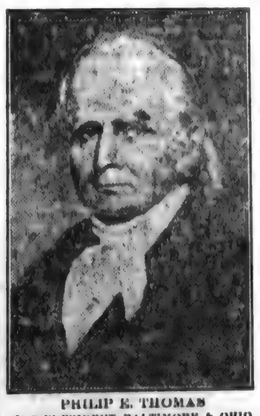
The St. Joe Valley Bank, A STATE BANK

THE CENTENARY EXHIBITION AND PAGEANT OF THE BALTIMORE AND OHIO RAILROAD SEPTEMBER 24 - OCTOBER 8 AT BALTIMORE, MD.

FIRST HORSE CAR RUN ON THE BALTIMORE AND OHIO IN 1829.

BIG RAILROAD SHOW

Displaying the Evolution of Locomotives and Cars.



PHILIP E. THOMAS
1ST PRESIDENT BALTIMORE & OHIO

By way of celebrating one hundred years of public service and progress, the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad is planning a transportation show that will exceed in scope and detail any spectacle of its kind ever placed before the public. It is called the "Fair of the Iron Horse," Centenary Exhibition and Pageant of the historic railroad, to be held at Halethorpe, Baltimore, Maryland, from September 24 to October 8.

The Baltimore and Ohio has the distinction of being the first railroad in the United States operated for the public handling of passengers and freight. In all the century of its eventful career, it has changed neither its corporate name, its charter nor its fundamental organization.

Completeness in every device and associated service known to railroading is the primary goal of the "Fair of the Iron Horse." But along with this, and just as interesting, is the fact that the exhibition will go to elaborate lengths to present the many hidden features of railroading, not only in pictures and print, but in a huge succession of actual physical objects, arranged in an understandable way, so that the fascinating romance inherent in the story of the twin-track trail may be made strikingly real and potent to every visitor who comes to Baltimore.

Most people take the railroad for granted, but at this exhibition the fact will be driven home once more that in the history of nations the railroad, opening up new territory, bringing in populations, creating centers of industry and developing natural resources, has proven to be one of the largest single factors in the world contributing to the welfare and happiness of people.

EXHIBITION

The "Fair of the Iron Horse" can be conveniently divided into two comprehensive parts. One is a vast assembly of stationary historic displays housed in great buildings on the grounds; the other is a mammoth moving Pageant designed to portray in colorful and elaborate succession the chief steps in the unfolding of the drama of inland transport in America.

First, consider the static portion of the exhibition. Preparations at the fair grounds, now nearly completed, give mute evidence of the gigantic solid scale on which this part has been planned.

Hall of Transportation

Standing out as the central feature is the huge Hall of Transportation, resplendent with white-pillared entrances and glistening domed tower, 502 feet in length and 60 feet wide, it is constructed of brick and steel, and stands in the center of a 1,000 acre tract of land. In this building will be placed exhibits showing the progress in the growth of locomotives, cars, bridges, signaling devices, ties, brakes, and every other accessory, however small, known to railroading.

Startling contrasts between the old and the new will be brought out in strong relief. The vast improvement of the present pipe-conducted, vapor-heating system in coaches over the crude simplicity of the old wood-burning stoves, the advance in the lighting of cars from the use of candles stuck in glass tubes to the present day of electricity, the development from the clumsy hand-brake to the use of compressed air, the first sleeping-car and the modern home-on-wheels, will furnish some of the contrasts. In short, all the railroad inventions that the busy brain of man has been able to devise in the past one hundred years will be displayed, so that those who come to see will understand.

Against the south wall of the Hall of Transportation will be seen a model panorama, 250 feet in length, representing typical scenes along the Baltimore and Ohio line from Baltimore to Chicago. The houses and general appearance of Baltimore Town will be of the period of 1830, while Chicago will picture the skyscrapers of today. Ten miniature working models of historic and modern engines, electrically driven and reproducing exactly the essential features of the originals, will be spotted at various points along the scenic railway. Hauling coaches and freight cars built to scale, these engines will travel over miniature bridges of widely different types, from the old covered wooden structures to the great concrete and steel spans of the present day.

On two big tracks in the center, running the entire length of the building, will be arranged a collection of thirty-one models and originals covering in brief the world history of steam driven appliances, from the grotesque inventions of Newton and Murdock, dating back to the eighteenth century, to the famous Director General, with six-foot wheels and a highest recorded speed of more than 90 miles an hour—the premier engine at the Chicago World's Fair of 1893. A special feature among these exhibits will be a Ptolemy ox-cart, from Egypt on the Nile, used 2100 years ago to carry animals for sacrifices to the gods.

Arranged along the walls near the Harper's Ferry model will be a historic collection of pictures illustrating in chronological order the evolution of the locomotive on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad. Beginning with the ingenious four-wheeler sail-car invented by Evan Thomas, which ran on wooden stringers and strap rails, the pictures will follow right on up the line of progress to the heavy mountain type freight engines and the high speed passenger locomotives now in service.

A special section will be set aside for the largest and finest historical collection of railroad timepieces in the United States. Over 200 railroad watches, local and foreign, and a score of clocks with interesting biographies, will be shown. The Baltimore and Ohio was the first railroad in the country to establish a strictly supervised time service system, requiring the services of 187 certified watch inspectors. Under this system employes of the railroad must carry watches that will not vary more than 30 seconds per week.

THE "KING GEORGE V" OF THE GREAT WESTERN RAILWAY, MOST POWERFUL LOCOMOTIVE IN ENGLAND.

Legal Publications

ADMINISTRATOR'S SALE OF REAL ESTATE

State of Indiana,
DeKalb County, ss:
In the DeKalb Circuit Court
September Term, 1927.
William Curie, Administrator
Of the Estate of Franklin P. Hart
vs
John F. Hart, et al.

The undersigned, administrator of the estate of Franklin P. Hart, deceased, hereby gives notice that by virtue of an order of the DeKalb Circuit Court of Indiana, he will at the hour of 10 o'clock A. M., of the 15th day of October, 1927, at his store in the Town of St. Joe, Indiana, and from day to day thereafter until sold, offer for sale at private sale, all the interest of said decedent in and to the following described real estate situate in DeKalb County, Indiana, to-wit: Lots numbered thirty-one, (31,) thirty-two, (32,) thirty-three (33) and thirty-four (34,) in Heller's Addition to the town, now City of Butler, Indiana; also lots numbered two (2,) five (5,) six (6) and seven(7) in White's Addition to the Town of St. Joe, Indiana; also a tract of land described as follows: bounded by a line commencing at a point twenty-five (25) feet east and two hundred thirty (230) feet south of the intersection line of Jefferson Street and Fifth (5) Street in the Town of St. Joe, Indiana, thence east one hundred fifty (150) feet; thence south fifty (50) feet; thence west one hundred fifty (150) feet; thence north fifty (50) feet to the place of beginning; also a tract of land described as follows: Commencing at a point two hundred ten (210) feet south of the south-east corner of lot numbered ten (10) in block numbered four (4) in the Original Plat of the Town of St. Joe, Indiana; thence south one hundred twenty-four (124) feet; thence west one hundred sixty-two (162) feet; thence north six (6) feet; thence west three hundred seventy-eight (378) feet; thence north one hundred eighteen (118) feet; thence east five hundred forty (540) feet; to the place of beginning, all of the last above described real estate being in Section Fifteen (15,) Township Thirty-three (33) North, Range Fourteen (14) east and in said DeKalb County, Indiana.

Said sale will be made subject to the approval of said court, for not less than the appraised value, and upon the following terms and conditions:

At least one third of the purchase money in cash the balance in two equal installments, payable in six months and twelve months from date respectively, evidenced by notes of the purchaser, bearing interest at the rate of six per cent per annum, waiving relief, and providing for attorneys fees, and secured by a first mortgage on the real estate sold.

The undersigned will sell said real estate in parcels as appraised.

WILLIAM CURIE,
Administrator.
Atkinson & Husselman, Attys.

NOTICE OF EXECUTOR'S SALE OF REAL ESTATE

State of Indiana
County of DeKalb
In the Matter of the Estate of Alva S. Coburn, deceased.

The undersigned Executor of the Last Will and Testament of Alva S. Coburn, deceased, hereby gives notice that as such Executor, he will on Monday the 31st day of October, 1927, at the hour of 1 P. M. on said date and from day to day thereafter until sold, offer for sale at private sale upon the premises in Spencer Township, DeKalb County, Indiana, at not less than the full appraised value thereof, the real estate of the decedent belonging to him at the time of his death and ordered sold in his Last Will and Testament and located and being in DeKalb County, Indiana and described as follows, to-wit:

The east one half (½) of the north-west quarter (¼) of Section twenty-four (24) in Township thirty-three (33) north of Range fourteen (14) east, excepting therefrom that part or portion lying north of the right of way of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad and containing seventy-five (75) acres more or less.

The said real estate will be sold pursuant to the authority of the Last Will and Testament of the said Alva S. Coburn, deceased and upon the following terms and conditions, to-wit: At least one third of the purchase price cash in hand, one third in six months and one third in twelve months from date of sale, all deferred payments to be evidenced by the notes of the purchaser without relief from valuation or appraisement laws, with attorney fees and payable at a bank and in all respects fully negotiable; the said notes given for said deferred payments to be secured by a first mortgage upon said real estate to be executed by the purchaser his or her spouse joining therein and said notes to bear interest at the rate of six per cent per annum from date; the purchaser to have the right to pay the entire purchase price in cash at his option.

Said sale will be made subject to the approval of the DeKalb Circuit Court and the Executor reserves the right to reject any and all bids.

Said sale of real estate will be made subject to the right of any tenant having out crops.

FLOYD COBURN,
Executor of the Last Will and Testament of Alva S. Coburn.
H. C. Springer,
Attorney for the Executor. 39t4.

Life's Limelights

By Brown Focht

ACT

There is no moment like the present.

Why is it that the human race invariably waits until tomorrow?

Why do people prefer to do twice as much work tomorrow and none today?

Why is it that people think that some day fortune will come to them in a big lump, rather than that it accumulates bit-by-bit every day—if they grasp it?

Psychologists would tell us that procrastination is not an instinct. Perhaps is isn't.

If it isn't that, it has developed from early acquired laziness.

It may be true that Americans are up-and-doing, that they are under a nervous tension; yet it is none the less true that they do wait for their ship which never comes in.

Your ship can't come in if it has never been sent out.

You can't collect interest at the bank if you don't have the principle deposited there.

You can't change lead into gold.

And you can't win success by waiting for it.

An ideal is worthless unless we try to attain it.

You say that all this is too practical.

Ah, no; we are not practical enough.

We do believe in dreams and air castles. Without them we couldn't get over the rough spots. But the only rough spots they will get us over are the ones we encounter in our striving for the ideal.

"Strive" is the world.

"To wait," at certain times, is a curse.

Electricity wrote a sign across the heavens for Franklin, but he didn't wait for the electricity to prove that it could be brought to earth. He went out and proved it himself.

Don't wait; act. Make every minute count.

Here, Too

For the tropics, special golf balls are used to stand the heat. Even in this country we have seen a golfer fan his ball for a long time before starting to play.—London Opinion.

The Difference

Between the Cost of Good and Cheap Printing

is so slight that he who goes shopping from printer to printer to secure his printing at a few cents less than what it is really worth hardly ever makes day laborer wages at this unpleasant task.

If you want good work at prices that are right, get your job printing

At This Office

Let Us Print Your Sale Bills

L 915
U567

OCTOBER

OCTOBER

L 915 U568

THE BEST BOOSTER FOR YOUR BUSINESS IN DeKALB COUNTY

ST. JOE NEWS.

NEWS MAKES A GOOD PAPER, SO SEND IT IN TO US.

VOL. XLI. ST. JOE, DeKALB COUNTY, INDIANA, THURSDAY, OCTOBER 6, 1927 NUMBER 40

TELEPHONE STRIKE IS ON AT HICKSVILLE

A complete walk-out was experienced at the Hicksville exchange office last Tuesday evening when a failure to remedy working conditions and advance of pay was not forth coming. Service being paralyzed for days, until now the manager, E. A. Geaque, has called in help from his other exchanges. The cause of the strike most probably being dissatisfaction with ventilation and other working conditions at the new central station. Miss Dorothea Scholes of St. Joe exchange is now at the Hicksville board.

GOOD FOOD!
WELL COOKED
HIGH'S
SATISFACTION
HELLO 76- St. Joe

APPLLE PICKING TIME AT ST. JOE

Apple picking time will begin this week at the Leighty Orchard, St. Joe, and shipping to cold storage will probably follow the picking closely, as apples keep better if stored soon after picking.

Apple picking at this Orchard is always interesting and every day a number of visitors come to see how it is done, as it requires quite a large force well organized to handle a thousand bushels of apples a day as has been done at the Orchard in years when the crop is heavy.

"An apple a day keeps the doctor away," is a saying in common use so long that it must be founded on fact, and is especially true with regard to children going to school.

Orders for delivery at the Farm have been coming in faster than usual of late because of the shortage in the neighborhood orchards, and people understand the value of apples as a winter food and want to be sure to have them.

The prices of farm products this year have been fairly good and as a consequence the largest part of the sales at the Orchard are to farmers who are prepared to keep apples in good condition well into spring (if they don't eat all they have before that time.)

The Orchard has always made a practice of notifying the customers who have placed orders in advance when to come after their apples, which prevents a rush on any one day, so that all can be taken care of in an orderly manner without delay. If you have already placed an order, you will be notified as to the date the apples will be ready for delivery, if you have not already received such notice.

A number of people have called the Farm through the St. Joe telephone exchange and placed orders in the last few days.

We Buy CLOVER SEED!
Bring Your SEEDS to Us
WE WILL PAY YOU HIGHEST MARKET PRICES

NATHAN Grain Co.
St. Joe's New Lumber Yard
Call By Phone for Prices Bert Jackson, Mgr.

Corn Brings More Money "on the Hoof"

THE best authorities agree that "hogging down" corn is a profitable practice. Run out temporary fences through your corn and turn in your hogs. They are the best of harvesters—never miss an ear. You save the cost of husking, hauling, cribbing and feeding and get your hogs to market quicker and in better condition.

And for these temporary fences, as well as for permanent fences, use RED TOP steel posts. These can be driven at the rate of 200 to 300 a day, through the hardest soil, by one man using the One Man Driver. Are easily withdrawn and re-driven in a new location.

Red Top
GUARANTEED
Steel Fence Posts

You will save a lot of fence making and repairing time every year if you repair old fences and make new ones with RED TOP Steel Posts. Any fence erected on RED TOPS is there sound and secure for many years of service and enables you to practice the modern program of crop diversification and clear more money from your farm.

Stop in and handle a RED TOP post. Let us show you why it is a better steel post.

Spencerville Lumber & Supply Co.
SPENCERVILLE, IND.

HICKSVILLE VETERAN TAKES HIS LIFE

The octogenarian male quartette of Hicksville, which sang at the Methodist church here some few years ago at a township convention, is now broken up by the suicide of one of the veterans, Richard Champion, 87.

Despondency over ill-health following a stroke of yaralysis a year ago is believed to have caused the aged veteran to take his life.

Mr. Champion killed himself by hanging. His body was found dangling from a small walnut tree in a cornfield in the rear of his property, at noon, by his daughter, Mrs. Nora Chatterton, who lived with her father. She discovered the body upon her return home from church.

When she entered the house, she missed her father. She searched the premises and finally found the body. Thinking that life might not yet be extinct, she cut him down. Neighbors came to her aid and the body was carried into the dwelling.

Dr. J. S. Hull, Hicksville, was called and pronounced the man dead. He notified Coroner G. E. Winn, Defiance, who after hearing the circumstances explained, instructed the doctor to proceed with arrangements for disposition of the body.

The other members of the quartet are all living: R. H. McHenry, Charles J. Hoff and Daniel Kleckner. The organization has been inactive since Mr. Champion suffered the stroke a year ago.

CHILD DIES OF ACUTE INDIGESTION

Louise, the two-year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jay Rickett, of five miles north-east of St. Joe, died suddenly Tuesday afternoon at 4:30 of acute indigestion. The little one had a billious attack Monday followed by a more severe attack Tuesday.

The funeral will be held Friday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock at the U. B. Church.

H. M. WIDNEY HOLDING HIS OWN

The condition of H. M. Widney, who was operated on Friday at Fort Wayne, for gallstones, is still critical. Last report of Tuesday night was that he had a severe day and that he was still critical, while Mrs. Widney, who is in the hospital also, is improved, having an attack of sinus trouble. She too, has been in bed for the past week.

While H. M. has been a sufferer for the past forty years, his friends here are alarmed over his condition.

CAN DAILEY DO IT?

Frank C. Dailey, Indianapolis lawyer and former United States district attorney, announced candidacy Saturday for the Democratic nomination for governor in 1928. Mr. Daily says—"I am deeply sincere in my purpose to seek the office of governor," Mr. Dailey said. "I expect to make an active campaign throughout the state. I want to do my part to put Indiana back where she used to be and where by virtue of her splendid traditions she should be today."

SUNDAY SCHOOL REPORTS

The following is the report of Sunday schools in this vicinity for last Sunday, according to information sent The News by representatives of the schools reported.

Coburntown	60	$2.55
Concord	116	$6.93
Spencerville M. E.	77	$4.88
Lutheran	67	$2.74

WILLIAM H. NELSON MADE WILL JOINTLY WITH SISTER

The will of the late William Henry Nelson of Newville township, has been probated in the DeKalb circuit court. It was executed jointly with a sister, Nancy Celia Nelson, May 26, 1917, with James E. Pomeroy and Mable Guthrie as witnesses.

The will provided first that "should we or either of us become sick and infirm and incapable of caring for ourselves, or the survivor. our legatee shall provide for every necessity and comfort so long as we shall live, or the survivor shall live; and the necessary expense incurred therein is made a special charge against our estates."

It was provided that burial be made in the old family lot at Scipio cemetery in Allen county and that suitable markers be erected. Upon the death of either brother or sister, the property of the decedent is bequeathed to the other under the will. After the death of both, the property goes to a nephew, Erwin Nelson. It was stated in the will that no provision was made for another nephew, Ralph L. Nelson, because the testators felt that with his education and talent in his chosen profession he would be able to make proper provision for his support, care and comfort far in excess of what his brother, Erwin, with their bequest will be able to provide for himself. However, the testators expressed the desire that Ralph Nelson never come to want and if he should ever need a home it was their wish that Erwin should see that his brother's comforts are well provided for.

Erwin Nelson was nominated in the will for xcutor.

TOWNSHIP CONVENTION ELECTS OFFICERS

The Concord Township Sunday School convention, held last Sunday at Concord Church, was well attended, 116 attending the Bible School and the church was filled at the afternoon and evening sessions.

Rev. P. B. Roediger, Lutheran pastor, spoke on the essentials in Sunday School work, and Rev. J. F. McKnight, on the challenge of the Sunday School. The election of officers in the afternoon resulted as follows:—

President, Harcourt Miser.
Vice President, Ralph Sechler.
Secretary and Treasurer, Dorothy Ginther.
Children's Division, Mrs. Ima Miser.
Young People, Mrs. Lora Leighty.
Adult, Jos. R. Shilling.
Educational, Mrs. Arline Koch.
Administrative, Derwood Ridgway.

TOWN BOARD PASSES 1928 LEVY

At the meeting of the Town Board last Monday evening, they passed the levy for next year, there being no objection from the taxpayers.

The levy is as follows:

Corporation fund, 10 cents on the one hundred dollars.

Light fund, 15 cents on the one hundred dollars.

Streets and alley fund, 25 cents on the one hundred dollars.

Head tax $1.50.

THE DOLLAR SPENT AT HOME

The best trade at home speech ever delivered was by Abraham Lincoln when he said, "When we buy a ton of steel in Europe, we get the steel and Europe gets the money. But when we buy a ton of steel in America, we have both the steel and the money." Same way about trading at home. When we buy at home our town has both the money and the merchandise. When we send away, our town has only the merchandise. The fellow who trades away from home isn't adding to the value of his farm, his home or his other local property; he is doing precisely the reverse, diminishing its value. A dollar stays away in direct proportion to the distance sent away; that sent far stays long. That kept here abides in the community faring forth to the butcher, the baker, the gas distributor, the garage man, et cetera and soon it again finds its way back to the laborer, artisan, professional man or whoever it was that first spent it in the community.

WANTS PAY FROM ESTATE FOR YEARS OF WORK

For the first time in years, a claim against an estate was submitted to a jury in the DeKalb circuit court Friday.

The claimant is Fred Saylor, son of the late Elijah W. Saylor of Concord township. He asks for a payment of $2,700 from his father's estate for wages.

Fred has remained at home all his life and was thirty years of age when his father died. He says he was not paid any money by his father, getting only his living, and he believes he ought to have $300 a year for the time after he became of age until his father's death. His attorney is H W. Mountz.

The Farmers and Merchants bank of Spencerville, is resisting the claim. The claimant's father was surety on a note of $2,800 given to the bank by Don P. Hindman, formerly a road contractor living in Concord township. Hindman is now serving time in the Michigan state penitentiary on a charge of issuing fraudulent checks and the bank is trying to get its money from the Saylor estate. The bank's attorneys are Atkinson and Husselman. The administrator of the estate is Frank L. Milliman, whose attorney is Capt. H. C. Springer.

The widow, Fanny Saylor, has a claim of $3,400 against the estate. She claims her husband gave her a note of $800 in 1898 that was never paid and that, with the interest, $2,500 is now due on it; and that she advanced other sums to her husband.

Mrs. Saylor testified for her son, telling that he did general farm work for his father. George Baker, a neighbor of the Saylors, testified that such work as Fred was doing is worth $500 a year, together with board and room. Another neighbor, Jacob Krabill, placed the value of such services at $400 a year and a third, Ora White, made the value at $1 a day.

After arguments by counsel and instructions of the court, the case went to the jury about 2:30 o'clock.

The jury was composed of Alfred D. Goodwin, Forest Beaty, Charles Reeder, Ross Nelson, Charles M. Carnahan, Clyde J. Snyder, P. A. Barton, M. H. Howey, Robert Higley, John Pepple, A. J. Custer and Lester Elson.

Contrary to popular belief traffic on the Mississippi River has doubled in volume in the past forty years.

Neighbors and friends spent the evening of October 1st, with Mr. and Mrs. Saxe P. Hadsell, in honor of their twenty-fiftf wedding anniversary.

RETURNS VERDICT OF $2,000 FOR SON

Jury Finds That Fred Saylor Is Entitled to Pay For Work on Father's Farm

A verdict of $2,000 was handed down in the DeKalb circuit court Friday night by the jury that heard the evidence in the claim of Fred Saylor against the estate of his father, the late Elijah W. Saylor of Concord township.

The full amount of the claim was $2,700, the claimant asking for $300 a year for seven years for farm work performed for his father. The claim was resisted by the Farmers and Merchants bank of Spencerville a creditor of the estate, whose attorneys are Atkinson & Husselman. Frank L. Milliman, administrator, appeared by Capt. H. C. Springer. H. W. Mountz is attorney for Fred Saylor. The jury deliberated from 2:25 P. M. to 8:15 P. M.

It is very doubtful, however, if the full amount of the judgment, or any considerable portion of it, will be collected. The estate ocnsists of 140 acres of land and in addition personal property that was sold for about $2,000. There is a $3,500 mortgage and a $900 ditch assessment against the farm. The claims besides these liens amount to more than $10,000 and those allowed will be paid pro rata. —Star.

TRUCK DEMOLISHED IN WRECK FRIDAY

A close call was had by Wm. Harman Friday near the Silberg farm at Spencerville, when he was struck by Vinton Miller, driving a Ford car.

Mr. Harman was coming east and Miller came out of the fox ranch without stopping, as related by Mr. Harman. When the car struck the Harman car turned over twice and practically demolished it.

Bill is badly bruised and banged up, but he is trying to keep going. Failure of Miller to stop or look before entering the main road, is given as the cause of the accident.

100% Coffee

Our Coffee is shipped to us direct from the roaster in small lots. That means it is always fresh. No chance to get stale, we buy it in bulk and keep it in a tight sanitary case.

So you get the most for your money.

ZONKER'S Store.

ALL-STEEL
WAGONS

Kinsey's Store is the place for Young America to have his wants supplied. We are featuring in our windows the Gendron Line of All-Steel Vehicles.

BULL-DOG. Just the kind the youngster likes.....$4.98

PIONEER RACER. Another of the youngster's favorites.....$6.98

Foot Balls, Basket Balls, Base Balls, Famous Daisy Line of Air Rifles, Scooters, Roller Skates etc

CORN CUTTING NEEDS

ETS IN BUSHEL AND HALF BUSHEL SIZES. FODDER TIES, CORN CUTTERS, OAK AND STEEL BASKTING CORN, SUCH AS: PEGS, HOOKS, WRIST BANDS, WE HAVE ALL THE NECESSITIES A GOING FOR CUT-

E. R. KINSEY, Hardware Furniture

OCTOBER

L 915 0569

Liner Bears Tribute to Lost Fliers

"Our love goes with the flowers"—so thought the thousands who assembled at the San Francisco pier of the Matson liner Maui as memorial services were held in honor of the aviators who died in the race for Honolulu. The floral offerings were dropped from the deck of the liner when it reached the spot 700 miles from San Francisco where the airplane Dallas Spirit sent its final message for aid as it sank beneath the waves.

United States Gunboats Are Built in China

Chinese workmen speeding construction on the U. S. S. Guam, at Shanghai, for use by the United States navy in the waters of China. The U. S. S. Tutuila is alongside the Guam.

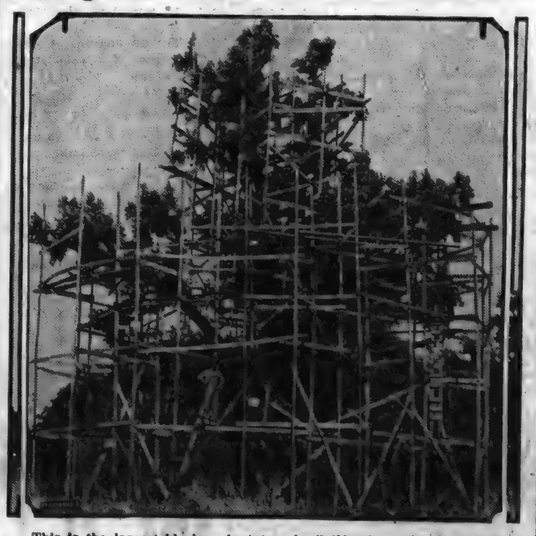
ON RESERVE BOARD

Roy A. Young of Minneapolis, who has been appointed a member of the federal reserve board by President Coolidge to succeed D. R. Crissinger, resigned.

RIFLE CHAMPION

Lieut. Richard M. Cutts, Jr., son of Col. R. M. Cutts, United States marine corps, was winner of the individual rifle match, and the individual championship rapid fire match at Camp Perry, Ohio. He graduated from the Naval academy in 1923.

Huge Old Walnut Tree Is Grafted



This is the largest black walnut tree in California, which is said to be one hundred five years old, having been planted May 8, 1822. It was recently grafted by the great-grandson of the man who planted it. The diameter of the trunk is 5¼ feet, and its height is 80 feet, as compared with the 97 feet before the grafting.

"Cognac" Stays With His Ship

"Cognac" is the oldest member (in point of service aboard) of the ship's company of the U. S. S. General Alava, stationed in Chinese waters. The dog, shown above with Malcolm T. Lyon, radio man, has served continuously as mascot of the vessel for nine years.

Improve Dairy Herd by Sires

High-Class Bull Is Essential if Improvement Is to Be Made.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Every dairy herd needs a high-class bull at its head if the herd is to be improved, says the United States Department of Agriculture. For the dairyman who has a small herd and is short on finances, the cheapest and best way to obtain the use of first-class pure-bred bulls is through the work of a co-operative dairy-bull association.

Purpose of Organization.

A bull association is a farmers' organization whose chief purpose is the breeding of better dairy cows through joint ownership, use, and systematic exchange of prepotent dairy bulls of high-producing ancestry. Improvement of the herd that may be expected through membership in such an organization is discussed in Farmers' Bulletin 1532-F, "Dairy-Herd Improvement Through Co-operative Bull Associations," just issued by the bureau of dairy industry, United States Department of Agriculture.

Through the system of transferring bulls from block to block, the bull association makes it impossible to keep the desirable bulls as long as they live or are fit for service. This enables a bull's daughters to come in milk and be tested while he is still owned by the association, and furnishes a means of determining which bulls are siring the high-producing daughters. The bulls that do not get satisfactory daughters are disposed of.

Study of Records.

A study of the records of the daughters of bull-association bulls showed an average yearly mature production of 8,071 pounds of milk and 342 pounds of butterfat. In milk production the daughters excelled the dams by 13.5 per cent and in butterfat production by 14.4 per cent. Some of the sires are very outstanding. One sire, for instance, was mated with cows having an average yearly butterfat production of 347 pounds, yet his seven daughters from these cows excelled their dams by 57 per cent in milk production and 44 per cent in production of butterfat.

Much progress has been made by selecting bulls on the records of their dams and granddams. The most rapid progress cannot come until dairy sires are selected on the production records of their daughters.

A copy of the bulletin may be obtained by writing to the United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

Crude Pine Tar Smeared on Husking Mitts Helps

According to the Nebraska Agricultural college authorities, crude pine tar smeared on the husking mittens several times during the day will make them last longer as well as help the husker jerk the shucks. Excepting in wet weather, well tarred mitts should last about twice as long as those without tar. Enough thick tar to cover the thumbs and palms and then a layer of dirt to absorb the stickiness will make a surface on the mitts that will wear well and also be rough enough to pull the shucks quickly. A set of thumb stalls of heavy cotton flannel or light canvas are mighty handy if a mitt should rip or wear out more quickly than usual.

The handiest addition to a husker's wagon is a little box hooked on the rod of the front end gate in which he can keep his tar can, an extra pair of mitts and thumb stalls, and an extra husking hook or peg.

Cracked fingers and thumbs and chapped wrists can be healed by soaking them in hot water for about ten minutes and then rubbing them well with glycerin before going to bed each night.

Agricultural Facts

Barley is reasonably good as a cover crop, where a legume is not desired.

• • •

Shallow cultivation is best for row crops, as it does not injure their roots so much as deep stirring.

• • •

When planting seed potatoes be sure that it is good seed, free from diseases that will ruin crop and profit.

• • •

Sugar-peas have edible pods which are broken up, cooked and served like string beans. They make a good addition to the garden.

• • •

Hill selection of potatoes is the only rational method of seed improvement, since it is based upon the performance of the individual hill.

• • •

If you see smutted plants in the cornfield, pull them out and burn them. This will prevent reinfestation of the following corn crop.

• • •

The main purposes of cultivating corn are to kill weeds and to conserve moisture. Deep cultivation is more wasteful of water than shallow plowing.

• • •

Whether seed are dead or alive can now be determined within 12 hours by scientific test, so that farmers and nurserymen may no longer lose large sums by planting bad seed.

Farm Horseshoeing Information Given

Using Unshod Animals Will Result in Tender Feet.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

With the passing of the blacksmith shop from every crossroad, hamlet and village, the farmer is experiencing considerable difficulty in getting his horses shod. The solution of the problem in a large measure devolves upon the farmer himself in learning to do the work on his own farm. To assist the farmer in learning to care for the feet of his work stock properly and to shoe his horses, if necessary, the United States Department of Agriculture has prepared an illustrated bulletin on farm horseshoeing, known as Farmers' Bulletin 1535-F.

Using unshod horses and mules for pulling heavy farm machinery wears off the horny wall of the foot at the ground surface more rapidly than growth is supplied from above and will result in tender feet. A well-shod horse not only is kept in service but he is a more efficient worker in that he can better apply his strength because he has a better footing. It is important, however, that shod horses have regular attention—that about every four to six weeks the shoes be removed, the hoofs trimmed, and the shoes refitted.

Ready-to-wear shoes of various sizes for horses and mules can now be obtained and greatly simplify the shoeing problem for farmers. A copy of the bulletin may be obtained by writing to the United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

American Mule Ousting Horse for Farm Work

Recent statistics show that the long eared, loud-voiced mule still continues to do a full share of the work of the farm despite the progress of motor-propelled machinery, writes Uthai V. Wilcox in the Dearborn Independent. The mule population of the United States has grown nearly a million head in the eleven years following 1914. It is now estimated at more than 5,411,000.

Government officials note that the growers of cotton, tobacco, rice and sugar cane have swung over almost entirely to the use of mules in preparing their crops. Experience seems to indicate that the mule can do the most work on the cheapest feed and with the lowest grade of driver.

Reports from the leading mule markets of the country, such as St. Louis, Kansas City, Atlanta and other places, show that the demand for mules is today very keen. In fact, one handler of farm animals said that "not since the war, when mules were used for cannon fodder, has the demand been so brisk."

The mule is becoming a favorite over the horse for the farm. The Kansas City market, as an example, showed 65 per cent horses to 35 per cent mules in other years and now it is 85 per cent mules and 15 per cent horses.

Lime for Alfalfa Year in Advance Is Favored

The best time to lime in preparation for alfalfa seeding is a year in advance, according to a bulletin in "Liming for Alfalfa," by F. J. Alway and C. O. Rost of the soils division, Minnesota agricultural experiment station. In fact, lime may be applied two or three years in advance of seeding without any loss in beneficial effects.

If, however, one wishes to seed a piece of alfalfa in less than a year, he can get good effects by applying his lime several weeks in advance. The effectiveness, says the bulletin, which is for free distribution on application to the division of publications, University Farm, St. Paul—is much increased by thorough mixing with the soil. Usually lime or ground limestone is best applied after plowing. Then the disking and harrowing in preparation of the seed-bed provides the necessary mixing.

The farmer who decides a year in advance to seed an area to alfalfa, where lime is needed, may very well spread his limestone and then put the field into corn. The limestone will not damage the most sensitive young plants.

Muddy Potatoes Should Be Dried Before Storing

Muddy potatoes should be dried so that they may be sorted before placing in winter storage. Rotting potatoes are hard to detect while covered with mud, and herein lies the chief danger of storing muddy potatoes.

This year many of the potatoes are being dug out of the mud. The opinion that muddy potatoes will not keep in storage is unfounded. In the Andean highlands of South America, its native habitat, the potato tubers are stored naturally in the soil all winter.

In tests at the Ohio experiment station, John Bushnell, potato specialist, has found that sound potatoes keep equally well whether stored muddy or dried first. However, unless only sound tubers are stored the rots may spread during storage.

It is better, therefore, to dry and sort muddy potatoes before placing them in winter storage. If spread out in a thin layer on a floor the mud dries and usually shells off readily, making it easy to sort the tubers when moving them from the drying shed to the storage cellar or pit.

Improved Uniform International

Sunday School Lesson

(By REV. P. B. FITZWATER, D.D., Dean Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.)
(©, 1927, by Western Newspaper Union.)

Lesson for October 9

ELIJAH HEARS GOD'S VOICE

LESSON TEXT—I Kings 19.

GOLDEN TEXT—Wait on the Lord, be of good courage, and He shall strengthen thine heart.

PRIMARY TOPIC — Elijah Hears God's Voice.

JUNIOR TOPIC — God Encourages Elijah.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Listening to God's Voice.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—How God Speaks to Men.

I. Elijah's Flight (vv. 1-14).

Upon Ahab's return from the excitement on Mount Carmel, he told his wife all that Elijah had done, that even all her prophets had been hewn to pieces by the sword. This so enraged her that she sent a message of death to Elijah, who seems to have been waiting at the gate (vv. 1, 2). Though Elijah had courageously stood before the king and the priests of Baal, he now cowered before this woman, and fled for his life. Let us beware lest when we think we stand we fall (I Cor. 10:12).

1. Elijah under the juniper tree (vv. 3-7). The juniper tree was a shrub of the desert which afforded shelter and protection to travelers from the burning sun by day and the cold wind by night.

(1) His request (v. 4): This was that he might die. This was no doubt a foolish thing for him to say, but let us be as considerate toward him as was God. The discouragement, and even despondency, of Elijah, was due to the nervous strain of about four years of unusual service for God which culminated on Mount Carmel. Such nervous reaction is to be expected, and surely the heart of this lesson will be missed unless we see it in that light, and see God's tenderness toward his overwrought servant.

(2) God's tender treatment (vv. 5-7). a. He gave him sleep (v. 5). "He giveth His beloved sleep" (Ps. 127:2). b. He sent an angel to cook Elijah's meal (vv. 6, 7). The angel of the Lord is usually understood to be the second member of the Holy Trinity. If this be correct, then we see Jehovah-Jesus preparing food for His servant Elijah, as He afterward did for His discouraged disciples by Galilee.

2. Elijah at Horeb (vv. 8-14). God had kindly ministered to His discouraged prophet so that he would be in a fit condition to receive the needed instruction and correction.

(1) God's interview with Elijah in the cave (vv. 9, 10). a. God's question, "What doest thou here, Elijah?" (v. 9). This was a stinging rebuke though most kindly given. It implied that his appointed messenger was now far away from the field of duty. How blessed to know that "A God-forsaking saint is not a God-forsaken saint"! b. Elijah's answer (v. 10). Elijah tried to vindicate himself by asserting his jealous loyalty to God—that in spite of all this the people had not only rejected his message and dishonored God, but sought to destroy him.

(2) God's interview with Elijah on the mount (vv. 11-14). While standing before the Lord on the mount, God caused a mighty demonstration of wind, earthquake and fire to pass before him, to show unto him the nature of the work he had been doing for God, and to show him what was lacking in his work for the fullest attainment of success. Elijah had about him much of the whirlwind, earthquake and fire. His work had been terrifying and alarming, but it lacked in gentleness and love. This object lesson in the days of God's working is a needed message for this age, which is so wonderfully characterized by noise and clamor. The world is not "taken for Christ" by the fleshly energy and enthusiasms of conventions and committees, but by the quiet hearts who go forth proclaiming God's Word in the energy of the Holy Spirit.

II. Elijah's Return (vv. 15-18).

Though Elijah had erred, God brought him again into His service. How comforting to know that God does not reject His servants because of their failures in times of despondency! He deals with them after the motive of their hearts. Elijah was nourished and instructed by the Lord and then sent on a high mission. God took Elijah out of himself by giving him a new commission. Before God would come in His chariot to take Elijah home, he sent him upon a threefold ministry.

1. To anoint Hazael king over Syria (v. 15).

2. To anoint Jehu king over Israel (v 16).

3. To anoint Elisha as his own successor in the prophet's room (vv. 19-21).

Look Up to God

Dare to look up to God and say: Deal with me in the future as Thou wilt: I am of the same mind as Thou art; I am Thine; I refuse nothing that pleases Thee; lead me where Thou wilt; clothe me in any dress Thou choosest.—Epictetus.

One Vast Union

We behold all around us one vast union in which no man can labor for himself without laboring at the same time for all others.—Longfellow.

OCTOBER

L 915 0570

The GREEN CLOAK

By YORKE DAVIS

WNU Service. Copyright, 1936

STORY FROM THE START

Dr. Ronald McAlister, psychologist, undertakes to solve the mystery of the murder of a recluse, Henry Morgan. The dead man's papers reveal that he had been in New Zealand, where McAlister had lived in his youth. Will Harvey testifies to seeing a woman in a green cloak at the Morgan home the night of the murder. Doctor McAlister is asked to see a young woman patient in a hospital. In her delirium she mutters in a strange language which only McAlister understands. He suspects she may know something of the murder. A carefully hidden map is discovered by McAlister and Assistant District Attorney Ashton in Morgan's home. While they are searching a young woman enters the house in the darkness and escapes, leaving behind a green cloak. The name of Jane Perkins, a housemaid, is brought into the case and McAlister believes he has a clue.

CHAPTER VI

After our conversation with Ashton in the morning, which had terminated with a practical declaration of war, on our part, upon him, his visit to our laboratory took us rather by surprise. I think, perhaps that he intended it that way, and that there may have been lurking in the bottom of his mind the idea that by coming upon us in that unexpected way, he might surprise some secret we were holding back from him.

"Well," he said cheerfully in answer to our greeting, "I just met Harvey coming away from here in Mallory's convoy. I suppose with such an array of instruments as this," he waved his hand to include pretty much everything in the room, "you've succeeded in getting the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth out of him. How about it? Is he innocent or guilty?"

His mockery was perfectly good natured, but the depth of his skepticism made it possible for Doctor McAlister to be perfectly frank with him.

"He is innocent," said he. "He had no more connection with the Oak Ridge murder than you had."

"He says so himself, I presume," observed Ashton.

"Exactly," replied the doctor.

The telephone bell rang just then and I answered it. I heard a voice from somewhere inquiring if this was Doctor McAlister's laboratory, and on my answering in the affirmative, the voice asked if Mr. Ashton had arrived yet.

"He's here now," I said. "Do you want to talk with him?"

Then I turned away and called Ashton to the phone. As he started across the room my chief spoke to him.

"I see an evening paper sticking out of your pocket," said he. "Let me have a look, will you, while you are at the telephone?"

Ashton handed it to him, then crossed the room and picked up the receiver.

The doctor beckoned to me. In the moment he seemed very little concerned with the news, for he turned the front pages rapidly, until he came to the lost and found section in the classified advertising. Once there, his eye pounced, like a hawk upon the item he wanted. His long bony finger pointed it out to me:

"Found—A green cloak. Owner can have same by identifying and paying cost of this insertion."

"I wonder if that bait has brought any nibbles this afternoon," the doctor whispered.

Then, before I could reply, he gripped my arm tightly, and nodded toward Ashton.

"A woman, you say" . . . I heard him exclaim with every appearance of excitement. . . .

"Did she identify it?" . . .

"What sort of woman? Anything unusual about her?"

There was a little silence while he listened for the description. Then in an incredulous tone we heard him exclaim:

"An English housemaid! And she gave her name as Jane Perkins! Did she identify the cloak beyond a doubt?"

. . . . . .

"What address did she give?"

. . . . . .

"What's that? Three—seven—O Woodland! Why, you idiot, that's my own address! That's The Meredith. And you let her walk off with that cloak over her arm after she had given you that address!"

He waited for no answer, replaced the receiver on the hook, with a jerk, and whirled around upon us, his face red with anger.

"Gentlemen, don't you think you have carried this joke a little too far?" he demanded.

I suppose the unwarranted accusation might have made me angry if I had had leisure to indulge in such an emotion. But all my other feelings were swallowed up in astonishment. That one additional detail supplied by Ashton's conversation over the telephone stretched an already hardly credible coincidence to the breaking point. Jane Perkins not only had a green cloak with a high collar, but she had lost it; and seeing it advertised as found, had promptly gone and identified it, and had gone away with it over her arm. But the address—well, I admitted to myself, that reduced the whole thing to a farce.

For a moment all my belief in Doctor McAlister's theory, in the validity of the test we had performed upon Harvey, in every scientific law I had felt surest of ten minutes ago, tottered on its foundation. Some one, somewhere, in placid security from our suspicions, and from the possibility of our detection was directing this ghastly farce and was permitting himself to laugh at us. That girl in the hospital had been shamming; Harvey had been shamming; Jane Perkins, who had identified the cloak, was, perhaps, a myth altogether. I could imagine whoever played the part laughing, as she walked away with that cloak over her arm, and picturing the effect upon all of us when we should learn the address she had given.

But to the district attorney the situation had a very different look. He had no doubt at all—and on second thought I could not blame him—that we ourselves were the center of a plot to make him look ridiculous.

I got the shock of another surprise when I turned to look at Doctor McAlister. Instead of the indignant rebuke which I expected him to mete out to the young man who had just accused him, he spoke very quietly and with a mocking twinkle in his eye.

"You can't expect me to pass my opinion on a joke, Ashton, until I hear it," he said.

"You know altogether too much about it already," said the attorney hotly. "This precious Jane Perkins of yours answers my advertisement for the cloak which you turned over to me. She identifies it, beyond any doubt, as anyone whom you had instructed in advance would be able to do—identifies it down to a missing button and a patch in the lining. How far back does the joke go? Did you find the cloak as you pretended you did, in Oak Ridge, near the Morgan house, or was the finding of it part of the game?"

A little gesture of rebuke and protest from the doctor checked him very abruptly.

"No, I withdraw that," he said. "That was an unwarranted thing to say. I believe that up to this morning, when you declared war upon me, you thought that by instructing the woman to give my own detective my own address as hers you were giving me a fair chance to detect the fraud. It would be, I suppose, if this were a game of chess. But this is serious business."

"We realize that as well as you do," I started to say, but my chief interrupted me.

"Can't you penetrate our fraud a little further?" he asked, and his tone now was openly derisive. "Does it occur to you that Phelps here, with the addition of a skirt and a shawl, might not be a sufficiently plausible Jane Perkins to deceive the astute gentleman you left in charge?"

There was a little pause there, for Ashton was too angry to answer.

The doctor's manner changed as he went on. "What Phelps says is true, as you realize better than you do, I think, what is at stake here. We're not trying to thwart justice in the long run. We are attacking this problem in our own way, after giving you fair warning. We refused to guarantee that our way would not conflict with yours, and we told you, in so many words, that you'd do well to keep an eye on us. You've the law on your side. You've all the power of the state attorney's office, whereas we have no standing at all. If you think we've got the cloak, search us; search the laboratory. Where will you begin?"

Still too angry to make any reply, Ashton strode out of the room, not actually slamming the door after him, but shutting it decisively enough to suggest that he felt like slamming it, and the next moment we heard his motor chugging away down the avenue.

The doctor hurried to the window and looked out after him. Presently he turned toward me with a long breath of relief.

"We're all right so far," he said. "He's gone straight on without turning the corner. He isn't going back to The Meredith just yet. Come along. We'll have no time to lose even as it is. Ashton will have cooled down by dinner time, and when he's cool enough to let his mind begin working again, he'll become dangerous."

Already he was struggling into his overcoat. I turned to go to the other room for mine, when he called me back and sent me to the telephone.

"I think we had better have a taxi," he said. "It'll save some precious time and will enable us to take some of our traps up to the hotel with us."

"Traps?" I inquired. "Some of our instruments, do you mean?"

He nodded. "The chronograph and telephones," he said. "I fancy they'll be all we'll need for any real test we shall want to make, but it will be well to take something else for the purpose of diffusing attention. Here, this piece of heavy artillery will just serve the purpose. It's rather cumbersome, but that makes it all the better."

The instrument he indicated was one I had never seen before, it having come in only that day from the model makers. The doctor was always devising new instruments of one sort or another. This one looked interesting, and I should have questioned him about it had not my mind been so full of other things.

"You'd better telephone at once," he concluded. "If this sleet storm keeps up, the wires are likely to be down before night."

Both of us, I think, would have been a little surprised if we could have known how true that prediction was and how vitally it was going to concern us.

"You are going to make some tests up in our rooms in The Meredith?" I asked.

"I imagine," he said soberly, though his eyes sparkled with excitement as he spoke, "I imagine that our rooms will be about the only place where we will be secure from interruption. I could see it in Ashton's eye that he meant business, and I'm pretty sure that if we attempted to come back here after dinner and bring anybody with us, our little party would sustain a rude interruption."

All the while he spoke, he was busy gathering things together, and as soon as I had finished telephoning, I helped him. Haste spoke in every movement he made, and it was not long before I was thoroughly infected with his excitement, although I had only a vague idea what it was all about.

Not until we were seated in the cab, with a suitcase full of instruments at our feet, did he say anything that tended to clear up any part of the mystery.

"It was a great piece of luck," he observed then, "we were able to send Ashton away in such a rage. It won't occur to him for some time, to begin making inquiries about The Meredith."

"You mean," I exclaimed, "that the address four—seven—O Woodland avenue was given in good faith, by a real Jane Perkins, who is actually employed there?"

He only laughed and told me to wait and see; but the inflection of his voice and the eager expectancy in his eyes made it clear that that was what he did believe.

"But," I protested, "even if it were possible to imagine Jane Perkins as having any possible connection with the crime, it is inconceivable that she would go and risk answering the advertisement in order to reclaim the cloak and then give her own address."

He vouchsafed no word of explanation or argument, but I could see that my objection had not shaken him in the least. So, perforce, I waited with what patience I could assume to see what would happen when we reached The Meredith.

The doctor turned over our bag to a hallboy, with instructions that it be taken to our apartment. Then he led the way straight toward the dining room. It was barely six o'clock, a full hour earlier than we usually dined, and the room was almost empty.

"It won't entirely destroy your appetite to sit down to dinner in tweeds, will it?" he asked. "We really haven't time for frivolities of that sort this evening."

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

Broken Heart Cause of Pyorrhea Attacks

According to Dr. Hans Sachs of Berlin, one of Germany's most eminent dentists, the jolts of life and worries loosen teeth and are the real cause of pyorrhea. Keep your soul in snug comfort and harmony, he says, and your teeth will be free of the modern plague of pyorrhea. Doctor Sachs has devoted the last ten years to the study of the influence of psychological factors on teeth, says the Pathfinder Magazine. He believes that pyorrhea develops most easily in teeth affected by tartar.

"I have established through a series of tests that under strain of emotion and worries tartar settles on teeth much more rapidly than under normal condition," he claims. "Another cause for pyorrhea is gnashing of teeth, especially when asleep. Psychoanalysts know that gnashing of the teeth is only a reaction of the subconscious mind trying to free itself of burdensome impressions of daily life. Consequently, here, too, is a psychic cause leading to pyorrhea. Most pyorrhea patients belong to the depressive type discovered by Freud. Take the depression away and the pyorrhea will improve. It may sound foolish to laymen, but there is no doubt that a broken heart may cause pyorrhea and the subsequent loss of teeth."

Origin of "Horse-Radish"

In the names of plants and fruits the word "horse" is frequently used to denote a large, strong or coarse variety. For instance horse beans are a coarse variety of common beans used in feeding horses and cattle. It is supposed that the word was originally used in "horse-radish" for the same purpose; namely, to indicate what was regarded as a coarse kind of radish.

THE GIRL HE DIDN'T KNOW

(© by D. J. Walsh.)

BARTLETT worked his way up slowly, gun at rest, but eyes searching eagerly. A rabbit crossed his path, but sped on its way unnoticed. A partridge whirred and in a wild spot a turkey gobbled a warning to members of his flock.

But evidently they were not the game Bartlett was after. A pheasant in his bag did not seem to awake enthusiasm, for another was heard drumming in the distance and the sportsman did not look that way.

Then, fully half a mile along the slope, he saw a girl, and his eyes brightened and his steps quickened—only to dull and lag after a few moments. A man had emerged from the shadow of a rock. His head was bent and he seemed to be winding something. Of course. A camera. They were taking pictures.

"Jackass; serves you right," accused Bartlett to himself. "Only one day before you go away to do a man's work, and here you are like a lovesick kid, climbing miles over rocks to see a girl you don't know. What if you did happen to meet her once on a hunting trip among these very rocks and help her down to the nearest house because of a sprained ankle? Did she give you the least encouragement to—didn't she say she'd rather hobble on alone? Didn't she dismiss you curtly when the house was reached? No—yes—sure. Did you learn her name? No. Didn't you try to say foolish things to her without the least response? Y-es. Well, there you are. Yonder's the girl. Look at her. Take your fill. See how she's chatting with the man now—her best ever—the only one, you know. Can't you see it? There, her hand is on his shoulder and her lips—turn away your head, you moke! Don't you dare go a step farther in that direction. He hasn't a gun, but he'd crack you over the head with the camera, and serve you right. Sure. Don't you remember there's a mother crying her eyes out for an extra hour or two before her son struts away to glory—half a hundred friends waiting to say good-by with admiration in their eyes—and a jolly sister, all puffed up with pride over her h-e-r-o? Pish!"

In his self-disgust, anger and disappointment, Bartlett spoke aloud, though with full consciousness of no listener within half a mile. He had wheeled sharply at the words "turn your head," and now with a "one-two-three, one-two-three, face the firing squad, you boob!" he covered his steps to the concealment of big rocks and soon after swung into a bit of stunted growth that scantily patched the mountain slope.

"One-two-three, on you march, you boob!" he ordered. "Mind the paltry excuse of going off for a little last hunt among the rocks and the guileless pheasant that perched on the nuzzle of your gun and pleaded to be shot—sure, and you were so muddled as to be uncertain whether the devoted bird didn't even claw the trigger and shoot itself. Only for that you might go home gameless. Now open your eyes and brain like a h-e-r-o and do a bit of hunting you can speak about. Shoot a mouse for the cat or a snake for humanity, without another fellow's girl befoggling your mind. Go after that pheasant you heard drumming. Put some pep into the hunt, like you used to. One-two, one-two—march!"

Beyond the stunted growth the slope grew more rocky and broken, with deep gashes and even ravines cutting into and under the rocks. As he advanced Bartlett's brain cleared and the gun changed from rest to ready. In a thicket of scrub oaks he shot a brace of partridges, among the rocks a wild turkey and then a rabbit. And then the rocks grew so cavernous and wild as to suggest bigger and more dangerous game.

He thought something of the kind was found when he dropped into a dark fissure overhung by rocks and heard a sudden shuffling back, as of an animal retreating. Bartlett, with grim humor in the determination to regain himself, pictured the shuffling as an enemy in hiding and he the fellow to oust him. So with gun forward at half-cock, he moved cautiously but unhesitatingly into the cavelike gloom, knowing that while he couldn't see the quarry the light behind made him plainly visible to the beast within. Then:

"All right. You've got me. I'll come out."

Bartlett retreated, wondering what he had got. The shuffling followed, presently revealing itself, the light reached, as a disheveled, cowed-looking young man of not unpleasing presence.

"What are you going to do with me? Run me in for the $50, of course," the young man said sullenly, but with a half-grin. "Anyway, it can't be worse than three weeks of hiding in holes like this."

Bartlett caught the truth and drew himself up with sudden stiffness. He was a big fellow and in his uniform of second lieutenant looked rather formidable.

"You are a deserter," he said.

"Of course. You've been after me and know, so what's the use. I guess I'm it and you get the $50. My mistake was poking my head out of this hole. You saw me. If I'd kept hid under there you never would have found me in the world."

"But I didn't see you, really I was—"

"Oh, well, it doesn't matter now. You've got me, which is the real thing. And I don't know as I much care. It's been horrible, the three weeks. But—er, I'd rather you wouldn't think me all slacker and coward. I believe I could stand up straight and shoot. It— was the suddenness of it all, and my mother taking on so. I hadn't given the thing much thought till my name jumped on the list, and—oh, well, what's the use. I'm here and you've got me. But you needn't tie me nor keep your gun pointed. I'll go all right."

"I don't think you quite understand," said Bartlett more quietly and now believing this was the man he had seen on the slope with the girl, "I haven't got you, and I found you by accident and you don't look to me like a quitter. Your eyes are too straight. I think there's been a wrong deal somewhere. The way I look at it, this going to the front to help protect our country and home and everything worth while is the greatest privilege a fellow could have. It's not 'you must go, but we'll be glad to have you help us.' Let's sit down and talk it over."

Half an hour later they rose. There was moisture in the young fellow's eyes as he grasped Bartlett's hand.

"You are right," he said, "though I've known it inside all the time. And thank you for not taking me in. I—I—it will be pleasanter for me to go by myself, enlist quietly and then explain and take whatever punishment may be coming. All but my mother will be glad, and even she, I think, inside, will feel relieved. Good-by. I hope I shall be in your command."

The second day following Bartlett was at the station with some hundreds of others in uniform. Friends had shaken hands with him, some wishing him plenty of fighting and others immunity from it and a safe coming home. Young men said they would soon follow and old men wished they were young enough to go. Mothers and fathers were there in plenty among the uniforms and his own on either side of him. The hero-worshiping sister was near by, looking at him with adoring eyes. But, unlike most of the boys in uniform, there was no other fellow's sister to bid him a tender good-by.

Then some of the light went out of his face, for a little way down the platform were the man who had deserted and come back and the girl he had helped down the slope. Their arms were about each other and their faces close together.

Even as his glance shot that way and was turning, theirs crossed. They had been looking at him, possibly speaking of him. The young man smiled and threw up his hand in salute. He acknowledged it grimly, saw their lips touch again and then the girl came hurrying up the platform to him, her face as adoring as his sister's. And then the conductor called a warning "All aboard!"

"I—I must have him just one second," the girl implored his mother, whose arms were reaching out. "He—he saved my brother from worse than death, and now Jim is starting for the front, brave and strong, in your son's command. We are all so proud!"

Her arms closed about his neck, her face pressed his.

"You will exchange letters with me, won't you?" she whispered—"Helen Westlake? You won't forget the name? Tell me about my brother."

"Indeed, I will write," he promised fervently. "And I won't forget the name."

Then her arms slipped from his neck to give place to his mother's, but the hands only dropped into the clasp of his hand. The adoring sister caught the other hand. His father patted him on the shoulder.

But only for a moment; then he was forced to spring on board.

As the train glided away he threw open a window and looked back. They were all waving to him, his father and mother and sister, and the girl was with them.

Englishman First in Field of Electricity

William Gilbert was the most distinguished man of science among the subjects of Queen Elizabeth of England. His book on magnetism may be regarded, says William Cortez Abbott, as the "earliest landmark in the study of electricity."

Contrasted with the familiar wonders of electricity today, Gilbert's experiments may seem merely rudimentary, but the great developments today would be impossible had not the men of earlier ages blazed a trail. In the field of electricity, Gilbert was the first of the pioneers, but little is known about this scientist.

He practiced medicine in London and won recognition as one of the leaders in his profession. In 1601 he was appointed physician to Queen Elizabeth and lived at the court. James II continued him in this office, but Gilbert died soon after, in 1603. Gilbert was one of the first scientists to restrict his imagination and to base his beliefs upon experiments. He was not only the first real scientist in the fields of electricity and magnetism but he was also the first Englishman to advocate the views of Copernicus about the earth and the stars. He also was one of the pioneers in chemistry, but in this field he left no record of his researches.

According to the Book

Mrs. Smith—What do I smell?

New Cook—The pie, ma'am! It's burning and I can't take it out for ten minutes.

A Little Bit Humorous

WAY, WAY BACK

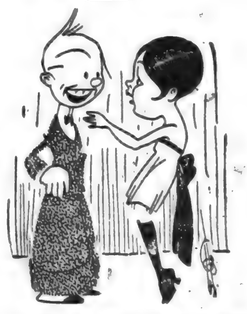
Mrs. Newriche (patronizing)—Were any of your ancestors men of note, Mr. Cynic?

Mr. Cynic—Yes, madam, I should say so. One of them was the most famous admiral of his day, and commanded the allied forces of the world.

Mrs. Newriche (with altered tone of deep respect)—Is it possible? And what was his name?

Mr. Cynic—Noah, madam.

AFTER HER HEART



She—Teddy, you're a man after my own heart.

He—Good.

She—But that's not saying you'll get it, though.

Summer Styles

In wisdom, woman wears a dress
Whose weight is scarcely felt.
While man still dons in mute distress
A collar and a belt.

Just Wait

Lady of the House—As cook I shall expect you to rise early. We breakfast at eight, and I will permit you one evening off every week!

Cook—You ain't been married long, 'ave you, dear?

Husband and Wife

They met at dinner.

"Why have we no guests tonight, my dear?"

"Come to think of it we were both invited out somewhere."

Hardly

Marie—Do you have a girl in every port?

Sailor—Don't be misinformed. We miss some ports.

Fifty Per Cent Better

Friend—Well, old chap, how do you like being married? You were always lamenting when you were a bachelor.

Benedict—Oh. It's much better, thanks. Before I was miserable at home and miserable when I went out; now I'm only miserable at home.

Brevity

A man who talks for hours is heard
Without appreciation,
Another, with a single word,
Electrifies the nation.

Not Entirely

"I understand you've got rid of your loud speaker."

"Well, not entirely. I'm still paying her alimony."

Sanguine

Mr. Wampus is very sanguine about everything. His wife warned him that he had parked his car out in front without any lights.

"Well," was his easy response, "maybe the fireflies will roost on it."

Club

"Don't you want to join our Shakespeare club?"

"That sounds highbrow."

"Well, girlie, we do play a strict game of bridge."

Tail Wagged or Unwagged?

Customer (thinking to have some fun with colored waiter)—Can you bring me a nice side of Airedale, well done?

Waiter—Dogone if ah can't, boss. D'yo like de bark loud or soft?

Right Dress

"Have you seen Norah's new evening gown?"

"No; what does it look like?"

"Well, in most places it's very like Norah."

OCTOBER

L 915 0571

Local Briefs

Rubber bands at News office.

All notary work can be promptly cared for at News office. Call and see us.

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Rhodenbaugh were at Van Wert last week a few days visiting Mr. and Mrs. David Chambers and family.

Get your furnace repaired now, avoid the rush when winter fires are started. Free inspection. Bowser & Reed. 38tf.

Mrs. Pearl White, Victor White and wife and Ed White and family all of Fort Wayne, were Sunday afternoon callers at the John Hart home.

Master George T. Hart, son of Mr. and Mrs. George B. Hart, of east of Spencerville, had his tonsils and adenoids removed Monday morning at Auburn.

During the April term of the DeKalb circuit court, which ended Saturday, September 24, Judge Endicott approved the final reports in seventy-three estates and the partial reports in sixteen estates.

Pleasant weather Sunday brot out an unusually large number of motorists, and highways were crowded throughout the state. Twelve persons were killed as the result of accidents over the week end.

People who are in any way connected with estates or legal affairs in this section, should remember that all legal notices should be run in this paper, as we reach the people who are effected and interested. A notice in any other paper of the county will fill the legal part of the law but will do the official no particular good. Please remember The News the next time.

For Sale:—Thirty May Pullets. J. N. Scholes. 40t1p.

Hicksville has 577 pupils enrolled in her public school.

For Sale:—Jersey Cow, 7 years old will be fresh last of November. W. J. Staman, St. Joe. 40tf.

A daughter arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Wilmot on Wednesday evening of last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Renner of Etna Green, Ind., were over Saturday night and Sunday guests of Ye Editor and wife.

Press Wilcox has accepted the position of instructor of the Columbia City school band, beginning Monday. The organization now has 105 members.

Sliding down a strawstack into a nest occupied by a large hog, William Miller, Jr., age 8, of near Logansport, Ind., was attacked by the animal and severely bitten Thursday. His left ankle was crushed and the flesh badly lacerated and bruised.

The township trustees of DeKalb county in session Monday in Auburn voted to dismiss the rural schools for two days, October 20 and 21, so the teachers may attend the Northeastern Indiana Teachers' association meeting at Fort Wayne.

The body of Paul J. Hoff of Indianapolis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hoff of North Indiana avenue, was brought to Auburn early Friday morning. The young man, aged thirty-two years, committed suicide Thursday by shooting himself through the heart at his room at 617 Sanders street in Indianaplois. Mr. Hoff left a note in his room saying he was unable to find work, was without money and had nothing to live for. He left written instructions to notify his father in Auburn.

Writing tablets at News office.

Actresses can appear at only two theaters in Tokio, Japan.

For Sale:—A large Ivy Geranium. Mrs. Ethel Shilling. 40t1.

For Sale:Ten Rambouillet Ewes and two Rams. W. J. Staman, St. Joe, Indiana. 40tf.

W. C. McNabb has purchased the Meat Market in the Thomas grocery at Auburn.

Have your glasses fitted by Benj. F. Griest, Eyesight Specialist, Office in American Bldg., Hicksville, Ohio. 28tf.

George Kinsey, Frank Curie and J. C. Hull, attended the County I. O. O. F. meeting at Auburn, Tuesday evening.

Clair Hull is attending the K. of P. Grand Lodge at Indianapolis this week, going with Auburn and Butler representatives.

John Weaver, Auburn, completed 26 years of rural delivery service last Friday. He was assigned the first route out of the county seat.

Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Loftus and Milton Haifley drove to Pendleton, Friday, to visit with Frank Loftus. He is expected to arrive home the first of November.

The musical organization with which Wyllis Wilcox is affiliated closed their program at the Palace theatre at Fort Wayne with Wednesday evening's program and they are now in Detroit.

W. E. Hackleman, 59, of Indianapolis, internationally known church song editor and leader, was killed in an automobile accident near St. Elmo, Ill., Monday. He was riding with Charles Daugherty, also of Indianapolis, to Springfield to lead the singing at the seventy-seventh annual Illinois convention of the Disciples of Christ. Daugherty escaped injury.

For Sale:—Jersey Cow, 7 years old will be fresh last of November. W. J. Staman, St. Joe. 40tf.

The first out-door electric sign installed is that of High's Restaurant, put up Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Yeiser and two children spent Saturday night and Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Yeiser and family at South Whitley.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Shinkel and son of Yoder, Ind., were from Friday until Sunday afternoon guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Springer. The two families were neighbors at Yoder.

A heavy wind which struck several parts of DeKalb county shortly after 9 o'clock Thursday night gained in intensity until at 11 o'clock it reached the proportions of a gale. Near the county infirmary a small barn was blown down and horses and cattle were killed in other sections.

Wouldn't it be a great thing if every one of us was his own Chiropractor—not worryin' so much about our spines, except to straighten the corkscrew spine brigade—but generally goin' in for adjustment. Here we've got this great an' glorious world handed over to us an' we're makin' a whole lot of rumpus because we haven't got the furniture in the right place an' the house is upset. Instead of settin' to work to straighten up, we sit down in the confusion an' despair. When the good wife empties the dust pan into the yard she puts the little particles of dirt where they belong. Every grain of sand fits in. It's only dirt when its put where it doesn't belong. Let's get down to tryin' a little adjustment. There's lots of crooks that would be genuine if they were in their proper places.

Rubber bands at News office.

An old friend, George Bartlett, of Fort Wayne, was in town, Tuesday.

Speaking of love, a man should look before he leaps—otherwise he may fall in.

Mrs. Belle Ridgway spent a few days last week with Mr. and Mrs. Abe Mason at Auburn.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Armstrong were Sunday guests of their son, Delvin, and family at Auburn.

A Moor considers it a sin to cut bread with a knife, declaring that hands were given for that purpose.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Hull and Fred Quance spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Hull of near Helena, Ohio.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Johns and Mrs. Ollie Gelhausen of Garrett, were Tuesday afternoon callers of Mrs. Mary Bowman.

Lessie Meek has been making improvements about his home in the way of cement walks, both in the front and back yard.

The hen may have originated the huddle system, but the flapper seated beside her boy friend in a roadster is not without some knowledge of the idea.

Mrs. Carrie Harman returned from near Fort Wayne, Tuesday, where she has been working, to care for Mrs. Wm. Harman, who was taken sick Sunday, although some better.

Every improvement, no matter how small is an asset to the town. The Cochran Restaurant is erecting a cook kitchen which will give more room and better accomodations to trade.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Rinehold of Auburn and Mr. and Mrs. Howard Love of Milford were Sunday callers in the F. M. Thornton home. Mrs. Flora Simanton was a Sunday dinner guest in the same home.

The first joint institute of teachers in the public schools of DeKalb county will be held in the court house in Auburn, Saturday, October 8. The institutes will be held each month until the closing of the schools next spring.

Mr. and Mrs. D. I. Gillingham and Mrs. L. C. Gillingham of Hicksville, stopped Monday morning and bid Dan Myers and family goodbye as they were leaving for Oklahoma for the winter and perhaps permanently, according to how they like it. Mr. Gillingham has a sister and a brother there.

Garrett children are being given special privileges by the city council when the 300 block on South Peters street and the 300 block on South Lee street will be available to children for roller skating, beginning Monday evening. The streets in these blocks will be roped off and Boy Scouts will be in charge. The hours for skating are from 4 to 6 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. John Sluss and Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Madison and two children of South Bend came Saturday and visited until Sunday afternoon in the Floyd Ridgway home. On Sunday a pot luck dinner was enjoyed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Grover Curie by the following guests besides the above named families, Derwood Ridgway and family, Mr. and Mrs. Abe Mason of Auburn and Patrice Wineland.

Two estates of interest to our readers against which no inheritance tax was assessed, are as follows: The late Alexander Provines left $11,404.68. It was shared equally by seven children, Horris G. Provines, Effie Morr, Lola Carper, Mae Moore, Ray Provines, Edna Gifford and Dorcas Sherer, each receiving $1,788.53. The net estate of the late James W. May was $3,000. Four children, Franklin and Alva C. May, Viola Coe and Fidelis E. Feller, and a grandson, Austin B. Feller, shared equally in the property.

Determined to curb the liquor traffic in and around South Bend, E. C. Yellowley of Chicago, prohibition enforcement chief for his region, and George L. Winkler of Indianapolis, chief of the prohibition forces of Indiana, have decided to make South Bend headquarters for a northern Indiana district. James Browning, a veteran of the service, will be in charge of the South Bend office. The decision to make South Bend a center of activity for the department was brought about by the alleged inactivity of the South Bend police department. The open manner in which bootleggers have traded here and which resulted thirty days ago in the wholesale arrests of alleged bootleggers, 104 indittments having been returned by the Federal grand jury, led Yellowley to believe that Federal agents would find South Bend a fertile field for their work.

OPTOMETRY—ITS VALUE TO THE PUBLIC

By Ed W. Hicks, Optometrist and Optician

What is one diffrence between Optometry and, say, dentistry?

A person always knows when a dental srvice is needed.

Not so with an optometrical service?

No, few who need an eye service are aware of the fact.

Then the public would be benefited by having eye conditions explained as they are known to exist?

Yes, the more familiar the public are with their need of Optometry the more the profession will benefit the public.

ED. W. HICKS
AUBURN
"OUR SPECIALTY — COMFORTABLE VISION"

You can buy these products with confidence

YOU are doubly assured of quality and continuing service when you buy a General Motors product. Behind the resources of these seven famous cars and of Frigidaire and Delco-Light stand the resources of the whole family of General Motors. Each is tested and proved. And in the prices you pay for these products, you share in the economies of vast production.

We invite you to learn more about these products by sending in the coupon below. Mail it today before you forget. No obligation, but interesting reading.

CHEVROLET. 7 models, $525 to $745. Amazing combination of beauty, performance and low price. 3-speed transmission. Beautiful Fisher Bodies. Duco finish. Fully equipped. Also truck chassis; ½-ton, $395; 1-ton, $495.

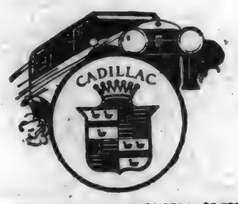
PONTIAC. 6 models, $745 to $925. Lowest priced six with Bodies by Fisher. Duco finish. Extra-powerful engine. Value proved by ever-increasing sales.

OLDSMOBILE. 7 models, $875 to $1075. New lower prices round out Oldsmobile's master-stroke of General Motors' value-giving. 4-wheel brakes.

OAKLAND. 6 models, $1045 to $1265. The "All-American" model is a bigger, better, more beautiful car, typifying General Motors quality and value in the medium price class. 4-wheel brakes.

BUICK. 16 models, $1195 to $1995. All the world knows Buick's worth. "Getaway" like an arrow from a bow. Vibrationless beyond belief. Famous 6-cylinder "valve-in-head" engine. 4-wheel brakes. Beautiful low bodies.

LASALLE. 11 models, $2495 to $2995. New and beautiful car designed and built as companion car to Cadillac. Has V-type 8-cylinder engine. Marvelous lines and bodies. Continental in appearance.



CADILLAC. 26 models, $3,350 to $5,500. The standard of the fine car world. 90-degree V-type engine. Bodies by Fisher and Fleetwood. 500 color and upholstery combinations to choose from.

FRIGIDAIRE—the electric refrigerator. General Motors has applied the processes which have made the automobile available to every family to the production of Frigidaire, its electric refrigerator.

DELCO-LIGHT electric plants. Provide the conveniences and labor-saving devices of the city for the farm. Electric light and power plants, water pumps, etc. Used in over a quarter million homes.

(ALL PRICES F.O.B. FACTORIES)

GENERAL MOTORS

"A car for every purse and purpose"

CLIP THIS COUPON

GENERAL MOTORS (Dept. A), Detroit, Mich.

Please send without any obligation to me, your illustrated booklet, "Where Motor Car Facts Are Established," together with information about the particular General Motors product or products I have checked at the right.

CHEVROLET ☐ OAKLAND ☐ CADILLAC ☐
PONTIAC ☐ BUICK ☐ FRIGIDAIRE ☐
OLDSMOBILE ☐ LASALLE ☐ DELCO-LIGHT ☐

Name_____ Address_____

With the Churches

ST. JOE M. P. CHURCH

J. F. McKnight, Pastor.

EVANGELICAL LUTHERAN CHURCHES

"They who would grow in grace must love the habitation of God's house. It is those that are planted in the courts of the Lord who shall flourish, and not those that are occasionally there."—John Angel James.

ST. JOE

Sunday School, Mr. Derwood Ridgway, Superintendent, at 9:30 A. M.

Communion Service in St. Joe church at 10:30 a. m. "It becometh those that purpose to come to the Supper of our Lord Jesus Christ to prepare and diligently examine themselves. Holy Communion is instituted for the strengthening of those who humbly confess their sins and hunger and thirst after righteousness and holiness.

SPENCERVILLE

Sunday School, Mr. Ray Means, Superintendent, at 9:00 A. M.

Evening Service, 7:00 o'clock.

You are welcome to these services.

P. B. Roediger, Pastor.

CHURCH OF CHRIST

Why not go to church? Eventually, why not now?

ST. JOE

Ed Storer, Supt.

Bible School, 9:30 A. M.
Lord's Supper, 10:45 A. M.
Sermon, 7:00 P. M.
Subject, "Why I am a member of the Church of Christ."

NEWVILLE

Frank Lyons, Superintendent
Bible School, 10:00 A. M., sun time.
Lord's Supper, 11:00 A. M., sun time.
Sermon, 11:15 A. M., sun time.
Subject, "Meeting God at His Altar."

Fine services at both churches last Sunday. You are kindly invited to attend all services.

R. S. Aldrich, Pastor.

Methodist Episcopal Church Spencerville

Sunday School, 9:00 A. M.—John Koch, Superintendent.
Morning worship, 10:30.
Epworth League, 6:00 P. M.
Marguerite Koch, President.
Roy S. Brown, Pastor.

OCTOBER

L 915 V572

Russel R. Reidenour
ATTORNEY
Auburn, Ind.

DR. C. R. BAUMGARTNER
Veterinarian
Spencerville, Ind.
PHONES: 282--283.

STATEMENT OF THE OWNERSHIP, MANAGEMENT, CIRCULATION, ETC., REQUIRED BY THE ACT OF CONGRESS OF AUGUST 24, 1912.

Of St. Joe News, published weekly at St. Joe, Indiana, for Octobr 1, 1927.

State of Indiana, County of DeKalb, ss: and for the state and county aforesaid.

Before me, S. S. Widney, a Notary Public personally appeared Fred B. Leighty, who, having been duly sworn according to law, deposes and says that he is the Editor and Publisher of the St. Joe News, and that the following is, to the best of his knowledge and belief, a true statement of the ownership, management, etc., of the aforesaid publication for the date shown in the above caption, required by the Act of August 24, 1912, embodied in section 443, Postal Laws and Regulations, printed on the reverse of this form, to wit:

1. That the names and addresses of the publisher, editor, managing editor, and business manager are:

Publisher, Fred B. Leighty, St. Joe, Ind

Editor, Fred B. Leighty, St. Joe, Ind.

Managing Editor, Fred B. Leighty, St. Joe, Ind.

Business Manager, Fred B. Leighty, St. Joe, Ind.

2. That the owners are:
Fred B. Leighty, St. Joe, Ind.

3. That the known bondholders, mortgagees, and other security holders owning or holding 1 per cent or more of total amount of bonds, mortgages, or other securities are:
None.

4. That the two paragraphs next above, giving the names of the owners, stockholders, and security holders, if any, contain not only the list of stockholders and security holders as they appear upon the books of the company but also, in cases where the stockholder or security holder appears upon the books of the company as trustee or in any other fiduciary relation, the name of the person or corporation for whom such trustee is acting, is given; also that the said two paragraphs contain statements embracing affiant's full knowledge and belief as to the circumstances and conditions under which stockholders and security holders who do not appear upon the books of the company as trustees, hold stock and securities in a capacity other than that of a bona fide owner; and this affiant has no reason to believe that any other person, association, or corporation has any interest direct or indirect in the said stock, bonds, or other securities than as so stated by him

FRED B. LEIGHTY.

Sworn to and subcsribed before me this 3rd., day of October, 1927.

S. S. WIDNEY, N. P.

My commission expires Jan. 7, 1931.

SPENCERVILLE

Miss Marguerite Koch has accepted a position at Fort Wayne.

The C. C. Club will meet on Friday afternoon with Mrs. Zelpha Steward.

Clay McNamara and wife of Ft. Wayne, were guests on Sunday of Thomas McNamara and wife.

Farver's Canning Kitchen at Spencerville will operate on Wednesday and Thursday each week until further notice. 31tf.

The Woman's Home Missionary society of the M. E. Church, will meet on Thursday afternoon with Mrs. Gertrude Wasson.

Joel Betz and wife returned home on Sunday morning after spending a week visiting Ira Becks and wife at Poe, Ind., Joseph Crauce and family, Mr. and Mrs. Gerry Price and other relatives at Fort Wayne.

The Ladies Aid of the Methodist church met on last Thursday at the home of Mrs. Minta Rhodes. Guest day will be held October 27 at the parsonage and the following committee will have charge: Mesdames Winnie Shook, Elsie Fisher and Beryl Brown.

The following guests very pleasantly reminded Raymond Rhodes on Sunday of his birthday anniversary, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Simon and Beryl Simon and wife of near Huntertown, F. E. Rhoades and wife, Merwood Rhoades, wife and baby and Joseph Koch and wife.

The Young Ladies Social Club met on Friday evening at the home of Mrs. Minnie Kimes. Prizes were won by Mrs. Violette Erick, Miss Bina Zimmerman and Miss Aline Rhodes. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Ellen Hart, at which time the husbands and friends will be entertained. The guests were Mrs. Vern Wilmot and Mrs. Zimmerman.

Envelopes at News office.

For Sale:Ten Rambouillet Ewes and two Rams. W. J. Staman, St. Joe, Indiana. 40tf.

Delbert Furnish spent the past week at Norwood, Ohio, attending the Chevrolet school.

Miss Doris Beams left on Sunday morning for Muncie, where she will attend school.

Raymond Randall, wife and children, of Auburn, Sundayed with William Allen and family.

Theodore Garstha of near Churubusco, was a Sunday evenng supper guest in the R. U. Bowser home.

Mr. and Mrs. Gene Bauserman of Harlan were Sunday guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jason Keyes.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Beams and son, were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. William Peck at Anderson, Indiana.

Mrs. Hazel Steward and children and Mrs. Ada Berry spent Sunday in Fort Wayne at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hatch.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Shearer and son, Wilbur, were week end guests of the former's aunt, Mrs. Rosa Havelet at Ypsilanti, Indiana.

William Reed and daughters and Gale Bowser, spent the week end with Vernie Reed and family and Mr. and Mrs. Chester Wolff of South Bend.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kickley and Miss Pearl Shurts of Fort Wayne were all day visitors and Mr. and Mrs. John Baker of Auburn, were callers of W. B. Lucas and wife, Sunday.

Anson Dunton and wife of Huntertown, were Sunday dinner guests of Mrs. Emila Gloyd and family. Harley Fitch and wife and Mr. and Mrs. Smith of Fort Wayne, were afternoon guests.

The True Blue class of the M. E. Sunday School was entertained on Saturday night at the home of Rev. and Mrs. Brown. The boys at this time, assisted by their teacher, Prof. A. J. Smith, selected their officers for the next year as follows: President, Victor McCrory; Vice president, Florance Wasson; secretary and treasurer, Leo Spitler. Refreshments were served. The next meeting will be held at the home of Lynn Fisher.

NEWVILLE

Mack Richmond is peddling produce.

Floy Beree and family visited relatives at Wakarusa, Sunday.

Orin Rude and wife have moved into the house on John Gillingham's farm.

Charlie Markle, of Napoleon, Ohio, was an over Sunday guest of Floy Berse and family.

Little Vivian Richmond has been ill and under the care of Dr. Brunson for several days.

Edgy Wilson, wife and daughter of Hicksville and Mr. and Mrs. Glawe of Edgerton, were Sunday visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Justin Glawe.

Saturday being Joyce Fusselman's ninth birthday, nine little girls were invited to spend the afternoon with her. Ice cream and cake were served by Mrs. Fusselman and all enjoyed the afternoon.

Your old correspondent has become convalescent after a long and serious sickness since the 19th day of June, but our affliction has left us a cripple and the days are long and lonely, and since our right hand is still usable we would resume our work as correspondent.

First we will thank the Editor for sending The News right along and many thanks to friends who visited us and brought so many beautiful flowers. If flowers would cure we should have been well long ago, but they helped to cheer and served their mission.

CHRIST FOR ALL—ALL FOR CHRIST

The Word of God

The word is a lamp unto my feet, and a light unto my path.—Psalm 119: 105.

A SURE DWELLINGPLACE:—Trust in the Lord and do good; so shalt thou dwell in the land, and verily thou shalt be fed. Psalm 37: 3.

PRAYER:—O, we give thanks unto the Lord; for He is good; for His mercy endureth forever.

READY TO RECIPROCATE

The Colonel (golfing): "Confound it, sir, you nearly hit my wife!"

Mr. Miggs: "Did I?" Well, have a shot at mine."

It is socetimes difficult to convince the head of the house that two heads are beter than one.

OBITUARY

Jacob F. Baltz, son of Jacob and Barbara Baltz, was born in Franklin County, Penn., October 29, 1846 and departed this life September 30, 1927, aged 80 years, 11 months and 1 day.

Had Mr. Baltz lived until the twenty-ninth of this month he would have been eighty-one years of age. The deceased has been sick since the first of November last when he was stricken and for the past ten weeks he had failed rapidly.

When a small boy he removed with his parents to Ohio and later still to Allen County, Indiana, where he grew to manhood, and on March 29, 1868 he was united in marriage to Emma Schler, who survives him together with three children, Mrs. R. F. Moffet of Auburn, Mrs. Jessie Sommers and Frank Baltz of Spencerville, also four grandchildren, Mrs. Ray Rhoderfer of Auburn, Mrs. Paul Adams of Fort Wayne and Albert and Irma Baltz of Spencerville. He also has one surviving sister, Mrs. J. R. Culbertson of Auburn, who is the last of a family of twelve children and a stepbrother, Dr. W. Storey of Fort Wayne.

The eldest daughter, Mrs. Mary B. Maurer preceded her father in death twenty years. Mr. Baltz was a pioneer blacksmith and until ten years ago was actively engaged in his trade, retiring because of age.

When a young boy he united with the German Reformed church and later when removing to Spencerville, where he has resided forty-five years, he transferred his membership to the Lutheran church and remained an active member until the time of his death. He was also a member of Concord Lodge No. 556 F. and A. M.

He was patient and resigned during his last illness and realized his passing was near at hand. He leaves a large circle of relatives and friends to mourn their loss, which is his gain.

The funeral was held from the Lutheran Church at 2 o'clock, Tuesday afternoon. Rev. P. B. Roediger, officiating, Rev. A. K. Mumma, of Harlan, assisting. Roscoe Walter, funeral director. Burial was made in White City cemetery.

MANY VEHICLES OPERATED WITHOUT TAIL LIGHTS

Hoosier State Auto Association Points Out Danger in Night Driving

Indianapolis, Oct. 5.—"Will people who drive automobiles ever learn, and learning have the consideration for themselves and others to do what is required by law in the matter of tail lights or reflectors?" This question was asked by the Hoosier State Automobile Association, at the same time making the point that just common sense and decency would seem to be sufficient without necessity of compulsion by law enforcement.

"The legislature this past winter passed a law requiring that all vehicles have either a tail light or a suitable red reflector not less than sixteen square inches in size to be used on all vehicles other than motor cars when out on the public highway during the hours when tail lights are required on automobiles. We have yet to see," says the bulletin issued from the association, the first wagon, truck or buggy equipped with one of these reflectors, and as mentioned in our public statement recently, even the trucks that are supposed to have tail lights are more than half the time to be seen at night on the public highway, either with no tail light or if they have a tail light, it is not lighted.

"If each driver guilty of not having a tail light or reflector, as required by law, could be taken to the scene of the next fatal accident, and made to view the corpse in its mangled, bloody and dirty condition, and if at the end of the year he could be made to look over the total of 697 dead bodies representing the death toll of motor vehicle accidents in Indiana, possibly that would drive the fear of injury and death so deep in his consciousness that he would not have the courage and audacity to drive a car without this simple life saving tail light or reflector."

BEAUTY

There was a young man with a scar
The work of a dangerous b'ar.
And the whiskers he grew
To conceal it from view
Were the best of his features, by far.

—TOUCHSTONE

Humming birds pass the winter in Central America.

GEORGE N. MANNFELD, SUPT. FISHERIES & GAME, GIVES VALUABLE INFORMATION AS TO LAWS AND WORKINGS OF THE DEPARTMENT

The fiscal year of the State ends on September 30. A compilation of facts and figures for the annual report of the Division of Fish and Game is already being prepared and will prove interesting to the sportamen of the State. Due to the new laws enacted by the legislature, the receipts of the Division were considerably increased, especially from the sale of resident licenses, which increased rapidly after May 16th, when the new laws went into effect. Persons who formerly never bought a license to fish purchased them when it became necessary to have same when leaving their own county to fish in waters outside. A considerable falling off has ben noted in the sale of non-resident fishing licenses, due to the raise in price from $1.00 to $2.25.

The Division of Fish and Game now issues different kinds of licenses and permits. Not all of them, however, are revenue producing. Its main receipts are collected from the sales of resident hunting, fishing and trapping licenses.

The number of persons employed in the Division in the past fiscal year was approximately 80. It owns and operates 40 motor cars, also a number of boats and outboard motors, which are used by game wardens.

The Division has received some inquiries relative to kennel licenses. Somehow the impression has become prevalent that the law establishing such licenses has been repealed. This is not the case. The dog law repealed was the one establishing the regular dog tax. The latter does not go into effect until March, 1928.

Reliable information received through the game wardens and from hunters from many parts of the State prove that squirrels are particularly numerous. The daily bag limit is five.

The season closes on October 31st, a month earlier than formerly. Game wardens report seeing many quail, especially young birds, showing that the breeding season was a good one this year. They also report that rabbits are far more numerous than a year ago. Wild ducks and coot are reported by game wardens to be appearing on the northern lakes. The season on ducks, (except wood and eider ducks,) also on brant, geese, coot, woodcock and jack snipe opens on Saturday, October 1st, as it does also on rabbits. The bag limit on ducks and coot is 15 per day; on geese and brant, 6; on woodcock, 4; on jacksnipe, 20 and on rabbits, 10 per day. The season on prairie chicken opens October 15th and closes October 30th. The daily bag is 5. Inquiries have been received as to whether it would be unlawful to possess at any time more than one day's bag limit of squirrels, rabbits, etc., if hunting two or more days in succession. The answer is that except on quail, there is no limit to the number one may have in possession, provided no more than the legal number were killed in one day.

The two crews of men employed in the work of removing gar and dogfish, from June 1st to September 25th, when the work was discontinued, removed 1,876 gar and 331 dogfish from Indiana lakes. The gar averaged about 4 pounds, and the dogfish 7 pounds in weight. Some of the gar weighed as high as 14 pounds, and some dogfish as much as 15½ pounds.

Game wardens in August arrested 224 persons; convictions numbered 207; 16 cases remained to be tried; only one was dismissed. The fines and costs amounted to $5,640.35. As usual the money paid in fines went into the school fund in counties where the same was paid. The leading offenses were 68 for hunting or fishing without license; 41 for taking fish with illegal seines or nets or possession of same; 34 for taking undersized game fish; 17 for Sunday hunting; 14 for hunting without landowner's permission and arrested at their request; 10 for selling squirrels; 10 for taking furbearing animals out of season; 7 for using trot lines in lakes, and 7 for buying squirrels.

Hunters are warned to be careful to respect the rights of landowners, also to be careful of accidents. Remember "Saftey First."

We Do
STATIONERY PRINTING
on
HAMMERMILL BOND

PHONE 290
Stanley P. Nelson Monuments
Opposite Woodlawn and Roselawn Cemeteries
AUBURN, IND.

Dr. E. T. Julian
M. D.
St. JOE
9:30 to 11:30 each forenoon at Dr. C. R. Price office.

Let Us Print Your Sale Bills

Everywhere — people turn to admire its beauty!

Embodying all the masterly design and craftsmanship of bodies by Fisher—

—offering such marks of distinction as full-crown, one-piece fenders and bullet-type lamps—

—and finished in lustrous colors of genuine, lasting Duco—today's Chevrolet is everywhere acclaimed as one of the world's most beautiful automobiles . . . so refreshingly different, so outstandingly smart and stylish that people everywhere turn to admire it!

The IMPERIAL LANDAU Reduced to $745

The Touring or Roadster	$525
The Coach	595
The Coupe	625
The 4-Door Sedan	695
The Sport Cabriolet	715
½-Ton Truck (Chassis Only)	395
1-Ton Truck (Chassis Only)	495

All prices f. o. b. Flint, Michigan

Check Chevrolet Delivered Prices

They include the lowest handling and financing charges available

FURNISH TIRE & BATTERY SHOP, SPENCERVILLE, IND.

QUALITY AT LOW COST

MONEY
Is Like the Water
Of a RIVER

"Money is like the water of a river" a French historian has said. "If it suddenly floods, it devastates; divide it into a thousand channels where it circulates quietly and it brings life to every spot." Our present system of economic distribution, efficiently divides our national wealth into many channels. One of these channels is flowing into your purse. True, it may not be much more than a trickling stream, but it is there at your disposal.

How are you handling it? Are you trying to irrigate a thousand acres with but enough to nourish one? Are you allowing it to dissipate itself in futile spending or are you utilizing its power for something really worth while? The members of the "Get Ahead Club" have built dams across their streams, and are controlling the flood gates in order to make every drop work. One outlet leads to a savings account. Some day it is going to be big enough to help its owner realize his most worthwhile dream. These people are getting ahead in the world.

Farmers' & Merchants State Bank
Spencerville, Ind.

OCTOBER

L 915 573

GAY WATERPROOF ENSEMBLES; OMBRE STRIPE WOOLENS POPULAR

"Rain, rain, go away, come again some other day. That's what the children say when they want to go and play"—what with the dawn of this era of cunning rainy-day togs for tots, this quaint little ditty is likely to lose out on a full chorus of juvenile voices. There's the little girl in the picture, for instance. No doubt she has been hoping and hoping for the falling of a few raindrops, just as an excuse to don her clever little coat and hat which is fashioned of bright red glazed rubber.

Many of the juvenile sets also include diminutive umbrellas, not only in solid blues and reds but in gayest of rainproof plaids and rainbow hues. Some of the smart shops add to the charm of these rubberized ensembles by including a miniature doll set, matching that of the little mistress.

To Dispel Rainy Day Gloom.

Stylists are now spending much time and skill on the creating of rainy-day ensembles for ages from tot to matron. We of this generation are expected to present a chic appearance, rain or no rain.

Materials that were formerly for fair days only, are now processed to stand the ravages of rain and storm. Rubberized crepe de chine, for instance, has entered handsomely into the scheme of things.

An exceedingly new coat is a reversible garment, either of tweed, plaided silk or novelty woolen on one side, the other side being of rubberized crepe de chine. Probably the inspiration for these coats came from the song which tells us to wear our silver-lined clouds "inside out." At any rate, these new reversible coats are handsome in appearance, at the same time practical and protecting in case of a downpour.

A very complete and attractive rainy-day ensemble is shown here, all of rubberized plaid silk, including a becoming hat and a swagger umbrella. This charming outfit is typical of the new vogue for attractive apparel regardless of what the weather bureau man may inflict upon us.

Leather, too, takes a smart place in raincoats. Some suedes, too, are waterproof, and are to be seen in many handsome colorings. Snakeskin effects in rubberized fabrics add their modishness to mediums for rainy-day coats and accessories.

If there is one thing more than another that the present styles excel in, it is color interpretation. Especially are the new woolens enchantingly colorful. Bordered fabrics which feature ombre stripes are among the enticing weaves which court favor for daytime modes.

A very charming adaptation of ombre-striped wool poplin is presented in this illustration. In this two-piece model the shadow stripes are arranged so as to border the blouse about the hips, and the skirt at the hemline. The sleeve is also prettily trimmed with stripes and the tie of self-material carries the color scheme also. The solid portion of the original frock here pictured is beige, the bordering carried out in tones of brown. This attractive material is also featured in beige with green striping.

The two-piece styling is becoming almost standardized for sportswear. Simple blouse and pleated skirt construction as here pictured is outstanding. Some of the smart new blouses specialize on diagonal fastenings. In fact the surplice movement is becoming more and more pronounced.

A distinguishing feature of many an autumn two-piece costume is the fact of the blouse being a novelty woolen, posed over a skirt in solid coloring.

Lightweight woolens for frocks are in the foreground of the autumn mode. An interesting entrant into the realm of smart fabrics is wool crepe. Wool georgette is also a popular theme with the couture of Paris. Both of these fabrics give excellent service, and possess delightful wearing qualities for the schoolgirl.

Among woolens stressed for the making of the utilitarian dress, one sees considerable navy reps. It shows up handsomely stitched with red. One gets satisfaction out of its excellent wearing qualities as well as delight, in that it does not retain dust and lint.

Kasha is another favorite cloth, being especially popular in beige and brown shades. Novelty stripes are prominently featured in kasha.

Dainty Woolen Frock.

Smart daytime ensembles use kasha for the dress, also for the lining of a matching velveteen coat.

High-colored imported fabrics shed glory upon the daytime mode. For the three-piece ensemble they are advantageously used in the making of the blouse, the skirt and jacket being fashioned of a blended solid coloring.

JULIA BOTTOMLEY.

(©, 1927, Western Newspaper Union.)

MAKING SELECTION OF WASHING MACHINE

Various Types of Washing Machines on Exhibition.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Most women realize the convenience of a washing machine, especially if it can be run by electricity, but they are often puzzled when it comes to making a selection from among the many different makes. All of the makes on the market can be classified into four types, according to the principle on which they operate. Selection becomes a matter of personal preference for a particular operating principle. Each type has its advantages. In all, the washing is done by some device that forces soapy water through the clothes until they are clean.

The bureau of home economics of the United States Department of Agriculture has a permanent loan exhibit of a number of makes, differing within each type only in detail of construction. A visit to this exhibit would be a help in deciding which machine was best for one's purpose.

Cylinder Type of Washer.

The cylinder type of washer has a perforated cylinder of metal or wood in which the clothes are placed. This revolves in an outer container holding soap and water. The cylinder has blunt projections on the inside, which carry the clothes along as it revolves. It reverses its direction automatically from time to time. The water gushes through the perforations and cleanses the clothes. There is a second type of cylinder machine in which the cylinder is in the form of a flattened perforated box which moves back and forth so that the clothes tumble from one end to the other.

The "dolly" principle consists of a revolving device suspended in the center of the tub, fastened either to the lid or to the bottom. This carries the clothes first in one direction and then in the other. The corrugations of the sides and bottom of the tub help to cleanse the clothes partly by friction.

In the oscillating type of machine, the tub itself rocks and tilts back and forth, tossing the clothes from one end to the other, and the water moves in a curving path.

The vacuum-cup type of machine is a development of the funnel on a stick device in vogue twenty or more years ago. The soapy water is forced through the clothes by the pressure and suction produced by the cups.

Buying Electric Machine.

When buying an electric machine, specify the voltage of the local current, and whether it is direct or alternating, and if alternating, the cycle. Consider the shape and size of the machine in relation to the room, where you expect to use it. Be sure it is not too large. Choose a flat top if you are likely to want it for a working surface between wash days. Buy a machine of the right capacity for your average washing, and of the right height for you to operate. Find out whether the manufacturer's repair service is easily available. Simple construction is advisable. The frame should be strong and rigid, but it should be possible to roll the machine about on casters. The mechanism and gearing must be properly covered for safety and cleanliness, and the motor should be located where it will not get wet. Ask how often the machine must be oiled and whether that can be done easily. Any movable parts, such as a cylinder, should be light in weight and easy to handle. The water outlet should be practical for easy drainage. See whether the wringer can be used when the machine is washing. Consider the possible advantages of a centrifugal drier.

Veal Timbales Provide Unusual Dish for Lunch

Perhaps you have not thought of using your custard cups to prepare a meat dish. Timbales, which are dainty combinations of eggs, bread crumbs and other ingredients, are made in ramekins or custard cups, baked in a pan of surrounding water, and managed in much the same way as soufflés or custards. For lunch or supper they provide just the "different" touch that makes food interesting. Veal almost always tastes better if a few drops of lemon are added to it, and if you like it, worcestershire sauce may be used sparingly, too, as a seasoning. Chicken, lamb or any other left-over meat may be used instead of veal in making the timbales. The recipe is from the bureau of home economics.

Veal Timbales.

1 pound veal	1 teaspoonful finely chopped parsley
2 eggs	2 tablespoonfuls flour
½ teaspoonful salt	2 tablespoonfuls butter
Onion juice	Lemon juice to taste
1 cupful milk or meat broth

Simmer the veal in a small amount of water until tender, then put through the meat grinder, using the fine knife. Prepare a cream sauce of the butter, the flour and the liquid. Add to this the well-beaten eggs, the seasonings, and the meat. Mix well. Grease custard cups and pour in the mixture. Bake for one-half hour in a pan surrounded by water. Turn the timbales out, and serve hot.

Good Chowchow Is Made From Brined Vegetables

A good chowchow is made from the following ingredients, according to the bureau of home economics. All the vegetables have been brined and must be freshened by standing in cold water overnight or longer. Some salt must always be left in vegetables that are being freshened for pickles. After the vegetables are freshened they are drained, mixed and chopped together. The spices, vinegar and sugar are brought to the boiling point and mixed with the vegetables. Stir until they are well blended and let stand overnight. In the morning stir well and pack into sterilized jars. Seal and store in a cool place. Processing will help to keep the pickles but will soften the texture. The amount given below yields three quarts.

8 cups small white onions	5 teaspoons celery seed
8 cups cauliflower in small sections	6 teaspoons mustard seed
6 cups cut string beans	6 teaspoons horseradish
12 green peppers, medium size	1 cup sugar
1 red pepper	2 cups cider vinegar

EXTRA MEAL GOOD FOR ACTIVE BOY

Needs More Calories Than His Parents.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The active growing boy sometimes needs more calories in his daily ration than his father or mother, if they are people of more or less quiet habits. His food must be wisely chosen to supply the elements he needs for developing his body and creating his apparently inexhaustible energy. A mid-morning or mid-afternoon snack consisting of a fruit drink, or milk, and perhaps a lettuce and whole-wheat bread sandwich is a good thing for the boy, according to the bureau of home economics, especially if he has just used up most of the fuel provided by the preceding meal in playing baseball or on a visit to the nearest swimming hole. Food of this kind given rather as an extra meal than as "eating between meals" will not dull his appetite for the next family gathering at the dinner table.

An Extra Meal for the Growing Boy.

What's the Answer?

Questions No. 19

1—What contemporary novelist was banished from Spain for opposition to the government?

2—Who is light heavyweight champion pugilist?

3—Whom did Pocahontas, the famous Indian girl, marry?

4—What general in the Revolution was known as the "Hair Buyer General" and in which army did he serve?

5—Who invented the reaper?

6—What two interrelated families are conspicuous for the number of fine artists and artistes they have contributed to the American stage?

7—What is the most striking physical characteristic of Colombia?

8—What are water voles and where are they found?

9—What is the distinction between "immigrant" and "emigrant"?

10—What is Ascension day or Holy Thursday?

11—What is now the only living representation of dog tribe of carnivores in Britain?

12—Who has been called "The Spanish Shakespeare"?

13—Who defeated William T. Tilden for the tennis championship?

14—At what battle was the great Indian Tecumseh killed and when?

15—At what battle was "Remember the Alamo!" the soldiers' war cry and when?

16—Who invented the machine gun?

17—What Norwegian composer took as a basis for an orchestral suite that has become famous, a drama by Ibsen?

18—What is the second largest river in Africa?

19—What is the matter with the phrase: "From whence come you?"?

20—What is Whitsunday?

Answers No. 18

1—Constellation against the L' Insurgente, in 1799.

2—Gen. Francis Marion.

3—Eli Whitney.

4—April 30, 1922.

5—Edwin Booth.

6—Edinburgh.

7—Carlyle's "French Revolution."

8—Wild horses and asses.

9—No; it should read "more slowly"—the adverb instead of the adjective.

10—The spiritual idea of love; self-immolation; innocence and purity; sacrifice.

11—Severe criticism of his "Hours f Idleness" in the Edinburgh Review.

12—Gen. John Stark.

13—Lord Dunmore.

14—Thomas A. Edison.

15—Cecil Leitch.

16—Claude Monet.

17—Josef Hofmann.

18—The Yang-tse-kiang.

19—To the Pacific coast of North America, between British Columbia and northern California.

20—It should read "that sort," since "sort" is singular.

Ideas About Heaven Are Many and Varied

Where is heaven? What is heaven? The question may not have been settled, but it has at least been answered. The ideas contributed are many and various. Here are a few of them:

A circus lot at the end of Main street.

A very high spot in the human imagination.

A beautiful mirage which lures deluded travelers into the barren desert of credulity.

The abode of certain portions of the Deity.

A spiritual land of peace, plenty and equality, situate, lying, and being in the uppermost region above the clouds, conjured up by religion to assist in the maintenance of law, order and good will among God's children while in the bodily state on earth.

The most sublime, the most pitiful, the most pathetic delusion of all the ages.

Heaven is that which lies about us in our infancy. Heaven is that about which we were lied to in our infancy.

The ideal, the limit of human ambitions and aspirations, the ever-flying perfect.

A place to which every one is anxious to go, but no one seems to be in any hurry to get there.—The Forum.

Concerning the Kiss

A Greek peasant kissed the hand or knee of a superior when he bowed before him. Kissing the feet of the gods was also a form of Greek worship. The Greeks had made the rule: To kiss on the lips is to adore the living breath of the person saluted; to kiss the feet is to humble one's self in adoration. Our custom of kissing our hands to people at a distance from us comes from the ancient habit of kissing the hands to a god whose statue was too tall to be reached.

The Doctor

In fair weather or foul, zero nights or rainy days, I have always found that my car starts instantly and performs perfectly with Champion Spark Plugs—they're dependable.

Champion is the better spark plug because of its double-ribbed sillimanite core—its two-piece construction and its special analysis electrodes.

Champion X—for Fords 60¢

Champion—Care other than Fords 75¢

CHAMPION Spark Plugs

TOLEDO, OHIO

For your protection be sure the Champions you buy are in the original Champion cartons.

What Annoys Jud

Jud Tunkins says that as a rule he wouldn't object so much to seeing a man play a piano if he could keep from watching the expression of his face.

There is nothing more satisfactory after a day of hard work than a line full of snow-white clothes. For such results use Russ Bleaching Blue.—Adv.

Good Enough Reason

Wife—You'd better explain why you haven't spoken to me for three days.

Hubby—I don't want to interrupt.

15¢

A New Slip

Did you know that a fifteen-cent envelope of Diamond Dyes will duplicate any delicate tint that may be the vogue in dainty underwear? Keep your oldest lingerie, stockings, too, in the shade of the hour. It's easy if you only use a true dye. Don't streak your nice things with synthetic tints.

Dye or tint anything; dresses, or drapes. You can work wonders with a few, inexpensive Diamond Dyes (true dyes). New colors right over the old. Any kind of material.

FREE: Call at your druggist's and get a free Diamond Dye Cyclopedia. Valuable suggestions, simple directions. Piece goods color samples. Or, big illustrated book Color Craft free from DIAMOND DYES, Dept. N9, Burlington, Vermont.

Diamond Dyes

Just Dip to TINT, or Boil to DYE

Fine China Collection

A famous English firm of china manufacturers possesses samples of all the various kinds of china they have manufactured for nearly 150 years past, including samples of dinner services made for Lord Nelson and other celebrities of bygone days. —Brooklyn Eagle.

The straight road to happiness: Think straight, see straight, act straight.—Forbes Magazine.

There is always something popular going on that is a plague to somebody.

Modernize your home with OAK Floors

Reduces housework. Make your home more beautiful, more valuable for rental or sale. Write for free literature.

OAK FLOORING BUREAU
1302 Builders' Building CHICAGO

Green's August Flower

is a mild laxative, and has been in use for sixty years for the relief of constipation, indigestion and similar stomach disorders. A trial will convince you of its merits. 30c and 90c bottles. At all druggists. G. G. Green, Inc., Woodbury, N. J.

OCTOBER

L 915 U574

HELP FOR SICK WOMEN

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Has Restored the Health of Thousands

Brooklyn, New York.—Mrs. G. Hegmann of 228 Schaeffer St., was in a run-down condition and could not do her housework. She could not sleep at night. Her story is not an unusual one. Thousands of women find themselves in a similar condition at some time in their lives. "I found your advertisement in my letter box," wrote Mrs. Hegmann, "and took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and got relief." Mrs. Hegmann also took Lydia E. Pinkham's Herb Medicine and Lydia E. Pinkham's Pills for Constipation, with good results. She says, "I am recommending your medicines to all I know who have symptoms the same as mine, and to others whom I think it will help. You may use my statement as a testimonial, and I will answer any letters sent to me by women who would like information regarding your medicines."

There are women in your state—perhaps in your town—who have written letters similar to this one telling how much Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has helped them.

The Pinkham Medicine Company, Lynn, Mass., will gladly furnish other women with these names upon request.

It's So Easy for You to Enjoy Good Health

Don't delay a minute.

Ask your druggists for a small package of those little, sugar coated vegetable pills. They all sell them in 25c. red paper packages, ask for CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS.

They are small, easy to swallow and move the bowels in a gentle manner, no pain. Constipation cannot exist when you take CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS. Sick headache, Indigestion, Biliousness, poor complexion, all are relieved quickly. Try them to-night you will enjoy your night's rest, and tomorrow awake refreshed.

Druggists, 25c. and 75c. red pkgs.

Deafness—Head Noises
RELIEVED BY
LEONARD EAR OIL
"Rub Back of Ears"
INSERT IN NOSTRILS
At All Druggists. Price $1
Folder about "DEAFNESS" on request.
A. O. LEONARD, INC., 70 FIFTH AVE., N. Y.

CARBUNCLES Cause DEATH

Boils and carbuncles cause agony, sometimes death. Take no chances with home-made poultices or expensive operations. One application of CARBOIL (a scientific antiseptic) quickly stops pain and draws out core. Get a generous 50c box from your druggist today and keep it on hand. Money back if not satisfied. Don't accept substitutes—ask for CARBOIL by name. SPURLOCK-NEAL CO., NASHVILLE, TENN.

Sparing Him

"I would like to give my uncle 100 of these cigars. Can you think of how I can give him even greater pleasure?"

"Yes. Only give him 50!"—Boston Post.

A Helpful Hint.
Calumet Baking Powder added to mashed potatoes or carrots, together with the milk and beaten thoroughly, makes a delightfully light and appetizing dish.

The Only Difference

Townley—Must be great to live out in the country. You're not shut in by buildings.

Subbubs—No; only by billboards.—Boston Transcript.

Baby's little dresses will just simply dazzle if Rinso Bleaching Blue is used in the laundry. Try it and see for yourself. At all good grocers.—Adv.

Bon Voyage

"How was your voyage?"

"Fine. I danced all the way across."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

How we enjoy a man who has no tale of woe to tell!

The fool and his money are the stock in trade of the shrewd promoter.

Ugly Pimples

Nature's warning—help nature clear your complexion and paint red roses in your pale, sallow cheeks. Truly wonderful results follow thorough colon cleansing. Take NR—Nature's Remedy—to regulate and strengthen your eliminative organs. Then watch the transformation. Try NR instead of more laxatives.

Mild, safe, purely vegetable—

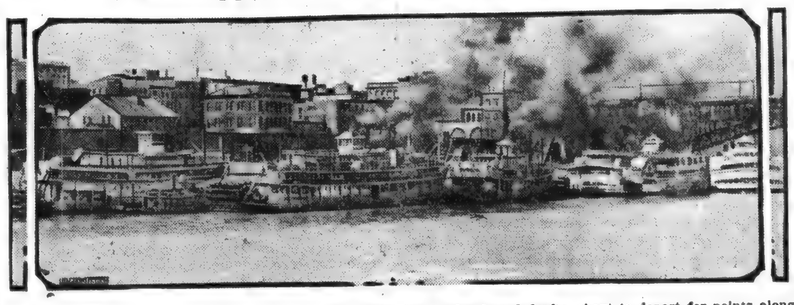
NR TO-NIGHT

At Druggists—only 25c

Head of Legion Parade at Unknown Soldier's Tomb

This photograph, just received from Paris, shows the American Legion parade passing the grave of France's Unknown Soldier at the Arc de Triomphe.

Mississippi River Is Staging a Come-Back



A group of steamboats at the St. Louis levee, their fires under forced drafts, about to depart for points along the Mississippi river from Keokuk, Iowa, to New Orleans. Last year more than a million tons of freight moved through St. Louis and this year is seeing further increases in river shipping. The Father of Waters is fast regaining the prestige it enjoyed during the glorious eighties.

Lindsey Burns Up Confessions

Ben B. Lindsey, former judge of the Juvenile court in Denver, burning some of the 5,000 confessions of troubled women and girls which he had accumulated during his experience as judge. Mr. Lindsey has been charged by former District Attorney Phillip S. Van Cise with removing some of the official files of the court at the time he was ousted. He took this means of answering the charges.

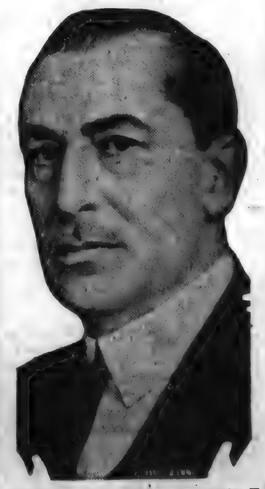
Tulsa Slow Club Bans Petting

Left to right, Mary Bodenheimer, Dorothy Yocam, Mary Jane Murray, Nina Burkett and Villita Vaughn, all young and pretty, who have started the girls' Slow club movement in Tulsa, Okla. They say that they are out for fun, but they put the ban on cigarette smoking, liquor drinking and petting.

INSPECTOR GENERAL

Col. William C. Rivers has been appointed inspector-general of the army with the rank of major general to succeed Maj. Gen. Ell A. Helmick, retired.

E. T. MEREDITH



Most recent portrait of Edwin T. Meredith of Iowa, former secretary of agriculture, who is considered a possibility for the Democratic Presidential nomination.

Anxious to Know

Oldest Daughter—And he is continually mentioning over the things he is going to have in life.

Anxious Mother—And does he ever mention you, my dear?

SAY "BAYER ASPIRIN"—Genuine

Unless you see the "Bayer Cross" on tablets, you are not getting the genuine Bayer Aspirin prescribed by physicians and proved safe by millions over 25 years for

Colds	Headache	Neuritis	Lumbago
Pain	Neuralgia	Toothache	Rheumatism

DOES NOT AFFECT THE HEART

Safe — Accept only "Bayer" package which contains proven directions. Handy "Bayer" boxes of 12 tablets. Also bottles of 24 and 100—Druggists.

Aspirin is the trade mark of Bayer Manufacture of Monoaceticacidester of Salicylicacid

Connecticut Got Bargain

Connecticut takes pride in owning a $100,000 Stuart portrait of George Washington today because it was willing to accept a painting rejected by another state. When the great artist, commissioned by South Carolina to paint the picture, turned it in, it was a portrait of President Washington. South Carolina wanted one of General Washington or none. Connecticut bought the picture for $1,000

CHILDREN CRY FOR "CASTORIA"

Especially Prepared for Infants and Children of All Ages

Mother! Fletcher's Castoria has been in use for over 30 years to relieve babies and children of Constipation, Flatulency, Wind Colic and Diarrhea; allaying Feverishness arising therefrom, and, by regulating the Stomach and Bowels, aids the assimilation of Food; giving natural sleep without opiates.

The genuine bears signature of

Chas. H. Fletcher

Daily Dialogue

Blooey—If your garters tighten, look for rain, is the advice of an Omaha weather expert, I see.

Flooey—And if they loosen, look for something else than rain to come down.

Might Be Either

"What's Bill doing these days?"

"He's boxing peaches."

"In vaudeville, or on a fruit farm?"

Snowy White Clothes
WITHOUT RUBBING

N-R-G (Energy) Laundry Tablets wash clothes spotlessly clean in ten minutes without rubbing. Clean everything like magic; cut soap bill in half. Remove ink, fruit stains, blood, rust, perspiration and all stains instantly.

Guaranteed Not to Injure the Hands or the Finest Fabric

Amazing results when N-R-G is used in the washing machine, either electric or hand-driven. No boiling required. For sale at your grocer's, 15c per package. Valuable coupon with every package. Only four required for Silver Teaspoon. 25-year guarantee. Over 200 other premiums.

THE N-R-G PRODUCTS CO., CHICAGO, ILL.

AGENTS Start Your Own Business—Soaps, Extracts, Perfumes, Toilet Goods, Spices, Medicines, Household Articles. $50 to $100 weekly. Write DORAY, 6750 Glades Avenue, ST. LOUIS, MO.

FLASH
Cleans All Hands
Factory agents or territory salesmen wanted. Write today. Flash Chemical Co., Cambridge, Mass.

For Barbed Wire Cuts Try
Hanford's Balsam of Myrrh
Money back for first bottle if not suited. All dealers.

W. N. U., FORT WAYNE, NO. 40--1927.

Sister Strangely Found

Issack Baskowitz's eyes were attracted to the likeness of a pretty girl on a calendar in a Dallas (Texas) office. He was amazed at the resemblance to a younger sister from whom he was separated in Russia ten years ago. Baskowitz communicated with the lithographer of the calendar and learned that the subject was none other than his sister Gertrude, who is now eighteen years old. He left for New York for a reunion with the girl.

Twilight Chat

"Sam, what am de diff'runce between a rich man an' me?"

"Ah dunno, Bones. What am de diff'runce?"

"A rich man don't know whah to go, an' Ah can't affo'd de trip."—Legion Monthly.

NEVER FAILS

CALUMET
THE WORLD'S GREATEST
BAKING POWDER
SALES 2½ TIMES THOSE OF ANY OTHER BRAND

OCTOBER

L 913 0575

HOME EDUCATION

The Child's First School is the Family"—Froebel.
Issued by the National Kindergarten Association

TEACHING CHILDREN SELF-DISCIPLINE
Helen Gregg Green

We have a motherhood club in our town which has proved very helpful. To the last meeting, one of the members brought her small son, John Russell. During the afternoon the child became restless and cross. Finally, to cap the climax, he had a first- class tantrum. His mother seemed quite unconcerned.

After John Russell had won his point, he ran out-of-doors to play, as serene as the proverbial summer day.

"He's a wonderful boy!" his mother said beamingly. "He has so much will-power. He really was cunning, wasn't he! And," a bit wistfully, "he'll get over the disagreeable part of it."

"O, yes, don't worry," Grandmother Mills advised. "Joe was of the same temperament. I remember one day I took him to the doctor's. He didn't want to go in the first place. The doctor told Joe to open his mouth, he wanted to see his throat. Joe slapped him! Oh, it was so funny! And look at my boy now, a most successful business man!"

After we left Joe's wife burst forth, 'Oh! I get so angry with Joe's mother. I've heard her tell that story gleefully time and time again. She prides herself on having always allowed Joe plenty of self-expression,' 'I never curbed the child,' she boasts. And now the children and I are paying the piper. O, don't misunderstand me. Of course I love him and I've never mentioned this to anyone else. But Joe has a terrible temper—absolutely no self control. Often when he's helping the children with their lessons he'll become provoked at some trifle and zip! he's off. A hectic scene follows, with Judith and Dickey in tears. The last time, he yelled at Judith, 'You're dumb, Judy! Just plain dumb! That's why you don't know.' I told him I would rather he would never again help with the lessons, and I meant it. O, yes, Joe was never curbed, and his children are suffering in consequence. I'm trying my best at this late date to teach him self-control, but it has meant many unpleasant scenes, without very good results. Oh! why did his mother encourage, yes, actually encourage, those tantrums when he was small!" And my little friend's eyes snapped.

So let's all take a hint; what may seen "cute" and indicative of a strong mind in a child may become an odious characteristic in an adult.

You need never change your oil if you own a Buick

Tests by Buick at General Motors Proving Ground and by Buick owners in every section of the world — under every climatic condition — have proved that you need never change your oil if you own a Buick. Replenishments and inspection of the Buick oil-filter only are required. This is still another Buick contribution to the economy and efficiency of motor car operation . . . another indication of Buick's greater value.

BUICK for 1928

Sedans . . . $1195 to $1995
Coupes . . . $1195 to $1850
Sport Models $1195 to $1525

All prices f. o. b. Flint, Mich., government tax to be added. The G. M. A. C. time payment plan, the most desirable, is available.

Buick

WHEN BETTER AUTOMOBILES ARE BUILT, BUICK WILL BUILD THEM

Buick Sales & Service
Auburn, Ind.

NEW AND TESTED RECIPES FOR LADIES OF THE NEWS

PEANUT BUTTER FRUIT

Remove the pits from firm well-shaped dates and insert in the cavities small portions of peanut butter. Roll in fine granulated sugar set aside to become firm before using.

Prunes which have been softened by soaking in cold water, then thoroughly dried, may be used in place of dates, if desired.

LEG O'LAMB

Trim leg and wipe with a damp cloth. Lace through the lamb pieces of onion and carrot with a larding needle. Dust with flour, salt and pepper. Cover with two tablespoons oil or fat. Bake in a moderate oven allowing about twenty minutes to the pound plus thirty minutes.

High Purpose

The highest purpose of intellectual cultivation is to give a man perfect knowledge and mastery of his own inner self.—Novalis.

When Winter Comes

The winter of old age will come to us all—if we don't die too soon, and we don't care to avoid old age in that manner.

The declining years, the sunset time of life, may be your happiest years, but for one thing—POVERTY. That causes much of the sorrows, the privations and bitterness of old age. Better prepare for that time right now. An account a our Bank will prove the friend you need. Start in a small way and build up the account regularly. Think it over. Call any time.

CONFIDENCE IS WHAT COUNTS.

The St. Joe Valley Bank, A STATE BANK

David Hogg Speaks to Religious Workers of County Sunday

Predictions are, that the DeKalb County Council of Religious Education, will have its largest attendance of officers and workers, both of schools and township organizations, at their County Council meeting held at the M. E. Church in Auburn on next Sunday afternoon, that they have ever had.

The Honorable David Hogg, Representative in Congress, will address the workers on a very timely subject, "The How and Why of Leadership Training."

This is one of the big events in the county program and is scheduled for November 7 to 11. Mr. Hogg is an experienced teacher, knowing the necessity of training and he comes to DeKalb workers with a message full of enthusiasm and with his earnest appeal. The Council hopes to be able to create a desire upon the part of those who have shouldered responsibility in the local schools, to secure more training by taking part in the county school.

The program will also give the departmental officers an opportunity to put their plans before the workers. Every school officer and pastor is expected at Auburn, Sunday afternoon.

THE STORY OF THE TRANSGRESSOR IN PICTURE

A good sized crowd witnessed the moving picture production, "The Transgressor" at the high school gymnasium Monday evening.

"The Transgressor" is the story of two men whose experiences were strangely interwoven from their chummy boyhood days. As boys, Jim Martin was the leader, excelling in sports, but in manhood Edward Salsbury is the prosperous broker, and Jim Martin a confirmed drunkard, patron of the village saloon. Salsbury, the man, resents his boyhood friend's attempt to continue the friendship. He calls him an old bum, and bum he is, made such by liquor drunk over a bar that is operated in a building owned by Salsbury. Salsbury's home is of the mansion type, in the center of spacious grounds.

Martin's wife supports herself and children by washing; one of her patrons is the Salsbury family. Jim Martin is pictured gradually sinking lower and lower in self-respect and respect of the community. He finally reaches the low level of resorting to rifling the pockets of his young son of money with which to buy liquor, money earned through the sale of newspapers. Martin becomes a victim of delirium tremens.

The scene shifts quickly. National prohibition becomes operative and Jim Martin is redeemed. He ceases drinking. He establishes a comfortable home for his family. Happiness and contentment rule. Prohibition has worked its miracle.

The deadly work of the organized illicit liquor traffic begins to appear. It is no sudden transition from comfort and respectability and peace that wrecks the home and life of Salsbury. It is a gradual process, beginning with the small infraction of the law by Salsbury himself in patronizing a bootlegger, then the hip pocket flask which finds its way into the social life of his children. Salsbury, the owner of the building where the bar was located that wrecked so many years of Jim Martin's life, and who held his head so high and scorned the weakness of his boyhood friend and pronounced him a bum, is now being victimized by the illicit traffic.

Salsbury's son, who is now a partner of his father's business, at the solicitation of a rum runner, "borrows" $25,000 from the firm's safe for a transaction in illicit liquor, with the expectation of returning it the next morning after cleaning up large profits. The transaction is made but the bootlegger refuses to divide the profits or return the $25,000.

The son kills the bootlegger, then in deep remorse takes his own life. By a strange twist of fate, Martin, now respected and an officer of the law, is Salsbury's tenderest consoler in his hour of grief.

The success of a picture, whether by pen or brush or spoken word, depends upon its use of contrast. This picture succeeds in its purpose by contrasting the good effects of prohibition enforced and observed, with the evil effects arising from disrespect for law. Its moral is unmistakably seen.

It pays to be a good American, to obey and help maintain the law, to be loyal to the constitution and the flag.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Rumbaugh, Mrs. John Driver of Lagrange, Ind., Mr. and Mrs. Ray Gustin and family of Farmer, O., Mr. Lewis Price of Hicksville and Mrs. William Hough and son, Paul William, were guests of Mr. and Mrs Saxe P. Hadsell Sunday. Paul Hadsell, who spent his vacation with his parents, returned to Muncie, Ind., Sunday evening, where he is starting his Junior year in college.

CONFESSIONS OF A CHAPERON

Alone....a slim girl of nineteen plunging carelessly into the swirling crowds of a world metropolis. Pretty Betty, only a few days out of a little Wisconsin high school, alone in the mob of a great city.....a trifle afraid of her wild desire to test the perils of New York.

Awed by the colossal heighth, the hurrying thousands, awed—but smiling.

Betty had come in search of thrills. She has heard the stories of gold-diggers and city slickers, of the orgies of big business and the bright nights of Broadway. All her life she has read tales of the big city. Now she wanted to see for herself.

She wanted fun and thrills. She wanted New York to live up to its reputation. She was confident she could take care of herself.

She found adventure, she found thrills, but she found that the stories she read were BUNK. She found a Manhattan that was not in the story books.

Here is the truth, more interesting than all the bunk ever written about the Great City. Betty tells her experience just as it happened. Every girl who has felt the lure of Manhattan Madness wants to read "Alone in a Great City."

Now on sale at News office, magazine news stand.

TOO MUCH MARRIAGE

Prince Leopold of Belgium and Princess Asstrid of Sweden have to be married three times to make it stick. Two church ceremonies and a civil ceremony will go to the wedding, and if they are not married by then few are.

That means that if they ever try to get divorced, they will have to take three strikes on that. Prying them apart will be harder than opning th bottom drawer of an antique dresser. They will be so thoroughly married that even shooting ont of the parties will not dissolve it. They would have to shoot both.

Marriage of course is an excellent thing, but taking three shots at it all for one wedding seems over-doing it. Uuless the parsons ned the fees.

A CRANKY DOO

Patient—That doctor always gives me a dirty look when I kiss you. Does he think that making love will delay my recovery?

Nurse—I supose he does. He's my husband.

Legal Publications

ADMINISTRATOR'S SALE OF REAL ESTATE

State of Indiana,
DeKalb County, ss:
In the DeKalb Circuit Court
September Term, 1927.
William Curie, Administrator
Of the Estate of Franklin P. Hart
vs
John F. Hart, et al.

The undersigned, administrator of the estate of Franklin P. Hart, deceased, hereby gives notice that by virtue of an order of the DeKalb Circuit Court of Indiana, he will at the hour of 10 o'clock A. M., of the 15th day of October, 1927, at his store in the Town of St. Joe, Indiana, and from day to day thereafter until sold, offer for sale at private sale, all the interest of said decedent in and to the following described real estate situate in DeKalb County, Indiana, to-wit: Lots numbered thirty-one, (31,) thirty-two, (32,) thirty-three (33) and thirty-four (34,) in Heller's Addition to the town, now City of Butler, Indiana; also lots numbered two (2,) five (5,) six (6) and seven(7) in White's Addition to the Town of St. Joe, Indiana; also a tract of land described as follows: bounded by a line commencing at a point twenty-five (25) feet east and two hundred thirty (230) feet south of the intersection line of Jefferson Street and Fifth (5) Street in the Town of St. Joe, Indiana, thence east one hundred fifty (150) feet; thence south fifty (50) feet; thence west one hundred fifty (150) feet; thence north fifty (50) feet to the place of beginning; also a tract of land described as follows: Commencing at a point two hundred ten (210) feet south of the south-east corner of lot numbered ten (10) in block numbered four (4) in the Original Plat of the Town of St. Joe, Indiana; thence south one hundred twenty-four (124) feet; thence west one hundred sixty-two (162) feet; thence north six (6) feet; thence west three hundred seventy-eight (378) feet; thence north one hundred eighteen (118) feet; thence east five hundred forty (540) feet; to the place of beginning, all of the last above described real estate being in Section Fifteen (15,) Township Thirty-three (33) North, Range Fourteen (14) east and in said DeKalb County, Indiana.

Said sale will be made subject to the approval of said court, for not less than the appraised value, and upon the following terms and conditions:

At least one third of the purchase money in cash the balance in two equal installments, payable in six months and twelve months from date respectively, evidenced by notes of the purchaser, bearing interest at the rate of six per cent per annum, waiving relief, and providing for attorneys fees, and secured by a first mortgage on the real estate sold.

The undersigned will sell said real estate in parcels as appraised.

WILLIAM CURIE,
Administrator.
Atkinson & Husselman, Attys.

NOTICE OF EXECUTOR'S SALE OF REAL ESTATE

State of Indiana
County of DeKalb
In the Matter of the Estate of Alva S. Coburn, deceased.

The undersigned Executor of the Last Will and Testament of Alva S. Coburn, deceased, hereby gives notice that as such Executor, he will on Monday the 31st day of October, 1927, at the hour of 1 P. M. on said date and from day to day thereafter until sold, offer for sale at private sale upon the premises in Spencer Township, DeKalb County, Indiana, at not less than the full appraised value thereof, the real estate of the decedent belonging to him at the time of his death and ordered sold in his Last Will and Testament and located and being in DeKalb County, Indiana and described as follows, to-wit:

The east one half (½) of the north-west quarter (¼) of Section twenty-four(24) in Township thirty-three (33) north of Range fourteen (14) east, excepting therefrom that part or portion lying north of the right of way of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad and containing seventy-five (75) acres more or less.

The said real estate will be sold pursuant to the authority of the Last Will and Testament of the said Alva S. Coburn, deceased and upon the following terms and conditions, to-wit: At least one third of the purchase price cash in hand, one third in six months and one third in twelve months from date of sale, all deferred payments to be evidenced by the notes of the purchaser without relief from valuation or appraisement laws, with attorney fees and payable at a bank and in all respects fully negotiable; the said notes given for said deferred payments to be secured by a first mortgage upon said real estate to be executed by the purchaser his or her spouse joining therein and said notes to bear interest at the rate of six per cent per annum from date; the purchaser to have the right to pay the entire purchase price in cash at his option.

Said sale will be made subject to the approval of the DeKalb Circuit Court and the Executor reserves the right to reject any and all bids.

Said sale of real estate will be made subject to the right of any tenant having out crops.

FLOYD COBURN,
Executor of the Last Will and Testament of Alva S. Coburn.
H. C. Springer,
Attorney for the Executor. 39t4.

Life's Limelights

By Brown Focht

WORK AND SONG

It was Carlyle who said, "Give us, O, give us the man who sings at his Work.....One is scarcely sensible to fatigue while he marches to music. The very stars are said to make harmony as they revolve in their spheres."

The man who goes about his work with a song in his heart attempts to accomplish things with a willingness.

And the man who does things willingly will do much.

The man who paints the out-of-the-way corners of a house with as much care as he paints the front door sings at his work.

The man who comes to work before the clock strikes and who leaves after the hour is past has a song on his lips.

Song naturally follows attainment. Men realize that.

But men are not aware that song precedes achievement.

A smile is a song.

Dependability is song.

Perseverance is song.

Satisfaction is song.

There is music in the clang of the forge.

There is song as the reaper cuts down the golden grain.

It may not seem so, but there is song as coal rolls and tumbles down a chute.

There is music in the whistle of a locomotive, and there is song in the roar of a train.

The waves of the sea, a mighty but dormant power, sing.

Song is not opposed to work: it is work.

Yet all work is not song, although it should be.

The reason that such is not the case is that too many people are not satisfied with what they are doing.

There are too many round men in square holes.

And then, there is that group which never could be satisfied—that "race of men that don't fit in"—those of the gipsy blood, who follow the lure of a phantom voice.

For them there is no song.

Song is for those who strive—for those who sing in their upward climb—for those who smile at disaster—for those who give the world more than they expect in return.

Uncle Eben

"Dat talk 'bout every cloud havin' a silver linin'," said Uncle Eben, "is unconvincin'. If it was true, every man wif an airship could make a fortune."—Washington Star.

The Difference

Between the Cost of Good and Cheap Printing

is so slight that he who goes shopping from printer to printer to secure his printing at a few cents less than what it is really worth hardly ever makes day laborer wages at this unpleasant task.

If you want good work at prices that are right, get your job printing

At This Office

OCTOBER

L 915 U576

THE BEST BOOSTER FOR YOUR BUSINESS IN DeKALB COUNTY

ST. JOE NEWS.

NEWS MAKES A GOOD PAPER, SO SEND IT IN TO US.

VOL. XLI. ST. JOE, DeKALB COUNTY, INDIANA, THURSDAY, OCTOBER 13, 1927 NUMBER 41

YOUNG MEN KILLED IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Two men are dead and two others injured as the result of an accident while demonstrating a new automobile seven miles north of Waterloo at 3 o'clock Monday afternoon.

Harry M. Shook, 34, of Waterloo was killed instantly and Wayne Sherick, 29, of Lagrange, died in the Cameron hospital in Angola shortly before midnight.

Herbert Grimm, 24, employe in a Waterloo poolroom, who was driving the car he was contemplating buying, suffered a crushed chest and lacerations about the body. Russell Dunn, iceman, suffered minor bruises.

Shook was on auto salesman and Sherrick represented the same line of cars at Lagrange. It was while demonstrating the car and teaching Grimm to manipulate the car that the accident occurred.

While driving around the east detour near the DeKalb county line on the Waterloo-Pleasant Lake road, Grimm lost control of the car and it crashed down an embankment.

Shook's widow will receive $1,000 from the accident policy he carried with The Journal Gazette. Surviving with his widow are two small children.

Sherrick suffered abdominal injuries and from severe shock. He regained consciousness in the hospital and remained conscious until shortly bfore his death. He is survived by a widow and small boy. Grimm and Dunn are also married.

Dr. Shook of Spncerville, went to Waterloo, Monday as soon as he learned of the accident.

The Grimm boy, who was driving the machine was a brother of Mrs. Paul Curie of this place.

Look for Ad on the BACK PAGE
HIGH'S

BE CAREFUL AT HOME

As many or more people are killed right in their own residences than on the streets and highways.

Hundreds of communities, national organizations, state bodies and local associations are trying to cope with the traffic problem but practically nobody is worried about the national toll taken by home accidents. More than 18,500 men, women and children met accidental death in their own homes last year.

We Buy CLOVER SEED!
Bring Your SEEDS to Us
WE WILL PAY YOU HIGHEST MARKET PRICES

NATHAN Grain Co.
St. Joe's New Lumber Yard
Call By Phone for Prices Bert Jackson, Mgr.

Red Top Features Which Give You Better Fences At Lower Cost

BETTER fences that go up quicker, easier and cheaper; that look neater, require less repair and upkeep and last longer—you can have such fences at a lower cost per rod when you use the improved Red Top Studded Tee Post.

The Red Top is reinforced from point to top with a sturdy studded rib of steel. The studs furnish an ingenious method of attaching fence wire without the necessity of weakening the post by punching staple slots. The Red Top is guaranteed not to break in the fence line and to outlast the heaviest galvanized fencing made.

The Red Top patented Handy Fastener keeps the fence wire from being pushed or pulled away from the post. The correctly spaced post studs keep the wire from slipping up or down. Nothing skimpy about this fastener—it is made heavy for strength and its long leg wraps all the way around the stem of the post.

The Aluminum Metallic finish is baked on every Red Top and becomes an integral part of the post. This weather protective coating lengthens the life of the Red Top, makes your fence lines attractive and keeps them looking that way.

Two post studs, a part of the post itself, lock the anchor plate everlastingly to the Red Top. It is guaranteed not to come off or become loosened. This patent is one of the most sensible improvements ever made in a steel post. It means that the anchor plate is attached without one hole being punched in the post to weaken it and soft steel rivets or clamps also become unnecessary. Thus the Red Top is extra strong at the very place where strains concentrate when the post is in use.

Come in and let us us show you this improved Red Top; also the One Man Post Driver. Prices are very reasonable on posts just now and we recommend early buying.

Red Top GUARANTEED Steel Fence Posts

Spencerville Lumber & Supply Co.
SPENCERVILLE, IND.

MISS INDIANA REVEALS MARRIAGE PROPOSAL

John Bachman Sized Her Up Right Is A Good Girl—Can Cook Sew and Keep House

Miss Hilda Koch of South Bend, a former St. Joe girl, who received a proposal of marriage from John Bachman of Roanoke, a few days ago, Monday revealed the full text of the letter. Miss Koch represented Indiana at the beauty contest held at Atlantic City recently.

Bachman, evidently one of nature's noblemen from the rolling prairie of the corn belt, lays all his worldly goods, including eighty acres of good black soil, a nice home and a spotless reputation, at the feet of Miss Koch, or, if she cannot accept them, at the feet of any other fair one who is "not sickly" and can cook and sew. The letter follows in full:

"Dear miss Hilda i see your picture In my Peoria Transcript. You look like a good Girl. maby make a good housekepp. i guess you know Cooking and Sewing and so on. if I mary good honest Girl i give her very nice home. all new Buildings on and about 80 acres Farm Land with it. so long she lives. all black soil. good Land. no timber Land.

"one Forty acres is right at Roanoke where i live. about three blocks from stores and Depo. other Forty acres is about four miles South of Roanoke all good Land all Black Soil close to the Hard Road. She can't get from no body such nice home lots fellers wants to mary ain't got nothing. i got few Farms not far from Roanoke. i will tell you little from me.

"i never was a Drunkard. i never did care for Strong Drink.. the Drinks i keep in my house is well water coffee and milk.

"i never was a Tobacco youser. no card Player Swearing bad langish and so on. i Stay a way from them.

"if a Girl is fraid of me i can give her Plenty witness round our Town here and out in Contry.

"you Might be good Girl. I would be very glad to hear from you. you just write while to me. you will see i told you the trough. i belong to the Church. and i have to do right if i want to Die n the Lrd. i hope i hear from you.

"if i am too late for you, could you give me one another good hones Girl their name adress. no so bad looking one. no Sickly one. Best wishes to you.

"John Bachman."

SUNDAY SCHOOL REPORTS

The following is the report of Sunday schools in this vicinity for last Sunday, according to information sent The News by representatives of the schools reported.

Lutheran	77	$5.70
M. P.	52	$3.32
Spencerville M. E.	70	$4.31
Lutheran	64	$3.56

NEW AND TESTED RECIPES FOR LADIES OF THE NEWS

PINEAPPLE TAPIOCA

½ cup quick cooking tapioca.
½ cup sugar.
¼ teaspoon salt.
1 quart hot water.
1 cup canned pineapple (grated or chopped.

Cook tapioca, sugar and salt in hot water in double boiler 15 minutes, stirring frequently. Remove from heat and stir in pineapple. Chill. Serve in glasses garnished with sweetened and flavored whipped cream. If fresh fruit is used, is should be sweetened to taste and allowed to stand ½ hour or more. Any available fruit juice may be used as part of liquid.

PORK SALAD

2 cups cold lean diced pork.
1 cup fresh chopped celery.
Pepper.
1 cup chopped tart apple.
Salt.
Paprika.
Lettuce.
Mayonnaise.

Combine apples and mayonnaise. Mix the other ingredients, except paprika and lettuce, add to the mayonnaise and apples. Place on lettuce leaves and garnish with a touch of mayonnaise and a dash of paprika.

Writing tablets at News office.

UNUSUAL ACCIDENT WEST OF AUBURN

Herman Swanders, Driving Team of Horses, and Three Automobiles Figure in Crash

Herman Swanders of Keyser township, and Dave Hamm of Garrett, had close calls with death in a double accident that occurred Monday morning about 10 o'clock just west of Auburn on the state highway.

Mr. Swanders lives on the Cattell farm three miles northwest of Garrett. He was on his way to Auburn with a team of horses hitched to running gears. Dr. O. A. Kemper of Richmond, Ind., with a colored chauffer, was on his way east in a Hudson car. E. W. Koons of Auburn, was driving west and it was necessary for the Hudson to slow up to let Mr. Koons pass the wagon.

Instead of slowing up behind the wagon, the Hudson struck the vehicle with sufficient force to break the coupling pole. Mr. Swanders tumbled from his seat and fell under the Hudson car. The latter stopped within a few feet and the wheels did not strike Mr. Swanders. The horses, frightened, and with no driver, started to run east down the road with half of the wagon. Mr. Hamm was in his new Chevrolet coupe driving west. When he saw the horses running he steered his car to the extreme right side of the road and stopped hoping the team would pass him.

However, the horses ran directly towards the Chevrolet and when they reached the car one was on each side of it. The wagon tongue crashed through the windshield and into the top, tearing off most of the top. The broken glass fell upon Mr. Hamm, but the wagon tongue missed him and his only injury was a slight scratch on his thumb. The horses became separated in the collision with the automobile and ran into a field.

By this time Mr. Swanders was on his feet and he helped round up the horses. Dr. Kemper then brought him to the Dr. Bonnell Souder hospital in Auburn. He was found to be suffering from a severe gash in his head and several bruises about his body. It is expected that he will be able to leave the hospital in a short time.

The body of the Chevrolet car was damaged to such an extent that it will be necessary to replace it. Only the bumper of the Hudson car was bent and that was the only damage to that machine.

BIG CROWD HEARS CONG. DAVID HOGG

Tells of Five Necessary Qualifications of Sunday School Teacher in Address at M. E. Church

A gathering that nearly filled the auditorium of the M. E. Church assembled at the annual council meeting of the DeKalb County Council of Religious Education, in Auburn Sunday, to hear the reports of the county officers and to listen to the address of Congressman David Hogg. Mr. Hogg spoke on the five necessary qualifications of a Sunday School teacher, giving this from his own twenty-five years experience as a teacher, and was received with much interest.

Two hundred and forty-six answered to the roll call and listened attentively to the address of Congressman Hogg. The speaker, who used for his subject, "The How and Why of Leadership Training," elaborated upon five essential qualifications which make a teacher or Sunday School worked successful:

1—"The teacher must be a converted person."

2—"Such persons must live in a proper Christian atmosphere."

3.—"They must have a workable knowledge of the Bible."

4.—"Teachers and Sunday School workers must have a zeal or an enthusiasm which will bring others to Christ."

5.—"Every Sunday School teacher must be so enthusiastic that God will baptize him with the Holy Spirit."

The convention was in charge of Fred B. Leighty of St. Joe, the county president and Miss Sadie Coy of Auburn, secretary of the county association. Fred W. Knott of Auburn, led the singing and Mrs. Harry Beidler was at the piano.

The group meetings held at the close of the address were in charge of Mrs. Nora McDonald of Corrunna, chairman of the educational division; Oscar Burnier of Auburn in charge of the adult department and Miss Annise Harding of Corunna in charge of the department of young people.

Further announcement was made of the Training Leadership school to be held in Auburn, November 7 to 11. The Auburn Y. M. C. A. has given the workers four rooms in which to conduct the school. There will be ten lessons of fifty minute periods in the five nights. At least four scholars are expected from each of the sixty schools of the county. The registration fee is to be one dollar per scholar. This is to pay the expenses of the school. Each scholar will purchase his own text books and lesson material. The courses to be given, with teacher of each course, and price of text books for this course are as follows:

Course 201.—Story Telling in Religious Eduction. Text, Religious Education Through Story Telling by Cather, $1.35. Teacher, Miss Nellie C. Young of Indianapolis.

Cours 118.—The Administration of Daily Vacation Church Schools. Text, How to Conduct a Church Vacation School, by Gage, $1.50. Teacher, Rev. H. L. Miller, Fort Wayne, Ind.

Course 78.—Young People's Department Administration, by either Harris or Maus, $1.00, $1.50. Teacher, Rev. Edgar L. Mullins, Fort Wayne, Ind.

Course 91.—Church School Administration by Ferguson, $1.75. Teacher, Rev. M. K. Richardson, Fort Wayne, Ind.

The teachers of all of the courses have been approved by the International Association and are the very best to be had in this section of the state. The school is assured of the very highest type of instruction.

The county officers will have literature for every school in the county every week before school starts in Auburn. If the superintendent does not bring this to the attention of the Sunday School in public session, those, who are interested are urged to get in touch with any one of the county force, and full details will be given them. Registration blanks will be in the hands of Sunday School officers well in advance of the time for registration.

Early Baseball

The first baseball club in America was organized at New York on September 23, 1845. The first game ever played between two organized baseball nines was at Hoboken, N. J., between the Knickerbockers and the New York nine.

TELEPHONE A NECESSITY ON THE FARM

The telephone as a meduim of contact is firmly established on the modern American farm.

The telephone enables the calling of help immediately in case of fire, sickness or sudden accident. In the case of breakdown of farm machinery, the telephone saves hours, sometimes days, in getting repairs.

Not to be overlooked, is the opportunity the telephone gives for social contact—a few minutes' chat with the nearest neighbor, who may be miles away, or a call to an adjoining state may be accomplished in the same short space of time.

The telephone is not only a convenience—it is a social and economic necessity on the farm as well as in the city.

View 17-Year Locust

The so-called "seventeen-year" locust is not a special kind of locust at all, but the common variety which changes its form under certain conditions. The fact has been discovered by a scientist at work in Egypt, where the locust pest has been a problem for years.

DAY-FAN RADIO RECEIVERS

This year you can have the famous radio used by great broadcasting stations in six tube models all the way from $65.00 up. If you don't want to use batteries, Day-Fan has two different light-socket models — one using AC tubes, one using the entirely new discovery in radio of a motor and generator. This set is a marvel. Before you buy a radio —before you change from your old set to anything else —come in and hear Day-Fan!

DAY-FAN SERVES THE WORLD

HORNER'S DRUG STORE, Butler.

ALL-STEEL WAGONS

Kinsey's Store is the place for Young America to have his wants supplied. We are featuring in our windows the Gendron Line of All-Steel Vehicles.

BULL-DOG. Just the kind the youngster likes.....$4.98

PIONEER RACER. Another of the youngster's favorites.....$6.98

Foot Balls, Basket Balls, Base Balls, Famous Daisy Line of Air Rifles, Scooters, Roller Skates etc

CORN CUTTING NEEDS

ETS IN BUSHEL AND HALF BUSHEL SIZES. FODDER TIES, CORN CUTTERS, OAK AND STEEL BASKTING CORN, SUCH AS: PEGS, HOOKS, WRIST BANDS, WE HAVE ALL THE NECESSITIES A GOING FOR CUT-

E. R. KINSEY, Hardware Furniture

OCTOBER

L 915 U577

Colorful Velveteen Jackets and Skirts for Collegiate Wardrobe

By JULIA BOTTOMLEY

ACCORDING to the prophecy of fashion seers every one youthful is going to wear colorful velveteen this season. It really is not practical, nor is it according to the latest dictates of the mode, to plan a collegiate wardrobe these days without reckoning on velveteen for jackets and skirts.

First of all, in regard to the popular colors for velveteen, one has choice of very wonderful leaf browns, copper, amber and toast shades, also ravishing wine tones, likewise navy and black and green, the latter from light to dark. Then there is the new printed velveteen, which makes up so cleverly into the separate blouse.

Youthfulness, that so-much-to-be-desired quality in schoolgirl clothes, is stamped all over the coed outfit in the picture. It is really astonishing what miracles a little velveteen jacket like this one can perform in solving the "what to wear" problem of school-faring young women.

Here are several ways to make one velvet jacket do duty as part of many ensembles. Suppose, for instance, a complete little suit consisting of jacket and skirt of velveteen with a simple little matching sweater-blouse of jersey, plus a lingerie blouse or two, constitute the original purchase, and oh, yes! do not forget to order a separate belt of the velveteen. Just think of the changes afforded in this initial investment.

Next, in buying the one-piece cloth dress which is inevitable in every school outfit, choose wool crepe and match or blend its color to that of the coat of one's velvet suit. Here is where the velvet belt plays its part. This cloth frock topped with the velvet jacket will achieve an ensemble costume, as will be seen in the illustration.

To further the wearableness of the velveteen jacket pose it over a two-piece knitted or jersey frock, the kind that are "all the rage," having a sweater blouse with a skirt of same either plaited or gathered so as to attain the fashionable full hemline. Of course a stitched matching velvet hat is a final touch of chic.

(©, 1927, Western Newspaper Union.)

Children and Pets

Teach the children to take care of their own pets and they will enjoy them more.

Washing Machines and How to Make Wise Selection

Types of Washing Machines.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Most women realize the convenience of a washing machine, especially if it can be run by electricity, but they are often puzzled when it comes to making a selection from among the many different makes. All of the makes on the market can be classified into four types, according to the principle on which they operate. Selection becomes a matter of personal preference for a particular operating principle. Each type has its advantages. In all, the washing is done by some device that forces soapy water through the clothes until they are clean.

The bureau of home economics of the United States Department of Agriculture has a permanent loan exhibit of a number of makes, differing within each type only in detail of construction. A visit to this exhibit would be a help in deciding which machine was best for one's purpose.

The cylinder type of washer has a perforated cylinder of metal or wood in which the clothes are placed. This revolves in an outer container holding soap and water. The cylinder has blunt projections on the inside, which carry the clothes along as it revolves. It reverses its direction automatically from time to time. The water gushes through the perforations and cleanses the clothes. There is a second type of cylinder machine in which the cylinder is in the form of a flattened perforated box which moves back and forth so that the clothes tumble from one end to the other.

The "dolly" principle consists of a revolving device suspended in the center of the tub, fastened either to the clothes first in one direction and then in the other. The corrugations of the sides and bottom of the tub help to cleanse the clothes partly by friction.

In the oscillating type of machine, the tub itself rocks and tilts back and forth, tossing the clothes from one end to the other, and the water moves in a curving path.

The vacuum-cup type of machine is a development of the funnel on a stick device in vogue twenty or more years ago. The soapy water is forced through the clothes by the pressure and suction produced by the cups.

When buying an electric machine, specify the voltage of the local current, and whether it is direct or alternating, and if alternating, the cycle. Consider the shape and size of the machine in relation to the room, where you expect to use it. Be sure it is not too large. Choose a flat top if you are likely to want it for a working surface between wash days. Buy a machine of the right capacity for your average washing, and of the right height for you to operate. Find out whether the manufacturer's repair service is easily available. Simple construction is advisable. The frame should be strong and rigid, but it should be possible to roll the machine about on casters. The mechanism and gearing must be properly covered for safety and cleanliness, and the motor should be located where it will not get wet. Ask how often the machine must be oiled and whether that can be done easily. Any movable parts, such as a cylinder, should be light in weight and easy to handle. The water outlet should be practical for easy drainage. See whether the wringer can be used when the machine is washing. Consider the possible advantages of a centrifugal drier.

What's the Answer?

Questions No. 20

1—What is meant by the term "Water Babies?"

2—What was the real name of Lewis Carroll, author of "Alice in Wonderland"?

3—Which is the largest river in New England?

4—What audacious American genius who was painter, etcher, pastelist and lithographer; who had much in common with the impressionists, but was of no school but his own, was also famous for his wit in conversation and the brilliancy of his writings?

5—Who was the first woman to swim the English channel?

6—What was the date of the Boston massacre?

7—When did Daniel Boone first come to Kentucky?

8—Who discovered X-rays?

9—What is the annual salary of the President of the United States?

10—Does the name "Catholic" apply only to the church?

11—What woman was the heroine of the battle of Monmouth in the Revolution?

12—What general captured Stony Point in the Revolution?

13—Who invented wireless telegraph?

14—Who is the Western open golf champion?

15—What American actress of a past generation is most frequently mentioned when the great stars of the world are under discussion?

16—What great city of the world stands on two continents?

17—What English author entered Mecca and Medina disguised as a Moslem?

18—Where is the Fiddler crab found?

19—In case of the death or disability of both the President and the vice-president of the United States, who becomes President?

20—What is the total number of non-Christians in North America?

Answers No. 19

1—Vicente Blasco Ibanez.

2—Jack Delaney.

3—John Rolfe.

4—Gen. Henry Hamilton, British.

5—Cyrus McCormick.

6—The Drews and the Barrymores.

7—The group of three great mountain ranges which traverse the country from north to south.

8—They are water rats and are widespread throughout England and Scotland.

9—Immigrant is used with reference into which, emigrant with reference to the country from which migration is made.

10—It is an important festival in the Greek, Roman and English churches. It is held on the 40th day after Easter.

11—The common fox.

12—Pedro Calderon.

13—Rene La Coste of France.

14—Battle of the Thames, 1813.

15—Battle of San Jacinto, 1836.

16—Richard J. Gatling.

17—Grieg; his "Peer Gynt" suite.

18—The Congo.

19—The "from" is redundant, "whence" meaning from what place.

20—Whitsunday is in contrast with Lent, in that no fasting was enjoined, and prayer was offered standing rather than kneeling.

Make Use of Hot Oven for Scalloped Potatoes

When the oven is in use for other cooking, take advantage of it to have scalloped potatoes. While it is possible to cook them in the oven from start to finish, it takes less time, and in a gas oven, less fuel, if you parboil them first. If the oven must be hotter for something else than the potatoes require, set the baking dish in a pan of water as you would in making a custard. If the potatoes cook too rapidly the milk will boil over and not only be difficult to clean from the oven, but will also make a disagreeable odor all through the house.

Th bureau of home economics gives the recipe below:

Scalloped Potatoes.

6 potatoes, medium size	2 tablespoonfuls flour
1 pint milk	2 tablespoonfuls chopped parsley
4 to 6 tablespoonfuls butter

Wash and cook the potatoes in boiling salted water until half done. Skin the potatoes and cut them in cubes. Grease a baking dish or pan, place in it a layer of the potatoes, sprinkle them with some of the flour and dot with the butter. Continue until all the potatoes are used. Pour n sufficient milk to almost cover the potatoes. Bake in a slow oven until the potatoes are brown on top and soft throughout. If the potatoes become dry, add more milk.

Bedtime Story for Children

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

Down by one bank of a river was a row of weeping willow trees, and on the opposite side stood a row of poplar trees.

One day the brownies thought they would like to have a breakfast party underneath the row of weeping willows.

"Yes," said one of the elves, when the brownies were inviting them to their breakfast party, "I think it would be a fine idea.

"But somehow, we've always felt sorry for those poplar trees standing opposite.

"I will tell you what we'll do.

"We'll each have a breakfast party, and then we'll tell our experiences.

"How about it, brownies?"

The next morning the brownies with picnic baskets, and the elves with their picnic baskets started off for their breakfast parties.

They went in boats of pond lily leaves down along the river until they came to the weeping willows and the poplars, and there they separated.

"Good-by," they shouted to each other.

And soon they could be seen from either side unpacking their baskets.

"Well," said the elves to the poplar trees, "we've come to honor you!"

And they made deep, low bows before the poplar trees.

The poplar trees paid not the slightest bit of attention. They still stood with their heads straight up in the air.

Soon the elves heard the poplars muttering. This is what they said:

"We'll be much obliged if you go to those silly weeping willows," they whispered, as they waved just a little in the wind.

In Boats of Pond Lily Leaves.

"The idea of thinking you've paid us a compliment to come and eat your silly food here.

"Why, it's almost an insult to us—why, we—we are the friends of the sun.

"We're great friends of his. Do you suppose we care about silly people, or even elves, when we can chat with Mr. Sun?

"And our little leaves play with the breezes.

"Aren't they far more important than anything else?

"Breezes have their own way, you know. They're most independent and do just as they choose.

"And we're very friendly with Mr. Moon—we have very high-up friends.

"And we'll thank you if you'll leave us."

Now the elves couldn't help but laugh when the poplars said their friends were very high up, for certainly no one could deny that Mr. Sun and Mr. Moon were anything else but high up in the world.

But off they went to join the brownies by the weeping willows and they told their story.

"Why," whispered the weeping willows, "that's why we have so many friends.

"We like everybody—we don't try to reach for the moon.

"We're so glad you've all come.

"We'll keep you so cool—and if you want to know why we weep—it's for joy—sheer joy!"

(Copyright.)

Delightful Chili Sauce a Variation of Catsup

Preparing Ingredients of Chili Sauce.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Chili sauce is an appetizing variation of tomato catsup, containing red and green peppers and spices. It is often served with meats or fish or used as a seasoning for sandwiches. It may be put into mayonnaise to give flavor. The bureau of home economics tells how to make it:

Chili Sauce.

6 quarts chopped ripe tomatoes	1 cupful sugar
3 cupfuls chopped red pepper	3 cupfuls vinegar
3 cupfuls chopped green pepper	1 teaspoonful cloves
1½ cupfuls chopped onions	1 teaspoonful allspice
3 tablespoonfuls salt	1 teaspoonful cinnamon

Combine the chopped vegetables, the salt, the sugar, and simmer this mixture until it begins to thicken. Then add the vinegar and spices and cook the mixture down until it becomes a thick sauce. Pour into hot sterilized jars and seal. Or bottle the sauce and seal with wax. This recipe yields about three quarts of sauce.

Recipes That Will Be Welcomed When Cold Dishes Are Wanted

Oh! to be big enough to follow Archbishop Benson's principles: "Not to call attention to crowded work or petty fatigues, or trivial experiences. To seek no favor, no compassion: to deserve, not to ask, for tenderness. To heal wounds which in times past my cruel and careless hands have made. Not to feel any uneasiness when my advice or opinion is not asked, or is set aside."

By NELLIE MAXWELL

There are so many delightful dishes which may be made and frozen unstirred or molded, that there is an infinite variety from which to choose.

Cherry Mousse.—To a pint of double cream add three tablespoonfuls of powdered sugar, a cupful of cherry juice and a drop or two of almond extract. Chill and whip the cream until stiff, then add the other ingredients. Turn into a mold, cover closely and pack in ice and salt for four hours.

Nougat Ice Cream.—Cook together a cupful of sour cream and a cupful of sugar until it reaches the soft ball stage when tried in cold water, flavor and add a cupful of hickory nut meats or pecans, add one quart of rich milk to which has been added a cupful of sugar and when cool freeze as usual.

Fruit Crown.—Peel, core and quarter three sweet apples and three quinces, cover with sweet cider and cook until tender; remove the apples unbroken. Measure the cider and add enough to make a pint. Over half a box of gelatin pour half a cupful of cold cider, set into cold water and stir until it begins to thicken, then turn into a border mold, tipping the mold so that the jelly will line the mold. Now fill with chopped and cooked quinces and the apples. Cover with jelly and set away to chill. Invert on a cold dish and fill the center with sweetened cream or pour it around the mold. Garnish with browned almonds.

Grape Nectar.—To a quart of grape juice add a pint of sirup and the juice of four oranges. Chill and when serving add a bottle of charged water.

Pineapple Drink.—Add a pint of prepared sirup (water and sugar cooked together) to a pint of grated pineapple. Set on ice for three hours, add a bit of lemon juice, strain and serve.

Grape juice prepared as a drink is delightful with addition of a bottle of ginger ale.

Ever Ready Lemonade.—Boil together one cupful each of sugar and water, add one-half cupful of lemon juice, cook a few minutes and bottle. Keep in the ice chest until it is ready for the addition of water and ice and the drink is ready. A tablespoonful of this sirup to a glass of water makes a fine drink.

Mashed chestnuts makes a most dainty and appetizing dish to serve with meats as one does potato. Cook and season them as for mashed potato.

Peach Bouchees.—Bake a rich biscuit dough over timbal molds, and when cold fill with sweetened sliced peaches over which has been poured a little orange juice; serve topped with whipped cream.

(©, 1927, Western Newspaper Union.)

Rapid Work Secret of Successful Jelly Roll

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Rapid work is one of the secrets of making a successful jelly roll. Any preferred recipe for sponge cake may be used. It should be baked in a thin sheet. The cake must be handled while warm, just out of the pan, or it will break when you try to roll it. Before taking the cake from the oven, spread a piece of waxed paper on the table. Sprinkle it with powdered sugar. Turn the cake out on this, upside down, and trim off the crusty edges on the sides. Spread quickly with jelly or preserves, and begin rolling at the side nearest you. When the cake is rolled up, roll the paper around it and tie it in place so the jelly roll will keep its shape. The United States Department of Agriculture will furnish you with a recipe for sponge cake.

Making a Jelly Roll.

Historic Flag Now in French Army Museum

A priceless relic of Napoleon and his Grand Armee has been presented to the French Army museum at the Invalides. This is the original flag of the emperor's First regiment of foot grenadiers—the most glorious standard of the imperial guard. Measuring about 33 inches square, it is beautifully embroidered with imperial eagles and golden bees, and bears the inscription: "Garde Imperiale. L'Empereur Napoleon au Premier Regiment de Grenadiers-a-pied." This is the only flag which accompanied the emperor throughout his campaigns in Germany and Flanders, and it flew at Waterloo. It was this standard which General Petit held on the great parade at Fontainebleu in which Napoleon bade farewell to his troops before going into exile, and which he kissed in the presence of his weeping grenadiers. It was presented to the army museum by the family of the late Haton de la Goupillere, a grandson of the General Petit who was holding it when it received the emperor's last salute.

Great Lover of Books

The greatest of book collectors was Richard Heber, an Englishman who died almost a hundred years ago. He is said to have owned 150,000 books, many of them of great rarity. His library in London filled eight houses; when it was sold at auction the sale lasted more than six months and brought over $250,000. Heber is the man who said that every gentleman ought to own three copies of any good book, one for show, one for use, and one to lend.—Youth's Companion.

OCTOBER

L 915 D578

STORY FROM THE START

Dr. Ronald McAlister, psychologist, undertakes to solve the mystery of the murder of a recluse, Henry Morgan. The dead man's papers reveal that he had been in New Zealand, where McAlister had lived in his youth. Will Harvey testifies to seeing a woman in a green cloak at the Morgan home the night of the murder. Doctor McAlister is asked to see a young woman patient in a hospital. In her delirium she mutters in a strange language which only McAlister understands. He suspects she may know something of the murder. A carefully hidden map is discovered by McAlister and Assistant District Attorney Ashton in Morgan's home. While they are searching a young woman enters the house in the darkness and escapes, leaving behind a green cloak. The name of Jane Perkins, a housemaid, is brought into the case and McAlister believes he has a clue. In response to an advertisement of the finding of a green cloak, a young woman, giving her name as Jane Perkins, housemaid at The Meredith, claims it. McAlister takes two laboratory instruments to The Meredith for an undisclosed purpose.

CHAPTER VI—Continued

—9—

And yet his manner when he took the chair that Wilkins placed for him, and glanced over the menu card suddenly became leisurely and deliberate. He had a little chat with Wilkins, taking the advice of that gastronomic expert as seriously as if a good dinner were the only subject that he felt the slightest interest in just then.

The waiter got our order at last and went away with it to the kitchen, and Wilkins himself, with a grave inclination of the head, started to move away, but the doctor called him back.

"I wonder, Wilkins," he said, "whether you can find out for me if there is a chambermaid named Jane Perkins employed in the hotel."

The man shot a quick look of surprise into the doctor's face, a look quite at variance with his ordinary stiff immobility.

"Yes, sir, there is such a young woman working here," he said. "It happens that I am acquainted with her personally."

"Ah," said the doctor in a tone of satisfaction, "that simplifies matters. I might have known that you would be able to help me. Wilkins, it happens that I very much wish to have a little conversation with that young woman."

Wilkins inclined his head gravely, without a word.

"You'll arrange it for me, won't you?" said the doctor. "I'd like to have her sent to my room immediately after dinner."

There was a momentary silence after that. Both of us looked up in some surprise that the man did not answer. His face was unusually grave.

"I beg your pardon, sir," he said with a little hesitation; "I hope you'll forgive the liberty, but I have, as I was saying, something of a personal interest in that young woman. I hope she's not in any difficulty, sir. I hope that she has not been doing anything that she shouldn't have done."

"I'm inclined to think not," said the doctor, "but unless I am mistaken, she's in a difficulty."

Wilkins said nothing, but his silence was expectant. He was too well trained to ask any questions, but it was very evident that he wanted to know more.

"I think I may venture to be frank with you, Wilkins," the doctor resumed. "Of course what I say is between ourselves, and I want your promise to say nothing of it to the young woman in question."

"Yes, sir; certainly, sir."

"In the investigation of the Oak Ridge murder the other night a certain green cloak was found, which in the state attorney's office, is believed to have been worn by an unknown woman who committed that crime. That cloak was advertised as found, in the afternoon papers, and was almost immediately claimed and identified beyond a doubt by this Jane Perkins, who gave The Meredith as her address—"

"She didn't do it, sir," Wilkins interrupted quickly. "I'm sure she can't be guilty of the crime of murder. She's a very quiet girl, sir—a good girl."

"I have made a little investigation of that mystery on my own account," said the doctor, "and I'm inclined to think you're right. I should, however, be glad to have some better founded reason for that opinion. There are certain circumstances which point at her directly enough to bring her under serious suspicion and to make her a good deal of trouble. If Mr. Phelps and I can convince ourselves, in advance, of her innocence, we will gladly do all that is within our power, both in representations we will make to Mr. Ashton and otherwise, to shield her."

"That's very good of you, sir," said Wilkins. "I'll see that she's sent up to your room the moment you have finished dinner."

There was another little silence; still Wilkins kept his place beside our table. Presently, after a little apologetic cough, he spoke again.

"It strikes me, sir, that it might, perhaps, be as well if the young woman were not to know that she was to be questioned. If she is innocent, it would only flusher her, and if she is guilty, it would give her time to prepare herself. If you wish, I will arrange to have her sent to your apartments, instead of the regular chambermaid who works upon that floor, to prepare your bedrooms for the night. In that way she'll suspect nothing."

The doctor glanced at him shrewdly. "That was a very able suggestion, Wilkins. Thank you for making it."

"Not at all, sir," said Wilkins.

"For the present," the doctor concluded, "you will remember that you are to say nothing of this conversation to anyone, either to the other people in the hotel, or to—Mr. Ashton."

The Man Shot a Quick Look of Surprise Into the Doctor's Face.

"Certainly not, sir."

The arrival of some other people in the dining room called him away just then, and we did not see him again until we were half through our meal. Then, looking up, we found him standing, silently, in his old place.

"The matter is arranged, sir," he said to the doctor. "The young person is at her own dinner just now, but she'll go up to attend to your rooms in about half an hour."

"Very good," said the doctor. "We can have our instruments ready by that time."

At the word "instruments" the man started, and, looking up, I found him regarding the doctor with a queer, half-frightened expression.

"Speaking of instruments, sir," he said, stammering a little, "there isn't going to be any mesmerism, or—"

The doctor interrupted him with a full-voiced laugh. "No hocus-pocus whatever, Wilkins; no black art, no clairvoyance, or anything of that sort. The instruments I speak of simply serve the purpose of a stop-watch, and the test is a perfectly simple, straightforward one."

Then, seeing that the man was still not entirely convinced, he added, "You can be present yourself, if you care to be."

"That's very good of you, sir," said the man. "On the young woman's account I will be glad to come, if you can wait until I can leave the dining room. That will be about eight-thirty, sir. I'd be sorry to keep you waiting, but she might be alarmed at any sort of test, and she has a good deal of confidence in me, sir."

"Very good," said the doctor, "only don't come up to the room with her. Follow along later, on some errand or other, and we'll call you in. Perhaps we'll make a little demonstration on you in advance, just to give her confidence."

A look of decorous amusement appeared on Wilkins' face.

"That will be very interesting, I'm sure, sir," he said. As he bowed himself away I could see that he was still smiling.

"It's curious," I observed to the doctor. "We've seen that man daily since we came here to The Meredith to live, but I got an absolutely new impression of him this evening. It never occurred to me before that when he laid aside his professional manner he might be a thoroughly human, kindly old chap, with as many affections and concerns as any of us, and with, perhaps, about the same opinion of our reality as we have always had of his."

"We'd better get on," said the doctor, suiting the action to the word "We haven't any time to waste."

As we walked over toward the elevator Wilkins preceded us and rang the bell for us, just as he always did. I had it my tongue's end to make some reference to our engagement with him for a little later in the evening, not that it was necessary, but simply because it was more natural to say, "In half an hour, then," or something of that sort, than merely to nod and answer his good night. I think he must have perceived that intention, certainly he checked it by looking, just then, a little more wooden and professional than ever. I understood when I glanced over his shoulder and saw that Ashton had just come in. He was not looking our way. Whether he had made a point of not looking, I do not know; but I was glad that I had not blurted out, in his hearing, any reference to the unusual and highly unprofessional sort of engagement that the doctor and I had with Wilkins.

"A rather remarkable man," said I, as we stepped into the elevator.

The doctor nodded.

A few minutes later, in the doctor's spacious sitting room where we had set up our instruments and now sat waiting for the arrival of the subject we meant to test by them, we heard a rap at the door.

"No timidity about that," observed the doctor in a whisper; "and no effrontery, either. A plain, common sense, professional knock. Let her in will you, Phelps?"

It was with a mounting excitement that I crossed the room and laid my hand on the knob, for there, on the other side of this door, was one of the elements of our mystery. What would she prove to be? Another innocent person, tangled by pure chance in the spider's web of circumstance which surrounded our mystery; or would she turn out to be, herself, one of the spinners of the web?

When I opened the door I got, instantaneously, a very good view of the girl, for the sitting-room was brightly lighted and the little entrance hallway where she stood comparatively dark. And that first look of mine brought a disappointment there was no doubt of that. I had not known exactly what I had expected Jane Perkins to be like, but something different from this, certainly. The whole look of her as she stood there, an appearance so pervasive that it baffled analysis, was of stolid stupidity.

Her eyes were dull, her cheeks a very dark red, so that as I looked at her first I suspected a perfectly reckless use of cosmetic. Of course the standard I compared her by was the wild girl in the hospital, for, upon the doctor's theory of Harvey's testimony that wild girl's profile had reminded him forcibly of this English house maid. There was a crude sort of resemblance between the two faces—the heavy brows and lashes, the black hair and general contour of the features. Indeed, the thing that occurred to me as I stood there was the ridiculous futility of written descriptions of faces, when the same description would include two people whose general air and appearance were so diametrically different.

I found it impossible to describe the wildness and curious unearthly distinction of that other face; I found it as difficult to analyze the tameness the commonplace banality of this one. And yet, seen in silhouette, they might look a good deal alike.

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

Birds to Be Classed as Master Builders

Birds are the most perfect builders, and—strange as it may sound—there is scarcely a trade that you will not find represented among these feathered craftsmen.

Many of the nests of American birds are marvels of ingenuity, but their greatest efforts pale beside the wonders of the tropics. Weavers, carpenters, tailors, plasterers, tunnelers—these are but a few of the many trades that we find practiced when the nesting season arrives.

The sand-martin and the kingfisher, both belong to the guild of tunnelers, and are content with a burrowed hole. Ducks, gulls, water hens, and corncrakes are all primitive builders, with no ideas beyond a rough and scanty collection of materials loosely thrown together on the ground.

The house swallow is a plasterer, employing as his building materials nothing more than mud, but out of this he contrives to erect a nest that is wonderfully strong, and put together with neatness and care.

The singing thrush uses more varied materials, a mixture of clay, cow manure, and moss, but well and truly laid, and forming a splendid home for the young birds.

That's Philosophy

A philosopher is a fellow who sits back and laughs at the people who have taken what he stands for as philosophy.—Baltimore Evening Sun.

Synthetic Philosophy

The synthetic philosophy is the name given to Herbert Spencer's system.

Improved Uniform International

Sunday School Lesson

(By REV. P. B. FITZWATER, D.D., Dean Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.)
(©, 1927, by Western Newspaper Union.)

Lesson for October 16

ELIJAH IN NABOTH'S VINEYARD

LESSON TEXT—I Kings 21.

GOLDEN TEXT—Be sure your sin will find you out.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Elijah's Message to a Wicked King.

JUNIOR TOPIC—The Wages of Sin.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—The Rebuke of Wrong.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Opposing Official Corruption.

I. Ahab Covets Naboth's Vineyard (v. 1-6).

1. Location of the vineyard (v. 1). It joined Ahab's summer home in Jezreel. He wanted to transform it into an herb garden and thus round out his property.

2. Ahab's proposal (v. 2). He offered to buy it outright for money, or give in exchange a better one.

3. Naboth's refusal (v. 3). He had a twofold reason: (1) regard for the paternal estate; (2) obedience to God's law (Lev. 25:23-28, cf. Num. 36:7-9). It doubtless would have been profitable to Naboth to have sold his vineyard, but loyalty to God was more important to him than money.

4. Ahab's behavior (v. 4). He came into his house, lay down upon his bed and refused to eat. The king was sulking like a spoiled child.

5. Jezebel's inquiry (vv. 5, 6). Apparently she came with the sympathy of a wife, inquiring as to the cause of his behavior. But when she knew of Naboth's refusal she was angry.

II. Ahab Taking Possession of Naboth's Vineyard (vv. 7-16).

1. Jezebel's treachery (vv. 7-15).

(1) Her contemptuous question (v. 7). She taunted him for his cowardice. The fear of being thought weak moves a weak man quickly. Scorn is a powerful weapon in the hands of unscrupulous persons.

(2) Her exhortation to Ahab (v. 7). "Arise and eat bread, and let thine heart be merry." A wife has great influence over her husband. Many a man has been saved from discouragement and therefore defeat through his wife's influence. Unfortunately in this case the influence of the wife was bad.

(3) Her promise to Ahab (v. 7). "I will give thee the vineyard of Naboth."

(4) Her wicked scheme (vv. 8-15). She wrote letters in Ahab's name, sealed them with his seal, and sent them to the elders and nobles who were dwelling in the city with Naboth, asking them to proclaim a fast as though some great calamity had befallen the nation, and place Naboth before the public as the one who was the cause of it all. They were instructed to find two false witnesses who would testify against Naboth. The charge they brought was blasphemy against God and the king. Naboth's only offense was his refusal to sell his estate. When they had thus stoned Naboth and his sons to death (2 Kings 9:26), they came and told Jezebel, who in turn came to Ahab with the information and directed him to take possession of the vineyard. It was the custom for the property of those who were condemned to death for blasphemy to revert to the king.

2. Ahab goes to Jezreel to take possession of Naboth's vineyard (v. 16).

Ahab had not killed Naboth, but he eagerly accepted the prize without inquiring as to how it was secured. Many today are like Ahab, too cowardly to commit wrong themselves but are willing to reap the benefits of the wrongdoing of others.

III. Elijah in Naboth's Vineyard Announcing Doom Upon Ahab (vv. 17-26).

Elijah told him the dogs should lick his blood in the place where they licked the blood of Naboth. It would seem that Naboth's body was thrown out to be devoured by the dogs. Evil was to fall upon Ahab and his posterity, even to wipe out his seed and name. Ahab stood in that vineyard guilty of all the sins which Jezebel had committed, though he had been silent and inactive. God held him responsible for Jezebel's acts, for he was king and head of the nation. The day of reckoning did come to Ahab (1 Kings 22:38). Ahab's question to Elijah when confronted by him in the vineyard showed that his conscience was not wholly dead.

2. Doom upon Jezebel (vv. 23-26). She likewise should be eaten by the dogs by the wall of Jezreel. This was literally fulfilled (2 Kings 9:33-37).

"Be sure your sin will find you out;" "Whatever a man soweth, that shall he also reap."

IV. Ahab's Repentance (vv. 27-29).

Because of this God promised to withhold judgment during his lifetime.

We Live in Deeds

We live in deeds, not years, in thoughts, not breaths, in feelings, not in figures on a dial. We should count time by heart throbs; he most lives who thinks most, feels the noblest, acts the best.—P. C. Bailey.

Safety

A safe auto driver keeps his hands on the wheel and his eyes on the road. A safe Christian keeps his hand on the Bible and his eyes on God.—T. C. H.

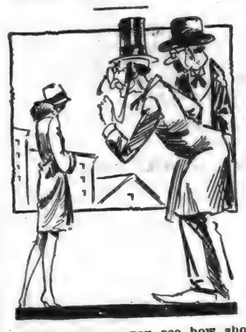
COULDN'T BE

The steamer was plowing its way across the channel at a time when a big sea was running. A kindly steward went up to an old lady, who looked very pale and was leaning against the rail.

"Come below," he said; "your teeth are chattering with the cold."

"Don't tell lies, laddie," replied the old lady, sternly. "My teeth are in my pocket."—Tit-Bits.

SIGHT FOR SORE EYES



"Professor, can you see how short that terrible woman is wearing her skirts?"

"No, doggoned, these glasses need readjusting."

Mary's Modern Lamb

Mary had a little lamb,
It drank some gasoline,
One day it wandered near the fire,
And since has not bensine.

Faultless

"It is extraordinary that Mrs. Jenks can never see any faults in her children," observed Mrs. Smith.

"Mothers never can," remarked her husband.

"What an absurd idea, James! So like a man. I'm sure I should see faults in our children at once—if they had any."—London Tit-Bits.

Valuable Thumb!

"How, madam," demanded the attorney for the defense in a compensation case, "can you prove that the thumb you lost in this accident was worth $5,000?"

"It was the thumb," retorted the plaintiff, "under which I kept my husband."—Vancouver Province.

All Set

"Of course, young man," said the girl's father, "you know that my daughter has always had a good home."

"Yes, sir," beamed the suitor. "I believe that it will prove entirely satisfactory."—American Legion Monthly.

UNMANNED

Mrs. Jones—"I hear Miss Passe is a wreck from losing the man she expected to marry." Mrs. Smith—"It's completely unmanned her, my dear."

Indestructible

There was a little joke.
For centuries it grew.
Now, when in public spoke,
It's just as good as new.

It's There

Jane—I just came from the drawing room.

Helen—There's no drawing room in that building.

Jane—Yes, there is. My dentist has an office in that building.

Worth of Difference

Customer—I can get this article 10 cents cheaper across the street.

Clerk—Perhaps so, but why risk your life for a dime?—Boston Transcript.

Had Its Number

Waitress (to customer troubled about his salad)—Is the salad gritty, sir?

Customer—Gritty? It's a gravel path with a few weeds in it.—London Tit-Bits.

Worth Trying

"Doctor, my wife is a kleptomaniac. Can you do anything for her?"

"Well, we might try vaccination; that keeps people from taking things."—Vancouver Province.

THIS WOMAN FOUND RELIEF

After Long Suffering by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

In a little town of the middle West, was a discouraged woman. For four months she had been in such poor health that she could not stoop to put on her own shoes. Unable to do her work, unable to go out of doors or enjoy a friendly chat with her neighbors, life seemed dark indeed to Mrs. Daugherty.

Then one day, a booklet was left at her front door. Idly she turned the pages. Soon she was reading with quickened interest. The little booklet was filled with letters from women in conditions similar to hers who had found better health by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"I began taking the Vegetable Compound," Mrs. Daugherty writes, "and after I took the third bottle, I found relief. I am on my eleventh bottle and I don't have that trouble any more, and feel like a different woman. I recommend the Vegetable Compound to everyone I see who has trouble like mine, and you can use these facts as a testimonial. I am willing to answer any letters from women asking about the Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. ED. DAUGHERTY, 1308 Orchard Ave., Muscatine, Iowa.

Are you on the Sunlit Road to Better Health?

Boschee's Syrup

has been relieving coughs due to colds for sixty-one years.

Soothes the Throat

loosens the phlegm, promotes expectoration, gives a good night's rest free from coughing. 30c and 90c bottles. Buy it at your drug store. G. G. Green, Inc., Woodbury, N. J.

For Pipe Sores, Fistula Poll Evil Try HANFORD'S Balsam of Myrrh

All dealers are authorized to refund your money for the first bottle if not suited.

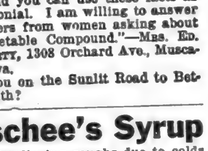
Four-Thousand-Mile "Toot"

An American manufacturer of motor car horns had extolled the merits of a new product—a two-tone instrument—on paper to a London customer, but the London man still wished to be convinced.

So the manufacturer mounted one of the horns near the Atlantic telephone and transmitted a sample "toot" across the ocean.

It was heard quite clearly, 4,000 miles away.—London Evening News.

CORNS



Ends pain at once!

In one minute pain from corns is ended. Dr. Scholl's Zino-pads do this safely by removing the cause—pressing and rubbing of shoes. They are thin, medicated, antiseptic, healing. At all drug and shoe stores. Cost but a trifle.

Dr Scholl's Zino-pads

Put one on—the pain is gone!

FOR OVER 200 YEARS

haarlem oil has been a world-wide remedy for kidney, liver and bladder disorders, rheumatism, lumbago and uric acid conditions

GOLD MEDAL HAARLEM OIL CAPSULES

correct internal troubles, stimulate vital organs. Three sizes. All druggists. Insist on the original genuine GOLD MEDAL.

PASTOR KOENIG'S NERVINE

for Epilepsy Nervousness & Sleeplessness

TAKE ONLY AS DIRECTED

KOENIG MEDICINE CO.
CHICAGO

OCTOBER

L 913 0579

Local Briefs

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Grimm are the owners of a new Chevrolet Sedan.

S. S. Widney is at Auburn, the guest of Marion Smith and family for a few weeks.

Chimney repairing is essential to safety of your home. Call Chas. Butler, Spencerville. 41t4p.

Horner's Drug Store, Butler, Ind., for Drugs, Sundries, Wall Paper and School Books. 41t3.

All notary work can be promptly cared for at News office. Call and see us.

When in Butler make Horner's Drug Store your headquarters. 41t3.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Stemen and daughter and Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Hursey attended the Ottowa fair last Thursday.

Wm. Mossberger, HK tower operator, is preparing to move from the Susan Sechler home into the Howard Northrup home in a couple of weeks, when Mr. and Mrs. Northrup leave for New Mexico.

The potato crop this year is very encouraging to those in the business. The late varieties are turning out fine, extra large and quality the best. J. H. Lindley has two excellent ones on display in our window.

Costume Program

Given by the "Sunshine Trio" at Concord M. P. Church, Friday Evening, October 14, 1927

Welcome ..... Trio
"Memories" ..... Alice Rhoads
Pianologue—"Styles" ..... Margaret Grubb—Gladys Bair
Monologues—"Little Dishwasher" ..... Gladys Bair
"Matrimonial Trials" ..... Margaret Grubb
Song—"Dear Little Rocking Chair" ..... Alice Rhoads
"One of Christ's Little Ones" ..... Gladys Bair
"Riley Day at School" ..... Margaret Grubb
"Phoning Sister's Beau" ..... Alice Rhoads
Pianologues—"In Wrong—So Long"—"It Takes" ..... Margaret and Gladys
"Me and My Shadow" ..... Alice Rhoads
Dramatized Pianologue—"The Missionary Barrel" ..... Margaret and Gladys
"Weaving of the Flag" ..... Alice Rhoads

Presentation of Vivid Characterizations in Dialects

Italian—"Rosa" ..... Margaret Grubb
"Dumb Ole Dago Anne" ..... Gladys Bair
"Wild Irish Rose" ..... Alice Rhoads
Swedish—"When Olga Olson Had Her Picture Tooked" ..... Margaret Grubb
"When Larry Was On The Force" ..... Gladys Bair
"I'mphm"—(Scotch) ..... Margaret Grubb
"A Small Town Sport" ..... Alice Rhoads

Darky Impersonations

"When Malinda Sings"
"Nebecannezzah" ..... Gladys Bair
"The Dumb Bell" ..... Margaret Grubb
"All Coons Look Alike to Me"
"Mammy's Little Honey Boy" ..... Margaret and Gladys
"Good Bye Song" ..... Alice Rhoads

The Readers on this program are from the Professional class under direction of Virginia Philley Withey of Fort Wayne

For Sale:—Packard Piano in good shape. Mrs. John Doll. Spencerville, Ind. 41t2p.

Rev. P. B. Roediger attended the Sunday School Workers Congress in Auburn Sunday afternoon.

A beautiful and inspiring ceremony was the baptismal service at the Lutheran Church, St. Joe, when one of their esteemed teachers, Mrs. Ima Miser, thus confessed faith and was received into membership by the Rev. P. B. Roediger, Pastor of the church.

The DeKalb County Tuberculosis Society will hold a Clinic in the assembly room of the court house, Tuesday, October 25th from 1 to 4 P. M. Dr. Eric Crull of Ft. Wayne, examiner. Any one wanting a chest or throat examination, are asked to attend.

The South Bend county ministerial association today passed a resolution condemning Attorney General Arthur Gilliom for his open stand on the liquor question. The resolution branded him as a "confessed law violator," and deplored his actions and words as a breach of office.

OPTOMETRY—ITS VALUE TO THE PUBLIC

By Ed W. Hicks, Optometrist and Optician

They grow old in common with the rest of the body.

With what result?

Along about middle life a person begins to complain that he cannot see to read as well as he could.

What is the cause?

A gradual loss of the focusing power of the eyes.

Can the Optometrist restore this lost power?

Yes, the glasses he furnishes restore the ability to do close work.

(To be continued.)

ED. W. HICKS
AUBURN
"OUR SPECIALTY — COMFORTABLE VISION"

Be sure of your fatted calf before essaying the role of prodigal son.

The Ladies Aid of the M. P. Church will meet in all day session Thursday at the home of Mrs. Eva Miller, west of town. Pot luck dinner will be served.

Lessie Meek is on his vacation this week, taking a fishing trip at McClaren Lake, near Hesperia, Mich. He was accompanied by Roy Keller and Chris Sailer.

Chas. Foltz, an invalid brother of Mrs. J. P. Buckingham, was brought here some days ago to make his home with Mr. and Mrs. Buckingham. Since the death of Mrs. Foltz he had been cared for by another sister.

The Ladies Aid of the Lutheran Church, St. Joe, will meet Thursday night, October 13th at 7:30 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Ed Miser. All members are requested to be present and friends are cordially invited to attend.

McKinley Beree, 28, son of Adrian Beree of near Newville, died Tuesday morning at the American Legion Sanitarium at Battle Creek, Mich. The body is at the home of his parents. Funeral will be conducted from Newville Christian Church, Thursday afternon.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Carbaugh and children of Sherwood, were in town Saturday calling on friends They moved from St. Joe a short time ago so that Mr. Carbaugh would be closer to his work at the Bend, where a new bridge is being put in. Mr. and Mrs. Ole Nelson were also here.

Isn't this the month for new bedspreads, dining room linens, new lamp shades, window shades and wall hangings, refreshment sets, rugs, aprons and kitchen towels? The Autumn Needlework is a home lovers' publication treating on ideas for home decoration and home accessories. Get a copy at the News office.

A party of B. & O. employes left Wednesday evening for Baltimore, where they will attend the pageant, "The trail of the iron horse," as put on by the B. & O. Free transportation was given the following members of the party: Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hull of Concord, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Cole, Harvey Hull, Cal Laux and son and Chas. Woodcox.

Rev. Aldrich is in Indianapolis this week attending a meeting of the Church of Christ.

Wm. Long and wife are now residents of Spencer Township, occupying Mr. Long's farm.

William Randall and family spent Sunday with Fred Randall and family, west of Spencerville.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Hamilton and children were dinner guests Sunday in the Thayer Northrup home.

John Crothers has purchased the Arthur Wilmot farm, east of town, and will move his family there as soon as possession is given.

G. M. Barney and wife are now residents of Hicksville. Mr. Barney having a position as express agent at the B. & O. Mrs. Barney spent over Sunday at this place.

Dewey Smith and wife are again in town, quitting the M. C. Sechler farm and living with her parents, Wid Williams and wife. Dewey is working for the Ohio Power Co.

Ray Littlefield moved Monday onto the Orange Herick farm west of town and has it rented for one year. Stephen Brown and wife, who have lived there the past year are now occupying the Curt Watt farm residence, south of the Wabash depot.

Word received by The News from the bedside of H. M. Widney, Wednesday morning, is that he is very low and that no one will be allowed in his room. Yet the physician and family have hopes of his recovery. Mrs. Widney is at home for a short time.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Northrup and son, Thayer, are making preparations to go to New Mexico to spend the winter. Thayer is building a house on a truck to make the trip. Some relatives from Michigan are to accompany them on the trip. Mr. Northrup and son are both in poor health and this climate has been recommended to them. Mrs. Thayer Northrup and son will remain here.

In disposing of the personal effects of the M. T. Bishop home some few weeks ago, Mrs. H. C. Hathaway presented the St. Joe W. C. T. U. with a picture of Frances E. Willard, to be placed in the St. Joe school. This request was complied with a few days ago when Mrs. Lillian Buckingham, Superintendent of Flower Missions, assisted by Mrs. Frank Akins, made the presentation. The picture was given a prominent place in the assembly room of the new building.

Mrs. J. C. Hull was a Tuesday guest of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Quance at Auburn.

A fortun awaits the inventor of a lifeboat that will float on a sea of trouble.

Mr. Woods, of the St. Joe Grist Mill, has moved his household goods into the Covey property in Hamburg.

Mrs. Daisy Woodcox and Mrs. Anna Tustison, were guests on Wednesday of Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Bayman at New Haven.

The Japanese have forbidden the ancient Korean custom of carving a design on the neck of a girl who has jilted her lover.

Mrs. W. E. Henly, daughter, Golda, Mrs. Wid Williams and Mrs. Velma Mohney, were last Friday guests in the Howard Williams home at Fort Wayne.

The October and November McCall's now on sale at News office. The best magazine for the housewife. Phone for us to deliver you a copy anywhere in town.

Mr. and Mrs. John Hand, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Mellon and two sons, Howard and Robert of South Bend were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Smith and Miss Rosella Mendelsohn.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Frisinger of Indiana Harbor, came Friday and visited until Monday morning in the Floyd Ridgway home, when they left for points of interest through the east.

Mr. and Mrs. F. A. DeMusey and Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Bripon and daughter, Maxine, of Elkhart and Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Langley of Defiance, were Sunday callers in the F. M. Thornton home. Monday guests in the same home were Mrs. John Hutson and Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Josig and son of South Bend.

Mr. and Mrs. B. E. Widney, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Hull, Fred Quance, Mrs. Wm. Quance and two sons, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Sechler, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sechler, Joe Hull and Clarence Hart, were among the visitors at the Lutheran hospital Sunday afternoon and evening, calling on Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Widney.

Miss Dorothea Scholes is home from Hicksville where she was called to assist in the relief of the strike which prevailed at the telephone office, for several days. Three of the old operators are back on the job, while three have taken work at Fort Wanye, and new recruits have been put on to relieve the situation.

FACTS
—AND THE OPEN MIND

THE MOST important element in business success—and the most difficult—is to be sure that you have all the facts before you act.

TO GET them all, from every possible source, is the first objective in General Motors. The Research Laboratories contribute some. These are nuggets, left in the crucible, after hundreds of ideas that looked good have been burned away. The Proving Ground contributes others. Dealers contribute. The public contributes. Every department contributes. Through the whole organization runs a spirit of inquiry and of rigid insistence on proof.

OUT OF such thinking come the new models announced from time to time by Chevrolet, Pontiac, Oldsmobile, Oakland, Buick, LaSalle, Cadillac—all with Fisher Bodies. And by Frigidaire. Each new model is a tested step forward. Nothing goes into it as a result of habit or guess or pride of opinion.

Nothing counts but hard-won facts, gathered and used with an open mind.

PRODUCTS OF GENERAL MOTORS
CHEVROLET — CHEVROLET
PONTIAC
OLDSMOBILE
OAKLAND — OAKLAND
BUICK
LASALLE
CADILLAC
DELCO-LIGHT ELECTRIC PLANTS
FRIGIDAIRE — The electric refrigerator

GENERAL MOTORS
"A car for every purse and purpose"

CLIP THIS COUPON

GENERAL MOTORS (Dept. A), Detroit, Mich.

Please send without any obligation to me, your illustrated booklet, "Where Motor Car Facts Are Established," together with information about the particular General Motors product or products I have checked at the right.

CHEVROLET ☐ OAKLAND ☐ CADILLAC ☐
PONTIAC ☐ BUICK ☐ FRIGIDAIRE ☐
OLDSMOBILE ☐ LASALLE ☐ DELCO-LIGHT ☐

Name _____ Address _____

HOTEL BUTLER

STRICTLY MODERN AND UNDER NEW MANAGEMENT

SUNDAY DINNERS

THE FAMOUS BLAIR DINNERS ARE ATTRACTING PEOPLE FOR MILES IN EVERY DIRECTION AROUND BUTLER —ST. JOE FOLKS ARE GIVEN A CORDIAL WELCOME AT HOTEL BUTLER NOT ONLY ON SUNDAY, BUT FOR WEEK DAY DINNERS.

Hotel Butler

H. H. SHAMBAUGH, Manager

Live Stock Sale!

On account of doing a lot of tiling, it is necessary to raise funds, and in consequence the undersigned will sell at public sale at his residence 1 mile east and ½ mile south of Six Corners, 1½ miles due north of Rosedale siding, about 5 miles north-east of Hicksville, about 10 miles south-east of Edgerton, commnecing at 10 o'clock A. M., on THURSDAY, OCT. 20.

216 Head of Live Stock: . . Black Percheron team 3 years old.

5 Head of Cattle—Full blood Holstein cow, coming 5, fresh in July, now bred; Full blood Holstein cow, coming 5, fresh in July, now bred; Jersey-Holstein cow, coming 5, was fresh in July, now bred; Durham-Jersey cow, 8 years old, due to freshen in November; Short Horn bull, past 2 years old, a fine individual, hard to beat. These cattle are all T. B. tested and are in fine condition.

103 Head of Sheep—One hundred head of Shrop and Delaine breeding ewes. These sheep are very good. A nice bunch, bred and selected with care. Also 3 pure bred Delaine bucks, one 4-year-old and two yearlings.

100 Head of Hogs—Pure bred Duroc male hog, year old, an extra good animal; 7 brood sows with pigs by side; 6 bred sows; 8 bred gilts; 3 young male hogs, weight about 80 lbs. each; 30 shoats, weight 60 to 100 lbs. each; 51 head of young pigs.

18 Head of Geese—8 hen geese past 2 years old, and 4 ganders; 4 hens coming 2 years old, and two ganders. These are a fine flock, good laying strain, and eggs hatch out almost a hundred per cent.

FRED H. ROHRS

A. E. LYBARGER, Auct. Hicksville GUY D. WILSON, Clerk

OCTOBER

L 913 V580

SPENCERVILLE

The Bowser & Reed store front is receiving a coat of paint.

Mr. and Mrs. John Koch spent Sunday in Michigan visiting friends.

W. H. Hannen of California, spent Friday night with Al Boger and wife.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Clark of Fort Wayne, were week end guests in the John Doll home.

Mrs. Hazel Steward and children and Mrs. Ada Berry, spent Sunday afternoon at Rome City.

Pete Lochner of Winona and Charles Watson, were recent guests at the Thomas McNamara home.

Prof. A. J. Smith, wife and children, attended the United Brethren Church reunion at Petroleum, Indiana, Sunday.

Farver's Canning Kitchen at Spencerville will operate on Wednesday and Thursday each week until further notice. 31tf.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Dean, Mr. and Mrs. George Doll and daughter, Ruth Anna of Fort Wayne, spent the week end with relatives here.

Charles Brattain, wife and daughter, Marvella and Charles Kimes and wife, spent Sunday with Samuel Bowerman and family of near Angola.

The Beams store is undergoing a general change. The stock is being put in A-1 shape and the counters were changed some so as to be more convenient.

The Rayo class of the Methodist Sunday School was very pleasantly entertained on Wednesday night at the home of Mrs. Jennie Walter. She was assisted by her sister, Miss Arminta Steward.

Mrs. Clyde Hemrick and son, Hubert of Fort Wayne, Frank Butler and wife and Mrs. Jane Butler of this place, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Close of South Bend, attended a birthday dinner at the Gust Hafner home recently.

Mesdames Zelpha and Pernetta Steward entertained the C. C. Club on Friday afternoon at their home. Several musical contests were enjoyed, Mrs. Hazel Steward winning several prizes. The guests were Mrs. Hazel Roberts and children.

B. F. Markle and family were Sunday guests in the Matilda Oberholtzer home near Harlan.

Glenn Betz and two sons, Alton and Marion of Woodburn and Mr. and Mrs. John Betz of St. Joe, were Sunday guests at the Joel Betz home.

Mrs. Maggie Dunfee and her daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Park C. Jordan, drove from Washington, Ohio to visit a few days with her brother, Albert B. Ward and family. They motored from here to Hershel, Illinois, to visit another brother.

The Woman's Home Missionary Society of the Methodist Church met on Thursday afternon with Mrs. Gertie Wasson. The following guests were present: Mrs. Mabel Erick, Mrs. Nancy Rummell, Mrs. Nancy Chaney, Mrs. H. B. Van Auken and daughters of Fort Wayne.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hahn and family were called to Cecil, Ohio, on Saturday by the death of Mrs. Hahn's nephew, Donald Hench, who was killed on the railroad. The funeral was held on Monday afternoon. Others that were there were Howard Beams, Henry Markle, and Kenneth Rhodes. The young man formerly resided with his aunt.

W. H. Hannen of Petaluma, Cal., Morford Gates and wife of Findlay, Ohio, David Boston and wife of Toledo, Ohio, Al Boger and wife of Springfield Center, Mrs. Nettie Perkins and son, Ted, Mrs. Ora Billman and Enes Hannen, attended a reunion in honor of Mr. Hannen at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Betz, Friday.

Envelopes at News office.

Lee Van Myers, wife and children, were Monday guests in the James Vallieu home.

Mr. and Mrs. Delos White and children of Auburn, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Chaney.

Have your glasses fitted by Benj. F. Griest, Eyesight Specialist, Office in American Bldg., Hicksville, Ohio. 28tf.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Hart will entertain the Young Ladies Social Club, husbands and friends on Friday night.

Get your furnace repaired now, avoid the rush when winter fires are started. Free inspection. Bowser & Reed. 38tf.

Mrs. Effie Squires and John Squires of Fort Wayne, visited the former's brother, Harvey Beam and family on Sunday.

On Saturdy night the new car of Forrest Beams was stolen when he attended a show in Fort Wayne with his lady friend, Miss Mabel Rhoades.

Fred Osborne, wife and children, Edwin Harwood, wife and son, Mrs. R. U. Bowser and children, were Sunday dinner guests of Mrs. Emila Gloyd and family.

William Tyndall, the mail carrier, is taking his vacation this week. He left Sunday, accompanied by his wife, to visit in South Bend, Chicago and other places of interest.

Mesdames Ella Lucas, Nancy Rummell, Lizzie Frederick and Jennie Chaney spent Sunday at the St. Joseph hospital at Fort Wayne, visiting Jeff Boyles of Butler, who is a patient there with cancer.

Mrs. Lottie Hohman and daughter, and Mrs. Fred Hartman of Warsaw, were Saturday and Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Vol Hay and family. Mr. and Mrs. Alva Place and son, Kenneth, and Ray Baker and family, were Sunday guests in the same home.

NEWVILLE

Byron Miller put a new cement floor in his garage last week.

Mrs. Jane Hatch, who has been working at Hicksville, came home Saturday.

John Gillingham received word Friday of the death of his brother in Michigan.

Argyl Richmond has bought William Platter's Ford. Mr. Platter has gone south for the winter.

The Loyal Workers class of the Christian Sunday School held their class party at the Homer Casebeer home Friday evening.

Dewey Miller and family of Auburn spent Saturday night and Sunday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Miller. Mr. and Mrs. Quince of Garrett called at the same home Wednesday afternoon enroute to Hicksville.

STRENUOUS

"What makes you so tired?"

"I dreamed all night that I was waiting in line to get tickets for a foot ball game."

Coburn's Corners

Mrs. Willis Beaber is on the sick list.

Dale Trostel spent Sunday evening at Sherwood, Ohio.

Prof. Sims, wife and daughter, were supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Will Hamilton, Monday.

Mrs. Ila Shilling and family spent Sunday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Willis Beaber.

L. J. Uncapher, of Detroit, Mich., is in the William Maxwell home visiting for a few days.

Clifford Milliman and Willis Beaber spent Sunday afternoon with John Milliman and family at Butler.

Miss Latha Dermott, who has been a patient at the Amaden hospital at Hicksville, returned home on Monday.

The R. H. C. met with Mrs Nellie Perry, Thursday, October 6. They will meet with Mrs. Leone Mason, October 20.

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Trostel are spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Abner Trostel. Mr. Trostel is working in Sherwood, Ohio.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Curie of Hicksville, were supper guests in the Laney Gee home, Friday evening in honor of Mrs. Curie's birthday.

Rev. J. N. Scholes is at the bedside of his daughter at Johnstown, Penn. Mrs. Scholes and son, Scott, are expecting to go there soon.

Phillip Smith, who has been visiting in Shelby, Mich., has returned and was accompanied by Clifford Milliman, who is visiting relatives and friends at Coburntown.

Mr. and Mrs. Dell Nelson and Ross Abel experienced an auto accident Sunday near Coburn's Corners, when an auto in going around them caught the front fender of their car and turned them over, damaging the car and shaking the occupants up considerable but no serious injuries. The Coburntown folk were on their way to spend the day with Mrs. Ross Abel, south of Spencerville.

SPENCERVILLE TRIMS LEO

Furnish Holds Leo Hitless Four Innings

The Spencerville high school base ball squad took Leo into camp Friday evening to the tune of 5 to 1. The pitching of Furnish contributed greatly to the Spencerville victory. Leo was helpless against Babb's offerings and were unable to get anything but feeble rollers to the infield the first four innings, and only secured three hits the entire game. Spencerville on the other hand, collected 6 hits off Gerig and VanZile, including a double by Furnish, for five runs. An overthrow to first base by R. Chapman in the seventh inning was responsible for Leo's lone tally.

Spencer	0	1	0	0	3	0	1	5	6	1-17
Leo	0	0	0	0	0	0	1	1	3	2- 7

Furnish and Beams; Gerig, VanZile and Bellinger.

With the Churches

ST. JOE M. P. CHURCH

Mrs. Hattie Widney, Supt.
Sunday School, 9:30 A. M.
Preaching service, 10:30.

CONCORD M. P. CHURCH

George Johnson, Supt.
Sunday school 9:30 A. M.
Christian Endeavor, 6:30.
Preaching service 7:00 o'clock.
J. F. McKnight, Pastor.

EVANGELICAL LUTHERAN CHURCHES

"Prepare ye the way of the Lord." Isa. 4: 3.

Apathy is a valley to be raised. There are thousands of professors of religion, who, though not inattentive, are yet so sluggish in disposition that they put forth little effort in the cause of God. Begin upon yourself.

"The flesh desires ease and thus comes into collision with the Spirit, which requires us to fight the good fight of faith." Heb. 12: 1-2.

ST. JOE

Sabbath Bible School at 9:30 A. M., Mr. Derwood Ridgway, Superintendent.
Vesper Service at 7:30 P. M.

SPENCERVILLE

Sabbath Bible School at 9:15 A. M., Mr. Ray Means, Superintendent.
Divine Service at 10:30 A. M.
Come and worship with us.
P. B. Roediger, Pastor.

CHURCH OF CHRIST

ST. JOE
Ed Storer, Supt.
Bible School, 9:30 A. M.
Lord's Supper, 10:45 A. M.

NEWVILLE
Frank Lyons, Superintendent
Bible School, 10:00 A. M., sun time.
Lord's Supper, 11:00 A. M., sun time.
R. S. Aldrich, Pastor.

Methodist Episcopal Church Spencerville

Sunday School, 9:00 A. M.—John Koch, Superintendent.
Sermon, 7:00 P. M.
Epworth League, 6:00 P. M.
Marguerite Koch, President.
Roy S. Brown, Pastor.

CHRIST FOR ALL—ALL FOR CHRIST
The Word of God
Thy word is a lamp unto my feet, and a light unto my path.—Psalm 119: 105.

SURE GUIDANCE:—In all thy ways acknowledge him, and He shall direct thy paths. Proverbs 3: 6.

PRAYER:—Lord, we know not what a day may bring forth, but we believe in Thee and commit our way to Thee, assured that Thou knowest all the way, and will guide us.

SURE ENOUGH

Jerry—"What do you mean—you were kicked by a surefooted horse?"

Dave—"He kicked at me three times and didn't miss once."

Daily papers at News office and magazines galore.

Russel R. Reidenour
ATTORNEY
Auburn, Ind.

DR. C. R. BAUMGARTNER
Veterinarian
Spencerville, Ind.
PHONES: 282--283.

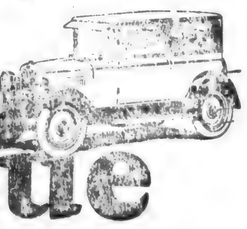
We Do STATIONERY PRINTING on HAMMERMILL BOND

PHONE 290
Stanley P. Nelson Monuments
Opposite Woodlawn and Roselawn Cemeteries
AUBURN, IND.

Dr. E. T. Julian
M. D.
St. JOE
9:30 to 11:30 each forenoon at Dr. C. R. Price office.

Let Us Print Your Sale Bills

For Economical Transportation
CHEVROLET



Value that defies comparison!

Just think what Chevrolet offers you today!
A type of performance that is amazing—perfect comfort at every speed—flashing acceleration and remarkable handling ease—all the marvelous beauty of bodies by Fisher—finished in smart colors of genuine lustrous Duco—a motor world-famous for power and economy—in short, advanced modern design in every unit that results in the extreme of satisfactory economical transportation!
Because these cars are sold at amazing low prices, they embody the most outstanding motor car value in the world today—a value that defies comparison!

The COACH $595

The Touring or Roadster	$525
The Coupe	$625
The 4-Door Sedan	$695
The Sport Cabriolet	$715
The Imperial Landau	$745
½-Ton Truck (Chassis only)	$395
1-Ton Truck (Chassis only)	$495

All prices f. o. b. Flint, Michigan
Check Chevrolet Delivered Prices
They include the lowest handling and financing charges available.

FURNISH TIRE & BATTERY SHOP, SPENCERVILLE, IND.
QUALITY AT LOW COST

MONEY
Is Like the Water
Of a RIVER

"Money is like the water of a river" a French historian has said. "If it suddenly floods, it devastates; divide it into a thousand channels where it circulates quietly and it brings life to every spot." Our present system of economic distribution, efficiently divides our national wealth into many channels. One of these channels is flowing into your purse. True, it may not be much more than a trickling stream, but it is there at your disposal.

How are you handling it? Are you trying to irrigate a thousand acres with but enough to nourish one? Are you allowing it to dissipate itself in futile spending or are you utilizing its power for something really worth while? The members of the "Get Ahead Club" have built dams across their streams, and are controlling the flood gates in order to make every drop work. One outlet leads to a savings account. Some day it is going to be big enough to help its owner realize his most worthwhile dream. These people are getting ahead in the world.

Farmers' & Merchants State Bank
Spencerville, Ind.

LAND AUCTION

160 ACRES, being the SE ¼ of the SW ¼ of Section 24, Township 33 North, Range 14 East; also West ½ of SE ¼ of Section 24, containing in all 160 acres more or less on

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 20

Sale to start at 1 P. M. rain or shine.

Located 3 miles Northeast of Spencerville, 10 miles Southeast of Auburn, and 28 miles Northeast of Fort Wayne, known as the Charles Fry farm. This farm lies on a good gravel road, is practically level, about 40 acres of black corn land, balance a chocolate clay loam, A No. 1 quality of soil, very productive, large tile for outlet. Adapted for corn, wheat and clover. 60 acres of wonderful blue grass pasture, 10 acres of second growth timber, consisting of sugar, elm and ash, balance in cultivation, fencing is average.

BUILDINGS:—7-room 1½ story frame structure, in good repair; 40x60 bank barn, one of the best barns in this section. Corn crib, hog house, granary combined, 2 poultry houses, good wind mill and tank. A wonderful opportunity for some young hustler to make good.

TERMS:—This farm will be sold subject to a straight bank loan of $9,200.00 held by City National Bank at Auburn, Indiana, at 6 per cent interest, runs four years from January. Sold with small down payment, balance can be arranged. This farm will be sold to the highest bidder without reserve. If interested in a good farm, do not miss this sale.

OWNER—GEORGE W. NEWMAN. Sale conducted by

Helms-Waltz Land Auction Company
306 Sherland Bldg., South Bend, Indiana
"Quick, Dependable Selling Service

FOR MEN OF MODERATE MEANS

A Suit With a Good Store's Label And Double Guarantee

Patterson-Fletcher's introduction of Hart, Schaffner & Marx new fall suits at $33.50 has changed the appearance of many Northern Indiana men, who heretofore wore chain store or mail order clothes—because they felt they could pay no more. Now at Patterson-Fletcher's correctly styled, carefully made Hart, Schaffner & Marx clothes are within the reach of men of moderate means. No longer do Northern Indiana men have to wear a suit they have to make excuses for.

The price of $33.50 for Hart, Schaffner & Marx new fall suits is claimed by the Fort Wayne store to be the lowest in the United States.

This is another of Patterson-Fletcher's, Fort Wayne, volume achievements.

OCTOBER

L 915 0581

Plunkett Greets Japanese Admiral at New York

Rear Admiral C. P. Plunkett, commandant of the Brooklyn navy yard, boarding the Japanese cruiser Asama to pay his respects to Rear Admiral Osami Nogano of the Japanese training squadron which arrived in New York.

Taft at 70 and His Ten Grandchildren

William Howard Taft, chief justice of the United States Supreme court and former President, celebrated his seventieth birthday anniversary with a family gathering at Murray Bay, Quebec. The photograph shows Mr. Taft, Mrs. Taft and their ten grandchildren. The children are, left to right: Horace Taft, Caroline Manning, Lucian Chase Taft, Lloyd Bowers Taft, Seth Chase Taft, Helen Taft Manning, Suyivia Howard Taft, Elenora Kellogg Taft, Robert Taft and William Howard Taft III.

Miami's New Jail Is High in the Air

Prisoners will in truth need wings or parachutes to escape from this New Miami city and county jail which is in the course of construction. The prisoners will be lodged 14 stories above the ground.

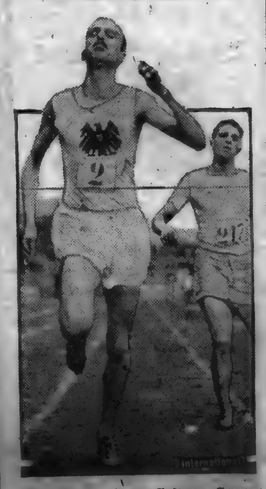
Wreckage of Old Glory Found at Sea

This photograph shows a closeup of the wheel of the Hearst plane Old Glory as it appeared on the deck of the rescue steamer Kyle after being hauled out of the waters of the Atlantic.

HONOR J. B. WEEKS

An especially posed portrait of J. B. Weeks of Philadelphia, who was elected president of the newly organized American Motorists' association at its organization meeting in Washington. The new organization is expected to be a nation-wide competitor of the American Automobile association.

PELTZER SETS RECORD



Photograph shows Peltzer, German sprint star, winning the special 1,000-meters event from Martin, French track star at Colombes stadium at Paris. Peltzer set a new world's record for the distance, being clocked in 2 minutes 25⅘ seconds.

Triumph of "It"

"Have you ever loved before?"

"No, John; I have often admired men for their strength, courage, good looks or intelligence, but with you, dear, it is all love, nothing else.

EASY LESSONS IN AUCTION BRIDGE

By PAUL H. SEYMOUR
Author of "Highlights on Auction Bridge"

(Copyright, by Hoyle, Jr.)

Article Four.

Bidding

THE first thing to be learned about bidding is that its object is to discover as nearly as possible what trump will produce the best results from the twenty-six cards held by two partners. If the twenty-six cards were placed face up on the table either player could see at once how the best results could be obtained, but in regular play each player sees thirteen cards only and must form his opinion of his partner's hand by his bidding.

Therefore, it is of the utmost importance that every bid should have a definite meaning or, in other words, that every player by his bidding should tell his partner as much of the truth as possible and nothing but the truth.

Frequently when the dealer bids one of a suit and second hand passes, third hand will say, "I do not have to bid because my partner has it now," and again a player will say, "Well, partner, I hate to take it away from you, but I am going to bid so and so." These examples show an entire misconception of the science of bidding. Auction is distinctly a partnership game and the object of the bidding is co-operation.

If a player makes a bid which seems to his partner to be the best declaration for the two hands, that partner should assist the declaration to the extent of his ability, but if the partner thinks from his hand that that declaration would be disastrous or that he can make a better one, he should bid accordingly. Each player should pay strict attention to every bid and try to visualize the hand of the player making it. In this way bidding becomes easier and more scientific.

Bids are classified as original, defensive, assisting, secondary and pre-emptive.

An original bid is the first bid made, whether by dealer or by second, third or fourth hand after one, two or three passes. There can, of course, be but one original bid for each deal.

A defensive bid is one made on less than original bidding strength after an opponent has bid. Because an original bid assumes the offensive the next bid may be made on slightly less strength for the sake of defense.

An assisting bid is one made after a partner has bid. It may be a raise a denial or a take-out, according to circumstances.

A secondary bid is one made by a player who has previously bid or passed—that is, any bid after the first round.

A pre-emptive bid is one which is higher than necessary and is made in an effort to shut out a bid from the opponents.

Before definite rules for bidding can be given some system of valuing cards must be agreed upon and the one called the "quick trick method" is by far the most scientific and accurate. This requires several more definitions.

A quick trick is a card or combination of cards which will take a trick on the first or second round of a suit, or a combination which will win the third round after winning first or second—this, of course, makes two quick tricks. Thus an Ace is the only one card which can be called a quick trick, and the K Q is the only combination of two cards to fulfill the requirement. That the King, Queen combination is one quick trick may easily be seen, because if the King is led it will be lost to the Ace and if the Queen is then led it will take the second trick.

The A Q J combination is called two quick tricks in the trump suit or in no trump, because the A would take the first trick, the Q would lose to the King in the second trick, and the J would take the third trick. However, in a plain suit this combination would not be two quick tricks because the third round of a suit is so often trumped. An exactly similar combination is the K Q J, which is two quick tricks in a trump suit or in no trump, but not in a plain suit.

A guarded King will take a trick if the Ace is held by the right-hand opponent, but will be lost if the Ace is held by the opponent on the left. As the chances of the Ace being upon one side or the other are even, that is 50-50, a King is called a half quick trick. A Queen with two or more guards has just half as good a chance of taking a trick as a King, and so is counted as a quarter of a quick trick.

A quick trick is sometimes considered to be just the same as a sure trick, but there is a distinction which should be made. A quick trick must win on the first, second, or third round, while a sure trick is a card which will win any round of that suit. In a plain suit quick and sure tricks are identical, but in a trump all the cards remaining after it has been led three times usually are good and so are called sure tricks, while, of course, they are not quick tricks.

When a King is accompanied by the Ace, it will win every time and so it then acquires the value of the Ace or a whole quick trick. In the same manner a Queen with the King rises from a quarter to a half quick trick in value—or, as has been said, a King, Queen is one quick trick.

THE DAIRY

USE WHITEWASH THAT WILL STICK

Whitewash has many valuable uses around the dairy barn. It not only helps appearances, but is a great aid from a sanitary standpoint. One of the most serious problems has been to secure a mixture that will stick for some time. The following mixture has been recommended by the National Lime association as one which will meet this requirement:

Soak five pounds of casein in about two gallons of warm or hot water until thoroughly softened (about two hours). Dissolve three pounds of trisodium phosphate in one gallon of water and add to the casein solution. Allow the mixture to dissolve. Prepare a thick cream by mixing fifty pounds of hydrated lime in seven gallons of water, stirring vigorously. Dissolve three pints of formaldehyde in three gallons of water. When the lime paste and the casein solution are both thoroughly cool, slowly add the casein solution to the lime, stirring constantly and vigorously. Care must be taken not to add the formaldehyde too rapidly, as carelessness may cause the casein to "jell out" and spoil the batch.

A cold lime paste may be used in place of the hydrated lime. This can be made by slaking 38 pounds of burned lime. This mixture may be applied either as a spray or with a brush.

A simpler mixture but not so durable is made by slaking twenty pounds of burned lime by adding six gallons of water in small portions. Dissolve one pound of zinc sulphate in one gallon of water. When dissolved, add the sulphate solution to the lime. Then add one gallon of skim milk. Make up only enough for one day's application and keep well stirred while applying. This should be applied with a brush.

Fall Feeding of Dairy Cows Quite Important

The wise dairyman will feed liberally during the fall months. Cows which are not well fed at this time will go into the winter thin in flesh and with reduced milk flow. It will be expensive and largely in vain to attempt to bring them back to normal flow after they go on winter rations.

It will pay to begin feeding silage and hay early. The extra feed given at this time will not only bring good, immediate returns, but affect the milk flow for the whole year by putting the cow in good condition to go through the winter months. Cows which go into the winter in good vitality, and with undiminished milk flow, are the ones which will make most economical use of the high-priced feeds given during that period. Keep up the milk flow during the fall months by proper feeding. It will pay.

Cold, uncomfortable cows will not make economical use of feed. Their highly developed nervous systems are very susceptible to sudden changes in temperature. This should be borne in mind in the fall, when the first cold rains and cold winds come. Protection from these will prevent the reduction in milk flow which they always cause. Do not waste feed by letting cows stand out in cold winds and rain.

Grain Fed to Dairy Calf Proves Good Investment

A little grain fed to the dairy calves on grass generally proves to be a good investment. A mixture of corn and oats, equal parts, is satisfactory for this purpose, although 10 per cent of linseed meal added to the mixture will produce a larger growth. When the pasture is good the addition of linseed meal is seldom necessary. Young calves which are allowed to secure all of their ration from pasture will often become stunted. Yearlings should not need additional feed if the pasture is satisfactory, but the small calves should have access to one or two pounds of grain daily, depending upon their size. If it is impossible to give the young calves a separate pasture, it is often possible to build a calf creep where the small calves can get in to eat their daily ration of grain.

Rye Flavors Milk

The use of rye for fall and winter pasture as practiced on many dairy farms, according to A. C. Ragsdale, head of the dairy department, Missouri College of Agriculture, is objectionable because of a flavor it often gives to milk and sweet cream. As a succulent, milk-producing pasture, it is excellent, but because of the flavor and frequently the odor it gives to the milk, rye is giving way to wheat.

Sweet Clover Pasture

Sweet clover is a great help in solving the pasture difficulty. The most successful ones find that pasturing the second year's growth until after harvest is best. The sweet clover is sown in the small grain, and after the shocks are removed from the grain fields the pasture is abundant and lasting in normal seasons. Care must be taken not to overstock it. Sweet clover will stand a reasonable amount of fall pasturing, even better than other clovers.

Remodel with OAK floors

Make every room like new at slight expense. Oak Floors are permanent, beautiful, easy to keep clean. Write for complete free literature.

OAK FLOORING BUREAU
1293 Builders' Building CHICAGO

Has Sunshine in Tomb

Mrs. Leila Hansell, wife of a North Carolina judge, was a strong believer in sunshine. Out in the sunlight, whenever possible, she also had a sunshiny disposition and spread this personal sunshine wherever she went, says Capper's Weekly. She died a few weeks ago, and in keeping with her request her body was placed in a tomb on top of the ground with a glass cover on it so that the sun may always shine on her remains.

The strange tomb at Hendersonville, N. C., is attracting tourists from all parts of the country.

The housewife smiles with satisfaction as she looks at the basket of clear, white clothes and thanks Russ Bleaching Blue. At all grocers.—Adv.

In New York city more than 50 police are constantly engaged in a search for persons reported lost or missing.

Specious Consolation

Dr. George West Russell, the Los Angeles economist, was condemning the growth of installment buying.

"We are becoming a nation of installment buyers," he said. "This means extravagance, recklessness and, perhaps, ultimate insolvency.

"Installment dealers offer us consolation; they point out the higher plane of living that installment buying allows; but to the thinker this consolation is as specious as the judge's.

"The judge, after condemning a poor duffer to 20 years' hard labor, said to him consolingly:

"'Oh, well, you know, we've all got to be somewhere.'"

Genius is glorified common sense.

DIURETIC STIMULANT TO THE KIDNEYS

Standard for Generations.

Mrs. Maranda N. Small, Broken Arrow, Oklahoma, R. F. D. No. 2, writes as follows:

"I am now 76 years old and have been taking Dodd's Pills for 27 years. Before taking these pills for kidney trouble I could not get one foot to the ground without help, and could only lie partly on my side. I took three boxes and felt like a new woman. Believe I would have been in my grave had it not been for Dodd's Pills."

At all druggists, 60c per box, or The Dodds Medicine Co., Inc., 700 Main St., Buffalo, N. Y.

KILL RATS SAFELY

You can now stop losses caused by rats and mice without risk to your stock or poultry. K-R-O is the new safe way—made from squill bulbs as recommended by Government Experts.

NOT A POISON

Severe tests have proved that K-R-O is harmless in any quantity to human beings, livestock, pets or poultry but kills rats and mice every time.

Does not contain arsenic, phosphorus, barium carbonate or any other deadly poison. At your druggist 75c. Large size (4 times as much) $2.00. Or sent direct from us postpaid if he cannot supply you. Satisfaction guaranteed.

K-R-O CO., Springfield, Ohio

K-R-O
KILLS-RATS-ONLY

OCTOBER

L 915 0582

Feel Stiff and Achy?

To be Well the Kidneys Must Thoroughly Eliminate Waste Poisons from the Blood.

DOES every day find you lame, stiff and achy? Do you feel tired and drowsy—suffer nagging backache, headache and dizzy spells? Are the kidney secretions scanty and burning in passage?

Know, then, that these are often signs of improper kidney action. Sluggish kidneys allow acid poisons to remain in the blood and upset the whole system.

If your kidneys are acting sluggishly, assist them with Doan's Pills. Doan's have established a nation-wide reputation. Are recommended the country over. Ask your neighbor!

Doan's Pills

Stimulant Diuretic to the Kidneys

At all dealers, 60c a box. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfg. Chemists, Buffalo, N. Y.

Toast to Leisure

"A toast, fellers!" exclaimed the hobo, lifting his tomato can. "Here's to de holidays! Bless de hull t'ree hundred an' sixty-five of 'em!"—Exchange.

Idle Threat

The man who threatens the world is always ridiculous; for the world can easily go on without him and in a short time will cease to miss him.—Samuel Johnson.

Genuine BAYER

ASPIRIN

SAY "BAYER ASPIRIN" and INSIST!

Proved safe by millions and prescribed by physicians for

Colds Headache Neuritis Lumbago
Pain Neuralgia Toothache Rheumatism

DOES NOT AFFECT THE HEART

Safe — Accept only "Bayer" package which contains proven directions. Handy "Bayer" boxes of 12 tablets. Also bottles of 24 and 100—Druggists.

Aspirin is the trade mark of Bayer Manufacture of Monoaceticacidester of Salicylicacid

When It Stopped

Marie—Are you still in love?

Louise—Heavens! Haven't you heard? We're married.

The man who has been fooled twice by the same woman is hopelessly foolish.

Meaning Business

Mabel—She's just flirting.

Mae—I think it's much more serious. I saw her inspecting his car.

Figures may not lie, but statisticians occasionally get their dates mixed.

Children Cry for

Fletcher's CASTORIA

MOTHER:— Fletcher's Castoria is especially prepared to relieve Infants in arms and Children all ages of Constipation, Flatulency, Wind Colic and Diarrhea; allaying Feverishness arising therefrom, and, by regulating the Stomach and Bowels, aids the assimilation of Food; giving natural sleep.

To avoid imitations, always look for the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. Absolutely Harmless—No Opiates. Physicians everywhere recommend it.

Cuticura Loveliness A Priceless Heritage

For generations mothers have been using Cuticura Preparations for all toilet purposes, and have been teaching their daughters that daily use of them produces clear, smooth skin and healthy hair. They find the Soap pure and cleansing, the Ointment soothing and healing, should any irritations arise, and the Talcum an ideal toilet powder.

Soap 25c. Ointment 25 and 50c. Talcum 25c. Sold everywhere. Sample each free. Address: "Cuticura Laboratories, Dept. 21, Malden, Mass." Cuticura Shaving Stick 25c.

COMPARED WITH REAL YOUTH

(© by D. J. Walsh.)

HULDA LEWIS was expecting Everett Waters to call upon her that evening. They were very old friends in that casual way which is pleasant without being provocative. Everett Waters had once proposed to Helen and she had put him off gently, leaving him to hope that if he ever asked her again she would probably accept him. But he had not asked her again, although he continued to call upon her regularly, to write to her when he was away, to send her gifts at holiday time or upon her birthday. Meanwhile Hulda was very content. She was too comfortable as she was to care to change the condition of her life. Her father had left her well provided for. She had her own home, a mother who bore the cares of the household and plenty of leisure to paint charming little pictures that she never sold. And she was still young, attractive, graceful. Lots of time yet for marrying. Possibly, too, somebody might appear who was more like the lover of her dreams than the plain, quiet lawyer who had been her schoolmate and now managed her few business affairs. She did not stop to think that Everett was lonely, that in keeping him dangling she might be shutting him out of happiness and some other woman out of a home and companionship. As far as that went she was not afraid of any other woman. She was absolutely sure of Everett Waters.

Upon this summer day she was painting in the large northern room which she called her studio when the door opened softly and a young girl entered. Hulda numbered no young girls among her friends and she stared at this one in surprise. Then she recognized the lovely blooming face under the stern little black hat—such a hat as Hulda would not have dared to wear.

"Why, it's Ethel!" she exclaimed.

"Your own niece, Ethel, Aunt Hulda." The girl kissed her. "I knew you'd be crazy to see me. Dad and I just got back from Paris last week—and here I am. I've been gone two whole years, do you know it?"

"Of course, I am glad, dear—I suppose those clothes are French?"

"Entirely so." Ethel spun around to show them. "Dad loosened up his purse strings just before we sailed. But you must see what I've got in my trunk! I brought my trunk, auntie. You see, I'm going to stay a while. How well granny is looking! You, too—only you are getting gray, did you know it? What a nice little picture! Oh, how is dear old Everett Waters? Is he just the same constant thing as ever?"

Hulda flushed and bit her lip. She arose from her easel and took off her apron. Downstairs she could hear her mother at the telephone ordering from the grocer. The peaceful current of life had suddenly become a brisk torrent owing to the arrival of this gay young visitor.

Twenty years before Hulda's brother had married a girl whom Hulda and her mother did not like. Ethel was like her mother. Somehow Earl Lewis had been able to acquire a good deal of money which he spent in leading a careless, roving life. Two years before he had snatched up Ethel and gone abroad. Now here was the girl developed into something so beautiful and altogether fascinating that Hulda felt a curious pang of jealousy.

Ethel took possession of the house. The trunk came and she appeared in pink and black. Hulda, who had grown a bit careless in dress, promptly made a toilet. Ethel laughed at the blue crepe. But when Everett Waters came up the steps in the moonlight she did not laugh at him. Instead she ran to him, flung her arms about his neck and kissed him. Holding her at arm's length Everett studied her through his glasses, Hulda looking on grew cold. She suddenly felt old, ugly, unfashionable. And while Ethel chattered gayly she sat silent, not listening, but thinking strange, inexplicable thoughts of her own.

Afterward Ethel came into Hulda's room clad in astonishing silken pajamas, which, with her black bobbed hair, made her look like a surprisingly adorable pierrette.

"Everett's a dear," she said. "He's improved so much, while I've been gone. That gray hair makes him look very distinguished. He reminds me of a great diplomat I saw in Paris. I'm quite wild about Everett, auntie. Did you know that he remembered every one of my birthdays while I was away? You did not, but he did. He sent me this bracelet I am wearing." She turned the circlet round her wrist.

Hulda did not sleep much that night. She lay awake thinking. It was true. Everett had improved, while she—it had never occurred to her that she was not as young and pretty as ever. She had been so self-assured. Now, compared with real youth such as Ethel's, she realized that she was but a faded flower. To Ethel she was old and uninteresting. Suddenly she buried her face in the pillow and wept.

The days that followed were agony to Hulda. They motored in Everett's car—and Ethel sat with Everett. Ethel led Everett to the tennis court and they played enthusiastically, while Hulda, who had the misfortune to turn her ankle, looked on. Evenings Ethel turned on the phonograph and brought Everett new steps while Hulda pretended not to see.

There came a day when Hulda knew two things certainly—she loved Everett and she was never going to be able to have him. He had tired of her in the long years she had kept him waiting. She was no longer the woman of his dreams, one younger and fairer had supplanted her. It was her own fault. But oh, the pity of it that after long pursuing of an imaginary Everett embodied that very ideal.

That day a telegram came for Ethel from her father. He wanted her to return immediately. She made no explanation, but in an hour she was gone, leaving Hulda to pack the trunk and send it after her. Hulda's feelings were indescribable as she conscientiously stowed away the brief, colorful silks, woolens and chiffons that had made her niece so radiant during her short stay.

That night Everett came; he had been coming nearly every evening of late. He inquired for Ethel and when Hulda told him that Ethel was gone he looked away, smoking in silence. Disappointed, Hulda knew that was what shadowed his face.

Suddenly he came and sat down beside her on the porch hammock. His hand on hers, looking into her eyes he said softly:

"Are you going to let me propose again, dear? Please let me—I want you very much, Hulda."

This time Hulda did not refuse him. She did not dare refuse him. Never mind if she was second choice, never mind anything as long as she had him to love.

"So Ethel's gone!" Everett said after a while. "Cute little girl; amusing, very. Shall you miss her, dear?"

"Shall you?" returned Hulda.

Everett laughed. "Why, no. Why should I? I've got you."

Afterward Hulda felt that she had broken faith with Ethel. Suppose Ethel loved Everett? The thought terrified her.

She was at breakfast next morning when a telegram came—such a long one from Ethel.

"I'm engaged to Dick—we met on shipboard; married next month; tell Everett—he's getting ready to propose to you again—told me so—take him—no mistake—must have him for my uncle."

Hulda passed the telegram across the table to her mother. Then she covered her face with her hands and laughed with a sob of thankfulness in her laughter.

Wireless Takes Place of Spinners of Yarns

It is indeed sad news that the professional story-tellers of the Near East are being hard hit by the wireless.

It appears that when the spinner of yarns calls round to charm the jaded merchant with his narrative of the caliph and his beautiful Persian or the new episode in the life of Sindbad or Ali Baba, he finds the merchant sitting before his loud-speaker or with the earphones attached to his head, listening to the latest news from the Bagdad markets or the Cairo Stock exchange.

An ancient and honorable calling is thus in danger of extinction, and Arabian nights no longer know the soft voice of Scheherazade beguiling the sultan with her fairy tales, though it is lucky for the maiden that she had no wireless competition in those days, when her life depended on her skill in persuading the cynical ruler to want just one more story.

As the East is the East, the story-tellers will probably accept their fate with a resigned "Kismet," but there seems one excellent way out of their difficulty.

With their gifts they could become the world's premier wireless salesmen. As a commercial traveler Scheherazade would have been a gold mine to any firm in the radio world.

Life's Journey

As I often remark to my nearest companion, I realize more and more as I grow older the stark truth in the poet Pope's line: "Man never is but always to be blest," with accents on the verbs. No doubt it is wise to keep the end and aim of our journey through life always in mind. But that ought not to make us blind to the sacramental blessings by the wayside. The beauties of sky and landscape, of flowers, beasts, birds and fellow creatures are for our enjoyment, to help to perfect happiness. The Persian fable said that on his arrival in Paradise a mortal was asked by his Owner: "How did you enjoy the world through which you have passed?" "I was so anxious to get through it to this world, I hardly noticed it," he answered. "Yet I made and furnished for you that world too!" said the Master!—"Observer," in Montreal Family Herald.

A Memory

Winston Churchill's intervention in the war debt controversy between Secretary Mellon and the professors led George Dunn Marvin, the San Francisco economist, to say:

"Churchill is always leaping up into the limelight. Have you read his two volumes that tell how he won the war?

"Churchill in his war book has forgotten the Dardanelles, but I'll never forget the remark that an old colored man made in the course of that disastrous campaign.

"'Dem Dardanelles, sah,' said the old man, 'am sholy showin' deirselves better fighters dan wot dat Churchill fellar reckoned on.'"

Tourist Finds Hell in Polish Summer Resort

Dante had nothing on the ordinary citizen of Danzig, who can go to Hell and back every day, if he pleases. In Hell (or as it is sometimes spelled, Hel or Hela) Poland has its leading summer resort.

"How can I go to Hell?" I asked the hotel porter one morning.

"That's easy," he replied. "A boat right at the foot of the river will take you across the bay to Hell." So I crossed the Styx into Hell.

Hell, however, turned out not to be all that it's cracked up to be. One hears they follow the Russian style of natural bathing costumes there, but, at least during my short visit, Hell had reformed. All I saw were two or three small beer gardens, a lot of fishing huts and an open stretch of beach, with bathhouses here and there. Not even a goldfish or a devilfish in sight!

As a place to raise h—l, however, Hell cannot quite come up to Zoppot, fifteen miles from Danzig, where they have three roulette tables, etc., etc.—From a Danzig Letter in the Brooklyn Eagle.

Snowy linens are the pride of every housewife. Keep them in that condition by using Russ Bleaching Blue in your laundry. At all grocers.—Adv.

Coach at Least Can Hammer Home Point

Knute Rockne, the football coach from Notre Dame, gave his audience a lot to think about when he spoke in Cleveland the other day. Summing up the well-known younger generation, he said: "The trouble with some young men today is that they suffer from charley-horse between the ears."

In referring to the kind of talk he gives his players before they go out on the field, he said: "Here's what I tell 'em—success is based on what the team does—not on how you will look in the headlines!"

And when Mr. Rockne insisted that he wasn't a marvel at speaking he told his listeners: "I'm a good deal like John Flynn. (Mr. Flynn, now a Cleveland business man, was a famous Notre Dame tackle). When Flynn started into a game he used to say he was no good until he began to sweat, and when he began to sweat he was all in."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

A Bad Spell

Doctor—Ever have any trouble with dyspepsia?

Patient—Only when I try to spell it.

Couldn't Be

Hub—You are extravagant. You spend money for unnecessary clothes.

Wife—Absurd; unnecessary clothes are not in fashion.—Pathfinder.

A miser's face is like a banknote—every line in it means money.

Love is the only sure cure for feminine coquetry.

Why He Succeeded

Honored politically and professionally, during his lifetime, Dr. R. V. Pierce, whose picture appears here, made a success few have equalled. His pure herbal remedies which have stood the test for many years are still among the "best sellers." Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is a stomach alterative which makes the blood richer. It clears the skin, beautifies it, pimples and eruptions vanish quickly. This Discovery of Dr. Pierce's puts you in fine condition. All dealers have it in liquid or tablets.

Send 10 cents for trial pkg. of tablets to Dr. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., and write for free advice.

IF SICK OR AILING —TAKE—

Aqua Nova Vita
NATURE'S OWN REMEDY

A PROVEN TREATMENT
for assisting Nature in restoring and maintaining NORMAL BLOOD PRESSURE
also in treatment of
RHEUMATISM
CONSTIPATION NERVOUSNESS
RUN DOWN CONDITIONS
For Your Health's Sake
Write for Special Offer Guaranteed 40-day Treatment.
The Aqua Nova Vita Co.
1971 E. 66th St. Cleveland, O.

Headache?

Instead of dangerous heart depressants take safe, mild and purely vegetable NATURE'S REMEDY and get rid of the bowel poisons that cause the trouble. Nothing like NR for biliousness, sick headaches, and constipation. Acts pleasantly. Never gripes.

Make the test tonight—

NR TO-NIGHT
TOMORROW ALRIGHT

At Druggists—only 25c

PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM
Removes Dandruff—Stops Hair Falling
Restores Color and Beauty to Gray and Faded Hair
60c. and $1.00 at Druggists.
Hiscox Chem. Wks. Patchogue, N. Y.

FLORESTON SHAMPOO—Ideal for use in connection with Parker's Hair Balsam. Makes the hair soft and fluffy. 50 cents by mail or at druggists. Hiscox Chemical Works, Patchogue, N. Y.

WHITEN YOUR SKIN
with KREMOLA, the wonderful bleach cream. Use one box and see the real skin beauty that can be yours. Price $1.25 prepaid. BOOKLET FREE. Agents wanted. Dr. C. H. Berry Co., 2612 Michigan Ave., Chicago.

FLASH
Cleans All Hands
Factory agents or territory salesmen wanted. Write today. Flash Chemical Co., Cambridge, Mass.

HOXSIE'S CROUP REMEDY
THE LIFE-SAVER OF CHILDREN
No opium, no nausea. 50 cents at druggists, or HOXSIE CO., NEWBURGH, N. Y.

W. N. U., FORT WAYNE, NO. 41.-1927.

Bobby's Explanation

"I wonder why they say 'Amen' and not 'Awoman,' Bobby."

"Because they sings hymns and not hers, stupid."

Ability is the art of doing only what one is capable of doing.

A real blessing seldom has to assume a disguise.

Prescription He Wrote in 1892 is the World's Most Popular Laxative

W. B. Caldwell M.D.
AT AGE 68

When Dr. Caldwell started to practice medicine, back in 1875, the needs for a laxative were not as great as they are today. People lived normal, quiet lives, ate plain, wholesome food, and got plenty of fresh air and sunshine. But even that early there were drastic physics and pudges for the relief of constipation which Dr. Caldwell did not believe were good for human beings to put into their system. So he wrote a prescription for a laxative to be used by his patients.

The prescription for constipation that he used early in his practice, and which he put in drug stores in 1892 under the name of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is a liquid vegetable remedy, intended for women, children and elderly people, and they need just such a mild, safe, gentle bowel stimulant as Syrup Pepsin.

Under successful management this prescription has proven its worth and is now the largest selling liquid laxative in the world. The fact that millions of bottles are used a year proves that it has won the confidence of people who needed it to get relief from headaches, biliousness, flatulence, indigestion, loss of appetite and sleep, bad breath, dyspepsia, colds and fevers.

Millions of families are now never without Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and if you will once start using it you will also always have a bottle handy for emergencies.

It is particularly pleasing to know that the most of it is bought by mothers for themselves and the children, though Syrup Pepsin is just as valuable for elderly people. All drug stores have the generous bottles.

We would be glad to have you prove at our expense how much Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin can mean to you and yours. Just write "Syrup Pepsin," Monticello, Illinois, and we will send you prepaid a FREE SAMPLE BOTTLE.

OCTOBER

L 913 U583

Life's Limelights

By Brown Focht

"OPEN THE GATES OF THE TEMPLE"

Most of the beliefs and utterances of George Bernard Shaw astound the imagination. The world generally speaking, condemns much he says. But he has said some things which it would be well for the world to follow out.

For instance he believes that churches should be open at all times.

When he said that, he was speaking of England where few church doors are ever locked.

We wonder what he would have said of America where few churches are always open.

Do those bodies who have the authority to lock and unlock church doors, think that their Maker intended that the doors of His temples here on earth should be closed?

And do those bodies of which the preacher, God's mouthpiece, is an exofficio member, believe that churches are to be entered only on Sundays, when a member may sing a little, pray a bit, listen to a sermon, drop a few coins on the collection plate, and be convinced that, as far as spiritual salvation is concerend, he is through until next Sunday comes?

It would seem that they did believe those two things.

But they are wrong in their beliefs.

Churches should be open at all times, and the day is coming when they will be.

About a church there is something restful—something which lifts our thoughts above our wild-sweeping life.

It is not in the peal of the organ, although song must lift us to a higher plane.

It is not a sermon, although a sermon must make us think of spiritual things.

What is it, then?

Shaw says that in a church he finds "rest without langour and recreation without excitement."

Go to a great city, enter a church, and you will always find someone in mediation—reflecting over past sins, perhaps, or asking help for the future.

Go to a small town on Monday morning, and you will wait until the next Sunday if you want to enter a church.

They will say that not enough people would go into a church during the week to make it worth while that it should be kept open.

But if in a year only one person should enter a church, and if that person should be saved by so doing, would it not be ample reward?

Who is there so guiltless that he shall say when another man may or may not go into a church to be alone with his soul?

The infinite controls churches—not we poor, miserable creatures here on earth.

And we believe that the Infinite intended that not a temple door should ever be locked.

Do we hear negative murmurings? It is well, for there always must be negative as well as positive forces.

You see all the road when you drive a Buick

The dreaded "blind spot" is gone forever! In Buick for 1928 closed car front posts are narrowed so that all the road, ahead of you and at the side, is clear.
What a factor this is for safety! What extra pleasure it gives to driving!
See Buick for 1928. Get behind the wheel and prove for yourself how clearly you can see all the road from the driver's seat.

BUICK MOTOR COMPANY, FLINT, MICHIGAN
Division of General Motors Corporation
Sedans $1195 to $1995 Coupes $1195 to $1850
Sport Models $1195 to $1525
All prices f. o. b. Flint, Michigan, government tax to be added. The G.M.A.C. financing plan, the most desirable, is available.

BUICK for 1928

BUICK SALES & SERVICE, Auburn.

YEARS OF MATURITY

The mature years are the EARNING years of life. It is then if ever that you will secure a competence. Mature years—mature judgment.

Youth is improvident, old age incompetent. Maturity—that's the time. And you'll need a connecion with a good bank, to advise, to safeguard your earnings, to render you service in many ways. Our banking facilities are at your disposal. None better or safer. No bank more reliable and accomodating.

CONFIDENCE IS WHAT COUNTS.

The St. Joe Valley Bank, A STATE BANK

Good Enough to PATRONIZE
HIGH'S
Good Enough to LOOK FOR

100% Coffee

Our Coffee is shipped to us direct from the roaster in small lots. That means it is always fresh. No chance to get stale, we buy it in bulk and keep it in a tight sanitary case.

So you get the most for your money.

ZONKER'S Store.

FOR THE NEXT TWO WEEKS

For one or two dollars more than chain store or mail order prices, you can NOW BUY—

Hart, Schaffner & Marx

NEW FALL SUITS

All sizes from 34 to 50 regular, stouts, stubs and longs, staple worsted fabrics, blues, grays and browns. Two and three button models.

$23.50

Our Greatest Volume Achievement

The price of $23.50 for Hart, Schaffner & Marx new fall suits is exclusively a Patterson-Fletcher volume achievement. In most cities the prices for these same suits average $30 to $37.50.

▲ SPECIAL SALE OF TOPCOATS — Mostly $30 and $35 Values
SPECIAL $19.50

Patterson-Fletcher Co.

Wayne at Harrison Fort Wayne

WHY CRITICISE DRESS OF WOMEN OR GIRLS?

Church Issues Orders

Bobbed hair, bright colors, rakish hats, ear rings, varigated footwear, sleeveless dresses and "skirts that go more than ten or twelve inches above the floor," have been banned for women Bible workers of the Seventh Day Adventists' Church.

On the theory that clothing proclaims the character of the wearer, the ministerial association of the church has sent to its workers throughout the country a lengthy pronouncement on the subject of warning them that "the best-dressed women are always quietly dressed."

Among other furbelows that the association says should be shunned are vanity cases and miniature handbags, bits of bright colored handkerchiefs or lace dangling from the sleeves, striped or checked hosiery, umbrellas or pencils mounted with "grotesque or foolish doll heads" and "fads" of all kinds.

School Authorities Speak

And now getting a little closer home, all the girls in the South Whitley schools are wearing stockings now. Some who appeared without and others who rolled their hose to slipper tops were told by school authorities to get their legs into hosiery or get out of school. Rooms where the stockingless fad was tried ceased to be places of study, the officials said. Some girls hit by the "no bares" edict appeared for a few evenings on the streets with the compromise roll, but school officials have made the edict good so far as classrooms are concerned.

School Teachers Attacked

Hazel Park, Mich., Oct 1.—One hundred and eight school ma'ams stamped their pretty feet here last night and said: "We won't."

Three members of the school board folded their arms today, elevated their noses a trifle and said; "You will."

The controversy whether the teachers should wear uncolored smocks, to reach not more than ten inches from the ground, which the board has ordered in the interests of "Juvenile morality."

It was the board's view that in the class room shapely limbs and silk stockings do not jibe with reading, writing and arithmetic.

The teachers sent their ultimatum in the form of a resolution saying they did not like the suggestion that their dress was immodest. That was what at least three of the five members of the board hinted in issuing their fiat.

Zero hour was set for Monday morning. Board members were entrenched behind constituted authority, but the teachers were laying down a barrage of parent's petitions and threats to recall the members responsible for the edict.

LOCAL NEWS ITEMS

A road sign in Palestine reads: 'You are entering Nazareth. Speend limit fifteen miles an hour.'

To shoot a projectile to the moon it would be necessary fir it to have a velocity of seven miles a second. The average big gun can give a speed of only about one one-hundredth of that rate.

Lawrence, six year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Walker, residing on state highway 27, north of Auburn and directly east of the Silver Moon dance pavilion, was injured Sunday afternoon when struck by an automobile driven by E. A. McClintock. Sheriff John Armstrong, to whom the accident was reported, said that the boy received a cut on one of his thighs and was made unconscious for a time. There were no broken bones, although a wheel of Mr. McClintock'c car passed over him after the headlight struck the boy. Lawrence, who was going after the cows with a neighbor boy was playing along the road. Although warned, the boy jumped in and out of the highway in front of passing automobiles, the sheriff said. The car following the McClintock car run into the ditch to avoid hitting them.

Legal Publications

ADMINISTRATOR'S SALE OF REAL ESTATE

State of Indiana,
DeKalb County, ss:
In the DeKalb Circuit Court
September Term, 1927.
William Curie, Administrator
Of the Estate of Franklin P. Hart
vs
John F. Hart, et al.

The undersigned, administrator of the estate of Franklin P. Hart, deceased, hereby gives notice that by virtue of an order of the DeKalb Circuit Court of Indiana, he will at the hour of 10 o'clock A. M., of the 15th day of October, 1927, at his store in the Town of St. Joe, Indiana, and from day to day thereafter until sold, offer for sale at private sale, all the interest of said decedent in and to the following described real estate situate in DeKalb County, Indiana, to-wit: Lots numbered thirty-one, (31,) thirty-two, (32,) thirty-three (33) and thirty-four (34,) in Heller's Addition to the town, now City of Butler, Indiana; also lots numbered two (2,) five (5,) six (6) and seven(7) in White's Addition to the Town of St. Joe, Indiana; also a tract of land described as follows: bounded by a line commencing at a point twenty-five (25) feet east and two hundred thirty (230) feet south of the intersection line of Jefferson Street and Fifth (5) Street in the Town of St. Joe, Indiana, thence east one hundred fifty (150) feet; thence south fifty (50) feet; thence west one hundred fifty (150) feet; thence north fifty (50) feet to the place of beginning; also a tract of land described as follows: Commencing at a point two hundred ten (210) feet south of the south-east corner of lot numbered ten (10) in block numbered four (4) in the Original Plat of the Town of St. Joe, Indiana; thence south one hundred twenty-four (124) feet; thence west one hundred sixty-two (162) feet; thence north six (6) feet; thence west three hundred seventy-eight (378) feet; thence north one hundred eighteen (118) feet; thence east five hundred forty (540) feet; to the place of beginning, all of the last above described real estate being in Section Fifteen (15,) Township Thirty-three (33) North, Range Fourteen (14) east and in said DeKalb County, Indiana.

Said sale will be made subject to the approval of said court, for not less than the appraised value, and upon the following terms and conditions:

At least one third of the purchase money in cash the balance in two equal installments, payable in six months and twelve months from date respectively, evidenced by notes of the purchaser, bearing interest at the rate of six per cent per annum, waiving relief, and providing for attorneys fees, and secured by a first mortgage on the real estate sold.

The undersigned will sell said real estate in parcels as appraised.

WILLIAM CURIE,
Administrator.
Atkinson & Husselman, Attys.

NOTICE OF EXECUTOR'S SALE OF REAL ESTATE

State of Indiana
County of DeKalb
In the Matter of the Estate of Alva S. Coburn, deceased.

The undersigned Executor of the Last Will and Testament of Alva S. Coburn, deceased, hereby gives notice that as such Executor, he will on Monday the 31st day of October, 1927, at the hour of 1 P. M. on said date and from day to day thereafter until sold, offer for sale at private sale upon the premises in Spencer Township, DeKalb County, Indiana, at not less than the full appraised value thereof, the real estate of the decedent belonging to him at the time of his death and ordered sold in his Last Will and Testament and located and being in DeKalb County, Indiana and described as follows, to-wit:

The east one half (½) of the north-west quarter (¼) of Section twenty-four(24) in Township thirty-three (33) north of Range fourteen (14) east, excepting therefrom that part or portion lying north of the right of way of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad and containing seventy-five (75) acres more or less.

The said real estate will be sold pursuant to the authority of the Last Will and Testament of the said Alva S. Coburn, deceased and upon the following terms and conditions, to-wit: At least one third of the purchase price cash in hand, one third in six months and one third in twelve months from date of sale, all deferred payments to be evidenced by the notes of the purchaser without relief from valuation or appraisement laws, with attorney fees and payable at a bank and in all respects fully negotiable; the said notes given for said deferred payments to be secured by a first mortgage upon said real estate to be executed by the purchaser his or her spouse joining therein and said notes to bear interest at the rate of six per cent per annum from date; the purchaser to have the right to pay the entire purchase price in cash at his option.

Said sale will be made subject to the approval of the DeKalb Circuit Court and the Executor reserves the right to reject any and all bids.

Said sale of real estate will be made subject to the right of any tenant having out crops.

FLOYD COBURN,
Executor of the Last Will and Testament of Alva S. Coburn.
H. C. Springer,
Attorney for the Executor. 39t4.

NOTICE OF FINAL SETTLEMENT OF ESTATE

Cause No. 3089

Notice Is Hereby Given to all persons interested in the estate of Benjamin F. Terman deceased, to appear in the DeKalb Circuit Court, held at Auburn, Indiana, on the 7th day of November, 1927, and show cause, if any, why my Final Settlement Accounts with the estate of said decedent should not be approved; and said heirs and all others interested, are notified to then and there make proof of heirship or claim and receive their distributive shares.

Witness, My name, this 10th day of Octobr, 1927.

E. R. KINSEY,
Administrator.
H. C. Springer, Attv. 41t3.

NOTICE OF FINAL SETTLEMENT OF ESTATE.

Cause No. 3103

Notice Is Hereby Given to all persons interested in the estate of Peter Kosht, deceased, to appear in the DeKalb Circuit Court, held at Auburn, Indiana, on the 7th day of November, 1927, and show cause, if any, why my Final Settlement Accounts with the estate of said decedent should not be approved; and said heirs and all others interested, are notified to then and there make proof of heirship or claim and receive their distributive shares.

Witness, My name, this 7th day of October, 1927.

ELIZABETH KOSHT,
Administratrix.
Stump & McClintock, Attys. 41t3.

Out of the Pepper Box

By Ben F. Williams

A wise crack will sometimes let a little light into a place that can't be ereached any other way.

A short story of a sick spell; ill, pill, bill.

Wives have discovered that the easiest way to keep their dishes clean is to eat at the cafeteria.

For a lesson in personality, dodge the psychologist and study the clothes line.

Slogan for dealers in peroxide; "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes."

Grouchy sick men think a trained nurse should be able to amuse them with tricks.

Short skirts uncover a multitude of shins.

A hick town is one in which everybody talks the latest slang a couple of days after the banker's son returns from college.

It's time to let up on the halitosis joke; it's getting odoriferous.

Why is it folks who boast of their generosity never have anything to give?

Singing a popular song may easily kill its popularity.

The Railway Traffic Association has ruled that two half brothers cannot ride on a single ticket.

Married men know there is no such thing as free love.

In church circles one half spends a lot of time wondering what the other half gives.

May Wear 'Em at Night

The clerks in the Bank of England have been notified by the boss that mustaches are not to be worn during business hours. But it will be perfectly all right with the bank if they wish to wear them at night.—Exchange.

OCTOBER

L 915 0584

THE BEST BOOSTER FOR YOUR BUSINESS IN DeKALB COUNTY

ST. JOE NEWS.

NEWS MAKES A GOOD PAPER, SO SEND IT IN TO US.

VOL.. XLI. ST. JOE, DeKALB COUNTY, INDIANA, THURSDAY, OCTOBER 20, 1927 NUMBER 42

MILO J. THOMAS DEATH CAME SUDDEN

The death of Milo J. Thomas of Corunna, at the Battle Creek sanatarium Sunday morning at 2 o'clock marked the passing of one of the most widely known and influential citizens of DeKalb county. Mr. Thomas died under an anaesthetic which had been administered for a preliminary operation on his right leg which was to have been amputated Sunday.

He went to Battle Creek two weeks ago for treatments for hardening of the arteries and heart trouble. The latter part of last week a blood clot formed in the leg which became lifeless. The operation was planned and was partially carried out when death came.

The body was returned home Monday and funeral was held on Tuesday from the Corunna Christian Church. He was a very prominent man in banking and business circles.

He was born August 15, 1861.

Chimney repairing is essential to safety of your home. Call Chas. Butler, Spencerville. 41t4p.

MAKING HARD BATTLE FOR HIS LIFE

Tuesday evening report from the bedside of H. M. Widney at the Lutheran hospital, states that he is some better. Last week he contracted pneumonia on one lung and his condition was serious for several days. A change for the better seems to be in evidence.

SPENCERVILLE TROUNCES BUTLER

Slam Out 5-2 Victory

Spencerville high schol brought a successful base ball season to a close Friday evening with a 5 to 2 victory over Butler. Effective pitching in the pinches together with brilliant support in left field by Hart, coupled with a snappy double play, (Furnish to W. Chapman,) was mostly responsible for the defeat of the Pump-town Boys. A home run by Campbell, Butler second baseman, featured the game.

Butler 0 1 0 0 1 0 0-2
Spencerville 2 2 0 1 0 0 x-5

Loomis and Keefer; Furnish and Beams.

We Buy CLOVER SEED!
Bring Your SEEDS to Us
WE WILL PAY YOU HIGHEST MARKET PRICES

NATHAN Grain Co.
St. Joe's New Lumber Yard
Call By Phone for Prices Bert Jackson, Mgr.

Now For the Pig Harvest

DON'T gamble with the odds against you—you do if you try to raise hogs without adequate housing.

A hog house of reasonable design costs little to begin with and nothing in the end—the extra pigs saved pay for the building.

Help the pigs the first four weeks—they'll take care of themselves and you after they are well started.

Better be safe than sorry. See us about this. We have the plans and dependable material necessary for permanent building.

SPENCERVILLE LUMBER & SUPPLY CO.
C. J. KNAAK, Manager
Spencerville, Indiana.

TRAINING SCHOOL TO OPEN IN AUBURN ON NOV. 7TH

Leaders in Sunday School Work Will Study Latest Thought In Religious Education

The Sunday School executives and workers of DeKalb county will have a rare opportunity for special training during the Leadership Training School which will be held at the Y. M. C. A. November 7 to 11. Never before in the history of Sunday School work in this county, has anything similar to this movement been attempted.

This school has for its object the training of leaders in religious education: Sunday School superintendents, assistants, secretaries, department heads—in fact every officer and prospective officer and leader in the church school will have an opportunity to study the latest thought in Religious Education.

The courses taught are approved by the denominations represented in DeKalb county and taught by people who are licensed to teach the subjects to the students.

The Interdenominational Standard Leadership School is an interdenominational training agency which complies with outline and requirements of the Standard Leadership curriculum. This curriculum has the approval of all denominations in Indiana. It provides a medium of co-operative religious leadership training where ever it is advisable to federate the resources of the several denominations in a community. The purpose of the Standard Leadership School is to train all types of workers in religious education, such as teachers and leaders of classes in the local churches, department principals and superintendents, general officers of the church and church school, directors of religious education in the local churches, administrative officers, specialists in missionary and recreational education and teachers and supervisors of week day and vacation Bible schools.

This school is the reward of years of organization and work on the part of the Sunday School workers of DeKalb county and it is earnestly hoped that the local Sunday Schools all over the county will grasp the unusual opportunity for leadership training and enroll enough students, at least four from each school, so that the good things taught during the week of November 7th will be carried back to each school.

W. C. T. U. NEWS

Owing to the resignation of Mrs. Eva Young, the W. C. T. U. County Executive met and elected Mrs. Lulu LaRue, of Garrett as County President and Ada Lane, vice president. At this time the following superintendents were appointed:

Scientific Temperance, Mrs. Nola Green, Auburn.

Bible in the Public School, Lilly Sellers, Auburn.

Jail and Prison, Mrs. Minnie Kagey, Auburn.

Anti Narcotics, Laura Keeran, Auburn.

Medal Contest, Dorothy Bolton, Auburn.

Publicity, Flossie Mavis, Auburn.

Parliamentarian, Alice Lewis, Auburn.

Flower Mission, Lillian Buckingham, St. Joe.

CANDIDATES FOR LOCAL OFFICERS

There are still some who do not know who the candidates are for the local officers to be voted on November 8th. Here they are:—

CITIZEN'S TICKET

Councilman, Ward 1 — Sam Keesler.

Councilman, Ward 2—Fred B. Leighty.

Town Clerk,—Earl B. Smith.

Town Treasurer—John C. Hull.

INDEPENDENT TICKET

Councilman, Ward 1—Frank Curie.

Councilman, Ward 2—Harry H. Kees.

Town Clerk, —Derwood Ridgway.

Town Treasurer,— Frank Akins.

Causes

A propensity to hope and joy is real riches; one to fear and sorrow real poverty.—London Tit-Bits.

OLD FRIEND AND READER OF THE NEWS, RETURNS SOUTH

A letter from our old friend W. H. Hannen is received, telling of his splendid visit to Indiana before returning to California, is reproduced below:

Fort Wayne, Ind., 10, 17, '27.
1717 Bayer Ave.

Editor of The News:—

Please send The News to my old address, Petaluma, Cal., after this week. We will leave here one week from today, stay a couple of days in Chicago and then leave for the land of sunshine. We feel several years younger by making our trip and meeting so many good old friends and neighbors.

We attended the National Encampment of G. A. R. at Grand Rapids, Mich., spent two weeks with a nephew and niece at Shelbyville. Visited Comrad Wm. Kinsey, who is 88, was Drum Major of the 44th Indiana Volunteer Infantry. He is a printer and works every day. He lives at Saugatuck, Mich. We spent one week at Lagrange, Ind., with Comrad Dr. Norman Sessions. He was a Drummer of Co. H. 44th and I was a Fifer of Co. D. 44th Ind. We were bunkies.

We came to Kendallville on the 29th day of September to attend the 48th reunion of 44th Indiana Volunteer Infantry. There were about 10 or 12 of the 44th and several visiting comrads of other regiments and other wars. We spent about three weeks with our sister, Mrs. Mary Volmer, 1717 Beyer Ave., Fort Wayne, and her children. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Koerber and family and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Crance and daughter. We attended the Volmer reuion, there were forty present. We had lots to eat and everybody was jolly. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Koerber celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary with forty present and a splendid dinner. Mr. Koerber and sister, Mary, sat at the opposite end. We also had a reunion at Joel Betz's, those present were, W. H. Hannen, Petaluma, Cal., Enos Hannen, Spencerville, V. N. Gates and wife of Findlay, Ohio, David Boston, Toledo, Ohio, Al Boger and wife of Springfield Center, Mrs. Nettie Perkins and son, Ted, and Mrs. Ora Billman of Harlan, Ind. The reunion was given in honor of "Your Honor," W. H. H.

Besides we visited the following towns, Spencerville, St. Joe, Grabill, Harlan, New Haven and Woodburn, Ind., Hicksville, Antwerp, Toledo and Findlay, Ohio, and spent several days visiting relatives and old friends in Fort Wayne. We were at Monroeville, Ohio and were at Roanoke, Ind., today to visit relatives. We will leave here for Chicago next Sunday, Oct. 23, spend a couple of days there visiting a nephew and niece, Mr. and Mrs. Jaeckel and family, then we will leave here for San Francisco, Cal., then to Petaluma, Cal., 35 miles north of Frisco.

With love and kind regards to all we remain as ever your friend and neighbor.

W. H. Hannen.

WEDDING ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATED IN ST. JOE

Mr. and Mrs. Charles High of Spencerville, celebrated their thirty-ninth wedding anniversary on last Friday evening at St. Joe, wholly a surprise to Mr. and Mrs. High of this place. Plans were well arranged and worked out by the aged couple. All the food was prepared at the Spencerville restaurant, brought to St. Joe, where Mr. and Mrs. Ed Leighty, Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Jenkins, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Miser, Mr. and Mrs. Harcourt Miser, Frank Miser, Charles Miser and lady friend, Miss Alma Dunn, were waiting to accompany them to the High restaurant, where the supper was served.

Mr. and rMs. Mart Miser of Waterloo and F. W. Silberg of Butler were also among the guests. After the super, a mock wedding took place in which Mr. and Mrs. Chas. High were the leading figures.

For eleven years the aged couple have lived in Spencerville and engaged in the restaurant business.

Grace for Digestion

A well-known doctor suggests that the practice of saying grace before a meal is good for the digestion. It is stated that the brief interval of calm during which grace is being said has the effect of soothing the mind.

D. E. BENNINGHOFF EXPIRES MONDAY EVENING

David Franklin Benninghoff, son of Benjamin and Mary Benninghoff, was born December 10, 1862 in Springfield Township, Allen County, Indiana. He departed from this life October 17, 1927, at his home in St. Joe at the age of 34 years, 10 months and 7 days.

On December 25, 1892 he was united in marriage to Sarah Amelia Sechler.

The deceased had been in ill-health for the past eighteen months with heart trouble and a complication of diseases from which he suffered an acute attack on Sunday, the day preceding his death.

He had been a life-long resident of this community and had lived in this village for thirty-three years. He was a good neighbor, a loyal friend, an upright citizen of dependable character—an upholder of the principle expressed by Burns: "An honest man's the noblest work of God."

Surviving are his wife, one brother, D. R. Benninghoff of Ft. Wayne, two nephews and a niece.

The services will be held at the home at 2 P. M. Thursday (today,) Rev. J. F. McKnight, officiating. Burial at White City, Spencerville. Roscoe Walter, Funeral Director.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our appreciation for the kind assistance given by our neighbors and friends and words of sympathy.

Mrs. Amelia Benninghoff.
D. R. Benninghoff.

TIMELY NOTICE

Pre Hallow e'en celebrating has been going on in town during the last few nights. Nearly all the windows of the business places have been decorated with soap, etc., for several nights past, much to the inconvenience of the merchants themselves.

Will the parents of the children of the community please correct this innocent, but disagreeable abuse, by instructing their children to refrain from further daubing of windows and save further comment or trouble.

County Deputy Sheriff.

LICENSED TO WED

Henry Sechler, 70, retired farmer, and Elva G. Laub, 72, both of Butler.

Irony

A judge looking up the law, ignorance of which in a defendant is no excuse.—Detroit News.

SPENCER TOWNSHIP HOME ECONOMICS

A good time was had by all Saturday evening, when thirty-six members and guests of the Spencer Township Home Economics Club met at the M. E. parsonage in Spencerville.

The Lady of The Skull greeted each one as they entered the front door. The main attractions of the evening consisted of a pumpkin seed guessing contest, which was won by Mrs. Rhodes, and a Masked Mock Marriage performed by Mr. Brown, when Mike McTurkish was united in nonsensical nonenity to Sally June Prune in the interests of fun and friendliness.

Pumpkin pie, doughnuts and coffee were served by the committee, Mrs. Randall and Mrs. Brown.

The guests were Mrs. Rhodes, Mrs. Shull, Mr. Hafner, Prof. Smith, Rev. Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Erick, Harold Furnish, Gladys Agler, Lucille Miller, Esther Lake and several children.

The Soul's Greatness

Never does the human soul appear so strong as when it foregoes revenge, and dares to forgive an injury.—E. H. Chapin.

DAY-FAN
RADIO RECEIVERS

This year you can have the famous radio used by great broadcasting stations in six tube models all the way from $65.00 up. If you don't want to use batteries, Day-Fan has two different light-socket models — one using AC tubes, one using the entirely new discovery in radio of a motor and generator. This set is a marvel. Before you buy a radio—before you change from your old set to anything else—come in and hear Day-Fan!

DAY-FAN SERVES THE WORLD

HORNER'S DRUG STORE, Butler.

ALL-STEEL
WAGONS

Kinsey's Store is the place for Young America to have his wants supplied. We are featuring in our windows the Gendron Line of All-Steel Vehicles.

BULL-DOG. Just the kind the youngster likes.....$4.98

PIONEER RACER. Another of the youngster's favorites.....$6.98

Foot Balls, Basket Balls, Base Balls, Famous Daisy Line of Air Rifles, Scooters, Roller Skates etc

CORN CUTTING NEEDS

ETS IN BUSHEL AND HALF BUSHEL SIZES. FODDER TIES, CORN CUTTERS, OAK AND STEEL BASKTING CORN, SUCH AS: PEGS, HOOKS, WRIST BANDS, WE HAVE ALL THE NECESSITIES A GOING FOR CUT-

E. R. KINSEY, Hardware Furniture

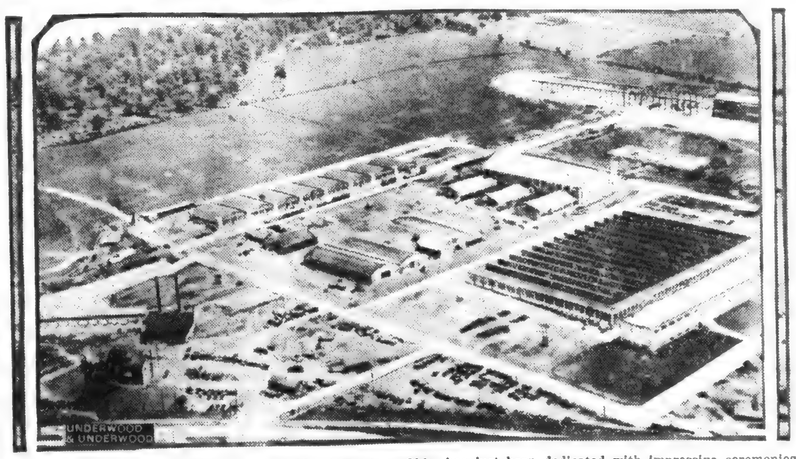
OCTOBER

L 915 0585

Earl Combs Scores on Babe Ruth's Homer

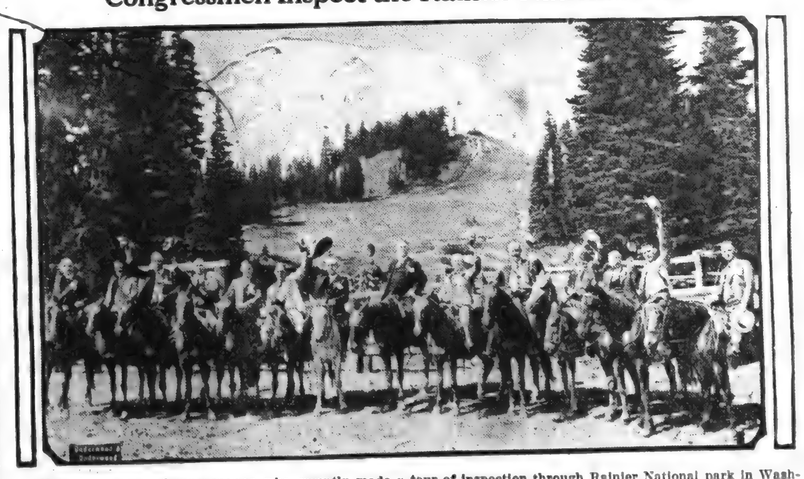
The photograph shows Earl Combs scoring on Babe Ruth's home run in the fifth inning of the fourth game for the world's championship between the New York Yankees and the Pittsburgh Pirates. The Yankees won the series in four straight games.

World's Largest Aviation Field Dedicated



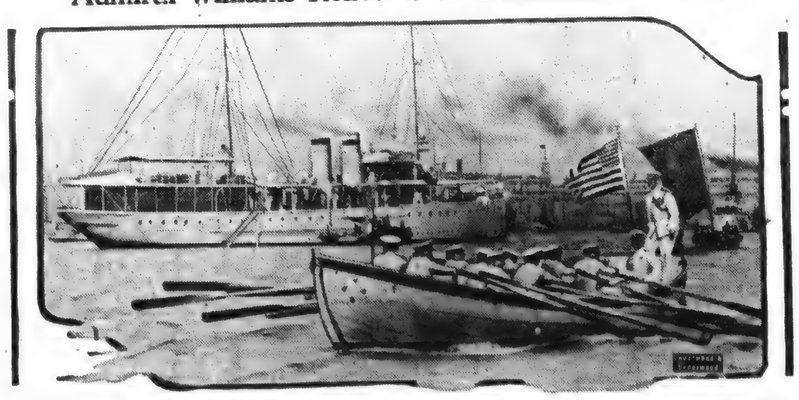
The largest aviation field in the world, at Dayton, Ohio, has just been dedicated with impressive ceremonies participated in by Secretary of War Davis and other government officials. This is Wright field, named for the Wright brothers, and it consists of 5,000 acres.

Congressmen Inspect the Rainier National Park



Here is a group of congressmen who recently made a tour of inspection through Rainier National park in Washington. Snow-capped Mt. Rainier is in the background.

Admiral Williams Relieved of Command in China



Admiral C. S. Williams, U. S. N., was relieved as commander in chief of the U. S. Asiatic fleet by Admiral Mark Bristol. After the ceremonies Admiral Williams left the flagship, the U. S. S. Pittsburgh, in a whale boat, the coxswain of which was Capt. W. N. Vernon. Staff officers, together with a few of the ship's officers, as oarsmen rowed Admiral Williams up the Whangpoo river at Shanghai to the U. S. S. General Alava.

Denver Girl Married to a Prince

Miss Elaine Willcox, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles MacAllister Willcox of Denver, was married to Prince Gialma Odescalchi in the chapel at the municipal building in New York city. The prince is a member of a distinguished Hungarian family. This photograph of the bride and groom was made immediately after the wedding.

ESPERANTO PROMOTER

Mrs. Mabel Wagnalls Jones, daughter of Adam Wagnalls, the late publisher, and her husband, Richard J. Jones, of Northport, L. I., have endowed a school of Esperanto in Lithopolis, Ohio, the first of its kind anywhere, with the idea of effecting an international understanding which would prevent war. Lithopolis is an isolated village of 300 persons.

GETS VAST ESTATE

Doris Duke, fourteen-year-old daughter of the late J. B. Duke, millionaire tobacco king, who has received the vast estate of more than 3,000 acres near Somerville, N. J., willed to her by her father. A deed for the property, estimated as being worth more than two and a half million dollars, has been filed in Miss Duke's name.

Fisherman's Luck

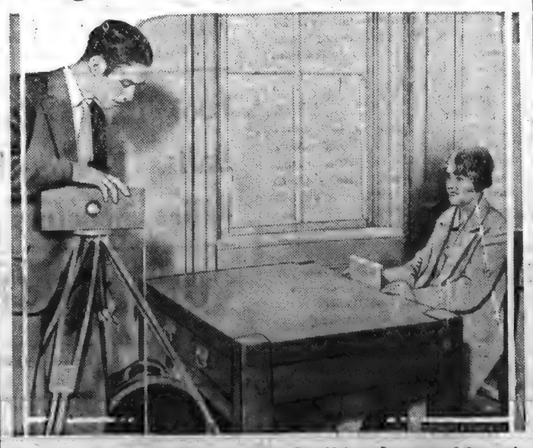
As was to be expected, an automobile driver recently evaded the speed laws on the protest that he was another of the now many "dawn-to-dusk" drivers.

As the traffic officer approached the speed car the driver yelled back without stopping, "this is the first town I have passed through in my dawn-to-dusk trip from the mountains to Wilmington that the courtesy of a motorcycle officer to escort me through the town was not extended." Obviously, the officer apologized and the driver dashed on to his fishing, greatly pleased with his deceitful triumph over the law.—Charlotte Observer.

Foreign Judges for Stock Show

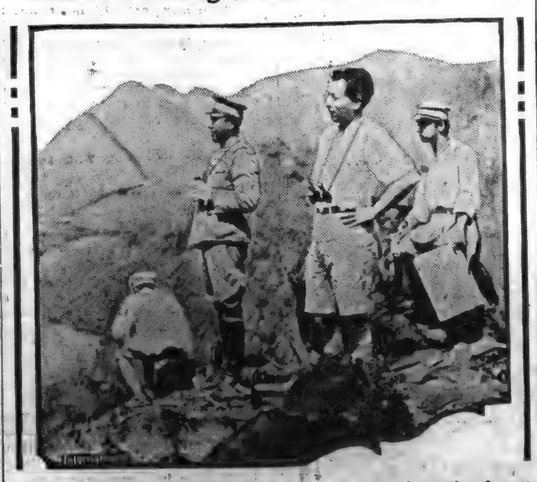
When the International Live Stock exposition is held in Chicago, November 28 to December 3, two distinguished foreigners will be there as judges. Lieut. Arnold Caddy (left), president of the Australian Red Polled Breeders' association, and one of the leading judges of many kinds of live stock in his native country, will make the official awards in the Red Polled breeding classes. Walter Biggar (right), Dalbeattie, Scotland, will assume the responsibility of officially judging all of the fat bullocks and selecting the grand champion steer.

Rogues' Gallery Methods at Drake



Every student at Drake university in Des Moines, Iowa, posed for a picture this fall before completing registration, in order that a photographic record of all students may be kept in the university files. They do the same thing at the state prison when "students" enroll there.

China's "Young General" in the Field



Chang Hsueh-Lian (hatless) is shown making an observation from a vantage point at the Honan sector. He is the son of Chang Tso-Lin of the Ankuochun army, but is better known simply as "The Young General."

PLANS DARING VOYAGE

This young motor boat builder of Constance, Switzerland, named Joerg, has constructed by hand a small motorboat in which he plans to sail from Constance to New York. His route is down the Rhine to Rotterdam, thence to England, to the Azores, to Brazil, to Florida and New York. He claims the discovery of a new fuel, the ingredients of which have been kept secret and which, he expects, will propel his boat across the Atlantic without refueling.

OCTOBER

L 915 U586

The Green Cloak

By YORKE DAVIS

WNU Service. Copyright, 1926

STORY FROM THE START

Dr. Ronald McAllister, psychologist, undertakes to solve the mystery of the murder of a recluse, Henry Morgan. The dead man's papers reveal that he had been in New Zealand, where McAllister had lived in his youth. Will Harvey testifies to seeing a woman in a green cloak at the Morgan home the night of the murder. Doctor McAllister is asked to see a young woman patient in a hospital. In her delirium she mutters in a strange language which only McAllister understands. He suspects she may know something of the murder. A carefully hidden map is discovered by McAllister and Assistant District Attorney Ashton in Morgan's home. While they are searching a young woman enters the house in the darkness and escapes, leaving behind a green cloak. In response to an advertisement of the finding of a green cloak, a young woman, giving her name as Jane Perkins, housemaid at The Meredith, claims it. McAllister takes two laboratory instruments to The Meredith for an undisclosed purpose. The head waiter, Wilkins, admits Jane Perkins is employed at the hotel.

CHAPTER VI—Continued

—10—

"I was sent up here to do up the bedrooms, sir," she said. "Was there any mistake about it, sir?"

I realized now how "face" and "lace" had suggested a rhyme to Harvey. She pronounced the word, "mistike," in the vilest cockney.

"No, it's quite right," said I. "Come in."

Doctor McAllister let her go straight through into the bedrooms with no more than a glance at her, and a nod in her general direction.

"Well," he said, "how about it? Does the resemblance strike you?"

"I don't think it would have struck me had I not been looking for it. But I imagine if we could get silhouettes of those two faces and put them side by side, they'd look a good deal alike."

He looked at me rather oddly, turned away and paced the length of the room a couple of times. It was one of his incongruous and unexpected characteristics that he liked to whistle or hum popular tunes to himself when he was thinking in an abstracted way. He began to do it now, though it was no popular tune which his fancy alighted on; indeed, it took me a minute or two to identify the queer, chanting cadence which he hummed over and over again. I did not identify it, in fact, until he left off humming and began to sing, and then the gutturnl words he used gave me the clue. It was that ghastly death chant we had heard the girl in the hospital droning and mumbling to herself.

Presently he strode over to the mantelpiece. There was a large ornamental, narrow-throated vase at the end of it, and the doctor began tapping idly enough upon the side of it with a little pearl-handled pocket knife. I turned round in some surprise.

"That sounds as if it were full of water," said I.

"It is."

"Well, who in the world can ever have thought of putting water in that vase?"

"Who, indeed?" he said.—"Oh, look here, will you, Phelps? I've dropped my knife into it."

It was curiously unlike him to do an idle, clumsy thing like that, quite as unnatural as that the vase, which had never held a flower, should be full of water. But suddenly something, in his face told me that the thing he had done was part of a carefully calculated trick.

The next moment he called out, "Perkins—"

"Yes, sir," came the chambermaid's voice from the next room. "Coming, sir."

As she entered the room he turned to her and indicated the vase. "I've just dropped my penknife in there," he said, "and my hand is too big to go in through the throat of it. Do you think you can fish it out for me?"

"My hand isn't as small as some, sir," she said with fat good humor, "but, anyway, I can try."

"Hold on!" the doctor cried as she moved her hand toward the vase. "The thing is full of water. You'll get your sleeve wet."

I was standing close by waiting to see what would happen, still utterly at a loss for a guess as to the doctor's purpose.

The girl slipped back her sleeve and plunged her arm into the vase.

And I, unable to believe what my eyes had seen, clutched the doctor's shoulder and stared, astounded, into his thoughtful face. For high up on the girl's forearm, just inside the elbow, was a tattoo mark in red and blue—a mark that I had not forgotten.

CHAPTER VII

It was fortunate that she did not raise [illegible] astonished face, because [illegible] few moments I had no control of it at all, and to any eye, even a stupid one, it would have betrayed strange matters. At first I simply stared at that mysterious little tattoo mark in red and blue: it seemed as if I could not pull my eyes away from it. But at last, rubbing my hands over them, I looked up at the doctor, astonished, questioning, incredulous, and yet convinced.

Of any such momentary turmoil his own face showed absolutely no sign. It was calm, almost to the edge of indifference, but his bright old eyes met mine for just an instant with a flashing look that admonished me of the necessity for self-control.

I pulled myself together, turned away for just the space of one deeply indrawn breath, then turned back again for a look at the girl. She was bending over the vase, her hand plunged down to the bottom of it, where she was fishing about for the doctor's knife. She was evidently a good-humored sort of person, easily pleased. The doctor's pretended mishap and her own efforts to retrieve it, seemed to be providing her with genuine amusement. She smiled and giggled and chattered all the while she was groping around for the knife, and uttered a triumphant exclamation when she found it.

All of that I barely saw, for I was searching, too, searching her face with a concentrated gaze that would have astonished her had she encountered it. As I looked, in the light of my new knowledge of her, the physical identity of her features with those of the wild girl became steadily more apparent, until I was forced to marvel at my previous blindness to it. Physically the face was the same; but everything of bone and flesh, every infinitely subtle muscular strain or relaxation about lip, eyelid and brow, everything which makes of the human face a window through which the soul looks out—all of that was different. Her movements were different. Sensory and motor nerves must be keyed to an altogether different pitch. The deep, stable color in her cheeks told of a pulse that beat at an entirely different rhythm. I remembered the poise of her body the last time we had stood face to face with her there in Henry Morgan's study, her attitude of frozen alertness, the deep breath drawn in through the dilated nostrils. She had caught our scent then and, recognising it as something strange and perilous, had fled like a shadow.

The doctor was standing close beside her, and now again he began humming the weird cadence of the death chant which I had heard for the first time from the girl's own lips. He hummed it through once in a reminiscent sort of way, and then began singing the words.

"I Was Sent Up Here to Do Up the Bedrooms, Sir," She Said.

The girl looked up at him and burst into a peal of laughter.

He stopped abruptly. "What's the matter?" he asked.

"I beg pawdon, I'm sure," she said. "I couldn't help laughin'. That was such a funny lot of noises."

"Is my singing as bad as that?" he asked good-naturedly.

"Not the singin', sir; the noises that went with it."

"Oh, you mean the language. Didn't you ever hear that language before?"

"Do you call that a language sir? Does it mean anything? Do people talk like that?" Then she went on, without a pause, "I beg your pawdon for bein' such a rattle, sir. And here's your knife."

She wiped it on her apron and laid it on the center table; then wiped her hand and started to pull down her sleeve.

"That's a curious bit of tattooing on your arm," the doctor commented. "How did you come by it?"

"I don't know," she replied indifferently. "It's always been there, I fancy; ever since I was too small to remember anyway. I hope your knife won't get rusty, sir. And I hope you don't mind my laughin' at that bit of song you sang."

"Not a bit," said the doctor. "I don't wonder the language struck you as queer. Yet it was common enough down in the quarter of the world where I was born."

"And where might that be, sir?" she asked.

"Oh, I meant the South Pacific generally. Where I lived was in New Zealand."

"Fancy now!" she said, obviously pleased. "That's where I come from

"I Don't See Anything but a Spot of Yellow Light."

myself—Wellington, New Zealand, but I never heard that language."

"No," he said; "you'd have to go a matter of a thousand miles or two from Wellington to hear that; it's Maori."

"I never heard of him. Is that all, sir? Shall I do up the rooms?"

He nodded; but as she turned to leave the room he called her back.

"You're rather near-sighted, aren't you, Perkins?" he said.

"Oh, no, sir; quite to the contrary, in fact. I can see farther than most people."

"Did you ever have your eyes tested?"

"Measured for glasses, do you mean, sir?" she asked. "No, sir, I shan't never come to them."

"Sit down in that chair a minute," said the doctor, with an easy assumption of authority. "No, not that one; this big chair here. I want to see if your eyes are as good as you think they are."

The chair he indicated, and in which she rather reluctantly seated herself was deep and soft and heavily upholstered. Neither the doctor nor I enjoyed sitting in it, however, because the curve at the back thrust one's head forward at an unnatural angle.

"Lean back," commented the doctor, "all the way—so."

When she was seated to his satisfaction, he wheeled the chair around with its back to the table, and then adjusted the powerful electric reading lamp so that it shed a beam horizontally above the girl's head.

She surveyed these preparations a little uneasily. "It's like having a tooth pulled," she said.

"Not a bit," said the doctor cheerfully. "It's not going to hurt. I only want you to look into this little mirror and tell me what you see."

He held it up before her eyes as he spoke. It was circular, slightly concave and was adjusted upon a long ivory handle. He held it above her head so that she had to strain her eyes upward to see it at all, and at such an angle that it reflected the light of the reading lamp straight into her eyes.

"I don't see anything at all but a spot of yellow light."

"You only see one?" questioned the doctor.

He pulled out his watch and glanced at it. "Don't mind what I'm doing," he admonished her. "Look steadily at the little mirror. Let me know how long it is before you begin to see two of those spots."

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

Famed in History as Warrior and Builder

Among the most important monarchs who governed a mighty civilization centuries before Athens came into fame was Seti I, a great warrior and a great builder, who ruled Egypt not long after the death of Tut-ankhamen. Rameses I, founder of the nineteenth dynasty of Egypt, ruled only two years and was then succeeded by his son, Seti I. The young ruler took up the task bequeathed to him by his father of leading his conquering armies into Asia. He marched to Lebanon and compelled the Syrian princes to cut down some of the famous cedars for his triumph. He overran the Philistine country, marched through Palestine and shattered the Amorites. He also had conflict with the Hittites of Asia Minor but little is known of his wars with them. Seti's military achievements, however, were not as great as his building ability. His temple at Abydos and his galleried tomb in the Valley of the Tombs of the Kings stand out as among the most amazing architectural triumphs devised by mind of man.—Detroit News.

Virtues of Men

In my exploration for the virtues of men I have learned that patient search usually discovers some refreshing virtue wherever there has been exhibited any unusual display of energy.—Stuart Sherman.

Wisdom in Reticence

"People who say little," said Hi Ho, the sage of Chinatown, "reserve to themselves the time for thinking much."—Washington Star.

Improved Uniform International Sunday School Lesson

(By REV. P. B. FITZWATER, D.D., Dean Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.)
(©, 1926, by Western Newspaper Union.)

Lesson for October 23

THE CALL OF THE PROPHET

LESSON TEXT—I Kings 19:19, 20. Amos 7:10-15; Isa. 6:1-8.

GOLDEN TEXT—I heard the voice of the Lord saying, Whom shall I send, and who will go for us? Then I said, Here am I, send me.

PRIMARY TOPIC—God Chooses His Helpers.

JUNIOR TOPIC—God's Call to Service.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Spirit of the Volunteer.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Need for Modern Prophets.

A prophet is one who speaks forth the message of another. A prophet may foretell events, but his primary business is to speak forth God's message.

I. The Call of Elisha (I Kings 19:19, 20).

1. His occupation. He seems to have been a well-to-do farmer, as there were twelve yoke of oxen in service when God called him. It was while engaged in his common duty that he received the divine call.

2. How he was called. Elijah cast his mantle upon him as he passed by.

II. The Call of Amos (Amos 7:10-15).

1. His occupation (v. 14). He was a herdsman and gatherer of sycamore fruit.

2. He was a prophet, not by succession nor trained in the prophetic schools.

3. God called him from his humble life to stand before the king. God is not straitened for helpers. He raises up workers from unexpected quarters, fills them with His Spirit and sends them forth.

III. The Call of Isaiah (Isa. 6:1-8).

1. Isaiah's vision of the Lord (vv. 1-4). No one's ministry will ever be fruitful until he has had a vision of the Lord.

(1) He saw the Lord on His throne (v. 1). The supreme need of a servant of God is to have a vision of Him, even to see Him on His throne. Just now, perhaps as never before, we need a vision of the enthroned Lord, as the awful darkness is settling down upon the world.

(2) He saw the Seraphim above (vv. 2, 3). Their standing indicated that they were in readiness to do His bidding. Their equipment with six wings showed their ability to execute the divine will. In the divine presence, one pair was needed to veil the head from the divine glory, one pair veiled the feet which had been soiled in contact with the world, while the third pair was suspended in midair waiting to depart on the divine errand. As they waited in His presence their continued cry was, "Holy, holy, holy."

(3) He saw manifestations of majesty (v. 4). As the holy ones cried the very doorposts moved and the temple was filled with smoke. Smoke indicates the divine presence in anger (Ex. 19:8; 20:18).

2. Isaiah's conviction of sin (v. 6). When he got a vision of the holy God he was smitten with a sense of sin. The reason that men think well of themselves is that they have never seen God. Face to face with the Lord, Isaiah saw himself as wholly vile. He realized that he had sinned in speech, and if in speech, then in heart, therefore the cry of despair.

3. Isaiah cleansed from sin (vv. 6, 7). Having been convicted of and confessed his sin, a burning coal was sent from the altar which purged away his sin. His penitential guilt was forgiven and removed.

4. Isaiah's call (v. 8). His call from God did not come until after his cleansing. The purged soul is the soul ready for the Lord's service.

5. Isaiah's dedication (v. 8). As soon as he was cleansed he quickly responded for service. The one who has been sanctified and made meet for the Master's service readily responds to the call of God. He did not wait to see the end from the beginning, but freely gave himself up to that service.

6. Isaiah's commission (vv. 9-13). Because of the unpromising outlook, Isaiah shrank from his responsibility. He saw the people steeped in selfishness, but in spite of that the Lord assured him that their blindness and sin would not continue forever. The people would go on in sin, be taken into captivity, and the land left desolate; but as the oak, after shedding its leaves is for a time apparently lifeless, yet it retains its substance and so can manifest its life, the prophet is given to see under this figure that despite the deadness of the nation a remnant shall be saved. The holy seed of the kingdom shall come to fruitage in the last days.

The Highest Energy

"Prayer is the very highest energy of which the human heart is capable."—Coleridge.

Life

Life is the soul's nursery—its training place for the destinies of eternity.—W. M. Thackery.

Praying and Living

He who prays as he ought will endeavor to live as he ought.—Owen.

What's the Answer?

Questions No. 21

1—When was Lincoln's Gettysburg address delivered?

2—What Indian invented an alphabet for his people and to what tribe did he belong?

3—What is psychology?

4—What horse won the historic Blue Grass stakes in 1926?

5—What American artist's portrait of his mother was purchased by a foreign government?

6—Which is the largest lake in the Great basin?

7—What is the most famous book on fishing?

8—How long is the giant python and on what does it feed?

9—What is the salary of the vice president of the United States?

10—How many Christians in North America?

11—Who wrote the song, "Hail Columbia," and when was it first sung?

12—What President was born in New Hampshire?

13—Who was Pythagoras?

14—Who won the Indianapolis speedway classic in 1926?

15—Who was the great female star of the latter Nineteenth and early Twentieth centuries, and what was her nationality and racial descent?

16—What city of the west coast is the farthest north?

17—How did Robert Burns earn a living?

18—What is Venus' Flytrap and where does it thrive?

19—Who is at present secretary of agriculture and from what state does he come?

20—When was the American Bible society organized?

Answers No. 20

1—It includes all young animals that are born in the water.

2—C. L. Dodgson.

3—The Connecticut.

4—James M'Neil Whistler.

5—Gertrude Ederle in 1928.

6—In 1770.

7—In 1769.

8—Prof. W. C. Roentgen.

9—Seventy-five thousand dollars.

10—No. Members of the church are "Roman Catholics." The word "catholic" means universal.

11—Molly Pitcher.

12—Gen. Anthony Wayne.

13—Guglielmo Marconi.

14—Walter Hagen.

15—Charlotte Cushman.

16—Constantinople.

17—Sir Richard Burton.

18—It frequents the lagoons and swamps on many tropical coasts.

19—Secretary of state.

20—11,588,000.

Device to Measure Molten Metal's Heat

No thermometer could ever be expected to record the temperature of furnaces or of great masses of molten metal, although the development of science along these lines has made it very necessary to determine the degree of heat in furnaces and contained in masses of metal, such as huge steel billets and great cubes of iron.

The discovery that two different kinds of metal welded together produced a current of electricity was the means of inventing a means whereby there can be determined the quantity of heat, no matter how intense. The current is measured by the voltage and certain temperatures produce certain values in electrical strength, and this is the way the amount of heat is measured in degrees of heat, and this has been found to be accurate.

The principle is applied in a device known as the radiation pyrometer. It can stand at a considerable distance from the furnace or mass of molten metal that is being tested and it will record the internal heat conditions accurately. It is an aid to better steel and iron products, and as the world progresses it will be recorded as one of the great agencies of man to enable him to delve into the mysteries of nature's laboratories.—Washington Star.

The Poor Man's Sport

Track athletics, especially distance running, is the poor man's sport. He needs only his shoes, his cheap running suit and a place to stretch a leg. Most distance men have no trainers, and must prepare themselves until they can make a reputation. They usually work hard all day, either in shops or at desks, and must perforce use their leisure for training.—Herbert Reed in the Outlook.

Cause Injury to Trees

Gasoline and oil have been known to injure and cause the death of trees, if such substances come in contact with the bark, particularly in the case of the roots, says a writer in the Washington Star. The oil apparently penetrates to the cambium region, which is a particularly sensitive and actively growing tissue, injuring it beyond repair. It is not necessary that there be toxic substances in the mixture other than the oil and gasoline themselves.

The Road To Health!

Fort Wayne, Ind.—"Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription put me on the road to health when I was nearly down. I was so completely played out that I could hardly get around to do my work. I was weak, nervous and all tired out, could not sleep, my head ached, my back hurt and I had pains thru my sides. I was miserable. But, after taking four bottles of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription I was feeling fine, my nerves quieted down, I could sleep and was free from all pains and distress. 'Favorite Prescription' made me like a new woman."—Mrs. Ada Hoshaw, 607 Lasell St.

You'll be on the road to health if you take this "Prescription", in tablets or liquid. All dealers.

IF SICK OR AILING —TAKE— Aqua Nova Vita

A PROVEN TREATMENT for assisting Nature in restoring and maintaining NORMAL BLOOD PRESSURE also in treatment of RHEUMATISM CONSTIPATION NERVOUSNESS RUN DOWN CONDITIONS

For Your Health's Sake Write for Special Offer Guaranteed 40-day Treatment.

The Aqua Nova Vita Co. 1971 E. 66th St. Cleveland, O.

Locusts by the Ton

A swarm of locusts that plagued Algeria in 1866 was estimated to weight 50,000 tons.

To insure glistening white table linens, use Russ Bleaching Blue in your laundry. It never disappoints. At all good grocers.—Adv.

The Difference

Jerry—I heard you are going to spend your vacation with friends.

Tom—No, with relatives.

Keep Stomach and Bowels Right

By giving baby the harmless, purely vegetable, infants' and children's regulator.

MRS. WINSLOW'S SYRUP

brings astonishing, gratifying results in making baby's stomach digest food and bowels move as they should at teething time. Guaranteed free from narcotics, opiates, alcohol and all harmful ingredients. Safe and satisfactory.

At All Druggists

SHOE BOIL, CAPPED HOCK

or bursitis are easily and quickly removed without knife or firing iron. Absorbine reduces them permanently and leaves no blemishes. Will not blister or remove the hair. Horse worked during treatment. At druggists or $2.50 postpaid. Horse book 6-S free.

Surprised yeer writes: "Horse had largest shoe boil I ever saw. Now all gone. I would not have thought that Absorbine could take it away so completely."

ABSORBINE

W. F. YOUNG, Inc. 510 Lyman St., Springfield, Mass.

CARBUNCLES

Carboil draws out the core and gives quick relief.

CARBOIL

GENEROUS 50¢ BOX

At All Druggists — Money-back Guarantee

Porter's Pain King A Liniment

Powerful, penetrating and soothing, this time-tried remedy brings quick relief from menacing coughs and colds. For other uses read the directions with every bottle, now.

Use it today

Since 1871

Constipated?

Take NR—Nature's Remedy—tonight. Your eliminative organs will be functioning properly by morning and your constipation will end with a bowel action as free and easy as nature at her best—no pain, no griping. Try it.

Mild, safe, purely vegetable.

NR TO-NIGHT

At Druggists—only 25c

AGENTS Start Your Own Business—Soaps, Extracts, Perfumes, Toilet Goods, Spices, Medicines, Household Articles. $60 to $80 weekly. Write DORAY, 670 Gladys Avenue, ST. LOUIS, Mo.

OCTOBER

L 915 U587

"How best can I trade in my present car for a new car?"

WHEN you are ready to trade in your present car for a new car, you naturally want full value for your present car. But most of all you want full new car value.

It will therefore pay you to consider varying trade-in allowance offers in the light of these basic facts:

1 Your present car has only one fundamental basis of value: i.e., what the dealer who accepts it in trade can get for it in the used car market.

2 Your present car has seemingly different values because competitive dealers are bidding to sell you a new car.

3 The largest allowance offered is not necessarily the best deal for you. Sometimes it is; sometimes it is not.

4 An excessive allowance may mean that you are paying an excessive price for the new car in comparison with its real value.

5 First judge the merits of the new car in comparison with its price, including all delivery and finance charges. Then weigh any difference in allowance offered on your present car.

6 Remember that you are making a purchase—not a sale. You are buying a new car and simply using your present car as a credit against the new car's purchase price.

WE publish this message, believing that the public is entitled to have all the facts. And we invite you to send for the facts about General Motors products by using the coupon below.

GENERAL MOTORS

CLIP THE COUPON

GENERAL MOTORS (Dept. A), Detroit, Mich.

CHEVROLET ☐ PONTIAC ☐ OLDSMOBILE ☐ OAKLAND ☐ BUICK ☐ LASALLE ☐ CADILLAC ☐

Please send, without obligation to me, illustrated literature describing the General Motors product I have checked—together with your booklet describing General Motors Proving Ground.

Name _____

Address _____

FRIGIDAIRE Electric Refrigerator ☐ DELCO-LIGHT Electric Plants ☐

Local Briefs

All notary work can be promptly cared for at News office. Call and see us.

The Buckingham meat market closed Saturday evening with the posting of a notice on the window.

Mr. and Mrs. Victor Brown are the proud parents of a son, born Monday morning. Mr. Brown and family now live in the Frank Curie property.

Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Hoop and daughter and Mr. and Mrs. Olen Rayle of Bellmore, Ohio, and Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Hursey of St. Joe were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Jay Hart, east of Coburntown.

Signals of Warning to Save the Eyes

Doctors use a lot of big words to describe the ailments of the human family. One of such is "asthenopia." After all, it is a simple term, in plain language meaning painful vision.

You see asthenopia is not a disease. It is merely a symptom. The name can be applied to any condition in which use of the eyes produces pain.

The wonder of it is that the eyes do not cause more pain than they really do. The muscular adjustment of these organs is something remarkable.

Consider the eye for a moment. Here is a globe about an inch in diameter, fitting in the eye socket. In this the ball is freely movable, as if it were a part of ball-and-socket joint.

The eyeball is intended to move inward, outward, upward, every way. Its movements are directed by six tiny muscals. These work separately, or in terms.

Inside the eyeball are other muscles. One set regulates the size of the pupil, determining the amount of light which shall enter the eye. It acts as a shutter like the diaphragm of a camera.

Another muscle regulates the thickness of the lens of the eye. This controls the focusing and determines the clearness of the vision.

How many muscles have I mentioned? At least eight or nine, haven't I?

If you go out and drive stakes with a mallet all day, you will have one sore muscle, or perhaps two sore muscles. But you use your eyes every waking moment and keep these eight or nine muscles on the jump. Is it any wonder they rebel at times?

If the teamwork of the muscles is disturbed, or if any muscle becomes weakened or lazy, there will arise a group of uncomfortable symptoms, called eyestrain. As age advances and the elasticity of the eye tissues is lost, it hurts to the eye tisues is lost, it hurts to read or sew. The eyes pain and there is a general discomfort.

All these are symptoms of asthenopia, of eyestrain. The eye may look perfectly normal. Possibly there is slight redness and sensation of itching or burning. A "feeling as of sand in the eyes," is not uncommon.

There may be no pain in the eyeballs, but there is a headache over the eyes, in the forehead, or in the back of the head. Almost any kind of a headache except one on top of the head may be traced to eyestrain.

Twitching of the eyelids, sickness at the stomach and sleeplessness are other signs. You see there are many which may be due to the need of glasses.

Usually the only means of relief is to find a pair of glasses to overcome the defect. It will probably by unnecessary to wear the glasses all the time. When they are used for reading or other close work the pains disappear.

Don't neglect these warning signals. Have the eyes tested to see what is wrong. After the age is 40 almost everybody needs glasses for close work, but, in any event, if you have painful vision, see what is wrong and be advised as to what should be done.

Benj. F. Griest

Eyesight Specialists
Office American Building
HICKSVILLE, OHIO

In office every day, also Wednesday and Saturday nights.

For Sale:—Winter Pears, $1.00 bushel. White and Perkins. 42t1p.

G. F. Thornton and wife of Elkhart are visiting his nephew, F. M. Thornton and family.

For Sale:—Good 3-burner, used oil stove with oven. Priced to sell. Bowser & Reed. 42t2.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Sechler and children were Sunday guests of Greenfield, Ind., relatives.

Horner's Drug Store, Butler, Ind., for Drugs, Sundries, Wall Paper and School Books. 41t3.

Found: A pair of glasses. Finder can have same by paying for this ad and proving property.

Farver's Canning Kitchen at Spencerville will operate on Wednesday and Thursday each week until further notice. 31tf.

Miss Ada Bunker of Owassa, Mich., spent Friday night in the Wm. Randall home. Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Randall drove to Mendon, Mich., and spent the day in the Wm. Ricker home.

The Rev. Hubert F. Craven, pastor of the LaGrange Presbyterian Church, has accepted a call from the congregation of the First Presbyterian Church of Auburn and will preach his first sermon on Sunday, November 6th.

A birthday dinner was held Sunday, at the country home of Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Lawhead, Richland township in honor of Mr. Lawhead's seventy-third birthday. He is well known in St. Joe and community and many will be pleased to hear of the event.

Visitors in the Harvey Kimes home Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. Jim Simons and daughter, Gladys of Huntertown; Dr. Noble, wife and daughter, Cora and a Mr. Miller and Mr. Donnell and their wives of Fort Wayne. Mr. and Mrs. Vet Vansorst of Sturgis, Mich., were guests from Friday until Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Hull of near Helena, Ohio, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Warren Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Smith and Mr. and Mrs. Beyer, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Hull. The Smiths' were brothers of Mrs. Hull. Merritt has launched into the poultry business and has approximately 700 White Leghorn pullets beginning to lay.

The Tucker case was reopened again at Warsaw, Monday, with a new angle when it was alleged that a half-breed Indian killed Franklin Tucker, missing from there since January 28. Those sending the report to Special Prosecutor Walter Brubaker, declared they would reveal the identity of the murderer and the whereabouts of the body if $1,000 were offered as reward. No action has been taken.

A further sensation developed in the ex-county treasurer matter, of Defiace County, when J. W. Saturday and held under a total bond of $30,000, to appear before the grand jury, charged with embezzlement of $22,623.31 of county funds. Mr. Shuter was arraigned late Saturday before Justice H. B. Mullholland, who placed him under $5,000 bond for his appearance before the grand jury, supplementing the bond of $25,000 giv en during Shuter's tenure of office, which expired Sept. 8. Attorneys M. A. Goller and R. H. Sutphen, Defiance, went on the $5,000 bond. —Hicksville News-Tribune.

Two cars of gypsies were in town Monday afternoon.

When in Butler make Horner's Drug Store your headquarters. 41t3.

Mrs. Ima Miser was a Thursday luncheon guest of Mrs. K. E. Fling.

For Sale:—Duroc Boar, young, weighing 250 lbs. Phone, Spencerville 4212. G. F. Ryan. 42t1p.

J. Fenimore Cooper's decision to write came after he had read a very poorly written novel.

Mrs. Agnes Monroe and children visited from Friday until Monday with friends at Marion, Ind.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hursh were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Wyatt at Fort Wayne.

Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Monroe and Verne Monroe, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Copp at New Haven.

Miss Hettie Ann Houk and brother, James of Hoagland, Ind., were Sunday guests in the Wm. Hamilton home.

The new "Jac-O-Bean" parlor furnace is sold by Bowser & Reed. On display in our store. The price will fit your purse. 42tf.

Mr. and Mrs. Ella Wilmot and Mr. and Mrs. William Maxwell, visited Mr. and Mrs. George Baker and Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Geeock of Pioneer, Ohio, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Kees and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Woodcox were in attendance at the Christian Convention of North America at Indianapolis last week.

All the schools of DeKalb county, city and rural, closed Wednesday afternoon for the remainder of the week. The annual meeting of the Northeastern Indiana Teacher's association will be held at Fort Wayne Thursday and Friday, which all instructors are required to attend.

Rev. Roediger, pastor of the Lutheran Church, Mrs. Lora Leighty, Supt. of Young People's Work, and the Misses Janice Ridgway, Dorothy Ginther and Rachel Goings, representing the three affiliating churches of the Council, attended the state young people's conference at North Manchester last week end.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Koch entertained their class meeting Monday evening and a large attendance was had and many good things were planned by the class for future work. They voted to pay the expense of a person to take one of the four courses offered in the Leadership Training School at Auburn. Nov. 7-11. The class will meet Nov. 14, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Kinsey with a special program. A fine luncheon consisting of fruit salad, light and dark cake, pumpkin pie with whipped cream and coffee.

The five daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Scholes of St. Joe, came home Sunday to help celebrate the 69th birthday anniversary of Mrs. Scholes, which will occur this week. Those present were: Robert Ulm and family of Butler; Henry Deener and family of Decatur; Mrs. Archie Erickson and two sons of Garrett; Mrs. Ernest Epler and children and Miss Dorothy, who is at home. This is the first time since the marriage of the daughters that they were all home at one time, and the dinner and social time was surely a pleasant one for the parents.

Charter No. 426

Report of the condition of St. Joe Valley Bank at St. Joe in the State of Indiana, at the close of its business on October 10, 1927.

Wm. H. Randall, President. F. R. Bowman, Cashier. M. M. Maxwell, Ass't. Cashier.

RESOURCES

Loans and Discounts	$122 150 42
Overdrafts	192 47
U. S. Government Securities	1 005 16
Other Bonds, Securities, etc.	12 051 00
Banking House	4 700 00
Furniture and Fixtures	3 600 00
Other Real Estate Owned	8 669 72
Due from Trust Companies, Banks and Bankers, and Cash on Hand	19 421 97
Total	$171 790 74

LIABILITIES

Capital Stock—Paid in	$ 25 000 00
Surplus	7 000 00
Undivided Profits—Net	2 698 88
Demand Deposits	50 514 75
Demand Certificates	76 577 11
Bills Payable	10 000 00
Total	$171 790 74

State of Indiana
County of DeKalb, ss:

I, F. R. Bowman, Cashier of the St. Joe Valley Bank of St. Joe, Indiana, do solemnly swear that the above statement is true.

F. R. BOWMAN, Cashier.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 18th day of October, 1927.

(Seal) Fred B. Leighty, Notary Public.
My Commission Expires February 14, 1928.

Ross Mohr, wife and son of Elkhart, G. R. Hodgson and wife and W. E. Henly and wife, were Sunday guests of Grant Baltz and family, north of town.

Levi Sechler, who has been quite poorly at his Spencerville home, was brought to the home of Merritt Sechler recently where he will remain for a few weeks. Dropsy is his complaint.

The remonstrance filed against the report of the county commissioners and the county engineer in the Auburn-Fort Wayne road is set for trial in the DeKalb circuit court Wednesday, Oct. 26.

Rev. Edgar L. Mullins, Pastor of The Emmanuel Baptist Church, Fort Wayne, Indiana, was elected member of State Board to serve three years, by the Indiana Baptist State Convention in session in Indianapolis October 11, 12 and 13.

Perry Long, contractor on the remodeling of the Auburn Court Theatre, feel monday morning a distance of 15 feet, head long, landing on his head and shoulders in the basement. He was unconscious for some time but an examination revealed no bones broken but severe bruises will lay him up for some time.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Curie and son, Bobbie, were at Waterloo. Sunday the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Grimm. Mrs. Curie reports her brother, Herbert Grimm, who figured in an automobile wreck near Pleasant Lake last week when two were killed, as slowly improving, although very nervous as a result of the shock.

In the midst of life there is death. New Haven was greatly shocked early Thursday morning when word was passed out that Willard Lucas, postmaster, had died suddenly during the night. He was found at about 2:00 o'clock Thursday morning by his son Willard, with whom he was sleeping. There had been an apparent struggle as the body was found partly out of bed. Mr. Lucas had been about his usual duties during the day and seemed in usual health upon retiring for the night. He had served as postmaster for twenty-five years.

ACCEPTS $115 FOR DAMAGE TO FARM

The claim of Abraham Culbertson against the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Co. for $215 damages was submitted to a jury in the DeKalb circuit court Friday but a settlement was reached before the trial ended.

Mr. Culbertson owns a farm in Concord Township that was damaged by fire that was started by sparks from a passing locomotive. A pasture field was burned over and 60 yards of fence were destroyed. Mr. Culbertson and J. L. Allen, the railroad's claim agent, could not agree on the amount of the damage.

Trial of the case was stopped shortly after noon when Mr. Culbertson and the attorneys for the railroad company agreed to a settlement of $115.

The jury was composed of Alfred D. Goodwin, Ross Nelson, Chas. M. Carnahan, Frank Hohl, Lester Elson, P. A. Barton, Forest Beaty, Herman Diederich, Chas. R. Reeder, Clyde J. Snyder, Robert D. Higley and E. O. Little.

CHRIST FOR ALL—ALL FOR CHRIST
The Word of God
Thy word is a lamp unto my feet, and a light unto my path.—Psalm 119: 105.

WAIT PATIENTLY:—Wait on the Lord: be of good courage, and he shall strengthen thine heart: wait, I say, on the Lord. Psalm 27: 14.

PRAYER:—O Thou Who art never weary, we wait on Thee. Do Thou renew our strength that we may fly like the eagle, and even walk and not faint.

SUNDAY SCHOOL REPORTS

The following is the report of Sunday schools in this vicinity for last Sunday, according to information sent The News by representatives of the schools reported.

Spencerville M. E.	66	$4.43
Lutheran	67	$4.58
Coburntown	82	$3.05
M. P.	53	$2.85

But the Clerks

76

HIGH'S

PHONE

Everything FRESH

OCTOBER

L 915 588

SPENCERVILLE

Rally Day was held on Sunday morning at the Methodist Church.

Samuel Betz was a Sunday dinner guest in the Joel Betz home.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Kimes and son, Robert Gene, spent Sunday at Fort Wayne.

Guest Day will be observed by the M. E. Ladies on Oct. 28, at the new parsonage.

For Sale:—Packard Piano in good shape. Mrs. John Doll. Spencerville, Ind. 41t2p.

The Ladies Aid of the Lutheran Church met with Mrs. Newton Miller on Wednesday afternoon.

Mr and Mrs. Frank Silberg and daughter, Orpha, of Butler, were Sunday guests of relatives at this place.

Have your glasses fitted by Benj. F. Griest, Eyesight Specialist, Office in American Bldg., Hicksville, Ohio. 28tf.

Mr. and Mrs. Gust Hafner and family were Sunday guests at the Otis Goeltzenleuchtner home in Auburn.

Mr. and Mrs. Milton Chaney had as Sunday guests, Wall Chaney and wife and Dayton Chaney, wife and babe of Auburn.

Mrs. Vern Wlmot left for her home at Fort Wayne, after a week's illness at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Minnie Kimes.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Duvall and son Paul, who have been in California, returned Friday and are now at the Jacob Duvall home.

Miss Alene Rhodes returned home Saturday evening after spending several days with Mrs. Estella Gilford at Detroit, Mich.

Of course I went to Hollywood,
Said Angelina Cross.
They didn't offer me a party
But that's the movies' loss.

Mrs. Priscilla Hardesty will leave Thursday for her home at Paulding, Ohio, after three weeks' vsit with her son, J. C. Vallieu and family.

The Coburntown Ladies Aid met on Thudsday at the home of Mrs. Ellen Hart. The ladies sewed for Mrs. Hart, who will soon move to Hicksville.

Mr. and Mrs. Vol Hay, Mrs. Tressie Kelley and two children, were guests on Sunday of Mrs. Devenger at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Brown at Garrett.

Mrs. Emila Gloyd and sons spent several days last week at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Isadore Badica and family of near Fort Wayne. They returned home on Sunday.

The Busy Bee class of the Methodist Sunday School and several other little folks reminded Margaret Brown of her birthday on Friday afternoon. There were 20 present.

Mrs. Mary Brenner and children and Clay McNamara and wife of Fort Wayne, were Sunday dinner guests of the Thomas McNamara home. Mr. McNamara is slowly improving.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Baker and children were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Dean. All motored in the afternoon to the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Doll of Fort Wayne.

Visitors in the J. C. Vallieu home Sunday were: Mr. and Mrs. L. V. Myers and daughter, Nancy Lou, W. L. Vallieu and Miss Lillie Mills all of Fort Wayne, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Wise and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Arnold of Auburn.

On Friday evening a large number of friends reminded Mrs. Esta Steman of her birthday anniversary, when they arrived at her home with well filled baskets. Those that attended from here were Ray Farver, wife and sons and Gust Hafner and family.

About thirty people gathered at the Methodist parsonage on Saturday evening as guests of the Home Bureau Club. All were dressed as ghosts and while in that attire a mock wedding was held. Contests were enjoyed. Lunch of pumpkin pie, doughnuts and coffee were enjoyed. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. A. J. Smith, and will be all day.

The young Ladies Social Club met on Friday evening at the home of Mrs. Carl Hart. Prizes were won by Miss Garnet Beams and Mesdames LaVern Koch, Cleo Reed and Bernice Wilder. The guests were Miss Doris Rhoads, and Messrs James Reed, Don Kimes, Joe Koch, Carl Hart, Beeks Erick, Lehr Wilder, Howard Beams, Henry Markle and William Lake. The next meeting will be at the home of Miss Bina Zimmerman.

NEWVILLE

Leonard Snellbaker and wife of Toledo, Ohio, are guests of Frank Snellbaker and wife.

Mr. and Mrs. Merl Pattee are the happy parents of a 6 pound boy born Sunday, Oct. 10. This is the second son born to them.

Earl McDonald, a Butler youth, who received his primary and high school education in Butler, and graduated from Green Castle, last spring, is teaching in high school in Mt. Morris, Michigan.

Mrs. Olive Smith and Miss Marie Killion of Hicksville, were Sunday guests of Mrs. Donald Ayers. Byron Miller, Mrs. John Miller, and the Misses Conny Harter and Elsie Mendenhall were afternoon guests in the same home.

OBITUARY

McKinley Lawrence Beree, son of Mr. and Mrs. Adron Bree, was born in Newville Township, DeKalb County, Indiana, May 31, 1896.

His early life was spent with his parents on the farm, where he grew to manhood. He attended the public schools in Newville Township, graduating in June, 1915.

In February, 1915, he confessed his Saviour and was baptized by Evangelist Martin, uniting with the Christian Church under the pastorate of Rev. Frank Nickerson.

During the World War he enlisted in the service, July 23, 1918 and was sent to Camp Taylor Kentucky. There he contracted the Spanish Influnza and was ill for a long time and unable to leave for France with the rest of his company. Upon his discharge from the service he returned home seemingly improved in health but in a short time the ravages of influenza developed into tuberculosis and he entered the American Legion Hospital at Battle Creek, Michigan, where he remained two years, until death claimed him October 10, 1927, at the age of 31 years, 4 months and 9 days.

June 1, 1925 he was united in marriage to Miss Dorothy Siler of Pioneer, Ohio. This union was blessed with one daughter, Beverly Jean. Two brothers, Henry and Charles have preceded him in death. Surviving him are the widow and daughter, also the parents and the following brothers and sisters: Mrs. Sylvia Harris of Fort Wayne; Cloy Beree of Newville; Mrs. Daisy Hart of St. Joe and Pauline and Wilbur at home.

The funeral was held from the Christian Church, Thursday afternoon, Rev. Hubbartt, officiating. E. R. Kinsey, funeral director.

Russel R. Reidenour
ATTORNEY
Auburn, Ind.

CARD OF THANKS

We thank those who spoke words of sympathy and assisted in our home during our bereavement.
Mrs. McKinley Beree.
Mr. and Mrs. Adron Beree
And Family.

NEW AND TESTED RECIPES FOR LADIES OF THE NEWS

CARAMEL PUDDING

Place an unopened can of condensed milk in a kettle of boiling water and simmer for two hous, being careful not to let the kettle boil dry. Remove can, cool and chill. Remove top of can, cutting along the side of the can—not the top—so that the contents may be removed whole; place on a serving dish, garnish with broken nut meats and whipped cream. To serve individually, cut in slices, garnish with nut meats and whipped cream—or use plain unsweetened cream, with or without garnish.

PEANUT BUTTER LOAF

2 cupfuls cold cooked rice.
1 cupful peanut butter.
2 cupfuls soft bread crumbs.
1½ cupfuls milk.
2 teaspoonfuls salt.
¼ teaspoonful paprika.
2 teaspoonfuls poultry seasoning.
1 finely-minced onion.
2 teaspoonfuls minced parsley.
Grated rind and juice ½ lemon.

Have the rice hot, add the peanut butter to it and mix thoroughly; then add the other ingredients in the order given, mix very thoroughly and bake in an oiled dish about forty-five minutes in a fairly-quick oven. Serve with gravy to which two tablespoonfuls of tomato catsup or Chili sauce have been added.

Palms are regarded by the people of Egypt as symbols of peace and rest and are held sacred.

Lake Michigan is the only one of the Great Lakes lying wholly within the boundary of the United States.

OPTOMETRY—ITS VALUE TO THE PUBLIC

By Ed W. Hicks, Optometrist and Optician

If the eyes are normal is it possible to strain them?

Yes, too much near use of the eyes will strain them even if normal.

What persons often suffer from eye strain even with normal vision?

Office workers, constant readers, students, clerks, etc.

What does the Optometrist suggest in such cases?

The securing of glasses for near use only.

(To be continued.)

ED. W. HICKS
AUBURN
"OUR SPECIALTY—COMFORTABLE VISION"

Charter No. 459

Report of the condition of the Farmer State Bank at Spencerville, in the State of Indiana, at the close of its business on October 10, 1927.

F. E. Rhodes, President C. G. Rectenwall, Cashier-Secy.
L. B. Fisher, Vice President

RESOURCES

Loans and Discounts	$162 070 55
Overdrafts	71 79
U. S. Government Securities	567 31
Other Bonds, Securities, etc.	33 210 18
Banking House	3 199 88
Furniture and Fixtures	2 164 24
Due from Trust Companies, Banks and Bankers and Cash on Hand	27 612 29
Trust Securities	5 897 99
Other Assets not Included in the above	3 750 00
Total	$238 544 23

LIABILITIES

Capital Stock—Paid In	$ 25 000 00
Surplus	9 050 00
Undivided Profits—Net	11 206 94
Demand Deposits	53 168 56
Demand Certificates	123 803 23
Savings Deposits	6 672 51
Trust Investments	5 897 99
Other Liabilities	3 750 00
Total	$238 544 23

State of Indiana
County of DeKalb, ss:

I, C. G. Reectenwall of the Farmer State Bank of Spencerville, Indiana, do solemnly swear that the above statement is true.

C. G. Rectenwall.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 15th day of October, 1927.

(Seal) Roscoe Walter, Notary Public.

My Commission Expires October 29, 1929.

With the Churches

ST. JOE M. P. CHURCH

Mrs. Hattie Widney, Supt.
Sunday School, 9:30 A. M.
Preaching service 7:00 o'clock.

CONCORD M. P. CHURCH

George Johnson, Supt.
Sunday school 9:30 A. M.
Christian Endeavor, 6:30.
Preaching service, 10:30.

J. F. McKnight, Pastor.

EVANGELICAL LUTHERAN CHURCHES

"Prepare ye the way of the Lord." Isa. 4: 3.

Apathy is a valley to be raised. There are thousands of professors of religion, who, though not inattentive, are yet so sluggish in disposition that they put forth little effort in the cause of God. Begin upon yourself.

"The flesh desires ease and thus comes into collision with the Spirit, which requires us to fight the good fight of faith." Heb. 12: 1-2.

ST. JOE

Sabbath Bible School at 9:30 A. M., Mr. Derwood Ridgway, Superintendent.

Divine Service at 10:30 A. M.

SPENCERVILLE

Sabbath Bible School at 9:15 A. M., Mr. Ray Means, Superintendent.

Vesper Service at 7:30 P. M.

Come and worship with us.

P. B. Roediger, Pastor.

CHURCH OF CHRIST

ST. JOE

Ed Storer, Supt.
Bible School, 9:30 A. M.
Lord's Supper, 10:45 A. M.
Convention Report, 7:00 P. M.

NEWVILLE

Frank Lyons, Superintendent
Bible School, 10:00 A. M., sun time.
Lord's Supper, 11:00 A. M., sun time.
Convention Report, 11:15 A. M., sun time.

R. S. Aldrich, Pastor.

DR. C. R. BAUMGARTNER
Veterinarian
Spencerville, Ind.
PHONES: 282--283.

We Do STATIONERY PRINTING on HAMMERMILL BOND

PHONE 290
Stanley P. Nelson Monuments
Opposite Woodlawn and Roselawn Cemeteries
AUBURN, IND.

Dr. E. T. Julian
M. D.
St. JOE
9:30 to 11:30 each forenoon at Dr. C. R. Price office.

Let Us Print Your Sale Bills

Methodist Episcopal Church Spencerville

Sunday School, 9:00 A. M.—John Koch, Superintendent.

Morning Worship, 10:00 A. M. Subject, "What Jesus Means to Men."

Epworth League, 6:00 P. M. Subject, "Christ Winning His Comrades."

These are your services, why not be there?

A True Christian is about his Father's Business.

A. Christ said," I came not to do my own will but the will of the Father who sent me" and "to finish the work he gave me to do."

B. Christ also said, "As the Father hath sent me, so send I you."

C. "The disciples were called 'Christians' first at Antioch," because they so imitated Christ that they were nick-named "Christian" (meaning a little Christ.) Hence, a Christian is a "little Christ" and as such, he is:

1. A worker—He has a job and works at it. He cannot be a loafer.

2. A thinker—Using his mind for the Kingdom of God and righteousness.

3. He thinks toward some end; hence, he is a planner, full of ideas about the work in hand.

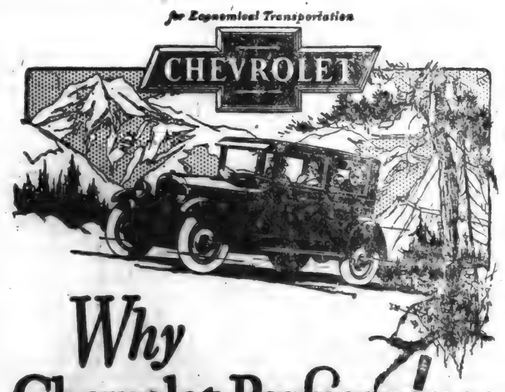
4. He does team work and "plays the game," with all the powers of his personality and with his money.

Conclusion: A Christian, being like Christ, is busy about his Father's business: Working, Thinking, Planning, Co-operating, with all his powers.

Roy S. Brown, Pastor.

The millionaire who dresses as good as his clerk is more or less eccentric.

for Economical Transportation



Why Chevrolet Performance is Thrilling Millions!

The COACH $595

The Touring or Roadster	$525
The Coupe	$625
The 4-Door Sedan	$695
The Sport Cabriolet	$715
The Imperial Landau	$745
½-Ton Truck (Chassis only)	$395
1-Ton Truck (Chassis only)	$495

All prices f. o. b. Flint, Michigan

Check Chevrolet Delivered Prices
They include the lowest handling and financing charges available.

Never before was a low-priced car so delightful to drive as today's Chevrolet!

Fast get-away . . . easy, smooth operation . . . high speed roadability . . . unfailing power . . . and flashy acceleration——exactly the type of performance that everyone wants in an automobile today!

And the source of this matchless performance is the famous Chevrolet valve-in-head motor—a motor that has established a world-wide reputation for its remarkable power, dependability and economy.

In addition, there is all the finger-tip steering, all the positive braking and effortless gear shifting that have made Chevrolet so decidedly popular for congested traffic.

Come in! One ride at the wheel of your favorite model—and you'll know why millions have acclaimed today's Chevrolet as the finest performer in the low-price field!

FURNISH TIRE & BATTERY SHOP, SPENCERVILLE, IND.

QUALITY AT LOW COST

MONEY

Is Like the Water Of a RIVER

"Money is like the water of a river" a French historian has said. "If it suddenly floods, it devastates; divide it into a thousand channels where it circulates quietly and it brings life to every spot." Our present system of economic distribution, efficiently divides our national wealth into many channels. One of these chanfels is flowing into your purse. True, it may not be much more than a trickling stream, but it is there at your disposal.

How are you handling it? Are you trying to irrigate a thousand acres with but enough to nourish one? Are you allowing it to dissipate itself in futile spending or are you utilizing its power for something really worth while? The members of the "Get Ahead Club" have built dams across their streams, and are controlling the flood gates in order to make every drop work. One outlet leads to a savings account. Some day it is going to be big enough to help its owner realize his most worthwhile dream. These people are getting ahead in the world.

Farmers' & Merchants State Bank
Spencerville, Ind.

OCTOBER

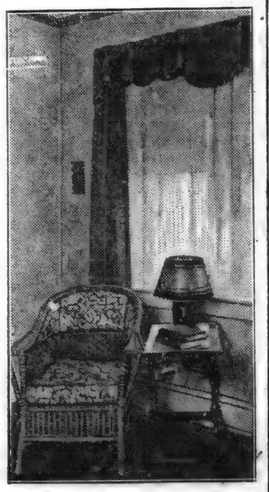
L 915 U589

DOUBLE WINDOWS NEED CURTAINS

Two Openings Treated as One in Hanging Draperies.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Two or more living-room windows placed in a group are usually curtained as one unit. Depending on the height of the ceiling, and the appearance of breadth given by the group as a whole, they may have only enough side draperies to give the effect of a frame for the whole group, connected by a valance at the top of the window, or there may be a separate pair of side draperies at each window. In the latter case only one valance would be used, extending from side to side of the group. Great care would be necessary to see that the repetition of vertical lines in using individual hangings for each window in a large group did not become monotonous or distort the lines of the entire room.



Curtains for a Group of Two Windows in a Living Room.

For a group of two windows, the curtains shown in the illustration, which was made by the United States Department of Agriculture, are very satisfactory. Each window has its own glass curtain, for convenience, but the two windows are treated as one in hanging the side draperies. The double window is framed by the darker material and the formal, plaited, scalloped valance which carries the eye from one side to the other. In this case the draperies are rose in tone, and the glass curtains are ecru.

CREAM PUFFS ARE NOT DIFFICULT

Method of Mixing Differs From Other Pastry.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

You have doubtless wished more than once that you knew how to make cream puffs at home. They are not at all difficult to make, but the method of mixing is different from that used for other pastry and cakes. Here are the directions, given by the bureau of home economics, and a recipe for a custard filling in case you prefer it to whipped cream:

Cream Puffs.

½ cup butter	4 eggs
1 cup hot water	¼ teaspoon salt
1 cup flour

Add the butter to the hot water and bring to the boiling point, and add the flour and salt, all at one time. Stir rapidly and constantly until the paste leaves the sides of the pan. Remove from the fire and when cool add the unbeaten eggs one at a time, beating until thoroughly blended with the paste mixture. Drop by spoonfuls on a greased baking sheet about two inches apart. During baking the dough expands to twice or more its original size. Bake in a hot oven 450 degrees to 475 degrees F. until puffed and a golden brown. When cool cut and fill the lower half with seasoned whipped cream, crushed fruit or custard mixture. Cover with other half of the puff and sprinkle powdered sugar over the top. The quantity makes eight medium-sized puffs.

Custard Filling for Cream Puffs.

1 cup cream or rich milk	½ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons cornstarch	½ teaspoon vanilla
2 tablespoons sugar	1 tablespoon butter
2 egg yolks

Heat the cream or milk in the upper part of a double boiler. Mix the cornstarch, salt and sugar thoroughly, then pour over them the heated cream or milk. Return to the double boiler, stir until thickened, then cover and cook for ten or fifteen minutes. Add the well-beaten egg yolks and cook for a minute longer. Beat well, add the vanilla and butter. When cool place the custard mixture in the puffs.

Three Tricks in Making Good Corned Beef Hash

A good many people do not know exactly how to make an appetising corned beef hash. There are several "tricks" to it, according to the bureau of home economics. One is having about equal amounts of cooked meat and potato. Another is in grinding the meat and potato together. A third point is in flavoring with a little minced onion and a dash of cayenne pepper for piquancy. Generally there is enough salt in corned beef to season the mixture.

POINTS IN FITTING A ONE-PIECE DRESS

Using a Skirt Gauge in Fitting a One-Piece Dress.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The points on which attention is centered in fitting a one-piece dress are the shoulders, the under-arm seams, the sleeves, the neck, and the hemline. Any decorative features must be planned with care so that they are of the right size to harmonize with the entire costume and the build of the wearer, and they must be located with reference to the other lines of the garment as well as to their use. For example, the length of the front opening, or the depth of set-in plaited sections, or the size and position of pockets, are matters to be decided for each individual.

Shoulder Seam Acts as Anchor.

A properly placed shoulder seam acts as an anchor to a well-fitted garment, says the bureau of home economics. It influences the set of the waist and sleeves and the hang of the skirt. Therefore it should be located most carefully, and the shoulders should be the first part fitted.

The under-arm seam in a one-piece dress should be perpendicular to the floor. If it tilts backward or forward, the back or the front of the dress will swing out correspondingly at the bottom. Sometimes this defect is corrected by taking darts in the front section below the armseye and at the hip line, and sometimes it may be necessary to raise the back of the dress at the shoulders and trim out the armhole, rather than to turn up the hem at points where the bottom seems to sag.

When ready to turn up the hem it helps to place the dress on a form on a table, so that the fitter can measure the distance accurately to the level surface of the table. If a dress is to have a belt, a tape-line or other means of confining the waist fulness it should be correctly pinned on the form before measurements from the floor are begun, or the finished dress will be shorter than was intended and possibly uneven. A rigid skirt gauge is a help, either one made especially for the purpose or a ruler, but not a tape measure. The height of the skirt from the floor is partly a matter of the height, weight and figure of the person who is to wear the garment and partly a matter of the season's styles.

Basting, Sketching and Pressing.

Accurate basting and stitching and careful pressing are essential in a well-fitted garment. Stitching must follow near enough to the line of basting that the size of the garment will not be altered. Press each seam as it is finished, especially when working with silk or wool materials. One final pressing will not produce the same results. Turn the shoulder and underarm seams toward the front if they are not pressed open. Turn the armhole seam and shoulder darts toward the neck. Many other fine points about fitting and making a dress will be found in Farmers' Bulletin 1530-F, "Fitting Dresses and Blouses," which may be obtained by writing to the United States Department of Agriculture at Washington, D. C.

RIVALRY IN MILLINERY STYLES; SMART FOR COLLEGE AND SPORTS

Showing Tiara Flares and Ripple Brims.

WHEN is a brim not a brim? Many a stylish felt shape gives clew to the answer by flaunting a graceful tiara flare athwart its snug-fitting crown, which a closeup view reveals as nothing more or less than the brim "that was." This game of hide-and-seek which fashionable hats are playing with their brims, presenting them in the guise of flares and flanges on the crown, accounts for a very flattering new silhouette which is at this moment prominent in the mode.

These new hats which transform brims into crown flares are proving a boon to women who cannot becomingly wear the simple unadorned now-so-modish skull types which hide ears and eyebrows and which so conscientiously follow the line of the hair at the nap of the neck.

In the instance of the little black felt hat centered in this illustration the milliner deliberately snips off the narrow brim, elevating it to a position of prominence in the form of a flare bridging the crown from ear to ear, adding to its attractiveness.

A flare which displays a change of location for the ripple brim, the designer having cut it away from the headline, positioning it across the top crown, gives super-chic to the model shown at the top to the right in this group. This clever hat is of honey-beige felt.

Sometimes these crown flares take on exaggerated lines, as is instanced in the attractive model shown first in this collection of advance millinery modes. A wide flare cut from white felt is here posed on a snug-fitting black velvet toque, giving the impression of an imposing beret.

Contrasting the felt hat which glories in its brimlessness are many new ripple-brim collapsible (because of their suppleness) velvet hats. Many of these are tinged with gleaming metal, most often in the form of machine stitching.

The two models shown in this picture are typical of a popular mode. The ripple brim of the one to the right is stitched with gold thread, with tiny gilt beads edging its rim. Metal ribbon ties about its crown. The other velvet hat is just such as women are choosing for their "first" hat this autumn.

A study of the new modes reveals the prominence of novelty woolens in the realm of sports and utilitarian apparel. Which fact contributes directly to the attractiveness of clothes for the schoolgirl.

What with the gay flannels and woolen crepes, patterned tweeds, ombre striped reps, tricolor knit effects and the like the classroom is destined to stage a scene of animated color and design this season.

A smart note for fall is the two-piece flannel frock, combining solid color with patterned. The costume in the picture is the latest offering of a leading Parisian couturier. The material is beige kasha, the skirt a wrap-around of plain color and the blouse of plaid design with high neck and long sleeves. An ideal costume this for the college girl.

The most intriguing item of chic in the new sports and school clothes is undoubtedly the blouse. Originality is interpreted in its every phase. For its development every cunning medium is employed from flannel and velveteen to jersey and myriads of knitted effects. Color schemes for the new blouse are at once startling and fascinating.

The latest flight of imagination is the blouse of tricolor stripe. That is, the knitted jumper shows horizontal stripes full eight inches deep, beginning with light shade for the top, grading to darker for the central portion, finishing with the deepest tone around the hips. The accompaniment of a simple cardigan coat and skirt of woolen which is neutral in tone accents the color of the blouse to a great degree.

Very clever sports ensembles face the tuxedo revers of the full-length coat with the same vivid knitted medium as that employed for the blouse. When one visualizes the knitted stripes in hues of yellow, red, green and navy, the effectiveness of the color scheme is most assuring.

Tweed printed velveteens are also among the newer fabrics which are in evidence for the creation of the separate blouse.

JULIA BOTTOMLEY.

(©, 1927, Western Newspaper Union.)

Novelty Woolen Blouse.

DAIRY FACTS

PROVED BULL IS MOST VALUABLE

One can never be absolutely sure of the breeding value of a bull until his daughters come into milk. It frequently happens, however, that a good registered bull can be bought from a neighbor who can no longer retain him on account of having too many of his daughters in the herd. Such bulls, when their daughters have proved to be good producers, if they are free from disease, may often be purchased for less than their actual breeding value. A man runs no risk in buying a healthy, proved bull, says the Iowa Homestead. Many a bull has been sent to the shambles before his breeding value was discovered in his offspring. Don't let a good bull of this sort go to the butcher if you can use him. Always bear in mind that the real value of a dairy bull is determined by his daughters.

The dairyman, intent upon building a high-producing herd, must constantly select the best females as well as males for breeding purposes and weed out the poorer individuals. There is only one way to do this intelligently. He must keep production records of his cows. He must weigh and test the milk of each cow at least once a month. He can do that himself if he wants to. The time required to do the work is small. Such a test can be easily made once a month in two hours, and the operator will find it a mighty interesting task as well as a very profitable one.

Another way to accomplish the same end is to join a cow testing association. Where that is practicable we strongly recommend that plan. We wish to emphasize, however, that where there is no cow testing association, and no prospect of getting one established, do not neglect the testing and record keeping on that account. Do it yourself. Work of this sort pays big dividends. It brings results.

Economy and Efficiency of Machines in Milking

An extensive study as to the economy and efficiency of milking machines is being made by the dairy husbandry department of Iowa State college, Ames, Iowa. While the work is not completed, the most recent results indicate that:

1. The use of the machine does not affect the milk flow.

2 With a herd of approximately 25 cows, time saving amounts to about 48.5 per cent. One man with a machine can replace two men hand milking.

3. One man operating two units is more efficient than if he attempts to operate three units.

4. Unless great care is exercised in cleaning the machine and in operating it, the bacterial count will be higher than with hand milking.

5. The sediment content of machine-drawn milk is lower than that of hand-drawn milk.

Buttermilk for Calves Favored by Two Experts

E. V. Ellington and J. C. Knott of the Washington experiment station have just reported their results on substituting dried buttermilk and semi-solid buttermilk for skim milk in the calf ration. Twenty-four calves were divided into three groups of eight each. One group was fed skimmed milk, another dried buttermilk at the rate of eight parts water to one part of dried buttermilk. A third group was fed semi-solid buttermilk at the rate of eight parts water to three parts of semi-solid buttermilk. The results showed these buttermilk feeds to be satisfactory substitutes for skim milk where skim milk is not available.

Dairy Facts

Rye and corn silage will help dairy farmers to overcome hay shortage.

• • •

Keeping records will show the dairy farmer how to make ten cows do the work of fifteen.

• • •

Dry pastures mean low milk production unless sows are fed both a concentrate ration and good legume hay.

• • •

Much butter manufactured in the late summer and fall has objectionable flavors, not only because of the difficulty of keeping cream sweet and untainted in the hot summer weather, but also because of the poor feeds in the dry pastures.

• • •

Cattle kept in a warm shed will do better every time than those left out in the wind.

• • •

Chasing cows with dogs or driving them on the run with horses will decrease the flow of milk. Rough handling or loud speaking by the attendant will also have this effect.

• • •

Even in summer the silo competes successfully with soiling crops, for it supplies a uniform green feed independent of weather conditions and with economy of time and labor.

HOW MRS. WEAVER WAS HELPED

By Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

As Mrs. Weaver herself says, "I was never very strong." This is a mild statement describing her condition, for, according to her letters, she was subjected to no small amount of ill health. Fortunately, her sister was familiar with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and begged Mrs. Weaver to try it. "After three or four weeks," writes Mrs. Weaver, "I felt a great difference in myself. I would go to bed and sleep sound, and although I could not do very much work, I seemed stronger. I kept on taking it and now I am well and strong, do my work and take care of three children. I sure do tell my friends about your wonderful medicine, and I will answer any letters from women asking about the Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. Lawrence Weaver, East Smithfield St., Mt. Pleasant, Pa.

If you knew that thousands of women suffering from troubles similar to those you are enduring had improved their health by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, wouldn't you think it was worth a trial?

In some families, the fourth generation is learning the merit of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Hanford's Balsam of Myrrh
Since 1846 Has Healed Wounds and Sores on Man and Beast
Money back for first bottle if not suited All dealers.

Stop Coughing
The more you cough the worse you feel, and the more inflamed your throat and lungs become. Give them a chance to heal.

Boschee's Syrup
has been giving relief for sixty-one years. Try it. 30c and 90c bottles. Buy it at your drug store. G. G. Green, Inc., Woodbury, N. J.

Clock Has Ten Hands

With ten hands, each giving the correct time in as many places throughout the world, a clock has been placed in a railway station in Berlin. The dial is divided into the 24 hours of the day and night together, and the hands are marked with the names of the place for which they tell the time.

Date and Nut Cake.

1 lb. nut meats, 1 lb. dates, 6 eggs, 2 C. sugar, 2 C. flour, 2 level tsp. Calumet Baking Powder, 1 level tsp. salt 2 tsp. vanilla.

Mix nuts, sugar, dates and thoroughly beaten egg yolks. Sift flour, baking powder and salt together several times and add to the above mixture. After this is thoroughly mixed, fold in stiffly beaten whites and flavoring. Bake in steam pressure cooker or oven the same as any fruit cake.

A woman is never so happy nor so unhappy as she thinks she is.

The well-beaten path may not lead in the right direction.

The BABY

Why do so many, many babies of today escape all the little fretful spells and infantile ailments that used to worry mothers through the day, and keep them up half the night?

If you don't know the answer, you haven't discovered pure, harmless Castoria. It is sweet to the taste, and sweet in the little stomach. And its gentle influence seems felt all through the tiny system. Not even a distasteful dose of castor oil does so much good.

Fletcher's Castoria is purely vegetable, so you may give it freely, at first sign of colic; or constipation; or diarrhea. Or those many times when you just don't know what is the matter. For real sickness, call the doctor, always. At other times, a few drops of Fletcher's Castoria.

The doctor often tells you to do just that; and always says Fletcher's. Other preparations may be just as pure, just as free from dangerous drugs, but why experiment? Besides, the book on care and feeding of babies that comes with Fletcher's Castoria is worth its weight in gold!

Children Cry for Fletcher's CASTORIA

OCTOBER

L 915 0590

Silk Stockings

Have stockings in the very newest shades; your old or faded stockings given any tint in the rainbow in five minutes; with fifteen cents' worth of Diamond Dyes! but use dyes, not synthetic tints. And be sure they're true dyes.

Try a pair tonight! Use Diamond Dyes, and no one will dream they were tinted at home. And you can do real dyeing with just as perfect results, if you will just use the true Diamond Dyes.

FREE: Why not ask your druggist for the very useful Diamond Dye Cyclopedia? Valuable suggestions, easy directions, and piece-goods sample colors. Or write for free copy of Color Craft, a big illustrated book sent postpaid—address DIAMOND DYES, Dept. N13, Burlington, Vermont.

Diamond Dyes

Just Dip to TINT, or Boil to DYE

Retribution Awaits

If you go around handling people without gloves, it is only a matter of time before you tackle a live wire.

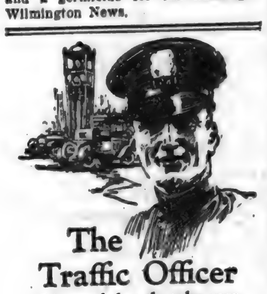
OAK Floors

will modernize your home. Make it more valuable for rental or sale. Permanent, beautiful, economical, easy to keep clean.

OAK FLOORING BUREAU
1295 Builders' Building CHICAGO

Long-Felt Want

What this world needs is a spray and a germicide for the humbug.—Wilmington News.



The Traffic Officer

It's a safe bet that the cars which step out with the "go" signal are equipped with Champions—the better spark plug. If every car owner used Champions there would be fewer traffic jams.

Champion is the better spark plug because of its double-ribbed sillimanite core—its two-piece construction and its special analysis electrodes.

Champion X—for Fords 60¢

Champion—Cars other than Fords 75¢

CHAMPION
Spark Plugs
TOLEDO, OHIO

For your protection be sure the Champions you buy are in the original Champion cartons.

Longest Road

What is claimed one of the longest stretches of concrete road in existence is the Jefferson Davis highway between Washington and Richmond, Va. It runs, in almost a direct line, for 103 miles.

Don't Trust Your Butter To Luck

Market men and consumers are insisting on uniform color, now-a-days, and no real dairyman can afford to trust to luck any more. Keep your butter always that golden June shade, which brings top prices, by using Dandelion Butter color. All large creameries have used it for years. It meets all State and National Food Laws. It's harmless, tasteless and will not color Buttermilk. Large bottles cost only 35c at all drug and grocery stores.

Send for FREE Sample

Wells & Richardson Co., Inc. Burlington, Vermont

THE DOG RANGE AND WOLVES

(© by D. J. Walsh.)

LOTH had removed the bandage and washed the wound when he heard voices. Somehow, coming just now, they made him uneasy. He had seen blood on the muzzle of Range that morning.

He would have called Ann, but she was in the other room looking after Izette, who was nearly as bad off as Champ.

The voices were approaching. Loth examined the wound carefully. It was satisfactory and he replaced the bandages with fresh ones.

His rifle was in a corner, but he was just as good with revolvers at their range, and they were handier.

The outside door opened in this room and the one into the other was closed. Izette had been restless during the night and her sister wished to shut out sounds. Loth bent over his patient.

"Remember, you're a man, Champ," he said in a low voice, "more than twelve years old. Your sister Ann has hardly slept in a week. I hoped if Izette could get quiet that Ann might find some rest today. Try not to disturb them, no matter what you hear outside."

The boy nodded, his steady eyes regarding the man intently.

"Of course," he assented, "but it's odd Isette's worse off, when she was wounded like me."

"You don't quite understand," gently. "Izette's only a little girl, while you're a big, strong man. Besides, she had a bad fall when you stumbled over the high bank in the darkness. It was a terrible experience for a little girl to go through."

Again the boy nodded, his eyes still regarding the man. In them were devotion and hero worship.

"S'pose 'twas pretty bad, she being only seven. But I'm thinkin' now how funny 'twas you happened to be there right in the nick o' time."

"I was sort of looking out."

"Like you was when the bull moose charged me an' I was saved from being a goner, an' when I took the cub an' papa an' mamma grizzly rushed for me not ten yards off. You came from behind a rock, but didn't have time for anything 'cept to grab me, cub an' all, an' jump forty feet from the cliff into the river. That was busy fun's I ever had. The odd thing was that you happened to be—sort of lookin' out. An' there's been other times."

"You never told your sister anything about—me being there?" quickly.

"Course not. You told me not to. But I never could see why. Once I heard you say you liked Ann, an' I know she likes darin' things. She's that way herself. I don't guess Ann ever had any thought 'bout you being in the country till that night the wolves chased us—an' still, I don't know. Ann's mighty quick to scent out things, though what she finds out she keeps to herself, mostly." The boyish eyes grew perplexed. "I don't see what you stay off so for," he complained, almost fretfully. "You ain't scared of grizzlies nor anything in the world 'cept just Ann, an' she's gentle as—as anything, an' the best girl in the world, if she is my sister. I wish we could go back to our old home in the forest away from this crowded-together country an' the schoolin' als brought us for. 'Taint no good here, with four houses right in sight of each other an' not so many miles apart. We 'long to the woods, not to fussin' close neighborhoods. What I wish for more'n anything else in all this world is for you an' her to get friends, an' then you build a cabin right near to us. Then you an' me could go huntin' an' fishin' an' you could teach me whiles. An' Ann could teach me some, too. Both of you know moren't that teacher who come to get us t'other day. Said she got 50 cents a month for teaching, an' had twelve. Talked so much 'bout me an' Izette havin' to come that I up an' told her she didn't know as much as either of you, an' then she said what could folks expect for $8 a month an'—"

"Gr-r-rrh—" came a hoarse rumble from without.

"That's Range," said Loth quietly, with a hard glint in his eye the boy didn't see. "Very likely Range couldn't find any game in the woods round here, and has come back for his breakfast. I'll go and see."

"Breakfast—that growl!" scorned the boy, after Loth had slipped out and closed the door softly behind him. "It's a grizzly growl, a dozen grizzlies' growl. He rumbled like that when he faced the pack of wolves."

It was a pack of wolves Range was facing now. His fangs showed, and from behind them came the deep rumble of battle.

Six men were closing round in front, all with rifles. Loth stepped before the dog.

"Out of the way," ordered the leader of the assailants, harshly. "That's a sheep killer, an' we want him."

"Sick children in here, as maybe you know," Loth said, in lowered voice.

"We'll walk off a little way."

"Then bring the dog along," threateningly. "He's killed two sheep, one last night and one the night before an' now we're out for him. Get me?"

Loth didn't answer. He walked 300 or 400 yards, dropping a hand now and then upon the dog's head to keep him on the side away from the men. Not even the mistress or the young master had such control over the big dog as Loth. Though he had lived apart from the forest home and kept himself hidden for the most part, he and the dog had gone on many a hunt together.

"Now, men, I want a little talk with you," he said, when he stopped and faced them.

"All right," was the surly answer, "when we've killed that ugly brute. Either he'll fly at us or make a dash into the woods, whar no one could find him. Two sheep—"

"I don't often ask a favor of any man," said Loth, still quietly, "but I do now. Let me tell—"

"Stand away from that dog or we'll—hey, what?" for two revolvers were menacing them.

"Let your weapons drop on the ground," coldly. "The first one who lifts one so much as an inch I'll drop. This dog beside me is worth the whole bunch of you, and rather than have him killed I will kill you all. That's right," as the rifles rattled to the ground. "Now, hands up, quick, and listen! I was willing to talk fair, but you're a set of cheap—"

"Careful," broke in the one who had spoken first. "I'm sheriff, an' all but two of these are my deputies. The other two are owners of the killed sheep. We've heard tell something 'bout you, Hank Loth, an' the way ye handle weepons, an' something 'bout your demon dog that tackles an' kills a b'ar. We counted for trouble, mebbe. That's why I say be careful. We're the law. The whole gov'ment is back of us. It's like this—first, we kill the dog, then we talk if you want to—though it's likely we'll punish ye some for contempt of court."

His hands were commencing to lower when something in the eyes behind the barrels caused them to stiffen up spasmodically.

"D—don't shoot," he stuttered. "I'm sh-sh-sheriff. It's high treason."

"All right," evenly, "I've changed my mind about putting up fairness to you. You're not intelligent and human enough for that. I had thought of fastening the dog except when out with him and offering his wonderful record against two sheep. Range is so intelligent that I could soon teach him the difference between sheep and wild animals. But, that would be above your heads. So I'll just mention a few things and let you go. To my personal knowledge Range has saved more than twenty lives, and I don't know half his history. About the house he is as gentle as a kitten and perfectly safe with children. Miss Candish was bringing her brother and sister nearer to civilization in hope of better schooling for them. She had always lived in the remote forest with her father, who was an ardent naturalist and hunter. After he died they preferred to remain until now. Coming here, a pack of wolves attacked them, and but for the dog, with a little help from me, all would have been killed. It seems to me such a dog, with nothing against him but two paltry sheep, for which he isn't really to blame, should—"

"Be killed!" yelled the sheriff as Loth's face half turned at a step behind. The man had been waiting for any possible chance, and now his hand darted for his rifle. But before it could be raised to a level a shot rang out, the bullet evidently striking the barrel, for there was a clink of metal, a howl from the man and the weapon fell back to the ground.

"Hold your hands up again, high," called a clear, girlish voice. "Mr. Loth, you go and search them for revolvers. Draw charges from them and from the rifles and take away all their ammunition. Then we'll start them down the slope and if they come back shoot them. They act to me more like a gang of desperadoes than officers."

"We'll show what we are when we come back," raged the sheriff.

"We have two good rifles waiting," warned the girl, "and you're the man they'll pick."

She waited calmly until they were out of sight, then whirled to Loth.

"There's the boat we poled up the river the last forty miles," she cried. "The current back is swifter than we could go, even if we had horses. Then we'll strike straight into the woods to the old forest home. We'll all love to go back and you can educate the children. Don't you understand?" at the look on his face. "Father's dead and his position is gone, and I—I've changed my mind. I've known all the time that you were watching over us, out of sight, and—have liked it. We'll be married at the old minister's on the way back. Now, let's hurry. The children are well enough to start in the boat."

Spontaneous Combustion

When large quantities of soot, linen, paper, cotton or woolen stuff, ship's cables, etc., become soaked with relatively small amounts of oils (especially drying oils) and are exposed to a limited access of air, they may take fire sooner or later. The presence of moisture, frequently aids spontaneous combustion, and piles of damp hay, freshly mown grass, sometimes take fire spontaneously. The phenomenon is not, however, without a clearly defined cause. Fats and oils can be shown to undergo a slow process of combustion at but slightly elevated temperatures. Combustion of a small amount of oil causes the evolution of a corresponding amount of heat; rise of temperature accelerates the combustion, producing a further degree of heat, until at a given moment the temperature may become so high as to cause the mass to burst into flame.

THE KITCHEN CABINET

(©, 1927, Western Newspaper Union.)

He drew a circle that shut me out—
Heretic, rebel, a thing to flout,
But love and I had the wit to win:
We drew a circle that took him in.
—Edwin Markham.

SEASONABLE SAUCES.

All sauces are in most seasons seasonable, yet there are some especially good with foods served only in spring or fall.

The foundation sauce for all creamed soups, sauces, au gratin dishes and those escalloped, as well as souffles, croquettes and such combinations, only varies as to the amount of thickening and fat for each dish to be served.

The one-to-one proportion, using one cupful of liquid, one tablespoonful each of butter and flour, is the type of sauce used for thin sauces and soups. These sauces are varied by different flavors and seasonings and may be used for pudding sauces as well as for vegetables where a thin sauce is liked.

A tablespoonful always means a full spoon leveled off with a knife; a cupful is a half pint. Measuring spoons and cups are now made of the standard size and one should have several to use in cookery. Be sure that your cup is really a half-pint cup when you make your purchase, as failures in cookery are too frequent with careless measures.

The kind of liquid used determines the sauce. Veloute sauce is prepared with white stock for the liquid. Allemand is made like Veloute, adding the yolk of an egg and a teaspoonful of lemon juice. Soubise is prepared with a cupful of Veloute, two cupfuls of onion puree and one-half cupful of cream.

The one-to-two sauce is the one most generally used for almost all dishes. It is thicker than the one-to-one and is better liked for creamed vegetables. When preparing sauces for escalloped dishes, use the same quantity of sauce as food, adding in alternate layers. Cover with buttered crumbs which have been evenly buttered by stirring them into melted butter. When the crumbs are browned the dish is ready to serve.

With the knowledge of the foundation sauce, one with little skill may prepare the most delightful dishes with appropriate sauces.

Things That Help.

For those who cannot eat meat, or very little, or few kinds, there are dishes which will substitute it nicely.

Potatoes served with a cream sauce and made rich with good grated cheese.

A rich cream soup served with fingers of nicely buttered toast.

Stuffed Eggs.—Cook in three quarts of boiling water six eggs. Drop the eggs into the water, cover closely and set back where they will keep warm but not cook. Let stand 30 minutes, then they will be well cooked and the yolks mealy. When cold, cut each egg into halves lengthwise and take out the yolk. Mash the yolks with one teaspoonful of finely minced parsley and six teaspoonfuls of anchovy paste. Fill the whites with this mixture and arrange them in a buttered baking dish, stuffed sides up. Cover with a white sauce made by cooking together one tablespoonful each of butter and flour, and add one cupful of milk. Bake covered with grated cheese and bread crumbs, until well heated.

Mock Sausages.—Soak one-half cupful of lima beans over night in water to cover. Cook until tender, season with salt and pepper; after putting them through a coarse sieve add one cupful of bread crumbs, three tablespoonfuls of butter, a pinch of sage, one beaten egg, with seasoning needed. Shape into small sausage forms, dip into egg and crumbs and fry in deep fat. Serve with apple rings of fried apple overlapping, around the sausages.

When preparing brown sauce remember that browning destroys some of its thickening qualities, so more flour should be added to make it of the required thickness.

A roll of adhesive tape is one of the indispensables in the household. It will, with a wad of absorbent cotton, keep a wound covered nicely. It softens a corn or bunion and may be used to mend a leaky water bottle in an emergency.

Nellie Maxwell

Sequel to Kiss

Camden, N. J.—A kiss he stole 52 years ago had its sequel when James C. Angus, eighty-six, obtained a license to marry Mrs. Elizabeth Taylor, seventy-two.

Hitting the Expert

New York.—Archibald C. Weeks, a sanitation expert, was cut off in the will of his wife because he failed to keep his promise to remove a pile of rubbish from their back yard.

RIGHT LIVING IS 90% RIGHT EATING

Eat right, if you wish to live long, prosper and enjoy life to the very limit. You don't have to go on a restricted diet or eat things you do not care for. There are scores and scores of delicious, healthful, nourishing foods that can be made with Calumet Baking Powder. Foods that you will relish. That are rich with body and vigor building elements of the highest value. Eat your way to health. Let Calumet help you.

DOUBLE ACTING MAKES BAKING EASIER

LESS THAN 1¢ PER BAKING

CALUMET
THE WORLD'S GREATEST
BAKING POWDER
SALES 2½ TIMES THOSE OF ANY OTHER BRAND

Catty

"My husband," she said, "always wants me to look my best, no matter what it costs."

"Well," her friend replied, "one can hardly blame him for feeling as he does."—Boston Transcript.

Mazzie's Croup Remedy for croup, coughs, and colds. No opium. No nausea. 35 cts. Druggists. Kells Co., Newburgh, N. Y., Mfrs.—Adv.

The Better 'Ole

Mrs. Watts—Hello, Mrs. Wiggins, I see you've moved.

Mrs. Wiggins—Yes; the neighborhood is so sadly in need of improvement that we thought we'd move out.

No ugly, grimy streaks on the clothes when Russ Bleaching Blue is used. Good bluing gets good results. All grocers carry it.—Adv.

World's Oldest Laces

The oldest laces in existence are knotted hair nets and breast nets from the tombs of Thebes and other parts of Egypt, some dating as far back as 2500 B. C.

Snowy White Clothes
WITHOUT RUBBING

N-R-G (Energy) Laundry Tablets wash clothes spotlessly clean in ten minutes without rubbing. Clean everything like magic; cut soap bill in half. Remove ink, fruit stains, blood, rust, perspiration and all stains instantly.

Guaranteed Not to Injure the Hands or the Finest Fabric

Amazing results when N-R-G is used in the washing machine, either electric or hand driven. No boiling required. For sale at your grocer's, 10c per package. Valuable premium with every package. Only four required for Silver Teaspoon. 20-year guarantee. Over 200 other premiums.

THE N-R-G PRODUCTS CO., CHICAGO, ILL.

Wanted—Owners to protect their auto tops for winter with No-Leak Dressing. Water proof, won't crack. Introductory offer—Pint can, brush free, prepaid for $1.25. Murhall Rubber Wks., Box 143, Grand Rapids, Mich.

$ALESMEN—You can make from $50 to $200 per month in your spare time selling our EQUITABLE $10 per year accident and sickness policy. Policy is sold to all occupations, ages 16 to 70. Big company, restricted territory. Address Commonwealth Casualty Co., Box 641, Indianapolis, Ind.

Certainly!

The Boss—This word is misspelled.

Stenog—Well, that shows I knew enough about it that I didn't have to look it up in the dictionary.

Conscience warns us as a friend before it punishes us as a judge.—Stanislaus.

Demand BAYER ASPIRIN

SAY "BAYER ASPIRIN"—Genuine

Unless you see the "Bayer Cross" on tablets, you are not getting the genuine Bayer Aspirin proved safe by millions and prescribed by physicians over 25 years for

Colds Headache Neuritis Lumbago
Pain Neuralgia Toothache Rheumatism

DOES NOT AFFECT THE HEART

Safe — Accept only "Bayer" package which contains proven directions. Handy "Bayer" boxes of 12 tablets. Also bottles of 24 and 100—Druggists.

Aspirin is the trade mark of Bayer Manufacture of Monoaceticacidester of Salicylicacid

You Must Enjoy Good Health To Be Successful

Mr. E. A. Vandivier, New York, writes: "I have just finished a trip around the world and do not know what I would have done if I had failed to find your CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS on sale in the chemists shops.

Change of water and food gave me indigestion, sick headache and constipation. I felt lazy and did not enjoy my sleep at night, arising with a dull and tired-out feeling. . . . Your wonderful CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS gave me a mild laxative bowel movement, kept me well and happy and encouraged a successful business trip."

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS are purely vegetable, do not contain Mercury, Calomel or other poisons, they are not habit forming and regulate the bowels free from pain.

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS, 25c. and 75c. red packages.

OCTOBER

L 915 U591

HOME EDUCATION

The Child's First School is the Family"—Froebel.
Issued by the National Kindergarten Association

CONTROL OF THE MUSCLES

Minerva Hunter

"Are you glad to be back?" Elliston Brewster asked his wife when she returned from a visit to people in the country. "I am afraid you will feel that our little apartment is noisy, after the bigness and quietness of the country."

Lucia smiled. "Quietness, Elliston? It is the noisiest place I have ever known. Poor little Sonny-boy did not get a whole nap the whole time we were there."

"It would seem that with twelve large rooms in the house one quiet place could be found," mused Elliston.

"There is no quiet with Evans. He always was noisy, but now that his voice is changing it is hard on one's ears to be in the house with him. His arms and legs are so long he has difficulty in controlling them, and he races awkwardly about the house, slams doors, jumps down the stairs, whoops and yells, and bumps furniture until other people are thankful when he goes out."

"Wait until Sonny-boy is older," Elliston suggested.

"Do children have to be noisy to be healthy? I somehow doubt it. Couldn't they be trained to make their noise out of doors?" Lucia asked anxiously.

"That reminds me of Aunt Rebecca and her boys," Elliston answered smiling. "She trained them to make their noise out of doors and they never guessed she was training them."

"Tell me about it."

"She started when they were mere toddlers," Elliston explained. "Practically everything she did with them had a quieting influence. Of course reading to them and telling them stories naturally would have that effect, but she made up games that gave them something to do quietly.

"One of the games she called 'The Mouse.' As the boys grew older they changed it somewhat and renamed it 'The Spy.' It involved going from one part of the room to another, opening and closing doors and picking up and putting down articles, without making any noise. If the one blindfolded could tell where you were and what you were doing, you had to be blindfolded in his stead.

"Another game was called 'Secrets.' In this game the child went into the kitchen and, without whispering, told his mother three things he would like for dinner. The door into the next room was closed and the brothers listened from that side to hear what was said. If they could tell what was said and either of those articles appeared for dinner, then the boy who spoke so loudly received only one spoonful of the favorite dish. Unconsciously the children learned to speak softly.

"Still another game was called 'Sword's Point.' Each piece of furniture was the point of a sword and the aim of the game was to walk all around the room without getting 'so much as a scratch.' The boys liked to put the chairs close together and pass safely between them. Thus they learned to balance themselves and watch out for furniture.

"These games delighted me when I visited in the home and it was not until I was fully grown that I suspected why Aunt Rebecca had invented them. She did not prohibit noisy games, but required the boys to play them in the yard or in the barn loft which was given over entirely to them."

Everything FRESH!

76

HIGH'S

PHONE

For the BEST

Only Buick has an engine Vibrationless beyond belief

BUICK'S remarkable freedom from vibration is due primarily to three vitally important factors. First—the inherent smoothness of the Buick Valve-in-Head six-cylinder engine. Second—rubber engine mountings, front and rear. And third—the scientific and almost perfect balance of the entire Buick crankshaft assembly.

Only Buick enjoys these advantages. And only Buick provides the silken performance—the unvarying smoothness at all speeds—the longer life and greater serviceability of an engine vibrationless beyond belief.

Sedans $1195 to $1995 Coupes $1195 to $1850
Sport Models $1195 to $1525

All prices f. o. b. Flint, Mich., government tax to be added. The G.M.A.C. financing plan, the most desirable, is available.

BUICK for 1928

BUICK SALES & SERVICE, Auburn.

AT YOUR DISPOSAL

It pays to be associated with a good, reliable Bank. There are many ways in which a bank can help you besides safeguarding your money.

We have a Notary Public to acknowledge legal papers. We can give you advice on business affairs and investments. We can rent or sell your property. We can look after your taxes, care for your jewelry and valuable papers in our fire proof vaults, in fact all our facilities are at your disposal any time.

CONFIDENCE IS WHAT COUNTS.

The St. Joe Valley Bank, A STATE BANK

WATERLOO LEADS WITH HIGHEST LEVY

To Pay $3.43 on $100 Valuation —Total Auburn Levy is $2.92 and Garrett, $3.32

Waterloo again is in the lead among the taxing units of the county with the highest tax rate for the year 1928, with $3.43 on the $100 valuation.

Garrett follows with $3.32. The rate sheet prepared in the office of County Auditor Estell Dawson also shows that among the towns and cities Corunna has the lowest rate—$1.98.

Corunna leads in reductions in rates, making a drastic cut of 78 cents. Waterloo has cut off 33 cents and St. Joe 2 cents.

The other towns and cities will all pay taxes on higher levies. Garrett's rate has jumped 46 cents, Auburn's 2 cents, Butler's 13 cents, Ashley's 6 cents and Altona's 14 cents.

Concord, with $2.28, has the highest levy among the townships. Stafford, with $1.44, again has the lowest rate.

Troy township jumped its rate 63 cents, which is by far the greatest increase. Butler township is 20 cents higher, Jackson 18, Concord 16, Stafford 20 cents, Wilmington 8, Union 8, Richland 9, Fairfield 28, Smithfield 13, Keyser 5 and Grant 5.

Only three townships show reductions. These are Spencer, with a cut of 28 cents, Newville, with 6 cents and Franklin with 11 cents.

The only remonstrance filed in the county against the rates affected Auburn civil city and schools. The state tax board made no change in the school levy, but cut the civil city rate 7 cents, making the total $2.92 instead of $2.99.

Following are listed the levies for the two years, together with the poll for 1928:

Auburn city $2.99, poll $2.75. Last year $2.90.

Waterloo $3.43, poll $3.50. Last year $3.76.

Butler city $3.08, poll $4. Last year $2.95.

Garrett $3.32, poll $2.50. Last year $2.86.

Ashley $2.85, poll $4.50. Last year $2.79.

St. Joe $2.48, poll $5. Last year $2.50.

Corunna $1.98, poll $3.50. Last year $2.76.

Altona $2.15, poll $3.75. Last year $2.01.

Union township $1.88, poll $2.50. Last year $1.80.

Richland township $1.72, poll $3.50. Last year $1.63.

Fairfield township $1.88, poll $2.50. Last year $1.60.

Smithfield township $2.12, poll $2.50. Last year $1.99.

Franklin township $1.85, poll $3.50. Last year $1.96.

Troy township $2.18, poll $3. Last year $1.53.

Keyser township $1.84, poll $3.50. Last year $1.79.

Butler township $1.99, poll $3.50. Last year $1.79.

Jackson township $1.75, poll $2.50. Last year $1.57.

Concord township $2.28, poll $3.50. Last year $2.12.

Spencer township $1.96, poll $3.50. Lst year $2.24.

Newville township $2, poll $2.50. Last year $2.06.

Stafford township $1.44, poll $2.50. Last year $1.24.

Wilmington township $1.55, poll $3.50. Last year $1.47:

Grant township $1.75, poll $2.50. Last year $1.70.

While Concord shows an increase of 16 cents, yet the tax assessment was lowered by the commission 15% which really makes the taxes to be raised practically the same as last year. One-third of the raise was made by the county and the two-thirds by the township for roads and ditches.

100% Coffee

Our Coffee is shipped to us direct from the roaster in small lots. That means it is always fresh. No chance to get stale, we buy it in bulk and keep it in a tight sanitary case.

So you get the most for your money.

ZONKER'S Store.

GASOLINE TAX REFUND CLAIMS ARE GROWING

A noticeable increase in the refunds collected from the state by the users of gasoline not consumed on the public highways is shown in the annual report of Archie N. Bobbitt, state gasoline tax collector. In the fiscal year, which ended September 30, a total of $330,768.38 was refunded, exceeding the amount returned the preceding fiscal year by $104,122,33, Bobbitt's report shows.

The steady increase in refunds is demonstrated further by a comparison of the amount of taxes returned in the fiscal year ending September 30, 1924, and the year preceding. In 1924 the department refunded $159,407.21 and the next year it paid back $226,646.05. Advantage is being taken by gasoline users of the refund provision in the state gasoline tax law, in the opinion of Bobbitt, and it is his belief that the law is being abused. To illustrate, he pointed out that in the 1924 fiscal year a total of 15,507 refund claims were filed with his office, whereas in the next year 19,694 were filed, the total increasing to 31,000 in the 1927 fiscal year.

While there has been an increase in the number of tractors, cleaning establishments, airplanes and motor boats using tax-free gasoline in this period, it is doubtful whether this gain has been as large proportionately as the increase in gasoline consumed in automobiles, Bobbitt said. If the steady increase in refund applications continues through the current fiscal year, Bobbitt predicted that the 1929 state legislature either would repeal the repayment clause outright or amend it by inserting more rigid provisions for obtaining refunds.

RULES IN FAVOR OF F. W. SILBERG

Court Refuses to Cancel $500 Note and Assignment Charles Seeman Gave Butler Auto Dealer

A verdict for the defendent was entered in the DeKalb circuit court late Thursday in the suit of Charles N. Seeman against F. W. Silberg.

The facts in the case as submitted to Special Judge A. C. Wood of Angola, were unusual. Seeman became an heir of the late Talitha Rice of Canton, O., an aunt, and his legacy amounted to more than $9,000. In May, 1925, he bought an automobile from the defendant, whose home is at Butler. The price of the car was $820. Seeman also bought an insurance policy from Silberg and borrowed $50 from him.

In addition, Seeman contracted to buy a farm of 80 acres, together with livestock and tools, located in DeKalb County near the Allen County line from F. E. Rhodes & Co., of which Silberg is a partner. The price was to be $12,000 Seeman executed two notes to Silberg, one being for $1,000 and the other for $500. The latter, Silberg showed, was to apply on the purchase price of the farm, the balance to be paid when Seeman secured his legacy. Silberg took the $500 note personally and advanced that amount to the Rhodes company for Seeman.

The notes given by Seeman to Silberg were both written as automobile sale notes. Seeman, to further secure payment, gave an order on the administrator of his aunt's estate assigning $1,500 of his share to Silberg. The administrator eventually paid Silberg $1,060, the amount due for the automobile, the insurance and other items, but Seeman resisted the payment to Silberg of the balance of the $1,500 represented by the notes. He denied owing Silberg $500 on a farm contract. The administrator therefore withheld $440 from Silberg. The latter refused to cancel the $500 note and assignment and Seeman brought suit to force him to do so. Silberg contended he was entitled to the $500 as an advancement he had made Seeman. Seeman had not completed the purchase of the farm.

After the court entered a judgment for the defendant, the plaintiff filed a motion for a new trial. The motion was overruled and the plaintiff then took an appeal to the Indiana appellate court. H. W. Mountz represents the plaintiff and Atkinson, Husselman the defendant. Seeman now lives in Steuben county.

Wealth and Talent

Gross and vulgar minds will always pay a higher respect to wealth than to talent; for wealth, although it be a far less efficient source of power than talent, happens to be far more intelligible.—Colton.

Legal Publications

ADMINISTRATOR'S SALE OF REAL ESTATE

State of Indiana,
DeKalb County, ss:
In the DeKalb Circuit Court
September Term, 1927.
William Curie, Administrator
Of the Estate of Franklin P. Hart
vs
John F. Hart, et al.

The undersigned, administrator of the estate of Franklin P. Hart, deceased, hereby gives notice that by virtue of an order of the DeKalb Circuit Court of Indiana, he will at the hour of 10 o'clock A. M., of the 15th day of October, 1927, at his store in the Town of St. Joe, Indiana, and from day to day thereafter until sold, offer for sale at private sale, all the interest of said decedent in and to the following described real estate situate in DeKalb County, Indiana, to-wit: Lots numbered thirty-one, (31,) thirty-two, (32,) thirty-three (33) and thirty-four (34,) in Heller's Addition to the town, now City of Butler, Indiana; also lots numbered two (2,) five (5,) six (6) and seven(7) in White's Addition to the Town of St. Joe, Indiana; also a tract of land described as follows: bounded by a line commencing at a point twenty-five (25) feet east and two hundred thirty (230) feet south of the intersection line of Jefferson Street and Fifth (5) Street in the Town of St. Joe, Indiana, thence east one hundred fifty (150) feet; thence south fifty (50) feet; thence west one hundred fifty (150) feet; thence north fifty (50) feet to the place of beginning; also a tract of land described as follows: Commencing at a point two hundred ten (210) feet south of the south-east corner of lot numbered ten (10) in block numbered four (4) in the Original Plat of the Town of St. Joe, Indiana; thence south one hundred twenty-four (124) feet; thence west one hundred sixty-two (162) feet; thence north six (6) feet; thence west three hundred seventy-eight (378) feet; thence north one hundred eighteen (118) feet; thence east five hundred forty (540) feet; to the place of beginning, all of the last above described real estate being in Section Fifteen (15,) Township Thirty-three (33) North, Range Fourteen (14) east and in said DeKalb County, Indiana.

Said sale will be made subject to the approval of said court, for not less than the appraised value, and upon the following terms and conditions:

At least one third of the purchase money in cash the balance in two equal installments, payable in six months and twelve months from date respectively, evidenced by notes of the purchaser, bearing interest at the rate of six per cent per annum, waiving relief, and providing for attorneys fees, and secured by a first mortgage on the real estate sold.

The undersigned will sell said real estate in parcels as appraised.

WILLIAM CURIE,
Administrator.
Atkinson & Husselman, Attys.

NOTICE OF EXECUTOR'S SALE OF REAL ESTATE

State of Indiana
County of DeKalb
In the Matter of the Estate of Alva S. Coburn, deceased.

The undersigned Executor of the Last Will and Testament of Alva S. Coburn, deceased, hereby gives notice that as such Executor, he will on Monday the 31st day of October, 1927, at the hour of 1 P. M. on said date and from day to day thereafter until sold, offer for sale at private sale upon the premises in Spencer Township, DeKalb County, Indiana, at not less than the full appraised value thereof, the real estate of the decedent belonging to him at the time of his death and ordered sold in his Last Will and Testament and located and being in DeKalb County, Indiana and described as follows, to-wit:

The east one half (½) of the north-west quarter (¼) of Section twenty-four(24) in Township thirty-three (33) north of Range fourteen (14) east, excepting therefrom that part or portion lying north of the right of way of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad and containing seventy-five (75) acres more or less.

The said real estate will be sold pursuant to the authority of the Last Will and Testament of the said Alva S. Coburn, deceased and upon the following terms and conditions, to-wit: At least one third of the purchase price cash in hand, one third in six months and one third in twelve months from date of sale, all deferred payments to be evidenced by the notes of the purchaser without relief from valuation or appraisement laws, with attorney fees and payable at a bank, and in all respects fully negotiable; the said notes given for said deferred payments to be secured by a first mortgage upon said real estate to be executed by the purchaser his or her spouse joining therein and said notes to bear interest at the rate of six per cent per annum from date; the purchaser to have the right to pay the entire purchase price in cash at his option.

Said sale will be made subject to the approval of the DeKalb Circuit Court and the Executor reserves the right to reject any and all bids.

Said sale of real estate will be made subject to the right of any tenant having out crops.

FLOYD COBURN,
Executor of the Last Will and Testament of Alva S. Coburn.
H. C. Springer,
Attorney for the Executor. 39t4.

NOTICE OF FINAL SETTLEMENT OF ESTATE

Cause No. 3089

Notice Is Hereby Given to all persons interested in the estate of Benjamin F. Terman deceased, to appear in the DeKalb Circuit Court, held at Auburn, Indiana, on the 7th day of November, 1927, and show cause, if any, why my Final Settlement Accounts with the estate of said decedent should not be approved; and said heirs and all others interested, are notified to then and there make proof of heirship or claim and receive their distributive shares.

Witness, My name, this 10th day of Octobr, 1927.

E. R. KINSEY,
Administrator.
H. C. Springer, Atty. 41t3.

NOTICE OF FINAL SETTLEMENT OF ESTATE.

Cause No. 3103

Notice Is Hereby Given to all persons interested in the estate of Peter Kosht, deceased, to appear in the DeKalb Circuit Court, held at Auburn, Indiana, on the 7th day of November, 1927, and show cause, if any, why my Final Settlement Accounts with the estate of said decedent should not be approved; and said heirs and all others interested, are notified to then and there make proof of heirship or claim and receive their distributive shares.

Witness, My name, this 7th day of October, 1927.

ELIZABETH KOSHT,
Administratrix.
Stump & McClintock, Attys. 41t3.

OBITUARY

James D. Johnson, son of Thomas and Lyelia Johnson, was born in Concord Township, DeKalb County, Indiana, March 13, 1849 and departed this life October 14, 1927 at the age of 78 years, 7 months and 1 day. His death was caused by apoplexy.

He is one of a family of ten children. He was united in marriage to Lovina Tustison, November 21, 1870, who preceded him in death July 12, 1916. To this union two children were born, who live to survive and mourn his departure. Earnest of Concord and Charles R. of Auburn. He is also survived by one granddaughter, Thelma Baker of Concord Township and one sister, Mrs. E. E. Wilson of Carbondale, Col., and several nieces and nephews, with a host of friends.

James Johnson was born on the farm on which he died and has been a life long resident of this community. No doubt the seventy-eight years of which he lived here has brought wonderful changes in the community.

For forty-five years he has resided in his old homestead and in his old age he was sheltered in the place he loved so well, under the watchful eye of his loved ones, there he has lived a quiet and peaceful life and the death he died was typical of the life he lived. Like the sentiment expressed by the poet, as one who approached the grave by wrapping the drapery of his couch around him and lying down to peaceful slumber.

The funeral was held from the Concord Church, Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock, with burial in Riverside cemetery. Rev. J. F. McKnight, officiating and E. R. Kinsey, director.

Madge—It's terrible, dear! It's awful, and I'm sorry for you. Go ahead and cry, dearie. You'll feel better after a good cry.

Ethel—I can't. I—I've been at the movies all afternoon.

OCTOBER

L 915 U592

THE BEST BOOSTER FOR YOUR BUSINESS IN DeKALB COUNTY

ST. JOE NEWS.

NEWS MAKES A GOOD PAPER, SO SEND IT IN TO US.

VOL. XLI ST. JOE, DeKALB COUNTY, INDIANA, THURSDAY, OCTOBER 20, 1927 NUMBER 43

COMMUNITY HALLOWE'EN CELEBRATION SATURDAY NIGHT

Charles Cochran conceived the idea that St. Joe, like most other small towns, ought to hold a Hallowe'en celebration and in order to make the thing attractive and worth while, he called upon the merchants to contribute prizes to be awarded the masked persons. At 8:30 the tickets will be given away. Each of the merchants contributing prizes will have in their possession a number given them by the committee which will draw the prize they offer when the proper person presents his number at the store.

A parade of all masqueraders will be given headed by a Komikle band.

The town will be filled with strange looking creatures and they have all agreed not to destroy or mutilate any property in due respect to the committee putting on the big party.

Read over this list and note the hearty response with valuable gifts.

St. Joe Filling Station, 5 gallons gasoline.

L. B. Meek, $1.00 bottle Rose toilet water.

R. E. Furnish, $1.00 tire cover.

Champ Bailey, 1 pound coffee.

H. G. Hursh, 1 sack flour.

J. T. Betz, 1 box crushed fruit gum.

J. C. Hull, one hair cut or one hair bob.

Wm. Harman, 3 pound pail of lard or its equal in trade.

Fred High, one box Mary Wayne chocolates.

Wm. Curie, Colonial type percolator.

St. Joe Garage, one box patches.

St. Joe Valley Bank, $1.00 certificate of deposite to be left in one year.

Zonker's Store. $1.00 in groceries.

F. B. Leighty, one year subscription to The St. Joe News.

E. R. Kinsey, Coleman lamp.

C. A. Cochran, one box Spangle chocolates.

E. Leighty, $1.00 in groceries.

Wm. Henly, one pair half soles.

E. N. Miser, one 10 pound box of grease.

Ridgway & Freeburn, one set 3 inch leathers for pump.

Nathan Grain Co., one sack flour.

Mrs. W. E. Henly, Pair of candle sticks.

This is the first attempt at a parade of this character, and while there are many parties planned for Saturdy night, come to St. Joe first and then enjoy your party. The interest in this affair is increasing and we anticipate many hundred of masked characters moving about the streets pulling off their jokes and pranks. Gobblins will be in evidence on all corners.

For the safety of the masqueraders Sturday night, the street ought to be roped off, sending machines around the side streets. City officials ought to look after this.

SPECIAL PROGRAM NEXT SUNDAY

Rally Day will be observed next Sunday morning at the Methodist Protestant Church. Each class is contributing to the program.

Orchestra.
Opening of school by Superintendent.
Songs, No. 81, "Praise Him! Praise Him!" and No. 127 "March On."
Prayer.
Orchestra.
Assembly of classes.
Report of attendance and offering.
Welcome .....Carma Jean Wilcox
Exercise by Cradle Roll Dept.
Promotion by Dorothy Ginther.

Beginner's Department

Recitation.....Junior Curie
Recitation.....Charles Hart
Song.....Clyde McKnight
Recitation.....Bobbie Curie
Lunch.
Promotion by Mrs. E. R. Kinsey.

Primary Department

Recitation.....Wanda Westfall
Song.....Max McKnight
Recitation.....Lucile Weiler
Song by Beginners and Primary Departments.
Young People, Musical Numbers.
Friendly Bible Class, Quartette.
Woman's Bible Class, Quartette.
Men's Bible Class, Talk, "Rally Day."....Harry Hursh.
Announcements.
Offering.

NEW AND TESTED RECIPES FOR LADIES OF THE NEWS

BAKED PORK CHOPS WITH SCALLOPED POTATOES

Pork chops.
Milk.
Potatoes.
Seasonings.

Dice potatoes, add seasonings and milk; put in casserole. Lay chops on top of potatoes. Cover and bake in moderate oven. When potatoes are done, remove cover and brown chops.

HUGH MERVIN WIDNEY

Hugh Mervin Widney, son of Oliver H. and Emily F. Widney, was born in Concord Township, DeKalb County, Indiana, March 24, 1866, and departed from this life October 22, 1927, at the age of 61 years, 5 months and 28 days.

On December 30, 1885, he was united in marriage to Harriett A. Davis. To this union two children were born, Blanchard V. and Doris D. The daughter, Doris, passed to her heavenly reward, January 29, 1919. The parents of the deceased preceded him in death. He is survived by his widow, by the son, who lives at Columbia City, Indiana, and by a sister, Lenore Kagey of Warsaw, Indiana. Other members of the older Widney family surviving are the aunts, Alice Lewis of Auburn and Cora Lodewick of Roswell, New Mexico.; an uncle, Morris Widney of Auburn and the cousins Byron E. Widney and Viola Carpenter of this place and Otto L. Widney of Hicksville.

Brother Widney has been afflicted with gall stone trouble since his boyhood days. He feared an operation and postponed having one as ong as possible. Failing health the past summer warned him that his only hope for recovery lay with the surgeon. After weeks of physical preparation he submitted to an operation at the Lutheran Hospital, Fort Wayne, Indiana, September 30. For twenty-two days thereafter the battle for life was waged. During this period he was dauntless, sublimely courageous, conscious of his critical condition and rational to the last. He trusted his physicians implicitly and did his best to help win the fight. Intense suffering was relieved by death.

The deceased united with the St. Joe Methodist Protestant Church on December 20, 1893, under the pastorate of W. W. Lineberry. The denomination was served by him as an active layman for many years. He sat as a delegate in the church's highest legislative body in 1920 at the General Conference held at Greensboro, North Carolina. The Knights of Pythias and Pythian Sisters knew him as an active member in the early history of the local lodge. He was also affiliated with theMasonic Order.

The term "a self-made man" can be aplied to the subject of this sketch in the truest sense. The prominence and material wealth gained by him in life has come through hard work and persevering study. He truly earned his bread by the honest sweat of his brow.

H. M. Widney spent his early life on the farm. In 1886 he became associated with Abner Lewis in the lumber business at Auburn. Two years later his interest was sold and he purchased the lumber yard at Albion. In 1892 the old homestead farm was bought and the Albion business sold. The coming of the commercial orchard in the middle west was anticipated by him at this early date and he began the planting of fruit trees. Henceforth, the orchards held his first interest although he later engaged in retail hardware and lumber business at St. Joe, and was associated in the manufacturing and wholesaling of lumber here and in the far west.

In the course of time Brother Widney became known as one of the State's leading growers and was often referred to as Northern Indiana's "Apple King." The horticultural possibilities of this part of the State were first demonstrated by him through wholesale winnings on exhibits at the Indiana Horticultural Show. As a farmer, he was progressive in his operations, ready to consider improved practices and a student of farm problems. His services as Extension Lecturer on Farm Topics were used by Purdue University over a period of fifteen years.

During the political campaign of 1912 the deceased was active in the ranks of the progressive wing of the republican party and was their candidate for Representative in Congress from this District. In this event he recognized the improbability of election but welcomed the opportunity to champion those principles which he believed to be right.

Big Game Hunting in the virgin forests of Maine was a source of recreation of which the deceased was very fond. He organized many hunting parties. Those who shared the recreation on these occasions recognized their leader to be a true sportsman in the highest sense of the word and knew him to be a great lover of "God's Outdoors."

As a man and citizen, H. M. Widney made a great impression for good abroad and at home. He had his convictions and the courage to stand for them. In civic affairs he was a leader and his

(Continued on page 8)

100% Coffee

Our Coffee is shipped to us direct from the roaster in small lots. That means it is always fresh. No chance to get stale, we buy it in bulk and keep it in a tight sanitary case.

So you get the most for your money.

ZONKER'S Store.

Now For the Pig Harvest

DON'T gamble with the odds against you—you do if you try to raise hogs without adequate housing.

A hog house of reasonable design costs little to begin with and nothing in the end—the extra pigs saved pay for the building.

Help the pigs the first four weeks—they'll take care of themselves and you after they are well started.

Better be safe than sorry. See us about this. We have the plans and dependable material necessary for permanent building.

SPENCERVILLE LUMBER & SUPPLY CO.
C. J. KNAAK, Manager
Spencerville, Indiana.

AFRAID TO DIE?

Afraid to die? I say, sure not!
When that time comes I'll take my lot.
I'll go and leave my life behind
So other men can have their time.

Afraid to die? Why should that be,
Have I no place in eternity?
To die is only changing lots,
It's moving the soul to a better spot.

Afraid to die? When my day's done
I'll go my way like the setting sun,
I have tried to live and give my best
In morning or eventide. And now I rest.

Ah! Should I live, my work's not done.
My vision's not the setting sun,
It is only the light of a sunset glow.
My noonday is passed, yes that we knew.

Ah! Should I live, my fight is not done,
And on and on I'll go till 'tis won.
How much there is I can not tell
For me to do, but I will do it well.

Ah! This old world's only a place of test
Of a man's real worth. He should do his best
To prove himself worthy of a real home,
Of a better land, there forever to roam.

Completely Satisfies—

Mere words cannot fully express the complete satisfaction enjoyed by Horton users! The time and labor saved, the economy, and the ability to wash every piece clean, white and fresh without the fear of tearing or harming even the most delicate materials—all contribute to the popularity of the Horton everywhere! Drop in just for a few moments tomorrow and let us demonstrate the Horton 3 Cup Suction Washer to you.

SPECIALLY PRICED AT..$80.00

E. R. KINSEY, Hardware Furniture

OCTOBER

L 915 U593

Five Sets of Brothers in Same Infantry Company

The five sets of brothers, all members of Company B, honor company of the Seventy-first infantry regiment of the New York National Guard. This is said to be a record for sets of brothers in the same regiment. The boys took part in the huge military tourney held in Madison Square garden.

Kentuckians Seek to Save Cumberland Falls

To save the scenic beauty of Cumberland falls, in Kentucky, one of the natural wonders of the United States, United States Senator T. Coleman duPont, Wilmington, Del., has offered to purchase the Brunson tract of thousands of acres in McCreary and Whitley counties and give it to his native state, Kentucky, for a state park. Efforts to destroy the beauty of the falls with a dam for a power project have met with protests from practically every state in the Union. Cumberland river falls 75 feet.

Smart as an Eight-Year-Old Boy

Fellow, a German shepherd dog, understands between 300 and 400 spoken words and has the intelligence of an eight-year-old boy, says his master, Jacob Herbert of Detroit, who is in New York with his phenomenon. The canny canine will receive a special psychology test at Columbia university to prove that Mr. Herbert knows what he is talking about. Prof. C. J. Warden of Columbia is shown talking to Fellow.

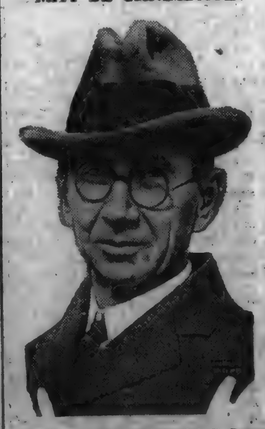
Senator France and Russian Bride

Former Senator Joseph I. France of Maryland has just returned to his home at Port Deposit with his bride, the former Tatiana Dechegeneva, a Russian noblewoman. In this photograph Mrs. France is shown pouring tea for her husband in her new home.

PARK COP OBJECTED

Mrs. Ida M. Keller, in the knee-revealing skirt that made a censor of a park policeman in Franklin park, Washington. Mrs. Keller was seated on a bench in the park when a cop asked her to lower her skirt. Upon her refusal to do so because the skirt was lowered as much as possible, the policeman insisted she leave the park. Then Mrs. Keller laid charges against the cop, who, she asserted, had acted in an insulting manner.

MAY BE CANDIDATE



Recent portrait of Daniel C. Roper of Texas, who, according to former Secretary of Agriculture H. T. Meredith, would be an acceptable Presidential candidate to the dry progressive wing of the Democratic party.

Improved Uniform International

Sunday School Lesson

(By REV. P. B. FITZWATER, D.D., Dean Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.)
(©, 1927, by Western Newspaper Union.)

Lesson for October 30

AMOS DENOUNCES SIN

(World's Temperance Sunday.)

LESSON TEXT—Amos 5:14-15.

GOLDEN TEXT—Seek good and not evil, that ye may live, and so the Lord the God of hosts shall be with you as ye have spoken.

PRIMARY TOPIC—The Punishment of Sin.

JUNIOR TOPIC—What God Thinks of Sin.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Why the Drink Traffic Is Prohibited.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Intemperance and Associated Evils.

Amos, a shepherd and tradesman (Amos 7:14, 15) was called to prophesy for God. He was neither in the prophetic line, nor trained in the prophetic schools.

I. The Sins of Judah (2:4, 5).

In the first part of the book Amos sets forth judgments upon the surrounding nations. The aim, doubtless, was to show that there is no escape from God's judgment. The nation or individual that sins shall surely be judged (Num. 32:23).

1. They despised the law of the Lord. To despise means to spurn, to disregard. To despise God's law is a sin directly against God. There is no escape from judgment for such as do this. (Heb. 10:28, 29).

2. Failed to keep the Lord's commandments (v. 4).

Disobedience logically follows the despising of God's law. It not only robs of blessings in this life, but results in eternal destruction (II Thess. 1:7-10).

3. Lies caused them to err (v. 4).

Because they despised God's law they fell into lying errors. Doctrine and conduct are inseparable. Thinking wrong precedes doing wrong.

4. Judgment upon Egypt (v. 5).

This was literally fulfilled a century and a half later in the capture of Jerusalem by the Chaldeans.

II. The Sins of Israel (2:6-8.)

The message of the prophet now comes directly to the northern kingdom.

1. "Sold the righteous for silver" (v. 6).

The judge, for a bribe of silver, declared the innocent to be guilty.

2. "Sold the poor for a pair of shoes" (v. 6).

Likely this refers to the practice of selling into slavery the debtor who could not pay for a pair of shoes which had been sold to him on time.

3. "Pants" after the dust of the earth on heads of the poor (v. 30).

The word "pant" means to eagerly desire. So avaricious had these men become that they even grasped after the earth which the down-trodden poor cast upon their heads in mourning because of their misery.

4. Turned aside the way of the meek (v. 7).

These grasping rich men turned aside the meek; that is, those who would not stand up for their rights.

5. Licentiousness (v. 7).

So notorious were the immoralities practiced that they were even guilty of incestuous prostitution. This was not merely the case of falling into sensuous sin, but was indulged in with the definite purpose of insulting God, provoking His holy name.

6. Idolatry (v. 8).

They not only frequented the place of idolatrous worship, but lay down on the clothes taken from the poor, and drank wine bought with money extorted from the poor in unjust fines.

III. God's Goodness to Israel (vv. 9-12).

God's manifold blessings and His goodness are now presented in contrast with the base practices of the nation, in order to heighten the picture of their ingratitude.

1. Destroyed their enemies (v. 9).

The Ammorite stands for all powerful peoples whom God removed from Palestine to make room for Israel.

2. Delivered from cruel bondage (v. 10).

God set them free from the cruel slavery of the Egyptians. Every redeemed one has been set free from a more cruel bondage than that of the Israelites at the hands of the Egyptians (John 8:34-36).

3. Led them for forty years in the wilderness (v. 10).

The wilderness wandering is a most wonderful story, showing the tender and faithful leading of God.

4. Raised up the prophets (v. 11).

God not only bestowed great honor upon them in this, but favored them in raising up prophets from among their own offspring. The awful sin and guilt are here shown in that they not only turned the prophets from their lives of separation but gave them wine to drink.

Faith

Faith never refers to self, but always to the Word of God. There are many who want to feel that they are believers before they have believed the truth, and to feel that they are safe, before they trust in Jesus.

Our Faith

When the devil tries our faith it is that he may crush it or diminish it; but when God tries our faith it is to establish and increase it.—Marcus Rainsford.

Medical Sermonettes

By W. E. LEONARD, M. D.

(©, 1927, by Western Newspaper Union.)

What's one man's poison, signor,
Is another's meat and drink.

This, from "Love's Cure," an English drama of three centuries ago. In the multiplicity of diet lists and fixed outlines for making over every ailing person by certain foods, this law of the diversity of each man's tastes and appetites needs to be remembered.

Every doctor or observer of his kind knows that no two stomachs are alike, and that one person can digest and apparently make use of what makes the next man actually ill. The facial and anatomical differences which give such infinite variety to the human race, no two on the whole face of the earth being exactly alike, also include the ability to take in and assimilate different foods, each for himself, according to his individual requirements. Hence the fallacy of routine diet lists for either the young or old. Such lists are made for the average child or adult and are open to very many necessary exceptions. No system of cooked foods after certain formulas, or of raw foods, or of prolonged fasting, will meet all cases. Again good common sense should come to the rescue and save the faddist from disappointment and possibly from catastrophe.

• • •

"Health is the greatest of all possessions—a hale cobbler is a better man than a sick king." Rev. Samuel G. Smith of the University of Minnesota thus put it at the eugenic congress in London some years ago: "I would rather be the robust son of a burglar than the consumptive son of a bishop," and this was telegraphed around the world that morning as a highly heterodox and startling notion. Health cannot be bought with money, nor is it sold in the market place. Those who have it do not always prize it sufficiently, and those who have it not, often seek for it in vain. This is all quite trite, to be sure, but must be often repeated for the careless ones who do not value health when they have it, and also for those who, by taking too much care, overdo the matter and defeat the very thing they are striving for. Nothing is to the physician so pathetic as the real invalid who nurses and exaggerates his ailments, and, as the southerners say, "admires to be sick." Unless the mental state of such a person is changed to one of less self-pity and indulgence in the luxury of being ill, he will never be entirely cured.

• • •

"Deceive not thy physician, confessor nor lawyer" wrote the wise and saintly George Herbert three centuries ago; and it needs reiteration today as much as it did then. Granting that the religious and legal implication of his proverb is true, the first, or medical, thesis is highly important. If you expect an honest conclusion from your doctor, be honest with him, give him all the information he seeks. It means great harm or danger to you if you allow him to build up a line of treatment upon a wrong statement. The premises must be sound, else his conclusions will be false.

No evasions, no quibbling, no half-truths, but the time-honored "the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth, so help you God" will suffice to protect you and enable him to reach a proper decision. Remember that, as with a shrewd, cross-examining lawyer, you will contradict yourself if you attempt to cover up anything, and that the doctor has pieced such problems together before and may detect the flaws in your recital. The revelations of the doctor's consulting room are as sacred and should be as genuine as those of the confessional. There is no real safety for you otherwise if you wish to obtain results.

• • •

"By the foolishness of preaching to save them that believe." So the great apostle to the Gentiles himself (I Cor., 1, 21) estimates the value of many words and much talk to influence men to do right.

So it is in matters of right living, medically speaking. Only by saying the same things over and over again can the attention of the careless ones be gained. The simplest precepts are the ones to be fastened in mind by frequent repetition. Moderate eating and drinking, exercise, plenty of sleep, and a mental state free from worry and gloom are these important precepts, best hammered into the consciousness early in life. If these become second nature, by reason of their timely reiteration, their practice becomes as automatic as walking or other involuntary actions.

All the current literature of hygiene and correct living are but paraphrases of these fundamental axioms, varied by different ways of saying the same old things.

He Chases the Crow

Perched on an outstanding dead limb near his nest site, prepared for passing insects, is Sir Kingbird, one of the most common of our large flycatchers, says Nature Magazine. His range extends from central Canada through all parts of the United States except the Southwest. The male bird's pet aversion is the crow, which he will chase from the premises, even inflicting severe punishment with his strong bill.

Improve Your Complexion

Peoria, Ill.—"I found Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery to be a better medicine even than they say it is. The four bottles which I took as a tonic seemed to act like magic on my entire system. It even regulated my bowels and cleared up my complexion so that I look and feel like a different person. I do not expect to ever find a better tonic and alterative than Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery."—Mrs. D. T. Sivley, 207 Wayne St.

Golden Medical Discovery is a personal blessing to every man and woman. It increases the appetite, stimulates the digestion, enriches the blood and clears the skin of eruptions and blemishes. In liquid or tablets, at your Drug Store.

Mercenary Rescuer

Gen. Mason M. Patrick, chief of the army air service, said at a dinner in Washington.

"The thorough and costly search that America has made for the unhappy airmen, Nungesser and Coli, shows that we're not the mercenary people, the race of Shylocks, that some preten"

"Some pretend that we're as bad as the Florida colored man.

"A realty man, you know, got lost in a Florida swamp and yelled as he waded about:

"'Help! Help! I'm lost!'

"After a time he heard a voice yell back:

"'Ah hears ye, boss; Ah hears ye; but wot's de reward if Ah finds ye?'"

Isn't it noteworthy that a farmers' fair now is at least half machinery?

DIURETIC STIMULANT TO THE KIDNEYS
Standard for Generations.

Mrs. Sarah E. Walker, Kregar, Pa., writes as follows:

"Two years ago I had the flu. Then my heart got bad, rheumatism set in and I could scarcely get upstairs. I had not much use of my limbs. I took fifteen boxes of Dodd's Pills and three boxes of Diamond Dinner Pills. They saved my life with the good Lord's help. I can now walk good and do my housework. I can go to bed now and rest good. I am now 82 years old. Dodd's Pills relieved me when suffering with Diabetes over 20 years ago, and I believe they will help any kind of kidney trouble."

At all druggists, 60c per box, or The Dodds Medicine Co., Inc., 700 Main St., Buffalo, N. Y.

K-R-O
Kills Rats Only

Kill rats wholesale

Get rid of them safely. Here's a new sure way. K-R-O, a fine non-poisonous powder, kills 'em off in a hurry. Made from squill bulbs, the new safe way urged by government experts.

Safe for poultry and pets

Actual tests proved that it killed rats and mice every time but other animals and poultry were not injured by the largest doses. Think what that means to farmers and merchants.

Not a poison

Use K-R-O freely. Place it around your home, your barn, your granary or fair yard. Contains no arsenic, phosphorus or barium-carbonate. At your druggist 75c. Large size (4 times as much) $2.00. Or sent direct from us postpaid if he cannot supply you. Satisfaction guaranteed.

K-R-O CO., Springfield, Ohio

Porter's
Pain King
A Liniment

For fifty years your neighbors have relied on this remedy of pure and wholesome herbs. Yet, even now, some do not know that quickly checking colds, relieving aches and pains, healing cuts and burns, are but a few of its many uses.

Read the directions with every bottle.

USE IT TODAY

The Geo. H. Lewis Co. Peoria, Ill.

$2-$10 DAILY, SPARE TIME, sell personal inexpensive engraved Christmas cards. Exp. unnecessary. Samples free. We deliver and collect. CYPHERS CARD CO., Buffalo, N. Y.

WHITEN YOUR SKIN
with KREMOLA, the wonderful bleach cream. Use one box and see the real skin beauty that can be yours. Price $1.25 prepaid. BOOKLET FREE. Agents wanted. Dr. C. H. Berry Co., 2323 Michigan Ave., Chicago.

HOXSIE'S CROUP REMEDY
THE LIFE-SAVER OF CHILDREN
No opium, no nausea. 50 cents at druggists, or KELLS CO., NEWBURGH, N. Y.

FLASH
Cleans All Hands
Factory agents & territory salesmen wanted. Write today. Flash Chemical Co., Cambridge, Mass.

PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM
Removes Dandruff—Stops Hair Falling
Restores Color and Beauty to Gray and Faded Hair
50c. and $1.00 at Druggists.
Hiscox Chem. Wks. Patchogue, N. Y.

FLORESTON SHAMPOO—Ideal for use in connection with Parker's Hair Balsam. Makes the hair soft and fluffy. 50 cents by mail or at druggists. Hiscox Chemical Works, Patchogue, N. Y.

OCTOBER

L 915 0594

The GREEN CLOAK

By YORKE DAVIS

WNU Service.
Copyright, 1928

STORY FROM THE START

Dr. Ronald McAlister, psychologist, undertakes to solve the mystery of the murder of a recluse, Henry Morgan. The dead man's papers reveal that he had been in New Zealand, where McAlister had lived in his youth. Will Harvey testifies to seeing a woman in a green cloak at the Morgan home the night of the murder. Doctor McAlister is asked to see a young woman patient in a hospital. In her delirium she mutters in a strange language which only McAlister understands. He suspects she may know something of the murder. A carefully hidden map is discovered by McAlister and Assistant District Attorney Ashton in Morgan's home. While they are searching a young woman enters the house in the darkness and escapes, leaving behind a green cloak. In response to an advertisement of the finding of a green cloak, a young woman, giving her name as Jane Perkins, housemaid at The Meredith, claims it. McAlister takes two laboratory instruments to The Meredith for an undisclosed purpose. The head waiter, Wilkins, admits Jane Perkins is employed at the hotel. By a tatoo mark on the arm she is advertised as the hospital patient. McAlister hypnotizes the girl.

CHAPTER VII—Continued

—11—

He stood perfectly still before her, except that the hand which held the mirror permitted it to swing very slowly, pendulum-wise, before her, though always at an angle that sent the beam straight into her eyes.

From my corner of the room I watched him breathlessly. Of course it was perfectly obvious to see what he was doing. The examination of her eyes had been a mere pretext. His real object in inducing the girl to strain her eyes upward was to throw her into a hypnotic sleep. The method he had taken was an old-fashioned one, and one he rarely used. At the laboratory he hypnotized people almost daily by the simple and almost instantaneous process of having them lie down and telling them that they were going to sleep. But that method was absolutely dependent upon a condition which could not exist here. The patient must expect to be hypnotized and be in a state of willing submission. We had no reason to suppose that Jane Perkins would submit herself to any such test as that in the hands of strangers. And even with his mirror he would not be able to hypnotize her if she should suspect that this was what he was trying to do, and should resist. But his confident, friendly manner, his easy assumption of authority, the fact that he came from the same part of the world as herself—all this speedily disarmed suspicion.

At the end of three or four minutes of silence the doctor turned away and laid his little mirror upon the table.

"It's five minutes past eight," he said, with a second glance at his watch. "We haven't any time to lose. Close all the windows; that's the first thing to do—and lock them. And then we'll bolt both doors—it won't do to take any chances—and, in general, try to be ready for anything she may do. I think you'd better stand behind her chair, over yonder, where she won't see you at first. Now—are you ready?"

He stationed himself where he had stood before, just a pace or two away from the chair where the girl lay asleep. His eyes were shining, and every line of the attitude of his big sinewy body bespoke the relaxation possible only to nervous systems of very high order, the relaxation that is ready to exert its utmost effort in any direction; that is braced against nothing because it is expecting anything.

And then, softly at first but growing louder, he began to hum once more that old Maori death chant.

From my station behind the chair I could see nothing of the girl, except one hand, which hung out over the arm of it. I fixed my eyes on that, and as I stood there saw it change, saw in it the index of some mysterious incredible transformation that must be permeating every fiber of her body. It had been Jane Perkins' hand a moment ago—a chambermaid's hand, pudgy, lifeless, inexpressive. Now, indefinably, it was different, altogether different. The fingers stretched apart a little as if they tingled with the warmth and life of a new current, intenser, more electrical. The hand opened wide, then slowly clenched itself into a fist; and last of all it sprang open again, distended to its widest reach, with galvanic quickness which Jane Perkins' nerves would never have been capable of commanding.

The doctor broke off his song, and there followed, for one dead moment, a silence, which was shattered at the end of it by a strange, weird, half-suppressed outcry. The next instant the girl had flashed out of her chair, and stood confronting me. The quickness of her motion was absolutely indescribable. Her face was now the one we had seen in the hospital and had glimpsed dimly in the dark in Henry Morgan's study.

At the sight of me she shrank, crouched, rather, for something about the action suggested that it might be followed by a spring. Her hand flashed to her bosom and explored there for something—a knife probably—that it did not find. What she would have done then, whether she would have flung herself upon me unarmed I do not know, but the doctor began speaking to her just then, quietly, authoritatively, and in the Maori tongue. He was not trying to soothe her fears, or at least not doing it in any way that is commonly practiced by us modern people. He was giving her orders, orders which he was prepared to enforce by brute strength if she should make it necessary. So much was plain from his manner.

Of course I could not understand a word he said. The girl cowered at the voice, but it seemed to reassure her, for all of that. The wild light in her eyes died. They became sullen. She squatted on the floor in a corner of the room. Evidently chairs and their uses were as strange to her as her present attitude would have been to Jane Perkins.

Then began one of the strangest scenes I ever witnessed. Except for what I could gather from their faces, and from the inflection of his questions and her sullen, half-defiant answers, it was totally unintelligible to me. Even the inflections told me little, for the language itself is spoken in a queer sort of sing-song, which betrayed no family relationship with any other language I ever heard. But in the doctor's face I could read strange matters—excitement, dawning comprehension and dawning horror, too. It was strangely tantalizing to know that this mystery, the clue to which I had vainly sought, was in process of being unraveled right before my eyes and I was as much in the dark as ever.

Then, as if the doctor had read my thoughts, he spoke to the girl in English:

"Fanenna," he said, "I am talking English. I am going to ask you questions in English, and you will understand me. Did you understand what I said then?"

The girl nodded. And yet I was sure that if I had spoken to her she would not have comprehended a word. It was in its way as strange and perfect a demonstration of the possibilities of hypnotism as I had ever seen. The doctor called in Jane Perkins' memory to act as the girl's interpreter.

"What is the man's name," the doctor asked, "the man who sent you?"

Her answer was two words that sounded like "Osa Enns." I saw that for a moment it puzzled the doctor as much as it did me. But the next moment, evidently, he understood, for his face lighted rather grimly.

"You came away, did you, without the thing he sent you to get?"

She nodded.

"And you hadn't been told to kill the old man? You didn't mean to kill him when you stole into the house?"

She answered with a deep-throated guttural, even to my ears, unmistakably in the negative.

"Then why did you kill him?"

She flung her head back, her eyes blazed defiance and from her lips poured forth a torrent of speech.

"Stop!" said the doctor. "If you can understand English, you can talk it, too. Speak in the same language I am speaking in, and tell why you killed him."

"I was sworn to kill him."

The words came thickly, slowly clumsily, for tongue and lips were finding difficulty with them, but they were clearly and quite intelligibly English.

I saw the doctor's face light up at the sound of them, for it was the completion of the most interesting experiment he had ever tried. The girl was still submerged, completely, in her wild, primitive, under-self. She was no more Jane Perkins than as if she had occupied another body altogether, and yet, by the strange hypnotic power of suggestion, the doctor was compelling her to use Jane Perkins' knowledge of English to talk with.

"Who swore you to such an oath?" he asked.

"My mother, when she was dying. It was a vengeance. He had murdered my father. He murdered him before I was born."

"If it happened before you were born," said the doctor quickly, "then, unless you knew beforehand that Henry Morgan was the man you were sworn to murder, how did you know it when you found him in that house?"

Out of the front of her blouse she pulled a little chamois-skin bag which hung about her neck by a fine gold chain.

"By this," she said. "It had belonged to him, the murderer. My mother kept it and gave it to me so that I should know him."

For an instant I did not understand, but immediately after, the way she had detected our presence in that room, by the smell, gave me an inkling.

"Then you can tell people by their odor?" the doctor asked.

"As a dog does," she answered simply.

"He murdered your father, you say, before you were born? Do you know who your father was? What was his name?"

"Flanka," she answered.

For an instant the doctor gazed at her wide-eyed; then, turning away to conceal his excitement, he struck one palm, softly, three or four times with the other fist.

Presently he turned back to the girl.

"Did your mother swear you to anything else?"

"No."

"Did she give you anything when she died?"

"No."

"Not even a message? I mean did she tell you anything, anything about Flanka?"

"She told me these words," said the girl, "she said them a great many times, 'Ouan feef, ti ones. Ten sout.'"

That is the best reproduction I can make of the sound of them. I supposed she was speaking in Maori, until, glancing up at the doctor, I saw that he was as much puzzled as I was.

"What's that?" he asked. "Say it again."

She repeated the syllables glibly and without the slightest variation in her inflection of them.

"What does that mean?" he questioned. "That's not your language nor mine."

She shook her head.

"You don't understand it yourself?"

Again she shook her head, and repeated once more the queer, meaningless syllables.

There was a moment of silence, the doctor gazing at her in a puzzled way, all his faculties concentrated upon this fresh mystery.

In the midst of that silence the girl sprang suddenly erect, and from her tense attitude it was evident that she was listening; that she had heard something. To our ears all was still.

"Hearing abnormal, too," murmured the doctor in a swift aside to me.

Then he spoke to the girl. "Fanenna," he said, "you are to go into that other room and wait until I call for you. When I want you, I will call, 'Perkins,' and you will come out, believing that it is the first time I have called you from the bedroom. You will remember the knife and vase of water, but you will believe that you have dreamed it. And when I call the word 'Perkins,' you will wake up and come in. Go now." He unlocked the door as he spoke.

She obeyed without hesitation. By that time I myself heard footsteps approaching down the corridor.

"Go in there after her, Phelps," said the doctor, "and see that the windows and doors in all the other rooms of the apartment are locked and bolted. Then come back here as quickly as you can."

I heard a tap at the door just as I was finishing the task, and immediately afterward heard the doctor open it. When I returned to the sitting room, he turned toward me and spoke rather quickly. There was a note of suppressed excitement in his voice.

"Phelps, here's Ashton come to pay us a call."

Without waiting for me to comment on the situation, he turned back to the district attorney.

"I thought it not unlikely," he said, "that, with one intention or another, you would make us a visit this evening."

His manner was perfectly neutral, neither friendly in the old way, nor hostile as it might have been expected to be after the scene in the laboratory.

Ashton flushed a little. "Oh, I've come to apologize," he said. "My accusation against you and Mr. Phelps this afternoon was quite unwarranted."

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

"Antipodes" Too Often Term Wrongly Used

The term "antipodes" is strictly applied to any two peoples or places on opposite sides of the earth and so situated that a straight line drawn from one to another passes through the center of the earth. Loosely, however, the term is applied to any place on the opposite side of the earth from us. China is popularly supposed to be the antipodes of the United States and there is an old saying that if one were to dig a hole deep enough he would fall into China. But this is a misconception, for China and the United States are both in the northern hemisphere. The true antipodes of the United States is a region in the Indian ocean west of Australia. No part of the North American continent has its antipodes in any land surface. The antipodes of South America fall in the region of China, the Philippines and Borneo, while the antipodes of Europe and Asia are in the South Pacific. The approximate antipodes of London is Antipodes island, near New Zealand.—Pathfinder Magazine.

Crippled Industry

"Jedge," a very large and determined colored woman announced as she ushered a frightened ex-husband into his honor's chamber, "dis nigger ain't paid me one cent ob allmony for sebben months."

"What's the matter, Sam?" sternly inquired the judge. "Haven't you been working lately?"

"Nosuh," was the response. "Ah ain't bin able to find mah dice."—Country Gentleman.

What's the Answer?

Questions No. 22

1—What is verbena and has it any particular value?

2—In what state are the Shoshone falls?

3—What is the most popular patriotic song in France? Who wrote it?

4—What President was known as "Old Tippecanoe"?

5—Who was the first commander in chief of the Union army in the Civil war?

6—What is meant by rationalism?

7—Which team won the Army-Navy game last fall?

8—Who wrote "Little Lord Fauntleroy"?

9—How many justices are there in the United States Supreme court?

10—When was the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America established?

11—What distinguished American story writer is the wife of a physician and mother of physicians?

12—Where is the region set apart as the Yellowstone National park?

13—What portrait painter, the most distinguished produced by America, died in 1925?

14—Who was the most valuable player in the National league last year?

15—When was the Erie canal opened?

16—How many states seceded from the Union in 1860 and 1861 and what were they?

17—What is physics?

18—What is a vireo and what is its particular virtue?

19—What is the salary of the chief justice of the United States?

20—When does the astronomical day begin?

Answers No. 21

1—On November 19, 1863.

2—Sequoyah, of the Cherokees.

3—That science that treats of the phenomena of the mind.

4—Bubbling Over.

5—Whistler's portrait of his mother was purchased by the French government and placed in the Luxembourg gallery at Paris.

6—Salt lake.

7—"The Compleat Angler" by Izaak Walton.

8—It has attained the length of 80 feet and feeds on mammals and birds.

9—Fifteen thousand dollars.

10—104,200,000.

11—Joseph Hopkinson, 1798.

12—Franklin Pierce.

13—A Greek scientist of the Sixth century, B. C.

14—Frank Lockhart.

15—Sarah Bernhardt; of French nativity and Jewish descent.

16—Seattle.

17—As an exciseman.

18—An interesting plant of the Sundew family which bears leaves serving as traps to capture insects. It is found in North and South Carolina.

19—William M. Jardine of Kansas.

20—May 8, 1816.

Younger Indans Turn From Faith of Fathers

Sixty or seventy years ago the Fox Indians of Iowa began the acquisition of the English alphabet from missionaries. They learned a method of writing their own language by means of the English alphabet, separating their words into syllables. Since there is only a rough conformity between the characters as employed by the Fox Indians and the actual sounds, it is necessary to restore the phonetics of any Fox text so that the symbols may correctly represent them. Dr. Truman Michelson, of the Smithsonian Institution's Bureau of American Ethnology, has been foremost in this work of collection and restoration.

Doctor Michelson, whose work has made him the foremost authority on the Fox Indians, describes their rituals as consisting mainly of eating, dancing and prayer. As is natural with a primitive people, their prayers invite material benefits such as long life, freedom from disease, that the chief's village should be strong enough to resist its enemies, and that no foe should even be permitted to gossip against the village.

According to Doctor Michelson, the younger generation now turn these once serious ceremonies into occasions for amusement. Up to some 15 years ago the tribe was so conservative as to resist education, but it has since grown progressive and all the young Indians are anxious to go to school. The tribe are good farmers and compete with the whites in the state agricultural fairs.

Very Concrete

"Oh, you Easterners can boast of your fine buildings and their splendid workmanship," said the Angeleno, "but out my way we are so careful what we put in a building that we even inspect every grain of sand."

"Maybe so," retorted the Bostonian, "but here in the East our buildings go up so quick we have to use quicksand to mix with our cement before it solidifies. Otherwise the cement would be all up in the forms before the sand got in it."—Los Angeles Times.

A Few Little Smiles

ON THE LINKS

Tommy Armour, golfer, was taking tea on the veranda of the Oakmont club when a poor player came up to him and said:

"I'm improving, Mr. Armour. Yes, I'm improving. I did the difficult fourth hole yesterday in three."

The champion gave an incredulous and good natured laugh.

"Three what?" he said. "Hours?"—Minneapolis Tribune.

APPROVED OF CLUBS

Mrs. Gabb—You certainly approve of clubs for married women?

Mr. Stabb—Yes—good heavy ones.

A Good Rule

To win success
Don't be stopping.
Hop right ahead,
And keep on hopping.

Saved!

He—Will you be my partner—

She—Oh, George, this is so sudden! Give me a little time—

He (continuing)—for the next dance?

She (continuing) To catch my breath. I haven't recovered from the last fox-trot yet.—Pathfinder Magazine.

Couldn't Help It

A city man visiting a remote village noticed they had neither library nor movie. "Whatever do you do here when it rains?" he asked of one of the inhabitants.

"Oh," replied the man, "we let it rain."—Tit-Bits.

Then She Got Peeved

"What did you say to Miss Antique to make her so angry?"

"Why, nothing. She asked me if I didn't think this age terrible and I merely inquired how it compared, in her experience, with previous ages."—the Pathfiender.

In the Composing Room

"What are you setting up there?"

"A fishing story," answered the compositor.

"Let me have the proofs," directed the sports editor.

"Take it on trust," advised the managing editor.

HUBBY HADN'T NINE LIVES

"This is our best pistol, madam—it shoots nine times."

"I didn't marry a tom cat, young man!"

Live on Love

Depend not on love's ration.
You'll never get enough.
Though love's a tender passion,
It's sometimes pretty tough.

Practice of Pharmacy

"I see you advertise for a drug clerk."

"Yes, I need a drug clerk. How are you at compounding?"

"Soups or medicines?" inquired the applicant.

Talented

She—I've been married three times—and each time my husbands have been Williams.

He—I'll say you're a clever Bill collector.

A Substitute

Flub—This paper says that we will bend artillery to China to batter down their wall.

Dubb—Good. I'm glad that this time the politicians are going to use their heads.—Vancouver Province.

Going Too Far

Jerry—So you don't like your new boarding house? You surely don't object to hash, do you?

Dick—No, but I certainly do object to hash soup!

IS A HEALTHIER STRONGER GIRL

Because She Took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

The fertile valleys of Oregon help to supply the tables of America. This is possible through the magic of the humble tin can.

In one of the canning establishments, Julia Schmidt was employed. It was complicated work because she did sealing and other parts of the work. It was strenuous work and she was not a strong girl. Often she forced herself to work when she was hardly able to sit at her machine. At times she would have to stay at home for she was so weak she could hardly walk. For five years she was in this weakened condition.

She tried various medicines. At last, a friend of hers spoke of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and she gave it a trial.

"Everyone says I am a healthier and stronger girl," she writes. "I am recommending the Vegetable Compound to all my friends who tell me how they suffer and I am willing to answer letters from women asking about it." Julia Schmidt's address is 113 Willow St., Silverton, Oregon.

Girls who work in factories know just how Miss Schmidt felt. Perhaps they, too, will find better health by taking the Vegetable Compound.

Seeing Daylight

Uncle was far from pleased with Dorothy's answers to the simple questions he asked

"How much does a six-pound chicken weigh?"

"I don't know," confessed the little girl sorrowfully

"Well," said the uncle, "when does the 12 o'clock train leave?"

"Twelve"

"Right! Now, how much does a six-pound chicken weigh?"

"Ah," smiled his niece, suddenly seeing daylight, "twelve pounds!"

Ireland's Prized Volume

The Book of Kells is a beautifully executed manuscript copy of the Gospels, dating from the Sixth or Seventh century. It is preserved in Trinity college, Dublin.

The need of the hour is 60 minutes.

Salts Fine for Aching Kidneys

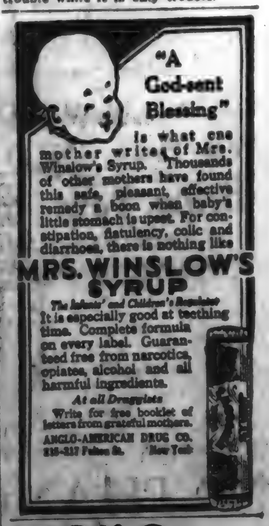
When Back Hurts Flush Your Kidneys as You Clean Your Bowels

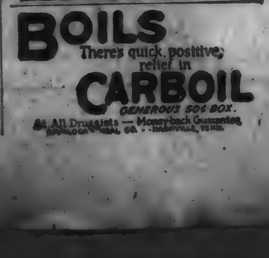
Most folks forget that the kidneys, like the bowels, sometimes get sluggish and clogged and need a flushing occasionally, else we have backache and dull misery in the kidney region, severe headaches, rheumatic twinges, torpid liver, acid stomach, sleeplessness and all sorts of bladder disorders.

You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean and the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region begin drinking lots of water. Also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good drug store here, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is intended to flush clogged kidneys and help stimulate them to activity. It also helps neutralize the acids in the urine so they no longer irritate, thus helping to relieve bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink which everybody should take now and then to help keep their kidneys clean.

A well-known local druggist says he sells lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in trying to correct kidney trouble while it is only trouble.





OCTOBER

L 915 U595

The romance of the buck saw and a small schoolboy for motive power, creating a rasping song on the frosty morning air as he does his daily stint of filling the woodbox behind the kitchen stove before school time, is rapidly passing into the has-been class. Romantic to his elders,, perhaps, but the school boy of 1927 leaves no sign of remorse as a gas engine or tractor-driven buzz saw tears its way through log or limb with a musical whine, as the ragged pile of timber melts away as if by magic. Sawing and splitting of cord wood is an important source of farm income in many sections, with a growing demand for fireplace logs near cities, while the farm woodpile is a more important asset to the farm income than most people realize. A clean, well-trimmed grove is a sure sign that the resident of the farmstead is a business-like individual who takes good care of his livestock, machinery, the farm as a whole and his family.

For a number of years there has been a lack of interest in the biennial town election in St. Joe. Whether or not this is general over the state, this newspaper is not able to state. Either one of two things might be the cause in St. Joe. Back during the days when there was a marshal to be elected, every voter in the community seemed to be interested in helping to pick the man. Whether there was some unknown reason for this, is not quite clear. Now that the marshal is appointed by the town trustees, there seems to be little interest in who the town trustees are going to appoint for marshal, or who the people are going to elect town trustees. It might be that during the present time, and since towns have taken strides along the advancement in securing certain improvements, there is not the desire to assume the responsibility of being a member of the town trustees. It is very true that someone must serve the town on the board of trustees, and it is also true that it is the duty of the voters of the town to select men who are qualified for the position, and that this be done with care and consideration of what is to be expected of them in that capacity.

The quilting parties with their "crazy" color combinations and husking bees with their red ears and bashful kisses and other social events of grandfather's day may be a myth to the farm boy of today, but in spite of an occasional "crepe hanger" who claims the 20th century farmer is an unsocial cuss who unlimbers his flivver and heads for town to see the village movie at the slightest excuse, organized recreation in rural sections is gaining in momentum and popularity. Farm bureau and other economic farm organizations are making recreation a part of their community program. The boys and girls with their 4-H clubs are showing the old folks the way in many cases with the result that the entire social life of the community is given a boost and a new spirit of friendliness developed. Township or community orchestras and bands are being organized in many places, while base ball leagues for the boys, community theatres, picnics, community school programs, pageants and many other undertakings which bring the families of the community together are found in every part of the country.

The farmer of today, though he labors long hours in comparison with the average factory worker, has vastly more time for recreation and pleasure than before the days of labor saving methods and equipment. His day's labor on the seat of a gang plow or tractor does not call on his last reserve of strength and energy as did the walking plow of yester year. No scythe to swing, no hoe to bend the back; and if he wills, the power of straining horseflesh, or sparkling gasoline plows his fields and harvests his crop, while silent electricity milks his cows and dispells the darkness as he goes about his daily chores in the early falling winter twilight. No longer is the farm a place of isolation, separated from the nearest neighbor by lonely miles of gloomy forest or lonesome prairie. Smooth roads lead the way to friendly neighbors or community gathering, family news and neighborhood gossip finds free exchange over a connecting web of telephone wires; invisible waves carry the voice and sound of distant places to loud speakers and ear phones in countless thousands of rural homes. Surely farm homes are richer and more pleasant for all o' that.

WHAT'S WRONG WITH INDIANA?

Nothing's wrong with Indiana except entirely too many of us get up in the morning at the alarm of a Connetirut clock, button a pair of Chicago trousers to Ohio suspenders, put on a pair of shoes made in Massachussetts, wash in a Pittsburgh tin basin, using Cincinnati soap and a cotton towel made in New Hampshire, sit down to a Grand Rapids table, eat pan cakes made from Minneapolis flour, spread with Vermont maple syrup and Kansas City bacon, fried on a St. Louis stove, buy fruit put up in California, seasoned with Rhode Island spices and sweetened with Colorado sugar, put on a hat made in Philadelphia, hitch a Detroit mule fed on Texas gasoline to an Ohio plow and work hard all day long on an Indiana farm covered with New England mortgages, send our money to Ohio for auto tires and at night we crawl under a New Jersey blanket to be kept awake by a dern dog, the only home product on the place—wondering all the while why ready money and prosprity are not more abundant in this wonderful state of ours.

BEING TOO CRITICAL

While there is not, to our knowledge any complaint being filed in this community, we understand that in some sections of the state teachers are protesting against too many restrictions being imposed on them by school boards and school trustees. We believe those in charge of the employment of teachers in this territory always aim to be reasonable. They want, of course, teachers who can enforce discipline and command the respect of their pupils. But we do not believe in the practice of spying on or encouraging distrust in those who devote their lives to this profession.

We read recently of one school district in which the board ruled that teachers must not attend picture shows or dances, insisting that they must use their spare time in church work. This sort of thing is disgusting to fairminded people, and if the school board so ruling has not already come in for public criticism it should get it without delay. Teachers, like people in other professions, should stand or fall by their conduct. If they do not measure up to the required standard let them be dropped. If they are bad, dismiss them. By making good in both their work and their behavior they not only assure themselves of a position of permanence, but also of advancement. Pick good teachers —then give them a chance. That is the duty of every school official, and so long as school boards and trustees do that, and refuse to meddle with the teacher's private affairs, our school system will be a success.

Local Briefs

For Sale:—Keefer Pears at 50c per bushel. S. D. Gee. 43t1.

When in Butler make Horner's Drug Store your headquarters. 41t3.

All notary work can be promptly cared for at News office. Call and see us.

A widow says that good husbands are like dough because women need them.

Mrs. Milton Chaney, of Spencerville, was an over Sunday guest of Mrs. Wilson Sanders.

Mr. and Mrs. Zay Sailer were over Sunday guests of the latter's parents in Fort Wayne.

Dennis Poorman, wife and daughter were Sunday afternoon callers in the George Bleeks home.

Frank and Albert Ginther and their families of Fort Wayne, were callers at the O. E. Ginther home Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Rhodenbaugh were at Albion Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Sharpnack. Jim reports a fine fish dinner.

C. A. Woodcox has commenced the erection of a new garage, sufficiently large enough for four cars. He expecas to install a duco system.

The first issue of "The Loud Speaker" school paper, is about to make its appearance. The News has secured the job for publication every two weeks.

If parents knew their children as well as the children know their parents, the parents might be able to handle the children as well as the children handle the parents.

Mrs. Eugene Wyatt of west of Concord, is imroving fine from a stroke of paralysis, now being out of bed a part of the time. Her condition is encouraging to her family.

The final report of the Daily Vacation Bible School at Auburn shows an enrollment of 167 children representing eleven denominations. Nine teachers and officers were employed and donations in money amounted to $356.25. Six other schools were held in the county.

Grover A. Ward has accepted a call to preach at the Indian Village U. B. Church, and has already actively entered upon his duties. Services are at 11:00 A. M. and 7:30 P. M., every Sunday. Mr. Ward was licensed on Nov. 12 at the first quarterly meeting.—Albion Democrat.

Owing to the lack of sufficient evidence to convict him of first degree burglary, the charge pending against him, Dan Edgeman of Auburn, was released from the DeKalb county jail Friday. It was believed when Edgeman was arrested Sept. 28 that he was the barefoot burglar who had terrorized residents of Auburn Junction and the southwest section of Auburn. The arrest was made on information furnished by LeRoy Donley. He claimed that he and Edgman robbed a large number of houses together, but Edgeman made a denial and Donley told conflicting stories that could not be confirmed. Edgeman formerly lived at Auburn, but has more recently been making his home at Churubusco. Guess Dan spent a winter in St. Joe a few years ago.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Foltz visited friends in Defiance, Sunday.

The C. R. Price dental home is receiving a coat of paint this week.

Mrs. Mary Bowman and son, Say, are at Garrett visiting relatives.

Lost:—Black leather ring case and 4 keys. Call telephone office, St. Joe. 43t1p.

Some men are so mean that they even refuse to let their wives have the last word.

Willard Pefferel, of Auburn, spent a part of last week in the Wid Williams home.

Mrs. James Sherwood of near Auburn, is here visiting in the Wm. Pepple some.

For Sale:—Good 3-burner, used oil stove with oven. Priced to sell. Bowser & Reed. 42t2.

You can now buy Atwter-Kent Radio, 6 tube set for less than $100.00 complete. Kenneth Meek. 43tf.

Mrs. Dewey Smith is spending the week with Mr. Smith's mother, Mrs. Florence Dancer at Holgate, Ohio.

Mr. and Mrs. John Knight and Dr. and Mrs. B. S. Sheffer were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Sheffer at Angola.

Levi Sechler is a guest in the B. E. Widney home. He has been in poor health for months, and is suffering with dropsy.

Mrs. Winfield Berry of Jackson Township broke her hip last Thursday, when she fell from a ladder at their barn when about the chores.

Miss Martha Liard and Miss Opal Knott of Auburn and Miss Dorothy Roediger of Spencerville were guests Friday of Miss Janice Ridgway.

Mr. and Mrs. Jess Provines and Mrs. Elizabeth Wasson of Auburn, were Sunday evening supper guests in the Wall Wasson home. Mr. and Mrs. John Simanton were afternoon callers.

Fred Lindenmayer of one mile west of Leo, had his sale cards printed by The News last week. He wanted a quick delivery and we made it the following day. You get service here too.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Wolford and Mrs. Harold Wolford and son, Wayne, were Sunday guests in the T. H. Shull home. Afternoon guests were Mrs. George Hart and family and Mrs. M. E. Stuck of Garrett.

In the suit of Charles O. Cook against John M. Cook and others, Willis Rhoads, commissioner appointed in the DeKalb circuit court, reported the sale of the real estate involved to John U. and Lulu M. Gorrell for $1,700. The report was approved.

Clarence Green, superintendent of DeKalb county schools, was elected vice-president of the Northeastern Indiana Teachers' Association which closed its two-day convention at Fort Wayne Friday afternoon. Mr. Green succeeds J. D. French of Bluffton.

The Y. M. C. A. membership and building maintenance drive came to a close Friday night with a great demonstration following a treat of cider, apples and pumpkin pie in the association dining room. When the reports were tabulated it indicated 330 members secured with pledges of $7,307 for the repairing and maintenance of the building.

Five arrests were made at Auburn Saturday and Sunday, for liquor violations, among them was Charles Kistler of North Webster, who was on his way to Spencerville Saturday night to visit a friend, but while going through Auburn about 6:30 he got on the wrong route and ran his Ford coupe into the interurban Y at the north end of Auburn. He was unable to extricate the car and his dilemma led to his arrest by Sheriff John C. Armstrong. Five men were required to get the car off the track. Kistler was handed a 35 day sentence at the penal farm by Mayor Lige and fine and costs of $31.35.

The will of the late Milo J. Thomas, the Corunna banker has been probated in the DeKalb circuit court. It was executed May 11, 1910, with J. H. Knauer and H. H. Riley as witnesses. Mr. Thomas left all his property to his wife, Vesta Thomas, to be used by her as her own without bond and he made the request that the bank be retained and maintained under its present name until changed to a state bank. Mr. Thomas on Sept. 9, 1927, executed a codicil to the will providing that any money or property advanced to any of his children should be deducted from their inheritance. The witnesses to the execution of the codicil were Carroll J. Gushwa and Vesta A. Bolinger.

Lost:—Black leather ring case and 4 keys. Call telephone office, St. Joe. 43t1p.

Horner's Drug Store, Butler, Ind., for Drugs, Sundries, Wall Paper and School Books. 41t3.

Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Perry were Saturday and Sunday guests of relatives at Kalamazoo, Mich.

A big time in the old town Saturday night—spooky looking things everywhere. Come and see them.

In the past six years bandits have stolen approximately $50,000,000 from the United States mails.

The new "Jac-O-Bean" parlor furnace is sold by Bowser & Reed. On display in our store. The price will fit your purse. 42tf.

J. P. Buckingham spent a few days in Findlay, Ohio with Guy Buckingham, S. C. Tussing and family and other relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Hull and Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Quance and son, Fred, drove to South Bend, Sunday and were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Walker and children.

Mrs. Ray Herrick and Phyllis Rickett called at the Orange Herrick home Sunday afternoon. Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Irven of Hopewell were dinner guests in the same home.

The Ladies Aid Society of the United Brethren Church of Newville will give their Annual Hallowe'en Masquerade Party at the Wallace Wasson home, Saturday evening. Pot luck supper will be served.

Fifteen guests assisted Joe Hull in celebrating his 67th birthday, Saturday evening. Joe served a lunch and games were played and an enjoyable time was spent together. This was not a surprise as Joe invited the guests to his party.

Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Mercer of Hicksville won the bible given away Sunday at the Hicksville Christian Church for having the largest family present, consisting of five girls and one boy. Mrs. Mercer will be remembered as Miss Agnes Shull, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Shull of east of town.

Chas. Cochran, wife and daughter, Mrs. Arietta Wilcox, and granddaughter, Carma Jean Wilcox, drove into Chicago, Saturday for the purpose of bringing home the Wilcox car, which has been there for several weeks undergoing repairs, as the result of a smashup at Ligonier. The car has been put in good shape again at an expense of $369. This was of course covered by insurance.

Mr. and Mrs. John Doll entertained Sunday the following guests: Mrs. Charles Hammer, sister of Mr. Doll, of Canton, O., Mrs. Minnie Shilling of New Erie, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Shilling of St. Joe, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Doll and daughter, Ruth Anna, Mr. and Mrs. Otis Fich and daughter, Elsie May and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Clark of Fort Wayne. On Monday Mr. and Mrs. Shilling entertained the same group, also Mr. and Mrs. John U. Koch and Mrs. Lela Northrup.

Ray C. Martin has filed suit in the DeKalb circuit court against Ida E. Chubb. The plaintiff states that on Sept. 14, 1920, the defendant and her husband, Simon W. Chubb, executed a note of $3,500 to the plaintiff, due in five years and secured by a mortgage on a farm in Stafford township. Simon Chubb is now dead. Ida Chubb in 1925 gave Dr. Wm. F. Shumaker a mortgage on the place for $287 and he assigned it to the Knisely Bros. & Co. bank. The bank is therefore made a party defendant. A judgment of $4,500 is asked against Mrs. Chubb together with an order foreclosing the mortgage.

A man may go usefully about his work minus a leg, an arm, an eye, his tonsils, appendix, gall bladder, one kidney, part of his lungs and brain and as much as twelve feet of his intestines. Dr. John F. Erdman of New York, is authority for the statement. He told the Interstate Post-graduate Medical Association that he number of organs a human being can afford to lose to the knife is steadily increasing due to better methods in surgery and increased knowledge of the functions of organs. Recent developments, he said, were operations on the heart, the removal of entire lobes of the lung and the removal of the gall.

SUNDAY SCHOOL REPORTS

The following is the report of Sunday schools in this vicinity for last Sunday, according to information sent The News by representatives of the schools reported.

Coburntown	47	$3.50
M. P.	41	$2.95

ATWATER KENT RADIO

The World's Most Famous Radio has made a reduction in price such that the entire radio world is taking notice of it. Without question this is the most remarkable achievement in the entire radio industry to date.

Below we quote you the new and old prices to show the amount of the reduction on the models carried:

	Old	New
Model 35	$65.00	$49.00
Model 30	80.00	65.00
Model 33	90.00	75.00
Model 32, 7 tube	110.00	90.00
Model L, Speaker	16.00	12.50
Model E, Speaker	30.00	24.00

Machines are in operation at St. Joe Garage, also drop me card for other information desired about any of the models.

Kenneth Meek

SPENCERVILLE ——— ST. JOE

We Buy CLOVER SEED!
Bring Your SEEDS to Us
WE WILL PAY YOU HIGHEST MARKET PRICES

NATHAN Grain Co.
St. Joe's New Lumber Yard
Call By Phone for Prices Bert Jackson, Mgr.

DAY-FAN
RADIO RECEIVERS
This year you can have the famous radio used by great broadcasting stations in six tube models all the way from $65.00 up. If you don't want to use batteries, Day-Fan has two different light-socket models — one using AC tubes, one using the entirely new discovery in radio of a motor and generator. This set is a marvel. Before you buy a radio —before you change from your old set to anything else —come in and hear Day-Fan!
DAY FAN SERVES THE WORLD
HORNER'S DRUG STORE, Butler.

OCTOBER

L 915 U596

SPENCERVILLE

Ralph Beams had an operation for the removal of his tonsils last week.

Miss Venus Beerbower was a Saturday guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Knaak.

The Parent-Teacher Club will meet on Friday evening at the high school building.

Glenn Higgins, wife and family of Harlan, were Sunday guests in the Floyd Higgins home.

The Young Ladies Social Club will meet on Saturday evening with Miss Bina Zimmerman.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Beam spent Sunday with Ralph Timbrook and family of near Hicksville.

Have your glasses fitted by Benj. F. Griest, Eyesight Specialist, Office in American Bldg., Hicksville, Ohio. 28tf.

Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Beams and family were Sunday guests in the W. F. Rhoades home at Fort Wayne.

Roy Harper and family and James Reed and wife called at the J. S. Hollabaugh home Sunday afternoon.

The Annual Guest Day of the Methodist Church will be observed on Friday afternoon at the new parsonage.

Thomas McNamara and wife spent Sunday the guests of their son, Art McNamara and family of near Hopewell.

Mrs. Alice Zimmerman and daughter were guests several days last week of Mr. and Mrs. Vern Wilmot at Fort Wayne.

A Missionary Group meeting will be held on Thursday at the Forest Park Church in Fort Wayne. Pot luck dinner.

Raymond Bowser, wife and children and Theodore Garstka of LaOtto were Monday dinner guests in the James Reed home.

The Epworth League will entertain their members and friends at a Hallowe'en party at the old parsonage on Saturday night.

Mrs. Emila Gloyd and sons and Miss Irene Webb motored to Andrews, Ind., on Sunday and visited with Fred Osborne and family.

Raymond and Frank E. Rhoads, accompanied by their wives, returned home Monday after spending several days visiting in Illinois.

Mrs. Ruth Knaak very pleasantly entertained the C. C. Club at a Hallowe'en party at her home on Monday night. A good time is reported.

Miss Doris Beams, who is attending college at Muncie, Ind., spent the week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Beams and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Joel Betz, Mrs. Hazel Steward and children and Mrs. Ada Berry were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Betz at St. Joe.

Rev. Roy S. Brown, wife and daughters and Elmer Ditmer and wife of LaOtto, were Sunday dinner guests of Prof. A. J. Smith and family.

William Allen and family, Mrs. Emma Keyes and Vaughn Allen, wife and baby, were the Sunday guests of Raymond Randall and family at Auburn.

R. F. Moffet and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Rodefer of Auburn, P. H. Adams and wife of Fort Wayne and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Baltz and children were Sunday evening guests in the home of Mrs. Jacob Baltz.

The Epworth League of the M. E. Church will begin their new study book Thursday evening. The Woman's Home Missionary Society will study with them this year as both will study the same book.

The following committee was named on Sunday as a cabinet for the M. E. Sunday School: Mrs. Sudie Howey, Mrs. Ethel Bowser, Mrs. Gertie Smith, Ray Farver, Mrs. Cleo Reed, M. H. Howey and W. L. Smith.

The Cheerful Workers class of the Methodist Sunday School met on Friday afternoon with Mrs. Cora Steward. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Lipe south of town and will be an all day meeting with pot luck dinner.

Joseph Koch took a wrecked car into custody Saturday night at the Nute Henderson Corners, just east of Hurshtown. The car turned over at this corner and the occupants fled. The card in the car gave a Huntington address and Joe got in touch with police but they knew nothing of the theft. Later, Sunday the police called to hold the car and the owners came after it.

NEWVILLE

Arlene, the 10 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floy Beree, has been quite poorly the past week. An abscess on one of her legs makes it difficult for her to attend school.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Wyatt and Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Miller, visited relatives at Grover Hill, Ohio on Wednesday

Mrs. Minnie Tarney of Fort Wayne and sons, Cecil, Marshall and Ned, were guests of A. T. Benner and family from Friday until Sunday afternoon.

C. O. Tarney of Fort Wayne is boarding with his daughter, Mrs. Fern Benner and working on the road near Hamilton.

Mrs. J. H. Benner, while visiting in Ohio, met with an automobile accident and had to spend a couple of days in the hospital. She has recovered and returned home.

Mack Hatch has rented Byron Miller's garage and does auto repairing.

With the Churches

ST. JOE M. P. CHURCH

Mrs. Hattie Widney, Supt.
Sunday School, 9:30 A. M.
Rally Day.
Thursday evening at 7:30 a business meeting.
First Quarterly Conference Saturday evening, 7:30.

CONCORD M. P. CHURCH

George Johnson, Supt.
Sunday school 9:30 A. M.
Christian Endeavor, 6:30.
Preaching service 7:00 o'clock.
J. F. McKnight, Pastor.

EVANGELICAL LUTHERAN CHURCHES

"Prepare ye the way of the Lord." Isa. 4: 3.

Apathy is a valley to be raised. There are thousands of professors of religion, who, though not inattentive, are yet so sluggish in disposition that they put forth little effort in the cause of God. Begin upon yourself.

"The flesh desires ease and thus comes into collision with the Spirit, which requires us to fight the good fight of faith." Heb. 12: 1-2.

ST. JOE

Sabbath Bible School at 9:30 A. M., Mr. Derwood Ridgway, Superintendent.
Vesper Service at 7:30 P. M.

SPENCERVILLE

Sabbath Bible School at 9:15 A. M., Mr. Ray Means, Superintendent.
Divine Service at 10:30 A. M.
Come and worship with us.
P. B. Roediger, Pastor.

CHURCH OF CHRIST

ST. JOE
Ed Storer, Supt.
Bible School, 9:30 A. M.
Lord's Supper, 10:45 A. M.
Sermon, 11:00 A. M.

NEWVILLE
Frank Lyons, Superintendent
Bible School, 10:00 A. M., sun time.
Lord's Supper, 11:00 A. M., sun time.
Sermon, 7:00 P. M.
R. S. Aldrich, Pastor.

Methodist Episcopal Church Spencerville

Sunday School, 9:00 A. M.—John Koch, Superintendent.
Epworth League, 6:00 P. M.
Preaching service alternating morning and evening with Scipio.

Jesus "as His custom was, went into the synagogue on the Sabbath day."

What is your Sunday custom?

What Jesus Means to Men
John 10: 10

"I am come that they might have life, and that they might have it more abundantly."

1. Jesus is for man a revelation of what God is and also what man is in the purpose of God. The youth begins to ask, What am I? and Why am I? Jesus is the only satisfactory answer.

2. Jesus is man's Savior from the guilt, dominion and corruption of sin to forgiveness, life and light in righteousness, and the cleanness of holiness.

Man has a consciousness of sin and a craving for peace with the Supreme power. Jesus is the answer.

3. Jesus if made man's master is also his friend. Every man chooses a master in life: for example, wealth, pleasure, pride, or business—all good assistants but hard taskmasters and not friends. Jesus—as Master is a good assistant and also a friend.

4. Youth wants life, not death; freedom, not restraint. Jesus gives both abundantly.

5. Age wants comfort for heartaches; retribution for losses; a staff to lean dependently upon. Jesus is to age all these and more.

6. Jesus is to man an inheritance.

(1) In the family of God, Jesus brings man to sonship.

(2) In the kingdom of God, through Jesus man becomes an heir; joint-heirs with Jesus to the throne of glory.

(3) In the work of God, man becomes a servant, and more than that—a friend of the King.

(4) In life with God, Jesus becomes man's surety for eternity.

What does Jesus mean to you?

Roy S. Brown, Pastor.

OBITUARY

Alice Virginia Michael Brunson was the daughter of Oliver and Mary Michael, was born in Ross County, Ohio, May 19, 1851. In 1876 she moved to Chicago, Ill., and while there was united in marriage to Aden Brunson, on September 30, 1876. To this union six children were born. All are living excepting one daughter and two sons who preceded her in death. Also the husband.

Forty years ago they moved to DeKalb County, Indiana, where she spent the remainder of her life. She departed this life on the farm three miles north of St. Joe on the eve of October 20, 1927.

She was a kind and good neighbor helping whenever she could when her health permitted. She was a believer in church and all things toward good. Being a kind and loving mother, often speaking her readiness to go.

She leaves to mourn her departure three sons, Ross, of Fort Wayne, Sterlin of Toledo, Ohio and Tom of St. Joe; nine grandchildren and two great grandchildren and a host of relatives and friends.

The funeral was conducted from the Christian Church, Newville, Sunday at 2:00 o'clock wth Rev. Aldrich, officiating. E. R. Kinsey was funeral director and interment was made at Newville.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our appreciation for the kind assistance given by our neighbors and friends and words of sympathy.

The Children.

ONE MORE

Snnett—Just because I held 13 spades four times in succession all seven of them thought I was cheating.

Grimshaw—And if I had been there eight would have thought that.

OPTOMETRY—ITS VALUE TO THE PUBLIC
By Ed W. Hicks, Optometrist and Optician

What should be kept in mind regarding the eyes?

They should be regarded as the most valuable possessions.

Their delicacy should be appreciated and proper care iven them.

They should not be overworked nor allowed to remain in a strained condition, but should get all the rest possible.

But most important of all, a person having the slightest reason to believe the eyes are in need of help should visit the Optometrist at the first opportunity.

(To be continued.)

ED. W. HICKS
AUBURN
"OUR SPECIALTY — COMFORTABLE VISION"

Russel R. Reidenour
ATTORNEY
Auburn, Ind.

SPENCERVILLE ANNOUNCES SCHEDULE

Spencerville high school announces the following basket ball schedule for the season of 1927-28.

November 4, Leo here.
November 11, Hamilton here.
November 18, St. Joe there.
November 25, Woodburn here.
December 2, Corunna there.
December 9, Open.
December 16, Woodburn there.
December 22, New Haven there.
December 31, Harlan there.
January 6, Leo here.
January 13, Corunna here.
January 20, LaOtto here.
January 27, County Tourney.
February 3, St. Joe here.
February 10, LaOtto there.
February 18, Harlan here.
February 24, Hamilton there.

AGED BUTLER COUPLE WEDS

Henry Sechler and Mrs. Elva Laub were married Sunday night at the home of the bride's daughter on Walnut St. Rev. Emma L. Isenberg, pastor of the Church of God officiated. There were about twenty-five guests present.

Mr. and Mrs. Sechler left Sunday night for Montpelier, O., for a short visit, and from there they went to Pennsylvania, for a visit of several weeks. They will then return to Butler and make this city their home.

The many friends of the couple wish them a long and prosperous life together.—Butler Record.

CHICAGO STOCK SHOW TO CLIMAX SEASON

Improved agricultural conditions, which have made this a record year for the local and state fairs, are expected to result in a great outpouring of stockmen and farmers and the products of their skill at the 28th anniversary celebration of the International Live Stock Exposition in Chicago from Nov. 26th to Dec. 3rd. The spirit of the Thansgiving season, aroused by the wonderful display of the bounties of nature, will be the keynote of this gathering, according to Secretary-Manager, B. H. Heide.

Over 11,000 of the finest beef cattle, horses, sheep and swine and 5,000 of the choicest samples of 22 crops of grains, small seeds and hay will take part in a thousand different contests for the highest honors of our basic industry. These animals will include the outstanding individuals of over 40 breeds of live stock which have proven the sensation of the recent fair circuits of the United States and Canada and others which are being fitted solely for the show-ring of the International.

DR. C. R. BAUMGARTNER
Veterinarian
Spencerville, Ind.
PHONES: 282--283.

We Do STATIONERY PRINTING on HAMMERMILL BOND

PHONE 290
Stanley P. Nelson Monuments
Opposite Woodlawn and Roselawn Cemeteries
AUBURN, IND.

Dr. E. T. Julian
M. D.
St. JOE
9:30 to 11:30 each forenoon at Dr. C. R. Price office.

Let Us Print Your Sale Bills

OUT OF THE PEPPER BOX

Parade: Twelve new cars coming up from the freight house, each driven by a would-be bad man too lazy to screech for himself.

Get into the habit of doing an honest day's work; it may save you from being elected to a political job.

If he speaks scornfully of the 'hick town,' you may know he lived in one till about fourteen months ago.

The Maxwell Street Philisopher says "Mix a little wit wit' your wisdom and th' dose is easier to take."

Statistics recently compiled show that it takes a heartbroken girl just a little less than thirty-three days to get ready for another smash.

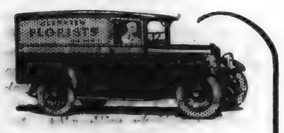
A hick town is one in which it's impossible to go to a place that isn't respectable.

The mice are never numerous around the cottage in which newly-weds are trying out that theory about living on love alone.

If the writers would tell the truth some books would end "They were divorced and lived hapily ever afterward."

for Economical Transportation
CHEVROLET

Two Trucks that lead the world in popularity



½ Ton Chassis Only $395 f. o. b. Flint, Mich.

1-Ton Chassis Only $495

1-Ton Truck Chassis with Cab $610
Prices f. o. b. Flint, Mich.

The number of Ton and ½-Ton trucks in use today is far greater than that of any other capacities—for these are the units used by thousands upon thousands of retail merchants to meet the requirements of modern delivery service.

And because Chevrolet offers the greatest value available in each of these two sizes—and because it offers the world's lowest ton-mile cost—both the Chevrolet Ton and ½-Ton trucks are leading the world in popularity.

Come in—and see for yourself what Chevrolet offers you in comparison with other haulage units. Then you'll know why Chevrolet is the world's largest builder of gear-shift trucks—with undisputed leadership in both the Ton and ½-Ton fields!

FURNISH TIRE & BATTERY SHOP, SPENCERVILLE, IND.
QUALITY AT LOW COST

MONEY Is Like the Water Of a RIVER

"Money is like the water of a river" a French historian has said. "If it suddenly floods, it devastates; divide it into a thousand channels where it circulates quietly and it brings life to every spot." Our present system of economic distribution, efficiently divides our national wealth into many channels. One of these channels is flowing into your purse. True, it may not be much more than a trickling stream, but it is there at your disposal.

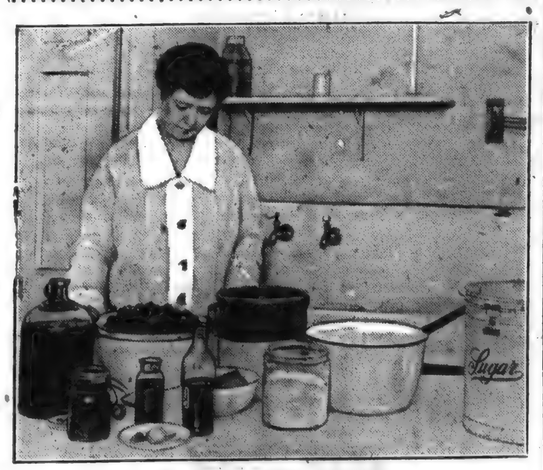
How are you handling it? Are you trying to irrigate a thousand acres with but enough to nourish one? Are you allowing it to dissipate itself in futile spending or are you utilizing its power for something really worth while? The members of the "Get Ahead Club" have built dams across their streams, and are controlling the flood gates in order to make every drop work. One outlet leads to a savings account. Some day it is going to be big enough to help its owner realize his most worthwhile dream. These people are getting ahead in the world.

Farmers' & Merchants State Bank
Spencerville, Ind.

OCTOBER

L 915 U597

Making Sweet Cucumber Pickles



Equipment for Making Pickles.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Dill pickles are used for making the sweet cucumber pickle described below. If you want to make the dill pickles first yourself, send to the United States Department of Agriculture for a copy of Farmers' Bulletin 1438-F, "Making Fermented Pickles." Otherwise use any good, firm dill pickles.

50 firm dill pickles
12 peeled garlic buttons
4 pints cider vinegar
1 pint tarragon vinegar
¼ cupful whole allspice
¼ cupful whole black pepper, or 6 hot red pepper pods
10 pounds granulated sugar
1 pound brown sugar
1 cupful olive oil

Cut pickles in cross slices one-half inch thick, and drain in a colander overnight. In a three-gallon stone crock (with lid) pack the pickles in layers, using two garlic buttons to each layer. Boil together the vinegar, sugar, and spices for 15 minutes, watching carefully that this does not boil over, and pour at once over the pickles. Next morning stir in the olive oil. Stir the pickle well each day for ten days. It is then ready to serve.

Good Things to Eat

By NELLIE MAXWELL

Three things to wish for—health, friends and a loving spirit.
There are three things really worth while—
To be good, do good and always smile.

We are so busy with putting up fruits for winter that we miss much of the joy of the riotous colors of fruit as it hangs from the trees. Following the luscious berries of summer come the delicious autumn fruits, the late peaches, pears, melons, plums and grapes, and the melting sweetness of the cantaloupe, making a group of color unrivaled and flavor unequaled.

As a salad there is nothing more attractive in color or better in flavor than good ripe pears, peeled and cut into sections and arranged on lettuce with the same sized sections of ripe peeled tomato. Serve with any well-liked salad dressing.

Pears Gateau.—Wash six ripe pears, remove the blossom and scoop out the core. Make a rich sirup to which add the juice and some of the grated rind of a lemon. Cook the pears without destroying the shape, lift out and cool and fill the cavities with chopped figs, walnut meats and a pinch of salt to each. Set on ice and when serving time comes cut out squares or rounds of sponge cake, scoop out the centers and set a pear on each piece. Pour the sirup over them and serve.

Grape Dessert.—Soften two tablespoonfuls of gelatin in cold water. Add one and one-half cupfuls of sugar to one pint of grape juice (fresh), add the juice of two lemons, strain and add the gelatin. Set the basin containing the mixture into a dish of crushed ice, stir until it thickens, then add the stiffly beaten whites of four eggs. Fill chilled glasses two-thirds full and pile sweetened whipped cream on top.

Pears With Cheesecake Cream.—Pare and core firm ripe pears cut into halves. Hollow out the pear, leaving a rim a half-inch thick and deep. Have ready some chocolate ice cream scooped in a small cone. Fill the hollowed pears and serve at once.

Devilled Nuts.—Blanch almonds or use pecans or walnuts. Place in a hot frying pat with a tablespoonful of olive oil. Stir until well browned, adding salt and cayenne at the last of the cooking. Pour out on a cloth and drain well of all oil.

Potato Salad.—This is a good salad for picnics as it carries better than many fruit or other vegetable salads. It may be made as elaborate or simple as one's taste and purse allow. One thing to remember in making potato salad is to cut the potatoes into small cubes, remembering that it is necessary in order to be well seasoned that the dressing is added early and allowed to stand to marinate. Such vegetables as cucumbers may be cubed and added but a short time before the salad is to be served. Take potatoes which have been cooked in their jackets. To a pint of potato add a half cupful of celery, one small onion finely minced and a good cupful of thick dressing. Season well and let stand for several hours. A cucumber added at the last with a handful of shredded almonds that have been blanched adds to such a salad. One may mix the salad, adding French dressing and all the seasonings, then add the thick dressing when the cucumber is added. The important thing is to have the potato well seasoned through. There is nothing more unpalatable than cold plain potato.

Macedoine Salad.—Take one cupful each of cooked carrots, cooked potato balls and string beans, two tablespoonfuls of minced parsley, one cupful of turnip balls also cooked. Marinate with a good French dressing arrange in sections on lettuce and sprinkle the minced parsley over all.

When one is spending a day or more it is wise to carry a heavy sheet iron stove; one may be easily improvised. Over a hot bed of coals, cakes, bacon, steak or other foods may be cooked.

Such foods as cakes, pies, bread, potatoes and hot cakes should never make up more than half the menu. Young and old should eat spinach, chard, cabbage, carrots, lettuce, turnips, onions, apples, pears, oranges, grapefruit and all berries in season.

(©, 1937, Western Newspaper Union.)

An Evening Story for Children

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

"I'm so willing," said Mrs. Cow. "It's just the way I feel. I'm willing to do anything.

"Now I have had a happy summer and a happy autumn. I've loved the air and I've loved the fields and I've loved the brooks and I've enjoyed the sky and I've liked the trees—and, in general, I've liked it all.

"But I'm willing to spend most of my time in the barn now. I don't mind.

"Of course, when the spring comes I will be glad to go out again, but I don't mind anything so very much.

"There are times when I get excited and when I get angry. Oh, some people make the great mistake of thinking a cow never gets angry.

"Yes, indeed, we have lots of spirit, we cows.

"But I don't get excited often.

"It's so much nicer to be pleasant.

"I've had such a good example set me, or a good example has been before me, or however you would express it.

"I've never been to school, and I'm no home or field or barn student.

"But, anyway, the point is that I have heard from time to time of a person who draws most handsome and becoming and complimentary pictures of me and yet finds it a great nuisance and bother and hardship to draw cows.

"She says there is something quite awkward about drawing cows. And then she must make her pictures small and we're anything but small.

"But still she does the most lovely

"I Prefer Summer."

pictures of me and of my family that ever could be.

"And I am so pleased and so grateful that I say to myself:

"'Now, Mrs. Cow, if an artist can do something so willingly, surely you, who are merely a cow, can be willing, too.'

"That is the way I talk to myself, and so I am always so willing.

"That is why you will not hear me complaining whether it is summer or winter, spring or fall.

"I prefer summer to any other season.

"Well, that is all right. The artist adores drawing fairies and the moon and the sun and all sorts of things. An artist or a cow can like some things more than others.

"But both the artist and the cow have good dispositions and sweet natures.

"Now, before going into the barn, I think I'll sing myself a little song."

So Mrs. Cow began, and this was her song:

Moo, moo, moo,
You, you, you
Aren't a cow.

Moo, moo, moo,
You, you, you
Are an artist.

Moo moo, moo,
I, I, I
Am a cow.

Moo, moo, moo,
I, I, I
Am no artist.

"Ah," continued Mrs. Cow, "that's not much of a song, but then I'm a good-natured cow. I don't mind if it isn't so good.

"There is comfort in being a cow, and in not being too fussy!"

(©, 1937, Western Newspaper Union.)

KITCHEN ARRANGEMENT WORTH CONSIDERATION

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

In the ideal kitchen arrangement the equipment is placed so that one moves with the fewest possible steps from one task to the next. There will be a definite center for each type of work—a food preparation center, a cooking center, a service center, and a clear-away and dishwashing center. To some extent these centers may coincide or be placed very near each other. For example, the food preparation center must be fairly close to the sink, which is the main piece of equipment in the dishwashing center.

One of the best ways to arrange a kitchen so that these various requirements will be met is to plan a pass closet in the wall between the kitchen and dining room in such a way that the sink is at right angles to it on the outer wall of the kitchen, so there can be plenty of light from a window either directly over or very near. The pass closet will have shelves for dishes, which can be put away as fast as they are washed, to be taken out on the dining-room side. It will have a counter below the shelves, and thus become part of the cooking center, with the stove next to this counter so that the housewife can stand practically in one spot to handle foods as they are made ready to go into the oven, or as they are taken from it.

The illustration, which was made by the United States Department of Agriculture, shows how easily this arrangement can be carried out in a relatively small space.

Homemade Candy—How to Make It

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Here are two recipes for homemade candies that can be tried at the next candy pull given by your young people. The United States Department of Agriculture supplies the recipes.

Peanut Brittle.

1 cup white corn sirup
1 tablespoon vinegar
¼ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup freshly roasted peanuts halved

Cook the corn sirup, vinegar and salt in a saucepan until a little dropped in cold water forms a soft ball. Put the peanuts and this sirup into an iron skillet and stir until the sirup becomes a golden brown. Remove from the fire and stir in the vanilla. Have ready a shallow buttered pan, pour candy in and spread out in a thin sheet. Allow to cool, then remove from pan and crack into pieces.

Nut-Coated Marshmallows.

1 cup blanched almonds
1 cup pecan kernels
1 cup English walnut kernels
1½ teaspoons salt
2 cups medium brown sugar
2-3 cup water
1½ pound, or 12½ fresh soft marshmallows

Chop the nuts very fine, and shake through a sieve to get the pieces uniform. Add the salt to the chopped nuts and stir well.

Make a sirup of the brown sugar and water, boiling it to 108 degrees C., or 226 degrees F. If no thermometer is available the sirup should be boiled till it "threads" from the spoon; but this method of determining the right moment to take it off the fire is not so accurate or satisfactory. Remove the saucepan from the flame when the temperature of 108 degrees C., or 226 degrees F. is reached, and set in a larger vessel of hot water. At once drop the marshmallows one by one into the hot sirup, using forks to handle them. Remove promptly, and roll at once in the chopped nuts. Place on oiled paper to dry. If the sirup gets so cool that it begins to harden, place it over the flame to reheat, but do not allow it to come to a boil.

If there is a coating of loose starch or powdered sugar on the marshmallows brush or shake it off before dipping them into the sirup.

Cookies Are Always Liked by Children

When oatmeal is used in place of part of the flour in making cookies, it gives them a particularly good, nutty taste. Cinnamon flavor and raisins make oatmeal cookies especially acceptable to the children. These cookies are easily made and wholesome, says the United States Department of Agriculture.

Oatmeal Drop Cookies.

½ cupful shortening
1 cupful sugar
½ cupful milk
1 cupful raisins
½ cupful chopped nut meats
1½ cupfuls fine oatmeal
1½ cupfuls flour
1 egg
½ teaspoonful salt
2 teaspoonfuls cinnamon
½ teaspoonful soda dissolved in 1 teaspoonful water

Cream the butter and sugar, and add the beaten egg. Sift the dry ingredients, except the oatmeal, together and add with the milk to the egg, sugar, and butter mixture. Add the soda which has been dissolved in the water, and then the oatmeal which has been mixed with the nuts and raisins. Mix well. Drop by teaspoonfuls onto a greased baking sheet and bake to a golden brown in a fairly hot oven. Remove from the pan while hot.

The Invitation

Andrew Soutar, the English novelist, was praising the modern American girl.

"She is as piquant as she looks," he said. "At Atlantic City a modern girl from the West was sitting out at a dance with a young man behind a clump of palms. She said to him as he puffed at his cigarette:

"'I love your cigarette holder.'

"'But,' said he, 'I never use one.'

"Then the girl said softly:

"'Don't be so dense.'"—Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph.

Fur Trimmed Coats for Children

By JULIA BOTTOMLEY

IT IS immensely flattering to the vanity of wee tots when they discover that their little coats or frocks are of the same material or are perhaps trimmed "just like mother's." In respect to this like-mother-like-child idea there is a fund of joy in prospect for youngsters, for even to a greater degree than heretofore stylists are making it a point to create children's fashions which amusingly reflect the style tendencies of their elders.

Little folks' coats for autumn and the coming winter especially repeat certain style-points as featured in modes for grown-ups. That same enthusiasm which reigns in the realm of the older generation for fur trimmings on tweeds and plaids for sports and on fine suede cloth or velvet for dressy wear is being repeated in childhood's domain.

Cunningest of fur coats, too, accent the trend toward sophisticated styling for the young. Fashion seers foresee such imposing furs for tiny tots as a coat of leopard cat collared and cuffed with beaver, or perhaps, for an eight-year-old, a quaint model of spotted calfskin with contrasting fur at neck and wrists, and a belt of red leather. A slightly older girl will be donning a coat of nutria fur, cut double-breasted and with a shawl collar of the same fur, belted with snakeskin, if you please. Surely mother and big sister will have to be "going some" if they expect to make a better record than wee daughter this season in the matter of smart wraps.

As to coats of cloth, suede-finished fabrics are being high-lighted by the mode, for either adult or juvenile wear. For older folks black, the new browns, and becoming wine shades are outstanding, but for tots fascinating dainty colors are added to the list.

The attractive coat in the picture is of French blue suede cloth. Note that its fullness flares from a yoke, which is a favorite styling for the children. One of the outstanding messages flashed from Paris is the coming vogue for beaver collars and cuffs on woolen clothings. For the wee coat in the picture the beaver is used in twin bandings on the chin collar and also to trim the sleeves.

(©, 1937, Western Newspaper Union.)

French Restaurants

The reason there are so many small restaurants in Paris where the food is of such high quality is because often father is the chef, mother is at the cash desk and the rest of the family waits table, says the Nation's Business.

Granting the superiority of French cooking in itself, it is made infinitely more appealing by the fact that the art is less commercialized than elsewhere. Numbers of great restaurants there are, of course, run on purely business lines, but there are hundreds of good eating places where the owner counts as part of his reward the joy of cooking.

"You Need a Diuretic!"

To Be Well There Must Be Proper Kidney Function.

THE kidneys are the blood filters. If their action becomes sluggish they do not thoroughly cleanse the blood of poisonous wastes. Such impurities make one dull, tired and achy with often nagging backache, drowsy headaches and dizziness. A common warning of imperfect kidney action is scanty or burning excretions.

Doan's Pills, stimulant diuretic, aid the kidneys in their eliminative work. 50,000 users have publicly recommended Doan's. Ask your neighbor!

DOAN'S PILLS 60c
STIMULANT DIURETIC FOR KIDNEYS
Foster-Milburn Co. Mfg. Chems. Buffalo, N.Y.

Coughs and Colds

are not only annoying, but dangerous. If not attended to at once they may develop into serious ailment.

Boschee's Syrup

is soothing and healing in such cases, and has been used for sixty-one years. 30c and 90c bottles. Buy it at your drug store. G. G. Green, Inc., Woodbury, N. J.

Everlasting Obstacle

They work in the same establishment downtown and met in one of the aisles a morning or two ago.

"Hello, Mame."

"G'morning, Bess."

"Say, Mame I thought you were going to be married this summer."

"We were, but Charley thought we'd better wait until I got another raise."—Indianapolis News.

The prices of cotton and linen have been doubled by the war. Lengthen their service by using Russ Bleaching blue in the laundry. All grocers.—Adv.

Farmer's Time Saved

Statisticians estimate that a bushel of wheat can now be raised with the expenditure of but ten minutes of the farmer's time, as compared with three hours and three minutes in 1850.

Many a man who believes that the earth revolves on its axis also believes that he is the axis.

The BABY

No mother in this enlightened age would give her baby something she did not know was perfectly harmless, especially when a few drops of plain Castoria will right a baby's stomach and end almost any little ill. Fretfulness and fever, too; it seems no time until everything is serene.

That's the beauty of Castoria; its gentle influence seems just what is needed. It does all that castor oil might accomplish, without shock to the system. Without the evil taste. It's delicious! Being purely vegetable, you can give it as often as there's a sign of colic; constipation; diarrhea; or need to aid sound, natural sleep.

Just one warning; it is genuine Fletcher's Castoria that physicians recommend. Other preparations may be just as free from all doubtful drugs, but no child of this writer's is going to test them! Besides, the book on care and feeding of babies that comes with Fletcher's Castoria is worth its weight in gold.

Children Cry for Fletcher's CASTORIA

Callouses
Quick, safe, sure relief from painful callouses on the feet. At all drug and shoe stores
Dr Scholl's Zino-pads
Put one on—the pain is gone

OCTOBER

L 915 U598

Permanent value with OAK FLOORS

Your home will be more valuable for rental or sale with beautiful, permanent Oak floors. Write for free descriptive literature.

OAK FLOORING BUREAU
1793 Builders' Building CHICAGO

Wise Bluejay

Mrs. Kate Holden of Memphis tells Nature Magazine she was puzzled by the antics of a bluejay flying madly among the branches of a wide-spreading elm. She discovered the wise bird was taking advantage of a heavy dew the night before and busily knocking the moisture off the leaves and onto its wings, thus taking its morning bath.

The Explanation

"What makes petrified trees?"

"'Tis said the wind makes them rock."

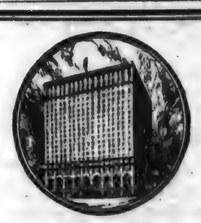
Life is a game of promise and take.

Keep Your Butter Uniform and Hold Your Customers

Don't wait for your customers to complain about the variable color of your butter. Keep your butter that golden June color everybody likes by putting a few drops of Dandelion Butter Color into the churn. It is purely vegetable, wholesome and absolutely tasteless. It meets all State and National Food laws. All large creameries have used Dandelion Butter Color for years. It does not color buttermilk. You can get the large bottles for 35c from all drug or grocery stores.

Send for FREE Sample

Wells & Richardson Co., Inc.
Burlington, Vermont



Larger Guest Rooms
and Luxury That Is Homelike

The much larger, brighter, more airy rooms, the color and vivacity of exquisitely appointed lounges and galleries, and the excellence of a cuisine that transcends perfection will, indeed, make your Detroit visit a memorable one.

Charges are so reasonable that good judgment must approve.

700 Large Rooms with Bath
85% are priced from $3.00 to $5.00

DETROIT-LELAND HOTEL

Bagley at Cass Detroit, Michigan
(A few steps from the Michigan Theater)

WM. J. CHITTENDEN, Jr., Manager

Direction Statler-Leland Corporation

LARGER SAMPLE ROOMS FROM $4.00 TO $8.00 PER DAY

Feel Dizzy?

Headachy, bilious, constipated? Take NR—Nature's Remedy—tonight. This mild, safe, vegetable remedy will have you feeling fine by morning. You'll enjoy free, thorough bowel action without a sign of griping or discomfort.

Make the test tonight—

NR TO-NIGHT

At Druggists—only 25c

PASTOR KOENIG'S NERVINE

for Epilepsy Nervousness & Sleeplessness

PROCURABLE AT YOUR DRUG STORE

KOENIG MEDICINE CO.
1045 N. WELLS ST. CHICAGO, ILL.

For Barbed Wire Cuts

Try HANFORD'S

Balsam of Myrrh

All dealers are authorized to refund your money for the first bottle if not suited.

FROM ANDANTE TO ALLEGRO

(© by D. J. Walsh.)

A FRESH joyous voice came up the stairway.

"I'm ready grandmother!"

Sally Runnels pinned on her hat with fingers trembling slightly from haste. She did not have time to look in the glass.

"Look out! Don't catch your toe!" The warning smote her as she was descending the stairs. Warnings always smote her and made her do the very things she was warned not to do. In this instance she did catch her toe, but Sara with a spring caught her. "I told you to be careful," said Sara.

"Are we going to walk?" Sally asked.

Sara shook her head.

"Too cold. You'd freeze. I ordered a cab."

Sally sighed. She had been in the house for three days, nothing to go out for until today, and it seemed to her that a little walk in the bracing air would not hurt her.

Sara was leading the way to the cab and Sally followed reluctantly. She was popped in and the door shut upon her.

"Aren't you coming, too, Sara?" she shouted to make herself heard above the roaring engine.

Sara shook her head.

"No, I'm going to walk."

Sally looked wistfully after the brilliant young figure. It did not seem so long since she was another Sara and here she was shut up in a padded box which smelled of stale perfume and cigar smoke while Sara, free and blithe, enjoyed the fresh air and sunshine.

She was old and yet the heart of her was young. It must be, else the sunshine would not have looked so golden, the sky so blue or the breeze sounded so like a carillon of silver bells calling to joyful activity. The sights of the streets charmed her, although she could only peer at them through the dusty glass. And then there was the heart-stirring fact that she was going downtown to shop—to get herself an entire new wardrobe. Wasn't this enough to turn the andante movement of old age into the lively allegro vivace of youth?

The cab drew up before the motor entrance of Blandon's department store and Sally, with the help of the chauffeur, emerged. She went in and sat down to wait for Sara. There was a mirror opposite which gave back the gentle, gray reflection of herself in a gloomy little black hat and coat. Once she had been a beauty in the days when Sam Runnels wooed her, taking his chance with a dozen others. She became Sally Runnels with the accent on the last syllable and an added letter. And Sara had no beaux at all, perhaps there weren't so many men nowadays. Goodness knows, there were enough and to spare when she was young.

Sara appeared slightly breathless, but earnestly businesslike.

"Now, grandmother, we'll start in with your dress and match everything to it," she said.

In the softly carpeted, softly lighted and many mirrored place of a thousand gowns Sally waited with sinking heart while Sara appraised and selected.

"Something plain for grandmother—and quiet—and rich," she said. And soon Sally found herself trying on such a dress, which was so much like her old one that she saw no difference. She longed for color with that warm feeling in her heart. Why must she wear black? Sam had been gone some twenty years. He wouldn't care.

"The very thing," Sara decided. "Eh, grandmother?"

Sally murmured something.

"Hats next," said the capable Sara glancing at her platinum wrist watch. "Hope we'll get through with this so I can join Betty Archer at the Plaza for lunch. "I'll send you home in the cab grandmother."

Before the leaved mirror Sally was seated while Sara and a deft saleswoman fitted her with a hat which was new but scarcely different otherwise from the old one.

"I—I am tired of jet ornaments," she tried to say.

"Nothing better for you with your dark eyes and white hair," declared Sara.

So the hat was purchased. And after that came a coat, rich and soft and somber. Sally paid the bill. That was the one privilege left to her when it came to buying an outfit. She could pay for the things herself. Sam had left her quite independent of her sons and daughters and well provided for.

Toward the last Sara hurried a little. She kept glancing at her watch impatiently.

"I'll put you in your cab, grandmother," she said, "then I'll race to the Plaza. Your things will be sent up right away. Hope you won't feel too tired."

A faint tinge of indignation appeared in Sally's cheeks.

"I am not tired at all," she said. Sara helped her into the cab, smiled, blew a kiss and was gone to her luncheon. And the cab started back toward Washington avenue. Sally, bobbing alone on the seat, thought of the black hat and gown and coat which would presently be delivered to her. Tomorrow she would appear in them at church, but aside from a slightly uncomfortable feel about the new things she would not know they were new and neither would anybody else.

The cab stopped suddenly. They were in a pocket and traffic was at a standstill.

The cab door opened and a boy thrust a bunch of blossoms from the basketful upon his arms in upon the little old lady.

"Arbutus, lady?" he cried.

"Arbutus!" Sally leaned forward to take the flowers from him. The delicious fragrance and rosiness brought a smile to her lips, a sparkle to her eyes. She fumbled in her bag, found a bill and gave it to the boy, shaking her head at his "Change, lady?" She had given him two dollars—but no matter. The flowers were worth it.

Pressing the bouquet to her face she breathed deeply of the enticing spirit of the season. She knew how the flowers grew, she had hunted them in her youth. Sam had given her a basketful once when he was courting her. Pink! She loved it. Oh, the hats she had smothered with pink roses! The frocks she had like rosy clouds! Sam had loved pink and delighted in her wearing it. She had had none since he died.

"Take off that old dead crow!" She fairly jumped as if he had spoken in her ear. Yes, that was what he would have called this hat she was wearing—and that other one which she would have to wear.

Traffic was moving, the chauffeur was reaching for his gear-shift. Sally leaned forward and spoke loudly!

"Take me back to Blandon's please."

He took her back.

Next morning a little old lady walked happily and gracefully into St. Paul's church to hear the sermon. She wore a black hat wreathed with pink flowers demurely misted with lace, she wore a lavender gown and she wore a smile of almost girlish satisfaction.

If Sam could only see her!

Bishop's Best Efforts Didn't Please Critic

George Doran, the publisher, was talking about a book which a critic had roasted.

"The critic knew the author, they were critics together," he said, "and familiarity breeds contempt. It's like the story of Bill Stroud.

"A bishop, you know, was fishing in Pike county, and Bill Stroud was his guide. Bill, impressed with the bishop's skill, asked him carelessly one day what he did for a living.

"'I preach,' said the bishop.

"'Gnaw,' said Bill. 'Gnaw. Come awf.'

"'Yes, that's right. I'm a preacher.'

"'Gnaw!'

"Well, the upshot of it was that the bishop, nettled by Bill's incredulity, specially invited the guide to come to New York to hear one of his sermons. Bill went.

"The occasion was, of course, a big one, for bishops don't preach at ordinary times, as everybody knows. The church was decorated with palms and flowers. The music was superb. And the bishop in his lawn sleeves preached his very best, his eye every now and then seeking out Bill Stroud, who sat stiff and silent and cold in a front pew.

"At the end of the service the bishop hurried down the aisle, and, brushing millionaire after millionaire out of the way, he shook Bill's hard, sunburnt hand eagerly.

"'Bill,' he said, 'Bill, old man, what do you think of me as a preacher?'

"'Wall, friend,' said Bill, with an embarrassed laugh, 'I ain't no jedge of this kind o' thing, but I sot the show through the best I knowed how and if my jedgment is worth anything to you, I'd say Providence intended ye fur the backwoods.'"

Advantage of Affliction

Do not fear the furnace of affliction. No man ever goes through the fire and keeps himself unmoved. The flames have a purifying effect. In the moment that looks darkest, when clouds hang heavily, when there is no fragrance of flowers, and the sympathy of life turns to a dismal dirge of despair, forget not that it takes the hottest fire to refine the purest gold. It requires the strongest pressure upon iron to produce the strongest steel. In the hour when things seem to be worst for you, it may be you are building your purest happiness. If you refuse to be crushed by adversity, or let any events in the external world disturb your own tranquillity of mind, you have already found the key to the garden of happiness. The bluebird awaits you.—Dr. Henry Knight Miller, in Psychology Magazine.

Women Study Butchering

How to handle the cleaver and the saw is being taught in the new butchering course for women being given at Smithfield school of London. When the fair sex was admitted to the course that was thought to be attractive only to men, the response was beyond expectation. The young women are becoming adept in the work and enjoy their studies. The course includes instruction in the anatomy of the animals we eat, in refrigeration and preservation, and in modern butcher shop sanitation.

Generous Farm "Help"

Arthur Hohac, a Minnesota farmer, hid behind a tree while two strangers industriously dug his potato crop. He said nothing until they had the tubers sacked. He then hailed them from behind a gun. As police led the men away to jail Hohac made ready to place his crop on the market.

POULTRY

MILK FEEDING IS CONSIDERED GOOD

Most milk feeding of poultry is considered a good thing and a money-maker if people have a little time in the fall, and are close enough to a town where the hotels or meat markets will buy the fowls at a special price. These people plan to have the springs and younger cockerels grow up with good-sized bones, and usually feed them up a few weeks before Thanksgiving. Young birds weighing from 3½ to 4½ pounds are the best, as they make tender meat and take on flesh quickly.

Pen fattening is the best way of feeding them on the farm. The birds are placed in a coop where they will not exercise much, and the change in food is made gradually for two or three days. The following ration is recommended as giving good results:

2 pounds ground corn
1 pound ground whole oats
1 pound flour middlings
8 pounds liquid buttermilk

This is mixed just before each meal, using skim milk if there is no buttermilk available. When fed it looks like pancake batter. Feed in troughs twice each day, and leave only enough before them so that they will clean it up in ten minutes for the first few days. If they are not hungry, do not force the feeding. It takes about eight pounds of feed for one pound of gain per chicken in fourteen days. Sometimes it pays to stop in ten to twelve days, if they are not gaining rapidly enough.

Grain Ration Valuable for Fattening Turkeys

Some turkey raisers feed equal parts of wheat and oats during the first part of the fattening season, gradually changing to corn as the weather becomes cooler. The common practice, however, is to begin feeding heavily on corn about November, and since turkeys are not accustomed to such heavy feeding, scours often result, especially if new corn is used. This practice of a sudden start with heavy feeding is to be discouraged. Old corn is a much better feed than new corn, but the old corn must be free from mustiness.

The best results in fattening are obtained when a grain ration of oats, wheat and corn is provided. A number of growers have tried fattening turkeys by confining them to small enclosures during the process, but with very little success. Turkeys confined to a pen usually will eat heartily for two or three days, but afterwards lose their appetites, and, consequently, begin to lose flesh rapidly. On allowing them free range again, they pick up rapidly and are soon eating as heartily as ever, which seems to indicate that a certain amount of range is necessary to keep them in a good, healthy condition so that they are always eager to be fed.

Find Hostess to Pests Makes Poor Egg Layer

A hen cannot feed worms and lay eggs. Poultry infested with worms are thin, droopy and emaciated and walk with an abnormal and stilted gait. On examination four kinds of worms may be found. They are: Large and small round worms, long tapeworms and nodular tapeworms, G. S. Vickers, poultry specialist at the Ohio State university, says.

All of them live in the intestinal tract of the hen. Treatment suggested for round worms is nicotine sulphate. If the hens are heavily infested it is recommended that each bird receive a nicotine sulphate capsule. In other cases 2 per cent of tobacco dust in the dry mash for a month is satisfactory. This should be repeated every other month.

Kamala is the most satisfactory treatment for tapeworms yet discovered. The University of Wisconsin recommends half-gram capsules for individual treatment. Birds weighing a half to one pound should be given one capsule, those weighing one to two pounds two capsules, three capsules to those over two pounds.

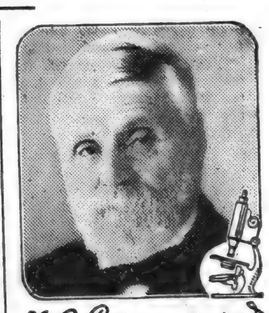
High Protein Feed

Meat meal or meat scraps are high protein feeds and are found in most chick mashes or laying mashes. They are used in connection with dried buttermilk in many feeds to furnish the animal protein which is lacking in grains. Experiments have shown that chicks or laying hens do better when supplied with animal protein to balance up the protein and other ingredients found in grains. Be sure that these products are all clean, fresh and sweet.

Keep Roosters in Jar

Male birds running with the poultry flock will keep the eggs fertile, but the fertile eggs will not keep. The hens will lay just as many eggs if there are no male birds running around. Excepting in cases where high priced male birds have been purchased to use this past season in the flock, it will be cheaper to dispose of all the male birds than to feed them until the next breeding season. One of the best ways to handle them is to can them.

Doctor Found Women and Children Sick More Often than Men



W. B. Caldwell M.D.
AT AGE 83

As a family doctor at Monticello, Illinois, the whole human body, not any small part of it, was Dr. Caldwell's practice. More than half his "calls" were on women, children and babies. They are the ones most often sick. But their illnesses were usually of a minor nature—colds, fevers, headaches, biliousness—and all of them required first a thorough evacuation. They were constipated.

In the course of Dr. Caldwell's 47 years' practice (he was graduated from Rush Medical College back in 1875), he found a good deal of success in such cases with a prescription of his own containing simple laxative herbs with pepsin. In 1892 he decided to use this formula in the manufacture of a medicine to be known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and in that year his prescription was first placed on the market.

The preparation immediately had as great a success in the drug stores as it previously had in Dr. Caldwell's private practice. Now, the third generation is using it. Mothers are giving it to their children who were given it by their mothers. Every second of the working day someone somewhere is going into a drug store to buy it. Millions of bottles of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin are being used a year.

Its great success is based on merit, on repeated buying, on one satisfied user telling another. There are thousands of homes in this country that are never without a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and we have gotten many hundreds of letters from grateful people telling us that it helped them when everything else failed.

While women, children and elderly people are especially benefited by Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, it is promptly effective on the most robust constitution and in the most obstinate cases. It is mild and gentle in its action and does not cause griping and strain. Containing neither opiates nor narcotics, it is safe for the tiniest baby. Children like it and take it willingly.

Every drug store sells Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Keep a bottle in your home,—where many live someone is sure to need it quickly.

We would be glad to have you prove at our expense how much Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin can mean to you and yours. Just write "Syrup Pepsin," Monticello, Illinois, and we will send you prepaid a FREE SAMPLE BOTTLE.

Pertinent Remarks on People of Prominence

Some of Lady Oxford's thumbnail sketches of prominent Englishmen are quite clever. Abbreviating the already brief, we quote from her characterization of Lord Birkenhead: "He listens to himself, but his brains—which are of the most remarkable—sometimes go to his head and he hears confused noises."

Of Lord Reading: "Though he has a warm corner for himself, he has no cold corners for other people."

Lloyd George "loves a crowd more than himself or his friend. He guesses without pause what the person he is talking to is thinking; but while they are stationary, he is a movie. In spite of an intelligence amounting to genius, he waylays himself."

The Cecil family, she says, have "minds and morals of distinction, but have subconsciously massaged away some of the more active muscles of their conscience."—Boston Transcript.

The nightingale sings at night to distract prowling enemies from the nest on the ground to himself perched safely in a tree.

A Real Boss

This generation has seen a number of child monarchs. King Alfonso of Spain was born after the death of his father and became king at birth. He seems to have taken himself seriously as a king from babyhood and to have rebelled lustily against his mother's regency whenever it took the form of reproof or punishment.

Many stories have come out of Spain of the way he kinged it around the palace in infancy. In the nursery he was corrected for putting a knife in his mouth. "Gentlemen never eat like that," he was told. He retorted, "I'm not a gentleman, I'm a king."

The use of soft coal will make laundry work heavier this winter. Russ Bleaching Blue will help to remove that grimy look. At all grocers.—Adv.

A Vanished Example

"I suppose you want to marry a girl as near like your mother as possible."

"No, I am going to marry an old-fashioned girl."—Pathfinder Magazine.

Each question of a child is a round in the ladder of knowledge.

Genuine BAYER

ASPIRIN

SAY "BAYER ASPIRIN" and INSIST!

Unless you see the "Bayer Cross" on tablets you are not getting the genuine Bayer Aspirin proved safe by millions and prescribed by physicians for 25 years.

DOES NOT AFFECT THE HEART

Safe — Accept only "Bayer" package which contains proven directions. Handy "Bayer" boxes of 12 tablets. Also bottles of 24 and 100—Druggists.

Aspirin is the trade mark of Bayer Manufacture of Monoaceticacidester of Salicylicacid

HOW ARE YOU TODAY?

How often does that friendly question find you full of pains and aches caused by kidney, liver and bladder troubles? Keep your health while you can. Begin taking Gold Medal Haarlem Oil Capsules at once. Hardy Hollanders have used this remedy for over 200 years. In sealed boxes, at all druggists. 3 sizes. Look for the name on every box.

GOLD MEDAL HAARLEM OIL CAPSULES

Cuticura Promotes Permanent Hair Health

Shampoos with Cuticura Soap, with light applications of Cuticura Ointment when necessary, tend to free the scalp of dandruff and minor blemishes, and to establish a permanent condition of hair health.

Soap 25c. Ointment 25 and 50c. Talcum 25c. Sold everywhere. Sample each free. Address: "Cuticura Laboratories, Dept. 2B, Malden, Mass."

Cuticura Shaving Stick 25c.

OCTOBER

L 915 0599

HOME EDUCATION

The Child's First School is the Family"—Froebel.
Issued by the National Kindergarten Association

WISE WATCHFULNESS

Mrs. Florence Milner

Hilma was just at the age when she could walk alone and, like all other children, enjoyed the independence of it. To indulge her in the new pleasure, her father took her to the park where there were no automobiles to dodge. But there were other difficulties to be encountered—curbs against which little feet might stumble, people to be passed without collision and deep holes to be avoided.

I had watched other people "taking care" of children about Hilma's age. Many of them would repeatedly seize the child by arm or garment, whichever came first, shouting, "Look out!" "Take care!" "There, I told you you'd fall if you went there! Just look at your clean dress, now. It's all covered with dirt! Aren't you ashamed?" "There! if you can't stand up alone, you'll have to keep hold of my hand all the time." And the poor child would be tragged along, resisting every step and trying to pull away.

Today one mother was fussing at her child's clothes every minute. "Here, let me pull your stocking, Mary dear." But "Mary dear" had just sighted a brilliant dandelion in the grass, and, in her haste to reach it before her mother's forceful hand could imprison her she fell on her face and was dragged to her feet and made to regard, ruefully, the grass stain on her white dress.

Two other little children were frolicking happily on the grass, rolling about like two healthy puppies. "Children, don't do that; it isn't pretty. Sit up and play nicely together." They sat up obediently but, having no idea how to "play nicely," they sat primly looking at each other and, no doubt, wondered vaguely why what they had been doing wasn't "pretty" when it was such fun. I wondered, too.

"Come here, Henry," called another anxious mother. Henry left his digging in the sand regretfully. So far as I could see all the mother wanted was to brush back the stray lock that fell picturesquely over his moist forehead and to give his blouse a needless pull.

In happy contrast to all of these were Hilma and her father. He never uttered one single "don't," never touched her except when her hand crept trustfully into his own. But this father was more watchful of Hilma than any of the nagging parents were of their offspring If she veered toward some unsuspected danger, he stepped between it and her, turning her toward safety as if of her own free will. Once she stumbled and fell. Her father did not run to pick her up and stir her emotions with pity. He let her alone to manage a return to the upright which she did with no apparent expectation of outside assistance. She was used to meeting her own personal difficulties alone.

And is there anything we older people desire more than to be let alone in the pursuit of our own innocent desires? We resent interference. Why should we expect our children to feel different? Don't for a moment think I am preaching against parental discipline and a definite exercising of authority when necessary, I am merely advocating less unnecessary interference. Many restraints and reproofs are of no importance whatever. A little added watchfulness such as Hilma's father gave, will avoid the need for many reproofs. A little restraint on the part of parents will eliminate many needless and irritating "do's" as well as "don't's."

DON'T KILL

YOUR WIFE

Let us do your dirty work—

BRING HER TO

HIGH'S

FOR DINNER

WHEN BETTER AUTOMOBILES ARE BUILT, BUICK WILL BUILD THEM

There's no "time out" for Buick

Any Buick owner will tell you that there is no "time out" for Buick—Buick is always "in the game"—never "on the side-lines" . . . That's why you see so many Buicks at the big football games every year.

Sedans $1195 to $1995 Coupes $1195 to $1850
Sport Models $1195 to $1525

All prices f. o. b. Flint, Mich., government tax to be added. The G. M. A. C. financing plan, the most desirable, is available.

BUICK for 1928

BUICK SALES & SERVICE, Auburn.

AT YOUR DISPOSAL

It pays to be associated with a good, reliable Bank. There are many ways in which a bank can help you besides safeguarding your money.

We have a Notary Public to acknowledge legal papers. We can give you advice on business affairs and investments. We can rent or sell your property. We can look after your taxes, care for your jewelry and valuable papers in our fire proof vaults, in fact all our facilities are at your disposal any time.

CONFIDENCE IS WHAT COUNTS.

The St. Joe Valley Bank, A STATE BANK

LIFE OF H. M. WIDNEY

(Continued from Page 1)

passing is a severe loss to the entire community.

While being prepared for the fatal operation he lay in the hospital alone for days spending hours in reflection and contemplation. He was fully aware of the battle with death that confronted him and on the eve of that battle he wrote the following lines which he labeled, "Afraid to Die?" and to which he affixed his signature. These lines give true expression to the philosophy of his soul and indicate the cool and candid manner in which he approached the crisis of his life.

The funeral services were conducted from the residence, east of town, Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock with Rev. J. F. McKnight, his pastor, officiating. Interment was made in Riverside Cemetery. E. R. Kinsey, Funeral Director.

Parent-Teacher Association

The Parent-Teacher Association will meet Tuesday evening, Nov. 1st at 7:30 o'clock in the gymnasium. You are invited and urged to be present. One of the outstanding influences of any community is the school—Come and get acquainted with the teachers and enjoy meeting old friends.

The following program will be given:

Community Singing led by C. A. Woodcox.
Invocation.....Rev. McKnight.
Greetings from the President.
Reports from the State and North Eastern Indiana Conventions given by the Concord Township Teachers.
Music.....High School.
Business.

The officers and committees for this year are:

President, Derwood Ridgway.
1st. Vice Pres., Robert R. Sims.
2nd. Vice Pres., Mrs. Marie Draggoo.
Secretary, Miss Bessie Rupp
Treasurer, Merritt Maxwell.
Program and Publicity: Mrs. F. R. Bowman, Ralph Sechler, Homer Stomm.
Hot Lunch: Mrs. Frank Curie, Mrs. Roy Koch, Mrs. Ima Miser, O. K. Shull.
Membership: O. E. Ginther, Craig Sheffer.
Refreshment: Mrs. Will Hamilton, Mrs. Clay Coburn, Ed Schrader, Ora Baker.

HOT LUNCH INFORMATION

Will begin serving hot lunch Monday, October 31.

Donations are not solicited but any one wishing to bring anything to help along will be greatly appreciated.

Meal tickets will be given for all produce if desired.

If you have no children of your own, get tickets for the needy ones that haven't the means.

The following will be accepted any time: Potatoes, carrots, apples, cabbage, crackers, sugar, beans, chickens, flour and at butchering time scraps of meat or bony pieces for flavoring beans and soups.

Mrs. Roy Koch will do the cooking for the winter. Meals will be served at not over 5 cents per plate.

Call at the Lunch Room any time and you will be welcome and you can see what this hot lunch means for the children.

If you haven't any way of bringing things in please notify Mr. Derwood Ridgway, Prof Sims or Mrs. Roy Koch and a way will be provided.

NOTICE

All custom work that is not called for by November 10, will be sold by us. Farver Canning Kitchen. 43t2p.

Driven by Necessity

A shiftless husband has developed many a female financier, says the Chicago News.

HOME BUREAU CLUB4 OBSERVES GUEST NIGHT

The Ladies Home Bureau of Concord Township held their annual guest night last Friday evening in the gymnasium and was considered by all as being one of the most enjoyable and successful guest evenings ever held by the club.

The program was opened with a few words of welcome given by Mrs. H. C. Borthwick. A playlet, "The Kitchen Cabinet Orchestra" was then given. The orchestra was composed of ladies of the club and they marched in to sounds of a drum, which was in reality a large peanut butter can. The ladies were attired in splendid band suits, white skirts and black coats on which white pasteboard spoons acted as trimmings; turned up sugar sacks also trimmed in spoons formed their head gear, and with all the orchestra made a very neat and attractive appearance. Mrs. Daisy Woodcox attired in a white bandmaster suit profusely decorated with medals from all over the world, directed the orchestra with a large butcher knife which she flourished with much skill.

The piano and stage were beautifully (?) decorated with rhubarb leaves, cabbage and pepper plants. The musical instruments used were to all appearances kitchen utensils, such as coffee and tea pots, slaw cutters, potato mashers, egg beaters, coffee mills, wash tubs, etc., but as the ladies were able to draw really beautiful music from their instruments it was aware at once to the audience that there was some mystery about it all, which was discovered when it was found that each instrument contained a small reed mouth piece.

Mrs. Ralph Sechler, chairman of the entertainment committee, read the plot of the play, while the orchesra acted it out in music and words, the culmination of the play being a wedding in which Mrs. Mary Krise acted the part of a beautiful, blushing bride, Mrs. Pluma Hamilton the unfortunate bridegroom, Mrs. Millie Shull the preacher who joined the pair, Mrs. Tena Engle bridesmaid and flower girl and the Misses Virginia Shull and Margaret Elnore Hamilton train bearers. Those who took part in the play besides the wedding party and chairman of the committee, Mrs. Ralph Sechler, were: Mrs. Abe Culbertson, Mrs. Hattie Draggoo, Mrs. Mable Baker, Mrs. Harvey Lindley, Mrs. Ed Storer, Mrs. Elza Kinsey, Mrs. Adrian Washer, Mrs. Maud Jenkins, Mrs. Marie Draggoo, Mrs. Ross Watt, Mrs. Daisy Woodcox and Mrs. Cora Curie. The play was well given and showed much careful preparation, and the ladies are to be commended for their patient work and painstaking effort to put on the entertainment in a really creditable manner. Between acts of the play a reading was given by Mrs. Marguerite Hercules of Fort Wayne and Virginia Shull and Margaret Hamilton. Each gave a costume reading and responded to encores.

After the program the refreshment committee, Mrs. Storer, Mrs. Foltz, Mrs. Tustison, Mrs. Ulm and Mrs. Hattie Draggoo served sandwiches, coffee, fruit salad and cake.

MINISTER ANSWERS GILLIOM'S PLEA ON CHURCH AND STATE

South Bend, Ind., Oct. 25.—"The church in America is not seeking union with the state," was the answer of the Rev. Albert E. Monger, D. D., pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal Church here, to an address made her recently by Arthur L. Gilliom, attorney general, in which he urged continued separation of church and state and denounced attempts to "confuse" the constitution.

"Every time the membership of the church criticizes the standards of government or public officials it is not seeking a union," he said. "A criticism of government or of public officials who fail to conform to the law set down on the books of the state and enacted by the people is positive not seeking a union. The gentlemen who are arousing one religious denomination against another are doing more to keep up the strife between the Roman Catholics and the Protestants than did the Ku Klux Klan or any other organization in the world."

Dr. Monger criticized the Supreme court for its decision in the Shumaker case. "The church is trying to protect the people from just such things as the political autocracy in Indiana, where people can not even criticize the government. Even the public press can be silenced in that manner," he said.

Life's Limelights

By Brown Focht

GLORY

Where and when is it that men gain their greatest glory?

When and where is it that they make their names immortal?

Is it in the midst of mortal conflict, with shells bursting overhead, and fellow human beings falling dead on every side?

Is it in achieving that which no man has accomplished before?

It is not.

Glory may be sung, but the greatest glory is perhaps even unknown to the individual himself.

We acclaim Lindbergh for crossing the Atlantic, yet his greatest glory is in his conquering the fear of a night alone above the sea.

The most glorious battles of all times are fought not upon the land or on the sea or in the air, but in men's souls.

It is then that they struggle alone. They have not even a mechanical aid at that time.

When men sit alone with their thoughts, hesitating on what decision to make; when they emerge, their nerves perhaps shattered, with their minds made up, they have attained immortal glory.

When men erase the idea from their minds that it cannot be done, given to them by someone else, they have attained immortal glory.

Chamberlin did not receive the acclaim that was Lindbergh's because the same thing had mechanically been done before. And Chamberlin's glory is not so great as Lindbergh's because the latter said that it CAN BE DONE, while the former had only to say it HAS BEEN DONE, CONSEQUENTLY I CAN DO IT.

Chamberlin knew that the crossing of the Atlantic was a possibility because it had BEEN DEMONSTARTED. Lindbergh knew that it was a possibility bcause he DROVE ALL THOUGHTS OF FAILURE FROM HIS MIND.

Glory itself is immortal. Consequently, no one, save yourself, can give it to you.

Glory is within you: bring it out.

LOCAL ITEMS

Ray Reasoner is driving a new Essex Coach, making the purchase Tuesday.

When a woman marries she not only takes a man's name but everything else he has.

Chimney repairing is essential to safety of your home. Call Chas. Butler, Spencerville. 41t4p.

You can now buy Atwter-Kent Radio, 6 tube set for less than $100.00 complete. Kenneth Meek. 43tf.

Persons wishing to hunt can obtain license at News Office. Also we attend to your notary work promptly.

It's a mighty respectable joke if it escapes the evil interpretations the ultra-respectable readers try to give it.

Charles Morr and family and Kenneth Coburn, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. George Wilson of Edgerton, Ohio.

The Woman's Missionary Society of the Lutheran Church will meet at the home of Mrs. F. R. Bowman Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

If the housewives in the United States were paid for their home service at the rate of fifteen dollars a week, the payroll would amount to $17,000,000,000 yearly.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Growe of Jackson, Mich., were Saturday callers in the F. M. Monroe home. Mrs. Growe is a cousin of Mr. Monroe. They also came to visit his sister in the Garrett hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Wilson and son, John, of Estes Park, Col., and Miss Lottie Steward of Russel, Kan., spent Friday night with Charles Morr and family. Evening callers in the same home were George and Donald Wilson of Edgerton, Ohio, Ernest Farver and family of Auburn, James Erwin and daughter, Mrs. Ada Messenger of Concord.

Ralph Gates of Columbia City, was elected twelfth district republican chairman at a meeting of county chairman Monday night at the Hotel Clugsten of Columbia City. H. C. Springer of Butler, chairman of the DeKalb county Republican committee, attended the meeting. Mr. Gates will fill the unexpired term of his cousin, Lloyd Gates who is moving from Columbia City to North Manchester where he will engage in the practice of law.

Legal Publications

NOTICE OF FINAL SETTLEMENT OF ESTATE

Cause No. 3089

Notice Is Hereby Given to all persons interested in the estate of Benjamin F. Terman deceased, to appear in the DeKalb Circuit Court, held at Auburn, Indiana, on the 7th day of November, 1927, and show cause, if any, why my Final Settlement Accounts with the estate of said decedent should not be approved; and said heirs and all others interested, are notified to then and there make proof of heirship or claim and receive their distributive shares.

Witness, My name, this 10th day of Octobr, 1927.

E. R. KINSEY,
Administrator.

H. C. Springer, Atty. 41t3.

NOTICE OF FINAL SETTLEMENT OF ESTATE.

Cause No. 3103

Notice Is Hereby Given to all persons interested in the estate of Peter Kosht, deceased, to appear in the DeKalb Circuit Court, held at Auburn, Indiana, on the 7th day of November, 1927, and show cause, if any, why my Final Settlement Accounts with the estate of said decedent should not be approved; and said heirs and all others interested, are notified to then and there make proof of heirship or claim and receive their distributive shares.

Witness, My name, this 7th day of October, 1927.

ELIZABETH KOSHT,
Administratrix.

Stump & McClintock, Attys. 41t3.

NOTICE OF SALE OF REAL ESTATE

State of Indiana
County of DeKalb, ss:
In the DeKalb Circuit Court
September Term, 1927

Ulysses S. Johnston, Administrator with will annexed of the estate of Mary E. Johnston, deceased

vs

Ulysses S. Johnston, et. al.

The undersigned Administrator with will annexed of the estate of Mary E. Johnston, deceased, hereby gives notice that by virtue of an order of the DeKalb Circuit Court in this cause duly made and entered, he will, at the hour of one o'clock on the 26th day of November, 1927, at the law offices of Stump & McClintock, Commercial Club Building, Auburn, Indiana, and from day to day thereafter until sold, offer for sale at PUBLIC SALE all the interest of said decedent in and to the following described real estate, to-wit:

The east one-half (½) of the north-west quarter of section nine (9,) in township thirty-three (33) north, of range fourteen (14) east, in DeKalb County, State of Indiana, excepting therefrom the following described tract, to-wit: Commencing at the northwest corner of the east half (½) of the northwest quarter of said section nine (9) and running thence south along the west line of said east half (½) of said section nine (9) 297 feet; thence east 266 feet to the west bank of the Ira Ricketts ditch; thence northwesterly along the west bank of the Ira Ricketts ditch to a point 135 feet east of the northwest corner of said east half (½) of said section nine (9,) thence west 135 feet to the place of beginning.

Said sale will be made subject to the approval of the court, for not less than two-thirds (⅔) of the full appraised value thereof, and upon the following terms and conditions:

At least one-third of the purchase money cash in hand, the balance in two equal installments, payable in not to exceed six and twelve months, evidenced by notes of the purchaser, bearing six per cent interest from date, waiving relief from valuation and appraisement laws, providing for attorneys fees, and secured by first mortgage upon the real estate sold.

For further particulars inquire of the undersigned.

ULYSSES S. JOHNSTON, Adm.
With Will annexed of the estate of Mary E. Johnston, deceased.
Stump & McClintock, Attys.
43t4.

See What Advertising Did

Advertising accorded a Philadelphia woman who held 13 spades in a bridge game led to seven offers of matrimony. They probably thought they could get her hand in marriage.—Arkansas Gazette.

L 915 0600

NOVEMBER

L 915 0601

NOVEMBER

THE BEST BOOSTER FOR YOUR BUSINESS IN DeKALB COUNTY

ST. JOE NEWS.

NEWS MAKES A GOOD PAPER, SO SEND IT IN TO US.

VOL. XLI. ST. JOE, DeKALB COUNTY, INDIANA, THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 3, 1927 NUMBER 44

COMMUNITY HALLOWE'EN CELEBRATION SATURDAY NIGHT

Hallowe'en is fast following in the wake of Santa Claus. It is coming to be a mere memory, its rites and ceremonies familiar only to those who have origins in the British Isles, and moreover who treasure a store of tales handed down from other days.

For all that it is a venerable day, handed down through the ages, modifying as it rolled from year to year, and acquiring the characteristics of the ages through which it passed. Rooted as it is in antiquity, it should not fail to hold the interest of this antique-loving generation, incredulous and enlightened though it be.

To rescue it from oblivion, it is not amiss to recall its traditions, as it were, before the blaze of an October fire.

Hallowe'en, or Allhallows' Eve, is the name given the vigil of Hallowmass, or All Saints' Day. It is now generally known as the eve of a Christian festival, but its formerly attendant ceremonies long antedate Christianity. Clearly, it is a relic, and an interesting one, of pagan times, for nothing in the church observance of All Saints' Day could serve as the origin of the extraordinary notions or remarkable practices.

The day was generally marked by the lighting of bonfires, and by the belief that it was the night of all nights when devils, witches, and other mischief-making beings were abroad on baneful midnight errands, and particularly when aerial folk, such as fairies, were said to hold a grand anniversary. Hence it was a time of divination, when the gift asserted by Glendower of calling spirits 'from the vasty deep' became available to all who took advantage of the privileges of the occasion.

The druids, on November first or thereabout, held their autumn festival, and lighted fires in honor of their sun god in thankfulness for the harvest. They believed that on the eve of this festival, Saman, lord of death, called together the wicked souls that within the past twelvemonth had been condemned to inhabit the bodies of animals.

That the main celebration is purely druidical is further proved by the fact that in parts of Ireland the thirty-first of October is still called Oidhche Shamhna, Vigil of Saman.

On these druid ceremonies were grafted some characteristics of the Roman festival in honor of Pomona, which occured about November first, in which nuts and apples, representing the winter store of fruits, figured prominently.

Parties galore were held Friday, Saturday and Monday evenings, as this event affords many opportunities for the young and old to enjoy themselves and make merry.

For the first time in the history of St. Joe, or at least in the memory of the editor, St. Joe put on a public celebration, and the event was a grand success, people coming for miles to participate and enjoy the pranks of the masqueraders. Possibly a couple hundred persons were masked.

The merchants awarded their premiums offered as follows:

St. Joe Filling Station, 5 gallons gasoline.
Ed Smith.
L. B. Meek, $1.00 bottle Rose toilet water.
Levi Schlatter, Grabill.
R. E. Furnish, $1.00 tire cover.
No. 143631 will take it.
Champ Bailey, 1 pound coffee.
Ora White.
H. G. Hursh, 1 sack flour.
Mrs. Sylvia Ginther.
J. T. Betz, 1 box crushed fruit gum.
No. 143158 will take it.
J. C. Hull, one hair cut or one hair bob.
No. 143100 will take it.
Wm. Harman, 3 pound pail of lard or its equal in trade.
No. 143050 will take it.
Fred High, one box Mary Wayne chocolates.
Merlin Simanton.
Wm. Curie, Colonial type percolator.
No. 142940 will take it.
St. Joe Garage, one box patches.
No. 143850 will take it.
St. Joe Valley Bank, $1.00 certificate of deposite to be left in one year.
No. 143579 will take it.
Zonker's Store. $1.00 in groceries.
Harry Laux.
F. B. Leighty, one year subscription to The St. Joe News.
John Woodcox.
E. R. Kinsey, Coleman lamp.
Mrs. Jay Hart.
C. A. Cochran, one box Spangler chocolates.
Henry Shook.
E. Leighty, $1.00 in groceries.
Mrs. Grant Baltz.
Wm. Henly, one pair half soles.
Mrs. P. B. Roediger.
E. N. Miser, one 10 pound box of grease.
Ralph Keeler.
Nathan Grain Co., one sack flour.
Grace Leighty.
Mrs. W. E. Henly, Pair of candle sticks.
No. 143821 will take it.

BIRTHDAY CELEBRATION OBSERVED SUNDAY

Relatives numbering fifty-two gathered at the home of Mrs. Mable Littlefield near St. Joe, Sunday, October 30, to remind her father, Mr. Joseph Knisely that the next day he would pass his seventieth milestone.

Since autumn favored the party with one of her most beautiful days, the pot luck dinner was served on the lawn. Mr. Knisely received many useful gifts.

Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. John Knisely and children, Glen and Lelia of Edon, Ohio; Mr. and Mrs. Asher B. Phillips and children, Kermit, Max, Leitha and Olive Jane of Mark Center, Ohio; Mrs. Jane Phillips and sons Claren and Lowell of Hicksville, Ohio and Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Sesselar and son Dale, of Ft. Wayne; Mr. and Mrs. George Knisely and family, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Miser, daughter, Elizabeth, and Mrs. Miser all of Auburn; Mrs. Geneva Pearson and daughter, Nona, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Pearson, daughter, Lenarose all of Antwerp, Ohio; Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Knisely and daughter, Grace.

Mr. and Mrs. Oris Chrisman of Farmer, Ohio and Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Rothgeb and children, Davis, Wayne and Noble, were afternoon callers.

Since St. Joe is the home of the immediate Knisely family, many drove over to view the old home place where many happy gatherings, such as this one, were held for the mother, Mrs. Rachel Knisely.

WILL OF D. F. BENNINGHOFF, FILED

The will of David F. Benninghoff of St. Joe, has been filed for probate with the clerk of the DeKalb circuit court. The will specifies that the expenses of the last sickness, funeral and all debts shall be paid and that a monument costing not less than $1,000 nor more than $1,500 shall be erected.

To the widow, Amelia Benninghoff is bequeathed $500 in Fort Wayne municipal bonds and to the brother of the testator, Daniel R. Benninghoff, is made a like request. William Sechler is to receive $100, Frank Sechler $50, Abraham Culbertson $50 and Fred and Mabel Thornton $50 each. The widow is to receive all real estate and the remainder of the property is to be left in trust with the Tri-State Loan & Trust company of Fort Wayne, as trustee.

The income from $8,000 in bonds is to go to John A. Benninghoff, a nephew; the income from $1,000 is to be paid to the trustees of the White City cemetery at Spencerville and the remainder of the income of trust funds shall be paid quarterly to the widow during her life. Mrs. Amelia Benninghoff was appointed executrix of the will, which was executed August 4, 1927.

LUTHERAN CHURCHES OBSERVE REFORMATION DAY

As all good loyal Lutheran Churches, the St. Joe and Spencerville congregations observed Reformation Day last Sunday.

In large throngs, Lutherans and their friends assembled in their houses of worship to hear again the story of the man who 410 years ago quit the cloister and the chair, which he held for nine years in the University of Wittenberg and for almost 30 years continued to be the principal spirit in the movement commonly known as the Reformation.

This man is known to thousands of his followers throughout the world as Martin Luther.

Reformation has been marked by historians as the event from which the modern era in world history is dated.

Reformation Day, October 31st, and Reformation Sunday, have been increasingly observed thru the years as days of festival for the Lutheran church and in fact throughout all Protestantism. It is fitting that this is so. For on October 31st, 1517, when Dr. Martin Luther nailed his famous Ninety-Five Theses to the church door at Wittenberg, the Protestant movement was born. And something infinitely better than merely a new denomination or group of denominations was born with it. The movement known as Protestantism placed renewed emphasis upon ideals which had been forgotten.

One of the most far reaching developments of the Protestant Reformation was the placing of the Word of God in the hands of the commonpeople. It was Luther who translated the Scriptures into the tongue of the masses, and urged priests and pastors to see that every parishioner read and understood the Bible. It was Luther who conceived the recent marvelous inventions in printing to be gifts of God to spread His Word among His people.

Luther is rightly given credit for placing the Open Bible in the hands of the people. And the Lutheran Church, which agrees with its illustrious founder in all matters of major importance, also believes that every man, woman and child should not only be given the privilege of using the Bible as a source of inspiration, instruction and comfort, but should consider it his duty to so to do. For how is the will of God to be done unless one knows His Word?

Pastor Roediger, in his evening adress gave a number of statistical statements, that are interesting, as follows:

"The Lutheran denomination is the oldest and has largest membership of all protestantism. Thirteen million members are now enrolled and fully one-fourth as many are friends of the church who are not affiliated with any congregation.

"All church creeds and forms of government are extracts from the original laws of this church.

"The church believes in the training of the heart and mind as evidenced by her 150 colleges and 200 religious periodicals are published under the guidance of the church.

"The church also feels that it is obeying the injunction of the Master in that it is now preaching the gospel to all nations and in ninety languages. In the United States alone, Lutheranism is being proclaimed in twenty languages.

Special music was furnished by the choir for the occasion.

MRS. DR. KING KILLED IN ACCIDENT

Mrs. Dr. F. A. King, former Garrett resident, was killed Saturday morning at Dyer, Ind., in an auto wreck, while enroute to Urbana.

Dr. and Mrs. King in their Star coupe, left Benton Harbor about 4 o'clock Saturday morning to attend the Michigan-Illinois football game at Urbana. The weather was foggy and there had been a slight rain. On the highway near Dyer, which is close to Gary, they found on approaching the Monon railroad crossing that another car had stopped suddenly in almost the center of the road, the driver thinking that he heard the warning bells at the crossing ringing.

Dr. King did not see the car until just a short distance away because of the fog and he knew that a crash was inevitable unless he could pass the standing car on either the right or left side. He decided that there was more room on the right but the wheels on the right side dropped off the pavement in loose dirt and the light car became unbalanced and turned over on its side.

Her head was caught between the door and top in an effort to escape. The funeral was held Monday at Benton Harbor.

ELECTION WILL BE HELD NEXT TUESDAY

All men and women of 21 years and over will cast their ballot next Tuesday for men who will manage the affairs of our little village for two years. It is the duty of each one to be present and express their desires. Two tickets were placed in the field and all are familiar with each of the candidates. The Town Board has selected the following as the election board:

Inspector, Samuel Armstrong.
Judge, Charles Cochran.
Clerk, Mrs. Edna Perkins.
Sheriff, Wid Williams.

NOTICE

All custom work that is not called for by November 10, will be sold by us. Farver Canning Kitchen. 43t2p.

In Society

The Ladies Literary Club entertained the Spencerville Ladies, Wednesday evening, October 26, in the form of a Progressive Hallowe'en Party.

As the ladies' feet struck the steps of the Barney home, they were welcomed by a Ghost, who ushered them to the Hall, where Ghost No. 2 met and directed them upstairs to the dressing room. As they descended the stair-way, they were asked to write their name in red ink on the calling card of the Ghost. From this we discovered that our Guests of Honor (aside from the St. Joe Ladies) were Mesdames Golden High, Audrey Wade, Elsie Fisher, Jennie Walter, Princess Rectenwall and Winnie Shook, from Spencerville. After a few stunts had been cleverly "pulled off" they donned their wraps, and as they opened the door they were requested to take hold of a string and the ghosts led them down Widney avenue to the Frank Curie home, where "Grinning Jack" greeted them from the steps. They were marshalled through the dining room, out the kitchen door, thru the alleys and across the streets, until finally they wound their way back to the Curie home, where contests and stories were enjoyed.

After their departure, they again took hold of the string and the Ghosts led them thru the alleys (by leaps and bounds) and finally led them up to the Filling Station, to renew their supply of gas and air. Then they stepped lightly down the Kinsey alley to the railroad. After a long freight train passed, they marched still farther on, when a young lady met them and directed them to the Jennie Sechler home. They entered a darkened room, and "bing, bang, boom!" they ran into everything. Soprano voices (no shrieks) were heard from every corner of the room. They were led in the barn and onto a platform and discovered themselves in the Akins truck. They were taken to the home of Mrs. Daisy Woodcox, where the Ghosts greeted them and led them down cellar ed them and led themdown cellar. There the spell of gaiety was broken, when it was announced that one of the members was taken suddenly ill and had to be operated on immediately. The operation was succesfully performed by the doctor and assistant, with the aid of automobile accessories and carpenter tools. The doctor demanded a rest for the patient, so the guests were led to the dining room which was decorated extensively and were seated at the cleverly arranged tables. After each guest had donned an artistic hat of cats and witches, they made themselves at home, by filling their forks with the feast set before them, which was composed of scalloped potatoes, pressed chicken, Parker house rolls, pickles and candle salad. The second course consisted of orange sherbet, cake and coffee.

Committee Number One, of the Ladies Literary Club (who were responsible for the evening of mirth and laughter) are Pauline Jordan, Edna Perkins, Daisy Woodcox, Parla Hull, Belle Woodcox, Ethel Pflaumer, Lucille Curie, Avis Staman and Jennie Seechler.

And—a good time was had by all.

FUNERAL ANNOUNCEMENTS

Levi Seckler, 78, of Spencerville, died Monday night from complications. He is survived by two brothers, Frank of St. Joe and Henry of Butler, and three sisters, Mrs. Emma Baltz of Spencerville, Miss Susan Seckler and Mrs. Byron Widney of St. Joe. The funeral service will be held from the B. E. Widney home Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock, with burial at Newville.

Mrs. Mary Andrews, 86, died Tuesday at 11:30 o'clock at the home of her daughter Mrs. Frank P. Seiler of Auburn, following a sickness of a day and a half from pneumonia. Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. Seiler and Mrs. Maude Mahoney of Defiance; a son Collin C. Andrews of Detroit and a sister, Mrs. Catherine Nichols of Newville. A short service will be held Thursday morning at 9:40 at the Seiler home, to be followed by a funeral service at 11:00 o'clock from the Newville U. B. Church, Rev. George Lilly of Hicksville, Ohio, officiating. Burial will take place in the cemetery at Newville.

Taps were sounded Tuesday morning for another veteran of the Civil War—John Treman of Auburn. His death took place at his home, caused by cancer of the bowels. Mr. Treman has been bedfast for six weeks and in failing health for the past six months. He was adjutant for DeLong Post, No. 67, for three years and one of the few of the fast diminishing membership of that organization. The funeral will be held from the Auburn Lutheran Church Thursday afternoon with burial at Newville.

NOTICE TO DOG OWNERS

All dogs found running at large on my premises will be shot, regardless of the owner. Wall Wasson. 44t1p.

New Homes out of Old Homes

THROUGHOUT America there are countless substantial frame houses built years ago whose value has shrunk chiefly because they lack modern arrangements and do not conform to present-day architectural beauty.

What shall be done with these sturdy old dwellings—junk them? Sell them for "a song"? Abandon the value of fine old trees? Sacrifice all sentimental attachments?

Certainly not! If the old house is built of wood, easily and economically you can remodel it and make it again valuable, beautiful and livable.

Furthermore, remodeling can be done to fit the purse or income—the first year perhaps a new porch and new dormers to relieve a plain roof; later new floors, enlarged rooms, an added wing. These and other changes can be made easily and at reasonable cost.

We are prepared to supply you with good lumber for this work: Long-Bell trade-marked Douglas Fir—dry lumber—to mix with the time seasoned wood of the old house; oak flooring—a special kind made for laying over your old floors; doors and windows of easily workable California White Pine.

These well-known products assure maximum building value.

We will be glad to submit estimates without obligation

SPENCERVILLE LUMBER & SUPPLY CO.
C. J. KNAAK, Manager
Spencerville, Indiana.

100% Coffee

In buying bulk coffee your money goes for coffee and nothing else.

Moreover, we grind it to suit your method of making. Coffee ground ahead grows stale and loses its strength and flavor. We grind our coffee the day you buy it.

Fancy fresh flavor and aroma guaranteed.

ZONKER'S Store.

See Our New Stock OF LAMPS

$1.98 AND UP!

E. R. KINSEY, Hardware Furniture

NOVEMBER

L 915 U602

Harry Sinclair's Mother Attends His Trial

Harry Sinclair, oil magnate, on trial in Washington with Albert B. Fall for conspiracy in the oil lease cases, is accompanied in the courtroom by his aged mother. Above they are seen leaving the court with Martin W. Littleton, Sinclair's chief counsel, at the right. The lads in the foreground were paid by Sinclair to shield him from the photographers.

Kansas Boys Are Studying Home Economics

Five young men, left to right, Woodrow Sheideman, Delmar Heckart, Corman Pennock, Robert Dill, and Wallace Taylor, who are pursuing a home economics course at the University of Kansas, as they discussed a "kitchen problem." The young men are enrolled as students at the Oread high school, but, becoming interested in the subject of "proper food selection," were permitted to take the course in the university.

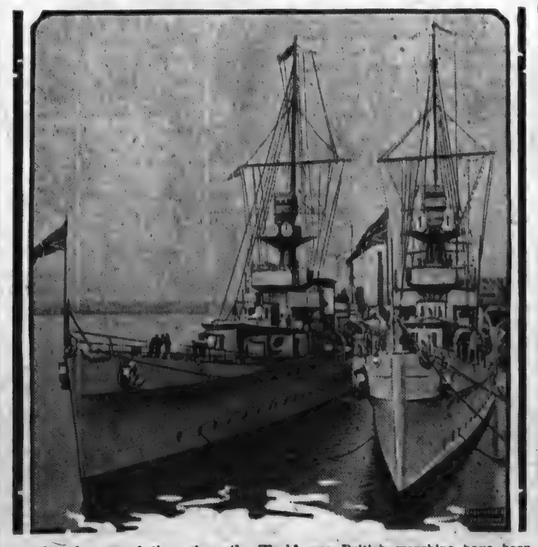
PROMOTED

Capt. Julia A. Flikke, until recently chief principal nurse at the Walter Reed General hospital in Washington with the rank of first lieutenant in the United States army, has been promoted to assistant superintendent of the army nurse corps with the advanced rank.

NEW BELGIAN ENVOY

Albert, prince of Ligne, who has just been appointed Belgian ambassador to Washington

British Warships Visit Washington



For the second time since the World war British warships have been visiting Washington. H. M. S. Calcutta and H. M. S. Cairo sailed up the Potomac and anchored at the navy yard as pictured here. Under Admiral Sir Walter Rowan they were paying a courtesy call.

Marine Aviators Lost in Nicaragua

Left to right, Lieut. Earl A. Thomes and Sergt. Frank Dowdell, aviators of the United States marine corps, who figure in the late reports from Nicaragua. They are thought to have crashed while on patrol and to have been taken captive by insurgents.

DAIRY FACTS

GREATER USE OF DAIRY PRODUCTS

Dairying has a highly promising future in the United States, judging from the remarkable increase in the consumption of dairy products during the past few years, it is pointed out by Dr. W. B. Nevens of the dairy department, college of agriculture, University of Illinois. The increase is not due to the increase in population alone, but is caused also by a more liberal use of dairy products by people generally, he said.

Figures sent out recently by the federal Department of Agriculture show that records of butter and cheese consumption have been kept since 1849. The amount of butter per person annually increased from about 14 pounds in 1849 to about 20 pounds in 1899, and is now about 17 pounds. Cheese consumption has fluctuated somewhat and is now a little over four pounds a person a year.

Records of other dairy products are available for only a few years. The use of whole milk has increased steadily since 1917, about 29 per cent more being used a person now than nine years ago. Condensed and evaporated milk have also found a larger use per person during the same period.

The ice cream industry has had a very remarkable growth since 1909. There has been a steady increase in consumption until now about 11 quarts of ice cream are consumed annually a person, or more than 2½ times as much as in 1909.

The use of all dairy products a person, figured in terms of milk, shows an increase of over 36 per cent as compared with 1909. This fact is most significant and argues well for the continued stability and expansion of the dairy industry, Doctor Nevens said.

Attention Essential to Calf During First Year

During the first year the calves should be kept in the barn in the daytime in the summer and turned out to exercise at night. In the winter, the opposite practice should be followed. However, they should not be exposed to severe winds, storms, etc. Young calves will do better on hay than on grass the first year. Young stock should be fed to secure the maximum growth from birth to maturity, at no time neglecting them. Heifers should be bred at the age of eighteen months, or perhaps a little later if they have not done well during the earlier stages of development.

Keep stables clean and dry. Use disinfectant freely to rid stock of all lice and vermin, and to aid in keeping them in a healthy, thrifty condition, also to keep various diseases away which might otherwise affect the herd and do great damage. The most common ailment of calves is scours. Practically 95 per cent of all calf diseases in some way traces to scours.

Cheapest Feed for Cows Said to Be Pure Water

The owner of a cow which produced 10,584 pounds of milk and 342.6 pounds of butterfat last year was asked, "What is the cheapest and best form of food for dairy cows?"

"Pure water," he replied. "Only be sure that the water is put in the cow and not in the milk can."

Milk is approximately 87 per cent water and if the cow does not have access to an unlimited supply of fresh, clean, palatable water, her milk flow is bound to suffer heavily. A high-producing cow will consume 25 to 30 gallons of water per day. Cow testers have found in numerous cases that the milk production of a herd was increased 7 to 8 per cent when automatic drinking cups were installed in the stalls, offering the cow unlimited supply of water whenever desired. A reliable automatic water supply system has proved to be one of the most valuable items of a dairy farm's equipment.

Dairy Notes

Which is wiser, three gallons of milk from one cow or from three cows?

• • •

Sell the cripple, defective and poor-producing cows and give those that remain a little more feed.

• • •

A good dairy cow probably consumes more water than any other domestic animal. The more feed consumed, the more water the cow requires.

• • •

Sweet clover pasture will feed the cow for half of her lifetime with practically no labor to the dairyman.

• • •

A dairy cow is the hardest working animal on the farm. On short pasture she must spend much of her time foraging for feed.

• • •

The dairy cow is naturally adapted to consume large quantities of coarse forage, using a part for the maintenance of her body and its functions and returning the balance in the form of milk and butterfat.

Improved Uniform International

Sunday School Lesson

(By REV. P. B. FITZWATER, D.D., Dean Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.)
(©, 1927, Western Newspaper Union.)

Lesson for November 6

AMOS PLEADS FOR JUSTICE

LESSON TEXT—Amos 5:1-27.

GOLDEN TEXT—Let judgment run down as waters and righteousness as a mighty stream.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Treating Everybody Right.

JUNIOR TOPIC—The Kind of Man God Hears.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—A Squaring for God Against the Crowd.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Conditions of Divine Approval

I. Israel's Desolation Predicted (vv. 1-3).

Amos lamented over the doom which was to overtake the nation. Israel is called a virgin because she had never been subdued by any foreign nation (see Isa. 23:12). Her failing to rise no more sets forth the utter desolation and helplessness to which the Assyrians subjected the nation. From this captivity Israel never returned. Those who came back from the Babylonian captivity were largely from Egypt.

II. The Call to Return to God.

God through the prophet says, "seek ye me and ye shall live." The implication is that while the divine judgments are not executed, an opportunity is offered for them to turn to God. In their turning to God they were to renounce:

1. Idolatry (vv. 5, 6).

They were to turn away from the places of idolatry—Bethel, Gilgal and Beersheba. God's judgment was to strike these places.

If they would not come to Him for life He would be their destroyer. "Our God is a consuming fire." The only one who can give life to those who seek Him is the one who shall destroy.

2. Cease to pervert judgment (v. 7).

"Turn judgment to wormwood" implies the bitterness of the perversion of justice to the injured.

3. Cease to dethrone righteousness.

"Leaving off righteousness" is thought to mean that unrighteousness was allowed to take its place. In this third exhortation the Lord's name is given with the following statement of some of His works:

1. "Maketh the seven stars and Orion;" 2. "Turneth the shadow of death into morning;" 3. "Maketh the day dark with night;" 4. "Calleth for the waters of the sea and poureth them out upon the earth," both in rain and deluge; 5. "Strengthened the spoil against the strong."

III. The Sins Committed by the Wicked Nation (vv. 10-13).

1. They hated the judge who condemned their wicked practices (v. 10).

2. They abhorred him that spoke uprightly (v. 10).

This most likely referred to the prophets themselves who told them of their sins and urged uprightness of life.

3. They trampled upon the poor (v. 11).

The rich built magnificent houses out of the proceeds extorted from the poor.

4. They afflicted the just (v. 12).

This they did by taking a bribe.

5. They turned aside the poor in the gate (v. 12).

Because they had no money the poor were turned aside.

It was most difficult for the poor to get justice. The times were so evil that the prudent would best keep silence.

IV. The Conduct of the Righteous (vv. 14, 15).

No condition in the world, religious, social or political can become so difficult that the righteous are shut off from help. The righteous can:

1. Seek God (v. 14).

Those who seek good shall have with them the Lord God of Hosts.

2. Hate the evil (v. 15).

Evil must be hated. The sin question must be settled before God can bestow His blessings.

3. Establish judgment in the gate.

It was the custom in that day for the courts of justice to sit in the gate of the city. The prophet urges upon them the responsibility to place honorable men in charge of public affairs.

V. The Judgment to Fall (vv. 16-20).

There is coming a day of retribution. Justice and right shall be vindicated. This will be realized in the day of the Lord (II Thess. 1:7-10; James 5:7). All wrong shall be righted at that time. May we earnestly pray, "thy kingdom come."

VI. Worship Without Holiness of Life an Abomination to God (vv. 21-27).

Sacrifices, observance of feast days and singing, when the heart is out of fellowship with God, is most displeasing to Him.

Two Different Things

The love of God and the world are two different things. If the love of this world dwell in thee, the love of God forsakes thee; renounce that, and receive this; it is fit that the nobler love should have the best place and acceptance.

House Not Made With Hands

The tent-life is the true life until the building of God, the "house not made with hands," is reached.—Phillips Brooks.

What's the Answer?

Questions No. 23

1—What was "Stonewall" Jackson's first name?

2—What American general captured the Filipino leader Aguinaldo?

3—What is mechanics?

4—Who is the lightweight champion pugilist?

5—Of what nationality is the celebrated pianist, Joseph Hofman?

6—Which is the principal river of New York state?

7—What five American cities have the largest public libraries?

8—What is a volcano?

9—How are the justices of the Supreme court chosen and by whom?

10—What is the difference in the meaning of the words "astronomy" and "astrology"?

11—When was the Emancipation Proclamation issued?

12—How many signers of the Declaration of Independence were there?

13—What is zoology?

14—Who is the champion 220 yards runner?

15—What movie of the past few years received the critical acclaim of being almost artistically perfect?

16—What canal connects the Great Lakes with the ocean by way of the Hudson river?

17—Who was the only woman to win the Nobel prize for literature?

18—What is a vulture and where does it thrive?

19—Who is the present secretary of war?

20—What is the "hunter's and harvest moon."

Answers No. 22

1—It is a genus of plants belonging to the Vervain family and several European specimens have become exceedingly troublesome in the United States.

2—Idaho.

3—The "Marseillaise." Claude Joseph Rouget de Lisle.

4—William Henry Harrison.

5—General Winfield Scott.

6—A modern trend of thought that makes reason the chief source of knowledge.

7—It was a tie, 21-21.

8—Frances Hodgson Burnett.

9—Nine.

10—In 1908.

11—Mary Roberts Rinehart.

12—Northwest Wyoming.

13—John Singer Sargent.

14—Bob O'Farrel, manager of the St. Louis Cardinals.

15—In 1825.

16—Eleven: South Carolina, North Carolina, Virginia, Texas, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana, Florida, Georgia, Arkansas, Tennessee.

17—That branch of science that deals with the fundamental laws of the universe.

18—It is a family of very small insect-eating birds.

19—Fifteen thousand dollars.

20—On the civil day of the same date—at noon.

Few Years of Poverty in Victor Hugo's Life

Unlike many great writers, Victor Hugo had a happy childhood; was a brilliant pupil, and when he fell in love, at an early age, he did not become dreamy and impractical, but worked harder than ever to achieve success.

His first experience of real tragedy came with the death of his mother. His relationship with her had been unusually intimate and tender. For several years the mother had been estranged from her husband, which had resulted in drawing her closer to her youngest son. Soon after his mother's death his father married the woman who had caused the estrangement.

The elder Hugo had no sympathy with his son's desire to write. He offered him a sufficient allowance if he would give up authorship and devote himself to a career that promised a large income. Hugo indignantly refused, and shared a Paris attic with his cousin. Here he gained the knowledge of poverty that he revealed in "Les Miserables." But he was not as poor as many young geniuses have been, nor did he know poverty for any great length of time. In 1822 he married the girl with whom he had fallen in love when he was seventeen, and this brought a reconciliation with his father.—Kansas City Times.

The Bum

An American visitor to London, in his reverence for Francis Thompson's poems, made a pilgrimage recently to the Skiddaw Arms, Kilburn, the "pub" where the author of the "Hound of Heaven" used to sit and dream by the fire in the saloon bar. The pilgrim recalled its Francis Thompson's associations to the landlord of the inn, who had never heard of him.

"Poet!" said Boniface decisively; "that sort of a customer hanging about doesn't do a house any good."

NOVEMBER

L 915 U603

CHAPTER VII—Continued

—12—

We both spoke at once at that, disclaiming any offense, and the doctor, after a glance at his watch, concluded by asking him to sit down, and offering him a cigar. I very much hoped that both these invitations would be declined, for with that girl in the next room and Wilkins' knock momentarily expected at the door, it was rather too close quarters to be comfortable. But my chief seemed to be perfectly at ease.

"I'll confess," he began, lighting a cigar of his own, "that I'm a little curious to know what caused your change of heart; what it was that convinced you that Phelps and I aren't engaged in a conspiracy to thwart justice."

"I am afraid I am a self-convicted egoist," said Ashton. "It took an hour or more for the thought to occur to me that there are other people, besides myself, living in The Meredith, and that Jane Perkins might have given that place as her address, without any reference to me whatever, might have given it in perfectly good faith. So when I came home to dinner I made some inquiries, and was cool enough by that time not to be overwhelmed with surprise to find that the address was apparently given in good faith. At any rate, there is a housemaid named Jane Perkins living in this hotel."

The doctor simulated no surprise over this announcement. He merely nodded calmly, and said:

"You will not have seen her yet, I suppose."

"So you know about her, too!" exclaimed Ashton. "And you were ahead of me again. Well, that's not remarkable; you kept your temper and I didn't. But though I haven't seen her yet, I don't believe you have, either, because I have been given to understand that it's her evening out."

"I suppose," said the doctor, "that you have taken precautions for apprehending her when she comes back?"

"Yes," said Ashton; "there's a man on watch in her room now. She won't go far. I understand she's been ill the greater part of the week."

The doctor smiled and waved his hand toward the telephone. "You may as well tell your man to go home," he said, "the girl's here."

Ashton sprang right out of his chair. "What's that!" he demanded. "You've got here here; hiding her from me?"

"If I were hiding her from you, I shouldn't have told you. No, she's not in hiding at all. She's doing up the bedrooms in this apartment. She'll come when I call her, which I mean to do in a very few minutes. When she comes, I mean to make a little examination of her mind to determine her actual connection with the crime."

"I suppose," said Ashton rather sarcastically, "that you won't mind my asking permission to contribute a few questions of my own to that examination."

"Not at all," said the doctor quite simply. "You may ask her anything you like."

There was a little silence. Then Ashton said impatiently.

"Well, what are you waiting for?"

"I'm expecting another visitor. When I heard your knock, I thought that you were he. It's none other than our friend Wilkins."

Ashton laughed. "Wilkins!" he repeated. "What do you want of him?"

The doctor glanced at his watch.

"I fancy that he's coming now. Why, Wilkins knows this girl, who is a stupid creature and rather easily alarmed. She'd be almost sure to be panic-stricken at the sight of these instruments. All ignorant persons are the same way." He paused and shot a derisive smile at Ashton. "They put them in the category of black-art and hocus-pocus, and regard them with a mixture of contempt and terror. But she has confidence in Wilkins, and by his submitting to be harnessed in the same way we propose to harness her, which he has agreed to do, it will quiet whatever fears she may have."

Ashton looked dubious. Already Wilkins had tapped on the door.

"Stop a bit, Phelps," said my chief as I started toward the door. "Look here, Ashton! Use a little plain common sense for a minute. You don't half believe yourself that this girl has any guilty connection with the crime. Which way will you find out the most? By making this girl feel that there's nothing to be afraid of; that we're simply investigating, and not accusing her at all? Or by putting her through an old-fashioned 'third degree'?"

"All right," said Ashton; "have it your own way, only I'll have my way tomorrow."

"There won't be any need of that," said my chief. "The Oak Ridge mystery is going to be solved tonight, and in this room; solved down to the last detail. Open the door, Phelps."

I imagine that Ashton himself was not more surprised by the doctor's prophecy than I was. To be sure I had penetrated further into the mystery than Ashton had. I had shared with my chief the knowledge of Jane Perkins' strange other self. I knew that the mysterious, savage creature in fulfilling an oath, which to her must have possessed a religious sanctity, had committed what our more civilized society called a crime. And yet I felt sure that Doctor McAlister meant more than that when he had promised Ashton the whole solution of the mystery. The heart, the essence of the mystery was still unsealed. By some process of reasoning, or intuition, which I had not followed, my chief held that secret, still unsolved, in the hollow of his hand, and he meant to reveal it to us before the night was out.

I opened the door and told Wilkins to come in. I had an impression that he started a little at the sight of Ashton; and I didn't at all wonder, since I remembered the rueful understanding between ourselves and him, that this examination of the girl was to be for the purpose of shielding her against the district attorney, rather than of betraying her to him.

"I Suppose," Said the Doctor, "That You Have Taken Precautions for Apprehending Her When She Comes Back?"

But I had very little leisure for reflecting on Wilkins' fears or misgivings, because, almost before I had closed the door behind him, I heard the doctor call out, "Perkins."

Well as I understood his experiments, and confident as I was in the success of them, I found it hard to go on breathing steadily while I waited for the response to the call that was to come from the inner room. Would it be Jane Perkins in her own proper person who would appear in the doorway in answer to the call, or would the occupant of her body prove to be that other, wilder soul?

When she answered, "Coming, sir," I drew in a deep breath of relief, for it was the voice of the girl who used and abused English as her mother-tongue. The next moment she was in the doorway. She was not Fanenna, not the girl who, with green, blazing eyes, had flung that defiant challenge back at the doctor only a few minutes before. And yet, she was not precisely Jane Perkins either, not the stodgy, thick-witted housemaid who had giggled with such unalloyed delight as she fished for the doctor's knife in the vase of water. The girl who stood there now looking at us had thoughtful, troubled eyes. Something—an elusive memory, a nameless emotion, a vague, fluid thing that would not crystallize was perplexing her. She was trying to think, which is something I am willing to wager that Jane Perkins had never done in her life.

Naturally, the first person I looked at when I withdrew my eyes from her was Ashton. He was looking straight into her face, and it was the same face, in a purely physical way, that he had seen the night he went to the hospital with us. It was not until I saw the look of blank indifference depicted upon his own that the realization was forced upon me that he would not recognize her any better than I had done. From him my gaze flashed round to the doctor, and on the way it took in Wilkins. Both of them were watching her, both, I guessed from their faces, had noted the same indefinable difference that had struck me. It was the doctor who spoke.

"Perkins," he said, "here is Mr. Ashton. He is one of the assistants to the district attorney, and he and I and Mr. Phelps here are interested in trying to find out something about the murder which took place at Oak Ridge a few nights ago."

"Murder!" she cried with a gasp. "I don't know nothin' about any murder, sir."

"No," said the doctor, "I'm quite sure you don't. But we think it possible that you know some things which will help us to find out who the murderer is. Are you willing to help us?"

She hesitated a moment, then turned quire frankly to Wilkins.

"Is it all right, Mr. Wilkins?" she asked. Then quickly turned back to the doctor. "I beg your pawdon, sir, for askin' such a question, but I know Mr. Wilkins, and if he says it's all right—"

"It's all right, Jane," he assured her. "I came up here a purpose so that there'd be nothing for you to worry about."

"All right, sir," she said, turning once more to Doctor McAlister. "I'll be glad to tell you anything I know, I'm sure, though I don't see how what I know can help much, unless—" She frowned and rubbed the back of one hand across her forehead.

"Unless what?"

"Nothin', sir. I seem to be thinkin' of all sorts of curious things, as if my mind was tryin' to wander like."

The doctor laughed. "We're all that way sometimes," he said. "Sit down in this big chair."

She obeyed a little reluctantly. Whether it was a half-memory of it that troubled her, or merely the instinctive hesitation of one of her class to make herself comfortable in our presence, I did not know.

The doctor busied himself with his instruments. The girl watched him rather nervously.

"I beg pawdon, sir," she said. "Are you goin' to do anything with those? I don't exactly like the looks of 'em, sir; all those queer lookin' machines. Is it anything like goin' to the dentist's?"

"Nothing in the world," laughed the doctor. "These machines don't hurt. Here, Wilkins, sit down in this chair beside her, and we'll harness you up, too."

He hung up before the girl one of the pair of little telephones that we had used in our association test on Harvey. Then he turned his attention to Wilkins, who had seated himself readily enough in the chair the doctor had designated.

"That's a very impressive looking machine, sir," the man commented. "May I ask what name it's called by?"

"Its name is just as impressive as it is," replied the doctor. "It is called a recording phonopneumosphygmograph."

Up to that moment Ashton had kept perfectly quiet, but at the sound of that portentous word he burst into a roar of laughter, which Wilkins decorously and respectfully echoed. I laughed frankly myself. What the purpose of the instrument might be, I had no idea, but the prodigious name which the doctor assigned to it struck me as nothing more than a flight of his rather grotesque fancy.

"Well, sir," said Wilkins, "it will have to accomplish a good deal to live up to that name."

That my chief had, by no means, exhausted his store of surprises, became evident when he began his examination of the girl. There was nothing psychological about it. He questioned her very much as Ashton would have done.

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

African Prickly Pear Has Its Good Points

The prickly pear is said to be so tenacious of life that a leaf or even a small portion of a leaf, if thrown on the ground, strikes out roots within a short time and becomes the parent of a fast-growing plant.

Mischievous though the African prickly pear may be, it is not without its good qualities. Its juicy fruit, though rather deficient in flavor, is delightfully cool and refreshing in the dry heat of summer, and a kind of treacle is made from it.

Great caution is necessary in peeling this curious fruit; the proper way being to impale the fruit on a fork or stick while one cuts it open and removes the skin. The person who undertakes to pluck this treacherous fruit with unguarded fingers meets with an experience he does not soon forget. Concentrated essence of stinging nettle seems all at once to assail hands, lips and tongue, and the skin wherever it comes in contact with the fil-natured fruit, is covered with a group of minute bristly hairs, apparently growing from it, and venomous and irritating to the last degree.

In dry weather these spiteful little stings do not even wait for the newly arrived victim, but fly about, light as thistle-down, ready to settle on anyone who has not learned by experience to give the prickly-pear a wide berth.

Ingredients for Jelly

Scientific study of the principles of jelly making has shown that three ingredients are required for the formation of a jelly, namely, sugar, acid and pectin; and these must be present in fairly definite proportions. Tart apples, cranberries, red currants and grapes, when collected at the proper stage of ripeness, contain pectin and acid in sufficient quantity to form a good jelly when cooked for a short time with the proper amount of sugar.

We put too much faith in systems and look too little to men.—Benjamin Disraeli

ENOUGH SURE WAS ENOUGH

(© by D. J. Walsh.)

"HAS your friend done as well as you and your partner?" asked a passenger, nodding toward a third miner, a little, sallow man who seemed anxious to conceal himself behind his baggage.

"Him?" enviously, "S'pose you ask him an' see. All I know is that we met him on the steamer comin' down an' after considerable persuadin' Poke Gill opened his mouth an' said he was from Nome an' that he was on his way home to Breshtown, Ga., an' that he'd made his pile an' had enough an' wa'n't returning no more. All of which goes to indicate that he's done considerable betterin' me an' my partner, who've got only forty or fifty thousand in the express car, an' who are goin' back after more soon's we've had our little rest. Poke Gill don't trust his pile to a weak express car."

The little, sallow man looked about with a pleased deprecatory grin.

"I 'low I have," he acknowledged graciously, "done made it in three months. Now I'm goin' home to have a plumb good time an' live like a lord."

"Good for you," approved a drummer. "But how'd you do it—find a pocket?"

Poke's grin was still broad. He shook his head.

"Done it by straight hard work," he declared proudly. "Down-home folks say none o' my name ever work. They 'low we's too shiftless. Now I reckon when we all buy the Hunter place where my pap worked all his life an' I set up to be a gen'leman, they'll be s'prised. Yis-sir." He threw his head back, his eyes dropped, as he added apologetically. "Then I'll get married."

"What?" "Really?" from various parts of the car. Two ladies turned and looked at him with friendly interest. Poke blushed with embarrassment at such marked attention, but his eyes flashed straight into those of his audience. "Yissir, I'm a-goin' to get married," he repeated. "Marigold an' me have been set on it for ten years, but I always 'lowed that when we married Marigold should live like a lady an' me like a lord. That's what 'roused me to go a gold-huntin'. Now we'll buy the Hunter place an' build a new house with four rooms—four rooms," lowering his voice a little and looking about the car.

"Our folks never had but two, an' my brother Pekey married an' went into a shack that had but one. The Hunter house itself ain't but three, an' it's fallin' down at one end with age. We'll have four," dwelling on the four with contemplative ecstacy. "An' I 'low on gettin' a cow an' some pigs an' hens—an' yes, a kerridge, a mule an' kerridge."

But that will take only a very small part of your money," suggested the drummer. "What will you do with the rest?"

"Put it aside," promptly. "None o' my family ever had any money put aside. I reckon it'll be enough for all of us. None o' my family will ever need any more."

All this time two white-fingered passengers were interested watchers and listeners. They had also studied the other two miners, who were strong, keen-eyed, resolute-looking men. The little fellow from Breshtown, however, seemed simple and unsophisticated—and in possession of his baggage. Presently one of them crossed to the seat behind Poke.

"Is this seat engaged?" he asked of the other white-fingered passenger.

"No, seh," removing a heavy valise to the floor. "Going far?"

"To Georgia—Breshtown."

"Really?" with an appearance of surprise. "Why, I'm going there myself."

The miner in front turned eagerly, his mouth open and his eyes bulging.

"Doggone it, stranger, that's my place," he blurted. "Who mout ye be?"

"Smith and Robinson. My name is Bill."

"Poke's face beamed with pleased recognition.

"Why, I know heaps o' Smiths an' Robinsons," he cried, reaching over and shaking hands with first one and then the other. "I reckon you all are some o' the families who went West when boys. There was Tom an' Seth an' Ike, an'—"

"My friend here is named Ike," blandly.

"Ye don't say," delightedly. "Then me an' him was old friends when we was boys. He's changed, though," looking the man over curiously. "But then, folks do when they grow up. Well, well, I'm plumb glad."

There was no reserve. Poke talked freely, and was met with a cordiality that delighted his simple heart. He spoke of his long journey and made frequent awestruck allusions to his pile, and they listened and looked at each other and rubbed their long, white fingers together, and every moment grew more cordial and familiar.

At length they brought out cards and asked him to take a hand, and when he drew back offered to teach him the game. At this he laughed uproariously and declared he'd known how to play high-low-jack before he was old enough to wear breeches, only he had promised Marigold when he went out to the wicked West that he would never, never play cards and he wa'n't going to. They coaxed him and laughed at him and dared him, but he held to his promise.

And so it went on, and the train rushed into another night and another day, and still they besieged and stormed the fort they found implacable. And then at length one afternoon, as the shadows were beginning to gather in the car, the train slowed up at a small, unpainted building which a brakeman introduced to the passengers as Breshtown.

They helped Poke off with his baggage and piloted him to a real automobile which they had telegraphed ahead to have in readiness. He lived six miles from the station he had told them, and had frankly added that the way led through a wild forest. They had assured him it would be unnecessary for him to order a conveyance, as theirs would be large large enough for all three, including his baggage, and they were going directly his way to their old home. One of them would drive, they said.

Poke was hilariously exuberant. He laughed and sang and cracked jokes, and they sang and laughed with him until they came to a lonely place in the woods, and then the car was turned into the bushes and Poke felt the cold muzzle of a revolver against his head.

"Now turn over your money," one of them ordered savagely, "and be quick about it."

Poke looked at them in dazed wonder to see if they were in earnest. "I won't," he cried, when he understood. "It's for the Hunter place an' to get married."

"Oh well, just as you like," said one of the men indifferently. "We'll kill you and then take the money. It's all the same to us. You can't help yourself."

Poke turned white and looked appealingly from one to the other. They were calm, smiling, but implacable. Slowly he unbuckled a belt from his waist and offered it.

The man showed his teeth a little, but, nevertheless, opened it and counted the contents. "Eight hundred and seventy-five," he said. Then he rolled the belt and money into a ball and hurled them contemptuously into the bushes. "Now we'll get right down to business. Give us your money!"

"I—I have, "wailed poor Poke, almost hysterically, "every blamed cent."

"Once more, give us your money," the man hissed. "It is the last time we ask. Killing comes next. Open your bundles!"

"But there's no money in them," eagerly. "See." He cut the string from one of the packages and disclosed an assortment of bright dress goods and ribbons and laces. "I bought 'em for Marigold. An' this"—cutting more string—"is full o' bead stuff an' Injin' fixin's. I 'lowed Marigold would like 'em. An' these other bundles—" cutting strings from one after another as rapidly as possible—"is full o' pretty rocks an' shells an' things. That's why they weigh, so heavy. Long's I had all the money I wanted I 'lowed Marigold would like 'em better'n more gold."

"And do you mean to say," speaking the words slowly and menacingly, "that you brought all this rubbish from Alaska when you might have gold?"

"Why, of co'se," wonderingly. "I didn't need any more gold. The old Hunter place can be had for $200 an' a plain four-room house here in the woods be raised for $200 more an' a kerridge an' mule an' cow an' all the rest bought for 'bout $150. That would leave $300 to put aside. Plenty enough, land knows. More'n any o' my family ever had afore."

The rumble of a wagon could be heard coming through the woods, and a baffled, vindicative gleam came to the men's eyes. For a moment they glanced at Poke as though debating a quick and signal revenge. Then the rumble grew louder and they suddenly sprang to the ground and disappeared in the woods. When a wagon came noisily round a bend in the road Poke was just emerging from the bushes with his money belt and money. The money he slipped into his pocket, the belt he rebuckled round his waist.

"Howdy, Peke," he called cheerily as he recognized the driver. "How's all?"

"Hey! That you, Poke," in mild surprise from the wagon. "When'd you come? Oh, I'm tolerble, an' the folkses air all well."

"An' Marigold?"

"She's well, too," Peke grinned. "Ast 'bout you t'other day."

Poke looked dubiously at the car, then shook his head. Couldn't risk it now.

"See ye ag'in, Peke," he called. "No time now."

Then he hurried on, half-running, half-loping. Soon nothing could be heard but the pattering of his feet in one direction, and the impatient softening cracks of a whip in the other.

His Wasted Effort

The architect's design for the building had been accepted. The same afternoon an interviewer tracked him down.

"To what do you attribute your success?"

"Hard work," replied the designer.

"Ah, the dominating factor of your life, eh?"

"Not at all," was the reply. "In fact, hard work and the dominating factor are, in effect, totally opposed."

"Well," explained the architect, "hard work makes the money, but the other—" (he shrugged his shoulder despairingly) "she simply spends it!

A Stylish Blouse

It's color these days, that makes a garment stylish! With a fifteen-cent envelope of Diamond Dyes, you can make an old or faded waist smart as any on display. Keep all your clothes stylish—through the quick magic of home dyeing.

Beautiful dyeing or perfectly gorgeous tinting is easy, if you'll only use original Diamond Dyes (true dyes). Brighten the house, too; curtains, spreads, etc., are Diamond dyed in an hour or less; right over other colors. FREE: Your druggist gives you the Diamond Dye Cyclopedia; valuable suggestions, easy directions, actual piece-goods color samples. Or write for illustrated book Color Craft, postpaid from DIAMOND DYES, Dept. N16, Burlington, Vermont.

Diamond Dyes

Just Dip to TINT, or Boil to DYE

Snowy White Clothes
WITHOUT RUBBING

N-R-G (Energy) Laundry Tablets wash clothes gloriously clean in ten minutes without rubbing. Clean everything like magic; cut soap bill in half. Removes ink, fruit stains, blood, rust, perspiration and all stains instantly.

Guaranteed Not to Injure the Hands or the Finest Fabric

Amazing results when N-R-G is used in the washing machine, either electric or hand driven. No boiling required. For sale at your grocer's, 15c per package. Valuable coupon with every package. Only four required for Silver Teaspoon. 25-year guarantee. Over 200 other premiums.

THE N-R-G PRODUCTS CO., CHICAGO, ILL.

Surely His Unlucky Day

Ernest Wespelser of South street, Holyoke, Mass., is the victim of a peculiar accident, all because he decided to put a tire on a high shelf of his garage, says the Boston Globe. When he tossed the tire to the shelf he knocked off a heavy object which struck him in the mouth breaking several teeth. He fell, and in doing so, again jarred the shelf, this time causing the tire to topple off and fracture his right leg.

The charm of a bathroom is its spotlessness. By the use of Russ Bleaching Blue all cloths and towels retain their whiteness until worn out.—Adv.

Repaid Hospitality

Twenty-four years ago a hobo stopped at the home of Mrs. Sarah Haughton, Myrtle Point, Ore., and asked for a handout. Mrs. Haughton gave the man a nice, fat sandwich. She has just received a letter from him inclosing two $1 bills and reminding her of her hospitality.

OAK floors add value to your home

They tone up every room, and make the house modern. Economical, permanent, beautiful. Save housework. Write for free descriptive literature.

OAK FLOORING BUREAU
1293 Builders' Building CHICAGO

British Good Turn

In connection with a minor railroad accident at Barmouth, England, near which boy scouts of Northampton were encamped, the scouts rendered an unusual good turn. It was decided to transfer passengers from several vacationists' trains to other trains, requiring the transfer also of tons of luggage. The scouts performed this task efficiently and with celerity.

In the Way

"I suppose you saw beautiful scenery out in the hill country?"

"We looked for it, but the hills cut off our view."

Butter Color Depends on YOU

Don't blame the feed or the condition of your stock if market men grade you low and customers complain on account of the color of your butter. You can keep your butter always that golden June color which brings top prices by using Dandelion Butter Color. It's purely vegetable and meets all State and National Pure Food Laws—used by all large creameries for years. It's harmless, tasteless and doesn't color buttermilk. Large bottles, 35c at all drug and grocery stores.

Write for FREE SAMPLE BOTTLE
Wells & Richardson Co., Inc
Burlington, Vermont

FLASH
Cleans All Hands
Factory agents or territory salesmen wanted. Write today. Flash Chemical Co., Cambridge, Mass.

NOVEMBER

L 915 0604

Local Briefs

Get a rent receipt book at News office. tf.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Hull took Sunday dinner in the Jay Bleeks home.

Mr. and Mrs. John Sailer of Sherwood, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Chris Sailer Saturday and Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Adam Shilling and Lucile Weiler, were Saturday and Sunday guests in the Alonzo Brace home near Hicksville. Carl Johnson, who works at the Brace home came after them.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Monroe and daughter of West Unity, Ohio, were guests here Sunday of the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Monroe. Verne Monroe and family were also dinner guests.

Paper and envelopes News office.

A daughter arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Williams at Fort Wayne on Tuesday morning. Name, Betsy Jane.

Mrs. C. Leigh of Lima, Ohio and Mrs. Belle Lott of Horton, Kan., visited last week with the former's daughter, Mrs. A. D. Goodwin and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Milliman of Edon, Ohio, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Milliman, Saturday and Sunday. The children of both families were present at a chicken dinner Sunday.

Miss Ethelyn Baker of Concord entertained her Sunday School class last Friday evening at her home. There were ten members and seven guests present, together with Miss Cleota Morr, teacher of the little folks. A lunch was served and games were played. The kiddies had a splendid evening together.

For Sale:—Jersey-Durham cow with calf by side. Robert Nichols. 44t1p.

Mrs. Tim Stull of Fort Wayne, was an over Sunday gues of Mr. and Mrs. Zay Sailer.

You can now buy Atwter-Kent Radio, 6 tube set for less than $100.00 complete. Kenneth Meek. 43tf.

Out of town callers in the F. M. Thornton home were Miss Martha Miser of Indianapolis and Messrs. H. M. Thornton and J. D. Brown of Elkhart on Saturday; and on Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Merle Wilkinson and two daughters of Mishawaka; Mrs. C. T. Bayman and daughter of New Haven, Mrs. L. Reed of Dayton and Mrs. Bessie Tustison of Springfield.

The new pavement between Waterloo and the Nodine crossing on the new right-of-way of the Waterloo-Butler road was opened to traffic Friday by the Indiana state highway commission. The pavement now extends from Waterloo east to the Ohio line and the highway commission has promised to hard surface the road west from Waterloo to Kendallville next year.

Visitors to the International Live Sock Exposition in Chicago November 26 to December 3 will find each day's program crowded from morning until night with educational and entertaining events of interest to every member of the family. The displays of breeding and fat live stock, crops, meats, government and state exhibits and boys' and girls' club products will be open for inspection throughout the Exposition and a brilliant horse show will occupy the arena every night except Sunday. Meetings of farm organizations and sales of pure-bred live stock will be held daily.

Daily papers at News office and magazines galore.

Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Foltz and family of Holgate, Ohio, were Sunday guests in the J. P. Buckingham home.

The new "Jac-O-Bean" parlor furnace is sold by Bowser & Reed. On display in our store. The price will fit your purse. 42tf.

The Misses Margaret Goodwin and Martha Miser, who are attending the Madam Blaker School at Indianapolis, spent the week end here with their parents.

Mrs. C. T. Bayman, daughters DeVeta and Susanna of New Haven and Mrs. Bessie Tustison of Springfield, Ohio, were Sunday afternoon callers on St. Joe friends.

The Postoffice Department today got its first annual Christmas "mail early" warning off its chest. The department advised that presents for persons in foreign countries should be sent soon after the middle of November.

The out-of-town friends who attended the funeral of H. M. Widney last week were from Albion, Fort Wayne, Huntertown, Butler, Auburn, Harlan, Warsaw, Columbia City and Brimfield, Indiana and Bryan and Hicksville, Ohio.

If Wabash county doesn't get a good sheriff in the election next year it will be entirely the voters' fault. With the election more than a year off, twenty-two candidates have tossed their hats in the ring for the sheriff's office on the Republican ticket.

Rally Day and Promotion services were held at the M. P. Sunday School last Sunday, with an increase in attendance. A good program was given, each class in the school contributing a number. The first quarterly communion was administered, following.

Real estate involved in a suit was sold Saturday afternoon by Sheriff John C. Armstrong at the court house door in Auburn. For the judgment and costs in the suit of David R. Kosht vs. Anna M. Hindman. Mr. Kosht bought the property involved for $1,779.56.

The U. B. Ladies Aid had a masquerade party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wall Wasson last Saturday evening and there were ninety-two present, of this number there were thirty-five masked. A lunch was served for ten cents and a dandy time was had. The facts are, Wall has not fully recovered from being surprised at the attendance.

Sheep dogs are again getting in their cruel work. Wall Wasson had two killed and five crippled a few days ago. One was driven into the river and drowned and the left eyes of three were torn out. Dogs are allowed to roam the country day and night and the sheep have to suffer. This is the worst year in many. Practically every flock in this community has been attacked this summer.

Clarence Hart is building a hen house at his farm north-east of St. Joe.

Chimney repairing is essential to safety of your home. Call Chas. Butler, Spencerville. 41t4p.

You can now buy Atwter-Kent Radio, 6 tube set for less than $100.00 complete. Kenneth Meek. 43tf.

D. C. Stephenson and his attorneys have again been defeated in their attempt to freedom.

Newville and Union townships are the only two not organized for extension work in the county.

Emmett Epler is home from Chicago on account of the lack of work. He is a mason by trade.

Have your glasses fitted by Benj. F. Griest, Eyesight Specialist, Office in American Bldg., Hicksville, Ohio. 28tf.

Chas. Hellinger and family contemplate moving from the Widney farm to near Fremont next month.

Persons wishing to hunt can obtain license at News Office. Also we attend to your notary work promptly.

Mrs. O. O. Wagoner and daughter, Gustabelle, of Garrett, were Friday guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hursh.

The District Meeting of the Ft. Wayne Sub-District of the M. P. Church, is in session at Elkhart this week. Rev. J. F. McKnight is attending from this place.

A sentence of forty days at the penal farm and forbidden driving an auto for one year was given Chas. Butler of Spencerville for intoxication at Auburn Monday evening.

Plans for the annual Red Cross drive were discussed at a called meeting Saturday in the Red Cross room of the DeKalb county court house. H. E. Hinklin of Garrett, will be the county chairman for this year's drive which will start November 11th., Armistice Day. E. R. Kinsey is chairman of Concord township.

The shower Tuesday night has changed the atmosphere somewhat but not so bad after all for first of November. It is indeed most wonderful weather for the farmer who is starting his husking and finishing digging potatoes. It has been real weather for those who enjoy camping about the river, and there is some being done. The rain was accompanied by a gale that did some damage.

NEW AND TESTED RECIPES FOR LADIES OF THE NEWS

FRUIT SALAD IN ORANGE CUPS

3 oranges
2 slices pineapple
12 marshmallows
One third cup nut meats
⅔ cup white grapes

Cut oranges in two; remove pulp carefully; then pull out all membrane leaving orange cups. Cut pineapple, marshmallows and nuts in small pieces; skin and seed the grapes and mix all with orange pulp. Fill orange cups, cover with cream and mayonnaise and garnish with grapes and nuts. Serve on lettuce.

INVALID OMELET

1 egg
Few gratings orange rind
1 tablespoon orange juice
Few grains salt
1 orange
2 teaspoons butter
2 teaspoons powdered sugar

Beat the egg slightly, adding the orange rind and juice and salt. Peel the orange, removing all white membrane, and cut into very thin slices. Sprinkle with one teaspoon of the powdered sugar. Melt the butter in hot individual omelet pan or frying pan. Pour in the egg mixture and cook over a low heat, shaking the pan and pricking the mixture with a fork until all the mixture is cooked. Sprinkle with remaining sugar and surround with slices of oranges.

SUNDAY SCHOOL REPORTS

The following is the report of Sunday schools in this vicinity for last Sunday, according to information sent The News by representatives of the schools reported.

M. P.	78	$[illegible]
Lutheran	75	$3.73
Spencerville M. E.	85	$4.[illegible]
Lutheran	68	$3.53
Coburntown	63	$3.45

CHRIST FOR ALL—ALL FOR CHRIST

The Word of God

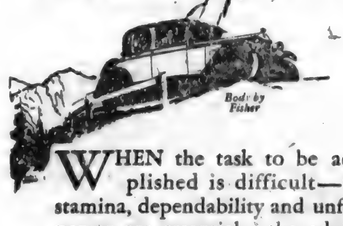
Thy word is a lamp unto my feet, and a light unto my path.—Psalm 119: 105.

THE WAY TO FREEDOM:—Ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free. John 8: 32.

PRAYER:—O Lord, reveal thyself to us, for thou art the Truth, and we will rejoice in thy liberty.

WHEN BETTER AUTOMOBILES ARE BUILT, BUICK WILL BUILD THEM

Power
where power counts most



WHEN the task to be accomplished is difficult—when stamina, dependability and unfailing power are essential—the advice of those who know is, "Buy a Buick!" Drive one today and find out why.

Sedans $1195 to $1995 - Coupes $1195 to $1850
Sport Models $1195 to $1525
All prices f. o. b. Flint, Mich., government tax to be added. The G. M. A. C. financing plan, the most desirable, is available.

BUICK for 1928

BUICK SALES & SERVICE, Auburn.

ATWATER KENT RADIO

The World's Most Famous Radio has made a reduction in price such that the entire radio world is taking notice of it. Without question this is the most remarkable achievement in the entire radio industry to date.

Below we quote you the new and old prices to show the amount of the reduction on the models carried:

	Old	New
Model 35	$65.00	$49.00
Model 30	80.00	65.00
Model 33	90.00	75.00
Model 32, 7 tube	110.00	90.00
Model L, Speaker	16.00	12.50
Model E, Speaker	30.00	24.00

Machines are in operation at St. Joe Garage, also drop me card for other information desired about any of the models.

Kenneth Meek

SPENCERVILLE — ST. JOE

We Buy CLOVER SEED!
Bring Your SEEDS to Us
WE WILL PAY YOU HIGHEST MARKET PRICES

NATHAN Grain Co.
St. Joe's New Lumber Yard
Call By Phone for Prices — Bert Jackson, Mgr.

If You SQUINT, READ THIS!

Do you know that squinting is much more than a habit? Behind the act of squinting there is usually a more or less severe error of vision which is the cause of the squint. Generally when the error of vision has been corrected the squinting disappears. If YOU squint, let us tell you if an error of vision is probably the cause. Then act accordingly.

ED. W. HICKS
AUBURN
"OUR SPECIALTY — COMFORTABLE VISION"

PUBLIC SALE!

On account of leaving the farm, the undersigned will sell at Public Sale at residence, located on the old Samuel Davis farm, 1½ miles east of Coburntown Church on the Hicksville-Spencerville road or 4 miles west of Hicksville, and 4 miles south o f Newville, commencing at 10:30o'clock, on

Thursday, Nov. 10th

The following described personal property, to-wit:

HORSES: Bay horse 7-yrs. old, weight 1,680 lb; Sorrel horse 6-yrs. old, weight 1,700; Gray mare 10-yrs. old, weight 1,150; Brown mare, smooth mouth. All are extra good workers.

CATTLE: Roan Durham cow 4-yr. old; Spotted Durham cow 4-yr. old; Holstein cow 3-yr. old; Jersey cow 3-yr. old; All giving milk and will freshen in February and March. Jersey cow 3-yrs. old; 1 Spotted Jersey cow 3-yrs. old, dry pasture bred; 2 yearling calves; Jersey bull 3-yrs. old; Jersey cow 7-yrs. old, close up springer and Spotted cow 8-yrs. old will freshen December 20. Good Holstein cow giving milk.

SHEEP: 65 Breeding ewes; 40 Spring lambs; Shropshire Buck.

HOGS: 4 Brood Sows; 10 feeder shoats weighing 100 pounds each; 28 Fall Pigs; Duroc Boar 2½ yrs. old.

Some hay in the mow.

MACHINERY: Fordson Tractor in good shape; 12-inch trdactor plows and pulleys; 3-horse power Fairbanks & Morse Gasoline engine; 3 farm wagons: Turnbull 3¼ inch; Columbus 3½ inch; Birdsell 3¼ inch; 2 tight bottom grain racks; Deering binder 7-ft. cut; with tongue truck; Deering mower Emerson side delivery, combined rake and tedder; Superior drill; New Way corn planter; Daine loader; New Idea manure spreader; Roller; Tandem disc; 2 riding cultivators; John Deere Sulky breaking plow; Oliver walking plow; Stock rack; Spring and Spike tooth harrow; Sulky corn cutter; Bob sled; Shovel plow; Buzz saw; 2 set gravel boards; Hog feeder; 2 steel hog houses; Oil barrel and tanks; 2 colony houses; Coal brooder stove; Wisconsin 140 egg incubator; Set of light and heavy work harness; Buggy; Breaking cart; Iron kettle; Lard press; A good Sausage grinder and many other articles not mentioned.

TERMS:—Sums of $10:00 and under, CASH; sums greater a credit of 12 months will be given purchasers giving notes with approved security. The first 6 months without interest, the last 6 months to draw theregular rate of interest. No goods to be removed until settled for.

Lunch served by Spencerville M. E. Ladies Aid Society

DELL NELSON & SON

Rhodenbaugh & McNamara, Auctioneers — G. C. Rectenwall, Clerk

REAL ESTATE NEWS

CONCORD

Otto E. and Sylvia Ginther to Wm. L. Hollabaugh, 1 acre sec. 15, $1,475.

SPENCER

Wm. G. Erick, adm. John A. Provines estate, to R. S. Bowser and Jas. T. Reed, s. 2-3 lots 8, 9, 10, O. P., Spencerville, $2,200.

Geo. A. Bishop et. al. to Wm. Franklin and Flossie J. Rhoads, tract sec. 28, $1.

Arthur Wilmot to John W. P. and Ella A. Crothers, 3 acres sec. 23, $1,000.

Willis Rhoads, commissioner, to John and Lulu Gorrell, 38.83 acres sec. 34, $1,700.

ST. JOE

Mary Bowman to Frank R. and Esther M. Bowman, e. 33 ft. lot 2, block 5, O. P., $1.

REQUIRE SAFE DRIVING

The common mistake made by most people in dealing with automobile accidents at railrord grade crossings, is that they consider the crossing instead of the driver.

A railroad crossing is a danger only when and to the extent that it is made so by careless driving. The automobile is what we must think about, not the crossing. We must change practices instead of grades. Ninety per cent of all auto accidents occur on the highways. Not over 10 per cent occur at grade crossings.

Grade changes will not prevent accidents at intersections and elsewhere on the highways, but improved or safe practices in driving will prevent them everywhere.

Grade changes would heavily burden the taxpayers and tie up a large amount of money for unproductive purposes, while yet leaving 90 per cent of the hazard of automobile accidents uncared for.

Let us require safe driving, which costs nothing, yet will remove the hazard not only at grade crossings but on the highways also.

RUPTURE Shield EXPERT HERE

E. J. Meinhardi, of Chicago, the well-known expert will personally be at the Anthony Hotel, Fort Wayne, Ind., on Monday and Tuesday only, November 7th and 8th, from 10:00 A. M. to 5:00 P. M. daily. Mr. Meinhardi says:

"The Meinhardi Vacuum Shield" will not only retain the Rupture perfectly, but contracts the opening in 10 days on the average case—usually giving instantaneous relief withstanding all strain regardless of the size or location of the Rupture.

CAUTION—Do not expose yourself to the danger of wearing old-style trusses with understraps. These trusses usually place the pad on the lump and not on the rupture opening. This often causes strangulation which usually necessitates an immediate surgical operation or results in sudden death.

"The Meinhardi Vacuum Shield" has no understraps. It is perfectly sanitary and practically indestructible and can be worn while bathing.

Only gentlemen are invited to call at this time as special arrangements will be announced later for women and children.

NOTICE: Please do not write asking to be fitted by mail as this is impossible. I send out no literature as every case must be seen personally; therefore, I visit this section every year—giving demonstration without charge, or will be pleased to fit you if desired. All cases that I have fitted here during the past five years will please call for inspection. Please note the above dates and hours carefully and always insist on seeing me personally.—(This visit is for white people only.)—E. J. MEINHARDI, HOME OFFICE, 1551 N. CRAWFORD AVE., CHICAGO.

P. S. FRAUD WARNING: Beware of imposters who imitate my notices and claim to represent me. I have no representatives and send out no literature.

NOVEMBER

L 91 0605

SPENCERVILLE

The Sunday Chicago Herald and Examiner now on sale at News office. 4tf.

John Koch while building a fence recently, severely injured his hand.

George Doll, wife and daughter of Fort Wayne, spent Sunday in the John Doll home.

The Home Missionary Society will meet on Thursday afternoon with Mrs. Gertrude Smith.

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Webb of Montgomery, Mich., were Sunday guests in the Joseph Webb home.

Miss Bina Zimmerman became ill very suddenly Sunday morning but is some better at this writing.

Mr. and Mrs. Jason Keyes were both very ill last week. Mrs. Keyes is suffering with heart trouble.

Dr. and Mrs. F. W. Silberg and daughter, Orpha, of Butler, were Sunday guests in the C. G. Rectenwall home.

Paul Dean and wife of Fort Wayne, were week end guests of Floyd Dean and Eck Hursh and their families.

Otis Koch, wife and children and Miss Marguerite Koch of Ft. Wayne, were week end guests in the John Koch home.

Mesdames Ethel Bowser and Cleo Reed will entertain the members of the C. C. Club at Mrs. Reed's home on Friday afternoon.

Forrest Beams, who has been attending the Northern Ohio Teachers Convention, at Toledo, returned home Sunday evening.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. James Moody of Fort Wayne on Tuesday a daughter. Mrs. Moody will be remembered as Miss Viola Zimmerman.

Marcene and Leona Smith visited friends here Sunday. They were Sunday evening supper guests of Miss Ada Bowser. The B. L. Smith family have recently moved to Garrett.

A large number of friends and relatives reminded Mrs. Georgia Jenkins, Sunday of her birthday anniversary. They arrived with well filled baskets and a delightful birthday dinner was enjoyed.

Miss Bina Zimmerman very pleasantly entertained the Young Ladies Social Club at her home on Saturday evening. Prizes were won by Miss Alien Rhodes, Mrs. Violette Erick, Miss Ida Reed and Miss Garnett Beams.

The Methodist Epworth League gave a Hallowe'en party at the old parsonage on Saturday night. There were sixty-eight present. Prizes were won by Miss Virginia Goldsmith and Mrs. Gloyd. Pot luck supper was enjoyed.

Henry Markle very pleasantly entertained the Senior class, teachers and friends at a Hallowe'en party on Wednesday evening. Contests and games furnished the evening's entertainment, which all enjoyed. A weiner bake and other refreshments.

Guests in the J. C. Vallieu home Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Vallieu and daughters from Harlan, Mr. and Mrs. L. V. Myers and daughter, Nancy Lou and Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Vallieu and daughter, Norma Jean of Fort Wayne, Mrs. Mellie Wise and son, Dinn of near Waterloo and Austin Myers of Auburn.

Mr. and Mrs. R. U. Bowser enjoyed a rabbit fry at the home of the former's brother, Iven Bowser and family on Sunday evening. Other guests were Mrs. Fanny Archer, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Hagerly, Daniel Hagerly, Victor Walker and wife of Fort Wayne, Harold Bowser, wife and baby of near Huntertown.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvie Kimes entertained Sunday in honor of the birthdays of their son, Donald and Mrs. Mortie Widdifield. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Donald Kimes and son Robert Gene, Mr. and Mrs. Mortie Widdifield, Mr. and Mrs. Vern Wilmot and son, George of Fort Wayne and Mr. Eli Fales. Afternoon callers at the same home were Mrs. Reba Rodebaugh, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Wasson of Fort Wayne and Ora Spitler of Leo.

J. L. Farver spent Sunday in the Ray Farver home, this being Mr. Farver's seventieth birthday anniversary. Mr. Sam Potts and family and S. E. Stimman and family were also helping to remind him of the date at the same place. He having been born in Spencerville and lived here until eight years of age. The rest of his life has been spent in Jackson Township. Mr. C. C. O'Bryant and family, a contractor of Kenton, Ohio, were callers at the same home.

With the Churches

ST. JOE M. P. CHURCH

Mrs. Hattie Widney, Supt.
Sunday School, 9:30 A. M.
Christian Endeavor, 6:00 P. M.
Address, 7:30 by Pettit, "Christian Education.
Pageant, Jehovah-Jireh.

CONCORD M. P. CHURCH

George Johnson, Supt.
Sunday school 9:30 A. M.
Address, 10:30 by Mr. Pettit.
Christian Endeavor, 6:30.
J. F. McKnight, Pastor.

EVANGELICAL LUTHERAN CHURCHES

"Blessed are they which hunger and thirst after righteousness, for they shall be filled." Matt. 5: 6.

A man may be measured by his desires. Righteousness is a supreme object of desire. The desire is the measure of the supply. A real desire culminates in action. Hunger drives to work.

What leads people thus to hunger and thirst? A sense of insufficiency. A sense of guilt. A perception of utter inefficacy of all human prescriptions to remove sin or supply righteousness. Those who hunger and thirst are blessed, because it is the evidence of a new nature and of acceptance with God. They are "filled"—satisfied, with righteousness, happiness and finally with the likeness of God.

ST. JOE

Sabbath Bible School at 9:30 A. M., Mr. Derwood Ridgway, Superintendent.

Divine Service at 10:30 A. M.

SPENCERVILLE

Sabbath Bible School at 9:15 A. M., Mr. Ray Means, Superintendent.

Divine Service at 7:00 o'clock.

We shall be happy to have you worship with us. If you have no church home here as yet, join us.

P. B. Roediger, Pastor.

CHURCH OF CHRIST

The name "Christian" was given to the disciples of our Lord, first in Antioch. "And the disciples were called Christians in Antioch." The word "called" used in this verse is from the Greek word "chrematizo" which occurs in noun and verbal forms ten times in the New Testament. In these ten places the word is so used as to be an expression of divine authority, meaning to give a divine admonition or to announce an oracle. If the word carries divine authority in it as these ten references show were not the disciples at Antioch, by divine authority called Christians?

There is another word "kaleo" used 146 times in the New Testament which is the Greek word for "call" when not by divine authority, which word would have been used if these disciples had been called Christians by their enemies. Search and know.

Lord's Supper, 10:30 A. M.
Sermon, 11:15 A. M., sun time.

ST. JOE

Ed Storer, Supt.
Bible School, 9:30 A. M.
Lord's Supper, 10:30 A. M.
Sermon, 7:00 P. M.

NEWVILLE

Frank Lyons, Superintendent
Bible School, 10:00 A. M., sun time.
Lord's Supper, 11:00 A. M., sun time.
Sermon 11:15 A. M., Sun time.
R. S. Aldrich, Pastor.

Methodist Episcopal Church Spencerville

Sunday School, 9:00 A. M.—John Koch, Superintendent.
Epworth League, 6:00 P. M.
Preaching service alternating morning and evening with Scipio.

NOTES ON SERVICE

Attending Christ's School

Matt. 11: 29. "Take my yoke upon you, and learn of me." To be a Christian is to be in right relations with God and man, to accept and follow Jesus Christ as personal Savior and Lord, to live a life of love and loyalty to Him and of unselfish service to men, to forsake sin and, by the grace of God freely given, to bring life up to its best in all things.

Religion, then, is not a thing to be possessed, but a personal relation to be sustained. Men do not get religion, they become religious. When Christ becomes their Saviour, they enter his school to learn how to live the Christian life. Christ is the teacher, we are the pupils.

The first lesson is on prayer. "Lord teach us to pray."

The answer comes in two-fold form:

1. How not to pray.
2. How to pray.

(a) It is always easier to learn a thing than it is to unlearn it so Jesus sets a guard right at first. Matt. 6: 5-8.

Not as the hypocrites—to be seen of men.

Not as the heathen—with vain repetitions thinking thereby to persuade God.

(b) The positive form of prayer.

Luke 11: 1-13.

Verses 2-4, a model of prayer—a prayer of adoration, confession, petition. Verses 5-8, intercession. Verses 9-10, the assurance of prayer. Verses 11, 12, the naturalness of prayer. Verse 13, God's willingness to give the Holy Spirit to those who ask.

The Young Christian who begins his Christian life with the habit of prayer will not be apt to go astray.

Roy S. Brown, Pastor.

RECEIVER NAMED FOR CORUNNA BANK

Judge Endicott Authorizes Auburn State Bank to Wind Up Business

A receivership for the Thomas Exchange bank at Corunna was petitioned for by Luther Symons, commissioner of banking for the State of Indiana in the DeKalb circuit court late Tuesday afternoon.

Judge W. P. Endicott granted the petition and appointed the Auburn State bank to act as receiver and the latter filed an acceptance.

The petition recites that the Thomas Exchange bank is a private bank organized and doing business as a bank of discount and deposit, and for many years has been doing a general banking business.

Mr. Symons in his petition stated that Milo J. Thomas was the sole and exclusive owner of the Thomas Exchange bank for many years and that on the 16th day of October, 1927, Mr. Thomas died testate, and that by the terms of his will Mrs. Vesta Thomas, his widow, became the owner of all property, real and personal of which Mr. Thomas died the owner, including all stock of the bank.

Mr. Symons further says that at the death of Mr. Thomas the bank was closed and has since remained closed; that there are a large number of depositors who have money deposited in the bank and as such are creditors of said bank.

Mr. Symons further says that there is now no person authorized to take charge of said bank or to operate it or preserve the assets thereof and that the property and funds of the bank are in danger of being lost, removed and materially injured unless a receiver be appointed to take charge of it.

In asking the court for a receiver the petition asks that the receiver wind up the business and affairs of the bank, and for all other proper relief.

OUR BOARDING HOUSE

"Yes!" remarked old man Tuttle "we have a right good boarding house. This morning the waitress gave me two eggs. I opened one and pushed it away. The landlady saw me and got peeved. 'Shall I open the other egg for you,' she said sarcastically. 'No! But you might open the window,' I replied. That made her real mad. 'I think you had better board somewhere else' she spluttered. 'I should say I did' I replied, 'but the people moved and I had to come here.

"There's a big Newfoundland dog that walks around the table after every meal. No napkins are furnished, so we have the habit of wiping our fingers on the dog. We never mind it except on Saturday. That's the day we have soup for dinner.

Shoes fitted with safety garters that slip on over the toe and sole and will not slip off during the wriggling foot movements of the Charleston, are becoming popular in London.

Russel R. Reidenour
ATTORNEY
Auburn, Ind.

Out of the Pepper Box
By Ben F. Williams

It's idle to think the ideal life is the idle life.

The Cynical Bachelor says the modern girl knows three times as much as she should and only half as much as she ought to.

For every evil there is a remedy, but not always someone to apply it.

In the school of experience if you don't get the lesson the first time, it is repeated with emphasis.

The big difference between Lindbergh and the other boys is that Lindy put on the show and let the rest of us do the talking.

A car may be no good as a hill climber and yet run up a wonderful bill at the garage.

Flapper Flo says that distance lends enchantment—and points to the man who is well off to prove it.

Advice, like a kiss, is delightful only when agreeable to both parties.

One good idea at work is worth a thousand tossed back and forth by a half-asleep brain.

The liar is finally punished by believing his own lies.

It's commendable to abhor and condemn evil; but its equally commendable to endorse and practice good.

There are eighty-seven women scientists, including chemists, zoologists, physicists, botanists and pathologists, employed in the Government departments in Washington.

INDIANA AUTO PLATES TO BE WHITE AND BROWN

Indianapolis, Oct. 28.—Indiana's 1928 license plates will be white and brown—white letters and numerals with a brown background. Instead of carrying the abbreviated inscription, "Ind. '27," the plate will spell out "Indiana—1928."

DR. C. R. BAUMGARTNER
Veterinarian
Spencerville, Ind.
PHONES: 282--283.

We Do STATIONERY PRINTING on HAMMERMILL BOND

PHONE 290
Stanley P. Nelson Monuments
Opposite Woodlawn and Roselawn Cemeteries
AUBURN, IND.

Dr. E. T. Julian
M. D.
St. JOE
9:30 to 11:30 each forenoon at Dr. C. R. Price office.

Let Us Print Your Sale Bills

With two-thirds of a million of these new style plates, fastidious folk who insist on color harmony in their motor cars will just have a case of repairing their horseless carriages.

Many who dare criticize the beauty of the plate will have to agree it can by no means be called common. Throughout the United States the color combination cannot be found in any other 1928 plates.

Forty-two states have adopted new colors for new plates to go on America's 25,000,000 automobiles and 23 different color combinations are to be found in the lot. But Texas alone approaches the Indiana plate with white figures and a dark brown background.

Five states selected white background with black lettering, the reverse of Indiana's present combination.

You can order these new plates any time at News office.

"GHOST OF DIAMOND HILL" CAUSES STIR AT WAWAKA

Farmers Near Noble County Town to Call at "Haunted House"

"The Ghost of Diamond Hill" at last has got on the nerves of farmers living near Wawaka to such an extent that they are planning an old-fashioned ghost-laying party. Farmers and their wives will spend a night in the haunted house where the ghost resides and will make an effort to discover the cause of the creepy "goings on" which have been reported.

On Diamond Hill, the highest point in this vicinity, stands a deserted house and barn, on an untilled deserted farm. The house, once the scene of merry gatherings of young folk of pioneer days, is crumbling to ruins, the roof is caving in and window casements falling out. There the ghost is said to make his dwelling.

Strange tales of unexplainable lights, weird moans and other haunting phenomena have been current in Wawaka for many months, and several people attest to having seen, heard or felt visitations of the ghost.

Visitors at the house during the daytime are plentiful, but nothing unusual has been discovered by such timid investigators. The building is constructed of black walnut, they say. The barn has a wall of dead white stones, fashioned by a master artison of pioneer days. A rank growth of weeds infests the yard. Here and there a beautiful French lilac bush, almost choked by the weeds, thrusts up its head. An atmosphere of death hangs over the vicinity.

But the scoffers only smile at this description, and promise to bring back something more tangible than a ghost when they pay their call.

THE BUTLER
LADIES BAND
Will Present a
Musical Comedy In 2 Acts
Miss Caruthers Returns
Benefit Community Hall
SPENCERVILLE
Saturday Eve., Nov. 5
Curtain 8:30 Admission 15-25

MONEY
Is Like the Water Of a RIVER

"Money is like the water of a river" a French historian has said. "If it suddenly floods, it devastates; divide it into a thousand channels where it circulates quietly and it brings life to every spot." Our present system of economic distribution, efficiently divides our national wealth into many channels. One of these channels is flowing into your purse. True, it may not be much more than a trickling stream, but it is there at your disposal.

How are you handling it? Are you trying to irrigate a thousand acres with but enough to nourish one? Are you allowing it to dissipate itself in futile spending or are you utilizing its power for something really worth while? The members of the "Get Ahead Club" have built dams across their streams, and are controlling the flood gates in order to make every drop work. One outlet leads to a savings account. Some day it is going to be big enough to help its owner realize his most worthwhile dream. These people are getting ahead in the world.

Farmers' & Merchants State Bank
Spencerville, Ind.

NOVEMBER

L 915 U606

New Hats of the Season

By JULIA BOTTOMLEY

WHEN is a brim not a brim? Many a stylish felt shape gives clew to the answer by flaunting a graceful tiara flare athwart its snug-fitting crown, which a closeup view reveals as nothing more or less than the brim "that was." This game of hide-and-seek which fashionable hats are playing with their brims, presenting them in the guise of flares and flanges on the crown, accounts for a very flattering new silhouette which is at this moment prominent in the mode.

These new hats which transform brims into crown flares are proving a boon to women who cannot becomingly wear the simple unadorned now-so modish skull types which hide ears and eyebrows and which so conscientiously follow the line of the hair at the nap of the neck.

In the instance of the little black felt hat centered in this illustration the milliner deliberately snips off the narrow brim, elevating it to a position of prominence in the form of a flare bridging the crown from ear to ear. A flare which displays a change of location for the ripple brim, the designer having cut it away from the headline, positioning it across the top crown, gives super-chic to the model shown at the top to the right in this group. This clever hat is of honey-beige felt.

Sometimes these crown flares take on exaggerated lines, as is instanced in the attractive model shown first in this collection of advanced millinery modes. A wide flare cut from white felt is here posed on a snug-fitting black velvet toque, giving the impression of an imposing beret.

Contrasting the felt hat which glories in its brimlessness are many new ripple-brim collapsible (because of their suppleness) velvet hats. Many of these are tinged with gleaming metal, most often in the form of machine stitching.

The two models shown in this picture are typical of a popular mode. The ripple brim of the one to the right is stitched with gold thread, with tiny gilt beads edging its brim. Metal ribbon ties about its crown. The other velvet hat is just such as women are choosing for their "first" hat this autumn.

(©, 1927, Western Newspaper Union.)

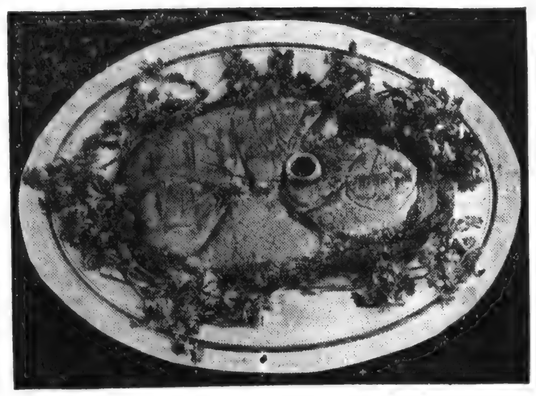
FAVORITE RECIPE FOR COOKING YOUNG CARROTS

New, young carrots should be quickly cooked in a small amount of water. The seasonings suggested in this recipe from the United States Department of Agriculture are not only appetizing, but they add to the food value of the dish:

8 or 10 medium-sized carrots
¼ cup butter
½ teaspoon salt
1 or 2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 tablespoon finely chopped parsley

Wash and scrape the carrots and cut them in slices or dice. Cook them in a small amount of boiling salted water until tender, or for about ten or fifteen minutes. Melt the butter, add the lemon juice and the parsley. Pour over the carrots and serve at once.

Sliced Ham Convenient to Serve



Broiled Sliced Ham Is Appetizing.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Sliced ham is one of the easiest and nicest meats to serve. There are several appetizing ways of preparing it. Select a lean slice of ham from the center of a large heavy leg. Have it cut about three-fourths of an inch thick. If it is too thin it will dry out and become hard when cooked. Trim off any rind, and score the edges so the slice will lie flat while cooking.

If experience has shown that the brand of ham you use is a little too salty for the family taste, freshen it either in sour milk or buttermilk, or by covering it with cold water and bringing it to the boiling point. Soaking it in sour milk makes it tender. The ham may be fried, pan-boiled, broiled over a coal or wood fire, or baked in milk. Grease the pan lightly with ham fat if you are frying it, and cook until each side is delicately browned. Do not cook longer than necessary. A gravy made from the fat and juices in the pan is often served with fried or pan-boiled ham. Eggs, fried in the ham fat, may be served, too, if the man of the house is particularly fond of this combination.

The slice of ham may be baked slowly in milk. A layer of raw sliced potatoes is placed over the meat. From time to time a little more milk may be added so that the potatoes and ham remain covered until the ham is tender.

The BABY

Why do so many, many babies of today escape all the little fretful spells and infantile ailments that used to worry mothers through the day, and keep them up half the night?

If you don't know the answer, you haven't discovered pure, harmless Castoria. It is sweet to the taste, and sweet in the little stomach. And its gentle influence seems felt all through the tiny system. Not even a distasteful dose of castor oil does so much good.

Fletcher's Castoria is purely vegetable, so you may give it freely, at first sign of colic; or constipation; or diarrhea. Or those many times when you just don't know what is the matter. For real sickness, call the doctor, always. At other times, a few drops of Fletcher's Castoria.

The doctor often tells you to do just that; and always says Fletcher's. Other preparations may be just as pure, just as free from dangerous drugs, but why experiment? Besides, the book on care and feeding of babies that comes with Fletcher's Castoria is worth its weight in gold!

Good Things to Eat

By NELLIE MAXWELL

All you have really to do is to keep your back as straight as you can, and not think about what is on it: above all, not to boast of what is on it. The real meaning of virtue is that straightness of the back.—Ruskin.

Sweet cider, besides being a delicious autumn drink, is a splendid flavoring agent. Try baking the next ham with cider poured over it, basting it often during the baking. For occasions when such iced dishes are appropriate the following will be enjoyed:

Cider Frappe.—Boil together one and one-half cupfuls of sugar and a pint of water for five minutes, then add one quart of sweet cider, two cupfuls of orange juice, one-half cupful of lemon juice. Cool and freeze to a mush.

Cookies made at this season are good as long as they last, making a dainty tidbit to serve with a cup of tea.

Spice Cookies.—Cream one-half cupful of butter and one-half cupful of lard with one cupful of sugar. Add one cupful of molasses, one tablespoonful each of ginger and cinnamon, one teaspoonful of ground cloves, one and one-half teaspoonfuls of soda dissolved in one-half cupful of hot water. Mix and chill well after adding flour enough to roll. Leave in a cold place over night and bake in the morning.

Cornflake Macaroons.—Beat two egg whites until light, add one cupful of sugar and one cupful each of coconut and cornflakes, two tablespoonfuls of flour and a teaspoonful of vanilla, with a pinch of salt. Drop by teaspoonfuls on baking sheet and bake until lightly browned.

Vegetable Salad.—Take one-fourth cupful of French dressing, add one teaspoonful of finely minced parsley and chopped onion, mix and pour over one cupful of shredded cabbage, sliced celery and radish and carrot fine grated. Toss and mix well with two forks, then serve on lettuce.

Apple and Nut Sandwich.—Chop a small, cored, peeled apple and mix with finely minced nuts and a little salad dressing. Spread on well-buttered whole wheat bread.

Raspberry Lacto.—Take a pint of raspberry juice or the juice from a quart of good berries. Canned berries may be use; add enough sugar to sweeten and a quart of rich, fresh buttermilk. Freeze and serve in sherbet cups. This is an especially healthful dessert and not so cloying to the taste as many rich creams.

Roast Cannelon of Beef.—Take one and one-half pounds of ground round steak, the grated rind of a lemon, one-fourth teaspoonful of ground mace, two tablespoonfuls of butter, one-fourth teaspoonful of pepper, the same of paprika and a sprinkling of cayenne. Mix thoroughly, make into a roll, cover with strips of bacon and arrange across the roll four large bananas, halved lengthwise. Sprinkle with lemon juice and bake a delicate brown. Serve with the bacon and bananas as a garnish.

Calves' Tongues Boiled.—Cover four fresh calves' tongues with boiling water, add five slices of carrot, two stalks of celery, one onion stuck with six cloves, fifteen peppercorns and one-half tablespoonful of salt. Cook until the tongues are tender. Remove the skin and roots and cut into halves lengthwise. Cook one-half can of tomatoes with two cupfuls of brown stock reduced to half. Reheat the tongues in the sauce. Serve garnished with parsley and lemon slices and triangles of bread sauted in butter.

Sweetbread Ramekins.—Cream and parboil one sweetbread and cut it into small cubes. Melt two tablespoonfuls of butter, add three of flour and when well blended add one cupful of chicken stock. Reheat the sweetbread in the sauce: add one-fourth of a cupful of heavy cream, whipped, one-half teaspoonful of beef extract and salt and paprika to taste, with a bit of lemon juice. Fill ramekin dishes, cover with buttered crumbs and bake until the crumbs are brown.

Creamed Tuna.—Put six tablespoonfuls of butter into a saucepan and when melted add the same amount of flour, one teaspoonful of salt and pepper to taste. Stir into a double boiler with three cupfuls of milk, cook until thick, then add one can of flaked tuna fish and four hard cooked eggs cut into bits. Serve on hot crackers or toast.

Mexican Hash.—Take two cupfuls of any good stuffing, add an equal amount of bread crumbs and a few tablespoonfuls of leftover corn, season well with salt, pepper and butter and moisten with any leftover gravy. Put into a baking dish and bake until hot.

Cranberry and Cottage Cheese.—Stew cranberries and sweeten, then mold into small forms. Serve unmolded on plates with a small mold of seasoned cottage cheese. Garnish with a spoonful of mayonnaise.

(©, 1927, Western Newspaper Union.)

When the Sandman Comes

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

"Come on, Brownies," said Billie Brownie, "we must have a bonfire."

"Come on," said his brother Bennie Brownie, "we must surely have a bonfire."

"Come on, Gnomes," said Peter Gnome, "we must certainly have a bonfire."

"Come on, Old Mr. Giant," said Witty Witch, "we're going to have a bonfire."

"Come on Every Little Oaf," said Ollie Oaf, "we're going to have a bonfire."

"Come on Fairies," said the Queen of the Fairies, "we're going to have a bonfire."

"It's the fall of the year and the leaves are all ready to be burned in the biggest, hugest bonfire ever before seen," said Billie Brownie.

So all the members of the Oaf family and of the Gnome family and of the Fairies and of the Brownies came along, and then Effie Elf called out:

"Come, Elves, come every one of you, there is going to be a mighty bonfire."

Fairy Twilight Bell came along and so did Fairy Wondrous Secrets.

Fairy Ybub came and so did the Fairyland Orchestra who played while they all danced around the bonfire later in the evening when it was almost out.

They Jumped Into the Great Pile

But first they jumped into the great pile of leaves, they played games, they made leaf houses and leaf walks and leaf gardens.

And then they piled the leaves back on the great, huge pile.

Old Witty Witch told stories as they sat around the bonfire. Old Mr. Giant told stories, too.

The Fairies sang a song called: "The Fall in Fairyland" and into the song they had put descriptions of the flaming trees in the fall, the winds, the warm, drowsy sunshine, the cold, quick, crisp air, the work of Jack Frost—oh, they had described everything.

But when the bonfire was at its height no one said a word.

Every brownie and every fairy and every gnome and every oaf and every elf and old Witty Witch and Old Mr. Giant all sat without saying a single word while the Bonfire Fairies chuckled, danced and laughed and scampered and crackled and snapped and flamed in the great, great bonfire.

Never had there been a bonfire like it.

And surely, it stands to reason, that they just must have been right!

(©, 1927, Western Newspaper Union.)

Children Cry for Fletcher's CASTORIA

Easy to Send Telegram

To invite greater use of telegrams convenient coin booths are being established in rural and little frequented territories and operate in a manner similar to the telephone pay booths. In sending a wire, one simply lifts the receiver, gives the message to a waiting operator at a central office and deposits the necessary amount of money in the coin box.

Black Walnut Waffles.

1¾ cups flour, 1¾ level teaspoons Calumet Baking Powder, ½ level teaspoon salt, 1 cup milk, 2 eggs, 1 tablespoon melted butter, ½ cup chopped black walnuts. Sift flour, measure and sift three times with baking powder and salt. Add milk gradually, then yolks of eggs well beaten, butter and then whites of eggs beaten stiff; then add nuts. Bake on greased hot waffle iron.

Homeopathic

"My wife's mother has kleptomania."

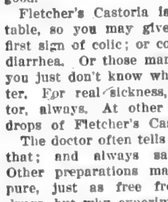
"What's she taking for it?"

"Everything she can lay her hands on."—Boston Transcript.

Children's handkerchiefs often look hopeless when they come to the laundry. Wash with good soap, rinse in water blued with Russ Bleaching Blue. —Adv.

The bureau of public roads has developed an instrument that determines accurately the relative smoothness of a highway.

A Voice That Wants to Reach Every Mother



Flint, Mich. —"I am the mother of eight children and during each of my expectant periods I took Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription and it kept my nerves in good condition, kept me so well and strong that I was always able to do all my own work — never suffered like so many do. While the 'Favorite Prescription' strengthens and keeps the prospective mother well, it is also helping to make the child healthy and strong. I would not think of going thru the ordeal of motherhood without taking the 'Prescription.'" —Mrs. Charles Gunsell, 1639 St. John St.

Send 10c to Dr. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., for trial pkg. of Tablets.

Inherited Tendency

Grocer—My son—the one that used to help me in the shop here—has gone in for boxing. Won a championship, too!

Customer—Aye, I remember him. I suppose he'll have won the lightweight championship?—Tit-Bits.

The world knows nothing of its greatest men.—Taylor.

Boschee's Syrup

has been relieving coughs due to colds for sixty-one years.

Soothes the Throat

loosens the phlegm, promotes expectoration, gives a good night's rest free from coughing. 30c and 90c bottles. Buy it at your drug store. G. G. Green, Inc., Woodbury, N. J.

Selecting the Sports Costume

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Clothing that looks attractive in a store or catalogue, when considered alone, often proves unsatisfactory when seen at home as part of a costume. This is particularly true of separate blouses, sweaters, jackets and skirts. Unless these are definitely selected to be combined with garments one already has or new ones bought for a complete costume, and unless the colors in the two separate articles harmonize, the effect may be very unfortunate. It is usually safest to plan an entire costume as a whole, even when it consists of two or more pieces, as in the model illustrated.

Right Model.

Appropriateness, simplicity and color harmony produce charm in the "right" model, and lack of these qualities gives an undesirable effect to the "wrong" one. It seems almost incredible that anyone should wear such a combination, yet equally bad ones are frequently seen.

The "right" model wears a two-piece dress that is plain and loose enough to permit active movement of any kind. It is truly intended for sports. The neutral color of the dress is relieved by having bands of two tones of orange on both blouse and skirt. These not only harmonize in color with the background and with each other, but they run in the same direction and so make the lines of the costume pleasing. A tie of one shade of orange is used. Shoes are also appropriate to the purposes for which a sports costume is worn.

The "wrong" model has up and down lines in the striped skirt, and criss-cross, zigzag effects on the many colored jacket, the colors of which do not harmonize with the colors in the skirt. A V-shaped vest of unsuitable lacy material and open-work on the shoes add to the jumble of lines, colors and spots of the whole outfit. Shoes for sports should be practical and inconspicuous. Incidentally the two ways of doing the hair may be compared to the advantage of the one wearing the simple costume.

Wrong Model.

It Is Economy to Use Stale Bread

Stale bread sometimes accumulates in spite of economical plans for using it up. When there are more crusts, "heels" and other pieces of stale bread on hand than can be used for stuffings, scalloped dishes, bread puddings, or similar uses, toast them in a cool oven until they are crisp enough to mash into crumbs. Use the pastry board and rolling pin. Utilize some of these crumbs for bread-crumb cake, which has somewhat the texture and flavor of macaroons. In the following recipe, furnished by the bureau of home economics, one cup of chopped walnuts or pecan nuts may be added if liked.

Bread-Crumb Cake.

1 cupful sugar
2 cupfuls crumbs from very dry oven-toasted bread
2 eggs
1 teaspoonful vanilla
¼ teaspoonful salt
¼ teaspoonful almond extract
¼ teaspoonful cinnamon

Beat the eggs well, add the sugar and stir in the other ingredients. Pat the mixture evenly in a shallow greased pan. Bake in a slow oven from 30 to 40 minutes.

HINTS FOR HOUSEKEEPERS

Pink cheeks from drinking milk will not rub off.

• • •

A pinch of mustard gives a pleasant tang to any cheese dish.

• • •

The best kind of bed for the baby is a plain brass or white enameled one.

• • •

Hands need not get into dirty water when the floor mop is of the self-wringing kind.

• • •

Perspiration stains can be removed by rubbing with soap and laying garment in hot sun.

• • •

Minced boiled ham may be moistened with meat jelly, chilled and coated with mustard.

• • •

Place tinfoil under flower-vase doilies. It will save the most highly polished table of dampness.

• • •

Water in which carrots have been boiled contains nourishing qualities which are very good for small children.

NOVEMBER

L 915 0607

GIRLHOOD TO MOTHERHOOD

Iowa Woman Found Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Always Helpful

Vinton, Iowa.—"When I was seventeen years old I had to stay at home from school. I finally had to quit school, I was so weak. I suffered for about two years before I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, then I picked up one of your books and read it. I began taking the medicine. Now I am a housekeeper with six children, and I have taken it before each one was born. I cannot tell you all the good I have received from it. When I am not as well as can be I take it. I have been doing this for over thirteen years and it always helps me. I read all of your little books I can get and I tell everyone I know what the Vegetable Compound does for me."—Mrs. Frank Sellers, 510 7th Avenue, Vinton, Iowa.

Many girls in the fourth generation are learning through their own personal experiences the beneficial effects of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Mothers who took it when they were young are glad to recommend it to their daughters.

For over half a century, women have praised this reliable medicine.

The Brother-in-Law's Way

"My oldest boy, Coonrod, took a fool notion tuther day, went over to Torpidity, picked up a gal and married her," in the crossroads store related Gap Johnson of Rumpus Ridge. "'Pears like he picked up a brother-in-law at the same time."

"Did the brother-in-law follow him?" inquired the merchant.

"Nope. That was three or four days ago. The durn brother-in-law came right on over to our house and is a-eatin' on us yet."—Kansas City Star.

Porter's Pain King A Liniment

Since 1871

Quickly Checks Coughs and Colds

and is good for so many ailments many families use a dozen bottles a year.

Get the circular wrapped around every bottle and read it NOW.

Use it today

The Geo. B. Rundle Co. Piqua, Ohio

Bilious?

Take NR—Nature's Remedy—tonight. You'll be "fit and fine" by morning—tongue clear, headache gone, appetite back, bowels acting pleasantly, bilious attack forgotten. For constipation, too. Better than any mere laxative.

Safe, mild, purely vegetable—

NR TO-NIGHT

At Druggists—only 25c

WHAT CAUSES BOILS.

Boils and carbuncles are the result of improper diet or infection of the skin. It is hard to determine the exact cause but CARBOIL will give quick relief. No expensive operation is necessary as one application of CARBOIL promptly stops the pain and continued use draws out the core. Get a generous 50c box from your druggist. Money back if not satisfied.

SPURLOCK-NEAL CO., NASHVILLE, TENN.

Pleasant to give—pleasant to take. Guaranteed purely vegetable and absolutely harmless. It quickly overcomes colic, diarrhoea, flatulency and other like disorders. The open published formula appears on every label.

Makes Life Sweet

For seven generations the National Household Remedy of Holland for kidney, liver and bowel troubles has helped make life brighter for suffering men and women. Begin taking them today and notice how quickly your troubles will vanish. At all druggists in 3 sizes.

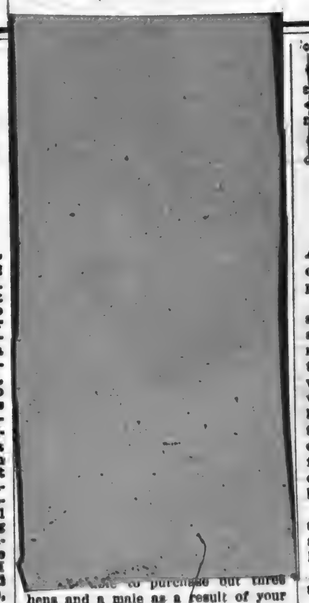
GOLD MEDAL HAARLEM OIL CAPSULES

ARTIFICIAL FLOWERS, beautiful, lasting, easily made using our prepared materials. Catalog free. Western Art Flower Supply, 1648 W. Jackson Blvd., Chicago, Ill.

LADIES—Preserve flowers for winter bouquets. Excellent money maker. Send 25c for instructions. Helen Brauer, Frankfort, Mich.

For Pipe Sores, Fistula, Poll Evil
Hanford's Balsam of Myrrh
Money back for first bottle if not suited. All dealers.

W. N. U., FORT WAYNE, NO. 44—1927



...ble to purchase but three hens and a male as a result of your mongrel sale, but it will be one of the best moves you have ever made. After purchasing pure breds be sure to hatch only eggs from this purchase stock. This way is probably the best as you begin to get a cash return from your pure breds at once.

You can also get started by purchasing pure-bred eggs. You can finance the purchasing of these eggs by selling a few mongrel hens. Pure-bred eggs from a reliable breeder will cost you more than mongrel eggs, but they will pay for themselves in better poultry.

Another way to get started in the poultry business is by the purchasing of baby chicks. This way is probably better than buying eggs, as you do not run the chance of obtaining a bad hatch. Baby chicks can be bought from any reliable hatchery about as cheap as you can hatch them yourself.

Poultry House Should Be Thoroughly Cleaned

At some convenient time of the year, give the poultry house and yard an exceptionally thorough cleaning and disinfecting. If a dirt floor is used, dig down six or eight inches, cart the dirt to the field, and replace it with clean gravel. With a cement floor, remove the litter and loose dirt and sweep the house to remove all dirt and cobwebs. A thorough application of two parts of stock dip and three parts of kerosene to each and every corner, crack, and crevice of the floor, roof, walls, nests, dropping boards, and roosts will do more than any one thing to start the year right. An application of air-slaked lime once a week is a worth while precaution in keeping the ground free from contagion. Have clean litter cover the floor six or eight inches deep. A sloping top to the nest will prevent an accumulation of droppings.

Moist Mash Excellent for the Tardy Pullets

As soon as pullets are bodily matured they should start laying. Fully matured pullets that are not laying may often be brought into production at this time by using a moist mash. The usual laying mash may be moistened with sour skim milk, buttermilk, semi-solid buttermilk and water, dried buttermilk and water, or water fed regularly at noon or some other convenient time. It must be fed at the same time each day and should be crumbly moist, not sloppy. Let the pullets consume all they can in twenty minutes and then take the mash away and thoroughly clean the trough. As soon as production reaches a satisfactory point, the moist mash may be discontinued.

Poultry Squibs

Do not crowd the growing birds. Give them ample room for development.

• • •

Crooked keels and other physical deformities often occur in crowded flocks.

• • •

The males should be kept separated from the pullets until the breeding season begins.

• • •

Do not provide perches with sharp edges. Bumblefoot and other ailments can often be traced to this cause.

• • •

Do not elevate the roosts too high. Bruising of the birds' feet in alighting from the perches causes serious trouble.

• • •

Fowl cholera is a very hard disease to control, due to the nature of the disease, outbreaks often occurring when least expected.

• • •

If the brooder houses are thoroughly scrubbed with boiling lye water they will be free from germs when stored away for the winter.

• • •

With corn at $1 per bushel and wheat at $1.26, poultry raisers can afford to feed more than the usual amount of wheat in place of corn.

• • •

Rolled oats or oatmeal are extensively used in chick feeding, and they are excellent for this purpose. When used as a complete ration they are apt to cause gas.

EASY LESSONS IN AUCTION BRIDGE

By PAUL H. SEYMOUR
Author of "Highlights on Auction Bridge"

(Copyright, by Hoyle, Jr.)

Article Seven.

Defensive Bids

A DEFENSIVE bid has been defined as one made upon less than original bidding strength after an opponent has bid.

If dealer makes a bid he thereby assumes the offensive in the game, and the opponents, unless very strong, must act defensively. It is so important for them to prevent dealer's bid winning the declaration that they may venture a bid upon less than original bid strength. Most authorities agree that it is best to bid in this situation even with ½ quick trick less; therefore 1½ quick tricks is all that is considered necessary for a defensive bid.

Different conditions alter circumstances to such an extent that we shall consider the bidding by second hand under the following headings:

After dealer's bid of one of a suit, second hand may

(1) Overbid in another suit.

(2) Overbid in a no trump (not defensive).

(3) Use the informatory double (not defensive).

(1) When second hand contemplates overbidding dealer, there are a number of points to be considered. Is there danger of dealer's going game if his bid is left in? If so, second hand should bid defensively if possible. The strength required for such a bid of one in a higher valued suit than dealer has bid, is one and a half quick tricks. If second hand must bid two he should have two quick tricks or original bidding strength.

If second hand is so strong that he feels sure dealer cannot go game, a second question arises: has he sufficient strength to attempt to wrest the offensive away from the dealer? With good original bidding strength in a major this would seem possible, and second hand should therefore overbid dealer when holding an original bid in a major suit.

A minor suit having been bid by dealer, second hand holding a hand of about two quick tricks value knows that he can prevent game being made in that minor, but possibly feels that he will be unable to make game at a major unless his partner holds strength enough for a defensive bid. If he passes and awaits developments, not only is there a chance of his partner's making a bid which would greatly help towards finding their best declaration, but third hand is very sure to take out his partner's minor if he holds as good as a defensive bid in a major, and either positive or negative information on this point would be of great value to second hand. Therefore second hand should pass many minor suit bids with the expectation of bidding on the second round after gleaning as much information as possible from the intervening bids or passes. With a major suit bid, however, second hand cannot be so sure of being able to prevent game, and the necessity for a defensive bid is frequently apparent. The following examples illustrate these various points.

After dealer bids one heart, second hand should bid one spade if he holds:

(1) S—A x x x x; H—x x; D—K x x; C—x x.

(2) S—K Q x x x; H—x x; D—Q J x; C—x x x.

He should bid two clubs if he holds:

(3) S—x x x; H—x x; D—K Q x; C—K Q x x x.

(4) S—Q J x; H—x x; D—K x x; C—A 10 x x x.

If dealer's bid is one of a minor—clubs, for instance—and second hand holds the following hands he should pass, because there is no danger of dealer's going game at clubs nor any hope of second hand's being able to go game in any bid unless his partner has sufficient strength to make a defensive bid:

(1) S—A J x; H—K x; D—K x x; C—J x x x x.

(2) S—x x x; H—K Q x; D—A Q x x; C—x x x.

Second hand's bid therefore may be purely defensive and made upon less than original bidding strength, or it may be made on more than minimum strength in an effort to wrest the offensive from the dealer. Fourth hand cannot always be sure which form of bid his partner has made, but since it may be defensive he should credit him with only defensive strength.

Perfect Antidote for Snake Bites Secured

Antidotes for the poison of the rattlesnake, the copperhead and the water moccasin, which, if injected into the blood-stream, within a few hours after a bite has been suffered, will almost certainly prevent death, have been prepared by a Brazilian doctor, says Popular Mechanics Magazine. With the aid of the army and other agencies, he collected the venom of more than 4,000 rattlesnakes in this country, than proceeded to develop antidotes or antitoxins by inoculating horses. The process was a complicated one and involved preparations from the venom of more than thirty species of rattlesnakes. Each is slightly different, but all work on the same principle. The preparations have been tested by the public health service.

Adrift With Humor

COMPLETELY LOST

Two men who had traveled were comparing their ideas about foreign cities.

"London," said one, "is certainly the foggiest place in the world."

"Oh, no, it's not," said the other. "I've been in a place much foggier than London."

"Where was that?" asked his interested friend.

"I don't know where it was," replied the second man, "it was so foggy!"—Youth's Companion.

Heated Argument

"Can Ed Bishop hug?" exclaimed Zarita. "Why, the other night he hugged me so tight my floating ribs ran aground!"

"That's nothing," retorted Elizabeth M. "When Bob came back from the Green Valley camp he hugged me so tight I'm black and blue from the beating of his heart!"

EXPLAINED AT LAST

She—Besides his great work as an inventor, Thomas Edison also raised a son.

He—That explains then how he learned to do with only four hours sleep.

On the Level

The downward path, we've e'er been shown,
But leadeth to the devil.
Yet you may be a rolling stone
And still be on the level.

Show Girl's Logic

"Here's a good one," said the show girl. "When the manager asked me my age last night I couldn't to save my life, remember whether I was twenty-three or twenty-four."

"What did you do?" said another show girl.

"Split the difference and told him seventeen."

Flippancies

"Aren't your remarks sometimes rather flippant?"

"Perhaps I am overdoing my pose," confided Senator Sorghum. "Sometimes a man has to try to be funny in order to convey the impression that he is not scared."

OUT OF SIGHT

"Your wife manages to make your money go far you say?"

"Yes, out of sight."

Soon Forgotten

Lives of heroes all remind us
How the fickle people change—
Then belauded, now forgotten,
As, for instance, Harold Grange.

She Knew

Youth (by the sea)—You little thought a week ago that you'd be sitting on a lonely seashore with a man then unknown to you.

Maiden—Oh, yes, I did.

"But dear, you didn't know me then!"

"Of course not, but I knew myself."

No Bacon for Her

"Well, son, since getting married are you 'bringing home the bacon'?"

"No, Phyllis prefers lamb chops."

Don't You Remember?

John—That was a fine drive you made.

Dot—Thanks. Which one do you mean?

John—The time you hit the ball.

Sophisticated Dog

Cinema Attendant—Sorry, lady, you're not allowed to take your dog inside!

Patron (haughtily)—How absurd! What harm can the pictures do to little Nero?

MAKES BAKING EASIER

—than you ever thought possible. The always dependable quality of Calumet enables you to accomplish better results with less effort. Try it.

DOUBLE ACTING

LESS THAN 1¢ PER BAKING

CALUMET
THE WORLD'S GREATEST
BAKING POWDER
SALES 2½ TIMES THOSE OF ANY OTHER BRAND

Small Yankees Show Skill in Arithmetic

A perfect score in addition was made in two towns in New England in a recent arithmetic contest sponsored by Boston university. Returns were received from approximately 113,000 children. The greatest accuracy as a whole was shown by pupils in small rural schools. The next highest score was the 91.6 per cent made in addition by pupils in both the fifth and seventh grades. No perfect scores were made in subtraction, multiplication or division. The highest scores in each of these subjects were made by seventh-grade pupils, who averaged 93.5 in subtraction, 87.1 in multiplication and 86 per cent in division.

Paid for It

"Why didn't you engrave our initials on this car?"

"We don't do that, madam."

"I insist that it be done. We've made the initial payment."

King George's Title

The title of the king of England is "By the Grace of God of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland and of the British Dominions Beyond the Seas, King, Defender of the Faith, Emperor of India." It was recently stated that the English status of the British dominions necessitated a change in the title of the king. So far as we know, however, no official action has, as yet, been taken.

Hexsie's Croup Remedy for croup and congestive colds, prevents pneumonia. 50c. All druggists. Kells Co., Newburgh, N. Y., Mfrs.—Adv.

Count Above 10

Portly One—No, young man, words do not matter. It is only deeds that matter; words never count.

Young One—That depends. Have you ever sent a telegram?—Paris Rire.

There are two sides to every question—your side and the wrong side.

Contempt putteth an edge upon anger more than the hurt itself.—Bacon.

SAY "BAYER ASPIRIN"—Genuine

Unless you see the "Bayer Cross" on tablets, you are not getting the genuine Bayer Aspirin prescribed by physicians and proved safe by millions over 25 years for

Colds Headache Neuritis Lumbago
Pain Neuralgia Toothache Rheumatism

DOES NOT AFFECT THE HEART

Safe Accept only "Bayer" package which contains proven directions.
Handy "Bayer" boxes of 12 tablets.
Also bottles of 24 and 100—Druggists.

Aspirin is the trade mark of Bayer Manufacture of Monoaceticacidester of Salicylicacid

The Best Laxative He Ever Tried

Mr. W. J. Dorion, New York, writes: "Sick headache, indigestion and constipation have troubled me for years. I tried everything but I can truthfully say your CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS is the best laxative I have ever used. I find that they are small, easy to take and their action does not pain me. They keep me regular and I want to tell you how I appreciate this purely vegetable medicine, knowing, due to my experience in laboratory work that laxatives, containing Mercury, Calomel and other poisonous drugs are injurious."

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS are sugar coated, small, easy to swallow, and everyone in the family can take them in perfect confidence as they are a doctor's own formula.

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS in red packages 25c. and 75c.

NOVEMBER

L 91 0608

STATEMENT OF HUNTING LICENSES AND PERMITS ISSUED, ALSO ARRESTS AND CONVICTIONS MADE

The ninth annual report of the Division of Fish and Game of the Department of Conservation for the fiscal year ending September 30, 1927, will show that the receipts for the year were $272,301.66, an increase of $59,311.49 over the year previous. The disbursements were $227,220.87, an increase of $2,054.89 over the previous year. The Division on October 1, 1927, carried over a balance of $65,185.46 on hand for use in the present fiscal year 1928. The gain in receipts in the year just closed was due mainly to the new Fish and Game laws enacted at the 1927 session of the legislature.

Number of Hunting and Fishing Licenses Issued

The number of resident hunting and fishing licenses issued in the State was 251,226, a gain of 54,148 over the fiscal year 1926. The number of non-resident fishing licenses issued was 11,382, a loss of 3,255 compared to the number issued in the year previous. The lesser number issued was undoubtedly due to the increase in price made by the legislature. The new price of the license is $2.25 as against $1.00, the former price. The number of non-resident hunting licenses issued amounted to 449, a gain of 94 over the number issued the year before. These licenses, as formerly, sold for $15.50. The total gain of the three above named licenses for the year was 50,987.

Mussel Licenses Issued

The Division issued from its office 933 resident and 13 non-resident licenses to take mussels for commercial purposes. The resident licenses sold for $2.00; the non-resident for $15.00.

Dog Kennel Licenses

Dog kennel licenses issued numbered 362, of which 339 were minor licenses, costing $15.00, and 23 major licenses, costing $25.00. The minor liscense allows a person to keep a kennel of from 5 to 15 dogs. The major license permits one to have any number of dogs in a kennel.

Certificates of Inspection

Certificates issued in the past year to persons holding game birds and fur-bearing animals for breeding purposes in close season was 346. This is an increase of 180 over the year before, and 296 more than were issued in 1922. At present there is great interest in breeding of fur animals, especially in the breeding of raccoons, silver foxes and muskrats.

Ferret Permits Issued

Only nine permits to harbor ferrets for driving out rats were issued. On the other hand, 36 persons were arrested, and all of them convicted for having ferrets in possession, and using same to hunt rabbits.

The Total Number of Fish Propagated

The total number of fish propagated at the state fish hatcheries has not been fully compiled. The records show, however that the season of 1927 was record-breaking as to the production of certain species, namely, in the production of pike-perch, bluegills, and yellow or ring perch. The distribution of black bass to applicants was approximately 1,000,000. The total number of applicants supplied runs close to 1,350. The propagation of channel catfish this year met with little success. Some interesting observations regarding the habits of this species of fish were noted in the past season. It was found that the males are sometimes driven off the nests which they alone guard, and the eggs devoured by other fish of the same species.

Several hundred thousand game fish were rescued by hatchery employees assisted by game wardens and sportsmen's clubs. It is the intention next year to keep a crew of men constantly at this kind of work.

Total Arrests and Convictions Fiscal Year 1927

The total arrests made for violations of the fish and game laws in the fiscal pear was 2,251, of which 2,222 were made by regular salaried game wardens and hatchery employees, and 29 by approximately 100 non-salaried game wardens, sheriffs and other law officers. The number of convictions was 2,110. Ninety-seven cases remained to be tried; only 42 were dismissed or lost. The fines and costs amounted to $46,820.35. A large part of the same, namely, the money paid in fines, went into the common school fund in the counties where the arrests were made. The largest number of arrests were made in Marshall county, 118, made by wardens James Durham and William Baldwin. These two wardens alone made 245 arrests and convicted 226 violators. The greatest number of arrests in southern Indiana was in Monroe county, where wardens arrested 65 persons for unlawful fishing or hunting.

During the year the Division purchased 1,914 additional acres of land in Brown county for the State Game Reservation, paying therefor an average of $9.15 per acre. It now owns 10,662 acres bought and paid for at an average price of $10.09 per acre. A number of wild turkeys and ringneck pheasants were released on the reservation during the year. This reservation also has some ruffed grouse.

Rabbits and squirrels were reported as being very numerous about the state this year, far more so than the year previous. Beb white quail are known to be prevalent all over the state, being found on nearly every farm of size in the state. Prospects for fall fishing seem very favorable, as nearly all streams in the state at this time are clear and in shape to fish.

The licenses for the year 1928 are now being printed and will be placed in the hands of the county clerks and agents a few days prior to January 1st, in order that those wishing to purchase licenses for hunting on New Year's Day may have the same for use on that day. The local agent for this section of DeKalb county is The St. Joe News. Licenses issued direct to person, in just a few minutes.

HOLD ANNUAL HALLOWE'EN PARTY

The Rural Housewives Club pleasantly entertained their husbands and families to a hallowe'en masquerade party at the Coburn Corners school house, Friday night. After the program, the party was ushered through the vacant house and then to the church basement, where a two course luncheon was served. The tables were beautifully decorated with fall flowers, candles and hallowe'en decorations. The first course was: oysters, crackers and pickles, and the second course was, angel food cake, white cake with pink frosting and white and pink brick ice cream. Several toasts were given by the guests. The club will meet Nov. 3 with Mrs. Lillian Scholes.

Queen Marie bought five fur coats in Chicago. It can't be her reception was that chilly.

We presume the bootleggers are wondering why Chicago is making such a fuss over a little water.

The face value today of the thirty pieces of silver mentioned in the Bible is about $22.50.

Life's Limelights

By Brown Focht

I AM TIME

I am time.
I am Alpha and Omega.
I am Yesterday, Today and Tomorrow.
I bridge the chasm between two Eternities.
I see all and know all.
All the triumphs and all the failures of history have been caused by me.
In me is the greatest and strongest power in the universe.
I alone am unconquerable. I wait for no man.
I bring joy and despair, success and failure, love and hate.
I turn daylight into darkness, and night into day.
I respect no person nor creed.
He who procrastinates is my enemy. Yesterday I was unknown, today I am here, and tomorrow I shall have departed.
All that was, all that is, and all that is to be, sees in me that which can not be ignored: opportunity.
I am an unseen force from the heavens, and upon my wings rides that opportunity, beckoning, always beckoning.
I am the beginning and the end, and all that is between.
No one can avoid me, for I am everywhere at once.
Yesterday I sang, tomorrow I will weep but today I am what you make me.
I am so powerful that you can act ignore me, but I am only what you would have me be.
I can be satisfaction, or I can be disgust.
I am ambition, or I am a drone.
I am the zenith or all that is good, and I am the depth of all that is bad.
I destroy as quickly as I build, but I would rather be a constructor than a destroyer.
I recognize no rich nor poor—to me they are the same.
I am that which is always just beyond the grasp—I am Time.

THE IDEAL ADMINISTRATOR

Just as prosperity and development of a country depend upon the home, so does the home depend upon operating industries, steady payrolls and sound government policies.

One of the main reasons for the good times which we have enjoyed in this country has been the willingness of capital and labor to appreciate the advantages and the necessity for maintaining, building up and encouraging the home markets.

Capital realizes that well paid and contented labor has the greatest purchasing power. It has abandoned the old notion that labor is a commodity to be purchased at the lowest price. It has adopted the idea of reducing waste, both human and material.

Labor on its part has appreciated the value of these changes. It understands that only by increased production can it secure permanently increased pay.

Neither labor nor industrial leaders in other parts of the world seem to have been able to understand these fundamental ideas which since the war, have helped strengthen the social, industrial and financial structure of the United States.

These remarkable changes have been economic and not political. They were brought about by scientific and practical men who understood the human element in production, as well as the physical machinery and markets of the world.

The problems of the world today are not political but economic. The type of administrator and executive needed in public affairs should not be taken from the ranks of those whose sole experience has been in politics and whose principal stock in trade is a glib tongue and a superficial understanding of the technique of government. The ideal administrator is a man well grounded in the history of governments. In addition, he should have an understanding of industrial problems, a broad vision in regard to economics and a knowledge of the world and its peoples. He should know the needs of the world from the standpoint of its furnishing markets for the products of American farms and industries.

In other words, the ideal administrator and executive in our public affairs is the thinker and the doer, and not merely the orator and spellbinder who has too often led political parties in days gone by.

Legal Publications

NOTICE OF SALE OF REAL ESTATE

State of Indiana
County of DeKalb, ss:
In the DeKalb Circuit Court
September Term, 1927
Ulysses S. Johnston, Administrator with will annexed of the estate of Mary E. Johnston, deceased
vs
Ulysses S. Johnston, et. al.

The undersigned Administrator with will annexed of the estate of Mary E. Johnston, deceased, hereby gives notice that by virtue of an order of the DeKalb Circuit Court in this cause duly made and entered, he will, at the hour of one o'clock on the 26th day of November, 1927, at the law offices of Stump & McClintock, Commercial Club Building, Auburn, Indiana, and from day to day thereafter until sold, offer for sale at PUBLIC SALE all the interest of said decedent in and to the following described real estate, to-wit:

The east one-half (½) of the north-west quarter of section nine (9,) in township thirty-three (33) north, of range fourteen (14) east, in DeKalb County, State of Indiana, excepting therefrom the following described tract, to-wit: Commencing at the northwest corner of the east half (½) of the northwest quarter of said section nine (9) and running thence south along the west line of said east half (½) of said section nine (9) 297 feet; thence east 266 feet to the west bank of the Ira Ricketts ditch; thence northwesterly along the west bank of the Ira Ricketts ditch to a point 135 feet east of the northwest corner of said east half (½) of said section nine (9,) thence west 135 feet to the place of beginning.

Said sale will be made subject to the approval of the court, for not less than two-thirds (⅔) of the full appraised value thereof, and upon the following terms and conditions:

At least one-third of the purchase money cash in hand, the balance in two equal installments, payable in not to exceed six and twelve months, evidenced by notes of the purchaser, bearing six per cent interest from date, waiving relief from valuation and appraisement laws, providing for attorneys fees, and secured by first mortgage upon the real estate sold.

For further particulars inquire of the undersigned.

ULYSSES S. JOHNSTON, Adm.
With Will annexed of the estate of Mary E. Johnston, deceased.
Stump & McClintock, Attys.
43t4.

FALL and "Sunbeam Time"

Now is the time to let us demonstrate that Sunbeam Cabinet Heater to you, in any of the four different colors. We now have about thirty of these heaters installed, including last season. Each and every owner is our best recommend.

A. C. DAYTON RADIO'S

which are guaranteed indefinitely, and as for quality and reception we refer you to the many satisfied owners in this community. And don't forget we have Tubes, B. Batteries, Aerial Kits, etc., at prices that will compete with inferior, unguaranteed equipment. We will absolutely replace any Tube, Battery, etc., that proves defective.

WE ARE SOLE AGENTS FOR

Dr Hess Stock Tonic, Panacea, etc

our Fall supply is now in and remember every Dr. Hess article is sold on the basis of complete satisfaction or your money is refunded if you return the empty carton or pail.

Rogers Brushing Lacquer

that instantly dries, and will paint everything in the home but the baby, also you can paint those old shoes or "pumps" any color you wish without injuring the leather.
POSITIVELY GUARANTEED

SPECIAL FOR ONE WEEK ONLY

Guaranteed Life-time Aluminum Percolators at 69c. and 99c.

Colonial and Plain Patterns. Better buy one of these for a Xmas present. It's a Big Saving. And with every Percolator sold we will give a 25 cent package of Bar Boy's Polishing Powder.

A New Shipment of Blue and White Enamel Ware. Compare our prices with any Catalogue House.

STEEL TRAPS

The double jawed kind that made a hit with you trappers last year. Regular size and priced at .....$2.00 per dozen.

WILLIAM CURIE
ST. JOE, INDIANA
Hardware RADIO Implements

FOOD
Ph. HIGH'S 76
BEST MONE CAN BUY

SWEATER COATS, UNDERWEAR, WINTER CAPS, MITTENS, GLOVES, WOOL HOSIERY, SHEEP LINED COATS, LINED JACKETS, BOOTS, SHOES, RUBBERS, AT PRICES THAT SAVE YOU MONEY

Zonker's Store
ST. JOE, INDIANA

The HIGH COST of Low Checking Balances

What difference does it make whether a depositor carries a large or a small balance in his checking account?

It may mean just the difference between profit and loss for the bank.

The bank goes to great expense in serving its customers and usually makes no charge for its service. Its profit, if any, must come from what it is able to earn from loaning out a small part of the money that is left with it for safekeeping.

But if its depositors keep nearly all of their money drawn out on checks it makes it very hard for the bank to make its earnings equal its expenses.

The "golden rule" for depositors, therefore, is: "Keep a fair balance in your account so as to give the bank a fair chance to break even.

"A FAIR CHECKING BALANCE REPAYS GOOD BANKING SERVICE"

The St. Joe Valley Bank, A STATE BANK

HUDSON-ESSEX

Agency has been established in St. Joe at the Don Keller Garage, where a Super-Six Coach is on display. Persons wishing to change cars this fall will do well to call on us and have the merits of this wonderful car explained and demonstrated.

QUICK DELIVERY OF ANY MODEL YOU BUY.

Goodrich Tires

We believe we are selling you the very best tire for the money when we sell a GOODRICH TIRE, and that is the reason we sell them. Practically any size in stock that you may need in fabric sires. We have a special in a BALLOON that we are going to sell at $10.00, the size is 29 x 4.40, pehfectly good and we stand back of this tire as all others we sell. Come in and see.

Keller's Garage
General Repairing, Oil and Gas. ST. JOE, INDIANA

YOU READ the Other Fellow's Ad

You are reading this one. That should convince you that advertising in these columns is a profitable proposition; that it will bring business to your store. The fact that the other fellow advertises is probably the reason he is getting more business than is falling to you. Would it not be well to give the other fellow a chance

To Read Your Ad in These Columns?

NOVEMBER

L 915 0609

THE BEST BOOSTER FOR YOUR BUSINESS IN DeKALB COUNTY

ST. JOE NEWS.

NEWS MAKES A GOOD PAPER, SO SEND IT IN TO US.

VOL. XLI. ST. JOE, DeKALB COUNTY, INDIANA, THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 10, 1927 NUMBER 45

ESCAPED PRISONER CAUGHT AT GARRETT

DeKalb County Officers Arrested Olan Shank When Ford Car in Which He and Wife were Riding Turned Over

Thirteen proved to be an unlucky number for Olan Shank, an escaped DeKalb county prisoner from the Pendleton reformatory. Shank was captured Monday night by Sheriff John Armstrong and Deputy Sheriff Art Zimmerman of Auburn, while trying to make a thrilling escape at Garrett.

Shank, who was sentenced by Judge Endicott on a charge of grand larceny April 13th last year for from one to eight years and who had been at large just thirteen days, was with his wife in a stolen automobile. The officers had been trailing him for ten days. Shank was captured after the Ford Sedan with which he and his wife led the officers a zig-zag chase along several Garrett streets struck a curb on South Randolph street and overturned. Officers found three revolvers on him, an automatic and two service guns and a hack saw.

The officers were upon Shank before he had an opportunity to draw any of the weapons or put up a fight. Mrs. Shank was pulled out from under the car and was permitted to return to the home of her mother in Garrett. Shank was placed in jail.

Shank had been raced to Albion where he rented a room west of the court house on Monday under the name of Carl Weaver. He had also been at South Bend and at Bryan, Ohio, the sheriff learned.

The prisoner told two stories about the stolen Ford Sedan. One was that it was taken at Defiance, Ohio, and the other was that Coldwater, Mich., was the place where it had been stolen. Sheriff Armstrong is checking the stories.

Shank was arrested with William McCullough and Howard Dean, two other Butler young men and plead guilty to stealing chickens from J. H. Stansbury of Wilmington township. The young men also confessed to forging checks and were suspected of stealing automobile accessories. All were given sentences of from one to eight years in the reformatory. Shank escaped from the institution two weeks ago Tuesday.

RACE BRIDGE REMOVED AT SPENCERVILLE

After many years of service, the race bridge at Spencerville has finally been removed with the completion of the road grade from the Murray Corners directly east to the grade leading to the river bridge. The work was completed last week.

W. C. T. U. NEWS

The W. C. T. U., which was to have met this week on Friday afternoon, has been changed to meet on next Thursday, November 17, at the home of Mrs. Jennie Sechler. All ladies interested are invited to be present and hear the report of the National W. C. T. U. convention which will be given at this time by Mrs. Ada Lane and Mrs. Dawson from Auburn.

OH BOY

A Chicken Pie Supper will be served by the Loyal Sons and Daughters class of the Christian Church, Saturday evening, Nov. 12, beginning at 5 P. M. Price per plate, 35 cents. Public invited.

INDEPENDENTS WIN MOST OF CANDIDATES

The Independent ticket at the local election Tuesday captured every officer but one, that of trustee of Ward No. 2, in which, ye editor won over Harry Kees by 14 votes.

The vote was light when you take into consideration there are over 200 voters in our little city, yet the women voters were absent to a large degree.

One ballot was thrown out as the party voted for both candidates for trustee of Ward One.

The total vote cast was 104. The following is the vote cast for each candidate:

Trustee, Ward One

Frank Curie, Independent.....58
Sam Keesler, Citizen.....44
Curie's Majority.....14

Trustee, Ward Two

Harry Kees, Independent.....45
Fred B. Leighty, Citizen.....59
Leighty's Majority.....14

Clerk

Derwood Ridgway, Independent.68
Earl Smith, Citizen.....35
Ridgway's Majority.....33

Treasurer

Frank Akins, Independent.....55
John C. Hull, Citizen.....48
Akins' Majority..... 7

SPENCERVILLE LADY ELECTED HEAD OF HOME BUREAU

Mrs. Stella Goldsmith of Spencerville was elected chairman of the Home Bureau of DeKalb county at the annual meeting of the directors at the County Agent's office on Saturday, November 5. The other officers elected were: Mrs. Lola Carper, Jackson township, vice president and Mrs. Dessa Adler of Smithfield township was elected secretary-treasurer, for the coming year. Final arrangements were made for the Achievement Day program in the Assembly Room at the court house on Friday, December 2. Each of the twelve townships who carried on their project work this year will have a part on the program and will make an exhibit of some particular phase of the work that they have had during the year. The two project leaders who score the highest will be sent to Purdue University for one week during Farmers' week in January. Last year Mrs. Lois Hinkle of Troy township and Mrs. Grace Hollinger won this trip to the Farmers' week at Purdue.

All ladies in the county are welcome to attend the Achievement Day program at the court house and enjoy the splendid program that will be given.

BIRTHDAY DINNER AT ALBION SUNDAY

The fifty-seventh anniversary of Dr. John Morr of Albion was celebrated Sunday at his home, by a family dinner.

Waldo Rosenberry and wife, Mrs. Anna Koch, John Koch, Isaac Meese, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Johnson and Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Koch of St. Joe were the guests representing Mrs. Morr's side of the house, also John Geisinger, wife and daughter and husband of Garrett. The Morr relatives were present and in all about thirty-five took dinner. The event was a very pleasant one and will long be remembered.

AUTOMOBILES COLLIDE HEAD ON

The Federal bread truck of Auburn, driven by Al Wertman, was run into, upset and broken up, Wednesday morning at the Alex Provines hill, when Wm. Long, going toward Auburn attempted to go round a machine on the same hill, the bread truck was heading east. Both were driving at a good speed and unable to avoid the collision.

SPENCERVILLE COPS OPEN. FROM LEO, 29-27

Spencerville, Nov. 4.—Spencerville high school opened the basket ball season Friday evening by winning over Leo high, 29-27. The game was close all the way and the two teams were tied at 15 all at the half. Beams was high point man with 13 points to his credit. Spenceerville meets Hamilton at Spencerville on next Friday night.

If a man marries a striking woman he wants her to quit after the ceremony.

RED CROSS DRIVE IN DEKALB COUNTY

Organization Announced to Put Over Annual Roll Call, Nov. 11 to 24

The organization to conduct the annual Red Cross roll call in DeKalb county was announced today by H. A. Hinklin of Garrett, DeKalb county chairman.

The campaign for new members and the renewal of present memberships, which will start on Armistice Day, next Friday, will be in charge of the following persons in the various cities, towns and townships of DeKalb county:

Jackson township, John L. Weaver.

Fairfield township, Mrs. G. E. Harmes.

Franklin township, Mrs. Cora Gunsenhouser.

Troy township, Mrs. Henry Kline.

Stafford township, Mrs. Ida Hose.

Newville and Newville township, Mrs. Ina Traxler.

Butler township, Harry Lung.

Ashley, Mrs. W. H. Zurbrugg.

Smithfield township, August Kuckuck.

Corunna and Richland township, Rev. D. K. Finch.

Spencerville and Spencer township, Roscoe Walter.

St. Joe and Concord township, E. R. Kinsey.

Butler and Wilmington township Mrs. C. W. Beard and Mrs. Grace Lowe.

Waterloo and Grant township, D. L. Leas.

Auburn and Union township, W. C. McBride.

Garrett, H. M. Brown.

Altona and West Keyser, Chas. Vananda.

East addition, Garrett, Charles Wessel.

Southeast Keyser, Mrs. Dewey VanLear.

East Garrett and northeast Keyser, Charles Wessel.

The national headquarters of the Red Cross has suggested a goal of 2,400 members for DeKalb county. The various township workers will select assistants to carry on the roll call.

"The American Red Cross presents ample reason for support in the report it publishes each year," Mr. Hinklin declared today. "No arguments are needed. The Red Cross has become an intimate factor in our daily life and the people turn instinctively to it when a disaster strikes or other emergencies threaten their safety. It it the only organization in the United States equipped to administer disaster relief on a large scale and this it does according to the mandates of the Congressional Charter under which it operates.

"The roll call is the annual membership enrollment conducted throughout the country from Armistice Day to Thanksgiving. During these two weeks an attempt is made by volunteer workers to extend to every man and woman a personal invitation to participate in the Red Cross program by renewing memberships. Membership dues, paid at this time, finance the work of the Red Cross and I am sure that I can think of no better way to invest a part of our money. When the roll call is over I hope to be able to report to headquarters that DeKalb county has gone over the top."

CARD OF THANKS

We desire to express our sincere appreciation and thanks for the assistance given by neighbors and friends during the illness and burial of our husband and father, also for the kind expressions of sympathy and many beautiful floral tributes.

The H. M. Widney Family.

CHRIST FOR ALL—ALL FOR CHRIST

The Word of God

DELIVERANCE AT HAND:—I will be with him in trouble; I will deliver him. Psalm 91: 15.

PRAYER:—O Blessed Redeemer and Lord, we would come unto Thee, for in Thee we are safe from every fiery dart of the Wicked One.

What are the non-golfers going to do if it's true that every day will be Sunday by-and-bye?

Education is important: unless you can understand how much more you might have, how can you worry?

LIFE OF MARY E. ANDREWS WHO DIED AT AGE OF 86

Mary E., daughter of Collin and Hannah Robertson, was born October 2, 1841, and departed this life November 1, 1927, aged 86 years and 29 days at the F. P. Seiler home. She joined the United Brethren Church at Newville, Indiana, between the age of twelve and fourteen years under the pastorate of William Mathews and remained in faithful service to the end. She was united in marriage to Jeremiah Andrews, April 7, 1864, who passed away December 25, 1907. To this union were born four children; Mino I. Seiler of Auburn, Indiana; Nora, who died in infancy; Collin C. Andrews of Detroit, Michigan and Maud Catherine Mahoney of Defiance, Ohio.

Words cannot express the influence of this wonderful Christian mother and now we come to the end of a beautiful life—always Christian in the highest sense; fine ideals, patient, sweet and kind to all; loving God, implicitly trusting Him and now living with Him forever spiritually.

The funeral was conducted from her old church at Newville and interment was made in the cemetery near by last Thursday at 11:00 o'clock. Rev. George Lilly of Hicksville, officiating. E. R. Kinsey funeral director.

HAVE SOMETHING THE OTHER FELLOW HASN'T

Here is an unusual record for a DeKalb county farmer. George Abel, living near the Roselawn cemetery, reports the following: Picked 25 quarts of red raspberries in October and on Oct. 31st picked 1 gallon of raspberries, November 3rd, picked 3 pints and November 5th, picked 3 pints, there still being some on the bushes which have frozen. Mr. Abel has raised a pumpkin which weighs 76 pounds.

Practically as good a record can be said of this community. The Widney Fruit Farm has been having strawberries for the Fort Wayne markets right up to the freeze in quantities of about 50 quarts at a time. Then too, the editor has had red raspberries all fall until the bushes were removed just a couple of weeks ago. Then the O. E. Ginther farm holds a record on tomatoes. On November 3rd they picked about 1½ bushels of tomatoes.

EIGHTY-SIX ATTENDING SUNDAY SCHOOL COURSE

The first attempt in DeKalb county to conduct a Leadership Training course by the DeKalb County Council of Religious Education is proving successful. The first of the series of sessions, which commenced Monday night and will end Friday night at the Auburn Y. M. C. A., ws attended by eighty-six registered leaders in Sunday School work. All townships in the county were represented except Wilmington, Troy, Newville and Franklin.

The different subjects taken up nightly during the course are "Story Telling," in the interest of children's work, by Miss Nellie C. Young of Indianapolis; "How to Conduct a Church Vacation School," Rev. H. L. Miller of Fort Wayne; "Young People's Department," Rev. Edgar L. Mullins of Fort Wayne and "Administration Department," Rev. M. K. Richardson of Fort Wayne.

The meetings start each night at 7:30 and close at 9:30, the study course covering two subjects each night.—Star.

DR. JULIAN LOCATES PERMANENTLY IN ST. JOE

For the past few days Dr. E. T. Julian of Harlan has been moving his household effects to the Dr. Price rooms where he has maintained his office for the past months. He is at present at the Mayo Bros. hospital where he took a patient this week. Beginning the first of next week he will be here permanently with the exception of office hours at Harlan. Mrs. Julian is visiting her relatives this winter and will join her husband in the spring.

STEEL WORKER FALLS INSIDE WATER TANK

Wednesday forenoon, just before going to press, one of the Steel Workers on the water tank at the river bridge, fell a distance of thirty feet, inside of the tank, and injured so that they thought he was dead. Kinsey's ambulance hurried him to the hospital and was met on the road by Dr. Hines. We are unable to give further information.

Later: The young man was a new employe hoving started to work on Tuesday, and is said to be from Auburn. He was hurried to Grrett and it was discovered that he was suffering from fracture of the skull. No hopes of his recovery is entertained.

BODY ARRIVES FOR BURIAL

Myrtle Rodebush, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. J. N. Scholes of east of St. Joe, died at Johnstown, Pa., Monday morning, following an operation several weeks ago. The body arrived at St. Joe, Tuesday afternoon and the funeral was held Wednesday afternoon from the home.

She was a teacher by profession and served in the Johnstown schools for a number of years.

Obituary will appear next week.

An oyster containing a $500 pearl was fished up from a Scottish river by a girl golfer who was searching for a ball that had fallen into the water.

WE invite you to see our new Christmas line;
Our Greeting Card stock was never so fine,—
There's Distinction, Quality, and Good Value here
In every card we are offering this year;
And your own special taste we can gratify too,
To carry your Christmas Greetings for you.

SAMPLE CARDS ON DISPLAY HERE

New Homes out of Old Homes

THROUGHOUT America there are countless substantial frame houses built years ago whose value has shrunk chiefly because they lack modern arrangements and do not conform to present-day architectural beauty.

What shall be done with these sturdy old dwellings—junk them? Sell them for "a song"? Abandon the value of fine old trees? Sacrifice all sentimental attachments?

Certainly not! If the old house is built of wood, easily and economically you can remodel it and make it again valuable, beautiful and livable.

Furthermore, remodeling can be done to fit the purse or income—the first year perhaps a new porch and new dormers to relieve a plain roof; later new floors, enlarged rooms, an added wing. These and other changes can be made easily and at reasonable cost.

We are prepared to supply you with good lumber for this work: Long-Bell trade-marked Douglas Fir—dry lumber—to mix with the time seasoned wood of the old house: oak flooring—a special kind made for laying over your old floors: doors and windows of easily workable California White Pine.

These well-known products assure maximum building value.

We will be glad to submit estimates without obligation

SPENCERVILLE LUMBER & SUPPLY CO.
C. J. KNAAK, Manager
Spencerville, Indiana.

The Firm

Which supplies my coffee has been blending and buying coffee for fifty-three years. They know how. No wonder my coffees are delighting my friends.

We buy small lots shipped frequently. We grind the coffee the day you buy it. We keep it in a sanitary case. These things mean satisfaction to you.

ZONKER'S Store.

See Our New Stock OF LAMPS

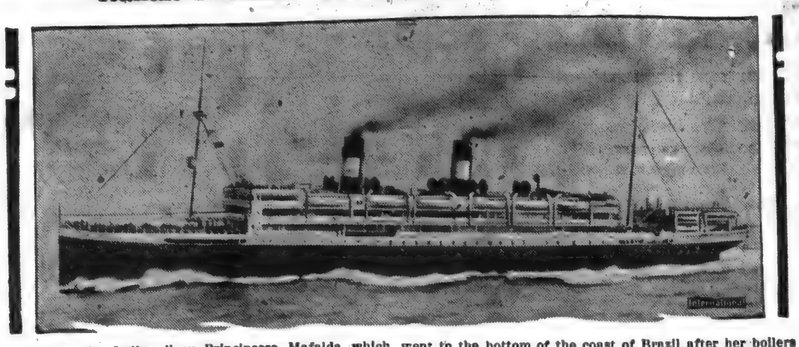
$1.98 AND UP!

E. R. KINSEY, Hardware Furniture

NOVEMBER

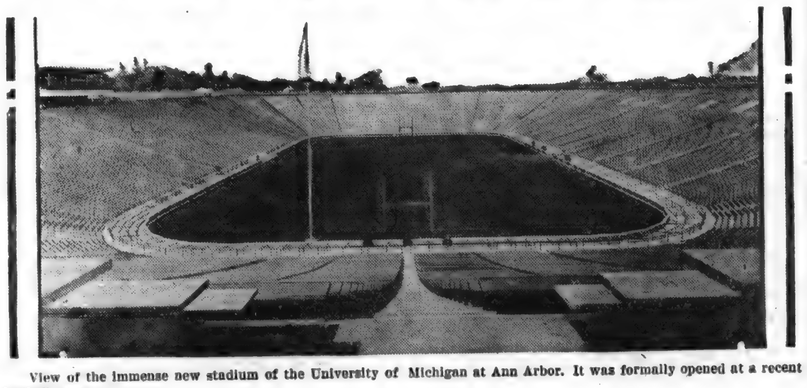
L 915 0610

Italian Steamer Which Sank Off Brazil Coast



This is the Italian liner Principessa Mafalda which went to the bottom of the coast of Brazil after her boilers exploded. She carried 908 passengers and a crew of 240, but all except 88 were saved by vessels that responded to the steamer's S O S call.

University of Michigan's Huge New Stadium



View of the immense new stadium of the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor. It was formally opened at a recent football game.

Mimic Warfare in Maneuvers at New York

A tank of the One Hundred Fifth field artillery turning to advance under the protective fire of the three-inch field pieces of the artillery during the mimic battle and war maneuvers at Van Cortlandt park, New York.

Lindy Completes His Long Air Tour

Col. Charles Lindbergh and part of the crowd that surrounded him when he ended his 22,350-mile air tour at Mitchel field, New York.

White Collar Workers Organize

Organization of the so-called white collar workers of the country has been started again, in New York, where a union of bookkeepers, stenographers and accountants is being formed. It will be affiliated with the American Federation of Labor. The photograph shows Leonard Bright, president of the new union, speaking to a throng in Madison square.

BEST ORATOR

Arture Garcia-Fermenti, who was awarded a silver cup trophy by Secretary of the Navy Wilbur, as winner of the International Oratorical contest in Washington. The youngster had previously been adjudged the best orator in Mexico. Young orators from France, England, Germany and the United States also competed.

BACKER OF FLIGHT

This is Mrs. Anker, wealthy woman of Fredensborg, Denmark, who is the financial backer of Mrs. Frances Grayson in her attempts to fly from the United States to Denmark.

POULTRY

CHICKS CAN'T LIVE WITH COCCIDIOSIS

Coccidiosis is one of the most destructive of all young chick diseases, and if the disease has once gained headway in the flock the chicks must die. The disease may be prevented next year by disinfecting the brooder house and rearing the chicks away from the older fowls.

The symptoms of this disease, according to Dr. Leonard W. Goss of the college of veterinary medicine of Ohio State university are loss of appetite; the young birds sit around with drooping wings, eyes closed, and it sometimes may be noted that the droppings are streaked with blood.

"On opening the chicks," the doctor writes, "it is observed that there is considerable inflammation of the intestines, some just back of the gizzard, but the most inflammation is found in the ceca or blind gut. Hemorrhages occur in these parts, and they may be well distended with blood, or in the more advanced stages the blood may be washed out, leaving a cheesy-like mass.

"In this mass are the coccidia which are the cause of the disease and are passed out in the droppings.

The best method of curing the disease is to prevent it, so sterilize the brooder house before the chicks are again put into it, using strong concentrated lye, which will dissolve the organisms, and move the house to a clean, fresh sod away from the other fowls."

Mites Are Different in Habits From Lice

Mites are entirely different in habits and modes of living than lice, and different methods must be employed to destroy them. Both reduce the vitality of the fowl to such an extent that they easily succumb to disease, writes Michael K. Boyer in the Farm and Ranch.

The louse is a very small insect that cannot suck blood. It lives on the body of the fowl, feeds on filth, dried blood scales from the feathers, and scurf of the skin. It breathes through the pores in the sides of the body.

Lice are killed by suffocation, consequently, insect powder or even dust will destroy them.

The mite belongs to the spider family, and attacks fowls by sucking the blood. The louse does its damage by biting.

Mites have eight legs, lice have six. The former live in cracks and crevices of the building, and visit the fowls only at night.

Turkeys on Farm Means an Additional Revenue

Turkeys on every farm will mean additional revenue for the many necessities needed on the farm. An increased production will not lower prices, for during the past three years in all of the large cities campaigns have been put on by the leading produce men urging the consumption of turkeys during the entire winter season and not just a holiday feast. The success of this campaign last season shows that people are anxious to eat turkey any time, for on August 1 there was less than two and one-half million pounds of turkey in storage. Most of this will be consumed before the 1927 crop is sent to market. With the same demands of last season turkeys should bring an exceptionally high market price this fall and winter.

For Turkey Fattening Ration Use Much Grain

The North Dakota experiment station gives a good home mixed turkey ration which consists of 100 pounds ground barley, 100 pounds ground oats, 100 pounds ground wheat and 50 pounds of meat scraps. If this ration is kept before the turkeys in a self-feeder at all times with a feeding of grain at night, it will do much toward increasing the returns at market time.

Milk makes a fine food, and if not available, meat scraps, tankage or dried buttermilk are fine protein foods. The animal protein fits in best with other feeds at the rate of 15 per cent to 85 per cent of ground feeds.

Cull Flock Closely

Culling the flock closely will not only save feed and labor, but it will also help to remove crowded conditions that often prevail on account of the growing young flock. The disposal of cockerels is often advisable for a similar reason. It is better to keep a small flock of birds that pay their way than to keep a large flock in which there are a lot of drones that eat up the profit made by good birds. Birds that should be culled are sure to show a loss in the future.

Laying Supplements

The best supplement to any ration is direct sunlight and green feed, according to tests conducted by the Ohio experiment station. Successful feeding for egg production depended largely upon the use during late fall and winter of alfalfa, clover, soy bean hay and codliver oil as supplements. Grains and their by-products and packing house by-products do not usually make a complete ration. The legume hays improved the hatchability of eggs

Improved Uniform International

Sunday School Lesson

(By REV. P. B. FITZWATER, D.D., Dean Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.)
(©, 1927, Western Newspaper Union.)

Lesson for November 13

HOSEA PREACHES GOD'S LOVE

LESSEN TEXT—Hosea 11:1-4:8, 9 14:4-8.

GOLDEN TEXT—I desire mercy and not sacrifice and the knowledge of God more than burnt offerings.

PRIMARY TOPIC—God's Wonderful Love.

JUNIOR TOPIC—God's Wonderful Love.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—The Unchanging Love of God.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Loving-Kindness of God.

Hosea's message was primarily to Israel. The nation was outwardly prosperous, for its height of temporal glory was reached in the time of Jeroboam II. (See II Kings 14-20). With this prosperity came luxury, immorality and apostasy. Calf worship and Baal worship were substituted for the worship of God.

I. The Apostasy of Israel (chs. 1-3).

Israel's covenant relationship with Jehovah is presented under the figure of a marriage. Their spiritual whoredom is symbolized by the example of an unfaithful wife.

1. The marriage (1:1, 2).

Hosea was commanded by God to take an unchaste woman to be his wife. While this was a strange act, yet it was right, for it was commanded by God, and its motive was the elevation of the woman to the prophet's moral plane. It was designed to show God's wonderful condescension and love in entering into covenant relationship with a nation of such immorality. The nation had no more to commend it when God chose it than this unchaste woman when Hosea contracted marriage with her.

2. The unfaithful wife (ch. 2).

Notwithstanding the wonderful condescension on the part of the prophet in contracting marriage with this woman, Gomer, the unfaithful wife, departs from him to consort with her former base lovers. This shows Israel's base ingratitude in their departure from God to go after idols. Sore chastisement fell upon her for her unfaithfulness.

3. Illustration of Gomer, the unfaithful wife (ch. 3).

This illustrates God's undying love for Israel. The motive governing the prophet's act was love. God's love for Israel is just as real. His grace will yet move Him to take back that nation to Himself.

II. God's Love for Israel (Hosea 11:1-4, 8, 9).

1. Its beginning (v. 1).

It began when Israel as a nation was in its childhood. God loved the nation even while in Egypt.

2. "Called my son out of Egypt" (v 1).

God called Israel out of the bondage of Egypt and brought them into Canaan, the land of freedom—flowing with milk and honey. Such love and favor placed Israel under peculiar obligation to God.

3. "Taught Ephraim to go" (v. 3).

In spite of Israel's backsliding (v 2), God is represented as teaching Israel how to walk, even as a father taking up his child in his arms. God watched over them as parents watch over their children by night.

4. "I drew with cords of a man (v. 4).

Observe that His drawing was not with a stout rope as used with an unruly heifer (ch. 10:11), but a cord such as a man could bear. God's wonderful love in Christ should constrain us to obey and serve Him.

5. Took off the yoke from the jaws and placed food before them (v. 4).

The figure is of a husbandman lifting the yoke from the oxen so that they could eat.

6. Unwillingness to give them up (vv. 8, 9).

In spite of all Israel's sin, God was unwilling to destroy them.

III. God Pleads for Repentance (14:4-8).

Notwithstanding their awful sins, God urged Israel to turn unto Him. He is doing the same to backsliders today. He made promise unto them.

1. "I will heal their backslidings" (v. 4).

This on the condition of frank and full confession.

2. "I will love them freely (v. 4).

This is characteristic of God. Only God can express unmerited love.

3. "I will be as the dew to Israel" (v. 5).

God will refresh the nation as dew does the parched grass.

4. Growth promised (v. 5).

5. Beauty assured (v. 6).

6. Pleasant fragrance (v. 7).

While this is a picture of the restored nation, something similar may be seen in the fragrant, fruitful lives of men and women who have sinned and come back to God.

Faithfulness Is All

He who is faithful over a few things is lord of cities. It does not matter whether you preach in Westminster Abbey, or teach a ragged class, so you be faithful. The faithfulness is all.—George Macdonald.

The Sane Christian

A safe auto driver keeps his hand on the wheel and his eye on the road. A sane Christian keeps his hand on the Bible and his eye on God.—T. C. Horton.

WASN'T INCLUDED

Timothy had been passing judgment on a neighbor, a judgment that was far from flattering.

"I hate the old cat," he cried, stamping his foot.

"You shouldn't say that, Tim," corrected his mother. "The Bible says we must love everybody."

"I know," was the reply; "but Mrs. Ginns wasn't alive when the Bible was written."—Weekly Scotsman.

Not That

"Ma," queried the small boy, "what does h-o-n mean?"

"Why it's a prefix they put before a man's name when he has had some official position, dear."

"But that couldn't have been what pa meant when he called the maid 'hon' the other day."

ALWAYS IN SAME PLACE

"I can't think where I've seen your face before."

"It's been in the same place ever since I've had it."

Sad Words

Of all sad words
A man to jar:
"Another note
Due on your car."

Reason for Wrath

Henry—Why is the history professor sore on you?

George—The prof. says to me, "What German chieftain captured Rome?" So I says to him, "It was Stilicho, wasn't it?" So he says, "Don't ask me. I'm asking you." So I says, "I don't know either, prof."

A Kneesy Explanation

First Girl—Who told you that dress is too long?

Second Girl—Nobody, but yesterday it caught in my garters.

AND SUSPECTS MORE

"She expects much of her husband."

"And suspects more."

Collegiate Only

The bulldog tore his garters off.
He ran for many a mile.
His socks were sagging as he flew,
And now they call it style.

Easy to Do

A group of farm hands waited on a farmer and their leader said:

"We want a raise, boss."

"Holy smoke," said the farmer. "Didn't I give you a raise only four days ago?"

"Yes," said the leader, "but we've got used to that now."

The Mean Thing!

Mrs. Small—I believe I shall have to give up bridge.

Mrs. Sharp—Really? Isn't the game worth the scandal?

Fragrant Excess

"What a pity Joan uses so much powder and perfume since she married money. She used to be much nicer."

"Yes, I knew her when she hadn't a cent."

Merely Premature

She—Funny thing happened at the wedding. When the bride came to the word "obey" she stuttered terribly.

He—Well, she might as well break her word one time as another.

NOVEMBER

L 915 U611

The Green Cloak

By YORKE DAVIS

WNU Service. Copyright, 1936

CHAPTER VII—Continued

—13—

His first questions were about the cloak; where she had bought it, and whether, so far as she knew, there were a good many others like it. The girl's whole interest, as shown by her replies, appeared to be to perfect her identification of it. She admitted, reluctantly, that hundreds of them had been sold in the city that fall; admitted that she herself had seen dozens on the street, the counterpart of it in cut and in color. But this particular cloak, she protested, she knew without a doubt to be her own. It was badly rumpled and had been exposed to the weather, was hardly fit to wear any more, but, notwithstanding these facts, she knew that it was hers.

"Was it in good condition the last time you wore it?"

"It looked as good as new."

"Then how can you be sure that the one which was advertised as found is the same one?"

Well, she was sure, and she proceeded to demonstrate the fact by a multitude of details—some of her own sewing, and a patch on the lining which she could not mistake.

"How did you come to lose the cloak?"

"I don't know, sir," she answered. "I just wish I did. I think one of the other housemaids stole it, sir, or borrowed it and didn't bring it back. I suppose they thought because I was sick I wouldn't have any use for my cloak. I didn't know nothin' about it until today. Then I looked for it and it was gone. So I begun askin' the other girls about it, and at last one of them said—she was a girl who had given notice and was readin' the want columns every day—she said there was a green cloak advertised found. So I went and got it. But I'd like to get hold of the girl that borrowed it. I'd make her take it and buy me a new one, or I'd have the law on her."

Ashton had listened to this speech with a show of somewhat greater interest. Evidently it occurred to him that an inquiry as to who the girl suspected of having taken it might be productive of results. She could easily be induced to tell all she knew about the other employees in the hotel. So much was clear. But when, instead of following up this lead, Doctor McAlister changed the subject abruptly, Ashton dropped back in his chair with a little gesture of impatience.

For myself, the doctor's course puzzled me profoundly. That all this examination was a mere pretense, was, of course, obvious to me. We knew all about Jane Perkins, infinitely more about her than she knew about herself. We knew she had worn the cloak; knew that she, or the woman, rather, who had for a while inhabited her body, had actually murdered old Morgan. And if the object of the pretense were to keep Ashton amused, to make him believe that it was leading him to a possible solution of the mystery, then it had signally failed. Ashton was bored and rather disgusted. But it was not like my chief to fail, and certainly there was no look of defeat about his face. He was accomplishing something, I felt sure, though I could not even guess what that something was.

His next question seemed to me to be getting somewhat nearer the point, although it was the very one that made Ashton drop back in his chair with that gesture of impatience.

"Are your parents living, Jane?"

"No, sir. Neither of them."

"Have you lived in this country long?"

"Five or six years, sir."

"You're from New Zealand, or Australia, aren't you? You're not English?"

That question made Ashton sit up at any rate, that and the girl's answer to it.

"Wellington, New Zealand, sir. But how did you know?"

The answer had come instantly, but the next moment, with eyes perplexed, and with a vague gesture of her hands across them, she said:

"It's queer. It seems as if I had dreamed of talking to you about that."

"You knew, didn't you, Jane, that this Morgan who was murdered was a New Zealander? Oh, New Zealand has produced some great men. You're young, and I suppose you don't remember, perhaps have never ever heard of Bully Franklin and Josiah Haines. Old Morgan knew about them, though, I'll wager." He stood for a minute in silence, like one who tastes, in reminiscence, the flavor of an old story.

Then he pulled himself together and began asking the girl a series of rapid and, to me, rather meaningless questions. They were chiefly about Will Harvey, her acquaintance with him, how long ago it had begun and, in a general way, to what length of intimacy it had gone. The girl answered all these questions freely enough and with no appearance of hesitation.

"You knew he lived at Oak Ridge, didn't you," the doctor asked finally, "only two or three blocks from the house where Morgan was murdered?"

"Yes, don't think he had anythin' to do with the murder, do you?" she asked. And then she laughed a little. "He wouldn't do nothin' of that kind, sir. He's just a silly."

"I'm inclined to think, Perkins," the doctor commented, "that that's a good diagnosis. I don't believe Will Harvey, even if he showed us every thought within that rather empty head of his, would ever take us very close to old Henry Morgan with his maps and his mysteries."

He turned away there rather sharply, his back to all of us; tossed his head back once or twice, with a gesture very familiar to me as characteristic of his periods of intense thought. Then, turning back, he spoke to Ashton.

"Did we tell you," he asked, "that Phelps and I discovered one map which your detectives had evidently overlooked, an odd sort of map, from a geographer's point of view, drawn

"Wilkins! And by Thunder I Believe I've Got Him."

on a very large scale? And the queer thing about it was, that it showed neither latitude nor longitude. There was nothing about it to indicate what part of the world it represented. I brought it away with me this morning. I'll show it to you presently if you care to look at it. It's there on the table in that big manila envelope."

"I beg your pardon, sir"—it was Wilkins who spoke—"I wonder if you could spare me now, sir. I'm supposed to be in the dining room at this hour."

The capacity of a trained servitor like Wilkins for eliminating himself, transforming himself into a mere piece of furniture, is something extraordinary. He had sat through the whole examination with a countenance of the same wooden imperturbability that he always wore on duty in the dining room.

The doctor unfastened the long flexible wires by which he was harnessed to the instrument.

"I hope we haven't kept you too long, Wilkins," he said. "It was very good of you to come."

"Not at all, sir. Don't mention it, sir. Sorry I have to leave now."

"Well," said the doctor slowly, "I think we're about through, anyway. Jane here has been ill, and we mustn't keep her too long. I don't think of anything else I want to question you about, Jane. Thank you very much for helping us."

He removed the little telephone that hung before the girl's lips, and slipped a dollar bill into her hand as he spoke. Then he turned to Wilkins, who had risen, still in his harness, and was scrutinizing, with amused curiosity, the portentously named instrument to which he had been attached.

The doctor, with a smile, was unstrapping the small recording instruments that were attached to his chest and wrists. "We're very much obliged," he said. "You've really helped us materially. His tone was low and confidential, not intended for the girl's ears. "I don't think she's any the worse for her examination, Wilkins," he concluded.

"Oh, no; likely not, sir. She looks a little pale, but I fancy that is no more than because the room is somewhat close."

"Is it?" asked the doctor.

"Well, it struck me so, sir. And I think, if you'll allow me, it might be well to have that ventilator cleaned. It is really very foul, sir. If you like, I'll speak to them in the office and have them send up a man tomorrow to do it."

He nodded, when he spoke of the ventilator, to a grated opening in the wall, and my eyes followed him. I didn't see anything wrong with it myself, but the man's eyes were evidently more practiced than mine.

The doctor fed him also, and liberally, and the next moment the head waiter and the chambermaid were out in the corridor and the door was closed behind them.

At the sound of that closing door, Ashton exploded, not with impatient anger, as I half expected he would, but with pure amusement. He laughed loud and long, and without the slightest effort to suppress his mirth. Doctor McAlister paid no attention, but let him enjoy his laugh undisturbed.

"Well," said the district attorney when he had got his breath, "I'm really very much obliged. After hearing so much about these psychological examinations, it's interesting to have been present at one."

The doctor nodded rather grimly. "It's not half as interesting as it will be in about five minutes," he said.

He was busy with the instruments on the table as he spoke. "Do you care to wait and see the results?" he added.

"Come—" said Ashton; "you don't really believe, do you, that you have found out anything, by some subtle, scientific process of yours, about that girl?"

"I know all about the girl already," said my chief. "But come, were you really taken in by the trick?"

"What trick?"

"Did you think, all the while, that it was the girl I was examining?"

A great light suddenly burst upon me, but Ashton was not so quick. His face went perfectly blank.

"Did I think it was the girl you were examining! What else could you have been doing? Who else was there to examine?"

"Wilkins!" said the doctor with a blow of his fist upon the table. "Wilkins! And, by thunder, I believe I have got him."

CHAPTER VIII

"Wilkins!" repeated Ashton. "What sort of farce is this?"

"If it turns out to be a farce," said the doctor, "it will be of your making. If I were clothed in your authority and know only what I know at this moment, I would go to that telephone and call in some trusty man to watch him; and if my guess survives the test to which I am about to put it, I should, within the next half hour, order his arrest."

He turned away too quickly to see the shrug of tolerant contempt which was all the answer Ashton vouchsafed to this suggestion. He unscrewed the megaphone which had been attached to the instrument to which Wilkins had been harnessed, and attached to it a pair of ear tubes to listen through, a glass tube which looked like a thermometer and another tube which terminated in a glass bulb, half full of a red liquid. He put the listening tubes to his ears and started the machine.

"Give Ashton a cigar, and don't let him talk," was his injunction to me.

For nearly a quarter of an hour after that there was silence in the room; but at last he stopped the cylinder which was revolving in the instrument, took the tubes from his ears and laid them on the table. Then he turned to us.

"I was right, Ashton," he said. "I know you want an explanation, and I'm going to give it; but if Wilkins is to be at large during the time it will take me to tell the story, I want the responsibility to be upon you, and not upon me. If I were in your place, I should order his arrest."

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

Rebuke to Emperor by Master of Music

At a concert in St. Petersburg, before a brilliant assemblage which included the czar and many members of his court, Franz Liszt was conducting a symphony. During the course of the music the czar began to converse in audible tones with one of his fair neighbors. In the very midst of the movement Liszt gave with his baton a signal for the music to cease, and the players stopped short.

The abrupt silence filled the audience with surprise, and the czar at once sent an equerry to ask for an explanation. Whereupon Liszt sent back word:

"When the czar speaks, all the rest must be silent."

As this was a court regulation, the czar had to suffer the rebuke of a foreign musician administered under the guise of obedience to court etiquette. Hans von Bulow, in relating his father-in-law's unprecedented act of courage, says George S. Hellman, who tells the story, in "Lanes of Memory," said that he would have given a year of his life to have had such an opportunity to teach an emperor that art must be respected.

Where Science Fails

Medical science, lengthening the span of life, is constantly enlarging the number of old people. But prosperity and modern inventions are taking away the little tasks that used to keep them occupied.—Woman's Home Companion.

Know Your Sweetheart by His Handwriting

By EDNA PURDY WALSH

Editor, Character Reading Magazine.

(Copyright.)

The Ambitious Sweetheart

Ambitious.

Retiring.

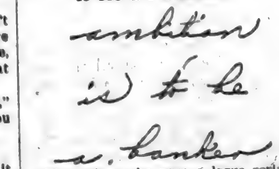
Very tall capitals in proportion to the rest of the word mark the individual who wants to achieve. The first stroke of the M made very much higher also indicates the individual still on the way to achievement. The small letters are tall, but not cramped and very narrow, the loops of the letters are large, and the t bars, long and determined. All these signs together mean ambition. One sign alone need not mean this quality however. Over-large loops may merely mean a desire for praise and approval. One may be very ambitious for others near and dear to him. Another may be ambitious for all humanity, and desire to go forth to help the world at large. This last type often pens an M with the third stroke higher than the first.

Those who are ambitious for self, however, pen the first stroke to the capital M much higher than the other two.

Most ambitious people write with more of a tendency to an upward slant in words and line of writing, than with an absolutely straight or descending line.

There must be energy, and forceful t bars placed high up on the bar if one's ambitions have any hope of being realized.

Is He a Financier?



The writer who pens a large script is always so filled up with the romance of the idea that he does not take the time nor does he care about the cost. He is "up in the clouds" so to speak and little details such as the financing of a project do not worry him. Therefore you must look for a medium-sized, even, clear script.

When a letter s, either large or small, is closed tightly and the lower stroke is wrapped about the upright stroke, financial ability is marked in the makeup of the writer.

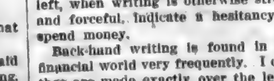
I dots to the left and t bars to the left, when writing is otherwise strong and forceful, indicate a hesitancy to spend money.

Back-hand writing is found in the financial world very frequently. I dots that are made exactly over the letter and not high, show a genius for handling money.

Lack of nervousness is always found in the writing of one who handles much money. This does not mean that there is a lack of emotional quality, however. Words are made close together and letters in words are near.

The Letter n

In this apparently harmless and insignificant letter is found the key to two of the most vital traits of any writer. One is exactly opposite to the other. If the upper lines forming the two sections of this letter are made pointed to a marked degree we may expect to find a writer who is critical to a fine point and who speaks his mind with a sharp sting.



When these points of the letter are not so sharp but still angular you know that the writer is critical for constructive purposes and exacting, and a fighter for system and order.

Often you will find a letter m or n made to resemble a u. The lower strokes that should form a point are spread out and make the letter look out of shape. This indicates the direct opposite of the fruit found in the sharp-pointed letters. It means that the writer is good natured and not fast to anger or take offense. However, if persistent, the tease or critic will find real anger in this writer when aroused.

Never expect the angular writing person to be as amiable as the writer who makes all letters rounded and terminals flowing smoothly along.

Note.—Do not make final judgment until other signs in writing are studied.

Hard to Overwork Brain

By habitual study you may overtax your physical endurance; you may damage your bodies if you neglect to exercise them, but you certainly will not damage your brain. You will never succeed in using your brain up to its full capacity. There is no greater nonsense talked than that brain-work may bring on "brain-fever."—Sir Arthur Keith.

At Least, Not Hypocrites

They are called lower animals, but you never see one shaking hands with another he doesn't like.—Exchange.

What's the Answer?

Questions No. 24

1—What was the name of the Indian girl who guided Lewis and Clarke?

2—What is spontaneous combustion?

3—Who is the 18.2 balkline billiard champion?

4—What opera is founded on the pathetic love story of a Japanese girl and an American naval officer?

5—How far is New York from Philadelphia?

6—Who were the leading members of the "Concord school" of literature?

7—What is walnut and what is it valued for?

8—What will be the number of the next congress?

9—What is the sun's surface and its volume compared with the earth?

10—What great statesman once wrote for the New York Evening Post?

11—What United States city is popularly known as the "Pittsburgh of the South"?

12—Who was the first man to swim the English channel?

13—When was the first Thanksgiving day celebrated in New England?

14—Why are fingerprints used for identification?

15—In what theater, in what city and during the performance of what play was President Lincoln assassinated?

16—What famous Italian city is built on a marsh?

17—Who wrote "Hajji Baba of Ispahan"?

18—How many eggs does the common frog produce?

19—Who is the present secretary of treasury and from what state does he come?

20—What is the equatorial diameter of the earth?

Answers No. 23

1—Thomas.

2—General Fred Funston.

3—A branch of physics that deals with the action of forces, motions and stresses on material bodies.

4—Sammy Mandell.

5—Polish.

6—The Hudson.

7—New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, Detroit and Los Angeles.

8—A mountain from whose summit and sides or both, steam and molten rock are thrown.

9—Appointed by the President.

10—"Astronomy" has to do with the heavenly bodies, while "astrology" has to do with the prediction of events by stars.

11—On January 1, 1863.

12—Fifty-five.

13—The science of animal life as distinguished from the plant kingdom.

14—Charles W. Paddock, 20:8.

15—"The Last Laugh"; tells a long story with perfect lucidity and without recourse to sub-titles.

16—The Erie barge canal.

17—Selma Lagerlof of Sweden.

18—It is a large carrion eating bird and is found in warm temperate and torrid regions of America.

19—Dwight F. Davis.

20—The full moon nearest to September 21 is popularly known as the "harvest moon." The "hunter's moon" is the first full moon following the "harvest moon."

Great Emotional Role Long Without Friends

The role that is now considered by most actresses to be the world's greatest emotional part—Camille—once went begging for some one to play it, points out a noted actress in an article in Liberty. "When it was first written the part was refused by every actress in Paris," the writer explains. "Then, after it had gone begging for months, it was picked up and played by Madame Eugenie Doche, who needed a part very badly because she had been ill and off the stage for a long time. So Madame Doché goes down in history as the first to play Camille.

"Since then," the writer continues, "it is probably true that Camille has been played by more and greater actresses than any other role in the world. It was the part that won Sarah Bernhardt her first universal praise. Eleanora Duse played the part to cheers and tears, although quite differently. And there were so many others—Helena Modjeska, Clara Morris, Rejane, Fanny Davenport, Nance O'Neill, Olga Nethersole, Margaret Anglin, Ethel Barrymore. No wonder that Camille has been called the world's greatest emotional role."

"Secular" Music

The Latin word from which this term is taken simply means "age," as when we speak of something going on "from age to age." In this way it applies only to the world and to worldly things. Thus in one church a secular priest signifies one performing his functions while still living in the world, as opposed to the monastic priest, who is cut off from it.

Secular music, then, is the ordinary music of the ordinary world, its opposite being sacred or church music.

SHE WENT FROM BAD TO WORSE

Down to 98 Pounds—Finally Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Cleveland, Ohio.—"After having my first baby, I lost weight, no matter what I did. Then a doctor told me I would be better if I had another baby, which I did. But I got worse, was always sickly and went down to 98 pounds. My neighbor told me about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as it helped her very much, so I tried it. After taking four bottles, I weigh 116 pounds. It has just done wonders for me and I can do my housework now without one bit of trouble."—Mrs. M. Rimsinger, 10004 Nelson Ave., Cleveland, Ohio.

If some good fairy should appear, and offer to grant your heart's desire, what would you choose? Wealth? Happiness?

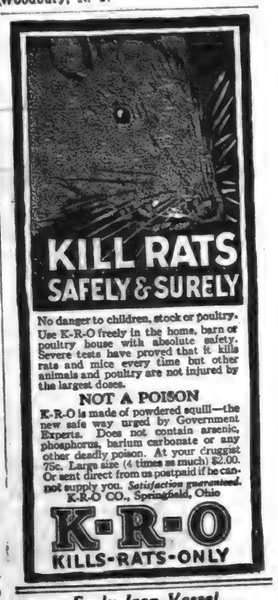
Health? That's the best gift. Health is riches that gold cannot buy and surely health is cause enough for happiness.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound may be the good fairy who offers you better health.

A BEAUTIFUL COMPLEXION for only $1.35. Ask your dealer for KREMOLA, or write Dr. C. H. Berry Co. Dept. W, Chicago.

HANFORD'S
Balsam of Myrrh
Since 1846 has healed Wounds and Sores on Man and Beast
All dealers are authorized to refund your money for the first bottle if not suited.

Stop Coughing
The more you cough the worse you feel, and the more inflamed your throat and lungs become. Give them a chance to heal.
Boschee's Syrup
has been giving relief for sixty-one years. Try it. 30c and 60c bottles. Buy it at your drug store. G. G. Green, Inc., Woodbury, N. J.



No danger to children, stock or poultry. Use K-R-O freely in the home, barn or poultry house with absolute safety. Severe tests have proved that it kills rats and mice every time but other animals and poultry are not injured by the largest doses.

NOT A POISON

K-R-O is made of powdered squill—the new safe way urged by Government Experts. Does not contain arsenic, phosphorus, barium carbonate or any other deadly poison. At your druggist 75c. Large size (4 times as much) $2.00. Or sent direct from us postpaid if he cannot supply you. Satisfaction guaranteed. K-R-O CO., Springfield, Ohio

K-R-O
KILLS-RATS-ONLY

Early Iron Vessel

The U. S. S. Wolverine was the first vessel built by the United States navy. She was launched at Erie, Pa., in 1844 as the Michigan. Her name was changed to Wolverine on June 17, 1905. She was constructed by Stackhouse & Tomlinson, Pittsburgh, Pa., between 1842 and 1844. Her length (b. p.) is 164 feet 11 inches; beam, 27 feet; mean draft, 9 feet; displacement, 685 feet.

We ought to be glad that the fierce biographers are not yet "debunking" the living.

Feel Tired and Languid?

ALWAYS tired and achy? Sure your kidneys are working right? Sluggish kidneys allow waste poisons to remain in the blood and make one dull and languid, with often nagging backache, drowsy headaches and dizziness. A common warning is scanty or burning secretions.

Use Doan's Pills. Doan's, a stimulant diuretic, increase the secretion of the kidneys and aid in the elimination of waste impurities. They are praised the world over. Ask your neighbor!

DOAN'S PILLS 60c
STIMULANT DIURETIC TO KIDNEYS
Foster-Milburn Co. Mfg. Chem. Buffalo, N.Y.

NOVEMBER

L 915 0612

Local Briefs

Get a rent receipt book at News office. tf.

Mrs. Frances Baker of Edgerton, Ohio, is here the guest of Mr. and Mrs. George Baker.

The Aid Society of the M. P. Church will meet Thursday afternoon with Mrs. Pearl Cochran at 2:00 o'clock.

Lester Curie and Elgin Curie, attended the Notre Dame-Georgia Tech. football game at South Bend recently. A crowd of 20,000 saw the game.

Lester Curie of Tulsa, Oklahoma, who has been visiting his parents and relatives for the past ten days returned home Saturday. He drove through from Tulsa and also drove back, the total milage being about 2,000 miles.

For Sale:—Bay Mare, 8-yr. old, weight 1,450. Joe Koch. 45t1p.

Mrs. Virginia Lawson has been quite poorly the past week.

Persons wishing to hunt can obtain license at News Office. Also we attend to your notary work promptly.

Susan Sechler was laid up a few days with an attack of pleurisy She is at the home of B. E. Widney and wife.

The new "Jac-O-Bean" parlor furnace is sold by Bowser & Reed. On display in our store. The price will fit your purse. 42tf.

Mr. and Mrs. John Betz spent Sunday in Defiance with Mr. and Mrs. Harry Adcock and Mr. and Mrs. Olen Helf and family.

You can now buy Atwter-Kent Radio, 6 tube set for less than $100.00 complete. Kenneth Meek. 43tf.

Mrs. Edna Perkins substituted as teacher of first and second grade at school a few days this week on account of sickness of Miss Madeline Nicholls.

Mrs. Rebecca Hildebrandt of Lagrange, who is here visiting in the F. M. Monroe and M. H. Andress homes was a guest of J. C. Hull and wife, Wednesday. She is a cousin of Mr. Hull and will be remembered as Rebecca Knight.

Letters of administration have been filed in the estate of the late Milo J. Thomas, Corunna banker, in the DeKalb circuit court. Under the will, the widow, Mrs. Vesta Thomas was named by Mr. Thomas as administratrix. She, however waived her right and petitioned the court to appoint her son, Harry K. Thomas to act in her place. Mr. Thomas filed a bond for $20,000 with the Aetna Casualty and Surety company of Hartford, Conn., as surety. The estate consists of $10,000 in personal property and $40,000 in real estate with Mrs. Thomas and the following children as beneficiaries: H. K. Thomas of Churubusco, Charles A. Thomas and Mrs. Wilma A. Diehl of Pico, Cal., and Mrs. Bertha M. Zonker of Santa Monica, Cal.

For Sale:—Reed baby cab, wood crib and sanitary cot. Don Keller, St. Joe. 45t1.

Robert Sechler spent the weekend with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sechler.

You can now buy Atwter-Kent Radio, 6 tube set for less than $100.00 complete. Kenneth Meek. 43tf.

Have your glasses fitted by Benj. F. Griest, Eyesight Specialist, Office in American Bldg., Hicksville, Ohio. 28tf.

The Ladies Aid of the Lutheran Church will meet Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. George Simanton at 7:30 o'clock.

Crates May, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank May of Auburn , who underwent an appendicitis opperation at Auburn, is improving.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Randall spent Sunday at Wolff Lake, visiting a nephew, Elmer Pincheon and family, who left for Florida on Monday.

Mrs. C. A. Woodcox and little daughter, Mary Louise, are visiting in the home of her sister, Mrs. Jack Kennedy and family at Garrett.

Mrs. Addie Koch has been having quite a serious time with an ulcerated tooth. Her work at the public school was taken care of by Mrs. Cora Curie, Mrs. Koch, however, returned to work Wednesday morning.

The farm in Jackson township consisting of forty acres which was occupied by Forrest Farver at the time of his murder a year ago by Charlie McInturf, who is serving a life sentence in the City prison, has been sold to Jesse Bennett of Churubusco.

Negotiations were completed Tuesday whereby the state Bank of Wolcottville, Indiana, took over the Farmers' and Merchants' State Bank of that city. Wolcottville will now have only the one bank. The capital stock of the new bank will be $25,000 with a surplus of $25,000.

Speakers have been selected for the Young People's Council of Religious Education conference which will be held at St. Joe in the Lutheran Church November 19 and 20. Miss Esther I Williams of Altoona, Pa., and E. R. Lizenby, Indiana state young people's worker, will deliver the addresses. Full program will appear in News next week.

The trustees adopted resolutions Monday governing the Thanksgiving Day and Christmas school closing for this year. It was agreed that the rural schools will reopen on Friday after Thanksgiving Day. The Christmas holidays will be observed by closing on Monday, December 26 for a week.

Every step of progress which the world has made has been from scaffold to scaffold, and from stake to stake.—Wendell Phillips.

DO YOU KNOW THAT—

Policemen in Buffalo operate passenger busses.

Sea ice more than a year old is entirely free from salt.

Mutton is the principal kind of meat eaten in northern China.

October and January head the list of months for bad colds.

Hawaii has 62 species of fish that are commercially valuable.

Bronze rings were probably used for money during the bronze age.

Dynamite is used to loosen earth around tree roots in orchards.

MEATY MORSELS

A soft drink turneth away customers.

An onion a day keeps the lover away.

Hunters—Not allowed on our premises. Henry Shroyer. 45t3p.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Walter Zonker Saturday night, a daughter.

Marshal Wid Williams shot a stray dog on the street Monday. The animal was a cripple.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Russell Wade, Monday morning at their home in St. Joe.

Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Hillegas of Huntertown were Sunday visitors in the J. E. Foltz and J. P. Buckingham homes.

Harcourt Miser is driving an Auburn Sedan, purchased of the Auburn Buick Sales, one of our new regular advertisers.

To close out a line of Crepe Paper, we will sell as long as it lasts at 3 rolls for 10 cents. Nine colors in stock at News office. 45tf.

Mr. and Mrs. David Furnish and daughter, Isobelle, of Detroit, Mich., came Saturday morning and visited in the Marshall Andress and Harry Hursh homes until Sunday.

Last week on Thursday, Frank Shaffer and son, Glen of near Larwell, Indiana, were in town calling on friends. Mr. Shaffer will be remembered as the Standard Oil Agent here some few years ago.

DeKalb county experienced the first real snow storm of the season Saturday, starting shortly after 6 o'clock the snow fell quite heavily for twenty minutes, melting away within an hour. Later snow fell again and continued most of the day.

Mrs. Alice Copp spent from Thursday afternoon until Sunday with her daughter, Mrs. B. V. Widney and husband at Columbia City. Mr. and Mrs. Webster Stout were also guests in the same home for a short visit before leaving for the south to spend the winter.

Some of the employes at the water tank became unable to control themselves Saturday night and figured in an auto smashup between here and Fort Wayne, resulting in some of the parties being injured. Monday morning their boss handed them their checks to date.

Monday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Buckingham were Merritt Sechler, Mrs. Jennie Sechler and Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Patterson of Fort Wayne. The occasion being a birthday anniversary. This custom was established between these friends when Mr. and Mrs. Patterson were residents of St. Joe.

Parent-Teacher Association

The Parent-Teacher Association held an interesting and well attended meeting at the High School Gym last Tuesday eve, November 1st. The report of each teacher was instructive and well received. The President urged a complete cooperation between parent and teacher and cited things accomplished in the past. Two outstanding attainments mentioned were the Hot Lunch and a liberal financial aid to the Daily Vacation Bible School. The President also thanked the local W. B. A. for the tea towels made and recently donated to the Hot Lunch room.

Miss Vera Hogson, representing the music department of the high school, played a piano solo in a creditable manner. Mrs. Ima Miser reported that the Hot Lunch still holds all of its popularity and is doing fine. Donations of edibles, especially meat, would be appreciated and an alarm clock is also needed in the lunch room.

Trustee, O. K. Shull gave a short talk in which he said, he thought if the P. T. A. had nothing to its credit but the Hot Lunch it would justify its existence as an organizaion but that in his opinion these get together meetings of an educational and social nature were of equal benefit to the community at large. He urged every one who could do so to donate something to the Hot Lunch.

O. E. Ginther, chairman of the membership committee, received many memberships but there are still many parents and others interested in the school who have not yet placed their membership with the committee but no doubt will do so soon.

Mrs. Pluma Hamilton, chairman of the refreshment committee announces a social hour to follow the program at the December meeting. The committee asks you to bring sandwiches and pie amply sufficient for your family.

Watch for later announcements of the December meeting.

The baby boy born Sunday to Mr. and Mrs. Harry Watson of west of Sencerville, at the Dr. Bonnell M. Souder hospital, has been named Irvin Harry.

Another birthday celebration was held Sunday at the Wm. Spindle home at Harlan. Archie Cummins and Mrs. Sam Keesler were the other two in whose honor the event was held. The three families enjoyed the day together.

Mrs. John Everetts of Butler, aged fifty years, was found at 11:30 Sunday morning by her husband when she failed to answer a cal for a noonday meal. She had hung herself to a bedpost. The suicide has been in poor health for more than two years since undergoing a serious operation. She had made several threats to take her life, according to Mr. Everetts who had been considering making an application to have his wife admitted to an asylum for treatment. Sunday morning Mrs. Everetts said that she did not feel like getting up and when called for a late breakfast she said she was not hungry. In the meantime she took her own life by strangulation.

Miss Pearl Riggs of Auburn, spent from Friday until Sunday in the Sam Keesler home.

Christmas Cards put up in boxes at $1.00. Regular 15 cent values and a dozen of them in a box, double envelopes one of them lined. Call at News office. 45tf.

Kinsey's furniture can be located in nearly every town of the county and surrounding towns. Tuesday a fine load was delivered to Fort Wayne residents.

Adams county farmers produced 10 litters in the annual Hoosier Ton Litter club contest this year, L. M. Busche, county agent, announced Monday. A total of 22 litters in the county qualified for medals in the club by weighing more than 1,600 pounds at 180 days of age.

SUNDAY SCHOOL REPORTS

The following is the report of Sunday schools in this vicinity for last Sunday, according to information sent The News by representatives of the schools reported.

Spencerville M. E..... 64—$4.12
Lutheran ..... 52—$2.26

FOR BETTER BREAKFASTS

BREAKFAST is the time of day when the appetite is at its lowest ebb. Then, if ever, food must be presented in its very loveliest guises and most intriguing forms. Hot drinks must be piping hot, fruit must be iced, and toast, pancakes or waffles must be just off the fire to be tempting.

Another important point in the planning of breakfasts is the varying of the menu. The same fruit day after day will not serve. Variety is absolutely essential if the meal is to be enjoyed as it deserves.

A Versatile Fruit

Have you thought of using Hawaiian pineapple in its many seductive forms as an addition to the matutinal meal? Every member of the family will enjoy a variation from routine food and find breakfast a meal of greater interest.

There are so many ways of adapting this versatile fruit to breakfast needs that it might be used right through the whole meal from beginning to end. Here are a few suggestions.

A Few Ways to Use It

Try chilled sliced Hawaiian pineapple as a breakfast fruit. It is delicious and contains minerals you need. Crushed pineapple on cereal will add a lct to the taste of it; fried sliced pineapple may be used with bacon, and here is a recipe for a delicious sauce to supplement the waffle or pancake course.

Crushed Pineapple Sauce for Waffles: Cream one-third cupful butter. Add one cupful of confectioner's sugar gradually while beating constantly. Then add one-fourth cupful of boiling water, and when light and well mixed, add one and one-half cupfuls drained crushed Hawaiian pineapple.

SALUBRIOUS SAUCES

ONE of the dilemmas which very often confronts the housewife is that of using up the "left-overs." Very often, however these remnants may be dressed up a bit and disguised in some clever fashion to make a real addition to the meal.

A left-over bit of cake, rice or bread pudding if steamed and accompanied by one of the following delectable sauces made from Hawaiian pineapple will appear so tempting that it will get itself used up forthwith.

Here They Are

Pineapple Sauce: Ice creams or puddings will be given an added interest by the use of this delicious sauce. Boil three-fourths of a cupful of sugar with one-half cup of water for ten minutes. Allow this syrup to cool thoroughly, then add one and a half cupfuls sliced Hawaiian pineapple, diced, or the same amount of crushed pineapple. When serving with ice cream, cut pieces of pineapple in triangular shape and use for garnishing the dish.

Pineapple and Ginger Sauce: Here is a sauce with a zest of its own: to one cup of crushed pineapple add three-fourths of a cup of sugar and one-half cup of water, three tablespoons preserved ginger. Cook for a few minutes until thoroughly blended and serve ice cold over plain ice cream, frozen custard or cottage pudding.

"Hard" Sauce

Pineapple Hard Sauce: Cream one-fourth of a cup of butter with one cupful of powdered sugar and two tablespoons cream. To this base add a cup of crushed Hawaiian pineapple worked in gradually.

Pineapple Shortcake Sauce: Cream together one cupful powdered sugar and one-fourth of a cup of butter. Add one egg white, beaten stiff, then a cupful of crushed Hawaiian pineapple, the whole beaten together until light and foamy. This sauce may be used not only with short cake, but is delicious with cottage pudding, baked rice puddings, sponge or chocolate cake.

Where One Person Has Normal Vision

There are four or five who are not so fortunate. There is no way of telling if you are one of the fortunate or unfortunate ones except by having your eyes examined. We believe that all doubt about this matter should be cleared up as soon as possible. Our service will give you the fact.

ED. W. HICKS
AUBURN
"OUR SPECIALTY — COMFORTABLE VISION"

Announcing
The Buick Autumn Display

WE cordially invite you to attend a special showing of motor car fashions for 1928—

—introducing lustrous colors of lasting Duco . . . rich upholsteries of the finest quality . . . smart new appointments.

The Buick Autumn Display opens Saturday and will continue all through the week. Don't miss this interesting exhibit.

NOVEMBER 12 to 19

BUICK SALES & SERVICE, Auburn.

We Buy CLOVER SEED!
Bring Your SEEDS to Us
WE WILL PAY YOU HIGHEST MARKET PRICES

NATHAN Grain Co.
St. Joe's New Lumber Yard
Call By Phone for Prices Bert Jackson, Mgr.

Christmas

Engraved Greeting Cards

THE Holidays are just round the corner. Have you ordered your engraved Greeting Cards as yet? Don't wait until the last minute. Our assortment of beautiful and artistic Christmas and New Year's cards is now complete, and there is ample time for us to give you our most careful attention and service.

ST. JOE NEWS OFFICE

NOVEMBER

L 915 U613

SPENCERVILLE

The Sunday Chicago Herald and Examiner now on sale at News office. 4tf.

David Updike came last week to assist in caring for Jason Keyes, who is very ill.

Rev. and Mrs. Brown spent Monday at Fort Wayne the guests of the latter's sister.

David Furnish of Detroit, was a Saturday guest of his brother, R. E. Furnish and family.

Mrs. Hazel Steward and children and Mrs. Ada Berry were Sunday guests of W. S. Hines at Warsaw.

Joel Betz and wife spent several days last week with their daughter, Mrs. Walter Perkins and husband.

Mrs. William Peck of Anderson and Miss Dorris Beams of Muncie, were week-end guests of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Beams.

Mrs. Cleo Reed entertained the Young Ladies Social Club at her home on Wednesday evening. Miss Budell Smith of Garrett was a guest.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Palmer of north of town, a daughter. Mrs. Palmer and baby are at the Lutheran Hospital in Fort Wayne.

Forest Beams recovered his automobile which was stolen in Ft. Wayne several week sago, on Saturday. It was found in a garage in that city.

Vernie Reed, wife and children, who have been visiting friends and relatives the past week returned to their home at South Bend on Saturday.

The play given on Saturday night at the Community Hall and sponsored by the Ladies of the C. C. Club for the benefit of the hall was well attended.

The Home Bureau Club met in an all day meeting on Wednesday at the home of Mrs. A. J. Smith. The project leaders assisted by other ladies prepared the dinner.

Mesdames Ethel Bowser and Cleo Reed entertained the C. C. Club at the latter's home on Saturday. Prizes were won by Mrs. Jennie Walter and Mrs. Cora Steward. Mrs. LeVern Koch, Miss Aleen Rhodes, Buddy Knaak and Marion Walter were guests.

STRAW, A BY-PRODUCT OF FARM TO BE USED

A new industrial impetus will be given when the mill now completed at St. Joseph, Mo., begins operations early in November. The mill is designed to use wheat straw as the basic element in the manufacture of insolating material. The plant will consume 20,000 tons of straw annually and will have an output of more than 100,000 square feet of insolating "board" per day. This means that the wheat growers will have an outlet for a waste by-product that will add materially to the cash returns from the annual harvest. The problem of turning waste products of the farm, such as wheat straw into revenue producers has long attracted the attention of thoughtful men. Federal and state experiment stations have sought in vain for the solution.

At one time it was thought the wheat straw might be utilized to advantage in fertilizing the soil, but long tough fibers resist decay for years and the cost of spreading it over the land was found to out-weigh its practical value because of its low content of the basic soil elements—nitrogen, phosphorus and potash, so that the stacks were burned on the first convenient still night.

And then the discovery was made that wheat straw contains all the basic elements necessary to the manufacture of the highest known quality of insolating material made from vegetable fiber growth. Its long tough fibers, when cooked to a pulp and formed into "boards," make a perfect non-conductor of heat, cold and sound and are fire resistant to a high degree.

WARNS INDIANA "DRYS" AGAINST INDIFFERENCE

Declaring that he was not afraid of the law-breakers but that the greatest danger to prohibition is coming from the indifference and lassitude of the people who claim to believe in the law, Frank E. Wright, author of Indiana's "bone dry" law, addressed a large congregation at the Anderson Friends Church Sunday.

"I believe that our people in the main believe in prohibition, I believe that in the main they believe in law enforcement and I do not believe that they are willing to trade a part of our Constitution for a beer keg, but there is the danger if we are not aroused to the situation that confronts us that we will go to sleep on the job and let them come back with booze in this country again.

"In spite of better homes, better schools, better churches, better economical and industrial conditions in this country today here is yet a law-breaking minority, backed by the money coined from wrecked homes and mothers' tears, who do not accept the eighteenth amendment as settling forever the liquor question and are doing everything that unprincipled men with money can do to hinder law enforcement and break down prohibition but if we can keep the church people and the good people of the state and nation aroused as they should be, it would be just as easy to turn Niagara's seething, foaming torrent back up over the falls as it would be to bring saloons back to our loved country again."

With the Churches

ST. JOE M. P. CHURCH

Mrs. Hattie Widney, Supt.
Sunday School, 9:30 A. M.
Christian Endeavor, 6:00 P. M.

CONCORD M. P. CHURCH

George Johnson, Supt.
Sunday school 9:30 A. M.
Christian Endeavor, 6:30.
J. F. McKnight, Pastor.

EVANGELICAL LUTHERAN CHURCHES

"Blessed are they which hunger and thirst after righteousness, for they shall be filled." Matt. 5: 6.

A man may be measured by his desires. Righteousness is a supreme object of desire. The desire is the measure of the supply. A real desire culminates in action. Hunger drives to work.

What leads people thus to hunger and thirst? A sense of insufficiency. A sense of guilt. A perception of utter inefficacy of all human prescriptions to remove sin or supply righteousness. Those who hunger and thirst are blessed, because it is the evidence of a new nature and of acceptance with God. They are "filled"—satisfied, with righteousness, happiness and finally with the likeness of God.

ST. JOE

Sabbath Bible School at 9:30 A. M., Mr. Derwood Ridgway, Superintendent.

Divine Service at 7:00 o'clock.

SPENCERVILLE

Sabbath Bible School at 9:15 A. M., Mr. Ray Means, Superintendent.

Divine Service at 10:30 A. M.

We shall be happy to have you worship with us. If you have no church home here as yet, join us.

P. B. Roediger, Pastor.

CHURCH OF CHRIST

"Religion ought to be parked in the church pews on Sunday."

ST. JOE

Ed Storer, Supt.
Bible School, 9:30 A. M.
Lord's Supper, 10:30 A. M.
Sermon, 11:00 A. M.

NEWVILLE

Frank Lyons, Superintendent
Bible School, 10:00 A. M., sun time.

Lord's Supper, 11:00 A. M., sun time.

Sermon, 7:30 P. M. sun time.

Bible School was larger last Sunday; make it still larger. Every member come and it will be.

R. S. Aldrich, Pastor.

Methodist Episcopal Church Spencerville

Sunday School, 9:00 A. M.—John Koch, Superintendent.

Epworth League, 6:00 P. M.

Preaching service alternating morning and evening with Scipio.

NOTES ON SERVICE

John 14: 1. "Believe also in me."

With Christ as teacher, the disciple's first lesson is on prayer. The second is on the will of God. The third is on faith. Prayer and Bible Study are fundamental to the building of christian character.

The Disciple, in order to make progress must be a Believer, and this leads to faith.

Faith in the christian sense is more than intellectual assent. It means confidence in, love for and obedience to a Person, and that Person is Christ. It is the assent of the intellect, the devotion of the heart, and the commitment of the will. The giving of oneself in utter devotion to Christ.

Jesus says, "According to thy faith be it unto thee." In the light of the above meaning of faith, How shall it be unto thee?

Roy S. Brown, Pastor.

Nearby and Yonder

By T. T. MAXEY

WNU Service

A Bathing Beauty Pageant

ATLANTIC CITY, New Jersey, with its famous board-walk skirting the ocean shore for several miles holds an annual pageant which is one of the great civic celebrations of America.

The week's fun begins with the arrival of King Neptune and his court of beauty, selected from the prettiest girls in that vicinity. Originally a gala occasion consisting of a one-day board-walk rolling chair parade, this celebration has been expanded to include an inter-city beauty contest—the leading cities of the country sending their prettiest girls from among whom the judges select the most charming girl in America.

The bather's revue brings aspirants for glory of feminine attractiveness together in competition for the title of the most beautiful bathing maid. The entire assemblage of bathing beauties is eyed by thousands of visitors while being judged by artists for both facial beauty and charm of form.

The rolling chair parade, consisting of hundreds of flower-bedecked and ingeniously decorated chairs and floats constructed on rolling chairs and carrying the leading beauties of the country, is a unique feature.

Then, there are great night carnivals, sea spectacles, fancy-dress balls and banquets galore. The winners of the several contests are finally judged in class for the awarding of the golden mermaid—emblematic of the beauty supremacy of the entire week.

(©, 1927, Western Newspaper Union.)

Nearby and Yonder

By T. T. MAXEY

WNU Service

The Mason and Dixon Line

THIS famous "line" which for generations served to mark a distinct separation in national thought had its beginning in the boundary line between Pennsylvania and Maryland. No other real or imaginary line in America has been mentioned so frequently that its political meaning was better known than its geographical location.

It was run by two English surveyors, Charles Mason and Jeremiah Dixon, in 1763-1767, to settle an 80-year dispute between the families of William Penn and Lord Baltimore. In those days Pennsylvania was a somewhat indefinite region between Maryland and New England.

The line was marked by milestones brought from England, every fifth one carrying the coat-of-arms of Penn on one side and of Baltimore on the other. After carrying it over the mountains to a point 244 miles from the Delaware river they came upon an Indian war path leading through the forest and their Indian escort told them that it was the will of the Indian nations that they return. As obedience appeared to be the better part of wisdom, Mason and Dixon returned to Philadelphia in 1767 and were discharged.

In ordinary usage the line begins at a triangular post of granite, its sides lettered M, D and P, respectively, at the dividing line between Delaware, Maryland and Pennsylvania and extends westward, over mountain, through valley and across plain—"a chain of stones through the woods."

(©, 1927, Western Newspaper Union.)

Nearby and Yonder

By T. T. MAXEY

WNU Service

Harney Peak

HARNEY peak is the highest point between the Atlantic ocean and the Rocky mountains. It is located in the very heart of the famous Black hills of South Dakota.

This "king" mountain of the eastern half of these United States shoulders up above a mass of lesser heights which surround it and raises its barren, rocky crest to an elevation of 7,216 feet, or almost a mile and one-half above the level of the tides of the sea in a greeting to the stars in God's heaven.

The sides of this old sentinel of the north Middle West are studded with growths of timber and made up of rough, jagged ridges and peaks, gigantic and freakish-looking rocks, which the rains and the snows and the winds and the sun of centuries of time have eroded and fashioned into rare, odd and strange shapes. One large era is pointed and pinnacled in such a spectacular and grotesque manner that it has been dubbed "The Needles."

The lover of the rare in nature finds in the broad vista of landscape which spreads out in all directions from its summit like a map—peaks of lower altitude, pretty park-like places in fertile valleys, deep-sided canyons, rollicking streams, little glass-like lakes, picturesque towns, varied mining operations, the hog-back rim of the hills, prosperous farming communities, which stretch off into North Dakota, Wyoming and Nebraska, wonderfully impressive.

(©, 1927, Western Newspaper Union.)

Out of the Pepper Box

By Ben F. Williams

There is enough salt in the ocean to make a cover a mile and a half thick for the United States.

Reindeer hair, shed in spring by the animals, is gathered and sold by the Eskimos for stuffing for life preservers.

As late as 1889 the dried flesh of the viper was described as a drug in the authorized English medical dictionaries.

So valuable was the Mexican cacao bean up to fifty years ago that the entire populace of Mexico used it as money.

Michigan State College, founded in 1857, is the oldest agricultural college in the country.

What has become of the old fashioned farmer who ust to tote the town scribe a little farm produce along about this season of the year?

Frau E. Von Isacescu, of Vienna, is said to be the first woman who attempted to swim the English Channel. She made her first attempt in 1890.

In the Island of Hao, a French possession in the mid-Pacific, rats serve as mediums of exchange and with a sufficient number a man can buy a wife.

As a plea for rain the natives of Angola, on the west coast of Africa, cut off a man's arm at the shoulder and plant it in the ground with the hand sticking up.

Artist's Wife: "Why do you always paint your angels blonde?"

Her Husband: "Because you, dear, are a brunette."

DR. C. R. BAUMGARTNER
Veterinarian

Spencerville, Ind.

PHONES: 282--283.

We Do STATIONERY PRINTING on HAMMERMILL BOND

PHONE 290

Stanley P. Nelson Monuments

Opposite Woodlawn and Roselawn Cemeteries

AUBURN, IND.

Dr. E. T. Julian
M. D.
St. JOE

9:30 to 11:30 each forenoon at Dr. C. R. Price office.

Russel R. Reidenour
ATTORNEY
Auburn, Ind.

Let Us Print Your Sale Bills

Paper and envelopes News office.

Pies, pastries and frankfurters have been banned from New York school lunches n an effort to encourage more balanced meals.

Ventriloquism the practice of making the voice come from a particular point, is believed to have played an important part in the magic and ceremonial rites of early peoples.

The lion's mane and ruff serve to protect its neck when attacked by enemies.

In the 17th and early 18th centuries, family Bibles were kept in oak boxes made especially for that purpose. Mny of the boxes were elaborately carved.

The dearth of whiskers in this country is not a tribute to sanitation so much as to petting parties.

Experience is one thing you can't get on the pay-a-little-when-you-can plan.

Woe be unto the humorist—the electric refrigerator has killed the ice-man joke.

The Bible is the only book which is never off the press.

An aviator in a single-seater Brittish Air Force plane flew upside down for four minutes and forty-five seconds, thus setting a new record.

If the United States wants to restrict immigration why not advertise that there is work for everybody?

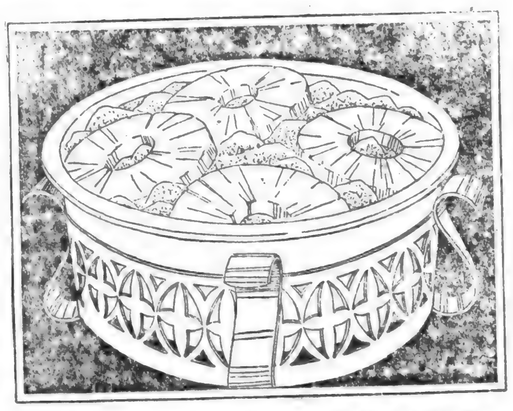
There may be no sentiment in business but there's a lot of business in greeting cards.

Mental disintegration sets in the moment you decide that you know ti all.

A sure sign of old age, "Gimme a pair of shoes just like the ones I have on."

Individuality is always dangerous because any departure from the orthodox is looked upon with suspicion.

Civilization—A status in which people kill each other by the thousands in the name of what they call liberty and freedom.



POTATOES AND PINEAPPLE

THE housewife who likes to serve a meatless meal now and then, particularly in the summer, casts around in her mind for new combinations with which to tempt her family.

A recipe that satisfactorily fulfills the requirements of a meatless meal must be hearty and at the same time "tasty." It must have plenty of calories in it, and yet not be too heavy. An ideal combination that meets all these exigencies is sweet potatoes and Hawaiian pineapple. These two foods used together supply the necessary calories, starch, protein and vitamines. Here are two good recipes.

Two Meatless Dishes

Sweet Potatoes and Hawaiian Pineapple in Casserole: Place in a casserole two cups of cold boiled sweet potatoes cut in quarter inch slices. Cover with a can of sliced Hawaiian pineapple cut in small pieces, and pour over the following ingredients: one-half cup brown sugar, four teaspoons butter, one teaspoon salt, two tablespoons red cinnamon drops. Let bake slowly for an hour.

Hawaiian Pineapple and Candied Sweet Potatoes: Cook and drain six medium sized potatoes, cut in half lengthwise. Put in a buttered pan. Cut in cubes six slices of Hawaiian pineapple and place on top. Brush with a syrup made of one-half cup brown sugar, one-fourth cup water and three tablespoons butter. Bake fifteen minutes, basting at intervals with part of the syrup which has been kept out for the purpose.

MONEY
Is Like the Water Of a RIVER

"Money is like the water of a river" a French historian has said. "If it suddenly floods, it devastates; divide it into a thousand channels where it circulates quietly and it brings life to every spot." Our present system of economic distribution, efficiently divides our national wealth into many channels. One of these channels is flowing into your purse. True, it may not be much more than a trickling stream, but it is there at your disposal.

How are you handling it? Are you trying to irrigate a thousand acres with but enough to nourish one? Are you allowing it to dissipate itself in futile spending or are you utilizing its power for something really worth while? The members of the "Get Ahead Club" have built dams across their streams, and are controlling the flood gates in order to make every drop work. One outlet leads to a savings account. Some day it is going to be big enough to help its owner realize his most worthwhile dream. These people are getting ahead in the world.

Farmers' & Merchants State Bank
Spencerville, Ind.

NOVEMBER

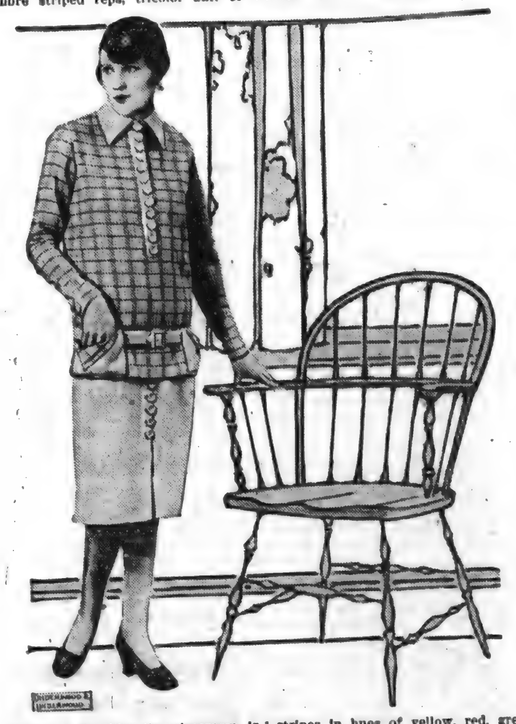
L 915 U614

Novelty Sports Woolens Are Chic for School Clothes

By JULIA BOTTOMLEY

A STUDY of the new modes reveals the prominence of novelty woolens in the realm of sports and utilitarian apparel. Which fact contributes directly to the attractiveness of clothes for the schoolgirl.

What with the gay flannels and woolen crepes, patterned tweeds, ombre striped reps, tricolor knit effects and the like the classroom is destined to stage a scene of animated color and design this season.



A smart note for fall is the two-piece flannel frock, combining solid color with patterned. The costume in the picture is the latest offering of a leading Parisian couturier. The material is beige kasha, the skirt a wrap-around of plain color and the blouse of plaid design with high neck and long sleeves. An ideal costume this for the college girl.

The most intriguing item of chic in the new sports and school clothes is undoubtedly the blouse. Originality is interpreted in its every phase. For its development every cunning medium is employed from flannel and velveteen to jersey and myriads of knitted effects. Color schemes for the new blouse are at once startling and fascinating.

The latest flight of imagination is the blouse of tricolor stripe. That is, the knitted jumper shows horizontal stripes full eight inches deep, beginning with a light shade for the top, grading to darker for the central portion, finishing with the deepest tone around the hips. The accompaniment of a simple cardigan coat and skirt of woolen which is neutral in tone accents the color glory of the blouse.

Very clever sports ensembles face the tuxedo revers of the full-length coat with the same vivid knitted medium as that employed for the blouse. When one visualizes the knitted stripes in hues of yellow, red, green and navy, the effectiveness of the color scheme is most assuring.

Tweed printed velveteens are also among the newer fabrics which are in evidence for the creation of the separate blouse.

(©, 1927, Western Newspaper Union.)

Children Need Spinach as Often as Possible

Children need spinach as often as possible and they should have a pint of milk or more a day. Spinach soup, which combines these two valuable foods in an excellent way contributes to both needs. Directions for making it are given by the United States Department of Agriculture.

1 quart milk
2 tablespoons butter
1 teaspoon milk
2 tablespoons flour
1 cup ground or raw spinach

Place the milk in a double boiler with the salt. Wash the spinach well, chop or grind it, and if ground place a bowl to catch the liquid which runs from the grinder. Add to the spinach. Mix the flour and butter until well blended and add to the milk with the spinach. Stir until thickened and the spinach is cooked.

Vegetables Used in Sweet Mixed Pickles

Vegetables prepared by the "long brining method" described in Farmers' Bulletin 1438-F can be freshened and made into sweet mixed pickle, which has been tested by the United States Department of Agriculture.

Seasoned Vinegar for Sweet Mixed Pickle.

3 cups vinegar
1 cup water
1½ cups sugar
1 tablespoon mustard seed
2 hot red peppers
⅓ ounce spice mixture below

Spice Mixture.

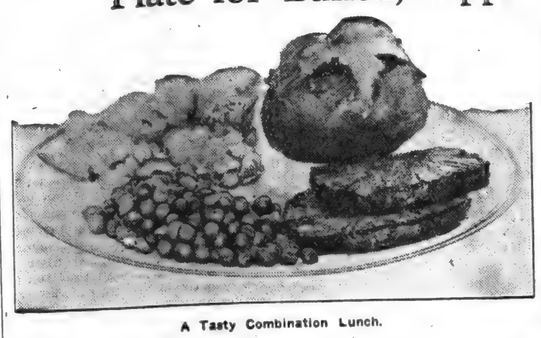
2 ounces allspice
2 ounces coriander
3 ounces yellow mustard seed
¼ ounce dried red pepper
¼ ounce bay leaves

Bring the vinegar mixture to the boiling point and pour over the vegetables below after freshening them for 12 to 24 hours. Seal in airtight sterile jars and store in a cool place.

Vegetable Mixture.

3 pints sliced cucumbers
1 pint sliced onions
1 pint cut string beans
½ pint cut sweet red peppers
1 pint cauliflower cut in sections
1 pint sliced green tomatoes
1 pint cut green peppers

An Attractive Vegetable Plate for Lunch, Supper



A Tasty Combination Lunch.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Many combinations are good in vegetable plates. Particularly appetizing is this lunch or supper of baked potato, cauliflower, fresh or canned peas, and fried canned pineapple. If cauliflower is not available, cabbage may be used.

The foods must be timed so as to be ready together. The baked potato will require about 45 minutes to cook, the cauliflower and fresh peas about 20, and the pineapple about 30 minutes, according to how many pieces are to be prepared. Cook the pineapple slowly in butter, after it has been drained and floured, until it is a delicate brown, and keep it hot while the other foods are being arranged on the plates.

Avoid having too hot an oven for the baked potato. A very hot oven produces a hard dark crust. When the potatoes feel mealy and tender to the very center, take them out of the oven immediately and work them between the fingers, then stick a fork into one side and make an opening to let out the steam. Press the potato flesh upward and put a piece of butter on it. Sprinkle with paprika and serve at once.

KIDDIES' BEDTIME STORY

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

GRANDFATHER PORKY

"Grunt, grunt," said Grandfather Porky Pig.

"Squeal, squeal," said Miss Ham.

"Grunt, grunt," said Sammy Sausage.

"Squeal, squeal," said Brother Bacon.

"Grunt, grunt," said Pinky Pig.

"Squeal, squeal," said Pinky Pig's mother.

"Grunt, grunt," said Master Pink Pig.

"Squeal, squeal," said Master Pink Pig's mother.

"Grunt, grunt," said Mrs. Pinky Pig.

"Squeal, squeal," said Mrs. Pink Pig.

"Grunt, grunt," said Sir Percival Pork.

"Squeal, squeal," said Sir Benjamin Bacon.

And little Black Squealer added:

"Squeal, squeal."

"It always happens this way, grunt, grunt," said Porky Pig.

"It always happens what way, squeal, squeal?" asked Miss Ham.

"What way, grunt, grunt," asked Sammy Sausage.

"What way, squeal, squeal?" asked Brother Bacon.

"What way, grunt, grunt?" asked Pinky Pig.

"What way, squeal, squeal?" asked Pinky Pig's mother.

"What way, grunt, grunt?" asked Master Pink Pig.

"What way, squeal, squeal?" asked Master Pink Pig's mother.

"What way, grunt, grunt?" asked Sir Percival Pork.

"What way, squeal, squeal?" asked Sir Benjamin Bacon.

And little Black Squealer added:

"What way, squeal, squeal?"

"I never get a chance to say what I want to say," said Grandfather Porky Pig.

"You all have too much to say for yourselves, you pigs."

"Squeal, squeal, not so much," said Miss Ham.

"Grunt, grunt, not so much," said Sammy Sausage.

"Squeal, squeal, not so much," said

"How Can You?" Asked Little Black Squealer.

Brother Bacon. "Not so very much."

"Grunt, grunt, not so much," said Pinky Pig.

"Squeal, squeal, not so much," said Pinky Pig's mother.

"Grunt, grunt, not so much," said Master Pink Pig.

"Squeal, squeal, not so much," said Master Pinky Pig's mother.

"Squeal, squeal, not so much," said Mrs. Pinky Pig.

"Squeal, squeal, not so much," said Mrs. Pink Pig.

"Grunt, grunt, not so much," said Sir Percival Pork.

"Squeal, squeal, not so much," said Sir Benjamin Bacon.

And little Black Squealer added:

"We haven't so much to say, squeal, squeal."

"No," said Grandfather Porky Pig, "you haven't so much to say for yourselves, but you keep up such a noise and such a squealing and grunting—all very stupid, but it interrupts me.

"I'll have to go over in a corner of the pen by myself and speak to myself if I'm to be sure of having an attentive, quiet audience."

"How can you speak to yourself and listen to yourself at the same time, squeal, squeal?" asked Miss Ham.

"How can you do that," asked Sammy Sausage.

"How can you?" asked Brother Bacon.

"How can you?" asked Pinky Pig.

"How can you?" asked Pinky Pig's mother.

"How can you?" asked Master Pink Pig.

"How can you?" asked Master Pink Pig's mother.

"How can you?" asked Mrs. Pinky Pig.

"How can you?" asked Mrs. Pink Pig.

"How can you?" asked Sir Percival Pork.

"How can you?" asked Sir Benjamin Bacon.

"How can you?" asked little Black Squealer.

And Porky didn't know the answer to this, but above everything else, sad, sad to relate, he had forgotten what it was he had wanted to say!

(©, 1927, Western Newspaper Union.)

RECIPES FOR THANKSGIVING

By NELLIE MAXWELL

"A kindly deed
Is a little seed,
That groweth all unseen;
And in, when none
Do look thereon,
Anew it springeth green."

Soon the festive day which our forefathers set apart for thanksgiving, will be here. Let us prepare for the occasion by preserving the traditions of those who gave their lives that we might enjoy the pursuit of happiness.

As turkey is the time-honored fowl for this day, we must look to its preparation and stuffing for that is an important part of making it palatable and enjoyable.

A properly seasoned bird is best stuffed the day before roasting to let the seasoning penetrate and flavor the meat.

When the juice which follows the fork when thrust into the breast shows a pinkish tint and the joints may be separated easily, it is ready to serve.

Bread-Crumb Stuffing.—Take two quarts of bread crumbs, rather stale, for the stuffing of a ten-pound turkey. Take two-thirds of a cupful of butter, one and one-half teaspoonfuls of salt, one tablespoonful each of sweet marjoram and summer savory crumbled to a powder, and one-half teaspoonful of white pepper. A tablespoonful of minced onion may be added if liked. Add the butter and seasonings to the crumbs, adding enough milk or water to lightly moisten the stuffing. Fill the bird, sew up and truss for roasting. Place in the roasting pan breast-side down for the first roasting; this will keep the best juices from wasting in the roasting. Turn and baste often.

Chestnut Pudding.—Blanch a pint of chestnuts, halve them and cook until tender in a cupful of milk, letting them simmer until soft. Press through a sieve, add one-fourth pint of sugar, a little salt, one-half teaspoonful of vanilla and a grating of nutmeg. Beat the yolks and whites of three eggs separately, add the yolks to the chestnut pulp, stir well, then fold in the stiffly beaten whites; put into a pudding dish and bake fifteen minutes. Serve hot or cold.

Chestnut Salad.—Blanch chestnuts by putting them into a hot pan, slitting each, then when they pop open remove the shell and skins. Cook until tender in a little broth, then slice or cut into small pieces and serve on lettuce with a good dressing.

Boiled Chestnuts as Vegetable.—Remove the shells and blanch the nuts in boiling water, boiling for a few minutes, then drop them into cold water and rub off the skins. Drop the nuts into salted, boiling water and cook them until tender enough to be pierced with a fork—about forty minutes. Drain and put over hot water to keep warm. Prepare the sauce, either a rich white sauce or Hollandaise.

French Chestnut Soup.—Peel, blanch and cook a quart of large chestnuts in slightly salted water for twenty minutes. Add one teaspoonful of salt and sugar, the rind of a lemon and a quart of water. Cook further until the chestnuts are done. Rub through a sieve and add two quarts of chicken or veal stock, a teaspoonful of minced parsley, a tablespoonful each of flour and butter well blended. Serve with a dash of orange juice.

A little cooked ham put through the meat grinder added to an omelet makes a change and a very substantial dish.

(©, 1927, Western Newspaper Union.)

"Flummery" Dessert Is Easy to Prepare

A "flummery" is an old-fashioned dessert that is easy to make in the season of highly flavored small fruits such as blackberries and black raspberries. Many people dislike the seeds in stewed or canned berries. Flummery has all the fruit flavor without the seeds. The bureau of home economics gives these directions for making it:

Blackberry Flummery.

3 cupfuls blackberry juice from canned or cooked fresh blackberries
¼ cupful sugar (if juice is unsweetened)
3 tablespoonfuls farina or 4 tablespoonfuls cornstarch
¼ teaspoonful salt
2 teaspoonfuls lemon juice

Heat the blackberry juice. Mix the sugar and the farina or cornstarch and the salt, and add to the blackberry juice. Cook in a double boiler for 15 to 20 minutes, or until the mixture thickens and the raw starchy taste disappears. Remove from the fire, add the lemon juice, and beat well. Serve cold with top milk or plain or whipped cream. Raspberry flummery is made in the same way.

Hints for the Housewife

Use old felt hats to resole bedroom slippers.

• • •

Chocolate is delicious sweetened with honey.

• • •

To make cherry cocktail, use red or white cherries, stone, drain and sprinkle with shredded coconut.

• • •

Add a handful of salt to the last water on wash day and the clothes will not stick to the line in frosty weather.

• • •

If a jar of chocolate or fruit syrup is kept in the icebox, cool milk drinks can be made in a jiffy.

• • •

Worn and run-down heels not only look bad but are likely to cause aches and pains in one's legs and back.

• • •

Marking ink on white cottons or linens may be removed with javelle water followed by water containing a few drops of ammonia.

INCLUDE CORN FRITTERS WITH THE PLATE LUNCH

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

One of the nicest ways to add flavor, richness and crispness to a vegetable plate lunch is to include corn fritters. There are many combinations that would be good with corn fritters, as for example, spinach, creamed onions and stewed tomatoes; or string beans, carrots and lettuce salad; or quick-cooked cabbage, beets and buttered mashed rutabaga. The other vegetables should be about ready to serve when you begin to fry the fritters, so that the latter can be sent to the table piping hot. Here is a recipe for making them, supplied by the United States Department of Agriculture:

Corn Fritters.

1 cupful liquid, either from canned corn, or milk, or the two mixed
1 cupful drained canned corn
1¾ cupfuls sifted soft-wheat flour
1 tablespoonful melted fat
1 egg
2 teaspoonfuls baking powder
½ teaspoonful salt

Mix the flour, baking powder and salt. Mix the juice from the canned corn, or milk, or whatever liquid is used, the egg after it has been beaten slightly, and the canned corn. Stir this liquid mixture gradually into the dry ingredients. Add the melted fat. If the corn is very moist even after the liquid has been drained from it, more flour may be added. Dried corn, which has been soaked and cooked until tender, may also be used.

Fry the corn fritters in deep fat or, if preferred, in a skillet in shallow fat. In either case, drop the mixture by spoonfuls into the fat and fry rather slowly, for these fritters need time to cook through to the center before the outside becomes too brown. Drain the fritters on absorbent paper and serve hot.

SERVE CUSTARD SAUCE WITH CANNED PEACHES

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Serve custard sauce occasionally with such canned fruit as peaches, plums, apricots, or pears, or with some of the fresh fruits in season. Custards, moreover, add to the supply of iron and vitamines the children get, and they should be encouraged to eat them.

To make a soft custard, use a double boiler, says the United States Department of Agriculture. Heat a quart of milk with half a cupful of sugar and one-eighth teaspoonful of salt in the double boiler. Beat five or six egg yolks lightly and pour slowly into them some of the heated milk. Pour back into the pan and stir constantly until the custard coats the spoon. Remove at once and place the pan in a bowl of cold water, stirring until cool. Add one teaspoonful of vanilla. Chill the custard and serve with canned peaches or other fruit.

Supply of Iron and Vitamines Needed by Children.

Work for Expert

Petrified wood is polished with buffing wheels of felt charged with tin oxide. It is not possible, however, to give such material a satisfactory polish until it has been cut and ground. This requires elaborate lapidary equipment of cutting saws, grinding laps, suitable abrasives and buffing wheels.

OAK floors are not expensive

Never need replacement, yet cost no more than temporary floor coverings. Add permanent value for rental or resale.

OAK FLOORING BUREAU
1293 Builders' Building CHICAGO

Don't Trust Your Butter To Luck

Market men and consumers are insisting on uniform color, now-a-days, and no real dairyman can afford to trust to luck any more. Keep your butter always that golden June shade, which brings top prices, by using Dandelion Butter color. All large creameries have used it for years. It meets all State and National Food Laws. It's harmless, tasteless and will not color Buttermilk. Large bottles cost only 35c at all drug and grocery stores.

Send for FREE Sample

Wells & Richardson Co., Inc.
Burlington, Vermont

WOMEN

You may receive FREE our instructive booklet giving worth while information about women's health, with valuable coupon inside, by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope to

BEST & COMPANY
2503 Sedgwick Avenue, Dept. A, New York City

Modesty

Wife—A very modest hat costs at least $40.

Hub—Then get an immodest one. I don't care a hang how bare you are at that end.—Boston Transcript.

To Cure a Cold in one Day

Take Laxative BROMO QUININE Tablets. The Safe and Proven Remedy. Look for signature of E. W. Grove on the box. 30c.—Adv.

Showing the "Old Man"

The son often has to set the example before the old man who is "set in his way" will believe there is any way better than the old way.

Clean Kidneys By Drinking Lots of Water

Take Salts to Flush Kidneys If Bladder Bothers or Back Hurts

Eating too much rich food may produce kidney trouble in some form, says a well-known authority, because the acids created excite the kidneys. Then they become overworked, get sluggish, clog up and cause all sorts of distress, particularly backache and misery in the kidney region, rheumatic twinges, severe headaches, acid stomach, constipation, torpid liver, sleeplessness, bladder and urinary irritation.

The moment your back hurts or kidneys aren't acting right, or if bladder bothers you, begin drinking lots of good water and also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity; also to neutralize the acids in the system so that they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder disorders.

Jad Salts cannot injure anyone; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to help keep the kidneys and urinary organs clean, thus often avoiding serious kidney disorders.

Quick Relief From Coughs and Colds

It Is Exceedingly Dangerous to Let Coughs and Colds Develop. Easy to Check Them.

For more than fifty-six years Porter's Pain King has stood in the front rank of home remedies for the relief of colds, coughs, croup, hoarseness and similar ailments.

Porter's Pain King is made of pure, wholesome ingredients, perfectly harmless and amazingly effective. By merit alone it holds an honored place in hundreds of thousands of American homes the year 'round.

Right now is a good time to read the circular wrapped around every bottle. Many families who have this good old-time liniment in the house suffer needlessly because they do not know all of its many uses. Porter's Pain King is more than a remedy for colds. It soothes aches and pains, soreness, swollen joints, tired muscles, lame back and rheumatic misery. It heals burns, scalds, cuts, chapped hands, frost-bitten feet. Why not use it today?

Made and guaranteed since 1871 by The Geo. H. Randle Co., Piqua, Ohio. Sold by dealers everywhere.

RHEUMATISM
For 35 Years
TRUSLER'S RHEUMATIC TABLETS
HAVE GIVEN RELIEF
All Druggists. Two Sizes, 50c and $1.00.
Trusler Remedy Co. Cincinnati, O.

NOVEMBER

L 915 U615

Sure Relief

No more Over-Acidity

Gas, nausea, sick headache, heartburn, distress after eating or drinking quickly and surely relieved. Safe. Pleasant. Not a laxative.

Normalizes Digestion and Sweetens the Breath

BELL-ANS FOR INDIGESTION

25¢ AND 75¢ PACKAGES EVERYWHERE

Municipal Economy

A bob-haired, scantily clad flapper was making her application at the pearly gates, and St. Peter was putting her through her category.

"What was your occupation?" he inquired.

"Men called me a gold-digger," she tittered.

"I'm sorry—but on account of the paving we can't let you in here."—American Legion Monthly.

Russ Bleaching Blue is the finest product of its kind in the world. Every woman who has used it knows this statement to be true.—Adv.

Effect and Cause

Mother—Yes, your face is nice and clean, but your hands are dirty.

Willie—I must have got 'em dirty washin' my face.

The BABY

No mother in this enlightened age would give her baby something she did not know was perfectly harmless, especially when a few drops of plain Castoria will right a baby's stomach and end almost any little ill. Fretfulness and fever, too; it seems no time until everything is serene.

That's the beauty of Castoria; its gentle influence seems just what is needed. It does all that castor oil might accomplish, without shock to the system. Without the evil taste. It's delicious! Being purely vegetable, you can give it as often as there's a sign of colic; constipation; diarrhea; or need to aid sound, natural sleep.

Just one warning: it is genuine Fletcher's Castoria that physicians recommend. Other preparations may be just as free from all doubtful drugs, but no child of this writer's is going to test them! Besides, the book on care and feeding of babies that comes with Fletcher's Castoria is worth its weight in gold.

Children Cry for Fletcher's CASTORIA

DODD'S PILLS

DIURETIC STIMULANT TO THE KIDNEYS

Standard for Generations.

Mr. R. L. Gable, Dennis, Miss., writes as follows:

I had been going around crippled with rheumatism for about 18 months. My muscles were so sore I could hardly work at all. I remembered that 15 or 20 years ago when suffering in the same way with kidney trouble, Dodd's Pills had given me great relief, so I purchased some of these Pills and am now able to do as much plowing in a day as any young fellow, and I am now 61 years of age. I cannot say too much for Dodd's Pills.

At all druggists, 60c per box, or The Dodds Medicine Co., Inc., 700 Main St. Buffalo, N. Y.

WHEN JIM CAME BACK HOME

(©, by D. J. Walsh.)

MARIA MATTHEWS sat by the table in the living room in sorrowful silence. Outside the weather was in accord with her melancholy mood. The future loomed before her lonely, forbidding, hopeless.

Two years before to a day a steamboat had gone down on the Atlantic with all on board, including her husband—big, bluff, jolly Jim Matthews. His name was on the steamboat's list of passengers. Before embarking he had sent her the letter which she now held in her hand. Tears fell from her eyes as she read it for the hundredth time.

"Dear Maria: When you receive this I shall be on my way to South America. That last informal quarrel we had settled it. The way you looked at me—something you said—well, I made up my mind that we had better be apart for a while. Everything we own is now in your name. Good-by and good luck.

"JIM."

Jim's wife was a tiny creature, full of sparkle and life in her girlhood, but now subdued through trouble and sorrow. She went over the old ground again and again in her mind until her brain was weary.

"Jim meant to come home. He never meant to desert me," she told herself fiercely. "Why, oh, why—of all afloat—must the steamer that carried Jim be the one to go down!" Why had Got punished her so terribly? For punishment it was, she had no doubt of that. She acknowledged to herself that she had been hard to live with—exacting, unreasonable, aggravating. She had a caustic tongue. Jim had thought her sharp speeches "cute" at first. Perhaps he did not admire them so much when he himself became the object of them. Brother Tom had once said to her: "Maria, you can say the most cutting things in that confounded drawl of yours of anybody I ever knew." As for that "last quarrel," it had been like all their quarrels. She could not even remember what it was about.

No caustic remark was on the tip of her tongue today. The snapping black eyes were soft and humid, with dark rings around them caused by much weeping. Jim's photograph, in a pretty frame, stood on the table. She gazed at it lovingly, hungrily.

Suddenly she started to her feet. A baby's voice was calling "Ma-ma! Ma-ma!" Maria went into the bedroom and, lifting the child in her arms, came back to her seat, holding him tightly to her bosom. A beautiful baby boy, rosy from sleep, he was health and beauty personified. He reached out eager hands toward the portrait, and cooed cunningly: "Pa-pa, Pa-pa."

Maria kissed him passionately. "Papa would never have gone away if he had known God was sending a little Jim to bridge the chasm between us," she lamented.

Every one who saw the child declared him to be the "dead image of Jim Matthews." Indeed he was ridiculously like big Jim, even to the mole in the middle of his forehead, which on the little face seemed ludicrously incongruous. There was the same fine head with the rippling fair hair, the same fearless blue eyes, the same straight nose, square chin and mouth with upward curving corners, always ready for a laugh. The elder Jim was impatient, so was little Jim.

"Ma-ma—milk," he commanded imperiously. And, of course, milk was immediately forthcoming. It was Saturday afternoon. Saturday night supper had always been a festal occasion—when good humor happened to prevail. Maria cooked something especially appetizing, and Jim brought home a treat which he knew his wife would enjoy. Often it was a box of candy, sometimes rare fruit, and more often than anything at this time of the year a big California melon, golden and luscious. Maria's mind dwelt upon this now, and like a child she began to pretend. She would have a make-believe party.

"I shall go mad if I keep on thinking," she declared abruptly. "I may as well make a fool of myself one way as another. If I can get any pleasure out of pretending that Jim is coming home to supper, whose business is it?" She bustled about adding coal to the fire and getting out cooking materials from the pantry.

"I may as well have a real good supper while I am about it," she said firmly. "I suppose it will take me a whole week to eat the stuff, but what's the difference," recklessly. "Let me see—ted biscuit, raisin cake, with chocolate icing, strawberry jam, cheese and honey. Jim liked them all. I wonder what he will bring home tonight," with a strange smile.

She set the table with her best linen and china, being careful to select a special cup and saucer, decorated with blue forget-me-nots and bands of gold, a Christmas present from her to Jim. She paused for a moment to bury her face in a man's coat that hung on a nail behind the kitchen door. Jim had not stopped to take any of his belongings. "Two years today since the boat went down!" she moaned. "Poor Jim!"

Baby was in his high chair by the kitchen table, making a deafening din with a spoon. Maria felt that it was life to leave him while she hurried, taking time to make herself pretty for the occasion. A knot of crimson ribbon at the throat relieving the somber hue of her black dress, and a gold chain and locket Jim had given her. The biscuits were baked to a beautiful brown, the cake was waiting on the table. Everything was ready but the tea. She never put the tea to steep until Jim came. Baby Jim was nodding sleepily. She must lay him in his crib. This done, she sat down in the rocking chair by the window to watch for Jim.

How beautiful everything looked, even to the purple chrysanthemums in their cut-glass bowl in the center of the table. Jim's slippers were beside his chair, ready to put on the moment he came in. "He is late," she whispered, with a forlorn attempt at a laugh.

She sat very still, her mind wandering back and forth from the present to the past, from the past to the present. Whether she dozed for a few moments she never knew. She was aroused by the sound of footsteps—brisk, energetic, familiar—moving quickly along the sidewalk. They passed through the front gate and around the side of the house, pausing for a moment outside the kitchen door. Maria trembled violently. Was she awake or dreaming? The footsteps crossed the kitchen floor, the hall, and stopped in the doorway. She was afraid to look up, but did at last manage to raise her eyes.

"Well, Maria, here I am at last," said the big man who stood looking down at her. "Supper 'most ready? Here's your melon."

Maria had risen to her feet. One glance in the man's face and she dropped down upon the lounge in a dead faint. The basket dropped from Jim's hand. The melon rolled under the table. Jim knelt by the lounge and took his wife in his arms. "I ought to have written!" he told himself accusingly. "I ought not to have taken her by surprise." It was relief unspeakable to him when she opened her eyes.

"Jim!" she uttered, imploringly. "Oh, Jim, you are not dead! I thought you were dead!" Her eyes demanded an answer.

"Not me!" declared Jim ungrammatically. "In fact, I'm very much alive. That confounded boat went off and left me staring at it like a fool from the dock. Great Scott! What's this?"

Little Jim as enterprising as his father had learned a new trick. Roused from his nap by the sound of voices he had managed by considerable ingenuity and a great determination to get one fat leg after the other over the top of his crib. From that perilous position he descended to the carpet with a soft thud. This accomplished, he started on a tour of investigation.

"Pa-pa? Pa-pa?" he was lisping interrogatively, his blue eyes staring up at those so like his own.

"Good heavens, Maria, is it true?" demanded Jim in an awed whisper, staring as if fascinated at that telltale mole.

Maria nodded, her eyes filled with blissful tears, while both hands clutched the sleeve of Jim's coat as if she feared he would disappear as suddenly as he came.

"Well, all I've got to say is this," said Jim, gathering baby and mother in a huge, engulfing embrace, "you've played a mighty mean trick on me Maria."

Women of South Seas Have Many Liberties

Despite the fact that the inhabitants of the Pacific archipelago are of much the same race or races—light brown, straight-haired Polynesians or dark brown, frizzly-haired Melanesians—their customs vary from group to group. And while exceptions must be made here or there, in most of the islands—and particularly in Tonga, Samoa, and Fiji—feminine virtue is and always has been as highly prized as anywhere else in the world. In a few of the more cosmopolitan ports—such as Apia or Suva or Pagopago—there may be some women who take theirs lightly, but they are a limited minority and quite a recent institution stimulated almost invariably by an acquired fondness for the ribbons and trinkets of civilization.

In these islands—although the woman has never enjoyed the unrestricted liberty of her Marquesan sister—her position is a fairly happy one. Of course, as in many parts of the world, she is regarded as belonging to a somewhat inferior sex; throughout Polynesia she waits until the men are served before she thinks of dining herself; but this seems to cause her little concern. She appears to accept it philosophically, as though to say, "Let them strut and cherish their petty vanities; I'll assert myself whenever I want anything very badly." And in all practical matters she undoubtedly commands respect.

In Tonga—the only independent nation in the South seas—a woman actually occupies the throne. Her majesty, Queen Salote, is absolute boss, too, not only over her subjects but over her prime minister, who happens just incidentally to be her husband. Even in Fiji, where the people are of the kinky-haired Melanesian race, converted within the last fifty years from cannibalism, the women enjoy considerable independence.—Harry L. Foster, in the Independent, Boston.

Edenic, What?

"The bride was gowned in white chrysanthemums, and autumn leaves formed the decorations." — Boston Transcript.

Control Cholera by Vaccination

Minimize Losses by Proper Use of Preventive Treatment Is Urged.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

It has been suggested that efforts should be made to eradicate hog cholera in the United States. While eradication is desirable, according to U. G. Houck, in charge of hog-cholera control, United States Department of Agriculture, the general distribution and prevalence of the disease and the enormous expense make such a gigantic undertaking inadvisable, especially while large sums are being expended by the federal and state governments for the elimination of the Southern cattle tick and the eradication of bovine tuberculosis, dourine, and scabies of cattle and sheep.

Big Task to Eradicate.

The eradication of hog cholera would require the application of no less comprehensive and rigid measures than those adopted for the eradication of foot-and-mouth disease in this country, and our hog industry is in no condition to withstand such measures. Furthermore, says Doctor Houck, we have an effectual, practical preventive treatment against hog cholera, which is not the case with tuberculosis and some of the other diseases with which we are contending. Therefore it seems advisable to continue present efforts to minimize losses through the proper use of the preventive treatment rather than to attempt the complete eradication of the disease.

A feeling of security was largely responsible for the severe and widespread outbreak of cholera last fall. Herds were comparatively free from disease for a time and the owners became negligent and failed to treat their hogs. With so large a percentage of the hogs in the country susceptible it was only natural that the outbreak spread rapidly far and wide.

Control of Disease.

Control of the disease is best maintained by keeping the entire herd immune at all times. The nature of serum production is such that it cannot be hastened to meet emergencies. Ordinarily about 55 days are required to produce and test a quantity of the product ready for marketing. Severe outbreaks like that of last fall create a shortage in the serum supply with the result that many herds are infected before they can be treated.

Drugs Ineffective in Treatment for Abortion

Losses from infectious abortion of cattle, caused by a germ known as Bacillus abortus (Bang), are not likely to be prevented or reduced by drugs or medicinal compounds, says the United States Department of Agriculture. The malady is commonly acquired through the mouth by consuming feed and drink contaminated with the germs, by licking affected animals, contaminated mangers or other objects. The disease is commonly brought into healthy herds by the introduction of affected cows and pregnant heifers.

While the act of abortion is the most apparent symptom of the disease, sterility (barrenness) in affected herds is commonly more or less troublesome; animals give birth to calves which, although living, may be too weak to resist some of the more common ailments; cows show a tendency to retain their afterbirths; and a reduced milk production is occasioned by failure of animals to complete their normal gestation periods. Losses due to these conditions may equal or even exceed those represented by the number of calves born dead.

More detailed information concerning the disease is given in Farmers' Bulletin No. 1536-F, "Infectious Abortion of Cattle," a recent revision of an earlier publication. A copy of the bulletin may be obtained free upon application to the United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

Agricultural Items

It costs $2 a year to feed a rat.

• • •

Invite the sunshine to come into your poultry house.

• • •

Four-H clubs of today are the foundation stones for successful farmers of tomorrow.

• • •

Four billion pounds more milk was produced in the United States during 1926 than in 1925.

• • •

Exhibition of fruit at the state and county fairs is a good means of advertising your farm product.

• • •

Much of the feeding value of alfalfa hay is in the leaves, and it is important that they be saved.

• • •

Water buckets in the dairy barn pay for themselves quickly, for the cows will produce more milk.

• • •

Large, rectangular fields are the cheapest to plow, for less time is lost on the turns and in plowing the headlands.

• • •

The best insurance for an accurate test for tuberculosis in cattle is to secure a competent graduate veterinarian.

Genuine BAYER ASPIRIN

SAY "BAYER ASPIRIN" and INSIST!

Proved safe by millions and prescribed by physicians for

Colds Headache Neuritis Lumbago
Pain Neuralgia Toothache Rheumatism

DOES NOT AFFECT THE HEART

Safe — Accept only "Bayer" package which contains proven directions.

Handy "Bayer" boxes of 12 tablets
Also bottles of 24 and 100—Druggists.

Aspirin is the trade mark of Bayer Manufacture of Monoaceticacidester of Salicylicacid

Massena Ranked High as Fighting General

Andre Massena, duke of Rivoli, is recognized by military authorities as the greatest of all Napoleon's marshals. In a peaceful era, he probably never would have achieved renown, for peace brought out his worst qualities—indolence, envy and greed. In war time he was another man.

He was not a Napoleon, for he could not plan a whole campaign, arrange retreats or anticipate every march of a foe. But in actual battle, Massena ranks hardly below Napoleon himself. Once in actual contact with the enemy, he became an inspired man. His laziness and envy fell away. He was a battle maker extraordinary.

Massena was forty years old when he became one of Napoleon's generals. In that startling Italian campaign, Massena's genius in battle proved of inestimable importance to the Corsican who was winning his first great laurels. In battle after battle, Massena was trusted implicity by Napoleon.—Kansas City Star.

Attention, Middle-Aged Women!

Fort Wayne, Ind.—"Dr. Pierce's medicines were a life saver to me at middle age. When I reached that period it seemed that I had all the ailments and distress that can come to a woman. My nerves gave way, I was so weak that some days I was not able to be on my feet at all. I had hot flashes, dizzy spells, backache and pains thru my sides. I was a complete physical wreck when I began taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and Golden Medical Discovery'. These medicines soon ended the suffering and distress and brought me thru this critical period a strong healthy woman."—Mrs. Ida Jackman, 421½ Baker St.

All dealers. Tablets or liquid.

New Nervous Treatment

Oxygen bubbles blown under the skin of sufferers from nervous diseases have been used successfully by Professor Bechterev, one of the most distinguished members of the Leningrad Academy of Science. He made tests on 12 patients, he reported, producing marked improvement in the circulation and condition of the blood.

Every department of housekeeping needs Russ Bleaching Blue. Equally good for kitchen towels, table linen, sheets and pillowcases, etc.—Adv.

Fireflies for Princess

More than a thousand fireflies were recently snared by members of the juvenile Red Cross society at Gifu, Japan, and sent in two bowls as a gift to the emperor's daughter. Fireflies are used for light in some localities and also for personal adornment. There are more than eighty species.

Last year China bought 4,142,000 Bibles, nearly half the number issued by the British and Foreign Bible society in that period.

CORNS

Ends pain at once!

In one minute pain from corns is ended. Dr. Scholl's Zino-pads do this safely by removing the cause—pressing and rubbing of shoes. They are thin, medicated, antiseptic, healing. At all drug and shoe stores. Cost but a trifle.

Dr Scholl's Zino-pads

Put one on—the pain is gone!

PASTOR KOENIG'S NERVINE for Epilepsy Nervousness & Sleeplessness

PRICE $1.50 AT YOUR DRUG STORE

Write for free Booklet

KOENIG MEDICINE CO.
1045 N. WELLS ST. CHICAGO, ILL.

PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM

Removes Dandruff—Stops Hair Falling
Restores Color and Beauty to Gray and Faded Hair
60c. and $1.00 at Druggists.
Hiscox Chem. Wks. Patchogue, N. Y.

FLORESTON SHAMPOO—Ideal for use in connection with Parker's Hair Balsam. Makes the hair soft and fluffy. 50 cents by mail or at druggists. Hiscox Chemical Works, Patchogue, N. Y.

DEAFNESS HEAD NOISES Relieved by LEONARD EAR OIL

"Rub Back of Ears" INSERT IN NOSTRILS

At All Druggists. Price $1

Folder about "DEAFNESS" on request.

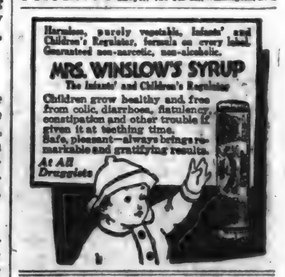
A. O. LEONARD, Inc., 70 Fifth Ave., New York

HOXSIE'S CROUP REMEDY

THE LIFE-SAVER OF CHILDREN

No opium, no nausea. 50 cents at druggists, or KELLS CO., NEWBURGH, N. Y.

PATENTS Booklet free. Highest references. Best results. Promptness assured. WATSON E. COLEMAN, Patent Lawyer. 724 9th St., Washington, D. C.



Harmless, purely vegetable, Infants' and Children's Regulator, formula on every label. Guaranteed non-narcotic, non-alcoholic.

Children grow healthy and free from colic, diarrhoea, flatulency, constipation and other trouble if given it at teething time. Safe, pleasant—always brings remarkable and gratifying results.

At All Druggists

GUARD YOUR KIDNEYS NOW!

Rid yourself of "creeping ills." Put your body in trim by cleaning up your blood from the slowing down poisons poured into it by inactive kidneys, liver and bowels. You may rely upon the famous old Dutch National Household Remedy—in use since 1696. The original and genuine.

GOLD MEDAL HAARLEM OIL CAPSULES

Accept no imitations

All Druggists Three Sizes

Cuticura Baths Best for Children

Teach your children to use Cuticura Soap because it is best for their tender skins. Assisted by occasional applications of Cuticura Ointment to first signs of irritation or dandruff, it keeps the skin and scalp clean and healthy. Cuticura Talcum is cooling and soothing.

Soap 25c. Ointment 25 and 50c. Talcum 25c. Sold everywhere. Sample each free. Address: "Cuticura Laboratories, Dept. 20, Malden, Mass."

Cuticura Shaving Stick 25c.

NOVEMBER

L 915 U616

HOME EDUCATION

The Child's First School is the Family"—Froebel.
Issued by the National Kindergarten Association

DIPLOMACY

Mrs. Nestor Noel

I have always noticed that a request has a better effect on a child than a command. In some cases a little diplomacy will prove even better than a direct request.

Let us suppose it is just time for your little girl to have her drink of milk. For some reason or other, you are pretty sure she will make a face when you say: "It is time for your milk now." She will probably pout and cry and give you a bad quarter of an hour. Be a little diplomatic with your small daughter. Looking at the clock with a smile, say: "Pussy and Mother and Baby will never grow strong if we forget their milk. Shall we give Pussy hers first today?" This makes a little distraction. Puss laps up her milk hurriedly as if to say how good it is, you drink yours, and small daughter immediately follows suit.

Another time you might try adding some little dainty to the milk and say: "I wonder what will be in our saucers today." Then the odd-shaped cracker is eaten with the milk and all is well.

Bedtime is another trial to some mothers. The more tired a child is the less she wants to go to bed. "Your big dolly has gone to sleep in your bed!" we might say, having put the doll there. "Now, what are we to do about it?" Dolly is then put in her bed and, as a natural sequence, the child goes to her bed.

If we were to consider the matter from an unprejudiced point of view, we should see that we often ask our children to do things we should not like doing ourselves. Should we like to put down a book at the most exciting point in the story and go to bed? It is easy for a child to stop in the middle of a game? You can avoid this by saying at the beginning: "You may play if you can finish in half an hour." Children generally know how long a game will take. When a game is very near its finish, I would not push all the things they are playing with ruthlessly to one side in order to be punctual to the minute. Why not give the children due warning when only five or ten minutes are left, and even allow a few more minutes if the game requires it?

After all, what we want is happy, healthy children, and reasonableness on the part of the parent will do much to insure this joy. It is impossible to make a rule that will apply to all children but the individuality of the child and parental love and watchfulness should teach the right method with each of our own.

"MOTHER WILL HAVE TO DO THAT FOR YOU"

"Clara," said a young husband to his wife, "do you realize that these children of ours are beginning to order us about very freely?"

"Surely we are not permitting that, Jim, after all we have said about other people's children in the past!" exclaimed the mother. "Why, we have criticized some of our very best friends for permitting their children to give orders too freely. We faithfully vowed we would see that our children should never do anything of the sort."

The door opened and in rushed two healthy, happy young children, Betty aged four and Joe, six.

"Mother, fix my stocking,' commanded Betty.

"Hey, I'm hungry! Mother, give me something to eat," ordered Joe. Then turning to his father he continued, "Father, you'll have to fix my wagon; it won't run."

The parents, newly critical of their children's conduct, looked at each other in dismay as they both realized that their beloved children, with whose training they had taken so much care, were expressing all their desires as commands.

"Children," began the mother quietly and pleasantly as she always addressed them, "ask Mother in a pretty way to do what you wish."

Both chilldren looked at her intently for a second. Then Joe said, "Mother, please may I have something to eat? I sure am hungry, an' it's almost apple time, isn't it?"

"That is better."

And the mother was getting the apples when she heard Betty saying, "Please, dear Mother, will you please help me fix my stocking?"

The mother catching the husband's sly wink could scarcely restrain a smile.

"Now, what do you suppose possessed those children to come in and give us orders in such an offhand manner?" questioned the mother after the children had gone out to play again.

"We've taught it to them, Clara. You see they knew well enough what to say on your request, but have you noticed that you and I have fallen into the habit of ...."

Just then Betty came into the room on her way to the toy box with one stocking sagging in a very noticeable way.

"Well, Betty!" exclaimed the mother, "what is wrong with your stocking again? Mother will have to fix it for you."

"Now that is a fine illustration of what I mean by saying that we have taught the children to command us to do things for them and to tell us we have to do such things," said the father a few moments later when the little daughter was again out of hearing. "We say, just as you did then, that 'we must' fix this thing or do that thing for them until we firmly convince them that we do have to do it and they really mean no impudence when they say such things. They are merely repeating the words we have taught them to say."

NEW AND TESTED RECIPES FOR LADIES OF THE NEWS

ORANGE JELLY

6 oranges
3 lemons
Cold water
Sugar

Cut oranges and lemons in very thin slices, discarding the seeds. Measure and for each cup allow 3 cups water. Bring to boiling point and boil 1 hour. Let drain in jelly-bag overnight. Measure juice and for each cup add 1 cup sugar. Boil until a little dropped on a cold saucer forms a jelly-like clot. Turn into sterilized jars and when cold cover with paraffin.

SCALLOP OF ROAST PORK AND CABBAGE

2 cups thinly-silvered pork
1½ cups cooked-chopped cabbage
1½ cups white sauce

Season pork with salt and pepper. In a baking dish arrange layers of pork, cabbage, and white sauce. Cover with a few well-buttered crumbs. Heat in oven until sauce bubbles through the crumbs. Serve from dish.

Beautifying the Highways

How about those shade trees you have been expecting to plant for a good long while? Every part of the county and Tennessee valley section offers fine opportunity along this line. Beautify the roadways. Make them so attractive strangers entering our gates will be so impressed that they'll want to come and stay with us.—Huntsville (Ala.) Times.

Married men are alike; they all wonder why they got married; so do their wives.

OBITUARY

Levi Charles Sechler, was born in Lehigh County, Pennsylvania, September 18, 1851. He was the seventh of a family of twelve children born to Levi and Barbara Sechler. When two years of age he with his parents moved to Indiana by covered wagon and settled on a farm near St. Joe. At that time, what is now tillable farm land, was virgin forest and in due course of time he did his share with his ax to make this land produce grain instead of brier and thorn.

In his early manhood he took up the study of music and conducted what was then known as "singing schools," he also followed the carpenter trade.

At the age of thirteen he joined ed the Reformed Church at Orangeville, Indiana, under the pastorate of Rev. J. G. Kissel and while the church existed there, he was a faithful attendant.

Mr. Sechler never married but remained on the old home farm until about twenty years ago when he moved to Spencerville, Indiana. But it seems that when his illness became serious he desired to be somewhere near that "old farm" and he went to his sister's home, Mrs. B. E. Widney where, on October 31, 1927 he passed to the Great Beyond, aged 76 years, 1 month and 13 days.

Levi, was one of those persons, whose conduct was quiet, peaceable and beyond reproach, his gentle ways and friendliness made him lasting friends who will miss him greatly.

Three sisters and three brothers preceded him to the Spirit World and three sisters, Emma Baltz of Spencerville, Rosetta Widney and Susan Sechler of St. Joe and two brothers, Henry Sechler of Butler and Frank Sechler of St. Joe remain to mourn their loss.

Funeral service was conducted Thursday afternoon, November 3, 1927 at the B. E. Widney home, Rev. P. B. Roediger officiating, E. R. Kinsey, funeral director. Interment was made in Newville cemetery.

CARD OF THANKS

Our appreciation is expressed publicly to friends and neighbors for their assistance and words of sympathy in this our bereavement.

Brothers and Sisters.

Life's Limelights

By Brown Focht

AFTER ACHIEVEMENT—WHAT

How long can a man seem to be oblivious to the acclaim of the world? Quite naturally it depends on the man.

How long will it take for Charles Lindbergh's head to be turned, or won't he ever lose his modesty?

No one could have ever dreamed of such a welcome as he received in France, Belgium, England and at home.

Yet to all this Charles Lindbergh is only appreciative.

The glory that is his came about partly through the fact that he did what no man ever did before.

But that is only half of it.

Another man, accustomed to victory, seeking only glory, might have received but a small part of the ovation that was Lindberg's.

The world applauds his attitude as much as his achievement.

All of which proves that it is not so much WHAT we accomplish, as HOW we accomplish—he achieved alone—and what our attitude is toward the approval of those who appreciate what we have done.

Charles Lindbergh will live longer in our memory if he does not over-commercialize what he has done.

Millions of dollars are his if he chooses to take them. He has received a vaudeville offer of $10,000 per night for 365 nights!

It would be asking and expecting too much of him to turn a deaf ear to all monetary compensation. But it is to be hoped that his present modesty will not give way to a desire to be in the spotlight.

He will be remembered longer for the great drama of the air which he has written, than for any 'act' which he may play on the stage.

A Different Valuation

"When you figure on what you're worth," said Hi Ho, the sage of Chinatown, "you may get a different result from your conscience from the one your bank account gives you."

NOTICE OF SALE OF REAL ESTATE

State of Indiana
County of DeKalb, ss:
In the DeKalb Circuit Court
September Term, 1927

Ulysses S. Johnston, Administrator with will annexed of the estate of Mary E. Johnston, deceased

vs

Ulysses S. Johnston, et. al.

The undersigned Administrator with will annexed of the estate of Mary E. Johnston, deceased, hereby gives notice that by virtue of an order of the DeKalb Circuit Court in this cause duly made and entered, he will, at the hour of one o'clock on the 26th day of November, 1927, at the law offices of Stump & McClintock, Commercial Club Building, Auburn, Indiana, and from day to day thereafter until sold, offer for sale at PUBLIC SALE all the interest of said decedent in and to the following described real estate, to-wit:

The east one-half (½) of the north-west quarter of section nine (9,) in township thirty-three (33) north, of range fourteen (14) east, in DeKalb County, State of Indiana, excepting therefrom the following described tract, to-wit: Commencing at the northwest corner of the east half (½) of the northwest quarter of said section nine (9) and running thence south along the west line of said east half (½) of said section nine (9) 297 feet; thence east 266 feet to the west bank of the Ira Ricketts ditch; thence northwesterly along the west bank of the Ira Ricketts ditch to a point 135 feet east of the northwest corner of said east half (½) of said section nine (9,) thence west 135 feet to the place of beginning.

Said sale will be made subject to the approval of the court, for not less than two-thirds (⅔) of the full appraised value thereof, and upon the following terms and conditions:

At least one-third of the purchase money cash in hand, the balance in two equal installments, payable in not to exceed six and twelve months, evidenced by notes of the purchaser, bearing six per cent interest from date, waiving relief from valuation and appraisement laws, providing for attorneys fees, and secured by first mortgage upon the real estate sold.

For further particulars inquire of the undersigned.

ULYSSES S. JOHNSTON, Adm.
With Will annexed of the estate of Mary E. Johnston, deceased.
Stump & McClintock, Attys.

43t4.

FALL and "Sunbeam Time"

Now is the time to let us demonstrate that Sunbeam Cabinet Heater to you, in any of the four different colors. We now have about thirty of these heaters installed, including last season. Each and every owner is our best recommend.

A. C. DAYTON RADIO'S

which are guaranteed indefinitely, and as for quality and reception we refer you to the many satisfied owners in this community. And don't forget we have Tubes, B. Batteries, Aerial Kits, etc., at prices that will compete with inferior, unguaranteed equipment. We will absolutely replace any Tube, Battery, etc., that proves defective.

WE ARE SOLE AGENTS FOR

Dr Hess Stock Tonic, Panacea, etc

our Fall supply is now in and remember every Dr. Hess article is sold on the basis of complete satisfaction or your money is refunded if you return the empty carton or pail.

Rogers Brushing Lacquer

that instantly dries, and will paint everything in the home but the baby, also you can paint those old shoes or "pumps" any color you wish without injuring the leather.

POSITIVELY GUARANTEED

A New Shipment of Blue and White Enamel Ware. Compare our prices with any Catalogue House.

STEEL TRAPS

The double jawed kind that made a hit with you trappers last year. Regular size and priced at .....$2.00 per dozen.

WILLIAM CURIE
ST. JOE, INDIANA
Hardware RADIO Implements

FOOD
Ph. HIGH'S 76
BEST MONE CAN BUY

SWEATER COATS, UNDERWEAR, WINTER CAPS, MITTENS, GLOVES, WOOL HOSIERY, SHEEP LINED COATS, LINED JACKETS, BOOTS, SHOES, RUBBERS, AT PRICES THAT SAVE YOU MONEY

Zonker's Store
ST. JOE, INDIANA

HUDSON-ESSEX

Agency has been established in St. Joe at the Don Keller Garage, where a Super-Six Coach is on display. Persons wishing to change cars this fall will do well to call on us and have the merits of this wonderful car explained and demonstrated.

QUICK DELIVERY OF ANY MODEL YOU BUY.

Goodrich Tires

We believe we are selling you the very best tire for the money when we sell a GOODRICH TIRE, and that is the reason we sell them. Practically any size in stock that you may need in fabric aires. We have a special in a BALLOON that we are going to sell at $10.00, the size is 29 x 4.40, pehfectly good and we stand back of this tire as all others we sell. Come in and see.

Keller's Garage
General Repairing, Oil and Gas. ST. JOE, INDIANA

CHECKING SERVICE on a "50-50" Basis

The dollars in your checking account work two ways; they work for you and they work for the bank.

They work for you by giving you a safe and easy way to pay your bills, by giving you credit and all the benefits of modern bank service.

But some of them must work for the bank too, or the bank will not be able to keep on working for you.

There must be a good balance in your account at all times so that the bank can use a part of it in loans to meet its expenses and for earning a fair profit like any other business.

A checking account should be conducted on a "50-50 basis" that will be profitable both to the depositor and to the bank.

"A FAIR CHECKING BALANCE REPAYS GOOD BANKING SERVICE"

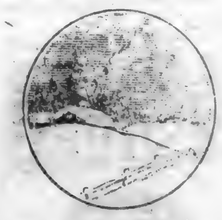
The St. Joe Valley Bank, A STATE BANK

YOU READ the Other Fellow's Ad

You are reading this one. That should convince you that advertising in these columns is a profitable proposition; that it will bring business to your store. The fact that the other fellow advertises is probably the reason he is getting more business than is falling to you. Would it not be well to give the other fellow a chance

To Read Your Ad in These Columns?

The Spirit of Christmas



How Will You Express It?

Our Greeting Cards will enable you to send

Christmas Greetings

to your friends and acquaintances in an individual way.

You can select the card and write the sentiment you wish to express, and we will do the rest.

ST. JOE NEWS

NOVEMBER

L 915
0617

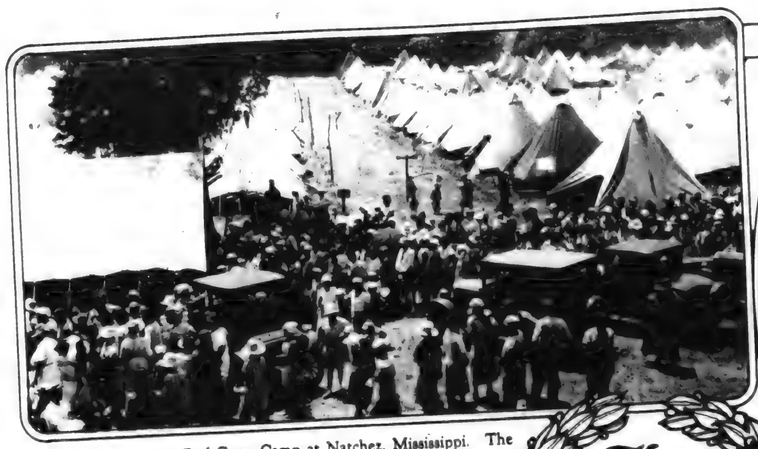
SECTION OF

ST. JOE NEWS

ST. JOE, INDIANA, THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 10, 1927

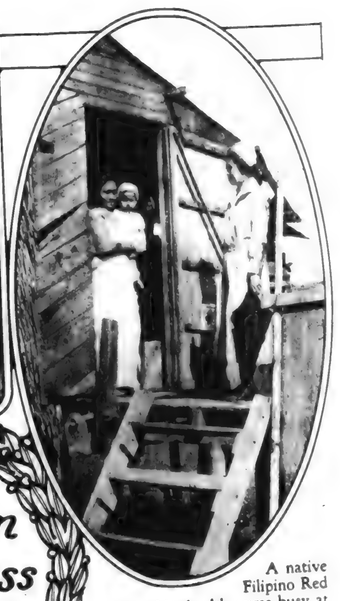
NOVEMBER

L 915 0618



Dinner time in the Red Cross Camp at Natchez, Mississippi. The flood sufferers were served plenty of wholesome food.

The American Red Cross in Action



A native Filipino Red Cross public health nurse busy at her round of duties supervising the care of sick children.

Thousands of disabled ex-service men in hospitals throughout the country still look to the Red Cross as "The Greatest Mother."

This little refugee had his arm bandaged by nurses in the camp hospital unit. Around these hospitals centered all Red Cross health work for flood sufferers.

A class of young men and women being taught how to resuscitate the drowning by an instructor of the American Red Cross.

When accidents occur, the fate of the patient is often decided by the type of first aid treatment during the first few minutes. The American Red Cross instructs thousands of persons each year in classes such as this.

Members of the Junior Red Cross in a rural school engaged in the happy work of packing Christmas boxes for the children of other lands.

NOVEMBER

L 915 0619

THE BEST BOOSTER FOR YOUR BUSINESS IN DeKALB COUNTY

ST. JOE NEWS.

NEWS MAKES A GOOD PAPER, SO SEND IT IN TO US.

VOL. XLI. ST. JOE, DeKALB COUNTY, INDIANA, THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 17, 1927 NUMBER 46

SEEKS DIVORCE AFTER SHORT MARRIAGE

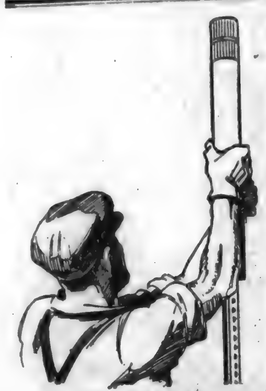
A suit for an absolute divorce was filed Tuesday in the DeKalb circuit court by Ira Wingard of Auburn, against Minnie Wingard whom he married August 24, 1927.

Mr. Wingard in his complaint said that a few days after their marriage Mrs. Wingard informed him and others that she regretted marrying him and she was dissatisfied with the marriage and that she absented herself from his home and refused to live with him although he undertook to provide her and her minor child with a comfortable home. Since October 13, 1927, Mrs. Wingard has kept her whereabouts unknown to him.

There's one Progressive Senator not easy to handle. He doesn't eat breakfast.

WE invite you to see our new Christmas line;
Our Greeting Card stock was never so fine,—
There's Distinction, Quality, and Good Value here
In every card we are offering this year;
And your own special taste we can gratify too,
To carry your Christmas Greetings for you.

SAMPLE CARDS ON DISPLAY HERE



Here's the Best Way to Put in Fence Posts

DRIVE Red Top Steel Fence Posts at the rate of 200 to 300 a day with the Red Top One Man Post Driver and without a helper. A quick, easy job and the least expensive way to get a fence post into the ground.

The Red Top enables you to do in a day the same amount of fencing that used to take a week. At this rapid rate it will not take you long to put your present fences in good shape and put up the new ones you've been wanting.

Every Red Top you drive is just another step in the direction of trouble-proof permanent fences. Red Tops are made extra strong to withstand the hardest shocks and strains. They drive straight and are held firmly in the ground. Fencing is easily attached by one man with the Handy Fasteners that come free with Red Top Studded Posts. Once attached the fence wire cannot work loose. Constant restapling, restretching, and repair become unnecessary. The Red Top is a good looking post. The Aluminum metallic finish adds to both the attractiveness and life of your fences.

We like to sell Red Tops because the first order always means a satisfied customer and repeat business. Our sales on these posts grow bigger every year which is proof of the superiority of Red Top. Prices are mighty reasonable now. We recommend early buying.

We have a good stock on hand. Come in and see us about your needs.

Red Top Steel Fence Posts

SPENCERVILLE LUMBER & SUPPLY COMPANY
C. J. Knaak, Manager.
SPENCERVILLE, IND.

DEKALB COUNTY SOCIETY SELECTS SEAL SALE CHAIRMAN

O. W. Grant, of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co., has been appointed to lead the Eighteenth Annual Christmas Seal Drive. 500,000 of the Tuberculosis Christmas Health Seals, have been received at the local office, in the City Hall, by the Executive Secretary, Margaret F. Collette.

The business like method of selling Seals by mail, has proven very satisfactory, to the local society, and will again be employed this year, in all the rural districts of the county, in the towns both the mail and personal solicitation will be used. The entire support of the society, is derived from the sale of the Seals at Christmas time, no support being derived from County or City Funds. Mr. Grant will be assisted in the Seal drive by the Seal Sale directors of the Society, Mrs. Wm. Browand of Auburn; Mrs. B. H. Eastes of Garrett and Mrs. C. H. Fetter of Butler.

The Sale of Seals will start Thanksgiving Day.

MAKE PLANS FOR ACHIEVEMENT DAY

The Spencer Township Home Bureau met at the home of Mrs. Louis Smith on Wednesday, October 9th, in an all-day meeting.

At the noon hour the project leaders gave the last lesson, which consisted of puff potatoes, veal birds, Harvard beets, pineapple rings and celery and apple salad, with a potluck dinner which all enjoyed.

At 2 oclock the meeting was opened by the president, Mrs. Hafner, by singing the club song and the secretary's report was read and approved. Roll call was answered by fourteen members, with three guests and several children present. Then business was discussed and arrangements made for Achievement Day. It was decided to meet with Mrs. Winnie Shook December 14, for the next meeting and have Christmas exchange.

TRUTH, ITS UNFAILING STRENGTH

The press of America is not infallible as to the fact or invulnerable as to bias; but it is overwhelmingly honest in its intent and comment. There was a Judas among the Master's Twelve; there was an Arnold in the Revolution; there was a Nero in imperial Rome; there have been traitors masquerading as editors, just as there have been fraudulent bankers and shoemakers and railroaders and men from every rank of life. But generally speaking, what one reads is usually more true than what one hears.

The press is inherently truthful; that is its unfailing strength.

ST. JOE MAN IS JAILED FOR DRUNKEN DRIVING

Huntington, Ind., Nov. 14.—Frank Meese, of St. Joe, was sentenced to serve 30 days in jail for drunken driving by Mayor Charles W. Snyder today. A fine of $10 and costs was imposed.

The mayor refused to suspend the sentence and declared that in future all drunken drivers must go to jail.

Meese's car crashed into a machine driven by Donald Brown, while Meese was on his way to Illinois. Meese's car was badly damaged.—News-Sentinel.

The car was returned to St. Joe Monday and is at the Myers garage for reairs.

A CASE OF "DIG-UP" FOR STOCKHOLDERS

Stockholders of the Grabill State bank, which was forced into a receivership several months ago because of frozen assets, will have to pay a 100 per cent assessment to meet the bank's liabilities. Judge Sol A. Wood of the Allen circuit court Friday granted the petition of the Harlan State bank, the receiver, for a meeting of the board of directors to make an assessment against each stockholder equal to the amount of stock he owns. The assessment is to be made and collected within the next thirty days and the affairs of the bank will then be wound up.

A woman doesn't really begin to have faith in a man until other people lose it.

Sixth Annual DeKalb County Young People's Conference of Religious Education

Lutheran Church, St. Joe, Ind.
November 19-20, 1927

Theme:
"The Quest For Christian Living"

SATURDAY MORNING SESSION
Mark Cripe, Presiding

8:00 Registration
9:30 Worship Period.....Miss Harriett Wasson
Prayer.....Rev. P. B. Roediger
9:50 Bible Message.....Rev. J. F. McKnight
10:10 Class Periods:
1. Girls Division, Mae Swartz, Presiding
"Finding the Need,".....Charles R. Lizenby
"Foundations,".....Esther I. Williams
2. Boys Division, Paul Fetters, Presiding
"Foundations,".....Esther I. Williams
"Finding the Need,".....Charles R. Lizenby
11:00 Mass Meeting, Annise Harding, Presiding
Tribal Chiefs Introduced
Announcements
"The Search for Inner-self,".....Charles R. Lizenby
11:40 Tribal Meetings
12:00 Lunch

SATURDAY AFTERNOON SESSION
Myrtle Hamman, Presiding

1:00 Worship Period.....Miss Harriett Wasson
Prayer.....Rev. P. B. Roediger
1:20 Bible Message.....Rev. Finch
1:40 Class Periods:
1. Girls Division, Thelma Zonker, Presiding
"Building Stones,".....Esther I. Williams
"Meeting the Need,".....Charles R. Lizenby
2. Boys Division, Wilson Bonbrake, Presiding
"Meeting the Need,".....Charles R. Lizenby
"Building Stones,".....Esther I. Williams
2:30 Mass Meeting, Stanley Means, Presiding
Worship Period.....Miss Harriett Wasson
Waterloo Girls Quartette
"The Christian Quest,".....Esther I. Williams
Business Session
4:00 Recreation Period, High School Gymnasium
5:30 Banquet
Tribal Stunts

SATURDAY EVENING SESSION
Alice Tustison, Presiding

7:00 Girls Quartette, Baptist Church, Garrett
Prayer.....Rev. J. F. McKnight
Saxaphone Solo.....Charles Rose
Reading.....Ailene Williner
Piano Solo.....Gladys Bangs
Whistling Solo.....Mary Lee Kiplinger
Camp Announcements
"The Search for Others,".....Charles R. Lizenby
8:30 Evening Watch.....Led by Genevaites

SUNDAY MORNING SESSION

9:00 Tribal Meetings
9:30 Conference Sunday School
10:45 Worship Period.....Miss Harriett Wasson
Conference Sermon.....Rev. P. B. Roediger

SUNDAY AFTERNOON SESSION

2:00 Worship Period.....Miss Harriett Wasson
Prayer.....Rev. Oscar Noren
Bible Message.....Rev. Duncan
Violin Solo.....Sabina Rose
Report of Committees
Installation of Officers.....Charles R. Lizenby
"Living Adventurously,".....Esther I. Williams
Friendship Circle

LEADERS

Young People's Superintendent, Annise Harding.....Corunna
President, Stanley Means.....St. Joe
Vice President, Myrtle Hamman.....Waterloo
Secretary, Mark Cripe.....Auburn
Treasurer, Sadie Coy.....Auburn

OUT OF THE COUNTY SPEAKERS

Esther I Williams, Y. W. C. A. Secretary..Hollidaysburg, Penn.
Charles R. Lizenby, State Y. P. Supt.....Indianapolis, Ind.
Harriett Wasson, Ball Teachers College.....Muncie, Ind.

BLAMED FOR DEATH OF WORKMAN AT ST. JOE

Coroner John Clark Declares Graber Construction Co. Was Negligent

Negligence on the part of the Graber Construction company of East Chicago, in not providing proper protection resulted in the accident which caused the death two hours and a half afterwards of George Cochran of Auburn Junction, Wednesday, Coroner John R. Clark of Auburn, declared in his inquest held Thursday.

Mr. Cochran, 27 years of age, died at the Sacred Heart hospital at Garrett from a basic fracture of the skull. He was working on a platform four feet in width twenty-seven feet from the bottom of a steel water tank which the Graber company is building for the Baltimore & Ohio railroad company east of St. Joe. The young man was either knocked or shoved off of the platform by a sheet of steel 74 inches by 16 feet in size which was being hoisted from the ground outside of the tank. Coroner Clark based his decision that the Graber company was negligent on testimony that there was no railing built around the platform.

BOYS BASKET BALL SCHEDULE 1927-28

Nov. 19, Woodburn, there.
Dec. 2, Waterloo, there.
Dec. 9, Hamilton, here.
Dec. 17, Harlan, there.
Dec. 23, Mark Center, here.
Dec. 27, Alumni, here.
Dec. 30, Woodburn, here.
Jan. 6, Mark Center, there.
Jan. 13, Leo, there.
Jan. 20, Waterloo, here.
Jan. 27, County Tourney.
Feb. 3, Spencerville, there.
Feb. 10 Corunna, there.
Feb. 11, Auburn, here.
Feb. 17, Hamilton, there.
Feb. 18, Corunna, here.
Feb. 24, Butler, there.
March 3-4, Sectional Tourney.

GIRLS BASKET BALL

Dec. 2, Waterloo, there.
Dec. 23, Mark Center, here.
Dec. 24, Corunna, there.
Dec. 30, Ashley, here.
Jan. 6, Mark Center, there.
Jan. 20, Waterloo, here.
Feb. 18, Corunna, here.

NEW AND TESTED RECIPES FOR LADIES OF THE NEWS

AMBER MARMALADE

8 oranges
4 lemons
16 cups cold water
10 cups sugar

Peel oranges, removing peel in quarters; cut the pulp in slices. Scrape white membrane from the skin and cut the yellow rind in strips. Prepare lemons by the same method. Add cold water to fruit and rind and let stand over night. Cook slowly two hours; add sugar and let stand over night. Cook again for one hour and turn into sterilized glasses or jars.

WHY FARMERS PROHIBIT HUNTING

Sheriff John Armstrong, Art Zimmerman, deputy, and blood hounds from Bryan, Ohio, worked from 11 P. M. Wednesday until Thursday morning tracking the killer of a valuable collie dog belonging to Fred and Gust. Steinborn of Jackson township, the officers being under the impression that they have a clue.

Coonhunters are suspected of shooting the dog in order to prevent it interfering with the work of their coon dog. The brothers were in the same field as the hunters after their cattle Wednesday night at 9 o'clock. From a distance of about a hundred and fifty feet from the Steinborn brothers a man shot the dog but escaped. The blood hounds were brought from Bryan at 11 o'clock and worked until 4 o'clock Thursday morning.

CHRIST FOR ALL—ALL FOR CHRIST
The Word of God
Thy word is a lamp unto my feet, and a light unto my path.—Psalm 119: 105.

COUNT YOUR BLESSINGS:—Bless the Lord, O my soul: and all that is within me, bless His holy name.

Bless the Lord, O my soul, and forget not all his benefits.

Who forgiveth all thine iniquities; who healeth all thy diseases;

Who redeemeth thy life from destruction; who crowneth thee with loving kindness and tender mercies;

Who satisfieth thy mouth with good things; so that thy youth is renewed like the eagle's. Psalm 103: 1, 5.

PRAYER:—Father, may we come into thy presence this day in a spirit of genuine thankfulness. Fill our hearts with gratitude for Thy goodness, and for Thy wonderful works unto the children of men, and to Thy name be all honor and praise now and forever. Amen.

THEIR START

Alice:—"Dad, do you think George is making enough to support me?"

Father: "Yes, dear. That's more than I was making when I married."

Alice: "But do you think a seven-room house is large enough for us?"

Father: "Certainly. Your mother and I started fighting in three rooms."

100% Coffee

In buying bulk coffee your money goes for coffee and nothing else.

Moreover, we grind it to suit your method of making. Coffee ground ahead grows stale and loses its strength and flavor. We grind our coffee the day you buy it.

Fancy fresh flavor and aroma guaranteed.

ZONKER'S Store.

See Our New Stock OF LAMPS $1.98 AND UP!

E. R. KINSEY, Hardware Furniture

NOVEMBER

L 915

0620

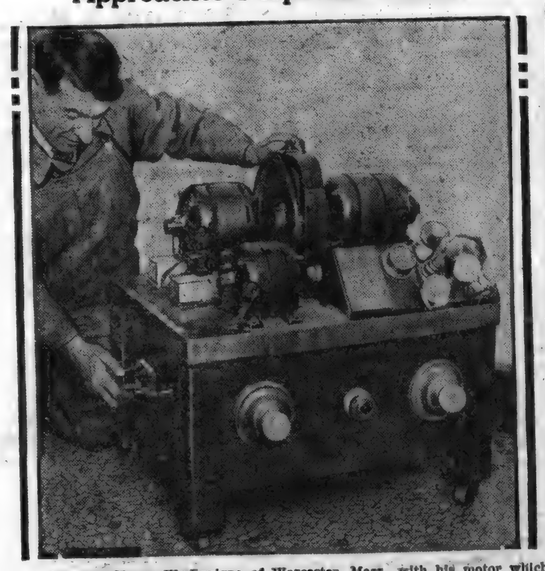
New England Is Devastated by Floods

This air view of Montpelier, Vt., gives an indication of the condition throughout much of New England during the floods that have destroyed so many lives and such vast amounts of property. The state capitol is seen at the right and a wrecked railway bridge at the left.

Governor of Colorado Meets Striking Miners

Governor Adams of Colorado refused to deal with the I. W. W. leaders in regard to the coal mine strike, but did receive a delegation from the strikers, headed by Karl Clemmons, whose hand he is seen shaking in this photo.

Approaches Perpetual Motion



Inventor Henry W. Lavigne of Worcester, Mass., with his motor which builds up a mere spark into horse power to do work and will run indefinitely, it is claimed. The electricity gives off no heat and will not shock, it is said. Experts state that the motor may revolutionize the automobile and airplane industries, and it will be tested on a trip of an automobile equipped with the engine, headed toward the Pacific coast.

Best of the Sheepshearers

Roy W. Snyder, who won the sheepshearing contest at the Iowa state fair from a field of veterans. He is a graduate of Iowa State college at Ames. He won both the hand and machine shearing contests, and is shown here doing it by hand.

FIRST JAP BISHOP

Monsignor Huyosaka, the first Japanese Roman Catholic bishop, who was consecrated in St. Peter's church, Rome, by his holiness the pope.

PRIZE POSTER

This is the poster that won first prize of $500 in the National Safety council poster competition. It was drawn by Thomas A. Keller of Dayton, Ohio.

BETTY IS IN MOVIES

The photograph shows Betty Nuthall, sixteen-year-old tennis star of Great Britain, who has just signed a contract to appear in the movies. She will be starred in a tennis romance.

HOT SCHOOL LUNCH IN CAFETERIA STYLE

Serving Hot Lunch Cafeteria Style.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

It has been found that children who must go some distance to school and either carry lunch from home or get part or all of it at school are much better off when at least one hot dish is provided, such as soup or cocoa, or an entire hot meal, usually served cafeteria style. Not only do the children feel better and do better work in the afternoon session when they have had hot food for lunch, but in many instances the food provided at the school is a valuable lesson in food selection. In some instances the preparation of it is turned over to the older girls, so that it becomes a part of their home economics training. In other cases various mothers take turns in coming to the school to prepare the lunch. Still another plan is for the children to bring their own food ready for heating and to appoint several children to help the teacher in doing so.

In practically all cases the children gradually absorb ideas about food selection and preparation, and often this is the entering wedge to a better knowledge of food in the child's home, and to greater interest in the subject of nutrition. The relation between good health and the right food is brought out when the school lunch is properly directed and planned by a group or committee. Cleanly habits of eating are learned, too, and the children are usually better off when lunching in an orderly way under supervision than when left to their own devices.

The United States Department of Agriculture suggests that in communities which do not at present have a hot dish at the school lunch, a group of mothers might get together and see how the matter could be arranged. If the children are to pay for what they get, rather than bring the food, the price charged must be within the reach of all, usually only the cost of materials and fuel.

CORRECT LINES FOR A MATRON

Choosing Clothes for Stout Woman Is Important.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The woman who is somewhat inclined to stoutness, especially if she has white or gray hair, needs to give very careful attention to the selection of her clothes with a view to emphasizing her dignity and correcting the appearance of size. She must avoid fussy styles, lines crossing the figure horizontally, shiny fabrics, vivid colors, large patterns, tight belts, and too short skirts. In these two illustrations of the same person posed by the United States Department of Agriculture, the desirable dress has long vertical lines from shoulder to hem, made by the flat plaits and the long flat tie, the plain set-in sleeves, and the correct length of the skirt. The distance of the hemline from the floor is appropriate for a woman of heavy build. The material is gray crepe relieved only by the simple groups of buttons and varicolored banding on the collar.

In the other dress there is a mistake in every detail. The dark blue satin is combined with a large figured chiffon. The shiny satin seems to make the figure stouter than it actually is. Belting it in at the waist brings out the fullness of the bust and hips needlessly, and interferes with the fit, making the general impression one of untidiness. The large puffy kimono sleeves are inappropriate on flesh arms and by wearing the skirt so short, a ridiculous chopped-off appearance is given to the figure.

Desirable Dress for Stout Woman.

Mistake in Every Detail of This Outfit.

Orange Sherbet Makes Pleasing Summer Dessert

Orange or lemon sherbet is easy to make and very refreshing as a hot weather dessert. Pure fruit juice should be used in making it. The bureau of home economics gives the recipe below:

Orange Sherbet.

- 1½ cupfuls orange juice
- 1½ cupfuls sugar
- ¼ teaspoonful salt
- 3 cupfuls milk and cream or 3 cupfuls rich milk
- 3 tablespoonfuls lemon juice

Heat one cupful of milk and add the sugar. Stir until the sugar is dissolved. Add the other ingredients. Use a freezing mixture of one part salt and four to six parts of ice, and turn the crank of the freezer slowly. After freezing, remove the dasher, pack the freezer with more ice and salt, and let the sherbet stand for an hour to ripen in flavor.

Lemon sherbet may be made in this same way by omitting the orange juice, and using enough lemon juice to give the desired flavor.

Prevent Needless Waste of Foods at the Table

Family prejudices about foods may defeat the most earnest efforts to set an economical table. Sensible training when children are little will prevent the formation of many of these prejudices. Even if adults do have faulty food habits, they can often be reasoned out of them.

Get everybody in the family to see the need for economy and to recognize the fact that no good food should be wasted after it once enters the kitchen. The high cost of the table is sometimes traceable to the full garbage pail. Admit that some flavors are more tempting than others, but convince the family that there is now such a wide variety of acceptable flavors that each one can be pleased a large part of the time. Show them that in selecting foods in the market you have to be guided by what is available, by what will be different from yesterday's menu, and tomorrow's, too, and most important of all, by what will make up a balanced diet.

Quick! STOPS COLDS

Millions rely on HILL'S to end colds in a day and ward off Grippe and Flu. No quicker remedy for you.

Be Sure It's HILL'S Price 30c

CASCARA QUININE

Get Red Box with portrait

Keep Stomach and Bowels Right

By giving baby the harmless, purely vegetable, infants' and children's regulator.

MRS. WINSLOW'S SYRUP

brings astonishing, gratifying results in making baby's stomach digest food and bowels move as they should at teething time. Guaranteed free from narcotics, opiates, alcohol and all harmful ingredients. Safe and satisfactory.

At All Druggists

Personal Liberty

Bank Teller—Sorry, madam, but your account is already quite a bit overdrawn.

Lady—Well, suppose it is? Haven't I a right to do what I please with my own accounts?

Coughs and Colds

are not only annoying, but dangerous. If not attended to at once they may develop into serious ailment.

Boschee's Syrup

is soothing and healing in such cases, and has been used for sixty-one years. 30c and 90c bottles. Buy it at your drug store. G. G. Green, Inc., Woodbury, N. J.

FOR INFLAMED JOINTS

Absorbine will reduce inflamed, swollen joints, sprains, bruises, soft bunches. Quickly heals boils, poll evil, quittor, fistula and infected sores. Will not blister or remove hair. You can work horse while using. $2.50 at druggists, or postpaid. Send for book 7-S free.

From our files: "Fistula ready to burst. Never saw anything yield to treatment so quickly. Will not be without Absorbine."

ABSORBINE

TRADE MARK REG. U.S. PAT. OFF.

W. F. YOUNG, Inc. 310 Lyman St., Springfield, Mass.

Feminine Age

She—I'm not on speaking terms with Freddie. The mean thing wouldn't give me his seat at the barber's this morning.—Sydney Bulletin.

A liking for nice manners, fine appearance and good sense in others is not snobbishness.

Broadcasts Good News!

Peoria, Ill.—"I was rundown in health and was advised to take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and the 'Golden Medical Discovery.' I did so and in a short time was on the road to health and rid of all the unpleasant feelings. Since then when I notice any such symptoms I take one of these remedies, usually the 'Favorite Prescription' and it soon puts me in good condition. Dr. Pierce's remedies are unlike most of the other remedies which I tried — with Dr. Pierce's you always obtain benefit."—Mrs. Carl Ernest, 138 Irving St.

All dealers. Tablets or liquid.

Write Dr. Pierce's Invalids Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y. for free medical advice.

TRADE MARK Since 1871

Porter's Pain King

A Liniment

Soothes Pain

from

Strains, Sprains, Swollen Joints, Tired Muscles, Lame Back.

Use It Today!

The Geo. H. Rennie Co. Toronto, Ont.

"MY HEAD DOESN'T ACHE ANYMORE"

—says Miss Gladys Hollis of Montreal. I suffered for years with terrible pains in my head, thought I would die I was so miserable. I tried everything, until at last I find your pills keep me free from headaches and I now feel well and happy. I am telling all my friends about them."

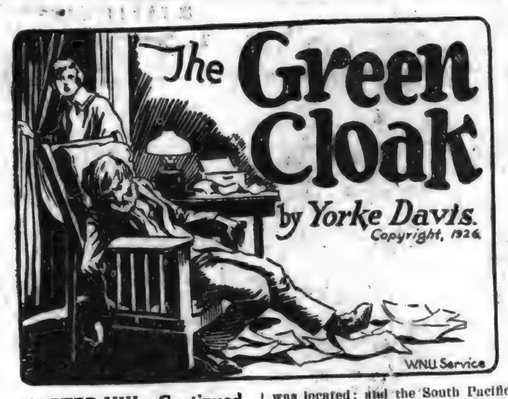
Gladys Hollis

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS will relieve Constipation, Heartburn, Drowsiness, Biliousness, Nausea and Indigestion and improve a bad complexion. They are purely vegetable, do not contain Calomel, Mercury or habit forming drugs. They move the bowels free from pain. Take them to-night. Druggists, 25c. & 75c. red pkgs.

NOVEMBER

L 915

U621



CHAPTER VIII—Continued

—14—

"I'll take the responsibility," said Ashton. "Until I know some reason that isn't absolutely farcical for arresting a man, I won't arrest him. At the same time I shall be glad to hear this story of yours."

The doctor nodded. "Well," he said, "since you're in no hurry, I think I'll take time to light a cigar myself."

He had it drawing comfortably and had got himself comfortably ensconced in a big easy chair, his feet stretched out in front of him upon a tabouret, before he began to talk.

"Do you remember," he asked, "what we chatted about on our drive to St. Martin's hospital the other night?"

"[illegible] memory serves me correctly," said Ashton, "we didn't talk about the matter at all. You spent most of the time, unless I am mistaken, telling pirate stories."

The doctor nodded. "Do you remember my telling you how Bully Franklin came to his end? He was killed by one of his crew as the result of jealousy and a love affair. Now that murder had some rather interesting consequences—"

"What is this," Ashton interrupted, "a parable? Am I supposed to draw some subtle, devious psychological connection between that murder and this one that we're concerned with?"

"Not at all," said the doctor. "I know you much too well. The connection between that murder and this is literal. It's about the most direct connection that could possibly exist between two events separated by half a world and nearly two decades of time. The second murder was the logical consequence of the first; the second act of the tragedy. I don't say the last act, because I suspect there's another still to come."

"You've actually traced a connection?" Ashton asked with a gasp.

"Let me tell my story right-end-to," said the doctor. "You'll see the connection plainly enough when I come to it. I told you, I think, that Franklin's crew became completely disorganized after his death, and that most of the members of it were apprehended and paid the penalty of their crimes. There were two, however, who escaped. One of them was his first mate, Josiah Haines. The other man was Franklin's murderer. He disappeared, too, at least he was never brought to justice. The authorities, for some reason, didn't seem to regard his capture as especially important, for no price was ever put upon his head. That man's name was Henry Morgan."

I had seen what was coming, but it was clear that Ashton had not. His eyes opened wide, his jaw dropped slack, the cigar he held fell from his nerveless fingers.

"Henry Morgan!" he repeated. "The same man?"

"Undoubtedly the same. He fled almost immediately after committing the murder, but not until he had gone through his chief's pockets, and possibly rifled his stateroom besides. At any rate, he got away with what ready cash Franklin had upon him—and he was famous, I remember, for carrying a good deal—and also some papers. The money he got was utterly insignificant compared to the potential value of another thing he took with him. That other thing was the map, of which I spoke just now."

He stretched out his arms, rose from his chair and took a turn or two about the room.

"I ought to amend that last remark," he continued. "I don't know myself how great the potential value of that map may be. Its importance in the eyes of Josiah Haines was undoubtedly very great, and Haines was in a position to know, if anyone was. Franklin always had a reputation for possessing a good business head. Many as were the robberies he committed, numerous as were the unfortunate people whom he murdered outright, he gained more by fraud than by violence. He cheated vastly more men than he killed. I have little doubt that he laid up a really considerable fortune. But whatever it amounted to, he hid it in that particularly forsaken corner of the world which is indicated by a cross upon that map. As I said, Morgan got the map and fled to America with it."

"It seems to me," Ashton interjected, "that he would have done better to have gone straight to this forsaken island and collected the treasure first. But then, so far as that goes, how do you know he didn't?"

"Because he couldn't," said the doctor. "Franklin had outwitted him after all. He had to make a map, for the location of the treasure was too complex to trust to memory. But he made the map perfectly worthless to anyone who was a stranger to his secret, by omitting latitude and longitude from it. There was nothing about it to inform its possessor where, in the South Pacific, that island was located; and the South Pacific is a big place. So Morgan did what was, perhaps, the most sensible thing he could have done; he hid himself in the securest place he could find and began making a collection of maps."

Ashton shook his head in perplexity.

"Well," he said, "if applied psychology will enable you to make discoveries like that, I apologize to it most humbly."

"That wasn't psychology at all," said the doctor; "it was plain logic. I found torn up scraps of maps in his waste-paper basket, making it perfectly evident that he had destroyed them after they had served, or had failed to serve some purpose of his. That put him at once out of the class of the mere geographer. I knew he must have some standard he tested these maps by; knew that he must keep it in some easily accessible place. Finding it, after I had discovered a principle like that to guide me, was comparatively easy business."

"Go on," said Ashton; "I won't interrupt any more. The strangeness of this tale makes me feel as if I were losing my wits; but it's altogether too well corroborated not to listen to."

"Now," said the doctor, "for a moment we go back to Haines. I am inclined to think that he got possession of the other half of Franklin's secret, namely, the latitude and longitude of the island where the treasure was buried."

"If he knew that," I ventured, "why wasn't it enough for him? Why didn't he go and find the treasure for himself?"

"He couldn't dig up the whole island," the doctor replied. "I think it not unlikely that he went there, only to learn the futility of proceeding any farther without the map. There is another possible alternative; that he never happened upon the secret of latitude or longitude at all, though he had it lying right under his hand. At any rate, he knew that Morgan had the map. He knew, or felt sure, that with the map he could recover the treasure, and he believed the treasure well worth the trouble of recovering. I can't tell you whether he searched the world for his man, with the definite purpose—the sole purpose of finding him, or whether it was chance that at last, after a lapse of many years, put him upon the trail. But this much I do know, that he found him at last, and that Henry Morgan was murdered as the result of an attempt Haines made to recover the map."

"But the woman!" cried Ashton. "You've told me nothing about her!"

"No," said the doctor. "In order to simplify the story, so far I have left her out, but she plays a very vital part in it. To tell you what that part is, I shall have to go back to the beginning of my story again. I hope I am not boring you." His smile, as he made that polite observation, had a touch of satirical grimness about it.

Ashton laughed a nervous laugh, and wiped his forehead with his handkerchief.

"Bored!" he ejaculated. "Go ahead with the yarn."

"You remember the Maori girl about whom Franklin and Morgan had their quarrel? They were both in love with her. But Morgan murdered Franklin and then disappeared, so that, from having two lovers, the girl was left without any. Franklin was, no doubt, the one she cared about, in spite of the fact that he was fat and bald-headed, by no means a romantic type of lover. But he had a charm about him, there's no getting away from that, and he carried it to the day of his death.

"Anyhow, some months after Franklin's death she bore him a daughter. She must have been bitterly disappointed that it was not a son; but, making the best of a bad matter, she swore the child, upon her deathbed, to avenge the murder of her father.

"Well, the girl grew up, and in some way or other—I don't know whether it was by chance or design—she fell into the hands of Josiah Haines, and was used by him as the mere instrument in carrying out his purpose. I don't know certainly whether it was by her aid that he got on Morgan's trail; but this I do know, that he dispatched her to the Oak Ridge house that night for the purpose of stealing Henry Morgan's precious map from him.

"I do not know positively whether he ordered her to murder him by way of exacting recompense for all the trouble his flight had caused, but that is what she did. She made a tourniquet out of a violin string, with two loops in it and a pipe stem, with which she strangled the old man, exactly according to the etiquette of the part of the world from which she comes. And then she came away, but without the map. Two days after the murder she escaped from the hospital, a fact which can't be much of a mystery to anyone who saw her get out of the thick glass window of Henry Morgan's study, as Phelps and I did the next night."

"An amazing tale," commented Ashton when he had finished. "And yet I've lived in this world long enough to be aware that amazing things are always happening in it, infinitely more amazing than the things men make up to put in books. But you haven't yet told me what connection Wilkins and this housemaid can have with the crime, except by pointing out the coincidence that the girl comes from New Zealand.

"But the thing I most want you to do, the thing I most earnestly beg you to do is to suggest how I can set about finding this wild girl, in whose actual person the crime was committed. I beg of you to give over these elaborate experiments upon people who can't have an important connection with the crime and devote this great mind of yours to the apprehension of the real criminal. If we can get the girl, we shall get hold of her accomplice fast enough, or, perhaps, I should say her principal."

The doctor smiled. "This morning at the breakfast table," he observed, "you were very confident that the police would be able to get hold of her in the course of the day. You said a wild creature like that couldn't remain at liberty. I say it's true she couldn't."

"But," objected Ashton, "she has."

The doctor shrugged his shoulders impatiently. "Why can't you be reasonable?" he asked. "If a thing's impossible, it can't happen. If it's true that a wild creature can't go at large in this community for twenty-four hours without being apprehended, and if it's also true that in twenty-four hours no such creature has been apprehended, then there is only one logical conclusion to come to, namely, that she has ceased to be a wild creature, gibbering in an outlandish language, and has become a much more inconspicuous member of society."

Ashton opened his eyes wide. "What do you mean?"

"Psychology," said the doctor; "hocus-pocus and any of your other names for it that you choose to apply. Didn't you hear me tell Reinhardt at the hospital that that girl was in a hypnotic or subjective state? When a person is in such a state, they can come out of it, and when they come out, they're likely to be altogether different from what they were when they were in that state."

Ashton sprang to his feet. "Do you know where she is?" he demanded. "Or can you describe her so that I and my men can find her?"

"I don't know where she is at this moment," said the doctor quietly. "She was in this room half an hour ago."

In that moment my chief had his revenge for all the flippancies, tolerant contempt, and good-natured sneers with which Ashton had belabored the profession and science which was dearest to his heart. For once the lawyer was beyond the power of speech.

The doctor, too, kept silent for a while to let the momentous nature of the astounding fact which he had just disclosed sink in. Then he began to explain to the astonished attorney.

"I want you to understand very clearly, in the first place, that it has been by my own methods, with the addition, I'll admit, of a little plain, unmerited good luck, that I've solved this mystery. Harvey's testimony at the inquest was my clew. In my examination of him, which I conducted without asking him a single question, without once referring directly to the crime that was committed at Oak Ridge, I proved him innocent as convincingly as the strongest alibi would have proved him innocent, more convincingly, in fact, because the real criminal in this case could prove an alibi, too. And in my further examination of him I discovered Jane Perkins, and without learning her exact address, I ascertained the neighborhood in which she lived. She was the woman with whom the profile on the window shade in the Morgan house associated itself in his mind. Only by a very extraordinary coincidence could this woman, with the same sort of profile, the same colored hair and the same kind of cloak, have been any other than the one whose hands strangled old Morgan.

"The telephone conversation which you held in my laboratory with one of your subordinates settled her identity almost beyond a doubt. The fact that her name was Jane Perkins and that she was a perfectly conventional type of English chambermaid didn't throw me off the track for a moment, because I knew, as you might have known, that the strange, wild personality of the girl we found in the hospital was fugitive, and possibly accidental.

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

Hard to Eradicate Myths About Snakes

Fear of snakes has led to a belief in various myths about the habits of different species. Children pass along the legend that the hoop snake possesses the power to form itself into a hoop and roll in pursuit of its victim.

Tradition holds that the so-called glass or jointed snake has the ability to break into pieces, and may reassemble itself later—if its head has not been captured or destroyed. Then there is the myth of the stinging snake. Although this snake has a somewhat formidable tail shaped like a horn or spike, it is incapable of piercing or stinging anything with it. Perhaps the most popular of these myths concerns the belief that if one throw a hair from a horse's tail into a river or lake the hair will promptly turn into a water snake and swim.

What's the Answer?

Questions No. 25

1—How far from the mouth of the Mississippi is New Orleans?

2—Who was the founder of Rhode Island?

3—What was the earliest weapon used by man?

4—Who is the champion automobile driver?

5—Who has generally been considered the foremost American landscape painter?

6—What French city is the leading silk manufacturing city?

7—What English writer of poetry and romance was also a decorative artist and designer of furniture, tapestries and type?

8—What and when was the first newspaper published in America?

9—What other office does the vice president hold besides the vice presidency?

10—What is the diameter of the moon?

11—What general was known as 'Old Fuss and Feathers"?

12—What is rubber?

13—Who is the world's amateur skating champion.

14—What American woman, who died in 1926, had been celebrated for more than half a century for her work in oil, water colors and etching, and who received greater honors abroad than at home?

15—What two large cities of the United States are not located on important waterways?

16—What British cities are the leading centers for the manufacture of iron and steel?

17—What British poet was drowned while sailing near Leghorn, Italy?

18—What was the first daily newspaper in the United States?

19—What is the salary of the speaker of the house of representatives?

20—What is the time from new moon to new moon?

Answers No. 24

1—Sacajawea.

2—The burning of a substance or body by the internal development of heat without the application of fire.

3—Welker Cochran.

4—"Madame Butterfly."

5—Ninety miles.

6—Emerson, Thoreau, Hawthorne, A. Bronson Alcott, Louise M. Alcott and William Ellery Channing.

7—The walnut is a family of nut bearing trees comprising about a dozen species, all of which are valued for their wood and for their sweet, edible fruit.

8—Seventieth.

9—The sun's surface is 12,000 and its volume 1,300,000 times that of the earth, but the mass is only 332,000 times as great and its density about one-quarter that of the earth.

10—Alexander Hamilton.

11—Birmingham, Ala.

12—Capt. Matthew Webb in 1875.

13—In 1621.

14—Because it has been proven that every human being has a marking on the finger tips different from any other person on earth.

15—Ford's theater, Washington, D. C., during a performance of "Our American Cousin."

16—Venice.

17—James Justinian Morier.

18—From 1,000 to 2,000.

19—Andrew W. Mellon of Pennsylvania.

20—7,926.5 miles and the polar diameter 7,899.5 miles.

Texas Bandit Queen Unhandicapped by Sex

Fully twenty years before American women besieged the White House, the capitals and the villages until they got the vote, one American woman considered it proper for a woman to "fill a man's shoes," if she could do it. She was Belle Starr, the Calamity Jane of Texas, styled by some newspapers of the time the "Queen of the Bandits."

Belle was once asked why she, a woman, undertook to play the part of a man in the Starr coterie. She took her pistol, pointed out a leaf on a nearby tree and shot two holes in it before it fell.

"Did you ever see my husband do that well?" she asked.

"No."

"Then why shouldn't I take his place? Because I'm a woman? That's no argument. If you get a thing done, does it matter whether you're a man or a woman? I've no patience with these silly women who depend on men for their opinions."—Kansas City Star.

Huge London Waste

The amount of waste in a large city was shown in a recent survey made in London, where 1,500,000 tons of refuse are gathered and dumped each year at a cost of $3,500,000.

Engineers told the councilmen there that if the waste were treated scientifically about one-half the cost would be avoided, important by-products would be supplied, and, if the dry refuse were burned, at least 332,000,000 units of electrical power could be produced.

Improved Uniform International

Sunday School Lesson

(By REV. P. B. FITZWATER, D.D., Dean Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.)
(©, 1927, by Western Newspaper Union.)

Lesson for November 20

MICAH CHAMPIONS THE OPPRESSED

LESSON TEXT—Micah, chs. 2, 3 and 6.

GOLDEN TEXT—What doth the Lord require of thee, but to do justly and to love mercy and to walk humbly with thy God.

PRIMARY TOPIC—What God Wants Us to Do.

JUNIOR TOPIC—What God Requires of Us.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—What God Requires of Us.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Prophetic Interpretation of Religion.

Micah prophesied during the reign of Jotham, Ahaz and Hezekiah, in Judah, but his message largely concerned Israel. He is called the prophet of the poor. He proclaimed impending doom upon the workers of unrighteousness and heralded the coming of the Messiah.

I. Evil Workers Denounced (2:1-3).

1. How they worked (v. 1).

Their evil work was not a matter of impulse, but of deliberate purpose.

(1) It was conceived in their mind. They gave themselves to the devising of wicked schemes.

(2) They worked evil upon their beds. They used the quiet hours of the night while honest people were sleeping for planning ways to work out their schemes.

(3) They executed their plans in the morning light. Having power to carry out their schemes, they did what their wicked minds devised.

2. What they do (v. 2).

(1) They covet fields (v. 2).

In this they violated the tenth commandment.

(2) They violently take fields and houses.

A covetous spirit will eventuate in such deeds unless restrained.

(3) They oppress a man and his house (v. 2).

By house is meant a man's descendants, the inheritors of his property.

3. Their punishment (v. 3).

Against such evil doers God is devising a righteous retribution which will fall upon them with such weight as to humble them.

II. Upon Whom Judgment Shall Fall (3:1-12).

1. The unfaithful rulers (vv. 1-4).

Because of love for the evil and hatred for the good the rulers mercilessly destroyed the people.

2. The false prophets (vv. 5-8).

They served for hire. As long as supplied with food, they prophesied to please the people.

3. The judgment which is to fall (vv. 9-12).

Jerusalem was destroyed because of the sins of the people. Just as the righteous retribution fell then, we can be assured that there will be no escape from the coming judgment for those who destroy the people.

III. God's Controversy (6:1-13)

Wicked men may go on to a certain time with their schemes, but eventually the Lord's requirements shall be met.

1. The hills and the mountains called to bear witness against Israel (v. 2).

The people had turned a deaf ear to God so that inanimate creation was called upon to witness against them.

2. The guilty party left to state the case (v. 3).

The King of the universe abdicates His rights and allows His sinning people to make charges against Him.

3. God recounts His mercies unto the people (vv. 4, 5).

Having paused for the charge and none having been brought, the Lord thrust home upon their conscience the memory of His great mercies.

(1) He brought them out of Egyptian bondage (v. 4).

He has done even more for us who were under bondage to sin and Satan.

(2) Sent before them a trio of leaders (v. 4).

Moses, the lawgiver; Aaron, the high priest, and Miriam, the prophetess, were sent to bear witness.

(3) Turned Balak's curse into a blessing through Balaam (v. 5).

4. God's requirements (vv. 6-13).

(1) The great question, "Wherewith shall I come before the Lord?"

The Jews could not deny the charge brought against them by the Almighty.

(2) The complete answer (v. 8).

a. "To do justly." Strict equity was to characterize all their dealings with their fellowmen.

b. "To love mercy." The heart was to be diligently set to do good to our fellows.

c. "To walk humbly with thy God." This means to recognize that we are sinners before God, with no claim upon Him except His pardoning love.

Spiritual Power

Spiritual power is developed in action, just as muscles are developed. The more we try to help others, the more firmly shall we be established and the more we shall grow.—D. L. Marvin.

To Regenerate the World

The only way to regenerate the world is to do the duty which lies nearest to us and not to hunt after grand, far-fetched ones for ourselves.—Charles Kingsley.

Slowing Up?
You Can't Feel Well When Kidneys Act Sluggishly.

OVERWORK, worry and lack of rest, put extra burdens on the kidneys. When the kidneys slow up, impurities remain in the blood and are apt to make one languid, tired and achy, with dull headaches, dizziness and often nagging backache. A common warning is scanty or burning secretions. Use Doan's Pills. Doan's, a stimulant diuretic, increase the secretion of the kidneys and aid in the elimination of waste impurities. Are endorsed by users everywhere. Ask your neighbor!

DOAN'S PILLS 60c
STIMULANT DIURETIC TO THE KIDNEYS
Foster-Milburn Co. Mfg. Chem. Buffalo, N.Y.

Garfield Tea
Was Your Grandmother's Remedy

For every stomach and intestinal ill. This good old-fashioned herb home remedy for constipation, stomach ills and other derangements of the system so prevalent these days is in even greater favor as a family medicine than in your grandmother's day.

FROZEN FEET

After the first measures for frozen feet, fingers or ears Carboil is the ideal treatment. Its medicinal oils and antiseptic chemicals sooth the tissues, allay soreness and help t oprevent complications. A 50-cent box from your druggist is all that is required.
Your money back if it fails to satisfy.
SPURLOCK-NEAL CO., Nashville, Tenn.

To Cool a Burn
Use Hanford's Balsam of Myrrh
Money back for first bottle if not suited. All dealers.

Family Secret

Some one asked little Barbara Stern, daughter of the Big U's business manager, the meaning of the quotation, "For men must work and women must weep."

The little girl thought it over for a moment and replied: "It means that the poor man has to work all day and get the money and then his wife has to cry all night and get it away from him. "But," she added as an afterthought, "my daddy isn't like that."

Boys who resent the commonplace are in danger.

The BABY

Why do so many, many babies of today escape all the little fretful spells and infantile ailments that used to worry mothers through the day, and keep them up half the night?

If you don't know the answer, you haven't discovered pure, harmless Castoria. It is sweet to the taste, and sweet in the little stomach. And its gentle influence seems felt all through the tiny system. Not even a distasteful dose of castor oil does so much good.

Fletcher's Castoria is purely vegetable, so you may give it freely, at first sign of colic; or constipation; or diarrhea. Or those many times when you just don't know what is the matter. For real sickness, call the doctor, always. At other times, a few drops of Fletcher's Castoria.

The doctor often tells you to do just that; and always says Fletcher's. Other preparations may be just as pure, just as free from dangerous drugs, but why experiment? Besides, the book on care and feeding of babies that comes with Fletcher's Castoria is worth its weight in gold!

Children Cry for Fletcher's CASTORIA

W. N. U., FORT WAYNE, NO. 49-1927.

NOVEMBER

L 915 0622

Local Briefs

Get a rent receipt book at News office. tf.

Persons wishing to hunt can obtain license at News Office. Also we attend to your notary work promptly.

Mr. and Mrs. D. C. McCann and Mrs. Ross Bishop and son, attended the funeral of Ambrose Heitz at Butler Center last Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Abe Culbertson, Wm. Curie, Ora Baker, George Culbertson, Joe Hull and Fred High, attended the funeral of Jeff Boyle at Butler, Tuesday.

Jeff Boyle, a Butler resident, and well known to most St. Joe residents, died Saturday at a Ft. Wayne hospital. Funeral was held from the Butler M. E. Church, Tuesday afternoon.

Glasses Are More And More Necessary.

After middle life. Some take pride in deferring the use of glasses and boast of their ability to see without them. Much harm is often done the eyes by this neglect. If you are getting along in years let us look your eyes over. A little help now may prevent more serious results later.

ED. W. HICKS
AUBURN
"OUR SPECIALTY — COMFORTABLE VISION"

Hunters—Not allowed on our premises. Henry Shroyer. 45t3p.

Albion election resulted in the re-election of all its old officers.

For Sale:—Blood tested R. I. Red Roosters, $2.00 each. W. L. Hamilton. 46t1.

Found:—A boy's overcoat at Wabash depot. Owner can have same by giving identification and paying for this ad. 46t1p.

The new "Jac-O-Bean" parlor furnace is sold by Bowser & Reed. On display in our store. The price will fit your purse. 42tf.

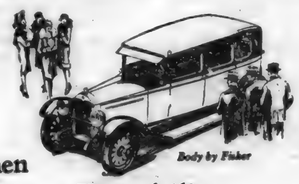
The girls' high school basket ball team was defeated at Auburn last Friday night by a score of 34 to 4, making all their scores in the last half of the game.

The regular meeting of the W. C. T. U. will be held this (Thursday) afternoon at the home of Mrs. Jennie Sechler. The ladies of the community have a special invitation to attend this meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. Cal Hutton and daughter, Melba, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Heffley and son and Mr. and Mrs. Ben Warner and baby, of east of Auburn, were Sunday dinner guests in the Isaac Meese home. In the afternoon they all went to Hicksville and were guests of Mrs. Lucy Koch.

Each year at this time, every one is asked to contribute to, two worthy organizations, the emblem of each, being Red Cross. This is confusing to many people, and they believe when they take membership in the Red Cross or buy the Tuberculosis Christmas Seals, that they are contributing to the same work. The SINGLE bar cross is the emblem of the American Red Cross their drive for membership is from Armistice Day, November 11th to Thanksgiving Day. The Double Bar Cross is the Tuberculosis Emblem, and the Seal Drive is from Thanksgiving Day to January 1st. These dates are agreed on by the two National Societies. Both organizations are doing wonderful work in the United States, their work being different and are worthy of the support of every one.

WHEN BETTER AUTOMOBILES ARE BUILT, BUICK WILL BUILD THEM



Body by Fisher

Style that women desire — Durability that men demand

BUICK for 1928

Buick for 1928 has won tremendous popularity among men and women alike, because everyone admires its beautiful bodies by Fisher, lustrous Duco colors and luxurious closed car interiors—and because its sturdy construction and fine quality assure long life and unfailing dependability.

SEDANS $1195 to $1995 COUPES $1195 to $1850
SPORT MODELS $1195 to $1525

All prices f. o. b. Flint, Mich., government tax to be added. The G.M.A.C. financing plan, the most desirable, is available.

BUICK SALES & SERVICE, Auburn.

We Buy CLOVER SEED!
Bring Your SEEDS to Us
WE WILL PAY YOU HIGHEST MARKET PRICES

NATHAN Grain Co.
St. Joe's New Lumber Yard
Call By Phone for Prices Bert Jackson, Mgr.

A Hoosier store is to open in Butler by the first of the year.

Little Charles McKnight is quite sick this week caused from his teeth.

The Kendallville Country Club building burned Friday morning with $8,000 loss.

If your sewing machine needs repairing leave your order at the News office and we will have a man call. 46tf.

Don Keller, local Essex dealer and Earl Smith were at Detroit this week after a car for Mr. Smith.

You can now buy Atwter-Kent Radio, 6 tube set for less than $100.00 complete. Kenneth Meek. 43tf.

Have your glasses fitted by Benj. F. Griest, Eyesight Specialist, Office in American Bldg., Hicksville, Ohio. 28tf.

Dr. Julian has returned to St. and will be here all the time except an office hour at Harlan from 3 P. M. until bed time. 46t1.

The fine weather is giving our farmers an opportunity to get their plowing done in advance of spring, and most of them are taking advantage of it.

A new I. H. C. 10-20 tractor was delivered by Wm. Curie to Lester Baker, one of our energetic, young progressive farmers. Also complete plows and disc.

Steam railroads perform, approximately 90 per cent of the freight transportation, and 88 per cent of the passenger transportation, in the United States.

Olan Shank was taken to Pendleton reformatory as an escaped prisoner, last Thursday. After his escape he stole a Ford Sedan at Coldwater and when caught was driving this same car.

Seven thousand cards and one hundred fifty large bills were printed by The News, to advertise the Bowser stock sale on, November 25. Six hundred head of stock will be sold this year.

There is a slump in the marriage market in DeKalb county so far in November, only two licenses having been issued by County Clerk J. H. Knauer. There were seventeen licenses issued during the month of October.

The Misses Wilma and Thelma Bishop were guests of their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. D. C. McCann from Friday until Sunday evening. Mrs. Ross Bishop and Hilda Pence were Sunday evening callers in the same home.

Mrs. Floyd Ridgway and son and Mrs. Belle Ridgway, spent several days the past week with relatives at Hobart, Ind. Mr. Ridgway joined his family and visited over Sunday when they returned home with him. Mrs. Belle Ridgway remaining for an indefinite visit with her daughters.

Eghty acres of land in Jackson township was sold by Sheriff John Armstrong Saturday afternoon to satisfy a judgment obtained in the DeKalb circuit court by the First Joint Stock Land bank of Fort Wayne against Oliver Richardson et. al. The bank bid in the property at $6,575.45. The judgment was $6,500.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Hamilton and children and Mrs. Thayer Northrup and son, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Nugen at Auburn. The dinner was in honor the birthday anniversaries of Mr. Mamilton and Derrow Murphy. Mr. and Mrs. Mark Murphy and Mr. and Mrs. Will Sauers of east of St. Joe, were also guests.

J. R. Shilling is re-roofing his farm house south of Spencerville.

Mrs. Paul Curie was hostess to the Friendly Bible class of the Methodist Sunday School, Monday evening. The Leaders class were guests for the evening. A good time was enjoyed by all. Ice cream, cake and coffee were served by a special committee.

Engraved Greeting Cards

THE Holidays are just round the corner. Have you ordered your engraved Greeting Cards as yet? Don't wait until the last minute. Our assortment of beautiful and artistic Christmas and New Year's cards is now complete, and there is ample time for us to give you our most careful attention and service.

ST. JOE NEWS OFFICE

Carl Perkins had the end of a finger cut off last week while at his farm work.

For Sale:—Pure bred Shropshire ram, also half bred Shropp-Rambouillet ram. Call O. K. Shull. 46t1.

You can now buy Atwter-Kent Radio, 6 tube set for less than $100.00 complete. Kenneth Meek. 43tf.

J. C. Hull is attending Grand Lodge at Indianapolis this week, as a representative of the local I. O. O. F. organization.

Opening game of basket ball, Spencerville, Nov. 19. Ft. Wayne Heralds vs Spencerville A. C's. Admission 15 and 25 cents. 46t1.

Christmas Cards put up in boxes at $1.00. Regular 15 cent values and a dozen of them in a box, double envelopes one of them lined. Call at News office. 45tf.

Merritt Sechler entertained at dinner Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Perkins, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Curie, Mr. and Mrs. Harcourt Miser and Mrs. Jennie Sechler.

For Sale:—The newest in Electric Washers. The One-minute Model 60, $97.50, also Model 52. Will be glad to demonstrate. Drop a card to M. S. Hilpert, Hicksville, Ohio. 46tf.

Mr. and Mrs. John Knight of near Mt. Pleasant and daughter, Miss Evelyn of South Bend, were Sunday guests of Dr. and Mrs. B. S. Sheffer. Mrs. C. M. Thayer and son, Charles, of Hicksville, were also guests.

Will Hamilton drove to the game at Auburn Friday night and when starting home was run down by a street car, smashing his left rear fender, tail light, bumper and making a dent in the body. No one was injured.

The Home Bureau Club will have an all day day meeting at the home of Mrs. Miller Shull, Friday, November 17. Please bring dinner service including salad, plate and sauce dish. The project leaders will demonstrate and help prepare the dinner.

The report given in last week of the Wm. Long car colliding with the Federal bread man was an error. It was the Edgar Lysher Hudson car, in which George Kees, Jesse Loftus and Homer Woodcox were riding to their work at Auburn.

Joe Woodcox arived home Tuesday evening after an absence of several weeks, making a tour of the west and south west with a company of musical artists, playing at the fairs. Joe is looking fine but we think he is happy to return home for the winter.

Twenty-one members of the Concord C. E. Society went to the County Farm last Sunday afternoon and held services for the old people, which they enjoyed. Songs and talks were given as a part of the service. After the service the group was shown about the premises.

The coming of the Young People's Conference at St. Joe this Saturday and Sunday will bring to our homes the finest young people produced in our county. A large crowd is expected before the close of the meeting. Let every citizen do their part to encourage these folks to continue in Christian activities. Program elsewhere in this issue.

Mrs. Elnora Kinsey had planned a surprise on her mother, Mrs. Hattie Sechler, last Sunday, and she thought it a good time to include a number who had birthdays at this time, as follows: November 12; M. C. Blue; Nov. 13, Mrs. Kinsey; Nov. 14, William Sechler and Nov. 24, Mrs. Jack Sechler. All came with well filled baskets. The tables were beautifully decorated with a birthday cake, on which were pink candles and yellow chrysanthemums and oddles of good things to eat. Eighteen guests were present. The day was spent in visiting and music. Vernon Kline was an afternoon caller. Little Miss Carmen Sechler remained for a week's visit with her aunt.

TERRIBLE ERROR

Reggie—Did somebody hit you on the mouth?

Archie—Why, no. Where's the mirror? I—well, for heaven's sake! I used Mae's lipstick on my mustache instead of her eyebrow pencil!

You can lead men to the committee room but you cannot make them think.

The best way for a girl to get a man at her feet is to buy a new pair of shoes.

A girl who thinks no man good enough for her may be right, but she will probably be left.

TRAINING SCHOOL CLOSED FRIDAY NIGHT

Attendance in Auburn Has Set Record for Entire State, Instructors Declare

The DeKalb county training school for Sunday School leaders, conducted at the Auburn Y. M. C. A., closed Friday evening, Nov. 11, at 9:30. The school was one expression of the church's opportunity to train its leadership that each boy and girl in the church may be instructed by a leadership that is trained. The church will rise in its educational program only as high as the ideals and training of its leadership. This is an age of intellectual attainment and achievement, and while the youth of DeKalb county are advancing in secular education, the church must take its place alongside other educational institutions that the whole educaion of the youth may be permeated with Christian principles that react in Chrisian living.

This training school was the first of its kind to be promoted in DeKalb county. The credits received in the school are recognized by the National Church Educational Board. Schools of this tpye are promoted for five nights from 7:30 to 9:30. In this school four classes or courses were offered for benefit of the local teachers and leaders. Miss Nellie C. Young, children's division superintendent of the Indiana Council of Religious Education, was dean, and teacher of the story telling course. Rev. M. K. Richardson, pastor of the United Brethren Church of Fort Wayne, was teacher of Church School Administration; Rev. H. L. Miller, pastor of the Christian Church at Fort Wayne, was teacher of Admistration of Vacation Church Schools; Rev. Edgar L. Mullins, pastor of the Baptist Church at Fort Wayne, was teacher of the Young Peoples Department Administration. These classes assembled at 7:30 each evening for a fifty minute study and class period, followed by an assembly of the whole school in which all students and teachers participated in a twenty-minute period of worship. The different members of the faculty led the devotional period. At the close of the devotional period, each class assembled for a second fifty-minute period of study and class work. Throughout the entire session of the school a strong spiritual message has been given as well as strong material educationally.

Miss Young, dean of the school, states that this school has the record attendance throughout the state. Of the 87 regisered students only two absences have been recorded by the teachers. She also states that the per cent of students who received credit is the highest per cent throughout the state. It was a school of serious minded leaders who registered for work. The church receives help in training its leaders only to the extent that it enlists its leaders for training. The church today that does not train its leaders is not the church with a challenge to youth. Youth today expects as strong trained leadership in the church program as is found in the secular educational program, Miss Young declares.

There were 87 registered students in the training school from the many churches and townships of DeKalb county. The list of students and their respective churches and townships follows:

BUTLER TOWNSHIP
Edith Houser, Cedar Chapel.
Rev. A. F. Morris, Cedar Brethren.

CONCORD TOWNSHIP
Della Mae Huffman, St. Joe M. P.
Mrs. J. F. McKnight, St. Joe M. P.
Rev. J. F. McKnight, St. Joe M. P.
Naomi Baker, Concord M. P.
Fred B. Leighty, St. Joe M. P.
Lora E. Leighty, St. Joe M. P.
Harvey J. Hull, St. Joe Lutheran.
Ralph Sechler, St. Joe Lutheran.

FAIRFIELD TOWNSHIP
Ocie Hamman, Pleasant Chapel.
Ruth Perkins, Pleasant Chapel.
Russel Perkins, Pleasant Chapel.

SMITHFIELD TOWNSHIP
Irene King, Cedar Lake.
Mrs. Orlo Deetz, St. John Reformed.
Paul M. Brenneman, Barker's Chapel.
Helen Deetz, St. John Reformed.
Orlo Deetz, St. John Reformed.

GRANT TOWNSHIP
Ines Wing, M. E.
Mary Sidnell Ish, M. E.
Mrs. Ethel Hartman, M. E.
Mrs. Clara Crooks, M. E.
Myrtle Hamman, U. B.
Lulu C. Hood, M. E.
Celestia Hanes, M. E.
Mrs. Sabina Beidler, Evangelical.

JACKSON TOWNSHIP
Miss Joy Schwartz, Hopewell.
Mrs. Ernest Cornell, Meese Chapel.
Miss Ruby Dosch, Meese Chapel.
Miss Dora Carnahan, Hopewell.
Miss Georgia Walter, Rehoboth.
Roscoe Bishop, Rehoboth.
Mrs. Gerry Souders, Meese Chapel.
Ernest Cornell, Meese Chapel.
Frank Dosch, Meese Chapel.
Mrs. Willard Strong, Hopewell.

KEYSER TOWNSHIP
Mrs. Longbrake, Presbyterian.
Mrs. Vern Wisner, Baptist.
Mrs. Mary Shoemaker, Baptist.
Fairie Cole, Baptist.
Mrs. T. C. Cobler, Baptist.
Samuel Cook, Christian Union.
Mrs. C. G. Casner, Baptist.
Mrs. L. E. Nicholson, Baptist.
Mrs. L. E. Farrington, Baptist.
Mrs. D. M. Reynolds, Presbyterian.
Rev. Donald Dunkin, Baptist.
Mrs. Sylvia Werlert, Baptist.
T. C. Cobler, Baptist.
Paul Harp, Baptist.

RICHLAND TOWNSHIP
Emma Farrington, Church of Christ.
Thelma Zonker, Church of Christ.
Jennie Bard, Church of Christ.
Velma Husselman, Maple Grove.
Gladys Bangs, Maple [redacted]
Miss Maxine Johnson
Miss Gertrude Johnson
Nora McDonald, Chur[redacted] of Christ.
Wm. Crosley, Maple Grove.
Helen Manrow, M. E.
Mrs. Edna Hewitt, Showers Corners.

RICHLAND TOWNSHIP
C. E. Vian, U. B.
Archie McDonald, U. B.
Sidney Smith, Showers Corners.
Forest Harding, Lutheran.
Thelma Hovarter, Lutheran.
Evelyn Dewitt, Lutheran.

SPENCER TOWNSHIP
Mrs. Ray Farver, M. E.
Ray Farver, M. E.

UNION TOWNSHIP
Mrs. Bertha Graham, Presbyterian.
Helen Grogg, Presbyterian.
Mrs. W. H. Timbrock, Presbyterian.
Mrs. Vern Clark, Church of Christ.
Mrs. Mary Knauer, Church of Christ.
Mrs. Adelpha Pepple, Lutheran.
Dorothy Courtmanche, Lutheran.
Mrs. H. C. Hathaway, Lutheran.
Mrs. C. O. Krise, M. E.
W. C. Baker, M. E.
Mrs. Rose Hoodelmier, Lutheran.
Mary Provines, Lutheran.
Mrs. G. P. Weaver, M. E.
Wm. Quance, M. E.
Geo. Beugnot, Presbyterian.
Everett Mavis, Presbyterian.
Leon Barnhart, Church of God.
Miss Sadie Coy, M. E.

This school was promoted by the DeKalb County Council of Religious Education. At the closing session the council invited interested friends to be guests of the school.

WHAT IS BOOSTING

We often wonder how many people ever stop to consider what real home-town boosting means. And yet it is merely "thinking" and "saying" good things about the community in which we live. To be real boosters for our home town we must assume our share of civic responsibilities, and lend our support toward any movement for the betterment of our homes, schools, churches and social and fraternal organizations. We should not only feel it our duty but we should take pride in keeping our streets clean and in good repair, and in beautifying our yards and homes. We should make them as attractive as possible. A clean, healthy atmosphere does more than anything else to attract new citizens to a community and to give a town a steady, healthy growth. These are the things that constitute real boosting—things that we not only can do but that we should do constantly, 365 days in the year.

First "Movie"

The first movie picture commercially shown was that of a serpentine dancer produced in Koster & Bial's music hall in New York city, April 27, 1896.

When a woman goes visiting nothing hurts her so much as her inability to impress upon her hostess the idea that she is used to something better at home.

NOVEMBER

L 915 0623

SPENCERVILLE

Mrs. LeAnna Wearley is numbered among the sick.

The Sunday Chicago Herald and Examiner now on sale at News office. 4tf.

Paul Dean and wife of Fort Wayne, Sundayed at the Floyd Dean home.

Mark Tyndall of Woodburn was a recent visitor in the Jason Keyes home.

Mrs. Jennie Walter will entertain the ladies of the C. C. Club on Friday afternoon.

Mrs. Gertrude Markle and daughters of Fort Wayne, were week end guests of relatives here.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Randall and children of Auburn, sent Sunday at the William Allen home.

The Ladies Aid of the Lutheran Church met with Mrs. Loren Means on Wednesday afternoon.

Forest and Garnet Beams spent the weekend with friends at Wittenberg College, at Springfield, Ohio.

Mr. and Mrs. George Doll and daughter of Fort Wayne, were week end guests in the Eck Hursh home.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Rectenwall and son, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Glen Henderson at Woodburn.

Mrs. Estella Goldsmith spent last week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Deitrick at Fort Wayne.

Mrs. Emily Gloyd and sons spent Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Anson Denton of near Huntertown.

Mr. and Mrs. Fenton McMacken and children of near Fort Wayne, were Sunday guests in the R. U. Bowser home.

Herman Reasoner spent over Sunday at this place. He has accepted a position as salesman at Newport, Ky.

Glenn Betz and son, Marion, of near Woodburn, and Samuel Betz of near Harlan, were Saturday visitors in the Joel Betz home.

Opening game of basket ball, Spencerville, Nov. 19. Ft. Wayne Heralds vs Spencerville A. C's. Admission 15 and 25 cents. 46t1.

Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Rhoades and daughter, Miss Doris, of Fort Wayne, were Saturday night guests in the F. E. Rhoads home.

Mr. and Mrs. John Betz of St. Joe, Joel Betz and wife and Glen Betz and sons of Woodburn, spent Sunday with Walter Perkins and family at Harlan.

Rev. and Mrs. Walfred Lindstrom of Pleasant Lake, John Miller and wife of Fort Wayne, Gene Bowerman and wife of Harlan, were visitors on Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Jason Keyes.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Rectenwall, Mrs. Manda Rhoads, Raymond Rhodes and wife, Mrs. Mabel Erick and Mrs. Audra Wade, attended the funeral of Mrs. Frank Odle at Geneva, Friday. Mr. and Mrs. Odle formerly resided here.

Among those who attended the Institute at Auburn on Saturday were, the Misses Ruth Miller, Ethel Pflaumer, Ida Reed, Vera Reed, Bina Zimmerman, Minnie Walker, Mrs. Alice Zimmerman, A. J. Smith and Charles Witteker.

WANTS $10,000 OF AUBURN CONTRACTOR

Mrs. Joy Plotner-Muhn of Auburn, has filed a cross complaint to the complaint of her husband, J. R. Muhn, in which he petitioned Aug. 31 for a divorce.

The parties were married December 25, 1913, and separated in August and in his petition Mr. Muhn asks for the custody of their three children.

Mrs. Muhn declares that she has been a dutiful wife, performed her household duties and since the birth of the children she has devoted her service to the care of the children and of the household.

Mrs. Muhn stated in her complaint that she and her husband have accumulated what she believes to be $25,000 which is in the sole name of Mr. Muhn. She charges cruel and inhuman treatment and neglect. Mrs. Muhn declares that her husband left home about August 30th and has since refused to live with her. She asks for a divorce, support and allmony of $10,000.

NO LIE

Boss: "See here! You told my office girl that you wanted to see me on a matter of life and death!"

Salesman: "I do, sir, I want to sell you some life insurance."

With the Churches

ST. JOE M. P. CHURCH

Mrs. Hattie Widney, Supt.
Sunday School, 9:30 A. M.
Christian Endeavor, 6:00 P. M.

CONCORD M. P. CHURCH

George Johnson, Supt.
Sunday school 9:30 A. M.
Christian Endeavor, 6:30.
J. F. McKnight, Pastor.

EVANGELICAL LUTHERAN CHURCHES

"Blessed are they which hunger and thirst after righteousness, for they shall be filled." Matt. 5: 6.

A man may be measured by his desires. Righteousness is a supreme object of desire. The desire is the measure of the supply. A real desire culminates in action. Hunger drives to work.

What leads people thua to hunger and thirst? A sense of insufficiency. A sense of guilt. A perception of utter inefficacy of all human prescriptions to remove sin or supply righteousness. Those who hunger and thirst are blessed, because it is the evidence of a new nature and of acceptance with God. They are "filled"—satisfied, with righteousness, happiness and finally with the likeness of God.

ST. JOE

Sabbath Bible School at 9:30 A. M., Mr. Derwood Ridgway, Superintendent.

SPENCERVILLE

Sabbath Bible School at 9:15 A. M., Mr. Ray Means, Superintendent.

Divine Service at 7:00 o'clock.

We shall be happy to have you worship with us. If you have no church home here as yet, join us.

P. B. Roediger, Pastor.

CHURCH OF CHRIST

"The right way to begin travelling the right way is to begin right away."

ST. JOE

Ed Storer, Supt.
Bible School, 9:30 A. M.
Lord's Supper, 10:30 A. M.
Sermon, 7:00 P. M.
Fine attendance last Lord's Day. Help keep it where it belongs.

NEWVILLE

Frank Lyons, Superintendent
Bible School, 10:00 A. M., sun time.
Lord's Supper, 11:00 A. M., sun time.
The pastor will deliver a special address at Farmer Center, Ohio at 11:00 A. M.
R. S. Aldrich, Pastor.

Methodist Episcopal Church Spencerville

Sunday School, 9:00 A. M.—John Koch, Superintendent.
Epworth League, 6:00 P. M.
Preaching service alternating morning and evening with Scipio.

IN CHRIST'S SCHOOL

Having been to school to Christ and learned the important lessons on prayer, the will of God, and faith in our teacher, we now ask him, "Master, what is the Christian's rule of life?" He answers, "Follow me."

One cannot read the scriptures very long without meeting a personal challenge, which, whether he will or not, must have a personal response.

In our lesson today based on Matthew's gospel, 9th chapter and 9th verse, the personal call is "Follow me." One who is familiar with churches and church folks must be convinced that the recording angel cannot write after many of the names which are written on church records as it was written about Matthew, "He arose and followed him" (Jesus.) Some folks are following everything but Christ.

But, you say, "Can I not go here or there and take Jesus along?" You cannot take Jesus any where. He says, "Follow me," not "Take me."

Conduct is a matter between the individual conscience and Christ. So how can you salve your conscience or ignore it and expect at the same time to hear Christ say, "Well done, thou good and faithful servant, enter into the joys of thy Lord."

Roy S. Brown, Pastor.

SUNDAY SCHOOL REPORTS

The following is the report of Sunday schools in this vicinity for last Sunday, according to information sent The News by representatives of the schools reported.

Spencerville M. E.	71	$4.46
Lutheran	68	$3.83
Coburntown	57	$2.80

MRS. ROUDABUSH, HIGH SCHOOL TEACHER, EXPIRES

Deceased Was Daughter of the Rev. Dr. J. N. Scholes, Former City Minister

BURIAL AT ST. JOE, INDIANA

The following article is a reprint from the Johnstown, (Pa.) tribune of Monday, November 7th.

Mrs. Myrtle Roudabush, of rear 742 Franklin street, Kernville, a teacher of English in the Johnstown High School, died at 2:30 o'clock this morning at Mercy Hospital, where she had been a patient since early in September. She was taken to the Eighth Ward institution on the day the present school term began and was later operated on for intestinal trouble, which caused her death. Mrs. Roudabush was a daughter of the Rev. Dr. and Mrs. J. N. Scholes, formerly of this city, but for the last few years residents of St. Joe, Indiana. They were called to Johnstown soon after their daughter was removed to the hospital.

The deceased graduated from the Newark, Ohio, High School in the class of 1909 and from the Bethany Normal School in Bethany, W. Va., two years later. In 1914 Mrs. Roudabush was a teacher in the Village street school and the next fall she taught in the Roxbury school, remaining there for two years, when she was chosen as a member of the High School faculty. From 1912 to 1917 she was a summer student at Bethany College and was awarded her B. A. degree by the faculty of the West Virginia institution. From 1917 to 1922 Mrs. Roudabush was a summer student at the Ohio State University and was awarded her M. A. degree there five years ago. She was abroad in the summer of 1926, when she was enrolled at Oxford, and expected to received her Ph. D. degree within the next few seasons. She was the editorial advisor on the "Black and Blue," a bi-weekly publication issued by the local High School students.

Mrs. Roudabush is survived by her parents, two brothers, Scott and Paul Scholes, and a foster sister, the latter being Miss Gertrude Lewis, of Kernville, a teacher in the Roxbury schools. Mrs. Roudabush's father was formerly pastor of the First Christian Church, this city. During the last few weeks he has been serving as pastor of Second Christian Church. He occupied the pulpit yesterday morning, but no services were held last night on account of the serious condition of Mrs. Roudabush.

Suitable memorial services were held by the High School faculty and student body at noon today with Prof. James Killius in charge. Prof. R. W. Wright was the prescentor when the assemblage sang several appropriate hymns. The Rev. Dr. C. C. Gohn, pastor of the First United Brethren Church, conducted the devotions and appropriate remarks were made by Dr. S. J. Slawson, the Superintendent; Herbert J. Stockton, a former Superintendent; Prof. J. D. Ripple, of the Joseph Johns Junior High School, and Prof. H. J. Stack, Supervisor of Secondary Education.

The funeral was held from the home of her parents, Rev. Brewster, of Hicksville, officiating. E. R. Kinsey, as funeral director. Interment in the Alton cemetery.

CARD OF THANKS

J. N. Scholes and family express their thanks for the sympathy shown by the church and community in their recent bereavement.

It costs a man a lot to live up to his ideals. That's the reason many a man can't afford to get married.

DR. C. R. BAUMGARTNER
Veterinarian
Spencerville, Ind.
PHONES: 282--283.

We Do STATIONERY PRINTING on HAMMERMILL BOND

MANY FORCES JOIN CORN BORER FIGHT

Lafayette, Ind., Nov. 16.—A comprehensive campaign of education is under way in Northern and Eastern Indiana counties, in the fight to control the spread of the European corn borer.

Local civic organizations, county governments, farm bureaus, bankers associations, newspapers and other leaders in community activities have taken up the fight this fall with an earnestness and enthusiasm that indicate a general acceptance of the seriousness of the situation and the need for concerted action.

Reports to Dr. G. I. Christie, director of agricultural extension at Purdue University, indicate that in many counties the further Educational work of corn borer control is to take on a semi-official aspect. On the recent tours to the infested territory of Canada and Michigan, one county was represented by its county commissioners and several township trustees; another made a point of sendi g vocational teachers from the township consolidated schools.

"The effect upon our community will be tremendous if the corn borer is not held in control from the first," said Arthur L. Hubbard, president of the First and Union Banks of South Bend, in supporting the tour of farmers and business men from that city.

"Business and industry will suffer as will the farming community, if the borer is allowed to run unhampered through the fields of the Middle West. The community may well unite solidly behind the farmer and the government and state agencies to fight its spread and hold its damage to the minimum."

Fall plowing of stalks is underway in all parts of the infested area, according to reports received at Purdue from county agents. Many farmers in townships not now known to be infested are joining in the cleanup program and are advocating general adoption of the plan of destroying or plowing under stalks, which is the chief step in corn borer control.

The educational tours to the Canadian and Michigan fields this fall have brought back to Indiana farmers much first hand information of the dangers that face American farming if the borer's spread is not controlled. The last of these trips will be made November 29, when parties from LaGrange and Noble counties will visit the regions.

DIAGNOSED

Teacher"—If I gave you a big red apple and you gave Robert seven-eights of it what would you have?"

Tommy—"Some kind of disease in my brain."

SIGN OF AGE

Doctor—Your father seems hale and hearty at the age of 104.

Mountaineer—Yep, but pap's slippin'. T'other day I heard him say he reckoned he'd take up the game of golf.

PHONE 290
Stanley P. Nelson Monuments
Opposite Woodlawn and Roselawn Cemeteries
AUBURN, IND.

Dr. E. T. Julian
St. JOE
10 to 11:30 each forenoon. at Dr. C. R. Price office.

Russel R. Reidenour
ATTORNEY
Auburn, Ind.

THANKSGIVING TURKEY PROCESSION STARTS, BUT FESTIVE BIRDS MAY BE A LITTLE LATE

The annual procession of Thanksgiving turkeys from the farm to the holiday table is under way. The festive birds are arriving at ware houses. Feathers are flying in dressing plants or on farms where shipments are made direct, railroads have commandeered freight cars to rush shipments to the large distributing markets where the wholesalers and retailers will complete the job of supplying the holiday demand.

But the Thanksgiving bird may be a little late in arriving because the recent warm wave prevented them from maturing. The general turkey crop of the country is about five per cent smaller than it was last year, but Texas again has come to the rescue with a crop of 10 to 15 per cent larger than last year. Idaho, Utah and California are three other states where the crops are bigger than last year, but all the other states east of the Rocky Mountains show a reduction, the largest decreases being in the states east of the Mississippi River. Indiana, Illinois and Minnesota report decreases of 13.12 and 11 per cent respectively. In the other midwestern states and in the south the decreases range from 6 to 8 per cent.

Indications are that the turkey for the Thanksgiving dinner will not cost any more this year than it did in 1926, but a survey tends to show that the farmer will have another season of high prices. Average prices paid farmers have been on the upgrade in recent years, reaching 32.8 cents a pound in December, 1926. Country prices paid to Texas farmers last year started at 23 to 25 cents a pound, climbing to 27 cents as the top just prior to Thanksgiving. By Christmas the prices had soared to 37 cents. Opening prices this year started at about the same level as in 1926, but dealers are not inclined to believe that the later market will follow last year's trend and soar as high as last Christmas.

Turkeys have disappeared rapidly from the farms of the entire country during the past thirty-five years. In 1890 there were 10,754,060 turkeys. Ten years later the number had decreased to 6,594,695 and in 1910 the turkey population had dwindled to 3,688,708. When the last census was taken in 1920 the turkey cron was still lower, 3,627,028. No official count of the turkeys on farms has been made since 1920.

Most of the troubles experienced by farmers have been due to poor methods of feeding and management, but the indications are for an increase in the turkey population in the next few years, because the farmers are improving their systems of raising the festive bird. Tradition born of the days when turkeys led a more or less "wild life," spending most of the time from the barnyard, hatched their young in a stolen nest in the woodlet, has fostered the idea that turkeys cannot be raised in close confinement. This has been one of the chief reasons for the rapid decline in the turkey industry during recent years.

Experimental work, proves that artificial methods of hatching and raising turkeys are successful. It has been demonstrated that the extent of the turkey range is determined by the convenience of the individual farmer and not by any fancied need of the fowl for a "wild life." Free range is desirable and reduces feed costs, but it is not essential. Experiments conducted by the University of Minnesota for the past two years have proved that turkeys raised under artificial conditions successfully defy the deadly blackhead and other diseases. Eggs hatched in incubators and the young were raised in brooders and in yards four feet wide and forty feet long. In one group of 33 birds 29 were sold when they averaged 12 pounds each and netted three dollars a bird over the feed cost. Two died natural deaths and two were accidently killed. They were raised at a feed cost of 7.8 cents a pound, or less than a dollar bird.

Centers of production have shifted in recent years. Western sections, such as Idaho, Utah and California, where turkey culture is making rapid progress, are gaining over eastern and Atlantic Coast states. In Idaho, for example, an association of turkey growers was formed and carries on educational work, familiarizing the growers with the latest methods of breeding, incubation feeding and management. During the marketing season assembling plants are established throughout the state, where the turkeys are weighted and graded. There the farmer's responsibility ends, the buyer packing and shipping the birds at his own expense. Under this system the turkey industry has grown and thrived in Idaho.

This is in line with the program which is encouraging farmers in every line to use better methods of feeding and breeding and management.

"The Bird of Fashion"

Mother Nature's Lesson To MAN

The Thanksgiving season never arrives but it brings with it the lesson in how productive months over-produce—to care for us during the non-productive months. As with mother nature—so holds the law in other pursuits of life, and happy the man who does not try to violate or ignore it. During productive years man should so conduct his affairs that in latter and non-productive years he may live in peace and plenty. There is no better way than first saving—then investing—and finally reaping profits. A banking institution—this bank can serve you. Why don't you try for one year—This Thanksgiving—to next Thanksgiving.

Farmers' & Merchants State Bank
Spencerville, Ind.

NOVEMBER

L 915 0624

VELVET WORN BY YOUNG GIRLS; MATCH BLOUSE AND WRIST BAG

Lovely Little Frock for a Young Girl.

IN FROCKING the younger generation in black velvet, as the mode has taken to doing, there is every attention given to details which shall bespeak the naivete of youth. The model in this picture illustrates how utterly free from any suggestion of sophisticated styling is the jeune fille frock of velvet, as fashioned for informal daytime wear.

This lovely little frock is made up as simply as if it were of some material other than velvet. Which is a point to remember in selecting a medium for the schoolgirl wardrobe—velvet is considered very proper for practical wear, providing it be suitably styled to informal occasion. So it is that we see girlish touches of glittering buttons, of plaited flounces and other cunning details on the newest velvet frocks such as the bit of white fur edging collar, sleeves and pocket of the dress illustrated.

This idea of plaiting velvet is very popular. Not only are velvet dresses self-trimmed in plaitings of the fabric, but the skirt of plaited velvet is one of the fashion's proudest achievements this season.

The fact that black velvet is first choice for the daytime frock, does not mean that colors are neglected. Some of youth's very prettiest dresses are fashioned of velvet in some one or the other new shades of brown. Wine color is also a favorite, as are dark green, navy and beige.

Many velvet dresses are being made up without trimming of any sort. Of course they are plaited and shirred and draped and tucked and all that, but for any other decorative notes they depend upon accessories, chief among which are lace collar and cuff sets.

These lacy details include everything from the simplest little turnover collars with cuffs to match to deep shoulder capes of lace, also jabots to accent the side fastening of many a blouse.

Sometimes it is a bright silver or gold belt which enlivens the monotone velvet. The newest thing is the metal belt, although those of gilded kidskin are every whit as popular.

To be very smartly attired, it is necessary to wear a bit of gold jewelry with one's velvet frock, say a little necklace or a novel bracelet.

With sumptuous velvets, gorgeous brocades, likewise cloth of gold and silver, as its media, the blouse is contributing no little to the present era of elegance in dress. The note of luxury also is expressed in that which is very new and chic—the blouse whose all-over exotic embroidery is developed in high colors and striking design.

Nothing handsomer in the way of a blouse has been brought out this season than that which is made of black satin whose marvelous embroidery is frankly of Chinese inspiration. The picture shows a blouse of this type. The fact of an embroidered wrist bag to match, presents a novel and fetching angle to the mode. As to the effectiveness of such an ensemble, little need be said, for the picture tells its own story.

The idea of the all-over embroidered blouse is being worked out in beautiful form, for the velvet two-piece frock. Fascinating models feature the blouse, which is of the same velvet as the skirt, with skillful embroidery bordering hipline, wrists and about the neckline, extending up and down a semi-front opening. Little repeat designs are scattered over the entire tunic. One such, recently displayed, is of almond green sheer velvet. The motifs and border are done in oriental colorings which are intermingled with gold and silver threadwork.

In the present vogue for the embroidered blouse the home dressmaker with an artistic turn of mind should find inspiration for designing costumes which shall carry the distinction of fine handwork.

The all-over repeat design is one way of accomplishing a unique effect. Perhaps it may be just a simple rosebud motif scattered here and there or a conventional patterning, or as is very effective, a single flower spray across the front of the blouse.

The blouse starred all over with tiny gold or silver nailheads is also very modish. A black satin frock whose skirt is plaited or draped takes on a smart appearance if its blouse be thus polka-dotted with metal nailheads. With this wear a narrow satin belt which has been solidly encrusted with the nailheads—the effect is stunning.

Now that oriental embroideries are so featured in the mode, one can pick up lovely specimens of Japanese and Chinese handiwork, in the form of panels and squares. These can be inset in the velvet or satin blouse with extreme effectiveness.

Another clever way is to set the embroidery pieces in with fagoting which is done with gold thread.

JULIA BOTTOMLEY.

(©, 1927, Western Newspaper Union.)

"Last Word" in Matching.

FARM POULTRY

VARIOUS ENEMIES OF YOUNG CHICKS

Young chickens have many enemies such as hawks, crows, owls, rats, foxes, skunks, weasels, cats, and dogs, all of which have about the same tendencies, for, once they start to harass a flock, they will not stop until the chickens are full-grown. The best way to cope with them generally is to prevent them from catching the chickens.

A fence around the poultry yard about four or five feet high with fine mesh at the bottom and with the bottom buried in the ground three or four inches will provide protection against many animals including dogs, foxes, and skunks. If rats or weasels bother the chickens, any refuse or tall grass where they might hide or breed should be removed, according to poultrymen at the New York State College of Agriculture at Ithaca.

It has sometimes been found necessary to cover the chicken yard with two-inch mesh wire for protection from hawks and crows. At the Maine experiment station, however, and on many poultry farms, streamers tied a few feet apart on twine strung across the field or the chicken run prove successful and no overhead cover was needed.

Owls may kill chickens which roost in trees or exposed places, or they may even enter open windows of brooder houses. To avoid this danger, it is well to keep the chickens in the houses at night and, perhaps, screen the windows.

Little Money Is Spent in Aiding Poultrymen

A recent analysis by the United States Department of Agriculture shows that less money per $1,000 valuation of the commodity is spent by the government in aiding poultry and egg producers than of any other farm crop.

On the basis mentioned, poultry interests receive 14 cents, tobacco 42 cents, cotton 50 cents, pork and pork products 65 cents, Irish potatoes 79 cents, vegetables 84 cents, small fruits $1.08, orchard fruits $1.06, dairy cattle and products $1.80, citrus fruits $2.46, beef cattle and products $2.85, sheep and sheep products, $3.27, and bees and bee products $3.61.

Poultry and eggs, the fifth agricultural interest in the United States in value, affect more producers and dealers than any other industry and receive proportionately less federal agricultural appropriation. The appropriations made for poultry are divided among various bureaus. In the Department of Agriculture alone, nine different bureaus handle poultry funds.

Table Gives Relative Size of Turkey Breeds

The following table will give the relative sizes of the breeds of turkeys:

	Bronze Pounds	Holland Pounds	White Bourbon Reds Pounds
Adult tom	36	28	30
Yearling tom	33	24	25
Young tom	25	20	20
Hen	20	18	18
Pullet	16	14	14

These are the standard weights and show the White Holland to be the lightest of the three breeds, but we find that there is a great tendency for the White Holland turkeys to run over the standard weight somewhat. Of the three breeds the White ones are considered to be the most domestic and will usually range closer to home than either of the other breeds. The Bourbon Reds would come between the other two breeds in regard to ranging habits.

Poultry Facts

Much disease can be kept out of the poultry flock by burying or burning the dead birds.

• • •

Burn or bury dead chickens. Every decaying carcass is an incubator breeding germs and disease.

• • •

One means of getting the pullets to lay in the winter is to give them plenty of water and proper food in the fall.

• • •

A combination of dried buttermilk and meat scraps is usually depended upon to furnish the animal protein portion of mash mixture.

• • •

Wheat bran is largely used in all chick mashes. It is bulky but fairly digestible and has a laxative tendency which is beneficial. It is fairly high in protein.

• • •

In New York the Pacific Coast extra white eggs sell for more than the New Jersey and nearby extra whites. A good reputation is worth money.

• • •

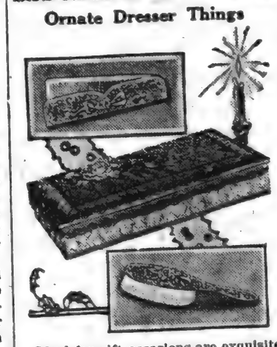
Birds that should be culled are sure to show a loss in the future and the sooner they are sold, the greater will be the returns, in proportion to costs.

• • •

It is better to keep a small flock of birds that pay their way than to keep a large flock in which there are a lot of drones that eat up the profit made by good birds.

What to Give at Christmas Time

Ornate Dresser Things



Ideal for gift occasions are exquisite articles which show French inspiration in their elaborate finishings of gold lace and satin garlanded with flowers of superb silks and ribbons, all displaying a superior handcraft. Christmas will be a time for rejoicing for the debutante or bride who receives anything so beautiful as the dresser utility box shown in this picture, covered with taffeta silk veiled with all-over gold lace, garnitured with a cluster of handmade taffeta roses. The comb case and top of brush are made to match.

Glass and Cystal Sets

Glass flowers strike a most modern note in smart decoration. Transparent, luminous, lovely are these flowers made all of glass even to their slender stems. Only in the most exclusive shops are they to be found, which is directly in their favor if you are seeking a gift for some fastidious friend. Not only flowers, but exotic birds whose plumage is a solid setting of glittering glass jewels, and who are posed on sparkling crystal mounts, are among these decorative elegancies.

Gifts for Baby Dear

When it comes to "the dear little dimpled darling 'who' has ne'er seen Christmas yet," Santa Claus is simply lavish in his giving. "Something different" from the regulation silk or kidskin bound baby book are those which specialty shops are featuring of white pique with an applique of wee satin roses. The ribbon carriage strap and coverlid clamps, which complete this baby set, are made of satin flowers.

Baskets Make Nice Gifts

There's a lure in scunningly shaped baskets which no "homey" woman can resist. What's more, the modern interior decorator lays great stress on the ornamental qualities of the fanciful basket. In the shops one sees, this season, a more-than-ever fascinating array of baskets which are awaiting to have Christmas greeting cards tied to their handles. A basket like the one in the picture is roomy enough to hold one's knitting or "pick-up" embroidery and as to socks to be darned, "it covers a multitude of sins" of this sort.

SAY "BAYER ASPIRIN"—Genuine

Unless you see the "Bayer Cross" on tablets, you are not getting the genuine Bayer Aspirin proved safe by millions and prescribed by physicians over 25 years for

Colds Headache Neuritis Lumbago
Pain Neuralgia Toothache Rheumatism

DOES NOT AFFECT THE HEART

Safe — Accept only "Bayer" package which contains proven directions.
Handy "Bayer" boxes of 12 tablets.
Also bottles of 24 and 100—Druggists.

Aspirin is the trade mark of Bayer Manufacture of Monoaceticacidester of Salicylicacid

First Time Known

"Congratulate me! I've just thought of something clever."

"Beginner's luck."—Stray Stories.

If you use Russ Bleaching Blue in your laundry, you will not be troubled by those tiny rust spots, often caused by inferior bluing. Try it and see.—Adv.

Sturdy wild beets are being used by government scientists in an effort to breed greater resistance to disease into the cultivated sugar beet.

Oh, Yes—Very

"Are Florida alligators tame?"

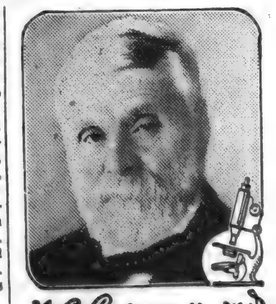
"Well, they'll eat off a man's hand."—Life.

DUMPLINGS

2 cups flour, 2 level teaspoons Calumet Baking Powder, ¾ level teaspoon salt, 2 teaspoons butter, ¾ cup milk. Mix and sift dry ingredients. Work in butter and add milk gradually.

Made in disk form, a new device on which to record the gasoline and oil purchased for an automobile can be carried on the steering wheel.

What Dr. Caldwell Learned in 47 Years Practice



Dr. W. B. Caldwell M.D. AT AGE 83

Dr. Caldwell watched the results of constipation for 47 years, and believed that no matter how careful people are of their health, diet and exercise, constipation will occur from time to time regardless of how much one tries to avoid it. Of next importance, then, is how to treat it when it comes. Dr. Caldwell always was in favor of getting as close to nature as possible, hence his remedy for constipation, known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is a mild vegetable compound. It cannot harm the most delicate system and is not a habit forming preparation. Syrup Pepsin is pleasant-tasting, and youngsters love it. It does not gripe. Thousands of mothers have written us to that effect.

Dr. Caldwell did not approve of drastic physics and purges. He did not believe they were good for human beings to put into their system. In a practice of 47 years he never saw any reason for their use when a medicine like Syrup Pepsin will empty the bowels just as promptly, more cleanly and gently, without griping and harm to the system.

Keep free from constipation! It robs your strength, hardens your arteries and brings on premature old age. Do not let a day go by without a bowel movement. Do not sit and hope, but go to a druggist and get one of the generous bottles of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Take the proper dose that night and by morning you will feel like a different person. Use Syrup Pepsin for yourself and members of the family in constipation, biliousness, sour and crampy stomach, bad breath, no appetite, headaches, and to break up fevers and colds. Always have a bottle in the house, and observe these three rules of health: Keep the head cool, the feet warm, the bowels open.

We would be glad to have you prove at our expense how much Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin can mean to you and yours. Just write "Syrup Pepsin," Monticello, Illinois, and we will send you prepaid a FREE SAMPLE BOTTLE.

Too Much Science

"Your wife looks rather tired."

"Yes, she's been using a lot of new labor-saving devices."—Answers.

All the world's a stage, and we're amateurs till we're fifty, at least.

What He'd Have Done

Client—I don't know what I would have done if it hadn't been for you.

Lawyer—I do—time.—Stray Stories.

Two often cause to be company after they are made one.

Light in weight
yet strong and durable

THE patented "muscles" of Top Notch Buddy Boots give remarkable extra strength without adding weight. These ribs or muscles protect the sides of the boot, strengthen them and prevent cracking. The tough gray soles are double thick to match the wear-defying qualities of the legs. The most economical boot because the longest-lasting. In short, hip and Storm King lengths.

For dependable, distinctive boots, arctics and rubbers, always look for the Top Notch Cross. The most reliable stores carry the complete Top Notch line for men, women and children. The Beacon Falls Rubber Shoe Co., Beacon Falls, Conn.

TOP NOTCH
A GUARANTEE OF MILEAGE
Rubber Footwear

NOVEMBER

L 915 U625

WOMEN OF MIDDLE AGE

Praise Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Mrs. Annie Kwinski of 526 1st Avenue, Milwaukee, Wis., writes that she became so weak and run-down that she was not able to do her housework. She saw the name Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the paper and said to her husband, "I will try that medicine and see if it will help me." She says she took six bottles and is feeling much better.

Mrs. Mattie Adams, who lives in Downing Street, Brewton, Ala., writes as follows: "A friend recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and since taking it I feel like a different woman."

With her children grown up, the middle-aged woman finds time to do the things she never had time to do before—read the new books, see the new plays, enjoy her grand-children, take an active part in church and civic affairs. Far from being pushed aside by the younger set, she finds a full, rich life of her own. That is, if her health is good.

Thousands of women past fifty, say they owe their vigor and health to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and are recommending it to their friends and neighbors.

Novel by Phonograph

Now a phonograph can "read aloud" to you a full length novel, if you wish. Or it can give you an entire congressional debate. An English radio concern announces that one of its engineers has developed a process to record a whole novel on six double-faced, twelve-inch phonograph records. Each record "reads" to you for forty minutes, at normal speed. They are of greatest benefit to blind persons.—Popular Science Monthly.

The truth of truths is love.—Bailey.

DIURETIC STIMULANT TO THE KIDNEYS

Standard for Generations

Mrs. Ira Frey of Le Mars, Ia., writes: "For six months I had rheumatism. I had swelling of the limbs, stiffness in the joints and cramps in the muscles. I suffered greatly from backache. My limbs felt heavy and I had a dragging sensation across my loins. I had a great deal of pain in the top of my head, was often dizzy and had flashes of light and floating specks before my eyes. I had heart flutterings and could not sleep well. My appetite was poor and I felt heavy and sleepy after meals. I suffered from shortness of breath. After taking one box of Dodd's Pills I was greatly improved."

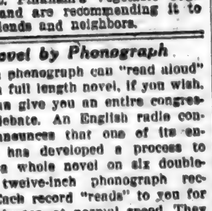
At all druggists, 60c per box, or The Dodds Medicine Co., Inc., 700 Main St., Buffalo, N. Y.

RHEUMATISM
For 35 Years
TRUSLER'S RHEUMATIC TABLETS
HAVE GIVEN RELIEF
All Druggists. Two Sizes, 50c and $1.00.
Trusler Remedy Co. Cincinnati, O.

Marvelous Electric Water Heater

The latest and greatest electrical appliance. Heats any quantity water. Safe, economical and convenient. Attach to any plug or light socket.
Guaranteed one year. $4.98 Postpaid.
THE W-H SALES AGENCY
Highland Park, Mich.

FOR SALE—NATURAL PEPPERMINT OIL direct from the growers. A general household remedy. 25c per oz. 4 ozs. $1.75. Postpaid. Christ Shrock, Goshen, Ind.



Larger Guest Rooms
and Luxury That Is Homelike

The much larger, brighter, more airy rooms, the color and vivacity of exquisitely appointed lounges and galleries, and the excellence of a cuisine that transcends perfection will, indeed, make your Detroit visit a memorable one.

Charges are so reasonable that good judgment must approve.

700 Large Rooms with Bath
60% are priced from $3.00 to $5.00

DETROIT-LELAND HOTEL
Replete on Cass at Detroit, Michigan
(A few steps from the Michigan Theatre)
WM. J. CHITTENDEN, Jr., Manager
Member Continental Hotels Corporation
LA SALLE SAMPLE ROOMS FROM $4.00 TO $8.00 PER DAY

DAIRY

COW STABLES TO SUIT DAIRYMAN

Dairy barns designed to meet the needs of the animal and make for convenience in labor are the trend of present-day construction. These features, together with the practice of avoiding waste of lumber are the result of modern, standard specifications.

Waste in cutting is avoided, advises D. B. Lucas, instructor in rural engineering at the New Jersey College of Agriculture in New Brunswick, by using standard lengths of lumber from the foundation to the roof. For gambrel roofs both the Shawver truss and the bracer rafter are popular, and for curved roofs the Gothic arch. These types of light framing may be used up to 40-foot widths and will allow a spacious hay loft unobstructed by heavy timbers such as were formerly used at close intervals.

The Shawver truss projects somewhat inward at intervals of eight to twelve feet, but is entirely clear between braces. The braced rafter type, which requires approximately the same amount of lumber, projects slightly down at every rafter, thus making very little choice between the two. The Gothic arch leaves an entirely open loft and has a beautiful outside appearance.

Effort has been made by engineers to establish either the bent or cut rafter, the former being cheaper while the latter has a tendency to distort. With their economy and convenience these roofs of light plank framing will make a big appeal to farmers.

The rural engineering department at the college of agriculture has prepared standard plans for barn framings of the types discussed and these may be had free on request.

New Bulletin on Raising Dairy Calves From Iowa

A bulletin which should be of much interest to dairymen has been published by the Iowa experiment station on raising dairy calves. Figures show that there are 24,000,000 dairy cows in the United States. The average age of these cows is six years. This makes the problem of raising dairy heifers for replacements an important consideration.

Fifty-four per cent of the dairy cows are used to produce whole milk. In sections where this is the case the problem of raising dairy calves is a greater problem on account of the shortage of skim milk. An owner of such a herd may be content to buy springers to keep up his herd or he must sacrifice some milk or raise his calves largely by the use of calf meals.

The proper growth of dairy calves has an important influence on their future production. Calves which are stunted will not produce as much when mature as heifers that have been properly grown. Men who pay attention to the breeding of their cattle have a greater opportunity for improvement both from the standpoint of proper growth as well as improvement in breeding.

Essential That Calves Get First Milk From Cow

It is best to leave the calf with the dam for a few days so it can get the colostrum or first milk. If this cannot be done draw the first milk from the cow and feed it to the calf. The sucking of the calf also aids in relieving inflammation in the cow's udder at this time. From two days to four or five weeks old, the calf should receive two to five pounds of milk three times a day. There is more danger of overfeeding than underfeeding the young calf. In the case of the Jersey or Guernsey, it is sometimes practical to dilute milk with water, preferably warm water of the same temperature as the milk. If milk need be warmed it should be set in warm water. Scalded milk is hard to digest. During the sixth or seventh week the calf can gradually be changed from whole milk to skim milk. Foam on skim milk should not be fed to calves as it is liable to cause bloating.

Dairy Squibs

Never keep cows—make cows keep you.

• • •

One of the greatest sources of sour milk and low-grade dairy products is the unsterilized utensil.

• • •

Quality butter can be produced in the summer time only if proper care is given to the cream from which it is manufactured.

• • •

Cottage cheese is an attractive all year food, and is a good means of utilizing the sour milk.

• • •

It is estimated that at least $4 per cow can be gained every year by the proper conservation of all manure in the barn.

• • •

The dairy cow is particularly partial to silage, and that she responds to the addition of silage to her ration is shown in the remarkable increase in the number of silos built in the regions devoted to dairying.

Modernize your home with OAK Floors

Reduce housework. Make your home more beautiful, more valuable for rental or sale. Write for free literature.
OAK FLOORING BUREAU CHICAGO
1208 Builders' Building

Keep Your Butter Uniform and Hold Your Customers

Don't wait for your customers to complain about the variable color of your butter. Keep your butter that golden June color everybody likes by putting a few drops of Dandelion Butter Color into the churn. It is purely vegetable, wholesome and absolutely tasteless. It meets all State and National Food laws. All large creameries have used Dandelion Butter Color for years. It does not color buttermilk. You can get the large bottles for 35c from all drug or grocery stores.

Send for FREE Sample

Wells & Richardson Co., Inc.
Burlington, Vermont

World's Swiftest Girl

The fleetest girl in the world hails from Japan. Miss Fumiko Terao exchanged her kimono for running shorts, and earned her right to the title of "swiftest girl alive" when she won the 100-meter sprint in the all-Japanese sports carnival held recently near Tokyo.

Her time was 10 4-5 seconds. Fumiko has beaten all men runners of her own country and all the best women runners in the world.—London Tit-Bits.

For Colds, Grip or Influenza

and as a Preventive, take Laxative BROMO QUININE Tablets. A Safe and Proven Remedy. The box bears the signature of E. W. Grove. 30c.—Adv.

Sex Question

Experienced Father (who has been calmly awaiting news)—Well, nurse, will it use a razor or a lipstick?

Seek Specific Name for the Boy Friend

"She's my girl," is carroled by every male human heart when in love, but the girls themselves have never agreed upon what "he" is to them. Some 20 names "he" has given are listed by a writer in the Survey, ranging from the romantic but discarded "beau" to the modern "steady," "cutie," "sheik," "date," and even "boy friend." The writer, Eleanor Rowland Wembridge, makes a plea for the world to get busy and find a noble name to denote the attendant male person—a word free from self-conscious personalities, one not too humorous, apologetic, romantic, rude, rustic or in any way specific, yet one applicable "equally to Zeke the baggageman or the prince of Wales." How about it, girls? What is he to you?

The war has made table linen very valuable. The use of Russ Bleaching Blue will add to its wearing qualities. Use it and see. All grocers.—Adv.

Sculpin Had Traveled

When Joe Clukey, a Rockland (Maine) sailor, pulled a sculpin out of Rockland harbor, he found he had caught a fish with a history. Firmly embedded in the fish's tail was a piece of rusty wire and attached to the wire was a small water-soaked piece of wood on which was carved: "A. K., June 19, 1919, Northeast harbor, Me." If the specimen in question followed the shore line from Northeast harbor to Rockland, it swam about 100 miles.

Horsie's Croup Remedy, the life saver of children. No opium. No nausea. 60 cts. All druggists. Kells Co., Newburgh, N. Y. Mfrs.—Adv.

On a Bus Top

Although the story got around a lot last week—and two people say they heard it years ago anyhow—we will report that two business men of the garment industry were overheard in animated conversation on a bus top. Finally one of them paused and demanded: "Well, what do you think of my proposition?"

"I'll tell you in two words," said his associate. "Impossible."—The New Yorker.

Appropriate Name

In architecture the term "wheel window" is applied to a circular window with radiating mullions resembling the spokes of a wheel.

Look on the bright side; it will seldom be so bright that it will dazzle your eyes.

DO YOUR MEN FOLKS ENJOY THEIR FOOD?

Or merely mince at things in a half-hearted way? Stimulate their appetites with baking leavened with Calumet. The best table tonic you've ever seen. And remember, the pleasure of eating stimulates digestion—promotes health and happiness.

LESS THAN 1¢ PER BAKING

DOUBLE ACTING
MAKES BAKING EASIER

CALUMET
THE WORLD'S GREATEST
BAKING POWDER
SALES 2½ TIMES THOSE OF ANY OTHER BRAND

"Died Last Week"

Jimmy, the young son of Mr. and Mrs. George O. Jackson, will be six years old in January and ready for school. Instead of being happy over the prospect, Jimmy does not want to go. The following conversation recently took place between the youngster and his mother:

"Mother, I'm not going to school."

"But, Jim, how can you get out of it? All little boys and girls have to go to school."

"We—ll, I'll just have Bob take a note to the teacher and say 'Jim died last week.'"—Indianapolis News.

The Easy Way

"Did that firm fail to pay its debts?"

"No; it failed so that it wouldn't have to pay them."

PHARMANOL
for Stomach and Bowel Diseases

Contains no habit-forming drugs and may be taken by young and old. Stomach exhaustion, surplus of acid, gas, constipation, skin eruptions, heart burn and kindred ailments readily respond. If you cannot get it do not take substitutes but write direct, enclosing $1 for full sized package, to Pharmanol Laboratories, Inc., 799 Broadway, N. Y.

Fair Defense

Bobby—I do wish aunty wouldn't smoke.

Mother—Why, dear?

Bobby—When she kisses me it's so much like being kissed by a man.

ATWATER KENT RADIO

It has come!

OVERWHELMING demand for Atwater Kent radio brings mass-production prices.

Atwater Kent Radio, because of its obvious and convincing superiority, won universal preference. When America approves, it buys. An avalanche of demand resulted. A two acre factory has expanded into an enormous plant covering fifteen and one-half acres.

As the great staff of Atwater Kent experimental engineers and radio scientists perfected one startling improvement after another, keeping Atwater Kent Radio always ahead in supremely satisfactory performance, the price-reducing power of mass production kept pace.

Now, Atwater Kent Radio, recognized the world over as the highest development of radio, is offered at prices which pass on to the public savings achieved by scientific manufacture on a gigantic scale.

Prices slightly higher from the Rockies West, and in Canada

One Dial Receivers licensed under U. S. Patent 1,314,002

Model 35, six-tube, One Dial Receiver. Crystalline-finished cabinet; gold-plated ship-model name plate, decorative rosettes and power supply switch. $49

Model 30, six-tube, One Dial Receiver. Solid mahogany cabinet; gold-plated name plate, power supply switch and vernier knob. $65

Model 33, six-tube, One Dial Receiver with antenna adjustment device. Unusual selectivity. Solid mahogany cabinet; gold-plated name plate, power supply switch and vernier knob $75

"B" Power Unit. Automatically controlled by switch on receiving set. "A" battery and trickle charger can be connected to this "B" Power Unit, in which case the automatic switch also starts and stops charger, if one is used. Plugs into A. C. light socket. Delivers up to 135 volts. Operates Atwater Kent Receivers or other make consuming not more than 40 milliamperes. Brown crystalline finish.

Including long-life rectifying tube (no filament to burn out) and 7-foot flexible cord.

Type R, for 60-cycle 110 to 115 volt Alternating Current, $39.50.

Type S, for 25-cycle 110 to 115 volt Alternating Current, $44.50.

Model E Radio Speaker. The result of nearly three years' laboratory work. Faithfully covers the entire range of musical tones, from the lowest to the highest register. With 9 feet of flexible cord. $24

Atwater Kent Radio Hour every Sunday night on 33 associated stations

ATWATER KENT MFG. COMPANY, 4700 Wissahickon Ave. A. Atwater Kent, President Philadelphia, Pa.

NOVEMBER

L 915 0626

HOME EDUCATION

The Child's First School is the Family"—Froebel.
Issued by the National Kindergarten Association

THANKSGIVING
Jane Carpenter

"Mother, why do they call it 'Thanksgiving'?" asked five-year-old Billy who with his brother Bob stood watching Mother make pumpkin pies.

Mrs. Horton felt very much tempted to send her boys to their play things, promising a Thanksgiving story in the evening—she had so much to do—but she resisted.

"Many years ago," she began. "when our country was very young, the people often did not have enough to eat."

"That was the Pilgrims, wasn't it, Mother?" broke in nine-year-old Bob.

"Why didn't they go to the store and buy something?" asked Billy.

"Weren't any stores, were there, Mother?"

"Only one storehouse, and that was about empty," said Mother. "So in the spring the Governor appointed a fast day. The people were not to eat all day that day but were to go to church and pray that the seeds which they planted would yield a good harvest. Their prayers were answered; they had a wonderful harvest. So then the Governor appointed a day of Thanksgiving. On that day, the people went to church and thanked God for his goodness and then they had a great feast."

"They invited the Indians, too, Mother, didn't they?" said Bob.

"Yes, the Indians had been very kind to them. In those hungry days they had shown them how to fish through the ice and, later, how to use the fish as a fertilizer for their corn and how to girdle the trees to let the sunlight in on their crops. So the Pilgrims invited the Indians to feast with them and to help them thank God for the harvest."

"What is a harvest?" asked Billy.

"Don't you remember," said Bob, "when we planted the nasturtium seeds? They sprouted and grew and grew, until they had lovely flowers."

"And after the flowers came seeds, just like the ones you planted," added Mother. "That was the harvest."

"And did the Pilgrims eat the seeds?" asked Billy. I wouldn't like to eat seeds."

"But you do eat seeds," said Bob. "Cereals and beans and corn are seeds, aren't they, Mother?"

"Cereals don't grow," said Billy laughing. "Mother buys them in boxes at the store."

"But they had to grow before they could be put in boxes," responded Bob, "so we have to depend on the harvest just as much as the Pilgrims did; my teacher said so."

"We wouldn't be hungry without them though," said Billy. "We could eat pumpkin pie. It would be fun to have to eat pumpkin pie for breakfast."

As I said before. Mother was very busy. It didn't seem as if she could take time to stop and explain. Her housekeeper-urge said, "Put it off." A pedagogical warning said, "The situation will not recur." Her mother-wisdom decided the matter: "I cannot use ten minutes to better advantage."

So while the pies were baking she got out some pictures and showed the boys the history of a grain of wheat. She could not find a picture of growing pumpkins but she did find squashes, which answered the purpose.

She was obliged to leave one of the bedrooms undusted, but she felt fully repaid when Billy finished his evening prayer that night by saying, "And thank you very much for the harvest."

SWEATER COATS, UNDERWEAR, WINTER CAPS, MITTENS, GLOVES, WOOL HOSIERY, SHEEP LINED COATS, LINED JACKETS, BOOTS, SHOES, RUBBERS, AT PRICES THAT SAVE YOU MONEY

Zonker's Store
ST. JOE, INDIANA

FALL and
"Sunbeam Time"

Now is the time to let us demonstrate that Sunbeam Cabinet Heater to you, in any of the four different colors. We now have about thirty of these heaters installed, including last season. Each and every owner is our best recommend.

A. C. DAYTON RADIO'S

which are guaranteed indefinitely, and as for quality and reception we refer you to the many satisfied owners in this community. And don't forget we have Tubes, B. Batteries, Aerial Kits, etc., at prices that will compete with inferior, unguaranteed equipment. We will absolutely replace any Tube, Battery, etc., that proves defective.

WE ARE SOLE AGENTS FOR

Dr Hess Stock Tonic, Panacea, etc

our Fall supply is now in and remember every Dr. Hess article is sold on the basis of complete satisfaction or your money is refunded if you return the empty carton or pail.

WILLIAM CURIE
ST. JOE, INDIANA
Hardware RADIO Implements

CHECKING SERVICE
on a "50-50" Basis

The dollars in your checking account work two ways; they work for you and they work for the bank.

They work for you by giving you a safe and easy way to pay your bills, by giving you credit and all the benefits of modern bank service.

But some of them must work for the bank too, or the bank will not be able to keep on working for you.

There must be a good balance in your account at all times so that the bank can use a part of it in loans to meet its expenses and for earning a fair profit like any other business.

A checking account should be conducted on a "50-50 basis" that will be profitable both to the depositor and to the bank.

"A FAIR CHECKING BALANCE
REPAYS GOOD BANKING SERVICE"

The St. Joe Valley Bank, A STATE BANK

DEATH OF MRS. LYONS IN MICHIGAN

Another of our aged readers has passed to the Great Beyond. Mrs. J. E. Lyons at Branch, Mich. For thirty years she had been a constant reader of The News. An account of the death was received from Mrs. John Benninghoff, a sister, of Fort Wayne, as follows:—

Caroline J. Lake, oldest daughter of L. N. and Margaret E. Lake, was born in Allen County, Indiana, July 17, 1854 and departed this life at the home of her son, at Branch, Michigan, November 2, 1927, at the age of 73 years, 3 months and 16 days.

At the age of sixteen she united with the Church of God and ever since has kept the faith.

December 3, 1883 she was united in marriage to James E. Lyon. To this union was born two sons, one, David N., preceded his mother in death about twenty years ago.

She is survived by her aged husband, son, J. Earl and wife, one grandson, two step grandchildren, one sister, eight brothers and a number of nieces and nephews who mourn the loss of a dear one.

Being the oldest in the family, she took a great deal of care of the sister and brothers. About thirty years ago Mr. and Mrs. Lyon moved to their present home which soon became a refuge of all in need of any kind.

Mrs. Lyon will be greatly missed, not only by her immediate family, but by all who were accustomed to seek her advice.

RECOMMENDS RECEIVERSHIP FOR COLONY

The House of David, Michigan's notorious religious colony, tottered as Judge Louis Fead held that the cult dominated by "King" Benjamin Purnell was a public nuisance on account of the immorality practiced there for more than a quarter of a century.

Fead refused to dissolve the colony but recommended a receivership which would take care of the claims of past and present members of the colony who, he said, had been defrauded of their property and labor by the "divinity" claims of Purnell.

An injunction also will be issued restraining Benjamin from further association with the women of the colony "except under proper protective conditions."

The entire property of the colony valued up to $6,000,000 will be held under receivership pending settlement of the claims of members and former members.

And now nothing remains of the foot ball season except trying to get the other fellow's coach.

A REAL FOOD PLACE
Ph. HIGH'S 76
THE BEST WHAT AM

St. Joe MEAT Market

Every man knows that he should carry life insurance to protect his family. He also knows that he should eat GOOD FOOD to protect his health that he may not become a burden to his family.

OUR AIM is to have THE BEST. Try us for GOOD MEATS, OYSTERS, FISH

Wm. G. HARMAN,
ST. JOE, IND.

Solemn Thoughts on Thanksgiving

Few but Have Some Cause to Be Grateful—World's Leadership.

By LEONARD A. BARRETT

On the day set aside as an annual Thanksgiving day, surely every person has something for which to be grateful. Many of these blessings are so commonplace that they are forgotten. The greatest blessing in life is good health, a happy home and a reasonable amount of leisure for the cultivation of the higher and finer privileges. Financial prosperity is not the main criterion of a successful life. The true thanksgiving will be expressed in many very humble homes as well as in palaces upon boulevards and avenues. The greatest blessings are common to all, for every person may avail himself of those things which make for the truly grateful spirit.

The greatest blessings are many times negative in character. In our effort to think of the things we have to be grateful for, we should remember also those things which were kept from us. The absence of sickness, sorrow or disappointment. The incident is related by Spurgeon of a Puritan who was told by his son that he had traveled much and though his horse stumbled many times the rider was not hurt. "Oh," remarked the Puritan, "I also have reason to be grateful; for, I, too, traveled much and my horse never even stumbled."

The Thanksgiving day of 1927 finds our country the wealthiest nation in the world. We have food stuff sufficient to feed the world and money enough to finance the markets of the world. Our educational system is second to none today. Our universities and colleges are in many respects better equipped than many of the older colleges of Europe. We have the brain power as well as the financial power. America is the most powerful nation in the world today.

America has the opportunity to become the leader of the world. Will she give moral and spiritual strength as well as financial? Will she create the spirit of democracy and give impetus to high spiritual ideals? If we have the spirit of thanksgiving we will do this very thing; if not we shall fail in our opportunity of world leadership. Alexander Hamilton said: "It is ours either to be the grave in which the hopes of the world shall be entombed or a pillar of fire that shall pilot the race onward toward its millennial glory."

(©, 1927, Western Newspaper Union.)

"BIGGER'N ME"

Why Nation Celebrates

By all means get the spirit of the day, cultivate the habit of thankfulness; let the lilt of the long meter doxology lift one to the peaks of praise. The spirit's the thing! Possess the spirit of gratitude and not only Thanksgiving but every day takes on a new meaning and becomes big with the promise of good will and a friendly world. Recall the Pilgrim Fathers that "Amidst the storm they sang." Yes, they sang because their spirits were keyed to "the anthem of the free."

Before there was an official Thanksgiving in America there was a spiritual experience of gratitude spontaneous and profound. That's why we celebrate the day!—Mobile Register.

Thanksgiving

Let us be thankful, not alone because
Since our last universal thanks were told
We have grown greater in the world's applause,
And fortune's newer smiles surpass the old,
But thankful for all things that come as alms
From out the open hand of Providence
—James Whitcomb Riley.

Beauty in Thankfulness

Americans have much for which they ought to be, and are thankful, much that is fine in achievement and promise, and persons who miss the lesson of these things miss much of the meaning and beauty of life in America.

Life's Limelights

By Brown Focht

AFTER DICTATORSHIP WHAT?

Prof. Henry R. Spencer, of Ohio State University, is quoted as saying recently in an address before the Institute of Politics, held at Williamstown, Mass., that the World War has made the world safe for dictators rather than safe for democracy.

And the statement is almost as true as it is interesting.

It gives rise to the thought that the world may be drifting away from parliamentary government to dictatorships. But this is hardly true, for all periods of history have had dictators.

The period following the war saw dictators arise in Italy, Spain, Poland and Russia, and because they promised much they were successful.

But it is a question as to what will happen these countries when their dictators die, for in the past the vacancy left by a dictator has never been filled successfully by another supreme magistrate.

When the elder Cromwell died his government died with him, for his son did not have the personality counts much in the making of a dictator.

Napoleon looked back from St. Helena and saw his government fall of its own weight. He was the government; and consequently when he ceased to rule the structure which he set up had to crumble.

No one could take Alexander's place, and as a consequence his government perished with him.

What, in particular, is to be the fate of Italy?

Italy has no natural resources, no coal, no iron. She can feed herself only four days out of five on the food grown within her natural boundaries. The remaining fifth has to be imported, and Italy has nothing to give in return, nor has she any gold with which to pay.

Mussolini has successfully overcome this.

But what would happen were he to be assassinated, which may happen any minute? He is the enemy of communism, and communism resorts to violence to rid herself of her enemies.

Mussolini arose out of the disorganized opposition to Bolshevism, which sought a foot-hold in Italy following the World War. He became the leader of the opposition, the head of the Fascisti movement, and eventually the dictator of Italy.

He organized and put into operation a secret service which has only been surpassed by the agents of the Czars of Russia. To restore order and prosperity he did a very dangerous thing; he took from his people all that hinted at personal liberty. What will happen when they demand it back is more than anyone can answer.

He has brought peace and prosperity to his nation, but were he to die, where is there a genius in all Italy to take his place?

Who can take Rivera's place in Spain?

The map and governments of Europe have changed much within the past ten years.

It is not improbable that the next ten years will also see many changes.

USES INCUBATOR TO DRY SEED CORN

Incubators are good for something besides hatching eggs, according to H. S. Ferris, a New York farmer who uses his "mechanical setting hen" to dry his seed corn. He places about forty ears in the incubator and keeps the temperature at about ninety degrees F until the corn is dry.

This is a practice which many farmers could easily follow with profit. Seed corn at its best needs special attention this fall to insure high testing seed for next spring. Practically every farmer's wife now uses an incubator for hatching chickens, and with proper diplomacy the good man of the house could undoubtedly obtain the "loan" of the incubator during the fall.

SPECIAL NOTICE

No hunting or trespassing allowed on our farms.
Wm. Staman.
George Strong.
46t2p.

NOTICE OF SALE OF REAL ESTATE

State of Indiana
County of DeKalb, ss:
In the DeKalb Circuit Court
September Term, 1927

Ulysses S. Johnston, Administrator with will annexed of the estate of Mary E. Johnston, deceased
vs
Ulysses S. Johnston, et. al.

The undersigned Administrator with will annexed of the estate of Mary E. Johnston, deceased, hereby gives notice that by virtue of an order of the DeKalb Circuit Court in this cause duly made and entered, he will, at the hour of one o'clock on the 26th day of November, 1927, at the law offices of Stump & McClintock, Commercial Club Building, Auburn, Indiana, and from day to day thereafter until sold, offer for sale at PUBLIC SALE all the interest of said decedent in and to the following described real estate, to-wit:

The east one-half (½) of the north-west quarter of section nine (9,) in township thirty-three (33) north, of range fourteen (14) east, in DeKalb County, State of Indiana, excepting therefrom the following described tract, to-wit: Commencing at the northwest corner of the east half (½) of the northwest quarter of said section nine (9) and running thence south along the west line of said east half (½) of said section nine (9) 297 feet; thence east 266 feet to the west bank of the Ira Ricketts ditch; thence northwesterly along the west bank of the Ira Ricketts ditch to a point 135 feet east of the northwest corner of said east half (½) of said section nine (9,) thence west 135 feet to the place of beginning.

Said sale will be made subject to the approval of the court, for not less than two-thirds (⅔) of the full appraised value thereof, and upon the following terms and conditions:

At least one-third of the purchase money cash in hand, the balance in two equal installments, payable in not to exceed six and twelve months, evidenced by notes of the purchaser, bearing six per cent interest from date, waiving relief from valuation and appraisement laws, providing for attorneys fees, and secured by first mortgage upon the real estate sold.

For further particulars inquire of the undersigned.

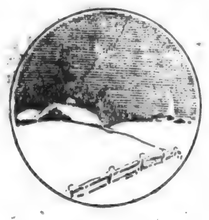
ULYSSES S. JOHNSTON, Adm.
With Will annexed of the estate of Mary E. Johnston, deceased.
Stump & McClintock, Attys.
43t4.

YOU READ the Other Fellow's Ad

You are reading this one. That should convince you that advertising in these columns is a profitable proposition; that it will bring business to your store. The fact that the other fellow advertises is probably the reason he is getting more business than is falling to you. Would it not be well to give the other fellow a chance

To Read Your Ad in These Columns?

The Spirit of Christmas!



How Will You Express It?

Our Greeting Cards will enable you to send

Christmas Greetings

to your friends and acquaintances in an individual way.

You can select the card and write the sentiment you wish to express, and we will do the rest.

ST. JOE NEWS

NOVEMBER

L 913 D627

THE BEST BOOSTER FOR YOUR BUSINESS IN DeKALB COUNTY

ST. JOE NEWS.

NEWS MAKES A GOOD PAPER, SO SEND IT IN TO US.

VOL. XLI ST. JOE, DeKALB COUNTY, INDIANA, THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 24, 1927 NUMBER 47

Y. P. CONFERENCE A REAL SUCCESS

The DeKalb County Young Peoples Conference of Religious Education met in the Lutheran Church at St. Joe, November 19-20.

The theme of the Conference was "The Quest for Christian Living," which was carried out throughout the entire program.

The out-of-town speakers were Chas. R. Lizenby, State Young Peoples worker, who is devoting his entire time to young people.

Esther I. Williams of Hollidaysburg, Pa., who has been recreational leader for the girls' camp at Lake Geneva for several years and at present working with girls through the Y. W. C. A.

Ther were 86 registered delegates on Saturday with 164 in Sunday School on Sunday and everyone filled with the spirit of "Better christian living in DeKalb county."

The worship in song throughout the entire program was in charge of Miss [illegible]tt Wasson, one of our ow[illegible]b county girls, who is de[illegible]her life to Christian work. Miss Wasson, besides pleasing with a number of special numbers was also able to lead the entire audience to real worship in song.

At the opening session on Saturday the young people were divided into three groups as follows: Wawbees, with Miss Rose Smith of Corunna as Chief; Wyandottes, with Wilson Bonbroke of Ashley, as Chief and the Miami tribe with Miss Joy Swarts of Jackson township as Chief.

Each Chief kept their tribe in line througout the two days by having each wear a head band bearing the name of their tribe.

The bible message of the morning was in charge of Rev. J. F. McKnight of the M. P. Church of St. Joe, who gave the young people a message they can keep throughout the year.

Charles R. Lizenby talked on "Finding the Need," and the young people asked that the following topics be discussed: "Getting young people more interested in Christian service;" "Training Christian leaders;" Getting older people interested in young people's work;" "How can we help the young people in leisure time activities;" "Young people in the church program" and "Personal ideals and conduct," the last subject sending home to the young people a real challenge of the day.

Esther I. Williams then talked on "Foundations" using "Christ" as the foundation with "High Ideals" as a support, these two completing the foundations of life.

The bible message on Saturday afternoon was in charge of Rev. Finch of the M. E. Church of Corunna, leading all to a real love of God's word.

Charles R. Lizenby completed his topics of the forenoon while Esther I. Williams talked to the girls on the "Ideal Fellow" showing the girls that they should choose for boy friends those who have as high ideals and as good habits as the girls themselves have.

A most profitable hour was spent in recreation at the high school gymnasium each chief in charge of his own tribe and all under the supervision of Esther I. Williams. After the recreational period all enjoyed the banquet hour interspersed with songs, talks and yells by various people and tribes.

Following the banquet each tribe put on a stunt in the auditorium of the church after which they were entertained by a ladies quartette from the Baptist Church of Garrett; readings by Ailene Williner of Auburn; piano solo by Gladys Bangs and a whistling solo by Mary Lee Kiplinger, all of which were well received. Chas. R. Lizenby then gave an address on "The search for others," leading the young people to realize that their responsibility reached beyond themselves.

Conference Sunday School opened Sunday A. M. at 9:30 with 80 boys and 84 girls in attendance. Chalmer Baker of the Auburn M. E. Church teaching the boys class and Georgia M. Walter of the Rehoboth Church of Jackson township teaching the girls.

The Conference sermon was preached by Rev. P. B. Roediger, pastor of the St. Joe Lutheran Church. The sermon giving each a charge to live a Christian Life. Showing the difference between religion and religion-ism.

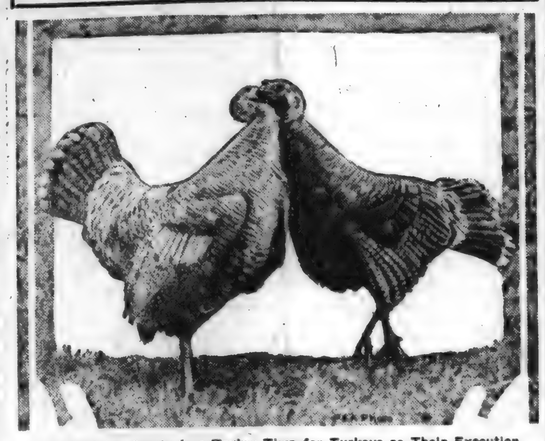
Rev. Noran of the Auburn Lutheran Church and Rev. Duncan of the Garrett Baptist Church had charge of the prayer and bible message on Sunday afternoon, Rev. Duncan analyzing the Lord's prayer.

Mrs. Sabina Rose of Garrett entertained with violin solos after which Chas. Lizenby installed the following officers:—County Young Peoples Superintendent, Annise Harding; president, Alice Tustison; vice president, Wilson Bonbrake; secretary, Myrtle Hamman. Esther I. Williams then made an address on the "Christian Quest," which was enjoyed by the older people as well as profitable to the younger folks.

Meeting closed with the usual "Friendship Circle" Rev. Roediger dismissing.

Resolutions were passed thanking the town of St. Joe for their hospitality, the Lutheran congregation for their church, cooperation of the ministers of the county, the ladies aid for the banquet, restaurant owners for their fine meals, high school for the gymnasium, those who opened their homes for the night and any others who helped to make the Conference a success.

Fondest Feathered Friends Must Part



Thanksgiving Surely Is a Trying Time for Turkeys as Their Execution Day Approaches.

ANOTHER LAND MARK IS TORN DOWN

The building south of the Lutheran Church, known as the Harry Meek wagon and paint shop for years, but later used as an ice house by J. P. Buckingham, is being torn down, because of its unsafe condition.

We can remember when the building was used for band practice, while the lower room was a general repair of wagons and furniture run by Mr. Meek and Tom Abel and afforded a very popular loafing place.

OIL STOVE CAUSES DAMAGE TO HOME

The Wm. Quance home at Auburn was damaged by smoke Tuesday morning resulting from an oil stove. Fire was started early in the morning to heat the wash water, and then they returned to bed, thinking the water would be ready when they arose. The smoke fumes aroused the family after a while and the entire house was filled with the heavy, greasy smoke which resulted in a complete damage to the paper, curtains and wood work, making it necessary for complete renovation. The damages are quite heavy. The loss however is covered by insurance carried by J. C. Hull.

ENCLOSED FIND CHECK WE LIKE TO HEAR

Hart, Mich., Rt. 2
Nov. 18. 1927.

Mr. F. B. Leighty,
St. Joe, Indiana.

Dear Sir:—Enclosed find check for $1.50, for which extend the time of my subscription to the "News."

Wishing you continued prosperity, I remain,

Sincerely yours,
Carl Shull.

VETERAN DIES

J. M. Young, nearly 80 years old, civil war veteran of Butler, died Sunday. Mr. Young served during the civil war, enlisting first in company D. 129th., O. V. I. and then in company B. 17th O. V. I.

He participated in the battle of Cumberland Gap, in the siege at Knoxville, all of the battles of the Atlanta and Sherman's March to the Sea. His regiment was the last to pass the reviewing stand at Washington. He was honorably discharged July 20, 1865.

A member of Meade Post, G. A. R. of Butler, Mr. Young served as commander for several years, was adjutant for twentyone years and for several years was junior commander of the department of the Indiana G. A. R.

HERMAN SPRINGER IS SOLE OWNER

Commencing with Wednesday of last week, the St. Joe Milling Co., changed hands, Mr. E. W. Woods transferring his interests in the company to Herman Springer, who is now the sole owner and under whose management the mill will be operated. The public will find Mr. Springer a very reliable man with which to deal, and he is stocking up with the feeds necessary to care for the local trade, such as will be in demand by poultry and stock raisers.

The new management is grinding flour and is prepared with a new sack, giving the flour name "White Velvet." We are sure that the mill is an asset to our community and The News bespeaks for the new proprietor the entire community support, when it comes to flour, feeds and grinding.

GAME CLUB TO ARRANGE FOR HUNT

That the annual pest hunt is meeting the approval of the members of St. Joe Fish and Game Protective Association, was again shown, when the members in session last Monday evening, voted unanimously that another hunt be staged this year.

Committees will be appointed to arrange the details and make rules to regulate the hunt and will be announced at the meeting on December 1st at the Town Hall.

Frank Bowman, L. B. Meek and Fred B. Leighty were chosen as the committee to canvass the membership for the hunt, which necessitates that every person entering, advances $1.00 in order to show his good faith and also to elleviate the committees of any financial responsibility. Members are asked to see either of these men and enroll for the week's hunt.

The comittee appointed to act on the count was Wm. Mossberger, Clarence Hart and Frank Bechtol, and their points of credit in the count have been determined as follows:—

Pest	Points
Woodchuck	250
Hawk	500
Crow	100
Weasel	200
Red Squirrel	50
Rat	150
Owl	300
Mice	1
Sparrow	1
Rabbitt	25

The hunt while it has proved popular by the increased enrollment each year, yet has a financial saving to the community which is astounding if we knew the real saving in money by the eradication of these pests. Last year 262 rats were brought in which according to the federal rodent specialists saved this community $262. When you stop and consider the vast amount of pests captured the saving easily will amount to hundreds of dollars.

LADIES AID BAZAAR

Bazaar at Kinsey's Hardware, Thursday, Dec. 1st., by Ladies Aid of the M. P. Church. A place to get your choice Christmas gifts. Remember the date. 47t1.

The surest way to surprise your wife on her birthday is not to give her what she's expecting—but not the safest.

ALL DAY MEETING OF HOME BUREAU

The Home Bureau Club of Concord township was entertained in an all day meeting at Mrs. Millie Shull's Friday, Nov. 18th.

A dinner consisting of veal birds, potato puff, Harvard beets, pineapple rings, apple and celery salad served on lettuce nests, was served at the noon hour.

The hostess assisted by the committee, Ida Herrick, Ross Watt, and Della Brown put on an interesting program.

Beatrice Storer and Virginia Shull gave a demonstration on darning hose closing with a very appropriate song. Virginia Shull a reading and Helen Storer a song. Hazel Storer gave a very interesting report of her trip of two weeks at Indianapolis fair last September. The first week of her stay was taken up with class work and social time, second week fair proper, demonstrations, etc.

The business consisted of appointment of committees and plans for Achievement Day, Dec. 2, which will be held in the assembly room of the court house. The public is invited to attend.

SUNDAY SCHOOL REPORTS

The following is the report of Sunday schools in this vicinity for last Sunday, according to information sent The News by representatives of the schools reported.

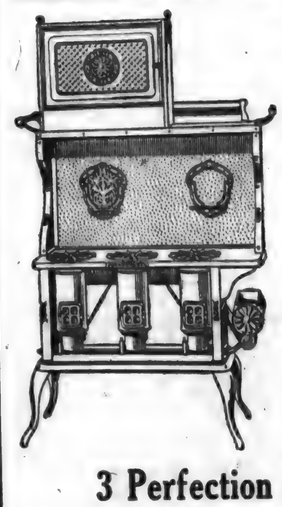
Spencerville M. E.	76	$4.89
Coburntown	61	$3.17

A REAL FOOD PLACE
Ph. HIGH'S 76
THE BEST WHAT AM

St. Joe MEAT Market
The Cheapest thing in the world today is advice, manufactured and distributed by Mr. Do Nothing and Company.
The best, while not the cheapest, is good food, especially meat.
You will find additions to your stock each week.
Look for them.
Wm. G. HARMAN,
ST. JOE, IND.

100 % Coffee
Our Coffee is shipped to us direct from the roaster in small lots. That means it is always fresh. No chance to get stale, we buy it in bulk and keep it in a tight sanitary case.
So you get the most for your money.
ZONKER'S Store.

PRE-INVENTORY
Clearance Sale Prices!



For just two weeks we will quote the following clean-up prices on all our Shelf Hardware, if it lasts that long. We must reduce the stock before inventory, so we have priced these goods to sell. If you are needing any of the goods listed you better come now, as we don't expect them to last.

3 Perfection Oil Stoves

	Old Price	Now
2 Perfection Giant, 3-burner	$58.50	$52.00
1 Perfection No. 223, 3-burner	41.50	38.00
1 Gasoline Stove	32.50	28.00

Shelf-Hardware Reductions

Our shelves have many different pieces of Kitchen Utensils that we are going to sell at Low Prices as follows:

	Old Price	Now
12 quart pails	$1.00	.90
14 quart pails	1.10	.95
Granite Dish Pans	.75	.55
Granite Buckets	.75	.55
Granite Coffee Pots	.99	.85
Preserving Kettles	.90	.85
Aluminum Percolator Coffee Pots	2.50	2.00
Pyrex Pie and Cake Dishes	.60	.50
Granite Stew Pans, with handle		.35
A Dandy Lantern	1.50	1.25
Lard Cans	.60	.50
2 Horse Collars, 22 inch	3.50	3.25
$3.00 each if you take the pair.
Cross Cut Saw	$5.25	$5.00
2 Plumb Axes	2.25	2.00
3 Jim Dandy Axes	2.00	1.80
Axe Handles, extra good		40
Price reduced on Red Barn Paint, per gal.	$2.25	$1.50
FULL LINE OF SHOT GUN SHELLS
HARDWARE TOOLS	50% DISCOUNT

COTTON GLOVE SPECIAL
Only a limited number of these gloves that sell at 20 cents the pair, by the dozen $1.75

Spencerville Lumber Co.
C. J. KNAAK, Manager

WE invite you to see our new Christmas line;
Our Greeting Card stock was never so fine,—
There's Distinction, Quality, and Good Value here
In every card we are offering this year;
And your own special taste we can gratify too,
To carry your Christmas Greetings for you.

SAMPLE CARDS ON DISPLAY HERE

See Our New Stock OF LAMPS
$1.98 AND UP!
E. R. KINSEY, Hardware Furniture

NOVEMBER

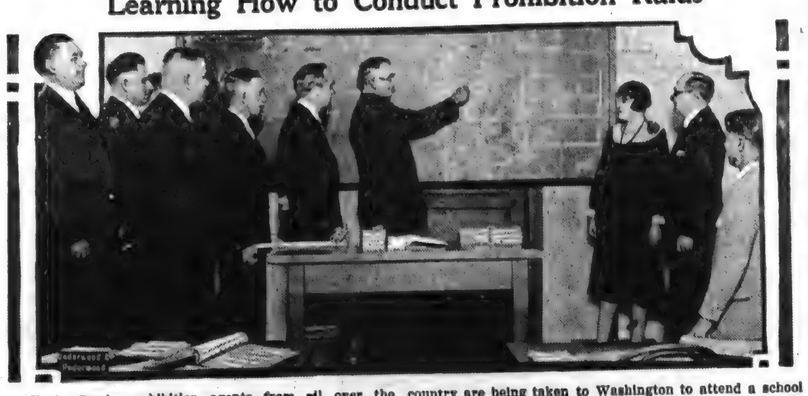
L 915

0628

Boosters for Flood Control at the Capitol

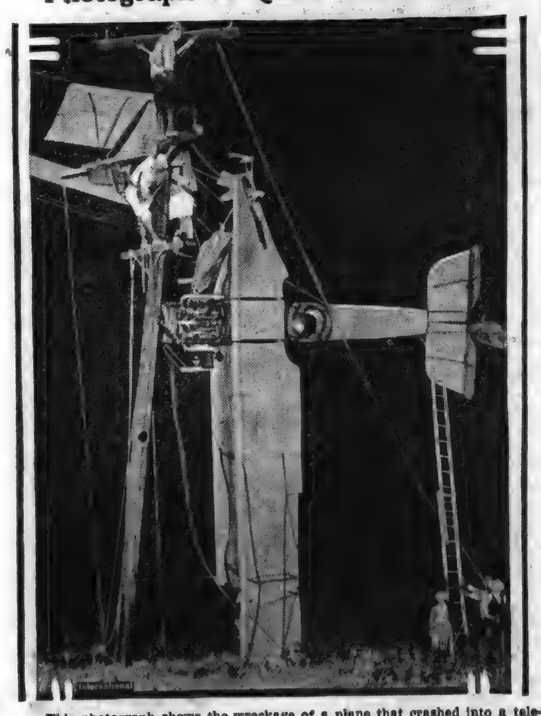
Flood control adherents from the Mississippi valley, gathered in Washington in force for hearings of the house committee on flood control, held a sippy meeting on the steps of the Capitol.

Learning How to Conduct Prohibition Raids



Uncle Sam's prohibition agents from all over the country are being taken to Washington to attend a school opened by the prohibition unit. Correct ways to make liquor arrests and seizures are being taught at this unusual school conducted in the shadow of the Capitol. In this photograph Webster Spates, instructor, is shown teaching his class the construction of a still.

Photograph of Queer Plane Crash

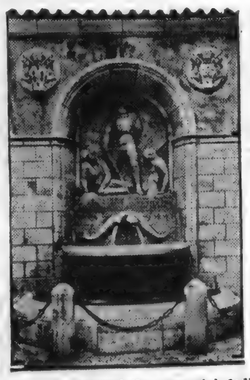


This photograph shows the wreckage of a plane that crashed into a telephone pole near Dallas, Texas, without injuring the pilot or a young woman passenger. The occupants were rescued by the fire department by means of the ladder shown in the picture.

Scene of Heroism and Death

Ruins of orphanage at Peapack, N. J., conducted by Baptistine Sisters of the Nazarene, which was burned recently. Of the 79 children in the building, only three were killed, the others being carried out by two sisters at the imminent risk of their lives.

TO SWISS GUARDS



Here is pictured the memorial dedicated at the Vatican recently to the memory of the Swiss guards who have served at the papal residence.

SMEARED WITH OIL

A. Mason Day, vice president of the Sinclair Exploration company, who was arrested in Washington charged with conspiring to influence jurors in the Fall-Sinclair case.

BENJAMIN PURNELL

Benjamin Purnell, whose House of David religious organization was put in the hands of a receiver.

Improved Uniform International Sunday School Lesson

(By REV. P. B. FITZWATER, D.D., Dean Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.)
(©, 1927, by Western Newspaper Union.)

Lesson for November 27

ISAIAH TEACHES TRUE WORSHIP

LESSON TEXT—Isa. 1:1-20.

GOLDEN TEXT—O magnify the Lord with me and let us exalt his name together. I saw the Lord and he heard me and delivered me from all my fears.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Worshiping God

JUNIOR TOPIC—Worship That Pleases God.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Worship That Pleases God.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Nature of True Worship.

Isaiah had a long ministry, beginning in the days of Uzziah and extending through the reign of Jothan, Ahaz and Hezekiah. For a history of the nation in this time see II Kings, chapters 15 to 20. Isaiah's visions present the redemptive purpose of God through the consummation of Messiah's kingdom. Chapter 1 is the title to the whole book. It contains the great arraignment of the people for their sins.

I. The Moral State of the People (vv. 2-4).

1. Filial ingratitude (v. 2).

The universe is summoned to hear the Lord's complaint against Judah and Israel for their base ingratitude.

2. Brutal stupidity (v. 3).

The ox and the ass are proverbially stupid, but Israel's stupidity exceeded theirs. Israel would not recognize His right as sovereign, nor author of mercies.

3. Habitual evil doers (v. 4).

They were not sinners in act merely, but in nature and heart were laden with iniquity. By heredity they passed their vices from generation to generation.

II. Their Consequent Miseries (vv. 5-9).

1. Their perplexity (v. 5).

Chastisement only hardened them. Their afflictions were followed by deeper and more heinous sins.

2. Their awful confusion (v. 6).

The calamity which befell them extended to all classes. No one was able to minister to their comfort.

3. Desolations in the country (vv. 7, 8).

Revolts from within and invasions from without left their country desolate. Physical ruin always follows moral and spiritual decadence.

4. A saved remnant assured (v. 9).

God's purposes cannot fail. A remnant was saved in Israel—a remnant shall be saved in the church.

III. Formal Worship Rebuked (vv. 10-15).

Their awful calamities were not due to the neglect of religious rites and ceremonies. They punctiliously observed the forms of religion while indulging in iniquitous practices.

1. God does not need sacrifices (v. 11).

Worship and service are not for God's benefit, but for that of the worshipers themselves.

2. God's attitude toward formal worship (vv. 12-14).

The very rites and ceremonies which God ordained for the purpose of helping men to approach Him become disgusting and irksome to Him.

3. God's refusal (v. 15).

Every act of worship while the heart and life are steeped with iniquity only incites the anger of the Holy One.

IV. An Amended Life God's Requirement (vv. 16-20).

Though the nation had so grievously sinned, their case was not hopeless. In order to enjoy that mercy there must be:

1. A cleansing.

"Wash you, make you clean." The washing by water symbolized the cleansing by the blood of the Son of God.

2. "Put away the evil of your doings."

There could be no cleansing while continuing in sin.

3. "Cease to do evil."

4. "Learn to do well" (v. 17).

One can only cease to do evil by learning to do well.

5. "Seek judgment."

One must not only be upright himself but should protest against the wrongdoing of others. Burdens should be removed from the oppressed. Justice should be done to the fatherless and the widows should be befriended.

6. Encouragement to come to God (v. 18).

Though their guilt was great and the judgment which befell them was awful, God's pardoning and cleansing grace were sufficient.

7. Conditional promise (v. 19).

This means that they could only enjoy good on God's terms.

8. Solemn warning (v. 20).

Rebellion against God brings ruin.

Religion

Trusting God with a sincere and open heart, ready to obey what He suggests, asking His guidance, and ready to take it, believing in Him and simply trusting life to Him—that is religion.—James Reid.

Cost of Discipleship

Christ tells us to count the cost of discipleship, but He never asks us to count the gain. He knew we could not; there is no arithmetic to compute that.—W. L. Watkinson.

What's the Answer?

Questions No. 26

1—Which is the loftiest peak in North America?

2—What was the name of Dewey's ship at Manila bay?

3—Who is called the "Father of Medicine"?

4—How much does it cost the average golfer per year for the sport?

5—How long have Yale and Harvard crews been meeting?

6—Who composed an immortal opera based upon the lives of poor actor folk?

7—Which are the two largest of the Philippine islands?

8—Who founded the New York Herald?

9—How many senators are there in the United States senate?

10—What is the diameter of the sun?

11—What city is the chief seaport of Mexico?

12—What actor in America, whose roles ranged from Koko in "The Mikado" to "Richard III," attained to the highest rank in his profession and achieved a great reputation for the serious and intellectual quality of his work?

13—When did the United States win its last marathon in the Olympics?

14—How many tennis clubs and members has England?

15—What militia captain in the Black Hawk war later became President?

16—Who was Mercator?

17—What city is Germany's chief seaport?

18—Whose trial established the liberty of the press in America?

19—What is the ratio of representation which determines how many members there will be in the lower house of congress?

20—In astronomy, what is Mars?

Answers No. 25

1—About 100 miles.
2—Roger Williams.
3—The sling-shot.
4—Harry Hartz.
5—George Inness.
6—Lyon.
7—William Morris.
8—Boston News Letter—1704.
9—President of the senate.
10—2,162 miles.
11—Gen. Winfield Scott.
12—The coagulated sap of certain trees and plants.
13—Charles Gorman of St. John's, N. B.
14—Mary Cassatt.
15—Indianapolis and Columbus.
16—Birmingham and Glasgow.
17—Percy Bysshe Shelley.
18—Pennsylvania Packet and Daily Advertiser—Philadelphia—1784.
19—Fifteen thousand dollars.
20—29 days, 12 hours, 44.05 minutes.

Traveler Sees Many Oddities in World

Standardisation and deterritorialisation go on the world over. Last summer in Avignon in the south of France under the shadow of the Palace of the Popes, in a restaurant that I had found admirable for 30 years—I had, indeed, years ago eaten there in the company of Frederic Mistral, the Provencal poet—there, in that sacred and august shadow I was offered Norwegian anchovies with the hors d'oeuvres and peche Melba made with California peaches out of a tin.

The Mediterranean that swarms with real anchovies was only 50 miles away, and Norway is 700 or so—and heaven alone knows how far it is from California to Avignon, whilst in the spring whole hillsides of Provence are nacreous pink with peach blossoms.

But the peaches go to London; and Norwegians and Californians go to Avignon to eat their home products, and I come to New York to eat Mediterranean anchovies. It is perhaps not a mad world, but it seems a pretty queer one sometimes.—Ford Madox Ford in Harper's Magazine.

The Soul's Decay

A dying body is a calamity, but shall we therefore look with calmness upon a dying soul? His soul is dead who is without self-respect. The man who yields to the brute force of the majority, to the vicious power of ridicule, to the subtle strength of inertia, and turns his back to the ancient traditions of his group, that man's self-respect is deserting him; his soul is dying.—Dr. Norman Salit.

Personality

No term is so carelessly used as personality. One is accustomed to speak of this man or woman possessing a pleasing personality or a disagreeable personality, as if no individual possessed more than one. Occasionally, it is true, unusual individuals are described as having dual personalities. What is unusual in such cases is not the number of the personalities, but the fact that they are so divergent, as in the case of Doctor Jekyll and Mr. Hyde.—Baltimore Sun.

BELL-ANS FOR INDIGESTION

Home Size — Saves Money

No More Distress

Gas, Sourness, Heartburn Sick Headache, Dizziness after eating or drinking

25c and 75c Packages Sold Everywhere

Sure Relief

Could Use a Good Hater

Judge Rockwood Hoar of Massachusetts has a reputation of being somewhat cynical. As he was going to court one morning to argue a case, a young associate in his office asked if he could be of any help in the presentation of the argument.

"Well," said Judge Hoar, "you can at least sit by me and [illegible] the other side!"

For your daughter's sake, use Russ Bleaching Blue in the laundry. She will then have that dainty, well-groomed appearance that girls admire.—Adv.

New in Merchandise

This sign was noticed in a Broadway store of Bayonne, N. J.: "This place will be opened for business with a full line of Shoes & Snickers." Possibly they will carry a few sneers too.—From the Outlook.

Headaches from Slight Colds

Laxative BROMO QUININE Tablets relieve the Headache by curing the Cold. Look for signature of E. W. Grove on the box. 30c.—Adv.

Answered

Motorist (to native at crossroads)—How far is it to Blanktown?

Native—Twelve miles.

Motorist—Which way?

Native—By motor. By airplane it's a lot shorter.—Boston Transcript.

Not His Kind

Bob—The girl I marry must have lots of personality.

Bert—I don't like them fat.

A Benefactor

A physician who reaches out to benefit humanity leaves a record behind him that is worth while. Such a man was Dr. R. V. Pierce. His study along medical lines, and his knowledge of the remedial qualities of herbs and plants led to the discovery of his wonderful herbal remedy, Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It is just the tonic required if a woman is borne down by pain and sufferings at regular or irregular intervals, by nervousness or dizzy spells, headache or backache. Favorite Prescription can be had in tablet form as well as liquid at your neighborhood store.

WHEN CHILDREN FRET

It isn't right for the little tots to fret and they wouldn't if they felt right. Constipation, headache, worms, feverishness, bad breath; any of these will make a child fret. They need the pleasant remedy—MOTHER GRAY'S SWEET POWDERS. They regulate the bowels, break up colds, relieve feverishness, teething disorders and stomach troubles.

TRADE MARK

Used by Mothers for over 30 years. All druggists sell Mother Gray's Sweet Powders. Ask today. Trial package Free. Address THE MOTHER GRAY CO., Le Roy, N. Y.

DEAFNESS HEAD NOISES

Relieved by

LEONARD EAR OIL

"Rub Back of Ears"

INSERT IN NOSTRILS

At All Druggists. Price $1

Folder about "DEAFNESS" on request.

A. O. LEONARD, Inc., 70 Fifth Ave., New York

Bunions

Quick relief from pain. Prevent shoe pressure.

At all drug and shoe stores

Dr Scholl's Zino-pads

Put one on—the pain is gone

PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM

Removes Dandruff—Stops Hair Falling

Restores Color and Beauty to Gray and Faded Hair

60c. and $1.00 at Druggists.

Hiscox Chem. Wks. Patchogue, N.Y.

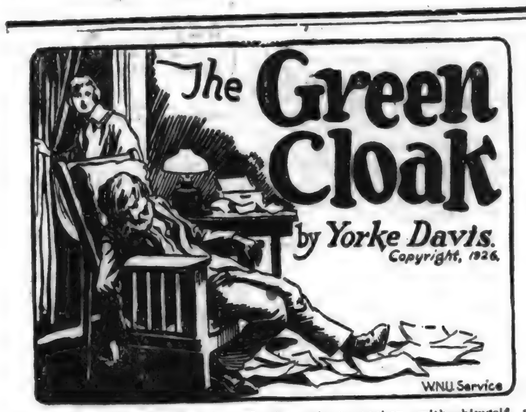
FLORESTON SHAMPOO—Ideal for use in connection with Parker's Hair Balsam. Makes the hair soft and fluffy. 50 cents by mail or at druggists. Hiscox Chemical Works, Patchogue, N. Y.

SKIN BLEACH

Resists wonderful and sure. One complete box of KREMOLA will convince the most skeptical. Also cures Eczema. Price $1.25. Ask your dealer. Beauty Booklet FREE. Dr. C. H. Berry Co., Dept. B, 270 Michigan Ave., Chicago.

NOVEMBER

L 915
U629



CHAPTER VIII—Continued

—15—

"I'll confess that when she first came into this room my belief in her physical identity with the woman I had seen in Henry Morgan's study was shaken for an instant, for her whole appearance, not only of face, but the articulation and poise of body was strikingly different. But with the second look, the resemblance began to shape itself. When I saw the tattoo mark on her arm, that, of course, reduced the case to a certainty.

"It took only a dozen questions to convince me that in the person of Jane Perkins she was totally ignorant of the crime, which was exactly what I expected. I then hypnotized her, and succeeded in fishing up her other personality, from whom I got not only the admission that she had strangled Henry Morgan, but a considerable part of the story which I have just been telling you of the events which led up to the commission of the crime. She did not recover the personality of Jane Perkins until I called her out from the inner room to begin the examination."

By that time Ashton began to come out of his daze, had recovered again the powers of speech and motion, which the astounding nature of the doctor's revelation had temporarily deprived him of.

"She mustn't be at large another minute," he said.

He walked across the room toward the telephone.

"Wait!" commanded the doctor. "There's plenty of time. You haven't got the whole story yet, and you may spoil everything if you move without it. The girl's part of the crime is only half of it, and the least important part at that. She was hardly more than a passive instrument. The party you want, the important one to get, is the man who sent her on that fatal errand to the lonely house in Oak Ridge that night. The man you want is Josiah Haines."

At that a smoldering spark of incredulity in Ashton's mind was fanned into a flame.

"Come," he said; "you have told me that the wild South Sea island girl of this story is really Jane Perkins; but you aren't going to tell me that Josiah Haines is a submerged and secondary consciousness beneath the urbane exterior of our friend Wilkins. That would be drawing it a bit too strong, wouldn't it?"

Without making any answer, the doctor turned back to his instrument, replaced upon it the mesrophone which had been there during the conduct of the examination, and made some trifling adjustments in the instrument. And then, once more, addressed the attorney.

"You thought I was joking," he said, "when I told Wilkins that this instrument was a phonopneumosphygmograph. The name, perhaps, is a bit clumsy. It is rather a description of the instrument, rather than a handy name for it. It is three instruments in one. A phonograph first, by which sounds are recorded upon a moving cylinder in such manner that they can be reproduced. In exactly the same manner the pulse of a person on whose wrist this little instrument is strapped is recorded in the wax of the cylinder. So it is also, a recording sphygmograph. And thirdly, and last of all, the elastic strap which I fastened around Wilkins' chest had its two ends connected by a little instrument which registered, very scientifically and very truly, every movement of his respiration. Everything, from the slightest, most faintly drawn breath to a gasp, will be indicated by that little instrument and recorded along with a pulse beat on the same cylinder which records the sounds. The long thin tube there that looks like a thermometer will show, when I start this instrument going, exactly how the man I was examining breathed; when he held his breath, when he caught it, when he expelled it. And the bulb which you see, half filled with the red liquid, will show you the way his heart was beating."

Ashton turned away. "It's hideous," he said; "it's inhuman. I can't look at it;" and as he spoke, he walked away to the other side of the room.

But he came back and stood beside us when the phonograph began again reporting the questions the doctor had asked the girl about Will Harvey, and her answers to them.

"What's this part of the examination for?" Ashton asked. "You know all about it; and you'd sprung your mine on Wilkins."

"There's another mine of a different sort a little further along," said the doctor. "I wanted to give him time to recover his self-possession, to persuade himself that that, too, was all a false alarm; that my mention of the names of Haines and Franklin was just a coincidence.

"You," he concluded, "I had two people to reckon with—himself and you."

"Me?" Ashton questioned.

"Yes, you and your incredulity. I knew that if I concluded the examination there, that long before I could make this demonstration to you, Wilkins would have made good his escape; and a man like that, once he got away, is cunning enough to be hard to find. So I wanted not only to calm his fears, but to provide him with a positive incentive for staying around."

Ashton would have spoken, but at that moment, with a suddenly upraised hand, the doctor motioned him to silence and to renewed attention.

I had had my eye upon the instrument all the time the doctor had been talking, and had seen that by now the doctor's questions concerning Harvey had had the effect he wanted. Wilkins' pulse and respiration were back almost to normal again.

"'—would ever take us very close to old Henry Morgan with his maps and his mysteries,'" the doctor was saying.

The word "map" caused a throb and a flutter both in the tube and the bulb, much as the word "New Zealand" had done at the beginning of the examination. The recovery was immediate, however, and during the silence which followed, the condition in the tube and the bulb became more nearly normal than it had been since the beginning of the examination.

He Walked Across the Room to the Telephone.

At the end of the silence, the phonograph began reporting the doctor's apparently irrelevant aside to Ashton, in which he had told him of the discovery of the one queer map which the detectives had overlooked, a large scale map which showed neither latitude nor longitude. As he began to talk about it, both pulse and breathing, as the instrument revealed them, began to tell another story, not a story of terror this time, but of excitement. The pulse quickened, but it grew stronger, too, steadily stronger, and steadily more rapid, until it was leaping like the heart of a man who, in the midst of battle, catches a gleam of victory. And the column of liquid in the respiration tube rose clear to the top of it, and then fell to the bottom. The man had been drawing great long, steady breaths of triumph.

"'—and I brought it here with me this morning,'" the phonograph was saying in the doctor's voice, "'and I'll show it to you directly if you care to look at it.'"

There was a little silence after that, and then, still from the megaphone of the instrument, there came another voice, a voice which it had not recorded before, the voice of Wilkins, the polite, imperturbable, the obsequious.

"'I beg your pardon, sir. I wonder if you could spare me now. I'm supposed to be in the dining room at this hour.'"

"He'll be back," said the doctor grimly. "That map has been the focal point of his life for a good many years. He would run a bigger risk than he could possibly think lay in breaking into this apartment, to get it. He's on duty in the dining room until twelve, and I imagine he'll stay there, but as far as we're concerned, it's only a question of putting out our lights and waiting."

Ashton nodded. "By the way," he said, "I'd like to see that map. It must be something of a curiosity."

"If you'll come out to Oak Ridge with me tomorrow," said the doctor, "I'll take pleasure in showing it to you. There's nothing in the envelope. It was only necessary to make Wilkins think there was."

"But where's the envelope itself?" Ashton asked. "Didn't you say it was here on the table? I don't see it."

The doctor whirled round as if something had stung him. Never before, I think, in all the years I have known him had I seen him so completely taken aback as he was at that moment.

"It must be somewhere," said I. "It was lying in plain sight when the doctor spoke to you about it."

But it was all in vain that we rummaged among the littered papers upon the table top. The big manila envelope was gone.

CHAPTER IX

For a moment we stood gazing blankly into each other's faces, stupidly trying to realize, to the full, what the disappearance of that big, empty manila envelope meant. Ashton was the first to recover himself. He shot a quick question at me.

"Do you remember, Phelps, whether or not, when Wilkins spoke of the ventilator being foul, you glanced in the direction of it?"

"Yes," I admitted I did.

"You?" questioned Ashton, turning to the doctor.

"Oh, yes," said Doctor McAlister. "There's no fool like an old fool."

"Well, I did, too," said Ashton, "and that's when Wilkins took the envelope."

He pulled out his watch, frowned at it, snapped it shut and put it back into his pocket.

"I didn't realize this demonstration had taken so long," said he. "He's had nearly an hour. He probably ripped open the envelope the moment he closed the door behind him, and, finding it empty, would know, of course, that the thing had been merely a trap to catch him."

"And it's my fault, Ashton," said the doctor contritely. "I was guilty of an absurd piece of over-confidence. I knew he'd want the map, and no other way of his getting it occurred to me, than that he should come back here when he supposed we were all asleep, and let himself in with a pass key and steal it."

But the man he spoke to was already the other side of the room, standing before the telephone and shaking up and down the little hook which supports the receiver.

"Give me the dining room, please," we heard him say. "The dining room? This is Mr. Ashton. I'd like to speak with Wilkins."

It was easy to guess the nature of the reply he got to that request, from the question or two which he interjected into it and from his attitude as he turned away and hung up the receiver.

"It's as I thought. He's not been in the dining room since he went off duty after the dinner hour. They wondered what had become of him, and sent a messenger up to his room in the servant's quarters. The messenger reports the room locked and dark."

"He has an hour's clear start," exclaimed the doctor, "thanks to my stupidity."

"Well," said Ashton, "he hasn't got off yet, by any means. It's a straight police case now, and I think they're likely to get him—if not in this city, at least before he can leave the country, which is undoubtedly what he will try to do."

He turned back to the telephone and called up police headquarters, attempted to, rather, listened a moment to something that was being said to him, and then turned away with a very wry face.

"Well, our friend Wilkins is playing in luck all right," he said. "The local operator tells me that we have no outside connection at all. Both the telephone and the local station here of the Western Union are out of commission on account of this confounded sleet."

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

City Life Tending to Wipe Out Sex Lines

City life is rapidly making women masculine and men feminine, contends a writer in Liberty. "Male and female created He them," the writer points out, "but the cities have altered His plan and more and more are wiping out sex lines.

"The male and female work at the same tasks," the writer explains, "ride the same subways, drive the same cars, play the same games, see the same shows. More and more, therefore, they think the same thoughts and have the same feelings.

"Man is as adaptable to his environment as a chameleon is. The unsexing of men and women through city life is natural. City life softens men, makes them shrink from discomforts, standardizes their lives and thoughts. City life hardens women. The first ride in a crowded subway train is a shock to the natural modesty of a girl.

"Cities are necessary in this complicated modern world. The country is the great restorer. Our dandified clerks and office workers, restored to the farm, quickly revert to shaving every other day or once a week, wearing old clothes, and stabbing across the table with a fork. In war the counter-jumpers begin to sing bass in a few months and revert to cave-man tactics."

The First Language

Some suppose Hebrew to have been spoken by Adam; others say that the Hebrew, Chaldee and Arabic are only dialects of the original tongue.

POULTRY

SAVE LEGUME HAY FOR WINTER FEED

Save about six pounds of good legume hay for every bird in your poultry flock for use this winter.

For legume hay, especially if it is leafy and of good quality, makes an excellent winter substitute for the succulent green food hens like so well during the summer. Feeding trials at the Ohio agricultural experiment station, Wooster, have demonstrated the truth of this, according to the experimenters, D. C. Kennard and R. M. Bothke.

Alfalfa, red clover, and soy bean hays appear to be about equally valuable. Regardless of the kind, it is necessary that the hay be made of the immature plant, so as to carry a large proportion of leafy material, especially valuable for chickens.

The hay must be carefully cured without getting wet, the scientists suggest, so that it will hold its bright green color. This insures retention of its valuable water-soluble constituents. Usually the second or third cutting of alfalfa and clover is best. Soy bean hay is best cut when the seeds are just beginning to form in the pods.

Perhaps the best way to feed hay to poultry is to cut it in half-inch lengths. It can then be put into a wire-netting basket feeder and kept before the birds all the time. Uncut hay may be put into feeding racks made of plaster lath placed vertically 2 inches apart. Still another way is to tie the hay in a bundle and suspend it from the ceiling so as to be 5 or 6 inches from the floor.

Examine Bands on Wings and Legs of Chickens

Don't forget the pedigreed stock these days. They are your best chicks. Examine the legbands and wingbands to see that they are not cutting into the flesh and that none of the bands have worked loose and are likely to be lost.

Some breeders use legbands for the first few weeks of the chicks' lives and later transfer these bands to the wings. If this practice is followed on your farm, see that this rebanding time has not gone too long and that the bands are not cutting into the shanks. If it is not convenient to change these bands to the wings just now, loosen them enough so the legs will not be injured and the bands will not drop off.

Other breeders put the bands right in the wings when the chicks are hatched. Catch up these chicks and look over the condition of these wings and bands. They may have been pinched too tightly at the start or for some reason may be partly torn out. Many of these bands may have to be loosened and some may have to be tightened. Make a practice of examining the condition of the bands every three weeks.

Big Advantage to Have Youngsters Roost Early

Early roosting does not cause crooked breast bones, as was formerly thought by many. This is caused by poor bone development due to a deficiency in those elements that are necessary for strong bones. A proper mineral supply, plenty of direct sunshine, or the use of cod liver oil will prevent this condition.

It is to the poultry keeper's advantage to get young stock to roost as early as possible, for if they do not get this habit, it is difficult to teach them when they are put in the laying house. The use of small roosts in the brooder house when chicks are only four or five weeks old will help to start this habit early. These roosts can be hinged to the walls of the brooder house about a foot from the floor. They may be raised during the day to give the chicks full benefit of the floor space, and lowered to the floor in the evening. By having these roosts on all sides of the house, there will be sufficient room for the chicks to spread out and they will all be equi-distant from the brooder stove, providing the stove is in the center of the house.

Coccidiosis Symptoms

Weakness, ruffled feathers, drowsiness, and sometimes bloody droppings, are outward symptoms of coccidiosis. Perform a post-mortem and examine the intestines. If the blind pouches are enlarged and filled with a firm cheesy material, that is an additional symptom of coccidiosis. Some feeding experiments have proven that a diet of nothing but buttermilk may be helpful in controlling this disease. A practical method is to kill all badly diseased chicks.

Soft-Shelled Eggs

Soft-shelled eggs may be prevented first by seeing the hens get plenty of minerals. This is accomplished by having both oyster shells and cracked rock known as hens' grit in front of the hens constantly and by feeding a dry mash which contains about 20 per cent beef scrape. In case you are using milk in place of beef scraps, add about 5 per cent of what the packers call raw bone meal. This will keep indefinitely if kept covered up.

Current Wit and Humor

GET TOGETHER

"Have you heard the latest scandal about Grayce and her husband?"

"Isn't it dreadful!"

"Awful!"

"By the way, what is it about?"

"Why, I thought you knew all about it! I haven't the faintest idea."

"Let's go right over to Helene's. She'll know."

"Yes, let's! I'm sure it must be frightful!"

"Hideous!"

Golf Fever

There is a certain golfer who is so completely absorbed in his pastime that mere domestic matters have long since ceased to trouble him. He has a small son, William.

One evening, on returning from the golf club, his wife remarked, "William tells me that he was caddying for you all this afternoon."

"Is that so?" exclaimed the astonished man. "Well, now you mention it, I thought I had seen that boy before."

LET GEORGE PAY

Custom Inspector—Have you anything to declare?

The Bride (blushing)—Only that I still love George.

Appreciation

My Radio! My Radio!
Your music brings surprises.
But most of all my love must go
To things it advertises

Tale of a Leg

Capt. Harry H. Birkholm wired steamship officials in San Francisco as follows:

"Freighter Alaska's captain, E. L. Condin, operated on for appendicitis Stop. Second Captain Legoff in charge."

Came the following reply: "Sorry about Condin Stop Second captain's leg off is severe blow Stop Wire further details."—Exchange.

NEVER STILL

"Is your daughter still at home?"

"No—nor anywhere else."

The Sum of Life

Life is earnest,
Life is real—
(Like to Hinnom,
Like to Sheol!)

The Vital Point

"I'm going to ask Maud her age."

"But how are you going to find out how long she's been the age she gives you?"

Taking a Big Risk

His Friend (a diamond expert)—Pretty poor stone in this engagement ring, old man. Suppose your girl finds out its quality?

Jack Poore—I don't think she will. She knows her onions all right, but she's not so familiar with carats.

Be Sure to Meet Him!

First Rural Citizen—Ain't ye ever going to take the trip t' New York, Si?

Second Ditto—Nope. I borrowed $5 of a fellow once and he moved there.

Brainy to Do It

"Yes, I'm working outside of college hours so as to have a little nest egg when I finish my philosophy course."

"Ah! Putting something away for a brainy day, so to speak."

Proud of It

"Do you see all these books in real calfskin?"

"Yes."

"Well, I killed all the calves myself."—Sondaganisse Strix, Stockholm.

Remodel with OAK floors

Make every room like new at slight expense. Oak Floors are permanent, beautiful, easy to keep clean. Write for complete free literature.

OAK FLOORING BUREAU
1202 Builders' Building CHICAGO

Butter Color Depends on YOU

Don't blame the feed or the condition of your stock if market men grade you low and customers complain on account of the color of your butter. You can keep your butter always that golden June color which brings top prices by using Dandelion Butter Color. It's purely vegetable and meets all State and National Pure Food Laws—used by all large creameries for years. It's harmless, tasteless and doesn't color buttermilk. Large bottles, 35c at all drug and grocery stores.

Write for FREE SAMPLE BOTTLE
Wells & Richardson Co., Inc
Burlington, Vermont

Boschee's Syrup

has been relieving coughs due to colds for sixty-one years.

Soothes the Throat

loosens the phlegm, promotes expectoration, gives a good night's rest free from coughing. 30c and 60c bottles. Buy it at your drug store. G. G. Green, Inc., Woodbury, N. J.

STOP CHILBLAINS

The crippling annoyances of chilblains, that indescribable half numbness and half pain in the feet caused by exposure to snow or cold, quickly relieved by Carboil. Why suffer when a 50-cent box of Carboil will take the misery out of walking? Get a box at your druggists now. Your money back if not satisfied. SPURLOCK-NEAL CO., Nashville, Tenn.

His Purpose

"A little while ago," said a motorist who was touring the Rumpus Ridge region, "I saw a small boy in the top of the tallest tree on the apex of the highest hill around here. Was he your child?"

"I reckon," replied Gap Johnson.

"What in the world was he doing up there?"

"I hain't right shore, but prob'ly he was atter a little fresh air."—Kansas City Star.

Cornered

Alice—I told Dick the truth.

Virginia—Then what's worrying you?

Alice—Now I gotta lie out of it.—Life.

The BABY

No mother in this enlightened age would give her baby something she did not know was perfectly harmless, especially when a few drops of plain Castoria will right a baby's stomach and end almost any little ill. Fretfulness and fever, too; it seems no time until everything is serene.

That's the beauty of Castoria; its gentle influence seems just what is needed. It does all that castor oil might accomplish, without shock to the system. Without the evil taste. It's delicious! Being purely vegetable, you can give it as often as there's a sign of colic; constipation; diarrhea; or need to aid sound, natural sleep.

Just one warning: it is genuine Fletcher's Castoria that physicians recommend. Other preparations may be just as free from all doubtful drugs, but no child of this writer's is going to test them! Besides, the book on care and feeding of babies that comes with Fletcher's Castoria is worth its weight in gold.

Children Cry for Fletcher's CASTORIA

NOVEMBER

L 915 U630

Local Briefs

Get a rent receipt book at News office. tf.

Mrs. Blanch Dorsey is spending a few days here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Wineland.

Roscoe Walter is remodeling his up-town residence at Spencerville preparing to operate a drug store.

Mrs. Maude DeLander of Durant, Mich., spent a few days the past week in the Wm. Henly home.

Runners, pull threads in silk hose, silk underwear and sweaters mended. All work guaranteed. 47t1. Zonker's Store.

Mrs. Walter Zonker and daughter, Gloria, are now at home, arriving Sunday from the Auburn hospital.

Persons wishing to hunt can obtain license at News Office. Also we attend to your notary work promptly.

The Ladies Aid Society of the Lutheran Church realized $47.33 from the banquet and sale Saturday evening of last week.

Christmas Cards put up in boxes at $1.00. Regular 15 cent values and a dozen of them in a box, double envelopes one of them lined. Call at News office. 45tf.

The electric street light pole at the depot has been replaced with a new and stronger one. Last week some one run into it and broke the pole and lowered the wires. It's O. K. now.

George Strong is driving a new Chevrolet sedan.

For Sale:—R. I. Red Pullets. Mrs. Saxe Hadsell. 47t1.

Hunters—Not allowed on our premises. Henry Shroyer. 45t3p.

Homer Woodcox is driving a Ford coupe purchased of the Furnish Agency at Spencerville.

Mr. and Mrs. Sterlin Brunson of near Toledo were Sunday guests of Tom Brunson and family.

Have your glasses fitted by Benj. F. Griest, Eyesight Specialist, Office in American Bldg., Hicksville, Ohio. 28tf.

Susan Sechler is improving slowly from an attack of pleurisy and neuralgia. She is at the B. E. Widney home.

The Missionary Soriety of the Methodist Church will meet on Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. C. Hull.

Spencerville A. C's. play Harlan, Saturday night at Spencerville,also two games are called for St. Joe on the same date.

Nothing is calculated to jar an eligible girl like a young man who talks about his money but says nothing about matrimony.

FOR SALE:—Fordson Tractor complete with Oliver two 12-inch bottom plows and Tandem Disc Harrow. All in first class condition. Wm. Curie. 47t1.

Clarence Dorsey is moving from near Scipio onto the Andrews farm east of the river. A number of other tenants will make changes later this fall and early spring.

Jim Brainard of Hebron, Ind., a brother-in-law of Mrs. F. M. Monroe, was buried Tuesday afternoon. Mr. and Mrs. Monroe were not aware of his illness until the death notice arrived Tuesday morning.

Recent out-of-town callers in the F. M. Thornton home were Mrs. Wm. Culbertson of Garrett and her mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Soule of Fostoria, Ohio, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Rhinehold and children and Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Heiniger of Auburn.

Paper and envelopes News office.

New and used cars—will trade for anything. Joe Koch. 47t2.

Henry Engle had his tonsils removed Monday at an Auburn hospital.

Mrs. John Beard of Waterloo, was a Saturday guest in the Wm. Randall home.

Mrs. J. C. Hull accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Curie to Fort Wayne, Tuesday.

So few attain that nice balance midway between inferiority complex and swellhead.

You can recognize the typical American anywhere. He is asking somebody for a match.

The "sticks" is that region where a thief is just a thief instead of a master criminal.

You can now buy Atwter-Kent Radio, 6 tube set for less than $100.00 complete. Kenneth Meek. 43tf.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Kennedy and daughter of Garrett, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Woodcox and family.

Tree pruning seems to be in order. The George Swineford, Mrs. Amelia Benninghoff, F. Scholes and John Hart trees have been pruned for the winter.

Subscriptions for any magazine you want, taken at The News office. Buy what you want and save money by ordering here. They make fine Christmas presents. Call and see us. 47tf.

Chase wild bullfrogs for three miles and gather up hops. To them add ten gallons of tan bark, one-half pint of shellac and one bar of home made soap. Boil 36 hours and then strain through an I. W. W. sock to keep it from working. Add one grasshopper to each pint to give it a kick; pour a little into the kitchen sink—if it takes the enamel off, it is ready for bottling. —Ex.

An investigation of Attorney General Gilliom's procurement of medicinal whiskey was expected to be made by the Adams county grand jury which convened Monday. Prosecutor John T. Kelley indicated that he would ask the grand jury to inquire into the Gilliom matter. Kelley conferred with the members of the jury during the morning. It was reported that he was going into the Gilliom matter.

Human nature has its weakness, but it also has its strength. There is much in man's daily record that makes unhappy reading, but always somewhere in the report there is a page or a line that thrills the heart, that is evidence of a vein of latent goodness beneath the outward appearance of badness, that makes us suspect that after all the badness is more of an outward appearance than an ingrained reality. So it is a pleasure to note that a very large number of men and women have either broken away from the brazen rule that reads, "do others," or have never recognized its forces, and are exemplifying the Golden Rule, "do unto others," and are doing it generously.

So very many have been doing five days' work and scattering it over six days.

What this country needs, along with a good five-cent cigar, is a five-cent appetite.

For Sale:—The newest in Electric Washers. The One-minute Model 60, $97.50, also Model 52. Will be glad to demonstrate. Drop a card to M. S. Hilpert, Hicksville, Ohio. 46tf.

Mrs. Melvina Kelley, 74, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. George Hartzley, three miles south of Edgerton, Sunday evening. Her home was formerly near Five Corners. The funeral was in charge of E. R. Kinsey, at Newville Church of Christ, Wednesday afternoon.

GIVING THANKS

The story of the landing of our Pilgrim fathers and the hardships they endured in establishing a colony in the new world is too old to need repeating. But now that we are about to observe a holiday established by them we can well afford to think about the significance of the day, for a moment, at least.

We should pause between the time we purchase the Thanksgiving turkey and the hour when we sit down to indulge our appetites to the limit, to recall the sacrifices upon which our society is built. The great task of winning a great wilderness and transforming it into the very center of civilization cost thousands of lives and brought untold misery and hardships. Today, as a result, we are able to enjoy luxuries that kings of the time of our Puritan fathers could not hope to have. We are indeed the most fortunate race of humans that the sun ever shone upon, and we have reason to give thanks to those who went before and to the kindly Providence that has seen fit to endow us with the greatest comfort and happiness that any race has been able to enjoy.

BOYS BASKET BALL SCHEDULE 1927-28

Dec. 2, Waterloo, there.
Dec. 9, Hamilton, here.
Dec. 17, Harlan, there.
Dec. 23, Mark Center, here.
Dec. 27, Alumni, here.
Dec. 30, Woodburn, here.
Jan. 6, Mark Center, there.
Jan. 13, Leo, there.
Jan. 20, Waterloo, here.
Jan. 27, County Tourney.
Feb. 3, Spencerville, there.
Feb. 10 Corunna, there.
Feb. 11, Auburn, here.
Feb. 17, Hamilton, there.
Feb. 18, Corunna, here.
Feb. 24, Butler, there.
March 3-4, Sectional Tourney.

GIRLS BASKET BALL

Dec. 2, Waterloo, there.
Dec. 23, Mark Center, here.
Dec. 24, Corunna, there.
Dec. 30, Ashley, here.
Jan. 6, Mark Center, there.
Jan. 20, Waterloo, here.
Feb. 18, Corunna, here.

Day of Rejoicing

Summer's blush and summer's glow,
All her wealth of languid light,
Paled and perished long ago.
Daisies dropped their petals white,
And the late red roses' flame
Faded when the asters came.

All the autumn's red and gold
Flashed and spread and died away;
Seas of vapor tossed and rolled
Round the hill-tops, dim and gray.
Latest bloom was dull and dead
When the Indian summer fled.

What of that? The radiant blaze
Shining on the cottage wall
Makes the autumn's latter days
Warmly welcome unto all.
Like a parting sunset-ray,
Comes at last Thanksgiving day.

Then, with signs of goodly cheer,
See the pantry shelves arrayed—
Ruby jellies, crystal-clear,
Rich preserves and marmalade;
And a streak of sunshine lies
On the row of pumpkin pies.

Ah, the contrast! Who can tell
What the Pilgrim fathers bore—
All the hardships that befell
Exiles on a barren shore?
Yet their thanks to God were sent;
They with freedom were content.

We have corn and wheat and fruits,
Peace dwells with us all the day.
Who our liberty disputes?
Who can wrest our rights away?
Let us, then, our blessings heed,
And our thanks be thanks indeed.
—Exchange.

Pumpkin Pie Has Its Stronghold in New England

No Attack Able to Shake Its Popularity There—Riches in Old-Time Farm Cellars.

Thanksgiving day is home-coming, turkey and pumpkin-pie day. The duty of giving thanks, the pleasure of home-coming, the toothsomeness of turkey find universal appeal, but as to pumpkin pie opinions differ. There is a deplorable tendency to disregard the name, ignoring the letter "p," substituting an "n" for the "m," pronouncing it "punkin," and some say that the reason is, the pie is punk. Of course there are ways and ways of making pumpkin pie. Some aver that the stronger the pumpkin flavor the better the pie, and some say that the best recipe for making pumpkin pie is to assemble a sufficient quantity of pumpkin, eggs, cream, butter and spice, consign the pumpkin to the garbage can and proceed to mix the other ingredients. Among the granite hills of New England the pumpkin pie is at home, and there its qualities are the most highly lauded.

Pumpkin Pie Supreme.

If certain folk will poke fun at it, if it has caused as much mirth as Charlie Chaplin's custard, if its detractors use reams of paper and empty bottle after bottle of ink in trying to knock it out of the ring of popularity, there is this to be said for the pumpkin pie, it refuses to take the count and always comes up smiling. Today its face, bland and yellow as a full moon, is seen on dinner tables from east to west, from north to south.

The pumpkin pie owes much to New England writers who have featured it when they sang of the Thanksgiving feast. As advertisers for their harvest festival, the New England writers do exceedingly well. They have given those of the hinterland such a whiff of the Thanksgiving dinner that makes one fain to be plowing through drifts of snow, tucked in a sleigh behind old Dobbin, headed for the old red farmhouse, its great chimneys wreathed in blue smoke from the fire that lights the big hearth around which are gathered grandfather and grandmother, father, mother, sister, brother, uncles, aunts and cousins. One would gladly sit on the straight-backed pews of the church and listen to the long sermon which marked the religious significance of the day if one knew that at the end of it there was the loaded dinner table with the turkey and the pumpkin pie! And after dinner one could listen to the thrilling stories which grandfather would tell of the old musket that hangs over the mantel, the part it played in the hands of an ancestor who fought in the War of Independence. And when the old gentlemen grew drowsy and tired of telling tales, one could repair to the great kitchen and romp with the young folks, playing "Blind-Man's Buff" or the quieter games of "Forfeits" and "Button, button, who's got the button?"

Well-Filled Cellars.

The writers give one a pleasant peep into the farm cellars from which came the stuff for the Thanksgiving feast, the cellar with its

Sixteen barrels of cider
Ripening all in a row,

the barrels of apples, russets, which were "spheres of frost until bitten by thoughts of spring," the pearmains, the Rhode Island greenings, waiting the hand of the piemaker, and

The Baldwins and Flyers,
Wrapped in their beautiful fires!
Color forks up from their stems
As if painted by Flora,
Or out from the pole streams the flames
Of the Northern Aurora.

There were bins full of various sorts of potatoes, the Merinoes, which were red and grew in clusters, almost like grapes, and the Beautiful Carters,

Every one doomed to be martyrs
To the eccentric desire
Of Christian people to skin them,
Brought to the trial of fire
For the good that is in them!

The parsnips, turnips and all the rest of their sort were keeping company with the numberless jars of pickles and preserves, which testified to the thrift of the housewife, and, of course, the great, golden globes of pumpkins that furnished the pies.—Kansas City Times.

The Nation's Gratitude

In a spirit of profound gratitude the nation pauses to give thanks for blessings enjoyed during the year. Despite disasters that have afflicted parts of the national community the 12 months have brought an exceptional measure of bounty. The year has been marked by general prosperity, by advances both material and spiritual. It has furnished additional reasons for belief that the American people are especially blessed by Providence.

Source of All Blessings

The significance of Thanksgiving day is appealing. It grips our very consciences. It causes us to recall the familiar old hymn that has been the Rock of Ages that has anchored many a wandering soul—"Praise God From Whom All Blessings Flow."

And thus we should pray—not merely on Thanksgiving day, but every day and every hour.—Atlanta Constitution.

TURKEY-TROTTER

These two New England children had heard of the turkey trot and they wanted to see it demonstrated so they got one of the farm gobblers that survived the holiday season and harnessed him to their little cart. The turkey trotted to their satisfaction.

Two Games- Saturday Night

ST. JOE INDEPENDENTS
Against ASHLEY RAINBOW
EastEnd Tigers vs W.E.Lions
First Game at 7:15, Prompt
ADM: Adults 25c. Kids 10c.
COMMUNITY BUILDING

WHEN BETTER AUTOMOBILES ARE BUILT, BUICK WILL BUILD THEM

From 'roof to basement' that's the way to buy a car

Buick welcomes this searching test

Examine Buick carefully, part by part. Go into every hidden detail. There you'll discover the secret of Buick's famous dependability and long life—sound, sturdy construction throughout.

Buy your car as you would a home. Examine thoroughly. Make critical comparisons. Buick welcomes this searching test.

SEDANS $1195 to $1995 COUPES $1195 to $1850
SPORT MODELS $1195 to $1525
All prices f. o. b. Flint, Mich., government tax to be added. The G.M.A.C. financing plan, the most desirable, is available.

BUICK for 1928

BUICK SALES & SERVICE, Auburn.

We Buy CLOVER SEED!
Bring Your SEEDS to Us
WE WILL PAY YOU HIGHEST MARKET PRICES

NATHAN Grain Co.
St. Joe's New Lumber Yard
Call By Phone for Prices Bert Jackson, Mgr.

MOTHER and CHILD will both be the stronger and healthier for the use of our WHITE VELVET FLOUR. Bread baked from it supplies the best of nutrition. It not merely sustains life, but it strengthens and energizes it. White Velvet Flour is guaranteed. It contains nothing but the kernels of selected wheat ground under conditions of perfect cleanliness.
TRY A SACK

St. Joe Milling Co. HERMAN SPRINGER, Sole Owner

Hogs Hogs
FOR SALE
Pure bred Duroc gilts open or bred.
Boars and fall pigs.
These are sired by the leading boars of the breed and are double immuned.
Prices are where you will buy when you see them.
Remember, first here first choice.
Location, 3½ miles west of Concord.
Duroc Meadows Ralph Bartles
Phone 912-F11 Auburn, Ind., Rt. 1.

"It Won't Be Long Now"
Watch for
OPENING DATE
Court Theatre
AUBURN, INDIANA

NOVEMBER

L 915 631

SPENCERVILLE

The Sunday Chicago Herald and Examiner now on sale at News office. 4tf.

Paul Dean and wife of Fort Wayne, spent Sunday with relatives here.

R. U. Bowser will hold his annual stock sale on Friday at his stock barn.

School will close on Wednesday evening for a short vacation over Thanksgiving.

Roy Bowser and wife of St. Joe, were Sunday afternoon callers in the R. U. Bowser home.

Mrs. Floyd Dean left recently to spend a few weeks with relatives and friends in Illinois.

The Misses Garnet Beams and Minnie Walker spent the weekend with friends at Muncie, Ind.

Glenn Betz and children of Woodburn were Sunday guests at the home of Joel Betz and wife.

You can now buy Atwter-Kent Radio, 6 tube set for less than $100.00 complete. Kenneth Meek. 48tf.

Mrs. Minnie Tyndall and daughter, Mrs. Violette Erick, attended the lodge supper given at Leo Saturday nigh.

James Dickson, wife and son, Glen, of Angola, spent Sunday with the lady's sister Mrs. Emila Gloyd and family.

Mesdames Nancy Chaney and Jennie Chaney were Sunday guests of their sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. George Cope of Angola.

Mr. and Mrs. William Erick and Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Rectenwall and son, attended the church supper and social held at Coburntown on Saturday evening.

FOR SALE:—Fordson Tractor complete with Oliver two 12-inch bottom plows and Tandem Disc Harrow. All in first class condition. Wm. Curie. 47t1.

The C. C. Club met with Mrs. Jennie Walter on Friday afternoon. Mrs. Hazel Steward was winner of a dish contest. Miss Vera Reed was a guest.

The Ladies Aid Society of the Methodist Church was entertained on Thursday afternoon at the home of their president, Mrs. Audra Wade. At this time some plans for the near future were suggested.

The Cheerful Workers class met on Wednesday in an all day meeting at the home of Mrs. W. W. Lipe. The ladies enjoyed pot luck dinner and in the afternoon tied a comforter, which will be sold for the benefit of the new parsonage. There were eleven members and on guest, Mrs. Zona Abel, present. They will hold their Christmas exchange on Dec. 9th at the home of Mrs. John Timmerman.

WHY PATRONIZE LOCAL DEALERS

Because your interests are at home.

Because the community that is good enough for you to live in is good enough for you to buy in.

Because you should believe in transacting business with your friends and neighbors.

Because you want to see the goods you are going to buy before you buy them.

Because you want to get what you buy at the time you pay for it, and not have to wait for days, weeks and even months for the deliveries.

Because every dollar you spend at home stays at home and works for the welfare of the community.

Because the man you buy from stands back of the goods.

Because the man you buy from pays his part of the district, county and state taxes.

Because the man you buy from helps support your church, your lodge, your home.

Because when ill luck, misfortune or bereavement comes, the man you buy from is here with his kindliest greetings, his words of cheer, his pocketbook, if needs be.

CHRIST FOR ALL—ALL FOR CHRIST

The Word of God

Thy word is a lamp unto my feet, and a light unto my path.—Psalm 119: 105

LIVE RIGHT TODAY:—Boast not thyself of tomorrow; for thou knowest not what a day may bring forth. Proverbs 27: 1.

PRAYER:—Thou art from everlasting to everlasting God, but we are as the grass that withereth. We come to Thee to live in Thee because Thou are our security and our hope.

With the Churches

ST. JOE M. P. CHURCH

Mrs. Hattie Widney, Supt.
Sunday School, 9:30 A. M.
Preaching, 10:30.
Christian Endeavor, 6:00 P. M.

CONCORD M. P. CHURCH

George Johnson, Supt.
Sunday school 9:30 A. M.
Preaching service 7:00 o'clock.
Christian Endeavor, 6:30.
J. F. McKnight, Pastor.

EVANGELICAL LUTHERAN CHURCHES

"Blessed are they which hunger and thirst after righteousness, for they shall be filled." Matt. 5: 6.

A man may be measured by his desires. Righteousness is a supreme object of desire. The desire is the measure of the supply. A real desire culminates in action. Hunger drives to work.

What leads people thus to hunger and thirst? A sense of insufficiency. A sense of guilt. A perception of utter inefficacy of all human prescriptions to remove sin or supply righteousness. Those who hunger and thirst are blessed, because it is the evidence of a new nature and of acceptance with God. They are "filled"—satisfied, with righteousness, happiness and finally with the likeness of God.

ST. JOE

Sabbath Bible School at 9:30 A. M., Mr. Derwood Ridgway, Superintendent.

Mission Thank offering service at St. Joe at 7:00 o'clock. A special program prepared. A special invitation is extended to you.

SPENCERVILLE

Sabbath Bible School at 9:15 A. M., Mr. Ray Means, Superintendent.

Mission Thank offering service at Spencerville at 10:00 o'clock. A special program prepared. A special invitation extended to you.

P. B. Roediger, Pastor.

CHURCH OF CHRIST

"The best Thanksgiving is thanks-living."

ST. JOE

Ed Storer, Supt.
Bible School, 9:30 A. M.
Lord's Supper, 10:45 A. M.
Sermon, 11:00 A. M.

The splendid audience of last Sunday evening is greatly appreciated. Next Sunday morning I will preach upon a theme about which a goodly number of our citizens have been thinking—"A Community Church in St. Joe." The public is invited to hear this discussion.

NEWVILLE

Frank Lyons, Superintendent
Bible School, 10:00 A. M., sun time.
Lord's Supper, 11:00 A. M., sun time.
Sermon, 7:30 P. M. sun time.
R. S. Aldrich, Pastor.

Methodist Episcopal Church Spencerville

Sunday School, 9:00 A. M.—John Koch, Superintendent.
Epworth League, 6:00 P. M.
Communion Service next Sunday evening

The Abiding Christ.

John 14: 22. "How is it Lord, that thou wilt manifest thyself unto us, and not unto the world?"

Jesus was leaving his disciples but promised the return of his Spirit to make his abode in them. To the obedient and loyal disciple he promised to manifest himself. No man knoweth the spirit of a man but the man himself and God. Jesus' abode is to be in the heart and there is no visible show of his glory and beauty, save only as his spirit in the life makes it glorious and beautiful. Every man is conscious of his own experience: So, he knows what the world cannot see.

Jesus wants every one of his disciples to have his Master's spirit. God is waiting and wanting to give his Holy Spirit to each one. But he comes only to those who want him and ask for him. Every christian disciple may have the baptism of the Holy Spirit but only those have who want it. Our lives are full of Christ's Spirit or not according to our choices. We make our choices and then our choices make us. We are, and will be what we desire and choose to be. Has the Christ a welcome to abide in your life?

Roy S. Brown, Pastor.

"NEWS" RECEIVES INTERESTING LETTER

Mr. Fred Leighty,
St. Joe News,
Dear Fred:

Enclosed find two dollars, the only American money that I have at the present writing, please apply this on our account and advise me how much more you want to bring it up to date and one year in advance, we enjoy reading The News and follow the life on St. Joe and community very closely through the medium of your good paper.

It is most surprising, the number of changes that take place in just a few years in a small town, since we left St. Joe, no less than twelve of her good citizens have died, some moved away and you have people living in St. Joe that are utter strangers to me. I see their names in print, and know at once that another family has moved to town. The change in business is just as great, don't suppose I would even know where to find a eucher game any more.

After an unusually beastly summer we are having a very beautiful autumn. The weather has been delightful for the past month and shows every promise of continuing so. We have had no cold weather at all, not even a light frost.

Business is very dull at the present writing, but is always that way during the winter months. We have some very nice bookings for next year and expect a fine season. No less than one hundred and fifty have booked definitely for tours next year and we hope to increase this to one thousand before the close of the season.

I was to sail from Southampton for the United States next week, but this morning a cable from Washington is sending me on a six weeks' tour of Italy, Switzerland, Germany, Austria, Checo-Slovakia, Holland, Belgium and France, making hotel arrangements and motor sightseeing arrangements for next year, so my visit to America is definitely off.

But you will surely see me in St. Joe, Indiana next year, and I hope to arrive when the apples are ripe and the cider still sweet.

Mrs. Smith joins me in sending our best regards to yourself and wife, and our many friends of St. Joe.

Sincerely,
E. J. Smith.

P. S. New address is 15 rue de la Paix.

STARTLING FACTS ABOUT TUBERCULOSIS

Indianapolis, Ind., November 23, 1927.—Startling facts about tuberculosis were made public here today by the Indiana Tuberculosis Association, as it began its preparation for the 1927 Sale of Christmas Seals, from the proceeds of which anti-tuberculosis work throughout the state is to be carried on during 1928. The facts were in the form of a questionnaire—bulletin, sent to 92 county associations which are now organizing for the Seal Sale.

"Do you know," the bulletin asked, "that 2,555 Indiana people died of tuberculosis last year? Do you know that there are over 25,000 Hoosiers who now have tuberculosis in active form? Do you know that of these 25,000, approximately 12,000 are between the ages of 15 and 40—the most productive years in the life of human beings?" The bulletin went on to point out that tuberculosis kills twice as many young people, between 20 and 40 years of age, as heart disease, cancer and pneumonia. It was also asserted that tuberculosis is a communicable, not an hereditary disease. The bulletin declared that "no home is safe from tuberculosis until all homes are safe." Various activities against the disease now being carried on in practically all Hoosier counties, were listed in the bulletin as follows: Building of sanatoria and development of clinical care of the tuberculous; pressure on public agencies for better health standards; fresh air schools; nutrition; teaching Modern Health Crusade for children; strengthening nursing facilities; were some of the methods of attack named. "Perhaps the most important of all in the battle being waged against the disease, the bulletin said, "is the statewide, continuing educational campaign in methods of right living, proper medical attention, proper diets, fresh air sleeping, segregation of the diseased, better housing and early diagnosis of individual cases of the plague."

And all of this, said the bulletin, is made possible through the sale of the tuberculosis Christmas Seal, a little emblem of good health that costs citizens only one dollar a hundred! The best investment a citizen can make at Christmas time, is a dollar's worth of Seals, unless he can buy two dollars worth, or a hundred dollars worth.

NOW WE GO

The St. Joe Independent Basket Ball team was organized last Thursday night and the players that responded to this meeting gave the writer encouragement enough to state here that. St. Joe will again be represented by a fast team after a few years lapse. Other towns smaller than ours have supported teams that were a credit to the community at large. St. Joe can do it with the support of you fans by your attendance at every game. First game Saturday eve, Nov. 26. Watch for hand bills.

Come on St. Joe, Let's Go.

P. E. C.

The Cynical Bachelor says that when the best woman in the world is found she will be hard to recognize as a woman.

NEW AND TESTED RECIPES FOR LADIES OF THE NEWS

PUMPKIN PIE

1 cup steamed strained pumpkin
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon ginger
½ teaspoon cloves
2 teaspoons cinnamon
3 eggs
1 cup canned sweetened condensed milk
1 cup water
Unbaked pie crust

Mix the ingredients in the order given; pour into pan lined with unbaked pie crust. Bake in a hot oven for about ten minutes, then reduce the temperature to moderate and bake for about thirty-five additional minutes, or until the filling has set.

DR. C. R. BAUMGARTNER
Veterinarian
Spencerville, Ind.
PHONES: 282--283.

We Do STATIONERY PRINTING on HAMMERMILL BOND

Christmas

Engraved Greeting Cards

THE Holidays are just round the corner. Have you ordered your engraved Greeting Cards as yet? Don't wait until the last minute. Our assortment of beautiful and artistic Christmas and New Year's cards is now complete, and there is ample time for us to give you our most careful attention and service.

ST. JOE NEWS OFFICE

THIS WEEKS SPECIAL IS A SMALL CONGOLEUM RUG TO GO AT ONLY..... 29c

Business is starting off exceedingly good at our general store and in order to meet the demands of our trade we are continually adding to our stock the things our patrons are wanting.

We also have on display one of the Famous "JACK-O-BEAN" PARLOR FURNACES, the kind that is a fuel saver. See it.

Bowser & Reed, - - Spencerville

PHONE 290
Stanley P. Nelson Monuments
Opposite Woodlawn and Roselawn Cemeteries
AUBURN, IND.

Dr. E. T. Julian
St. JOE
10 to 11:30 each forenoon. at Dr. C. R. Price office.

Russel R. Reidenour
ATTORNEY
Auburn, Ind.

for Economical Transportation
CHEVROLET

A car for her, too!

In thousands of American homes there are now two automobiles—"a car for her, too," so that there may be transportation for the family while "he" drives to business. And because it is so easy to drive and park ... so decidedly smart and comfortable, today's Chevrolet is an outstanding favorite among women drivers everywhere. Come in! You'll be amazed to learn how little it costs to own and operate a Chevrolet.

The Touring or Roadster $525 The Coach $595 The Coupe $625 The 4-Door Sedan $695
The Sport Cabriolet $715 The Imperial Landau $745 ½-Ton Truck (Chassis Only) $395 1-Ton Truck (Chassis Only) $495
All prices f. o. b. Flint, Mich.
Check Chevrolet Delivered Prices
They include the lowest handling and financing charges available

FURNISH TIRE & BATTERY SHOP, SPENCERVILLE, IND.
QUALITY AT LOW COST

"The Bird of Fashion"

Mother Nature's Lesson To MAN

The Thanksgiving season never arrives but it brings with it the lesson in how productive months over-produce—to care for us during the non-productive months. As with mother nature—so holds the law in other pursuits of life, and happy the man who does not try to violate or ignore it. During productive years man should so conduct his affairs that in latter and non-productive years he may live in peace and plenty. There is no better way than first saving—then investing—and finally reaping profits. A banking institution—this bank can serve you. Why don't you try for one year—This Thanksgiving—to next Thanksgiving.

Farmers' & Merchants State Bank
Spencerville, Ind.

NOVEMBER

L 915

U632

Children's Bedtime Story

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

Alice wanted so much to hear a story about icicle castles, and surely everyone can understand this for nothing is any more beautiful than an icicle castle.

It had been cold that day, and Alice had come indoors early in the afternoon.

She had had some lessons to learn and the fire in the stove seemed so lovely and warm.

When she went to bed that night she saw all the wonderful paintings made on her window by the Icicle artists.

Such beautiful designs and pictures. She could make out, too, just where there was a castle.

It did seem very fine to have a castle on her very own window!

Not much after this she was in bed with the big red comfortable tucked around her shoulders and under her chin.

She was as warm as could be.

She could hear the crackling noise the snow and ice made outside.

It was a very still night, but very cold. Every sound could be heard so clearly.

The crackling noise seemed to be louder and louder after a little while and the creaking sounds she had heard in the hard snow seemed to come more often.

"Hello, Alice," said a voice. She lifted the red comfortable down a little, and half sat up in bed.

"Hello," said Alice, politely.

"I've come to take you for a little trip," the voice continued.

"I can't see you," said Alice.

"Well, well, well, I must come closer," said the voice. "You don't want to take a trip with any stranger of course but when you see who I am I feel sure you will want to come with me."

The creature came closer. He was dressed in an icicle costume and he looked like a big, fat, beautiful icicle himself.

"Who are you, do tell me," urged Alice. "To me you look exactly like an icicle."

"Then I look like myself," chuckled the creature, and as he chuckled a little cool wave of air swept over Alice.

"Are you an icicle?" asked Alice.

"Indeed I Am," Said the Creature.

"Indeed I am," said the creature.

"And what is your name?" asked Alice.

"My name is Icy Icicle, and I live at Icicle Headquarters."

"Where are they?" asked Alice.

"They're the headquarters for the Icicle family. Of course we all travel around and visit rocks and houses and trees and hillsides, but we have a very huge and magnificent icicle castle which we call Headquarters.

"There live the big icicles and the little icicles and the old icicles and the new icicles.

"When icicles are weary they come there for rest, when they aren't quite strong enough to go out they stay there, and when the icicles drop down because it is too warm or because they have fallen, they are picked up by little icicle workers and brought back to Headquarters so that they will get well.

"I've come to ask you if you'd like to pay Headquarters a visit."

"Oh, oh," said Alice, "I would love to more than anything."

So Icy Icicle and Alice went straight over to the window, right through the castle that had been painted upon the window.

On and on they went through groves and valleys and paths lined with icicle hangings.

At last they reached the Headquarters. Oh, such a castle as there was! It had turrets and towers and moats and great huge ballrooms and dining rooms and reception rooms and great halls in which hung pictures of famous icicle tenders.

Never had Alice seen such gorgeous icicles. They seemed to wear many jewels, too. And she was given a banquet of iced delicacies in the great icicle banquet hall.

And just before dawn began to creep over Headquarters Icy brought her back home, and tucked her in her own bed—and the strangest thing was that not once had she been cold!

(©, 1927, Western Newspaper Union.)

Keep Three Feet Away

Wasps and bees can see nothing more than two feet distant.

Hints That Aid Housewife

Use old felt hats to resole bedroom slippers.

• • •

Pink cheeks from drinking milk will not rub off.

• • •

Apple pie should be baked in a moderate oven between 350 degrees to 400 degrees F.

• • •

Some soaps float because they contain tiny air bubbles; the air is blown into the soap during the process of manufacturing.

• • •

Vinegar added to the water when washing dishes that have had onions or fish cooked in them helps to remove the odor.

• • •

The girl who makes delicious cake usually gets more praise than goes to her mother who prepares three appetizing and well-planned meals every day of the year. But there's no question as to which deserves more.

It Is Not Economy to Let Shoes Run Down at the Heel

These Shoes Seemed Beyond Repair, but Were Made to Look Almost Like New.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Good care of shoes includes prompt repair. It is never true economy to wear down-at-the-heel, dilapidated shoes. Such shoes neither protect the feet nor properly support the body. What might be saved in leather may be paid eventually to foot specialists and doctors. The minute a seam begins to rip, the upper cracks through, a heel twists out of shape or runs down, or a hole wears through the outsole, the shoe needs mending. If the necessary bit of repairing is put off the sole may be so badly worn that it is no longer worth mending, and from $2 to $5 will be lost by neglect. This is particularly true if the welt is worn away or the insole is worn through.

Keep Heels Squared.

Heels should always be kept "squared up." When they begin to run down on one side both the shoes and the body are put under a strain. The shoes are soon permanently twisted out of their normal position and shape, and the feet, ankles, and legs may be twisted also. Unless the leather or rubber lift on wooden heels is promptly replaced when it wears away, the covering of the wooden part is cut through and may have to be replaced, sometimes an expensive job because of the difficulty in matching the material in the rest of the shoe.

Handy Repair Kit.

Ripped seams in the uppers can frequently be stitched at home. A handy person, with the aid of a repair kit, can put on new heel lifts, rubber heels, half soles, and metal heel or toe plates without much difficulty. The equipment necessary for repairing shoes includes a last holder, three or four iron lasts of different sizes, a shoemaker's hammer, a pair of pincers, one or two leather knives, a leather rasp or file, awls, nails for soles and heels, flax shoe thread, bristles, and wax. These articles or made-up repair kits are sold by dealers in hardware or shoe findings and by some mail-order houses.

FAVORITE RECIPES

By NELLIE MAXWELL

If you are short of jelly try making some of rhubarb. This is the time of year when the pectin is well developed in it and the jelly will thicken. Wash the stalks and cut it up without peeling—do not mind if it is stringy. To every pound of rhubarb add one-half cupful of water and let it stew in a granite dish until it is all in shreds. Let drip or strain through a cloth and allow measure for measure of sugar and juice. Cook until it thickens when tried on a cold plate. Remove the scum carefully and seal with paraffin as usual. This is especially good with meats in winter.

Spiced Grape Marmalade.—Remove the skins from a basket of grapes. Cook the pulp in three cupfuls of vinegar (mild), four sticks of cinnamon, one pound of cloves and two blades of mace tied in a cloth. Pass as much as possible through a sieve, keeping back the seeds. Add the skins which have been simmering slowly until tender, four pounds of sugar and cook until thick. Seal in glasses. This is especially good with venison.

Preserved Citron Melon.—Cut the melon into halves and then into sections to remove the seeds. Peel and cut into very small cubes—the more even and regular the prettier the preserve will be. This will take time but it is worth it for a jar of this preserve will be a joy all winter to garnish and flavor puddings and sauces. Weigh the fruit and allow a slightly less weight of sugar. Cook the citron in clear water to which a little salt is added, using the harder portions first, adding the rest, until all is perfectly tender. Now add the sugar and let stand off the stove, stirring until the sugar is all dissolved, then put over the heat and cook slowly until the fruit is heated through. Remove the fruit to jars, boil up the sirup until thick, then pour boiling hot over the citron. Some add thinly sliced lemon to the citron or the juice of a lemon with the grated rind. Others like crystallized ginger.

Chicken Salad.—Take a pint of diced cooked chicken, preferably the breast meat, add one cupful of finely diced tender celery, a cupful of tender white cabbage finely shredded and a handful of blanched and shredded almonds. Mix with a highly seasoned salad dressing and serve on head lettuce.

Banana Marmalade.—Use two pounds of bananas, two pounds of sugar and the juice of one lemon. Peel and slice the fruit, add the sugar and lemon juice and let stand in a crockery dish for an hour. Turn into a granite pan and cook gently until the mixture becomes thick, stirring constantly. Test by dropping a little on a cold plate. If it sets, remove from the heat and put into jars. Use this as filling for the marquise cake.

(©, 1927, Western Newspaper Union.)

STORING BUTTER FOR WINTER

If the summer supply of butter in the farm home is larger than is used by the family and the winter supply is less than is desirable, it is sometimes convenient to store the summer surplus for use in winter. To insure good keeping qualities in butter the United States Department of Agriculture has found it best to use pasteurized sweet cream. The cream should be churned at a low temperature and the butter washed so that it will be firm and waxy.

Exhibit A

At the close of the sermon, before calling up those who would be "saved," she knelt and prayed, her rather sallow face smilingly uplifted, her arms downstretched—one hand clutching the Bible with its red nose bookmark.—New York Herald-Tribune.

Headwear for Winter Season

By JULIA BOTTOMLEY

AND now! Well, for one thing dazzling beautiful "real millinery," the sort that fulfills the promise of the mode for dressier headwear for the winter season.

So here they come, dinner and dance hats, hats for the matinee costume, queenly headdress for the opera, hats to add a brilliant touch to winter furs, or to top the velvet ensemble.

'Tis very true, for street and sports wear, hats are still deftly simple. Many a felt hat, molded to the head, is proud in the distinction of being not trimmed, its intricate construction achieving almost chic.

When it comes to the hat for festive and "dress-up" occasions—suppose, for want of adjectives equal to describing them, we let this illustration tell its own story? Perhaps the most important hat in this collection is the little gold embroidered and spangled metal cloth skullcap pictured last in the group. Metallic types of this cap-fitting sort are the "last word" in millinery.

Toques of all-over gold cloth similar to the model shown at the top of the picture are wearable with the daytime velvet and fur costume.

Sumptuous gold and black brocade as fashioned into the charming toque to the left emphasizes the importance of "black and gold."

Flues of ostrich enrich the evening hat to the right—which reminds us novelty feature trimmings feature big throughout the millinery mode.

The youthful little hat to the left is styled of gold embroidered lace. Metal lace-wrapped toques, by the way, are among fashion's latest.

(©, 1927, Western Newspaper Union.)

Oysters Valuable as Source of Minerals

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

You know, doubtless, that oysters are extremely valuable as a source of various minerals needed by the body. Like other fish they supply iodine, so should be eaten when possible if other sea foods are hard to get. Fresh oysters are now shipped in refrigerator cars all over the country, and canned oysters are also sold practically everywhere.

The secret of perfect fried oysters with an unbroken outer coating, says the bureau of home economics, is to let the oysters stand a while after dipping them in egg and bread crumbs, so that the coating will harden. Select large oysters for single frys. Drain them and look them over carefully for small pieces of shell. Have finely sifted stale bread crumbs seasoned with salt and pepper spread out on a platter. Dip the oysters first into a well-beaten egg to which one tablespoonful of cold water has been added, and roll them in the seasoned crumbs. Place the oysters on a pan or board and allow them to stand until the egg and bread coating has set.

Heat in an iron kettle any desired fat until hot enough to brown a bread crumb in 40 seconds. Then carefully place the oysters in a wire basket, lower them into the fat slowly, and cook until golden brown. As the oysters are removed, put them on a paper to absorb the excess fat, and keep warm until all are prepared.

JELLIED FRUIT PEEL IS NICE FOR GIFTS

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Within two or three weeks of Christmas plan to make some jellied peel for gifts. Grapefruit peel will yield the largest and most attractive pieces, but orange and lemon peel may also be used. Each has, of course, its characteristic flavor, and after using the peel you have the pulp left to be served as breakfast fruit or in salad. With a pound or two of sugar and the use of the cookstove for an afternoon you can make any of these into a delicious confection. Keep a little on hand to use in place of citron in cakes, and to serve at holiday parties.

Making Jellied Grapefruit Peel.

The method is the same with all three kinds of peel. Thick, soft, unblemished peel from smooth fruit is best, according to the bureau of home economics. Strip the peel from the fruit in even sections, including just as much of the white part as you can. Cut the peel into strips about a fourth or a half inch wide. Weigh it and allow two quarts of cold water for each ten ounces. Parboil the peel three times, half an hour each time, in this amount of water, to make it tender. Discard the water after each cooking. Handle the strips very gently at the last or you will break them.

The next step in the process consists of boiling the peel in a sirup until it is practically all absorbed. If you have ten ounces of peel, select a saucepan about eight inches in diameter, and put into it two cupfuls or fourteen ounces of granulated sugar, 1 1-3 cupfuls of water, and one-half teaspoonful of salt. Bring this to a boil, and when the sugar is dissolved lay the strips parallel to each other in the saucepan, so they can be turned easily. Boil them rapidly for twenty minutes, then reduce the heat. Toward the end of the cooking the strips must be carefully turned from time to time, so that the sirup penetrates each piece equally. Cook until the sirup is all absorbed, from forty to sixty minutes or longer. Watch the pan constantly to prevent scorching.

Lift the strips out on waxed paper and cool. Roll in granulated sugar until there is a coating of distinct crystals, but not a heavy crust. Dry out for a few hours, then wrap in waxed paper and store in tightly covered tin or glass containers. If you leave the peel in paper boxes it tends to become hard and crusty in winter and sticky in summer. If properly stored in a moderately cool place it should keep in good condition two or three weeks.

Checks the Fever — Opens the Bowels — Stops the Cold — Tones the System

COLDS Four things you must do to end a cold quickly. HILL'S Cascara-Bromide-Quinine does all four at one time. Stops a cold in one day. Red box, 30 cents. All druggists.

What Are You Doing?

Let the world's most noted operator teach you newspaper Linotype operating. Big wages, short hours, clean work. An opportunity for young men and women to learn something worth while. Two good courses, residence and correspondence. School established 1915; world's best. Ask any publisher. Low tuition, quick results, fine instructors. Write for catalog.
SCHOOL OF LINOTYPE, MAUMEE, OHIO

To Cool a Burn
Use HANFORD'S
Balsam of Myrrh
All dealers are authorized to refund your money for the first bottle if not suited.

Witty Priest Scored One on French "Tiger"

M. Clemenceau, who reached his eighty-sixth year recently, has fully recovered from a serious illness. His activities are largely the result of a careful style of living, which he has pursued all through his life. He never touches alcohol; he was an incessant smoker of cigars, but finding that they were doing him some harm he resolved to give them up, and by way of testing and proving his capacity for abstinence even from so attractive a habit, he kept a box of cigars on a desk in the office of a newspaper he was then helping to edit. M. Clemenceau occupies a tiny apartment in the Rue Franklin in Paris. This used to be spoiled and darkened by a great tree that grew outside the window. He mentioned the fact to the owner of the tree, who was a clergyman, and this kindly and really Christian cleric offered to cut the tree down. Remembering M. Clemenceau's atheism he said: "May God forbid that I should one day be accused of having prevented you from seeing heaven."—Pierre Van Paassen, in the Atlanta Constitution.

Russ Bleaching Blue should be used in every home. It makes clothes white as snow and never injures the fabric. All good grocers.—Adv.

Pride Universal

United States Marshal Rolla Duncan said in an interview in Helena:

"Pride is a queer thing. The novelist is proud of his novels, the millionaire is proud of his millions, the burglar is proud of his burglaries.

"A burglar in this town was talking to another burglar who was really a detective.

"'Gosh, I'm sore,' the burglar growled.

"'Sore? Why so?' the detective asked.

"'Ain't ye seen the new hand bills?' said the burglar. 'They're only offerin' $500 reward for my capture. It used to be $1,000. My reputation must be on the wane.'"

A Pretty Pickle

"Does your wife intend to do any canning this year?"

"Well, she has threatened to can me if I stay out to any more poker parties."—Boston Transcript.

He Had

"What we need is a man on our slicing machine; any experience?"

"Well, I used to play golf."

If Kidneys Act Bad Take Salts

Says Backache Often Means You Have Not Been Drinking Enough Water

When you wake up with backache and dull misery in the kidney region it may mean you have been eating foods which create acids, says a well-known authority. An excess of such acids overworks the kidneys in their effort to filter it from the blood and they become sort of paralyzed and loggy. When your kidneys get sluggish and clog you must relieve them, like you relieve your bowels, removing all the body's urinous waste, else you have backache, sick headache, dizzy spells; your stomach sours, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, channels often get sore, water scalds and you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night.

Either consult a good, reliable physician at once or get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize acids in the system, so they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, cannot injure and makes a delightful, effervescent lithia-water drink. Drink lots of soft water.

NOVEMBER

L 915 633

SICK WOMAN SOON RECOVERS

By Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

"A neighbor advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which she said had helped her so much. So I bought a few bottles and tried it out. It sure helped me wonderfully. I felt much better. My work was no longer a dread to me. If I hear of any one who is troubled the way I was, I will gladly recommend the Vegetable Compound to them and I will answer any letters in regard to the same."—Mrs. BERTHA MEACHAM, 1134 N. Penn. Ave., Lansing, Mich.

"I had been sickly ever since I was fifteen years old. After taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I got so I could do all my housework and I am in good health."—Mrs. MARIE K. WILLIAMS, Ketchikan, Alaska.

From Michigan to Alaska, from Maine to Oregon and from Connecticut to California letters are continually being written by grateful women recommending Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

The Compound is made from roots and herbs and for more than fifty years has been helping to restore run-down, over-worked women to health.

Are you on the Sunlit Road to Better Health?

Snapshots Taken at Night

By use of a new emulsion photographs are being taken at night in Germany. The new film coating is eight times as sensitive as the ordinary emulsion. Used with the regular camera, snapshots may be made in the home by electric light or out of doors on the cloudiest days.

Beginning and End

Matrimony ends some careers and alimony is the beginning of others.—New York Telegram.

Garfield Tea

Was Your Grandmother's Remedy

For every stomach and intestinal ill. This good old-fashioned herb home remedy for constipation, stomach ills and other derangements of the system so prevalent these days is in even greater favor as a family medicine than in your grandmother's day.

"Cutting teeth is made easy"

MRS. WINSLOW'S SYRUP

The Infants' and Children's Regulator

At all druggists

Non-Narcotic, Non-Alcoholic

Oakland, Nebr., Feb. 23, 1925

Anglo-American Drug Co.,

Gentlemen:

I am more than glad to tell you of the experience and result obtained from your wonderful Baby Medicine. Our second baby is now seven months old and has never given us a moment's trouble. The first and only thing she has ever taken was Mrs. Winslow's Syrup. She has four teeth and is always smiling and playing. Cutting teeth is made easy by the use of Mrs. Winslow's Syrup. Most sincerely,

(Name on request)

ANGLO-AMERICAN DRUG CO.

215-217 Fulton Street, New York

NOTICE!

To Livestock Owners

If You Own Any Horses, Cattle, Poultry or Hogs, by All Means Read This.

Safeguard your stock against the costly ravages of quick-spreading disease. Nature has provided wonderful health-giving roots and herbs which have proved unfailing in thousands of cases. These are combined in a time-tried, reliable remedy, Porter's Pain King—the standby of hundreds of farmers in this community. They recommend it highly for sores, colds and distemper in horses and for soreness of the udder, caked teats, and bloat in cows.

Every day chickens are becoming better money-earners, and there is an increasing use of Porter's Pain King by careful poultry raisers everywhere. It is a positive relief for gapes, roup and parasitic growths. Sick hens are not good layers.

Use Porter's Pain King at the slightest sign of trouble, just follow the directions with each bottle. It may save you several hundred dollars. Your dealer guarantees satisfaction or money back. Made and guaranteed by The Geo. H. Rundle Co., Piqua, Ohio, since 1871.

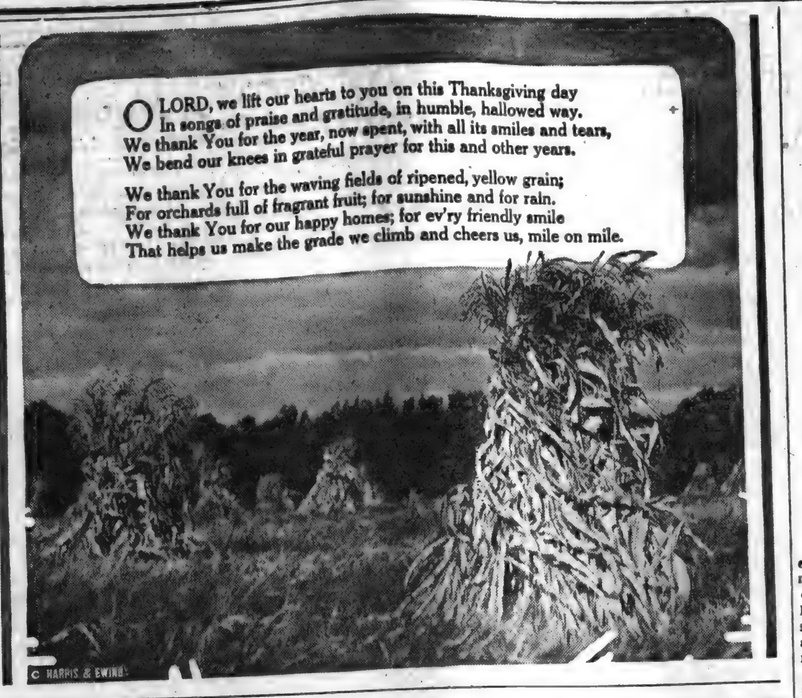
FINE LARGE PAPERSHELL PECANS 35c pound postpaid C. O. D. H. HIERN, 3130 Sycamore St., New Orleans, La.

FOR SALE—NATURAL PEPPERMINT OIL direct from the growers. A general household remedy, $5c per oz. 4 ozs. $1.75. Postpaid. Christ Shrock, Goshen, Ind.

PASTOR KOENIG'S NERVINE

For Epilepsy, Nervousness & Sleeplessness

KOENIG MEDICINE CO.



O LORD, we lift our hearts to you on this Thanksgiving day
In songs of praise and gratitude, in humble, hallowed way.
We thank You for the year, now spent, with all its smiles and tears,
We bend our knees in grateful prayer for this and other years.

We thank You for the waving fields of ripened, yellow grain;
For orchards full of fragrant fruit; for sunshine and for rain.
We thank You for our happy homes; for ev'ry friendly smile
We thank You for our happy homes; for ev'ry friendly smile
That helps us make the grade we climb and cheers us, mile on mile.

© HARRIS & EWING

DAYS OF THANKS FOR GOD'S MERCY ENGLISH CUSTOM

Ours by Adoption

Made a Stated Instead of Special Day Is Only Change That Has Taken Place.

Thanksgiving day, like most of what we have, is not our own, being English in its origin and receiving merely new significance from its adoption. Englishmen have always followed the custom of setting aside days to commemorate public blessings. The discovery of the Gunpowder plot was marked so and, similarly, special events have been marked. We have made it a stated instead of a special day and that is all of the American character that it has, and it was not until New England had been settled eighty years that it became a stated day, and there it was a stated, annual day for a long, long time before it obtained national adoption in any shape.

The first public thanksgiving observed by the Plymouth colony was in the autumn of 1623. A long drought was met by a day of fasting and prayer. The drought ended, abundant rains came, good crops followed and the Puritans remembered the event in a thanksgiving day. Oliver Cromwell's victories they similarly marked. From that time until the union with the Massachusetts Bay colony in 1691 seven thanksgiving days were observed.

First Thanksgiving.

The Massachusetts Bay colony kept its first thanksgiving day as soon as the last of Governor Winthrop's ships arrived in Boston harbor. "So now," says the chronicler, "all the whole fleet being safely come to their port they kept a public day of thanksgiving, July 8, 1630, to give thanks to Almighty God for all His goodness and wonderful works which they had seen on the voyage." Here was the old English custom of thanksgiving for a special thing. Nearly every year after that a similar public day of thanks was observed in this colony for some special thing. In 1633 it was for "bountiful harvests and a great arrival of persons of special use and quality."

Since 1700 the annual thanksgiving has been observed in all New England, and the clergy with commendable zeal have improved the occasion to "get in their work" on topics which the Sunday sermon would not admit of. It is said a collection of New England Thanksgiving day sermons arranged chronologically would be a complete index and annotation of the social and political questions that have engaged attention for the last two centuries.

When Dutch Gave Thanks.

But New England did not monopolize the custom. The Dutch in New York gave public thanks on extraordinary occasions and the journals of the Continental congress show eight appointments by that body of thanksgiving days, recommending to the executives of the various colonies the observance, and with one exception the congress suspended on the thanksgiving days that it had appointed.

The Protestant Episcopal prayer book, ratified in 1789, appoints the first Thursday of November as a thanksgiving day unless another day shall be appointed by the civil authorities, and it was frequently observed in New York before the civil authorities fell into the custom of appointing similar days. On several occasions bishops of the Episcopal and of the Roman Catholic church have issued letters recommending the observance of such a day and prescribing forms. The plenary council of the latter church at Baltimore, in 1885, recommended that the observance of the day be regarded as a church feast, but nothing further has since been done concerning it and it stands here simply as a civil observance.

Thomas Jefferson's Attitude.

George Washington issued thanksgiving proclamations twice and during John Adams' administration two also were issued. Jefferson would have none of them. In a letter to Rev. Mr. Miller, in 1808, after setting out that the national government was interdicted by the Constitution from intermeddling with religious institutions not only because of the provision for the free exercise of religion, but also because of the powers reserved to the states, with which, if with any human authority, must rest religious discipline, he says:

"But is is only proposed that I should recommend, not prescribe, a day of fasting and prayer. This is, that I should indirectly assume to the United States an authority over religious exercises which the Constitution has directly precluded them from. It must be meant, too, that this recommendation is to carry some authority, and to be sanctioned by some penalty on those who disregard it; not indeed of fines and imprisonment, but of some degree of persecution, perhaps, in public opinion. And does the change in the nature of the penalty make the recommendation less a law of conduct for those to whom it is directed? I do not believe it is for the interest of religion to invite the civil magistrate to direct its exercises, its disciplines or its doctrines, nor of the religious societies that the general government should be invested with the power of effecting any uniformity of time or matter among them. Fasting and prayer are religious exercises, the enjoining them an act of discipline. Every religious society has a right to determine for itself the times for these exercises, and the objects proper, for them according to their particular tenets, and the right can never be safer in their own hands, where the Constitution has placed it."

Colonial Heritage.

But the observance of the day came as an old New England and New York custom, a Colonial heritage. Lincoln appointed November 26, 1863, as a day of national thanksgiving. That was at a time when Gettysburg had been won and Vicksburg had fallen. Before the appointed day came the Southern forces had been flanked on Lookout mountain and Missionary ridge, and Bragg's army was retreating. So with the North that year the thanks of the day had the fervor of praise to the God of battles as well as to the Giver of good.

We have kept pace with the custom since and it has become a day of feasting and less of fast; a day of devotion to pleasure and rest, though withal a day of thanksgiving marked by scant church attendance and more or less quiet hours.

Thanksgiving

For peaceful vales that lie between
The hills bathed in unclouded light;
For harvests with their golden sheen,
The earth's increase that greets the sight;
We thank Thee, Giver of every true
And perfect gift that fills our days;
Our vows to Thee we now renew,
And lift the voice in tuneful praise.

But let not too much thought of self
Obscure and hide the ones in need,
In other lands where pride and pelf
Are placed above the kindly deed.
We thank Thee for the generous store;
The fruited bough, the golden grain;
Nor shall the stranger at our door
Knock in distress and all in vain!

—Alonzo Rice.

Lesson in Observance of Thanksgiving Day

Thanksgiving day is an American institution. It has come down to us from the sturdy pioneers who on their stern and rock-bound coast found so much even in their lives of privation and hardship to be grateful for, that they set aside this day each year for the offering up of thanks for the blessings that Providence had bestowed.

Through these centuries the custom has been observed, and that very fact reveals a characteristic of the American people. Thanksgiving day is essentially and primarily a day of worship, for to offer thanks to God for His goodness is one of the most noble forms of worship.

The observance of Thanksgiving is an acknowledgment that there is a higher power playing a part in directing the lives and fortunes of men here.

Our Thanksgiving is therefore a recognition of dependence upon one greater than our selves, and the contemplation of such dependence can but work toward making us more unselfish, more generous, more charitable toward our fellow men.—Houston Post-Dispatch.

The Thankful Heart

If anyone should give me a dish of sand, and tell me there were particles of iron in it, I might look for them with my eyes and search for them with my clumsy fingers, and be unable to detect them; but let me take a magnet and sweep through it, and how it would draw to itself the almost invisible particles by the mere power of attraction. The unthankful heart, like my fingers in the sand, discovers no mercies; but let the thankful heart sweep through the day, and as the magnet finds the iron, so it will find in every hour some heavenly blessings—only the iron in God's sand is gold.—Dr. Oliver Wendell Holmes.

ON THEIR WAY TO THE THANKSGIVING TABLE

Muscles of tough, live rubber lengthen its life

THE "muscles" of tough, live rubber give astonishing endurance and record-breaking long life—without adding weight—to Top Notch Buddy Boots. These ribs or muscles, strong as whalebone, add strength to the tops and prevent them from cracking. The tough gray soles stand up under the hardest going in muck and stumps, in ditches, slush or ice. The longest-wearing boot your money can buy. In short, hip and Storm King Lengths.

For dependable, distinctive boots, arctics and rubbers, always look for the Top Notch Cross. The most reliable stores carry the complete Top Notch line for men, women and children. The Beacon Falls Rubber Shoe Co., Beacon Falls, Conn.

TOP NOTCH
A GUARANTEE OF MILEAGE
Rubber Footwear

Turns Face Into Sound

In demonstrating his newly perfected phonovisor at the Model Engineers' exhibition at the Royal Horticultural hall, Westminster, London, Mr. J. C. Baird, the television expert, said the operation turned the face of anyone who was in front of his little machine into a sound.

Every face and object had its own sound, which could be recorded on the phonograph. By playing these sounds with the televisor they could be turned back into the original image.

By putting the image sounds onto a gramophone record as well as the sound of the person's voice they could see and hear the person at the same time.

Overtime Job

The chaps who loaded the latest "world's largest clock" onto the freight train at Waterbury had time hanging heavy on their hands."—Farm and Fireside.

The more intelligent a girl is the easier it is for her to remain single.

RHEUMATISM

For 35 Years

TRUSLER'S RHEUMATIC TABLETS

HAVE GIVEN RELIEF

All Druggists. Two Sizes, 50c and $1.00.
Trusler Remedy Co. Cincinnati, O.

HOXSIE'S CROUP REMEDY

THE LIFE-SAVER OF CHILDREN

No opium, no nausea. 50 cents at druggists, or KELLS CO., NEWBURGH, N. Y.

PATENTS Booklet free. Highest references. Best results. Promptness assured. WATSON E. COLEMAN, Patent Lawyer, 724 9th St., Washington, D. C.

W. N. U., FORT WAYNE, NO. 47—1927.

Aquatic Monster

In 1922 there swam into Cristobal harbor, Panama, a whale so colossal that it had to be overcome by machine-gun fire. When killed and towed to the dock, all efforts to raise it proved unavailing, though powerful seventy-ton cranes were used, and a railway engine hauled at steel cables.

If you make money your god, it will plague you like the devil.—Fielding.

Genuine BAYER

ASPIRIN

SAY "BAYER ASPIRIN" and INSIST!

Proved safe by millions and prescribed by physicians for

Colds Headache Neuritis Lumbago
Pain Neuralgia Toothache Rheumatism

DOES NOT AFFECT THE HEART

Safe — Accept only "Bayer" package which contains proven directions.

Handy "Bayer" boxes of 12 tablets
Also bottles of 24 and 100—Druggists.

Aspirin is the trade mark of Bayer Manufacture of Monoaceticacidester of Salicylicacid

Cuticura Comforts Tender Aching Irritated Feet

Bathe the feet for several minutes with Cuticura Soap and warm water, then follow with a light application of Cuticura Ointment, gently rubbed in. This treatment is most successful in relieving and comforting tired, hot, aching, burning feet.

Soap 25c. Ointment 25 and 50c. Talcum 25c. Sold everywhere. Sample each free. Address: "Cuticura Laboratories, Dept. 21, Malden, Mass."

Cuticura Shaving Stick 25c.

Money will not buy the highest happiness, but who isn't often glad to come up with a third rate kind?

Once there was a man whose every funny story about a dog was funny.

Where secrecy or mystery begins, vice or roguery is not far off.—Johnson.

No one can succeed in being "a regular devil" if he doesn't look it.

Kill Rats—Without Poison

A New Exterminator that is Absolutely Safe to use Anywhere!

Will not injure human beings, livestock, dogs, cats, poultry, yet is deadly to rats and mice every time.

Poisons are too dangerous

K-R-O does not contain arsenic, phosphorus, barium carbonate or any deadly poison. Made of powdered squill as recommended by the U. S. Dept. of Agriculture in their latest bulletin on "Rat Control."

"Never saw anything work like it did. We are ordering from our Wholesaler in our next order. It is not necessary to say that we are pushing K-R-O." Huey's Pharmacy, Sedalia, Ohio.

75c at your druggist; large size (four times as much) $2.00. Sent postpaid direct from us if dealer cannot supply you. SOLD ON MONEY-BACK GUARANTEE. The K-R-O Company, Springfield, Ohio.

K-R-O
KILLS-RATS-ONLY

NOVEMBER

L 915
4634

HOME EDUCATION

The Child's First School is the Family"—Froebel.
Issued by the National Kindergarten Association

WHY?

Effie L. Lewis

"He is the worst boy in school." Little bright-haired, blue-eyed lad standing there with your fair head tilted in defiance, and your eyes darting out venomous lights that do not harmonize with their as-yet baby blue, why must the principal say this of you?

"I can't do nothin' with him," responded the irate grandmother who had been summoned to school.

"Well, we just can't put up with his nonsense much longer, Mrs. Lairns. He does not study, he annoys the other boys, and," the principal added in a truculent voice, "he has been playing truant again."

"He has, has he? Well, I'll show him, the young imp o' Satan, I'll show him! I say he'll hang some day," with which words she cuffed the young culprit over the ears that had already heard too much about his utter depravity. "Answer me! Why did ye do it, ye young jail-bird?"

With his mouth pursed, his blue eyes sharper than ever, his fair hair bristling with an I-don't-care crackle, Jack looked his grandmother defiantly in the face.

"You see he's that stubborn he won't even speak."

"Yes, I see, Mrs. Lairns, he's a hard case. Never mind you are doing your best. The next time, however, he'll be sent away."

"And right it'll serve him, the jail-bird. Mark me, ye'll hang yet." She shook her fist at him. "Ain't ye got no respec' in ye for the grandmother that took ye when ye was a mite o' a chap when yer mother died, and yer father left ye with no one to take ye? He's that ungrateful, Miss Deed, that he don't care. Look at him now!"

And indeed the boy did seem to be a hardened sinner. His square little body had stiffened itself into an attitude that said, "Touch me if you dare." He stood digging the toe of one stubby shoe into the other. His hands were clenched as if to parry with fist thrusts the word blows he received. And the face! Well, it bore lines and traces of the storms that had passed over it, leaving in their wake a sullenness and hardness not consistant with the years of the little offender.

Just then the telephone in the outer office rang. A pleasant-faced young woman, the clerk, appeared at the door and apologizing for intruding said, "Miss Deed, Superintendent Grand wishes to speak with you."

"You wait here a moment, Miss Bonne," said the older woman, as she went out to answer the call.

"Why, Jack," said Miss Bonne, "what is the matter?" The voice had in it questioning appeal that even he could not resist. He looked at the young woman, and something in the clear gaze held him. The hard lines about the little mouth relaxed a bit. The eyes were almost baby-blue again. He started to open his lips when across them once more came the sharp slap from his grandmother. "Don't ye say another word, ye saucy jail-bird. I tell him, Miss, he'll hang one day, he will!"

"O, Mrs. Lairns, don't say that," said the clerk. She had missed the mellowing light which for a moment had suggested a softening in the boy's mood, but his expression had once more hardened into defiance.

Miss Deed now returned. "Well, Mrs. Lairns, thank you for coming. I am sorry you have so much trouble with this bad boy. Next time, as I said before, we'll send him away."

And of course there was a next time and a next time! This meant the Disciplinary School. Then there was another trial in what should have been his refuge—his home and school, with the same results. How easy it was then to slip from bad to worse. The passing years made Jack a ne'er-do-well. From the "worst boy in the school" developed "the worst loafer in the neighborhood." The next step was easy. Why shouldn't he who had been "the worst boy" steal, and then kill?

Sentence had been passed upon the leader of a gang in his early twenties. It was the death penalty. As the judge looked at the young man, a ray of sunlight fell upon the fair, bristling hair and something that seemed to lurk behind the cold blue of the eyes, impelled him to say sternly but kindly, "Young man, I am sorry for you. Have you anything to say? Why did you do it?"

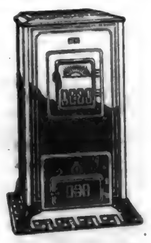
For just a moment, the hard lines about the young man's mouth relaxed a tiny bit and for a fleeting second he seemed the little Jack who had been on the point of softening under the kindly tone of a sympathetic woman. But the hard, defiant expression came back as he answered, "Why did I do it? I don't know. I reckon I always was a jail-bird. My grandmother always said I'd hang some day."

The judge started, frowned, "She should be paying the penalty," he thought "but unfortunately the law touches you not her."

And "the worst boy in the school" was led away to wait for the summons to pay in full the price of his misguided youth.

A hick town is one in which the weekly paper is merely a review of the gossip of the week.

SWEATER COATS, UNDERWEAR, WINTER CAPS, MITTENS, GLOVES, WOOL HOSIERY, SHEEP LINED COATS, LINED JACKETS, BOOTS, SHOES, RUBBERS, AT PRICES THAT SAVE
YOU MONEY
Zonker's Store
ST. JOE, INDIANA



FALL and
"Sunbeam Time"

Now is the time to let us demonstrate that Sunbeam Cabinet Heater to you, in any of the four different colors. We now have about thirty of these heaters installed, including last season. Each and every owner is our best recommend.

A. C. DAYTON RADIO'S

which are guaranteed indefinitely, and as for quality and reception we refer you to the many satisfied owners in this community. And don't forget we have Tubes, B. Batteries, Aerial Kits, etc., at prices that will compete with inferior, unguaranteed equipment. We will absolutely replace any Tube, Battery, etc., that proves defective.

WE ARE SOLE AGENTS FOR
Dr Hess Stock Tonic, Panacea, etc

our Fall supply is now in and remember every Dr. Hess article is sold on the basis of complete satisfaction or your money is refunded if you return the empty carton or pail.

WILLIAM CURIE
ST. JOE, INDIANA
Hardware RADIO Implements

When the Depositors Gain Becomes the Banks Loss

Not all of the accounts on a bank's books are profitable. In fact, many of them are carried at a loss. Yet the bank tries to render the same good service to every one of its depositors.

Oftentimes the bank may carry accounts at an actual loss rather than say anything which might be misunderstood and cause offense. For it is just as anxious to make friends as it is to make money.

But frankness between friends may be for the good of both. Therefore, we believe that this little series of talks giving the "bank's side" of the matter will be received in the proper spirit. And we believe they will help to put our relations on a stronger footing of mutual fairness and good-will than ever before.

"A FAIR CHECKING BALANCE
REPAYS GOOD BANKING SERVICE"

The St. Joe Valley Bank, A STATE BANK

YOU READ the Other Fellow's Ad

You are reading this one. That should convince you that advertising in these columns is a profitable proposition; that it will bring business to your store. The fact that the other fellow advertises is probably the reason he is getting more business than is falling to you. Would it not be well to give the other fellow a chance

To Read Your Ad in These Columns?

Possible to See Too Well In The Distance

No, it is nothing to be proud of. Rather it is cause for consulting us. Far-sight causes many cases of eye strain, as such a condition causes strain whether or not any near work is done. There is but one method of correcting this error—by wearing glasses that overcome it. We can prescribe and supply them.

ED. W. HICKS
AUBURN
"OUR SPECIALTY — COMFORTABLE VISION"

Today's Toast

Here's to Thanksgiving!
The feast of thanks for happy days,
When grateful hearts voice humble praise
For Life and all the good thereof,
And for the Giver's care and love.
Here's to Thanksgiving!
—Detroit Free Press.

Country's Annual Harvest Festival

Reason for Thanksgiving Being a Season of Rejoicing.

Our annual festival of Thanksgiving is with us again and our grateful thanks are given to a loving Father for the blessings that have been poured upon us during the year.

Thanksgiving is our national harvest festival, the season for bringing in the sheaves, when the barns and storehouses of our land are being filled with an abundance of food for man and beast for the year 1928.

It is a season of rejoicing, of the gathering together of families to give thanks and renew the ties that bind and hold together the loved ones of other days.

Thanksgiving day is American from its conception and spirit to its turkey and cranberry sauce. Europe has her harvest festivals, but no Thanksgiving. The union of a solemn thanksgiving service in the church for mercies vouchsafed throughout the year with feasting and merry-making in the home, is distinctly American. The last Thursday of November is unique in history.

We can look to Plymouth for our first real Thanksgiving. That first winter was a terrible one. Of those one hundred who so joyously landed from the Mayflower, spring found only fifty famished survivors, but with indomitable courage they succeeded in growing an "indifferent good" crop of barley, and "a good increase of Indian corn."

That such a people should rejoice! Nevertheless it was Pilgrim and New England—one as grim as the other—that gave Thanksgiving day, with its solemn thanks, merry-makings and family reunions, to America. For that let us be thankful to them both.

Washington, after the adoption of the Constitution, in 1789, appointed a day of thanksgiving. Since 1817 the festival has been observed in New York, and since 1863 the Presidents have always issued proclamations appointing the last Thursday of November as Thanksgiving day.—Farm and Ranch.

Let All Give Thanks for Year's Blessings

It is well that one day in the year should be set apart for the formal expression of our thanks, as a nation, for the blessings which the year has brought.

Individually and collectively, we too seldom put into definite form our appreciation of benefits. To do so is to quicken our minds to a livelier realization of them.

There is no better way to realize how we have been blessed as a nation than to compare the country as it is now, rich, powerful, prosperous, with the feeble, struggling Plymouth colony which returned heartfelt gratitude for bare existence.

The year now drawing to a close has brought generous benisons. We have been at peace. Agriculturally, industrially and financially we have thriven. Benefits received bring their mandate. By so much as we, individually, as a community and a nation, share our prosperity with those less fortunate will these blessings continue to multiply. Generously we have received; generously let us give.—Cleveland Plain-Dealer.

On Right Side of Ledger

Casting up the account on both sides of life's ledger there are few who are not greatly in debt to a merciful and generous Providence. In any event, there is nothing better calculated to generate a spirit of optimism over the future than the indulgence in the sentiment of gratitude for the good things that have come in the past.

"I'VE GOT HIM"

Parent-Teacher Association

The next meeting of the P-T. A. will be held in the school gymnasium Tuesday night, December 6, at 7:30 o'clock. The following program has been arranged:

Comunity singing led by Mrs. Ima Miser.

Devotional period conducted by Rev. J. F. McKnight.

Male quartette arranged by Joe Woodcox.

One act play, "Keeping Him Home."

Characters

John Todd, a too domestic married man, Derwood Ridgway.

Mary Todd, John's wife, Lena Meek.

Jean Todd, their flapper daughter, Catherine Bowser.

Neal Morgan, an admirer of Jean's, Merritt Maxwell.

Mrs. Dwight Harkness, a caller with a mission, Esther Bowman.

Mrs. Egbert Lothby, her companion, Cora Price.

Male quartette.

Business.

Social hour, Mrs. Pluma Hamilton, chairman of the refreshment committee, requests you to bring pie and sandwiches amply sufficient for your family.

This meeting is for everybody. You are urged to come.

Have you joined?

SPECIAL NOTICE

No hunting or trespassing allowed on our farms.
Wm. Staman.
George Strong.
46t2p.

DECIDE ON RULES FOR 1928 CONTEST

Music and Public Speaking Supervisors in DeKalb County Plan Literary and Music Events

Music and public speaking supervisors in the public schools of DeKalb county, meeting in Auburn Saturday in the office of County Superintendent Clarence Green decided upon the rules governing the annual discussion, music and oration events which will be held in March next year.

The following rules will govern the contests:

1. All regional contests shall be held on the same night, which shall be one week earlier than the county contest. Date for 1928 is March 23.

2. The final county contest shall be held on the date set by the State Discussion League. Date for 1928 is March 30.

3. There shall be two sets of judges in each regional and in the county contest, three judges for music and three for the other events.

4. No person serving as a judge of music events shall serve as a judge of literary events and vice versa.

5. A person who has served as a judge in a local or regional contest cannot serve as judge in the county contest.

6. There shall be no conference of judges after the contest before rendering their decisions.

7. Each judge shall designate a first, a second and a third, and the contestant who receives two firsts shall be declared winner.

8. The manner of selecting a first, a second and third shall be determined by rules laid down by the State Discussion League.

9. There shall be added to the contest program an oratorical contest to be governed by rules made by the Indiana Bar Association.

10. The reading shall not exceed ten minutes.

11. The double quartet may be mixed or not.

12. In regard to the number of musical events in which a pupil might represent his school, there are no restrictions.

13. The piano solo may be any grade of music.

14. The musical accompaniment must be furnished by a pupil of the high school that presents the musical number.

15. The judges shall follow the same plan for grading the reading as was used last year, which was: Selection 30%; interpretation 40% and reading ability, 30%.

16. The county contest shall begin at 7:30.

17. The county shall be divided into three districts as follows: District No. 1 Ashley, Corunna and Spencerville. District No. 2, Auburn and Garrett. District No. 3, Butler, St. Joe and Waterloo.

18. Judges in each contest must be from localities other than those represented in the schools contesting. Each school principal should file a list of available judges from his locality with the county superintendent.

19. Ribbons shall be given to winners of first place only, in the county contest. The ribbon committees shall consist of the following: D. Frank Adams, Corunna; Margaret Fink, Butler and Ida Reed, Spencerville.

20. Admission to the county contest shall be 15 cents for grade children and 25 cents for high school pupils and adults.

21. The contest shall include the following events: 1—Oration. 2—State Public Discussion. 3—Reading. 4—Piano solo. 5—Chorus event. 6—Double quartet. 7—Vocal solo.

22. The chorus is to consist of ten to twenty-four high school students and may be mixed or not.

A. J. Smith of the Spencerville schools, was re-elected secretary-treasurer.

NOTICE OF APPOINTMENT OF EXECUTRIX

State of Indiana
DeKalb County, SS:

I, J. H. Knauer, Clerk of the Circuit Court, for the County of DeKalb, State of Indiana, do hereby certify that Hattie A. Widney has been appointed executrix of the last will and testament of Hugh M. Widney, late of DeKalb County who died testate, and the said Hattie A. Widney having qualified and given bond as such Executrix is duly authorized to take upon herself the execution of said will.

Witness my hand and seal of Court, this 15th day of November, 1927.

J. H. Knauer,
Clerk of DeKalb Circuit Court
Hartzell & Todd, Attys. 47t3.

High School Notes

BASKET BALL

Friday night of last week St. Joe high school and Spencerville high school basket ball teams met here. St. Joe grades won the preliminary 17-15, but lost the final game 27-24. The game was close and hard-fought all the way through and was either teams game till the gun was fired.

Saturday night three local high school teams journeyed to Woodburn. The girls by playing their best game of the season came out with a tie game, 18-18. Both the first and second teams were either out-played or out-roughed by the Woodburn boys.

The boys were in very poor condition for the tilt Saturday night following their game with Spencerville on Friday night. The final score was 30-26.

—Reporter.

A fellow doesn't need to be much of an athlete to jump to unwise conclusions.

A report says England's strong woman "bends bars of iron like hay wire." No use trying to confine such a woman with an ordinary gold band.

The Spirit of Christmas!

How Will You Express It?

Our Greeting Cards will enable you to send

Christmas Greetings

to your friends and acquaintances in an individual way.

You can select the card and write the sentiment you wish to express, and we will do the rest.

ST. JOE NEWS

L 915 0635

DECEMBER

DECEMBER

L 915 U636

THE BEST BOOSTER FOR YOUR BUSINESS IN DeKALB COUNTY

ST. JOE NEWS.

NEWS MAKES A GOOD PAPER, SO SEND IT IN TO US.

VOL. XLI. ST. JOE, DeKALB COUNTY, INDIANA, THURSDAY, DECEMBER 1, 1927 NUMBER 48

CORN AND POTATO CLUB WINNERS

DeKalb county's young experts in potato and corn growing exhibited their 1927 crop samples Wednesday in the court house assembly room in Auburn at the annual judging.

Many entries in both classes were on exhibition attracting a great deal of attention. The judging was done by E. R. Lancashire of Purdue university. P. O. Hurley of the agricultural division of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad company,under whose auspices the potato clubs are being conducted, judged the record books and L. N. Chapman of Butler, judges the corn.

There were some fine samples of potatoes and corn shown. Many of the older farmers were interested spectators at the show. The boys, however, were out in force, anxious to learn how their work during the summer months graded under expert examination.

Following were the entries and the winners in the corn club: Harold Yoder, Auburn, first; Virgil Korff, Auburn, second; Harry Farver of Spencerville and Merpin Smith of Helmer tied for third; Donald Martin, Auburn, fourth and tied for fifth place, John Smith of Auburn and Howard Beams of Spencerville.

Other exhibitors in the corn club were: Robert Cool, Ralph Berry, Schuyler Hetrick and James Morr of Auburn; Loral Hart, Frederick Laub, Floyd Pflaumer and Virgil Laux of Spencerville; Aaron Holman, Nelson Deaver and Gilbert Keller of Butler.

In the potato club the entries and scores judged were as follows:

FIRST YEAR POTATO CLUB

Entry	Points
Pierce Ayers, Waterloo,	93
Floyd Myers, Waterloo,	86
Henry Riggs, Waterloo,	68
Dean Lockwood, Auburn,	68
Roy Shoudel, Auburn,	61½
Glenn Myers, Waterloo,	59½
Melvin Madden, Spencerville,	16½
Morris Miller, Spencerville,	37
Walter Dwyer, Spencerville,	37½
Milton Clark, Auburn,	52
Hugh Rynearson, Auburn,	49
Robert Muhn, Auburn,	30½
Earl Ginder, Butler,	8
Everett Collins, St. Joe,	49
Lloyd Schrader, St. Joe,	27
DuWayne Kinsey, St. Joe,	52
Carlton Shull, St. Joe,	42
Cecil Likes, St. Joe,	42
Clifton Draggoo, St. Joe,	49½
Robert Coburn, St. Joe,	39
Ellsworth Morr, St. Joe,	51½
Kenneth Weidler, Garrett,	43
Monroe Wagner, Waterloo,	56
William Maurer, Garrett,	7
Lawrence Votrie, Garrett,	39
Victor Walter, Garrett,	43

SECOND YEAR POTATO CLUB

Clive Ayers, Waterloo,	93.9
Virgil Korff, Auburn,	82½
Clayton Baker, St. Joe,	59
Harold Baker, St. Joe,	58
LeRoy Mann, Spencerville,	57
Kenneth Casselman, Auburn,	51½
Walter Bartles, Auburn,	47
Dale Menges, Garrett,	45
Howard Yarde, Garrett,	44
Milton Clark, Garrett,	52
Lloyd Peckhart, Auburn,	40½

SUNDAY SCHOOL REPORTS

The following is the report of Sunday schools in this vicinity for last Sunday, according to information sent The News by representatives of the schools reported.

Lutheran	74	$4.26
Coburntown	66	$3.86
M. P.	43	$2.93
Lutheran	74	$4.26
Spencerville M. E.	68	$4.86
Lutheran	80	—

The heavy rains of the week have halted the trappers.

Basket Ball at Spencerville Hall, Sat., Dec. 3. Auburn 8-in-line vs Spencerville A. C's. at 8 o'clock.

JURORS DRAWN FOR NEW COURT TERM

Several Women on Grand and Petit Juries

In preparation for the opening of the December term of the DeKalb circuit court next Monday, the jury drawing was held Monday in the office of County Clerk, J. Harvey Knauer.

The drawing was made by the clerk and Jury Commissioners, Herman L. Brown and Clyde E. Hart in the presence of Sheriff John C. Armstrong.

The list of jurors and talesmen follow:

GRAND JURY

Mrs. Chas. Kepler, Franklin.
Grace Ferguson, Keyser.
Melvin Swartz, Grant.
Newman Heffley, Union.
Earl Lyons, Stafford.
Mrs. Sylvia Ginther, Spencer.

PETIT JURY

Perry DePew, Keyser.
McClellan Hart, Spencer.
Chauncey Bryant, Troy.
Roy Keller, Concord.
Arden Close, Smithfield.
Clyde Deetz, Fairfield.
Walter Thrush, Butler.
Mrs. Harry Olinger, Union.
Walter Tatham, Waterloo.
Homer B. McCullough, Wilmington.
N. H. Ervin, Fairfield.
Solomon Fisher, Grant.

TALESMEN

John Leason, Troy.
John C. Blomeke, Smithfield.
John Fetters, Concord.
Ernest Olds, Wilmington.
Ira Williams, Union.
L. J. Draggoo. Concord.
Samuel Stickler, Franklin.
J. W. Brown, Union.
Marvin E. Stroh, Grant.
Grover Likens, Richland.
Lulu Mason, Richland.
Paul E. Cook, Fairfield.

FARMERS INSTITUTE TUESDAY AND WEDNESDAY

The Tri-Township Farmers Institute is to be held next Tuesday and Wednesday at the Community Hall, Spencerville.

While the time is short, there will be no program printed, as it is still in the making, announced John Ulm, president of the institute.

The first day's program is generally considered of a local nature and the school children will assemble in a body and Mrs. Stella Goldsmith will address them, also Prof. Sims of the St. Joe schools will talk on "The diseases of potatoes," which will prove of special benefit to the boys who are active in the club work of the townships.

Among the afternoon speakers will be Prof. Smith of Spencerville schools, who will talk on "The Hessian Fly," followed by E. E. Stinson with an alfalfa talk.

The second day's program is given to state workers and there will be two. The first, "Making the most of your child," and "The four fold life," will be discussed by Mrs. W. C. Roberts. A. A. Hansen will discuss "Some important poison-plant problems in Indiana," and "Farm seeds, pure and otherwise."

There will be an opportunity for discussion and numbers of interest will appear on the program that we are unable to mention.

The association will sponsor a play for Thursday and Friday evenings, to be put on at St. Joe and Spencerville with the usual admission charge to establish the institute for the following year. The cast will be composed of 60 men from the townships, "The Womanless Wedding" is the title and is composed of many side splitting events. Watch for bills.

GINTHER FARM LOSES VALUABLE COW

O. E. Ginther had the misfortune of losing a valuable purebred Guernsey heifer last Saturday morning, which he had just purchased about three months ago.

Her sickness dated just a week with what diagnosed as pneumonia, probably mechanical pneumonia, due to some foreign object. Treatment during the following week proved useless, altho at times there seemed to be some improvement. The symptoms shown were not typical of an ordinary case of pneumonia, hence it was decided to hold an autopsy.

A peculiar, altho not altogether uncommon condition was found on post mortem examination. A small wire about two and one-half inches long was found in the left auricle of the heart. It could be traced from the stomach through the diaphragm, the apex of the left lung where it caused the development of mechanical pneumonia and on into the heart.

The condition of the wire was such that it had been ingested by the cow some months before, in fact, an attack of indigestion which the animal suffered about two weeks after Mr. Ginther purchased it can now be traced to this same causitive factor.

Mr. Ginther is striving to acquire a high class dairy herd and he feels the loss of this animal considerably since there was every indication that it would develope into an extra good dairy cow.

AN EPIC STORY OF WORLD WAR

Someoe has described Leonard Nason's war story, "Chevrons," as possessing nine different kinds of wallops and thrills. Undoubtedly, it contains that number, and the word "wallops" is but a mild sample of the direct and expressive language in which the tale is couched. People who were thrilled by "What Price Glory"—"Fix Bayonets!" and "The Big Parade," have been getting a lot of new sensations from "Chevrons." The unvarnished truth of the great struggle as one noncommissioned officer saw it, it is filled with a fine degree of humanity, hard boiled, but with an excellent sense of humor. It is our new serial, starting December 21st.

REAL ESTATE NEWS

A number of real estate deals were completed last week, among which were 55 acres, 2½ miles north-east of town, known as the Pearl Marks farm, was deeded to L. Rawres of Fort Wayne. He expects to move there soon and make some improvements.

The Harry Shuff residence was transferred to Josephus R. Shilling.

Orange Herrick made the purchase of the Chaney farm just west of the Wabash railroad, containing 70 acres.

The Frank Scholes farm, east of St. Joe, containing 80 acres, has been transferred to the St. Joe Valley bank.

CHRIST FOR ALL—ALL FOR CHRIST

The Word of God

HAVE ALL GOOD:—The young lions do lack, and suffer hunger; but they that seek the Lord shall not want any good thing. Psalm 34: 10.

PRAYER:—Our Bountiful God, we have confidence in Thee, for we have never seen the righteous forsaken, nor his seed begging bread.

THANK OFFERING SERVICE SUNDAY

The annual Thank Offering meeting of the Woman's Missionary Society of the Lutheran Church was held Sunday evening. Appropriate hymns were sung by the congregation followed by the scripture lesson. In his usual pleasing way Joe Woodcox sang "The Mission of a Rose." Two surprise numbers of the program were a drama and song given by the young people and children from the Spencerville Lutheran Church. The lesson of the drama was the necessity of good will and commercial co-operation between America and all foreign nations. The song was "Missionary Bells" given by a group of girls. Both numbers were splendidly rendered and appreciated by the audience. The Woman's Missionary Society desires to thank the children, young people and ladies directing their work. Mrs. Jennie Sechler gave an interesting report of the last convention of theWoman's Missionary Society held at South Bend. The choir sang "Awake, with Cheerful Heart."

The pastor, Rev. P. B. Roediger gave an inspiring address concerning the true christian's spirit of giving. The offering was received and the pastor closed the meeting in the regular service.

CORN BORER AMENDMENT BY DAVID HOGG

Fort Wayne, Ind. Nov. 29th. Special to St. Joe News. The corn borer problem, increase of pension for Civil War widows and veterans, a Fort Wayne Postoffice building, increase of tariff on onions, tax reduction, and many Special Bills are some of the things which will have particular attention of Cogressman Hogg during the approaching Session of Congress.

Mr. Hogg will introduce an amendment to the appropriation for corn borer extermination which will provide that only a small amount of the appropriation not to exceed ten per cent shall be spent for overhead. This will provide a much larger amount for payment to farmers who do the actual work of cleaning up fields. A further amendment by Mr. Hogg will require that inspectors and overseers shall be farmers of experience for substantial length of time.

Mr. Hogg will introduce a bill on the opening day of Congress to give each veteran of the Civil War one hundred dollars per month pension, and to provide that all Civil War widows who are now drawing thirty dollars shall receive fifty dollars. He will introduce several Special Bills.

Mr. Hogg secured the passage by the House of Representatives for the appropriation for the Fort Wayne Postoffice during the last Session of Congress, but it failed to pass the Senate because of filibustering. This bill is certain to pass the Senate as well as the House in the early part of the Session.

Taxation will be reduced in the sum from $200,000,000 to $300,000,000 per year.

Congressman Hogg will work for the establishment of a Farm Board at Washington, and for legislation that will enable the farmer to receive the benefit of his labor as well as for means to compel the holders of non-taxable securities to pay a tax on such securities.

Since the last Session of Congress Mr. Hogg has kept an office open in Washington for the accommodation of the people of the Twelfth District, as well as in Ft. Wayne. He has held office days in every section of the District and has used all his time in looking after requests from constituents. He has refused invitations for chautauqua and other speaking engagements which would take him out of the District. Hundreds of cases for World War veterans and compensation cases have been haudled by him for veterans, as well as many other important matters.

ATTENTION FARMERS!

Why not ship your live stock with the Hicksville Shippers Co., of Hicksville, Ohio, when you can get Buffalo prices, less actual expense of shipping. Call W. H. Bricker, Hicksville, O., phone 13 or George Hart, Spencerville, Ind., phone 44-21. 48t2.

LADIES AID BAZAAR

Bazaar at Kinsey's Hardware, Thursday, Dec. 1st., by Ladies Aid of the M. P. Church. A place to get your choice Christmas gifts. Remember the date. 47t1.

SPECIAL LINE OF BOX CANDIES FOR THE HOLIDAYS

Ph. HIGH'S 76

St. Joe MEAT Market

The Cheapest thing in the world today is advice, manufactured and distributed by Mr. Do Nothing and Company.

The best, while not the cheapest, is good food, especially meat.

You will find additions to your stock each week.

Look for them.

Wm. G. HARMAN,
ST. JOE, IND.

The Firm

Which supplies my coffee has been blending and buying coffee for fifty-three years. They know how. No wonder my coffees are delighting my friends.

We buy small lots shipped frequently. We grind the coffee the day you buy it. We keep it in a sanitary case. These things mean satisfaction to you.

ZONKER'S Store.

Wanted!

5,000 PEOPLE IN DeKALB COUNTY TO BUY TUBERCULOOSIS CHRISTMAS SEALS

PRE-INVENTORY

Clearance Sale Prices!

3 Perfection Oil Stoves

	Old Price	Now
2 Perfection Giant, 3-burner	$58.50	$52.00
1 Perfection No. 223, 3-burner	41.50	38.00
1 Gasoline Stove	32.50	28.00

Shelf-Hardware Reductions

Our shelves have many different pieces of Kitchen Utensils that we are going to sell at Low Prices as follows:

	Old Price	Now
12 quart pails	$1.00	.90
14 quart pails	1.10	.95
Granite Dish Pans	.75	.55
Granite Buckets	.75	.55
Granite Coffee Pots	.99	.85
Preserving Kettles	.90	.85
Aluminum Percolator Coffee Pots	2.50	2.00
Pyrex Pie and Cake Dishes	.60	.50
Granite Stew Pans, with handle		.35
A Dandy Lantern	1.50	1.25
Lard Cans	.60	.50
2 Horse Collars, 22 inch	3.50	3.25
$3.00 each if you take the pair.
Cross Cut Saw	$5.25	$5.00
2 Plumb Axes	2.25	2.00
3 Jim Dandy Axes	2.00	1.80
Axe Handles, extra good		40
Price reduced on Red Barn Paint, per gal.	$2.25	$1.50

FULL LINE OF SHOT GUN SHELLS
HARDWARE TOOLS.....5 % DISCOUNT

COTTON GLOVE SPECIAL

Only a limited number of these gloves that sell at 20 cents the pair, by the dozen..... $1.75

Spencerville Lumber Co.

C. J. KNAAK, Manager

WE invite you to see our new Christmas line;
Our Greeting Card stock was never so fine,—
There's Distinction, Quality, and Good Value here
In every card we are offering this Year;
And your own special taste we can gratify too,
To carry your Christmas Greetings for you.

SAMPLE CARDS ON DISPLAY HERE

Jewelry!

Elgin Wrist Watches
Full Line of Ingersoll's
Fountain Pens
Jewelry for Ladies

E. R. KINSEY, Hardware Furniture

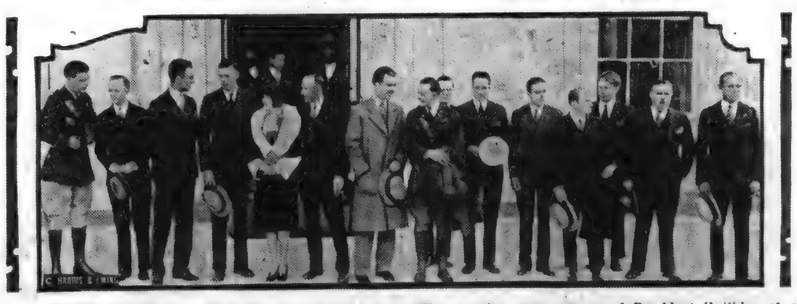
DECEMBER

L 91
U637

Pittsburgh Shattered by Great Explosion

Scores were killed and hundreds injured in Pittsburgh, Pa., when a huge storage gas tank exploded. Buildings for many blocks around were shattered, the property damage running into the millions. This photograph shows the still smoking ruins of the Equitable Gas plant, where the explosion occurred.

President Entertains Our Famous Aviators



America's heroic adventurers of the air—including one smiling heroine—were guests of President Coolidge at a luncheon in the White House on the day when Colonel Lindbergh was given the Hubbard medal of the National Geographic society. In the group, left to right, are: Lieut. Lester Maitland, Clarence Chamberlin, Arthur C. Goebel, Charles A. Lindbergh, Ruth Elder, Paul Schluter, Emory Bronte, Lieut. Albert Hegenberger, Lieut. George Noville, Commander Richard E. Byrd, George Haldeman, Charles Levine, Bernt Balchen, William S. Brock and Edward F. Schlee.

Trophies for Boys' and Girls' Clubs

More than 1,500 boys and girls from forty-two states went to Chicago during the International Horse show to participate in the competitions of the National Boys' and Girls' Clubs in which there are more than 600,000 members. Our photograph shows Helen Dorsey, secretary of the national committee on boys' and girls' club work, with some of the trophies presented to the winners.

War-Time Gas Masks for Divers

Capt. C. H. Virdin and Walter Babecky, of the Los Angeles fire department, demonstrating the efficiency of the diving apparatus that was once a war-time gas mask. Captain Virdin's tests and experiments have resulted in the transformation of the mask into something capable of supplying an underwater worker with oxygen for a period of two hours.

COMMANDS THE FLEET

Vice Admiral Henry A. Wiley, who was formally given command of the United States battle fleet in an impressive ceremony at Los Angeles harbor. With the command he assumes the rank of admiral.

GETS NOBEL PRIZE

Prof. A. H. Compton of the University of Chicago, who has been awarded the Nobel prize for physics.

Flag Flies From Fir

The tallest living flagpole in the United States displaying the "Stars and Stripes" is at Camp Booneville, the maneuver camp of the Seventh United States infantry, about fifteen miles from Vancouver barracks, Washington, according to a War department statement.

It appears that the camp had not been provided with suitable means for the regulation display of "Old Glory," and to meet that requirement expert linemen from the signal corps trimmed and barked a giant fir tree towering to a height of 250 feet, in a convenient location, and raised the colors to its peak.

What's the Answer?

Questions No. 27

1—What is the appellation of the four largest islands of the West Indies?

2—What is the record for length of time under water?

3—How many spitball pitchers are there in the big leagues?

4—What famous cavalry leader was killed by the Sioux Indians in 1876?

5—What American comedian of the latter half of the Nineteenth century is remembered affectionately for the humor and delicacy of his portrayals of homely characters in plays of heart interest?

6—Which is the loftiest peak of the Andes?

7—Who originated the editorial paragraph in newspapers?

8—How many amendments have there been to the Constitution of the United States?

9—How does Mars rank with the sun and earth?

10—Who founded the Kansas City Star?

11—How many eclipses in 1927?

12—What is the meaning of the word "creed"?

13—What is a morning star?

14—What famous poet was once an editor of the New York Evening Post?

15—What newspaper first published Washington's farewell address?

16—How far do the Andes mountains extend?

17—Which is the largest city in South America?

18—How old is the American Association Baseball league?

19—When and by whom was hockey introduced in the United States?

20—What distinguished Confederate cavalry leader held the rank of general in the Spanish-American war?

Answers No. 26

1—Mount McKinley, in Alaska.

2—Olympia.

3—Hippocrates.

4—$500.

5—Seventy years.

6—Leoncavallo; his opera, "I Pagliacci."

7—Luzon and Mindanao.

8—James Gordon Bennett.

9—Ninety-six.

10—866,400 miles.

11—Vera Cruz.

12—Richard Mansfield.

13—Johnny Hayes won it last in 1908.

14—There are 1,750 clubs and 175,000 members.

15—Abraham Lincoln.

16—A Flemish scientist of the Sixteenth century, famed for his projection on which all marine charts are drawn.

17—Hamburg.

18—John Peter Zenger.

19—One member to each 211,877 population.

20—One of the planets of the solar system, conspicuous for its redness of light.

Time's Passage Not Reckoned in Hours

An English astronomer has advanced the thought that "time does not, in fact, exist." It is rather difficult for the human mind to comprehend such a theory, says Thrift Magazine.

Longfellow, in "The Hyperion," asked the question: "What is time?" and answered it in this manner: "The shadow on the dial, the running of the sand—day and night, summer and winter, months, years, centuries; these are but arbitrary and outward signs, the measure of time, not time itself. Time is the life of the soul."

The theory that time "does not pass," or, as men say, "fly," is not a new one. There is in an ancient graveyard in New York a tombstone containing these lines:

Time flies, 'tis said,
Nay gossip say not soe,
Time stays, we goe.

Nathaniel Hawthorne, in the "Marble Faun," wrote: "Time flies over us but leaves its shadow behind."

Fashion and Good Breeding

A circle of men perfectly well bred would be a company of sensible persons in which every man's native manners and character appeared. If the fashionist have not this quality he is nothing. We are such lovers of self-reliance that we excuse in a man many sins if he will show us a complete satisfaction in his position, which asks no leave to be of mine or any man's good opinion.—Emerson.

Revised Version

The seven ages of man have been well tabulated by somebody or other on an acquisitive basis, thus:

First age—Sees the earth.

Second age—Wants it.

Third age—Hustles to get it.

Fourth age—Decides to be satisfied with only about half of it.

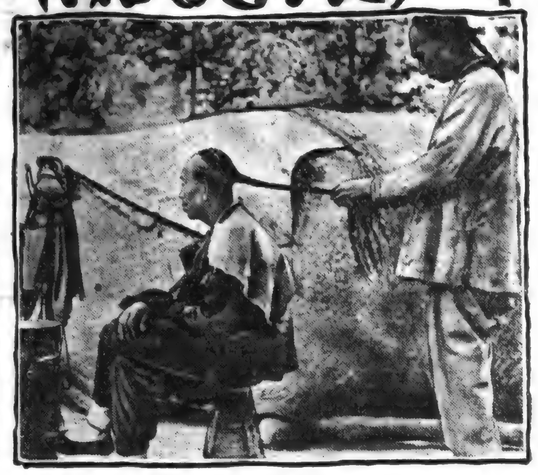
Fifth age—Becomes still more moderate.

Sixth age—Now content to possess a six by two strip of it.

Seventh age—Gets this strip.

CHINA'S HAIR INDUSTRY

By



A Source of Hair Net Material.

(Prepared by the National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.)

THE people of China are, and have been for centuries, primarily farmers. Their chief essentials of life—food fuel, and clothing—are mostly of home production. Even in North China, where the winters are cold, clothing comes principally from cotton raised by the northern farmers, and fuel still consists largely of the grain stalks from the fields that provide the food. The people require but little from the outside world and produce little that they do not consume themselves.

But the old order has been changing. Although the northern people are less progressive than their southern brothers, even among them modern industries have been springing up despite civil strife of recent years. Perhaps none of these infant industries has had a more phenomenal growth than that of making hairnets, which now gives employment to thousands who are providing these articles for millions of women in America and Europe.

Although the industry was introduced in China by the Germans only twenty years ago, more than 140,000,000 hairnets were shipped to America from a single Chinese city before bandits at home and bobbed hair in America curtailed the output. Even now the total annual exports of this product are valued at more than $10,000,000. With the wholesale bobbing of American locks in recent years, the demand for hairnets at first fell off; but more recently the use of nets has again increased.

The nets are made by hand and the workers receive about one cent each for making them. The average person can hardly make ten a day.

Why It Belongs to China.

There are three important factors that have made the hairnet industry almost exclusive to North China: first, a large supply of hair is found there; second, cheap labor is plentiful, and third, the industry requires no machinery and can be carried on in the home.

Where will you find more human hair than in North China? Before the rule of the Manchus, the Chinese men let their hair grow rather long and tied it in a knot on top of the head. When the Manchus came, in the Seventeenth century, they wore their hair in long braids down their backs, and as an indication of subjection forced the Chinese to adopt the same custom.

Probably no other land has a more distinctive national peculiarity than the Chinese pigtail, and, like so many other social customs, it persists long after the cause for which it stood. The revolutionists of 1911 tried to do away with it and ordered that all queues be cut off. Those who objected were in danger of losing head as well as pigtail, and the queues provided a handy means of suspending the heads along the city streets as an effective suggestion that the revolutionists meant business in their attempt to do away with the badge of the victorious Manchus.

In the south, and in large cities in general, the queues did disappear to a great extent, and for a time there was a flood in the human hair market. But in North China the law forbidding the wearing of queues was not enforced, and they are still plentiful in Peking and Tientsin, while in some country villages away from the coast there are nearly as many boys and men with queues as without.

Perhaps one reason why queues have not disappeared more rapidly is because of the many barbers, who depend on combing queues and shaving heads for a living. Whatever hair they can comb out belongs to them and becomes a source of income; so, naturally, they are not in favor of a queueless country.

Women Save All Combings.

Chinese women do not patronize the barbers, but comb their own hair at home. Nothing is wasted, however; the combings are saved from day to day and, when a sufficient quantity is collected, it is sold or exchanged for small household articles. In some places venders travel from house to house, calling out, "Needles, thread, and matches exchanged for hair combings."

This raw hair is sold very cheaply, and, when girls are learning to make nets, is used for practice purposes.

Enough hair can be purchased for fifty cents to last a class of sixty or seventy-five girls a month, while they are learning to make nets. As soon as they are able to make salable nets, they use prepared hair, which costs as much as several dollars a pound, depending on length and other qualities. A pound of hair will make over 2,000 nets, for a whole gross of hairnets weighs only about one ounce. The processes of bleaching and dyeing the hair are the most difficult parts of the hairnet industry.

The second factor in the success of the hairnet industry in North China is the almost unlimited supply of cheap labor. Tell a carpenter in this part of the world that his fellow journeymen in America get from $10 to $15 a day and he will probably inquire at once how much it costs to go to America. He gets 15 or 20 cents a day in United States currency, and other workmen get about the same. While the American farmer has difficulty in getting satisfactory help at $50 or 75 a month and keep, John Chinaman is willing to dig in the fields for $3 a month, and to find his own keep.

However, it is not men, but young girls, who make hairnets, and of course a girl's wage is much less than that of a man. In fact, there is very little in North China that a girl can do to earn money. Few have a chance to go to school, and except during harvest season, when they help to bring the grain on to the threshing floors and thresh it, they find it hard to obtain work. Consequently, when a hairnet company enters a region and calls for girls, candidates are numerous.

Good Work for the Girls.

A single net requires the tying of a thousand knots or more, but if a girl is clever she can make as high as twenty coppers a day, and, as she can live on much less than that, she often not only supports herself, but helps other members of the family as well.

Is it any wonder, then, that fathers and mothers are glad to see the hairnet industry enter their villages? Their daughters, heretofore a burden, are now becoming the breadwinners of the family.

One might naturally ask, "Why are other industries not developed more rapidly in North China, if there is such a supply of cheap labor?"

Part of the answer is that most industries require considerable capital, expensive machinery, and large factories, and, with political conditions as they are in China today, capitalists are slow to take the risks.

With the hairnet industry there is no such obstacle. The girls work in their own homes, where they have always been secluded. The only tools needed are a small brass shuttle and a bamboo splint. On a nail driven into a table or chair the first loop of the net is fastened. The hair is wound into the shuttle, like thread into a bobbin, and as each new loop is tied it is slipped onto the bamboo splint like a stitch on a knitting needle. Thus, with shuttle in one hand and bamboo splint in the other, the maker adds knot to knot and loop to loop until the net is completed.

Then the nets are tied together in bunches of one gross each. For this a piece of board, into which nails have been driven, is provided, and the loops on the edge of the net are slipped over the nails until a pile of 144 nets is made. They are then tied with thread and are ready for the agent when he comes to collect, pay for making, and to leave more hair.

Tying into one-gross bunches, as well as tying the hair into one long thread and putting it in the shuttle, is often done by some member of the family who is not able to make the nets. Mothers whose fingers are no longer nimble or whose eyes have lost their keenness help with this part of the work.

Thus the industry fits in well with Chinese home life. It can be done at odd moments by those who have other duties, or it can furnish steady employment to those who would otherwise be idle.

DECEMBER

L 91
U638

The GREEN CLOAK

By YORKE DAVIS

WNU Service.
Copyright, 1926

CHAPTER IX—Continued

—16—

"Do you think she's with him?"

Before he could answer, the telephone bell rang sharply, and the quickness with which he turned and snatched the receiver off the hook betrayed the tension of excitement under which he was laboring.

"Been looking for me!" he exclaimed. "A man named Mallory! Well, why didn't you try these apartments sooner? Where is he now?"

* * * * * * * *

"All right. Don't waste any more time."

"That you, Mallory?"

* * * * * * * *

"What's that you say? You've got the girl. Came back to her room, did she?"

* * * * * * * *

"What's she like? Violent at all?"

* * * * * * * *

"Well, wait a minute. Hold the wire. I'll tell you what to do with her."

He turned round then, and began speaking rapidly to Doctor McAlister.

"The girl went to her room and Mallory has got her. He says she's perfectly quiet, not violent at all, that is, but she's taking on a great deal, protesting that her arrest must be a mistake. So it's clear she hasn't gone off into one of those subjective states of hers. But what are we to do with her? Do you suppose she'd be of service to us in getting track of Wilkins? She'd probably take pretty good care not to get him into trouble, I suppose, if she suspected that we really wanted him."

"Tell him to bring her here," said my chief, his eyes shining with excitement. "We shall be able to use her, never fear. Yes, have Mallory bring her to this room."

Ashton hesitated for an instant. Then transmitted the message, word for word, to Mallory, and hung up the receiver.

"I don't quite see it," he went on thoughtfully. "Unless Wilkins took her into his confidence, she won't know anything about him. If he did, she'll be on her guard not to betray him, and a stupid, stubborn person like that sometimes makes a lot of trouble."

The doctor's only reply was a comment, which sounded a little irrelevant.

"I told you, didn't I," said he, "that in her subjective states her whole system of sensory nerves seems to be abnormally stimulated, almost to a hysterical degree?"

I had it on my tongue to ask him what he meant, when the sound of footsteps approaching along the corridor, cut the question short. The next moment there was a tap on the door, the detective, Mallory, ushered Jane Perkins back into our sitting room.

"Here she is," he said briefly "Do you want me?"

"Yes," said the doctor; "sit down. You sit down, too, Perkins; here in the easy chair where you were before. No, my poor child, there's nothing to be frightened about. Don't cry. We're not going to hurt you."

The perfect poise and balance of his own nerves gave him a tremendous power of calming the nerves and quieting the fears of others. That single sentence, spoken in his calm resonant voice did more to reassure the girl than I could have done in an hour.

"Now you're not afraid any more, Jane," he went on. "This little mirror, swinging so, makes you calm again, even makes you sleepy. You're going to sleep already. Your eyelids are heavy. Your hands are heavy, too, and quite relaxed, just as they are when you go to sleep. You're asleep now; fast asleep."

Once more, and only once, the doctor hummed the strange, droning tune of the death chant, and I saw, by the little shiver that went over the girl's body, that the transformation of her personality had already taken place.

"Watch," said I to Ashton, "watch the girl's face."

"You've been showing me wonders tonight," he said in a voice that was dulled with amazed bewilderment, "but this is a wonder that out-tops them all."

All that was true, for there, under his eyes, he saw, reappearing in the body of this English chambermaid, the strange wild creature he had gone with us to St. Martin's hospital to see, a couple of nights before.

The doctor's voice broke the silence. He spoke to the girl, a single, short sentence in what I now recognized to be the Maori tongue. Then, without a pause, he went on:

"I am speaking in English now, Fanena, and you understand me. Tell me that it is so."

Her answer was a sort of clinking guttural, impossible one would think for a Western throat to produce.

"Say it in English," the doctor commanded.

"Ee—es," she said.

The doctor turned to the detective. "Mallory," he said, "you know where Wilkins' room in the hotel is, don't you?"

"Yes, sir, but it's locked. He's gone off with the key."

"Don't waste time trying to find another key," said the doctor. "Break the door down and leave it so that we can walk directly in. Then go to this girl's room, find some warm wraps, a hat and a cloak and a pair of overshoes. Then get your own hat and overcoat and come back here."

Mallory hesitated, and cast an inquiring glance toward Ashton.

"Oh, yes," said Ashton with a laugh, "He's the boss now. You'll take all your orders from him."

The doctor smiled. "I think you'll want your overcoat yourself, and let me recommend a cap, if you have such a thing, rather than a derby. There's no telling how long we'll be out, and the air is cold tonight with all this half-frozen dampness in it."

While the other two men went on their several errands, Doctor McAlister and I found our ulsters and caps. The doctor added to his equipment a heavy walking stick and a huge pair of what he called galoshes.

Ashton was ready as soon as we were, and Mallory didn't keep us waiting more than two or three minutes. He was dressed for the expedition himself, and he had over his arm the green cloak, and in his hand carried a rather preposterous hat, which was just about the sort of piece of millinery one might expect Jane Perkins' taste for adornments of this sort to result in.

The girl got up and huddled herself into the cloak when the doctor handed it to her, in a perfectly natural sort of way, as if it was a garment with which she was well acquainted.

"Here She Is," He Said Briefly. "Do You Want Me?"

"All ready," asked the doctor. "Then let's be off. Mallory, you show us the way. We want to go to Wilkins' room first."

"All of us?" questioned Ashton. "The girl, too?"

"Yes," said the doctor. "She's the important member of this expedition."

I caught then, and it made my flesh creep a little, my first inkling of his purpose. But it was perfectly evident from Ashton's face that no such idea had occurred to him.

"Hadn't she better be handcuffed to Mallory?" he asked, as we were leaving the room. "She might give us the slip."

"No," said the doctor; "she'll follow—follow like a dog."

We threaded our way in silence through the corridors to Wilkins' room. It was a small room, and I stayed back in the corridor with Mallory to make room for my chief and Ashton to go in with the girl.

What I saw through the doorway was curious and interesting. Doctor McAlister strode straight across to the wardrobe, flung open the door of it, groped for a moment in its interior, with one hand, then withdrew it, waving triumphantly, an old shoe.

And now Ashton's eyes lighted up with the surmise which had come to me a few moments earlier.

"Good God, McAlister!" he exclaimed. "What are you going to do?"

"I'm going to find Josiah Haines, alias Wilkins, if he hasn't got too long a start on us."

As he finished speaking, he ostentatiously sniffed at the shoe himself, and held it out to the girl.

"Osa Enns," she said.

"Exactly," said the doctor; "Josiah Haines."

"You can't possibly mean," exclaimed Ashton, "that you're going to try to track him with her, as if—as if she were a hound! It's impossible. Impossible and horrible, too," he added with a shiver.

"So far as the horror is concerned," said the doctor, "we can't afford to be squeamish, with telephone and telegraph wires down all over the city, and likely enough trolley wires, too. He has too great an advantage of us to warrant our rejecting any means of finding him that come to hand, even though they are primitive. As for its being impossible, that's exactly the thing we're going to test. I don't believe it is. The girl scented us half way across Morgan's study, and 'pointed' us, exactly as a setter points a quail. And she confessed to me that she identified the man she murdered by his odor."

Without waiting for any reply, he turned abruptly to the girl and spoke to her in Maori, asking her a question, if one could judge from the odd inflection of the thick, guttural words. In her eyes already there was a kind of smoldering fire. The doctor cried out something more in Maori, and accompanied the exclamation with a gesture of both hands toward the doorway.

The girl darted out between Mallory and me, like some wild beast unleashed, and set out down the corridor at a slow, swinging trot, her head bent low and swaying sideways. It was uncanny to see her. I felt my flesh creep as I set out to follow her.

Mallory had not understood, and he made a motion to detain her, but this was checked by a pre-emptory order from Ashton.

"Follow along!" cried the doctor. "Keep as close as you can. We mustn't lose sight of her!"

We had lost sight of her already, for she had turned to the right into a cross corridor. When we reached the corner where she had turned, we all halted, as if some medusa hand had suddenly turned us to stone.

The Meredith is a high building. We were on the eighth floor, but the girl was in the act of getting out of a window. Mallory recovered the use of his muscles first, and rushed forward in an attempt to forestall what seemed to him a deliberate attempt at suicide.

"Hold on!" cried the doctor. "She's only going where Wilkins went. If there was a way down there for him she'll be able to follow him safely."

"And wherever they can go," said Ashton, "I guess we can follow."

He started down the corridor as he spoke. I should probably have agreed with him, had I not become aware just then that the door beside which I was standing opened into the elevator shaft, and the gauge showed that the elevator was descending. I signaled it to stop, on the chance that it might prove useful.

By that time Ashton had already joined Mallory at the window. Apparently one glance was all they needed, for they came hurrying back with white faces.

"She has worked herself along a six-inch ledge," said the lawyer, "to an iron standpipe. It's not conceivable that Wilkins went that way."

"Don't forget that he was Bully Franklin's first mate," said the doctor. "But this is a better way for us. Come along."

We all four piled into the elevator and told the boy to drop us, as quickly as he could, right through to the basement. The excitement in our faces was imperative. He threw the lever over and let us down at a tremendous rate.

"This way," cried Mallory, rushing off in the dark.

We lost sight of him, but heard sounds of a struggle he was having with a badly warped door which evidently had not been opened in a long time. He conquered it just as we came up with him, and the next moment, peering out in the misty gray light to see whether we had taken the right direction after all, we made out a dark blurred figure, which was, nevertheless, unmistakable. Still in that crouching attitude, with bowed head swaying from side to side, the girl was working round in wideuing circles, trying to catch the scent.

Presently she caught what she had been searching for, straightened up a little out of her crouching attitude, and set out, briskly, at a gait which was neither precisely a walk nor a run, but which, if she should keep it up, would tax our powers to follow.

She threaded her way down a three-foot paved passage, which led out of the court and into a larger one, crossed this and vaulted over a low brick wall into the alley which bisected the block behind The Meredith. She trotted the length of this, with us straggling along behind her as best we could, crossed the boulevard, without a glance to right or left, and went straight on down the alley and through the next block.

"You see," commented the doctor "he took elaborate precautions against being recognized in the immediate neighborhood of The Meredith. Almost every guest at the hotel, as well as the full force of servants, know him. But his chance of encountering any such person diminishes rapidly as he gets away from the vicinity of the hotel. He'll leave the alley to take to the streets presently."

(TO BE CONTINUED)

Scott's First Novel

"Waverly" was the first of the series of famous novels written by Sir Walter Scott, produced in 1814. The secret of the authorship was well kept for years. The book gives a fine picture of the hopes and fears that animated political parties in Great Britain in 1745, the year of the uprising led by Charles Stuart, the Young Pretender. Its name is taken from Waverly, near Hindhead, in Surrey, England.

They Are Not Afraid

The robins and wrens, the bluebirds and nuthatchers, like all birds, are not really timid, according to Nature Magazine. They will accustom themselves to anything as soon as they know that no harm will come to them.

Improved Uniform International

Sunday School Lesson

(By REV. P. B. FITZWATER, D.D., Dean Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.)
(©, 1927, by Western Newspaper Union.)

Lesson for December 4

ISAIAH TEACHES RIGHT LIVING

LESSON TEXT—Isa. 5:1-23.

GOLDEN TEXT—Pure religion and undefiled before God and the Father is this, to visit the fatherless and widows in their affliction and to keep himself unspotted from the world.

PRIMARY TOPIC—How to Please God.

JUNIOR TOPIC—A Life That Pleases God.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—A Life That Pleases God.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Elements of Right Living.

I. Israel, the Favored Nation (vv. 1-7).

Their unique relation to God is presented under the figure of a vineyard. Observe:

1. God's peculiar favor (vv. 1, 2). God did for this nation what He did for no other nation in the history of the world. He evidenced it when He assigned the boundaries of Israel's inheritance (see Num. 34:1-13).

He gathered out the stones when the Canaanites were exterminated. The choicest vine which was planted therein was the Israelitish nation which had gone through the disciplinary process in Egyptian bondage. He built a tower in it when under David Jerusalem was made its capital city.

2. The obligation of the nation (v. 2).

The purpose of a vineyard is to bear fruit. The object of the husbandman in planting a vineyard and nurturing it is that it might bear fruit. The purpose of God in the selection and the blessing of the Israelitish nation was that it might bring forth fruit to His glory.

3. It bore only wild grapes (v. 4).

4. The desolation of the vineyard (vv. 5-7).

Since all efforts had been wasted, the owner of the vineyard now resolves to abandon it to the wild beasts of the forest.

II. The Sins Which Brought Ruin to the Nation (vv. 8-23).

The causes of this destruction are presented under six woes, each woe pronounced against a particular sin.

1. Monopoly and oppression of the poor (vv. 8-10).

The crime against which the first woe was denounced is that of the avaricious grasping after property which leads to the accumulation of wealth in the hands of the few. "Joining house to house" and "laying field to field" means the sin of the greedy monopolist who in the agricultural district takes the form of the land grabber, in the commercial centers, the form of the big men crushing out the small ones.

2. Dissipation (vv. 11-17).

The sin here denounced is drunkenness. Several features are connected with this one sin.

(1) Drinking made the life business of some (v. 11).

They get up early and continue until late at night, until their whole being is inflamed.

(2) The effort to give their hellish business a show of refinement (v. 12). This is why pleasing music is heard pouring forth from the dens of infamy over our land.

(3) Blindness to God's warnings and judgments (v. 12).

Their drinking and dissipation rendered them insensible to the dealings of Providence.

(4) God's judgments for such sins (vv. 13-17).

They went into captivity. The immediate cause assigned is ignorance, but it is a willful ignorance for which they are held responsible. They not only go into captivity, but there is great mortality among those who drink (v. 14). The records everywhere show a much higher death rate among drinking men. Drinking degrades all classes (v. 15). The country itself was made a waste (vv. 18, 19). So daring do they become that they defy the judgments of the Almighty (v. 19).

3. Moral confusion (v. 20).

This woe is pronounced against those who try to adjust moral conditions to suit their sensual appetites.

4. Conceit (v. 21).

The fifth woe is pronounced against the sin of self-conceit. Many today have become so affected by sin that they are unable to make moral discriminations. Having a false estimate of their own wisdom they plan and act without reference to God.

5. Perversion of justice (vv. 22, 23).

The sixth woe is denounced against those who are in places of justice as judges. Because of their lack of moral discrimination, and because of desire for temporal gain they cause justice to miscarry.

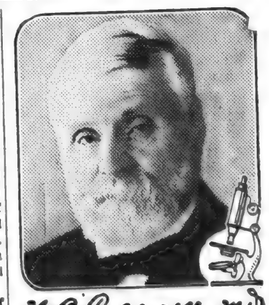
Treatment of Sin

Use sin as it will use you. Spare it not for it will not spare you. It is your murderer, and the murderer of the world. Use it, therefore as a murderer should be used.—Richard Baxter.

Fear of Mistakes

Some of us know what it is to be miserably afraid of making mistakes in our work. How graciously He meets this with "I will direct their work in truth."—Frances Ridley Havergal.

Doctor at 83 Found People Preferred His Prescription



W. B. Caldwell M.D. AT AGE 83

The basis of treating sickness has not changed since Dr. Caldwell left Medical College in 1875, nor since he placed on the market the laxative prescription he had used in his practice, known to druggists and the public since 1892, as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

Then, the treatment of constipation, biliousness, headaches, mental depression, indigestion, sour stomach and other indispositions that result from constipation was entirely by means of simple vegetable laxatives, herbs and roots. These are still the basis of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which is a combination of senna and other mild laxative herbs, with pepsin.

Dr. Caldwell did not approve of drastic physics and purges. He did not believe they were good for human beings to put into their system. If grown people want to use them no one can deny them the privilege, but they should never be given to children.

The simpler the remedy for constipation, the safer for the child and for you, and the better for the general health of all. And as you can get results in a mild and safe way by using Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, why take chances with strong drugs? All drug stores have the generous bottles.

We would be glad to have you prove at our expense how much Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin can mean to you and yours. Just write "Syrup Pepsin," Monticello, Illinois, and we will send you prepaid a FREE SAMPLE BOTTLE.

You can short change a man when he's got the toothache.

Some of the largest lies have been put over by silence.

Success never comes to a man who is afraid to risk failure.

Ghosts can appear by day; but never in the brightest sunlight.

SAY "BAYER ASPIRIN" Genuine

Unless you see the "Bayer Cross" on tablets, you are not getting the genuine Bayer Aspirin prescribed by physicians and proved safe by millions over 25 years for

Colds Headache Neuritis Lumbago
Pain Neuralgia Toothache Rheumatism

DOES NOT AFFECT THE HEART

Safe — Accept only "Bayer" package which contains proven directions. Handy "Bayer" boxes of 12 tablets. Also bottles of 24 and 100—Druggists.

Aspirin is the trade mark of Bayer Manufacture of Monoaceticacidester of Salicylicacid

Embarrassing Position Experienced By Bronx Lady

Miss Jeanne Ginsberg, Bronx, N. Y., writes: "I had become accustomed to arising each day with a heavy head, dizzy and bad taste in my mouth. My bowels were frequently clogged and constipated. One day I became so sick to my stomach I had to leave an important job and go home. A friend advised me to take CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS. I feel greatly relieved since using them and whenever my stomach and head goes bad again I'll certainly know what to do."

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS are sugar coated, small, easy to swallow, purely vegetable, and relieve the bowels free from pain. They tonic the system as they are purely vegetable and do not contain Mercury, Calomel or other poisonous drugs.

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS, 25c. and 75c. red packages.

Light in weight

yet strong and durable

THE patented "muscles" of Top Notch Buddy Boots give remarkable extra strength without adding weight. These ribs or muscles protect the sides of the boot, strengthen them and prevent cracking. The tough gray soles are double thick to match the wear-defying qualities of the legs. The most economical boot because the longest-lasting. In short, hip and Storm King lengths.

For dependable, distinctive boots, arctics and rubbers, always look for the Top Notch Cross. The most reliable stores carry the complete Top Notch line for men, women and children. The Beacon Falls Rubber Shoe Co., Beacon Falls, Conn.

TOP NOTCH
A GUARANTEE OF RELIABLE
Rubber Footwear

DECEMBER

L 915 U639

Local Briefs

December McCall's is here.

Get a rent receipt book at News office. tf.

Sheep for Sale, 14 Ewes. Mrs. H. M. Widney.

E. R. Kinsey had his shade trees trimmed this week.

Mr. and Mrs. John Betz spent Sunday with Fred Reichelderfer and wife at Fort Wayne.

Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Perry and daughter, of Kalamazoo, Mich., were visiting in town last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Beams of Spencerville, were Sunday evening callers at the Chas. Koch home.

Billie Sechler, wife and daughter and Mrs. A. W. Mohney were Monday dinner guests of Elnora Kinsey.

Mrs. Eva Shull was the guest of her daughter, Mrs. Doris Stuck and husband at Garrett over Sunday night.

Persons wishing to hunt can obtain license at News Office. Also we attend to your notary work promptly.

L. W. Yeiser and family of South Whitley, Miss Pearl Rigg of Auburn and Sam Keesler and family, spent Thanksgiving in the Wilbur Yeiser home.

Three new car owners are reported in St. Joe for the past week. Albert Morr has a Ford, Milton Haifley a Hudson and Rev. McKnight a Ford Sedan.

Perry McKibben and family of Orland, were Sunday guests of their daughter, Mrs. Wm. Harman and family. Mr. Chas. Gray of Hartwick, Iowa, an uncle of Mrs. Harman, was also a guest.

J. O. Quance was taken suddenly ill Sunday noon, when his tongue became paralyzed and he was unable to talk. The family doctor was called and gave the family to believe that he would soon recover.

Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Price and Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Koch of this place, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Koch and Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Rhodes and daughter, Alien of Spencerville, met Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Koch of Fort Wayne at Harlan and all ate Thanksgiving dinner at the Lutheran Church.

The new service building of the Auburn Automobile company on South Wayne street which has been under construction since early in the summer is nearing completion and will be ready for occupancy the early part of December. The splendid new building, strictly fire proof and constructed of steel, concrete and glass is 280 feet long, 70 feet wide and consists of two stories.

December McCall's is here.

Pure, fresh ground buckwheat flour. St. Joe Milling Co.

Mrs. J. W. Westfall has been on the sick list for the past week.

Ora Baker was at Indianapolis from Sunday until Tuesday on business.

Martha Miser of Muncie, was home over Thanksgiving and returned Sunday to her school.

Mrs. Alice Copp is at Columbia City visiting her daughter, Mrs. B. V. Widney until next Sunday.

You can now buy Atwter-Kent Radio, 6 tube set for less than $100.00 complete. Kenneth Meek. 43tf.

H. L. Dunkle of Waterloo was in town Tuesday saying hello. They will leave in a few days for Florida.

Have your glasses fitted by Benj. F. Griest, Eyesight Specialist, Office in American Bldg., Hicksville, Ohio. 28tf.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Williams and baby, of Fort Wayne, spent from Thursday until Sunday here guests of their parents.

Thanksgiving Day guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Kinsey, were, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Jenkins of Fort Wayne and Mrs. Roy Bowser.

Crushed lime stone is being spread on the B. & O. platform on the south side, this week, adding much to the appearance of the property.

Mr. and Mrs. Florence Buchanan left last Wednesday for Ft. Wayne, to spend the winter with their daughter, Mrs. F. W. Rhoads and family.

Wm. Harman and family and Chas. Hellinger and family were Thanksgiving guests of their sister, Mrs. Ralph Kaufman and family at Fort Wayne.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Koch were at Garrett calling on friends Sunday afternoon. They also visited Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Geisinger at their fox farm south of Garrett.

Subscriptions for any magazine you want, taken at The News office. Buy what you want and save money by ordering here. They make fine Christmas presents. Call and see us. 47tf.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Henly left last week for a few days visit with relatives at Tiffin, Fremont and his three sons at Toledo. Grant Baltz is looking after the mail services.

Old friends and neighbors of Coburntown of Mrs. Cad Shull, visited in her home just west of Newville last Wednesday. Those present were: Della Place, Mattie Hart, Eva Shull, Nellie Wise, Sadie Cuburn, Cordelia Dermott, Flora Wilmot, Cora Maxwell and Lizzie Hart. The ladies enjoyed their visit very much.

WHEN BETTER AUTOMOBILES ARE BUILT, BUICK WILL BUILD THEM

Drive Buick for 1928 over that bad road

Drive a Buick for 1928 over the stretch of bad road you know best.

Notice how Buick's Cantilever Springs smooth away those aggravating ruts and bumps.

Observe how Buick's Lovejoy Hydraulic Shock Absorbers, front and rear, absorb road shocks and eliminate jolts and jars. A car awaits you in our showroom.

SEDANS $1195 to $1995 COUPES $1195 to $1850
SPORT MODELS $1195 to $1325

All prices f. o. b. Flint, Mich., government tax to be added. The G. M. A. C. financing plan, the most desirable is available.

BUICK for 1928

BUICK SALES & SERVICE, Auburn.

HANDS OFF

Hands do not touch the White Velvet Flour at the mill. The wheat is thoroughly cleaned and scoured, and from the time it enters the hopper it is never touched by human hands until it reaches your kitchen and is ready for the mixing bowl. Scrupulous cleanliness in milling the White Velvet Flour makes it sweet and wholesome and good flour to use.

St. Joe Milling Co. HERMAN SPRINGER, Sole Owner

December McCall's is here.

Paper and envelopes News office.

For Sale:—18 Ewes, bred. Call Mrs. Elias Kline, Spencerville. 48t2.

New and used cars—will trade for anything. Joe Koch. 47t2.

Crepe paper three rolls for 10 cents as long as it lasts. News office.

M. C. Blue and Mrs. Elnora Kinsey spent from Wednesday until Sunday in Detroit.

Students in the University of Hard Knocks are not permitted to send home for money.

Mrs. Wm. Curie visited over Sunday with her sister, Mrs. Ada Boyles of Norwalk, Ohio.

The optimist hopes for the best and enjoys it; the pessimist fears the worst and realizes it.

Basket Ball at Spencerville Hall, Sat., Dec. 3. Auburn 8-in-line vs Spencerville A. C's. at 8 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Mohney were week end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Kinsey at Fremont, Indiana.

Trim up now, put on the Christmas appearance and everyone will feel more like buying during the holidays.

Make a choice of 12 Christmas Cards and we print your name free. See them now in News office window. 48tf.

Miss Hilda Koch of South Bend spent Wednesday night and Thursday here with her parents,, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Koch.

Sixty thousand dollars is expected to be paid this month to members of the Christmas Savings Clubs at Auburn.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Sims of Everton, Indiana, parents of Prof. Sims, were guests in his home from Thursday until Sunday.

Mrs. Harriett Haifley and son, Milton, were Thanksgiving guests of her daughter, Mrs. James Dorsey and family near Edgerton, O.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Hull and the J. O. Quance family of Fort Wayne, spent Thanksgiving Day with Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Quance at Auburn.

Christmas Cards put up in boxes at $1.00. Regular 15 cent values and a dozen of them in a box, double envelopes one of them lined. Call at News office. 45tf.

Lawrence and Ernest Pflaumer were home from Wednesday evening until Sunday, from Springfield. Garth Shull and LeVerne Pflaumer drove to Lima Wednesday evening for them.

The Indiana State Highway Commission has contracted for 8,000 yards of gravel to be taken from the pit on the Dilgard farm, northwest of Waterloo, to be used on the gravel maintained roads in this section of the state during the coming winter. A gravel pump has been placed in the pit and work will soon be under way taking out large quantities of gravel from the Dilgard farm.

OBITUARY

Mary Ellen Leichner Weirs, daughter of Joseph and Mary Leichner, was born April 20, 1856, in Salt Creek Township, Pickaway County, Ohio, and departed this life at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Martin Peters, November 17, 1927, at the age of 71 years, 6 months and 28 days.

She was united in holy wedlock to William R. Weirs October 23, 1875.

Most of her married life was spent in and near St. Joe, Ind.

She was a devoted wife and companion, a loving mother and a sincere Christian, having united with the Lutheran Church at St. Joe early in life.

For the last twelve years her health has been impaired, but bore her suffering without a murmur of complaint.

She leaves to mourn her going, two daughters and one son, Mrs. Bert Bachtel of Waterloo, Ind., Mrs. Martin Peters of Auburn and Rolla Weirs of St. Joe, Indiana; seven grandchildren, one brother, Frank Leichner of Hicksville, O., and one half sister, Mrs. Ida Page of Grabill, Ind. Husband and one daughter preceded her in death.

Our mother is gone to the tomb,
Her body is hid in the grave;
Our hearts are filled with gloom,
But she is the one who can save.
Her spirit is freed from all care,
Her body is now at rest;
Oh, in heaven I know she will be there,
In a garment of white, she will be dressed.

Funeral services were held at the home of the daughter, Mrs. Martin Peters, Sunday, November 20th, at 1:30 P. M. Rev. A. E. Burk, pastor of the Leo M. E. Church officiating. Interment in the St. Joe cemetrey. E. R. Kinsey funeral director.

December McCall's is here.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Keesler were in Fort Wayne Friday.

Pure, fresh ground buckwheat flour. St. Joe Milling Co.

Mr. and Mrs. Lankey Morr and family were Saturday guests of Fort Wayne relatives.

It is not too early to begin buying your cards for Christmas. 40 designs at News office. 48tf.

Pullets:—25 Rhode Island Reds; 25 White Rocks, all thoroughbred. Call Mrs. Ora Wilmot, Spencerville. 48t1.

If the government finally makes all of its money smaller, the church contribution box should be definitely benefited.

The radiophone isn't going to do us any good with some of our foreign neighbors till we get on speaking terms with them.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Springer and family of Pemberville, Ohio, were Thursday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Springer and family.

All that you have been anxious to know about the new Ford will be made known this week, when the curtain rises. Every dealer is to have a car by Friday.

For Sale:—The newest in Electric Washers. The One-minute Model 60, $97.50, also Model 52. Will be glad to demonstrate. Drop a card to M. S. Hilpert, Hicksville, Ohio. 46tf.

The steel gang that has had charge of the erecting at the water tank at the river, left town Monday morning for Tiffin. The electricians are here now getting their work in shape.

Cliff M. Johnson, editor of the Hamilton News, made our office a short visit some days ago on his return home from Edgerton, Ind., where he attended the funeral of an uncle. We enjoyed the visit of our friend.

Christmas cards of exquisite design on display at News office. We print your name on them. 48tf.

As an example of forehandedness we point to the Scotchman who sent his betrothed a package of flower seed in April and advised her to plant them so that she might have a corsage bouquet for her wedding in June.

Ed Myers, driver of the Holsum bread truck of Fort Wayne, run off the grade east of town Friday morning, the truck turning over on its side without any particular damage. The wrecker from Fort Wayne came in the afternoon.

Any parent will find the "Home Education" articles run in The News, a great help and guide in rearing their family. Lessons are taught here in story form that children like and thus truths are taught in a way that children will remember. Turn to it now and read it.

THE NEW DOLLAR

Every wage earner who is paid in one dollar bills will receive a smaller dollar shortly. This does not mean that his pay will be reduced or that the purchasing power of the dollar will be reduced; it means that dollar bills will be smaller in size. The new bill will be six and five-sixteenths inches long and two and eleven-sixteenths wide. The present bill's dimensions are seven and one-fourth by three and one-eighth inches.

Uncle Sam plans to save thousands of dollars annually through the reduction of size. With the present dimensions of the dollar bill it is possible to print only eight on one sheet. The reduction in size will make possible twelve to a sheet. By this alteration the time necessary for printing, the labor cost, etc., will be cut approximately one-third. Although the government uses a special paper—limited to the treasury department—and fortifies it with a resin and glue compound, the life of the average dollar bill is only eight months. Dollars, naturally, work harder than the larger bills. The ancient prejudice against the two-dollar bill still exists and many persons refuse them on the theory that they bring bad luck.

The general use of paper dollars is fairly recent. Not many years ago the man with money jingled silver dollars in his pocket and loved to stack them in piles. A paper dollar was rarely seen then, and in the far west the silver dollar was much preferred to paper currency. Now dollars have increased by the million and because of the great demand for them the government had to reduce their size or increase its facilities. The reduction obviates the necessity for more room and more printing machinery. It is expected that the new dollar will be in circulation within the next month or two.

Many Reasons Why America Should Show Gratitude

Material Blessings by No Means All Which Have Been Vouchsafed the Nation.

Perhaps this dedicated day has, in the ways of human nature, become too closely associated with the mere creature comforts that we enjoy. It is well enough to sit around the table among the annually reunited members of the family and while we enjoy the savory influences of a good dinner to recall, with grateful thanksgiving, the personal blessings that attend our own households. It is fitting and commendable that we should do this.

But the thanksgiving spirit, like the spirit of prayer, should wing a broader flight. It should soar to loftier spiritual heights, to points of universal survey and retrospection, from which it may view deeper and far more significant reckonings of benefits bestowed on city, state and nation that appeal to a more general sense of acknowledgment and gratitude. For such things have come to us, though perhaps not so intimately sensed or appraised as those that have found their way into our own homes and firesides.

This Favored Land.

From such an outlook it will appear that our America stands out among the nations of the earth a peculiarly favored land. Peace and prosperity dwell amongst us. From ocean to ocean the hum of industry has arisen to a universal chorus. There is work for every man and an able manhood to do it.

Looking around us we find that the spirit of charity has broadened. The habit of giving is no longer restricted to the bounty of the rich or the whims of the philanthropic. The care of the needy and the unfortunate has become recognized as the duty of every man, woman and child, and on every hand, throughout the nation, splendid institutions maintained by the free gifts of all the people testify to the enlargement of our views of human obligations and the brotherhood of man.

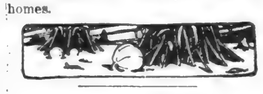
The health of the people was never so carefully and scientifically safeguarded. The pestilences that used to scourge the land have, for the most part, entirely disappeared before the onslaughts of scientific medication and prophylactic hygienic measures.

Faith Still Abundant.

Never before have the means of education been made so universally available to the youth of the land or its advantages so eagerly seized by parents and children.

We may see, too, that the "thoughts of men are widening with the process of the suns." Yet, widespread as is the freedom of thought in all fields of human intelligence today, the spirit of true religion has suffered no abatement. The church spires still point gloriously to the skies in every neighborhood and fervent throngs of youth and manhood still pass through the portals of the houses of God to testify to their faith and their hope and to yield of their charity. America was never before so Christian a land. "Still stands thine ancient sacrifice, a humble and a contrite heart!"

So, for these and many other blessings that have come to our country and that promise to remain, let thanks be given, as well as for the individual comforts and blessings which come more directly to our own homes.



Time to Thank God for His Many Gifts

Greatly do we need, on at least one day a year, to remind ourselves of the blessings received that we ought to be thankful for.

We may well be thankful for Thanksgiving day, appointed by authority, whereon to direct our thoughts to a subject which redeems human character from a charge, which otherwise would be against it, of churlish ungrateful acceptance of gifts.

The gifts of the seasons, we have learned to value through experiencing the fact that, however we sow, it is God alone who giveth the increase.

The ordinary things of life, our friends, the invigorating air, the life-sustaining water, the ability to enjoy food and sleep, the power to work, for example, we are very likely to accept as a matter of course, without a thought of thankfulness therefor.

For our national character's sake, for our own soul's sake, we cannot afford to lose the opportunity Thanksgiving day brings of joining in the anthem:

We thank Thee, then, O Father,
For all things bright and good,
The seedtime and the harvest,
Our life, our health, our food.
Accept the gifts we offer
For all Thy love imparts,
And what Thou most desirest,
Our humble, thankful hearts.

After all, we are not dumb beasts existing only to turn out Father's gifts into material increase!

Thanksgiving day is the national protest against such materialism, a day for the humble acknowledgment of our dependence upon the fatherly benevolence of the benign Creator of all things visible and invisible.—Montreal Family Herald.

Occasion Much More Than Mere Feast Day

As has been said, to cease to be thankful is to cease to live spiritually. There is no real zest in life, no actual profit in material possessions, for those who cannot conceive of another and less happy condition and, so conceiving, broaden their own spirits with gratefulness and charity. It often has seemed to this newspaper that two fine holidays, Christmas and Thanksgiving, are in danger of losing their spiritual significance to those who celebrate them. More, we are certain that in many instances this very calamity has taken place. But we like to believe that a majority of people still keep these days, in a measure at least, for what they are, and that at heart there is no actual fault. We like to believe this because it would be very hopeless to believe anything else.

If Thanksgiving were no better than a feast day it would be worse than useless to continue its observance. But it is something more, vastly more, than a feast day. It is a day on which one should reflect that life is very worth having, and the obligations of life well worth assuming—with a deep, abiding sense of gratitude to the Providence that orders all things.—Portland Oregonian.

Let Us Give Thanks—

That America is not engaged in any war this year.

For the bacteria that keep us well.

For every friend we have who can be trusted out of our sight.

That our enemies who knock us do not know all the truth.

For the electric waves which lift our burdens without protest.

That God knows more about us than the people who judge us wrongly.—Detroit Free Press.

"It Won't Be Long Now"

Watch for
OPENING DATE

Court Theatre
AUBURN, INDIANA

DECEMBER

L 915 0640

SPENCERVILLE

Daily papers at News office and magazines galore.

Pure, fresh ground buckwheat lour. St. Joe Milling Co.

Miss Irene Webb was a week end guest at the Mary Zimmerman home at Fort Wayne.

Basket Ball at Spencerville Hall, Sat., Dec. 3. Auburn 8-in-line vs Spencerville A. C's. at 8 o'clock.

You can now buy Atwter-Kent Radio, 6 tube set for less than $100.00 complete. Kenneth Meek. 43tf.

Mrs. Tressie Kelley was called to Angola last week to assist in caring for her sister, Mrs. Leona Bowerman.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Rectenwall and son, Warren, were over Sunday guests of the former's sister at Niles, Mich.

Make your selection of Greeting Cards now while our line is unbroken. See window display at News office. 48tf.

Mr. and Mrs. R. U. Bowser were guests Sunday of the former's brother, Iven C. Bowser and family of near Huntertown.

Mr. and Mrs. William Peck of Anderson and Miss Doris Beams of Muncie, were week end guests in the F. L. Beams home.

Cecil Rhodes, who has been working for the past year as truck driver for the Lumber company, quit last week. Maurice Hollabaugh has taken his place.

Mr. and Mrs. Orla Woodring and daughters of North Fairfield, Ohio, visited J. C. Vallieu and family Friday. They returned home Sunday and were accompanied by W. L. Vallieu.

The Methodist Sunday School elected the following officers, Sunday: Superintendent, Prof. A. J. Smith; Ass't., Lynn Howey. John Koch retired after being superintendent for twelve years.

Mrs. Jacob Baltz had as guests for Thanksgiving day Rolla Moffett and wife, Ray Rodefer and wife of Auburn, Paul Adams and wife of Fort Wayne, Frank Baltz and family and William Summers and wife.

Miss Aleen Rhodes entertained the Young Ladies Social Club and friends recently. Prizes were won by Mrs. Cleo Reed, Miss Gaylon Markle and Beeks Erick. Miss Garnet Beams won the prize in the Thanksgiving contest.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Perkins and sons, Mrs. Edward Billman, Vaughn Boston and family of Burlington, Mich., Samuel Betz of Springfield Center, John Betz of St. Joe, were Sunday dinner guests of Joel Betz and wife.

Mrs. Matilda Oberholtzer and Mrs. Cozy Oberholtzer of Grabill and Jerry Markle were Thanksgiving dinner guests in the B. F. Markle home. Afternoon guests guests in the same home were, Mrs. George Doll and daughter, Ruthanna and Mrs. Paul Dean of Fort Wayne and Mrs. Eck Hursh and son, Woodrow.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Vallieu had as guests Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Wise and children of Auburn, Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Vallieu and daughter, Norma Jean of Fort Wayne and Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Vallieu and daughters of Harlan. Thanksgiving dinner guests in the same home were Mr. and Mrs. L. V. Myers and daughter, Nancy Lou and Miss Lellie Mills of Fort Wayne.

The R. U. Bowser public sale on Friday was attended by more than 500 people. All live stock sold high. Rhodenbaugh & McNamara, auctioneers, showed some speed selling 629 head of sheep and cattle in six hours, being less than two minutes per head. The sale amounting to $15,525. Some of the buyers received the advertisement of this sale over radio as this was the first public sale to be announced over WOWO out of Ft. Wayne. Martin Walter was given the free heifer.

Andrew J. Hemrick, 81, died Wednesday morning at 4:30 o'clock at his home, 1486 Heustis avenue, Fort Wayne. He had been bedfast twelve weeks. Mr. Hemrick was born in Germany, but had been a resident of Fort Wayne since he was one year old. Surviving are his widow, Catherine; two daughters, Mrs. Myrtle Fisher of San Francisco, Cal., and Mrs. Frank Butler of Spencerville; three sons, John of Peru, Clyde and Frank and one sister, Mrs. Rose Ann Koehnig, of Ft. Wayne; one brother, William of Spencerville. Private funeral services were held Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the home, Rev. H. L. Miller officiating. Burial in Lindenwood.

Mrs. Vernie Rhodes will entertain the C. C. Club at her home on Friday afternonn.

Mrs. Nancy Chaney was a Sunday dinner guest of Charles Gibbons and family, east of town.

John Benninghoff of Ft. Way,ne, was a Friday guest of Mr. and Mrs. Jason Keyes.

Prof. and Mrs. A. J. Smith had as guests on Thanksgiving Day, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Shaw of Argus, Indiana.

B. A. Rhoades and family of Ft. Wayne, were Saturday night and Sunday guests of his mother, Mrs. Arline Rhoades.

Mrs. Gust Cupp was a guest last week of her daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. William Henderson at Fort Wayne.

Mrs. Estella Gilbert of Detroit and Gladys Headly of Hicksville, were Friday evening guests of Raymond Rhodes and family.

The Harlan City Team played the Spencerville City Team at this place on Saturday night. The score was 35-17, in favor of the locals.

The Farmers' Institute of Spencer, Concord and Newville townships will be held here in the Community Hall on December 6-7. The Home Bureau Club will serve refreshments.

Ralph Gloyd and family of Royal Oak, Mich., and Mr. and Mrs. Isadore Badica and sons of near Fort Wayne, spent several days last week with their mother, Mrs. Emila Gloyd and family.

Joel Betz and wife, Walter Perkins, wife and sons of near Harlan, Vonnie Boston, wife and son of Burlington, Mich., Earnest Baszaska and wife of Fort Wayne and Arthur Steward and family of Garrett, spent Thanksgiving Day with Mr. and Mrs. Edward Billman.

Mr. and Mrs. Warren Morr and Mrs. Raymond Leader of Toledo, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Huff and family of Cecil, Ohio, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Sliffer of North Scipio and George Bryant of Fort Wayne, were Thanksgiving dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hahn and family north of town.

With the Churches

ST. JOE M. P. CHURCH

Mrs. Hattie Widney, Supt.
Sunday School, 9:30 A. M.
Preaching service 7:00 o'clock.
Christian Endeavor, 6:00 P. M.

CONCORD M. P. CHURCH

George Johnson, Supt.
Sunday school 9:30 A. M.
Preaching, 10:30.
Christian Endeavor, 6:30.
The Reverend Harlan L. Feeman, President of Adrain College, will fill the pulpits.
J. F. McKnight, Pastor.

EVANGELICAL LUTHERAN CHURCHES

"Blessed are they which hunger and thirst after righteousness, for they shall be filled." Matt. 5: 6.

A man may be measured by his desires. Righteousness is a supreme object of desire. The desire is the measure of the supply. A real desire culminates in action. Hunger drives to work.

What leads people thus to hunger and thirst? A sense of insufficiency. A sense of guilt. A perception of utter inefficacy of all human prescriptions to remove sin or supply righteousness. Those who hunger and thirst are blessed, because it is the evidence of a new nature and of acceptance with God. They are "filled"—satisfied, with righteousness, happiness and finally with the likeness of God.

ST. JOE

Sabbath Bible School at 9:30 A. M., Mr. Derwood Ridgway, Superintendent.
Preaching service, 10:30.

SPENCERVILLE

Sabbath Bible School at 9:15 A. M., Mr. Ray Means, Superintendent.
Sermon, 7:00 P. M.
P. B. Roediger, Pastor.

CHURCH OF CHRIST

ST. JOE

"Human creeds cause more heresy than they prevent or cure."
Ed Storer, Supt.
Bible School, 9:30 A. M.
Sermon, 7:00 P. M.
Splendid services last Sunday. Fifty-six in the preaching audience. Good. Keep it up.

NEWVILLE

Frank Lyons, Superintendent
Bible School, 10:00 A. M., sun time.
Lord's Supper, 11:00 A. M., sun time.
Sermon, 11:15 A. M. sun time.
Fine crowd last Sunday evening.
S. R. Aldrich, Pastor.

Methodist Episcopal Church Spencerville

Sunday School, 9:00 A. M.—John Koch, Superintendent.
Holy Communion Service.
Epworth League, 6:00 P. M.

Text, John 6: 53. "Except ye eat the flesh of the Son of man and drink his blood, ye have no life in you."

This is figurative language uttered by our Lord, and it has a meaning for all. The statement reminds us that God has offered some plans for the salvation of humanity which man cannot change. There is no other way unto eternal life but His way.

Jesus says, "Whoso eateth my flesh, and drinketh my blood, hath eternal life; and I will raise him up at the last day." Again he says, "No man cometh unto the Father but by me."

Either no man can be saved unto life eternal without Jesus as a Savior, and his atoning blood, or else his death was a farce. Either every man needs a Redeemer, or no man needs a Redeemer. If one man can be saved without Jesus, then any other man can also. He gave up his life that any one believing in him might have life. His death and resurrection made of him a personal Savior. Hence, every man's salvation depends upon his personal acceptance of and allegiance to Jesus, and apart from him there is no salvation. The Holy Communion is a symbol of his broken body and shed blood and every participant thereby confesses that he takes that propitiation for himself. You and I are responsible for either personally accepting or rejecting God's plan.
Roy S. Brown, Pastor.

DRIVER TO AVOID TRAIN MUST STOP AND LOOK

Reliance on Signals or Hearing Not Sufficient to Transfer Responsibility

The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company, Petitioners, V. Dora Goodman, Administratrix of Nathan Goodman, No. 58, Supreme Court of the United States.

The deceased, in this case, in crossing a railroad track relied upon not hearing the train which caused his death, or any signal, and took no further precaution. The court hold that he did so at his own risk.

On Writ of certiorari to the Circuit Court of Appeals for the Sixth Circuit.

Mr. Justice Holmes delivered the opinion of the court. The full text follows:

This is a suit brought by the widow and administratrix of Nathan Goodman against the petitioner for causing his death by running him down at a grade crossing. The defense is that Goodman's own negligence caused the death.

At the trial the defendant asked the court to direct a verdict for it, but the request and others looking to the same direction were refused, and the plaintiff got a verdict and a judgment which was affirmed by the Circuit Court of Appeals, 10 F. (2d) 58.

Goodman was driving an automobile truck in an easterly direction and was killed by a train running southwesterly across the road at a rate of not less than 60 miles an hour. The line was straight, but it is said by the respondent that Goodman "Had no practical view" beyond a section house 243 feet north of the crossing until he was about 20 feet from the first rail, or, as the respondent argues, 12 feet from danger, and that when the engine was still obscured by the section house.

He had been driving at the rate of 10 or 12 miles an hour but had cut down his rate to 5 or 6 miles at about 40 feet from the crossing. It is thought that there was an emergency in which, so far as appears, Goodman did all that he could.

We do not go into further details as to Goodman's precise situation beyond mentioning that it was daylight and that he was fawas dayligh and that he was familiar with the crossing, for it appears to us plain that nothing is suggested by the evidence to relieve Goodman from responsibility for his own death. When a man goes upon a railroad track he knows that he goes to a place where he will be killed if a train comes upon him before he is clear of the track. He knows that he must stop for the train not the train stop for him.

In such circumstances it seems to us that if a driver cannot be sure otherwise whether a train is dangerously near, he must stop and get out of his vehicle, although abviously he will not often be required to do more than to stop and look. It seems to us that if he relies upon not hearing the train or any signal and takes no further precaution he does so at his own risk.

If at the last moment Goodman found himself in an emergency it was his own fault that he did not reduce his speed earlier or come to a stop.

AUBURN ATTORNEY AWARDED $65 FEE

Howard S. Grimm Wins Suit Against William Harman of St. Joe

A jury trial was held in the court of justice of the Peace W. A. McDanel in the suit of Howard S. Grimm of Auburn, against William Harman of St. Joe, which was venued from the court of Justice E. A. McClintock of Auburn.

The suit was for the collection of attorney's fees amounting to $65 incurred when Mr. Grimm represented Mr. Harman in a damage suit resulting from an automobile accident in August. Mr. Harman claimed that he had not retained Mr. Grimm.

After deliberating fifteen minutes the jury entered a verdict in favor of Mr. Grimm to the extent of the full amount of his claim.

Russel R. Ridenour of Auburn was the defendant's counsel and P. L. DeVita of Garrett, represented the plaintiff. J. H. Zeek, M. B. Breeze, E. H. Harrigar, A. L. Farner, Marion Sarber and Elmer Tindall composed the jury.

Following the trial, on Tuesday evening Mr. Grimm and his constable came to St. Joe with intentions of closing the market up and about a dozen citizens said no, this can't be done. Mr. Harman is a respectable merchant, honest and upright in every respect, so they all signed a bond for the amount of judgment.

This is a tribute to any man's conduct when men voluntarily do as these men did.

Just suppose Lindberg had been accompanied by a backseat driver!

Too many college students get idea that the roadhouse and the schoolhouse are both parts of the same educational institution.

JEFF N. BOYLE LEFT AN ESTATE VALUED AT $15,000

Wm. D. Boyle and Cleveland Grube, nominated in the will of the late Jeff N. Boyle for executors, have qualified by filing $10,000 surety bond each in the DeKalb circuit court.

The death of Jeff Boyle took place at Butler Nov. 12 and he left $5,000 in personal property and $10,000 in real estate. The heirs are one brother, Wm. D. Boyle, of Butler, two cousins, Ella Lucas and Louis Beam of Spencerville, one nephew, J. Ross Boyle of Newark, N. J., two nieces, Ethel Hamilton and Cleo G. Boyle of Butler, and Ray C. Silver of Detroit, Harold and Roscoe Sechler of Edgerton, O., and Catherine Ash of Hillsdale, Mich., and Earl Lockwood of Marshall, Mich., all of whom were of no relation to the decedent.

NO NECESSARY EVIL

Dr. Ernest H. Cherrington, general secretary of the World League Against Alcoholism, makes the following statements in his recent addresses:

"Personal liberty is the least where there is no law and no government, while personal liberty reaches its highest degree where the strongest enforced restrictions and prohibitions are placed on anti-social acts.

"The first necessary step in the securing of any reform against a great evil is to deprive that evil of the sanction of the law and government.

"A great social reform such as the one in which we are engaged today is not a revolution, it is an evolution. It cannot be obtained by legislation alone, but primarily by education.

"The final decision will not rest with the next general election, but with the next generaion."

BOYS BASKET BALL SCHEDULE 1927-28

ST. JOE

Dec. 2, Waterloo, there.
Dec. 9, Hamilton, here.
Dec. 17, Harlan, there.
Dec. 23, Mark Center, here.
Dec. 2?, Alumni, here.
Dec. 30, Woodburn, here.
Jan. 6, Mark Center, there.
Jan. 13, Leo, there.
Jan. 20, Waterloo, here.
Jan. 27, County Tourney.
Feb. 3, Spencerville, there.
Feb. 10 Corunna, there.
Feb. 11, Auburn, here.
Feb. 17, Hamilton, there.
Feb. 18, Corunna, here.
Feb. 24, Butler, there.
March 3-4, Sectional Tourney.

GIRLS BASKET BALL

Dec. 2, Waterloo, there.
Dec. 23, Mark Center, here.
Dec. 24, Corunna, there.
Dec. 30, Ashley, here.
Jan. 6, Mark Center, there.
Jan. 20, Waterloo, here.
Feb. 18, Corunna, here.

Christmas

Engraved Greeting Cards

THE Holidays are just round the corner. Have you ordered your engraved Greeting Cards as yet? Don't wait until the last minute. Our assortment of beautiful and artistic Christmas and New Year's cards is now complete, and there is ample time for us to give you our most careful attention and service.

ST. JOE NEWS OFFICE

We Do STATIONERY PRINTING on HAMMERMILL BOND

PHONE 290
Stanley P. Nelson Monuments
Opposite Woodlawn and Roselawn Cemeteries.
AUBURN, IND.

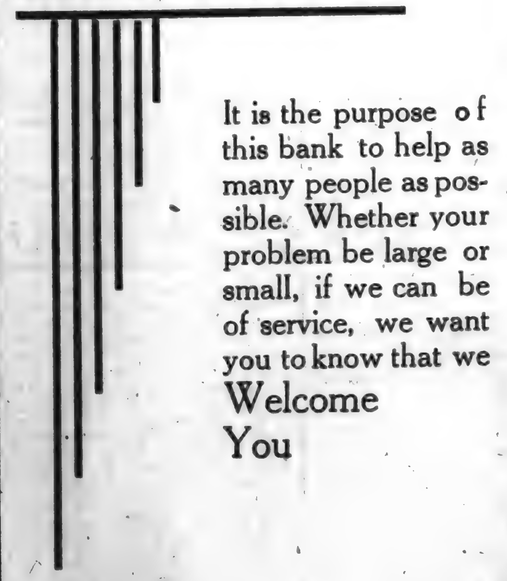
DR. C. R. BAUMGARTNER
Veterinarian
Spencerville, Ind.
PHONES: 282--283.

Dr. E. T. Julian
St. JOE
10 to 11:30 each forenoon. at Dr. C. R. Price office.

Lard Cans - 48c
Regular 50 pound can, new stock, just in and a real buy
All sizes of GLASS--NOW IN STOCK
We also have on display one of the Famous "JACK-O-BEAN" PARLOR FURNACES, the kind that is a fuel saver. See it.
Bowser & Reed, - - Spencerville

Russel R. Reidenour
ATTORNEY
Auburn, Ind.

Service to All



It is the purpose of this bank to help as many people as possible. Whether your problem be large or small, if we can be of service, we want you to know that we Welcome
You

Farmers' & Merchants State Bank
Spencerville, Ind.

DECEMBER

L 915 U641

CHINESE EMBROIDERY IS FEATURED ON BLOUSE, BAG

By JULIA BOTTOMLEY

WITH sumptuous velvets, gorgeous brocades, likewise cloth of gold and silver, as its media, the blouse is contributing no little to the present era of elegance in dress. The note of luxury also is expressed in that which is very new and chic—the blouse whose all-over exotic embroidery is developed in high colors and striking design.

Nothing handsomer in the way of a blouse has been brought out this season than that which is made of black satin whose marvelous embroidery is frankly of Chinese inspiration. The picture shows a blouse of this type. The fact of an embroidered wrist bag to match, presents a novel and fetching angle to the mode. As to the effectiveness of such an ensemble, little need be said, for the picture tells its own story.

The idea of the all-over embroidered blouse is being worked out in beautiful form, for the velvet two-piece frock. Fascinating models feature the blouse, which is of the same velvet as the skirt, with skillful embroidery bordering bipline, wrists and about the neckline, extending up and down a semi-front opening. Little repeat designs are scattered over the entire tunic. One such, recently displayed, is of almost green sheer velvet. The motifs and borders are done in oriental colorings which are intermingled with gold and silver threadwork.

In the present vogue for the embroidered blouse the home dressmaker with an artistic turn of mind should find inspiration for designing costumes which shall carry the distinction of fine handwork.

The all-over repeat design is one way of accomplishing a unique effect. Perhaps it may be just a simple rosebud motif scattered here and there or a conventional patterning, or as is very effective, a single flower spray across the front of the blouse.

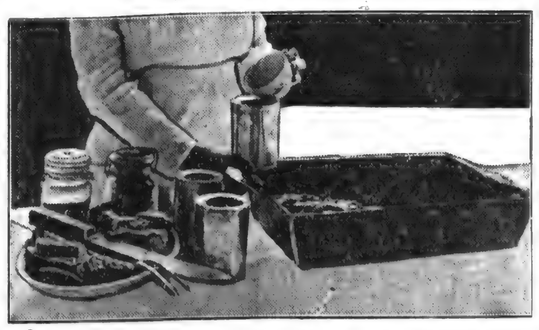
The blouse starred all over with tiny gold or silver nailheads is also very modish. A black satin frock whose skirt is plaited or draped takes on a smart appearance if its blouse be thus polka-dotted with metal nailheads. With this wear a narrow satin belt which has been solidly encrusted with the nailheads—the effect is stunning.

Now that oriental embroideries are so featured in the mode, one can pick up lovely specimens of Japanese and Chinese handiwork, in the form of panels and squares. These can be inset in the velvet or satin blouse with extreme effectiveness.

Another clever way is to set the embroidery pieces in with fagoting which is done with gold thread.

(©, 1927, Western Newspaper Union.)

CANNING MEATS ON THE FARM



Adding Hot Gravy to Meat in Cans Before Canning in Steam Pressure Canner.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The canning of meats on the farm has become one of the most important methods of food preservation. Only meats that have been freshly killed and cleanly handled should be preserved in this way. The United States Department of Agriculture recommends that the steam pressure canner should always be used. A high temperature of 250 degrees, equivalent to a steam pressure of 15 pounds per square inch, is required to sterilize meats properly and prevent spoilage.

Prepare for Canning.

After slaughtering, the meat may be prepared for canning as soon as the animal heat has disappeared. The directions below are given for canning roast pork, but they may be applied to similar cuts of beef or lamb. The meat should always be cooked and seasoned before it is canned—whether it is roasted, fried, baked or stewed—just as though for immediate serving, so that the flavor will be retained. It need not be cooked tender, but it should be cooked until the center is no longer red. Pack the meat as hot as possible. Remove all bones and fill up the jar or can with hot gravy stock, so that the sterilization period will not be longer than necessary.

Either glass jars or tin cans may be used for canning meats. Full directions for each step in the process in either case will be found in Farmers' Bulletin 1180-F, "Pork on the Farm," and also recipes for preparing the various parts of the hog in different ways for canning. The flavoring and proportions in these recipes may be varied to suit individual taste, but the length of time and temperature for the processing period of each meat or mixture should never be changed.

Piece for Roasting.

In the case of pork, the ham, shoulder or loin is generally used for roasting. Scrape the skin clean and wipe it with a damp cloth. If the ham is used and the skin is left on, cut with the point of a knife just through the skin so as to dice it, and trim with cloves and tufts of parsley if desired. Salt and pepper to taste should be sprinkled over the ham. Heat in a roasting pan from two to three tablespoonfuls of grease. Put in the roast when this is hot and sear it quickly all over to seal the pores and prevent loss of the juice of the meat. Add two small turnips to the roasting pan and from one-half to one cupful of boiling water. Leave skin side up and do not turn, but baste frequently. When cooked through and nicely browned, slice and pack in cans or jars to within one-half inch of the top of the can. Add the gravy from the roasting pan, or soup stock so that it barely covers the meat. Close the can or jar, and process it in the steam pressure cooker. No. 2 cans or pint jars are processed for 45 to fifty minutes at 250 degrees Fahrenheit or 15 pounds of steam pressure. No. 3 cans or quart jars from 55 to 60 minutes at the same pressure. In case the meat is fat, time for processing must be prolonged 10 minutes.

(©, 1927, Western Newspaper Union.)

The BABY

Why do so many, many babies of today escape all the little fretful spells and infantile ailments that used to worry mothers through the day, and keep them up half the night?

If you don't know the answer, you haven't discovered pure, harmless Castoria. It is sweet to the taste, and sweet in the little stomach. And its gentle influence seems felt all through the tiny system. Not even a distasteful dose of castor oil does so much good.

Fletcher's Castoria is purely vegetable, so you may give it freely, at first sign of colic; or constipation; or diarrhea. Or those many times when you just don't know what is the matter. For real sickness, call the doctor, always. At other times, a few drops of Fletcher's Castoria.

The doctor often tells you to do just that; and always says Fletcher's. Other preparations may be just as pure, just as free from dangerous drugs, but why experiment? Besides, the book on care and feeding of babies that comes with Fletcher's Castoria is worth its weight in gold!

Children Cry for Fletcher's CASTORIA

Stop Coughing

The more you cough the worse you feel, and the more inflamed your throat and lungs become. Give them a chance to heal.

Boschee's Syrup

has been giving relief for sixty-one years. Try it. 30c and 90c bottles. Buy it at your drug store. G. G. Green, Inc., Woodbury, N. J.

Garfield Tea

Was Your Grandmother's Remedy

For every stomach and intestinal ill. This good old-fashioned herb home remedy for constipation, stomach ills and other derangements of the system so prevalent these days is in even greater favor as a family medicine than in your grandmother's day.

The Connection

"Why did Jack yell 'Fire' when you passed by?"

"Because I'm an old flame of his."

The envious die, but envy never.

Hill's Knocks COLDS

—in one day, HILL'S Cascara-Bromide-Quinine tablets knock a cold. Leave you feeling fine. Look for red box. 30c. All druggists.

Hog Cholera

Is one of the greatest financial losses of the hog raiser and feeder. This great loss can now be controlled by the use of MORECO. MORECO is a powder which is mixed in the feed in one to two tablespoon doses. MORECO is a preventive and treatment of hog cholera. It will also kill all intestinal worms and will keep your herd free from worms. This treatment is being used by several prominent feeders in Indiana and Ohio and is sold on a money-back guarantee. For further particulars, write to

DR. CHARLES D. MORROW
1516 Columbia Ave.
Fort Wayne, . . . Indiana.

CARBUNCLES
Carboil draws out the core and gives quick relief.
CARBOIL
GENEROUS 50¢ BOX
At All Druggists — Money-back Guarantee

MARY GRAHAM BONNER STORY FOR CHILDREN

The reindeer were ready. The sleigh was ready. The great pack was ready, and Santa Claus was ready.

"We're going to the cities, of course," said Santa Claus, "but first we must go to many of the country places.

"We won't forget a single one, my beautiful reindeer.

"We're going to the farthest away farm house where there are children.

"Yes, my beautiful reindeer, wherever there are children, we will go."

Off they started in the cool, frosty air.

Off they flew, off they hurried, off they dashed.

Never had the reindeer gone any more quickly. Never had they felt more like going.

Or, did they feel the same way every Christmas?

Certainly it was a beautiful way to feel.

But, any way, they had never felt more like rushing to the different houses than they had felt this year.

Never had they felt more like hurrying.

Never had they enjoyed the cool, frosty air more.

Never had the presents seemed nicer.

Never had Santa Claus been more pleased with the work that he had accomplished in his shop throughout the year.

Never had the letters he had received pleased him more.

Never had the traveling seemed more exciting, or more comfortable.

Never had the sleigh traveled with such lightning speed.

It was all quite perfect.

And then they began stopping at the out-of-the-way country houses.

Sometimes they would go to a house far, far, far from any other.

Almost the reindeer would never

He Always Knew.

have been able to tell there was such a house had not Santa said so.

But Santa Claus knew.

He always knew the houses where children lived.

No matter how far away they might be he knew about them.

And from house to house they went.

And as Santa came back each time he would say to his reindeer:

"They were almost the nicest children I've seen—in that house."

The reindeer chuckled and grinned to themselves, for that was what Santa Claus always said.

On and on they hurried. There were the small places to visit and the big places, but now they were going to the far, far-away places which Santa Claus never forgot.

And as they sped over the snowy white country Santa Claus kept telling the reindeer to hurry and the reindeer kept hurrying more and more and more.

And every time Santa Claus came out of a house he made his same speech, which the reindeer did so love to hear:

"They were almost the nicest children I've ever seen—in that house."

(©, 1927, Western Newspaper Union.)

PEANUT BUTTER CUP CAKES JUST A LITTLE DIFFERENT

Whether you are wishing for something just a little different in the way of a cake recipe, or just happen to have some peanut butter you would like to make use of in a new way, try these peanut butter cup cakes, which have been tried out by the bureau of home economics and found delicious.

4 tablespoons peanut butter	1½ cups soft wheat flour
2 tablespoons butter	3 teaspoons baking powder
¼ cup sugar	¼ teaspoon salt
1 egg	½ teaspoon vanilla
½ cupful milk

Mix the butter, peanut butter and sugar well. Add the beaten egg and the sifted dry ingredients alternately with the milk. Add the vanilla. Bake in greased muffin tins in a moderate oven for about 20 minutes.

TERSE TRUTHS

Some men's natural bent seems to be patterned after a corkscrew.

Some people find it easier to please others than to please themselves.

It goes without saying that the less said about some things the better.

The pace that kills wouldn't be so bad if it killed only the pacemaker.

Millions of people can't be impressed with the idea that they ought to "improve their souls."

CANNING SURPLUS CHICKEN

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Canning the surplus birds from the home poultry flock is oftentimes an economical practice. Either young or old birds may be canned by home methods. Plump well-fed hens two years old have as good texture and better flavor when canned than six-months old chickens.

Prepare the chicken for canning as you would for cooking. Pick, singe, remove pin feathers, and wash the birds. Then disjoint and cut them in the usual pieces, and discard the entrails. Remove and discard the oil sac and the lungs and kidneys, and do not use the giblets and eggs for canning. Be particularly careful not to break the gall bladder. If this does happen, do not use that chicken for canning because it will have a very unpleasant taste. Trim off any large pieces of fat. If there is a great deal of fat in the jar, it is likely to cook out on the rubber ring during the processing and may cause it to slip, thus spoiling the seal. Cut the white meat in large pieces from the breast bone and shoulders. Leave the meat on the bones in the other pieces. Cut the neck off close to the body, and use it and the other very bony pieces, such as the back and perhaps the feet, after they have been skinned, for making broth to fill up the jars. Cover these bony pieces with lightly salted cold water, bring to the boil, and simmer for 15 minutes to make this broth.

Chicken should be packed hot into hot, clean jars. It may be prepared for packing in either of two ways. Simmer the pieces of chicken in a small quantity of water until it is boiling hot all through. Or sear the pieces in hot fat until they are golden brown, and then pour hot broth over them and let them heat through to boiling temperature. Do not roll the meat in flour before cooking, because this makes it more difficult to process effectively.

Pack the pieces of hot chicken in pint jars. Put some white and some dark meat into each jar, or pack all the white meat into separate jars if desired for some special use. Be sure, however, not to get so close a pack that the broth cannot circulate freely in the jar. Two four-pound birds, when cut up and cooked ready for packing into the jars, will fill five pint jars. Add a half teaspoonful of salt to each pint jar and enough boiling broth to cover the meat. Adjust the rubber rings and covers and seal the jars.

Place the hot-packed jars immediately in a pressure canner, and process for one hour at 15 pounds pressure, or 250 degrees Fahrenheit. Begin to count time when the pressure gauge registers 15 pounds, not before. When the hour is up, allow the canner to cool until the gauge registers zero before opening the pet cock.

HINTS FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

A pinch of mustard gives a pleasant tang to any cheese dish.

• • •

Add a little kerosene to the water used to wash windows and the job will be easier.

• • •

Liver is a food especially recommended for anemic persons because it contains iron.

• • •

Mend and use that crippled furniture in attic or cellar, or give it away, or burn it in the fireplace.

• • •

Take the weight off your feet when getting meals by using a high stool at the kitchen sink and a chair at the kitchen table.

• • •

Children learn by doing. Unless they have a chance to help choose their clothes, to handle money and to make their own decisions while they are young, it will be harder for them when they are grown.

ECHOES OF EXPERIENCE

Worst feature of lying is that the habit grows on one.

Don't think a lot of yourself; think a lot about yourself.

One way to make both ends meet is to tie them together.

A silly woman tries to drive a man; a wise one leads him.

You can't always judge the show by the price of admission.

You have buried the hatchet, but have you buried the spade?

If you are without sentiment, you are not a success.—Forbes Magazine.

You must have a genius for charity as well as for anything else.—Thoreau.

Why shouldn't an automobile be built to last a lifetime? A piano does.

RECIPES - - By NELLIE MAXWELL

For a simple luncheon or a supper the following salad is most appropriate:

Fruit Salad.—Pour a cupful of boiling water over one-half pound of dates and drain dry; cut into lengths and remove the stones. Add to the dates one cupful of finely diced apple, two slices of finely cut pineapple, sprinkle with salt and cover with two tablespoonfuls of French dressing and one-half cupful of finely cut celery. Let stand one hour, then serve with mayonnaise and whipped cream, using a cupful of cream to two tablespoonfuls of mayonnaise. Serve on lettuce.

Tomatoes Stuffed With Pineapple.—Peel medium-sized tomatoes, cut a slice from the top of each and remove the seeds and pulp. Sprinkle the inside of the tomatoes with salt and fill with shredded pineapple or finely diced pineapple mixed with nuts and mayonnaise dressing. Arrange the tomatoes on lettuce, garnish with mayonnaise and half of a walnut meat.

Pineapple and Cucumber Salad.—Drain one cupful of crushed pineapple, add one cupful of finely diced cucumber, add a teaspoonful of onion juice, mix with mayonnaise and season with salt and cayenne. Serve on lettuce garnished with narrow strips of red and green peppers.

Pineapple Cake Filling.—Take one cupful of sugar, one-half cupful of water and cook until it threads. Pour over one egg white, beating well. When thick enough to spread, spread well-drained pineapple over the layer of cake and cover with the boiling frosting.

Sponge Cake With Pineapple.—Arrange small pieces of sponge cake in a flat bowl, pour over as much pineapple juice as it will absorb. Set in a cool place. At serving time invert on a platter and serve garnished with whipped cream.

Quince Pudding.—Take three pounds of quinces, scald them until tender, then peel very thin. Add sugar to make very sweet, with a little candied ginger or cinnamon. To a pint of cream add four eggs and the quinces. Butter a baking dish and bake until firm.

Sweetbreads a la Napoli.—Parboil a large sweetbread and cut into eight pieces. Cook in a hot frying pan with plenty of butter, add enough beef extract to give the sweetbread a glazed appearance. Cut bread into slices, shape with a circular cutter and toast. Spread each piece with two tablespoonfuls of grated Parmesan cheese, seasoned with salt and pepper and moistened with two tablespoonfuls of cream. Arrange one piece of sweetbread on each piece of toast and season with salt and pepper. Put into individual glass-covered dishes, having two tablespoonfuls of cream in each dish; cover each sweetbread with a fried mushroom cap, on the covers and bake in a moderate oven eight minutes.

The French people excel in the preparation of the delightful confection called marrons glaces. They are made by a very simple process. Blanch and boil a quart of chestnuts till tender, then drain and place in a shallow buttered platter, ready to have the candied sirup poured on them. Boil one pound of sugar and one-fourth pint of water until it threads from the spoon. Do not stir. Cool and while still warm pour over the nuts and let them stand in a warm place for thirty-six hours, then remove the nuts. Have ready a sirup made like the first with one-fourth teaspoonful of cream of tartar added. Boil hard for seven minutes without stirring. Take from the heat and drop the nuts into it, place over the fire and bring the sirup to a boil, then stir carefully; skim out the nuts and drain them. When dry they are ready to pack away.

Escalloped Veal With Potato.—Mince cooked veal very fine. Butter a baking dish and put a thin layer of veal on the bottom, sprinkle with chopped onion and cover with a layer of mashed and seasoned potato, add another layer of veal, onion and seasoning and cover with potato. Moisten with milk, cover and bake until thoroughly heated. Remove the cover and brown.

Orange juice is ideal for young and old and if taken daily will keep the body in good health.

(©, 1927, Western Newspaper Union.)

DECEMBER

L 915 0642

Look over old worn floors at night and plan. Write for free literature and directions.

OAK Floors

will modernize your home. Make it more valuable for rental or sale. Permanent, beautiful, economical, easy to keep clean.

OAK FLOORING BUREAU
1796 Builders' Building CHICAGO

Parking Space Needed

Jack—I've an idea!

Jean—You'll probably lose it. You have no place to keep it.

Ask for SUNSHINE RAISINS; contain Iron, Vitamines, Real Energy, at your grocer's.—Adv.

The Boss' Chance

Help—But I haven't asked you for more salary before.

Boss—Of course not, and I never had reason to fire you.

CORNFLAKE MACAROONS

1 egg, 1 teaspoon butter, ¼ cup sugar, 1¾ cups cornflakes (rolled before measured), 1 teaspoon Calumet Baking Powder.

Mix in the order given, add flakes mixed with baking powder. Drop from spoon on buttered tin and push together. Bake in moderate oven.

Personal Interest

"Where does Senator Bulger get his favorite reading matter?"

"From a clipping bureau."

Fresh, sweet, white, dainty clothes for baby, if you use Russ Bleaching Blue. Never streaks or injures them. All good grocers sell it.—Adv.

Our humanity were a poor thing but for the divinity that stirs within us.—Bacon.

Don't Trust Your Butter To Luck

Market men and consumers are insisting on uniform color, now-a-days, and no real dairyman can afford to trust to luck any more. Keep your butter always that golden June shade, which brings top prices, by using Dandelion Butter color. All large creameries have used it for years. It meets all State and National Food Laws. It's harmless, tasteless and will not color Buttermilk. Large bottles cost only 35c at all drug and grocery stores.

Send for FREE Sample

Wells & Richardson Co., Inc.
Burlington, Vermont

Porter's Pain King ALiniment for Lame Back for Soreness for Aches for Pains Use It Today!

The Geo. H. Rundle Co.
Piqua, Ohio
Established 1871

TRADE MARK

For Cuts, Burns, Bruises, Sores
Hanford's Balsam of Myrrh
Money back for first bottle if not suited. All dealers.

BE AN AUCTIONEER, a specialty salesman. Send for free illustrated catalogue, also how to obtain home study course, free of charge. Address REPPERT'S AUCTION SCHOOL, Box 83, Decatur, Ind.

AGENTS—SELL SHAMPOO SOAP AND make big money. Sample outfit and contract prepaid, 25c. D. K. SUPPLY CO., 185 N. Walnut, Taylorville, Ill.

Christmas Present? Buy Italian Accordeon

We import, make, repair, exchange. 10 years' guarantee. Quick delivery. Catalogue Free. Baldoni-Bartoli Co., 60 Mulberry St., N. Y. Established 1874.

FOR SALE—NATURAL PEPPERMINT OIL direct from the growers. A general household remedy. 50c per oz. 4 ozs. $1.75. Postpaid. Christ Shrock, Goshen, Ind.

What Are You Doing?

Let the world's most noted operator teach you newspaper Linotype operating. Big wages, short hours, clean work. An opportunity for young men and women to learn something worth while. Two good courses, residence and correspondence. School established 1918; world's best. Ask any publisher. Low tuition, quick results, fine instructors. Write for catalog.
SCHOOL OF LINOTYPE, MARION, OHIO

TIPS ON SALESMANSHIP

By O. T. FRASH

Passing the Buck

YOU either amount to something or you don't. If you're worth anything at all in this world, it's because of the things you accomplish. And the way to do things is to do them.

I haven't any more love for a "butter-in" than any one else has. But I haven't any use for a side-stepper, either. If something comes in your way that you can do as well as anybody else, go ahead and do it. The attitude that "it's not my business" won't get the thing done, and it won't excuse you unless the doing of it would interfere with some one else's work.

In nearly every organization there are a few persons who check out their services as they would money from their savings account. Incidentally, there are in every organization certain persons who just simply can't seem to get ahead. If you were hunting such persons, where among the employees would you look for them? If you knew the buck-passers you wouldn't have to look any farther.

Take the persons in your own organizations who have gone ahead. Is there a single one of them who has shown a disposition to shirk his duties? Now look at the other bunch. What do you see? Well, that's the answer.

There are certain things that make any organization a smoothly running successful, commercial or individual machine. These things all blend into one big thing—co-operation—teamwork—with every part of the organization doing its duty, and no clashing or grinding of gears.

One little thing deliberately shirked by yourself may be overlooked by some one else, and the whole machine thrown out of kelter. But if you take care of it when you see it, that's one more job out of the way and one less danger to the organization.

Every time you pass the buck you make it easier for you to do it again. And when you do it without a twinge of conscience you're simply no good to yourself or anybody else.

• • •

Follow the Store's Advertising

ONE of the most exasperating experiences a shopper can encounter is to come into the store in response to an advertisement and talk to a clerk who knows nothing about it. Most of these shoppers are women who have made a hasty trip downtown to take thrifty advantage of an advertised bargain and they're in a hurry to return.

Under such circumstances you make no friends for the store by keeping the customer waiting while you scurry around in search of information that you should have had before you took your place behind the counter for the day's business. Excusing yourself by citing the fact that the store management should have furnished you with this information is only another way of "passing the buck," because it doesn't relieve you from the well-grounded suspicion that you haven't enough interest in your work to watch the papers for news of the merchandising activities in your own store.

The good clerk knows, day by day, not only the trade inducements that are being offered by his own store, but those that his store's competitors are using. The mental processes of the good clerks are practically the same as those of the employing merchant, and by the use of these mental processes the good clerk eventually becomes the employing merchant or store executive.

Keep yourself in touch with the policies of your store. You can't cooperate in those policies if you don't know what they are.

(©, 1927, Western Newspaper Union.)

Luxurious Roman Baths

Roman baths were carried to such a height of luxury that their fame persists to our time. The institution occupied an important place in the wealthy Romans' daily routine. They were even advertised; small boy outside ringing a bell to attract business. Like the Orientals, they followed the practice of shaving the entire body. Men were employed as scrapers, and the tools they used are seen today in our museums.—Kansas City Star.

Emblem of Battles

The red poppy has always been associated with the battlefields of Europe, particularly of Flanders. Contemporary writers mention the profusion of poppies which grew up after the battles of Ramillies, Malplaquet, Fontenoy and Waterloo. Lord Macaulay alludes to this fact in chapter 20 of his History of England, in the account of William III's defeat in the battle of Landen in 1693.

Hotel for Children

Berlin claims to be the only city in the world having a hotel for juveniles only. The hostelry takes care of children stopping in the city on their way to various summer resorts. A night's lodging is furnished for ten cents. A lunch or dinner costs seven cents.

What, Indeed?

The average smoker has been criticised for using enough matches in a lifetime to build a barn. But what does the average smoker want with a barn anyway?—Evansville Journal

Red Cedars and Apples Don't Mix

Relationship Similar to That Between Barberry Bush and Wheat.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Choose between red cedars and apples. In the eastern United States, and in some other parts of the country, a neighborhood may have either but not both of these trees without danger of trouble for both. The cedar and the apple have been found to have a relationship—or antagonism—similar to that existing between the barberry bush and wheat, in which each is affected by one of those strange fungous growths in which one generation of the fungus develops on one plant and cannot reproduce on that plant, but only on the other of the pair of plants so strangely coupled.

Spores Cause Damage.

For years apple tree rust was familiar to scientists, as was also the Virginia red cedar rust, which produced galls. The two were supposed to be distinct, but after the wheat and barberry coupling was established further studies revealed that a similar relationship existed between apple trees and red cedars. Spores from the cedar gall are blown to apple leaves and fruit, where they reproduce and cause damage within a few weeks, after which the spores of this second generation return to the cedar for a lifetime of about 22 months.

Sprays Did Not Kill.

At first the apple rust affected only native crabapples, but from year to year it extended its damage to one supposedly resistant variety after another. Spraying, fatal to most other fungous growths, did not kill this rust, and Virginia apple growers found that the best method of preventing damage was to kill the cedar trees within a distance of a mile or two of apple orchards. When this was done damage from apple rust ceased. Or, conversely, in case the cedars are the more valuable, they should be protected from infectious apples.

The life history of this rust and the measures necessary for protection are outlined in a pamphlet, Separate No. 941-Y from the Yearbook of Agriculture, 1926, recently published by and obtainable from the United States Department of Agriculture, Washington.

Native Vegetables Are Believed Most Valuable

In the American vegetable garden eight principal food products had their origin in the Indian crops existing here before the advent of the white man. These include beans, corn, peppers, pumpkins, squash, tomato, potato, and sweet potato. Vegetables of Old World origin are far more numerous. The United States Department of Agriculture lists 24 of importance: cucumbers, eggplant, muskmelon, watermelon, okra, asparagus, beets, brussels sprouts, cabbage, carrots, cauliflower, celery, kale and collard, kohl-rabi, leek, lettuce, onion, parsley, parsnip, peas, radish, salsify, spinach, and turnip. But the value of the crop of the eight native vegetables is considerably greater than the 24 of foreign origin. Since the discovery of America the white man has not "tamed" any native plant which the Indians had not already brought from warmer parts of America, but notable improvements have been made in the quality and yields of most of these vegetables.

Good Barn Ventilation Helps Keep Down Frost

Good stable ventilation will help some in keeping down frost; but unless the wall is well insulated, there is bound to be considerable frost gather when the moist warm stable air strikes a wall which is 20 below zero on the outside. With a wooden wall it is not very difficult, since wood in itself is a fairly good insulator. Two thicknesses of lumber and heavy building paper outside, and a layer of insulation and matched lumber inside the studding will make a warm wall. Sometimes the space between the studding is filled with sawdust or similar material. This is warm but has a tendency to draw dampness.

Agricultural Squibs

Permanent pastures produce profits and prosperity.

• • •

Best results are obtained from lime that is applied in the fall.

• • •

Trapping rats is effective, and both poisoning and trapping methods should be used.

• • •

The silo insures the corn crop. For it will save all that can be grown. It protects the farmer against loss from frost, drought, or hail.

• • •

The important thing in storing seed corn is to keep it in a dry but well ventilated place and to prevent freezing until it has dried out.

• • •

To find the capacity of a grain bin in standard bushels, divide the number of cubic feet contained in the bin by 1.2445.

• • •

Sweet clover is positively the hardiest of the entire legume family. It will stand wet feet better than alfalfa, but alfalfa stands drought better.

Fault is one thing that may be found where it is not.

Hoxsie's Croup Remedy checks congestion of the lungs. Used with great success for forty years. Kells Co., Newburgh, N. Y., Mfrs.—Adv.

By the time a man has ceased to be ashamed of his youthful escapades, he begins to brag of them.

Ask for SUNSHINE RAISINS, a full pound wonderful seedless raisins, at your grocer's.—Adv.

Down to Facts

Clerk—"Sh[illegible] Would you like about—a thr[illegible] She—"Yes; but let's not talk about it—give me a five."

"O Happy Day" sang the laundress as she hung the snowy wash on the line. It was a "happy day" because she used Russ Bleaching Blue.—Adv.

Ground for Hope

Fascinating Widow—You foolish man! What made you think I'd ever marry you?

Suitor—Well, you've married other fellows.—Boston Transcript.

When You Feel a Cold Coming On, Take Laxative BROMO QUININE Tablets to work off the Cold and to fortify the system against an attack of Grip or Influenza. 30c.—Adv.

Short Season

The American tourist was asked on his return what he thought of the English summer.

"Don't know," he replied. "I overslept myself that morning."

Always Ahead!

Elwood, Ind.—"After reading a number of testimonials from different people who have been benefited by using Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, I may also say that I used it with benefit. I tried a good many tonics before being advised to take the 'Golden Medical Discovery' and I am glad to say that I am surprised at the results. It has helped me beyond my expectations. I most heartily recommend it to others as I am absolutely certain it will do for them what it has done for me."—Albert E. Goslin, 1623 So. 1st St.

Golden Medical Discovery increases the appetite, stimulates the digestion, enriches the blood.

In liquid or tablets, at your dealer's.

Farmers know enough not to kill useful snakes; but they never like them.

BACKED BY 38 YEARS of SUCCESS

LESS THAN 1¢ PER BAKING

DOUBLE ACTING MAKES BAKING EASIER

Calumet is an old reliable standard of generations of thrifty housewives. Nearly half a century of experience is back of every can you buy. No experimenting in its manufacture, no mistakes, failures or regrets in its use. Try it. You'll see a decided improvement in your bakings—yes, and you'll taste it, too.

CALUMET
THE WORLD'S GREATEST
BAKING POWDER
SALES 2 TIMES THOSE OF ANY OTHER BRAND

IF MOTHERS ONLY KNEW

During these days how many children are complaining of Headache, Feverishness, Stomach Troubles and Irregular Bowels and take cold easily. If mothers only knew what Mother Gray's Sweet Powders would do for their children, no family would ever be without them for use when needed. These powders are so easy and pleasant to take and so effective in their action that mothers who once use them gladly tell others about them. Save yourself a night of worry, by getting a package at your druggist today. Trial Package sent FREE. Address Mother Gray Co., Le Roy, N. Y.

Goodhair Soap
A Scientific Remedy for the cure of all Hair, Scalp and Skin Diseases. Sold on a guarantee. One trial will surprise you. At your druggist or by mail on receipt of 25 cents.
THE GOODHAIR COMPANY
Cincinnati, Ohio

RHEUMATISM
For 35 Years
TRUSLER'S RHEUMATIC TABLETS
HAVE GIVEN RELIEF
All Druggists. Two Sizes, 50c and $1.00.
Trusler Remedy Co. Cincinnati, O.

Shared the Gift

Alice—You can't imagine how generous my husband is.

Dora—What's the proof?

Alice—I gave him cigars on his birthday. He smoked one and gave the rest to his friends.

His Rural Style

First Girl—He claims to be one of the best dancers in the country.

Second Girl (who has watched him)—Maybe he is; I think he might be good at barn dances.

ATWATER KENT RADIO

Have you heard the big news of Radio?

ENORMOUS demand, met by careful mass production in the largest radio factory, has lowered amazingly the prices of Atwater Kent Radio.

The cities buy it. The small towns buy it. The farm families buy it. For a long time Atwater Kent Radio has had an overwhelming preference on the farm.

Its natural tone, wide range, simple ONE Dial operation, sturdiness, freedom from trouble, have made it the radio that everybody wants. Its popularity makes possible the almost unbelievable economies of manufacturing on a big scale. These savings come back to you in the form of lower prices for 1928, effective NOW.

Atwater Kent Radio is recognized the world over as radio's highest development. Only the vast momentum of a factory capable of turning out eleven sets a minute could produce quality at such a price.

The greatest radio values ever offered are yours at the nearest Atwater Kent dealer's. See him today.

ATWATER KENT MANUFACTURING CO.
4700 Wissahickon Ave. A. Atwater Kent, Pres. Philadelphia, Pa.

ONE Dial Receivers licensed under U. S. Patent 1,014,001
Prices slightly higher from the Rockies West

$49

MODEL 35, a powerful ONE Dial, six-tube Receiver with shielded cabinet, finished in two tones of brown crystalline. Ideal for a small table, window sill or bookshelf. Without accessories $49

$65

MODEL 30, a powerful ONE Dial, six-tube Receiver. The mahogany cabinet of unobtrusive beauty is the type that many people prefer. Without accessories $65

Electrified, if you like

Any Atwater Kent Receiver can be operated from your electric light circuit as a source of current supply. It's merely a matter of equipment. Just tell the dealer which you wish—battery power or socket power.

$24

MODEL E RADIO SPEAKER. New method of cone suspension, found in no other speaker, makes certain the faithful reproduction of the entire range of musical tones. An extraordinary Speaker—hear it! $24

$75

MODEL 33, a very powerful ONE Dial, six-tube Receiver with solid mahogany cabinet and gold-plated trimmings. Unusually effective where distance-getting is essential or inside antenna is necessary. Simple antenna adjustment device secures remarkable selectivity. Without accessories $75

Atwater Kent Radio Hour every Sunday night on 23 associated stations

DECEMBER

L 915 D643

HOME EDUCATION

The Child's First School is the Family"—Froebel.
Issued by the National Kindergarten Association

DRAMATIZING GOODNESS

Manthei Howe

"The trouble with women is that they love to dramatize themselves" grumbled a cynical bachelor. "They are happy only when holding the center of the stage."

Whether or not we agree with the bachelor's estimate of women, there can be little doubt that a similar dictum explains many of the vagaries of childhood.

Children do like to dramatize. Correctly curbed this desire for dramatization leads the child into all sorts of pleasant by-paths. When such dramatization runs amuck then we are confronted by the problems of discipline.

For instance, it is this egocentric dramatic instinct gone bolsheviki that makes certain children in kindergarten want ALWAYS to choose the story, the song, the play or to lead in the games. It is the same instinct that in the home makes certain children seize all the treats, the toys, the privileges.

When this self-dramatization instinct swings too far from the normal the child often is brought by his troubled parent to some physician's office.

That is where Donald and his distressed mother found themselves one day.

"Why, Donald doesn't eat anything unless I serve just what he likes," wailed his mother. "He won't eat tomatoes or cabbage; no potatoes except fried . . . ."

The doctor glanced quizzically at six-year-old Donald who sat on the edge of his chair, his head up, eyes shining, getting more and more of a delighted thrill with every item checked off to his discredit. He was enjoying himself as a star enjoys the plaudits of the public.

The doctor motioned the mother to silence: "All right, Donald. We don't need you any more. You wait in the other room. There are some books on the table out there."

"You've turned the spotlight on Donald too frequently," began the doctor. "He probably is a wee bit jealous of his baby sister. A sure way to get your attention and that of everyone else is to kick up didoes at the table. When he gets finicky about his food everybody comments on it. Donald feels even unpleasant comments are better than being ignored."

The mother began to appreciate that it might be so.

"A husky six-year-old is not likely to starve himself," the doctor assured her. "See that plenty of good, wholesome food is served on the table. When Donald refuses a certain food just IGNORE his behavior. When he tries to eat the disliked food PRAISE him. INSTEAD OF HELPING HIM TO DRAMATIZE HIS NAUGHTY MOODS, DRAMATIZE HIS GOODNESS. Give him the center of the stage only on good behavior."

Frequently a restless, worrisome child in kindergarten or at home is be-having that way not because he is a bad child, but because he lacks affection at home, is jealous of someone, is a bit spoiled or because he is especially fond of some grown person. It is his driving desire to get into the limelight that makes him act so.

Let him really understand that he will be ignored in such moods but appreciated when good, and his dramatic instinct will right-about face in the more desirable direction.

American heiresses have become so plentiful that titled fortune-hunters are now construing their marriage contracts rather than engagements.

SWEATER COATS, UNDERWEAR, WINTER CAPS, MITTENS, GLOVES, WOOL HOSIERY, SHEEP LINED COATS, LINED JACKETS, BOOTS, SHOES, RUBBERS, AT PRICES THAT SAVE YOU MONEY

Zonker's Store
ST. JOE, INDIANA

A Lot of Folks Need An Eye Service

Who have never given their eyes as much as a thought. In fact if you will give the subject a moment's consideration you will see that it is those who have never undergone an examination who really need one. We undertake to give our patients the best vision possible with comfort.

ED. W. HICKS
AUBURN
"OUR SPECIALTY — COMFORTABLE VISION"

YOU READ the Other Fellow's Ad

You are reading this one. That should convince you that advertising in these columns is a profitable proposition; that it will bring business to your store. The fact that the other fellow advertises is probably the reason he is getting more business than is falling to you. Would it not be well to give the other fellow a chance

To Read Your Ad in These Columns?

How Checking Account Dollars Work for their Board

A man occupying a fine hotel room rent-free, with private bath, maid-service and meals included, wouldn't think it strange if the proprietor asked him to do a little work for his board during his spare time.

Dollars in a checking account are like the man in the hotel room. They get protection and a valuable free service from the bank. In return, the bank asks the privilege of loaning out a few of these dollars to "work for their board."

In this way the depositor doesn't pay anything for the expensive service that the bank renders—and the bank doesn't lose anything. It is fair to both sides.

This explains why banks request their depositors to keep up their balances; so there will always be some dollars on hand in each account ready to "work for their board."

"A FAIR CHECKING BALANCE REPAYS GOOD BANKING SERVICE"

The St. Joe Valley Bank, A STATE BANK

CHEVROLET BUYS FOUNDRY EQUIPMENT

W. S. Knudsen, president of the Chevrolet Motor Company, today, announces that Chevrolet has taken over the mammoth gray iron foundry of the Saginaw Products Company at Saginaw, Michigan. The newest plant acquisition of the Chevrolet Motor Company adds a $4,500,000 institution to the company's rapidly developing manufacturing operations and provides Chevrolet with foundry facilities second to none in the industry.

Mr. Knudsen recently completed an inspection tour of Chevrolet plants in Detroit, Flint, Saginaw, Buffalo, Tarrytown and Bloomfield and points out that the acquisition of the Saginaw plant brings Chevrolet manufacturing facilities to the highest point of completeness and efficiency yet attained.

After the first of December the Saginaw foundry will be devoted exclusively to the pouring of Chevrolet castings. A new conveyor system and other labor saving devices, recently installed, give the plant a melting capacity of 800 tons of metal daily and make it one of the most up-to-date foundries in the world.

Outstanding among the features of the large plant is the ingenuity with which machines have been made to perform the vast bulk of foundry work. Specially designed mechanical conveyors shoulder practically all heavy burdens. Core manufacture, assembly and baking, the charging and discharging of the immense cupolas, the pouring of moulten metal and the cooling, cleaning and finishing of castings all rely on machinery more than ever. Human effort has been reduced to a minimum, resulting in increased capacity and a higher factor of safety. Buildings are of brick and steel construction and allow for 300,000 square feet of floor space. The plant employs 3,000 people when operating on a capacity basis.

STORY OF ADVERTISING IS STORY OF SUCCESS

Pillsbury flour is said to be the best advertised article in the world, with the ad man drawing a salary larger than that of the president of the United States.

Washburn-Crosby, which "eventually" follows closely, and Wrigley's "cud" is a good third.

Henry Ford, although the best known man in the world, leads all auto companies in the amount of money put into printers' ink and can be relied on to keep eternally at it.

A good story is told of the owners of Quaker Oats. They figured they had touched the peak. Their food had become so popular it was a waste of money to longer fatten the newspaper purse. What happened? The business shrunk until they were on the verge of bankruptcy and they are hustling to get back into the limelight.

Publicity experts have by careful investigation, reached the conclusion that of all systems devised by the brains of man, newspapers get the best results. As a result, the big ad men of today are using pages where heretofore they used columns.

Recently Donaldson's and Dayton's of Minneapolis, each carried from six to ten pages a day in the papers of that city. The cost daily must have passed the ten thousand dollar point.

Strange that country merchants don't catch the idea. Money spent in adverising is not bread cast upon the water. It is the only key to commercial supremacy.—Fairmont (Minnesota) Sentinel.

NEW AND TESTED RECIPES FOR LADIES OF THE NEWS

JUNKET PLUM PUDDING

1 pkg. vanilla junket
1 pint milk
Speck each of nutmeg, cloves and cinnamon
½ cup grape-unts
¼ cup raisins
¼ cup chopped dates

Put grape-nuts, raisins and dates in the bottom of the desert glasses. Warm the milk to lukewarm—not hot. Remove from the stove, add spices and junket powder and stir for one minute to dissolve. Pour at once over the fruit and grape-nuts in the glasses. Let stand in a warm room until firm—about twenty minutes, then put in a cool place until serving time.

Is it because their locks are gone that so many girls lose their heads?

Though it has no subways, Chicago can still boast of a sizeable underworld.

Nearby and Yonder

By T. T. MAXEY

WNU Service

Chicago's New Water Tunnel

THE completion of a new water tunnel under a portion of Chicago discloses some enlightening information concerning the tremendous size and amazing cost of such undertakings in large cities.

Constructed in order that some 600,000 persons residing in the southwestern part of the city might "drink copiosly and have more water for Saturday night," this tunnel is horseshoe in shape, lined with concrete to cover all jagged projections and remove all resistance to water flow, has a finished diameter of 12 feet, is 6 1-3 miles long—all in solid rock, and, in the main, 140 feet below the surface of the streets.

According to the city engineer, approximately 1,400,000 pounds of dynamite were used in blasting, 400,000 cars of rock excavated and elevated to the surface and 500,000 bags of cement used in lining the tunnel.

The work in the tunnel was carried on from two shafts—each plant, electrically operated, consisting of headhouse, power house, dry room, storeroom, office, blacksmith shop, cement shed, carpenter shop, rock crusher and storage bins.

The capacity of this tunnel is 300,000,000 gallons per twenty-four hours. The total cost, including the shafts and equipment, was about $131 per foot, or $4,500,000 all told.

The pumping station is equipped with four compound turbine-driven pumps, each with a capacity of 75,000,000 gallons per twenty-four hours, and cost an additional $2,500,000.

(©, 1927, Western Newspaper Union.)

Nearby and Yonder

By T. T. MAXEY

WNU Service

Devil's Lake

DEVIL'S LAKE—the great salt lake of North Dakota, the largest body of water between the great lakes and the Rockies—is about thirty miles long, from three to fifteen miles wide and, in places, from seventy to eighty feet deep.

Scientists believe that this peculiar location for such a lake lies in the fact that an ancient river valley became partially jammed with drift, leaving a submerged rock-lined area which naturally filled with water, forming this lake. Its source being in saline springs accounts for the saltiness of the water. The Indians, being suspicious of this water, called it "Minnewaukon"—meaning "evil water."

This lake was the scene of a tragic skirmish in frontier days between the United States troops, under command of General Sully, and the Sioux Indians, during which the latter were defeated and driven into the lake. Sully's Hill National park on the southern shore of the lake was established to commemorate General Sully's victory. The Fort Totten Indian reservation is also located here. Many hills or mounds from which countless relics have been taken for university and museum collections surround this lake.

That the surface of the lake has been considerably higher than it is now is shown by wave marks on trees. That it also has been much lower than it is at present is attested by trees which are submerged in it. During recent years the difference between high and low stages has averaged about four feet.

(©, 1927, Western Newspaper Union.)

Nearby and Yonder

By T. T. MAXEY

WNU Service

The Pageant of the Raisin

THE raisin industry of America is mainly limited to a few counties in California, where the climatic and irrigating conditions are ideal—Fresno county producing the major portion of the crop or some 60,000,000 pounds annually. As a natural consequence the city of Fresno determined to make the most of the situation, set itself up as the Capital of Raisiniand and annually celebrates the fact by holding the Pageant of the Raisin.

Pates were scratched, histories searched, the tale of the raisin unearthed and around it there was woven a story which reaches back to the Garden of Eden.

The Bible intimates that "old man Noah" planted the first grape vine near Mt. Ararat. The first dried grapes or raisins of which accurate account was found likewise had to do with Armenia.

The valley of the San Joaquin, reasoned the Fresnoians, is "The Garden of the Sun." Therefore, why not a pageant "From the Garden of Eden to the Garden of the Sun?" Accordingly, an annual raisin day—usually during the latter part of April—was decided upon and the people of the valley set about to bring the raisin and Fresno into their own.

When King Grape, preceded by the blare of bands and accompanied by his followers, arrived in "Main Street" Fresno had become the mecca of so many people who happened in to see what all the excitement was all about that it scarcely knew what to do with them. Obviously, they "did it again" next year. Now, most folks know that Fresno is the home of the raisin.

(©, 1927, Western Newspaper Union.)

Parent-Teacher Association

The next meeting of the P-T. A. will be held in the school gymnasium Tuesday night, December 6, at 7:30 o'clock. The following program has been arranged:

Comunity, singing led by Mrs. Ima Miser.

Devotional period conducted by Rev. J. F. McKnight.

Male quartette arranged by Joe Woodcox.

One act play, "Keeping Him Home."

Characters

John Todd, a too domestic married man, Derwood Ridgway.

Mary Todd, John's wife, Lena Meek.

Jean Todd, their flapper daughter, Catherine Bowser.

Neal Morgan, an admirer of Jean's, Merritt Maxwell.

Mrs. Dwight Harkness, a caller with a mission, Esther Bowman.

Mrs. Egbert Lethby, her companion, Cora Price.

Male quartette.

Business.

Social hour, Mrs. Pluma Hamilton, chairman of the refreshment committee, requests you to bring pie and sandwiches amply sufficient for your family.

This meeting is for everybody. You are urged to come.

Have you joined?

COMPANIONATE MARRIAGE SILLY, PEGGY JOYCE SAYS

Much Married Actress Predicts Increase in Divorces

New York, Nov. 28.—" 'Companionate marriage!' It's a silly thing! I mean it's just a couple of fancy words to describe something that's not particularly new. All it does, as far as I can see, is make things easier for those people who want to have their fudge and eat it, too," Peggy Joyce declared here today. Continuing she said:

"I think marriages should be made more strict. It is too easy already to get a divorce. Why give the divorce mill wheels this extra speed.

"Of course, I don't mean to say that I am opposed to divorce. That would be hypocritical. Divorces are necessary in some cases. But if you sell a divorce guarantee with a marriage license, as companionate marriage does, men who would never think of seeking a divorce will go out shopping for one as soon as the wife burns the first steak.

"I mean that men will not try to overlook litle things as they should. And women won't either. They can get bored with each other and between yawns decide their companionate marriage has been a failure and go out pronto and leap into another one that they hope will have more 'it,'

"You know, after all, marriage is a kind of contract. People don't sign contracts in business with the idea of breaking them if the contract isn't everything they thought it was.

"Nobody says to the producer of a show when that worthy gives you a contract, 'Well, I'll try it and see if I like it; if I don't I won't play.'

"This companionate marriage is just another so-called new thing in this day and age and I can't really see how it will make marriages happier or last longer as it's supposed to do. Making the way to get out of marriage easier won't make it last even as long as a plain every-day marriage license, and the thought that divorces still mean grief and notoriety.

"I hope the companionate marriage of that sweet litle Haldeman-Julius girl and her boy will last and be happy. But I don't see why it should guarantee them lasting happiness any more than an old-fashioned wedding.

"I don't see why, if, after a couple of years, when they are older and more experienced and have met more people, that they will see any good reason for sticking together if they each find somebody they think they like better than the companionate mate.

"Of course, I don't think people should stick together forever if they find they can't make a go of marriage. I mean that they should try to make a success—really try—just as their grandparents and great grandparents did.

"If then they find it's hopeless, as lots of us do, they should separate.

"But companionate marriage won't make people try as hard to stay married as the old-fashioned kind. That's the only kind I believe in."

PASTOR LOSES CONTROL OF MISHAWAKA CHURCH

Elias Witwer and his faction were granted control of the First Christian Church of Mishawake when the Indiana Appellate court affirmed a decision of the St. Joseph circuit court.

Legal action in the case began when Stephen O. Redacre, pastor of the church, on whose appeal the case was taken to the Appellate court, asked an injunction restraining Witwer and others of his faction from interfering with the Redacre faction in church affairs.

By an agreement reached at the suggestion of the circuit court at South Bend, an election was held to determine which faction should rule. The Witwer faction won and the court granted Witwer's petition to declare his faction duly elected and ordered the books, records, keys to the church property turned over to the newly elected board. Redacre appealed from this order to the higher court.

PLATT SAYS ROADS ARE IN GOOD CONDITION

Roads in the DeKalb county highway system are in good condition for winter travel, Byron Platt, county highway superintendent, reports.

With 60 miles added this year, the mileage of the county system is now more than 300. To maintain the roads, the commission bought two additional motor trucks this year, making a total of three. The county also added two maintainers.

The trucks will be kept busy all winter hauling gravel to make repairs and clearing the roads of snow.

The outlay for maintenance this year will total about $55,000. In addition, $30,000 was expended in resurfacing Wayne and East Seventh streets in Auburn. The balance in the road fund at the end of the year will be about $15,000.

The county's share of the gasoline tax this year was $19,882. With the aditional mileage of county roads, the county will collect $5,000 or $6,000 more in 1928 from the gasoline tax.

NOTICE OF APPOINTMENT OF EXECUTRIX

State of Indiana
DeKalb County, SS:

I, J. H. Knauer, Clerk of the Circuit Court, for the County of DeKalb, State of Indiana, do hereby certify that Hattie A. Widney has been appointed executrix of the last will and testament of Hugh M. Widney, late of DeKalb County who died testate, and the said Hattie A. Widney having qualified and given bond as such Executrix is duly authorized to take upon herself the execution of said will.

Witness my hand and seal of Court, this 15th day of November, 1927.

J. H. Knauer,
Clerk of DeKalb Circuit Court
Hartzell & Todd, Attys. 47t3.

The only complimentary thing to be said about poverty is that it's not disgraceful.

A Southern jail will not permit prisoners to wear freshly laundered collars for fear they will saw their way out.

The Spirit of Christmas!

How Will You Express It?

Our Greeting Cards will enable you to send

Christmas Greetings

to your friends and acquaintances in an individual way.

You can select the card and write the sentiment you wish to express, and we will do the rest.

ST. JOE NEWS

DECEMBER

L 915

0644

THE BEST BOOSTER FOR YOUR BUSINESS IN DeKALB COUNTY

ST. JOE NEWS.

NEWS MAKES A GOOD PAPER, SO SEND IT IN TO US.

VOL., XLI. ST. JOE, DeKALB COUNTY, INDIANA, THURSDAY, DECEMBER 8, 1927 NUMBER 49

BANK TO MAKE CHRISTMAS CLUB PAYMENTS SOON

On December 9th the St. Joe Valley Bank will mail their Christmas Club checks to the many members of the 1927 Christmas Club, totaling $2,094.90. These checks will be received at a time when a little extra Christmas money will come in very handy. The bank reports that each year more and more people are availing themselves of the opportunity of this plan of saving. The bank has various clubs with different payments in each one, and they are so selected that the member can make the payments weekly without even missing the money, and yet will be agreeably surprised at the amount they will be able to have at the end of the year. The 1928 Club will start the week of December 17th, and this will be open to every one who desires to avail themselves of this handy and easy way of saving a little extra money. Watch their ad the rest of the month and learn how easy it will be to save.

ARRESTS MADE BY GAME WARDENS IN OCTOBER

Game wardens in October made 210 arrests for violations of the game and fish laws. Convictions were made in 198 cases; 7 remained to be tried; 5 were dismissed. The fines and costs amounted to $4,015.60. As usual all the money paid in fines went into the school fund in the counties where the arrests were made. The leading offenses were as follows:—Hunting, fishing or trapping without license, 57; taking or possession fur-bearing animals in close season, 48; hunting on Sunday, 38; hunting without permission and arrested at the request of landowners willing to sign affidavits, 26; possession of quail in close season, 8; shooting on public highway, 6; possession of nets or seines, 5 and shooting waterfowl before sunrise or after sunset, 5.

HICKSVILLE GIRL WINS IN CONTEST

Miss Eulalie Hart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Sherman Hart of Hicksville, won the countywide Prince of Peace declamation contest over two Defiance contestants at the First Baptist Church at Defiance Sunday evening.

Miss Hart, who had previously won the elimination contest at the Methodist Church, Hicksville, was presented a silver medal and as a result of her victory here will represent Defiance county in the fifth congressional district contest that will be held later.

If Miss Hart wins in the district she will then go to Columbus and compete for a scholarship and state honors in the finals to be held in connection with the Ohio pastors convention January 23 to 26.—Defiance Crescent News.

ANOTHER SUBSCRIBER IS HEARD FROM

Mrs. L. V. Dunn of 161 Livingston St., Brooklyn, N. Y., writes under date of Nov. 30. "Enclose find P. O. money order for $1.50 to extend my subscription to Jan. 1, 1929.

"We are having wonderful weather—so warm we hardly used any fire—havn't had a frost yet, or freeze here in the city. We had a lot of rain during the summer but since September have had only what we need (I guess) but some evenings when we went over to New York to meetings we thought it rather more than we needed.

"My daughter, Agnes Dunn, took ship November 3rd, ship sailed at 4:30 P. M. for India, as a missionary in the M. E. Church. I just had a letter from her from London and now a card from Marseilles, France, dated Nov. 17, taking ship tomorrow the 18th at midnight for Bombay, India."

JURY COMMISSIONERS RE-APPOINTED

By appointment of the DeKalb circuit court, Herman L. Brown of Auburn and Clyde E. Hart of Spencer township, will again serve as jury commissioners for the year 1928. The salary of the position is $35 a year. Mr. Brown is a democrat and Mr. Hart a republican.

Among the real estate transfers of interest will be noted that of Reed F. Place to Mervin J. and Fern Place, 60 acres section 25, 24 acres section 26 and 20 acres section 35, $6,240.

He Rules the Kingdom of Heart's Delight

R & A Photo

PRESIDENT FEEMAN OF ADRIAN TALKS

Dr. Harlan L. Feeman, president of Adrian Cllege, visited the St. Joe M. P. Charge last Sunday, occupying the Concord and St. Joe pulpits.

The evening crowd at St. Joe was not as large as expected although Dr. Feeman was at his best and gave a most interesting discourse concerning Paul's letter to the Church at Corinth.

He referred to Paul's speech at Athens as one of the greatest, and men of all professions are studying his letters from every angle. After his speech at Athens, he decided that he should not build a church there, so he went down to Corinth where there were greater possibilities for the maintaining of a church. Here all the trade passed, making it a whirlpool of activities. A church was started and great success was had on every hand. A few years later when Paul received a message that the church was in a serious condition and that its existance was threatened, by the people being divided, were given to making money and the church had been let go, besides practices were being tolerated that were wrong. Paul came to the conclusion that he would write the church a letter and admionsh them to do the right thing.

He addressed them as "Ye are God's builders," knowing that this would cause them to stop and think of the things they had been taught in the formation of the church. He continues his letter by saying, "I have laid a foundation" suggesting that those of the church at the begining were good material and that they had been given the ability to believe in the unseen, and that he still had a burning expectation of good coming from his church.

Just so, today, men are failing, they are cutting the church on every side and hindering its progress, by delving into the world seeking for money, pleasures and throwing aside the great things of value and eternity.

The manner in which Dr. Feeman elaborated on the truths of the letter were interesting indeed and his closing thought was that the principles of good will must be instilled into every heart and this is the way in which the church is to win.

INSTITUTE DATES

On Thursday, December 8 the Ashley institute will be held and on December 9 one will be held at Butler Center. Dates for institutes in January are, January 25 at Butler; January 26, Jackson Center; January 27, Corunna and January 28 at Gleaner hall.

The public schools of DeKalb county, city and rural, will close Friday afternoon, December 23, until the first Monday in January for the Christmas vacation.

SUNDAY, DEC. 11, INDIANA DAY, STATE 111 YEARS OLD

Following out the provision of a 1925 statute, Governor Ed Jackson has issued a formal proclamation designating Sunday, December 11, as Indiana Day and asking for a general observance of the occasion of the 111th anniversary of Indiana's statehood. Suggestions are made in the proclamation that public schools and churches take note of the day and respond with patriotic exercises.

"In the 111 years of its statehood, Indiana has enjoyed a full measure of the blessings which have flowed from national independence and unity," the proclamation said. "Its history is a record of the services of its citizens in war and in peace. On the approaching anniversary of the admission of the state into the Union, we can turn with assurance to the recollection of the great past of Indiana and renew our gratitude for the privilege of state as well as of national citizenship."

NORTHRUPS ARRIVE AT THEIR DESTINATION

Word from W. H. Northrup has been received by Mrs. Wm. Hamilton, stating that after two weeks of motoring their party, consisting of Mr. and Mrs. Northrup and son, Thayer of this place, Myron Hoyt and son, Ralph, of Sandville, Mich., and Mrs. Ada Orr, a sister of Mr. Hoyt, of Lansing, Mich., arrived at Hot Springs, New Mexico. They report the days hot and the nights cool. While they have not been taking the hot spring baths long enough to tell of the results yet they feel as though they would be helped. They report the country nothing but sand. Word will be received later.

CAPTAINS SELECTED FOR ANNUAL PEST HUNT

Ed Storer and Clarence Hart were selected as captains of the pest hunt, at a meeting of the members of the Fish and Game Club, Thursday evening at the Town Hall. The dates set were from Monday, December 26 to Saturday, December 31, inclusive, with a closing of the count at the hall at 8 o'clock on Saturday evening.

The date of the supper was made for Thursday evening, January 5, at the school house, with an open meeting for everyone following the feed.

An effort is being made by the organization to secure George N. Mannfeld, Superintendent of Fisheries and Game, to be present and address the group.

Monday evening, December 19, the members will meet in a special call meeting, at which time the members joining the hunt will be chosen by the captains and rules and regulations will be made for the carrying on of the drive.

Past years have proven to the community the real need of the pest hunt and if all will co-operate the hunt will be more successful than ever before.

The one requirement in entering the hunt is that $1.00 be paid, the feed to be furnished by the losers and the $1.00 to be returned to the winners. Twenty-two members have enrolled thus far.

Three new members were added to the roll during the month of December thus far, as follows:—William Mossberger, Frank Bechtol and Fred High, making the total membership 124.

VIOLATORS OF TRAFFIC LAWS FINED IN BUTLER

Ray Moughler, Ted Harris, Ralph Snyder, of Butler, and Mr. Gates of Hamilton, entered pleas of guilty on Saturday in the Wilmington township Justice of the Peace court at Butler, to charges of driving automobiles without tail lights. Each was assessed a fine of $1 and costs. The arrests were made in and near Butler on December 2nd., by Lieut. Donovan, of the State Highway Police.

TEXT BOOK DEMONSTRATION NEXT MONDAY

Teachers in rural schools will dismiss their schools Monday, December 12, to attend demonstrations at St. Joe and at Ashley by Miss Henderson, representing the John C. Winston company of Philadelphia, publishers of the readers in use in the DeKalb county public schools. The demonstrations will consist of primary reading, one in the forenoon at St. Joe and in the afternoon at Ashley.

ATTENTION FARMERS!

Why not ship your live stock with the Hicksville Shippers Co., of Hicksville, Ohio, when you can get Buffalo prices, less actual expense of shipping. Call W. H. Bricker, Hicksville, O., phone 13 or George Hart, Spencerville, Ind., phone 44-21. 48t2.

COMMUNITY CHRISTMAS TREE AT SPENCERVILLE

Plans were completed Monday evening by which the merchants of Spencerville will erect a giant Christmas tree in the street. The tree will be electrically lighted. Christmas carols, music by Community Orchestra and short talks on some phases of Christmas are being arranged for several evenings preceding Christmas.

Parent-Teacher Association

In spite of the inclement weather a large crowd attended the Parent-Teacher meeting Tuesday night. The community songs were sung with zest and the voices of the many school children added to the harmony.

Rev. McKnight gave a Scriptural talk and his talks are always pleasing to both the old and young people of our locality. The songs and encores of the male quartette were appreciated by the assembly.

The one act play "Keeping Him Home," given by permission of the "Country Gentleman," was well received and a rising vote of thanks was given to the players. The membership committee reported 76 members and that the committee is not through with the canvass. The chairman of the Hot Lunch reported everything doing fine but more dishes are needed. The P-T. A. voted to supply the needed dishes. Prof. Sims announced the Junior class play to be given Dec. 22 and urged all the people of this community to support the efforts of this class. After adjournment a social hour, with refreshments was enjoyed in the domestic science room.

CHILDREN CAN SEND LETTERS TO SANTA CLAUS

As has been the custom of The News for years past, to allow children to send their letters to Santa by having them published first, we are again extending this courtesy to all children. Parents see that they are sent in within the next two weeks.

Chicken Supper at Community Hall, Sat. Eve, Dec. 17, by M. E. Ladies Aid Society, Spencerville.

THE
Newville Justice Court
OFFICE, Newville, Ind.
ORLIN HATCH
Justice of the Peace
FRANK SNELLBAKER
Constable
WITH JURISDICTION IN
Concord, Spencer, Stafford and Newville Townships.

Do you know how to distinguish the Christmas Seal that is sold to provide funds to fight tuberculosis from the seals sold by other organizations, some religious, some pure commercial?

Look and you will see the double-barred red cross, the emblem of the international warfare against tuberculosis and the trademark of our own National Tuberculosis Association. It cannot be used without permission of this organization, and appears only on the official tuberculosis Christmas Seal.

DeKALB COUNTY TUBERCULOOSIS SOCIETY

SPECIAL LINE OF BOX CANDIES FOR THE HOLIDAY'S
Ph. HIGH'S 76

St. Joe MEAT Market
We heard an old man say he didn't trink the girls ought to wear their short dresses any longer, but that they should notice our
SPECIALS for Saturday
Tropic Nut Oleomargarine 19c
Sausage in Casings Per Pound 22c
Sausage, Bulk 20c
Armours Pigs Feet per jar 20c
Wm. G. HARMAN,
ST. JOE, IND.

KEEP WARM
With High-Grade Coal. It pays in the long run and that is the kind we sell.
Feed for Hogs
We have a full line on hand and will be pleased to take care of your wants. Now is the time to feed. Come in and lay in your supply.
Don't Forget Our Lumber Yard
We also carry a full line of Paint. Save with Paint.
NATHAN Grain Co.
St. Joe's New Lumber Yard
Call By Phone for Prices Bert Jackson, Mgr.

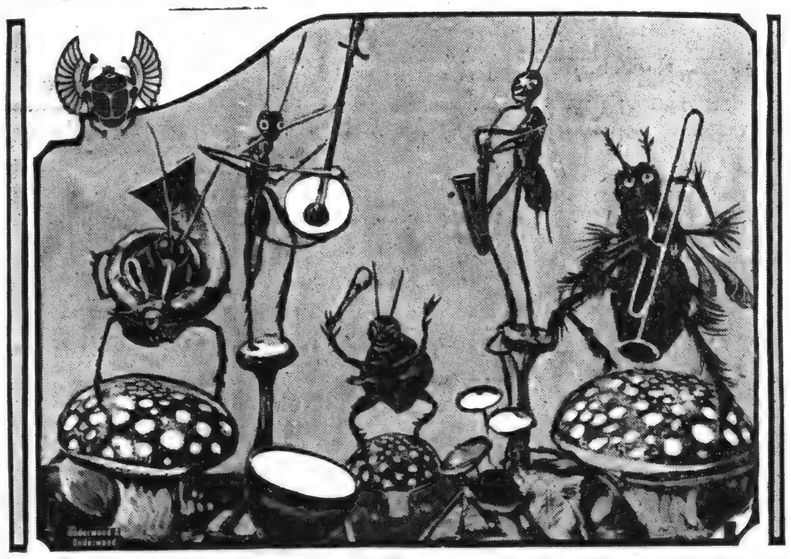
100% Coffee
Our Coffee is shipped to us direct from the roaster in small lots. That means it is always fresh. No chance to get stale, we buy it in bulk and keep it in a tight sanitary case.
So you get the most for your money.
ZONKER'S Store.

The Christmas Store
We're Fixing Up! Stocking Up!
See our Windows filled with gifts that are useful-COME IN.
E. R. KINSEY, Hardware Furniture

DECEMBER

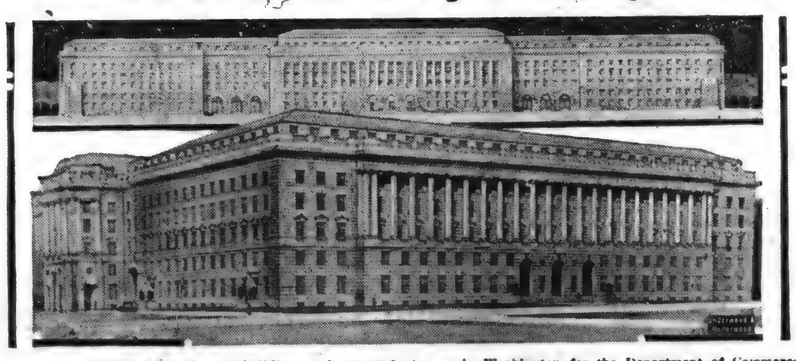
L 915
0645

Germans Produce Novelty in the Movie Line



One of the most remarkable moving pictures ever produced is the new German film called "Nemesis." Practically all the characters are ants and grasshoppers. Many years were spent in making the picture. The photograph shows a grasshopper jazz band in a night club.

New Government Buildings for Washington



Architects' drawings of the new buildings to be erected at once in Washington for the Department of Commerce (above) and the bureau of internal revenue. The plans for both have been approved by the public building commission.

United in Companionate Marriage

Aubrey Clay Roselle and Josephine Haldeman-Julius, daughter of a Kansas publisher, who were united recently in a "companionate" marriage such as Judge Ben Lindsey recommends. The bride is still in school, and her father consented to the experiment.

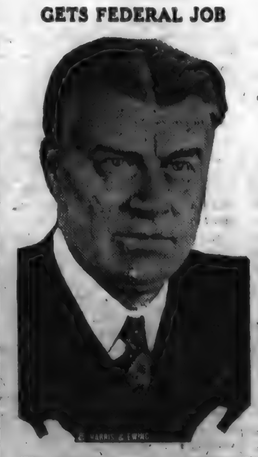
President Coolidge's Gold Medal

Gold medal of the Union League club of Philadelphia which was presented to President Coolidge for "distinguished public services."

SAYS HE IS 118

Nah-nee-Nam-Nah-Skuk, a Pottawatomie Indian, who claims to be one of the most ancient living human beings on earth. He states he has seen one hundred eighteen winters, and as many summers. He has had five wives and his descendants are innumerable. He was born on the cow pasture now known as the City of Chicago.

GETS FEDERAL JOB



The former governor of West Virginia, Ephriam Morgan, who was recently appointed solicitor of the United States Department of Commerce to succeed Judge Stephen B. Davis, resigned.

Pastime With Many

There are a lot of bad habits the average American gets into, but one—complaining about business—is one of the worst.—Des Moines Register.

A Wife's Transformation

The Story of the Comeback of a Woman Gone to Seed

By Mary Culbertson Miller

INSTALLMENT VI

Skin Treatment.

"MY LIPS are badly chapped, aren't they?" said Helen, sitting up in the chair and examining them in a hand mirror.

"Yes, madame, if you are not afraid of a little smarting keep dabbing them with spirits of camphor. The astringent helps the scab by drying the surface and protects the tender part while healing goes on. Vaseline and camphor ice are more soothing, but take longer to heal."

"You didn't use the patter you spoke of, did you?"

"Not today, madame, but I shall tomorrow. I'll tell you about it.

"It's a specially contrived instrument for the purpose of applying stimulation to the facial and throat muscles in the most scientific manner without irritating the skin. It is made of rubber with a long flexible handle. By means of this, the friction can be applied by a vertical stroke, assisting the skin and its underlying tissue to become firm and elastic. It is particularly convenient for home treatments. It gives the 'sting' so hard to get with one's own fingers. It should be used to pat in the astringents, lotions, and skin foods.

Start in Young.

"Is it always the women who have neglected themselves that come to you?" Helen asked in a rather small voice.

"No, oh no. One-fourth of our clients are young girls, debutants whose social activities and outdoor athletics devastate their face skins. After twenty-five every woman needs a skin food for her face whether it is fat, thin or medium. This is necessary in order to prevent the laughing lines from becoming wrinkles and to prevent the furrows of fatigue around the eyes and mouth. We also have a number of business girls. Hard work and a sedentary life play havoc with their complexions. So many of them clearly use cosmetics—paints and pigments—that are often worse than the defects they seek to cover up. They are on the wrong track, seeking to hide the trouble rather than to remove its cause."

"I suppose you think it's absurd even for the normal skinned person to buy commercial preparations haphazard to smear on the face ignorantly?"

"Cer-tain-ly, madame! Each case needs different treatments. Some skins are dry, others oily. Some are very delicate, while others are of coarse texture. Some faces are plump, others thin. Each condition calls for a special kind of cream, lotion or powder to get the best results.

Individual Attention.

"But it is now very nice for the girl or woman who has to count her pennies for she can go to the toilet goods departments of the larger stores. There an authorized agency is usually established. In those departments there will be one or two ladies who have received instruction from the author of their particular preparations. They are supposed to advise each individual according to her needs, suggesting preparations and the time and manner for their use for beneficial results."

"No wonder some of these business girls are so fragrant and lovely." The remark seemed to well up from jealousy. And Helen was, of course, thinking of the perfection of her husband's secretary.

"They have to keep their jobs, madame, and naturally they realize what a tremendous asset beauty is in business. And they keep the wives of their employers stepping to hold their husbands, too." A little inward smile came to that. The woman in the chair felt she might soon be exceeding the speed limit, in her effort to hold hers.

(©, by the Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

Pertinent Query Not Answered by Caller

Being near-sighted, Horace Greeley wrote with his face close to the paper and with such absorption that it required considerable effort to attract his attention. One day a pompous person who had been offended by an editorial came to the Tribune office and demanded that his card be sent in. He entered right on the heels of the office boy and saluted the back of Greeley's head with a vigorous "Good morning!"

No response coming, the visitor took a turn of the room and stepping to the side of the desk, in a loud tone said: "Good morning!" Still no pause in the writing, so he took another turn and then with rising wrath fairly shouted: "Good morning!" Still getting no recognition, his slight hold on his temper slipped and he exclaimed: "Mr. Greeley, I have sent my card to you like a gentleman. I have spoken to you three times, like a gentleman. Now if you continue to pay no attention to me I shall be obliged to conclude that you are no gentleman."

The moving finger ceased to write and with an amused smile on his cherubic face, the editor looked up for a moment and asked: "Well, who in thunder ever said I was?" The other was so nonplussed that he forgot both his anger and his errand and went quietly away.—Kansas City Times.

POULTRY

CUT OUT DRAFTS FOR MOST EGGS

An important requirement for successful winter egg production in a flock of pullets is a house that is free from drafts. Colds, chickenpox, and roup, says the New Jersey State College of Agriculture, often can be traced to the birds' becoming chilled because of a drafty house.

To insure oneself against this undesirable condition it is necessary to have the house airtight on three sides. This is often difficult to do, but any cracks near the floor or directly around the roosts particularly are to be avoided. These should by all means be covered. Cracks around the entrance door are a very common occurrence and one may often find the birds cuddled up in a far corner in an effort to keep warm. By putting weather strips on the doors the poultry men easily eliminate this problem.

After the three sides are tightened up, the front may be kept reasonably open. As a rule, however, it is best to have about equal proportions of glass and muslin in front, and the two combined may take up about one-half of the front surface of the house. The spaces between the rafters above the plate may also be kept open. The muslin curtains should be closed at night and never opened on stormy days or even in the early morning or late evening. The house should always feel comfortable when one enters it. Many poultrymen have found that the glass substitute products have been very satisfactory. They admit much more light than the muslin, and also keep the house warmer. Ventilation through the rafter spaces at the eaves is usually sufficient to keep the birds in good health.

With the sides and front well taken care of, the only possible cause for drafts would be a long house without partitions. To overcome the tendency for the wind to sweep in one end of such a house and out the other, it is well to build partitions every 40 feet. These should extend to the roof and come up to within three feet of the front of the house, or if desired, a door may be fitted into this three-foot space, making the partition solid. Partitions in the roosting quarters only should be built every 20 feet.

Forcing Maturity of Pullets Is Mistake

It is a mistake to force the maturity of pullets with large amounts of milk or meat, warns O. C. Ufford, extension poultry specialist, Colorado Agricultural college. "A pullet should have a good body growth before she starts laying. An undersized pullet seldom makes a profitable hen. Small amounts of milk or meat should be used to produce normal growth, but it should not be overdone. Feed plenty of grain, part of it ground, along with milk or meat.

"Once pullets have begun to lay," Mr. Ufford continues, "the milk or meat should be gradually increased, as it is part of the ration necessary to produce eggs. If there is a deficiency of animal protein in the ration, production will gradually decline and fall molt result. Gradually allow the birds all the milk they will drink, or if milk is not available bring the amount of meat scrap up to 20 per cent of the ground feed used."

Sees Hatchability and Feeding Value of Eggs

One of the important points brought out by Prof. J. G. Halpin of the University of Wisconsin at the Ohio poultry day at Wooster, Ohio, is that the hatchability and food value of eggs may be changed with the type of feed given. Professor Halpin asserted that the time will come when people will demand that eggs for their children shall not come from hens with rickets. It is, as he said, generally agreed that children are benefited by cod liver oil, especially during the winter months. But it is unnecessary to compel the children to take cod liver oil when it might as well be fed to the chickens in the first place, and the quality of the eggs improved to overcome the deficiency.

Hopper Space

Standing in line for their feed is objectionable to hens, and, furthermore, they will not do their best when forced to do this, says H. H. Alp, poultry extension specialist of the college of agriculture, University of Illinois. Hence the value of a good egg mash often is limited by the hopper in which it is fed, he said. Feeding space for all hens at all times is the rule that should be kept in mind in building a poultry feed hopper, he recommended.

Dry Skimmed Milk

Feed dealers and feed mixers are recognizing the increasing demand for dry skimmed milk, which is now being manufactured in sufficient quantities to supply the growing poultry needs. Milk by-products, semi-solid and dry, supply the poultryman a superior quality of protein and lime and certain vitamines; but apparently of qual or more importance is the milk sugar which in the intestinal tract seems to perform a service not supplied by any other feed on the list.

Improved Uniform International

Sunday School Lesson

(By REV. P. B. FITZWATER, D.D., Dean Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.)

(©, 1927, by Western Newspaper Union.)

Lesson for December 11

ISAIAH COUNSELS THE RULERS

LESSON TEXT—Isa. 37:5-11; 14-20.

GOLDEN TEXT—Thou wilt keep him in perfect peace, whose mind is stayed on Thee: because he trusteth in Thee.

PRIMARY TOPIC—God's Care for Jerusalem.

JUNIOR TOPIC—God's Care of a Nation.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—God the Ruler of Nations.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Recognition of God in National Affairs.

The committee has given as the scripture units chapters 7, 31, 36 and 37. It will materially help in the grasp of the lesson if brief attention be given to these chapters; therefore in the outline brief reference will be made to chapters 7 and 31 while confining the main exposition to chapters 36 and 37.

I. Isaiah's Message to Ahaz.

1. Prophecy concerning Immanuel (ch. 7).

The occasion of this prophecy was an invasion from the north by Israel and Syria. This invasion greatly alarmed Ahaz. To calm his fearful heart Isaiah assured him that God's purpose concerning the nation would not fail. He urged the exercise of faith in God, offering to confirm his faith by working any miracle desired. While with false humility he refused a sign the prophet announced the giving of a sign which would be the birth of Immanuel.

2. A promise of divine protection (ch. 31).

Ahaz foolishly called for the help of Assyria and Egypt against Israel and Syria. Isaiah rebuked him for this, showing him clearly that his only help was in God.

II. Judah Invaded by the Assyrians (Isa. 36).

1. Rabshakeh meets a deputation from Judah (vv. 1-21).

He represented Sennacherib, the king of Assyria, whose mission was to induce Judah to surrender. His method to accomplish this was:

(1) Intimidation (vv. 4-9).

He tried to bully them into submission.

(2) Misrepresentation (v. 10).

He asserted that it was useless for them to put their trust in God and even declared that the Lord had sent him to destroy Egypt.

(3) He tried to create a panic among the people (vv. 13-21). Fearing such a panic the deputation of the Jews urged Rabshakeh not to speak in the Jews' language.

(4) He promised them plenty in another land (vv. 16, 17).

2. The report to Hezekiah by the deputation (v. 22). They rent their garments in fear and dismay over their perilous condition, for the crisis long before predicted by Isaiah had now come upon them.

III. Hezekiah's Behavior (Isa. 37).

1. Resorted to the House of the Lord (v. 1).

This is a sure retreat for God's people in time of distress (Ps. 73:16, 17; 73:18). This action was prompted by faith, for God had promised that whoever in time of distress resorted to His house would be heard by Him (II Chron. 7:15, 16).

2. Sent to Isaiah (vv. 2-7).

The natural and logical thing for the king to do under such circumstances was to send for God's prophet.

3. Hezekiah's prayer (vv. 14-20).

Rabshakeh, who seems to have withdrawn from Jerusalem for a little while, now returned from Sennacherib with a letter warning Hezekiah against trusting God for deliverance, for no God was able to stand against the Assyrian army. He spread the letter before the Lord and prayed.

(1) He recognized God's throne, making it the ground of his plea (v. 16).

He reposed his faith in the lordship of Jehovah, knowing that all power and authority resided in Him.

(2) He recognized the peril which threatened the people (vv. 17-19).

(3) He asked for deliverance (v. 20).

4. Isaiah's message to Hezekiah (vv. 21-35).

(1) That Sennacherib's sin was blasphemy against the Holy One of Israel (vv. 21-28).

(2) That Sennacherib had forgotten that he was an instrument in God's hand (vv. 24-28).

(3) That judgment upon Sennacherib was imminent (vv. 29-35).

IV. The Assyrian Army Destroyed (vv. 36-38).

The angel of the Lord went forth and slew in the camp of the Assyrians 185,000 men, so Sennacherib was turned back by the way he came.

The Bible as a Foundation

I have always found in my scientific studies that when I could get the Bible to say anything upon a subject it afforded me a firm platform to stand upon, and a round in the ladder by which I could safely ascend.—Lieutenant Maury.

God's Giants

All God's giants have been weak men, who did great things for God because they reckoned on His being with [illegible] Hudson Taylor.

DECEMBER

L 915 U646

The Green Cloak

By YORKE DAVIS

WNU Service Copyright, 1928

CHAPTER IX—Continued

—17—

The prophecy came true. At the very next corner the girl turned to the left, and then held on, straight across two avenues, until she reached a street where the cars ran. She made as if to cross this street, too, for she went straight out to the middle of it; then stopped, obviously at fault, and retraced her steps to the car rail nearest the curb.

"Well, that's plain enough," said Ashton in a tone of disappointment. "She's brought us so far, but can't take us any farther, for here is where he took the car."

"Wait a bit," said th doctor. "Watch the girl."

She was crouched very low again, and quartering around in a circle, just as she had done at the foot of the standpipe. Presently, to the surprise of all of us, unless it may have been that the doctor guessed, she caught a scent that satisfied her and led her diagonally back to the sidewalk; and once here, without a pause, she set out in the direction of downtown, straight down the middle of the sidewalk, her gait, that seemed unhurried, unfaltering, a sure-footed compromise between a walk and a run.

"It seems to be all right," said Ashton rather breathlessly, as we hurried on after her, "only I don't quite see what he went out into the street for."

"To see if a car was coming, I suppose," said the doctor. "There wasn't one in sight, so, rather than risk waiting, he set out afoot. And I think he did wisely. I haven't seen a car in either direction. Have you?"

We had not, and, what was still more to the point, followed the girl at the rapid pace she set, for half an hour without seeing one.

When we had first set out with her, our curiosity as to what she would do prevented us from paying much attention to the condition of the streets; but when the chase had straightened itself out into this long pursuit down the avenue, we had time to think of our surroundings, and to speculate whether they bettered the chances of the man we were pursuing or improved our own for catching him. The trolley wires were evidently down in every direction, and the streets were so glassy with the frozen sleet and so perilous with the snapping, spitting ends of live wires that trailed here and there, that what little wheel traffic there was moved only with the very greatest difficulty. Without the means of tracing him, which the doctor's hypnotic power over the girl had provided us with, he would, after several hours, have been absolutely secure from pursuit. There would have been no other way in the world of hunting for him than by this simple, primitive method of tracking him by his scent.

It was fortunate for us that there were few pedestrians abroad that night, for the girl's strange, uncanny gait and our hurried, breathless pursuit of her would, in anything like normal conditions, have created a sensation which would have rendered the pursuit itself impossible. As it was, the few people who had ventured out found all they could attend to in the ice-glazed sidewalks, the wind-whipped corners, the fog and electrical peril of the streets. A few curious glances were cast after us as we went hurrying by, but that was about all.

Suddenly the doctor dropped a hand on my arm. "I know where she's going," he said. "I ought to have guessed it before ever we started. Look there," As he spoke, he pointed ahead and upward, through the fog, and, following the direction of his pointing finger, I made out, faintly, a luminous clock face.

"What is it?" said I. "I haven't kept track of where we were going. The fog confuses me."

"It's the Western station," said the doctor, "and Wilkins, my boy," he punctuated the remark with a buffet on my shoulder, "Wilkins has gone to Oak Ridge! I ought to have known him well enough by this time to have foreseen that that was what he would do."

"I don't believe he'd be such a fool," said Ashton, "but I hope you're right. If he's gone to Oak Ridge, we've got him. I've got two men out in the Morgan house watching it, on the lookout for anyone who might turn up there, and nobody who does turn up will be able to get away until they have accounted to me for their visit."

We had all lagged a little. "Come along," said the doctor. "We mustn't get too far behind."

We were pretty well winded, all of us, but we gathered up our energies for a final sprint, and turned into the great waiting room just behind her.

She went straight to the ticket window, but without a pause there or a glance through, she turned in a sharp angle, exactly as a dog would do, and padded across the waiting room toward the doors which opened into the train shed.

"Follow her!" the doctor commanded Mallory. "I'll see about the trains."

I was at his elbow when he spoke to the clerk. That functionary was gazing after the girl with wide, terrified eyes.

"In Heaven's name!" he said, "what is she? A woman or a beast?"

The doctor did not answer. He ignored the question utterly.

"When is the next train for Oak Ridge due?" he asked.

The ticket clerk rubbed his hands over his eyes. "Did you see her?" he asked. "That creature that just went through the door?"

I did not wonder that he was horrified. I remembered my own feeling when I had seen her start down the corridor toward Wilkins' room.

The doctor paid no attention, and in the same level voice in which he had spoken before, he repeated his question about the train for Oak Ridge.

With an effort, the clerk rallied his wits and answered him.

"There was a train pulled out about ten minutes ago," he said. "There won't be another tonight. The wires are down on account of the sleet, and we've practically abandoned the suburban service. It's too dangerous. Everything has to run without orders."

"Did you hear that, Ashton?" said the doctor, turning away. "The last train to Oak Ridge that will run tonight left ten minutes ago."

CHAPTER X

Ashton had followed Malloroy part way across the waiting room, a little nervous, I think, at the idea of letting the girl out of his sight. So he had not heard what the clerk had just told Doctor McAlister through the ticket window.

"Well," he said, "that is all right, isn't it? We don't want to go to Oak Ridge. If the train Wilkins took started only ten minutes ago, there's ample time to arrange to have him arrested before he sets foot on the platform at Oak Ridge. Where's the telegraph office in this station?"

"It won't do you any good," said Doctor McAlister. "There will be no telegraphic communication with Oak Ridge tonight."

Ashton glanced thoughtfully about the room. "That possibility hadn't occurred to me," he said at last.

"It occurred to Wilkins," said the doctor. "That's why he went. He's the one man of us who really grasped the situation. He knew just what that sleet storm meant—that over a territory fifteen or twenty miles square electricity was going out of the business of serving civilization for a few hours. That one vital fact turns the world topsy-turvy, and makes some difficult things easy and some commonplace things impossible. For just tonight our thoughts can't move any quicker than our bodies can. So Wilkins has set out for Oak Ridge, and we can't head him off. The only thing we can do is to follow him. The question is, shall we try to do that?"

I followed Ashton's glance just then, and saw Mallory coming back with the girl. She seemed unconscious of his presence, and made straight across the room to where the doctor was standing in conversation with us. She halted beside him without a word, her manner perfectly quiet, though expectant. She was merely waiting for him to tell her what he wanted done next.

For the moment he paid no attention to her, did not even glance sideways at her as she came up.

"That's the question," he repeated to the attorney. "Shall we try to go out to Oak Ridge tonight? You spoke of having two men on watch there all the time. Can you safely leave the matter of coping with Wilkins to them?"

Ashton walked away a few paces, then whirled and came back. His look was troubled, disquieted.

"I wish you were there, Mallory," he said. "Green and Benson aren't any too wide awake. They'll have a man to deal with who has just outwitted us."

"There are two courses of action open to us," said the doctor. "One is, to go home and go to bed. The other is, to get hold of an automobile and try to get out to Oak Ridge tonight. Our getting there at all is problematical with the roads in the present condition."

Ashton whirled round and spoke to Mallory, "Go and telephone to the nearest garage for an automobile; quick!" he said. Then, addressing us, he went on: "There is no necessity for your going, Doctor McAlister, or Mr. Phelps, either. But Mallory and I can't afford to waste a minute."

"You've wasted one already," said the doctor, "telling Mallory to go into that telephone booth."

Ashton, heartily cursing his own stupidity, darted off after his messenger.

"I think I'll go along with them," said I to the doctor, "just on the chance of my being of some service."

He laughed. "Are you thinking you'll leave me behind? Come, Phelps, you know me better than that. No, we'll all go."

His gesture included the strange, silent, expectant figure that had been standing at his elbow all the time.

"Do you mean to take her?" I questioned.

"She's brought us so far. She's given us, up to this point, every material fact that has made it possible for us to establish Haines' identity and get on his trail."

It just happened then that my eyes were on the girl. I saw her shiver, saw a look of human intelligence and perplexity appear for the first time in that strange face of hers. I tried, with a nod, to direct my chief's attention to her, but before he could get my meaning, Ashton came hurrying back.

"There's a garage only two or three blocks away," he said, "and Mallory ought to be back with a car in a very few minutes."

Then he held out his hand to the doctor. "I can't begin to tell you," said he, "how grateful I am for the help you've given us, nor for your patience with my unenlightenment."

"No valedictories now," said the doctor interrupting. "You're not going to be rid of us so easily. We're all going with you."

"Good!" said Ashton. "I hoped you would, though I felt I hadn't any right to ask it of you. Come! There's the motor. Let's lose no time."

My memory of the next two hours is one of unrelieved discomfort and constantly increasing apprehension. We skidded across street car tracks and had a dozen of what in normal times we should have called narrow escapes, in the first dozen minutes. After that, we stopped counting. The excitement of the chase was mounting in our veins.

"He must be there by this time," said Ashton at last with a shudder. "I wish I knew that Green and Benson were still alive."

"I tell you he won't kill," said the doctor, "not if he can help it. He'll do it if they succeed in forcing his hand; that I admit. But his own cleverness is the greatest safeguard those two men could have—his cleverness and their stupidity."

"I wish I shared your confidence," said Ashton.

"Think a minute what the situation is," said the doctor. "Suppose we had him now, safely, in our hands. We know what he is. We know that he is morally responsible for the murder of Henry Morgan. But suppose you were not the district attorney. Suppose that Haines came to you and retained you in his defense. Wouldn't you tell him that, with the criminal law in its present state and the methods of prosecuting criminals what they are today, you would have an excellent chance of ridding any case that we could make! Wouldn't you tell him that, never in the world, could he be convicted of murder in the first degree, by any court or any jury?"

"Yes," said Ashton ruefully, "I suppose that's true."

"You may be sure," the doctor continued, "that Wilkins realizes that. And realizing it, you may be certain, also, that he will not commit an indubitable first-degree murder, if he can help it."

"Murder—"

The word made us all start. It was uttered, hardly above a whisper, by the wild half-human creature, through whose instrumentality we had been able to get on the true murderer's trail. And yet, in some subtle way, she had spoken in a new voice; not the soft-throated gutteral speech of the Maori girl, nor yet in Jane Perkins' New Zealand modification of cockney.

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

Wanted No Witnesses to Theatrical Flight

In Sir James Barrie's play "Peter Pan," Tinker Bell gets up on her stage wings, hovers about the room and flies out of an open window. The playwright, watching one of his rehearsals, expressed a desire to try the mechanism by which this flight is achieved. So attendants attached the wires to the distinguished gentleman and prepared to hoist him in the air.

The amusing part of the story followed. Sir James, a veteran in the world of the theater, was suddenly struck by a terrible and overwhelming stage-fright. He commanded that every one leave the boards, and had the front curtain put down and the pass doors securely closed.

Then, alone in the room between the backdrop, the curtain and the wings, he was lifted up, maneuvered over Tinker Bell's route, and, in all his disheveled dignity, soared out the window unperceived.

Darwin's Life Work

Darwin, the famous expounder of the theory of evolution, was born in 1809, the son of a physician of Shrewsbury, England. From 1831 to 1836 he made his voyage round the world in the Beagle, on which he was the naturalist. In 1859 he published his great work, "Origin of Species." Subsequently he elaborated and defended his theory. Among these works was the "Descent of Man." He died in 1882.

THEIR FOUR-ROOM BUNGALOW

(© by D. J. Walsh.)

SUE BREEN sought an empty bench and sat down upon it. Though winds which still held the tang of winter counteracted the effects of a brilliant midafternoon sun, the small park was full of people—children in gocarts and perambulators, old, weary and ailing folks who needed an airing, a group of women discussing something with great enthusiasm. Sue glanced at them all indifferently, impressed by the fact that as usual she recognized nobody, then turning her back she stared into a larch tree near her.

The larch tree made her think of home. There had been one at the southeast corner of the old gray house. Her father had planted it. At night she could hear it talking outside her window. It had seemed to tell her wonderful secrets of life and happiness. Then suddenly her father died, the old gray house was sold to pay the debts and she and her mother came to the city, where there was a promise of work for both of them. And now her mother was gone and she was alone. Worse than that, she had lost her job. It wasn't much of a job, but such as it was it sufficed to feed and shelter and clothe her and allow her to lay aside a bit for emergency's sake. She didn't know where to look for another such job. And so as she stared at the friendly larch tree she cried softly, wiping the tears off her cheeks with furtive dabs of her handkerchief. She couldn't have done that, of course, if she had used either powder or rouge. As a matter of fact she left her complexion alone. It was fine, clear, pale, but suited to her gray eyes with their long black lashes and arrowy black brows to her smooth brown hair. Her clothes were just what you would expect a girl of her kind to wear—a plain, dark coat and hat chosen for serviceability and warmth and sensible, low-heeled shoes, sturdy protection from damp sidewalks.

Something passed under the larch tree, whirled along by a chill gust, and landed in her lap. A piece of paper—with marks upon it. She looked down at it, arresting its course by laying her hand upon it. And suddenly she felt a thrill of interest. It was only the back of an old envelope, but it bore a small, well-conceived plan for a bungalow. A four-room bungalow with everything carefully designated save the place for the kitchen sink. But almost anybody except a woman would have left that out.

Sue, brooding over the plan, visualized the bungalow complete, with rose vines on the tiny porch, a larch tree maybe to swing over it. A four-room bungalow! It was what she and her mother had always talked of having when their ship came in. Alas, the ship has gone the way of so many other hopes and dreams.

"I beg your pardon!" Sue looked up, startled. A young man stood before her; he was dark, grave, earnest. She, who had worked in a place where there were many men as well as women, knew something about faces. She recognized instantly that this man's face was out of the ordinary in quality of expression. "I beg your pardon," he said again, "but I see the wind brought you a bit of paper that belongs to me—"

Sue held out the paper. On the other side of the envelope was written a name in a woman's clear hand. "Mr. Rupert Holley," with the address. Rupert Holley! Why, he was the man Louise Wright was always talking about—her brother's friend. There couldn't be two Rupert Holleys.

"It's all right," she said, "except for one thing."

"What is that?" He was interested.

"The kitchen sink. You haven't allowed for it. And it ought to go under the window somewhere. A woman naturally would want light when she washes dishes or cleans vegetables."

"I see. Would you mind showing me—" He sat down beside her with her permission and they settled the matter of the kitchen sink.

It was now time for Sue to go home. She arose. He walked with her as far as the entrance. There they parted. She never expected to see him again.

But she thought of him. He had made a strong impression. It was odd. She did not care for men, was a bit afraid of them, in fact, but he seemed so candid and decent, so trustworthy. She wished she dared ask Louise Wright about him, but upon the one occasion when Louise came to see her his name was not mentioned between them. She, however, had rescanned it all out. The bungalow was for the woman who had written his name on that envelope—a woman's envelope, a woman's handwriting.

"But he would never have known about the kitchen sink but for me," she thought with a sigh.

Two weeks later Sue found another job. It wasn't quite so much of a job as the first, but it would do. Only she would have to change her room in order to be nearer. She hunted her new room painstakingly. It was small, but newly furnished, with a good window and she could get breakfast and dinner, all very reasonable. Besides, she saw that she was going to like Mrs. Moran, her new landlady. And her job wasn't so bad. She got the hang of it immediately.

There really seemed some reason for her being joyful and that first evening she walked into Mrs. Moran's dining room she had a smile to go with her apology for being late. They were all at the table—eight men and women—and as Mrs. Moran introduced the newcomer Sue found herself looking into the eyes of Rupert Holley. More than that her seat at table was beside him.

"How does this happen?" he asked her in a low tone as he passed her the celery. "Is it coincidence or just—fate?"

"Neither," Sue laughed. She was just as happy as that. "It's plain old-fashioned happenstance."

"I've been looking for you everywhere," he said. "At last I asked Miss Wright—and she told me about you, and where to find you. I went over there this afternoon, but you were gone. You see, I won a prize with my bungalow design and half of it belongs to you."

"Why, what are you talking about?" Sue demanded in astonishment.

"I'm saying that half the prize money belongs to you, for without your help about the kitchen sink I would never have won it. It's $100, you know. I had a notion to be an architect before I went into business, but of course, I never had any real training."

So the bungalow wasn't then for any specific person! Well, she was glad of that. But it was absurd to think she would take half of the prize money. And so she insisted during many succeeding interviews. Meanwhile she learned all about him, where he worked, who his people were, some of the things that had happened in his life—intimate details that marked the progress of their friendship.

For they were becoming friends. Sue realized that with increasing joyfulness.

Then one night as they were coming home from the "movies" together, both thoughtful after the tender domestic drama they had witnessed, Rupert suddenly said:

"Sue, I have received a small legacy from an old uncle out in Wyoming whom I was named after. It would build a bungalow—a four-room bungalow like my prize design. If—if you wouldn't share the prize, will you share the bungalow?"

Sue looked up into the kind face bent over her.

"And—and can we have a larch tree by the front door?" she asked.

"Two larch trees, dear, and rose vines and at the back a small garden, where I shall raise vegetables which you will prepare at the kitchen sink." Rupert's voice shook with tenderness.

"All right, then," Sue answered.

And she clasped both hands about the arm that was to protect her for many years to come.

Shun Women to Insure Good Catch of Seals

For five months of the year the entire male membership, from the weaned infants to the oldest patriarch, of the Eskimo tribe inhabiting Nunivak island off the coast of Alaska, keep bachelor quarters in isolation lodge, during this period. The women cook for them, bringing the food to the lodge, where it is eaten.

According to Henry B. Collins, Jr., Smithsonian ethnologist who has returned from an expedition to Alaska, this separation of the sexes is considered by the Eskimo to be necessary to insure a good catch of seals.

The Nunivak islanders, numbering 170 souls in all, represent one of the most conservative Eskimo groups left. This is due to their isolation. Though their island measures 70 by 40 miles, it is so barren as to have little attraction for white men. The bureau of education maintains a teacher and his wife on the island, but previous to the arrival of the Smithsonian expedition, they had had no visit from a boat in two years. The only other representative of the outside world is an Eskimo trader at another village 30 miles away.

The lives of the islanders revolve around the seal, on which they are largely dependent for food, clothing and light. In consequence, the seal is looked upon with the profoundest respect. The five months of isolation from women is concluded with a feast at which the bladders of all seals caught during the year are thrown back into the sea to propitiate the seal tribe.

Numberless taboos regulate the hunting, skinning and general handling of the animal.

So little is known of Nunivak island, says Mr. Collins, that its shores are not even charted.

Americans Pay Tribute

George Eliot's grave is visited by many American travelers in England. The novelist, who died in 1890, is buried in Highgate cemetery, a fact unknown to most of her own country people. Her grave was overgrown with weeds and left untended for years until recently two women from Baltimore paid to have it resolled and planted with flowers. Americans, in fact, are the principal pilgrims to honor the great novelist. Many of them pluck a flower or leaf and carry it in their guidebooks as a souvenir of their visit.

Imparting Information

Bartlett had heard his parents spell most of their conversations, so upon learning his first few words he greeted his father that evening with: "Daddy, we're going to B. A. T. (picture show)."

The BABY

No mother in this enlightened age would give her baby something she did not know was perfectly harmless, especially when a few drops of plain Castoria will right a baby's stomach and end almost any little ill. Fretfulness and fever, too; it seems no time until everything is serene.

That's the beauty of Castoria; its gentle influence seems just what is needed. It does all that castor oil might accomplish, without shock to the system. Without the evil taste. It's delicious! Being purely vegetable, you can give it as often as there's a sign of colic; constipation; diarrhea; or need to aid sound, natural sleep.

Just one warning: it is genuine Fletcher's Castoria that physicians recommend. Other preparations may be just as free from all doubtful drugs, but no child of this writer's is going to test them! Besides, the book on care and feeding of babies that comes with Fletcher's Castoria is worth its weight in gold.

Children Cry for Fletcher's CASTORIA

Snowy White Clothes WITHOUT RUBBING

N-R-G (Energy) Laundry Tablets wash clothes spotlessly clean in ten minutes without rubbing. Clean everything like magic; cut soap bill in half. Remove ink, fruit stains, blood, rust, perspiration and all stains instantly.

Guaranteed Not to Injure the Hands or the Finest Fabric

Amazing results when N-R-G is used in the washing machine, either electric or hand driven. No blueing required. For sale at your grocer's, 10c per package. Valuable coupon with every package. Only four required for Silver Teaspoon. 25-year guarantee. Over 500 other premiums.

THE N-R-G PRODUCTS CO., CHICAGO, ILL.

CORNS

Ends pain at once!

In one minute pain from corns is ended. Dr. Scholl's Zino-pads do this safely by removing the cause—pressing and rubbing of shoes. They are thin, medicated, antiseptic, healing. At all drug and shoe stores. Cost but a trifle.

Dr Scholl's Zino-pads

Put one on—the pain is gone!

New Industry

Thirty thousand beauty shops in the United States take in $400,000,000 a year from 60,000,000 persons.—Woman's Home Companion.

Ask for SUNSHINE RAISINS grown without seeds, an honest pound, at your grocer's.—Adv.

Unbeliever

North—Don't you agree that speed is the curse of America?

West—No, I can't say I do. I'm an installment collector.—Life.

24 Hours Ends COLDS

A "common cold" may result in grippe or flu. At the very first sign, go to a drug store and get a box of HILL'S. Take promptly. HILL'S breaks up a cold in 24 hours because it does the four vital things at once—stops the cold, checks the fever, opens the bowels and tones the system. Red box, 30 cents.

HILL'S

Cascara - Bromide - Quinine

PASTOR KOENIG'S NERVINE for Epilepsy Nervousness & Sleeplessness

DECEMBER

L 915 U647

Local Briefs

December McCall's is here.

Get a rent receipt book at News office. tf.

Ed Smith is ill at his home near the grist mill, with liver trouble.

S. S. Widney is now visiting Leon Sechler and family near Edgerton.

You can make your application for 1928 auto license plates at News office. Many have done so all ready. 49tf.

Abner Trostel's Sunday School class, No. 5, of Coburn's Corners, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Reed Place.

For Sale:—The newest in Electric Washers. The One-minute Model 60, $97.50, also Model 52. Will be glad to demonstrate. Drop a card to M. S. Hilpert, Hicksville, Ohio. 46tf.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Reasoner are at Washington guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Leighty. They are leaving this week driving John's car to St. Joe for his use when he returns to St. Joe throughout the year.

Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Tussing and daughter, Evelyn, of Findlay, O., spent the week end with Mrs. Tussing's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Buckingham. Mr. Tussing and Miss Evelyn returned Monday and Mrs. Tussing remained for a few days visit.

Ora D. Baker the only heir to the $5,554 estate of the late Ephriam W. Baker and his inheritance tax is $35.54. The estate in which no tax was charged was Peter Kosht: net value $4,409.23. Widow, Elizabeth Kosht, and two children, David R. Kosht and Anna Hindman, $1,496.66 each.

December McCall's is here.

Pure, fresh ground buckwheat flour. St. Joe Milling Co.

Crepe paper three rolls for 10 cents as long as it lasts. News office.

Christmas Cards put up in boxes at $1.00. Regular 15 cent values and a dozen of them in a box, double envelopes one of them lined. Call at News office. 45tf.

Eight members of the Delta Alpha class of which Roy Maxwell is the teacher, were entertained Thursday evening at the Beatrice Woodcox home. A fine luncheon was served and games were played.

LaRue Sechler, 15, daughter of Wm. Sechler and wife ot Orangeville, is suffering a nervous breakdown. She had been attending school here regularly. She took sick Friday and is in a very serious condition.

Twenty estates were closed during the September term of the DeKalb circuit court, which ended Saturday. The court also approved the partial reports in ten estates, the final reports in five guardianships and the current reports in eighteen guardianships.

Merchants who are wishing to have their holiday advertising reach 100% of the homes in southeastern DeKalb county will want to place their ads in St. Joe News during week of Dec. 15 and 22. That is what we are planning on doing for these two weeks. Get copy or news matter to us early.

Last week high waters prevailed on the roads south and east of St. Joe, so that crossing was prohibited for a couple of days. The heavy rains brought the water exceedingly high. Many of the corn fields close to the river suffered heavily and much of the corn will be found in some other locality. Many of the shocks floated away.

Paper and envelopes News office.

Dale Trostel spent the week end with his brother at Garrett.

Mr. aand Mrs. Wm. Randall were at Auburn Monday on a business trip.

But for the little men in the world great men would never be noticed.

Chas. Miser is employed at Albion for a while on a job of surveying for the city sewer.

Ray Bowman and his mother are in Auburn a few days this week, visiting in the W. C. McNabb home.

Persons wishing to hunt can obtain license at News Office. Also we attend to your notary work promptly.

Mrs. Pluma Hamilton is suffering with a nerve trouble. She is making trips to Fort Wayne twice a week for treatments.

Earl Wolff and family of Edon and Sheldon Wolff and family of Montpelier, Ohio, were Sunday afternoon guests of S. S. Wolff.

Miss Alice Tustison, who has been employed at the Auburn Lumber Co., as stenographer, has resigned and is now in South Bend.

A Gift expressing the Christmas Spirit—a subscription to (his) or (her) favorite magazine, can be placed at News office without additional expense to you.

The estate of the late Mary E. Cook has been ordered in the DeKalb circuit court to be settled as insolvent. The property belonging to the estate is not sufficient to pay the debts and liabilities.

Five divorces were granted during the September term of the DeKalb circuit court, which ended Saturday. Three of these were to wives and two to husbands. Twenty-three divorce cases are pending at the close of the term.

A Gift Subscription for every member of the family—your friends, or some one far away, will appreciate the gift as something personal and enjoyable long after the holidays are passed. Let The News take your subscription.

Virgil Freeburn, who has lived on the Chas. Freburn farm for the past few years, moved last week to Spencerville, working in the Woodring garage. Glen Freeburn, who has lived in St. Joe for some years, now occupys the farm home, moving last week. Mr. Freeburn will not farm but continue in the well business with Derwood Ridgway and drive back and forth to his work.

The Rural Housewives Club was recently entertained by Lizzie Hart and Myra Conine. The following officers have been elected to serve six months: President, Nellie Perry; vice president, Cora Waltz; secretary, Marie Trostel; treasurer, Lizzie Hart; press correspondent, Minnie Gee. The next meeting will be December 15 with Inez Hadsell, at which time the Christmas exchange will be given.

State gasoline tax collections for the month of November of gasoline sold to consumers in October totaled $1,072,163.87, an increase of $158,825.02 over collections for the corresponding period in 1926, it has been reported by Archie N. Bobbitt, chief collector in the office of the state auditor. In October the consumption of gasoline reached a total of 33,737,896 gallons, the report showed. It is expected that the consumption will drop off considerably with winter weather.

December McCall's is here.

It is easier to recover lost money than lost time.

Pure, fresh ground buckwheat flour. St. Joe Milling Co.

Mart White of near Waterloo here the guest of his sister, Mrs. Ella Gill.

Christmas cards of exquisite design on display at News office. We print your name on them. 48tf.

Pullets:—25 Rhode Island Reds; 25 White Rocks, all thoroughbred. Call Mrs. Ora Wilmot, Spencerville. 48t1.

Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Monroe are guests of their son, Stanley and wife at West Unity, Ohio, for a couple of weeks.

Mrs. Alice Copp returned home from Columbia City, Sunday, after spending the past week with her daughter, Mrs. B. V. Widney and husband.

F. W. Silberg of Butler, will before a jury on January 4 defend a suit on an acount for $2,396.14 filed against him by the Kokomo Steel and Wire Co.

Junior Curie is recovering after being in bed for over a week, as result of being tripped down stairs at school. Erysipelas set in but today is much improved.

Miss Mary Foltz of near Defiance, Ohio, visited in the homes of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Foltz and Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Buckingham from Wednesday until Saturday of last week.

A girl in a bathing suit and customers bringing their own liquor is no reason to declare a dance hall a public nuisance, the Supreme court ruled at Lansing, Saturday.

The News reported J. O. Quance of Fort Wayne as sick last week, but he is better and is about his daily work again. Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Hull were visitors Sunday in the Quance home.

A birthday party was held Sunday at the M. A. Miser home at Waterloo, in honor of Mr. Miser, Mrs. Wm. Franks of Garrett and Ed Miser of St. Joe. Their families were present and enjoyed the bounteous dinner.

Mrs. Lenore Kagey of Warsaw was in town Saturday on business. While here William Keeler and wife made out papers, deeding Mrs. Kagey the residence property which they have occupied since moving to town.

The item last week in regard to the disturbance at the meat market in which The News stated that "Mr. Grimm and his constable came to St. Joe with the intention of closing the market up," should have stated that the constable came to serve an execution as Mr. Grimm was in Auburn at the time. Even The News doesn't get all its news item information correct.

The excessive use of liquor brought about the separation of Hilda and Russell A. Mustard, the former testified in the DeKalb circuit court Saturday in prosecuting her divorce action. Mrs. Mustard, whose home is at Butler, said that she and her husbnd were married May 1, 1922, and they separater August 1, 1925. The usual cruel treatment charges were made. The court restored the plaintiff's maiden name, Hilda Stoakes, but inas-much as service upon the defendant was secured only by publication she was prohibited from remarrying within two years. She is now operating a beauty parlor in connection with the Tomlinson barber shop.

Have your glasses fitted by Benj. F. Griest, Eyesight Specialist, Office in American Bldg., Hicksville, Ohio. 28tf.

Miss Winnifred Astry and gentleman friend of Fort Wayne, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Kees and family.

Make a choice of 12 Christmas Cards and we print your name free. See them now in News office window. 48tf.

Sam Mumaw visited relatives in Virginia several days last week, returning with Mr. and Mrs. Ray Reasoner this week.

Eighty-eight acre farm for rent 3 miles west of St. Joe. Present tenant Joe Wyatt. Write W. H. Gibbs, 2017 Meridian Street, Fort Wayne, Ind. 49tf.

A new switch board was installed at the Central office last Sunday and the men have been extremely busy making adjustments so that all patrons may enjoy the new and improved service.

The meeting of the Ladies Aid Society of the Methodist Church will be held Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. E. R. Kinsey. A good program has been prepared and the Christmas exchange will be enjoyed.

John Hosler of Butler, called at the News office Monday evening and stated that in spite of not having one of the 1928 Fords on hand, he had sold seven since Friday. He will have an ad in our issue of December 22nd.

A letter from Merritt Hull, of Helena, Ohio, written Sunday, states that his flock of White Leghorn pullets are now shelling out 338 eggs per day, or in other words Sunday was the peak of production thus far as they have only been laying about a month. They have a market at Toledo.

The young people of the M. P. Sunday School were entertained Monday eve at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leighty, the latter being superintendent of the department. Mrs. Wm. Curie, the teacher, assisted. Games were enjoyed and ice cream with cherry rings and cake were served.

A Christmas savings fund check bearing the name of Patsy Ruth Nuzum will be mailed from an Elwood, Ind., bank within a few days, but Patsy will have to get somebody to cash it for her. She's a dog. Lawrence Munso has arranged for a Christmas fund for her annually for five years. The News editor will be glad to accommodate Patsy, if the bank will mail us the check.

The differences between Abraham Culbertson and his farm tenant, V. L. Steman, were thrashed out before Judge Endicott, Tuesday of last week. Mr. Culbertson claimed that the $155 offered him by his tenant for his share of the corn and oats crop was not in full settlement and he demanded $500. The evidence involved measurments of the crops as harvested by Mr. Steman. The court took the case under advisement.

Will Mossberger is still discontented with the results of the prize fight at Chicago, and he expects to stage a real fight soon. He has secured two entries for his bouts. Each will be dressed in white and operated by a spring. Bill is the referee and expects to stop the game at the proper time. He gave a sample exhibition on the street Tuesday forenoon. He carries his fighters in his pocket. Ask him for a demonstration.

December McCall's is here.

It is not too early to begin buying your cards for Christmas. 40 designs at News office. 48tf.

Chicken Supper at Community Hall, Sat. Eve, Dec. 17, by M. E. Ladies Aid Society, Spencerville.

Dr. and Mrs. C. R. Price visited relatives in Pierceton and North Manchester from Saturday until Monday.

The Wittenberg Brotherhood of Butler is organizing a community sing, with the idea of enlisting 50 male voices.

Make your selection of Greeting Cards now while our line is unbroken. See window display at News office. 48tf.

Every man has a threefold nature—that which he has, that which he exhibits and that which he thinks he has.

Miss Lucile Curie was elected treasures of the North Eastern Christian Endeavor Rally, held at Kendallville, November 27th.

Mrs. Nora Dorsey, who has been quite sick for the past five weeks with ulcers of the stomach, is now at the home of her mother, Mrs. Harriett Haifley, being cared for.

Mr. and Mrs. Leon Kees moved from Fort Wayne, Saturday, into the H. A. Kees home for the winter. For several weeks Leon has been ill and unable to take care of his work.

Mrs. Charles Grimm of Waterloo, spent Sunday afternoon and evening with her daughter, Mrs. Paul Curie and family. Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Grimm of Waterloo were evening guests.

Congressman David Hogg of Ft. Wayne, writes and asks that The News be forwarded to him at 142 House Office Building, Washington, D. C., where he is going to attend the December session of Congress. The letter also stated "Enclosed find check for $3.00.

The children and their families, together with the neighbors of Mrs. Harriett Haifley, gave her a birthday surprise last Friday evening at her home. Well filled baskets of eatables and oysters were enjoyed by all and a fine social time was spent that evening.

Clarence Green attended the December meeting of the township trustees which was held Monday at Spencerville. The trustees were guests of William Erick, trustee, and the schools. At noon a dinner was served by the home economics class of the Spencerville school.

On the first day London ordered 64,000 new Ford cars, and 450,000 new Fords have been ordered already in the United States. The Canadian demand is proportionately as great. Stock in the Ford Company of Canada has gone which Mr. Rockefeller recommends seems to have worked well in Henry Ford's case.

Along with filling station operators withcut the favored zones, we have not been able to appreciate the joke of oil companies making it possible to sell gas at from two to three cents less than is possible in the smaller place and rural districts. If the big companies can afford to sell the fuel at a certain price in the city, why can't they also afford to sell it at the same price at other points? It is surely unjust discrimination.—L. W. Yeiser in South Whitley Tribune.

The December institute of the rural teachers of DeKalb county, which will be held in Auburn Saturday, December 10, will have a touch of Christmas, according to a program being formulated by Clarence Green, county school superintendent. A special musical program will be given by a quartet from Taylor University at Upland in addition to a number of other features. The three extension classes will convene for study as usual after the meeting in the court house assembly room.

ST. JOE WINS

The St. Joe Independents defeated the Leo Shamrocks last Wednesday evening by a score of 33-24. It's a shame that such a fast game had to happen on a stormy night when the majority of the fans could not be there to witness. It was one of the finest exhibitions of basket ball that St. Joe has seen in many a moon. We told you sometime ago that St. Joe was again to be on the basket ball map with a fast team and if you haven't as yet seen them play, come out Saturday night, December 10th and see them battle a team composed of ex-high school stars and one member ex-Ohio university star.

St. Joe, win or lose, we want to give you fans real exhibitions of basket ball by having teams here that know "how" to oppose us. Come on St. Joe. Let's go!

"It Won't Be Long Now"

Watch for
OPENING DATE

Court Theatre
AUBURN, INDIANA

Make this Christmas last for thousands of miles

-a BUICK for Christmas

Make someone supremely happy this Christmas. Give a Buick for 1928. Delivery will be made, if you wish, at your home Christmas morning.

The liberal G. M. A. C. time payment plan is available if desired.

BUICK SALES & SERVICE, Auburn.

LOADING UP

with White Velvet Flour is done without shoveling or handling of any kind. The flour comes from a dust-proof room through a perfectly clean chute without the touch of a hand. That means perfect cleanliness as well as fine flour. Order a sack of White Velvet as a trial. See how absolutely free from dirt, etc., it is when you put it through the sifter.

St. Joe Milling Co. HERMAN SPRINGER, Sole Owner

"A Womanless Wedding"

Cast of 60 Tri-Township Men

Thursday, Dec. 8
Community Bldg.
St. Joe

2 Nights

Friday, Dec. 9
Community Hall
Spencerville

Butler—O. K. Shull.
Flappers— Elwood Hart and Glen Hart.
Girl Friends—Maurice Hollabaugh and Hollis Wise.
Bride's Mother—Fred High.
Bride's Father—Rev. R.S. Brown
Bride's Bad Brothers—Elmer Volkert and Rev. Roediger.
Abie Goldberg—Clyde Hart.
Aunt Hopeful—Frank Butler.
Grandmother—C. A. Woodcox.
Grandfather—James McKinley.
Uncle Josh—Will Lake.
Aunt Samantha—Chas. Koch.
Fritz Kriesler—Donald Ramsey.
Groom's Mother—A. J. Smith.
Groom's Father—C. H. Hull.
Mary Pickford—Carl Perkins.
Herbert Hoover—Joe Foltz.
Mrs. Hoover—Claude Laub.
Sis Hopkins—Harvey Hull.
Sen. Reed—Clarence Hart.
Mrs. Reed—Chas. Cochran.
Pat O'Grady—Joe Woodcox.
Rosy O'Grady—Hollis Dilley.
Mr. Gould—H. O. Waltz.
Mrs. Gould—Floyd Coburn.
Cousin Willie Green—Merritt Maxwell.
Mr. Longworth—Ed Miser.
Mrs. Longworth—Frank Akins.
Mr. Henpeck—Vern Coburn.
Mrs. Henpeck—Joe Koch.
Annie Laurie—Roy Koch.
Aunt Mandy—Frank Baltz.
Bride's Baby Sister—Beeks Erick.
Rastus—Delt McKinley.
Snowball—Ed Storer.
Gen. Pershing—Herman Springer.
Pres. Coolidge—F. E. Rhoades.
Mrs. Coolidge—Vern Monroe.
Movie Vamp—O. E. Ginther.
Henry Ford—Frank Curie.
Mrs. Ford—Fred Hart.
Jilted Sweetheart — Derwood Ridgway.
Chauncy Olcot—Garth Shull.
Mr. Rockefeller—Ray Means.
Mrs. Rockefeller—Wm. Keeler.
Galli Curci—J. H. Knaak.
Groomsmen—Glen Cole, Grant Baltz, John Engle and Roy Wade.
Best Man—Ralph Sechler.
Bishop—Frank Milliman.
Bridesmaids—LaVern Pfaumer, Fred Ulm and Stanley Means.
Maid of Honor—Lloyd Wade.
Flower Girls—Bruce Koch and Otto Leininger.
Ring Bearer—Carl Hart.
Train Bearer—Rev. McKnight.
Bride—Roy Keller.
Groom—??????

DECEMBER

L 915 U648

SPENCERVILLE

Daily papers at News office and magazines galore.

Pure, fresh ground buckwheat four. St. Joe Milling Co.

For Sale:—18 Ewes, bred. Call Mrs. Elias Kline, Spencerville. 48t2.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles High were recent guests of friends at Fort Wayne.

Paul Dean and wife were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Allen.

R. U. Bowser and son Gale, spent last week at the Live Stock Show in Chicago.

The Home Missionary Society will meet on Thursday with Mrs. Pearl Farver.

Chicken Supper at Community Hall, Sat. Eve, Dec. 17, by M. E. Ladies Aid Society.

The Misses Janice Wade and Ada Bowser, were Sunday afternoon guests of Roy Bowser and wife at St. Joe.

Miss Gaylon Markle entertained the Young Ladies Social Club at her home Wednesday evening.

Mrs. Nancy Chaney left Sunday for Auburn, where she will spend the winter with Mr. and Mrs. De-Loss White.

Mrs. Lavina Parker returned to her home at Fort Wayne, after spending a week with Mr. and Mrs. Gust. Hafner.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Beams and daughter of Detroit, Mich., and Mrs. Rebecca Beams, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Beams.

Mark Tyndall, wife and children of Woodburn, Mrs. Jean Bauserman of Harlan and John Miller and wife of Fort Wayne, were Sunday guests at the Jason Keyes home.

The C. C. Club met last Friday with Mrs. Verna Rhodes. The Thanksgiving contest was won by Mrs. George Beams. The guests were Mrs. LaVern Koch and Miss Aleen Rhodes.

Walter Horn of Fort Wayne and George Horn, were Sunday afternoon guests at the Joel Bets home. Saturday guests in the same home were Mrs. Lavina Parker of Fort Wayne and Mrs. Anna Boger of Auburn.

James Reed and wife, Mrs. Ethel Bowser and daughter, Ada, Garnet and Howard Beams, Miss Minnie Walker, Ethel and Violette Pflaumer, Miss Ruth Miller and Charles Whittaker, spent Saturday in Fort Wayne.

John R. Doll and son, George R. of Fort Wayne, left Monday night for Canton, Ohio, to attend the funeral of the former's brother, Charles W. Doll, who died in Colorado, and whose body was shipped to Canton, his former home for burial.

The Cheerful Workers class of the M. E. Sunday School will meet with Mrs. Timmerman, west of town on Friday afternoon. The Rayo class will also meet on Friday afternoon with Mrs. Roy Brown. There will be election of officers and Christmas exchange.

The Auburn Autos defeated the Spencerville Independents Saturday night at Spencerville, 33 to 22. The half ended 19-8. Silberg right guard for the Autos, was high point man with twelve marks to his credit. Funk, center contributed 8, Walters 5, Hoodelmier 4, Butler 2 and Kruse 2 points each.

With the Churches

ST. JOE M. P. CHURCH

Mrs. Hattie Widney, Supt.
Sunday School, 9:30 A. M.
Preaching, 10:30.
Christian Endeavor, 6:00 P. M.

CONCORD M. P. CHURCH

George Johnson, Supt.
Sunday school 9:30 A. M.
Preaching service 7:00 o'clock.
Christian Endeavor, 6:30.
J. F. McKnight, Pastor.

EVANGELICAL LUTHERAN CHURCHES

"There was no room for them at the inn." Luke 2:7.

When Christ came to the world, his own world, there was no room for him. This is but the beginning of what was to continue right thru. As in his life, so since—no room, no room.

There is no room for him in our business.

There is no room for Christ in our pleasures.

Comparatively little room for Him in our conversation.

Little or no room for Him accorded in our literature.

No room for Christ in our party politics.

No room for Him in many of our homes.

There is an effort in certain quarters to crowd Christ out of theology and religion.

In many of our churches there is hardly any room for Christ. The platforms of certain churches even reject Christ in rejecting his teachings as compiled in the Apostolic Creed of the early Christian Church.

Is there room for Christ in your heart and life?

He is standing at the door, knocking.

We preach Christ and Him crucified. No other teaching will give full satisfaction, rest and peace of mind and soul. "God so loved the world, that he gave his only begotten Son that whosoever believeth in him should not perish but have eternal life."

ST. JOE

Sabbath Bible School at 9:30 A. M., Mr. Derwood Ridgway, Superintendent.
Sermon, 7:00 P. M.

SPENCERVILLE

Sabbath Bible School at 9:15 A. M., Mr. Ray Means, Superintendent.
Preaching service, 10:30.
You are welcome to our services a glad hand is extended to you.
P. B. Roediger, Pastor.

CHURCH OF CHRIST

"How much would you be worth if you were to lose all you have?"

ST. JOE

Ed Storer, Supt.
Bible School, 9:30 A. M.
Lord's Supper, 10:45 A. M.
Sermon, 11:00 A. M.

Splendid audience again Sunday evening. It's an inspiration to talk to full seats and interested listeners.

NEWVILLE

Frank Lyons, Superintendent
Bible School, 10:00 A. M., sun time.
Lord's Supper, 11:00 A. M., sun time.
Sermon, 7:30 P. M. sun time.

Our Evangelistic campaign starts Christmas night. Carolyne Johnson of Plainfield, Ind., is conductor of music. The pastor will preach. Get ready for these meetings; plan to attend. Public is invited.

S. R. Aldrich, Pastor.

Methodist Episcopal Church Spencerville

Sunday School, 9:00 A. M.—John Koch, Superintendent.
Epworth League, 6:00 P. M.

Democracy seems to be working out its own salvation; son there will be so many officials that there will be no one left to be governed.

WE invite you to see our new Christmas line;
Our Greeting Card stock was never so fine,—
There's Distinction, Quality, and Good Value here
In every card we are offering this year;
And your own special taste we can gratify too,
To carry your Christmas Greetings for you.

SAMPLE CARDS ON DISPLAY HERE

The Hostage

By Walter De La Mare
—in Poetry

IN DEAD of dark to his starry North
Saint Nicholas drew near—
He had ranged the world this wintry night,
His elk-bells jangling clear.
Now bitter-worn with age was he,
And weary of mankind, for few
Had shown him love or courtesy.

His socks lay empty—all save one;
And this to his affright
Stirred as he stooped with fingers numb,
Ablaze with hoar-frost bright.
Aghast he stood. Showed fumbling thumb,
Small shoulder, a wing—what stowaway
Was this and whence was 't come?

And out there crept a lovely thing—
Half angel and half child:
"I, youngest of all Heaven, am here, to be thy joy" he smiled.
"O Nicholas, our Master Christ thy grief hath seen; and He Hath bidden me come to keep His tryst, and bring his love to thee:
To serve thee well, and sing Nowell, and thine own son to be."

The Christmas Song

By Christopher G. Hazard

(©, 1926, Western Newspaper Union.)

NOT of themselves do the angels sing,
Not for themselves do they draw aside
The great blue curtain, that serves to hide
The softened glory that angels bring.

But earthly wonders to heavenly eyes
Gathered are in a Bethlehem stall,
In this new life of their all in all
They see their God in a new disguise.

Therefore they sing the silences down
That brood upon ancient earthly nights
Therefore they let a glorious light
Fall upon darkened Bethlehem town.

Oh may our ears attuned to heaven,
Catch the glad strains that are sounding still
To minister peace and better will,
Through the young Christ whom God hath given.

"Merry Christmas"

By James E. Hungerford,
—in Michigan Farmer

CHRISTMAS is coming to bless us again,
Bringing its beauty o' blessings to men!
Wiping out worries and troubles and frets;
Routing the "pest," with its futile "regrets;"
Blotting out memories, tragic and drear—
Filling our hearts with the magic o' cheer!
Giving us gifts from the Giver above—
Greatest o' which is the Spirit o' love!

Christmas is coming to wipe away care,
Bringing rich blessings for mankind to share;
Giving to some o' us gifts o' sweet peace,
And from our troubles and sorrows, surcease;
Giving to others in life a fresh start;
Courage to try again—and a brave heart.
Helping the helpless, and cheering the strong—
Gifts from above to humanity's throng!

Christmas is coming with blessings untold—
Rarer than gifts o' mere silver and gold;
Giving us happiness, helpfulness, hope,
As in the darkness we stumble and grope;
Giving us gifts o' contentment and cheer—
Setting us free from the bondage o' fear;
Christmas is coming—and on, fellowmen,
Here's wishing you all a "Merry Christmas!" again!

INDISPENSABLE

The greatest conveniences in life often prove of exceeding inconvenience—many things considered indispensable being the cause of numberless trials and tribulations. Of other things than women it is said, "you can't get along without them and you can't get along with them."

Every thoughtful man wants to own his own home and to acquire other real estate for reasons known to all, but for other very good reasons some, who may, do not. Possession of uncumbered real estate invites damage suits, attracts friends in trouble hunting bail and friends in need of money hunting an indorsement for a note, and places the possessor on the sucker-lists of stock salesmen and contribution collectors. And there are the taxes to meet.

The ways are manifold in which the automobile gives its owner advantages over the non-owner. So many are the uses of the automobile that the average owner is quickly convinced of their indispensability. But the open road is not a path of roses. The way of the motorist is hard—abounding in motor cops, beset with detours and speed traps, obstructed by accidents and damage suits, infested with punctures and empty gas tanks, and approached by twelve monthly payments and usury.

And yet, though there be evil in every minute, optimists predominate in this life and pessimism is forbidden by popular edict. Life will be "fair to middlin," or "tol'able" as long as its advantages counteract the disadvantages and there remains some semblance of equality between the agreeable and disagreeable phases of human existence.

DR. C. R. BAUMGARTNER
Veterinarian
Spencerville, Ind.
PHONES: 282--283.

MORE TRIED RECIPES FOR THE COOK

HOLIDAY SALADS

Oranges, Bananas and Marshmallows

Peel and slice oranges; cut slices into segments. Mix with bananas peeled and cut into dice and marshmallows cut into quarters. Put into serving dish and sprinkle with sugar.

Oranges and Cocoanut

Peel and slice oranges; cut slices into segments. Put into serving dish and sprinkle with sugar and grated cocoanut.

PINEAPPLE BAVARIAN CREAM

Dissolve a package of lemon-flavored gelatin in one-half pint boiling water. Cool slightly, then add one-half pint juice from canned pineaple. When cold and beginning to thicken whip until it will drop from a spoon in a lump-like mass, and quickly fold in one cup of grated pineapple. Add two cups whipped cream sweetened. Pile lightly in stem glasses and garnish with cherry rings or pineapple.

No man is truly good who is only so for the sake of praise.

We Do STATIONERY PRINTING on HAMMERMILL BOND

PHONE 290
Stanley P. Nelson Monuments
Opposite Woodlawn and Roselawn Cemeteries
AUBURN, IND.

Dr. E. T. Julian
St. JOE
10 to 11:30 each forenoon. at Dr. C. R. Price office.

Russel R. Reidenour
ATTORNEY
Auburn, Ind.

TAKING UNFAIR ADVANTAGE NEVER PAYS

Fortunate indeed is the club or organization or town which does not have that individual who will take an unethical advantage.

On the school ground he is the lad that will always be found in the shove for the inside track. He is the fellow whom the referee on the foot ball field must watch for constant off-side plays. On the cinder track tryouts he does his best to get off just a second ahead of the gun. Later when he plays golf, he is the bird who seeks a better lie, claiming a wagon wheel or horse hoof has left an unnatural depression.

In politics or business or professional life, he can never be counted on to carry through with associates or competitors. When they plan to do something as an association or as a community they always look to him to pull something that is just a little off and he seldom disappoints them. Naturally he is unpopular with his contemporaries and competitors for his unethical actions pique them, but they are seldom hurt a great deal by his unfairness, for the public these days is just a little quicker than ever before to spot unfairness and to reason that if a man is unfair in his competition, he will bear close watching in his dealings with customers and clients.

Taking unfair advantage never pays permanently.

The Sunday Chicago Herald and Examiner now on sale at News office. 4tf.

Boulevard stops promote democracy—they alow the motorists to line up so that each gets a fair chance at the pedestrian.

It's easy enough to get a speaker for the occasion; it's getting someone to take down the decorations that makes the trouble.

DATES FOR THE INSTITUTE PLAY

Mrs. LaRue, who is here taking charge of the production of the play, "A Womanless Wedding" as a part of the Farmers' Institute program, became confused on the dates and a portion of the printing was broadcast announcing the event. The proper order of the appearance is St. Joe on Thursday evening and Spencerville, Friday evening. If you have seen the dates as broadcast, please note change and tell others that they might know.

BOYS BASKET BALL SCHEDULE 1927-28

ST. JOE

Dec. 9, Hamilton, here.
Dec. 17, Harlan, there.
Dec. 23, Mark Center, here.
Dec. 27, Alumni, here.
Dec. 30, Woodburn, here.
Jan. 6, Mark Center, there.
Jan. 13, Leo, there.
Jan. 20, Waterloo, here.
Jan. 27, County Tourney.
Feb. 3, Spencerville, there.
Feb. 10 Corunna, there.
Feb. 11, Auburn, here.
Feb. 17, Hamilton, there.
Feb. 18, Corunna, here.
Feb. 24, Butler, there.
March 3-4, Sectional Tourney.

GIRLS BASKET BALL

Dec. 23, Mark Center, here.
Dec. 24, Corunna, there.
Dec. 30, Ashley, here.
Jan. 6, Mark Center, there.
Jan. 20, Waterloo, here.
Feb. 18, Corunna, here.

If the Nation succeeds in reducing its debt, the ladies of the land should feel encouraged to persist in their personal efforts.

Christmas

Engraved Greeting Cards

THE Holidays are just round the corner. Have you ordered your engraved Greeting Cards as yet? Don't wait until the last minute. Our assortment of beautiful and artistic Christmas and New Year's cards is now complete, and there is ample time for us to give you our most careful attention and service.

ST. JOE NEWS OFFICE

Lard Cans - 48c
Regular 50 pound can, new stock, just in and a real buy
All sizes of GLASS--NOW IN STOCK
We also have on display one of the Famous "JACK-O-BEAN" PARLOR FURNACES, the kind that is a fuel saver. See it.
Bowser & Reed, - - Spencerville

Service to All

It is the purpose of this bank to help as many people as possible. Whether your problem be large or small, if we can be of service, we want you to know that we Welcome
You

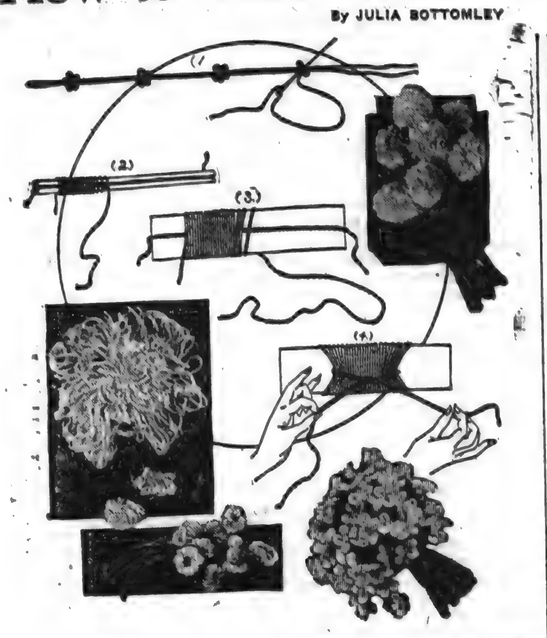
Farmers' & Merchants State Bank
Spencerville, Ind.

DECEMBER

L 915 U649

How to Make Wool Yarn Flowers

By JULIA BOTTOMLEY



AFTER important gifts for members of the family and for those especially near and dear have been planned, there always is a list of friends to whom we long to give a little Christmas token—something not expensive, but just to let them know we are thinking of them. Why not a cunning bouquet of wool yarn flowers? These boutonnieres are "all the rage" and so simple to make "after you know how."

The picture shows four kinds, violets, chryanthemum, bachelor buttons and clover. For the violets cut off the 40-inch length of green yarn. Fold it at the center so that it makes a 20-inch double strand (see sketch No. 1). Thread a darning needle with violet-colored yarn. Draw the needle and yarn through the double green strand just two inches from its loop end. Bring needle back through it at the same point (sketch No. 1 shows needle) until the yarn forms a little loop which must be held flat between the fingers as it forms a petal. Form five petals in this way for the flower. At a point four inches from the first flower repeat the process. There will be five flowers to each strip. Eight strips (40 violets) form a neat little boutonnier, but the bouquet is much handsomer with 80 violets. In assembling the violets into a bouquet, bring the green woolen strands down into one loop after another, sewing them together, so that they form stems for the violets. An extra cluster of green stems is then sewed to this so that they will show below the boutonniere, adding to its beauty.

For the chryzanthemum use yellow yarn which has a strand of silk mixed with the wool. Cut four strips of cardboard each respectively 3¼, 2¼, 1½ and 1 inch wide. After laying a strand of green lengthwise on each panel, wind over and over with yarn (see sketch No. 3) as follows: 75 times around the 3¼-inch panel, 60 times around the 2¼-inch, and 50 times for the 1½ and 40 times for the 1-inch panel. Draw up the two ends of the green yarn (see sketch No. 4) and make ready to tie as soon as the yellow yarn loops are slipped off at one end of the cardboard. After tying very firmly lay the cluster of widest loops flat, forming them into a large flat circlet. Repeat the process for each of the other clusters, only before spreading the three smaller groups flat, run the scissors in and around the center like spokes of wheels. Now pile these various groups one upon another, the large fluffy uncut loops at the bottom and the tiniest at the top. Sew very firmly together, thus completing the chryanthemum. For the buds wind yellow yarn 20 times over the one-inch cardboard.

A lead pencil (see sketch No. 2) is used instead of cardboard for the clover and the bachelor buttons. Wind lead pencil 65 times for clover and 22 times for bachelor buttons. The clover is cut at edges and trimmed very evenly. Keep loops intact for bachelor buttons.

(©, 1937, Western Newspaper Union.)

HOW TO REMOVE STAINS

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Javelle water may be used successfully in removing a number of stains, but should be applied only to uncolored cotton or linen materials, since it bleaches colors, and rots silk, wool, and some kinds of rayon, according to the bureau of home economics.

The solution usually called javelle water (more correctly termed labarraque solution) is prepared as follows: Dissolve one-half pound of washing soda in one quart of cold water. To this solution add one-fourth pound of ordinary bleaching powder (commonly called chloride of lime). Filter this liquid through a piece of muslin to remove the sediment. Keep the clear liquid in tightly stoppered bottles.

Applying Javelle Water.

In treating stains with javelle water, stretch the stained portion over a bowl filled with water and apply the javelle water to the stain with a medicine dropper. Do not allow the javelle water to remain in contact with the fabric for more than one minute. If necessary, the entire garment may be placed in the liquid. Then apply a solution containing one-fourth ounce of sodium thiosulphate and one-eighth ounce of 30 per cent acetic acid in two quarts of water. Sodium thiosulphate ("hypo") is found in many homes where amateur photography is being done and is very effective in removing the chlorine which remains in the fabric after treatment with javelle water. Rinse thoroughly. Oxalic acid solution may be used instead of the thiosulphate.

If allowed to remain too long in contact with the fibers, javelle water rots even linen and cotton materials. It should therefore always be followed very promptly by a solution of thiosulphate, and the fabric rinsed thoroughly to remove all traces of the chemical. With persistent stains javelle water and thiosulphate to neutralize it may need to be applied several times. Commercial ink removers are similar in action to javelle water and are very convenient for removing many stains besides ink spots.

Recipes and Hints for Housewife

By NELLIE MAXWELL

Here is a nice pie that may be served the children. Slice a few apples in a buttered baking dish, sprinkle with sugar, nutmeg or grated lemon rind. Butter a few slices of bread and plunge them into cold water, then place over the apples and bake in a slow oven. Serve with a thin custard.

Supreme of Chicken.—Chop the meat from the breast and second joints of uncooked chicken. Put through the meat chopper three times, to make it very fine; there should be a cupful. Add four eggs, beating well after adding each one, then beat again. Now add gradually one pint of thick cream, salt and pepper to season and turn the mixture into buttered molds covered with buttered paper. Set in a pan of hot water in a moderate oven for twenty minutes.

Orange Pie.—Cream one-fourth of a cupful of butter, add three-fourths of a cupful of sugar, the juice of an orange and the grated rind of half, and the juice of half a lemon; beat until light, then add the beaten yolks of three eggs, the white of one beaten stiff; bake in one crust. When cool, cover with the meringue, using the egg whites and three tablespoonfuls of sugar.

A salad is one dish which is included in every luncheon or dinner menu.

Frozen Tomato Salad.—From a can of tomatoes take all the large pieces of pulp, press them through a sieve and season highly with salt, pepper, onion juice and a little tarragon vinegar. Put this mixture into a freezer and freeze as for water ice. Take out the dasher, work down well into the can, repack and let stand for two hours. Chop, not too fine, a half cupful of walnuts and serve the tomato on lettuce sprinkled with nuts and garnished with mayonnaise.

Tomato and Onion Salad.—Peel and slice ripe tomatoes, peel and cut into thin slices one mild onion. Put the onion in the salad bowl and pour over four tablespoonfuls of French dressing. Mix with a salad fork or spoon, then add the sliced tomato and turn them carefully in the bowl to keep their shape. Add some heart leaves of lettuce and serve at once.

Fruit Salad.—Prepare some grapes by skinning them and removing the seeds; cut into halves. Add a few pecans, a half dozen quartered marshmallows and a cupful of whipped cream to which two tablespoonfuls of good mayonnaise has been added. Mix well and heap on slices of pineapple which have been well drained.

Cabbage Salad.—Chop a small hard head of cabbage with one good sized onion. Try out two half-inch slices of salt pork cut into dice, let the pork dice brown well, then pour the hot fat and dice over the cabbage; mix well. In the frying pan add enough vinegar to moisten the salad. Heat to boiling and pour over the cabbage; season well with salt and cayenne or white pepper.

Coffee Jelly.—Soak one box of gelatin in one cupful of cold water until soft. Add one cupful of sugar and one pint each of boiling water and strong coffee. Stir until the sugar is dissolved and add the gelatin with one teaspoonful of vanilla. Strain through a double cheesecloth into wet molds. Serve with a soft custard.

A hot egg sandwich is also much liked. Fry some sliced onion in butter, then drop in the eggs, seasoning well. Spread the bread and butter, place a bit of onion with the egg and cover with another slice. This will be a most filling meal with a cup of some hot drink.

Supreme of Duckling.—Take the uncooked joints and breast of a duckling, remove the meat and chop very fine. Add four eggs, one at a time, stirring until the mixture is smooth. Add one and one-half cupfuls of thick cream, salt, pepper and a little onion juice to season. Turn into buttered molds, cover with buttered paper, place in a pan of hot water and bake about thirty minutes in a moderate oven.

(©, 1937, Western Newspaper Union.)

Corn Rabbit Good Lunch, Supper Dish

An unusual and substantial lunch or supper dish is corn rabbit. A fruit salad with French dressing would answer for both salad and dessert and supply a good contrast in flavor. Here is the recipe, from the bureau of home economics:

Corn Rabbit.

- 2 cupfuls canned corn, crushed grains
- 2 tablespoonfuls butter
- 2 tablespoonfuls salt
- 1 cupful grated cheese
- 1 tablespoonful green pepper
- 1 or 2 teaspoonfuls minced onion
- Few drops tabasco sauce
- Toast or crackers

Melt the butter, add the pepper cut finely and the onion. Cook slowly for three minutes, add the corn and simmer for ten minutes; remove from the fire and beat in the cheese until melted. Pour over the toast or crackers and serve at once.

THE CHRISTMAS FRUIT CAKE

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Every housekeeper likes to have on hand at least one good recipe for fruit cake. Because of its keeping qualities, fruit cake may be kept in reserve to offer the unexpected caller or to pass with punch or ginger ale in the evening. As the holiday season approaches, fruit cake seems to be especially appropriate, and a few small-sized cakes may well be made several weeks before Christmas to use as gifts.

Fruit Cake.

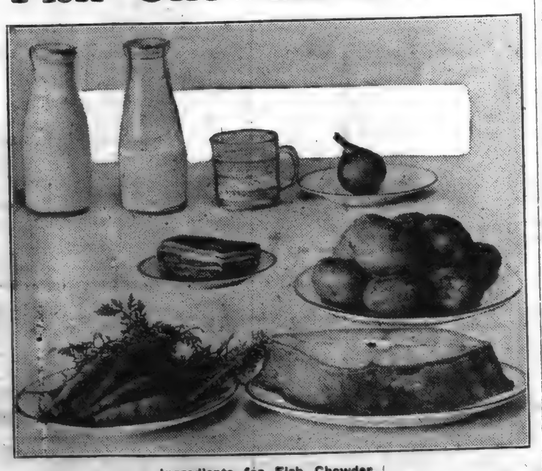
- 1 pound raisins
- ¾ pound citron
- 1 pound currants
- 4 cupfuls flour
- 1 cupful sugar
- ½ cupful cider
- ½ cupful tart jelly
- ½ cupful sour cream
- ½ pound butter
- 1 cupful molasses
- ½ teaspoonful soda
- 5 eggs
- 1 tablespoon cinnamon
- ½ teaspoonful nutmeg
- Any candied fruit, or chopped nuts—pecans, blanched almonds, or English walnuts
- ½ teaspoonful salt

The fruit must be prepared with great care, removing any stems or fruit not in perfect condition. Wash and dry the fruit thoroughly. Cut the citron into very small pieces. Cream the butter and sugar together. Separate the eggs and add the yolks after the butter and sugar are blended. Add the liquids—the cider, the jelly, the sour cream, and molasses, and the soda which has been dissolved in a small amount of water alternately with one-half of the flour mixed with the salt and the spices. Mix the other half of the flour with the fruit and add the floured fruit and last the whites of the eggs.

Line a well-greased tube pan with waxed paper and then grease the paper. Pour in the cake mixture until two-thirds full and cook in a slow oven (from 275 to 300 degrees Fahrenheit) for 3 or 4 hours. A cup or pan of water in the oven during the cooking period helps to keep the cake from drying too much during the long period of baking.

The bureau of home economics of the United States Department of Agriculture has tested this recipe and found it satisfactory.

Fish Chowder Dinner



Ingredients for Fish Chowder.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

One of the most convenient "one-piece" dinners you can serve is a fish chowder, since it contains potatoes and vegetables as well as the fish. For dessert gingerbread with cream cheese filling, Washington pie, or some other substantial sweet is suggested.

Recipe for Chowder.

For fish chowder the bureau of home economics gives the following ingredients: One and one-half pounds of fresh fish. Cod or haddock is the kind generally preferred for chowder, but any kind of fresh, dried, or canned fish will do if it has large flakes of meat and only a few bones which can be easily picked out before the fish is combined with the other ingredients. Or, if you prefer, use a quart of clams or oysters instead of the fish.

In addition to the one and one-half pounds of fish you will need four potatoes, peeled and cut in small pieces; one onion, sliced; two cupfuls of carrots cut in pieces; quarter pound salt pork; two cupfuls of milk; pepper, and salt if needed. Cut the pork in small pieces and fry with the chopped onion for five minutes. Put pork, onions, carrots and potatoes in a kettle and cover with boiling water. Cook until the vegetables are tender. Add the milk and the fish which has been removed from the bones and cut in small pieces. Cook until the fish is tender, or for about ten minutes.

Thicken With Flour.

Chowder can be thickened with flour, but most people prefer to add crackers in imitation of the fishermen who always used pilot bread. For this quantity of chowder you will need eight or nine good-sized crackers. Split them so that they will soak up the liquid evenly and not be soft on the outside and dry inside. Add them to the chowder a few minutes before serving. If you are using flour for thickening, mix three tablespoonfuls with about one-half cupful of milk, stir it into the chowder, and allow it to cook for a few minutes. If you prefer a chowder made with tomatoes, use two and one-half cupfuls of stewed and strained tomatoes instead of the milk.

WHEN THE SANDMAN COMES

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

"Let us all go to Mr. Giant's Cave, for he would like to hear about our trip," said Billie Brownie to the others. "He tells us so many good stories, and of so many adventures, that I am sure it is only fair of us to tell him of the greatest trip, and the most wonderful adventure we ever had in all our lives."

"O dear," said Peter Gnome, "I can hardly wait to hear about it now that you say it is the most wonderful trip and adventure you have ever had. For we all know the brownies have a good many interesting trips."

"Off we go for Mr. Giant's Cave, then," said Billie Brownie.

The Brownies and Gnomes all followed along, and soon they arrived at Mr. Giant's Cave.

"Anybody home?" they called out.

"I am at home," said a deep voice. "Whom do you wish to see?"

"Ha, ha, ha," laughed the Gnomes and Brownies. "As if we came here to see anyone but Mr. Giant himself!"

"Then you may see him, for here he is," said Mr. Giant as he came out from his cave.

"And what is up?" he asked as he saw everyone was much excited and really quite mysterious in manner.

"The Brownies," commenced Peter Gnome, "have been off on a trip, and we are waiting to hear about it. They say it is such a splendid story that they must tell you about it, too."

"Good," said Mr. Giant, "come right in the cave, while I light the lights."

"Lights!" exclaimed the Brownies and Gnomes.

"Yes, indeed," said Mr. Giant, "I have some fine lights this evening."

And as they went inside they saw some strange lights Mr. Giant had made himself out of deep, hollow stones. Inside were little, tiny bonfires burning.

"Oh, how lovely," said the Brownies and Gnomes, but then everyone stopped speaking, for Billie Brownie was about to commence his story.

"We went way, way, way, way up North," he said. "Oh, far beyond any place we have ever been to in our lives. We wore our fur suits and took fur hoods, too, for we had heard it was bitterly cold up there.

"Here He Is," Said Mr. Giant.

"After we had gone quite a distance we saw some wonderful reindeer.

"To whom do you belong?" we asked. "We wonder if you are the ones we have come to see.

"Do you belong to Santa Claus?" And they all nodded their heads, and made queer sounds.

"Then, I thought to myself, was the time for us to unpack our bags.

"You see on the way up North we had found a great deal of lichen, which is the moss of the reindeer family, and upon which they live all winter long.

"They never eat anything else during the cold months, and we wanted to give them a great feast of it.

"We took our bags from our backs and out came the lichen. Such sounds as the reindeer did make.

"And how they frisked and ran with joy!

"Their great horns made them look so handsome, and we were proud indeed, to give them a party.

"After they had eaten all that they could, we put some away for them—while they watched us, and by the way they looked at us we knew they wanted to thank us.

"But as we were going off—for we didn't think we could see Santa Claus—out he peeped from behind a tree, and laughing with his bright eyes, he said:

"'Thank you, Brownies, for your goodness to my fine animals, and a Merry Christmas to you all.'

"And that was our marvelous trip and adventure."

And old Mr. Giant and the others thought it certainly was a marvelous trip, too.

(©, 1937, Western Newspaper Union.)

Sure Relief

NO more NAUSEA

Gas, heartburn, sick headache, nausea, over-acidity and other digestive disorders quickly and surely relieved. Safe. Pleasant. Not a laxative. Send for free samples to Bell-ans Co., Inc., Orangeburg, N. Y.

Normalizes Digestion and Sweetens the Breath

6 BELL-ANS Hot water Sure Relief

BELL-ANS FOR INDIGESTION

25¢ AND 75¢ PACKAGES EVERYWHERE

Islands Made to Order

Six gigantic pumps driven by electric motors working night and day for nearly two years have manufactured three islands in Tampa bay, Fla., whose area is 832 acres. These three islands have been turned into a beautiful residential and business section of Tampa.

For true blue, use Russ Bleaching Blue. Snowy-white clothes will be sure to result. Try it and you will always use it. All good grocers have it.—Adv.

Make-Up of Cotton Bale

The weight of a standard bale of cotton is 500 pounds, 478 pounds of which is cotton and the remaining 22 pounds is composed of the bagging and iron bands.

There is always an opportunity for a man who wants to make speeches.

Drugs Excite the Kidneys, Drink Water

Take Salts at First Sign of Bladder Irritation or Backache

The American men and women must guard constantly against kidney trouble because we often eat too much rich food. Our blood is filled with acids which the kidneys strive to filter out; they weaken from overwork, become sluggish, the eliminative tissues clog and the result is kidney trouble, bladder weakness and a general decline in health.

When your kidneys feel like lumps of lead; your back hurts or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment, or you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night; if you suffer with sick headache, or dizzy, nervous spells, acid stomach, or if you have rheumatism when the weather is bad, begin drinking lots of good soft water and get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts. Take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine.

This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush and stimulate clogged kidneys, to neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer are a source of irritation, thus often relieving bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, cannot injure, makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink and belongs in every home, because nobody can make a mistake by having a good kidney flushing any time.

Coughs and Colds

are not only annoying, but dangerous. If not attended to at once they may develop into serious ailment.

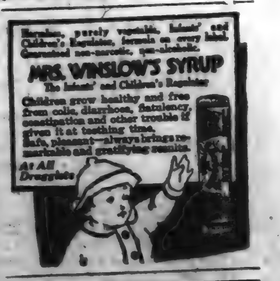
Boschee's Syrup

is soothing and healing in such cases, and has been used for sixty-one years. 30c and 90c bottles. Buy it at your drug store. G. G. Green, Inc., Woodbury, N. J.

Christmas Present? Buy Italian Accordeon

We import, make, repair, exchange. 10 years guarantee. Quick delivery. Catalogue Free.

Baldessi-Bertoli Co. 60 Mulberry St., N. Y. Established 1896.



Harmless, purely vegetable, Infants' and Children's Regulator, formula on every label. Guaranteed non-narcotic, non-alcoholic.

Children grow healthy and free from colds, diarrhoea, flatulency, constipation and other trouble if given it at teething time. Safe, pleasant—always brings remarkable and gratifying results.

For Old Sores

Hanford's Balsam of Myrrh

All dealers are authorized to refund your money for this first bottle if not relieved.

DECEMBER

L 915
0650

Permanent value with OAK FLOORS

Your home will be more valuable for rental or sale with beautiful, permanent Oak floors. Write for free descriptive literature.

OAK FLOORING BUREAU
1210 Builders' Building CHICAGO

Keep Your Butter Uniform and Hold Your Customers

Don't wait for your customers to complain about the variable color of your butter. Keep your butter that golden June color everybody likes by putting a few drops of Dandelion Butter Color into the churn. It is purely vegetable, wholesome and absolutely tasteless. It meets all State and National Food laws. All large creameries have used Dandelion Butter Color for years. It does not color buttermilk. You can get the large bottles for 35c from all drug or grocery stores.

Send for FREE Sample

Wells & Richardson Co., Inc.
Burlington, Vermont

Rooms Are Larger at the Detroit-Leland

You who have envisaged the ideal hotel may safely follow those connoisseurs whose endorsements have brought international renown to the New Detroit-Leland Hotel.

DETROIT-LELAND HOTEL

Bagley at Cass Detroit, Michigan
WM. J. CHITTENDEN, Jr., Manager

Division Continental-Leland Corporation

Hotels under Continental-Leland Corporation Direction

DETROIT-LELAND HOTEL, DETROIT, MICH
HOTEL OLDS, LANSING, MICH
MANSFIELD-LELAND, MANSFIELD, OHIO
LAKE LURE INN, CHIMNEY ROCK, N. C.
THE EDGEFIELD INN, EDGEFIELD, N. C.

Do You Know This Liniment and Salve?

Time-Tried Home Remedies That Have Many Friends in This Neighborhood.

Porter's Pain King is known and used in many homes hereabouts. This old reliable liniment has been making friends since 1871, and the directions wrapped around every bottle tell how to use it for colds, aches and pains, soreness, swollen joints, strained muscles and rheumatic twinges. It seldom fails to drive out the pain.

The Salve is made of the same pure drugs and herbs that go into the liniment and is named Porter's Pain King Salve. Its base is lanoline (pure wool fat), in itself wonderfully healing and soothing. Porter's Pain King Salve is recommended for burns, cuts, bruises, sores, wounds, chapped and cracked skin, boils, felons, itch, cold on the chest, croup, lumbago, varicose veins and piles. Made and guaranteed by The Geo. H. Rundle Co., Piqua, O.

It is said Porter's Pain King, the liniment, and Porter's Pain King Salve, can be found in four of every five homes in this county. How many know all their many uses? Why not read the directions today?

Not So Encouraging

Meechum—So you want to marry my daughter, eh?

Montrose—Yes. I think I can take care of her all right.

Meechum—Well, take her—I thought I could take care of her mother all right.

To Cure a Cold in one Day

Take Laxative BROMO QUININE Tablets. The Safe and Proven Remedy. Look for signature of E. W. Grove on the box. 30c.—Adv.

Grandfather's Quip

Joshin' Joe Joppies' grandson is a-studyin' to be an attorney and every time the boy picks up one of his textbooks the old wag accuses him of takin' the law in his own hands.—Farm and Fireside.

A MOTHER'S PROBLEM

Is, how to treat her child who is peevish and fretty, yet not seriously sick. Many Mothers say they always keep a package of Mother Gray's Sweet Powders on hand for use when needed. They break up colds, relieve feverishness, worms, constipation, headache, teething disorders and stomach troubles, and act as a tonic to the whole system. Equally good for older people. Sold by Druggists everywhere.

TRADE MARK
DON'T ACCEPT ANY SUBSTITUTE

Trial package sent Free. Address,
THE MOTHER GRAY CO., Le Roy, N. Y.

Tips on Salesmanship

•• •• By O. T. FRASH •• ••

"No Trouble to Show Goods"

(Note: This article is intended principally for the consumption of the retail post.)

EVERY good merchant in the land will earnestly assure his trade that it's a pleasure to show his goods, even though no sale is made. Up to a certain point, that merchant is sincere. But there are certain "shoppers," known personally to nearly every retail clerk even in the larger cities, who habitually impose on the merchant's generosity and on the clerk's good nature very much to the injury of everybody concerned, themselves included.

Such people usually are not deliberately offensive. They merely are unfortunate. Nature has not endowed them with a decisive mentality. They don't tell you what they want because they don't know themselves. They may not be willing to admit that they have little confidence in their own judgment, but they know it just the same and they're sensitive about it.

Fortunately, the average "shopper" doesn't resent being left to herself (for she's usually a woman). In fact, if your stock is within her reach, she'll be grateful for the opportunity to examine it at her leisure, therefore place a variety before her, and if you're busy, ask her pleasantly to take her own time in looking through it and assure her that you are at her service whenever she needs you.

Bear in mind that your manner is everything in a case like this and that the impression you make will depend not so much on what you say as on the way in which you say it. Kindly consideration for her weakness will make her your friend, and once you gain her confidence you will, so far as you personally are concerned, have transformed a "shopper" into a comparatively "easy buyer," who will sound your praises tirelessly to her friends and make you a valuable member of your store's sales organization.

• • •

Muzzling the Store Agitator

IN NEARLY every sales organization there is at least one person who was born dissatisfied and never has outgrown it. His discontent isn't so much a matter of actual conditions as it is a state of mind. If he'd change his mental attitude, he'd find that conditions would change themselves.

There is no joy in life for such a person, but why let him poison your existence? The grievances he continuously harps upon perhaps are real, but are they really worthy of the importance he places upon them? The agitator is no friend of your employer and he generally admits it. If he injures your employer he injures you. And you encourage his destructive tendencies every time you listen sympathetically to his peevish complaints.

The things he complains about are known to you as well as to him. Why let him do your thinking for you? If you didn't think them important, before he mentioned them, they surely haven't grown any more important since. Your advancement in the store organization depends almost entirely on your cheerful co-operation with the management. Grudging compliance with the policy of the store will get you nowhere. Making mountains out of mole hills will accomplish nothing. Let the store agitator go on along his mournful way, but make up your own mind that you'll take things as you find them and make the best of them until they have time to correct themselves.

No organization is perfect, but neither is the agitator, and if he were running things you'd all be out of a job.

(©, 1927, Western Newspaper Union.)

Advantage of Ignorance

The ignorant have one great advantage over those who know; they can be certain. Certainty decreases at the same rates as knowledge grows. Our ancestors, who knew little about the past, could feel certain that the little they did know was all that was worth knowing. Today we know, comparatively, a great deal about the past. We are, in consequence, much more tolerant, much less cocksure than our fathers.—Aldous Huxley in Vanity Fair Magazine.

United States Gold

The first gold mined in the United States came from the Appalachians. The first gold shipped to the mint for coinage from Southern states was from North Carolina in 1804; in 1829, Virginia and South Carolina; in 1830, Georgia; in 1831, Alabama and Tennessee, and in 1868, Maryland shipped gold to the mint for coinage.

To Keep Cocoons

Cocoons should be kept out of doors, where conditions as nearly as possible are similar to those they pick themselves, says Nature Magazine. Protection with netting will prevent destruction by birds. Freezing is not detrimental, and is even necessary to some species, and the dampness of the out-of-doors is desirable.

Members of Crow Family

Birds are divided into groups in much the same way as mammals, says Nature Magazine. The crows, ravens, jays and magpies are usually included in the crow family, Corvidae. The bill is the best common character.

Sweet Butter Is Quite Popular

Product Can Be Depended Upon to Maintain Its High Quality.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

In an address before a sectional meeting of the American Dairy Science association at Springfield, Mass., William White of the United States Department of Agriculture, brought out the part the navy played in popularizing sweet-cream butter. For 50 years or more there have been individuals who preferred sweet-cream butter, and early in the history of our state experiment stations some work was done to determine the storage qualities of the product. As the result of tests begun in the United States Department of Agriculture in 1905 it was proved that butter made from unripened Pasteurized sweet cream could be depended on to maintain its high quality during at least eight months' storage at zero Fahrenheit.

Navy Buys for Storage.

In 1909, as a result of these tests, the United States navy adopted the practice of buying each year a quantity of sweet-cream butter to be stored and used as needed. In 1918 the navy purchased more than 9,000,000 pounds of sweet-cream butter from more than 100 creameries. A New York butter dealer packed much of this butter for the navy and was so favorably impressed by the remarkable uniformity in quality, even though it came from many scattered plants, and by its unequaled keeping quality, that he decided to sell it under his own brand. Other butter dealers followed his example.

Butter Is Approved.

Dealers and consumers approved the butter, and each year has seen an increase in the quantity manufactured. During the cold-storage season in particular buyers are eager to obtain the product. Last year one association of creameries reports to have marketed 50,000,000 pounds of sweet-cream butter and to have paid to its members one-half cent a pound more for it than for high-quality ripened-cream butter.

Increase in Acreage of Soy Bean to Help Soil

Back in 1917, less than 500,000 acres of soy beans were grown in the United States. In 1924, the last year for which figures are available, the United States' acreage totaled 2,500,000.

The amazing increase in the acreage of this legume can be traced to its value as a soil builder, as a catch crop when the season is late, as a supplement for corn in feeding hogs, and as a cash crop for seed and in a lesser measure, soy-bean oil. The latter market will undoubtedly widen steadily, though at present the price of beans for this purpose is not enough to justify growing them for market alone unless the grower is located close to an oil-extracting plant.

Another factor that has influenced the popularity of soy beans is the development of machinery for growing and harvesting the crop. Corn planters are now equipped with attachments for planting the beans with the corn, any desired number per hill. Or, if desired, the beans can be drilled with the planter or put in with a grain drill. The latter method is most used when growing the beans for hay or seed.

Using Sand and Stone to Prepare Concrete

Farmers often wonder just what proportions of sand and of stone or pebbles should be used in making concrete. A simple rule that will help toward best results is as follows:

If the stone is from one-fourth to one-half inch in size, use approximately equal parts of sand and of stone.

If the stone varies from one-fourth to three-fourths inch in size use about three-fourths as much sand as stone.

If the stone varies from one-fourth to one and one-half inches in size, use about half as much sand as stone.

Agricultural Facts

Rats are the most persistent pest producers have to deal with.

• • •

Rats will not stay on any farm, in any barn, or in any house unless there is a supply of food available.

• • •

In experiments at the Iowa station at Ames they found red clover almost but not quite so good as alfalfa.

• • •

Beginning to pasture the sweet clover heavily soon after harvest and continuing until late in the fall weakens the plants.

• • •

A farmer with a large supply of clover or alfalfa needs a silo to balance his ration and secure the greatest profit from his feed.

• • •

If soft corn is to be cribbed safely, the one essential is to provide ample ventilation. Only in this way can the excess moisture be removed.

• • •

Alfalfa is a thrifty, vigorous feeder and when well established will take care of itself in competition with most other plants, if hardy strains are used and conditions are right for it.

What's the Answer?

Answers No. 2

1—Greater Antilles.

2—Record of 4 min. 56 sec. is held by Enoch Taylor of Lowell, Mass., in 1896.

3—Seven, four in the American and three in the National.

4—Gen. George A. Custer.

5—Sol Smith Russell.

6—Aconcagua, in Argentina.

7—Benjamin Franklin.

8—Nineteen amendments.

9—It is fourth in order from the sun, or the next beyond the earth.

10—William Rockhill Nelson.

11—Five. Three of the sun and two of the moon.

12—Any formula or confession of religious faith.

13—Any of the planets, Venus, Jupiter, Mars, Mercury, Saturn, when it precedes the sun in rising.

14—William Cullen Bryant.

15—Dunlap and Claypoole's Daily Advertiser, Philadelphia.

16—From Panama to Cape Horn.

17—Buenos Aires.

18—Twenty-five years.

19—In 1896 by Frederick J. Goodrich, a sophomore at Harvard.

20—Gen. Joseph Wheeler.

Philology Tells Story of Long-Vanished Race

Somewhere, and so long ago that it is equally impossible to say when, there dwelt in Europe or Asia a most remarkable tribe of mankind, says a writer in the Kansas City Times. These people are not mentioned in any ancient history and no legend gives a hint of their existence. Not even an authentic grave of one of its members can be traced.

Yet this ante-legendary race has been raised from the dark past and displayed in its ancient shape until modern historians know as much of it as of many peoples yet living. The words spoken by that mysterious race, the gods it worshiped, the laws it made, the character of its industries and possessions, its family and political relations, even the conditions of its intellectual development and its racial characteristics, are all well known.

These people were the fathers of the so-called Aryans, who in growing numbers swelled beyond the boundaries of their ancestral home and went forth to conquer and possess the earth. Knowledge of this ancient race has been brought about solely by workers in comparative philology—the study of words. Word by word the language of the original Aryans has been exhumed from the descendent modern languages until, pieced together, they tell the story of a vanished people.

Famous for Ability to Design Farniture

Important as an influence on furniture forms of Eighteenth century America was the work of the four Adam brothers of England, chiefly the work of Robert Adam, whose influence on the furniture of England from 1760 to 1780 was marked.

He was a man of means, a traveler, but he was not a cabinet maker. He never made a piece of furniture in his life, though it is on his furniture that his fame rests. When he designed a house he also designed the furniture to go in it, even going so far as to mark chalk spots on the floors to show where each piece of furniture was to stand. His designs were painstaking, exquisite in the spirit of antiquity, says Sarah Lockwood, author of "Antiques."

He drew his inspiration directly from ancient Pompeii, uninfluenced by his trip through France. His furniture legs were straight, his lines were straight, his backs round or oval. His decoration was purely classic; he often employed the well known classic urn. Adam may have snubbed Chippendale, for not one trace of Adam's influence is found in the other's work. —Exchange.

Islanders Evade Tax

Eddy Island, off the coast of Galway, Ireland, is so close to shore that its few inhabitants can observe boats leaving the mainland and prepare an appropriate reception for visitors. Nobody on the island has paid anything toward the maintenance of the Galway county council for years, and the last time bailiffs landed the inhabitants repulsed them. Little possibility exists of seising the cattle on the island as they are driven to almost inaccessible hiding places when bailiffs appear. The islanders owe the county about $100,000.—New York Times.

Various School Terms

The bureau of education says the school term extends over a period of 180 days in Italy (exclusive of Sundays and holidays); 215 days in Esthonia; over 200 in Germany; over 200 in France; 202 in Czechoslovakia; 227 in Hungary; 200 in Lithuania; 250 in Denmark; 200 in Finland; from October 1 to July 21 in Portugal, with six to eight weeks' vacation; from September 1 to May 30 in Latvia, with four weeks' vacation; from October 1 to June 15 in Spain.

The whole world knows Aspirin as an effective antidote for pain. But it's just as important to know that there is only one genuine Bayer Aspirin. The name Bayer is on every tablet, and on the box. If it says Bayer, it's genuine; and if it doesn't, it is not! Headaches are dispelled by Bayer Aspirin. So are colds, and the pain that goes with them; even neuralgia, neuritis, and rheumatism promptly relieved. Get Bayer—at any drugstore—with proven directions.

Physicians prescribe Bayer Aspirin; it does NOT affect the heart

Aspirin is the trade mark of Bayer Manufacture of Monoaceticacidester of Salicylicacid

Has Many Colors

Some caterpillars are really handsome. The largest of our giant silkworms, the Cecropia caterpillar (Samia cecropia), is a beautiful creature, says Nature Magaine. It often measures four inches when full grown. Conspicuous fleshy protuberances or knobs that are illuminated with vivid colors, such as coral red, yellow, and blue, adorn the body, itself a delicate bluish green.

Just say to your grocer Russ Bleaching Blue when buying bluing. You will be more than repaid by the results. Once tried always used.—Adv.

Rapid Seeding

Harold Saunders, a rancher and airplane owner in southern Oregon near Memford, recently planted ten acres of land to winter blue grass, using his airplane. This grass, peculiar to this country, grows from a bulb and it is tossed on the ground and left to mature in the winter and spring. The land was seeded in a few minutes.

California SUNSHINE RAISINS. The best grown, wonderful body builders, at all grocers.—Adv.

Imitation Is Flattery

Many a modern mother thinks she's being a good disciplinarian if she can make her daughter adopt her own pet brand of cigarettes.—Farm and Fireside.

Females Don't Count

If a father of an Annamite family is asked how many children he has, he will answer with the number of boys. He may have six girls, but they don't count.

PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM
Removes Dandruff—Stops Hair Falling
Restores Color and Beauty to Gray and Faded Hair
60c. and $1.00 at Druggists.
Hiscox Chem. Wks. Patchogue, N. Y.

FLORESTON SHAMPOO—Ideal for use in connection with Parker's Hair Balsam. Makes the hair soft and fluffy. 50 cents by mail or at druggists. Hiscox Chemical Works, Patchogue, N. Y.

RHEUMATISM
For 35 Years
TRUSLER'S RHEUMATIC TABLETS
HAVE GIVEN RELIEF
All Druggists. Two Sizes, 50c and $1.00.
Trusler Remedy Co. Cincinnati, O.

Agents Make $10 a Day selling new Auto rim tool. Guaranteed on any split rim. Send $3 for sample. J. JACKSON HESS. 13017 Grand River Ave., Detroit, Mich.

HOXSIE'S CROUP REMEDY
THE LIFE-SAVER OF CHILDREN
No opium, no nausea. 50 cents at druggists, or KELLS CO., NEWBURGH, N. Y.

PATENTS Booklet free. Highest references. Best results. Promptness assured. WATSON E. COLEMAN, Patent Lawyer, 624 9th St., Washington, D.C.

W. N. U., FORT WAYNE, NO. 49—1927.

The Cheap Guy

Mrs. Fuddle—They say your father was a mariner.

Mrs. Muddle—Yes, one who trod the quarter deck.

Mrs. Fuddle—The quarter deck! Why, he certainly was a cheap guy, my dear.—New Bedford Standard.

A Bad Example

Mother—Robert, I don't like the idea of Willie smoking.

Father—Then you'd better keep him away from his sister.

Muscles of tough, live rubber lengthen its life

THE "muscles" of tough, live rubber give astonishing endurance and record-breaking long life—without adding weight—to Top Notch Buddy Boots. These ribs or muscles, strong as whalebone, add strength to the tops and prevent them from cracking. The tough gray soles stand up under the hardest going in muck and stumps, in ditches, slush or ice. The longest-wearing boot your money can buy. In short, hip and Storm King Lengths.

For dependable, distinctive boots, arctics and rubbers, always look for the Top Notch Cross. The most reliable stores carry the complete Top Notch line for men, women and children. The Beacon Falls Rubber Shoe Co., Beacon Falls, Conn.

TOP NOTCH
A GUARANTEE OF RELIABILITY
Rubber Footwear

No Disfiguring Blemishes to Hide

If Cuticura Soap is used daily, assisted by Cuticura Ointment when necessary. They do much to prevent blackheads, pimples and other unsightly eruptions, and to promote permanent skin health.

Soap 25c. Ointment 25 and 50c. Talcum 25c. Sold everywhere. Sample each free by Mail with Book. Address: "Cuticura Laboratories, Dept. 11, Malden, Mass."

Cuticura Shaving Stick 25c.

DECEMBER

L 915
U651

HOME EDUCATION

The Child's First School is the Family"—Froebel.
Issued by the National Kindergarten Association

TREATING CHILDREN WITH CONSIDERATION

Helen Gregg Green

Some children love to be the center of attention while others such a position is an ordeal.

We were calling at Margaret's. Margaret is Billy-Josephine's mother. In may ways she is a splendid mother for Billy-Josephine, who is a nervous, highly-strung child, very bright but very sensitive. But Margaret at that time had the bad habit of continually desiring Billy-Josephine to "show off."

Billy-Josephine, I know, in her wee heart likes to be "let alone," She doesn't enjoy the "showing off," and had tried to tell Mother Margaret so.

"Billy-Josephine is such a modest child," Margaret explained, "She really has a lot of talent, but she always protests when I ask her to be in the little plays the school and church give. Why, if I had not insisted, she would not have recited and sung as she did at the three different entertainments last week."

There were five of us sipping tea in Margaret's big living room on this particular day. I had brought with me three of our old school friends whom Billy-Josephine had never seen.

A few minutes later Margaret called to Billy-Josephine, who left her play to be introduced to Mother's friends.

"Dear, make your little curtsy and sing for the guests," Margaret coaxed, starting toward the piano.

The child hung her head, blushing, nervously pulling at her dress.

"Billy-Josephine," the mother urged, her tone more persisent, "do as Mother says."

By this time the request had become a command, and a command given before strangers is not conducive to a happy state of mind.

"But, Mums, — dear —" the child hesitated, "I — I don't want to."

"Billy-Josehine! Mother doesn't want to have to speak again. If she does," she spoke very severely, "she will have to punish."

Still more humiliation.

Finally, Billy-Josephine burst out crying.

Her mother's face reddened as she hurried the unhappy child to bed.

Why can't we ever learn to treat children with the same consideration we have for adults, I thought. We shouldn't much fancy having someone insist upon our performing for strangers. It would make us self-conscious and awkward. Many self-conscious men and women were made so by foolish but well meaning parents. How could I make Margaret see this? Just then the father passed through the hall and I could see that he had overheard and been annoyed. I did hope he would take the matter up with Margaret.

He must have done so, for several months later, when we again called at our neighbor's, Billy-Josephine gave us a sweet, spontaneous little greeting and retired to play undisturbed in the corner.

How much happier she was playing there naturally and undisturbed and being treated like one of us!

SWEATER COATS, UNDERWEAR, WINTER CAPS, MITTENS, GLOVES, WOOL HOSIERY, SHEEP LINED COATS, LINED JACKETS, BOOTS, SHOES, RUBBERS, AT PRICES THAT SAVE YOU MONEY

Zonker's Store
ST. JOE, INDIANA

Most of Us Give Our Eyes Little Thought

We work them 15 or 16 hours a day, and are annoyed when we have to admit we cannot see as comfortably as we once could. The right pair of glasses worn while near work is being done, or constantly if conditions require, will help the eyes greatly. Our service determines what glasses will help you most.

ED. W. HICKS
AUBURN
"OUR SPECIALTY — COMFORTABLE VISION"

DISMISSES SUIT FOR $200 DAMAGES

The trial of George Muhn of Auburn, against Charles Lindley of near St. Joe, for damages went on trial before a jury in the DeKalb circuit curt Wednesday morning.

The plaintiff was returning from Fort Wayne in his automobile last April on the state highway. At a point ten miles south of Garrett a car was parked beside the road and Lindley started around it, his machine coming in contact with Mr. Muhn's car.

The complaint alleged that the left front wheel of the Muhn car was broken' the tire burst and a fender ruined. The demand was for $250. Witnesses for the plaintiff were the plaintiff and his wife and daughter, Miss Beatrice Muhn, Forest McComb, Wilbert Campbell and John Schlink.

The attorney for the plaintiff is Howard S. Grimm, while H. W. Mountz represents the defendant.

The jurors were Arthur Rosenberry, Alfred D. Goodwin, M. H. Howey, Forest Beaty, Ross Nelson, Robert D. Higley, P. A. Barton, C. M. Carnahan, Frank Hohl, E. O. Little, Clyde Snyder and Chas. R. Reeder.

The defendant submitted no evidence and after conclusion of the plaintiff's evidence Mr. Mountz made a motion that the court instruct the jury to return a verdict for the defendant. However, before the motion was ruled upon the plaintiff dismissed his case.

YOU READ the Other Fellow's Ad

You are reading this one. That should convince you that advertising in these columns is a profitable proposition; that it will bring business to your store. The fact that the other fellow advertises is probably the reason he is getting more business than is falling to you. Would it not be well to give the other fellow a chance

To Read Your Ad in These Columns?

W. H. WILLENNAR NAMED CHAIRMAN

To Direct Red Cross Work Coming Year—Total of $1,640.93 Subscribed During Annual Roll Call

W. H. Willennar of Auburn, was elected chairman of the DeKalb county chapter of the American Red Cross at a meeting of the county executive committee Tuesday morning in the Red Cross room of the DeKalb county court house in Auburn.

Other officers named were: Mrs. H. C. Willis of Waterloo, vice chairman; Mrs. L. M. Jones of Auburn, secretary; Mrs. C. A. Schaab of Auburn, assistant secretary and Harry M. Casebeer of Auburn, treasurer.

The annual Red Cross member-

The annual Red Crss membership drive which ended Thanksgiving Day resulted in the collection of $1,640.93. The following report of the drive was submitted by H. A. Hinklin of Garrett, county chairman:

Spencerville, Roscoe Walter, $9.
Auburn, Herman Brown, $664.-35.
Garrett, Harry Brown, $325.
Butler, Mrs. C. W. Beard, $158.-13.
Fairfield township, Mrs. George Harmes, $65.
St. Joe, E. R. Kinsey, $57.35.
Ashley, Mrs. Wm. Zurbrugg, $56.
Waterloo, D. L. Leas, $45.25.
Franklin township, Mrs. J. Gunsenhouser, $41.75.
Smithfield township, August Kuckuck, $62.50.
Corunna, D. K. Finch, $31.25.
Butler township, Harry Lung, $29.60.
Jackson township, J. L. Weaver, $27.75.
Troy township, Mrs. A. W. Kline, $22.75.
Newville and township, Mrs. Ina Traxler, $21.25.
Altona, Charles VanAnda, $21.
Stafford township, Ida Hose, $4.
Total, $1,640.93.

The treasurer reports cash on hand amounting to $2,362.08.

NEW AND TESTED RECIPES FOR LADIES OF THE NEWS

NIP COLDS IN THE BUD

This is the season for colds. Some are slight, some are heavy while some are fatal.

Few would be fatal, however, if they were caught in time. Forget all about the ridicule thrown at old fashioned remedies, and whenever a cold threatens you, drink a good hot lemonade, take a mustard foot-bath, and get a good night's sleep. You will be surprised to find how often you have killed the cold in its infancy.

Next morning, if your cold is not better, spend a day in bed—one of Nature's best cures. And call the doctor before that cold becomes serious.

CHRISTMAS FRUIT CAKE

1¾ cups sifted prepared cake flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
½ cup butter or other shortening
1 cup sugar
½ cup chopped almonds
¾ cup grated cocoanut
½ cup citron, cut fine
½ cup Sultana raisins
½ teaspoon almond extract
½ teaspoon vanilla
5 egg whites, beaten stiff

Sift cake flour once, measure, add baking powder, and salt, and sift together three times. Sift ¼ cup of this flour mixture over nuts and fruits; mix thoroughly. Cream shortening until light and fluffy, add sugar gradually and cream together thoroughly. Add remaining flour mixture slowly to creamed mixture. Beat after each addition until smoth. Add nuts, fruit and flavorings. Fold in egg whites. Pour in loaf pan which has been prepared with a paper lining in the bottom. Bake in slow oven (250 degrees F) 1½ hours. Make 1¾ pounds. For larger cake, double recipe and bake in tube pan two hours.

A COSTLY SERVICE COSTING Depositors Nothing

Nearly everybody appreciates the convenience of paying by check. But very few people appreciate how much service this demands of the bank.

This bank serves its depositors as secretary, treasurer, expert bookkeeper, messenger, bill-collector and financial adviser—and doesn't charge a cent for it.

All of this costs the bank a great deal, but costs its depositrs—NOTHING. This expense varies of ccurse, but generally speaking, it has been found that for the average bank the country over any amount with an average balance less than $100 which has five or more checks drawn in one month, is carried by the bank at a loss.

This bank thinks of service first and always but it must be careful also nt to lose whinle it serves.

"A FAIR CHECKING BALANCE REPAYS GOOD BANKING SERVICE"

The St. Joe Valley Bank, A STATE BANK

Christmas Time Again

By Amy Orr Jones
In Kansas City Star

THE fleecy flakes are huddled
Against my window pane,
And angel voices calling
It's Christmas time again!

I hear the Christmas carols
The little children sing.
The bells peal out their story
Of Christ, the new born King.

And o'er the fleecy snowflakes,
Shedding its beams afar,
I see in radiant splendor
The shepherds' guiding star.

Oh living Star of Bethlehem,
Fling far thy beams of light
And help me in my humble way
By faith to shine more bright.

Christmas

By WILL M. MAUPIN

THE Christmas Bells of Memory!
Their sweet, melodious chimes
From out the past bring back to me
Those happy childhood times—
Those days of old when life was sweet
And days were fair to see,
And those we loved the best we'd meet
Around the Christmas tree!

The Christmas Bells! How sweet they ring
Their song of "Peace on Earth!"
How sweet the story that they bring
About the manger birth.
The Blessed Babe of Bethlehem—
Ring, Christmas Bells, until Men crown with royal diadem
And live amidst Good Will!

The Christmas Bells—ring sweet and clear,
Until the world shall see
No more of hate, no more of fear,
And men shall brothers be!
Ring out, ring out, O Christmas Bells,
Your sweetest clarion call,
Till 'round the world the message swells
To crown Him Lord of All!

(©, 1924, Western Newspaper Union.)

CHRIST FOR ALL—ALL FOR CHRIST
The Work of God
The Church of the Living God, which is the pillar and ground of the truth.—I Timothy 3:15.

BEGIN THE DAY RIGHT:—Cause me to hear thy loving kindness in the morning; for in thee do I trust; cause me to know the way wherein I should walk; for I lift up my soul unto thee. Psalm 143: 8.

Prayer: — Gracious God, so cleanse us by Thy Spirit that every morning we may behold Thy face with Thy righteousness.

NOTICE OF APPOINTMENT OF EXECUTRIX

State of Indiana
DeKalb County, SS:

I, J. H. Knauer, Clerk of the Circuit Court, for the County of DeKalb, State of Indiana, do hereby certify that Hattie A. Widney has been appointed executrix of the last will and testament of Hugh M. Widney, late of DeKalb County who died testate, and the said Hattie A. Widney having qualified and given bond as such Executrix is duly authorized to take upon herself the execution of said will.

Witness my hand and seal of Court, this 15th day of November, 1927.

J. H. Knauer,
Clerk of DeKalb Circuit Court
Hartzell & Todd, Attys. 47t3.

Let Us Print Your Sale Bills

Carol of the Angels

By Rev. W. J. Rutledge,
In Montreal Family Herald

"WHILE shepherds watched their flocks by night,"
The angel hastened in his flight
From Heaven's omniscient throne,
With tidings of transcendent grace
For men of every time and place,—
Best tidings ever known!

"Fear not; to you is born this day
In David's town, as Scriptures say,
A Saviour, Christ the Lord;
In stable where the kine repose,
The Babe ye'll find in swaddling clothes,"
The wondering shepherds heard.

Then suddenly a multitude
Of heaven's host, which understood
The motions of God's love,
Caroled His praise in song sublime
Whose cadence swells with passing time
All other songs above:

"Glory to God in highest place,"
Before whom angels veil their face
In deep humility;
"And peace on earth to men good-willed!"—
Prophetic praise that shepherds filled
With Faith's tranquillity!

* * * * *

O angels! sing again to men
At common tasks, your glad refrain,
Till glory shines around!
We would, amid life's troubles, hear
Of Him whose advent quiets fear
And maketh joy abound!

Not now of manger-cradle He,
But of the throne of sovereignty,
Earth's great redemptive King!—
Come Thou, O Christ!—create good will
In men and nations, and fulfill
The Hope of Peace we sing!

THE ROAD TO CHRISTMAS

By MARGARET E. SANGSTER
In Forum Magazine

DEAR, tell me where the road to Christmas lies.
And we will take that pathway, hand in hand;
And, where the flaming gold of sunset dies
We two will find, again, our promised land—
The world will seem a silver drift of snow
And we, upon the horizon's far rim,
Will see red holly bushes, row on row,
And proud young hemlocks—green limb touching limb.
And, dearest, while the whole earth seems to sleep,
A star will rise triumphant as a flame—
And, in a silence that is warmly deep,
Your voice will falter as it speaks my name.
And where the mistletoe is still and white
Your lips will turn the darkness into light.

ACHIEVEMENT DAY DREW BIG CROWD

Displays by Home Bureaus in Court House Assembly Room Attracted a Great Deal of Attention

Only the most complimentary comments could be made concerning the unusual display which featured the Achievement Day exercises, sponsored by the ladies of the township Home Bureaus of DeKalb county, in the assembly room of the court house in Auburn Friday.

A great amount of effort, time and planning was necessary to make the various booths so attractive. Each of eleven township organizations in the county prepared elaborate booths carrying out some particular idea of interest to the ladies and especially to those who visited the court house to see what is being accomplished through the Home Bureaus.

The booths were all made exceptionally attractive with crepe paper decorations, each carrying out an individual color scheme as well as individual ideas in regard to the making up of the booths.

The Smithfield township ladies represented the properly and improperly fed child. At one table was a large doll, sitting erect and before it a proper diet, composed of the wholesome fruits, vegetables and cereals. At the other table was a large doll, sitting in a reclining position. It had not been fed the proper foods and as a consequence it was necessary to have the usual remedies by its side in an effort to cure it.

The Troy township booth showed the proper and improper selection of china, showing on one table, a "hit and miss" selection of china while on the other table were several designs which show the proper taste in selection of china.

Jackson township made a representation of the "horn of plenty," lavendar crepe paper, with all the various vegetables and fruits "rolling forth." On the same table were also several samples of fancy salads with the recipes attached to them.

Richland township had a booth with samples of all the recipes which have been taught to the Home Bureau ladies by Miss Anita Beadle of the Extension department of Purdue University. Included among them were, open-faced sandwiches, ribbon sandwiches, sandwich rolls, outrigger salad, plum pudding, pineaple ring, tamali pie, Boston loaf, rolled flank steak and Harvard beets. A pressure and waterless cooker were also placed in this booth representing utensils which are indispensable to a successful housewife.

The Grant township booth represented a typical butcher shop with the many cuts of meat in display. A card was placed on each cut telling the location of the cut and how to prepare such a cut. The various knives used in cutting meat properly were arranged on a butcher's table. From the poorest cut to the choicest cut was on display.

Concord township made a booth characterizing a weil and properly arranged kitchen, with respect to the table, stove, cabinet and chairs.

Stafford township's booth had another display of the various cuts of meat without showing the location of the cuts. These were on display in a glass show case.

The booth prepared by Butler township was a representation of the old-fashioned home with the mother sitting with the fly swatter in her hand and dead flies on the table and children at the table without a well-balanced diet necessary to proper growth. In the same booth was a representation of the modern home with a properly set table and a well-balanced meal on the table, everything immaculately clean and a home properly kept.

The Fairfield township booth showed a table set for lunch with the proper setting of the silver and china and an appropriate meal on the table.

The Franklin township booth was a collection of many salads, fancy and plain, all appetisingly prepared and arranged.

The Spencer township booth showed the usefulness of Javelle water in removing stains. In the booth were an unusually large number of articles which had been made from sugar sacks from which the stains and printing had been removed by the use of Javelle water. The display was made up of caps, aprons, tea towels, luncheon sets and many others.

500 at Potluck Dinner

At noon approximately five hundred, including ladies of the Home Bureaus and their families enjoyed a pot luck dinner in the basement of the Lutheran Church.

During the afternoon the township Home Bureaus entertained with playlets. One interesting feature of the afternoon's program was the kitchen band.

An evidence of the interest taken by the people of the county was the unusually large number in attendance. Every seat in the assembly room was taken and even standing room was unavailable, many people being forced to stand in the hall.

SUNDAY SCHOOL REPORTS

The following is the report of Sunday schools in this vicinity for last Sunday, according to information sent The News by representatives of the schools reported.

Lutheran	78	$4.48
Coburn's Corners	58	$6.87
Spencerville M. E.	78	$5.26
Lutheran	57	$2.66

The Spirit of Christmas!

How Will You Express It?

Our Greeting Cards will enable you to send

Christmas Greetings

to your friends and acquaintances in an individual way.

You can select the card and write the sentiment you wish to express, and we will do the rest.

ST. JOE NEWS

DECEMBER

L 915

652

THE BEST BOOSTER FOR YOUR BUSINESS IN DeKALB COUNTY

ST. JOE NEWS.

NEWS MAKES A GOOD PAPER, SO SEND IT IN TO US.

VOL. XLI. ST. JOE, DeKALB COUNTY, INDIANA, THURSDAY, DECEMBER 15, 1927 NUMBER 50

ST. JOE BOY TO TAKE SHORT COURSE

Stanley Means, son of Mr. and Mrs. Loren Means of St. Joe, is one of 27 men who have already registered for the winter term eight weeks' course in general agriculture, which will be held at Purdue University from January 16 to March 12. The eight weeks' winter course is valuable, well balanced, practical, full of new thoughts and associations, and is indispensable to those who wish to become better qualified for agricultural work and obtain greater returns, including increased income, greater personal efficiency, lasting friendships and a knowledge of sources of information which are permanently available to students completing the course.

The winter course is offered in the main for students who are needed at home during the busy farming season, but who can spend the winter months at college. The course curriculum is wide and varied and includes such important and practical subjects as the study of the profitable growth of common Indian crops, proper use of fertilizers, legumes and stable manure in maintaining soil fertility; efficient use of concrete; light and power on the farm; profit thru the care of farm machinery; selection of varieties, culture, pruning and spraying in the orchard; constructive cattle breeding programs; treatment of hog cholera, contagious abortion and other live stock diseases; profit thrugh organization of the farm and farm records; fundamentals of marketing problems and many others.

TO OUR FRIENDS

For the many courtesies and expressions of interest and goodwill extended to us during the past year, we thank you.

May the Season's choicest blessings be yours.

Mr. and Mrs. F M. Thornton.

Something to Consider-

THAT 75%

OF THE SEAL SALE MONEY REMAINS IN DeKALB COUNTY FOR HEALTH WORK

BUY CHRISTMAS HEALTH SEALS

DeKALB COUNTY TUBERCULOSIS SOCIETY

LUTHERAN CHURCH TO ELECT OFFICERS

The following members have been nominated Deacons for a four year term: Joe Foltz, Ralph Sechler, Harcourt Miser and Carl Perkins.

Two year term: Wm. Staman, John Engle, Harvey Hull and Derwood Ridgway.

Elders: Four year term, J. R. Shilling, W. H. Randall, J. P. Buckingham and Ed Miser.

Two year term, Merritt Sechler, Ed Pflaumer, Frank Sechler and Ray Reasoner.

Two to be elected from each group on Saturday evening, December 31st.

WHAT SHALL I GIVE?

We worry over the annual Christmas gift problem, but what about the Queen of Sheba who was obliged to decide upon suitable gifts for King Solomon and his seven hundred wives?

Of course, these were not Christmas gifts, but, nevertheless, they were gifts—and they must please. So Queen Sheba loaded her camels with spices, gold and precious stones—and history asserts she found pleasure in the sight of the wise King.

Human nature has not changed a great deal. Sweet smelling essences may have taken the place of spices in milady's heart, but gold and precious stones still reign supreme, while jewels, silver, cut glass—anything that adorns person or home—are acceptable gifts for both men and women.

The gift that lasts is the gift that causes the recipient to think kindly most often of the giver. So purchase the lasting, dainty, handsome gift—not necessarily expensive—and you will choose wisely. Here are just a few suggestions that may help to solve your problem this year:

For Her
Boudoir clock	Lingerie clasps
Bracelet	Mesh bag
Brooch	Necklace
Candlesticks	Ring
Carving set	Wrist watch
For Him
Birthstone ring	Fountain pen
Book ends	Shaving set
Cuff links	Scarf pin
Desk clock	Watch
Emblem charm	Watch chain

SPENCERVILLE BOY WINS IN INTERSTATE SHOW

Word was received from P. O. Hurley, of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad that Merl Deal Furnish placed third in an Interstate Poultry Show held last week in Washington D. C.

The prize he will receive is a pen of chickens valued at $25.00.

SPECIAL LINE OF BOX CANDIES FOR THE HOLIDAY'S

Ph. HIGH'S 76

The Gladness of the World

When o'er the moonlit, misty fields,
Dumb with the world's great joy,
The shepherds sought the white-walled town,
Where lay the baby boy—
And, oh, the gladness of the world,
The glory of the skies,
Because the longed-for Christ looked up
In happy Mary's eyes!

—Margaret Deland

HUNTERTOWN BANDITS FACE OTHER CHARGES

The two bandits who robbed the Huntertown bank Thursday afternoon, will probably face other charges when arraigned in the Allen circuit court at Fort Wayne.

Charles Hovious, age 30, who was arrested near Bryan, Ohio, has confessed that he and his companion, Reed Brown, age 30, had been working together for the last four months. Charges of many holdups throughout the state are likely. Authorities have returned most of the loot taken in the robbery to the bank. Hovious had $142.70 and Brown had about $880 in bills and silver. The remainder of the amount taken, $1,312.59, was silver and was scattered along his trail because it was hindering his flight, Brown says.

OBITUARY

Margaret, daughter of Marion and Mary Jennings, was born in Concord Township, DeKalb County, Indiana, February 7, 1925, and after a short stay on earth, in which she was like a ray of sunshine in the home, she was borne on Heavenly Wings to that celestial abode where sickness, sorrow and death are unknown, and where she was re-united with her mother, who preceded her in death July 26, 1925.

The fair bud was plucked from earth to bloom in Heaven, December 4, 1927, at the age of 2 years, 9 months and 27 days

She is survived by the father, step-mother, one brother and four grandparents.

Funeral services were held at the Newville U. B. Church, Wednesday at 10 o'clck, Rev. Bremer, officiating. Burial in Newville cemetery. E. R. Kinsey, funeral director.

CARD OF THANKS

Our thanks are hereby expressed to our neighbors and friends for their kindness shown us during the illness and death of our daughter.

Marion Jennings and Family.

Chicken Supper at Community Hall, Sat. Eve, Dec. 17, by M. E. Ladies Aid Society, Spencerville.

ANOTHER OIL STOVE ACCIDENT REPORTED

The Mary Bowman residence came near catching fire Sunday evening about 5 o'clock, when she started her oil stove to get lunch. While sitting in the room Ray discovered the blaze and he and his mother tried to get the stove out but the blaze was too great. The flames ran to ceiling, burning the window casing and paper. Frank outened the flames by using flour.

Just what took place she does not know as she had turned the fire low, when only a few minutes before she had stepped out of doors.

At first Mrs. Bowman thought the stove exploded but only a small leak was found.

The damages of smoke and fire were not heavy. No outside aid was called.

ST. JOE WINS

The St. Joe Independents defeated the fast Woodburn A. C's. last Saturday evening, score 23-21. It was a nip and tuck game all the way and anybody's game until the final gun.

The team appreciates your support so far and are endeavoring to bring teams here that merit your coming to see them play.

In the preliminary of the above game the West End Tigers defeated the East End Lions by a score of 11-8. Watch bills for next game.

Supply your Holiday wants at Geddes Drug Store, Butler. 50t2

All such sentences as "You're too good for me," "I couldn't live an hour without you," are prima facie pre-marriage expressions.

Hix. Maroons

At the Community Gym. on Wednesday Evening of this week. Saturday evening this team defeated Spencerville by 27-26. A real game. This notice is for the local fans who receeive their paper on Wednesday Evening.

TAKE YOUR CHRISTMAS CARDS TO POSTOFFICE NOW

Thus Aiding Uncle Sam, But They Won't be Delivered Until Just Before Dec. 25.

Christmas day comes on Sunday this year and the postoffice department is reminding people that they should shop now and mail early.

While the first circular containing instructions about Christmas mail says nothing about the hours the letter carriers will observe on Monday, Dec. 26, the day which will be observed by the business world as a holiday, it is assumed that the postmen will not be compelled to work after the noon hour. Should this be the case it is imperative that Christmas packages and cards be mailed so they will reach thse to whom they are sent not later than Saturday, Dec., 24.

Christmas cards and gifts addressed to points within one day's travel should be mailed in no event later than December 20, within two day's travel not later than December 16, for more distant points not later than this week. Parcels and cards for local delivery should be mailed not later than December 21. The department announces that parcels and envelopes may be endorsed, "Please do not open until Christmas."

Clerks at the postoffice are not permitted to accept articles which are improperly wrapped so care should be taken in crating gifts for shipment. Cigars in wooden boxes must be wrapped in corrugated paper of the clerks will not be permitted to accept them. All articles which are easily broken should be protected, the shipper being urged to use liberal quantities of excelsior.

The Christmas card deluge, which usually strikes the postmen a few days before Christmas day, is a tough one to handle but a new idea has been presented this year.

Patrons sending a quantity of Christmas cards, say 10 or more, should prepare and mail them two or three weeks in advance, as millions are mailed and they can not possibly be handled and delivered if mailed only two or three or four days before Christmas. To avoid this, patrons may mail their cards two or three weeks before Christmas, delivering them to the postoffice or postal station in person, or tied together in a bundle, labeled to show that they are Christmas cards. They will be segregated, stamped with the date to be delivered and delivery effected one or two days before Christmas.

LUTHERANS ELECT OFFICERS SUNDAY

The main school elected officers last Sunday by placing the following into office:—

Superintendent, Ralph Sechler.
Assistant, Frank Akins.
Secretary, Goble Goodwin.
Assistant, Violet Pflaumer.
Treasurer, John Engle.
Pianist, Edna Perkins.
Assistant, Vera Hodgson.
Chorister, Harvey Hull.
Assistant, Joe Woodcox.

The department superintendents will be appointed by the executive officers at their first meeting.

St. Joe MEAT Market

We heard an old man say he didn't trink the girls ought to wear their short dresses any longer, but that they should leave their order early for Poultry for that CHRISTMAS DINNER.

We do grinding and stuffing of sausage, render your lard. Lard cans and sausage casings for sale.

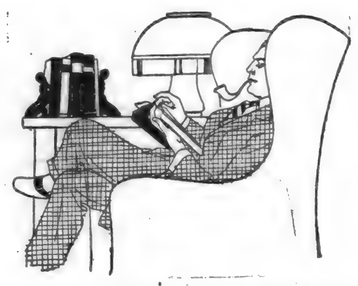
Wm. G. HARMAN,
ST. JOE, IND.

The Firm

Which supplies my coffee has been blending and buying coffee for fifty-three years. They know how. No wonder my coffees are delighting my friends.

We buy small lots shipped frequently. We grind the coffee the day you buy it. We keep it in a sanitary case. These things mean satisfaction to you.

ZONKER'S Store.



UPHOLSTERED FIRESIDE CHAIRS IN MOHAIR

We made a trip to the factory last week and took advantage of a Christmas Special in Chairs so we are passing it on to you. They are selling good at our price quoted.

Special $16.95

Beautiful Lamps

A line of Lamps never equaled in St. Joe, is shown at our Store. There is perhaps nothing in the home that every member of the family enjoys so much as a nice Electric Lamp. We have a good line to pick from and are selling from

$1.98 to $18.00

E. R. KINSEY, Hardware Furniture

KEEP WARM

With High-Grade Coal. It pays in the long run and that is the kind we sell

Feed for Hogs

We have a full line on hand and will be pleased to take care of your wants. Now is the time to feed. Come in and lay in your supply.

Don't Forget Our Lumber Yard

We also carry a full line of Paint. Save with Paint.

NATHAN Grain Co.

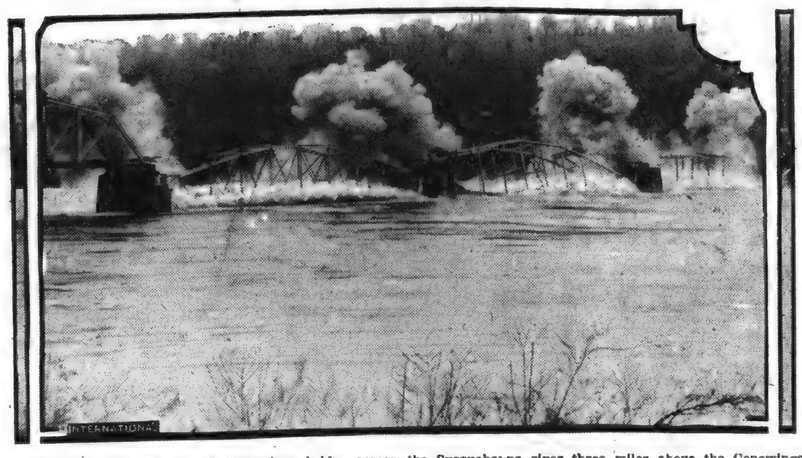
St. Joe's New Lumber Yard

Call By Phone for Prices Bert Jackson, Mgr.

DECEMBER

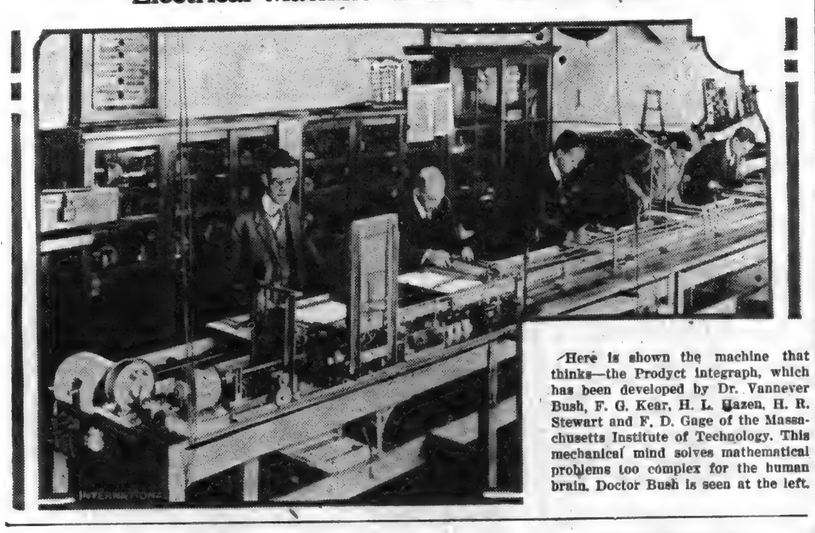
L 915
0653

Old Bridge Blown Up With New Explosive



The three spans of the old Conowingo bridge across the Susquehanna river three miles above the Conowingo hydro-electric development in Maryland were blown up the other day by a new explosive called blasting gelatin. A new bridge is to be built near by.

Electrical Machine That Seems to Think



Here is shown the machine that thinks—the Prodyct integraph, which has been developed by Dr. Vannever Bush, F. G. Kear, H. L. Hazen, H. R. Stewart and F. D. Gage of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. This mechanical mind solves mathematical problems too complex for the human brain. Doctor Bush is seen at the left.

She Made the Remus Jury Weep

Ruth Remus as she appeared before the jury at the murder trial in Cincinnati of her step-father, George Remus, who is defending himself against the charge of murdering his wife, Imogene Remus. Miss Remus, examining the clothing her mother wore when she was killed, caused the jurors to weep by her pathetic story.

PRESIDENT'S AIDE

Lieut. Com. A. C. Davis, U. S. N., whose appointment as naval aide to President Coolidge has been announced.

Here Is Henry Ford's New Car

As will be seen in this photograph of the long-awaited new Ford car, the automobile has a streamline body, crown fenders, nickeled headlights, four-wheel brakes and bumpers. The model shown is the Tudor sedan. At the left are seen the selective gear shift transmission and foot accelerator; also the instrument panel with speedometer, ignition lock, gasoline gauge and ammeter, with dashlight in the center.

BOY HERO'S REWARD

"To Willard, My Hero, From Patsy," was the inscription on a gold watch presented to Willard Dinan, ten, of New York, by two-year-old Patricia McDonald, whom he saved from drowning at a summer camp.

Sunday School Lesson

(By REV. P. B. FITZWATER, D.D., Dean Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.)
(©, 1927, Western Newspaper Union.)

Lesson for December 18

REVIEW: THE EARLY PROPHETS OF ISRAEL

GOLDEN TEXT—God, who at sundry times and in divers manners spake in times past to the fathers by the prophets, hath in these last days spoken by His Son.

PRIMARY TOPIC—What We Have Learned This Quarter.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Great Men and Great Teachings of the Quarter's Lesson.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Lessons from the Early Prophets.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Mission of the Prophets.

The method of review must always be determined by the genius of the teacher, the aptitude of the pupils and the particular grade in the school. For the adult classes three methods are suggested.

I. Biographical.

During the quarter six great prophets have been under review, namely, Elijah, Elisha, Amos, Hosea, Haggai and Isaiah. Assignments of these characters to representative members of the class should be made the week before so that they may come prepared to present the vital characteristics of these men.

II. Application of the Prophetic Messages to Modern Life.

Assignments should be made the preceding Sunday so that the members of the class may come prepared to make application of the vital messages of the prophets to the affairs of modern life. The following questions may be considered as representative:

What application can be made of the prophets' teachings as to: (1) The land question in the United States, (2) the problem of pauperism, (3) the problem of capital and labor, (4) light on the theological controversies of the present time, (5) a message for the modern woman, (6) the cause of prohibition, (7) modern amusements, (8) modern church life.

III. A Summary of Facts and Teachings.

Lesson for October 2.

The basis of decision as between Baal and Jehovah was that the true God should answer by fire. The leading lesson is that accepted service is the supreme test, enabling men to choose between Christ and heathen gods.

Lesson for October 9.

Elijah, who was brave before Baal's prophets, was frightened by Jezebel's threat and ran away. He failed at what had been his strong point.

Lesson for October 16.

Ahab coveted Naboth's vineyard. Jezebel schemed to destroy Naboth so that Ahab's petulant desire might be gratified. Judgment fell upon both Ahab and Jezebel.

Lesson for October 23.

A prophet is one who speaks forth God's message. When Isaiah had a vision of the Lord and was cleansed from sin, he was ready to go at the divine bidding.

Lesson for October 30.

Amos was called from the humble occupation of a shepherd and tradesman to fill the prophetic office. God is not dependent upon any school or system of training for the supply of His workers.

Lesson for November 6.

Though the nation had grievously sinned by worshiping idols, oppressing their fellow men and persecuting the prophets who spake against them, God invited them to return to Him.

Lesson for November 13.

Israel's apostasy was illustrated by Hosea's unfaithful wife. In spite of their wickedness God loved them and plied with them to return unto Him.

Lesson for November 20.

Isaiah pointed out the moral state of the people, exposing their ingratitude, stupidity, and habits of evil, and showed them that although God had severely chastised them, their case was not hopeless.

Lesson for December 4.

Isaiah reminded Israel of God's peculiar favor under the figure of a favorite vineyard. He pointed out the sins which brought their ruin. The outstanding sins were oppression of the poor, drunkenness, proud self-conceit and perversion of justice.

Lesson for December 11.

Through Isaiah's long ministry he was privileged to give counsel to several kings. Sometimes it was counsel of encouragement, sometimes of rebuke. To Ahaz he gave counsel of assurance, pointing to a day of deliverance and blessing through Immanuel. When Hezekiah faced the crisis of invasion by the Assyrians, he resorted to the house of the Lord and sent for Isaiah.

Work on Your Knees

A marble cutter, with chisel and hammer, was changing a stone into a statue. A preacher looking on said: "I wish I could deal such clanging blows on stony hearts." The workman made answer: "Maybe you could, if you worked like me, upon your knees."

Just What Satan Likes

Nothing satisfies Satan like the saint who is satisfied with himself.—Presbyterian Record.

Another Child at the Inn

by Patience Eden

"WHERE have you been my son?" his mother said,
"You ran away from me . . . it's time for bed!"
She shook him gently, ruffling back his hair
And led him stumbling up the broad, stone stair.
"Where have you been?" she asked him in surprise,
Finding a sweet dazed look within his eyes,
As if he had been blinded by a light
So strange and beautiful, that all his sight
Swam in a distant glory. Then the boy
Looked up at her, his rosy face all joy,—
"The cattle stood around and ate the hay,"
He said, "and there a tiny baby lay.
A tiny baby, mother, and I stared
Through one small crack . . . but no one saw or cared.
The baby's mother smiled, and all was gold
Around him like a light . . . and very old,
Rich men did worship him upon their knees."
He paused, then pointing, cried,—"Oh, mother, please
Look out and see that shining, shining star!
How big and bright it is! How wide and far
It sends the light!" So then they both drew near
The window to look out. "And can't you hear
Sweet singing, mother? Tell me, are there white,
White wings . . . and angels flying through the night?"
The child grew drowsy and his curly head
Drooped liked a flower. Gently to his bed
His mother carried him. And there she stayed
Kneeling beside him,—happy yet afraid.

© 1927, Western Newspaper Union

The HOLIDAY GUEST

by Elizabeth Blessing

THE plum pudding was ripening, and the guest room was prettier with the yellow drapes than I had ever dreamed it could be, and even the mistletoe hung in all the doorways—all there was left to do was to put the guest towels in the bathroom. As I was taking two of my daintiest hand-embroidered towels from the linen chest, it occurred to me to ask my husband just how his sister Willa looked, since I had never seen her, and was going to all the trouble of arranging theater, bridge, and dancing parties for her during her Christmas visit with us.

"Well," Charles had hesitated, "I told you once that she was a 'home girl' and old-fashioned."

"But that's very indefinite," I had replied. "How tall is she?"

"Oh-a, she's about five feet, six—about your height, and has long, red hair— I suppose it's still long, and she's rather fat, and—"

"Fat," I had gasped, "your sister fat." And then I had visions of Raymond Garfield's expression when he should see standing under the mistletoe, this old-fashioned, fat, red-headed girl who was to be his partner at all of the parties.

"Surely, Charles, you don't remember well."

"Yes, she is fat," Charles went on, "and although she has money from four years of teaching, she always wears a faded blue serge suit with a belt, and—" The doorbell's ringing interrupted him.

"I'll answer it," I said.—A telegram! and tearing it open, I read: "Meet me at 2:15 at the Union depot —Willa."

It would be a two-hour trip; so I picked up some Christmas cards, and my gold fountain pen with my initials "W. W." on it. I could spend part of the time on the train addressing cards.

I couldn't possibly miss her—the fat, red-headed school teacher in faded blue serge—with a belt, I thought as I settled in my seat.

* * * * * * *

I stepped from the train conscious of the patronizing attitude I had assumed, but nowhere could I see anyone answering Willa's description.

It was nearly five o'clock when I reached the last store, where I had no charge account, but where my check would be accepted. I felt for my fountain pen. It was gone! Frantically I searched my pockets for it, carelessly laying my purchases on the counter.

"Step aside please, Madam, you are holding up the line," politely requested the cashier as a stylish, tall blonde took my place, and before my dismayed eyes took out a pen exactly like mine. I remembered Charles had once told me that often thieves were better dressed nowadays than others. "She easily could have picked my pocket while we were standing in line," I reasoned. Hence, convinced that she had my pen, I demanded that the cashier examine the pen and see if it had my monogram, "W. W," on it. It had!

"I will let the lady off easy," I thought as I noticed the costly serge of her modish suit, "because she is probably a kleptomaniac whose—"

"There is some mistake," a clear sweet voice interrupted my thoughts.

"... I Thought as I Settled in My Seat."

"This is my own pen, and 'W. W.' stands for my name, Willa Woodrow.

"Willa Woodrow," I gasped. "This girl!" Then hiding my true thoughts, I hastened to greet her, explaining: "I'm Wilma Woodrow, Charles' wife."

I wrote my check while Willa put things back into my pockets, and we walked from the store together.

"But, Willa dear," I exclaimed after we were on the car, "Charles said 'red hair, and fat.'" And I added mentally, "faded blue serge."

"Exactly, dear—look at me," Willa commanded.

"I'm looking," I smiled, "but what I see is fluffy golden hair crowning a plump, but not too plump, pink-and-white face from which shine two magic blue eyes, and—"

Then I remembered the holiday parties I had planned for Charles' "home-like, old-fashioned" sister, and I pictured the fascinated gleam which would come into Raymond Garfield's eyes when he saw Willa standing under the mistletoe.

(©, 1927, Western Newspaper Union.)

DECEMBER

L 915 U654

The Green Cloak

By YORKE DAVIS

WNU Service. Copyright, 1926

CHAPTER X—Continued

—12—

And when we looked at her, even in the dimly lighted interior of the limousine, her appearance was different, too. The difference was as subtle as it was unmistakable. What we saw was another—radically new personality. It was as if the partition walls which had separated the personality of the stupidly respectable chambermaid from that of the untamed savage of the South seas were breaking down; as if these two widely sundered persons were merging into one. Neither Jane Perkins nor Fanenna could have uttered the word "murder" in just that accent of half-apprehended horror.

We were nearing our journey's end. Our road lay alongside the railroad line, and already we could see the one light in the Oak Ridge station window. There was no time to grapple with the new problem.

Then the chauffeur spoke to us through the little speaking tube which connected the chauffeur's seat with the interior of the limousine:

"There's a house on fire, up ahead there."

We all looked, and instantly saw a sudden lurid light, which was piling up the sky; saw it pierced the next moment by angry orange-colored flames.

"He's set fire to the house!" the doctor cried; and added, into the speaking tube, "Put on all the speed you can! We've no time to waste!"

The chauffeur obeyed, and within two minutes we were at the scene of the fire. The cold air of the winter night was already resonant with the shouts of the firemen and the excited exclamations of the crowd of half-dressed citizens who had gathered to render what assistance they could, and to enjoy the spectacle at the same time.

Mallory had already swung the door open and was half way out of the car, when an exclamation from the doctor stopped him.

"Hold on!" he cried. "This isn't the house. The Morgan house is two blocks further on down the street. Drive on!" he shouted to the chauffeur. "We mustn't waste a minute!"

Mallory sprang back to his seat, and once more the car lurched forward. The doctor held the door with one hand and leaned far out, scanning the road ahead with eager eyes.

"Drive slow," he cautioned the chauffeur.

Then he turned and spoke to us inside the car. "I've an idea that we better not drive right up to the house. There's no need of giving any more warning than necessary of the fact that we're coming. Look out ahead here, Phelps. Isn't that white gate half way down the next block the gate to the Morgan yard?"

I peered out over his shoulder. "Yes. I couldn't mistake that," said I.

"Good," said the doctor. "Stop here."

We four men clambered out of the car, the girl still fast asleep, still leaning back against the cushions in the corner, undisturbed by the confusion of our dismounting from the car.

"What shall we do with her?" I inquired. "I suppose she's safe enough where she is. She'll hardly wake up until you tell her to, will she?"

"No. The sleep is hypnotic," said the doctor. "She'll be safe enough here so far as that goes."

"It comes down to this," said Ashton. "If Wilkins is in the house, we sha'n't want the girl. She'd be in the way, for if he's cornered, he'll make a stiff fight. But if he's been to the house and done his work and already got away, and we're too late for him, as I fancy we are, then we'll have to use the girl again to track him. There's no other way."

"Then the thing to do," said the doctor, "is to make a reconnaissance. If he's already been here and searched the house for what he wanted and gone away, that fact will be easily apparent, and, as you say, it's the first thing to find out. Come, we've wasted time enough. The girl will be perfectly safe here."

"Hold on," said Ashton. "Why should we all go? We might defeat our purpose that way. Send Mallory. He's worth all the rest of us put together at fences and locks, and that sort of thing. He can find out in five minutes whether that house has been entered or not, and he won't attract one-twentieth part of the attention that four of us will."

The doctor nodded.

Without waiting for any further bidding, Mallory rushed off in the darkness, up the street toward the white gate. The rest of us stood just where we were, on the sidewalk, twenty paces or so from the automobile. We had nothing to do but wait for Mallory's return, and under such circumstances time, as a rule, drags heavily. But long before we expected his return, almost it seemed, before he could have reached the house, we heard, coming toward us, the footsteps of a man running.

The three of us shrank back into the shadows, tensely alert for whatever this unexpected development might mean. But as the approaching figure emerged into the zone of light cut by the great gas lamps of our automobile, we saw that it was Mallory himself, Mallory hurrying toward us in an agony of haste, beckoning frantically, his eyes blazing with excitement.

We sprang forward to meet him.

"He's there!" he gasped. "Wilkins, himself! He's up in the study! There's a light, and the blinds are down; but I saw his shadow on the blind."

As we drew nearer the gate, our pace slackened cautiously. Ashton was a little in advance of the rest of us, and was the first to peer around the mass of shrubbery, which screened the house from the view of the street, except at the one point where the gate made an opening. I saw him stop and stiffen, and heard him catch his breath with a gasp.

"That's him," he whispered. "We've got him."

The next moment I saw it, too—the silhouette upon the blind of a figure in cap and ulster, bending studiously forward over the desk, in the chair in which Henry Morgan had sat when he met his death.

"Yes," I heard my chief say in a piercing whisper; "yes, we've got him—unless, unless, in some way, he's counted on making us think we had him—when we hadn't."

"Why do you think that?" Ashton demanded under his breath.

"It's—it's a little too obvious," said the doctor in uneasy hesitation. "Why should he court discovery in that way?

The Three of Us Shrank Back Into the Shadows.

Why should he be sitting there with his shadow on the blind, when he knows that half the town has been roused by this fire?"

Ashton started forward impatiently. "This is no time for theories," he muttered.

But the doctor laid a detaining hand upon his arm. "No," he said, "that's a valid question. If there's no trick about it, the man can't get away. If there is a trick, it's success will depend upon our doing the very thing that you propose to do—rushing ahead without stopping to think."

"Listen a minute," said Ashton, still in a whisper, but speaking with fierce impatience. "He must have set fire to that other house himself. He cannot have thought of a better scheme for drawing my men off the job. Once Wilkins saw them out of the house, he knew he had nothing to fear. He could make his search at leisure. And now he's found the things he wants, has found that map that he's been dreaming about for years, he's not thinking about his shadow nor the blind it falls on."

To me it seemed that the doctor's question had been fairly answered, and I moved forward, as Mallory and Ashton did. My chief hesitated an instant, then gave a nod of assent.

Mallory pulled open the gate. We all followed through it. Then I glanced up once more at the lighted window blind.

"Look!" I cried. "He's gone!"

One glance was all they needed. The silhouette of that figure had disappeared.

Ashton turned to Mallory and spoke so fast that the words trod on each other's heels.

"You stay outside," he commanded. "He may try the windows if he's cornered. You're the best man we've got on a chase. Don't hesitate to shoot! Come along, the rest of you!"

Together we rushed up the path Ashton ahead and my chief and I just behind him. But, with all our haste, we ascended the steps and crossed the wooden veranda silently. The front door was not even latched. It swung back with a light push, and we were inside.

"I'll go to the kitchen," Ashton said, "and cover the back stairs, and work up from there. You two, between you, see that he doesn't get down the front stairs, and search the rooms on each floor before you go any higher."

Both of us nodded comprehendingly, and he darted away. I stayed in the hall, while the doctor searched the downstairs rooms which made up the front of the house.

In a minute or two my chief rejoined me in the hall. "He's not here," Ashton whispered. "Come, let's go upstairs. We'll draw this floor next, just as we did the other. You, Phelps, guard the head of the front stairs, I'll guard the back and the doctor can search the rooms."

Carefully as he searched, we drew blank again.

"All right," Ashton whispered. "He's still in the study, then. It's queer we don't hear him, though."

"Do you think he can have got out by one of the windows?" I questioned.

"Not with Mallory on the lookout outside, I told him to shoot, and he would. Come along! Follow me."

The study door was closed, but we could see the light shining out from under it. Ashton flung open the door. But from that silent room there never came a sound.

We waited a moment. Then, breathlessly and cautiously, we entered.

The room was empty.

For a moment we stared blankly into each other's faces. Then a grim, full-mouthed laugh from the doctor shattered the strained silence. He clutched Ashton's arm and pointed.

"Look! Look there!"

On the floor, beside the swivel chair, half under the desk, was a great caped-ulster and a hat, a bundle of bed clothes, a bolster and a small pillow.

"There!" cried the doctor; "there lies the shadow of our good friend Wilkins, but it looks as if his substance had escaped us."

"But the thing moved," I cried—"the shadow did, at any rate—moved and disappeared."

The doctor stooped and lifted up the empty sleeve of the big ulster. There was a string tied around the sleeve, a string that led up through an empty stove-pipe hole and out in the corridor. We went out to see what the other end of it was attached to, and found that it was made fast to a bell wire, in such a way as not, probably, to interfere with the ringing of the bell.

We gazed at the thing curiously and, for the moment, without comprehending. Then the doctor hit upon a solution, which we afterward found to be the true one.

It was simple. "Like all great ideas," said he. "The first thing Wilkins did was to make fast a string between the gate and the old-fashioned bell pull in the front doorway. In that way he assured himself of getting a warning when your detectives returned from the fire. It wouldn't allow him much leeway, but he undoubtedly calculated that it would be enough. When this house was in its prime this third floor room served, no doubt, as quarters for a servant, and it was natural that one of the bells should ring up here. The thought of the dummy had probably occurred to him in advance, and it was a good thought. His chance of escaping your two men, when they returned, would be vastly greater if they should rush into the house with no other idea than that an intruder was sitting in Henry Morgan's study, leaning over Henry Morgan's desk.

"But the notion of connecting the dummy with the bell wire, and balancing it so that the slightest pull would cause it to move toward the light, and then disappear, must have been the inspiration of the moment."

"Well, he's gone," said Ashton, "and he's probably got the map, though if you know where you left it, you'd better look and see."

I pulled open the drawer where we had placed it, and glanced inside. One glance was enough. The map was gone.

"He can't have gone very far," said Ashton; "that's a safe surmise; and as long as we've got that girl to track him with, we'll get him yet. Come, there's no use loitering here."

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

Great Not All From World's High Places

Who would have expected that Goliath's antagonist would emerge from the quiet pastures? "Genius hatches her offspring in strange places." Very humble homes are the birthplaces of mighty emancipations, once said the late Doctor Jowett.

There was a little farm at St. Ives, and the farmer lived a quiet and unsensational life. But the affairs of the nation became more and more confused and threatening. Monarchical power despoiled the people's liberties, and tyranny became rampant. And out from the little farm strode Oliver Cromwell, the ordained of God, to emancipate his country.

There was an obscure rectory at Epworth. The doings in the little rectory were just the quiet practices of simple homes in countless parts of England. And England was becoming brutalized, because its religious life was demoralized. The church was asleep, and the devil was wide awake! And forth from the humble rectory strode John Wesley, the appointed champion of the Lord, to enthuse, to purify, and to sweeten the life of the people.

On what quiet farm is the coming deliverer now laboring? Who knows? —Exchange.

Revealed by Microscope

It now is possible to identify any piece of timber, however old, by shaving off a slice of minute thickness and studying it under the microscope.

Excavation of the ancient theater at Corinth has shown that these structures were gaily decorated with wall paintings.

POULTRY FACTS

PUSH LAYING HEN FOR FIVE MONTHS

Five months per year is enough in which to push hens into extra laying by extending the feeding hours through the use of lights. The North Carolina experiment station has just completed its second three-year test with laying hens and finds that the period between November 1 and April 1 is the period to use lights. For the remainder of the year, the birds should be allowed to feed during the normal daylight.

"Beginning with the pullet year, we have subjected hens to 36 consecutive months of 14 feeding hours per day, securing the extra hours by using electric lights," says Dr. B. F. Kaupp, head of the poultry department at state college. "This past year marked the completion of the second such test. Our results show conclusively that a hen must have a rest period between each year of exposure to the extra hours. This is needed that she might replenish her depleted stores of vitamines, minerals and vitality. It is not wise to subject a hen to the extra feeding hours for more than five months of the year, and the time between November 1 and April 1 is recommended."

Doctor Kaupp and his associates have found that a sudden reduction of the feeding hours will be accompanied by premature molting and that regular lighting will always give poor results in securing extra eggs.

Cod Liver Oil May Be Detrimental to Fowls

Prof. Eric Agudhr of Stockholm, Sweden, has issued a report which confirms doubts as to how far cod liver oil may be continued in the poultry ration with desirable results. In his experiments with white mice he found that the continued use of this oil made the animals too fat at the end of the feeding period, that there was a swelling of the bodies, and that various organs had been adversely affected. Other experiments with larger animals gave similar results. While cod liver oil may help temporarily, it is possible that it may be positively harmful if used continuously. Apparently it has had no detrimental effects in experiments in feeding it to poultry on this continent, but before it is made a regular article of diet for poultry, it should be given the most careful and prolonged investigation.

Sodium Fluoride Useful to Destroy Parasites

The best thing to treat hens for lice is sodium fluoride. The best way to apply is to dip each hen, but this can be done only on a warm day. One ounce of sodium fluoride to each gallon of lukewarm water. Grasp the hen by the wings in your left hand and immerse her in the water and ruffle up the feathers with your right hand so that the water will go to the skin. Then hold your hand over her nostrils and mouth and duck her head for a few seconds.

If the weather is too cold to dip, this can be put on dry. Place a good pinch of the powder on the neck, the back, one under each wing, and a good big one under the vent.

Poultry Squibs

Poultry parasites are hardy and can live from four to five months after chickens have been removed from the hen houses unless a strong destroyer is applied.

• • •

It takes vigorous pullets with long, broad and deep body developed to shell out eggs in the dead of winter when the thermometer is hovering around the zero mark.

• • •

Without some form of animal food, to replace the summer bugs and worms, hens can't lay well, however free-handed you are with grain. This need is supplied by tankage, meat scraps, ground green bone, or skim milk or buttermilk.

• • •

Pullets of the heavy breeds can be too fat for laying while it is difficult to get Leghorn pullets overly fat.

• • •

The poultry breeder should not be influenced by trifling incidents that irritate the market. He should select and grade his poultry.

• • •

The poultry house is both the home of the hen and the factory where winter eggs are produced, and unless it provides suitable living and working conditions the hen cannot be expected to lay well.

• • •

Soy bean and clover hay, if brightly cured, may be used to take the place of alfalfa in the poultry ration.

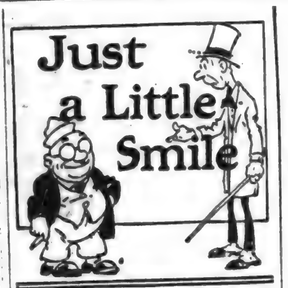
• • •

It is much easier to prevent lice and mites getting a start than it is to get rid of them once they get a toe hold.

• • •

The Missouri station showed how profitable it is to add animal food to a grain ration. Each pound of tankage or meat scraps, or the equivalent in skim milk (one gallon) brought an extra dozen eggs.

Just a Little Smile



REVIVED

An Arkansas father whose son was doing badly in college tried calling him over the long-distance about his grades.

"Hello, John. Why don't you make better grades?" he asked.

"Can't hear you, father."

"I say, can't you make better grades?"

"Can't hear you, father."

"I say, John, do you need any money?"

"Yes, Dad, send me $50."

Question Revised

A plain-spoken clubman said to a fellow member, "How many fools do you suppose are in this club, besides yourself?"

"Besides myself," replied the other, half inclined to be angry. "I must say I like that."

"Well, then, how many do you reckon including yourself?"

WEARING THE ERMINE

Mrs. Rabbit—Mrs. Ermine scarcely speaks to folks these days. Seems quite stuck up.

Mrs. Fox—She's wearing her new fur coat.

Satisfied With Matters

Editor (engaging young reporter)—I might mention that we are a very old-established, conservative newspaper, and have upheld constitutional matters for over a hundred years.

Young Hopeful (most anxious to please)—That'll be all right, sir. There won't be any need to change them, as far as I'm concerned.—Humorist.

Inheritance

Said the flapper, after she had introduced her new boy friend to her parents: "What side of the family do you think I take after?"

"Well, you have your father's eyes, nose and mouth," the B. F. replied, "but you get your legs from your mother."—Country Gentleman.

No Progress

Editor (reading MS.)—You say here, "seems to advance, but really is as unprogressive as a clock." I don't understand that.

The Author—Well, you see, a clock is running all day and yet it always winds up at the same place.

AN EVERLASTING EXPENSE

Pretty Wife—A thing of beauty is a joy forever.

Hubby—Yes—and an everlasting expense!

This Means You

Mae—Laura has been telling the awfullest thing about you.

June—What did that cat say?

Mae—She said that there was a certain girl in this town that was silly, ugly and stuck up!

We All Know 'Em

"Foot and mouth disease has now spread to golfers."

"To golfers?"

"Yes, they foot it all day and mouth about it all night."

Matchless

Shopper—I'd like to match this piece of ribbon, please.

Clerk—Unfortunately, we cannot, madam. It happens to be one of the 'matchless bargains' we offered last week.

Still Saying It

Husband—D'you know, my dear, I think I played better golf ten years ago.

Wife—Yes, Henry, I remember hearing you say so at the time.

The DAIRY

COWS TESTED FOR MILK PRODUCTION

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

A dairy herd improvement association is an organization of dairy farmers who co-operatively employ a man to test their cows for economical production of milk and butterfat. The tester visits each farm one day each month, weighs the feed and milk of each cow, tests the milk for butterfat, and figures the results.

The dairy herd improvement association furnishes the dairyman definite information regarding the milk and butterfat production of each cow, thus enabling him to cull out the low producers, to feed the remainder according to known production, and to breed up a herd in which the daughters excel their dams. That all this is adding to the profits of members of dairy herd improvement associations is indicated by the increase in the number of these associations.

It is estimated that the average dairy cow in this country produces annually about 4,500 pounds of milk containing about 180 pounds of butterfat. The records of thousands of cows tested regularly show average yields of more than 7,200 pounds of milk and 282 pounds of butterfat. Several associations have average yearly records of more than 300 pounds of butterfat.

In the Ottertail (Minn.) association in 1924-25 the cow produced an average of 299 pounds of butterfat and returned a little more than $3 for every dollar's worth of feed consumed. Moreover, each cow returned $101 income above feed cost. Commenting on this record J. C. McDowell of the United States Department of Agriculture remarks that any cow that returns $3 for every dollar spent for feed is a good market for feed, and that a cow that each year returns $100 above feed cost is a good labor market.

Rye Will Make Fair to Good Grade of Silage

Rye when cut in the flower or early dough stage will make a fair to good grade of silage. The silage is liable to be rather strong smelling and is liable to taint the milk, although this can be largely overcome by feeding the silage directly after milking rather than before. Care will also have to be exercised that the mangers are well cleaned out and the silo is cut off from the barn as otherwise the odor in the barn itself may be taken up by the milk during milking time. One investigation indicated that rye silage was about 10 per cent less valuable for milk production than was corn silage. It is, perhaps, not quite as palatable as corn silage and has not been largely used for silage.

Centrifugal Force Will Drive Out Skim Milk

Centrifugal force drives the skim milk out of the separator bowl. An increase in speed, therefore, forces more skim milk through the skim milk outlet, consequently richer cream. A decrease in the speed forces less skim milk through the skim milk outlet and the cream, therefore, is thinner. Where different persons operate the separator there can be but little uniformity of speed unless each person makes an effort frequently to count the crank revolutions by their watch. The use of a gasoline engine or some constant power will tend to give a more uniform cream test than when the machine is operated by hand.

Dairy Squibs

Avoid overfeeding the poor-producing dairy cow.

• • •

Underfeeding good cows is extravagant waste.

• • •

Records of five years show that it costs $43 a year to care for a cow.

• • •

A good dairy cow probably consumes more water than any other domestic animal. The more feed consumed, the more water the cow requires.

• • •

The man who thinks he is economizing by buying cheap milk pails is fooling himself. A good pail costs a little more but it lasts far longer and is cheaper in the long run.

• • •

Tests at the Minnesota experiment station show that a cow producing 27 pounds of milk daily consumed 9.6 gallons of water while one of the same breed giving 13 pounds of milk drank only five gallons of water.

• • •

Dairymen who feed high protein feeds may add more fertility to the soil through manure than is taken out by crops.

• • •

Cooling cream and milk immediately after separating takes out the animal heat and removes the smothered flavor so often objected to.

• • •

In caring for milk and cream it is necessary to have a clean place free from dirt and flies and a place which precludes the possibility of milk taking up odors

DECEMBER

L 915 655

Local Briefs

For Sale:—Black horse, 5-yr. old, weight 1500. Joe Koch. 50t1p

Have your glasses fitted by Benj. F. Griest, Eyesight Specialist, Office in American Bldg., Hicksville, Ohio. 28tf.

The Basket Ball game between the local High School and Woodburn will be played Saturday night, Dec. 17, instead of Dec. 30th. Please notice change in this date.

Mrs. George Simanton is on the sick list with the grip.

Pure, fresh ground buckwheat flour. St. Joe Milling Co.

Bruce Koch spent Saturday night and Sunday with Fred Quance at Auburn.

Chicken Supper at Community Hall, Sat. Eve, Dec. 17, by M. E. Ladies Aid Society, Spencerville.

Arthur Wilmot has vacated his home north of the Coburntown Church which he sold recently to John Crothers, and has moved into the O. K. Shull property, south of the Hadsell bridge.

This is the time—our store, the place—prices right. Geddes Drug Store, Butler. 50t2.

Chicken Supper at Community Hall, Sat. Eve, Dec. 17, by M. E. Ladies Aid Society.

Wanted:—Woodcutters on share 1¾ miles south of Coburntown Church. Paul Miller, phone 45-3, Spencerville. 50t2p.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Koch had for Sunday dinner guests Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Price, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Koch of Spencerville and Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Koch of Ft. Wayne.

One of the most gratifying gifts you could give, would be a year's subscriptin to The News, where you know that it is not being already sent. A number have adopted this plan.

George Culbertson had the misfortune to hurt his leg Monday by getting caught between the windmill and wagon wheel. Forunately no bones were broken, but he is confined to the house.

The public is going wild over the new Ford. Every agent that has been able to secure one for showing reports wonderful interest in the public in this the latest in automobiles. Too bad St. Joe can't have a show day.

The Lutheran Ladies Aid meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Mary Bowman on Thursday evening. The annual election of officers will take place and in addition to the business a Christmas exchange will be enjoyed.

Frank Miser was injured Friday evening in a basket ball game, by running into a row of seats at the High School Gym, across the east end of the court. He has been in bed for several days as the result of a flesh wound. The teams won over Hamilton boys and girls.

A petition to sell land belonging to the late George F. Baltz has been filed in the Dekalb circuit court by Nelson J. Shook, administrator. Mr. Shook states the debts of the estate amount to $733.-68 and the personal property is worth only $188.32; and that there is $3,300 in mortgages against the real estate.

The Home Bureau Club will meet Friday, December 16, with Mrs. Rose Widney, in an all day meeting. Pot luck dinner and Christmas exchange. On Achievement Day in assembly room of the court house, December 2, DeKalb County carried off honors again of having largest attendance in the state, Concord Township ranked fifth with a grade of 91.75. The ladies received many compliments on the way they handled their kitchen equipment in the Kitchen Cabinet Orchestra. An orchestra where sixteen of the Club ladies had special part.

Pure, fresh ground buckwheat flour. St. Joe Milling Co.

Do your Christmas shopping at Geddes' Drug Store, Butler. 50t2.

A tenant wanted for the J. N. Scholes farm. Inquire at the St. Joe Valley Bank. 50tf.

For Sale or Trade, Console Victrola, lots of records. What have you? Chas. Koch. 50t1.

A collection of $9.07 was taken Sunday at the Methodist Sunday School for the Near East Relief.

For Sale: — Horton Electric Washer, good as new, bargain if sold soon. Write M. S. Hilpert, Hicksville. 50t1.

Eighty-eight acre farm for rent 3 miles west of St. Joe. Present tenant Joe Wyatt. Write W. H. Gibbs, 2017 Meridian Street, Fort Wayne, Ind. 49tf.

LaVon Brunson, 5 year old son of Tom Brunson and wife, of north of town, had a tonsil and adenoid operation at the Garrett hospital last Saturday.

When you are in town call at the News office and get a pattern leaflet. Free for the asking. We also order McCall's or Pictorial patterns for you. 50tf.

For Sale:—The newest in Electric Washers. The One-minute Model 60, $97.50, also Model 52. Will be glad to demonstrate. Drop a card to M. S. Hilpert, Hicksville, Ohio. 46tf.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Hatch and two children of Fort Wayne, Mrs. Hazel Steward and son, Ercil and daughter, Florence, and Mrs. Ada Berry, of Spencerville, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. John Betz.

Mrs. Wm. Mossberger and son, Donald, left Friday evening for St. Louis, Mo., to be guests of her brother and also at Norris City, Ill., to be in her home and visit her parents until Christmas.

G. R. Hodgson, B. & O. Agent, who with his family have been living in furnished rooms at the W. E. Henly home, are now living in the Bills property. They had their household effects shipped from Floriday.

Reed Place and family are moving to Hicksville, having sold their farm to their son. Last week a party was given them at their home and the entire neighborhood turned out. The Coburntown community is losing some fine folks and Hicksville is gaining.

Mrs. J. W. Lilly, wife of the Rev. J. W. Lilly of Hicksville, died suddenly last Thursday morning, following a stroke of appoplexy. She had been ill but a short time. The family physician had visited the home the same evening and she fell dead on the floor, just as she was coming out of her room. The funeral was held Sunday afternoon at Hicksville with burial at Auburn.

Supply your Holiday wants at Geddes Drug Store, Butler. 50t2

Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock the Woman's Missionary Society of the Lutheran Church will meet with Mrs. Frank Curie.

There is no uniformity of gasoline prices in the United States, according to the American Automobile Association's nation-wide survey. The lowest price was in Peria, Ill., 10 cents a gallon, and the highest in Phoenix, Ariz., 27 cents. Prices seem to be governed by local conditions.

Indiana's death rate from all forms of tuberculosis was slightly higher in 1926 than in the previous year according to figures compiled by the Indiana state board of health and made public at Indianapolis Saturday by the Indiana Tuberculosis association. The death rate per 100,000 population in Indiana from the "White Plague" was 84 during 1926, compared with 82.2 in 1925. This was due, it is believed to one of the variations that come periodically in the gradually descending rate.

Do your Christmas shopping at Geddes' Drug Store, Butler. 50t2.

WHY NOT TRY THIS?

With Thanksgiving over and but one more big holiday this year we want to take just a moment to talk to our readers who still cling to the old habit of waiting until a day or two before Christmas to prepare for it. They would be surprised, doubtless, if they knew how nicely some of their neighbors have solved an old problem that used to cause a lot of vexation. And yet they are as smart as their neighbors, and can do the same thing.

You already know about what you are going to give, and to whom. The very thing you will give is even now to be had at our local stores, or will be in a week or so. Why not go in now, when there isn't a rush as there will be a day or two before Christmas, pick out what you want, or order it if it isn't in stock, make a little down-payment on it and have it laid away until you call for it? Or, better still, pay cash for it, take it home, put it away and have it off your mind. Get several such purchases out of the way this week, and some more next week.

You will be resting easier in both body and mind, and you'll be in better shape to enjoy your own Christmas than you ever were before. Try it this year—start in arrive you'll be silently thanking us for the suggestion.

THE MERRY SHOPPER

The Yuletide this year will be responsible for one of the largest bodies of eager people bent on accumulating Christmas joys for the big and little folks that these United States have known since way back in 1914, when the war clouds had gathered over Europe and the shadows already had begun to cast their sinister reflections upon America.

To this end the holiday may be expected to display much of the old time recognition of its distinctive appeal to the young. Its best celebration is that which gives the foremost thought to the children. It is only when this idea is enlarged and expressed that the season assures its best celebration. The disposition to make the season one for the indulgence of extravagant practices and in dissipations is destructive to the real joy and meaning of the season.

The displays that will greet us from local shop windows will be serving more than a practical or commercial value for shoppers. They re-create to mature minds the grown peoples' chief joy, or should be. No other season so stirs the heart of those who are now the providers of those same joys that were once theirs.

If this spirit is not confined to the mere selfish and narrow limits of those "of our own," but is expressed in making richer and fuller the lives of those who need our help, this Christmas tide will be the happiest and most useful of our lives.

Christmas Cards put up in boxes at $1.00. Regular 15 cent values and a dozen of them in a box, double envelopes one of them lined. Call at News office. 45tf.

BOYS BASKET BALL SCHEDULE 1927-28

ST. JOE

Dec. 23, Mark Center, here.
Dec. 2?, Alumni, here.
Dec. 30, Woodburn, here.
Jan. 6, Mark Center, there.
Jan. 13, Leo, there.
Jan. 20, Waterloo, here.
Jan. 27, County Tourney.
Feb. 3, Spencerville, there.
Feb. 10 Corunna, there.
Feb. 11, Auburn, here.
Feb. 17, Hamilton, there.
Feb. 18, Corunna, here.
Feb. 24, Butler, there.
March 3-4, Sectional Tourney.

GIRLS BASKET BALL

Dec. 23, Mark Center, here.
Dec. 24, Corunna, there.
Dec. 30, Ashley, here.
Jan. 6, Mark Center, there.
Jan. 20, Waterloo, here.
Feb. 18, Corunna, here.

THE CHRISTMAS STORE

Fine selection of Toys and Useful Gifis for your Christmas Exchange. Something for Everybody.

Buy at a Saving

CANDY NUTS FRUITS

SATURDAY SPECIALS:

COFFEE, our 44c brand, per pound	37c
PEACHES, packed in syrup, large cans	19c
PINEAPPLE, broken slices, packed in syrup, large cans	22c
MARSHMALLOW CREAM, pint jars	22c
JELLO, all flavors, 3 for	23c
NUT MEATS, per pound	59c
DROMEDARY DATES, per package	23c
MINCE MEAT, fresh bulk, per pound	25c
APRICOTS, fancy dried, per pound	25c
PRUNES, fancy sunsweet, per pound	15c
DILL PICKLES, fresh and crisp, glass quart jars	23c
MUSTARD, quart glass jars	19c
PEANUT BUTTER, bulk, per pound	19c
RICE, fancy blue rice 3 pounds for	23c
APPLES, No. 2, Johnathans, Bananas, Yorks, per bu.	$1.50

ZONKER'S STORE

Make this Christmas last for thousands of miles

Buick for 1928 combines exquisite beauty with get-away, power and handling ease that have set entirely new performance standards.

Give a Buick for Christmas! Pay on the liberal G. M. A. C. time payment plan, if you prefer.

A Buick for Christmas

BUICK SALES & SERVICE, Auburn.

THE CHAIN OF EVIDENCE

Between the head of wheat and a loaf of wholesome bread would not be complete if it were not for White Velvet Flour. It supplies the great "missing link" which makes this result possible. White Velvet Flour is uniform in quality. It is dependable. This is why it is to your own interest to use it.

St. Joe Milling Co. HERMAN SPRINGER, Sole Owner

ATTENTION of Stock

SHIPPING FARMERS

The general conclusion about the Farmer's Troubles is that he must adopt more economic methods of marketing his products and thus realize more of the profit. One of these services we are able to offer you in the Co-operative shipping of your live stock. You realize the full market value of your stock less the actual cost of shipping. We have our own Producer Commission Association on nearly all terminal markets. We would be glad to handle your live stock for you and can arrange truck service for you if you so desire.

Call our local Manager, Mr. W. H. Bricker, Phone 13 and have a talk with him or Mr. George Hart, Phone 44-21.

THE HICKSVILLE SHIPPERS CO

HICKSVILLE, OHIO

"It Won't Be Long Now"

Watch for OPENING DATE

Court Theatre

AUBURN, INDIANA

WE invite you to see our new Christmas line;
Our Greeting Card stock was never so fine,—
There's Distinction, Quality, and Good Value here
In every card we are offering this year;
And your own special taste we can gratify too,
To carry your Christmas Greetings for you.

SAMPLE CARDS ON DISPLAY HERE

ST. JOE NEWS OFFICE

Near Xmas Time

A few useful suggestions for that Christmas Gift:— Automobile Robes, Plush Robes, Aluminum Roasters, Percolators, Sauce Pan Sets, Dish Pans, Etc. A new line of Pyrex Ware in the various sizes and styles.

Princess Electric Irons, $6 Value

ESPECIALLY PRICED at..... $3.75 Just a few left Fully guarantd

Coaster Wagons, Roller bearing, Disc wheels, Balloon tires; and Coaster Sleds in different sizes. Sunbeam Orbinet Heaters, Florence Automatic Oil Stoves, and hundreds of USEFUL GINTS.

Don't fail to see the NEW A-C DAYTON, All-ELECTRIC CONSOLE RADIO AT OUR STORE

Wm. CURIE,

DECEMBER

L 915 0656

SPENCERVILLE

Daily papers at News office and magazines galore.

Pure, fresh ground buckwheat lour. St. Joe Milling Co.

The C. C. Club will meet on Friday afternon with Mrs. Floyd Dean.

This is the time—our store, the place—prices right. Geddes Drug Store, Butler. 50t2.

Miss Minnie Walker was a recent supper guest of Miss Bina Zimmerman.

Mr. and Mrs. Joel Betz spent Thursday at the home of Edward Billman and wife.

Mrs. B. O. Shook has returned from Cincinnati, Ohio, where she visited her son, Hubert.

Christmas carols will be sung every night next week at the Community Christmas Tree.

The Coburntown Ladies Aid met on Thursday with Mrs. Myra Conine in an all day meeting.

A short Christmas Missionary play will be given on next Sunday morning at the Methodist Church.

Delos White and family and Mrs. Nancy Chaney of Auburn, spent Sunday at the Milton Chaney home.

Mrs. Charles Brattian entertained Saturday afternoon in honor of her daughter, Dorothy's, eleventh birthday.

Dr. Baumgartner and Mrs. Pauline Jordan of St. Joe, spent Sunday with the former's parents at Berne, Indiana.

The Home Bureau Club met on Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. Winnie Shook. A Christmas exchange was enjoyed.

Mr. and Mrs. William Allen and David Updike, were at Auburn last week visiting Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Randall and family.

A large number of young people assisted Miss Venus Beerbower in celebrating her twenty-first birthday anniversary at her home Saturday evening.

Engle McNamara of Kendallville and Clay McNamara and wife of Fort Wayne, were Sunday guests of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McNamara.

Mr. and Mrs. Eck Hursh and son Woodrow, were Sunday guests in the Matilda Oberholtzer home near Harlan. Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Markle and family were afternoon guests in the same home.

Walter Schenbeckler and family of Columbia City, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Vaugh and son of South Milford, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Junk and family of Fort Wayne, were recent guests of Rev. Brown and family.

The Young Ladies Social Club and friends were entertained on Wednesday evening at the home of Miss Gaylon Markle. Special honors were received by Miss Bina Zimmerman, Mrs. Cleo Reed, Miss Virginia Goldsmith, Howard Beams, James Reed and Albert Chancey.

R. U. Bowser recently purchased the Milton and Reason Chaney, Allen County farm, consisting of 80 acres south of town. This is the third farm the Chaney Brothers have recently sold. Mr. Bowser has planned to make improvements this winter to make it an ideal stock farm.

The following Sunday School classes of the Methodist Church met last week and elected their officers as follows: Live Wire class: Teacher, M. H. Howey; Assistant, Charles Wittacre; President, Miss Venus Beerbower; Vice president, Urcil Steward; Sec.-Treas., Janice Wade; Assistant, Virgil Koch. Rayo class met at the home of Mrs. Beyrl Brown on Friday: Teacher, Sol Goldsmith; President, Mrs. Audra Wade; Vice president, Lena Zimmerman; Sec.-Treas., Hazel Steward and the Cheerful Workers met at the home of Mrs. John Timmerman on Friday, with the following result: President, Mrs. Ida Hahn; Vice president, Mrs. Winnie Shook; Secretary, Mrs. Minta Rhodes; Treasurer, Mrs. Ethel Bowser; Teacher, Mrs. Minnie High; Assistant, Mrs. Cora Steward.

With the Churches

ST. JOE M. P. CHURCH

Mrs. Hattie Widney, Supt.
Sunday School, 9:30 A. M.
Preaching service 7:00 o'clock.
Christian Endeavor, 6:00 P. M.

Chilren's Story Telling hour 1 o'clock Saturday.

CONCORD M. P. CHURCH

George Johnson, Supt.
Sunday school 9:30 A. M.
Preaching, 10:30.
Christian Endeavor, 6:30.
J. F. McKnight, Pastor.

EVANGELICAL LUTHERAN CHURCHES

"There was no room for them at the inn." Luke 2:7.

When Christ came to the world, his own world, there was no room for him. This is but the beginning of what was to continue right thru. As in his life, so since—no room, no room.

There is no room for him in our business.

There is no room for Christ in our pleasures.

Comparatively little room for Him in our conversation.

Little or no room for Him accorded in our literature.

No room for Christ in our party politics.

No room for Him in many of our homes.

There is an effort in certain quarters to crowd Christ out of theology and religion.

In many of our churches there is hardly any room for Christ. The platforms of certain churches even reject Christ in rejecting his teachings as compiled in the Apostolic Creed of the early Christian Church.

Is there room for Christ in your heart and life?

He is standing at the door, knocking.

We preach Christ and Him crucified. No other teaching will give full satisfaction, rest and peace of mind and soul. "God so loved the world, that he gave his only begotten Son that whosoever believeth in him should not perish but have eternal life."

ST. JOE

Sabbath Bible School at 9:30 A. M., Mr. Derwood Ridgway, Superintendent.

Preaching service, 10:30.

SPENCERVILLE

Sabbath Bible School at 9:15 A. M., Mr. Ray Means, Superintendent.

Sermon, 7:00 P. M.

You are welcome to our services a glad hand is extended to you.

P. B. Roediger, Pastor.

CHURCH OF CHRIST

"The devil can run a mile while some people are cranking up."

ST. JOE

Ed Storer, Supt.
Bible School, 9:30 A. M.
Lord's Supper, 10:45 A. M.
Sermon, 7:00 P. M.

Good attendance at all services last Sunday. Fine group of folks to hear the sermon. Thank you.

NEWVILLE

Frank Lyons, Superintendent
Bible School, 10:00 A. M., sun time.

Lord's Supper, 11:00 A. M., sun time.

Sermon, 11:15 A. M. sun time.

Splendid Bible School last Sunday. Let's have 125 in the school next Sunday.

S. R. Aldrich, Pastor.

PHONE 290

Stanley P. Nelson Monuments

Opposite Woodlawn and Roselawn Cemeteries

AUBURN, IND.

Dr. E. T. Julian St. JOE

10 to 11:30 each forenoon. at Dr. C. R. Price office.

Russel R. Reidenour

ATTORNEY

Auburn, Ind.

Methodist Episcopal Church Spencerville

Sunday School, 9:00 A. M.—John Koch, Superintendent.
Epworth League, 6:00 P. M.

Kiddies Write to Santa

St. Joe Ind Dec 12 1927

My Dear Old Santa are you coming to St. Joe this year if you do come to my house I live just north of the B and O Depoe in my Grand pa house I em a little Girl 3 years Old I want a big Dolly little table Big Rubber ball tin dishes and red slead Oh say bring some candy for my Dog Bingo we have no radio so you can come down the chimney well goodby from your little Girl Candac Mae Loftus

St Joe Ind

St. Joe, Ind.,
Dec. 11, 1927

Dear Santa Claus:
My name is Flornce Ruth Donley.

Christmas soon well be here and I want a little stove and a little pocket book and a box of candy a Dolly & a Dolly cart.

I am 5 years old Well Santa dont fore get me
your Friend
Flornce Ruth Donley

Dec. 11, 1927.,

Dear Santa Claus:
My name is Zelma Mae Donley Christmas soon well be here and I want a pair of beads and a doll & a Dolly cart. a Box of candy and a Pocket book. and a pair of slippers I am 4 years old
Well Santa dont foreget me
your Friend
Zelma Mae Donley

St. Joe, Ind

Dear Santa.

I am a little boy seven years old. I would like to have a Type Writer, A tractor and a plow Some candy oranges and nuts Bring my little borother a red ball blocks, Taylor Tot and orange

We live three miles north of St. Joe.

James and William Monroe.

Dear Santa:

I want a horn, drum and a pair of house slippers.

I did say when I was mad that I was going to chop your head off, but, Oh, I am sorry and didn't mean it at all. Forgive me, Santa Claus——

Bobbie Curie

Dear Santa:

I want a ship, a blackboard and tinker-toys also a horn—mamma says I must not ask for any more because you will think I am a pig.

So good-bye—
Junior Curie

Auburn, Ind.
403 Ensley Ave.,
Dec. 12, 1927

Dear Santa:—
For Christmas I would like to have a big high truck, a train on a track, a drum and some oranges and candy. Will you please leave these for me? Thank you.
Yours truly,
Robert Boyd Quance.

Auburn, Ind.
403 Ensley Ave.,
Dec. 12, 1927

Dear Santa:—
I would like to have for Christmas, a big high truck like brothers, a bear, drum and too-too train and some oranges and candy. Thank you. Yours truly
Raymond Paul Quance.

Politeness is the zero mark of love's thermometer.

A wise man never gives advice until he is asked for it.

A clock keeps right on working when it goes on a strike; that's where it gets the bulge on a man.

ST. JOE JUNIOR CLASS PLAY!

"Love A La Carte"

A FARCE THREE ACTS AT THE CONCORD TOWNSHIP COMMUNITY BUILDING

Thurs. Eve., DEC. 22, at 8.

CAST OF CHARACTERS

COOKIE, Culinary Artist and Diplomat ..... Martha Woodcox
HORACE HUFF, Explorer ..... Frank Miser
HANNAH HUFF, His Wife, also an Explor.... Thelma Poper
JACK, Young Mr. Huff, Their Son ..... Victor Coburn
JILL, Pretty Miss Huff, their daughter ..... Eloise Bowman
MARJORIE MANSFIELD, A Lovable Girl ... Janice Ridgway
BILLY BOXFORD, A Likeable Boy ..... Marcellean Curie
Tillie Tickle, Mrs. Huff brought her from Iceland.. Inez Kinsey
Tommie Taddy, Mr. Huff brought him from Ecuador..... Rosalie Warford

SYNOPSIS
ACT 1 IN THE MERRY MONTH OF MAY
ACT 2 WHAT IS SO RARE AS A DAY IN JUNE?
ACT 3 ? ? ? ? ? ? ? ! ! ! ! !

FURNITURE Furnished Through Courtesy of E. R. KINSEY

ADMISSION 15 and 25 CENTS COME!

A Xmas Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. Santa Clause announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Mary Christmas to Mr. I. Deale Gift, at the Hunsicker's 5 and 10 cent Store, Butler, Indiana, the Rev. Dr. Goode Judgment, officiating at the ceremony. Miss Vera High Quality as bridesmaid, attended the bride and Mr. A. Lowe Price as best man, attended the groom.

At home December 14 to 24th at the Hunsicker 5 and 10 cent Store, Butler, Indiana.

BELOW ARE A FEW OF OUR SPECIALS FOR SATURDAY:

FRESH SALTED PEANUTS, per pound..... 10c
Fresh Chocolate Cream Drops, per pound 15c..... 2lb for 25c
Fancy Mixed Candies, per pound 9c..... 3lb for 25c
Fancy Cut Rock Candy, per pound 15c..... 2lb for 25c
New Crop Paper Shelled English Walnuts..... 25c

Hunsicker's 5-10c Store

BUTLER, INDIANA

SUNDAY SCHOOL REPORTS

The following is the report of Sunday schools in this vicinity for last Sunday, according to information sent The News by representatives of the schools reported.

M. P.	43	$10.77
Coburntown	60	$2.37
Spencerville M. E.	58	$9.70
Lutheran	64	$3.13

LITTLE HOUSEHOLD HINTS

In boilingfish, add lemon juice to the water; this helps to keep it whole and thus preserves flavor and nutriment.

Incidentally, a few drops of lemon juice in the water in which old potatoes are cooking will keep them from discoloring, or a few drops in the food chopper before grinding sticky fruits, such as figs, raisins or dates, will make the grinder easier to clean and keep the food from sticking to the utensil.

If the mica on your stove needs cleaning, try a solution of vinegar and water.

Is your carpet faded? Try wiping it off with a damp cloth that has been wrung from a strong solution of salt and water. Then sprinkle moistened salt over the carpet and give it a good cleaning.

Give some people half a chance and they will take the other half.

When a man is down his enemies stop kicking him and his friends begin.

Perhaps some people talk to themselves because they find it impossible to interest any one else.

DR. C. R. BAUMGARTNER
Veterinarian

Spencerville, Ind.

PHONES: 282--283.

The Christmas Store

9 MORE SHOPPING DAYS TILL CHRISTMAS

Visit our Store and we will help you solve the Christmas Gift Problem

As heretofore we have purchased a splendid variety of useful merchandise that will please the whole family and help to make Christmas joyful, happy and merry. We here mention some of the items that are suggestions:

Jewelry, Watches, Silverware, Cut Glass, Fine Assortment Clocks, Big Line of Christmas Decorations, Electric Lamps, Electrical Goods, Bibles, Fountain Pens, Stationery, Toilet Waters, Men's and Ladies' Purses, Brownie Cameras, Safety Razors.

Holiday Box Cigars 50 cents to $2.25, Fine Assortment of Pipes, Cigar and Cigarette Cases, Thermos Bottles and Jugs, Christmas Greetings 1 cent to 25 cents, Toilet Sets, Manicure Sets, Books, Perfumes, Gold Pencils, Leather Goods, Eastman Kodaks.

Geddis' Drug Store

THE REXALL STORE

Open Evenings BUTLER, INDIANA

Service to All

It is the purpose of this bank to help as many people as possible. Whether your problem be large or small, if we can be of service, we want you to know that we

Welcome
You

Farmers' & Merchants State Bank

Spencerville, Ind.

DECEMBER

L 915 U657

SWEATER ENSEMBLE COSTUMES

By JULIA BOTTOMLEY

IF IT is a three-piece sports or street costume, then depend upon it, one of the three pieces is almost certain to be a slip-on sweater, for sweater ensembles are "the talk of the town" this season.

The smart thing about these modish sweater outfits is the fact of the sweater being so closely related to the skirt and coat or cape, if you will have it so, both in matter of coloring and design until the ensemble forms a perfect unit. For instance, many a tweed suit is accompanied by a knitted pullover, which repeats the tweed patterning of the cloth, as well as its exact colors.

It makes it all the more fascinating that the colors which appear in the sweater ensemble suits are delightfully autumn-like. Some have the warmth and glow of ruddy winter reds ranging from wine tones to scarlet, these interworked with neutral tones or metallic effects. All the new browns and various beige tones show forth at their best in these swagger knitted and cloth suits.

Speaking of the metallic note as introduced into sportswear, when used discreetly, it adds decided tone to the scheme. Sweaters in brown and beige and wine or dark green and especially dull rose shades which have threads of gold interworked are the "classy" thing today.

While this is very much of a tweed season, as far as the cloth part of the sports ensemble is concerned, it is also very much of a kasha season. These two outstanding materials, however, do not entirely usurp the field for homespun, flannel and velveteen, especially the latter, all play important roles in the world of sports fashions.

There is an interesting point about the sports costume which one of America's screen favorites, Norma Shearer, is wearing in this picture, and that is that it is collarless. This simple neckline is intentional on the part of the designer, as latest vogue calls for the collarless type so as to better accommodate a separate fur neck piece for scarfs of beige or silver or platinum or pointed fox are quite the rage with the winter cloth ensembles. The sweater accents wave stripes of warm rich tones against a beige background which accurately repeats the beige of the kasha which is employed for this skirt and coat.

(©, 1927, Western Newspaper Union.)

OATMEAL MUFFINS AFFORD PLEASING BREAKFAST DISH

If you put the oatmeal into the muffins instead of serving it for a cereal, the family will have a pleasant surprise and the monotony of having breakfast always patterned in one way will be agreeably broken. The butter needed to spread the muffins will correspond more or less to the cream that might have been used on the oatmeal, so urge everyone to eat the muffins liberally, and provide plenty of them, for they will be popular. The bureau of home economics furnishes the recipe:

Oatmeal Muffins.

1 cup wheat flour
1½ cups rolled oats
4 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup milk
1 egg
1 tablespoon melted butter

Grind the rolled oats through the fine knife of the meat grinder, thus making a fine meal. Combine the dry ingredients. Beat the eggs and add the milk. Mix the dry and the liquid ingredients together and stir in the melted butter. Pour the batter into greased muffin tins and bake for 20 to 25 minutes in a fairly hot oven.

Story for Children

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

Mr. Rooster crowed ahead of time.

"Well," said Pinky Pig, "why are you waking us up at this hour? That is what I'd like to know."

"Because it's a day they call Christmas," said Mr. Rooster.

"Well," grunted Pinky Pig again, "why does a day that is named Christmas mean anything more to us than any other day?

"Of course winter is different from summer."

"Oh, is it, indeed?" chuckled Mrs Hen, "how extremely bright of you, Pinky?"

"Now, don't be rude," said Pinky.

"You don't know much more your self."

"Yes, I do," said Mrs. Hen, "I know when the sun shines and when it rains.

"There is a great deal of difference in days."

"But still," said the goat, "Mr.

"Don't Be Rude," Said Pinky.

Rooster hasn't told us about Christmas."

"It's a day when all the world gets up early," said Mr. Rooster.

"And what have we to do with the world?" asked the little chickens.

"We care for the barnyard—not for the world."

"But the world cares for the barnyards," said Mr. Rooster.

"Nonsense," said Pinky Pig. "Only tell us your reason for waking us up."

"Because of Christmas morning the farmer feels so happy, and the children feel so happy that they give us an extra breakfast."

"Oh," said Pinky Pig, squealing happily, "now that is different, quite different."

"You see," continued Mr. Rooster, "an old man by the name of Santa Claus calls on the children and fills their stockings."

"What has that to do with us?" said Mrs. Cow. "We don't wear stockings—we don't even own them—so that wouldn't help us."

"But," said Mr. Rooster, "they are so pleased at getting so many goodies themselves that they give us some."

"I wonder if that is so," said Pinky Pig.

But before they had talked much more the farmer came out with the grain and seed for their breakfast.

And he gave them some special food, and such good things to eat that they knew it must be because it was Christmas day—some very particular sort of a day when everybody was kind and gave presents.

"Merry Christmas, animals," said the farmer, as he showered their pens and stalls and homes with a fine breakfast.

The animals were delighted!

Pinky Pig tried to squeal "A Merry Christmas," the rooster crowed his delight, the cows gave a moo, and the noise in the barnyard meant they were all enjoying Christmas morning!

(©, 1927, Western Newspaper Union.)

Recipe for Tasty Devil's Food Cake

Something Every Housewife Likes to Have on Hand.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Every woman likes to have a good recipe on hand for making devil's food cake. It is a matter of conjecture whether this cake is so named because of the contrast of its dark brown color to snowy white "angel food" or because it frequently turned out to be quite reddish in color. The bureau of home economics, however, says the red color is due to using too much soda when the devil's food is made with sour milk, and as overuse of soda is not desirable, this ingredient should be carefully measured.

Devil's Food Cake.

½ cup butter
1 cup sugar
2 eggs (1 white saved for icing)
1 cup milk
2 squares chocolate, melted
1¾ cups flour (soft wheat)
2 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon vanilla
¼ teaspoon salt

Cream the butter and the sugar and add the well-beaten eggs and mix well. Sift the dry ingredients and add to the first mixture alternately with the milk. Add the chocolate, which has been melted over steam, and the vanilla and beat until well mixed with the batter. Bake in a greased pan in a sheet for 35 minutes at a temperature between 300 and 325 degrees Fahrenheit. Cover tightly with powdered sugar and serve. Or if preferred, bake the cake in two layers and make a vanilla icing.

In this cake mixture sour milk can be used in place of the sweet milk. In that case dissolve one-half teaspoonful of soda in one teaspoonful of water and add at the same time with the sour milk. The chocolate can also be increased by one square if one likes a strong chocolate flavor.

Let Oak cover the old worn floors. Full directions for laying, sanding and finishing on request.

OAK floors add value to your home

They tone up every room, and make the house modern. Economical, permanent, beautiful. Save housework. Write for free descriptive literature.

OAK FLOORING BUREAU
1395 Builders' Building CHICAGO

Forbidden to Trim Beard

A history of the rise and fall of the beard would make interesting reading. Perhaps the first reference to such facial adornments is to be found in Leviticus, in which Moses gives the command, "Thou shalt not mar the corners of thy beard." In nearly all oriental lands in ancient times the beard was treasured and held in great respect.

Shocked

"What did your husband think of your new frock?"

"My dear, he clapped his hands—"

"Splendid!"

"Over his eyes!"

That Cold

May End in Flu Check it Today

There's a way to do it—HILL'S. Does the four necessary things in one. Stops the cold in twenty-four hours, checks the fever, opens the bowels, tones the entire system. That's the aid you need. Don't be satisfied with anything less. Go right now and get HILL'S, in the red box, 30c.

Hill's Stops Colds

HILL'S
Cascara—Bromide—Quinine

Garfield Tea

Was Your Grandmother's Remedy

For every stomach and intestinal ill. This good old-fashioned herb home remedy for constipation, stomach ills and other derangements of the system so prevalent these days is in even greater favor as a family medicine than in your grandmother's day.

Keep Stomach and Bowels Right

By giving baby the harmless, purely vegetable, infants' and children's regulator.

MRS. WINSLOW'S SYRUP

brings astonishing, gratifying results in making baby's stomach digest food and bowels move as they should at teething time. Guaranteed free from narcotics, opiates, alcohol and all harmful ingredients. Safe and satisfactory.

At All Druggists

FROZEN FEET

After the first measures for frozen feet, fingers or ears Carboil is the ideal treatment. Its medicinal oils and antiseptic chemicals sooth the tissues, allay soreness and help to prevent complications.

A 50-cent box from your druggist is all that is required.

Your money back if it fails to satisfy.
SPURLOCK-NEAL CO., Nashville, Tenn.

Foods That We Like

By NELLIE MAXWELL

Just what is a tonic? It is not necessarily something in a tall black bottle that tastes unpleasant. It is anything which imparts vigor, increases vim and "pep" and makes one feel better. A spring tonic has seemed necessary to tone one up in the spring, but why wait? Now is the time to take daily outdoor exercise, sleep in a well-ventilated room, and eat the kind of food that will bring one up to spring with the maximum health and enthusiasm.

So many home workers will say: "I am just too tired to get out and walk." Well, that tired feeling is often a poison which a walk taken briskly in the fresh air will dispel and you will return rested and refreshed.

With the proper care of the body, frequent baths, restful sleep and proper outdoor exercise, the diet should come under our consideration. Diet is most important in the fall and winter regime. It is too easy to hug the fire and evade outdoor exercise. Our winter foods are heavier and heartier; more care should be given to the food, using fruits and vegetables freely with as much of green food as it is possible to use.

Fresh lettuce is in most markets not unreasonable in price. The leaf lettuce is more valuable as a vitamine giver than the bleached head lettuce. Eat all such greens freely; if possible have a green salad once a day. Canned spinach is good and serves very well as a substitute for the fresh, but it lacks some of the vitamines present in the fresh spinach.

Canned vegetables are very good food and with the modern improved canning methods, every farmer's wife should have a full closet of green foods canned when they are at their best.

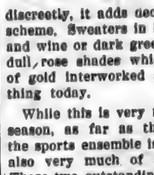
Unless children are given the proper food during the years of tooth building they will not have sound strong teeth and no matter how faithfully they are scrubbed, decay will get them before they reach even middle age.

For building sound teeth and bones, children need from their infancy a diet rich in calcium and mineral salts. Good milk supplies these materials and it should be a regular daily food through the entire childhood and until the last permanent tooth is cut.

Whole wheat, bran, graham and rye in breads should be given the children instead of white flour. Toast, zwieback and crusts are recommended, as they must be chewed vigorously and this exercise is needed for healthy gums and teeth. The average child must be forced to eat certain vegetables, preferring potato and gravy with meat. Vegetables should be eaten every day—carrots, cabbage, rutabagas, spinach, lettuce and cress as well as all other vegetables in season. They contain the valuable substance called vitamines which build up the body and the mineral matter in such foods supplies the teeth and bones. Another important food which should be given daily is fruit. Apples are one of the best, oranges, grapefruit—grapes when in season are known to be highly important.

Food That Is Different.

Here is Queen Victoria's favorite soup and it is good enough for anybody:



Chicken Soup.—Chop one cupful of roast chicken, to it add one pint of chicken broth, one cupful of sweet cream, salt and pepper to taste and just before serving add the riced yolks of three hard-cooked eggs.

English Date Pie.—Beat two eggs, add three-fourths of a cupful of sugar, one-half teaspoonful of salt, one teaspoonful of cinnamon, one-fourth teaspoonful each of nutmeg, allspice and cloves, one cupful of sour cream, one tablespoonful of fine bread crumbs, one cupful of dates cut into pieces and one-half cupful of coconut. Bake in one crust, using the coconut for the top.

Bechamel Sauce.—Melt two tablespoonfuls of butter, add three tablespoonful of flour, one-fourth teaspoonful of salt, a few grains of pepper, one-half cupful of chicken stock well seasoned and one-half cupful of thin cream. Stir and cook until smooth and well cooked.

(©, 1927, Western Newspaper Union.)

Cranberry Dishes Are Liked by Everybdy

Cranberries are in season a good part of the fall and winter, and they have many delicious uses besides being made into sauce and jelly to serve with the turkey. One of the nicest desserts made of cranberries is a pie—made as directed below by the bureau of home economics:

1 quart cranberries
2 tablespoons butter
½ teaspoon salt
½ to 2 cups sugar
Pastry
½ cup water

Select firm berries and wash them well, rejecting all that are withered. Prepare a sirup of the sugar, water and salt, and when the sugar is dissolved add the fruit and cook for five to eight minutes, until the berries have a glazed look. Add the butter and cool. Line a pie tin with pastry, pour in the cranberries. Place on the upper crust after moistening the lower rim and press the edges together to hold in the juices. Cut a slit to allow the steam to escape. Bake until the crust is golden brown.

School lunches should include some raw vegetables.

Barouni Olive Adapted for Pickling When Ripe

Olives as familiar to the American table are usually the green olives pickled whole or with pits removed and stuffed. In the Mediterranean countries it is customary to use the ripened fruit cured in salt, which forms a staple part of the daily diet of the workers. The ripe olive cured in salt is only rarely used here. The United States Department of Agriculture has introduced a new variety called the Barouni olive, specially adapted for pickling ripe, which is a native of north Africa, and an original stock of three trees has expanded until there are now orchards of about 100 acres total area in California.

The department has recently published in pamphlet form an account of Barouni olive introduction as Separate No. 947-F from the 1926 Yearbook of Agriculture, which reports that "methods of processing and canning the ripe fruit have been developed which have resulted in a product greatly relished by many who have become familiar with it."

The Barouni olives yield heavily. In the government's plant introduction garden in California an eleven-year-old tree produced 328 pounds of fruit.

HINTS FOR HOUSEWIVES

Soft colors in clothes are like soft answers in the soothing effect they produce.

• • •

Put a cupful of raisins in the next batch of bread and see how the family takes to it.

• • •

An ironing board is made twice as useful if a turkish towel is pinned at one end to use when ironing over embroidery work and buttons.

• • •

In making buttermilk or sour milk doughnuts, the grain will be much finer if the soda is mixed with the flour instead of with the buttermilk.

• • •

Regular mid-morning and mid-afternoon lunches of bread and milk or fruit for the youngsters who get hungry are better than irregular snatches at any hour.

Orange Drop Cakes Are Wholesome, Easily Made

Children will like these wholesome, easily made drop cakes flavored with orange. Make them occasionally so as to have them fresh for the school lunch boxes. The bureau of home economics furnishes the recipe.

Orange Drop Cakes.

2 cups flour
1 cup sugar
4 tablespoons butter
¼ teaspoon salt
4 tablespoons orange juice
2 eggs
4 teaspoons baking powder
3 tablespoons grated orange rind

Cream together the grated rind of the orange and the butter. Gradually beat in the sugar, the beaten eggs and the orange juice. Add the flour and baking powder, which have been mixed together. Drop the batter by teaspoonfuls onto a greased baking sheet or an inverted pan, and bake in a quick oven.

For Home Dressmakers

The United States bureau of home economics has made a valuable contribution to the fitting problems of the home sewer, by assembling information needed when one works with the patterns now available. If a woman understands what should be the main lines of a well-fitted garment, the methods of correcting common defects in each part of a garment, and the ordinary mistakes that should be avoided, she can either make her own clothes or alter those bought ready made with greater confidence. This information will be furnished to anyone who makes application for it to the bureau at Washington.

Conveniences for Kitchen

Modern Sink Placed at Height Convenient for Housewife—Tea Wagon Made by Her and Her Husband, Gloucester County, New Jersey.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Here's a New Jersey farm kitchen which has all the conveniences of a city home and some of the advantages of a country house, too. The very modern porcelain sink has been properly placed at a height from the floor convenient for the woman who is likely to do most of the work at it. The sink has a drain board of its own and there is a little extra shelf at the side for better handling of the dishes as they are washed. Soiled dishes are brought from the table on the tea wagon, which was made by the woman and her husband. A high stool, which is on casters, like the tea wagon, enables the housewife to sit down while washing dishes if she wishes to. Under the handy shelf above the sink all the small miscellaneous utensils in constant use are hung as soon as they are washed. A drain basket is used to eliminate some of the wiping with a towel, since dishes may be placed in the basket and drenched with scalding hot water, then left to dry.

Suggestions for improving this kitchen were made by the Gloucester county home demonstration agent. It may be noted also that the floor is covered with linoleum so as to be easily kept clean.

Relieve That Lazy, Worn Out, Half Dead Look

Don't Wait Another Minute

You can do wonders with your appearance. Bright eyes, cheery smile, clear complexion, snappy steps, all indicate vigorous men and women.

Your trouble may be Constipation—poisons from waste matter in the intestines circulate in the blood through your system.

Sick Headache, Biliousness, Indigestion, Drowsiness, Poor Appetite and sallow complexion generally follow.

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS

is a vegetable laxative, moves the bowels gently, no pain, and do not contain Calomel, Mercury or habit forming drugs.

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS

are small, easy to swallow and if taken daily as a regulator will promote good health.

Try them to-night—to-morrow refreshed. 25c. and 75c. red pkgs.

Hanford's Balsam of Myrrh

A Healing Antiseptic

Money back for first bottle if not suited. All dealers.

SOFT BUNCH OR BRUISE

on ankle, hock, stifle, knee, or throat is cleaned off promptly by Absorbine without laying up horse. No blister; no pain; no hair gone. At druggists, or $2.50 postpaid. Describe your case for special instructions. Valuable horse book 8-S free.

A satisfied user says: "Colt's knee swollen four to five times normal size. Broke and ran for two weeks. Now almost well. Absorbine is sure great."

ABSORBINE

W. F. YOUNG, Inc. 510 Lyman St., Springfield, Mass.

High Blood Pressure, Headache

Dizziness primary symptoms. Cheap preventive and home remedy discovery. Write for particulars. DR. BURR, Norwood Park, P. O., Illinois

DECEMBER

L 915 U658

Genuine BAYER ASPIRIN

SAY "BAYER ASPIRIN" and INSIST!

Unless you see the "Bayer Cross" on tablets you are not getting the genuine Bayer Aspirin proved safe by millions and prescribed by physicians for 25 years.

DOES NOT AFFECT THE HEART

Safe — Accept only "Bayer" package which contains proven directions.

Handy "Bayer" boxes of 12 tablets
Also bottles of 24 and 100—Druggists.

Aspirin is the trade mark of Bayer Manufacture of Monoaceticacidester of Salicylicacid

THE HAT WAS SENT ON APPROVAL

(© by D. J. Walsh.)

LILLA BENNETT'S eyes danced as she read the invitation. A luncheon at Mrs. Wales'! At last she would have something interesting to write home. Her brother Tom's wife should see that she was making good socially in Bergmont.

The invitation informally requested an answer by telephone and Lilla ran out to the corner drug store and dropped a nickel into the slot for that purpose. Her acceptance was marked by restraint; she needn't let Mrs. Wales think she was not used to such things. But her voice bearing the carefully selected words fairly boomed over the wire. The rather emotionless woman who received this joyous voice in her ear smiled faintly, recognizing youth and spontaneity. The wife of her husband's young secretary was a dear, it seemed.

Home Lilla flew, taking peeps at her wrist watch along the way and computing time. The luncheon was today at 1 o'clock; it was now 9:30. Burt did not come home to lunch so she was entirely free in that respect.

She met Mrs. Potter who lived in the apartment above. Mrs. Potter had a market basket. She scrimped dreadfully, although her husband earned quite as good salary as did Burt. Lilla, pretty and chic, looked at the other young woman's morning shabbiness with amusement.

"I've got to hurry home and get ready to go to a luncheon at Mrs. Wales'," she boasted.

"How nice!" Helen Potter looked wistful. Then she laughed. "And I've got to hurry and get my soup greens on or I won't have any lunch for my hubby."

"He comes home to lunch, doesn't he? What a bore!"

"It's better for him and then he's only out carfare, which is cheaper than paying for inferior food downtown," Helen replied and walked on with dignity.

"Always prating economy! I hate it," Lilla told herself as she unlocked her own door. "Let's see! I'll wear my dark blue velvet. But I ought to have a new hat. The styles are all in. I saw them yesterday at Marcy's. There was a love of a black lacy thing—I wish I had it this minute. I wonder—I wonder if I could have them send it round in time for the luncheon! Oh, what a bother not to have a telephone! I've got to go back to the corner drug store."

It was only a step and she was there in five minutes. Another nickel deposited. She called the store and got Miss Serge whom she knew slightly through former purchases.

"Miss Serge, this is Mrs. Burton Bennett speaking—Oh, yes! Of course you do—Mrs. William Hudson Wales has asked me to her luncheon today at one and I'd like to see that hat I was looking at yesterday—the black lace one with the glycerined plume—could you send it up?—right away?—Oh, on approval of course!—Thank you, Miss Serge."

Triumphantly flushed her face was again as she sped homeward.

The hat arrived within an hour. As she took it out of the box she received a shock of surprise. For this was not the modest reproduction at a reasonable price—this was the French model itself, a charming thing proportionately costly. The price tag was for sixty-five dollars.

Lilla struggled with temptation. It was, too late to make a change now. Why shouldn't she wear it? It would only be for an hour, anyway. Women often did such things and no harm came of it. Oh, the hat was adorable! And she looked lovely in it! The brim had just the right slant for her piquant face. She wished to make a good impression, indeed, it was necessary that she do so, and this hat could not fail her.

"I'll wear it!" Lilla decided. "It isn't wicked at all. Besides, it isn't as if I weren't perfectly responsible."

At 12:30 she came out of the house and began walking rapidly in the direction of Mrs. Wales' house. It was a brilliant day and many people were out. Glances of admiration were flashed at Lilla in her charming apparel. By the time she reached the heavily respectable Wales door she was quite in love with herself and assured of a good time.

The luncheon was informal and quite gay. Half a dozen women who gathered about the table were all older than Lilla with the exception of one—Mrs. Chambers, whose husband was also in Mr. Wales' employ. Lilla, stimulated by her appearance, was more than ordinarily pleasing and she could see that she won the approval of her hostess.

As they came out Mrs. Chambers linked arms in the friendliest fashion with Lilla.

"You are not going right home?" she said. "Let's step into the matinee. I've two tickets. The friend who was going with me backed out. Please come."

This was an added pleasure. Lilla, putting aside all thoughts of her hat, went.

When two hours later they emerged from the theater they found that the brilliant day had given place to a tearing gale with a heavy rainstorm accompaniment. And they had no umbrella. Neither was there a cab in sight.

"Let's stay here and wait till it stops," Lilla begged.

"No, I've got to go home," Mrs. Chambers answered. "There's a drug store a few doors up. We'll go there and I'll telephone for a cab. We shall keep dry by walking close to the buildings."

They had proceeded scarcely ten steps a wing of the gale brushed them in passing. Mrs. Chambers' small hat escaped, but Lilla's wide one was snatched from her head. It volplaned streetward and a passing truck put an end to it.

Lilla, white as ashes, saw the disaster with staring eyes.

"What a shame!" was all her companion said.

The taxi, which Lilla paid for, left her at her own door. As she entered Burt arose from the depths of the davenport.

"Where's your hat?" he exclaimed.

Lilla burst into tears.

Of course she told him; she always told him ultimately, everything. He listened gravely.

"Sixty-five dollars, eh?" he said at last. "Well, that's quite a lot to pay for a hat. But—I guess I've got the money here."

Lilla's heart bled as she saw him counting out those precious bills one after the other. They came hard, but after all they cost him less than they did her. She resolved to save until she had that $65 back, every penny of it. Helen Potter wasn't such a fool after all. Economy was a good thing to practice. And then, never again would she have anything sent home on approval.

"It served me right," she sobbed against Burt's shoulder. He patted her tenderly.

But he sighed.

Discovery of Butter Credited to Accident

Credit for the origin of butter is given to the camel of Arabia in a romantic history of the cow—"The Fath of the Gopatis" (Lord of the Cows), issued by the National Dairy council.

"The Arabians first knew butter as an accident when carrying milk by camel," says this authority. "It was necessary for them to sour their milk to preserve it, as there were no refrigerators on the desert. The sour milk was stored in skin bags, which could be slung across the back of the camels. One day on opening a skin they found floating around in the liquid lumps of something soft, but solid. They tasted it and found it delicious. They rubbed it upon their faces and marveled at how beautiful it made them.

"Later they hit upon an idea of making this delicacy. They tied some of the skin sacks of milk to the backs of their fastest horses and rode them at top speed, back and forth, up and down the sands of the desert. That was the first butter ever made, more than 2,500 years before Christ. But it was an expensive and dangerous process to run the tribe's best horses at breakneck speed, and butter then was only used as a rare ointment and in the choicest foods for the most special occasions. Finally, they discovered a more prosaic, but less precarious means of attaining the same result. They laid the leathern sacks upon the ground or hung them on poles and beat them with sticks. Thus they had a supply of butter which was reasonably easy to prepare."

In the land pastures of central Asia the word for "king" and "warrior chief" was gopatis, but what gopatis really meant was "Lord of the Cows," who also must be king and warrior, since the possession and protection of cows were "the most weighty and honorable duties" of man in that region. The people of the Gopatis were the Aryans, the first masters of the cows. To them the possession of cattle meant health, happiness and wealth. It was considered a crime to kill a cow and the penalty was made to fit the crime. It was that "the killer of a cow must stay a month in penitence, sleeping in a stable, following the cows, and must purify himself by the gift of another cow."

Fly Is Some Traveler

The statement has often been made that the fly rarely managed to get more than a few hundred feet from the place of its birth unless it happened to be carried on the wings of a powerful wind, but recent experiments have shown that the fly will frequently travel six miles in the course of a single day. These experiments took place in Texas and 234,000 flies of different species were trapped and dusted for identification and then released. Temptingly baited traps were set for them at many points. The maximum distance traveled by the fly in these experiments was a trifle more than 13 miles. Carried by the winds they were found to travel much greater distances.

Precious English Relic

What is considered England's most precious relic is the Domesday book and its chest, kept in the Tudor house in Chancery lane, London. William the Conqueror ordered his aides to go through England and write down every lord, every peasant, every acre, every ox, every plow and every pig. Domesday book comes down to moderns as the western world's first thorough census. To England it gives basis for land deeds and, what is more important to Englishmen, it tells the Englishman whether his ancestors came over with the Conquerors. The Domesday book is to England what the Mayflower log is to America, and more.—Detroit News.

ATWATER KENT RADIO

Tremendous saving in the world's finest radio

EVEN before these new 1928 low prices were announced, Atwater Kent Radio was overwhelmingly preferred in rural homes.

NOW the always moderate prices of Atwater Kent One Dial Receivers and Radio Speakers are still lower. NOW the radio that most farm families prefer, as proved over and over again by their words, is within the reach of thousands and thousands of families who still thought the prices of really good radio were a little high.

Universal demand has enabled the largest radio factory to put the economies of big production into effect. At the same time our radio has been greatly improved in performance.

Much better radio—at much lower prices—with Christmas just ahead! Let the nearest Atwater Kent dealer show you.

ATWATER KENT MFG. COMPANY
A. Atwater Kent, President
4700 Wissahickon Avenue
Philadelphia, Pa.

$49 — Model 35, a powerful One Dial, six-tube Receiver with shielded cabinet, finished in two tones of brown crystalline. Ideal for a small table, window sill or bookshelf. Without accessories. $49

$65 — Model 30, a powerful One Dial, six-tube Receiver. The mahogany cabinet of unobtrusive beauty is the type that many people prefer. Without accessories. $65

Model E Radio Speaker. New method of cone suspension, found in no other speaker, makes certain the faithful reproduction of the entire range of musical tones. An extraordinary speaker—hear it! $24

$75 — Model 33, a very powerful One Dial, six-tube Receiver with solid mahogany cabinet. Unusually effective where distance-getting is essential or inside antenna is necessary. Simple antenna adjustment device assures remarkable selectivity. Without accessories. $75

$24

Atwater Kent Radio Hour every Sunday night on 23 associated stations

One Dial Receivers licensed under U. S. Patent 1,014,002. Prices slightly higher from the Rockies West.

Deaf Made to "Hear" Through Finger Tips

The discovery that the human skin's ability to detect rapid vibrations is much greater than has previously been supposed has been made by Dr. Robert H. Gault, director of the vibro-tactile research laboratory of Smith college. Doctor Gault has been engaged for several years in experiments to enable the deaf to hear through their finger tips by touching a telephone receiver. Previously scientists have supposed that a vibration faster than 1,600 times a second was too fast to be detected by the skin. According to Doctor Gault, however, these touch organs can detect vibrations as fast as 2,700 a second. Though many of the vibrations of the voice are more rapid than this, "oo," for instance, as pronounced by the average male voice being about 3,800 a second, and "ah" 3,682. Doctor Gault says that if the skin can receive vibrations as rapid as 2,700, it is amply sensitive to understand speech. The discovery was made with an instrument called the "teletactor," designed and built for his use by the Bell telephone laboratories in New York city.

Ask for SUNSHINE RAISINS, a full pound wonderful seedless raisins, at your grocer's.—Adv.

Buried Treasure Now Located by Wireless

Buried treasure is said to have been discovered in paying quantities by a party of British and American adventurers in Panama City. The party is equipped with a new wireless device that indicates the presence of large quantities of buried metal.

At Panama City, jewels, plate, and chains of precious metal are said to have been found.

If the treasure seeker continues to prove a success, it will probably be used in searching for pirates' hoards in the West Indies and on the Mexican coast, as well as in two other spots, Cocos island, off the coast of Chile, and a small volcanic island off Brazil. These two places are known as the world's greatest treasure fields.

Baby's little dresses will just simply dazzle if Russ Bleaching Blue is used in the laundry. Try it and see for yourself. At all good grocers.—Adv.

Aztec Dictionary

A dictionary of the Aztec language is being prepared by Porfirio Aguirre, archeologist of the Mexican National museum and a native of an Indian village of a thousand inhabitants where only Aztec and Mixtec are spoken. The only other comprehensive Aztec dictionary in existence is the French one of Remi Simeon, published in Paris in 1885. Simeon himself was never in Mexico, but got his data from colonial documents and authentic manuscripts.

Successful Camouflage

"Dazzle painting" is a scheme embodied entirely with new ideas on sea camouflage and succeeded by the fact that the proposer was able to supply designs to scale in large numbers, all bearing out a central idea. It was called, for distinction's sake, in official documents, dazzle painting.

A seed-planting device invented by an Austrian is claimed not only to have seed, but to increase crop yields from 100 to 200 per cent.

PORTER'S Pain King SALVE

Keep it handy for burns, cuts, sores, wounds, bruises, chapped and cracked skin, boils, piles and felons.

A good local application to relieve colds on the chest, croup, lumbago, varicose veins and eczema.

Made with lanoline (pure wool fat) combined with antiseptic, healing, pain-relieving drugs.

The Geo. H. Rundle Co., Piqua, O. Since 1871.

When Children Complain

Children are naturally happy and playful and when they complain of headache or dizziness, are cross and feverish, restless at night, have bad dreams and no "pep" for play, it is a sure sign of an upset stomach that can be quickly remedied if you give them

MOTHER GRAY'S SWEET POWDERS

They act quickly and gently on the bowels, relieve constipation, cleanse the stomach and sweeten the feverish breath. They break up colds and act as a tonic to the whole system. Children like to take them. This safe and pleasant remedy has been used by mothers for over 30 years. Mother Gray's Sweet Powders are sold by all druggists; accept no substitute.

RHEUMATISM
For 35 Years
TRUSLER'S RHEUMATIC TABLETS
HAVE GIVEN RELIEF
All Druggists. Two Sizes, 50c and $1.00.
Trusler Remedy Co. Cincinnati, O.

Callouses
Quick, safe, sure relief from painful callouses on the feet.
At all drug and shoe stores
Dr Scholl's Zino-pads
Put one on—the pain is gone

Goodhair
Goodhair Soap
A Scientific Remedy for the cure of all Hair, Scalp and Skin Diseases. Sold on a guarantee. One trial will surprise you. At your druggist or by mail on receipt of 25 cents.
THE GOODHAIR COMPANY
Cincinnati, Ohio

His Position

Gap Johnson was trying to back away from the crossroads store with many yanks at the reins and numerous yells and oaths. His daughter sprang from the wagon and began beating the mules over the head with a club.

"Why don't you buy an automobile?" asked a salesman who had arrived during the operation. "It would save you a lot of trouble."

"I'm used to the—p'tu!—trouble," was the reply. "I know how to handle these devilish mules and I wouldn't know how to manage a car."

"Well, it might save the young lady a lot of unnecessary exercise."

"Aw, she's going to get married pretty soon and needs the experience in managing a husband. Hud-up, there, mules!"—Kansas City Star.

You can thank your stars for one or two of your prejudices.

A thoughtless man loses a lot of time when he hurries.

Canadian Forest Revenue

The direct revenue received by Dominion and provincial governments from the forest in the form of rentals, royalties, stumpage charges, etc., amounts to $15,000,000 annually. In Europe it has been found that increased expenditure on modern protective methods has always been followed by a much more than proportionate increase in revenues.—Natural Resources Bulletin.

There is nothing more satisfactory after a day of hard work than a line full of snow-white clothes. For such results use Russ Bleaching Blue.—Adv.

Accidental Discovery

The antiseptic value of sphagnum moss is said to have been discovered accidentally as early as 1013. During the battle of Clontarf, near Dublin, the moss was used as an expedient for stopping the bleeding from wounds. It was discovered that such wounds healed more radily than those treated otherwise.

For Colds, Grip or Influenza and as a Preventive take Laxative BROMO QUININE Tablets. A Safe and Proven Remedy. The box bears the signature of E. W. Grove. 30c.—Adv.

That to live by one man's will became the cause of all men's misery.—Hooker.

Japan's Woman Dentist

After spending five years studying in the United States, Miss Kinuko Uchida, Japan's only woman dentist, has returned to Tokyo. She is on the staff of the Woman's Dental college. She has already opened a children's dental clinic and is starting a campaign to institute dental hygiene in the public schools.

Ask for SUNSHINE RAISINS; contain Iron, Vitamines, Real Energy, at your grocer's.—Adv.

Polishing Mirrors

The bluish haze that is often noticed on a polished surface is nothing more than the accumulation left by moisture and dust from the atmosphere. This may be washed off with a damp cloth or soft material wrung out of tepid water in which a little pure soap may be used if necessary, or a few drops of olive oil may be put on the cloth. Wipe off with a soft dry cloth or clean chamois.

Hoxsie's Croup Remedy for coughs and colds, saves life, suffering and money. No opium. 30c. Kells Co., Newburgh, N. Y., Mfrs.—Adv.

Disguises

"It is becoming difficult to know your friends."

"There should be some way," answered Miss Cayenne, "to prevent a woman from changing her make-up."

Soothes the Throat

Loosens the phlegm, promotes expectoration, gives a good night's rest free from coughing. This remedy has been relieving coughs due to colds for sixty-one years. 30c and 90c bottles.

Buy it at your drug store. G. G. Green, Inc., Woodbury, N. J.

BOSCHEE'S SYRUP

tough rubber -and lots of it makes the Corn Belt a "bear for wear"

ALL-RUBBER arctics must stand the hardest punishment of any kind of rubber footwear. So we build Top Notch Corn Belts of the toughest rubber—and lots of it. They have the body and strength to stand up long after frail, flimsy arctics have broken under the strain. Fleece-lined, 4 or 5 buckle, red or black.

For dependable, distinctive boots, arctics and rubbers always look for the Top Notch Cross. The most reliable stores carry the complete Top Notch line for men, women and children. The Beacon Falls Rubber Shoe Co., Beacon Falls, Conn.

TOP NOTCH
A GUARANTEE OF RELIABILITY
Rubber Footwear

DECEMBER

L 915 659

734 ATTENDED FARMERS' INSTITUTE ACTIVITIES

M. C. Sechler secretary of Tri-township Farmers' Institute, held at Spencerville last Tuesday and Wednesday and evening sessions at St. Joe and Spencerville, reports the attendance at 734, which is good in spite of the cold snap.

The following is the report of each session:—

Tuesday Morning, Local Day

Meeting called to order by the president, John Ulm. Institute was opened by singing led by Mrs. L. O. Wade. Singing by Spencerville School Glee Club. Mrs. Wm. Goldsmith gave an interesting address, especially to the young people. She brought out the point of the advantage given the present day school children in the way of education and stressed the need of them acquiring an education both scientifically and socially. Most of our men and women of influence today are people of strong character, which is true largely because their advancement depended upon their own resources, not wealth. Inference was made that the child of wealth today will not be as strong a personality as are their parents.

Vocal solo by Inez Kinsey. An interesting and beneficial talk on "Potatoes" by Prof. Sims in which he discussed the disease of the tuber and the fungi diseases of the vines also methods of controling these diseases.

Tuesday Afternoon

Meeting opened with song and exercises by Primary Department of Spencerville schools. Piano solo Vera Hodgson. C. A. Woodcox gave a talk on landscape gardening. Brought out the advisability of systematic planning and planting for all year beautification. Violin solo by Dorothy Ginther, accompanied at the piano by Vinginia Ginther.

Alfalfa was discused by County Agent, Stinson. He gave several reasons for failures and pointed out the extravagance of improper seeding. Drainage, fertility of soil, acidity and good seed positively essential.

Several 4 H Club songs and health drills put on by Spencerville schools, evidenced efficient training.

Dangers of the "Hessian Fly" were discussed by Prof. Smith. Mr. Smith has been very active this fall in watching fly in wheat. In the early sown wheat he states the infestation is very bad and unless we have very unfavorable conditions the harvest from early seeding will be poor. He suggests the farmers in community co-operate in waiting until fly free date for seeding.

Wednesday Morning

America was sung by the audience led by Mrs. L. O. Wade. Mr. Hansen of Purdue, gave an illustrated lecture on "Some Important Poisin Plant Problems in Indiana." Pictures were shown of animals poisoned by snake-root, wilted leaves and sprouts of the common wild cherry, succulent shoots of the cockle burr, frosted second growth sorghum or sudan grass and many others. Also warns of danger of performing surgical operations on stock when pasturing on sweet clover, due to excessive bleeding.

Ladies quartette by Mesdames Lloyd Wade, Clyde Rectenwall, Charles Chapman and Raymond Rhodes. Reading by Della Huffman.

Mrs. W. C. Roberta' subject of "Making the Most of Your Child" was well discussed. She brings out the point and very plainly that the spiritual and intellectual education are both vitally essential today and since life is moulded in childhood that if the child fails in either or both of these educations the fault lies largely with the parent. Mrs. Roberts is a very pleasing and educational speaker.

Wednesday Afternoon

The following officers were elected for the coming year:

Chairman, O. E. Ginther.
Vice Chairman, O. K. Shull.
Sec.-Treas., M. C. Sechler.

Program Committee

Clyde Hart, Frank Rhoads, Mrs. Ed Storer, Mrs. Frank Baltz, Mrs. Carl Carpenter, Mrs. Howard Krise, Adrian Washler, Carl Perkins.

Superintendents of Display

Ed Pflaumer, Fred Hart, Sherman Meek, J. E. Foltz.

Finance Committee

Clarence Hart, John Engle, F. E. Johnson, John Ulm, Merwood Rhoads, Kenneth Meek, O. T. Blood.

Address, "Farm Seeds Pure and Otherwise" by Mr. A. A. Hansen. This lecture was illustrated by pictures showing colors of imported seeds as required by United States laws. Then adaptability of foreign seeds was discussed showing why each farmer should know the requirements by law and then know what he is sowing. He also explained how the farmer should and would be bettered by a thorough understanding of the "Pure Seed Law of Indiana."

Male quartette from St. Joe composed of Ed Storer, Harvey Hull, Roy Koch and Merritt Sechler.

Mrs. Roberts' address on "The Four Square Life" was very interesting. In this she brings to bear on the older generations the necessity of living the different phases of life so that the oncoming generations may be encouraged toward higher ideals and better standards of living.

Premiums Awarded

Corn 10 ear, seven entries.
Corn single ear, sixteen entries.
Potatoes, peck, seven entries.
Potato single, ten entries.
Canned goods, two entries.

Corn 10 Ear

1 Floyd Pflaumer $2.25
2 Howard Beams $1.50
3 Harvey Farver ..... .75

Corn Single Ear

1 Leroyal Hart ..... .50
2 Fred Steward ..... .25

Potatoes Peck

1 Harold Baker $2.25
2 DuWayne Kinsey $1.50
3 Lloyd Laux ..... .75

Potato Single

1 Harold Baker ..... .50
2 Fred Steward ..... .25

Canned Goods

1 Irene Webb $1.00
2 Esther Hahn ..... .50

The play "A Womanless Wedding was staged by sixty men of the townships and was directed by Mrs. LaRue, a representative of a company furnishing the costumes. The men were exceptionally good in every particular, as they were picked for their parts. The crowds were good, netting the association about $50 for its share.

BRISK CHRISTMAS TRADE REPORTED; PRACTICAL GIFTS IN DEMAND

Christmas shopping has been growing brisker in St. Joe and Spencerville every day for the past few weeks and as the festive day draws nearer, merchants in all lines of retail business are reporting a heavier than usual holiday trade. For one thing, this has been an exceptionally prosperous year, and savings accounts and Christmas Clubs are enabling Santa's pack to be filed to its utmost capacity.

What people are giving this year is quite as significant as the fact that they are buying heavily. Indeed, Christmas presents can always be taken as an index to the interests and standards of the people at any particular period. Until recent years the frivolous, the extravagant and useless were mostly given. In fact, twenty years ago the prevalence of stupid gifts so irritated our president that he seriously recommended the organization of SPUGS, the Society for the Prevention of Useless Giving.

Roosevelt would have little to complain of today, if he should hear the reports of local merchants on the types of articles that are, in the main, being purchased with a view of Christmas remembrance. This is a practical age and practical gifts would seem to be the order of the day, especially among the family. Husbands seem at last to have seen the irony of giving Mother frippery to wear on Sundays so long as she has to bend over the washtub on Mondays, with the result that washing machines, vacuum cleaners, electric irons and the like are finding themselves, figuratively at least, wrapped in tissue paper, tied with scarlet ribbons and hung on the lighted trees.

Gifts that the entire family can enjoy are also being bought in large quantities—moving picture outfits, radios and pieces of fine furniture.

Not all the giving is going to be strictly utilitarian, however. There is an enormous vogue for the unique, the foreign and the sophisticated for smaller presents this year. The very old from England, in the forms of parchment lampshades, waste baskets and portfolios and brassware, the very new from Paris, in the way of jewelry, atomizers, smoking effects and futuristic novelties, tooled and tinted leather goods from Italy, and crude, vivid peasantware from Czechoslovakia and Vienna are all in unprecedented demand and lend a truly cosmopolitan aspect to the shop counters and window displays.

NEW AND TESTED RECIPES FOR LADIES OF THE NEWS

HOLIDAY SALADS

Apple and Orange Salad

Peel and slice oranges, rejecting all white membrane. Cut wedgeshaped slices from red apples, without paring Arrange on lettuce-covered salad plates, using alternate slices of orange and apple.

Grapefruit Salad

Peel oranges and grapefruit and divide into segments, rejecting all white skin. Arrange a circle of orange segments on a lettuce-covered salad plate and fill center with grapefruit segments.

Oatmeal Drop Cakes

⅔ cup butter
1 cup sugar
2 eggs
¼ cup milk
2 cups rolled oats
2½ cups flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 teaspoon nutmeg
1 cup chopped seeded raisins

Cream butter, and sugar, eggs well beaten, milk and rolled oats, Mix and sift dry ingredients. Add flour mixture to first mixture, thoroughly mix. Drop by spoonfuls on a greased baking pan and bake in a rather hot oven. This makes 32 to 36 cookies.

THE FRUIT CUP HABIT

The woman who gets into the habit of serving a fruit cup each day, is very wise. This is not merely because fruit is tasty, but with the exception of one or two, such as cranberries and plums, all fruits have a decided alkaline reaction when taken into the stomach and thus tend to relieve the acidity that most of us know so well. Oranges have a particularly strong alkaline reaction, and fortunately fit into most fruit cups. Pineapples, bananas, grapefruits, cherries and apples are all alkaline also—and these too are cup fruits. Really this course should be called "Health Cup" rather than by its present name.

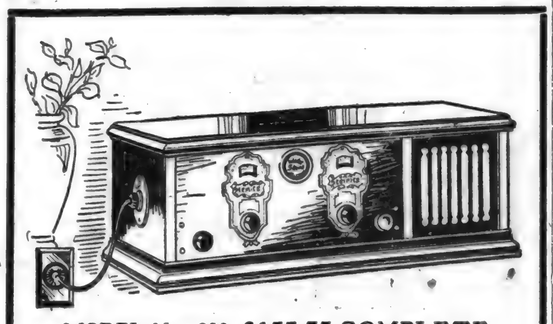
CHRIST FOR ALL—ALL FOR CHRIST

The Word of God

Thy word is a lamp unto my feet, and a light unto my path.—Psalm 119: 105

RIGHTEONSNESS BRINGS PEACE:—The work of righteousness shall be peace; and the effect of righteousness, quietness and assurance for ever. And my people shall dwell in a peaceable habitation, and in sure dwellings, and in quiet resting places. —Isiah 32: 17, 18.

PRAYER:—O Lord, our Lord, how excellent is Thy name in all the earth: therefore we trust in Thee and are not afraid.



MODEL No. 992, $155.75 COMPLETE
(Other Models $120.75 and $185.75)

STEINITE
ALL ELECTRIC RADIO

NO BATTERIES
NO ACIDS
NO WATER
NO ELIMINATORS
NO ACCESSORIES
NO EXPENSIVE UP-KEEP

The STEINITE is the oldest, time tested, low priced all-electric Radio on the market today. More STEINITES have been sold and are actually in use to-day than all other electric sets combined. SEE it, HEAR it, compare it with ANY radio for volume, tone, selectivity, distance and appearance.

Installed in your home by our expert, (no aerial necessary) and guaranteed un-conditionally. When you pay for it you are THROUGH for you have no up-keep. Operates on less than ONE CENT an hour.

Investigate before you invest in ANY radio and be sure you investigate the STEINITE.

LITTLE'S JEWELRY STORE
AUBURN, IND.
WRITE FOR ILLUSTRATED LEAFLET

PROOF OF EYE STRAIN

Generally comes as the result of an examination. But occasionally the patient notices suspicious symptoms. Among them there are nervousness, especially after doing close eye work, pains in the eyes, twitching of the lids, nausea and headaches. When any of these are present there is sufficient reason to consult us.

ED. W. HICKS
AUBURN
"OUR SPECIALTY—COMFORTABLE VISION"

To Members Of Last Year's Christmas Club

Of course you will spend some of your Christmas Club Money for Christmas presents. Why not use the rest where the benefits will be yours?

You gain always by having a Savings Account. It protects you in case of sickness or non-employment, it enables you to buy things you want in the future or to take advantage of opportunities and its value increases at this bank by the addition of 4 per cent. compound interest.

Start a Savings Account! Use some of your Christmas Club money to start one here today.

Join our 1928 Club
STARTS MONDAY DEC. 17

The St. Joe Valley Bank

Weekly Payments as Low as 10 cents a Week. THE EASY WAY to SAVE CHRISTMAS SAVINGS We Pay 4% on

THE
Newville Justice Court
OFFICE, Newville, Ind.
ORLIN HATCH
Justice of the Peace
FRANK SNELLBAKER
Constable
WITH JURISDICTION IN Concord, Spencer, Stafford and Newville Townships.

Horner's Drug Store
BUTLER, INDIANA
Headquarters for
DAY-FAN RADIO---ALL ELECTRIC--DRUGS--SUNDRIES---CHRISTMAS CARDS--PRESENTS
When In BUTLER, Come In

RAW FURS WANTED!
Highest Market Prices
BRING or SHIP
Immediate Returns
GEO. HODGSON,
St. Joe, Indiana

DECEMBER

L 915 U660

THE BEST BOOSTER FOR YOUR BUSINESS IN DeKALB COUNTY

ST. JOE NEWS.

NEWS MAKES A GOOD PAPER, SO SEND IT IN TO US.

VOL. XLI. ST. JOE, DeKALB COUNTY, INDIANA, THURSDAY, DECEMBER 22, 1927 NUMBER 51

PENLAND HOME DAMAGED BY FIRE

The fire company made a rush Saturday evening about 5 o'clock to the Jay Penland home about a mile west of Newville, in response to a call for help.

The home had caught on fire in the main part and by the help of neighbors the blaze was outened by the time the department arrived. Besides the fire damage, smoke and water will figure in the destruction.

Mr. Penland wishes to thank the fire department for their effort in answering the fire call, and the neighbors and friends for their labor in saving their home from destruction.

The adjustment has not been made as to the amount of damage.

SPECIAL LINE OF BOX CANDIES FOR THE HOLIDAY'S
Ph. HIGH'S 76

RAW FURS WANTED!
Highest Market Prices
BRING or SHIP
Immediate Returns
GEO. HODGSON,
St. Joe, Indiana

Something to Consider-
THAT 75%
OF THE SEAL SALE MONEY REMAINS IN DeKALB COUNTY FOR HEALTH WORK
BUY
CHRISTMAS
HEALTH
SEALS
DeKALB COUNTY TUBERCULOOSIS SOCIETY

OBITUARY

William Melvin Rex was born at Newville, DeKalb County, Indiana, September 7, 1864 and passed away at Sacred Heart Hospital, Garrett, Indiana, December 15, 1927, aged 63 years, 3 months and 8 days.

He was married to Cora Meek August 2, 1890.

Mr. Rex had been in business in his home town for more than thirty years and had many acquaintances and friends. He was a charter member of the Newville K. of P. Lodge, No. 487.

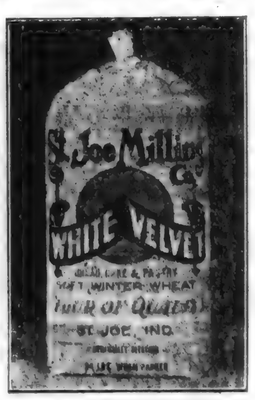
He leaves to mourn his departure his faithful wife, a son, Paul, and daughter, Audrey, both living near his home; three brothers and one sister, namely: Dode Rex of Kankakee, Illinois, Austin Rex of Ligonier, Indiana, Georgie Rex, address unknown and his only sister, Mrs. Harry Grau, of St. Joseph, Michigan. Also several nieces, nephews, cousins and many more distant relatives and friends.

The funeral was held from the Newville residence Sunday afternoon at 1 o'clock, with burial in Newville cemetery, Rev. Aldrich of the christian Church, officiating. E. R. Kinsey, funeral director.

CARD OF THANKS

Our thanks are hereby expressed to our neighbors and friends for their kindness shown us during the illness and death of our husband and father.

Mrs. Wm. Rex and Children.



White Velvet!

The St. Joe Milling Company has been in operation for several months and with the increase in trade we deemed it wise to rename our brand of flour, namely, WHITE VELVET, and we herewith present to our readers and customers a photo of the new sack.

The mill is also busy grinding feed and supplying its trade with feeds of all kinds. If you have not been here to mill do so the next time you are in need of a grist of flour.

St. Joe Milling Co. HERMAN SPRINGER, Sole Owner

KEEP WARM
With High-Grade Coal. It pays in the long run and that is the kind we sell

Feed for Hogs
We have a full line on hand and will be pleased to take care of your wants. Now is the time to feed. Come in and lay in your supply.

Don't Forget Our Lumber Yard
We also carry a full line of Paint. Save with Paint.

NATHAN Grain Co.
St. Joe's New Lumber Yard
Call By Phone for Prices Bert Jackson, Mgr.

DESTRUCTION OF BIRDS AND ANIMALS BY AUTO

Alden H. Hadley, formerly a field worker on birds and conservation, but now assistant to President T. Gilbert Pearson, of the National Association of Audubon Societies at New York, gives some valuable information on a subject of some importance regarding the destruction of birds and animals by automobiles. At the end of a motor trip which brought him to his home in Indiana and back to New York, a trip covering 1900 miles, he counted 321 dead birds, 14 skunks, 7 squirels, 3 chipmunks, 10 rabbits and 3 opossums. Mr. Hadley reports that a greater percentage of fatalities were observed in Ohio and Indiana than in other states, and believes that what we need is a campaign of education with reference to influencing the drivers of motor cars to respect the lives of birds and animals encountered on the highways. The data gathered by Mr. Hadley is not only valuable but the advice he gives as to educating the public on the subject of driving motor cars is timely.

THE BANK'S SERVICE TO THE COMMUNITY

Bankers and business men are beginning to realize that the general public is in need of a better understanding of the functions of banking in relation to the interests of the average individual. The public should be made to understand that banking is just as much a part of its daily needs as are grocery stores.

The function and purposes, and in many cases the practices, of banks and financial institutions often misunderstood or not accurately comprehended, through a lack of knowledge of the reason of their existence, and a lack of understanding of the part they play in the life of the community.

The great extension of the credit system and the payment of bills by checks and drafts as well as the financing of large business and other enterprises, has given the banking business a new meaning even to the large number of persons who do not make use of banks for their own personal convenience and the safety of their money.

CLUB HAS POT LUCK DINNER AND EXCHANGE

The December meeting of the Home Bureau Club was held Friday, December 16, at the home of Mrs. Rose Widney. This being an all day meeting, a pot luck dinner was served at the noon hour.

The afternoon program opened with a Harmonica solo by Mrs. Mayola Kinsey. The business session followed with the the president, Mrs. Pluma Hamilton, in charge. Twenty-four members responded to roll call, also three guests were present.

Two clever contests were furnished by members of the committee with Mrs. Maude Jenkins and Mrs. Edith Cole winning favors. This being the last meeting before Christmas, a Christmas exchange was conducted by the hostess.

The hostess for next meeting will be announced later. Any member wishing to entertain the club during the coming year will please notify Mrs. Hamilton, or some member of the program committee.

CHRISTMAS ENTERTAINMENTS OF COMMUNITY

Christmas entertainments galore, and for your guidance, we give the information as to when and where you might go to see the programs.

St. Joe, Christian, Saturday evening, with Christmas Cantata, "The Night Before Christmas."

St. Joe, M. P., Saturday evening with a miscellaneous program.

St. Joe, Lutheran, Sunday evening at 7 o'clock, a miscellaneous program and pageant.

Concord, M. P., Saturday evening.

Coburntown, miscellaneous program on Sunday morning.

Spencerville, the entertainments will be held on Christmas eve at both churches.

Eighty-eight acre farm for rent 3 miles west of St. Joe. Present tenant Joe Wyatt. Write W. H. Gibbs, 2017 Meridian Street, Fort Wayne, Ind. 49tf.

GEORGE N. MANNFELD TO SPEAK AT ST. JOE

The Department of Conservation of the State of Indiana, will be represented by George N. Mannfeld, superintendent of the division of fish and game, at the Annual Pest Hunt dinner, on Thursday evening, January 12th. The coming of Mr. Mannfeld is the result of an invitation extended by the St. Joe Fish and Game Protective Association.

At the meeting of the members of the pest hunt club, Monday evening, final plans were made for the opening of the hunt on next Monday and continuing until Saturday evening at 8 o'clock, when all counts will be in the hands of the committee at the Town Hall.

The committee appointed to act on the count was Wm. Mossberger, Clarence Hart and Frank Bechtol, and their points of credit in the count have been determined as follows:—

Pest	Points
Woodchuck	250
Hawk	500
Crow	100
Weasel	200
Red Squirrel	50
Rat	150
Owl	300
Mice	1
Sparrow	1
Rabbitt	25

At the Monday evening meeting forty-two members had put up their dollar for the hunt and the selection was made as follows:

CLARENCE HART, Captain
Wm. Keeler
G. R. Hodgson
John Ulm
Albert Morr
Clare Hull
Cecil Boyd
Frank Leighty
Wilbur Coburn
Ward Woodcox
Frank Akins
Grant Baltz
Frank Milliman
Harry Shuff
L. B. Meek
F. R. Bowman
Ed Leighty
Donald Kinsey
Don Keller
Fred Hull
Fred B. Leighty

RALPH SECHLER, Captain
Fred High
Ed Storer
Joe Foltz
Chas. Cochran
Lester Coburn
Wm. Mossberger
Fred Ulm
Robert Sims
Merritt Sechler
Merwood Rhodes
Harry Kees
J. C. Hull
Henry Keesler
E. R. Kinsey
Sam Mumaw
Harold Tustison
Maurice Hollabaugh
Derwood Ridgway
O. E. Ginther
Glen Hart

The Captains will meet at the News office Saturday evening and a division of the names will be made of those coming in this week. The number will be increased to fifty if possible.

Frank Akins, Derwood Ridgway and Donald Kinsey were selected on a music committee.

Five new members were received as follows: Cecil Boyd, Harry Kees, Glen Hart, Maurice Hollabaugh and Kenneth Wasson.

THE NEWSPAPER'S PART AND THE READER'S PART

Frequently we are so closely associated with institutions or a commodity that we do not appreciate their worth. This applies in general to newspapers. Every city, town and hamlet has its newspapers. Even sometimes a few houses and a store and garage at a "wide place in the road" constitute excuse enough for the starting of a newspaper and not infrequently that wide place in the road becomes a real town and when it does one may rest assured that that newspaper that seemed to have no excuse for beginning life had a very important part to play in the community's unexpected development.

So it is along the line of progress. No city ever gets very far without the sincere cooperation of newspapers. Yet no institution in a city ever gets less thanks or receives more abuse.

Probably no other thing is a better index to a town than its weekly publications. Very often that is about all the stranger has to go by in making up his mind about a community. If the newspaper that falls into his hands is a bright-looking sheet, full of news and has a prosperous air, the stranger is certain to judge that it was published in a live, prosperous town.

Those who read their weekly newspapers and carelessly throws them aside, overlook the fact that they are not doing all for their town that they can. If those newspapers instead of being destroyed were placed in wrappers and mailed from time to time to friends and relatives at a distance, the good that could be accomplished would soon be reflected in the city's growth.

Chambers of Commerce are frequently blamed for not getting out more boost literature to be sent abroad. Those who raise these complaints could do a great deal themselves by sending out the literature that comes into their own hands in the form of local periodicals. Rest assured there is no business individual in a town more interested in the growth of his community than is the editor or publisher, for as the town grows he grows.

COUNTY BASKET BALL TOURNAMENT AT ST. JOE

At a meeting of the county officials, Monday evening, at Auburn, it was decided to hold the Annual County Basket Ball Tournament at St. Joe, on Friday evening, January 27 and continuing all day Saturday, the 28th.

This event will bring a large crowd of fans to St. Joe.

Full particulars will be published later as to the schedule of games.

THE Newville Justice Court
OFFICE, Newville, Ind.
ORLIN HATCH
Justice of the Peace
FRANK SNELLBAKER
Constable
WITH JURISDICTION IN Concord, Spencer, Stafford and Newville Townships.

St. Joe MEAT Market

We heard an old man say he didn't trink the girls ought to wear their short dresses any longer, but that they should leave their order early for Poultry for that CHRISTMAS DINNER.

We do grinding and stuffing of sausage, render your lard. Lard cans and sausage casings for sale.

Wm. G. HARMAN,
ST. JOE, IND.

SEASON'S GREETINGS TO FORMER PUPILS AND FRIENDS

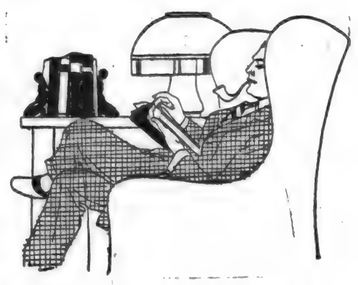
Wyllis Wilcox

The Firm

Which supplies my coffee has been blending and buying coffee for fifty-three years. They know how. No wonder my coffees are delighting my friends.

We buy small lots shipped frequently. We grind the coffee the day you buy it. We keep it in a sanitary case. These things mean satisfaction to you.

ZONKER'S Store.



UPHOLSTERED FIRESIDE CHAIRS IN MOHAIR

We made a trip to the factory last week and took advantage of a Christmas Special in Chairs so we are passing it on to you. They are selling good at our price quoted.

Special $16.95

Beautiful Lamps

A line of Lamps never equaled in St. Joe, is shown at our Store. There is perhaps nothing in the home that every member of the family enjoys so much as a nice Electric Lamp. We have a good line to pick from and are selling from

$1.98 to $18.00

E. R. KINSEY, Hardware Furniture

DECEMBER

L 915 U661

The Green Cloak

By YORKE DAVIS

WNU Service. Copyright, 1926

CHAPTER X—Continued

—19—

We went downstairs and out of the house in silence, and as we moved down the path we were instantly challenged by Mallory, who came running up to us.

"Where's Wilkins," he asked. "What have you done with him?"

"Lost him," said Ashton sourly.

"But he can't have got out of the house," protested Mallory. "I'm sure nobody has got out of the house."

"We've lost him, I tell you," said Ashton. "Can't you understand plain English?"

We all halted just then, and started, a little expectant. A man's footsteps were approaching, and the next moment he halted, rather undecisively, at the front gate. But seeing us, he turned in and came promptly toward us.

"Where's the car, gentleman?" he asked. "What have you done with the car?"

"What's that!" Ashton roared.

"The car—the automobile that I drove you out in! Where is it?"

For a moment there was no answer to that but silence. But the silence and the dismayed astonishment on our faces, gave the man his answer.

"So you went to the fire, did you?" said the doctor grimly.

"Not for more than five minutes," the man protested. "I thought I'd see if I could be of any help—"

The man's explanation trailed off volubly—protesting, incoherent, but we paid very little attention to it. We knew what had happened, all too well.

"Well," said the doctor, "if Wilkins only appreciated the fact, he owes us a large debt of gratitude. We told him about the map; and then we brought the girl out to him, and left her, together with an automobile for him to disappear in."

"He's better not try to thank me," said Ashton grimly, "until the score is settled. I'll get him yet."

"No," said the doctor, "I don't believe you will. Wilkins is playing in luck, perfectly unmerited good luck. And when you combine luck with the more solid and reliable qualities which Wilkins possesses, you get a result that is almost sure to be successful."

Ashton turned away impatiently.

"But the car!" the chauffeur cried. "I'm responsible for it. What am I to do?"

Ashton told him what he might do, in three or four short, explosive words.

CHAPTER XI

The doctor's prediction regarding the escape of Wilkins and the girl came true. It was all of twenty-four hours before the wires were working again; and the search, which could not fairly begin until that time, proved absolutely futile. The automobile was found next day, very early in the morning, standing in front of the Western station, the very place where we had started in it on our ride to Oak Ridge. But the oddly assorted pair, who must have driven back to town in it that night, disappeared as completely as if the earth had swallowed them up.

It was a long while before Ashton could admit the probability, or even the possibility, that he had lost them. Their escape must have rankled, for he never, voluntarily, spoke of the Oak Ridge affair, and he treated all reference to it, however indirect, in a manner which did not encourage discussion.

I think that, in his heart, Doctor McAlister found it impossible to be sorry that Wilkins had got off. It is one thing to know, as a matter of fact, that a man is a knave and that he richly deserves to be hung; but it is another thing to wish, devoutly, for such a consummation. We had liked Wilkins, and the strange, uncanny revelations regarding his past, which the doctor's merciless instruments had betrayed to us, were not strong enough to change that liking.

What we regretted most, in our discussions over the affair, was our fragmentary knowledge of it. One thing certain about it all seemed to be that we should never know.

But in that conclusion, strangely enough we were wrong. Only a few days ago (and it is now more than two years since the events I have here chronicled took place) the doctor came into my office waving a letter.

"Look at the handwriting first," he said, "and see if you can guess who it's from."

I took the thing in my hand, and frowned over it for a moment in complete perplexity. It was familiar, almost as familiar as my own, and yet I could not place it.

But as I gazed, some vague suggestion of delicate French potages and entrees came into my mind. I started, and dropped the letter on my desk.

"Not—not Wilkins!" I cried.

The doctor smiled broadly. "Read what he's got to say."

I needed no second invitation

"Doctor McAlister.

"Respected Sir: I have long intended to write to you to tell you how Jane Perkins and I are getting along, thinking you might be interested. I have taken up the white man's burden, as the poet says, and I find that it takes up most of my time, even though this island of mine is small (About ten square miles) and the population not numerous.

"Perkins and I (or Fanenna as she is called by her own people) are married and living very happy. Now that I am, in a sort, king here—trusting that you will pardon the liberty, sir—and obliged to make all the laws as well as enforce them, I am filled with regret for my former irregularities, though I may say that they have turned out well in the end.

"I did not murder Henry Morgan. Fanenna did, although she does not know it, and I would not tell her so for worlds. Perhaps I had better tell my story in order.

"Morgan was a villain and he deserved exactly what he got—if I may be allowed that opinion, sir. Circumstances may have justified him in killing Captain Franklin; indeed, there is no doubt that it had to be one or the other of them; and in robbing him of his money and his map, he only did what others, perhaps, would have done in his place. But he did an inexcusable thing, when he lodged an information with the authorities against the rest of us. The act was not necessary to his escape, for he could have got off scotfree anyway. But he wanted Franklin's treasure all to himself, and he thought if he could get us all hanged there would be none to dispute it with him. I found out in time what he had done, and I escaped; but the other poor fellows were caught and paid the penalty of their faith in a traitor.

"I went to America, but not in pursuit of Morgan. I did not know that he had gone there, and I wanted nothing more to do with him anyway, as I had decided to settle down and lead a respectable life. It pays just as well as the other and it's much more comfortable. This may surprise you, but it's true—I do not refer to the tips I earned as head waiter at The Meredith. That was not my trade so much as it was my recreation. In my youth I made the acquaintance of a palm reader and spiritualist, and this was the profession I took upon coming to your city. It was not long before I was able to organize this industry and to hire others to do the actual work. I supervised it all, and as head waiter at The Meredith, I was able to learn much about our smart people, which could be told to them again by palmists and mediums, with very good effect.

"The Map Which I Found in Old Morgan's House Was Worth All the Trouble It Cost Me to Get It."

"It was in this connection that I became acquainted with Jane Perkins. A medium I employed, whose apartment was not far from The Meredith, discovered her, and was using her trance states very effectively as a control. I got the greatest surprise of my life the first time I ever heard her talking Maori, a language which I understand and speak, as I suspect that you do also. From her talk I discovered that she was my old captain's daughter, and that she had inherited his secret. This was coming rather too close to home for comfort, as you will well understand, so I took her out of the spiritualist business, much as I regretted to do so, for she was very valuable, and got her employed as chambermaid at The Meredith.

"We were out walking together one day when her subjective state came over her without warning. She darted ahead of me, and I saw that she was tracking some one through the streets, by the scent. I followed her. Luckily it was dark, and we were not molested. She traveled very fast and overtook the person she was following, just as he was entering the Western station. I caught one look at him and saw that he was Henry Morgan.

"I succeeded in rousing her out of her state, for I did not want anything to happen just then and there. But I was determined to find where he lived and to get his map away from him. It did him no good, as there was neither latitude and longitude marked upon it, and this was the secret which Fanenna had told me.

"On the night when the unfortunate incident occurred which caused you and Mr. Ashton to interest yourselves in the case, we had gone out to Oak Ridge to make an attempt to secure the map. Nothing more than that, I assure you, sir. I had hypnotized her in order that she might lead me, by means of her extraordinary sense of smell, to the house where he lived, but she ran on ahead too fast for me to follow her. The crime was already committed, if you can call it a crime, before I reached the house.

"I tried to get her to go home with me, making no attempt to find the map at that time, but she was greatly excited and dangerous. So I was obliged to go away without her. I was unable to find her from that time, until she came back to The Meredith of her own accord, the day after she made her second visit to the Morgan house at the time when you were there.

"It was during my absence from the hotel, and without my knowledge, that she answered the advertisement for the cloak. Indeed, I did not know that she had done so, until you spoke to me, concerning it that night at dinner. At that time it seemed safer to permit you to make the examination which you wished to make, than to try to prevent the examination from taking place, for she was now Jane Perkins, perfectly ignorant of everything connected with the affair.

"How you found out her true connection with it, as well as mine, I have no idea. I did not know you had done so, until I tore open the envelope in the hall and found it empty. Then I knew that it was time to act.

"There is one thing more, before I close, which you may think wants an explanation. I said just now that Fanenna did not know that she had killed old Morgan, and yet she is Fanenna rather than Jane Perkins, although she is not exactly either one of them. She is no longer subject to those trance states of hers, and her character seems to be a mixture of the two distinct persons which she was before that night when you took her out to Oak Ridge with you. Her memories of all her past are, I am thankful to say, extremely vague, though she remembers some things out of both of them. She can talk both Maori and English as well as I, and she says it is because when she was a Maori girl she heard a voice speaking to her in English, and ordering her to understand it. This seems great nonsense to me, but it may be that you will see some meaning in it.

"I will close by saying that the map which I found in old Morgan's house that night was worth all the trouble it cost me to get it, for it has made us very comfortable and well-to-do, and has made it possible for me to make many improvements on this island of mine. It is a very beautiful place, and with the comforts of civilization, which I have been able to add to its natural attractions, is a very good place to live.

"Fanenna wishes to be remembered to you and Mr. Phelps, and also to Mr. Ashton, whom she used to admire very greatly when she was chambermaid at The Meredith.

"I should enjoy a visit from you very much, but I fear it will be impossible, for reasons which you will doubtless understand, for me even to suggest such a thing. But please believe me, sir,

"Yours most gratefully and respectfully,

"WILKINS,
"Rona Island.

"P. S. You have seen a map of this island, or a part of it, and above is the name I have given it; but I must imitate the wisdom and discretion of my old chief, and omit to mention latitude and longitude."

The doctor met my eye as I laid the paper down. "You don't happen to know the latitude and longitude, do you, Phelps?" he asked, laughing.

"Do you?" I exclaimed, with a rather startled look into his twinkling gray eyes.

"Do you remember those queer syllables that Fanenna repeated to us that night when she told us her story, the syllables that neither she nor I understood?"

Then, mimicking her strange guttural voice (and I will admit that even now the mere sound of it made me shiver a little), he said, "Ouan feef, ti oues. Ten sout."

Over and over he repeated them, his smile growing broader and more tantalizing, as I still failed to understand. Then, all at once, I got it.

"One fifty west. Ten south!" I shouted.

"Not so loud," he said in mock alarm. "Ashton might hear you. And, on the whole," he added, smiling thoughtfully, but still half-seriously, "on the whole, I'd rather Ashton didn't know."

"You can show him the letter, at any rate," said I.

There came a knock at the door just then, a knock we knew.

"Come in," called the doctor. "Come in, Ashton. Here's a letter that may interest you."

[THE END.]

More Worth While

The man who with a microscope tries to discover in his fellows blemishes and imperfections is engaged in very unprofitable business. He would be far better employed if he used a telescope to find in them beauty and substantiability of character.—Grit.

Giant Only in Intellect

Biographies of Napoleon show that his height reckoned in English measure was a little over 5 feet 6 inches

Adaptability

Facts are stubborn, but statistics are more pliable.

MILK HABIT BEST FOR ANY CHILD

Other Essential Foods Also Should Be Given.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

"Mother, can I have a glass of milk?" Very likely the child who stops his mid-morning play, or rushes in after school, if he is old enough to go to school, thinks of a glass of milk because he is thirsty. But he has the milk habit, and his mother, who thinks of milk as a good food for body-building, undoubtedly fills his glass without comment, and rejoices inwardly that the child wants it.

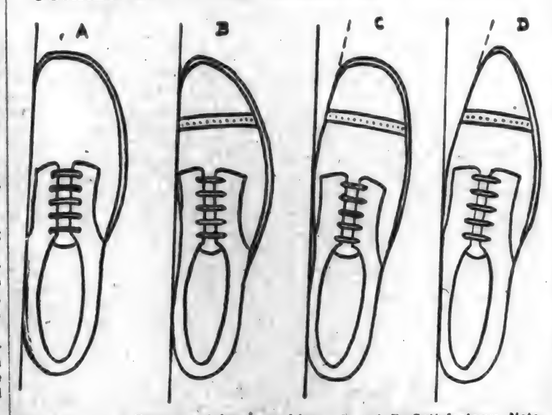
Children who have been accustomed to a normal amount of milk from babyhood like it and expect it several times a day, with their meals, and occasionally between them. Other essential foods should also be included in their diet, the bureau of home economics points out, particularly fresh fruits and vegetables, meat, eggs, whole-grain cereals, and butter or cream.

A Glass of Milk in the Midst of Morning Play.

But with the milk habit firmly established, the mother can give more attention to cultivating a taste for those other foods that make up the best diet for the child.

Children revel in their food habits the training they have had, or the lack of it. The child who has been trained to take milk as a matter of course has a big advantage over the one who has been allowed to say, and to make himself believe, "I don't like it." For milk is one of the best foods to supply him with calcium for building strong bones and good teeth, as well as other important substances. There are ways of getting milk into the diet even in such cases, through milk soups, puddings, flavored drinks, and so on, but the wise mother prevents this problem from arising by her sensible training while the child is young and passing from the bottle to the solid-food stage.

CORRECTLY FITTED SHOES ARE ESSENTIAL



Shoes Made on Proper and Improper Lines—A and B, Satisfactory; Note the Straight Inner Line and Rounded Toe—C and D, Objectionable; Note the Curve Outward From the Naturally Straight Line of the Foot, Also the Pointed Toe, D.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

When you visit a shoe store it is a help to know exactly what sort of shoe you ought to wear, and not to accept any other type. No one but yourself can tell how your foot feels inside of the shoe you try on. If new shoes are correctly fitted they will be comfortable from the start. They will not need "breaking in." A good salesman can help you because of his knowledge of his available stock in your size, but you are the final judge of the comfort of the shoe.

Fitting Shoes.

Shoes should always be fitted with the entire weight of the body on the feet, as the feet are then at their largest, says the United States Department of Agriculture. The "swing" or general direction of the shoe should be the same as that of the foot. It should not tend to twist the foot out of its normal position. The illustration shows shoes of correct and incorrect lines. Correct shoes have a straight inner line and rounded toe characteristic of the normal foot. Toes that slope away from this naturally straight inner line, and toes that are too pointed, are certain to distort the foot. The one-sided appearance of a worn shoe is usually due to an incorect swing, which has caused the ball of the foot to rest at one side of the shoe, rather than straight in the middle.

Shoes that fit correctly permit standing, walking, and quick turning in comfort and safety. A normal erect position of the body can be kept in such shoes without undue strain or discomfort. The feet, while snugly supported, are not cramped or crowded, and a firm full tread is possible. Much depends also on the height and shape of the heels, which should be moderate, and nearly as broad throughout as the heel-seat of the shoe, tapering but little.

Misfit Shoes.

Shoes that are too large are also a misfit. With too much play in the shoe the foot is not snugly supported. Blisters are often formed, especially on the heel, by the rubbing of the foot against the inside of a shoe that is too large. Incidentally, neglect of foot blisters may result in serious infection.

Aside from any consideration of health and comfort, shoes for young and old alike are easier on the family budget if of correct design and fit. Such shoes do not soon lose their original attractiveness and shape and they wear longer.

Delicious Sweet Bread to Serve With Coffee

Here's a delicious sweet bread to serve with coffee or afternoon tea, whether hot or iced, or, indeed, at any time. The bureau of home economics furnishes the recipe.

Coffee Cake.

2 cups flour
4 tablespoons butter
½ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons sugar
⅓ cup milk
3 teaspoons baking powder
½ cup citron or other candied fruit cut in small pieces
½ cup seeded raisins, cut in small pieces

Sift together the dry ingredients, reserving two tablespoonfuls of the flour for the fruit. Cut in the butter and then add the milk and the fruit, which have been well mixed with the flour. Place the dough on a greased round or square pan and bake for 35 or 40 minutes in a medium oven. Mix together one-fourth cupful of finely chopped nuts, one teaspoonful cinnamon and two tablespoonfuls sugar. Butter the top of the cake and spread this mixture over the butter. Return to the oven and let it stay until the sugar has melted slightly.

Brown Betty Is Always Favorite With Family

Although the apple crop is not as large as usual this year, there is no reason why the family cannot be treated occasionally to one of its favorite desserts—"brown betty." The following directions for making it come from the bureau of home economics:

3 pints diced apples
4½ cups bread crumbs (toasted until crisp and light brown)
1¼ cups sugar
¾ teaspoon ground cinnamon or nutmeg
3 tablespoons melted butter
¼ teaspoon salt

Select tart, well-flavored cooking apples, pare and dice. Break the bread into small pieces and dry it out in the oven until it is crisp and delicately browned. Butter a medium-sized baking dish and place in it a layer of bread crumbs, then a layer of apples, add some of the spice, sugar, and salt. Repeat until all the ingredients are used, saving sufficient crumbs for the top. Cover and cook until the apples are soft. Serve hot with plain or whipped cream, or hard sauce.

Baked Onions in Tomato Sauce Quite Delicious

When you are having an oven-cooked dinner you can utilize the heat to have a baked vegetable. The bureau of home economics gives the following suggestion:

6 medium sized onions
1 quart canned tomatoes
3 tablespoons sugar, if desired
1 bay leaf
2 teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon celery seed
2 cloves
2 tablespoons flour
2 tablespoons butter
Dash of pepper

Cook the tomatoes with the seasonings for ten minutes. Mix the flour and butter, add to the tomatoes, and mix well. Cut the onions in half and put them in a large casserole. Strain the tomato sauce over them, adding more salt if needed. Cover and cook until the onions are tender, about one hour. Serve from the dish in which cooked.

CORNS

Ends pain at once!

In one minute pain from corns is ended. Dr. Scholl's Zino-pads do this safely by removing the cause—pressing and rubbing of shoes. They are thin, medicated, antiseptic, healing. At all drug and shoe stores. Cost but a trifle.

Dr Scholl's Zino-pads

Put one on—the pain is gone!

Sure Relief

SOLD AND GUARANTEED BY EVERY DRUGGIST

STOP CHILBLAINS

The crippling annoyances of chilblains, that indescribable half numbness and half pain in the feet caused by exposure to snow or cold, quickly relieved by Carboil. Why suffer when a 50-cent box of Carboil will take the misery out of walking? Get a box at your druggists now. Your money back if not satisfied. PURLOCK-NEAL CO., Nashville, Tenn.

Intelligent Dog

Toodles, one of the ordinary dogs of Sacramento, Calif., is very fond of riding in his master's car, but this particular morning Toodles refused such a ride. His master could not coax him away from the back yard. A little later a peddler called, and the dog chased him away from the premises. Then a neighbor entered the yard and was chased out. That led the lady of the house to investigate. She found that her husband had dropped his wallet, which contained $140, and that the dog was guarding it.

California SUNSHINE RAISINS. The best grown, wonderful body builders, at all grocers.—Adv.

Honey From Gall

If any speak ill of thee, flee home to thy own conscience, and examine thine heart; if thou be guilty, it is a just correction; if not guilty, it is a fair instruction; make use of both; so shalt thou distill honey out of gall, and out of an open enemy create a secret friend.—Quarles.

When a man has spent a lot on a girl he often marries her for his money.

Garfield Tea

Was Your Grandmother's Remedy

For every stomach and intestinal ill. This good old-fashioned herb home remedy for constipation, stomach ills and other derangements of the system so prevalent these days is in even greater favor as a family medicine than in your grandmother's day.

Boschee's Syrup

has been relieving coughs due to colds for sixty-one years.

Soothes the Throat

loosens the phlegm, promotes expectoration, gives a good night's rest free from coughing. 30c and 90c bottles. Buy it at your drug store. G. G. Green, Inc., Woodbury, N. J.

PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM
Removes Dandruff—Stops Hair Falling
Restores Color and Beauty to Gray and Faded Hair
60c. and $1.00 at Druggists.
Hiscox Chem. Wks. Patchogue, N. Y.

FLORESTON SHAMPOO—Ideal for use in connection with Parker's Hair Balsam. Makes the hair soft and fluffy. 50 cents by mail or at druggists. Hiscox Chemical Works, Patchogue, N. Y.

PASTOR KOENIG'S NERVINE
for Epilepsy Nervousness & Sleeplessness
PRICE $1.50, AT YOUR DRUG STORE
Ask for Pamphlet
KOENIG MEDICINE CO.
935 N. WELLS ST. CHICAGO, ILL.

DECEMBER

L 915
U662

Write for free booklet on Hardwood floors in any room, and Jim-Lok.

OAK floors are not expensive

Never need replacement, yet cost no more than temporary floor coverings. Add permanent value for rental or resale.

OAK FLOORING BUREAU
1319 Builders' Building CHICAGO

PATENTS Booklet free. Highest references. Best results. Promptness assured. WATSON E. COLEMAN, Patent Lawyer, 624 9th St., Washington, D. C.

Farmers Find Walnut Trees Profitable Crop

Farmers who expect their children to follow them as agriculturists would do well to consider walnut trees as a profitable crop. Ira Stout, a farmer living near Sulphur Springs, Henry county, says a good walnut was planted 68 years ago on his farm, growing into a tree for which he recently was offered $350, says the Anderson (Ind.) Herald.

Thirty-eight years ago Mr. Stout planted many walnuts from the parent tree. One of the resulting trees has just been sawed into lumber, yielding 295 board feet of first-class walnut lumber. In the standing tree this was worth $31.86. A grove of 200 of these same trees would yield $108 an acre net profit annually. The trees produce sufficient nuts to pay for planting costs and upkeep.

So the state forestry department is urging farmers who may have some waste ground, to send for walnut seedlings at one-half cent each and let them grow into money.

Indiana needs more walnut, ash, oak and tulip poplar trees, such as were removed when the land was cleared three generations ago.

Ask for SUNSHINE RAISINS grown without seeds, an honest pound, at your grocer's.—Adv.

Made Good Guess

Speculating on the development of some popular convenience invented for the comfort of mankind is hazardous and bad guesses are shown many times, as was the case with John E. Randall, consulting electrical engineer, who said 36 years ago when the incandescent lamp was brought out, he expected to see the number of lamps in use increase 25 per cent each year.

He looked into the future and in 1920 estimated there would be 15,000,000 lamps in use. Last year, aside from the smaller lamps for special purposes, there were 315,000,000 lamps made in the factories of this country.

Headaches from Slight Colds

Laxative BROMO QUININE Tablets relieve the Headache by curing the Cold. Look for signature of E. W. Grove on the box. 30c.—Adv.

Canberra

Everything is new in Canberra, the great white city, which is now taking shape as the capital of Australia. All buildings are to be white, relieved by variegated tiled roofing. Motor, horse and foot traffic have separate ways; the city streets are lined with blossoming trees and gardens; and the whole is set in a landscape circled by lofty mountains.

American Rabbi Honored

Rabbi Stephen Wise recently spoke in the American church in Paris. He was the first Jewish rabbi to be invited to occupy a Christian pulpit in Europe.

Physicists have discovered rays so penetrating that they will go through 120 feet of water before they are completely absorbed.

Porter's Pain King
A Liniment
Quickly Checks Coughs and Colds. Used Since 1871

How many years has the "Pain King Man" been calling at your home?

More than 50 years ago, in 1871, Dr. Porter originated the idea of leaving medicine on a year's trial. Hundreds of thousands of bottles of Porter's Pain King are distributed every year on this fair plan by The Geo. H. Rundle Co., Piqua, Ohio.

There is such a steady, all-the-year-'round demand for Porter's Pain King, the original liniment, and Porter's Pain King Salve, that dealers everywhere now carry these standard home remedies in stock, and you need never be without them.

Many users have written letters telling how good Porter's Pain King is, how many things they use it for, and often adding, "I would not be without it." Read the directions wrapped around the bottle.

HOXSIE'S CROUP REMEDY
THE LIFE-SAVER OF CHILDREN
No opium, no nausea. 50 cents at druggists, or KELLS CO., NEWBURGH, N. Y.

KREMOLA
Bleach cream makes the skin beautiful for only $1.25. Free Booklet. Ask your dealer or write Dr. C. J. Kenny Co., Dept. W, 2018 Madison Ave., Chicago

RHEUMATISM
For 35 Years
TRUSLER'S RHEUMATIC TABLETS
HAVE GIVEN RELIEF
All Druggists. Two Sizes, 50c and $1.00.
Trusler Remedy Co. Cincinnati, O.

MADE SINCE 1840 HANFORD'S "Ye" Balsam of Myrrh
IT MUST BE GOOD
Try it for Cuts, Bruises, Sores, etc.
All dealers are authorized to refund your money for the first bottle if not suited.

POULTRY

ALL-MASH FEED GOOD FOR EGGS

Poultry keepers who have used the all-mash method of feeding chicks and growing pullets may continue the method for laying pullets. The plan has proved satisfactory for fall and winter egg production at the Ohio experiment station, and is being used by many successful poultrymen.

The only change in the all-mash for egg production, according to D. C. Kennard, station poultryman, is to increase the meat scraps from 5 to 10 per cent and decrease the corn from 70 to 65 per cent. Coarsely ground wheat may be used instead of middlings in the mash. And for best results, Mr. Kennard would also use milk in some form.

Success with all-mash feeding the laying pullets, especially for winter eggs, is largely determined by the kind of mixture and manner of feeding it. The mash should be as granular as possible rather than finely ground. A suitable type of feeder should provide 20 to 24 feet of eating space per 100 pullets. Fresh mash should be fed daily in the evening, the amount being about what will be consumed during the next 24 hours.

Electric lights may be used to advantage. A warm, moist mash fed in the evening, especially in cold weather, may prove beneficial.

Details relative to the all-mash method of feeding layers may be had by writing the Ohio experiment station at Wooster.

Laying Hens Must Have Ration Rich in Protein

During the course of twelve months a high-laying hen will produce from 18 to 25 or more pounds of eggs—or from four to seven or more times her own body weight, depending upon the weight of the hen. And it is a well-known fact that eggs are high in percentage of protein. Logically, therefore, it follows that laying hens must be fed a ration which is rich in protein if they are to turn out this amount of protein-rich product and still maintain the muscle, sinew and blood in their own bodies.

Home-grown grains, such as wheat, oats, barley and corn, while they all contain a certain proportion of protein, all rank as carbohydrate-rich feeds, necessary to maintain body flesh and provide heat and energy, but lacking in sufficient proportion of protein to meet the requirements of heavy egg production. Millfeeds, such as bran and shorts, contain proportionately more protein than do whole grains, but they, likewise, fail to supply the needed amount. If the ration fed to laying hens contains these feeds only, without the addition of some protein-rich supplement, the feeder cannot expect high egg production; the hen simply cannot produce eggs, but can only turn the carbohydrates into surplus body fat.

Specialist Tells How to Get Better Eggs

Care used in the mating of poultry and in the selection of hatching eggs will in a short time develop a flock that produces practically no inferior eggs, says L. M. Black, extension specialist in poultry husbandry, at the college of agriculture of Rutgers university.

Experiment has shown that certain characters are transmitted to future layers through the egg. The pullet that is hatched from any particular egg tends to lay the same type egg as that from which she came. Successful poultrymen take advantage of this fact and select only typical, large, uniformly colored eggs when setting the incubator. Since sires, too, exert an influence upon the type of egg laid by the pullets, males selected for the breeding pens are from ancestors that were noted for their heavy production of large, uniformly colored and shaped eggs.

There is an old German adage which when translated reads, "As the bird, so is the egg." It probably was not originated for poultrymen alone, but it holds great significance for them.

Vitamines for Fowls

Vitamines should not worry the good poultryman so much in summer as in winter. Green foods and sunshine supply the vitamines that are most apt to be lacking in the winter ration. During the early spring months these factors are apt to be lacking unless the poultryman takes special pains to see that the birds have green stuff and sunshine. Alfalfa leaves, when put in a rack where fowls may eat them, will help to supply the need for green material.

Sunlight Helps Hens

Direct sunlight will help the hens to lay strong-shelled eggs as well as eggs with a high degree of hatchability. If hens have been closed up they should be turned out into the sunshine on bright days. If it is necessary to keep them closed up, then the windows should be thrown open during the middle of the day so the direct rays of the sun may get in. Glass substitutes may also be used in place of some of the window glass to let in more.

DAIRY FACTS

PREPARING DAIRY FOR COLD WINTER

"The first thing to do in preparing for winter," says Dr. C. H. Eckles, chief of the dairy division of the University of Minnesota, "is to go over your feed situation. If you have silage on hand and legume hay in the barn it will be easy to fix up a suitable grain mixture. If you have corn and oats or barley you will not need to patronize the feed store unless you have some heavy milking cows to feed. If your cows are heavy milkers some concentrate high in protein is needed to balance the grain ration, and the amount needed for the winter should be purchased. It never pays to half feed live stock of any kind.

"Do not wait too long in the fall before beginning to house the cows at night and even during the day whenever the weather is bad. I believe that cows suffer more from cold on the average in November than during any other month. The owner likes to keep them out as long as possible to save labor and possibly in some states with the idea of saving feed. A cow compelled to stand outdoors in a cold raw wind or a cold rain is in no condition to make a profit. She will not hold up in milk like in May or June because she is uncomfortable.

"Housing fattening animals and dairy cows is quite a different proposition. The fat animal is well protected from the cold and does not mind it. The cow in milk is not protected by a layer of fat. She is giving off fat in place of putting it on. A barbed-wire fence is mighty poor shelter for a dairy cow either day or night during the winter."

Avoid Breeding Heifer Before Two Years Old

Experienced dairymen who have been breeding dairy cattle for some time appreciate the damage that is done to heifers if they are bred too young. Premature breeding usually results in undersized animals which have a reduced capacity for milk production. Continued breeding at an early age tends to weaken the vitality and vigor of the herd.

The larger breeds of dairy cattle, like the larger breeds of chickens, require more time to mature than the smaller breeds. This means that Holsteins must be allowed more time to grow than Jerseys. Even the smaller breeds should not be allowed to produce calves before they are two years old if they are to give the best results.

It is generally agreed that Holsteins should be from nineteen to twenty-one months old when bred; Ayrshires should be from eighteen to twenty-months; Guernseys from seventeen to nineteen months, and Jerseys from fifteen to seventeen months. This means that the heifers must not be allowed to run with the herd bull, for they will often come in heat many months before this age is reached.

Clean Stables Greatest Factor Against Disease

The greatest factor in the eradication of bovine tuberculosis is declared to be proper cleanliness of dairy barns. It is significant that one of the greatest troubles experienced in British Columbia during the testing for the establishment of a T. B. free area was to get farmers to properly clean up.

"Fortunately," says the Dairy Farmer, "our friend the sun has prodigious curative powers, and will help to kill off the germs of tuberculosis wherever he gets a chance to do so."

The farmers who are advocating open-air conditions for dairy cows have strong supporters in their claim that it is often the expensive coddled animal which develops T. B. and that the disease is comparatively unknown among cattle which run out practically all the time.

To properly keep clean a cow barn is no difficult that it is rarely done, but the development of disease may be prevented by allowing the animals to exercise in the open rather than by coddling them in tight barns which, in fact, have been proved to be among the worst factors in the spread of T. B. among cows.

Ventilating Barn

When building a new barn or remodeling an old one, many factors and problems should be given the very closest consideration. The location of the barn with reference to drainage and its relation to other buildings cannot be given too much attention. The internal arrangement of the barn and the fixtures that are to be used should be designed to save labor. An abundance of light should be provided because sunlight is a very important factor.

Watch Young Calf

Too often dry pastures, flies and especially insufficient grain and water cause scrawny-looking calves that never develop into average-size cows. The calf should be eating some grain from the time it is three weeks old and at weaning time this should be slightly increased, especially if the pasture is short. If no pasture is available a little alfalfa hay will help materially. With good pasture, grain is not necessary more than two weeks after weaning.

Size of Flock Very Important

Likely to Demand More Feed and Attention Than Returns Warrant.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

In poultry raising on the farm it may be poor management to raise a hit-and-miss number of fowls, such a number, for instance, as may happen to hatch from hidden nests. Poultry experts of the United States Department of Agriculture suggest that farmers who are unable to keep approximately 200 hens limit their flocks to a size only large enough to supply the table with eggs and poultry meat throughout the year. In this way the gain is largely a by-product and the chickens will pick up much of their food from material that would be wasted.

Attention and Feed.

When a flock numbers more than enough for the home supply of eggs and meat, and is not as large as 200, it is likely to demand more attention and more feed than the returns warrant; that is, it will most likely not return enough profit to pay for the management and attention necessary in caring for it.

But if poultry is maintained with an eye to profits it is worth managing. A flock of 200 can be divided readily into two units for breeding purposes—50 yearlings for production of breeding eggs and 150 pullets for market egg production. Similarly a flock of 400 would be divided into 100 yearlings and two flocks of 150 pullets.

Pullets for Eggs.

Pullets are preferable for egg production, and the keeping of flocks of about three times as many pullets as yearlings allows the poultry raiser to cull his flock wisely and retain only the best of the pullets for breeding stock.

Concrete Successfully Used During the Winter

Farmers in Northern states use concrete as successfuly during the winter time as in any other season of the year, by observing a few simple precautions.

The water used in concrete made during the cold season is brought to the boiling point. Sand and stone are heated over a section of an old smokestack in which a fire has been built.

As soon as the concrete has been mixed, it is placed in the forms from which all ice, snow and frost have been removed.

Once the concrete has been placed, it is protected, so that it will keep its heat as long as possible. Newly placed floors, walks and other flat surfaces are covered with heavy paper and then with straw or manure to a depth of 10 or 12 inches. Outside walls are frequently covered with canvas or straw. In very cold weather an enclosure is built around them, and the interior is heated with an oil or a coke stove.

As heat hastens the hardening process in concrete, the material is protected against the cold weather for from two days to a week. If the temperature can be kept at 60 degrees, two days' protection is sufficient. It is, however, considered better practice to protect the material for a week.

Moist Mash Excellent for Egg Production

As soon as pullets are bodily mature they should start laying. Fully matured pullets that are not laying may often be brought into production at this time by using a moist mash. The usual laying mash may be moistened with sour skim milk, buttermilk, semi-solid buttermilk and water, dried buttermilk and water, or water, fed regularly at noon or some other convenient time. It must be fed at the same time each day and should be crumbly moist, not sloppy. Let the pullets consume all they can in 20 minutes and then take the mash away and thoroughly clean the trough. As soon as production reaches a satisfactory point, the moist mash may be discontinued.

Agricultural Squibs

Smooth, clean one-inch lumber, braced by two-by-fours, is used for most concrete forms.

* * *

If a concrete curb is built around a hog-feeding floor, the animals will be prevented from pushing the grain off the feeding surface.

* * *

If you have no milk, feed young pigs in winter a mixture of two parts of tankage, one part linseed meal and one part chopped alfalfa, with their corn.

* * *

Pullets which become familiar with the inside hoppers and nests before egg production starts, are the most apt to continue production throughout the fall and winter.

* * *

Insure your hogs against cholera the same as you would insure your buildings against fire. It is the safest proposition and by all odds the cheapest in the long run.

* * *

A large number of outbreaks of swine dysentery have been reported in different sections of the country this year. The death rate has varied from one-fourth to over one-half.

ATWATER KENT RADIO

It's good after Christmas, too
—and look at the new prices!

WHEN you buy your Christmas radio, you want to be sure it will do its work in your home—and keep on doing it.

Atwater Kent Radio is that kind of radio.

You want to be sure, too, that you are getting your full money's worth without paying a fancy price.

Atwater Kent Radio is that kind of radio.

Already more farms have Atwater Kent Radio than any other. If you are missing it, is not Christmas the time to put it there—for the whole family—at a price which will come back to you many times over in satisfaction?

Through the months, the years, every day will renew the pleasure of the first day and gratitude to the thoughtful giver.

ATWATER KENT MFG. COMPANY
A. Atwater Kent, President
4700 Wissahickon Avenue
Philadelphia, Pa.

Model 35, a powerful Own Dial, six-tube Receiver with shielded cabinet, finished in two tones of brown crystalline. Ideal for a small table, window sill or bookshelf. Without accessories. $49

Model 30, a powerful Own Dial, six-tube Receiver. The mahogany cabinet of unobtrusive beauty is the type that many people prefer. Without accessories. $65

Model E Radio Speaker. New method of cone suspension, found in no other speaker, makes certain the faithful reproduction of the entire range of musical tones. An extraordinary speaker—hear it! $24

Model 33, a very powerful Own Dial, six-tube caiver with solid mahogany cabinet. Unusually effective where distance-getting is essential or inside antenna is necessary. Simple antenna adjustment device assures remarkable selectivity. Without accessories. $75

Atwater Kent Radio Hour every Sunday night on 23 associated stations

Own Dial Receivers licensed under U.S Patent 1,014,008. Prices slightly higher from the Rockies West.

Unanswerable Indictment

Dawn McNeill, the Duluth queen of beauty, said in an interview at Atlantic City:

"Prices have gone up horribly since I was a little girl. In this hotel here the price of a front room with a bath is almost inabordable as the French say; and when it comes to French frocks—well, we girls are paying five times as much for a French frock as we used to, and yet—"

Miss McNeill glanced coquettishly down at her crossed silken knees.

—"and yet," she ended, "we are not getting a fifth as much for our money."

Maiden lane in New York is so named from the fact that it once followed the course of a stream in which the Dutch girls washed clothes.

France Tries Iron Roads

Roads of iron are being tested by government engineers at Le Mans, France, where part of a main highway, the Avenue Leon Belle, has been paved with ten tons of cast iron plates. These plates, reports Popular Science Monthly, present a slightly corrugated nonskid surface, having the advantage of being smooth for motor cars, yet rough enough to prevent horses from slipping. Besides their obvious durability, they afford a new use for old iron.

Between Ladies

"What is your job?"

"Oh, I check up other people's mistakes."

"I should think that would be frightful."

rough going has no terrors for this Corn Belt all-rubber arctic

THE rugged construction of Top Notch Corn Belts enables them to stand rough going and severe strain for months and months. We build them of the toughest rubber—and lots of it. Corn Belts have the substantial body and fighting strength that an all-rubber arctic must have to withstand the rough treatment it gets. Fleece-lined, 4 or 5 buckle; red or black.

For dependable, distinctive boots, arctics and rubbers always look for the Top Notch Cross. The most reliable stores carry the complete Top Notch line for men, women and children. The Beacon Falls Rubber Shoe Co., Beacon Falls, Conn.

TOP NOTCH
A GUARANTEE OF MILEAGE
Rubber Footwear

Cuticura Preparations for All the Family

For generations Cuticura Soap and Ointment have afforded the purest, sweetest and most satisfactory method of promoting and maintaining a healthy condition of skin and scalp. Tender-faced men find the freely-lathering Cuticura Shaving Stick a necessity. Cuticura Talcum is an ideal powder, cooling and refreshing.

Soap 25c. Ointment 25 and 50c. Talcum 25c. Sold everywhere. Sample each free. Address: Cuticura Laboratories, Dept. 21, Malden, Mass. Cuticura Shaving Stick 25c.

DECEMBER

L 915 U663

Local Briefs

Supply your Holiday wants at Geddes Drug Store, Butler. 50t2

The Keller Garage sold their Essex last week to John Hart.

Do your Christmas shopping at Geddes' Drug Store, Butler. 50t2.

A tenant wanted for the J. N. Scholes farm. Inquire at the St. Joe Valley Bank. 50tf.

Mrs. Fred Randall of near Spencerville, was a Monday guest in the W. H. Randall home.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Howard Shilling, Friday morning, a son, name, Richard Allen.

Mr. and Mrs. B. V. Widney, of Columbia City, spent Sunday with relatives at this place.

Mrs. Fred High spent a few days the past week with relatives at Hicksville and Fort Wayne.

Have your glasses fitted by Benj. F. Griest, Eyesight Specialist, Office in American Bldg., Hicksville, Ohio. 28tf.

Owing to the Holiday season, there will be no meeting of the DeKalb County Ministerial Association for December.

L. W. Yeiser, of South Whitley, formerly a commissioner in DeKalb county, is serving on the federal grand jury at Indianapolis.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Curie, Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Kinsey, Mrs. F. R. Bowman and Mrs. Frank Bachtol, were among the shoppers at Fort Wayne, Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Hart and son, Donald and Mrs. Victor Brown, made a trip to Elkhart Saturday to meet Mr. Brown, who returned home with them.

At the meeting of the Town Board Monday evening they issued a statement that the new board will meet in session on January 2nd. This will complete the responsiblity of the present Board.

Lost: A package containing a pair of Blue Serge Basket Ball bloomers, a library book, "Laddie" and several hot lunch tickets. Finder please call "The News." 51t1p.

Mrs. Nora Dorsey, who was brought to the home of her mother, Mrs. Harriett Haifley, some time ago for care, is in a critical condition, according to the last report. She is suffering with ulcers of the stomach.

Howard S. Grimm has been appointed by Governor Jackson as prosecutor for DeKalb county for the year 1928. This change was due to the fact that the change in the courts makes it necessary for an all-time prosecutor here. Mr. Grimm and family will move to Auburn in the spring.

Beginning Friday the First Christian Church of Mishawaka was operated under the direction of a board of receivers, appointed by Judge Samuel B. Pettingill. The board is made up of receiver from each of the two factions that for three years have been unable to agree. Separate services will be conducted with different pastors. Each faction will pay rent.

A petition from the Auburn State bank, receiver, to pay a dividend of 25 per cent to the claimants against the Thomas Exhange bank of Corunna has been granted in the DeKalb circuit court. In the petition it was stated that the receiver had collected an amount sufficient to justify such a payment. Also upon request of the receiver, the court authorized notice to be given all creditors to file their claims within thirty days.

Frank Loftus arrived home Saturday.

Pure, fresh ground buckwheat flour. St. Joe Milling Co.

Do your Christmas shopping at Geddes' Drug Store, Butler. 50t2.

The Misses Martha Miser and Margaret Godwin are home from Indianapolis, where they are attending school, for the holidays.

For Sale:—The newest in Electric Washers. The One-minute Model 60, $97.50, also Model 52. Will be glad to demonstrate. Drop a card to M. S. Hilpert, Hicksville, Ohio. 46tf.

Carl Perkins, M. A. Sechler and Stanley Means, were members of a party held at the office of County Agent Stinson, Friday evening, in company with six other men of the county, who were students at Purdue. Talks were made by those who were members of the Purdue threshing ring.

INTERESTING "ADS"

We have been reading proofs of the Christmas "ads" of our stores that appear in The News today.

They are as interesting as anything that one may peruse these days, for they speak of the approaching yuletide.

Sometimes we are apt to think of the modern town in terms only of population and of public improvemens—street paving, parks, public playgrounds and a dozen other items of the kind.

But the real earmark of the progressive city is its stores.

The real badge of prosperity is the type of retail stores a city boasts.

The advertising columns of the newspaper of today demonstrate the fact that St. Joe has stores of which any city may be proud and as metropolitan as those of many boasting larger population. And the stores themselves are as interesting as the "ads."

CHRISTMAS

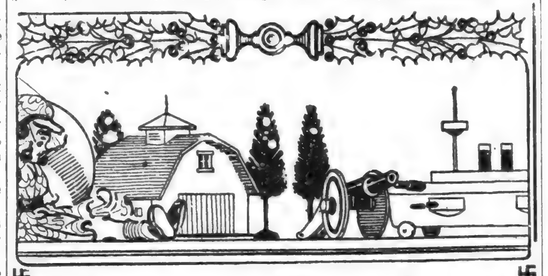
Comes Christmas Day. What it means to you depends upon your As he goes on learning, his capaciappreciation of everything else depends upon your capacities. In the man who cannot read, capacity is limited by so much. If he learns to read but cannot read music, his capacity still is limited. thereby his field of enjoyment is ty of knowing is increased and thereby his field of enjoyment is enlarged. Ignorance is not bliss, as it is sometimes misquoted as being. Greater happiness comes to those whose faculties have been prepared to appreciate at their proper values all things in life. So what Christmas Day means to all of us depends upon our capacity for knowing.

There is a Christmas tree in your home. Around it are those passing through some of the happiest moments they will ever know. Do you not envy the experience of the youngest of the group seeing that tree for the first time? To that little one the tree is an amazing sight. As the years pass it will become less and less amazing but it never will lose its power to give enjoyment. Then all of a sudden, it will become amazing again when the child of today has become a parent. You, who were children yesterday, are children again today, so know the feelings of all those gathered around the tree, from the tiniest to the largest, for you have known the experiences of all of them. And how merry you are this morning! You know how to make all toys run better than any of them—how infinite your capacity for knowing! You do not reflect upon it but it exerts its magical influence.

You know there is a Santa Claus—some of the children may look at you knowingly—but, in your heart you know something they must yet learn. They have been infected by a taint of skepticism that once affected you, but you know, ah, you know. You know there is something mysterious and unseen that is more real than the perceptible—something superior to practical genuineness. You cannot give it words nor define it any more than you can the colors that you are conscious of after you look at a bright light and then close your eyelids. They are beautiful colors but they have no actual existence. Yet you see them. For colors, the Christmas tree is just as amazing as that, but the children do not see them, because they do not have the same capacity of vision that you possess.

Merry Christmas, visionaries all.

Women are sensible, except at times. Some get married because they are tired of working.



Horner's Drug Store
BUTLER, INDIANA
Headquarters for
DAY-FAN RADIO---ALL ELECTRIC--
DRUGS--SUNDRIES---CHRISTMAS
CARDS--PRESENTS
When In BUTLER, Come In

To Members Of Last Year's Christmas Club

Of course you will spend some of your Christmas Club Money for Christmas presents. Why not use the rest where the benefits will be yours?

You gain always by having a Savings Account. It protects you in case of sickness or non-employment, it enables you to buy things you want in the future or to take advantage of opportunities and its value increases at this bank by the addition of 4 per cent. compound interest.

Start a Savings Account! Use some of your Christmas Club money to start one here today.

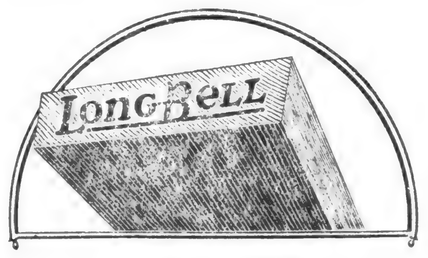
Join our 1928 Club
STARTS MONDAY DEC. 17

The St. Joe Valley Bank
Weekly Payments as Low as 10 cents a Week. THE EASY WAY to SAVE CHRISTMAS SAVINGS We Pay 4% on

Do You See Things As They Are?

So many are viewing the world through abnormal eyes that there is a possibility, if nothing more, that YOU might by looking through a pair of made-for-you lenses improve your vision greatly. If you aren't SURE about this matter you should interview us.

ED. W. HICKS
AUBURN
"OUR SPECIALTY—COMFORTABLE VISION"



MEN plan and build with exceeding care, the better to meet a steadily growing demand for homes and industrial construction that must live out a maximum period of usefulness. Wisdom figures the cost of construction more and more by years of service, rather than the immediate job—not what the dollar will buy just for today's use, but what it assures for tomorrow's service.

In the manufacturing plants where Long-Bell lumber products are made the measuring stick of quality is maximum construction value. In every phase of manufacture and in seasoning, skilled workmen seek to assure for every foot of lumber produced this maximum period of dependability.

Ask to see our stock of Long-Bell lumber each piece trade-marked for easy identification of maximum construction value.

SPENCERVILLE LUMBER & SUPPLY COMPANY
C. J. Knaak, Manager.
SPENCERVILLE, IND.

-a BUICK for Christmas

Body by Fisher

Make this Christmas last for thousands of miles

Surprise your family on Christmas morning with a wonderful new Buick for 1928. Nothing could give them greater happiness.

The liberal G. M. A. C. time payment plan is available if desired.

BUICK SALES & SERVICE, Auburn.

Near Xmas Time

A few useful suggestions for that Christmas Gift:— Automobile Robes, Plush Robes, Aluminum Roasters, Percolators, Sauce Pan Sets, Dish Pans, Etc. A new line of Pyrex Ware in the various sizes and styles.

Princess Electric Irons, $6 Value
ESPECIALLY PRICED at..... $3.75 Just a few left Fully guarantd

Coaster Wagons, Roller bearing, Disc wheels, Balloon tires; and Coaster Sleds in different sizes. Sunbeam Crbinet Heaters, Florence Automatic Oil Stoves, and hundreds of USEFUL GINTS.

Don't fail to see the NEW A-C DAYTON, All-ELECTRIC CONSOLE RADIO AT OUR STORE

Wm. CURIE, HEAVY AND SHELF HARDWARE, IMPLEMENTS AND RADIO

DECEMBER

L 915 0664

SPENCERVILLE

Pure, fresh ground buckwheat lour. St. Joe Milling Co.

Mrs. Cora Steward, who has been ill, is some what improved.

John Betz, of St, Joe, was a recent guest in the Joel Betz home.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Billman, were recent guests of Joel Betz and wife.

Mrs. LaVern Koch was a Sunday dinner guest in the Raymond Rhodes home.

This is the time—our store, the place—prices right. Geddes Drug Store, Butler. 50t2.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bishop, were Monday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Farver.

Mrs. Lela Northrup and son, Curtis, were Sunday guests in the Greeley Wearly home.

Mrs. Jane Butler, spent several days last week with her daughter, Mrs. Lloyd Wade and family.

Mrs. Henry Beams and daughter, Mary, of Detroit, Mich., were guests last week in the F. L. Beams home.

Wanted:—Woodcutters on share 1¾ miles south of Coburntown Church. Paul Miller, phone 45-3, Spencerville. 50t2p.

Mrs. Ida Gibbons entertained a number of ladies on Thursday at a comforting knotting bee. Five comforts were tied.

Bowser & Reed, who recently puschased the old Lutheran Church building, began wrecking it Monday morning.

Christmas carols will be sung and a short program held every evening at 7 o'clock at the community Christmas tree.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Hatch and children of Fort Wayne, returned home Tuesday after spending several days in the Hazel Steward home.

The Ladies Ald of the Methodist Church will be entertained on Thursday, December 29 at the home of Mrs. John Webb, north of town.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Bowser and daughter of St. Joe and James Reed and wife, were Sunday dinner guests at the R. U. Bowser home.

Miss Marjorie Hollabaugh, of Battle Creek, Mich., came Saturday to spend the Holiday vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Hollabaugh.

This is the time—our store, the place—prices right. Geddes Drug Store, Butler. 50t2.

Mrs. Rose Widney and Miss Susan Sechler, Mrs. Newton Miller and Mrs. Amanda Bowman, were guests of Mrs. Jacob Baltz one day last week.

Raymond Randall, wife and children, of Auburn, were Sunday guests of Wm. Allen and family. Mr. and Mrs. Vaughn Allen were afternoon guests in the same home.

Rolla Moffet and wife of Auburn, are spending three months at Miami, Florida. Mrs. Jacob Baltz received word from them last week stating they are enjoying their trip.

The C. C. Club met on Friday afternoon with Mrs. Floyd Dean. The contest was won by Mrs. Ruby Krafft. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Pernetta and Mrs. Zelpha Steward, when the Christmas exchange will be held and an arf day meeting.

A number of the St. Joe and Spencerville Lutheran members, very pleasantly surprised Mrs. Roediger at her home Friday evening, in honor of her birthday anniversary. Games and contests furnished the evening's entertainment after which all enjoyed the pot luck supper.

The Junior class party was held on Wednesday evening at the home of Kent McCrory. Games furnished the amusement of the evening. A delicious luncheon was served. Those present besides the Juniors and teachers were, Ruth Shrader, of near St. Joe, Virginia Goldsmith, Violette Pflaumer, Frances Wright, Ada Bowser, Mary Wade, Howard Beams, Gale Bowser, Henry Markle, Victor McCrory and James Vallieu.

SPENCER HOME BUREAU HOLDS MEETING

The Home Bureau Club of Spencer Township met on Wednesday afternoon, December 14th, at the home of Mrs. B. O. Shook.

The meeting was called to order by the president, after which Christmas Carols were sung and the Lord's prayer repeated. The secretary's report was read and roll call was responded to by sixteen members and three guests, Mrs. Zona Abel, Miss Lizzie Hart and Miss Stackhouse. Then business was discussed and finished up for the year. All enjoyed a contest which was given, Mrs. Mettie Furnish and Mrs. Clauda Hafner winning the prizes, and the Christmas exchange.

A two-course luncheon was served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Stella Goldsmith. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Roy Brown.

R. H. C. HAS AN ALL DAY MEETING

The R. H. C. met with Mrs. Saxe Hadsell in an all day meeting, Thursday, December 15. The forenoon was spent in needlework, each member piecing a quilt block for the hostess. At the noon hour a bountiful potluck dinner was enjoyed by the twelve active and one associate members present.

The business meeting was presided at by the staff of new officers.

A Christmas exchange was then conducted by the hostess, each member receiving a gift from the one who drew her name at the previous meeting.

The next meeting Tuesday all day, December 27, with Mrs. Lehr Wilder.

SUNDAY SCHOOL REPORTS

The following is the report of Sunday schools in this vicinity for last Sunday, according to information sent The News by representatives of the schools reported.

Spencerville M. E.	56—$5.78
Coburntown	39—$3.07

ST. JOE M. P. CHURCH

Mrs. Hattie Widney, Supt.
Sunday School, 9:30 A. M.
Preaching, 10:30.

CONCORD M. P. CHURCH

George Johnson, Supt.
Sunday school 9:30 A. M.
Preaching service 7:00 o'clock.
Christian Endeavor, 6:30.
J. F. McKnight, Pastor.

EVANGELICAL LUTHERAN CHURCHES

ST. JOE

Sabbath Bible School at 9:30 A. M., Mr. Derwood Ridgway, Superintendent.

SPENCERVILLE

Sabbath Bible School at 9:15 A. M., Mr. Ray Means, Superintendent.

Preaching service, 10:30.
P. B. Roediger, Pastor.

CHURCH OF CHRIST

"Merry Christmas: It will be merry if our hearts are in harmony with that of our Master."

ST. JOE

Ed Storer, Supt.
Bible School, 9:30 A. M.
Lord's Supper, 10:45 A. M.
Sermon, 11:00 A. M.
Fine attendance Sunday night. Come and see. It's a real thrill to preach for people who attend services so regularly.

NOTICE, Our Evangelistic meetings start February 5, 1928.

NEWVILLE

Frank Lyons, Superintendent
Bible School, 10:00 A. M., sun time.

Lord's Supper, 11:00 A. M., sun time.

Evangelistic service, 7:30 P. M. sun time.

Christmas Program, Friday night.

Our soul winning campaign gets under headway Sunday night. Please give it the right of way. Sidetrack secondary matters. Come—Bring others—Help save others.

S. R. Aldrich, Pastor.

Methodist Episcopal Church Spencerville

Sunday School, 9:00 A. M.— John Koch, Superintendent.
Epworth League, 6:00 P. M.

There are fewer self-made men now than formerly, observes an educator. Also, thay've stopped putting boot-straps on boots.

Anybody ever hear a flapper sing "Home, Sweet Home?"

Home is where the keys are left, capacity for knowing just as your suit.

About 750,000,000 pencils are sold in America yearly, but we can't learn who buys them.

What does a bucket shop proprietor think about when he reads that bank deposits have gone up in the last year?

The distinction is this: A realist believes what he sees. A visinary is convinced he will eventually see what he believes.

In the last generation, says a medical writer, man has learned to put off death an additional ten years, thus marking another distinction between death and taxes.

Attorney General Arthur Gilliom Saturday issued an opinion stating that when a township assessor dies it is not necessary that his successor be of the same political faith. This was in answer to a question from J. J. Brown, chairman of the state tax board which must approve the successor after he has been selected by county assessor.

PHONE 290

Stanley P. Nelson Monuments

Opposite Woodlawn and Roselawn Cemeteries

AUBURN, IND.

Dr. E. T. Julian St. JOE

10 to 11:30 each forenoon. at Dr. C. R. Price office.

Russel R. Reidenour

ATTORNEY

Auburn, Ind.

DR. C. R. BAUMGARTNER
Veterinarian

Spencerville, Ind.

PHONES: 282--283.

Are You Ready For Christmas?

IF NOT, VISIT OUR STORE AND LET US HELP YOU SELECT YOUR GIFTS. COME AND SEE WHAT A "WELL - DRESSED CHRISTMAS TREE" SHOULD WEAR.

EVERY DAY IS "BARGAIN DAY" AT OUR STORE FOR WE HAVE MANY SPECIALS EACH DAY

WE WISH YOU ALL

Merry Christmas and Happy New Year

Hunsicker's 5-10c Store

BUTLER, INDIANA

PUBLIC SALE!

The undersigned will sell at public auction at his residence, 5 miles southeast of Auburn, 3 miles west and ¼ mile south of Concord, ¾ mile north of Rehoboth Church, on

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 23, 1927

Commencing at 1: 00 o'clock, the following property:

4 HEAD OF HORSES

Pair sorrel ¼ Belgian geldings, with light mane and tail, white faces, coming 3 and 4 years old, well broke and work in all harness, will make 1700 lb horses; one bay gelding colt, coming 2 years old; sorrel mare colt, white face, 7 months old.

13 HEAD OF CATTLE

Jersey cow, with heifer calf by side, 2 weeks old; Holstein and Jersey heifer, 2 years old, calf by side; Durham and Jersey heifer, 2 years old, due to freshen Jan. 15; Jersey cow, 4 years old, due to freshen Feb. 28; Guernsey cow, 3 years old, due to freshen April 13; dark Jersey cow, 8 years old, due to freshen May 27; yellow heifer, coming 2 years old, due to freshen May 10; red cow, 8 years old, to freshen about April 20; Jersey-Durham heifer, 1 year old; Jersey heifer, 5 months old; Jersey-Holstein bull, 9 months old.

3 HEAD OF SHEEP

Two spring ewe lambs; one aged ewe.

30 HEAD OF HOGS

Spotted sow, 2 years old, due to farrow March 8; Spotted sow, due to farrow March 10; 5 pigs, weighing about 80 lbs. each; 7 pigs, weighing about 60 lbs. each; 14 pigs weighing about 40 lbs. each; yearling Spotted Poland boar, weighing about 250 lbs.; one May boar pig, weighing 150 lbs.

100 HEAD OF POULTRY

100 White Wyandotte pullets.

HAY AND GRAIN

6 tons timothy hay; 6 tons alsyke and timothy hay; 200 80-hill shocks of corn in field.

FARMING IMPLEMENTS

Set of new brass trimmed harness, set of single harness, two 21-in. canvas horse collars, Osborne binder 6 ft. cut in working order, Brilliant King cultipacker, Deering mowing machine 5 ft. cut, spring tooth harrow, Oliver riding breaking plow, International corn planter with bean attachment and 80 rods of wire, 12 ft. harrow with 77 teeth, wagon box and scoop board, single buggy, 16 tooth harrow to harrow corn with one horse, 2 hay slings, 4 16-ft. plank 10 in. wide, 20 rods new wire fence, set trucks for Osborne binder, 2 corn planter boxes, spring seat, double trees, attachment for four horses to riding breaking plow, buggy pole, large dinner bell, one barrel, hog crate, fanning mill, pair bobsleds, swell body sleigh, 2 small chicken feeders, 1000 chick brooder stove and hover, 5 gal. barrel churn, double shovel plow, manure carrier, 1000 lb. platform scales, 3-horse Fairbanks-Morse gas engine, 6 in. burr Stover feed grinder, power emery stone, sleigh bells, Ohio incubator 400 egg size, other articles not mentioned.

Warm lunch on ground.
Shelter in case of storm.
See large bills for Terms of Sale.

EARL E. WYATT

A. M. Grady & Son, Aucts. Clyde Rectenwall, Clerk.

Pure, fresh ground buckwheat lour. St. Joe Milling Co.

Granddad may have been a sod buster, but not on the golf links.

ATTENTION of Stock SHIPPING FARMERS

The general conclusion about the Farmer's Troubles is that he must adopt more economic methods of marketing his products and thus realize more of the profit. One of these services we are able to offer you in the Co-operative shipping of your live stock. You realize the full market value of your stock less the actual cost of shipping. We have our own Producer Commission Association on nearly all terminal markets. We would be glad to handle your live stock for you and can arrange truck service for you if you so desire.

Call our local Manager, Mr. W. H. Bricker, Phone 13 and have a talk with him or Mr. George Hart, Phone 44-21.

THE HICKSVILLE SHIPPERS CO

HICKSVILLE, OHIO

The Christmas Store

9 MORE SHOPPING DAYS TILL CHRISTMAS

Visit our Store and we will help you solve the Christmas Gift Problem

As heretofore we have purchased a splendid variety of useful merchandise that will please the whole family and help to make Christmas joyful, happy and merry. We here mention some of the items that are suggestions:

Jewelry, Watches, Silverware, Cut Glass, Fine Assortment Clocks, Big Line of Christmas Decorations, Electric Lamps, Electrical Goods, Bibles, Fountain Pens, Stationery, Toilet Waters, Men's and Ladies' Purses, Brownie Cameras, Safety Razors.

Holiday Box Cigars 50 cents to $2.25, Fine Assortment of Pipes, Cigar and Cigarette Cases, Thermos Bottles and Jugs, Christmas Greetings 1 cent to 25 cents, Toilet Sets, Manicure Sets, Books, Perfumes, Gold Pencils, Leather Goods, Eastman Kodaks.

Geddis' Drug Store

THE REXALL STORE

Open Evenings BUTLER, INDIANA

Service to All

It is the purpose of this bank to help as many people as possible. Whether your problem be large or small, if we can be of service, we want you to know that we Welcome You

Farmers' & Merchants State Bank

Spencerville, Ind.

DECEMBER

L 915 U665

Southern California Has Forest Fires

Southern California has been experiencing disastrous forest fires. At the left is seen a five-mile stretch of the Verdugo mountain ridge all ablaze. At the right are the ruins of the Sunset Canyon Country club after the flames had swept over it.

Florida Citizens Vote for Sunday Movies

Some of the 13,000 voters who cast ballots at a Sunday movie referendum in St. Petersburg, Fla., wiping out a blue law of 13 years' standing. They wanted Sunday movies and now they will have them.

"QUEEN" AT BANFF

Miss Emile Mason, chosen to reign as queen of the winter carnival at Banff, in the Canadian Rockies. She is a Calgary girl, and a devotee of all forms of winter sports.

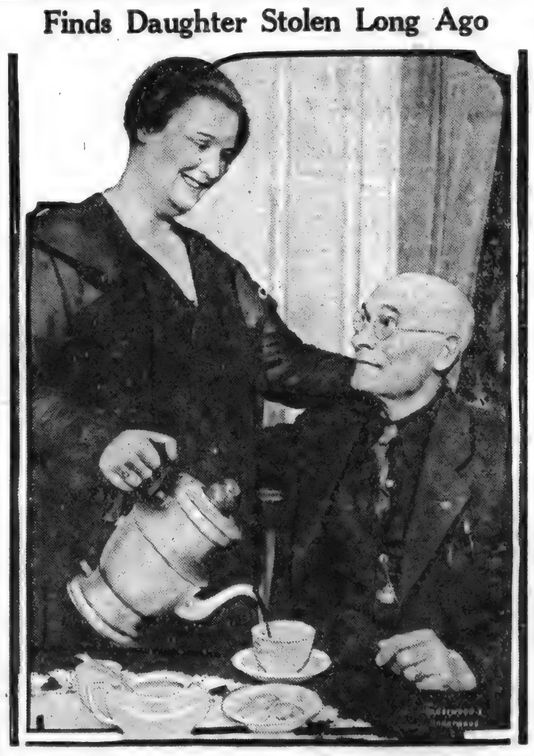
REPRESENTS HAWAII

Victor S. K. Houston, who has arrived in Washington as the Representative of Hawaii in the Seventieth congress. Houston succeeds William P. Jarrett.

PHILLIES' NEW PILOT

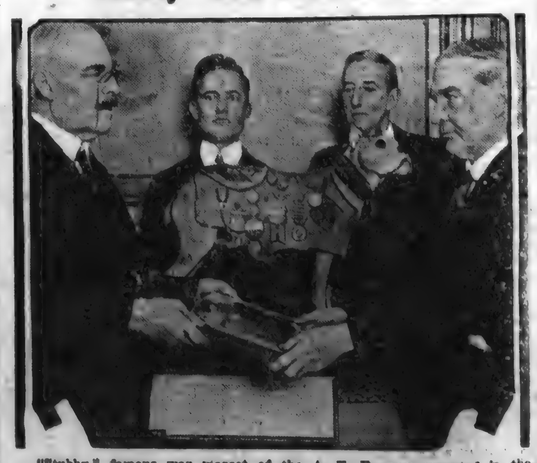
Burt Shotton, new manager of the Phillies, as he appeared at his desk in the ... office in Philadelphia.

Finds Daughter Stolen Long Ago



After a thirty-two-year search for his daughter, kidnaped from him by his former wife in 1895, Francis U. Main, retired farmer of Bartlesville, Okla., found her the other day in Chicago. She is Mrs. Charles Rankin, wife of a Chicago real estate broker.

"Stubby" Gets a Silver Plate



"Stubby," famous war mascot of the A. E. F., now mounted in the American Red Cross museum in Washington, received a silver plate donated by his comrades-in-arms. At the presentation were, left to right: Representative E. Hart Fenn of Connecticut and Chairman John Barton Payne of the Red Cross. In back: J. Robert Controy, "Stubby's" master, and Dr. Hugh S. Cumming, surgeon general of the United States health service.

Improved Uniform International

Sunday School Lesson

(By REV. P. B. FITZWATER, D.D., Dean Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.)

(©, 1927, Western Newspaper Union.)

Lesson for December 25

CHRISTMAS LESSON

LESSON TEXT—Luke 2:1-20.

GOLDEN TEXT—Thou shalt call His name Jesus, for He shall save His people from their sins.

PRIMARY TOPIC—The Coming of the Christ Child.

JUNIOR TOPIC—God Sends His Son to Earth.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—The Prince of Peace.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Promised Era of Peace.

I. The Birth of Jesus (vv. 1-7).

1. Jesus' birth foretold (Mic. 5:2).

Only a little while before the fulfillment of this prophecy which was made some seven hundred years before, there seemed little likelihood that Micah's words would come true. Jesus' mother was miles away from Bethlehem in Galilee. God moved the emperor to enforce the decree of taxation which brought Mary to the village at the proper time.

2. Jesus' birth announced to Mary and Joseph (Luke 1:26-38).

Gabriel, the archangel, sent by God to the little town of Nazareth to Mary, a Jewish maiden who was betrothed to a carpenter in the village by the name of Joseph, solemnly announced that she should give birth to the Messiah and that this son should not be Joseph's, but the child of the Holy Ghost (Matt. 1:18-21). Later the angel of the Lord appeared to Joseph also, making to him the same announcement and added that the child should be called Jesus, which means that Jehovah will save His people from their sins (Matt. 1:21).

3. The prediction fulfilled (v. 7).

This took place at a most opportune time. It occurred when all systems of religion and immoral worship were tottering upon their foundations, therefore most suitable for the introduction of the gospel. The whole world being under the power of the Romans who then ruled it, made it possible for Christ's ministers to go from city to city and country to country unmolested. We can be assured that the Almighty rules in the whole universe and is never tardy in His administrations.

II. Jesus Birth Announced to the Shepherds (vv. 8-14).

1. To whom (v. 8).

Jesus' birth was announced to the shepherds who were keeping watch over their flocks by night. The fact that the glorious message was first sounded forth to them shows that poverty is no barrier to its reception. Their humble station in life and their being busy with common duties did not prevent them from hearing this glorious message from God. Moses, Gideon, Amos and Elisha were all called of God from the activities of life. He never calls lazy people.

2. By whom (v. 9).

The first gospel sermon was preached by an angel of the Lord. We thus see them interested in men and having part in the announcement of God's plan for their salvation. No doubt the angelic beings earnestly sympathized with fallen, sin-cursed man.

3. The nature of the message (vv. 10, 11).

It was good tidings of great joy. It was good tidings because the darkness of heathendom, which had so long covered the earth, was beginning to vanish. The casting out of Satan, the prince of this world, was about to take place. Liberty was soon to be proclaimed to those who were in bondage. The way of salvation was to be open to all. No longer was the knowledge of God to be confined to the Jews, but offered to the whole world. Truly this was glorious news; so glorious that a multitude of the heavenly host accompanied this announcement with their song of praise.

III. The Shepherds Investigating (vv. 15, 16).

They did not stop to argue or raise questions, though these things were, no doubt, passing strange to them. They went immediately to Bethlehem, where they found everything just as represented. They had the privilege of first gazing upon the world's Savior, the very Lord of Glory. They returned with gratitude in their hearts, praising God for all these wonderful things which He had revealed unto them.

IV. The Shepherds' Witnessing (vv. 17-20).

They found things as announced by the angels. When they beheld the Lord of Glory they could not remain silent, therefore went back praising God. Those who really hear the gospel message cannot be silent. Those who really hear the gospel must tell it out to others.

Trials That Never Come

For every trial that God sends, He gives sufficient grace to bear it, but He promises no grace to bear anticipation with, and we little know how large a portion of our mental suffering arises from trials that never come.—Evangelical Tidings.

An Unprofitable Life

The earth life which is not passed in the light which beams out from the glory world would better have not been lived at all.—Gospel Banner.

GAY WINTER SPORTS OUTFITS; PLAID AND CHECK VELVETS

Winter Sports Ensemble.

WITH the winter sports season at hand, fancy merrily turns to thoughts of stylish knitted outerwear, or if it does not, it should, for things knitted are "it" when it comes to smart apparel for skating, skiing, tobogganing and the like.

Styles in knitted costumes center about the ensemble idea with a nicety and individualism as that required for formal evening modes. The knitted compose in the picture is a "patrician" among its kind. The fact that it is knit of an angora wool which is "light as a feather" attests to its super-chic.

This knitted ensemble features knickers because modern woman will have it so, having declared in favor of common sense clothing, unhampered in their decision by old-fashioned conservatism. However, you will observe that not an item of feminine charm is found wanting in the coquettish knitted cap and scarf with mittens and leggings to match the sweater. This attractive outfit is evidence of the fact that the ensemble idea stands good for knitted togs as well as costumes of the dressier sort.

Among interesting knitted things are country club waistcoats made by hand of multi-colored yarns. It is said also that hand crocheted sweaters are being featured in great variety.

Very smart semi-sports effects for resort wear employ a pleated skirt of satin, with a dainty jumper of angora wool matched accurately to the skirt. This jumper is decorated with cuffs, collar and belt made of the satin as used for the skirt.

The combining of novelty woolen fabrics of finest weave with knitted fabrics is causing a decidedly new and important style interest. Delicacy of effect, both as to coloring and as to weight of the materials is the outstanding charm of these new ensembles. Costumes of this genre usually boast either a scarf collar or a vivid separate scarf made of one or both of the materials of the frock and matching jacket.

Nature is somewhat a fashionist herself, changing her garb with the coming of each season. And what a shining example does she set of the appropriateness of things. She wears "roses in rose time," ruddy rustling leaves at autumn's debut, anemones and violets to usher in the springtime and when winter comes she clothes the earth in glittering snow and cheery holly berries—which leads up to the theme of the mode's timeliness and good taste in featuring gay-colored plaided and checked velvet frocks as being typically apropos for the mid-winter style picture.

Every one must admit that costumes of multi-colored plaid and checked velvet, such as are shown in this picture "look the part" of wintry cheer. One could not choose a frock of greater enchantment for immediate wear than either of these models. Indestructible velvet check in royal blue and deep purple is the chosen medium for the gown to the right in the illustration. Not only is the material itself beautiful beyond words, but it emphasizes the cleverest sort of fabric manipulation, combining the checks in artful ways both on the bias or the straight as well as circular cut.

Speaking of the combination of purple and blue as stressed in this checked velvet of which this frock is fashioned, these two colors frequently form an alliance. As to purple or amethyst, all Paris is exploiting these tones, also deep violet, especially when it comes to the velvet frock.

The other velvet dress complements the plaid with a "dicky" or shallow vestee of plain color, matching this with waistband and strap belt of the same.

The charm of these two velvet frocks cannot be sufficiently told in mere words, they must "be seen" to be appreciated." There is no doubt about it, the new printed sheer velvets of every description are as handsome if not handsomer than any fabrics shown for seasons past. If one's clothes "budget" does not admit of one of the exclusive high-class transparent plaid velvets, it is well to remember that very charming printed velveteens are available at moderate prices.

Two Examples of Winter Styles.

In fact velveteen, plain or printed, is exceedingly fashionable. Perfectly charming sports frocks display the spirit of solid colored velvet, say wine or dark green topped with a blouse of printed velvet whose basic color blends with the skirt.

Another velveteen sports interpretation styles the skirt of this material, posing over it a jersey blouse the same color which shows either insets or appliques of the matching velveteen.

For her winter coat the Parisienne is expressing favor for velveteen heavily furred. A wine-colored velveteen top coat trimmed in black lynx is extremely handsome. Pretty colored velveteen with matching long-haired fur or with spotted flat fur trimmings are extremely smart.

Very interesting machine stitching imparts a note of interest to many a velveteen coat, which is fashioned in a tailored way.

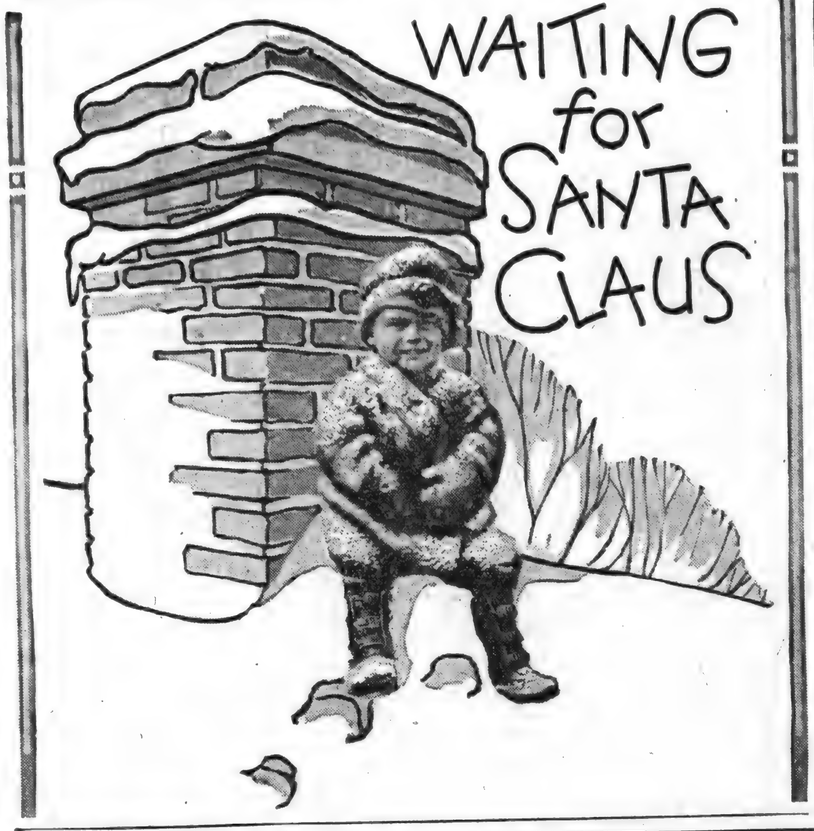
JULIA BOTTOMLEY.

(©, 1927, Western Newspaper Union.)

DECEMBER

L 915

U 666



Christmas Gifts By Radio

By Florence Harris Wells

MARIAN CLARK and her father sat "listening in." It was Christmas Eve and they were alone. It was the first Christmas without the mother, who had passed on the previous summer.

Marian had not gone back to college in the fall. She had not been able to make herself feel it was right to leave her father alone on the farm. Because she was always cheerful and gay, Mr. Clark hadn't fully comprehended the sacrifice Marian had made, nor how much it had meant to her to drop out her last year. Even though she might go back later, it wouldn't be her class.

Marian had prevailed upon her father to get the radio a few weeks before. They called it their Christmas present to each other. Neither of them particularly enthused over the radio; yet it gave them a contact with the outside world.

Tonight the Christmas carols were wakening tender memories in Mr. Clark's mind; so that even while he heard them, his thoughts were far away, living over Christmas days of the past. Marian's thoughts, too, were busy, but she was thinking of a letter that had come that day, reminding her of the extra credits she had accumulated while in college, and suggesting that if she came back the next semester, by taking a few more than the required number of hours, she could still graduate with her class. It was a temptation. Marian allowed herself to dwell on every phase of it; then she sat up very straight. She would not permit herself to think of it again, with the long cold winter stealing in about them. She couldn't leave her father alone with no one of his own to talk to or understand.

Suddenly Marian realized that the carols had ended and a voice was asking:

"Albert Clark, are you listening in? Your sister wants to get in touch with you."

Marian jumped up, astonished. She shook her father now nodding in his chair:

"Father, listen! It may be you!"

The voice went on:

"You were two orphans. You were adopted by a family called Clark, and your sister by people named Gibbons. She has never seen nor heard of you since. That was forty years ago. You are fifty-one years old. Your sister is forty-seven, and lives in Coloma, Mich. She wants to get in touch with you."

"Father, isn't that you?" Marian was staring in amazed incredulity, but the voice was repeating:

"Albert Clark, are you listening in?" Three times it gave the message and at the end explained that this was the last night it would be broadcast.

Albert Clark was not listening to the explanation—Coloma was only fifty miles away. There wasn't much snow, and autos were still running easily. They could start at once, and start they did, and Aunt Marian came back with them the next morning and everything was settled happily, as in fairy tales.

"Radio wasn't such a poor present after all, was it, daughter?" Farmer Clark questioned laughingly as they finished their bountiful Christmas dinner and rose to go into the living room where Christmas carols were again "coming in."

"I should say not," Marian retorted gaily. "It brought me the best Christmas present I've ever had."

"And me, too," her Aunt Marian chimed in. "Your father and I will have great times 'listening in' these long winter evenings when you're away poring over dry old school books."

"I had them broadcast that half in fun with scarce a flicker of hope that it would bring any results. But I'm glad I chose the Christmas time because we're all such fine Christmas presents for each other."

(©, 1927, Western Newspaper Union.)

Santa Off Duty

The "Broke" Christmas

by James L. Hays

"DADDY! Come to supper!" Mary Brown opened the living-room door to put her head out into the darkness and cold of a snowy Christmas Eve.

"Coming, Old Scout," replied a gruff voice which had grown coarse shouting a foreman's orders in the clanging steel mills. Dad stamped the snow from his wornout overshoes.

"Well, I've shoveled the walk," he growled, "even if Grandma's not coming and it'll soon be drifted again. Just felt I wanted to do it, somehow."

Sis and Bob, the "twin sixes," as Dad had named them since their last birthday, now pounced on him, yelling "Gonna get a sled! Gonna get a sled!" and "I get a dollie, Papa, won't I, huh?"

After supper the little ones went reluctantly to dreamland. Oh, just to think! Christmas at last! How hard to wait till morning! But the Sandman surprised them and made waiting easy.

"Mary," said Dad gloomily, "I'll have to speak to Jimmie. What keeps him out late this way? Even if it is vacation, it's strange. If he's hangin' around pool halls, no good'll ever come of that."

Mother looked thoughtful.

"Well," she admitted, "he hasn't been in early for a week. But, Sam, I don't think he'd do anything wrong, you know—anything—"

"N-no. Jim's been a good boy," said Dad. "An awful good boy, but—"

"S-sh!" said Mother.

Jimmy burst in, rosy with cold, his eyes sparkling.

"Keen weather!" he announced, explosively, dancing and blowing his hands.

"'Lo, Ma! 'Lo, Dad! Gee, but this'll be a swell Christmas!"

Dad and Mother brightened with smiles. Who could help it with Jimmy around. But Dad shifted uneasily. Wouldn't do to take a boy to task on Christmas eve. He started to pack his pipe.

"Jimmy, your supper's still hot," Mother said. "We saved it for you."

"Thanks, Ma! You're a peach! Boy, but I'm hungry!"

Dad found the tobacco bag. It was empty. He hastily shoved pipe and bag into his pocket. But Mother had noticed and her smile faded. Poor Sam!

The truth was the Browns were "broke" and this was to be their "slimmest" Christmas.

"Well, Daddy," she said, "We've the little tree and the doll and the sled to be thankful for. But, Sam, I did so hope your Mother could have come this year, as always. Maybe we should have borrowed."

Dad coughed.

"No, dear, we couldn't send her the fare and so that's the end of it. Next year, maybe, with no doctor bills, it'll be different. She'll be lonely, though."

"Jimmy!" exclaimed Mother. "What are you so fidgety about?"

"Oh, nothing! I thought I heard a car, though. Dad; is the walk swept? I never noticed."

Dad gasped. "'Walk swept?' Here, quick! Somebody fan me. He's never asked that one before!"

Jimmy ran to his coat and fished out a package. "Look, Dad. Here's Mother's present. Let's put it on the tree!"

"Jimmy, you shouldn't! I don't need a thing. And how could you have bought it anyhow?" But Mother's eyes kindled.

"And, Mother, give Dad his present now. I saw him fishin' for a smoke and givin' up. Cigars!"

"Why, Son, You old John D! A whole box of Claros! Get me a match, quick. You shouldn't have spent it. Who'd you run errands for, anyway?"

"Run errands, humph! I'm deliverin' for Uncle Sam. Christmas rush."

Jimmy strutted. "Say, I'm a millionaire!"

An auto set its brakes and swung up to the gate.

"And here's my car!" Jimmy exulted, dashing out the door. Away drove a yellow cab and in marched a proud boy with a dear little old lady.

Sam and Mary stared. "It's mother!" cried Sam, taking her in his arms.

"S-sh!" cautioned grandma." You'll wake the babies. "And she pointed to her bulging shopping bag. Jimmie whisked it away to a hiding place.

"But, Grandma," said Mary, "How did you ever manage it?"

"We couldn't rake up a cent to send you," said Dad.

"Dearies," said Grandma, fumbling in her handbag, "You did send it. "Twelve dollars. It was little Jimmy's writing." Grandma's dim eyes twinkled wisely.

Jimmy blushed. Dad, blinking, put a proud arm around him and squeezed him tight.

Grandma was holding up twelve crackling bills and saying: "So sweet of Jimmy, and the best part was I didn't need to use it after all. Old Eph Saxon showed up after all these years and paid me the hundred dollars your poor grandpa loaned him. Aren't we lucky! All here together. Won't it just be the merriest Christmas ever!"

What was that? Such a racket!

In dashed the pajama-clad "twin sixes," their little faces shining with ecstasy.

"Oh, it's Gran'ma! Gran'ma! Oh! Oh! Oh! Gran'ma, is Christmas come?"

(©, 1927, Western Newspaper Union.)

The Yuletide Cheer

By FRED W. PEARSON in Washington Post

IN THE providence of Nature
There's a consonance of good,
Permeating and elating
All the cosmic brotherhood.
Though the waves of deep depression
May engulf our struggling forms,
Like the gleaming of our dreaming
Are the heights above the storms;
And one peak that glistens clearly
Like an iridescent cone,
Is the Yuletide Cheer, which yearly
Brings delight to every one.

High above the range of Virtues
Is this crowning pinnacle,
And its luring and enduring
Message freely comes to all.
Shops and homes are decorated;
Hearts are throbbing merrily;
And each glowing face is showing
Just how sweet is charity;
For the season of Good Feeling,
Dawning as the old year dies,
Turns to gladness all our sadness,
And to friends our enemies.

Some, perhaps, are thinking darkly
Of their lack of means to give;
They are lonely, and can only
By the utmost efforts live;
So, with fainting hearts, and tearful,
Their self-pity grows extreme,
When a ringing voice and cheerful,
Sounds this axiom supreme:
In the providence of Nature
There's a service all may find,
And the measure of its treasure
Is the art of being kind.

Home Again at Christmas

by W. D. Pennypacker

"Most of us," remarked one of the travelers, after he was comfortably settled and the train was well out from the yard limits, "still have strong ties in the old East."

"It is true, indeed," replied the man sitting beside him. "I love the West. I admire its freshness and bigness, its grain fields, its many diversified interests, and the fact that its possibilities for further development are still apparently limitless. I, too, am bound for the old fireplace in the city of my birth, but I can never expect the old metropolis to appeal to me as it once did. There are too many high walls, too narrow streets and too little opportunity for growth such as we know on the prairie lands, to appeal to me. And the people are not as frank and friendly as they ought to be."

The other acquiesced.

Most persons who have lived in the West any length of time feel this way.

The men were not patrons of the pullman though both were well-dressed and appeared reasonably prosperous.

"I wouldn't miss the opportunity of riding in a day coach at this time of the year and studying my fellow passengers," ventured the first speaker.

Most every seat was occupied, and there were a number of babes and children among the passengers.

Two seats before them sat an attractive young mother with a babe just able to walk. In spite of its zigzag journey and the lurching of the train as it negotiated numerous curves, the youngster persisted in walking up and down the aisle, attracting a great deal of attention and getting in the way of brakemen and passengers who had to pass to and fro. Across the aisle was a child of about three, quite amiable, but swinging in his small hands a half-eaten banana with its golden envelope dangling about it, to the evident annoyance of an elderly semi-invalid and her dignified daughter who sat nearby.

But the holiday season was approaching and no one was "crabby" enough to complain. Old maids and confirmed bachelors, if there were any in the car, either enjoyed the baby or kept their thoughts to themselves.

Passengers moved about frequently, as is quite common on a long journey, and some of the more restless ones, it is safe to say, occupied nearly every seat in the car before they reached their journey's end.

Near the front of the car sat a woman whose only child was a song canary, and who divided her time about equally between coaxing the bird to "sing for mother, pretty," asking the Negro brakeman questions, climbing up to get something from her suit case, or changing about from seat to seat.

It was merely the restlessness of the usual traveler, but the two men were interested.

Between their eager observance of this restlessness and their notation of the almost limitless amount of fruit, ice cream cones and confections consumed, they wondered what would come next.

But candy, and restlessness and travel have little noticeable effect. At last the train was drawing into its eastern terminal. As it crawled past a multitude of switches everyone was expectant. There was the usual climbing or reaching for hand luggage in the upper racks, the assembling of hats and outer garments, and a general effort to be ready to leave the train quickly.

The wheels stopped.

Brakemen announced "All out!"

In less than a minute there was a mad rush through the waiting room and towards the taxi stand.

"Hello, there, I've been looking for you," cried a man in a friendly voice, as he laid his hand on the stranger's shoulder and inquired:

"You just came in from the West on that 5:15 train, did you not?"

"I did," he replied with a degree of wonderment. "Why?"

"You left this envelope in your seat. It looks important. I wondered how I would find you."

"Gosh! It is important! There could be no Christmas for the kiddies without it. I don't know how it got out of my hand bag—probably when I removed my time table to study it. Well, you're a friend of mine and the kiddies, I am sure."

"I heard you remark that easterners were not friendly," said the new arrival composedly. I'm a New York City man, just come in from a short business trip. What's your name?"

The two men withdrew to a corner and exchanged cards.

"Come out with me," said the new-made friend to the westerner-by-adoption. "My car will be waiting just around the corner and I can take you part way to your destination."

The offer was accepted. The men became warm friends.

But the envelope? you ask. What of the finding of that big white envelope.

It was that that made Christmas!

(©, 1927, Western Newspaper Union.)

Origin of Christmas Trees

The modern Christmas tree can be traced back to the Sixteenth century. It originated on the banks of the Rhine. Sixty years later the fir tree was used to carry gifts in celebration of Christmas all over the civilized world.

DECEMBER

L 915 U667

Christmas Gift Sales

THE CHRISTMAS STORE

Fine Selection of Gifts for Men, Women and Children. Our Attractive Prices makes Your Shopping Easy. ECONOMY MEANS MORE PRESENTS.

We select our Merchandise with the same care that you select yours. First of all get your pencil, check over every item carefully, mark X before each article you need. Bring this guide with you, it will make your buying easier.

Gifts for Men

HOUSE SLIPPERS	85c to $1.65
SHAVING SETS	50c
GARTER SETS	25c and 75c
NECK TIES	35—39—69c
HANDKERCHIEFS	10—25—50c
BILL FOLDS	25c and $1.00
SOCKS	25 and 50c
HEAVY MUFFLERS	$1.00
DRESS GLOVES, Wool	25 and 50c
DRESS GLOVES, Leather	$1.50
MILITARY BRUSH SETS	$3.50
SILK SCARFS	$3.50
TOILET SETS	$2.50

Eversharp, gold and Silver Pencils, Stick Pins, Cuff Links, Finger Rings, at Price.....

½

CAPS FOR DRESS AND EVERY DAY WEAR

SWEATER COATS	98c and up
WOOL AND FLANNEL SHIRTS	98c to $2.98
PIPES AND CIGARETTE HOLDERS	50c to $1.50

Cigars Cigaretts

Shoes-Rubbers-Artics-Factory prices

Children and Infants

HANDKERCHIEFS	5 and 10c
BEADED PURSE, BRACELET and NECKLACE SETS	15 and 50c
GARTER AND BEAD SETS	25c
MIRROR, COMB AND GARTER SETS	50c
HOUSE SLIPPERS, assorted colors	49c
KIDDY CARS	$1.25
PEDAL BIKES	$2.25
SWINGS	$1.50

STOCKINGS, SWEATERS, KNIT CAPS, MITTENS, 4-BUCKLE ARCTICS, ETC.

COMB AND BRUSH SETS	$1.00
KNIT SWEATER, CAP AND BOOTIE SETS	$2.50
SOFT SOLE SHOES, assorted colors	50c
STOCKINGS, wool and cotton	25 and 50c
KNIT BOOTIES	25c
DOUBLE PART WOOL BLANKETS	$1.00

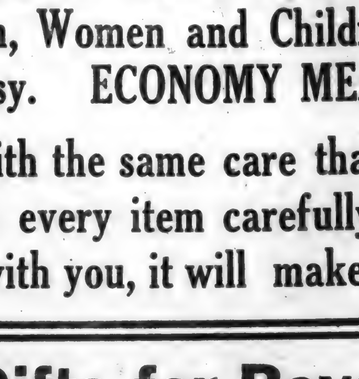
Gifts for Boys

SCOOTERS	$1.50
DRUMS	50, $1.00, $1.50
CARPENTER SETS	$1.00
STEAM ENGINES	75c. and $1.00
TYPEWRITERS	$1.75
LARGE ASSORTMENT MECHANICAL TOYS	10c, 25c, 50c.
BLACK BOARDS	65c.

TOY GUNS, RUBBER BALLS, CHECKERS, DOMINOES, HORSE SHOE GAMES, HORNS, VIOLINS FLUTES, MOUTH HARPS, CORNETS, FIFES, SAXAPHONES, ETC.

MITTENS, GLOVES, STOCKINGS, CAPS, SWEATERS, NECKTIES, HANDKERCHIEFS, POCKET BOOKS, SHOES, 4-BUCKLE ARTICS

UNCLE SAM WATCHES..... $1.00



SANTA CLAUS

will be here in person. We expect him to arrive about 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon, Dec. 24, and will be here the balance of the day and evening. He will have a sack of oranges, nuts and candy for every good boy and girl under 18 years of age. Don't disappoint old Santa, be sure to be at Zonker's Store at 7 o'clock and get the treat he has saved for you.

Big Supply of Candy, Nuts and Fruits

Zonker's Store

ST. JOE, IND.

Ladies- Misses

FANCY HANDKERCHIEFS	5, 10, and 25c
HANDKERCHIEF SETS	50, 75 and $1.00
FANCY GARTERS AND GARTER SETS	25c to $1.00
TURKISH TOWELS	25 and 50c
TURKISH TOWEL SETS	$1.00
COMB AND BRUSH SETS	75c
FANCY LEATHER WEEK END CASES WITH FITTINGS	$9.95
TOILET SETS	25, 50 and $1.50
FANCY BRUSH AND MIRROR SETS	$8.75
POWDER PUFFS	10 and 25c
SILK CAP AND SCARF SETS	$1.98
SQUARE SILK SCARFS	$3.50
COMPACTS	25, 50, 75 and $2.50

LARGE ASSORTMENT OF FACE POWDERS PERFUMES, ETC.

STATIONERY, plain and bright colors, fancy boxes	15 to 75c
HOSE, cotton, silk and wool	25 to $1.00
SEWING BASKETS	25 to 75c
DRESS GLOVES	69 to $1.00
UMBRELLAS, assorted colors	$1.50
HOUSE SLIPPERS	59 to $1.65
FANCY RUBBER APRONS, assorted colors	50c
BED BLANKETS	$1.50 to $3.95
PILLOW TUBING, per yard	30c
ASSORTED STAMPED ART GOODS	10 to 50c
SWEATER COATS	$2.25 to $6.75
RAINBOOTS (ARCTICS) TAN, GRAY, BLACK AND FAWN, snap fasteners	$1.98
4-BUCKLE GALOSHES	$1.98 to $2.50
SLICKERS, red and blue	$3.00 to $3.75

FRUIT BOWLS, fancy patterns	25c
7-PIECE BERRY SETS	$1.19 to $2.19
HEAVY PLAIN WHITE CUPS, PLATES, AND BOWLS, each	10c
7-QUART HEAVY ALUMINUM WATERLESS COOKERS	$3.95

DECEMBER

L 915 0668

THRILLS IN CHRISTMAS STOCKINGS

By Betty Barclay

by the mantle with care
"The stockings were hung
.."In hopes that Saint Nicholas soon would be there."

Millions of children have thrilled to the magic of "The Night Before Christmas." Millions have shouted in glee on Christmas morning as they explored the rustling packages drawn from the depths of tantilizing stockings. Among those millions were you and I.

Let us not forget as we grow older that little hearts thump just as joyfully over Christmas morning surprises as did ours, thirty, forty, or even fifty years ago. Forgetting, we unthinkingly rob the little ones of half the joy of this festive day.

In spite of the fact that Santa Clause has many enemies in these modern times, his name still has the power to bring squeals of delight from tiny tots. We learn soon enough that this jolly little man is imaginary, but this is no reason for refusing to give our children the moments of extreme pleasure that were ours on by gone Christmas Days.

By all means have a Christmas stocking. Do not throw it carelessly on a chair by the bed smile indulgently as you kiss the child goodnight, and later toss a few nuts and candies into it.

No! The Christmas stocking demands more than this. See that it is large. See that it is hung carefully and tenderly at the foot of the bed. And when little eyes have at last closed in sleep, see that the stocking is packed thoughtfully, lovingly and sanely.

Fill the toe with the inevitable Christmas orange. Then proceed to fill the remainder with WRAPPED packages of nuts, candies, fruits and even little gifts that will fit into the stocking. Nothing pleases the wakening child more than a big bulging stocking that assures him immediately of Santa's kindness, unless it is the mystery surrounding those little, rustling, crinkling packages that must be unwrapped and perhaps untied before he knows what they contain.

Yes, a banana is often used as a top piece, but I prefer a jumping jack, a doll, a horn or some other toy. The child is starting in on a day of heavy eating, and it is well to carefully watch his diet. Thus I would avoid chocolates, peanuts, bananas and such things in the stockings.

Hard nuts will even give a greater thrill when unwrapped than the common peanut. Hard candies will not be devoured so rapidly nor in such large quantities as chocolates. Instead of allowing the child to start the morning with a banana, let him eat a big red apple as he explores his stocking treasures, and when he reaches the orange in the toe, have it labeled by Santa Clause so that he will eat this also.

Surely such a loving deception is allowable. All day long, the child will be eating turkey, bread, sugared goodies and other acid-producing foods which are very likely to upset his stomach. An orange in the morning will help to offset this acidity, for the orange has a very decided alkaline reacting when eaten—in spite of the fact that many think of it as an acid fruit.

So have the Christmas stocking orange bear a message from Santa himself, insisting that it be eaten for breakfast. It may be in the form of a brief not, wishing a happy healthful Christmas. The average child would not think of disobeying this command, and thus in juice, sliced or segment form, a medicinal goody will be consumed and the day begun far more sanely than with a handful of chocolates.

Kiddies Write to Santa

Willis
Dear Santa Claus
I want a sled

Dear Santa
Claus I want a desc and a rasr and a box of crans your little friend Jimmy

Dear Santa.
i want a top and James want a top to Dear freind
David

Dear Santa Claus
I Hilma want a doll
Ruth wants dishes
Your little friend
Hilma

Dear Santa Claus.
I want a Boat
and I want a ship a wagon and a mashin a top and thats all
Your little frend
Junior Zonker

Dear Santa
I want a automobile, tractor, tractor-sled, oranges, candy, and nigger-toes. I am 3 years old.
Your frenid
Roger Laub

Dear Santa Claus 1927 I wood like to Have a little wagon and a little car and the children father and mother too Dear Santa Clause
Your little friend
James LeRoy Miller

1927
Dear Santa Claus
I wand a little Santa and a little toot
I dogs stop
Your little
D O Wasson

Dear Santa claus.
I want a Sled.
I want a little truck.
My mama wants Big Bole
I want a ristwatch for my daddy.
I want a ristwatch rr my daddy.
Your little friend
Lewis hearman

marry Christmas to all
Dear Santa Claus
I want a set of dishes and a table
2.
other girls and Boys wants other things I expect,
3.
I want a Rist wach
Your little frinend
Virginia Poper

Mary Christmas
Dear Santa Claus.
my little sister wants a Rattle box
2
my little brother want a little teady bear.
3
my brother want fonten pen.
4
my brother wants fonten pen too.
5
my mama wants a set of dishes
Your little friend Iris

Dear Santa Clause
I want a gun for an I want wangan for an mother wants a pear beeds an dady wants a pear of boads
Jack want a little wang
Deroyal wants Dool cart for Christmas
Janirose wants a red chair
Dilie wants a cabin an some dishes
Olen wants a rattle box for Christmas
Basil Penland

Station J. C. H.
BROADCASTING TO YOU A HAPPY CHRISTMAS AND HEALTHFUL NEW YEAR
J. C. HULL

Der Santa Claus
I want knif. Mi Bros want a ball
Yor Bros
Santa Claus

Dear Santa Claus
Dear Santa Claus
I want a cat on wheels and a dog on wheel I want a top and a car and some toy.
Your little friend
Harry K Randall

Dear Santa
I wand a little automobile, scooter, toot-toot train, pop gun, oranges, nigger-toes, candy. I am five year old.
Your frenid
Claude LeRoy Laub.

Dear Santa Claus
How are you? I want a Santa Claus and mama wants a bowl. I would like Christmas tree.
Your little friend
Rose Sophia Springer

Dec St. Joe ind 15, 1927
Dear Santa Claus.
I want a doll and a comb. and a Ristwatch. I want a Ring and a vandy case. My little sister wants pear of beads my mother a bowl
Your little friend
Pauline Donley

Dear Santa Claus
I want a doll.
I want a vileine. I want a set of dishes. coloring Book.
I want a ristwatch for Opal.
I want a watch for my daddy.
Your little friend
Mary Maxine

Mary Christmas
Dear Santa Claus
I want a big Doll and a scarf
my sister wants a big Doll tu and a scarf my mother wats a table cloth my Daddy wants a sweter Your little friend
Garnett Vonell Washler

Dear Santa Claus
and i want slatd
i want a watch
and i wata a little man
i wata a well
harild wents a Bell
loran wants a donkey
your little friend
Delta Inlow

Dear Santa Claus.
Jingle Jingle hear the
Sleigh bells ring
I want a ring
I want a doll
I want a toy dog
I want a roking horse
I want all kinds of chalk
Your little friend
Blanche Strong

Dear Santa Claus.
I hope you are fine and well.
Dear Santa I want a pair of roller-Skates and a top.
Betty wants a set of dishes. And a doll cart and a doll and a little chair.
Nelda wants a new doll And a set of dishes and some doll dresses for it
George needs a new doll and a kittycar.
your little frind
Dean Kees

Dear Santa Claus,
December 15. 1927,
1.
I want a big doll cart and a Rist watch that Runs and a Ring
2.
My brother wants a set of tools
3
And Charles Wants a steem engen
4.
And Mother wants a efectic sweepper
5
Daddy wants a new pretty car
Your little frend
Eloise Elaine Coburn
St. Joe Ind
Box number 459

DECEMBER

L 915 U669

THE BEST BOOSTER FOR YOUR BUSINESS IN DeKALB COUNTY

ST. JOE NEWS.

NEWS MAKES A GOOD PAPER, SO SEND IT IN TO US.

VOL. XLI. ST. JOE, DeKALB COUNTY, INDIANA, THURSDAY, DECEMBER 29, 1927 NUMBER 52

HAND MADE STEAM ENGINE ON DISPLAY

The attention of News readers is called to an exhibit displayed in the west window of our office. It is a model of a stationary steam engine, minus boiler, and was made by Clarence Coburn, who lives a mile east of St. Joe. Clarence has been afflicted with locomotor ataxia, for several years, which incapacitates him from following his trade, and places him under a coniderable handicap in working on any but light work. The building of this engine has helped to relieve the tedium of many an hour, that would have been otherwise irksome. In its building he was deprived of the use of tools, other than those he had himself constructed, the lathe ued was driven by hand power, the other hand being used to hold the lathe tool. Clarence contemplates building at some future time, another engine, this to be the marine type, with Stephensn link motion. The engine on exhibition has a reverse arrangement, allowing it to be driven either backward or forward.

HILDA KOCH WEDS MISHAWAKA YOUTH IN CHRISTMAS CEREMONY

Miss Hilda Koch, who was "Miss Indiana" in the Atlantic City pageant of beauty in September, is Miss Hilda Koch no more. For at 8:30 o'clock Saturday evening, she became the bride of Clifton Crowell Turnbull, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ewen James Turnbull, at the home of Mr. Turnbull's parents, 505 Calhoun street, Mishawaka.

They were married in the presence of the immediate family, by the Rev. J. A. Burnett, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, Mishawaka. The bride, who was attended by Miss Irene Alby, was gowned in a simple white taffeta dress, made robe de style, with a flounced skirt, piquoted in silver thread. She wore silver slippers and carried a bouquet of brides's roses and valley lilies. Donald Kreis, South Bend served as best man.

Miss Koch, who was first selected "Miss South Bend" and then "Miss Indiana," at an elimination contest in Gary, Ind., where she was in competition with representatives from 10 other cities in Indiana for the honor of representing the state of Indiana at the national beauty pageant, is employed in the advertising department of The South Bend News-Times. Mr. Turnbull is also employed by The News-Times, being the Goshen circulation manager.

Mr. and Mrs. Turnbull left immediately following the ceremony for Chicago, where they will spend their honeymoon. They will make their home with the parents of Mr. Turnbull at 505 Calhoun street.

Mrs. Turnbull is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Koch, St. Joe, Ind.—South Bend News-Times of Sunday, December 25.

COMMUNITY TREE AT SPENCERVILLE

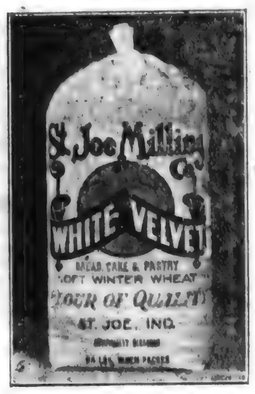
For the first time, the Spencerville community joined in celebrating the Christmas season by having a community Christmas tree, with apropriate services each evening for the week preceding Christmas Day.

The attendance was good, but Saturday night was splendid. The program was made up from the churches.

RAW FURS WANTED!

Highest Market Prices
BRING or SHIP
Immediate Returns

GEO. HODGSON,
St. Joe, Indiana



White Velvet!

The St. Joe Milling Company has been in operation for several months and with the increase in trade we deemed it wise to rename our brand of flour, namely, WHITE VELVET, and we herewith present to our readers and customers a photo of the new sack.

The mill is also busy grinding feed and supplying its trade with feeds of all kinds. If you have not been here to mill do so the next time you are in need of a grist of flour.

St. Joe Milling Co. HERMAN SPRINGER, Sole Owner

KEEP WARM

With High-Grade Coal. It pays in the long run and that is the kind we sell

Feed for Hogs

We have a full line on hand and will be pleased to take care of your wants. Now is the time to feed. Come in and lay in your supply.

Don't Forget Our Lumber Yard

We also carry a full line of Paint. Save with Paint.

NATHAN Grain Co.

St. Joe's New Lumber Yard

Call By Phone for Prices Bert Jackson, Mgr.

Old Year, Good-Bye

THE Old Year is dying, Old Year good-bye!
We are grieved for you, it is hard to die;
But you've lived your life, and you've lived it well,
And now, you must say to your life —farewell.
You have brought to us both honor and shame,
But we hold for you neither praise nor blame,
You have brought us joy, you have brought us woe;
But all the years do the same as they go,
As the years before you have done, so you
Did only the thing it was yours to do
When you came to us another year went,
Another will come when your time is spent,
The New Year we hail with a smile, but sigh
For the year that is gone, Old Year good-bye.

—ANNETTA J. ROBINSON

FACTS TAX PAYERS OUGHT TO KNOW

A fact that all tax payers ought to know is, that the department of conservation is the one department of state work that does not cost the tax payers one cent to operate, being supported by hunting and fishing licenses throughout the year. A statement made recently to the effect that 50,987 more licenses were issued this year than last, and that the receipts of the department totals $272,801.66 and the expenses were given at $227,220.87, leaving a splendid working balance. George N. Mannfeld, head of this department in Indiana, will be at St. Joe on January 12 and will address the public in the high school gym. Plan to be there.

CUT TELEPHONE POLES FOR REVENGE

Five times within a month, telephone wires and poles of the Tyler Telephone company have been cut down and detroyed and officials of the company wonder whether it is worth while to repair their lines until police determine who was responsible for previous vandalism. The company is owned by Hayes Munn of Tyler, Ind., an active prohibitionist, and it was believed the destruction may have been done by bootleggers or their sympathizers.

BUSCO BANK HAS UNEXPECTED RUN

An unexpected run of withdrawals forced the Exchange bank to close its doors Saturday, December 17, about one o'clock. After a rumor of personal trouble in the bank had been circulated about town, depositors began on Wednesday withdrawing their money from the bank. About $20,000 was withdrawn from Wednesday until Saturday noon. The bank has been operated with the present directors and with about ninety stockholders for the past 11 years. It is capitalized at $50,000 with a surplus of $12,000. — Churubusco Truth.

GET-TO-GETHER CLUB IS ORGANIZED

The Coburntown community has established a "get-together" organization and has held two meetings this winter. They meet alternately at the Coburntown and Cheesetown school houses with literary programs each time. Friday evening, this week, the meeting will be held at Cheesetown school house and a general invitation is extended to the public.

LOCAL ITEMS.

Lawrence Pfiaumer, of Springfield, is home for the holidays.

Accidents by the score are reported over the Christmas holiday.

Seven room house for sale or rent. Inquire at St. Joe Valley Bank. 52t1p.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. George Tustison of Auburn, last week.

The finest skating in years is being enjoyed on the low lands, by vacationists and others about town.

Mark Center, Ohio Basket Ball team will play Spencerville on Wednesday eve, Dec. 28. First game at 7:30. 52t1.

Mark Center, Ohio Basket Ball team will play Spencerville on Wednesday eve, Dec. 28. First game at 7:30. 52t1.

Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Kinsey and two sons and Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Pepple, were Christmas guests of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Pepple at Auburn.

A. J. Struble, of Sidney, Ohio, father of Mrs. Henry Shroyer, returned to his home Monday morning, after visiting here from Wednesday.

While playing the part of "Old Saint Nick" at Spencerville school last Friday, Frank Baltz was taken sick and was in bed for a few days.

Convoy, Ohio, has sold her electric light plant to the Ohio Power Co., for $7,763.70, and the new company will supply all current for the consumers.

Dr Julian was a Christmas guest of his son, Ted, at Battle Creek. His son, Ned, of Indianapolis, went on the train and returned with his father by auto.

Mrs. Libbie Wasson, of Dayton, was the guest of her son, Wall and family for the past three weeks. She will spend the winter with Jesse Provines and wife at Auburn.

The mails of the past week reached as high as 30 bags being received at one mail in the mornings. If one knew the total bags received and dispatched for the week, it would be astonishing.

A new bus line has been established between Waterloo, Ind., and Coldwater, Mich. Stops are made at Ashley, Pleasant Lake, Angola, Fremont and Coldwater. The first trip over the new route was made Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Henly and children and Mr. and Mrs. Wid Williams, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Williams at Fort Wayne. The latter family accompanied them home and spent Monday here.

JUNIOR CLASS PLAY

The Junior class play, Love a la Carte, given in the High School and Community building last Thursday night, was decidedly a success. It was a charming play cleverly delivered. Each member of the cast showed the result of careful training and much credit is due the coach, Miss Ruby Shultz. The play was well costumed and the stage setting perfect. The latter is due to a generous supply of fine furniture loaned by E. R. Kinsey.

It is the opinion of many people that the play a a whole would have credited the Senior Class of a larger school.

One week before the production of the play the class realized that owing to an injury received in a basket ball game, Frank Miser would be unable to give his part, that of Mr. Huff, the star male role.

The class explained their trouble to Merritt Maxwell, a member of the St. Joe Dramatic Club, and he readily consented to assist the Juniors. He played the part of Mr. Huff in his usual pleasing fashion.

The entertainment between acts was good and each number received hearty applause. The numbers were as follows: Piano music by Velma Mohney and Miss Vera Hodgon, musical reading Inez Kinsey, cornet solo, Donald Kinsey, vocal solos by Joe Woodcox and reading, Virginia Shull.

S. S. WIDNEY ILL WITH PNEUMONIA

Our old friend, S. S. Widney, who is now at the Leon Sechler home near Edgerton, Ohio, is reported seriously ill with pneumonia. Saturday he was considered dangerous but today he is improved. Mrs. Jennie Sechler, Merritt Sechler, Mrs. Cora Curie, Marion Smith and family, Rev Roediger, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sechler, Mrs. Vernie Mnroe and Mrs. Hollis Diller were among his recent callers.

Ye editor and wife spent Tuesday evening in the sick home and Mr. Widney is in a critical condition, very weak and tired. He is afflicted with a heavy cough, due to his lung condition, making it necessary for someone to be near at all times. He is in bed, the first time in many years.

HORSE BREAKS LEG, FAST IN CROSSING

Saturday, while Mrs. P. A. Walker was coming to town, her horse caught its front foot in the crossing at the grist mill and threw itself, breaking its shoulder. The animal was immediately shot as there was no possible help.

ANNOUNCES MARRIAGE

Announcments have been received of the marriage of Miss Pauline Wasson to Donald L. Greene at Geneva, N. Y. Mr. and Mrs. Greene arrived home last night for a short visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wall Wasson. They expect to reside at 125 W. Pulteney St., Corning, N. Y.

St. Joe MEAT Market

We heard an old man say he didn't trink the girls ought to wear their short dresses any longer, but that they should leave their order early for Poultry for that CHRISTMAS DINNER.

We do grinding and stuffing of sausage, render your lard. Lard cans and sausage casings for sale.

Wm. G. HARMAN,
ST. JOE, IND.

100 % Coffe

Our Coffee is shipped to us d from the roaster in small
That means it is always f
No chance to get stale, we b in bulk and keep it in a tight
tary case.
So you get the most fo
money.

ZONKER'S St

Like a Treasure-Laden SHIP

OUT OF THE DARKNESS COMES THE SHIP OF GOLDEN OPPORTUNITY and SUCCESS WE HOPE AND TRUST IT WILL DOCK AT YOUR PORT MANY TIMES DURING THE NEW YEAR

E. R. KINSEY, Hardware Furniture

DECEMBER

L 915 0670

When the Sandman Comes

By MARTHA MARTIN

"THERE has been one zoo," said the Sandman, "where they have been able to raise a polar bear cub successfully, for usually polar bear cubs do not care for zoos.

"It is different with big polar bears, but the little polar bears have not found that zoo life agreed with them, but this polar bear found it was different and that zoo life agreed with him perfectly from the time he was a baby cub in the zoo until he became quite good size.

"He was so pleased about it that he thought he would sing a polar bear song, and this was his song:

I'm the Polar Bear so bold
Who loves the weather when it's cold
I wear a white suit which looks like the snow,
And I'll tell you, too, I'm a dangerous foe.
But oh, how I love a cake of ice,
With it I'm really and truly nice!
I'm a bear that has grown from a tiny bear,
And this is a great event for this zoo,
Where they have raised me since the day I was born
And have cared for me ever since that morn.
My mother, of course, was a great, great help.
She understood my every yelp.
But this is the first zoo to have raised a cub
And they have called me the prize bear Bub!

"Yes," continued the Sandman, "it was a very wonderful event and the zoo people were very proud of it. They didn't want to boast of it until the bear was big enough to really be sure of growing up into strength and full polar bear size.

"Some of the animals were telling the visitors who they were by roaring and talking in their different ways, and though the visitors could not understand them, the animals did their best to be understood.

"'If they want to know Who's Who in Zooland,' said the Polar Bear, 'they can find out a good deal from looking at us. And our keepers will tell them many things about us.

"'Now, in that outside cage, over some distance, Mr. and Mrs. Emeu are telling their friends and those whom they are seeing for the first time about themselves.'

"And," said the Sandman, "it was true. Mr. and Mrs. Emeu were stalking about in their yard, and were grunting and snorting their little piece about themselves.

He Thought He Would Sing a Polar Bear Song.

"This is what it was when translated into words:

I am Mrs. Emeu, and I'll have you know
That I keep Mr. Emeu well on the go
For he brings up the children and I make him work,
While every duty of mine I shirk.
We have legs like long stilts, and bodies like hay,
And except when it's spring I'm pleasant and gay!

"And Mr. Emeu said:

Every word that she says is true.
This is what she makes me do:
She never, never will let me shirk.
She sees that I keep at my work.
She makes me bring up the children well,
And only allows herself a cross spell.
It's true, as she says, that she's cross in the spring,
But at other times she's a pleasant, nice thing.
She doesn't mind if I call her a thing
For she knows that I'm willing her praises to sing.
I like her, and that's enough for me.
And though she's strange, she and I agree.
I'm willing enough to do all the work
I don't really care to shirk;
And if she's queer with each leg like a stilt,
I am the very same way, you see, built.
And we both have bodies that look like hay,
And most of the time we're happy and gay.
Yes, she tells you the truth in her song,
And I say the same, ding-dong, ding-dong.

"So," the Sandman ended, "these animals and their keepers told the people their names and their histories, and I've put into words you could understand just what it was they said, for the keepers and those who study animals understand animal language and will translate it for people!"

(Copyright.)

Unveil Victory Monument

View during the unveiling of the Victory monument of Porto Rico in San Juan. All insular and federal institutions there took part in the impressive ceremony

The Household "Goat"

By JOHN BLAKE

IN NEARLY every large family there is one person who is tacitly recognized as the household "goat."

Often this person is the mother, sometimes an elder daughter. Nearly always the role is filled by a woman, because women have to stay around the house. The male members of the family, soon or late, break away from the net of domestic restraint.

On the "goat" devolve all the irksome and disagreeable tasks that have to be done. If the family is in moderate circumstances she looks after the children and does the housework. If the family is affluent she entertains the dull guests and does everybody else's shopping.

She is always generous and self-sacrificing and uncomplaining. And for that reason she is always imposed upon.

Because she does not make a fuss when her feelings are hurt the other members of the family conclude that her feelings can't be hurt. They love her, of course. But they never stop to think that their love ought to take some tangible form.

Custom can harden us to a great many things. That is why a loving family can see one of its members cruelly treated day after day and say nothing about it.

It were fact that it is the custom to overlook the victim's wishes in everything finally comes to be considered an excuse for doing so.

But this tyranny is not often conscious tyranny. It is just thoughtlessness.

But it is tyranny all the same.

And the vicious part of it is that the more the victim submits to it the greater the tyranny becomes.

The mother or daughter who sacrifices herself for the pleasure of the others is not only maltreating herself. She is urging the others to even greater selfishness and thoughtlessness.

In time they come to accept her service and sacrifice as merely their due. And thus she injures their characters even while she is depriving herself of her share of pleasure.

There is no good reason that I can think of why one person should be the victim of the family group any more than he should be a victim of a less friendly group. The members of a football team or of a brokerage house do not expect one person to shoulder all the disagreeable tasks.

Why, then, should a family expect one of its members to give up his comfort for the ease of the others?

I would like to see all household "goats" rebel every Monday. A weekly rebellion might jar the family into some appreciation of their worth.

(Copyright.)

"Give a man an inch and he'll take an ell," says Corpulent Cora. "Give a woman an inch and she'll take reducing exercises."

(© by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

SAWS FOR THE GOOSE; SAWS FOR THE GANDER

By VILOA BROTHERS SHORE

FOR THE GOOSE—

WHEN you're in trouble you think of your relations; when you're in danger, of your friends.

You reco'nize an enemy after you make him and a friend after you lose him.

It's the stone that hits you, but the little boy you wanna lick.

All work and no play makes Jack's wife turn to the cake eaters.

FOR THE GANDER—

The river kills when the flood is goin' down. Look out for a woman that shuts her jaws on her temper.

To the Baboon that escaped in the park, the Traffic Cop was on'y a man.

Even if it's a small snake you better soak it with a big stick.

The better fruit a tree carries, the more it gets stoned.

(Copyright.)

Meeting a Red-Haired Man

By H. IRVING KING

IN SECTIONS of the country where hunters most abound, it is considered unlucky for a hunter to meet a red-haired man when he sets out upon his hunting expedition. The part played by the red-haired man in the world of folklore is one which has been the subject of much learned investigation. That many ancient peoples sacrificed red-haired men to their gods is a well-known fact.

It was formerly the theory of anthropologists that this was because to those peoples red-haired men were strangers, they themselves being dark-haired, and in those days strangers and enemies were synonymous. But Sir James Frazer, who is the greatest living authority on such matters, is of the opinion that among the ancients the red-haired man represented the "corn-spirit," the color of his hair corresponding to that of the ripened grain, and points out how in Egypt red-haired men were annually sacrificed at the spring of Osiris and the body being burned, the ashes were scattered over the fields to insure a satisfactory crop. The idea was that of the dying god—the death of grain, its sowing as seed and its resurrection in the form of a new crop. Sir James has written at considerable length upon the relation between the red-haired man in antiquity and the grain-spirit and casts doubts upon the "stranger" theory of the sacrifice of the red-haired. He relies mostly upon Egyptian mythology and ritual. But perhaps Sir James and those anthropologists who differ with him are both right, partially. What was true in Egypt may not have been true in those European regions from which we most directly inherit our folklore traditions.

In the latter the "stranger" theory perhaps prevailed. If, as Maspero says, "a study of modern superstitions will enable us to correct the past by the present" this superstition of the hunters, that it is unlucky to meet a red-haired man, would appear to prove the "stranger" theory with regard to our European ancestors. A red-haired man was a stranger, a stranger was an enemy. To meet an enemy when starting on a hunting expedition boded ill luck, for his companions might be lurking about and make that hunting a hunting of "Chevy Chase."

(© by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Watchful Waiting

© McClure Newspaper Syndicate

"WOT'S DER LAY, BOZO?"

"A SLEEP WALKER LIVES IN DAT SHACK BACK THERE. I'M WAITIN' FER HIM TO DO HIS STUFF SO I KIN HOP IN AN' GRAB A NAP."

Indiana Has Air Police to Catch Crooks

An air police force has been organized at Anderson, Ind., to help the ground police in chasing down fleeing criminals or escaping convicts. Photograph shows, left to right: Dr. F. M. Williams, mayor of Anderson; Elmer Nigibert, chief of police; Leland Kaufman, rookie pilot, and Fred Parker, pilot.

REMEMBER TO BE COURTEOUS

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

DAUGHTER, I'll give you a simple rule,
As wise as any you learn at school,
Though it has to do with a simple thing:
Not the way you walk, nor the way you sing,
Nor the way you dress—it is just the way
You speak to others from day to day.

There are folks we don't like, folks we do,
And we don't know why, but it's surely true.
And yet it's all in the way they speak
When a thing they wish, or a favor they seek.
It's easy enough to understand:
The cultured ask, but the crude command.

There are folks we like, though we hardly know
Just why it is that we like them so
There are folks whose voices jar the ear
And we don't know why—but it's that, my dear
Yes, after all, it's a simple test:
The crude command, the polite request.

The "gimme" people may get a thing
And folks may carry and fetch and bring,
But ask for things with a gracious tone
And both the thing and a friend you'll own.
In all your asking, the courtesies
Remember, daughter — remember please.

(© by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

He Passed

"At one of our examinations," says a member of the faculty of a western university, "a nervous student had been instructed to write out examples of the indicative, subjunctive, potential and exclamatory moods. His efforts resulted as follows: 'I am endeavoring to pass an English examination. If I answer 20 questions, I shall pass. If I answer 12, I may pass. God help me!'"—Harper's Magazine.

The DAIRY

GET RID OF ALL BOARDER COWS

Get rid of the boarder cows and make the good ones produce more milk is the advice of Prof. H. A. Hopper at the State College of Agriculture to New York state dairymen.

The milk situation is largely in the hands of Empire state producers, he says, and if they take a few steps to insure plenty of milk during the next few weeks, the usual shortage period, they can do much to meet the demands of the New York market.

To increase milk production, dairymen should feed their cows more, especially more protein; they should dispose of boarders and give their feed to the good cows; stable the cows when the weather is cold or rainy; be sure the cows get plenty of water, and take good care of cows that will freshen soon.

Cows that are on short pasture should have green fodder. Good second growth in meadows may be pastured if the cows are managed carefully. They should have a feeding of dry hay before they are turned into the meadow, and the grass, of course, should be dry, for they may bloat if they eat wet green grass.

To increase the protein cows get, they may be fed a mixture of 200 pounds corn or hominy, 100 barley, 300 wheat bran, 200 cottonseed meal, 100 linseed oil meal, and 100 pounds gluten feed. Dairymen who have peas, oats and barley may mix 1,200 pounds of the ground mixture with 400 cottonseed meal, 200 gluten feed, and 200 oil meal.

Cows that will freshen soon should be in good condition; grain fed to them is well invested, Professor Hopper says.

Nothing helps more nor is a better investment than a good supply of drinking water for cows. Milk is mostly water, but cows can't make milk without it. Buckets in the barn quickly pay for themselves.

Progress Being Made in Dairy Industry Is Good

Not so many years ago the milk production of the average cow was around 3,000 pounds a year. Now it is over 4,000 pounds a year and it will go higher. Last year 12,200 cows owned by 700 Illinois dairymen averaged 7,580 pounds of milk. The average feed cost of these cows was $77.53 and the average value of the product $187.65. These cows were "owned and operated" by men who were interested in their business, for they were members of dairy herd improvement associations. How would it do for some of our orators to go and tell them that we know enough about production, and that prosperity lies in something else?—Ohio Farmer.

Feed Green Soy Beans to Improve Milk Flavor

Experiments just reported by the United States Department of Agriculture show that feeding green soy beans to dairy cows just before milking them tends to improve the flavor of the milk. The soy beans were fed in quantities up to 30 pounds per cow. The soy beans were first fed when the plants began to form pods and were continued until the beans had reached full size, but were not hard. While soy beans improve the milk flavor, rape fed green just before milking had the opposite effect, imparting an objectionable flavor to the milk.

Dairy Facts

Always feed grain according to the amount of milk produced.

• • •

When calves are fed grain in stanchions, each gets its share.

• • •

Alfalfa has a high feeding value in that it is palatable and nutritious.

• • •

Three-leaf clover is as lucky as four-leaf, if the dairymen have enough of it.

• • •

Dairymen should feed all the legume hay and silage that a cow will eat up clean.

• • •

A good dairy cow probably consumes more water than any other domestic animal. The more feed consumed, the more water the cow requires.

• • •

Provide silage for the herd. No dairyman can reach real permanent prosperity without a silo, or at least the silo will materially increase his stability and prosperity.

• • •

One form of garget is chronic and "catching," and if you get that into your herd, the only cure is to sell off the affected cows.

• • •

The important thing for the dairyman is to provide a convenient place and an abundance of hot water for washing and rinsing all utensils.

• • •

Herd uniformity and beauty may seem to have an intangible value only. But when it comes to selling the offspring that view is quickly changed. Beauty is an asset.

DECEMBER

L 91

U671

A New Year's Conscience

by Martha Banning Thomas

SOME of us were born in New England and have that kind of a conscience. Why New England should produce a particular conscience different from any other's conscience seems a little difficult to explain. However, there seems to be a tradition about it. If you possess a New England conscience you are supposed to be responsible to the last degree. You go one point further than actually neccessity and worry for fear you won't think up all the possible things you might have done under a certain set of circumstances.

Well, then—

We all rather like to think we obey our conscience: it gives us a faint glow of saintliness. (Though, of course, to admit this publicly would ruin us for life!) Whatever conscience is—"a still, small voice," unbroken nabits of right thinking, an instinct that urges us toward the best—most of us possess an inner law of some sort or another: and we either follow this law, or push it off irritably.

At New Year's we take stock of our affairs. And very often conscience sits as judge. And let us never forget that we are responsible. Not to be responsible is a kind of crime. Just so far as we have pushed our abilities, then just so far should we use them for the finest development. To do less is sheer waste of invaluable material. To do less is being false to ourselves. To do less is sinning against truth.

Convictions may change from year to year: we should keep stride with them as strong men—not take it out in thinking but demonstrating them by doing. If we are good workmen—be it in the woods or in the shop, country or town—and do not do that work for the glory of doing it well, then we never should have been trusted with ability. For ability is a two-edged sword—if not sharpened for the gallant battle of life, it turns to rend the owner.

Let this year's conscience be nourished by that higher, unwritten responsibility which answers the quiet, inner knowledge of life carried forward with the utmost strength and courage.

Happy New Year to our conscience!

A Good Resolution

One of the New Year resolutions that would mean increase of happiness in many a family is this: Not to speak of mistakes which make no difference. How arguing over nothings mars the home harmony. An erroneous opinion may need correction, but what possible difference does it make whether Aunt Jane came to dinner Tuesday or Wednesday, or whether it rained Friday or Saturday.—Advent Christian Missions.

A PSALM FOR NEW YEAR'S EVE

By Dinah Muloch Craik

A FRIEND stands at the door:
In either tight-closed hand
Hiding rich gifts, three hundred and three score;
Even as seed the sower,
Each drop, he treads it in, and passes by;
It cannot be made fruitful till it die.

O good New Year, we clasp
This warm shut hand of thine,
Loosing forever, with half sigh, half gasp,
That which from ours falls like dead fingers' twine:
Ay, whether fierce its grasp
Has been, or gentle, having been, we know
That it was blessed: let the Old Year go.

O New Year, teach us faith!
The road of life is hard:
When our feet bleed, and scourging winds us scathe,
Point thou to Him whose visage was more marred
Than any man's; who saith,
"Make straight paths for your feet," and to the oppreest,
"Come ye to Me, and I will give you rest."

Yet hang some lamp-like hope
Above this unknown way,
Kind year, to give our spirits freer scope
And our hands strength to work while it is day.
But if that way must slope
Tombward, oh, bring before our fading eyes
The lamp of life, the Hope that never dies.

Comfort our souls with love—
Love of all human kind;
Love special, close—in which, like sheltered dove,
Each weary heart its own safe nest may find;
And love that turns above
Adoringly, contented to resign
All loves, if need be, for the Love Divine.

Friend, come thou like a friend,
And whether bright thy face,
Or dim with clouds we cannot comprehend,
We'll hold out patient hands, each in his place,
And trust thee to the end,
Knowing thou leadest onwards to those spheres
Where there are neither days, nor months, nor years.

Every Year a Milestone

Every year is a milestone. A stepping-stone or a stumbling block? Your life is a part of many lives and these many lives are a part of yours. Character is the estimation of your conduct in life by those who dwell about you.

1928 Greeting

The Lord bless thee and keep thee. The Lord make His face to shine upon thee, and be gracious unto thee. The Lord lift up his countenance upon thee, and give thee peace.—Numbers 6:24-26.

THE window frame shivered, creaked and gave way under the prying force of the jimmy. The flat palm of a massive hand finished the raising process. A foot thrust over the casement was firmly planted on the floor of the darkened room. After a hasty survey of the apartment, the man called out the window, "Pard!" then whistled softly.

In due time "Pard" arrived via the window route. A systematic search of the house was instituted, and the valuables deposited in the living room.

"New Year's means lots of parties, and a party for us, uh, Sam?"

"Pard!" Sam painfully exclaimed from the depths of one of the bedrooms, "you bozo, drop every last thing in your hands."

"Sam, you sap," growled the other disgustedly, "you ain't gone sentimental again? I thought if I got you through Christmas all right, you'd come out all O. K."

Sam walked over to him and put his hand on his friend's shoulder. "You have been a friend to me. See this picture? It was there on the chifforobe. That's her, 'Pard'! I'd do anything on earth for that," and he slapped the picture vehemently, only to meet his "Pard's" sour looks. "There ain't no time like tonight to begin all over again. Tonight starts a New Year, an' a start with this in my possession means sure-enough success. I'm young. She don't know I went to the dogs, 'Pard.' She never will—if you're a friend. I'll pay you fifty dollars to leave that stuff right where it is an' beat it. This is all I'm taking, and her father will never miss that." Sam gazed into the eyes of one who meant so much to him, then into "Pard's" glowering ones.

"To think my year's work was to turn out like this. A softy, a sap what thinks a New Year says a new start—and after that thing, too."

His laughter subsided as the scraping of a key and the tumblers of the lock gave a warning note. Four feet found their way over the window sill into the darkness of the night.

(©, 1927, Western Newspaper Union.)

As the Old Year Dies

To most people the passing of the year, even though the new period holds hope of advance and greater happiness, has its sad aspect. There lies behind neglected oportunities, wasted hours and days, chances for worthy endeavor ignored. The retrospect is in many cases not pleasant. But it is well to look back, to review that which has just passed, and to note the things left undone as well as those that have been done as a guide and a warning for the year to come.

POULTRY

BIG MONTHS IN EGG PRODUCTION

Fall and winter months may be termed the profit months in poultry culture for the reason that the big difference in production between heavy laying flocks and flocks which are not profitable comes during that season of the year. Almost any healthy hen will lay well toward spring.

It is an established fact that a flock must average approximately 100 eggs per hen per year in order to return the owner a profit. The difference between the monthly flock averages of good flocks and poor flocks comes mainly during the fall and winter months. In other words, the owners of profitable flocks have utilized methods which increase production at a time of year when fresh eggs are scarce and therefore higher in price.

Early hatches of early maturing birds could be set down as one of the most important points in getting heavier fall and winter production. Pullets that start laying during the latter part of October are from hatches that came before May 1, usually before April 1. They are birds that have been well fed and are fully developed. Good birds of this character will produce greatly over 100 eggs per year if they are properly fed and housed.

Proper feeding and housing are the second factors that must receive attention in order to get a good yield of fall and winter eggs. Hens will lay in the spring on a straight grain ration. At that time they are answering nature's demands and will lay if conditions are at all suitable. However, after the normal laying season is over, it is correspondingly hard to secure heavy production. This can only be done by using a ration that supplies plenty of animal protein, minerals, and succulent feed in addition to grain, which is needed as the basis of all rations. Houses must be warm, well ventilated and comfortable. In other words, the hen must be fed and managed so that she will feel like keeping right on with her egg production.

Parasites and diseases are the third source of trouble. Nothing will upset a good laying flock quicker than a lot of troublesome mites that make the birds want to leave their regular houses and roost in the trees.

Preparing for Winter Around Poultry House

A thorough cleaning of the poultry house should take place at this time of year in preparation for winter. The clean-up should consist of removing nests, roosts, hoppers, drinking stands and all other equipment from the house. Each should get a thorough scrubbing with water and some good disinfectant. The house itself should be swept, ceilings, walls and floor. The floor should be well scraped clean of all hard, dried litter and droppings. Dirt floors should have at least six inches of the old dirt taken off and replaced with six inches of clean dirt.

The final clean-up step should be a thorough spraying of the inside of the house with some good disinfectant. Whitewash helps to brighten a dark house and a freshly whitewashed house has a tendency to encourage its owner to keep it looking clean for some time to come.

Poultry Facts

A young guinea is like a young grouse or quail and will hide when scared. They do not make any noise at all when they hide from a supposed enemy and are very hard to find.

• • •

Some poultrymen place a large box of coal or wood ashes in each section of their laying houses. The hens dust in the ashes and undoubtedly remove many body lice by the process.

• • •

Feeding whole, dry oats as a large part of or all whole grain ration is poor business. Even though the oats are plump and bright, the hulls make them poor feed except in limited quantities.

• • •

The Missouri College of Agriculture has recently completed some experiments in which they find that in feeding hens, soy-bean meal may be used in place of meat scrap, thereby reducing the cost of feed. They also found it paid to feed mineral.

• • •

While the hen isn't exactly a grazing animal, she does suck a lot of grass under her belt during a summer day. And when she can't get it, she must have sprouted oats, cabbage, mangels, or such, if she's going to gladden you with eggs.

• • •

If we expect winter eggs we must produce our pullets from hens that are bred to lay during the winter.

• • •

Thoroughly spraying the poultry house, especially the roosting and laying quarters, with crude oil or coal oil will destroy the red mites.

• • •

The period when pullets start laying is a critical one. Pullets which are due to begin to lay at freezing weather usually wait until spring. This means an entire loss for several months.

Draw Your Own Moral From This Anecdote

Governor Dern of Utah, in a witty after-dinner speech in Salt Lake City, praised cosmetics.

"After all," he said, "cosmetics make life pleasanter. Let me tell you a story.

"The minister's wife, at Croydon Four Corners, spent last winter with her niece and nephew in New York, and on her return home she was made up a little.

"The minister was at work on a sermon in his study when she got back. He looked up at her from his manuscript with a smile of welcome, but the next moment his smile changed to a frown.

"'Woman,' he thundered, 'go wash your face.'

"The poor lady obeyed meekly, and then she returned to the study. Again the minister looked up from his manuscript.

"'Woman,' he thundered, 'go back and put it on again.'"—Detroit Free Press.

The Child Skeptic

Vachel Lindsay, the poet, who is an authority on child life, said in Springfield the other day:

"Even children are showing signs of the skepticism common to these post-war times.

"A Sunday school teacher of Springfield was describing the Deluge.

"'And all living creatures were drowned,' she said, 'except those that were taken on board the ark.'

"But a sharp-faced little girl said with a snicker:

"'How about the fishes, teacher?'"

Ray Times Horse Races

An automatic wireless timekeeper for horse races has been tried out with success at a track at Cape Town, South Africa, recently. It is worked by an invisible ray from a lamp in the judges' box focusing on a point of light one-fifth of an inch in diameter on a selenium cell fixed in the winning post. Anything crossing the invisible ray, extinguishes the point of light, and the clock ceases.

"Chinatown" Americanized

San Francisco's Chinatown now has a modern American playground. Built in the heart of this, America's most famous Chinatown, the playground's landscaping is in oriental design, but its equipment includes the latest and best American play devices. And the little Chinese enjoy the sandpiles, swings, tennis courts, etc., just as much as do average American children.

Kept Clock Moving

When a broken pin caused the faithful clock in St. Paul's cathedral, London, to stop men acted as the works. Recognizing the fact that thousands depended on the clock for time, officials of the church placed behind the face of the timekeeper men who turned the hands every minute during the daytime and until repairs were completed.

Honey Bees' Production

A Kansas bee man, W. L. Powell, has 3,750,000 bees, or 750 pounds of them, counting 5,000 bees to the pound. The bees produced 2,500 pounds of honey this year, or about three times their own weight in sweetness. If you would have honey better keep more than one bee.—Capper's Weekly.

When You Feel a Cold Coming On, Take Laxative BROMO QUININE Tablets to work off the Cold and to fortify the system against an attack of Grip or Influenza. 30c.—Adv.

Changed!

Murray—Before they were married she used to rave about his magnetic personality.

Jeanne—And now she says the only thing he can attract is bill collectors!

Hoxsie's Croup Remedy strikes at the root and prevents serious lung troubles. No family safe without it. No opium. 50 cts.—Adv.

Thoughtful Girl

Girl—Be careful when you cross the street, dear.

Boy—You are so thoughtful of me!

Girl—Well, I don't like to walk home alone on a dark night like this.

Ask for SUNSHINE RAISINS. Seedless. Rich in Iron and Vitamines. Create energy. Good for children. Full pound. All grocers.—Adv.

Amused Her

Reggie—What do you like most in me, baby?

Marjorie—Well, as I'm a baby, it must be because you're so rattle-headed.

Modernize your home with OAK Floors

Reduce housework. Make your home more beautiful, more valuable for rental or sale. Write for free literature.

OAK FLOORING BUREAU
1293 Builders' Building CHICAGO

Garfield Tea

Was Your Grandmother's Remedy

For every stomach and intestinal ill. This good old-fashioned herb home remedy for constipation, stomach ills and other derangements of the system so prevalent these days is in even greater favor as a family medicine than in your grandmother's day.

To Cool a Burn

Use Hanford's Balsam of Myrrh

Money back for first bottle if not suited. All dealers.

Stop Coughing

The more you cough the worse you feel, and the more inflamed your throat and lungs become. Give them a chance to heal.

Boschee's Syrup

has been giving relief for sixty-one years. Try it. 30c and 50c bottles. Buy it at your drug store. G. G. Green, Inc., Woodbury, N. J.

Defiance

He—The first time you contradict me I'm going to kiss you.

She—You are not!—Life.

Grocers sell SUNSHINE RAISINS. A delicious food confection, rich in Iron and Vitamines. Fine for growing children. All grocers.—Adv.

Unanswerable

He—Oh, all women are alike.

She—Nonsense! Then why should some men commit bigamy?

Doomed to Silence

"Saw Bill today."

"What did he say?"

"Nothing. His wife was with him."—Pathfinder Magazine.

The City Kind

"Emily, is there anything you want in town this morning?"

"Yes; you might buy a jar of that traffic jam I've been reading about."—London Tit-Bits.

Saves Fuel

A crude oil engine invented by C. E. Grayson, an Australian engineer, is said to operate at a fraction of the fuel consumption of an ordinary engine. It operates on the plan of a "constant pressure combustion cycle."

PORTER'S Pain King SALVE

An efficient and quick-acting oi... ment, made of wool fat (lanoline) co... bined with antiseptic, healing, pa... relieving medicine.

Recommended for burns, cuts, sore... wounds, bruises, chapped and cracked... skin, boils, piles and felons.

Used as a local application to relie... colds on the chest, croup, lum... varicose veins and eczema.

The Geo. H. Rundle Co., Piqua, ...

Goodhair S...
A Scientific Remedy... cure of all Hair, Scr... Skin Diseases. Sold on... antee. One trial will... you. At your druggis... mail on receipt of 25...
THE GOODHAIR CO... Cincinnati, Ohio

RHEUMATISM
For 35 Years
TRUSLER'S RHEUMATIC TABLETS
HAVE GIVEN RELIEF
All Druggists. Two Sizes, 50c and $1.00.
Trusler Remedy Co. Cincinnati, O.

W. N. U., FORT WAYNE, NO. 52-1927.

Druggist Gave Her Advice

Miss Ruth Horowitz, Bronx, N. Y., writes: "Having been troubled with indigestion caused by constipation for several months, my druggist advised me to try CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS. He said they are good for a hundred different ailments, if people only knew the value of them. I can safely say that since I am taking them, and only one each night, I feel like myself again and can eat most anything."

Those who suffer from sick headache, indigestion, biliousness tired-out and achey feeling, when due to constipation, will find relief in taking CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS.

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS in red packages, 25c. and 75c.

Try them to-night—To-morrow refreshed—All druggists.

DECEMBER

L 915

4672

RESOLUTIONS

There is no good reason why New Year's affords a better time to make a good resolution than any other season of the year. Any date on which one may reach the concluion that one would be better for desisting from some practice to which one is addicted, or to adopt a course which one has not hitherto followed, is a good time to begin. However, New Year's is a favorite date because it is the start of another year. The slate is wiped clean then and a new account is opened. It is easier to make a resolution than it is to keep it. Resolutions have to do with improvement. It doesn't require resolutions to do worse than one did in the old year. A worse course offers few difficulties in execution. To do better is the one which requires fortitude and persistence.

Despite resolutions we may make most of us do not change greatly from year to year. It's the trend, though, that makes the chief difference. With some the direction is on an ascending plane while with others there is a down grade and the latter is the easier course to pursue, though the difference between the two may not be especially perceptible. Most of those who improve a little do not do so conspicuously, while many of those who grow worse do not do so at a rapid rate. The result depends on the kind of a groove in which one is running; for we do run in grooves very largely. The person moving on a plane surface without any ruts to hold him in his course is an exception.

We do not decry New Year's resolutions. Good ones made and broken may be much better than none at all. Yet, one who never thinks of change of habits and motives except at the inception of another year will not get very far in personal uplift. These dates come too infrequently and there are not enough of them in a lifetime.

THE "NEW" YEAR

The New Year will be a repetition of old experiences, a re-enforcement of old laws, a re-affirmation of another common saying which is that human nature changes little and human relationships aer much the same today as they were when the first philosophical writer first set his chisel to work n the stone tablets whereon were itten the observations and rec- of that far-off time when the man race first began to discover the antiquity of the planet and the unswerving laws that govern it.

We enter upon the New Year, to be sure, but in it we shall be responsive to the same forces as heretofore. We will be rewarded as we put into harmony with divine statutes and punished as we disregard them. There are but two lamps by which our feet may be guided, those of experience and concience. If we profit by one and hearken to the other, we shall avoid many of the pitfalls that lie ahead; the same old pitfalls, in the same old places and hidden in the same old manner. If we play the game in accord with the rules laid down by that "still small warning voice within," we shall escape the old retributions for the same old errrs that men and women have been making for thousands of years.

SCHOOLING

Most Americans get their schooling between the ages of 6 and 16, says Prof. Dallas L. Sharp, of Boston University.

That is true. But most of us do not begin to get our real education until we leave school. Experience remains the greatest teacher.

When a school graduate strikes out in the world for himself, one of the first things he has to do is unlearn much of what he has been taught. The delusion that takes most time to get out of the head is youth's inflated conception of the possibilities of success.

CHANCES

The city industrial worker has one chance in eight of living to be 70 years old. The farmer has one chance in three. So reports a committee of the United Hospital Fund, New York.

There in a nutshell, you have a graphic picture of what civilization is doing to us.

Health is close to the soil.

The time is not far off when cities will inlarge part break up, factories moving to the open country and taking workers with them. Either that or man heads for extinction.

Local Briefs

Pure, fresh ground buckwheat lour. St. Joe Milling Co.

Clarence Foltz, of Fort Wayne and the Misses Pauline and Mildred Foltz, of near Holgate, were Tuesday and Wednesday guests in the Foltz and Buckingham homes.

Writing tablets at News office.

Pure, fresh ground buckwheat lour. St. Joe Milling Co.

Mrs. Fred High is spending a couple of weeks with her sister at Hicksville.

Eugene Harman, of Fort Wayne, is spending the week with relatives in St. Joe.

Don't call the fire department for that black smoke. It's merely a Christmas cigar.

Many a small boy is kept after school because his father worked his arithmetis wrong.

Miss Patrice Wineland is spending the holidays with her mother at Columbus, Ohio.

Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Renner ,of Etna Green, were guests in the F. B. Leighty home this week.

Mrs. Emma Gibford, of Auburn, is here the guest of D. D. Burley and in the J. H. Leighty home.

Cement makers use 14,000,000 pounds of dynamite a year. May we say their business is booming.

Mrs. Jesse Copp and children are here for a few days visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Monroe.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Hull and Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Quance and sons, spent Monday at Peru and Logansport.

Mrs. C. W. Bell and son, William, of Fort Wayne, were Tuesday visitors of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Buckingham.

The congressional hopper is gradually filling up with bills, and for most of them that's all that will happen.

Prices cut to the core on all fall and winter goods, sweater coats, underwear, caps, footwear, blankets, shirts, hosiery, gloves, etc. Zonker's Store. 52t1.

A number of business houses have been broken into at Hicksville of late. Only a small amount of money being taken.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Wasson of Ashland, Ohio, were here over Christmas guests of the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wall Wasson.

The usual good attendances were had at the churches on Saturday and Sunday evenings, when the Christmas programs were rendered.

Eighty-eight acre farm for rent 3 miles west of St. Joe. Present tenant Joe Wyatt. Write W. H. Gibbs, 2017 Meridian Street, Fort Wayne, Ind. 49tf.

A Christmas dinner was served at the Stanley Koch home at Fort Wayne. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Koch and their son, Joseph, and wife were present.

A new Ford car stopped in St. Joe a short time Tuesday afternoon and it was nearly mobbed. We wondered where all the inhabitants came from.

For Sale:—The newest in Electric Washers. The One-minute Model 60, $97.50, also Model 52. Will be glad to demonstrate. Drop a card to M. S. Hilpert, Hicksville, Ohio. 46tf.

Rev. J. F. McKnight and family are spending a few day this week near Muncie, the guests of Mrs. McKnight's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Pierce. Mrs. McKnight's grandmother is seriously ill at her home.

Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Quance and family and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Quance of Fort Wayne, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Quance and children and Fred Quance, of Auburn, spent Christmas Day with Ye Editor and wife. Miss Mary Quance remained for the week in St. Joe.

It will simplify your Christmas shopping problems and you'll have no more worry over Christmas bills if you join our Christmas Savings Club. The thrifty shoppers this year joined a year ago.

Ask some of your friends how pleasant it is to get a check for $25, or $50, or $100, two weeks before Christmas. Ask them how easy it is to save a little each week. Ask them if it hasn't made Christmas shopping a pleasure this year. And ask them, too, if you don't get best values for Christmas Savings Club checks.

Then come to our bank and let us explain the varion plans by which you put aside a small amount each week and draw out a healthy sum, with interest, for which you'll get best values next year. It's a practical plan that hundreds of members of our Christmas Savings Club are benefitting by this year. It's really very easy to rid yourself of worry over Christmas bills. Join our Christmas Savings Club and be your own Santa Claus by giving yourself the "best values" next year.

ST. JOE VALLEY BANK

A CORRECT OPTICAL SERVICE

Is always worth far more to the patient than it costs. That the best is the cheapest is doubly so in Optometry. Notice the heading says service. The most valuable thing we have to give our patients is our ability. If you decide to give your eyes attention may we demonstrate the accuracy of our services?

ED. W. HICKS
AUBURN
"OUR SPECIALTY — COMFORTABLE VISION"

My New Year Wealth

By KATHERINE EDELMAN

THROUGH all this coming year, I pray
I shall find something every day
To gladden me and make me know
That blessings sweet and true shall flow
Through every hour and every day
If we but seek them on the way.

Too often, with unseeing eyes,
With bitter heart, that never tries
To look for things of joy and cheer,
We go along through all the year,
Nor see the hundred pleasures small
That fill the way for one and all.

Unmindful of the things we hold,
More precious far than gleaming gold,
We fume and cry, we chafe and fret
For something that we cannot get,
And spurn without a passing sigh
Sweet homey pleasures that are nigh.

How many times in other years
I nurtured troubles, doubts and fears,
And would not raise my eyes to see
The pleasures that awaited me,
The hundred blessings I could find
If sought with open heart and mind.

I shall resolve this coming year
I'll seek my share of joy and cheer,
The share I am entitled to,
That is my own, my honest due;
I would be foolish, most unwise
To pass such wealth with blinded eyes.

(©, 1926, Western Newspaper Union.)

A New Tire on New Year's Eve

By Martha Banning Thomas

SOMETHING was certainly the matter out in the lot next to the house. There was a confused sound of voices. Then a sharp tapping on metal. Sometimes this came clearly, then again it was muffled, as the wind carried the noise to or from the farmhouse.

Murray threw down his book and pulled up the shade. "Gosh!" he muttered, "I wish on New Year's Eve at least I could have an hour free for reading. Seems as though people choose this road particularly, so they can run into my fences or turn themselves upside down on my front lawn." He peered into the blackness. At first he could only see his own distorted reflection on the polished glass. Then gradually he was able to make out a dark, moving mass near the maple tree at the bridge.

"Why will folks be such fools as to drive a stormy night like this?" he went on grumbling. "I stay at home and content myself with a good book, but other people must doll up and go somewhere! Idiots!"

All this growling was merely a preparation. Murray growled in the same way a cold engine sputters before it gets warmed up to move. He knew that he must go out and investigate. He had done it often. He would continue doing it as long as he lived in this rather lonely farmhouse. There was no one else for a mile either side to help a driver in trouble. "Gosh!"

Murray threw the light from his jacket on two kneeling figures. With cold, stiff fingers they were trying to unscrew bolts from the rim of a wheel.

"We are in a hurry, and there is no time to be lost," they said.

Then Murray glanced at the big, black machine. It was the city automobile; the finest car in the village.

"Who is it?" he gasped.

"Old Mrs. Peck. She slipped down her steps and broke her hip. Doc says we must jump right along and get her into the city hospital."

It took about two seconds for Murray to get at those bolts. He worked furiously. In no time at all the old tire was off and the new one on.

"Guess I'll ride along, too," said Murray carelessly. "Mrs. Peck, I'm sorry to get at those bolts. He worked this coming year, I pray
I shall find something every day
To gladden me and make me know
That blessings sweet and true shall flow
Through every hour and every day
If we but seek them on the way.

Too often, with unseeing eyes,
With bitter heart, that never tries
To look for things of joy and cheer,
We go along through all the year,
Nor see the hundred pleasures small
That fill the way for one and all.

Unmindful of the things we hold,
More precious far than gleaming gold,
We fume and cry, we chafe and fret
For something that we cannot get,
And spurn without a passing sigh
Sweet homey pleasures that are nigh.

How many times in other years
I nurtured troubles, doubts and fears,
And would not raise my eyes to see
The pleasures that awaited me,
The hundred blessings I could find
If sought with open heart and mind.

I shall resolve this coming year
I'll seek my share of joy and cheer,
The share I am entitled to,
That is my own, my honest due;
I would be foolish, most unwise
To pass such wealth with blinded eyes.

(©, 1926, Western Newspaper Union.)

A New Tire on New Year's Eve

By Martha Banning Thomas

SOMETHING was certainly the matter out in the lot next to the house. There was a confused sound of voices. Then a sharp tapping on metal. Sometimes this came clearly, then again it was muffled, as the wind carried the noise to or from the farmhouse.

Murray threw down his book and pulled up the shade. "Gosh!" he muttered, "I wish on New Year's Eve at least I could have an hour free for reading. Seems as though people choose this road particularly, so they can run into my fences or turn themselves upside down on my front lawn." He peered into the blackness. At first he could only see his own distorted reflection on the polished glass. Then gradually he was able to make out a dark, moving mass near the maple tree at the bridge.

"Why will folks be such fools as to drive a stormy night like this?" he went on grumbling. "I stay at home and content myself with a good book, but other people must doll up and go somewhere! Idiots!"

All this growling was merely a preparation. Murray growled in the same way a cold engine sputters before it gets warmed up to move. He knew that he must go out and investigate. He had done it often. He would continue doing it as long as he lived in this rather lonely farmhouse. There was no one else for a mile either side to help a driver in trouble. "Gosh!"

Murray threw the light from his jacket on two kneeling figures. With cold, stiff fingers they were trying to unscrew bolts from the rim of a wheel.

"We are in a hurry, and there is no time to be lost," they said.

Then Murray glanced at the big, black machine. It was the city automobile; the finest car in the village.

"Who is it?" he gasped.

"Old Mrs. Peck. She slipped down her steps and broke her hip. Doc says we must jump right along and get her into the city hospital."

It took about two seconds for Murray to get at those bolts. He worked furiously. In no time at all the old tire was off and the new one on.

"Guess I'll ride along, too," said Murray carelessly. "Mrs. Peck, I'm sorry about your accident. Hope you get well soon."

"Thank you, Murray," said the old lady gratefully. "You're a good boy."

Murray sent up a prayer of thankfulness that he had sacrificed a book in time to help put on a new tire.

(©, 1926, Western Newspaper Union.)

Pure, fresh ground buckwheat lour. St. Joe Milling Co.

The W. C. T. U. will meet Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock with Mrs. Cora Curie.

A tenant wanted for the J. N. Scholes farm. Inquire at the St. Joe Valley Bank. 50tf.

Have your glasses fitted by Benj. F. Griest, Eyesight Specialist, Office in American Bldg., Hicksville, Ohio. 28tf.

Mr. and Mrs. Jno. Hutson, of South Bend, and Merle Haynes, of Battle Creek, were week-end guests in the F. M. Thornton home.

Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Meese entertained at Sunday dinner, Cal Hutton and family, Glen Hefley and family and Ben Warner, wife and children of near Auburn, and Frank Meese and wife of St. Joe.

Parent-Teacher Association

Arrangements are being made to have Mr. H. Francis James give one of his well known "chalk talks" at the next P. T. A. meeting, Tuesday eve, January 10. Mr. James is Director of Fort Wayne Art School and Museum. He is a traveler, artist, author and lecturer. You cannot afford to miss this meeting. Watch for further announcements, do not forget the date—and tell your friends.

Things to Think About as the New Year Comes

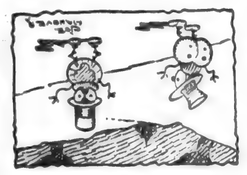
BETTER have a New Year and get rid of the old one.

Get off on your right foot or you will find yourself left behind the procession.

Many a man does not turn over a new leaf because he has come to the end of the volume.

Thank God you can turn over a new leaf, because you still have a few unused ones left.

Will the New Year be a fyleaf, or the beginning of another grand division of life's volume?—Western Christian Advocate.



Poor Bus

"Did you turn over a new leaf?"

"No. I couldn't find a new leaf anywhere."

Murray sent up a prayer of thankfulness that he had sacrificed a book in time to help put on a new tire.

(©, 1926, Western Newspaper Union.)

FIVE YOUNG MEN ARE FINED FOR PUBLIC INTOXICATION AT AUBURN

Dan C. Chapman, Seth Cummins, Don Bien, Marion Oman and Roger Riddl, all of Columbia City, entered pleas of not guilty to charges of public intoxication when arraigned in Justice of the Peace Court of E. A. McClintock, in Auburn on Saturday, Dec. 24, their cases were continued to Tuesday, Dec. 27, when all changed their minds deciding that they had been intoxicated, entering pleas of guilty, each was assessed $10 and costs.

A total of $40.45 each. The young men had been in Fort Wayne and were returning to Columbia City by the way of Garrett when near Butler Center at a sharp turn in the highway their car turned over, wrecking the car. The arrests were made by Sheriff John Armstrong.

SUNDAY SCHOOL REPORTS

The following is the report of Sunday schools in this vicinity for last Sunday, according to information sent The News by representatives of the schools reported.

Spencerville M. E.	55	$5.81
Lutheran	54	$2.34

Mother kept that school girl complexion by occasionally walking five or ten miles past a lot of drug stores.

Nearby and Yonder

By T. T. MAXEY

WNU Service

The Bad Lands

IN SOUTHWESTERN North Dakota there is a wild and weird region, rich in romance, exciting in history, of unquestioned ugliness and saturated with interest that is markedly different from any other known section of the world's surface.

It extends about ninety miles north and south by about fourteen miles east and west and is called the Bad Lands—not because of lack of law and order, but because it is difficult to traverse.

The Little Missouri river has cut deep-eided canyons through it. Time and the elements have fashioned the region behind them into a labyrinth of smaller valleys, ridges, gullies, rugged hillsides, peaks and flat-topped buttes.

Underlying these lands were many beds of lignite coal. These burned out. The heat painted the rocks and mounds a profusion of colors. Many of the overhanging cliffs tumbled down. This resulted in a chaotic desolation and indescribable waste that is appalling.

In summer the streams dry up. Their sun-baked bottoms crack open. The spring floods turn these stream beds into swirling rivers. Their waters carry loose dirt and rock and erode the landscape into an endless variety of odd formations. Here and there slender columns of clay hold up great hunks of sandstone, rise hundreds of feet and look like monstrous toadstools. The bright sunlight intensifies this colorful combination, producing a picture that is beyond the imagination.

The Bad Lands have contributed many beautiful agates, crystals and fossil remains to museum collections in various parts of the world.

(©, 1927, Western Newspaper Union.)

Nearby and Yonder

By T. T. MAXEY

WNU Service

Our Largest Telescope

ON THE summit of Mount Wilson, near Pasadena, Calif., at an elevation of 5,704 feet above sea level, where the percentage of clear sky is exceptionally high, the Mount Wilson observatory—one of the largest institutions for astronomical work in the world—was built. Its mission is "to study the structure of the universe and the evolution of celestial bodies, with primary reference to the sun."

Here the-biggest-of-all telescopes is in use throughout every clear night. The refracting surface is a glass mirror 100 inches in diameter, almost 13 inches thick and weighing 9,000 pounds, which required years to grind, shape, test, polish and silver. It is held in a skeleton tube 11 feet in diameter and 40 feet long.

The movable parts of this telescope weigh nearly 100 tons, rest on a massive concrete pier, covered by a steel dome 100 feet high and 100 feet in diameter, the upper portion of which weighs about 700 tons and rotates so that the roof opening may face any section of the sky. About 40 electric motors and some 17 miles of wiring take care of the movements of the telescope.

The light-collecting power of this instrument is said to be 250,000 times greater than that of the human eye. This makes possible the photographing of the faintest stars and brings to the photographic plate no fewer than 100,000,000 stars which, it is claimed, no other telescope can reach.

(©, 1927, Western Newspaper Union.)

Nearby and Yonder

By T. T. MAXEY

WNU Service

The St. Lawrence River

THE St. Lawrence—the greatest river in all Canada, is also one of the greatest in the world. It drains an area in excess of 500,000 square miles, including the largest body of fresh water in the world. The estimated volume of its flow at its mouth is said to be exceded only by that of the Amason in South America.

The St. Lawrence is a river unusual. Instead of starting as a streamlet, gathering water from tributaries as it rolls along, its water is collected and stored for it. The water settles in storage, hence is clear and pure and as the level of the settling basin changes very little, this river is not subject to floods.

At the outlet of Lake Ontario it takes up the job of carrying the overflow of the five great lakes to the sea. Starting off in a northeastwardly direction, it accommodatingly acts as dividing line between Canada and the United States for some eighty odd miles.

Serenely and peacefully it flows through a wilderness of beautifully-wooded isles known as the Thousand islands, then gallops along through a series of rapids to Montreal. As far as Quebec it flows mainly through low lands and past a cultivated area of rare neatness. East of Quebec the north bank is lined with bold and rugged forest-clad cliffs, the river gradually broadens and deepens to its gulf, where its width approaches ninety miles and its depth is estimated to be about 1,200 feet.

Ocean-going vessels ascend this majestic stream as far as Montreal—600 miles from the Atlantic.

(©, 1927, Western Newspaper Union.)

DECEMBER

L 915 0673

SPENCERVILLE

Miss Hilda Volkert was a recent guest of Miss Ada Bowser.

Samuel Betz was a Sunday dinner guest in the Joel Betz home.

Mr. and Mrs. Milton Chaney were recent guests of relatives at Auburn.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Donald Kimes on December 22, a daughter Rose Ann.

George Berry, who has been in New Orleans for the past month, returned home Saturday.

The Misses Margaret and Effie Lake, of South Bend, spent over Christmas in the W. O. Lake home.

The Ladies Aid of the Methodist Church, will meet with Mrs. John Webb on Thursday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Gust Hafner and son spent Sunday with Otis Goeltzenlenchtner and family at Auburn.

Thomas McNamara and wife were recent guests of their son, Clay McNamara and wife at Fort Wayne.

The C. C. Club will hold an all day meeting, pot luck dinner and Christmas exchange on Froday at the home of Mrs. Zelpha Steward.

Charles Chapman, wife and children and Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Erick were Christmas dinner guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Rectenwall.

Mrs. Emila Gloyd and sons motored to Angola, Sunday, where they attended the Dixon reunion at the James Dixon home. There were 42 present.

Verna Reed and family of South Bend and Mr. and Mrs. Beeks Erick and son, were dinner guests on Christmas at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Tyndall.

Mr. and Mrs. Vol Hay, Miss Madonna Kelley and Charles Kimes, wife and children, were Christmas dinner guests of Charles Brattian and family, west of town.

Mr. and Mrs. Vernon of South Bend, were Sunday guests in the Jason Keyes home. Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Bauserman, of Harlan, were Monday guests in the same home.

Otis Fitch, wife and daughter, Elsie, George Doll, wife and daughter, Ruth Anna, and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Clark, of Fort Wayne, spent Christmas at the John Doll home.

Mr. and Mrs. William Lucas entertained the following guests on Christmas Day, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kickley and Miss Pearl Shurts, of Fort Wayne, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Beam, Mrs. Nancy Rummell and daughter, Mrs. Frederick.

Mrs. Matilda Oberholtzer and daughter, Millie, Miss Cozy Oberholtzer, Mr. and Mrs. C. Shank of Grabill, Albert Chancey, E. A. Roush, of Fort Wayne, Naomi and Robert Muhn, of Auburn and Loa Laux, were Christmas guests in the B. F. Markle home.

The young people of both churches met on Sunday morning at the Methodist Church and sang Christmas carols, returning to the church at 5:30 where they held morning watch conducted by Rev. R. S. Brown, later going to the Methodist parsonage, where breakfast was served.

The Misses Garnet Beams, Minnie Walker, Bina Zimmerman, Ida Reed, Ruth Miller and Mr. C. L. Whitacre, teachers at Spencerville, and Trustee and Mrs. Wm. Erick and Mr. and Mrs. Gus Cupp, were entertained last Tuesday at dinner in the home of Prof. and Mrs. Alvin J. Smith.

The election of officers was held on Sunday at the Lutheran Sunday School as follows: Superintendent, F. E. Rhoads; assistant, Wm. Lake, Jr.; secretary, Albert Baltz; assistant, Esther Lake; treasurer, Frank Baltz; assistant, George Beams; chorister, Mabel Rhodes; assistant, Virginia Goldsmith; Pianist, Lucile Miller; assistant, Mrs. Thayer Northrup.

Members of the Spencerville High School Vocational Agricultural class, in cooperation with Spencer Township Poultry Club, staged a poultry show at school last Wednesday. A feature of the show was an illustrated educational lecture by Leroy Mann. The poultry was judged by County Agent E. E. Stinson. First place was given to Howard Means who will take as prize, a trip to Purdue Club Round-up next May.

Miss Lucile Miller was a Saturday night guest of Miss Dorothy Roediger.

Mr. and Mrs. Fitch and daughter, of Fort Wayne, were Monday guests at the R. U. Bowser home.

Charles Whitacre left Saturday to spend the vacation with his father in the southern part of the state.

Mr. and Mrs. John House, of Royal Oak, Michigan, were the guests over Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Kimes.

Mrs. Hazel Steward entertained at dinner on Sunday, Mrs. Cora Steward and daughter, Miss Arminta, and Mr. and Mrs. John Betz of St. Joe.

Church Notes

ST. JOE M. P. CHURCH

Mrs. Hattie Widney, Supt.
Sunday School, 9:30 A. M.
Preaching service 7:00 o'clock.

CONCORD M. P. CHURCH

George Johnson, Supt.
Sunday school 9:30 A. M.
Preaching, 10:30.
Christian Endeavor, 6:30.
J. F. McKnight, Pastor.

EVANGELICAL LUTHERAN CHURCHES

"They constrained him (Jesus,) saying: Abide with us; for it is toward evening, and the day is far spent; and He went in to tarry with them." Luke 24: 29.

Like the disciples on their way to Emmaus, when we have the Saviour's company a little while we will not be contented until we have more of it. Never is the Christian tired of Christ's company. Love's logic is always ready with a plea, "Abide with us."

The suggestion also comes that if we would keep Christ with us we must constrain him. Christ will not intrude where he is not wanted. The question then becomes one as to how we can keep Him with us.

First, allow no rivals in your heart. Christ will never tarry in a divided heart. Be sure of that. "Ye cannot serve God and mammon." II. Retain no darling sin. Just a small stone in the shoe will spoil the walking. Many people lose Christ's presence thru the indulgence of what they call little sins. III. Make your hear a fit temple for Christ's indwelling. Out with the money changers and unholy traffic. Keep your heart clean and your mind pure. If your heart is made a fit place for Christ's presence he will come and make his residence in the temple of your soul.

SPENCERVILLE

Sabbath Bible School at 9:15 A. M.

Divine service at 7:00 o'clock, P. M.

ST. JOE

Sabbath Bible School at 9:30 A. M., Mr. Derwood Ridgway, Superintendent.

Divine service at 10:30 A. M.

Sabbath Bible School at 9:30 A. M.

December 31st, at 6:00 P. M. ANNUAL CONGREGATIONAL MEETING, with pot luck supper, followed by business meeting with reports by the officers and election: closing with a social hour.

EVERYBODY is WELCOME to attend these meetings.

A Happy New Year to YOU.

P. B. Roediger, Pastor.

CHURCH OF CHRIST

"What is God's opinion of your paltry excuses for not going to church?"

ST. JOE

Marvin Poper, Supt.
Bible School, 9:30 A. M.
Lord's Supper, 10:45 A. M.
Business meeting following.

NEWVILLE

Burl Enzor, Supt.
Bible School, 10:00 A. M., sun time.
Lord's Supper, 11:00 A. M., sun time.
Sermon, 11:15 A. M. sun time.

Our evangelistic campaign is starting auspiciously. The singing is great; the audiences are good and people are accepting Christ as Saviour. Come.

CURRENT TEACHINGS

Our Public Schools are channels through which the so called scientific philosophy that is known as "Darwinism" is allowed to flow into the inquisitive intellects of our youth. This philosophy has a marvellous grip upon the modern system of American education. Accordingly, it is felt in many circles that our youth are not educated unless they imbibe a certain amount of this "Darwinism."

Darwinism purports to tell how plant life, animal life, and human life came to be as they are now. The developer of this philosophy was Charles Darwin. Erasmus Darwin, the grandfather of Charles was an Evolutionist. He was a Sceptic. Charles Darwin was born into the atmosphere of Scepticism. These men with others did not accept the teachings of Genesis concerning the origin of life. Darwinism is a libel on God. When Darwin's book came out, Haeckel hailed it as an "Anti Genesis." Fifty years of discussion have confined this. According to Darwinism man was not originally created as an intelligent being. To have dominion over sea and land; To trace the stars and search the heavens for power; To feel the passion for eternity: Not that, but some of man's apelike ancestors happened to have more wit and strength than their companions and were able to beat the others down and thus have been able to survive, in the fierce struggle for existence. According to this man has evolved from lower animals. If this is true the geological record ought to reveal the intermediate or missing link that animal-man or man-animal or brute that definately connects the present man to the past brute. Has this been accomplished? I say No. Let a student of these matters express himself at this point.

Prof. Virchow, one of the very greatest of chemists, an investigator and anatomist of the first rank says, "We seek in vain for the missing link. There exists a definite barrier separating man from the animal, a barrier which has not been effaced—heredity, which transmits to children the faculties of the parents."

Again quoting Prof. Virchow: "We must really acknowledge that there is a complete absence of any fossil type of a lower stage in the developement of Man. Nay, if we gather together all the fossil men hitherto found and put them parallel with those of the present time, we can decidedly pronounce that there are among living men a much greater proportion of individuals who show a relatively inferior type than there are among the fossils known up to the present time.

I am not crying out against our Public Schools. I am not trying to minimize the teachings of true science, but I wish to state that the best, most logical and christian scientists are teaching that Darwinism cannot be substantiated. Therefore why cringe before the sceptical teaching of unbelievers; Arise and declare your faith in the Bible. It will be vindicated.

S. R. Aldrich, Pastor.

Methodist Episcopal Church Spencerville

Sunday School, 9:00 A. M.—John Koch, Superintendent.
Epworth League, 6:00 P. M.

When you see it you will say, . . . "Only General Motors could produce such a car at Chevrolet's Low Prices"

Furnish Sales & Service

R. E. FURNISH, Manager

Spencerville, Indiana.

QUALITY AT LOW COST

BOTH ARMS BROKEN IN FALL FROM HAY LOAD

One arm at the wrist and the other near the elbow, is the result of an accident Tuesday, when Harry Bassett, of Concord, was pushed from a load of hay, when driving out of the barn at the Chas. Jackson farm. Clifton Draggoo and Marion Sherer were also pushed from the load without injury.

Harry has been employed by Dell Draggoo for several months and is being cared for by Mrs. Draggoo. Today as The News goes to press, he is resting as well as can be expected.

L. G. Fetters was driving the load, but he escaped being thrown from the wagon.

REAL ESTATE NEWS

ST. JOE

Homer C. Leatherman et. al. to Curtis and Anna Hursey, lot 5, Curie's add., $1.

Sarah and George Wade to Roscoe Dale Rickett, lots 8 and 9, Curie's add., will.

CONCORD

George and Etta Webb to Abe Ackerman, 78.09 acres and 56.10 acres sec. 5, $12,628.

SPENCER

Milt and Ira Spitler to Edward Spitler und. 2-5 80 acres sec. 33, $1,800.

Loss estimated at $1,000 was caused by fire at the wholesale store in Fort Wayne owned by W. R. Holden, Saturday night when a short circuit in an elevator motor started a blaze on the third floor of the building. Several dozen men's suits were burned in the fire and others were water soaked. Much of the stock on the first and second floors was drenched by water. Show cases and other store furniture on the third floor were scorched and water soaked. The fire had burst through the windows of the third floor when firemen arrived. Firemen had little difficulty in bringing the flames under control.

"Money is easy," says the market report, but it is hard for some kind of borrowers.

Days are so short. Right after supper it is dark enough to go joy riding.

A woman never knows what she really thinks of a man until she gets a divorce from him.

PHONE 290

Stanley P. Nelson Monuments

Opposite Woodlawn and Roselawn Cemeteries

AUBURN, IND.

Dr. E. T. Julian St. JOE

10 to 11:30 each forenoon. at Dr. C. R. Price office.

Russel R. Reidenour

ATTORNEY

Auburn, Ind.

DR. C. R. BAUMGARTNER
Veterinarian

Spencerville, Ind.

PHONES: 282--283.

Service to All

It is the purpose of this bank to help as many people as possible. Whether your problem be large or small, if we can be of service, we want you to know that we Welcome You

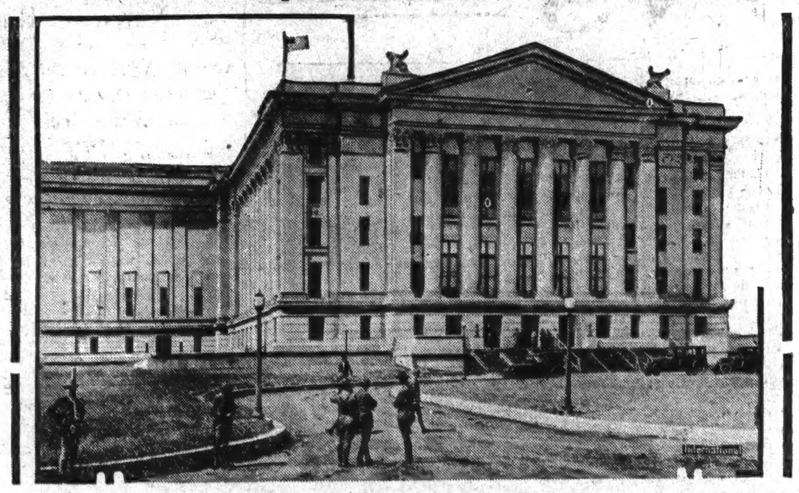
Farmers' & Merchants State Bank

Spencerville, Ind.

DECEMBER

L 915 U674

Oklahoma Capitol Guarded by State Troops



The capitol of Oklahoma, in Oklahoma City, guarded by state troops which were called out by Gov. H. S. Johnston to prevent a special session of the legislature which the state courts had declared would be illegal. The legislators met secretly and voted to impeach the governor.

Grain Vessels Suffer in Great Lakes Gales

Terrific gales on the Great Lakes have been working havoc with the shipping. This photograph, taken near Buffalo, shows a number of grain vessels driven ashore and practically wrecked.

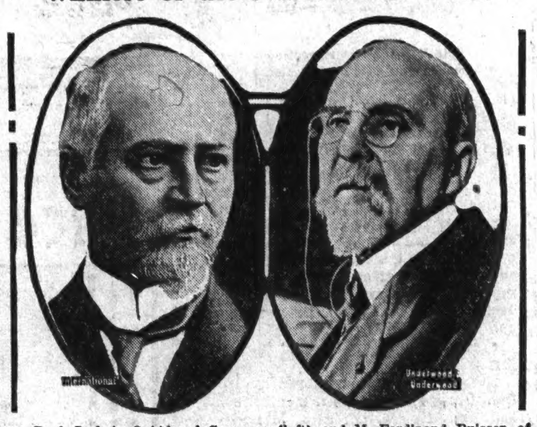
CHICAGO TYPE

According to a group of prominent artists, among them John Norton of Chicago's Art institute, Chicago is producing a type of girls who are different. Miss Corinne Kelly has been chosen as the typical Chicago girl. She is brunette, vivacious, but modest, healthy, frank, and without conceit. She is five feet three and one-half inches tall, weighs 124 pounds, has gray blue eyes and wavy bobbed hair.

FOULOIS MOVES UP

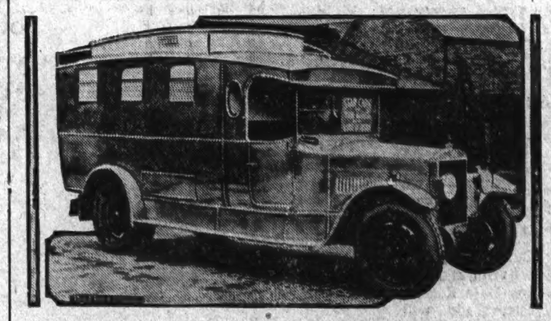
Lieut. Col. Benjamin D. Foulois oldest aviator in point of service in the army and former private in the ranks, has been promoted to brigadier general and named assistant chief of the army air corps. He was born in New England in 1879 and entered the army in 1900 as a private. During the World war he served as a brigadier gen[illegible]

Winners of the Nobel Peace Prize



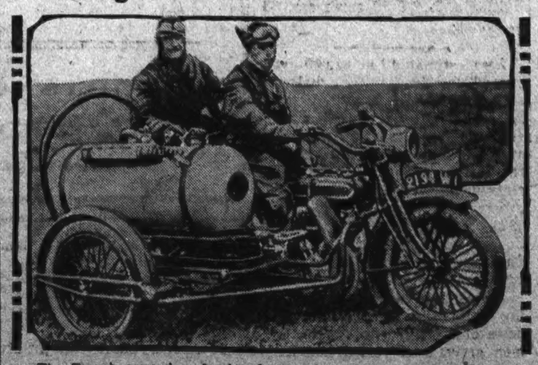
Prof. Ludwig Quidde of Germany (left) and M. Ferdinand Buisson of France (right), to whom was awarded the Nobel peace prize. Quidde is originator of many schemes for international peace and Buisson has worked earnestly and long toward the same end.

Car Built to Carry a King's Harem



The king of Arabia has had a number of automobiles built in England for his personal suite. This is one of the two designed to carry his majesty's harem.

Adding a Bit to the Terrors of War



The French army has developed some new motor equipment that was demonstrated at recent maneuvers. The photograph shows a motorcycle war gas c[illegible]

Improved Uniform International

Sunday School Lesson

(By REV. P. B. FITZWATER, D.D., Dean Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.)

(©, 1927, by Western Newspaper Union.)

Lesson for January 1

JOHN THE BAPTIST AND JESUS

LESSON TEXT—Mark 1:1-13.

GOLDEN TEXT—He must increase, but I must decrease.

PRIMARY TOPIC—John Tells About Jesus.

JUNIOR TOPIC—John Welcomes and Baptizes Jesus.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPICS—John Prepares the Way for Jesus.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—John Heralds the Mighty One.

In order to understand the lessons for the first six months of the year it is necessary to grasp the central purpose of the Gospel according to Mark. In the Old Testament is set forth an august portrait of Jesus Christ. He is the Branch, the King (Jer. 23:5); the Branch, the Servant (Zech. 3:8); the Branch, the Man (Zech. 6:12); the Branch of the Lord (Isa. 4:2).

The fourfold account in the New Testament called the Gospels, placed alongside of the Old Testament predictions, fits exactly. Matthew presents Him as the King; Mark, the Servant of the Lord; Luke as the Kinsman Redeemer and John as the Son of God. The theme of Mark is the gospel of Jesus Christ, the Son of God (ch. 1:1). The word gospel means "good news." Jesus means "Savior." Christ means "Anointed." It is good news therefore because it is the good tidings that God has anointed Jesus Christ to be the Savior of the world. The key verse is Mark 10:45, "The Son of Man came not to be ministered unto but to minister and to give His life a ransom for many." The key words are, "straightway," "forthwith," "immediately."

I. Who is Jesus Christ (1:1)?

He is none other than God's Beloved Son.

II. The Forerunner of Jesus Christ (vv. 2-8).

1. Who he was (vv. 2,3).

He was John, the Baptist, who was prophesied of more than five hundred years before (Isa. 40:3).

His mission was to prepare the way for Christ's coming. He represented himself as but a voice of one crying in the wilderness. He was therefore God's voice sounding forth the divine will and purpose. He was content to be but a voice.

2. John's message (vv. 3-8).

(1). Prepare ye the way of the Lord (v. 3).

It was customary for servants to go before distinguished personages and prepare the road over which they were to travel. In this preparation there was to be removal of stones, the leveling of the surface, etc. John's message meant therefore that the people should remove from their hearts everything which hindered the incoming of the Lord.

(2) The baptism of repentance (v. 4).

In preparation for the coming Christ the people were to repent of their sins. Those who repented were to be baptized. Baptism was to be administered to those who repented as an expression of penitence which led to forgiveness of sin.

(3) The coming of the Messiah (vv. 7, 8).

The coming one was to be much greater than himself; so great that John was unworthy to loose the latches of His shoes. The superior dignity of Christ was not only in His person but in the work He was to perform.

3. His success (v. 5).

People from all over Judea and Jerusalem went out and were baptized. His food and dress indicated that he had withdrawn from the world as a protest against its follies and sins.

III. The Baptism of Jesus Christ (vv. 9-11).

Jesus was not baptized because He had sinned and therefore needed repentance, but because He was now about to accomplish a work which would constitute the basis of all righteousness. He was now dedicating Himself to the task of bringing in righteousness through His sacrificial death.

(1) The opened heavens. This indicated His connection with heaven.

(2) The descent of the Spirit upon Him. This gave the divine seal to His work.

(3) The voice of approval from heaven. This made clear to John the fact that Jesus was the Messiah.

IV. Jesus Christ Tempted by Satan (vv. 12,13).

This took place immediately after the heavenly recognition. This testing was to demonstrate the reality of the incarnation. Because of this demonstration believers can be assured that the Son of God has become incorporated with humanity for the purpose of its salvation.

From Beginning to End

But the land, whither ye go to possess it, is a land of hills and valleys, and drinketh water of the rain of heaven; a land which the Lord thy God careth for: the eyes of the Lord thy God are always upon it, from the beginning of the year even unto the end of the year.—Deut. 11:11-12.

From God's Hand

Wh[illegible] comes from [illegible]'s hand

BROCADES OF AMAZING ELEGANCE; HATS WITH MATCHED HANDBAGS

MOST of the fashion splendor of the hour seems to be revolving about fabrics whose dazzling charm and amazing elegance challenge the admiration of every lover of the beautiful. No prospector of '49 ever struck a richer vein of gold and silver than is coursing through this season's sumptuous brocades, velvets and in fact weaves of every degree, irrespective of whether they be intended for formal or informal fashioning.

Of the clever interworkings of metallic effects in things knitted and in cloth, also jersey, for sports wear there is much to be said, but "that is another story" than that which has to do with the resplendent fabrics which gleam so radiantly from opera box and ballroom scene, now that the midwinter festivities are in full swing.

That this is an era of superlatives when it comes to gorgeous fabrics no one can question. A review of society costumed at its loveliest places special stress on supple gleaming brocades which are an entrancing revelation of "silver threads among the gold" and vice versa. While in the metal cloths gold seems to predominate, in the pastel and multi-colored silk brocades and sprightly moires, which are, by the way, very new and smart, there is as much silver as gold interwoven.

The gown in the picture is made of an orchid and amethyst brocade which shows huge roses and foliage designed in lustrous silver metallics.

It is left to the stylist to "play up" these superb brocades to their loveliest, by fashioning them with simple elegance, sans undue frills and furbelows. In the instance of the gown here shown, the magnificence of the material is made impressive through that master stroke of genius which adopts a restrained styling, in order to focus attention on the fabric itself.

Of course, to be modish, there must be a dipped hemline, and that is why a cluster of jabot drapes are introduced at the front of the skirt. These jabot drapes are a favorite trick of the fashionist this season. Note the extreme simplicity of the bodice or blouse top, if you so please to call it. That is another featured whim of the stylist—to elaborate the skirt rather than the bodice.

The spirit of the ensemble has completely captured the mode. If it isn't the artist leather-worker devising handbags to match our footwear, then it is the milliner who "takes up the cue" of establishing a relationship between something and something else, say a scarf, a bag, a belt or a kerchief, complementing, of course, these accessories with a matching chapeau.

Among the newest "sets" are hats and bags made of felt. Sometimes the very ambitious buy patterns which are easily available, and make their own [illegible] and bag sets. If one happens to be clever at stenciling, or pyrography, or can paint and embroider, there is all the more incentive to undertake to make these matching accessories at home, for felt is being worked in just such ingenious ways. Here's a timely hint for the felt bag—be sure to get a frame of bone or shell or some similar combination, for they are more fashionable than those of metal.

Our illustration features several very attractive matching hats and bags.

The same gold lace and filigree passementerie which appears on the dressy black velvet toque at the top of the picture to the left is repeated on the flap of its accompanying handbag which is also of black velvet.

The hat and bag set to the right at the top of the group is a French creation. An all-over patterning of soutache braid distinguishes this ensemble.

Gorgeous gold and multi-color brocade ribbon shows up handsomely in the set shown in the circle below.

The designer of the hat at the left center in picture chose to create a very unique compose of scarf, perhaps shawl, more properly speaking, and hat. This fetching set sounds a Spanish note, not only in the flowery embroidery which appears on both hat and scarf, but particularly in the ball fringe which dangles from the edges of the scarf. The embroidery accents true Spanish coloring on a background of black crepe.

Now that sheer velvet is so fashionable, handsome hat and scarf sets are made of this material. A very striking ensemble for formal afternoon and matinee wear includes a helmet of black velvet which is embroidered in rhinestones, the ends of the blackest velvet scarf repeating the same sparkling ornamentation.

For sports wear a felt hat has insets of batik silk. This is accompanied with a kerchief square for the neck, made of matching batik.

Of Orchid and Amethyst Brocade

Some Hats and Bags.

JULIA BOTTOMLEY.

(©, 1927, Western Newspaper Union.)

DECEMBER

L 915 0675

THE ST. JOE NEWS, ST. JOE, INDIANA

CHEVRONS

By LEONARD NASON

Illustrations by
IRWIN MYERS, D. S. C.

Copyright by George H. Doran Company, WNU Service

CHAPTER I

—1—

Hungry Men at Vaucouleurs

Two men sat by a roadside in attitudes of deep dejection. Their faces were white and their eyes haggard. They were clothed in uniforms of faded olive drab, with blouse and breeches that did not match, with glaringly new shoes, and a ridiculous shapeless cap. A mounted patrol of military police had passed that way a short time before, but one keen glance at the two men had satisfied the police. Those faded uniforms, neatly patched here and there, and with buttons that were not mates, were salvage uniforms taken from wounded men, cleaned, repaired, and issued out again to men leaving the military hospital. The white faces, the new shoes, the second-hand clothes, were old features to the police. They meant that the wearers were wounded men who discharged from hospital and sick to death of the monotony, the hideous quarters and the frightful food of the replacement camps, had slung their packs on their backs and, selecting a night when the guards would be under cover, had gone over the hill and were trying to rejoin their organizations. As long as these men had their faces turned toward the front, and as long as they behaved themselves, the police would not bother them.

One of the men looked behind him, at the way the two had come. A white road, baking under the hot sun of early September, went up and down over the hills and so out of sight. He looked the other way, toward the opposite horizon. The road looped its way, shimmering in the heat, an equal distance. Between the two horizons were trees, newly mowed fields, and clumps of bush, but no other living thing.

"Sergeant," said the man, "you sure we're on the right road?"

The other man turned on his side to get his hand into his breeches pocket. He had a sergeant's stripes sewed rather askew on one sleeve, and a rusty looking gold V on his right cuff showed that he had been wounded in action. He drew out a creased and dirty envelope and extracted a sheet of thin paper therefrom.

"Sergeant Robert Eadie," began the typewritten paper, "Base Hospital 23, Vittel, Vosges. Dear sergeant: The regiment will be at Vaucouleurs until September 12. It is hoped that you can rejoin us there." There was an indistinguishable scrawl and the typewritten words, "Personal Officer, Seventy-ninth F. A." On the strength of this thin sheet of paper these two men had traveled across France.

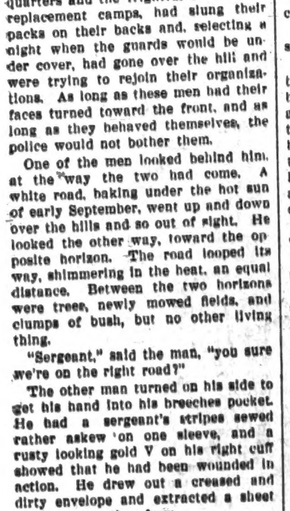
The sergeant got stiffly to his feet and inspected a milepost near where the two had sat down.

"Yep, Darcy," said he. "'Vaucouleurs, 7 Kilos,' it says. Well, we're half way. That's cheering."

"Oh, G—d!" said the other man. "Is that all we are?"

"Only about four miles more," said the sergeant comfortingly. He looked at his watch. "It's twelve o'clock," he added. "Now if we should hustle even, we wouldn't get in in time for chow. Well, they'll have something they can give us for a handout. Let's start out anyway."

The two started out. They went down the hills and clambered up the other side. The heat grew, and they sat down often, for they were fat, they were thirsty, and their new shoes hurt.



He Drew Out a Creased and Dirty Envelope and Extracted a Paper Therefrom.

The sergeant felt that strange weakness, that washed-out feeling in the legs that comes from a stay in hospital. Each hill they climbed they expected to see the roofs of Vaucouleurs before them, but when they had panted up to the top, and looked despairingly around, they could see nothing but more hills and the white road glimmering over the crests.

"Cheer up," said the sergeant at last, after Darcy had cast himself full length on the dusty grass and buried his face in his hands. "We only got two more kilos to go and I bet from the top of the next hill we can see the town. Maybe the outfit is camped outside the town on our side of it. We'll be back in it in another half hour and then that will be the end of eating handouts of cold goldfish and of running around France."

"Good," said Darcy, sitting up, "I'm glad we're gettin' there. I'm about outta gas. Do you really think maybe they'll have somethin' left from dinner?"

"Sure," said the sergeant, "I know Capodanno. If he hasn't been turned to duty for tapping up all the lemon extract, he'll have something to eat. Let's stir our stumps."

"Come on," said Darcy. "Let's get it over with." He leaped to his feet and the two started off. The heat of the road burned through their hobnails, the glare of the sun from the white chalk surface made their eyes sting, but the next hill was the last and over it was their home, their battery, their friends, and food. They bravely breasted the ascent, the stones slipped under their feet and sweat poured down their faces, but they kept on. The summit of the hill drew nearer.

"What'll you bet we can see the camp from the top?" asked Eadie.

"It'll be the gladdest sight I ever seen," replied the other.

They reached the top, took two or three paces, and sure enough, at the bottom of the next slope, though quite a distance yet down the valley, rose the moss covered roofs, the weather beaten gray walls, and the high church towers of a town of considerable size. Half way down the slope was an aviation camp, with a number of huge canvas tents, used as hangars.

"That's us," said the sergeant. "That's Vaucouleurs."

The two marched forward almost briskly, without taking their customary rest. As they descended the slope they passed soldiers, but they saw no familiar faces, nor did they see anything that looked like a camp of field artillery.

"It would probably be in the woods somewhere," said Eadie, "on account of air raids. We wouldn't be able to see it from the road anyway."

"Why don't yuh ask a M. P.?" suggested Darcy. "This looks to be quite a town and we might go right past the road to our camp."

"I'll do it," said Eadie. "He won't say anything about a pass. A man doesn't need a pass to take a walk on a Sunday in the town his outfit is stationed in."

There was an M. P. talking to a girl a few houses down the street and the two went toward him.

"Hey, soldier," said Eadie, moving up to the M. P. sideways, so that both his sergeant's chevrons and wound stripe could be seen, "can you tell us where the Seventy-ninth Field Artillery hangs out?"

The M. P. turned majestically from his conversation with the girl. He bent lowering brows upon the two. Could they not see he was busy?

"The what?" asked the M. P.

"The Seventy-ninth Field," answered the sergeant.

"I never heard of 'em," said the M. P.

"Well, this is the Third Division headquarters, isn't it?" asked Eadie.

"Search me," said the M. P. "They come an' go. I don't keep track of 'em." He turned and continued his conversation with the girl. "Er-voo," said he, "hweet heures, ici."

The two soldiers moved sadly away. "Don't let's get excited," said Eadie, "because these M. P.'s never know their right hand from their left. The next guy I see I'm going to ask where the division P. C. is and then we'll go there and find out where our outfit is."

"Here comes a guy," cried Darcy suddenly, "an' he's got a 4 on his collar. He's outta the Fourth in fantry. Hey, guy, where at's the division P. C.?"

The other man did not stop in his stride. "Yuh come by it," he called. "Go back and take the second street to your right."

The two turned around and, walked forward with more spring in their gait than formerly, though Eadie had a sinking feeling about the heart. There was a sign that said "Headquarters Third Division, U. S. Army. Keep gate clear." The two soldiers went in one hundred and twenty steps to the minute.

In the hall of the house sat an officer, smoking a cigar and fanning himself with a newspaper. He looked calmly at the two soldiers who came to a halt before him, banged their heels and saluted.

"Sir," said Eadie, "could the captain tell us where the Seventy-ninth Field Artillery camp is?"

"The Seventy-ninth," repeated the officer, still looking curiously at the two. "Hmmm. Oh, Claflin," he called. There was the stir of a chair being pushed back in one of the rooms and another officer entered. This officer twisted his tiny mustache and looked very sternly at the two soldiers.

"The Seventy-ninth," said he in a judicial tone. "What division are they with?"

Eadie's heart fell suddenly to his boots as a stone falls down a well. Darcy's rifle butt rattled on the floor. These two men were tired, they were hungry, they had battled their way from one corner of France to the other, pinning their hope on that one letter from the personnel officer, and now that they had arrived at their destination, it began to look as if they were as far from their regiment as in the trenches. [illegible] camp. In addition, they had made a fourteen-kilometer hike in the blazing heat and on empty stomachs, and trifles assume very serious proportions after such exertion. Then Eadie heard the other officer, the captain, speaking.

"No, no lieutenant," said the captain, and there was something of reproach in his tone, "the Seventy-ninth is in this division. Don't you know where their mail goes?"

"I leave all that to Sergeant Pappas," replied the lieutenant. "He must be around here. I saw him myself not five minutes ago. These men want to get back to their outfit, don't you? Sure you do."

The lieutenant clanked away and the men in the hall heard the far-away hum of a buzzer.

"Hot walking?" asked the captain blowing cigar smoke.

Before the men could answer a sergeant hurried in, buttoning his blouse.

"Oh, sergeant, where is the Seventy-ninth?"

"The Seventy-ninth, sir?" The sergeant consulted a book that he drew from his pocket. "They're up in the woods the other side of Toul. They've been gone about ten days, sir."

"We're all moving up," added the captain. "If you'd come in tomorrow at this time you wouldn't even find the headquarters here. We're moving to Toul. I wonder how I can get you men back. Come back tomorrow and we'll see if we can't give you a ride as far as Toul."

"Thank you, sir," said Eadie. He and Darcy saluted and went out of the door into the hot street again. They went down it aimlessly, for they had nowhere in particular to go and neither wanted to be the first to sit down. When they came to the railroad track they halted.

"Let's get ourselves a feed," said Eadie. "Don't let's forget that you and I are soldiers of the United States army, entitled to three meals a day, a bed, and medical attendance free of charge. Let's go claim our rights. We're liable to strike some hospitable place like we did at Saint Dizier where they don't feed unless you produce travel orders. Maybe there's a Red Cross round here, but those girls have begun to get hard-boiled now and—"

"Listen!" interrupted Darcy. From behind a door in the wall at their back came a sudden sharp sound, a rending crack. Again the sound was repeated, again and again.

"There's some one in there choppin wood," said Darcy. "What'll you bet it's a kitchen?"

Eadie cautiously pushed open the door in the wall. Within was a courtyard, shaded on three sides by sheds. Under one of these sheds was a stove, not a rolling kitchen, but a real field range, large and capable looking. Beside it a fat man with his apron rolled up about his waist split wood and hummed a song. His eye lighted on the two newcomers.

"Hi, fellars," said he pleasantly, 'been hikin' this afternoon?"

"I'll say we have," said Eadie. "We hiked in from the main line. It was a hot walk. You the cook?"

"I'm the cook," said the fat man.

"I suppose they feed well here," remarked Eadie.

"Feed well? Huh!" The cook, sitting down on a box, took his knee in both hands and leaned back comfortably. "For dinner today we had duck, roast duck stuffed with chestnuts—Duck an' champagne. It goes good. An' what champagne is left, the waiters splits with me. An' if they don't they d—n soon gets relieved off the detail."

"Is that steak I see there?" asked Darcy.

"That's for tonight," said the cook. "Steak an' French fries. We eats light of a Sunday night."

Eadie shifted his weight from one sore foot to the other and looked at the steaks hung in the shade, with some big leaves over them to keep the flies off. Roast duck, champagne, chestnuts, steaks! He knew now what it meant to water at the mouth. He could have wept. He tried to think when he and Darcy had eaten last. At Saint Dizier, at Condrecourt? No, at Ligny. At Ligny, the afternoon of the day before, they had stolen a can of hash from the compartment of a passing troop train. Eadie looked at the field range, the wood, and the ax beside it.

"How come you have to split wood this time of day?" he asked.

"Well," said the cook, "some Britishers and Frogs come over to call sometimes of a Sunday afternoon and the officers here serves 'em a drop of tea. I get a little extra for makin' it an' fixin' up toast an' stuff."

"We haven't had a thing to eat," began Eadie, "since yesterday afternoon. We were wondering what the chances might be on a little handout."

"Well," said the cook. He leaned forward, elbows on knees. "Hmmm," said he. His eye wandered to the wood and the ax, and then back to Eadie and Darcy. Again Eadie regarded the wood. He also looked with a bold full glance at those thick red steaks, ready for the frying, peeping coyly from under their green leaves.

"If you'd like to give us a bite," said Eadie, "we wouldn't mind chopping a little wood for you."

"Good," said the cook heartily, "that's fine. Sure, I'll give you fellars a feed. I wouldn't never turn no man away hungry, not if I had to give him my rations myself. There's the wood, grab the ax and turn to."

Eadie and Darcy took turns at the wood. It was tough, green stuff, and the ax was none too sharp. Eadie chopped until his back ached and he could no longer see from the sweat running into his eyes and then Darcy took hold.

"Well, cook, what do you say?" asked Eadie after a while. "How much wood do you want? Isn't that enough?"

The cook rolled a red eye at the pile of chopped wood. "Oh, no," said he, "why, that wouldn't boil a cup o' water. I've got to have more than that."

"You're crazier'n h—l," panted Darcy. "Why, there's enough wood there to bake bread for a battalion!"

"Naw, there ain't," said the cook. "Why, I cut more than that myself!"

"We're just out of hospital," said Eadie, "and wood cutting isn't in our line. What do you have to do to make tea but boil a little water?"

"I gotta cook supper, too," said the cook, "an' all that steak to fry. Go on, there's two of yuh. Cut us a little more wood an' I'll give yuh a nice feed."

Eadie took the ax from Darcy and went at the wood again. When his hands felt as though they had been fried and he could see the white heads of blisters beginning to show, he handed the ax to Darcy. Every muscle in his back ached and his head swam from the heat, but he thought of the steaks about to be fried and decided it was worth it. He needed something to bolster his courage and there was nothing like a steak to give a man heart.

"Whaddyuh say?" called Darcy, breathing heavily. "That enough?"

He pointed to a really sizeable pile of wood. The cook looked at it grudgingly.

"Yeh, that's enough," he said. Darcy at once dropped the ax and he and Eadie withdrew to the shade of the shed roof.

"How long do you suppose it'll take him to cook it?" asked Darcy.

"Not long. Steak doesn't take a minute to fry up. I just happened to think he may have some of that duck left over."

"Duck?" cried Darcy, and said no more. The vision of eating duck had removed his power of speech.

The cook had opened a huge box and was rattling therein. He drew out a loaf of bread and cut slices from it. Again his head and shoulders disappeared in the box and more rattling ensued. Eadie decided that the cook was getting out gridirons, forks, and other tools for the proper preparation of steak. The cook put something before him on the table and reached overhead for a cleaver. There was the sound of two sharp blows and the cook came over to the two men.

"Here, fellars," said he, "dig in."

In one hand he extended two slices of bread and in the other a small round object, a tin can with a red label, the top opened in a jagged triangle. Eadie took the can in stupefied amusement and looked into it. There was a mysterious mass of red and black therein, with bits of white bones and pieces of vertebra sticking out.

Darcy Leaped Past Eadie, Planted His Fist on the Cook's Jaw.

"What the h—l is this?" asked Eadie in a choking voice.

"Canned summun," said the cook.

"But you're goin' to cook us a steak, too, aren't you?" Eadie tried to wrench his mouth into a grin, but was unsuccessful.

"Cook a steak?" cried the cook. "Them steaks is for officers. I ain't puttin' out steaks to every bum that comes moochin' a handout. Here I give you a good feed of bread an' summun an' you want steak, too. If you don't want that summun, give it back to me an' get to h—l out of my kitchen!"

Eadie drew back his hand and hurled the can of salmon with all his might into the cook's chest. "Take your d—d goldfish!" said he. The cook staggered back a step and Darcy, leaping past Eadie, planted his fist on the cook's jaw. The cook went down with a thud. It is not considered the act of a gentleman to hit a man when he is down, much less kick him, yet it was Sergeant Eadie's foot that thumped against the prostrate cook's ribs. It was Darcy, however, who mounted upon the cook's frame and did a little double-time thereon with his hob-nails. The cook began to bellow.

"Give me that goldfish, Darcy," said Eadie calmly. He reached out and took the can and as the cook struggled to his feet, calmly knocked him down again. "It's Sunday," said the sergeant, "and there aren't many people around. Hold his hands, Darcy."

Eadie thereupon sat astride the cook's chest and while Darcy held the other's hands Eadie gagged the cook with a few handfuls of goldfish, and then proceeded to rub the rest of the contents of the can into the cook's hair, eyes and ears. This was quite painful, for army goldfish was full of bones, quite sharp and strong. The cook writhed. He made gurgling sounds. Though he had been taken by surprise, he was no weakling and he succeeded in wrenching his hands free from Darcy at last.

"Let's be going," said the sergeant. Eadie realized that he and Darcy were weak from hospital and that their strength was furthermore undermined by lack of food so that once the cook got free he might make it interesting for them. The cook got to his feet, and wheezing and choking, coughed goldfish from his throat and dug it out of his eyes and ears. At last he could see and speak. A prolonged howl for help was his first act. Then he made for the table and seized a cleaver. Again he yelled and looked about for his antagonists. They had disappeared.

"Sons o' ——," gasped the cook. "They can't get outta town." He started for the house at the end of the court at a staggering run.

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

Chinese Wall Paper of Exquisite Design

There must be in various parts of England a good deal of old Chinese wall paper such as that which the duke of Atholl recently sold at Sotheby's.

In the Eighteenth century a lot of this wonderfully painted wall paper was brought from China for decorating houses, and possibly some of it has been stored away and never used, as in the case of the 24 rolls which the duke has just sold. These were unrolled, and found just as they came from the East years ago. This Chinese paper is very beautiful, mostly with long-tailed pheasants and other brilliantly hued birds interspersed among bright flowers and green foliage, and the colors remain remarkably fresh and unfaded after being hung a century.

It is said that at Logie house, Aberdeenshire, the seat of Col. George Milne, there is some of this exquisite Oriental wall paper as good as ever it was.

Changing a Mule's Mind

Gen. William Booth, founder of the Salvation Army, used to tell a story of a man in South Africa who was exceedingly successful in dealing with mule teams. Asked how he managed these stubborn creatures, he said:

"Well, when they stop and won't go on, I just pick up a handful of gravel or soil, put it to their mouths and let them taste it. Of course they spit it out again; but as a rule they begin to go on."

"Why do you think it has that effect on them?" persisted his questioner.

"Well, I don't know," was the reply, "but I expect it changes the current of their thoughts!"

The man who believes everything usually ends up by believing nothing.

Elephants Put Out Fire

How a herd of wild elephants extinguished a forest fire in Travancore, on the southwest coast of India, was related recently by laborers who witnessed the proceedings, says Popular Mechanics Magazine. A tree had fallen across the road and had been set afire to simplify the task of removing it. The blaze was slowly spreading to the woods near by when the leader of the elephant herd, apparently attracted by the odor of the smoke, appeared, trumpeted loudly to its companions and soon a band of dusky four-footed firemen were squirting streams of water on the blaze from their hose-like trunks. A stream near the road furnished the supply. The wondering natives, who had gone to a house a short distance away, watched the herd put out the fire and then drag the tree into the middle of the road.

Marrying in Missouri

As a result of an incident at a recent marriage performed by him, a justice of the peace in Missouri has posted the following sign in his office: "Brides must not kiss the Justice of the Peace."—Kansas City Star.

Black Currant Nurse of Rust

Acts as Advance Guard in Spreading Disease Among the White Pines.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The European black currant is a public nuisance, because it acts as an advance guard in spreading the white pine blister rust, a disease of foreign origin which is destructive to all of our American white (or five-leafed) pines, says Samuel B. Detwiler, chief blister-rust specialist of the United States Department of Agriculture.

Two Host Plants.

The blister rust requires two distinctly different kinds of host plants for completing its life cycle. The spores that infect the pines are produced on the leaves of currant or gooseberry bushes and transmitted to the pines through the air. In turn, the currants and gooseberries become infected from the spores produced on the pines. While all species of currant and gooseberry plants take the disease to some extent, the European black currant is so susceptible that a single spot on one leaf may completely spread the disease to the entire plant as well as to other near-by plants of the same species. Thus the scattered wind-blown spores which may travel hundreds of miles and not establish the rust on other species of currants do infect the European black and set up new centers of infection. For this reason the European black currant has been called the "nurse plant" of blister rust and outlawed by the states in which white pines are important forest crops.

White Pines Endangered.

The white pines in the United States that are endangered by blister rust have a cash timber value of approximately $550,000,000, while the lumber value of this timber is many times greater. This does not take into account the value of trees of these species used as ornamentals and the potentially great value of the young pines for the future timber crops. The money value of the black-currant plantings of the country is negligible.

For these reasons the United States Department of Agriculture and the states concerned have declared the European black currant a public nuisance and are co-operatively engaged in a campaign to systematically eliminate it from the country.

Blue Grass Pasture Is Equal to Cropped Land

Usually we consider pasture as of low value; as, too often, it really is. Quite recently, however, Prof. J. W. White of Pennsylvania State college has made an exhaustive analysis of returns from pasture compared with those cropped in a formal rotation. He finds that a good blue grass pasture, well fertilized, gives as large a return in terms of animal nutrients as corresponding land cropped in rotation. He also finds that the total production of protein is greater on the pasture, than in the rotation. He estimates that the total cost of these nutrients will be very much less, under a well-fertilized and well managed pasture system, than where the land is put to rotation. This argument, therefore, is not intended to diminish attention to better crop farming, but rather to urge that the pasture be given a place in the plan and that the pasture grasses and clovers be so fed that they can give for themselves the best possible accounting. At present prices of animal crops, and of commercial plant foods, much more may be done with our pastures than is generally recognized.

Small Jobs of Concrete Work on Average Farm

For small jobs of concrete work on the farm a mixture commonly known as a one-two-three is most desirable. This means one bag of cement, two cubic feet of clean sand and three cubic feet of coarse gravel or broken stone. If you use a mixture entirely of sand and cement you will not obtain the full strength that you get if the gravel is added. In using gravel or sand from some near-by creek bed be careful that there is no mud mixed in with them. A very small amount of mud will destroy the strength of the concrete.

Hints for the Farm

Feed is expensive; why give it to scrub cattle?

* * *

Farmers must use methods which will decrease the cost of producing crops without decreasing the yield.

* * *

Probably no other single mistake causes so much loss to Americans, and especially American farmers, as does the loss of time.—G. F. Warren.

* * *

Is your seed corn safe from Jack Frost's damaging influences? Keep it hanging in a dry, warm place where there is good circulation of air until it is thoroughly dry and past all danger of molding.

* * *

Farm management surveys indicate that cutting the cost of farm machinery is one of the important factors in efficient farm management. It is getting the most out of the machine at the least expense.

DECEMBER

L 915

U676

A Prosperous New Year

TO Our FRIENDS and PATRONS of

ST. JOE AND COMMUNITY
WE EXTEND
OUR BEST WISHES FOR 1928

High's Restaurant, St. Joe

HOME EDUCATION

The Child's First School is the Family"—Froebel.
Issued by the National Kindergarten Association

"I'LL KICK AND SCREAM"

Mrs. W. B. Bailey

It is very natural for young women to discuss their children, their neighbor's children and the children of the community at large. It is rather unusual to "listen in" when men are talking and hear them deciding how to correct and control children of pre-school age. Yet strange things do happen!

A young minister, a friend of a county superintendent of schools, stepped into the superintendent's office one day for a short visit. The two young men after discussing other topics of mutual interest drifted into a conversation about children—their control and training.

The minister related the following:

"You know I had a rare experience about a month ago. I had accepted an invitation to spend a week with some college friends. They have a beautiful little girl about five years old. I was at first very much impressed with her manners but in the afternoon of the second day of my visit the mother told the child they were to call upon her aunt and cousin. Whereupon, the little lady began to create a scene by crying and shouting: 'I won't go' I don't want to go and I won't go.'

" 'But, dear, you will have such a lovely time playing with Donald and that nice new tricycle he has,' pleaded the mother.

" 'I won't either; I don't want to play with him.'

" 'Don't you want to see Aunt Alice?'

" 'No. And if you make me go I'll cry and kick and scream all the time,' the child wailed as she ran out of the room.

" 'Dear me!' sighed the mother. 'What shall I do with that girl? You know Elnore is such a sweet child when she wants to be but she is so temperamental. I never know just when she will want to do what I wish her to do. If I take her she is just sure to make good her promise to kick and scream most of the time we are there.'

" 'Have you ever talked with her quietly by herself about this?' I asked.

" 'No,' came the rather halting reply, 'not very seriously. I have felt she was not old enough to undertand.'

" 'Well,' I said, 'I'll be perfectly frank and say I think she should be broken of such a vicious habit while she is young. At this rate you will not be able to control her at all in a year or so.'

" 'What would you suggest?' asked the mother.

" 'I should tell her quietly that happiness depends on each person's behaving properly; that one person must not be allowed to make the others nuhappy; that she is to go with you and remember what you have told her!'

"Well, the mother acted upon my advice. The child did go, and she did kick and scream.

"When we returned home the mother said to me, 'You see it did not do any good.'

" 'You have not finished,' I answered, 'You must prove your words. It will be necesary to deprive her of some pleasure, but if I were you I should wait until morning, as it is now too near bed time to do anything that may prove exciting.' We talked some more about it later.

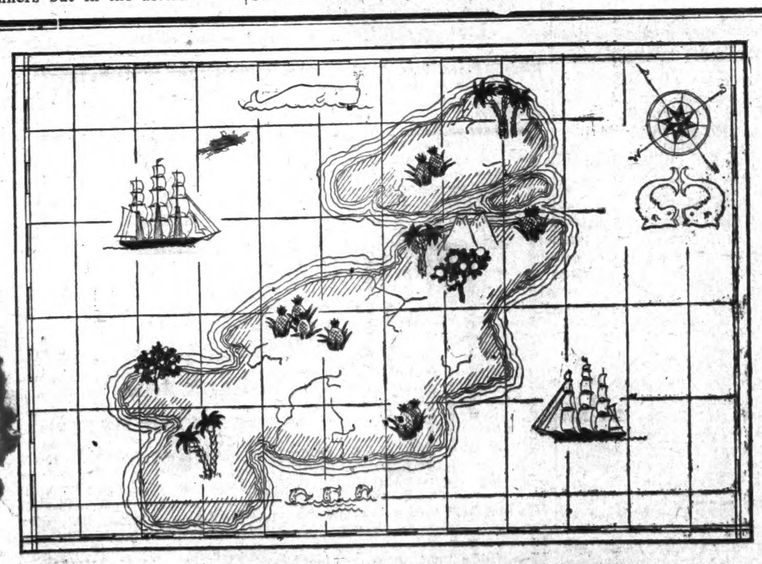
"In the morning the mother reminded the little girl of what she had told her and gave her a choice between two kinds of punishment. She furthermore explained to her that she must not use such expresions as, 'I won't go' and I won't do it.'

"A few days later I heard her again announce to her youthful daughter that they were going to call at that same home.

" 'I wo....' began Elnore, then she stopped, looked closely at her mother, then smilingly went to her and said:

" 'I almost did but not enough to be really rude, did I, Mother?'

"I had a letter from these friends today and they said the treatment is still effective and no second punishment has yet been needed."



A FRUITLESS DIET FRUITLESS

IN the days of the old sailing ships and voyages months long, salt or "bully" beef and ship's biscuit were the staples of diet. After months of this diet scurvy would break out and the ships would make for tropic ports in search of fresh fruits. Grapefruit and pineapple were known to be particularly effective in curing this serious disease now recognized as a deficiency disease, due to the lack of vitamin C.

Today scurvy occurs but rarely among adults, and this is largely due to the growth of the canning industry which makes foods rich in vitamins available all the year around. A frequent lack of energy and maximum efficiency occurs when the amount of fruit in the diet is small. This languor and its cause may go unrecognized over a long period or until the amount of fruit in the diet is increased with a consequent increase in available energy.

Fruit supplies generously minerals and vitamins, water and simple sugars for readily available energy, and it is an implacable enemy of constipation. No one fruit is more generous in all these factors than is pineapple, and contains the digestive ferment or enzyme, bromelin, which aids in the digestion of protein.

An Adaptable Fruit

Pineapple is good for breakfast, served either as the fruit course or sautéed as an accompaniment to sausage, ham, scrapple, bacon or other breakfast meats. At lunch it may accompany the luxurious lamb chop, or appear in compote or salad. At dinner its possibilities are nearly limitless, cocktails, fruit soups, garnish for roasts, as a conserve, with sweet potatoes, in salads, desserts and confections.

Pineapple Curry

As apple is an agreeable addition to curries, so pineapple adds to them and to other dishes of the entrée class, such as baked sausage with hominy, minced ham with pimiento, rice, or corned beef hash a distinct, different flavor.

Sautéed Pineapple: Drain thoroughly a can of sliced Hawaiian pineapple and dry on a clean cloth. Dip each slice in a mixture of equal parts sifted confectioner's sugar and flour seasoned with salt and paprika. Brown in butter or the fat from bacon, ham or sausage and serve as desired. Bacon, French toast, sautéed pineapple with the syrup made from the pineapple syrup, plus additional sugar and a little lemon juice is an excellent plate luncheon for adults on days when they can be active and out of doors.

Pineapple Lamb Curry with Rice: Cut one and one-half pounds of shoulder of lamb into inch and one-half cubes and sear on a hot skillet, until brown. Add water to cover and two sliced onions and simmer until tender. Cook until browned in four tablespoons of lamb fat or butter, one sliced onion, one tablespoon, more or less, of curry powder, and four tablespoons of flour. Add one and one-half cups of the broth in which the lamb was cooked and simmer until thick. Add the meat, salt to taste, and cook slowly fifteen minutes. Just before serving, add the fruit from one-half can of crushed Hawaiian pineapple. When hot, fill the hole in the center of a platter of boiled rice with the meat mixture.

Cabbage, Pineapple and Pimiento Salad: To three cups of shredded cabbage, add one-half can of drained crushed Hawaiian pineapple or one and one-half cups of sliced pineapple cut in pieces, and one-half cup of chopped pimientos. Serve with mayonnaise or sour cream pineapple dressing, made as follows: mix one tablespoon of cornstarch with one teaspoon of salt, one-half teaspoon each of mustard and paprika, a few grains of cayenne, and two tablespoons of vinegar. Heat to boiling three-quarters of a cup of pineapple juice and add the cornstarch mixture, stirring constantly until thick, and simmer for fifteen minutes. Cool, and add one-half cup of thick sour cream. Mix with the salad and serve on lettuce leaves or a cabbage leaf.

Pineapple Tapioca Cream: Scald two cups of milk in a double boiler and add three tablespoons of quick cooking tapioca. Cook until transparent, add two yolks of eggs, one-fourth teaspoon of salt and continue cooking until mixture coats the spoon. Cool. Boil one cup of sugar with one-third cup of pineapple syrup from can until it spins a thread from the tip of a spoon and pour over the stiffly beaten whites of two eggs, beating constantly. Add one tablespoon of lemon juice and a little grated rind. Fold one-half the meringue mixture and half a can of drained crushed pineapple into the tapioca mixture and [illegible] the remainder of the meringue. Serve cold.

Happy New Year

By H. LUCIUS COOK

IT WAS an uninteresting little town—or so it seemed to young Rendell—cold, bleak, the most cheerless place on earth to spend the winter holiday season. He was there on business for his firm. Christmas had been a grand fiasco as far as he was concerned. He had no relatives and he knew no one about whom he cared enough to send even a Christmas card. It was New Year's Eve. Late in the afternoon he left the one hotel that the town could boast about (and did) and walked down the main street. It was not that Robert Rendell felt loneliness—one must have known a friend to experience that emotion. He was just bored. All that the holidays meant to him were innumerable wreaths and strings of holly, one half concealing wholly ugly chandeliers, and the perfunctory "Merry Christmas" or "Happy New Year" that everybody seemed to feel it necessary to say to him. How could people repeat such silly, meaningless phrases, he wondered. They couldn't possibly mean them. Robert never used them.

He wandered into an art shop that attracted him—out of curiosity rather than a desire to buy. There was no one he wanted to buy anything for. What a bore life was. As he was about to leave the shop the kindly, little old man behind the counter called cheerily after him—"Happy New Year." Robert turned and looked at him. There was something in the twinkling, blue eyes of the old man that made him wonder and he couldn't help asking, "What can there possibly be that is new?" The old man's eyes just twinkled. He didn't seem at all surprised by the question. He merely kept a silence that seemed to hide all the wisdom in the world. Robert went on, "How can there possibly be any happiness for one who is alone in the world?" The young-old blue eyes twinkled more brightly and this time the lips spoke. "One can't be alone when God is his friend." Now Robert kept silence. Then he smiled doubtfully and went out, but not before the old man's calm voice called merrily after him again—"Happy New Year."

The Old Man Didn't Seem at All Surprised.

Robert had been invited to a New Year's Eve dance and he returned to his hotel to dress. A business acquaintance in the town had urged him to come and he accepted for polite reasons rather than from any desire to mingle with local society. It was at the dance that Robert met Ethel. She interested him at once, and with business-like initiative he immediately booked her for most of the dances of the evening.

When Robert returned to New York the day after New Year's he experienced for the first time in his life the sensation of genuine loneliness. Most remarkable of all, he felt strangely happy in his new sadness, for now he always had the vision of a pair of dark laughing eyes to cheer his loneliness. More than once in the ensuing months he found occasion to make business trips to the little town which sheltered the laughing dark eyes and before another year had passed his loneliness had turned into complete joy, for he had married the pretty owner of the eyes.

At his own request his firm stationed him permanently in the little town which a year ago had seemed the most cheerless spot on earth, and Robert and Ethel settled down to a cosy, comfortable married life.

It was New Year's Eve again and Robert was in the little art shop where the old man with the twinkling blue eyes still presided behind the counter. This time Robert had come with definite intent. He had ordered a frame for one of Ethel's new photographs. "Happy New Year," he said cordially to the little old man. The blue eyes twinkled knowingly and he said, "I thought there was nothing new." Robert smiled good-naturedly. It was a very different smile from the doubtful one that had curled his lips the year before as he had left the shop. "I hadn't found love then," he replied.

"But love isn't new. It is as old as—as everyone's Friend," the old man said softly.

"But it was new to me," laughed Robert and as he left the shop it was he who called out cheerily—"Happy New Year" again, and he really meant it. The old man's kindly blue eyes twinkled more merrily than ever and he smiled a little, sweet, wistful smile.

(©, 1926, Western Newspaper Union.)

A Joyful New Year

RING OUT THE OLD
RING IN THE NEW WITH HEAPS OF LUCK
AND JOY FOR YOU,
MAY ALL THE MONTHS
ROLL SWIFTLY BY
AND BRING SUCCESS
WHAT E'ER YOU TRY.

Zonker's Store

Legal Publications

NOTICE OF FINAL SETTLEMENT OF ESTATE.

Cause No. 3141

Notice Is Hereby Given to all persons interested in the estate of Day Wyatt, deceased, to appear in the DeKalb Circuit Court, held at Auburn, Indiana, on the 21st day of January, 1928, and show cause, if any, why my Final Settlement Accounts with the estate of said decedent should not be approved; and said heirs and all others interested, are notified to then and there make proof of heirship or claim and receive their distributive shares.

Witness, my name, this 22nd day of December, 1927.

FRANK R. BOWMAN,
Administrator.

H. C. Springer, Atty. 52t3.

NOTICE OF FINAL SETTLEMENT OF ESTATE

Cause No. 3047

Notice Is Hereby Given to all persons interested in the estate of William Brown, deceased, to appear in the DeKalb Circuit Court, held at Auburn, Indiana, on the 21st day of January, 1928, and show cause, if any, why my Final Settlement Accounts with the estate of said decedent should not be approved; and said heirs and all others interested, are notified to then and there make proof of heirship or claim and receive their distributive shares.

Witness, my name, this 22nd day of December, 1927.

FRANK R. BOWMAN,
Administrator.

H. C. Springer, Atty. 52t3.

About the hardest thing to cure is injured feelings.

Nearby and Yonder

By T. T. MAXEY

WNU Service

The Howard Eaton Trail

BORN in Pittsburgh, the late Howard Eaton—pioneer, sportsman, hunter, optimist and lover of God's great out-of-doors, answered the call of the West at an early age, when hunting buffalo and fighting hostile Indians were part of the day's work.

He died in 1922—a typical westerner, noted horseman and guide, unique in manner and speech, as favorably known in the famous hotels of New York city as in the great Rocky mountains of the West.

He reveled in the Yellowstone and laid out a horseback trail 157 miles long which traversed the wilds of this great natural wonderland, and yet touched all the major points of interest. This trail connected other paths and trails which penetrated regions inaccessible to vehicular traffic, making a total trail system of 700 miles, and is a great addition to the facilities for the public enjoyment of this great scenic domain. He traveled this trail scores of times.

After his death the park authorities assured preservation of the memory of this picturesque frontiersman by dedicating this trail to his memory.

Mr. Eaton was happiest perhaps when eastern city folk visited his ranch in the Big Horn mountains of Wyoming. He made them healthier and happier by thrusting them into such startlingly unusual surroundings that they promptly forgot their troubles and ills. He became, in a sense, a sort of official introducer of the West to the East. He loved to conduct a party of a hundred or more "tenderfeet," to whom his friendly hospitality held a strong appeal, through the strange mountain fastnesses anywhere between Canada and Mexico.

(©, 1927, Western Newspaper Union.)

PEST HUNT DRIVE IS ON THIS WEEK

Fifty-six members on the two sides for the big pest hunt campaign, are now actively engaged in capturing the pests included in the counts as given below. The campaign is the largest this year, in the history of the Fish and Game club.

CLARENCE HART, Captain
Wm. Keeler
G. R. Hodgson
John Ulm
Albert Morr
Clare Hull
Cecil Boyd
Frank Leighty
Wilbur Coburn
Ward Woodcox
Frank Akins
Grant Baltz
Frank Milliman
Harry Shuff
L. B. Meek
F. R. Bowman
Ed Leighty
Donald Kinsey
Don Keller
Fred Hull
Fred B. Leighty
Ralph Keeler
Dewey Smith
F. L. Jones
Elmer Keller
Fred Saylor
DuWayne Kinsey
J. P. Buckingham

RALPH SECHLER, Captain
Fred High
Ed Storer
Joe Foltz
Chas. Cochran
Lester Coburn
Wm. Mossberger
Fred Ulm
Robert Sims
Merritt Sechler
Merwood Rhodes
Harry Kees
J. C. Hull
Henry Keesler
E. R. Kinsey
Sam Mumaw
Harold Tustison
Maurice Hollabaugh
Derwood Ridgway
O. E. Ginther
Glen Hart
Frank Tustison
Ray Reasoner
Glen Cole
Donald Hart
Kenneth Wasson
John Crothers
Willard Hurni

Pest	Points
Woodchuck	250
Hawk	500
Crow	100
Weasel	200
Red Squirrel	50
Rat	150
Owl	300
Mice	1
Sparrow	1
Rabbitt	25

THE
Newville Justice Court
OFFICE, Newville, Ind.
ORLIN HATCH
Justice of the Peace
FRANK SNELLBAKER
Constable
WITH JURISDICTION IN
Concord, Spencer, Stafford and Newville Townships.

Let Us Print Your Sale Bills